County joins drug traffic task force

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County Commissioners signed an agreement Monday to participate with Amarillo in the Panhandle Regional Narcotics Trafficking Task Force — peace officers focused on curbing drug use by law enforcement.

Funded by a $528,016 state grant as part of President Reagan's war on drugs, the task force will be directed by the Panhandle Regional Organized Crime Unit Board of Governors on which Deaf Smith County Sheriff Joe Brown serves.

"This task force is going to be very effective," said Brown. "Drugs are everywhere, and all 25 counties in this region will be served."

Eight law enforcement representatives from the 25-county region shall be appointed by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission (PRPC) to advise the Board of Governors as to the "goals and objectives of the Panhandle Regional Narcotics Trafficking Task Force," states the agreement.

The task force's purpose is to create a 25-county, multi-

Fire destroys Mills' possessions

By ANDREA LAMB

A filth-ridden house south of Hereford where almost two dozen dogs were found stashed earlier this year burned Saturday night, and the fire marshal can only conjecture as to its cause.

"That was a fire hazard waiting to happen with as much stuff that was in there," said Hereford Fire Marshal Jay Spain. "The fire started up high, and it could have been a mouse chewing on a match head for all I know."

The house, packed full of clothes, discarded furniture and dog feces, first ignited at 10:07 p.m. Saturday, but firefighters were called to the house again at 10:54 a.m. Monday after its smoldering ashes started a second fire.

No damage estimate was given. Audrey Mills, the 71-year-old woman who rented the house, moved long before the fire ever sparked, but many of her belongings went up in smoke.

"My cedar chest and my bedroom suit are all gone now," said Mills, who was escorted to Northwest Texas Hospital's psychiatric ward last January after county officials discovered she was living with two dogs in a station wagon parked beside the house. Twenty-three more dogs were found in the house and in two sheds. "I had a lot of clothes in there and some antique quilts my mother and grandmother had given to me."

Mills rented the house for more than 9 years at $135 per month from Thelma Damron, who refuses to comment on the Mills matter.

"That house wasn't worth it," said Mills. "It was two houses put together and it had the thinnest walls I'd ever seen. I'm guessing the fire started when those tree limbs hit the electric cable going to the house."

Mills currently resides in a trailer house two miles from the charred ruins of her former home, and plans to make another move May 3 to a house on Gracy Street in Hereford.

"I lost my husband there, I lost my dogs there and now I've lost the old house," said Mills.

Cattle numbers set record

Deaf Smith, Parmer down, Castro feeding increases

By JOHN BROOKS

A record number of cattle went through feedlots in the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles in 1987, according to the annual Fed Cattle Survey released this morning by Southwestern Public Service Company.

than the previous record in 1984. The survey showed that 4.76 million cattle were slaughtered at packing plants in the SPS service territory, down 312,991 from 1986. There are 14 beef packing plants in the SPS survey area with an annual capacity of 5.1 million head.

"These latest statistics demonstrate the cattle-feeding business is prospering in this part of the country," said Seth Thomason, SPS manager of agricultural and industrial power. "The growth of this business shows how important cattle feeding is to our area's economy."

Thomason said the utility gets requests for the survey "from all across the nation. By providing this information, we hope to help stimulate further development in the agricultural sector."

Despite a decrease of over 95,000 head, Deaf Smith County led the area with 695,500 head fed in 1987. Texas County, Okla., was second on the list, feeding 488,432 head—down from 523,000 head fed in 1986. Castro County vaulted into third place with 463,948 head, while Parmer County slipped to fourth with 463,786 head going through its feedlots.

Feedlots in the SPS service area in Texas, Oklahoma and Curry County, N.M. fed 5.4 million head, a three percent increase over 1986 and 150,000 more

Man confesses to rural burglary

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

Another man connected with the dozen county burglaries occurring for the past several months was arrested by Deaf Smith County deputies Friday afternoon after the man confessed to one of the burglaries.

Jesse Cervantez, 23, of 213 Hereford Calle said he and two others participated in a burglary, but he never actually broke into the house, according to Cervantez.

"He stood by as the other two broke in, or at least that's what he says," said Sheriff Joe Brown.

Julian Juarez, another person accused of the burglaries, was arrested earlier, and the sheriff's office had two more arrest warrants out, but not one for Cervantez.

"He confessed to being a part of one burglary after he came into the courthouse and Deputy Jimmy Hudgens and Vernon Hope (investigator for the district attorney's office) questioned him. So we still have those two warrants out for the other two," said Brown.

POW Camp was big project

(Saturday, a group of about 50 former prisoners of war who were held at the Hereford POW Camp will visit the area. In a three-part series, Brand Managing Editor John Brooks looks at the camp and the people who were involved in the camp—captors and captives.)

To many Americans, World War II was something being fought in distant places—the north of Africa, the tiniest islands of the eastern Pacific, on the European continent.

To get to one of the war's theatres you traveled by boat for countless days across countless miles of sea—until a piece of the war was brought to Deaf Smith and Castro counties with a Prisoner of War Camp which straddled the county boundaries south of Hereford.

The War Department ordered construction of the Hereford Military Reservation and Reception Center on June 30, 1942. The original plans called for three housing areas for prisoners, but the staggering success of American forces led to the immediate addition of a fourth section, allowing the camp to hold up to 5,000 prisoners when at full capacity. Usually, the camp held about 3,000 men.

