

Now You're Cookin'

By LINDA CAUDLE

Double trouble...double delight.

Taking care of a baby requires a great deal of time and energy, but when there are twins to feed, diaper and nurture, that time is doubled. Sharon Hodges already had one child, Heather, when she gave birth to twin sons, Cody and Slade, 10½ months ago. "They've really been a handful," said Sharon, "but have brought so much joy to our family."

"My days are never boring, and not without something new and exciting, especially now that one of the boys is walking and the other is just beginning to."

And with a new job, Sharon's husband, Steve, has had less time than usual to help with tasks at home. He was employed 12 years at Hereford State Bank before leaving his position as senior vice-president last year to become co-owner and manager of the Hereford Cattle Commission Co., located southwest of town.

"It's been hard for me to get used to because he had such regular hours at the bank and now works much longer hours, but he really likes it," commented Sharon. "They also own the sale barn in Texhoma, so he does some traveling back and forth."

Steve was born in Snyder, and moved to Hereford with his family when he was a child. Sharon, a native of Plainview, came to Hereford in 1972 to teach after graduating from West Texas State University. The couple were married in 1974.

Steve earned a degree in business from West Texas State University, where he was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. Sharon received a degree in elementary education, was a member of Chi Omega fraternity, and was a varsity cheerleader at WT.

She taught fifth grade at Shirley Elementary School for six years after moving to Hereford. When their daughter was born, she began teaching half days with the homebound program. She would go into homes of children who were sick or homebound and help them keep up in their classes until they were able to return to the classroom.

She isn't teaching now that she has the twins to take care of, but says that she would like to go back someday because she really enjoys it. Sharon takes 5½-year-old Heather to the First Baptist Church kindergarten and also to tap and ballet lessons and Cherub Choir at church.

The Hodges attend First Christian Church, where Sharon is a deaconess. She is also involved in a Bible study group at the church which meets twice a month.

Sharon is a member of two study clubs, La Madre Mia and Toujours Amis. She has served as president and historian of La Madre Mia and was yearbook chairman and vice-president of Toujours Amis this past year.

"I was one of the charter members of Toujours Amis," noted Sharon. "I really have enjoyed our annual project—selling ice cream crepes at the Town and Country Jubilee. Last year I was a member of the Jubilee committee."

Through her involvement in the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division, Sharon co-directed the Miss Hereford Pageant for five years in a row. She also worked with the Little Miss Hereford Pageant for two years.

She is currently on leave of absence from the Hereford Chamber Singers, a group which she has been involved in almost since its formation in 1974. "I had been in choirs during high school and college and really enjoy the Chamber Singers," commented Sharon, "but when the twins were born, I just didn't have time for everything."

Sharon does manage to stay active in the Hereford Hustlers, a Chamber goodwill group, which she says has "helped keep me in touch with the outside world and informed about things going on in the community."

"Right now, though, pretty much everything I do is family-oriented," she continued. "For relaxation, I enjoy doing yard work, and this summer all my hard work paid off when our home was selected Beauty Spot of the Month for August."

"I love to be outside and the boys enjoy the outdoors too. We take walks a lot in the evenings, and put the boys in their double stroller."

"Steve likes football," added Sharon, "and we're planning to go to a Cowboys' game in November—just the two of us."

Sharon enjoys doing crewel embroidery and is hoping to get started on two new Christmas stockings for Cody and Slade. "I've made stockings for Steve, Heather and myself," she said.

"One of my true loves is cooking," mused Sharon. "I especially like making desserts and breads. I collect and read a lot of cookbooks and would really like to take cooking lessons someday."

Sharon shares three of her favorite recipes: Mexican appetizers which she says are delicious, and two desserts perfect for family or company.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell, in accordance with rules and orders of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of its intent to re-file evidence and appropriate tariff(s) in support of a request to establish rates for the use of certain complex inside telephone wiring in the amount of $54.5 million annually. This request was previously a part of the considerations in Docket 5141 and now has been re-docketed as Docket 5420.

