Bush picks Sen. Quayle as running mate

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — George Bush, veteran of the Republican vineyards, reaches his long-sought moment of triumph tonight, receiving the GOP presidential nomination from a convention abuzz with excitement over his running mate, young, conservative Sen. Dan Quayle. Many delegates admitted that they didn't know much about Bush's choice, but seemed enthusiastic anyway about the selection of the handsome, wealthy, two-term junior senator from Indiana.

"Super, super choice," said John Lindley III, chairman of the Vermont delegation. "A real spark plug for Bush," said North Dakota GOP chairman Layton Freborg. "We need the female vote. He'll do the trick," added Sharon Estrada of Montana. "He's very cute."

Many delegates said Quayle would be a bright lure for baby-boomer votes.

"I think it's a good choice," said Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad. "He's a Midwesterner, he understands agriculture, he is just 41 years old, he is a pro-life conservative."

Savoring the reviews of his running mate, Bush planned to appear with him today at a news conference. Bush's first order of business was to tour the Louisiana Superdome and try out the podium where he will deliver his acceptance speech on Thursday night.

The Quayle choice set off a race among entrepreneurs: to be first on the street with Bush-Quayle political buttons. Within 90 minutes of Bush's announcement, the first buttons — a simple white model with merely the name — had surfaced. Four hours later, buttons with Quayle's picture were on sale for $10 each and "going like hotcakes," said vendor Megan Warlick.

Democratic rival Michael Dukakis' campaign sought to make political capital of Quayle's wealth and status as heir to an Indiana publishing fortune.

"I think they'd make better tennis partners than a presidential ticket," said Mark Gearan, a spokesman for the Democratic nominee. "Or should that be squash partners?"

With the suspense ended about the vice presidential nomination, the Republican National Convention was practically on automatic pilot. Delegates had little to do beyond crowning Bush to lead the battle against Democrat Michael Dukakis and ratifying his choice of Quayle.

Underscoring the importance of Texas and its 29 electoral votes in the fall election, Bush chose Texas Sen. Phil Gramm, a onetime Democrat, to nominate him tonight.

In a night of oratory Tuesday, Bush's long resume of government service — Navy flier, congressman, U.N. ambassador, envoy to China,

Demos claim GOP ticket is 'elitist'

BOSTON (AP) — The campaign of Democrat Michael Dukakis seized upon the selection of Sen. Dan Quayle as the Republican vice presidential candidate to characterize the GOP ticket as elitist, with aides referring to Quayle by his full name — J. Danforth Quayle.

Dukakis aides already were fond of referring to George Bush by his full name — George Herbert Walker Bush — and they quickly adopted the same tack in talking about Quayle, heir to an Indiana publishing fortune.

"I think they'd make better tennis partners than a presidential ticket," said Mark Gearan, a spokesman for the Democratic nominee. "Or should that be squash partners?"

Dukakis himself did not attack Quayle directly but was quick to point out the experience of his own running mate, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, and to imply that the 41-year-old Quayle would not be ready to be president should a tragedy befall Bush.

"Sen. Bentsen is a mature, thoughtful man, with real stature — somebody who's a real leader in the United States Senate," Dukakis said. "Sen. Bentsen has been seasoned, experienced on issues of foreign policy, defense, space. That's the kind of stature, that's the kind of strength, the kind of maturity I think you want in a vice president — especially when that vice president may be president."

Bentsen, at a rally in Fort Worth, Texas, called the selection of Quayle "good news."

"I must say, I'm really looking forward to that one," he told about 400 people gathered in a downtown square at a rally sponsored by House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas.

"I'm looking forward to comparing our lists of accomplishments in the U.S. Senate, and what each of us could do for his running mate if we were elected," he said.

A vice presidential debate is tentatively scheduled for Oct. 11 in Omaha, Neb., and Bentsen said he was ready.

"I've just had a debate with Dan Quayle and it shows again the lack of sensitivity for the concerns and the problems of the average working man and woman in this country" shown by the Republicans, Bentsen said. "That debate was over plant closing, and Dan Quayle and the administration lost that debate and the American working man and woman won it."

President Reagan eventually allowed the legislation, which gives workers 60 days' notice of plant closings, to become law without his signature. But he fought it for a long time, and Quayle was one of the president's allies in the Senate.

Dukakis and several top aides expressed mild surprise at the selection of Quayle and predicted he would not help the GOP ticket except in his traditionally Republican home state of Indiana. Bush aides countered by saying Quayle would help with younger and women voters.

Gearan said he was not very familiar with Quayle's record but then quickly listed a series of issues which he said highlighted the different directions of the Democratic and Republican tickets.

He cited Quayle's support of a freeze on Social Security benefits and his opposition to advance notice of plant closings, drought assistance and civil rights legislation.

"He does not understand the economic problems facing the American family," Gearan said of Quayle.

County clears burglaries

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office cleared several county burglaries early this week after a county inmate confessed to the burglaries.

Sheriff's Deputy Jimmy Hudgens said Billy Cockrum, 33, who is in Deaf Smith County Jail on charges of burglary of a building, probably is responsible for 14 burglaries in the Panhandle.

"So far, we've recovered about $3,000 worth of stuff (that he's stolen) and that's not even the tip of the iceberg," Hudgens said.

The deputy said he has recovered tack and other items which Cockrum stole from barns in the county and said he expects Cockrum to give a statement on more burglaries during the week.

Cockrum was arrested on a Deaf Smith County warrant two weeks ago in Denton. He is now being held on a $50,000 bond.

The county also reported a report of indecency with a child Tuesday.

Police report thefts

A woman reported that $1,135 was stolen from her purse which was locked in her car Tuesday; a woman who was traveling through Hereford had her purse stolen while eating at a fast-food restaurant; a woman in the 300 block of Bradley reported that someone stole two telephones valued at $38; a cable box worth $150 was stolen from the 300 block of Lake Street; a $300 keyboard, along with a leather case and clothing, was stolen in the 400 block of Austin Road from a car.

Assault was reported at the Blue Water Garden Apartments in reference to a man beating his daughter. She was transported to Deaf Smith General Hospital for observation and charges have been filed.

Four citations were issued.

Thunderstorms possible

There is a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms for this afternoon or evening with a low expected in the mid 60s. High should be near 90. This morning's low at KPAN was 66 after a high Tuesday of 90.

Schroeder named to hospital board; tax rate same as last year

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Raymond Schroeder was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board, and the district tax rate was set the same as last year when directors met in regular session Tuesday night.

Schroeder, the next highest vote recipient in the May election, will replace Dr. James Herbertson on the six-member board. The term will be until the next election. Herbertson recently resigned as a director.