Each of the original prisoner's compounds included 30 barracks, a post exchange, infirmary, eight mess halls, four common lavatories, and administrative facilities. The fourth compound included 50 barracks and two additional mess halls.

The quarters for Americans included 17 barracks, eight mess halls, quarters for officers and nurses, warehouse and storage facilities, and the camp's seven-ward hospital. Overlooking the camp were nine guard towers and the wooden water tank.

Surrounding the camp was a pair of fences. One of the fences carried a heavy electrical charge, and both were buried four feet deep.

It took four months to build by men who were still filled with the memories of a jobless Depression who were grateful for any work they could find, and by highly-skilled craftsmen.

The camp officially covered a section of land, but the buildings covered only about 165 acres. The rest of the land was farmed, with much of the produce going to fill the camp's needs.

One of the camp's features was the theatre, "Teatro Gloria," where each compound produced its own plays, skits and other productions—competing against the other compounds and entertaining themselves and their captors.

Prisoners, who worked at the camp, in Hereford and in fields throughout the area, earned $10 in coupon books which could be

Now that April 15 is behind us, aren't you glad Congress reformed the income tax laws and the IRS gave us a simplified form? "Simplified", in federal government terms, apparently translates into contorted, twisted, bewildering, confusing and incoherently governmentese.

But you can take heart this year over the taxes—you have only a cou-spent at each compound's PX for tobacco, candy, soft drinks and sundries.

The lady also suggested that Manning would be a good guest to appear on the show.

The camp also featured a common visitor's center where relatives could visit prisoners twice a month, and classrooms where prisoners, among other things, could learn English.

The prisoner area was separated from the American area by barbed wire, which also segregated each of the prisoner compounds. The makeup of the prisoners in each compound was, in some cases, vastly different.

One compound held men who refused to work, or were troublemakers, while another held enlisted men who were eager to work—some in area fields, some on projects in Hereford, and others doing special work including painting the murals which grace St. Mary's Catholic Church in Umbarger.

Another compound was used for new arrivals, where they were held until they could be sorted into one of the other areas. The fourth compound was the officers' quarters.

The officers barracks were more plush, with four lieutenants or two captains sharing quarters. A major had an entire apartment to himself.

Funding not enough, says NEA

Government's role in school reform given F by critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is marking five years of school reform with a White House ceremony, but critics say a new report from Education Secretary William J. Bennett ignores the federal role in improving schools.

The National Education Association was holding a protest across the street from the White House, in Lafayette Park, to draw attention to its claim that a paucity of federal money has undermined efforts to help schools.

Exactly five years ago the National Commission on Excellence in Education delivered a broadside called "A Nation At Risk," which decried "a rising tide of mediocrity" in U.S. schools.

That report made headlines and laid the groundwork for moves in virtually every state to raise graduation standards, boost teacher salaries and, in many instances, impose new accountability on educators.

Bennett's follow-up report, "American Education: Making It Work," was to be released as part of today's ceremony until it became public over the weekend. Several prominent educators said they agreed with Bennett's conclusion that there have been only modest improvements from reform efforts to date, if not with the entire report.

"I think it's an excellent report, a good summary of what progress has been made and also of what remains to be done," Bennett's predecessor, T.H. Bell, said in a telephone interview from Salt Lake City.

But Bell said he wished the report had given greater emphasis to "what the federal government should be doing," especially on the "horrendous problem" of 40 percent dropout rates for minority youths.

Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers, said, "If Secretary Bennett and the president really feel that the nation is still at risk, they ought to propose something that the federal government does to get us out of this mess other than just preaching at everyone else."

Mary Hatwood Futrell, the NEA president, said Bennett's report and the administration's education policies both deserve "a straight F." "There is a glaring omission in the report," she said. "There's absolutely no reference in the report to the role or the responsibility of the federal government to help us provide quality education for the children in America."

Bennett's report said: "American education has made some undeniable progress in the last few years. The precipitous downward slide of previous decades has been arrested, and we have begun the long climb back to reasonable standards."

"We are doing better than we were in 1983. But we are certainly not doing well enough. ... We are still at risk."

Scott D. Thomson, executive director of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, said:

"He doesn't recognize that we've made these gains at the same time we've admitted over 2 million non-English speaking immigrant students to the school population ... (and) in the face of growing numbers of poor families."

"He doesn't recognize the fact that we're fending off the drug pushers with one hand from the community and trying to teach them with the other."

Gordon Ambach, executive director of the Council of Chief State School Superintendents and former New York state superintendent, said Bennett's report was largely "a rehash of the secretary's positions." "By the absence of any statement at all about the federal role, what the secretary in effect is saying is there isn't any federal role in the whole business," he said. "I would completely disagree with him on that."

Thomas Shannon, executive director of the National School Boards Association, said he was "amazed at the absolute silence on the part of Secretary Bennett as to the federal role in education. ... It is as if he is a professional bystander on the scene. He assumes no responsibility for any of the conditions."

Rescuers still searching for sailors

Lame sub towed after explosion

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The submarine USS Bonfish, crippled by explosions and a fire that injured 22 crewmen and left three missing, was tethered to a rescue ship today off Florida as officials waited for toxic gases to clear before starting salvage efforts.

Relatives of the missing sailors, meanwhile, maintained vigils. "We still have a little ray of hope," said Joyce Lindgren, mother of Petty Officer 3rd Class Marshall T. Lindgren of Pisgah Forest, N.C. "When he enrolled in the Navy I gave him to the Lord and I have to have trust in him now."