Customers who do not own the Complex Inside Wire associated with their Customer Premises Systems (such as PBX and Key Systems), and who utilize Southwestern Bell's wiring after January 1, 1984, could be affected by this request. On January 1, 1984, all of the Customer Premises Systems presently provided by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company will be transferred to a subsidiary of AT&T and that subsidiary of AT&T will be almost exclusively responsible for the charges pursuant to the proposed tariff on January 1, 1984. After January 1, 1984, customers who purchase their Complex Customer Premises Equipment and do not purchase, but continue to use, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's inside wire will be subject to the charges proposed in the tariff.

The proposed effective date for these new rates is January 1, 1984.

Persons interested in intervening in this matter should file a written motion expeditiously with the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas 78757, as the Hearing on the Merits in Docket 5420 is set for November 21, 1983.

Drug probe hits Royals

BULLETIN

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Willie Wilson, the 1982 American League batting champion, and Kansas City Royals teammate Willie Aikens, were charged by the government today with attempting to possess cocaine.

Amanda S. Meers, assistant U.S. attorney, filed the misdemeanor charges shortly after U.S. District Court opened this morning.

The complaint said Wilson "knowingly and intentionally" attempted to possess a quantity of cocaine on June 18. The complaint gave a date of June 20 for Aikens.

The Royals and federal officials announced Aug. 9 that at least five players were being questioned by the FBI in connection with a cocaine investigation, but did not say whether they were directly involved. The U.S. attorney at that time called it a wide-ranging investigation into cocaine traffic in suburban Johnson County, Kan., and said it was not necessarily limited to baseball players.

A federal grand jury is expected to continue the drug investigation at a two-day session Monday and Tuesday.

Wilson, 28, batted .332 in 1982 and won the American League batting title in his fifth full season in the major leagues. He was moved from left field to center field during the 1983 season and finished with a .276 batting average.

Aikens, who turns 29 Friday, had his best season in 1983 in terms of batting average, .302, and home runs, 23, but he slipped to 72 RBIs. Aikens, who plays first base, was acquired from the California Angels in a December 1979 trade.

The first problem with drugs on the Royals surfaced before the 1980 season when catcher Darrell Porter entered a treatment center for alcohol and drug dependency. Porter returned to the club late in the spring, and the Royals won the American League championship, but Porter became a free agent at the end of the season and joined the St. Louis Cardinals.

Nebraska, Texas favored Saturday

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

After last Saturday's 14-10 scare against Oklahoma State, could this be the week someone actually upsets No. 1-ranked Nebraska?

This week's someone is Missouri, and Mizzou is a 20-point underdog. For your studied consideration, here are several opinions.

Nebraska linebacker Mark Daum: "I think people can forget all this hoopla they have been reading about Nebraska being the best team ever. People better start coming back down to earth and realize that it's true that any team can beat any team."

Colorado Coach Bill McCartney, a 59-20 loser to Missouri last week: "I don't mean to take anything away from Missouri, but I don't think Missouri can judge their football team on their performance against us."

Missouri Coach Warren Powers: "They'll probably want to put on a pretty good show. We're going to have our hands full, anyway, but if those guys want to show off on (national) television (ABC, 3:30 p.m., EDT), it will be double tough on us."

Regardless of whether Colorado played poorly, Missouri probably peaked a week too early. Nebraska 35-14.

Last week's score was 36 right and 15 wrong for a .706 percentage. For the season, it's 168-73-4—.697.

Oklahoma's Dupree skips out, return is highly questionable

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Sophomore tailback Marcus Dupree, missing for three days, says he's returning to the University of Oklahoma, but it's not known when.

Dupree, the highly-touted product of Philadelphia, Miss., was dropped from the squad Wednesday. He has not been with the team since Oklahoma's 28-16 loss to Texas last weekend in Dallas.

"As of now, he's off the team," said Sooner Coach Barry Switzer. "The only way he could come back is if they (teammates) want him, and I don't think they do."

Late Wednesday night, assistant coach Scott Hill said he talked with Dupree by telephone from Mississippi, and "he assured me he's coming back, but he didn't give any specific time."

"He said he couldn't talk long. He was concerned that he'd been kicked off the team, and I told him that Coach Switzer had said he'd leave it up to a vote of the team," Hill said.