In other business Tuesday night, the board approved the renovation of the entry and front hallways at the hospital, and approved the purchase of laundry equipment. Both projects were recommended by Administrator Gary Moore and received unanimous approval of the board.

The hospital district tax rate was set at 12.43 cents per $100 valuation, the same as last year. The rate is projected to generate about $600,000 revenue for the hospital. The proposed budget for 1988-89 calls for net revenues of $6,069,036 and expenses of $5,630,680.

The board set a budget hearing for Tuesday, Aug. 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the hospital board room. All interested citizens are invited to the budget hearing.

For the renovation of the hallways, the board approved the low bid of Don Miller of Amarillo at $18,176. Only two bids were submitted. The other, from Ritter Co. of Amarillo, was for $28,990. The bid includes new floor and wall coverings, new ceiling and handrails along the halls.

Ramco of Oklahoma City won the bid on the laundry equipment—two washers and two dryers—at a price of $14,500. There were three bids and the low bid came in at $13,400 from Henderson Laundry Equipment of Houston. Moore recommended the mid bid from Ramco because the equipment is manufactured in Wichita Falls. The move is expected to effect a savings on laundry expense and be more time efficient.

Controller Phillis Morrison reported a net income of $18,715 for the hospital in July, compared to a loss of $11,884 last year. Total operating revenue was $448,707 for the month and operating expenses were $417,096. Income from operations was $31,611, and interest expense left the net at $18,715.

A total of 255 patients were admitted last month, and the average daily census was 24.7. There were 92 surgical procedures, 329 outpatient visits, and 648 emergency room

Drought in Texas has cost $1.36 billion

AUSTIN (AP) — The drought of 1988 has cost Texas $1.36 billion in crop and livestock losses, according to the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Mike Moeller, deputy state agriculture commissioner, said Monday that livestock has suffered the most with losses of $555 million. The drought's effect on livestock could continue next year even if rainfall returns to normal, he said.

"We've had major herd sell-offs in a good portion of the state. You just don't build that back overnight. It could be two to four years before we get back up to where we were,"

Moeller said.

The crop losses were calculated by the Texas Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Cotton has been the biggest loser with total yield down 394 million pounds for a loss of $300 million, according to Moeller.

The state's hay value has dropped by $125 million and feed grain values are down $30 million.

"Overall, it's a little worse than we thought. We had been guesstimating it would be close to $1 billion. The cotton loss was a surprise. We didn't think it would be that high," Moeller said.

More meat price hikes are forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Meat and poultry production is expected to decline in 1989 from this year's record level, but the Agriculture Department says output still will be 2 percent more than in 1987.

The decline next year will occur partly because fewer hogs and fewer "non-fed" cattle, those that are not sent to feedlots before slaughtering, will be going to market next year, USDA says. It says that will mean further increases in consumer meat prices.

"While per capita meat consumption is likely to decline from the 1988 record, it will remain above the large levels of 1985-87," the department's Economic Research Service said Tuesday in a new outlook report.

The 1988 supply of red meat and poultry is at a record level, rising to more than 60 billion pounds, a 3 percent increase from last year, the report said.

But production next year is expected to drop 1 percent to less than 59.2 billion pounds. All of the decline will come at the expense of red meat, while poultry output is forecast to gain 4 percent.

Beef production, forecast at 21.6 billion pounds in 1989, is expected to drop 6 percent, while pork, at 15.5 billion pounds, may decline only 1 percent. Lamb and mutton production is expected to rise 2 percent to 335 million pounds, while no change is forecast for veal production, estimated at 400 million pounds.

Retail prices for Choice-grade beef may go up 1 percent to 3 percent in 1989, following this year's estimated rise of 3 percent to 4 percent, the report said. Pork prices are expected to go up 3 percent to 4 percent in 1989

America dying for breeze as heat rages

By BART ZIEGLER
Associated Press Writer

Air-conditioned government buildings were opened for the elderly in two states, state fair exhibitors packed livestock in ice and band members sweltered in a scorching stadium as record heat covered much of the nation.

Record highs fell Tuesday from the eastern Plains to the Ohio Valley, but the Northeast got a break.

"It's great," 25-year-old New York City sanitation worker Frank Nahodyl said while sweeping a street.

"We've been sweating like hell the last few weeks. I start at 6 in the morning. I'd be dripping wet by 7 and dying by 10. But now there's a breeze."

The temperature in New York City "only" reached 86 Tuesday, after 32 days of 90-degree and above temperatures.

Temperature records for the date were reached in more than a dozen cities.

Milwaukee broke a 52-year-old record for the most days of triple-digit temperatures in a year — five. The 100-degree reading Tuesday also broke the high for the date of '98, set in 1937.

In Chicago, the temperature hit 100, making the 46th day of 90s or higher this season.

High temperatures today were expected to range from the middle 90s to near 105 degrees from the mid-

Atlantic states through the lower Ohio, mid-Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys into the central Plains.

In Kansas City, the heat wilted about 10,000 competitors at the Drum Corps International World Championships. And the artificial turf at Arrowhead Stadium didn't help, with the temperature an estimated 130 degrees on the playing field, said Joe Clark, the stadium's security manager.

"As I was walking off the field, sweat was just pouring into my eyes," said Robert Muller, of the Americanos Drum Corps from Appleton, Wis.

Four chickens at the Indiana State Fair became heat victims when the owners left the contest-bound fowl in their cars with the windows up in the 101-degree heat, said fair spokesman Jeff Fisher.

Livestock exhibitors were taking extra precautions in the fair barns.

"They're packing some (animals) down with ice. They're putting ice in front of fans to blow cool air," Fisher said.

Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad authorized the use of some air-conditioned government buildings for the elderly and others to escape the heat.

"When it's this hot, if elderly people don't have air conditioning, it's really just too hard on their system," said Betty Grandquist, executive director of the Iowa Department of Elder Affairs.

In Wisconsin, Dane County Executive Richard J. Phelps ordered the County Forum exhibition hall opened to senior citizens and others.

Kentucky officials advised those without air conditioning to go to senior citizens centers or malls.

At least six Kentucky school systems have delayed classes or closed schools this summer because of the heat, said Gordon Nichols, chief spokesman at the state Department of Education.

Illinois officials also were considering ways to get kids out of steamy classrooms during the hottest part of the day when school resumes next week.

"If school had started this week, it would have been intolerable for the students," said associate principal Don Tokarski of Rantoul Township High School. "If it looks like this weather will continue, we'll have classes from 7 a.m. until 12:30 p.m."

As people turned air conditioners on to cool off, many utilities reported record electricity consumption.

The government-owned Tennessee Valley Authority, which serves six southeastern states, set a summer record for power usage for a second consecutive day Tuesday, officials said.