The 30-year-old submarine, one of the Navy's last diesel-electric subs, was participating in training exercises Sunday in the Atlantic about 160 miles off the coast when it was rocked by a series of explosions.

At least one blast occurred in the battery compartment and fire broke out in the forward battery compartment, said Lt. Cmdr. Aaron Long, spokesman for the Atlantic Fleet headquarters in Norfolk.

The crew brought the sub to the surface and its captain, Cmdr. Mike Wilson, ordered it abandoned because of the dense smoke and toxic fumes.

Of the 92 crewmen, 89 were taken aboard the frigate USS Carr and aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy, which were involved in the exercises. The ships were unable to find the three crewmen, and officials were uncertain whether they were aboard the vessel or in the water.

The Bonfish was afloat today alongside the submarine rescue ship USS Petrel, from which the salvage will be mounted once experts determine whether it is safe to board the submarine, Long said.

The following article, "A Child's View of Retirement in a Mobile Home Park", was contributed by one of our readers. It came from a church bulletin and the author is unknown:

After a Christmas break, the teacher asked her small pupils how they spent the holidays. One small boy's reply went like this:

"We always spent Christmas with Grandpa and Grandma. They used to live here in a big, brick house, but Grandpa got retarded and they moved to Florida."

They live in a place with a lot of retarded people. They live in tin huts. They ride big three-wheel tricycles. They go into a big building they call a wrecked hall. But if it was wrecked it is fixed now. They play games there and do exercises, but they don't do them very well. There is a swimming pool and they go to it and just stand there in the water with their hats on—I guess they don't know how to swim.

My Grandma use to bake cookies and stuff, but I guess she forgot how. Nobody cooks there, they all go to fast food restaurants.

As you come into the Park there is a doll house with a man sitting in it. He watches all day so they can't get out without him seeing them. They wear badges with their names on them. I guess they don't know who they are. My Grandma said my Grandpa worked hard all his life and earned retardment. I wish they would move back home, but I guess the man in the doll house won't let them out...

jurisdictional unit which will aid in investigating, arresting, prosecuting and convicting narcotics offenders.

"If Dimmitt had a drug problem down there," said Stan Kropff, regional crime prevention coordinator with PRPC who is helping to man the task force, "the task force would divert its people down there and help solve that problem. Wherever there's a hot spot in the Panhandle, we'll go, and there's lots of hot spots, believe me."

With headquarters at the Amarillo Police Department, Brown said the task force will staff six investigators, one lead investigator and one attorney.

"These six will do all the main work, but if they need assistance, any law enforcement officer may step in to help. These six guys have already cleared some drug cases," said Brown.

The Panhandle received one of 39 grants issued by the state last year, and once the grant money is deleted, the county has the option to withdraw from the task force, said Kropff.

The commissioners also approved a resolution for the 9-1-1 Interim Regional Plan—the emergency phone number tied directly with the police, fire station and ambulance service which will offer lifesaving services to Hereford citizens and public safety agencies.

According to Fire Marshal Jay Spain, who along with Tom Ryer (manager at West Texas Rural Telephone) represents Hereford on the regional planning committee, the service does not have to be implemented until Sept. 1, 1995, when the entire state must have the system.

"This will be an enhanced system which means that when a person dials 9-1-1, he doesn't have to say anything because that person's name, address, phone number and directions to the house will flash up on the computer screen," said Spain.

One of the stumbling blocks is deciphering a way to name and number every county road in order to easily identify rural locations.

"One guy may call to say he has a fire at his house and he lives one mile north of Joe Blow, and he's so excited he hangs up. If we have those roads numbered there'll be no guessing to it. We'll know exactly where they live," said Spain.

The resolution states that an Advisory Commission on State Emergency Communications will establish a fee of not more than 50 cents per month per local exchange access line and a surcharge of not more than 1/2 percent on each customer receiving intrastate long distance service.

In other business, the commissioners accepted a bid from West Texas Equipment Company for two Caterpillar motor graders at $83,123 each to be used in Precincts 2 and 4.

The West Texas Equipment Company was the only bidder.

A buy-back agreement was included in the bid stating that the company will purchase the motor graders for $81,000 after five years or before 7,500 hours of use.

Hereford boxer turns pro in June

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

A 21-year-old Hereford boxer will make his professional boxing debut in late June in Fort Worth, competing in the junior bantamweight division.

Jaime Ruiz, who has 12 years of amateur boxing experience, felt he was becoming too old to continue in amateur boxing. The nickname given to him as he enters pro boxing is "The Slime."

"I'm getting a little too old, so I need to get into pro boxing. I'm still training on my own, but I do have a coach for the ring, Ed Hernandez of Lubbock," Ruiz said.

"Right now, I just want to get in and get a good record going, to get a Texas title or a USBA (United State Boxing Association) title.

"I want to get a good record, because if you win 10 in a row, you can get some title fights. There's not too many junior bantamweight boxers from the U.S. ranked in the top 10 in the world," he continues.

The junior bantamweight division is for boxers weighing 115 to 117 pounds. Ruiz's goal is to have a pro boxing match each month.

"I think I have a better chance in the pros than I do in amateur boxing. In the pros, they find you an opponent. In amateur boxing, you fight just whoever shows up," Ruiz explains.

A native of Hereford, Ruiz is the son of Juan and Martha Ruiz. His wife is Amelia.