Police removed Dupree from the missing persons list late Wednesday night, saying they had been in touch with him near Jackson, Miss.

where he had gone Tuesday to catch a plane back to Norman.

Authorities would not disclose his exact whereabouts, saying his mother preferred the information remain confidential. Coaches at Mississippi College in Clinton, near Jackson, said they had heard Dupree planned to enter school there, but had not talked with him personally.

Alvin Kidd, a Mississippi College running back from Philadelphia, said Dupree told him he was returning to Oklahoma.

His mother, Cella Dupree Connors, said her son contacted her by phone Wednesday night.

"He just needs time to be alone, and then when he feels like he'll be in touch with me again," said Connors.

"He's got a God-given talent ... but you know there's just so much pressure from the media and so forth, and a 19-year-old can handle just so much."

Spencer Tillman, a fullback who might be switched to tailback to take Dupree's place, said it was obvious Dupree was unable to handle the sudden attention focused on him, and placed part of the blame on the Oklahoma coaching staff for not being responsive to his needs.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mike Boddicker had the Philadelphia Phillies fishing for his fosh and while they were, the Baltimore Orioles reeled in the second game of the World Series.

The fosh is Boddicker's out pitch, a mysterious cross between a forkball and a changeup. It made the rookie right-hander the lifesaver of the limping Oriole pitching staff this season.

Called up from the minors in May, he won 16 games for Baltimore and shut out Chicago in the second game of the American League Championship Series. But none of his victories was as vital as the masterful three-hitter he fashioned to beat the Phillies 4-1 Wednesday night and tie the best-of-seven Series at 1-1.

Game Three is scheduled for Friday night in Philadelphia as this Amtrak Series moves 100 miles north.

Boddicker often has been closer than that to making the Orioles' starting rotation. But the Bird pitching has always been outstanding and he never seemed able to crack staffs that included a parade of Cy Young Award winners like Mike Flanagan, Jim Palmer and Steve Stone.

So each spring the 26-year-old hurler would return to the minors to work some more and wait some more. This year, the waiting ended. Palmer and Flanagan were injured early and Boddicker and his fosh rushed to the rescue.

What is this fosh, anyway? "I was trying different ways to throw a changeup," Boddicker said. "I didn't have a changeup and I couldn't throw one. So I tried the fork ball."

He wasn't having much luck with that, either. "Finally, I threw a fork ball and turned the fingers a little bit to make it dive."

In the Oriole organization, curves and tried to hit it to Philadelphia. I should have stayed back and just tried to poke a single to right. Next time, I'll know better."

Boddicker faced just three men over the 27-batter minimum, allowed just four balls to be hit to the outfield and struck out six.

"I felt like I had complete command of the game all the way," he said. "I had a better breaking ball against the White Sox (in the American League Championship Series), and a better fastball tonight. I got to use my changeup more because they had more left-handed batters in the lineup."

Joe Morgan, one of the lefties, noticed.

"He never threw a strike unless he had to," Morgan said. "He kept us off balance all night long."

Still, because of the unearned run, Boddicker was on the short end of a 1-0 score as the Orioles came to bat in the bottom of the fifth. John Lowenstein, leading off, tagged Charles Hudson for a home run that tied the score and ignited a three-run Oriole rally.

Unlike Boddicker, Hudson is a fastball pitcher. That suited Lowenstein, a fastball hitter.

"Right down my alley," he decided. "I knew he threw with a lot of velocity. I figured he'd come in with something quick. It was a flat slider, I think, down and in."

And out of the ball park. "That got us going," said Dempsey. "It started some momentum."

Rich Dauer, hitless in the postseason, followed with a single and Todd Cruz beat out a bunt. Dempsey doubled to right field, scoring Dauer, and then Boddicker, batting for the third time in his professional career, delivered a sacrifice fly, making it 3-1.

The Orioles added a wrapup run in the seventh on consecutive two-out singles by John Shelby, Dan Ford and Cal Ripken Jr. That was more than enough for Boddicker.