Iowa Public Service Co. in Sioux City broke the record for peak usage that was set on Monday. Wisconsin Power & Light Co. also reported a record load.

Rubbing elbows with the top

Irene Cantu (left), Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and Silvana Juarez met Friday at the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project in San Antonio in honor of the project's late president, Willie Velasquez. Cantu and Juarez, members of the project's steering committee, attended workshops on how to register more voters for the November election. The project will target registration for the last two weeks of September.

Republicans pinching pennys

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The hotels are full and the taxis are taken. But economically speaking, little is trickling down to the French Quarter, where the Republican National Convention is turning the Big Easy into the Big Empty.

"Look out there, there's parking! There shouldn't be any parking," said Kerri Rock at the French Market Candle Shop. "The hotels are booked solid, so where are they? So far, the Republicans haven't bought diddly."

At the open-air Cafe du Monde, where a handful of conventioners lingered over their morning coffee, street performer Mustapha Hummurburri was trying to tap-dance his way into Republicans' wallets, if not into their hearts.

He sang. He danced. He strummed a washtub festooned with anti-Dukakis bumper stickers. Finally, his pitch turned political. "To quote a great American, President Ronald 'Dutch' Reagan, you people in the private sector, pick up the slack, Jack! Don't be so mean with the green."

Rock, who moonlights at the Can-

Can Cabaret on Bourbon Street, said the nights are no better than the days. "The cabaret isn't sleaze, it's a family show, and it's the only bar on Bourbon Street that allows children."

"We thought we'd be hopping, but business is terrible. Normally we do three shows a night. Last night, we barely made two."

The dearth of shoppers was an unexpected blow to some merchants who had laid in a goodly supply of souvenirs. Others had been hoping the influx of delegates and media would boost sales during the slowest month of the year.

Instead, "I'm bored to death," said Joyce Vaughan, behind the counter at the empty Le Petit Carousel, a gift shop. "This isn't just slow, it's week-after-Labor-Day slow. And it gets worse. The elephant stuff isn't moving and if things don't pick up, we're going to be stuck with it."

At Aunt Sally's Shop, neat displays of jambalaya sauce, gumbo file, dirty rice mix, crab boil and other local specialties were largely untouched by Republican hands. It wasn't just slow there, either. It was "very, very, very slow," manager Pat Gomez said.

"All the hotels are booked with Republicans, so the usual tourists aren't here. And the local people are scared to come down here because of the convention. All in all, it's been our worst business week in some time," she said.

Cattle feeders feeling pinch of escalating grain prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher grain prices are putting a crunch on cattle feeders and are helping to trim placement of cattle and calves in feedlots this summer, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

As of Aug. 1, cattle being fed for the slaughter market in the seven major beef states totaled 6.84 million head, up 2 percent from a year ago and 8 percent more than inventories of two years ago, the department said Monday.

The placement of new cattle and calves in fattening pens last month was reported at 1.25 million head, down 2 percent from a year ago and down 19 percent from two years ago.

Marketings of "fed" cattle in July totaled 1.77 million head, up 4 percent from a year ago and also up 4 percent from two years ago. Officials said those were the most July feedlot marketings since the 7-state estimates began in 1972.

According to USDA economists, market prices of Choice steers on the Omaha, Neb., market are expected to average $65 to $69 per 100 pounds this summer, compared with $72.81 in the April-June quarter. Prices are projected at $66 to $72 in the fourth quarter.

Meanwhile, drought has reduced grain production and sent prices higher, translating into higher cattle feeding costs. As it looks to USDA economists, the forecasts of fed cattle prices are about $100 per head below break-even levels.

As of Aug. 1, feedlot inventories were larger than a year earlier in California, Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska but were less in Arizona, Iowa and Texas. The seven states produce about three-fourths of the nation's beef.

State feedlot cattle inventories are listed here for the seven states. The first number is the number of cattle, in thousands, as of Aug. 1, and the second number is the percentage of a year earlier.

Former President Gerald Ford told the convention Tuesday night that Bush did not deserve to have the Democrats ask: "Where was George?"

after declining 3 percent this year.

Wholesale broiler prices are forecast to average in a range of 51 to 57 cents per pound, compared with 53 to 56 cents this year. Turkey prices, at 68 to 74 cents, are expected to increase from this year's wholesale average of 61 to 64 cents.

The report said the U.S. cattle and calf inventory on July 1 was down 1 percent from a year ago. This year's calf crop, estimated at 40.2 million head, is up only slightly from 1987 but is still the second-lowest since 1961.

During the first half of this year, 10 percent more heifers calved and entered the cow herd than in the same period of 1987, "suggesting that the cattle inventory may begin to stabilize in 1989-90," the report said.

"Beef cow slaughter during January-July was 9 percent below a year ago, while dairy cow slaughter was down 3 percent," the report added. "However, drought-reduced forage supplies and higher feed costs may delay expansion."

Beef output may drop 1 percent this year as expanded production by feedlots partially offsets reduced production of non-fed beef.

"In 1989, beef output is expected to drop 6 percent as non-fed slaughter remains low and reduced feeder cattle supplies result in lower fed cattle slaughter," the report said.

Prices paid for Choice-grade steers on the Omaha, Neb., market were at record highs this spring and may average $69 per 100 pounds of liveweight for the year, compared with $64.60 in 1987.

"Reduced supplies in 1989 may boost prices $4 to $6 per hundredweight above 1988," the report added.

Higher feed costs and lower hog prices are forcing pork producers to cut back from this year. Even so, analysts said 1989 output still may be up 8 percent from 1987.

Hog prices at the major markets may average about $44 per hundredweight this year, down from nearly $52 in 1987. Prices in 1989 may average in the range of $44 to $50.

visits. The monthly report showed 73 ambulance runs.

In the administrator's report, Moore pointed out the hospital had received its new ambulance, which made an appearance in the Jubilee Parade Saturday. He said the hospital was currently interviewing an orthopedic surgeon and two general practice physicians.

Following an executive session to discuss pending litigation and employees, the board approved an agreement with Dr. A.T. Mims to provide temporary service for the hospital. Dr. Mims, who is retiring, agreed to assist Dr. Nadir Khuri as needed and until another surgeon joins the medical community. The hospital will handle the billing for Dr. Mims' services and use the funds to offset the cost of malpractice insurance, and any excess will be used in some manner to benefit the hospital.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

My husband and I would like to publicly express our appreciation to a couple, temporarily living in Hereford, who found and returned the mailbox taken from our sidewalk and dumped west of town.

Carroll and Phyllis Austin come here this time each year to cut corn and silage for feedyards. They spotted our mailbox and stand in a barrow ditch wet of town and saw that it was returned.