Ruiz's amateur titles and honors were: West Texas Junior Olympics champion, 1982 and 1983; regional Golden Gloves Champion, Wichita Falls, 1984; American Boxing Federation regional champion, 1984 and 1988; ABF state bronze medalist, 1984 and 1988; and selected for the Olympic boxing western trials, 1984.

He will compete in the Olympic boxing western trials May 21 in Lubbock as a tuneup for his pro debut, but not to qualify for any regional competition. One other Hereford boxer, Gomer Garcia, a 165-pound amateur, will compete in the western trials.

Ruiz, in beginning his professional boxing career, will fight in four-round matches, mainly in Texas, and will sign contracts for each bout.

Hereford hosts Borger today

Whitefaces whip Harvesters, 16-4

Rodney McCracken and James Hernandez each hit two-run homers in the first inning to help the Hereford Whiteface varsity baseball team move out to a 5-0 lead en route to a 16-4 District 1-4A victory over Pampa on Saturday at Pampa.

The win gives Hereford, ranked third in the state, a 10-1 district record and a 17-1 season record with five district games remaining, including today's game at home against Borger, at 4:30 p.m.

The Whitefaces' victory, coupled with Canyon's 7-6 win over Lubbock

Dunbar, gave Hereford a three-game lead in the district standings. Dunbar is now 8-4 in the district, and Canyon is 7-4. Lubbock Estacado is fourth at 7-5, and Dumas is fifth at 6-5.

Hereford banged out 14 hits in its 16-4 win over Pampa. Michael Phibbs and Robby Collier each went three for four, Ross Torres was two for two, and James Hernandez and Keith Brown also had two hits each.

"We hit the ball real well. I felt real good about Rodney McCracken's pitching. He was overpowering. Jason Scott had hit usual excellent performance," Hereford Coach T.R. Sartor said.

Scott pitched four and two-thirds innings, allowing one hit, walking just two batters and striking out eight. All of Pampa's runs were unearned off Scott.

McCracken, a senior, saw hit first action on the mound since his sophomore season. In his one and one third innings of work, he struck out three batters, walked one, and allowed no hits.

Rodney McCracken hit his home run over the center field fence after Phibbs had singled. The lead was increased to 3-0 when Collier singled, stole second base and scored on Roger McCracken's RBI single.

Hernandez then homered over the left field fence to make the Whiteface lead 5-0.

No runs were scored in the next two innings before Hereford scored one run in the top of the fourth. Torres doubled and was driven home by Keith Brown who singled.

The Whitefaces upped their lead to 12-0 with six runs in the bottom of the fifth, beginning with Collier singling and Rodney McCracken being hit by a pitch. Hernandez hit an RBI single, and Derrell Page walked.

McCracken scored on a balk. Torres hit a two-run single, Russell Backus walked, Phibbs stroked an RBI double, and Backus scored on a wild pitch.

Pampa scored four runs in the bottom of the fifth without recording a hit. There were three walks, a hit batsman, and three HHS errors in the inning.

The game ended after six innings because of the ten-run rule, after Hereford scored four more runs and did not allow Pampa to score in the sixth.

Hereford loaded the bases on an error and two walks. Brown, Phibbs and Collier each drove in runs with singles, and Rodney McCracken hit a sacrifice fly.

Phibbs, Hernandez and Rodney McCracken all finished the game with three runs batted in, and Torres and Brown each had two RBIs.

After today's game, this is the rest of Hereford's district schedule: at Levelland Saturday at 1 p.m.; Freshship here on May 3 at 4:30 p.m.; at Canyon on May 7 at 1 p.m.; at Lubbock Estacado on May 10 at 4:30 p.m.

"There should be no embarrassment whatsoever about asking about prices for a funeral service."

"When you're my age, you usually have had to make funeral arrangements for someone who is near and dear to you. And I can tell you it's never an easy thing to do.

"You have so many decisions to make... the funeral services are involved in some of them. And most of the time you really aren't prepared to make those decisions, especially if it's an unexpected loss. In fact it's best to have a pre-need plan before you require these services."

The personnel at Rix can arrange the kind of service that you feel you can afford either at time of need or by having a Pre-need Plan before the inevitable happens.

Give Rix your ideas in this instance, ask for a price list and an explanation of services, then stay within the budget you set by selecting the services you want.

Pre-planning takes much of the pressure off you at the time when death does come to a member of your family. Let our professional counselors give you the experience that comes with years of service.

For more information on Pre-need funeral plans call us or fill in the coupon printed below and we'll be glad to answer any questions you may have.

Basketball academic honor

Hansen named all-state

Hereford High School senior Kevin Hansen was honored on the academic all-state class 4A boys' basketball team, announced this week by the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches.

Hansen, who was named to the all-district 1-4A second team for the 1987-88 season, has a 97.4 grade-point average.

"We're real happy and proud of Kevin. It's quite an honor to be selected academic all-state from all the players there are to choose from in the state," Hereford Whiteface head basketball Coach Mike Fields said.

Kevin's done an outstanding job on the basketball court, and he also does it in the classroom, which in the long run is going to be a lot more important for him.

"We'll really miss Kevin next season. But he'll surely go on to a lot bigger things in college because of his hard work and dedication in whatever he's involved in," Coach Fields adds.

The 6-2 senior guard led the Whitefaces in assists, steals, free throw percentage, and three-point goals. He averaged 5.7 assists and 4.8 steals, made 68 of 97 free throw attempts for 70 percent, and made 17 three-point goal attempts.