It will give him something to talk about this winter when he returns to work on the Pollock Grain Elevator in his home town of Norway, Iowa, located, according to Oriole Manager Joe Altobelli, about three miles beyond Resume Speed.

"It's got 600 people, no street signs, no stop lights, no sheriff, no crime rate, no nothing," said Boddicker.

Just one outstanding pitcher.

Don Henslee

Q: EVERY time I go to an auto show, I come out, look at my car, and am mortified. What do I have to do to get a shine like that, short of 253 coats of lacquer?

A: Most professionals use a two step waxing procedure. First, they apply a glazing coat on everything with the exception of plastic or rubber moldings. Glazing is a process that fills in the microscopic scratches which dull most car surfaces, and helps to restore color. Industrial, hard-finish, water thin glazes, which are nearly colorless are commercially available. It's applied with circular motions to the entire surface with a soft cloth, then wiped off. Following glazing, use a 100 percent carnauba wax, applied with the same circular motion. Use a very soft cloth to wipe off the wax. You should be pleased with the results.

Ann Landers

Bad apples in profession

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back you quoted Derek Bok, president of Harvard, who had some uncomplimentary things to say about lawyers. You added a few jabs of your own, pointing out that the decent ones should do something about bad apples in their profession who are spoiling the whole barrel. You came down exceptionally hard on ambulance-chasers who will take any case on a contingency basis—in other words: "I'll be your attorney. We'll sue. If we win, I get half. If we don't win, it won't cost you anything."

Here's a news story in the Herald-Palladium in St. Joseph, Mich., by staff writer John Grogan. It convinced me you were right. Can you believe this?

A 54-year-old man known as "Grandpa" to the neighborhood kids was arrested, tried and found guilty of child-molesting. His criminal record as a repeater was well known. In November he was convicted of molesting a five-year-old girl and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The convicted molester is now suing Berien County and several police officers for $20,000, claiming the handcuffs placed on his wrists after his arrest were too tight and have deprived him of the normal use of his hands.

Isn't it the absolute pits that a lawyer would take such a case?—Mad

DEAR MAD: It sure is, and unfortunately there are too many others out there just like him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 40-year-old divorced woman. Six months ago I began to have lunch with a man who works in the same office. After several weeks he told me he was gay. Since our relationship was purely platonic, the disclosure presented no problem for me.

Recently I have come to realize I have fallen in love with this man. I no longer wish to date others and look forward to our time together like a schoolgirl. Also, I am beginning to fantasize about a more intimate relationship.

I want to tell him of my feelings, but I'm afraid I might lose him completely. Is it possible that he could be in love with me also? (He is not now involved with any man).

Or do you think this is a hopeless relationship and I should stop seeing him?—Straight And Sorry In NYC

DEAR S. AND S.: The man has told you he is gay. This means he considers you a friend—nothing more.

Unless you can put your relationship in reverse and get it back to the pal stage, my advice is to stop seeing him and save yourself a lot of heartache.

DEAR ANN: I'm in my late 30s and so is the man I am seeing. He is divorced. I have never been married. On the few occasions I've been at his apartment he has received phone calls. I can tell they are from women.

I am jealous by nature, and these calls drive me crazy. Do I have the right to ask who these callers are? Advise me, please.—Boiling Over In Ohio

DEAR BOILING: Unless you have a firm commitment, excluding all others, you have no right to ask questions. So cool it, Chickadee, lest you drive him away.

TV actor stars in comedy production

Television star Robert Reed will headline the Country Square Dinner Theatre production of the comedy "Wake Up, Darling," opening Tuesday in Amarillo at 1-40 and Grand.

Familiar to millions through such TV series as "The Defenders," "The Brady Bunch," "Mannix," and "Nurse," the versatile actor is equally at home in comedy, musicals, drama, or tragedy.

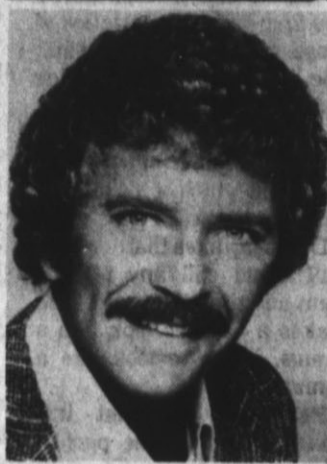

He has become one of the industry's most respected and sought-after talents and has been honored by the Television Academy with Emmy nominations for his outstanding performances in "Rich Man, Poor Man," "Medical Center—The Third Sex," and the hugely successful television saga, "Roots."