We thank the Austins for their good deed and encourage other citizens to be this kind of neighbor. The Austins could use a little help, too. Someone stole a truck motor, painted metallic purple, from them recently. If you spot such a motor, please notify the police or sheriff's department.

Sincerely,

Preview exhibition scheduled in Amarillo

Amarillo has a new outlet for the arts known as The Lost Circus co-op art gallery and performance center. The center, located at 618 S. Polk, will have its official grand opening Friday, Sept. 9. Lost Circus is currently offering a free public preview showing Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. Everyone is invited to visit and view the works on display.

The preview show offers about 50 art works in a variety of media: painting, photography, sculpture. The artists' styles range from realism to abstraction, emphasizing original, imaginative, non-traditional approaches. Hunter Ingalls, one of the founders of Lost Circus, said, "These artists encompass a wide variety not only of styles, but of ages and experience in regard to exhibition. What they all have in common is personal integrity, and devotion to quality in their work." This sampling of visual arts will be on exhibit until Saturday, Sept. 3.

The Lost Circus is an organization of visual and performance artists who along with associate (supporting) members comprise the co-op.

In addition to gallery showings, performance activities include music, poetry readings, and theater.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In the 1940s the major problems that teachers had to deal with were as follows:

- Not getting homework on time.
- Talking during class.
- Making noise.
- Running in the hallways.
- Getting out of place in line.
- Wearing improper clothing.

In the '80s the teachers must contend with:

- Students who are strung out on alcohol and drugs.
- Pregnant girls.
- Suicidal students.
- Threats of rape and murder.
- Stealing.
- Assault.
- Guns and knives in the classroom.
- Arson and bombing.
- Scary, isn't it? Yet teachers are leaving the profession because of low pay, lack of cooperation from parents and the tendency to blame the schools for all the ills of society.

I am not a teacher nor do I have children of my own, but I pay school and other taxes willingly because I know if the children in our community don't get a decent education we will not have competent doctors, lawyers, service people and yes, teachers, in the next decade. Good teachers cost money and we should consider their salary increases an investment in the future. Thanks for getting the word out, Ann.—A.K.S., Texas competitive with business and industry and pumping up professional pride. I know of no better investment in the future. We dare not risk putting this country in the hands of a bunch of dummies 20 years down the road. Wake up, out there!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a recent column you said, "You should have told him to 'Feed it to Sweeney.'"

I have been a Sweeney for 63 years and have never heard that expression before. Is it something new? What does it mean?

If a Sweeney doesn't know, you can be sure a lot of other people in your reading audience are going to be asking you this question as well. How about it, Ann?—James H. Sweeney, Farmington Hills, Mich.

DEAR FRIEND IN FARMINGTON: Feed it to Sweeney means "Your story is ridiculous. I don't buy it." Where this originated I am not sure, but I do remember a line in an old play, spoken by a woman who wanted her spouse to know his alibi wasn't cutting it. She gave him a withering look and said, "Feed it to Sweeney."

NEW YORK (AP)—Losing even a moderate amount of weight can dramatically affect your health, according to Dr. Stuart Shapiro, national medical director for Nutri-System Inc.

He says a recent study at 15 medical centers indicates a mere 10 percent loss of body weight can produce significant improvements in the effects of obesity-related diseases, such as diabetes, arthritis and hypertension, often lowering or eliminating the need for medication.

Hereford tied for third in district last year

Continuing progress is HHS spikers' aim

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

A tie for third place in District 1-4A last year marked some great progress, and the Hereford High School varsity volleyball team aims to continue that progress this season.

Hereford Coach Brenda Reeh has seen her HHS varsity teams improve from an 0-22 record in 1985, in her first season as head coach, to a 9-5 district record in 1987. Hereford tied with Levelland for third place, after holding down the second place position in the district for about two weeks.

"You can see the progress. We had to convince the kids that it would work out in the long run," Reeh said.

Herd battles Monterey in scrimmages Thursday

Hereford Whiteface football players will have a chance to hit someone other than their teammates Thursday when they play in scrimmages against Lubbock Monterey at Whiteface Stadium.

Three scrimmages are scheduled — sophomores at 3:30 p.m., juniors at 5:30 p.m., and varsity at 7:30 p.m.

Other preseason scrimmages will

Cardinals beat Astros, 3-0, pull off triple play

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Right-hander Scott Terry came to the St. Louis Cardinals last year to be a set-up reliever, but plans have a way of changing.

Terry hurled 6 2-3 shutout innings in a rare starting role Tuesday that led the Cardinals to a 3-0 victory over the Houston Astros. The game also was highlighted by a triple play — the first in the National League this season — pulled off in the eighth inning by the Cardinals' infield.

"Right now, he's a starter," Cardinals manager Whitey Herzog said of Terry. "I don't know about next year."

Terry, 3-3, allowed five hits, walked one and struck out three in only his second start of the year. He was replacing the scheduled starter, John Tudor, who was traded before the game to the Los Angeles Dodgers for Pedro Guerrero.

The last time Terry started, last Thursday against Philadelphia, he pitched five scoreless innings when Danny Cox was scratched with a sore elbow.

Terry was obtained from Cincinnati last season for Pat Perry with the idea of making him a set-up reliever to pave the way for closers Todd Worrell and Ken Dayley. Before joining the Cardinals late in the season, Terry was 11-10 as a starter at Nashville and was one of only two pitchers in the American Association to have an earned run average less than 4.00.

The 28-year-old right-hander left the ballpark Tuesday as soon as the game was over, avoiding reporters. Although he couldn't talk about his accomplishments, others did.

"He's aggressive, a good fielder and holds runners on good," Herzog said. "And, he's got a good arm."

"He did a heck of a job," said Vince Coleman, who was the Cardinals' offensive star with three stolen bases, two hits and two runs scored. His thefts pushed his league lead to 61.

Couples Scramble set in September

The Hereford Couples Scramble is scheduled Sept. 17-18 at Pitman Municipal Golf Course, with shotgun starts at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. both days.

Entry fee is $125 per team, cart included. Teams will be flighted by low handicap. The first 80 teams to register will play in the tournament.

The scramble is sponsored by the Ladies Golf Association. A dinner will be served Saturday at the Hereford Country Club, and a lunch will be served Sunday. A dance is scheduled Saturday after the dinner.

For more information on the Hereford Couples Scramble, contact Mike Horton at the Pro Shop, 364-2782, or write to Mike Horton, Box 814, Hereford, TX, 79045.

"We finally have gotten our program strong enough to where our older kids are the stronger kids, the most experienced. It wasn't necessarily that way last year or two years ago," she said.

Three letter winners return this season — setter Nikki Self, weak side hitter Libby Kosub and middle blocker Cande Robbins. Other probable starters include setter and hitter Jill West and weak side hitter Poppy Richardson.