Hansen is also a member of the Hereford High School varsity boys' tennis team. The district champion in boys' singles, he is competing in the regional tournament this week in Brownwood.

Others named to the class 4A all-state boys' basketball team were: Marcus Grimes, Azle; Blake Sales, Los Fresnos; Steve Sassman, Schertz; Clemens, Bowen; Brawner, Granbury; Scott Moore, Levelland; Tony Kaman, Fredericksburg; Randy Wooridge, Everman; Ken Cunningham, Port Lavaca; Calhoun; and Johnny Lee Hargrove, Waller.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I read the letter from Frustrated Soldier my heart went out to that fellow, because I also have a son who used to throw terrible tantrums and I, too, felt helpless.

Last summer I hit on a simple and effective way to deal with the problem. I'd like to share it with your readers.

When the tantrum starts, fill the sink with cool (not cold) water and lead the child to the washroom. Place his or her hands in the water and wash down his face with a damp cloth. Say in a quiet voice, "Slow down. Take it easy."

In a matter of minutes the child will calm down and you will be able to reason with him. He may still be angry, but give him a hug and maybe a cookie. He will then snap right out of it.—P.G. in Alberta, Canada

DEAR ALBERTA: Thank you for suggesting a gentle solution. I received hundreds of letters from parents who suggested throwing a glass of cold water in the child's face. (Even some pediatricians offer this as a "sure cure.") The next letter is yet another approach that I like.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When our son was 3 he learned that he could get almost anything he wanted by throwing a tantrum in a public area.

"Johnny" would lie down, kick up a storm, bang his head on the floor,

Garden club discusses floral design

Members of the Bud to Blossom Garden Club met Thursday morning at Mildred Fuhrmann's home.

Patricia Robinson presented the conservation series on tips for the home gardener.

The Hereford Garden Club assisted Bud to Blossom Club with the April birthday party for Westgate Nursing Home residents. Members participating were Robinson and Ursalee Jacobsen.

The Texas Garden Clubs state convention will be held in Houston with Robinson attending and collecting club awards on May 5.

Members finalized plans to visit Casa de Sol, a solar home, in Crosbyton on May 12. The trip will include a tour of wildflowers and grasses around the ranch.

The program was a concentrated study on design presented by Fuhrmann and Wilma Bryan. The group was shown the many different types of containers that can be used for floral arrangements, using ordinary household items such as ash trays or serving dishes.

Members present were Phyllis Brown, Naomi Hare, Jane White, Robinson, Bryan, and Fuhrmann.

throw himself around like a trout in a net and scream his head off. Of course everyone in the place had to come over and see what was happening. It was terribly embarrassing, and I gave in so he would quiet down.

One day this happened in the toy department of a large store. A friend of mine happened to be there. After the performance she said to me, "Johnny certainly knows how to outsmart you. It's a shame. When he gets older he's going to manipulate you like a puppet on a string." I asked her for an alternative. She said, "Just walk away and act as if you don't know him. He'll stop when he sees that his plan isn't working."

I took her advice the very next time. That tantrum was in a supermarket.

To my surprise it worked. Johnny had only one tantrum after that. When he saw that he could no longer control me, he didn't try it again.—Raleigh, N.C., Mother

DEAR MOTHER: Thank you for giving us the benefit of your experience. Although a great many people wrote to say the shock of a glass (or pan or bucket) of water snapped the child out of the tantrum, I prefer the gentler approach.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wish you would quit telling your readers to get counseling whenever you can't come up with a solution to a problem. Our forebears, the pioneers who built America, faced problems that were 100 times tougher than the ones we face today. They solved them with self-reliance and plain old-fashioned work. Leaning on counselors instead of taking control of their lives keeps people weak and dependent. Wake up.—Miss. Jim

DEAR JIM: You're another one why yells, "Pull yourself up by your bootstraps!" to people who have no boots. Also, my friend, those pioneers faced totally different problems than we face today.

Counseling gives folks the chance to express themselves without fear of being judged. It helps them see the problem from another oint of view. And it gives them hope. I believe that sending people for outside help is the best thing I do. Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs and drug use, Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope," will give you the answers. Send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped No. 10 envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Woman's Health

SHOULD I WORK WHEN I'M PREGNANT?

By George W. Morley, M.D.
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

Each year a million women who work have babies and hold on to their jobs, too.

Federal law protects pregnant women from discrimination by employers, and many states also provide job protection for expectant mothers. Even the Armed Services and many police departments now authorize maternity-cut uniforms.

But the law isn't the whole story. You should think about your own physical and mental capacities as well. In general, if you are a healthy woman with an uncomplicated pregnancy, you can work up to the time of your delivery. But each working woman, with the advice of her doctor, should develop her own set of rules during pregnancy. They should reflect the following general considerations:

-You must maintain a strong blood supply to the fetus. But hard physical work in the second and third trimesters may decrease that blood supply; therefore, avoid such work later in pregnancy, especially if you are hypertensive or diabetic.

-During pregnancy, your spine and pelvic bone structure adjusts to carry the weight of the growing fetus. As a result, many routine motions—bending, twisting around, and leaning over—become tedious or nearly impossible. You should have a comfortable, stable chair for sitting and resting, some place to prop your feet up, if possible, and comfortable shoes to wear.