The "big break" in Reed's television career came with a guest stint on the early series,

"Father Knows Best," which led directly to his being cast in his first series, "The Defenders." He then appeared simultaneously in two hit series, "The Brady Bunch" and "Mannix," and followed that with his role as Dr. Adam Rose in the CBS series "Nurse."

No stranger to the stage, he recently starred in "Deathtrap" on Broadway. He also starred in the original company of "Avanti!" in "Barefoot in the Park," and in two national tours of "The Owl and the Pussycat" and "California Suite."

CANCER ANSWER LINE American Cancer Society
M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

QUESTION: Is Kaposi's sarcoma an old or new form of cancer?

ANSWERline: Much remains to be learned about this baffling, often fatal disease. It was first observed among male patients in Europe in 1872, then in several areas of Africa, but rarely in other parts of the world. Unprecedented outbreaks among homosexual men brought Kaposi's sarcoma dramatically to public attention in the United States in 1981 and 1982. It has since been found in immigrants from Haiti, hemophiliacs, and recipients of kidney transplants whose immune systems have been intentionally suppressed to prevent rejection of the transplants. Kaposi's sarcoma is no longer considered unique to homosexuals, as it was first thought to be. Dark blue or purple-brown nodules or plaques frequently appear on patients' hands or feet, and also on mucous membranes and the skin.

QUESTION: If you smoke cigarettes but don't inhale, is there any danger?

ANSWERline: Wherever smoke touches living tissue, it does harm. All smokers have an increased risk of lip, mouth and tongue cancer — no matter what they smoke. And all smokers, even those who don't inhale, including pipe and cigar smokers, have some increased risk of lung cancer.

QUESTION: What are some high-risk factors relating to cancer?

ANSWERline: Genetic and environmental factors have been associated with several of the most common forms of cancer. These include family history of cancer, environmental exposure to cancer-causing substances such as may be found in the workplace, and hazardous life-styles such as smoking.

Panciera describes race across Alaska

Mary Panciera presented a program entitled "One Woman's Race Across Alaska" to members of Pioneer Study Club during their Tuesday luncheon at K-Bob's Steak House.

The program described the story of Susan Butcher, who was born into a comfortable family environment in Cambridge, Maine, but yearned for a life combining her two loves, dogs and the outdoors.

Since 1975 she has lived in Alaska, 140 miles northwest of Fairbanks and four miles from the nearest neighbors, according to Ms. Panciera. For three years she trained her dogs for the Iditarod, a tough race of 1000 miles by dog sled.

The book which Ms. Panciera reviewed is an account of the 1982 race in which Ms. Butcher came in second for a share of $100,000.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Wilhelmina Wimberley and Bessie Hill. Leatrus Clark gave the invocation, Fern Sigle led the Pledge of Allegiance, and Gladys Miller led the salute to the Texas flag.

During the business session conducted by President Eunice Petersen, members gave Ms. Petersen a birthday card shower. Lillian Lookingbill reported that the Women's Forum will meet Oct. 31 at the Community Center, and Etoile Manning gave a report on the Ronald McDonald House, a federation project.

"The house that love built," as the Ronald McDonald House has been called, was dedicated recently in Amarillo as a temporary lodging facility for the families of critically ill children who come from outside Amarillo to receive treatment at one of the city's hospitals.

The Amarillo Ronald McDonald House is owned and operated by the Children's Oncology Services of the Texas Panhandle. A financial steering committee headed by Dr. Winfred Moore met the goal of $1,000,000 in 2½ months. Pledges came from throughout the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles and Eastern New Mexico, according to Ms. Manning.

One guest, Bea Hutson, was welcomed to the meeting. Other members in attendance were Billie Johnson, Fannie Rudd, Mary Sanders, and Elizabeth Wilson.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 8 at the Caisson House.