Twenty-seven players are now out for volleyball, including one senior, 11 juniors and 15 sophomores.

"We've got pretty good height compared to a lot of teams. Libby is 5-8, Cande is 5-10, Jessica Dearing is 6-foot, Crystal Sims is 5-10, and Poppy is 5-7. Most of the kids we've got are good all-around athletes," Coach Reeh said.

"They've got the quickness it takes to play defense. They ought to have enough in both height and quickness."

The Hereford varsity opens the 1988 season this Friday and Saturday at the Lubbock Invitational Tournament at Lubbock Coronado. On Monday, the junior varsity will play in the Lubbock Dunbar Junior Varsity Tournament.

Hereford plays El Paso Bowie in the first round of this week's varsity tournament, at 11 a.m. Friday. The winner plays the winner of the Perryton-Dunbar match at 3 p.m. Friday.

The semifinals are scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday, and the finals at 6:15 p.m. Saturday.

"This is a good tournament, because you're assured of playing three matches," Reeh said.

Reeh said she is pleased about how the HHS girls have practiced. "I've been real proud of what the girls have done. They've been real intense."

"This group of kids, the way that they have fun is by being intense, working hard and winning. That's the point where you want to be at the beginning of the season as well as the end."

"If they're not intense, they're not having fun. I still think you need the element of fun," Coach Reeh said.

The HHS coach said momentum is important in volleyball success. "Learning how to get the momentum and keep it is the key to winning a volleyball match."

"If you lose the momentum, and your opponents get three or four points, it's hard to get the momentum back."

"We stress to our players that you've got to play each point to win, to win 15 separate games in each game. The players can keep their momentum better this way," she said.

Coach Reeh expects Dumas and Pampa to be the top opponents in District 1-4A this season, but adds Borger and Levelland to the list of playoff contenders.

The Dumas junior varsity had the best record among district schools last year, along with the Dumas varsity placing second in the district. Reeh said Pampa is expected to be a strong team despite having four senior starters graduate from last year's team.

Borger and Levelland both lost some key players to graduation, but have talented athletes, Reeh said.

"I think it's going to be a real wide open district. The top five or possibly the top six teams could beat each other on any given day," Reeh said.

The Hereford varsity will play in two other tournaments before beginning district play — the Pecos tournament on Aug. 26-27 and the Borger tournament on Sept. 10. Hereford has only one home match, vs. Clovis on Aug. 30, before opening District 1-4A play at Lubbock Dunbar on Sept. 13.

Hereford will play five of its last six district matches at home.

"The kids are ready to start playing. This year in two-a-days, they have maintained their intensity and their excitement through all the long hours of practice. That's exciting for us as coaches," Reeh said.

"We've got to stay intense in the first half of the district season, especially away."

District matches on Tuesdays (and one on a Thursday) will be at about 7:30 p.m., with junior varsity matches scheduled for 6:30 p.m. On Saturdays, the junior varsity plays at 2 p.m., with varsity playing at about 3 p.m.

Other volleyball coaches at Hereford High School this year are Lynn Gilbreath, junior varsity, and Jill Pickens and Donnie O'Rand, freshmen teams. The Hereford Junior High School coaches are Royce Spies, Jane Radford and Christy Lytle.

Sophomore, junior and senior athletes have been practicing sense Aug. 8, including in pads since last Friday. The freshmen athletes reported to practice Monday.

"We probably would have had a better chance against Tudor," Houston manager Hal Lanier said. "He (Terry) had a good sinker and got a lot of ground balls."

Dayley, who was the recipient of the St. Louis triple play in the eighth, pitched two innings and picked up his fourth save. Jim Deshaies, 8-10, was the loser.

Lanier said the triple play "took us right out of the ballgame."

With runners on first and second, pinch-hitter Jim Pankovits hit a sharp grounder to third baseman Terry Pendleton. Pendleton stepped on the bag and threw to second baseman Jose Oquendo, who stepped on second and fired to first baseman Mike Laga.

Houston had only two other good scoring chances. In the first inning, Young singled and stole second with no outs, but was left there. In the seventh, Rafael Ramirez and Alex Trevino both singled off Terry with two outs, but reliever John Costello got pinch-hitter Kevin Bass on an easy groundout.

Coleman singled, stole second and third and scored on a Deshaies balk to give St. Louis a 1-0 lead in the first inning.

In the third, Ozzie Smith singled, stole second, went to third on a bloop double by Pendleton and scored on the sacrifice fly by Tom Brunansky.

The Cardinals got their final run in the fifth. Coleman reached on a bunt single, stole second, went to third on Deshaies' throwing error on a pickoff play and scored on Pendleton's sacrifice fly.

Tech has three-in-one Heisman package

By WENDY E. LANE
Associated Press Writer
LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — On the average, Texas Tech's best offensive weapons stand only 5-foot-7 and weigh a mere 152 pounds.

But after monumental performances last season, the size of senior wide receivers Wayne Walker, Eddy Anderson and Tyrone Thurman doesn't seem to matter much anymore.

Tech coach Spike Dykes says his team will rely on the three even more this year than last, when Walker and Anderson finished one-two in yards per carry in the Southwest Conference.

"They're a year older, a year more mature," he said. "They're bigger, stronger and faster, so they'll be better. We'll be very disappointed if they're not."
Tech officials even are promoting the trio as a three-in-one Heisman candidate package with a whimsical poster.

And that makes some sense given their 1987 combined stats. The three caught 81 passes for 1,344 yards and seven touchdowns.

All-SWC Walker, 5-9 and 160 pounds, scored five touchdowns and gained 20.6 yards per catch to lead the league last season.

Right behind him on the SWC list was Anderson, also 5-9 and 160, with 15 yards per catch.

Thurman is a punt return specialist, with 35 catches for 323 yards and a touchdown in 1987. He also caught 19 passes for 236 yards. At 5-3 and 135 pounds, he is billed by Tech as the smallest player in major college football.

Thurman, Anderson and Walker will have plenty of passes to run from senior All-Southwest Conference quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver, who completed 49 percent of his passes for 1,422 yards and 7 touchdowns last season.

Tolliver's wife Sheila gave birth Aug. 4 to a son, and Dykes said fatherhood is just one component of the quarterback's increased maturity.

"He's a year older, a year smarter and a year more experienced," Dykes said. "We feel like he's got a chance to be the premier quarterback in this part of the country."

Tolliver, who missed three games last season due to injury, will have to stay healthy this year. His backup hasn't been tapped, but will probably be one of several redshirt freshmen.

The offensive line, which has only one starter returning, is another question mark for Dykes.

"Right now we're talking about total unknowns," he said.

Junior Charles Odiorne is the team's only returning starter, but was injured during the spring.