-You will be "eating for two," yet there'll be less space for your stomach and bladder. Snacking, regular lunch hours, frequent visits to the rest room, and a place to rest are important.

-If you work close to x-ray and other ionizing radiation equipment or near any potentially hazardous chemical, biological, or radiological substance, you should request an assignment elsewhere to protect both you and your fetus.

-If you commute to work, try to make your travel as comfortable as possible by sitting with feet up and allowing plenty of time to get to and from work without rushing.

-After childbirth, take time to heal and to get to know your new baby before rushing back to work. The tissues of your vagina and uterus need time to return to normal. Stitches from surgery also take time to heal. Nothing—and no one—can be rushed through this recovery stage.

Should you work while you're pregnant? Probably so. But, with a doctor's help, set out guidelines and follow them, for your own and your baby's welfare.

DIVING REFLEX

NEW YORK (AP) — Not everyone has it, but for those who do, it could be a life saver one day.

It's called the "mammalian diving reflex" and it's the reason why victims of icy plunges into chilly water can survive the effects of hypothermia.

According to Discover magazine, the diving reflex occurs in aquatic mammals, such as seals or beavers and humans. When submerged, the mammal automatically stops breathing and its heart rate decreases. In addition, the body channels blood mainly to the heart and brain. These defensive reactions allow the victim to stay submerged for long periods with no ill effects.

During World War II, U.S. and Soviet forces met April 25, 1945, at Torgau, Germany, on the Elbe River.

Forests cover about 43 of every 100 acres in California.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

AUSTIN - If you picked up your newspaper last week and scanned the economic news, you might find yourself a very confused person. Consider these four items that ran almost simultaneously: *Economists attending the Texas Real Estate Market Outlook seminar in Dallas say all indicators show the Texas economy will improve slowly, but steadily, during 1988.

*First RepublicBank, one of Texas' largest banks, announces on Tuesday that it will post a record $1.5 billion in losses for the first quarter of 1988.

*Oil futures prices, one indicator of the health of the oil market, climb steadily during the week and hover at the $18-per-barrel market. That's as high as prices have gotten since the 1986 collapse.

*Something called the Corporation for Enterprise Development, a Washington-based non-profit corporation, grades the Texas economy. Overall, we get a C. The corporation says Texas and 25 other states are in the "back of the pack" in terms of economic development, though we do get good marks for education and something called "capacity."

Are the signals from those stories mixed or aren't they? A cursory glance would indicate confusion, but careful study shows the reports aren't all that contradictory.

First, let's look at the economists who told the real estate seminar the economy is improving. They're respected in their field, but frankly, they aren't saying anything particularly new. One pointed out that Texas employment increased by more than 80,000 jobs from December 1986 to December 1987. That merely echoes earlier predictions by State Comptroller Bob Bullock, who has been predicting rising employment and a larger gross state product in 1988.

They were, however, quoted in one newspaper as saying most people haven't realized how much the economy has turned around because there still are so many stories about those economic downturn hurt.

Which brings us to First RepublicBank. When the bank announced last Tuesday that it would show a $1.5-billion loss in the first quarter of the year, it shocked the financial world. First RepublicBank's loss is the second-largest quarterly loss in U.S. banking history and comes on the heels of the $1 billion loss earlier this year to the banking company from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Without the loan, it might have been impossible for the bank to halt a run that already had drained the bank of $2 billion in deposits.

To what do First RepublicBank officials attribute their bad fortune? The Texas economy in general, of course, and our real estate markets in particular. One of the company's officials went so far as to characterize the Texas economic situation as in a period of steady decline.

In reality, the bank's situation has no bearing on future performance and provides no indication of steady decline. The bank's poor position reflects a decline in real estate values and other economic indicators since questionable loans were made two, three and four years ago. It says nothing about where the economy will be 12 months from now.

And finally, we turn to the report on rising oil prices and to the "report card" Texas received from the Washington group. Frankly, the oil report and the report card both are products of speculation and subjective guesswork.

Oil futures have increased largely because of as-yet unsuccessful efforts by oil-producing nations to curb world oil production. If production really is cut, oil prices will continue to rise and that will be good news — if not a cure-all — for the Texas economy. If production remains high, oil prices will fall a few dollars, just as they have when previous efforts at production curbs ended in failure.

The report card similarly is one group's analysis of the existing economic situation in the state. Group members see an economy that still is far below where it was five years ago. So, they give us low marks for the current economy. But, they contradict that low ranking by giving us an "A" for education policy and a "B" for "capacity," which refers to our overall ability to expand economically on short notice.

Well, a sound education program and our large "capacity" would seem to indicate a bright future for Texas. We can't help but wonder what kind of report card this Center for Enterprise Development would have given Texas in September 1973, the month before the oil boom that fueled our economy for a decade began?

If you have any questions about Texas' economic outlook or other issues, please write us at P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

FRENCH TECHNOLOGY

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite their fame for high fashion, expensive perfumes and wines, the French make more money in the United States through the sale of high technology products.

The Association for French Science, Industry and Technology says the top five French exports to the U.S. by volume are airplane engines, airplanes and helicopters, auto equipment, synthetic organic chemicals and steel plates and sheets.

France ranks eighth in imports to the U.S., it says.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Squinting in the bright California sun, the King and Queen of Sweden landed in Los Angeles for the last stop of their 17-day, 15-city American tour celebrating the 350th anniversary of Swedish immigration to America.