Chili supper is slated

The public is invited to attend a chili supper, sponsored by members of the Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228, from 5 to 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the Odd Fellow Hall, 206 E. Sixth St.

Admission price is $2.75 per person and children under six years of age will be admitted free of charge. Chili, pie, coffee and tea will be served.

When using dried herbs, make sure to crumble them to release the flavor.

Presenting Painting

O.E. Durham, left, president of Oasis Shrine Club, presents a painting to Harry Bennett for selling the most tickets in a project devoted to raising funds for charities supported by the Shriners. The painting is by local artist Jolene Bledsoe, at right.

Dyeing for a change

DEAR POLLY — I have a bright yellow blouse that I would love to tone down in color. Is there any way to lighten the color successfully? — MOLLY

DEAR MOLLY — The best and surest method would be to use color remover to remove most or all of the yellow dye, then redye the blouse in the shade or tint you prefer. Color remover is made by the same manufacturers that make home dyes and is available wherever those home dyes are sold. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — With Halloween just around the corner, many mothers may appreciate this idea for a safe Halloween treat. I get small, inexpensive personalized pencils, but instead of a name, I have "Happy Halloween" imprinted on them. The children seem to enjoy them. "See, Mama, we got pencils!" a preschooler once called to the woman waiting at the curb. And "pencils last longer than candy" was one grateful remark. — ETHEL

DEAR POLLY — The best thing I've found for patterns for cutting quilt blocks is flannel fabric. It sticks to the quilt-block material and will not shift as other patterns do. I have cut thousands of blocks and found that flannel works better and faster than anything else I've tried. — ELLEN

DEAR POLLY — Carry a recent photo of your children when you go to a public beach, camping ground or on holiday. After recently describing my child numerous times and repeating myself to the same person, I thought a photo would have done the trick when my son got lost on a very crowded beach. — ANN

DEAR ANN — Your photo idea could be a real timesaver — and it could save a lot of tears, too, by helping you locate a wandering youngster quickly. Your Pointer of the Week award, an autographed copy of the book Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer, is on its way to you with my thanks. — POLLY

Laundry pre-soaks for both heavy-duty and delicate fabrics, window cleaner, a wash for wood paneling and other cleaning products are easy to make with the formulas in "Polly's Homemade Soaps and Cleaners." Boy dies four days after coma induced by tackle

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A 15-year-old Del Rio football player who lapsed into a coma after he was tackled head-on during a high school football game died four days after the collision.

But a spokeswoman at Medical Center Hospital refused to disclose whether Ruben Chavira's life-support system was unhooked before or after his death, saying the family had asked for that information to remain private.

Chavira, a sophomore tailback at Del Rio High School, died early Wednesday in the hospital's surgical intensive care unit, according to spokeswoman Lynn Blanco.

The boy's father, Robert Chavira, had coached football for 18 years and was standing on the sidelines during Saturday night's game at Northside Stadium.

The hit, which occurred as Ruben was carrying the football, "seemed like a normal tackle," he said.

The day before his son died, Chavira told reporters that football shouldn't get a bum rap because of his son's injury.

"I hope parents don't start blaming the sport for my son's accident," he said. "It was a freak accident. None of the other players or the equipment was to blame."

Chavira was conscious for a few minutes, but then lapsed into a coma on the field and never regained consciousness, his father said.

The boy was tackled head-on in the third quarter of the Del Rio-John Marshall High game. Del Rio was trailing 7-0 at the time and eventually lost the game, 35-0.

The elder Chavira, who kept vigil at the hospital for four days, telephoned the Del Rio News-Herald on Wednesday afternoon to express his thanks for the community's support. Chavira told the newspaper that Ruben had died before he and his wife, Carmen, arrived at the hospital shortly before 7 a.m. Wednesday.

A spokeswoman for Kenneth Young, Del Rio High School's athletic director, said this weekend's Homecoming game would be played as scheduled. She said she did not know if anything special was planned in Ruben's honor, but that his parents earlier had asked that nothing be done.

Ruben's older brother, Robert, also is a member of the Rams' football team.