"We're very un-deep," said Dykes. "We feel like we've got a great front line corps of people. Our starting offensive line, as of the end of spring training, has all played. Nobody behind them has played any."

On the ground, Tech's attack will be led by junior I-back James Gray, who finished third in league rushing with a 91.5-yard average.

Dykes hopes moving former defensive end James Mosley and ex-fullback Isaac Garnett to linebacker will help solve the problem of lack of depth and experience on defense, where just five starters return.

"These guys have got the instincts to be good linebackers and all they lack is the experience," Dykes said.

Four returning lettermen are expected to start on the defensive line, including senior Desmond Royal, who had 43 tackles last season.

With depth a big problem for Tech, staying free of injuries is key.

"Last year the very best defensive back we had, Merv Scurlark, didn't play a down because of injury," Dykes said. "We can't afford to do that very much at Tech because we just run out of folks."

HHS tennis practice begins

Hereford High School tennis players began their preseason practicing on Monday at the HHS courts. Head Coach Ruben Vargas said 43 individuals are out for tennis, including five senior boys, five senior girls, five junior boys, 12 junior girls, four sophomore boys,

Texas Tech to be in three of 11 SWC TV games

DALLAS (AP) — Eleven Southwest Conference football games are scheduled to be broadcast regionally this fall, officials from SWC and Raycom Sports and Entertainment of Charlotte, N.C., announced Monday.

SWC Commissioner Fred Jacoby said 10 of the syndicated broadcasts will air at noon (CDT) each Saturday, beginning Sept. 10 with the Baylor taking on Kansas in Lawrence, Kan. The 11th game has yet to be selected, he said.

Baylor, which finished 6-5 last year, also goes against non-conference foe Iowa State on Sept. 17, and on Oct. 1 against Houston in Waco.

Texas Tech, with a corps of wide receivers selected as the nation's best in the pre-season Sporting News College Football Annual, makes its Raycom debut on Oct. 8 against Arkansas in Little Rock. Tech takes on Rice the next week, Oct. 15 at Rice Stadium.

On Oct. 22, Arkansas meets Houston on the Cougars' home turf, while Tech has its third TV game Oct. 29 against Texas when the two

FIRST THE SEED

Without a doubt, the one thing that determines the outcome of any crop is the seed that you put into the ground. Good seed produces a good crop - bad seed fails you.

We believe that insect and disease problems this last year have created a need to look at the crops and varieties you plant and your harvest intentions.

TAM 200 ; a new release from Texas A & M that appeared very promising in limited trials.

TRITICALE ; for known grazing or graze-out acreage - triticale showed less damage from insects & disease than wheat in 1988.

OATS ; Chilocco oats produce excellent grain and abundant forage for grazing.

HAWK ; 1987's best variety for milling & baking qualities. A consistent high yielding variety that makes excellent early grazing.

THUNDERBIRD ; a new release from NAPB that has excellent grain quality, yield and test weights.

TAM 105 ; need to update your seed. We have both certified and good quality select seed available.

Ask Dr. Lamb

Migraine Attack BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: In one of your columns you answered a reader's question regarding symptoms of classic migraine headaches. You said there are things you can do, including adjusting your diet, that can help prevent such attacks. Please don't leave those of us who have such periodic symptoms there. Tell us what we can do in the way of adjusting diet, etc., to prevent these attacks. I have attacks of the aura that precedes migraines — impaired vision, zig-zag lines, black-out of parts of objects, but not followed by a headache.

DEAR READER: You are very fortunate if you do not have the headache part of the migraine complex. I received many letters from those who do have severe headaches with the initial symptoms you describe and who are truly incapacitated. If the symptoms of a migraine headache are mild and not too frequent, then treatment of the headache when it occurs is usually the most practical approach. If they are severe or frequent, then preventive measures are important.

The foods that may be a factor in some cases of migraine headaches include: chocolate, sodium nitrite found in cured meats, monosodium glutamate, milk, eggs, oranges, wheat, tomatoes, tartrazine (food dye), rye, fish, pork, yeast, mixed nuts, apples, peaches, grapes, coffee, tea, cola, corn, pineapple, coconut and cane sugar. Now you see why I did not discuss all the aspects of diet.

Identifying what foods, if any, are a factor is a time-consuming process. An elimination diet is often necessary. I have discussed how to identify troublesome foods this way in my new Special Report 85, Headache and Facial Pain. I'm sending you a free copy. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to THE HEALTH LETTER/85, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Those symptoms you describe are usually caused by spasm of arteries to the brain. The pain starts when these same arteries dilate too much after the constriction is over. For those who have severe headaches regularly, there are several medicines that help in many cases. I have discussed these in the special report I'm sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Recently we lost a couple of close buddies to ruptured aneurysms. They were taken away from an apparently healthy existence almost as fast as if they'd had fatal heart attacks. Are there any warning symptoms that might let you know that an artery wall is weakening?

DEAR READER: The most common form of aneurysm is a large sacular dilatation of the aorta, the main large artery from the heart to the lower abdomen. That large sac is caused by a weakening of the wall of the aorta and it literally becomes a blow-out. Usually the large sac causes no symptoms unless it is quite large and can be seen pulsating in the abdomen, in the case of abdominal aneurysms. Such aneurysms are usually found on physical examination of the abdomen, or more often from an abdominal X-ray. This is a good argument for an X-ray of the abdomen to search for such silent disease. Those in the chest may be found with chest X-rays. They can also be found with the modern scans or with ultrasound.

You can also have an aneurysm of an artery in the brain, which can rupture, causing a stroke. These are usually congenital. Those of the aorta are usually secondary to fatty-cholesterol deposits damaging the wall of the aorta.

Whiteface Good Sam Club meets

The Whiteface Good Sam Club met recently for a covered dish supper and business meeting at the Hereford Community Center. The 25 members welcomed one guest.

During the business meeting, it was announced that 24 members recently spent three days in Pendaries, N.M. Another trip is planned this weekend at Ruidoso, N.M.

All club members were reminded of the Area 10 Jamboree Sept. 16-18 in Palo Duro Canyon.

The next meeting and covered dish supper is set for Sept. 8 at 7 p.m. at the Community Center.

At a great, smoky ironworks in the ancient Italian coastal city of Populonia, Etruscans might have processed 10,000 tons of ore annually for more than 400 years.

New music, education director announced

A new director of Music and Christian Education in First United Methodist Church, Stephen M. Sobczak, is getting acquainted with members there this week.

He directed the sanctuary choir and congregational singing in the Sunday morning worship service, and has begun plans for Fall activities with the various church organizations with which he will work.

Sobczak and his wife, Michele, with their small son Tyler, came to Herford from Hurst. They lived in the Fort Worth area while he was completing work for a Master of Music degree from Southwestern Baptist Seminary there in 1986.