A beaming King Carl XVI Gustaf and Queen Silvia were welcomed Monday by dignitaries including Mayor Tom Bradley and California Secretary of State March Fong Eu, as the 55-member Swedish Army Band played the Swedish national anthem.

The couple have meetings planned with celebrities including Mickey Mouse. Their visit ends Wednesday.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — British producer David Putnam, bidding farewell to Hollywood after a stormy two years, has offered a sobering view of America.

"There is a disillusionment waiting through the heady winds of the American dream as more and more people come to feel that they've had the experience but somehow, somewhere, missed out on the meaning of it," Putnam said Saturday in a speech to the 34th annual Entertainment Law Symposium at the University of Southern California.

The movie-industry maverick rode into Hollywood on the reputation of his successful "Chariots of Fire," but his job as chairman of Columbia Pictures went up in smoke 14 months later.

During his tenure at Columbia, Putnam had fallouts with many stars, agents and such filmmakers as influential producer Ray Stark. Putnam argued that successful films can be made without highly paid actors and directors.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter joked that he probably was the subject of the first and last "Meet the Press" appearance from Nebraska.

Yeutter appeared on the NBC program Sunday via a satellite hookup from Lincoln to present the administration's opposition to the trade bill in Congress.

Midway through Yeutter's first answer, the satellite feed broke up and for the rest of the show the program's panelists could direct questions only to Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, the show's other guest and a key supporter of the legislation.

"It was frustrating, sitting there in that little studio in Lincoln, Nebraska, having to watch and listen to that biased explanation of the plant closing amendment," Yeutter said.

"That was probably the first time in history that they have ever done a 'Meet the Press' feed out of Nebraska and probably the last time in history they will do one," Yeutter joked Monday during an appearance before farm editors.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor James Garner is continuing his recovery from quintuple bypass heart surgery, eating his first solid food in a hospital room overflowing with cards and flowers, a spokesman said.

Garner's popularity with his fans, and now with the Cedars-Sinai staff, is unparalleled, said hospital spokesman Ron Wise, describing the bags of mail and gardens of flowers sent by well-wishers.

Asked if the spokesman for the beef industry's $30 million "Beef, Real Food for Real People" ad campaign was eating meat, Wise said, "I don't know what he's eating."

Garner, 60, earlier blamed his heart problem on 45 years of cigarette smoking.

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Deborah Harry, songwriter Irving Berlin, jazz musician Lionel Hampton, and transsexual tennis coach Renee Richards are among dozens of celebrities who owe back taxes to New York state, a newspaper says.

Miss Harry owes $241,354 for record royalties and Berlin owes $5,500, according to state records cited by the New York Post on Wednesday.

Richards, an ophthalmologist, owes nearly $33,000 and master vibraphonist Hampton's Lionel Hampton Enterprises owes $10,500 in withholding taxes, the paper said.

The records also showed the state was seeking almost $289,000 from the estate of jazz great Duke Ellington and more than $91,000 from the estate of singer Brook Benton, who died Saturday.

On Monday, movie reviewer Rex Reed pleaded guilty to evading more than $20,000 in state income taxes.

A secretary for Berlin denied that the 99-year-old songwriter owed taxes. Hampton's manager, Bill Titone, said the tax problem was cleared up in 1987. A secretary for Richards said the issue was being handled by Richards' lawyer, according to the Post.

Miss Harry's lawyer, Gary Kurfirst, said the singer was repaying her debt in installments and would owe no money by the end of the year.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — James Garner's condition is improving and the actor has been moved out of intensive care following last week's quintuple heart bypass surgery, hospital officials said.

"He is really doing quite well," Cedars-Sinai Medical Center spokeswoman Paula Correira said Sunday.

Garner, who won an Emmy for

"The Rockford Files" television series, underwent five hours of surgery Thursday.

Doctors had planned to perform surgery for an aneurysm on his aorta, the main artery carrying blood from the heart, but tests determined he needed the bypass. Surgery for the aneurysm will be scheduled later, hospital officials said.

Garner, 60, blamed his heart problems on cigarettes.

"He said he regretted having smoked for 45 years," said hospital spokesman Ron Wise.

SHANGHAI, China (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says religion could aid China's communist government in its modernization drive.

"Even secular leaders are asking the question, 'Where are we to find the moral renewal we need to be successful in China's modernization program?' Could they turn to us?" Graham asked about 100 Shanghai pastors and church leaders Sunday.

The 69-year-old Southern Baptist minister preached through an interpreter to nearly 5,000 Christians who packed three churches in this sprawling port city. The sermons are part of Graham's first-ever China tour.

Ask Dr. Lamb

Stomach Solutions BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Recently I had upper GI X-rays and I have both a hiatal hernia and esophageal reflux. My efforts to contact my doctor have only resulted in his nurse telling me it is something I have to live with. Like the old cure for the cold — a drink of whiskey doesn't cure, but makes having it more pleasant — I am seeking information to make having hiatal hernia more pleasant. Will a diet help? If so, what should I eat? Any information you think is pertinent will be appreciated.

DEAR READER: Perhaps your doctor is expecting you to make an appointment for a return visit. If not, and if you have symptoms, I would suggest you see another doctor or a specialist in gastroenterology.

A hiatal hernia is quite common. So is esophageal reflux, which causes heartburn. The symptoms are most likely caused by the reflux of acid-digestive juices into the lower esophagus. One aspect of treatment is to prevent the formation of acid-digestive juices.

There is a lot you can do to live well with this complaint. You need to consider that the reflux is caused by the top of the stomach — where it joins the esophagus — being open.

That allows the reflux to occur. Normally, the sphincter that guards this opening should be closed.

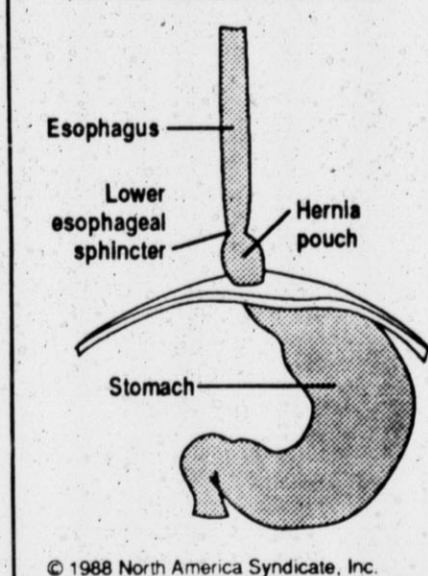

One thing you can do to avoid symptoms at night is to sleep with the head of the bed elevated. It is more difficult for the stomach contents to reflux uphill. Never wear anything tight around your waist, as the compression will force the stomach through the diaphragm — causing your hiatal hernia — and may add to symptoms. Avoid bending over, head down. That favors reflux. If you smoke, quit.

Alcohol, even hours before going to bed, will increase the problem of reflux and relax that sphincter at the top of the stomach. Wait at least two hours after eating before lying down.

Ask Dr. Lamb

HIATAL HERNIA

Eat your last meal of the day early and make it small. Also, avoid fats at this meal, as fats delay the emptying of the stomach. A full stomach favors reflux.

I have discussed these points and the diet in some detail in my new Special Report, Heartburn, Esophageal Spasm, Hiatal Hernia. I am sending you a free copy. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to THE HEALTH LETTER, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: With organ transplants so vital today and largely successful, why are there no donor scalp transplants or grafts? I'm sure that certain individuals, for professional reasons and others for sheer vanity, would be glad to pay huge amounts — get scalped — for someone's scalp, luxuriantly endowed with the real thing, guaranteed not to embarrass one in the swimming pool or in bed.

DEAR READER: If it were possible, it might be done. While organ transplants have been very successful, transplanting skin has not. That is why individuals have had to use their own skin for skin grafts. If you could transplant skin successfully from another person, that would be most useful for many burn victims and others.

You can't transplant scalp with hair on it unless you can successfully transplant skin. Perhaps one day that will be possible. For now, the hair transplants must come from the sides of the head, where the hair is thickest. The individual must be both the donor and the recipient. Scalp flaps from a person's own scalp have also been used.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

The Hill and Northcutt team

Toby Hill and Chris Northcutt, both members of the Hereford High School rodeo club, had a successful team roping effort here Saturday in the HHS rodeo. They did not place in last weekend's Tri-State High School Rodeo Association rodeo in Hereford, but they have placed in other rodeos this season. The rest of the spring

There were no officials in college football when it started in 1869. The rival captains controlled the game.

The NCAA instituted the rule of kicking off from the 35-yard line in 1986.

A 1911 college football rule made it illegal to conceal the ball beneath a player's uniform.

SWC disappointed in draft

By The Associated Press
The 1988 NFL draft will go down in history as one of the worst for the Southwest Conference.

No SWC player was selected in the first round for the first time in 13 years, and a total of 13 league players were selected — the same number as was drafted from the University of Oklahoma.

The only other years in which no SWC player was taken in the first round was 1971 and 1974.

In Sunday's five rounds, the league contributed three players to the draft — Texas Christian running back Tony Jeffery in the second round, Texas A&M running back Keith Woodside in the third round, and Texas Tech defensive back Eric Everett in the fifth round.

In Monday's six rounds of picks, 10 more SWC players were added to the NFL ranks. They include: Texas offensive guard Paul Jetton; Texas Tech defensive back Lemuel Stinson; Texas defensive back John Hagy; Texas A&M offensive tailback Louis Cheek; and Texas A&M defensive back Kip Corrington.

Others included TCU linebacker David Spradlin; TCU defensive back John Booty; Texas Tech nose tackle Artis Jackson; Baylor offensive guard Joel Porter; and Texas A&M defensive back Terrance Brooks.

The Phoenix Cardinals drafted Jeffery, the Green Bay Packers grabbed Woodside, and the Philadelphia Eagles selected Everett.

Jeffery led the SWC in rushing with 1,353 yards in 1987 despite being suspended for his final game because he signed with an agent.

The Cincinnati Bengals picked up Jetton; the Chicago Bears chose Stinson and Porter; the Buffalo Bills took Hagy; the Miami Dolphins took Cheek and Jackson; the Detroit Tigers drafted Corrington; the Houston Oilers chose Spradlin; the New York Jets took Booty and the San Francisco 49ers picked Brooks. Three Texans who went outside the state to play their college ball were selected in the first round.

Three other Texas collegians were chosen through the first 11 rounds.

Linebacker Pierce Holt of Angelo State, highly rated but at 26 several years older than most of the others in the draft, was taken by the San Francisco 49ers.

Sam Houston State defensive back Carl Mims was taken in the fifth round, by the Washington Redskins.

West Texas State offensive tailback Newt Harrell was picked up in the 10th round by the Los Angeles Raiders.