A native of Alabama, he earned a Bachelor of Arts and Master of Music Education from Samford University in Birmingham. During his student years he served as director of music and youth in churches, and was interim minister of music in Handley Meadowbrook Christian Church at Fort Worth.

At Samford University he was named to the National Dean's List in 1977. He was recognized as one of the Jaycees Outstanding Young Men of America in 1984.

STEPHEN SOBCZAK

The Sobczak family was informally introduced to the First UMC congregation at the annual church picnic in Ceta Canyon Campground Sunday afternoon. Sobczak will be welcomed by the Sanctuary Choir at a supper tonight at the home of Bob and Bera Boyd.

SAY 'NO, NO' TO YO-YO DIETING

Gardening safety precautions advised

According to a poll by the National Gardening Association and the Gallup Organization, last year Americans rated gardening as their second favorite outdoor leisure activity.

In 1987, 59.5 million American households maintained lawns and gardens with the aid of power mowers, garden tractors and tillers. In the same year, 170,000 injuries due to power equipment-related accidents were reported.

Power equipment, while making garden and yard work easier, can also lead to serious injury when the user fails to observe proper safety precautions. In accordance with the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI), the National Safety Council and Texas Safety Association suggest the following steps for purchase and safe operation of outdoor power equipment:

- Make sure equipment has been tested, meets safety standards, and bears the OPEI triangular seal. This seal indicates that the equipment meets nationally recognized voluntary safety standards as published by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI).

- Thoroughly read the operator's manual before using the equipment, and be familiar with its safety devices. Be sure these are not damaged or missing.

- Dress properly, with substantial shoes, long pants, and close fitting clothes. Long hair should be restrained, and anything that could get caught in moving parts should be removed.

- Never fill gas tanks while the engine is running or hot! Handle and store gasoline carefully, keeping it away from the house, and wipe up any spills immediately.

- Never smoke around gasoline!

- Follow recommended safety procedures when operating equipment, and use each piece only for its specified purpose. Avoid leaving running equipment unattended, and remove any keys from idle pieces.

- Clear away trash, toys, stones, and twigs from your work area, and be sure children and pets are out of the area until you are finished with the job.

- Keep your hands and feet away from moving parts, shutting off the power when cleaning or unclogging equipment. It is also a good idea to disconnect the spark plug.

- Good gardeners have green thumbs; safe gardeners have both thumbs!

- Texas Safety Association is a non-profit, non-governmental organization whose members work in government, private industry, and as individuals to prevent accidents and needless loss of life and property.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR READERS: What should I do if I'm involved in an auto accident? This is a question many people ask. The Insurance Information Institute (a nonprofit organization) has compiled a helpful pamphlet with the 10 questions consumers most frequently ask about auto insurance. When involved in an accident, you should get the other driver's name, address, phone number, driver's license number, insurance company and policy number whenever possible. If you would like to receive a single copy of this pamphlet, simply dial toll-free 1-800-221-4954. — Heloise

SEND A GREAT HINT TO: Heloise P.O. Box 795000 San Antonio, Texas 78279 OLD SHOWER CAP

Dear Heloise: When a shower cap has lost its elasticity, cut off the elastic. That leaves a circle of plastic material to use for many purposes. It is convenient to sit on or kneel on in the garden or at the beach when the sand is damp. — Mildred Kohler, Palm Beach Shores, Fla.

COLORED SUGAR

Dear Heloise: I once remember reading in your column a way of coloring granulated sugar. Now that I want to try it, I can't find the clipping. Would you please reprint this information for me. Thanks! — Deandra Bettie, Rockford, Ill.

Here is the method. Put the sugar in a pie plate and drizzle a few drops of food coloring on it. Stir the sugar around until the food coloring is evenly distributed. Add more food coloring until you have the desired shade. Continue to stir until the sugar is dry. It can then be placed in a jar that has a sprinkle top. — Heloise

SCREENING

Dear Heloise: I want to write share my method of repairing a small hole in a screen. I sew the small holes shut with matching thread or clear nylon thread. This way the repair isn't too obvious. If the holes are small, I use a little smear of clear nail polish. Works like a charm! — Josie Hamber, Honolulu, Hawaii

I love Heloise quick homestyle fixes, and yours wins the prize today. — Heloise

PLASTIC FOAM COOLER

Dear Heloise: We recently went on a picnic and had our plastic foam cooler in the back of our pickup truck. While driving home, the lid blew off. So, now I tie an old nylon stocking around it. The stocking has enough give to it to enable things to be slipped out or in. Now we don't have to stop to retrieve a lost lid. — A Reader, Omaha, Neb.

VISITING GRANDCHILDREN

Dear Heloise: My grandchildren came to visit me this summer. Since this was their first trip on an airline, there were many things they had to be told. When the luggage came off the carousel, I wondered if the children would be able to identify theirs. Well, there was no need for worry — my daughter had taken care of it. She had placed colorful ribbons on the luggage that matched the children's clothes. It was so easy for us and the children as well. — Kelly Beatty, Marion, N.C.

COFFEE STORAGE

Dear Heloise: To save on coffee, a necessary expense to me, I always buy the three-pound can because it is cheaper. I do not like to use the coffee out of the large cans, so I transfer it to a smaller container. Try as I might, I always manage to spill some coffee while pouring it out of the large can into the smaller one. Using a spoon or cup just didn't appeal to me. So, I took the plastic lid and cut a "V" from the rim to the center. Be sure to leave the rim intact so the lid can snap onto the can. The coffee can then be poured out. No spills and no mess on the counter. — Lyle Zwahlen, Salt Lake City, Utah

MUSHROOM TIP

Dear Heloise: An easy way to clean mushrooms with very little waste is to put them in a colander, hold the colander under cold running water and shake it in a circular motion. Mushrooms will bump together, thus removing all dirt. Continue shaking until mushrooms are clean and white. — Shirley Ritchie, Minerva, Ohio

CHICKEN SKINNING

Dear Heloise: I remove the skin from pieces of chicken by taking a paper towel and holding it in one hand and the chicken in the other hand. Pull on the skin and it comes right off. — Phyllis Hermes, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The Galapagos woodpecker finch is a tool user. It manipulates twigs and cactus spines to pry grubs and insects out of holes, says National Geographic.

For Dallas Cowboy linebackers

Injury problems continue

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas Cowboys rookie linebacker Ken Norton returned to Dallas for surgery on his right thumb, which he broke in Saturday's exhibition game against the Los Angeles Raiders.

Norton, the Cowboys' second-round draft choice in April, is scheduled to undergo surgery on Wednesday and is expected to be out for six weeks.

"He was making some progress," said Cowboys linebacker coach Jerry Tubbs. "It's just a shame that he got hurt. In our last blitz drill, he was by far the best blitzing that we had. He was in the process of learning. We just hate to see him injured."

Norton was being tried at outside linebacker after playing inside linebacker in college.

Norton is the sixth Cowboys linebacker to be lost for an extended period of time since the start of camp.

The others include:

Cardinals' Lomax not concerned with slow start

By The Associated Press

Phoenix Cardinals quarterback Neil Lomax, an eight-year veteran and two-time Pro Bowl player, is not overly concerned with his slow start this preseason.

Lomax has completed just two of 10 passes for 20 yards in a 21-7 loss Aug. 4 at Seattle in the Cardinals' exhibition opener. Last Friday night in Tempe, Lomax got off to a slow start before hitting eight of 16 passes for 110 yards in his half of work.

Cliff Stoudt came on in the second half to complete 11 of 17 passes for 129 yards and two touchdowns, but the New Orleans Saints still beat Phoenix 33-28.

"Yeah, I think that's our game plan. I go out there and throw four or five incompletions, then Cliff brings us back," Lomax said. "I'm working for the (regular-season) opener (Sept. 4 at Cincinnati). But still, when I'm out there, I have to perform."

Lomax severely has looked nothing like the quarterback who completed 275 of 463 attempts for 3,387 yards and 24 touchdowns last season.

"The only thing I can figure is he's wanting to perform so well, maybe he's too tight," Coach Gene Stallings said. "This is sort of a new start. People here like him. Sometimes when you want to really do well, you play bad."

There were 15 players on a side in college football games played in 1876.

round pick who was entering his fourth pro season, failed the club's physical because of a spinal condition. He has been advised to retire.

— Jeff Rohrer, a seventh-year pro and the starting right linebacker, was lost for the season after undergoing back surgery.

— Mike Hegman, the starter at left linebacker who was beginning his 13th year, is out for four to six more weeks after undergoing knee surgery.

— Jeff Hurd, a standout on the replacement season who was being given another opportunity to make the squad as an outside linebacker, is out for the year after undergoing knee surgery.

— Free agent rookie Kenny Blacknell is also on the injured list with a shoulder injury.

Fifth-year veteran middle linebacker Eugene Lockhart has also spent time in the training room. Lockhart broke a bone in his left hand, and sat out the Cowboys' first two pre-season games.

He returned to full-contact drills this week, and will return to the lineup when the Cowboys play the Chicago Bears in their pre-season home opener at Texas Stadium Aug. 22.

Second-year linebacker Ron Burton has been nursing a neck injury, and is questionable for the game against the Bears.

The early injury report for Monday night's game lists safety Vince Albritton (thigh) and guard Jeff Zimmerman (shoulder) as out. Defensive tackle Danny Noonan (hip) is doubtful. Tight end Thornton Chandler (shoulder) and linebacker Ron Burton (neck) are questionable.

Defensive tackle Kevin Brooks (shoulder), linebacker Steve DeOssie (stomach), wide receiver Michael Irvin (hip) and linebacker Sean Scott (heel) are listed as probables.

Rangers edge Royals, 5-4

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — When the night began, Charlie Hough's fluttery, unpredictable knuckleball felt wicked in his hand.

The Kansas City Royals certainly couldn't hit it. And Texas catcher Geno Petralli could hardly catch it. The Royals manufactured their first run on Danny Tartabull's walk and stolen base, Petralli's passed ball and Frank White's sacrifice fly.

But the decisive turn of events finally came with Texas at bat in the seventh. Facing Mark Gubicza, Oddibe McDowell hit an opposite-field double and Curtis Wilkerson and Scott Fletcher slugged opposite-field triples with two out, fueling a three-run rally that carried the Rangers to a 5-4 victory.

Hough, 10-13 for the year and 14-8 lifetime against Kansas City, faltered finally in the ninth. Texas Manager Bobby Valentine asked him if he was tiring in the muggy heat.

"I told him I had a real fresh arm in the bullpen if he didn't feel he had enough," Valentine said. "He said if he didn't get em 1-2-3, okay."

Kurt Stillwell walked with two out, and Valentine fairly bounced onto the field to summon a fresh arm in the person of hard-throwing lefthander Mitch Williams. He struck out George Brett, who had been dealing with Hough's knuckler all night, on three pitches for his 15th save.

"The fresh arm got in the game and did a heck of a job," Valentine said with a grin.

"It's real nice to have the lefty come in and throw three bullets after the stuff I was flipping up there," Hough said. "That makes it a little-tough to get around on. But that was a tough ballgame right from the start. We battled them all the way. We played a big league ballgame tonight."

Gubicza, 14-7, took a 4-2 lead into the seventh but with two out, Wilkerson tripled home a run, McDowell doubled and Fletcher hit a second triple. All three opposite-field hits were barely fair.

"And it happened so quickly, too," said Kansas City Manager John Wathan. "There were two outs, then bang, bang, bang and they're ahead. There was not a lot we could do. We had our best pitcher out there."

McDowell, Fletcher and Ruben Sierra singled to open the game and give the Rangers a quick 1-0 lead. With one out, Petralli who would be charged with two passed balls, hit a sacrifice fly for a 2-0 advantage.

The Royals went ahead 3-2 in the second. After White's sacrifice fly, Bo Jackson singled and stole second and Jamie Quirk walked. Petralli's passed ball moved everybody up a base, and then Bill Pecota tripled on a 3-2 delivery.

"The pitch on Pecota, I just lollypopped it up there and left it. He hit it like you're supposed to," Hough said. "It was not a big-league quality pitch. There wasn't a lot of thought behind it."

Hough wound up giving up six hits, striking out eight and walking seven. Gubicza, in eight innings, struck out six and did not issue a walk while surrendering 10 hits.

"He was throwing big league stuff," Hough said. "He was throwing well. But that's the way the game is sometimes. You get some runs when you don't expect it. I've seen guys not throw well against us but get us out. That Mark Gubicza is a big league pitcher."

"Really, we got a lot of mileage out of six hits," Wathan said. "We mixed in some walks and stolen bases to make the most of it. Hough pitched a typical Hough game. He kept them in it and he got tougher as the game went along. Guby got the ball up a little in the seventh inning and they painted the foul line."

"...good old-fashioned banking hasn't completely disappeared. We've kept the best parts."

"New rules and regulations have changed a lot of our products and services in the past few years, but some things haven't changed here at our bank...and never will.

"We've built our bank on the fundamental concept of knowing our customers...taking good care of them by providing good service...and saying thank you for your business.

"Most financial institutions have the same products and services today...but they don't have the same service...or the same sense of appreciation for the customer.

"We invite you to come bank with us. We still give good service and we still know how to say thank you."
