City adopts new budget

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

Hereford city taxpayers should remain smiling—the city won't be raising what has become a perennial tax rate of 42 cents per $100 valuation, according to the 1988-89 budget approved Monday night by Hereford city commissioners.

Besides the lack of a hike in the rate, the average citizen may reap a three percent credit on his city taxes if he meets an Oct. 31 deadline, said Hereford City Manager Darwin McGill.

"This discount has been offered in years past and it's very successful in getting taxes in on time," said McGill.

And if one forgets to pay the taxes by Oct. 31, he'll still be eligible for a two percent tax cut for payment before Nov. 30, and a one percent tax slash if the taxes are in by Dec. 31.

These tax credits, McGill added, are not applicable to taxes paid after Jan. 1, 1989, or for delinquent taxes.

"We've just had to be pretty conservative in preparing the budget," said McGill, citing his reason for the unflinching city tax rate. "We've had to cut out some equipment requests and delete a position in the Parks Department, but we did whatever it took to keep the tax rate down."

McGill said the budget for the next fiscal year, which will begin May 1, will ring in at $4,326,345—a 3 1/2 percent less than last year's budget if you exclude the $259,000 we had to carry over from last year's budget."

The carryover, McGill explained, was the amount allotted last year for one water well, four police cars, one garbage truck and one dump truck which the city will have to pay for out of this fiscal year's budget.

One change in this year's budget included an extra $45,000 for 76 city employees' salaries.

"We felt the employees needed the raise to bring our peoples' salaries in line with other city employees' salaries in the area," said Mayor Wes Fisher.

Not only were the city employees' salaries brought into line, but the commission voted to alter the city's retirement plan to a 50 percent vesting plan following five years of service with an increase of 10 percent each year. This will then equal 100 percent in 10 years.

"We're going to lose a little bit of money on this new plan, but the only way we would lose it is if the city employee who has completed the vesting plan leaves before retirement," said McGill.

Under the city's current retirement plan, the employee is vested 50 percent after 10 years of service with vesting increasing 10 percent each year following that 10 years. The employee would receive 100 percent after 15 years of service.

"In other words, someone who comes to work for the city at the age of 55 can retire at 65 now, whereas in the past he had to start work at 50 years of age to get his benefits at 65," explained city attorney Earnest Langley.

The commission also voted to reduce the time an employee must work to receive the retirement plan from two years to one year.

In conjunction with the city, school and hospital elections on May 8, Commissioner Silvana Juarez suggested that April 1 through April 7 be considered Voter Registration Week for the local elections.

"This is officially called the Hereford Voter Registration Education Drive and it started March 19," said Juarez, who is part of the steering committee. "It's just a drive to get people registered to vote for the local elections, and we need as many volunteers as we can get."

Those at the meeting representing the drive included Crisella Garza (coordinator), Mary Dennette (co-chairman) and Beatrice Chacon (treasurer).

Fisher will sign a proclamation designating Voter Registration Week.

The city commission also:
—Approved a 79.5 acre plat on North U.S. Highway 385, east of the John Deere Implement Company, which Melvin Weber plans to use for a residential area.

—Voted to submit proposals for two-year bank depository bids.

Carmen Reyes of Alamo said her father worked as a ranch hand for $85 a month and he couldn't demand more for fear of losing his job.

David Hall, executive director of Texas Rural and Legal Aid in Weslaco, said the H2A program can be easily exploited by employers and cause workers to suffer from many labor law violations, including having to work for less than minimum wage.

"There is not a labor shortage in farmworkers," Hall said. "The shortage exists, if any, because of the mal-administrative enforcement of this program and the failure to assure that good faith efforts are made to locate Valley farmworkers."

"With an almost 25 percent unemployment rate in the Valley it makes no sense to hire foreign workers to come into Virginia, Montana and Idaho for jobs," said Hall.

"The workers of the Lower Rio Grande Valley and all along the border get most of their employment from a summer season of harvest work somewhere in this country," Hall added.

"Every time the H2 program gets certified and workers come in from Mexico or Jamaica, or Haiti, it means one less job here and one more person who has to count on public assistance. It's a travesty," he said.

A national official of the United Farm Workers Union criticized the U.S. Department of Labor for informing employers on how to process applications for foreign workers.

"They're supposed to be finding local employees, but instead the U.S. Department of Labor is going around the country telling employers how to get H2A workers," Dolores Huerta, national vice president for the union, said.

DSEC hears news, Combest

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

A crowd of over 1,300 Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative customers heard U.S. Rep. Larry Combest explain why U.S. troops were being stationed in Honduras and how the federal government is trying to put the squeeze on other cooperatives, and Americans in general, at the DSEC's 50th annual meeting Saturday at the Bull Barn in Hereford.

The co-op distributed over $440,000 in capital credit checks to customers in 1973-74 at the meeting, which also featured a high voltage arcing demonstration and a report on DSEC's 1987 performance.

DSEC Board Chairman Eldred Brown told the crowd that electric rates should decrease "about five percent this year" since DSEC began purchasing its electricity under a wholesale agreement with Golden Spread Electric Cooperative.

DSEC's income continued to drop in 1987, due to a number of reasons.

"Our reduced revenues goes back to 1984," Brown explained. "We have had abundant rainfall. The farm programs means less farming and irrigating is being done, so we don't need as much electricity. We have had increases in our residential and commercial accounts, but our income from irrigation use declined over $2 million."

In 1987, total income was down to $13.84 million from $19.62 million in 1986. $3 million of the decrease was because of the $3 million discount received by DSEC for paying off its Rural Electric Administration loans early.

Discounting the $3 million "extra" received in 1986, the co-op's total income was still off $2.77 million—almost all attributable to lack of demand for irrigation energy.

DSEC made one cent for every $1 in electricity bills—or a margin of $103,583, that was the fourth-lowest margin since 1950. "Sales were off, and so were our margins," said General Manager James Hull. "A lot of that is attributable to irrigation sales."

"Some people question why we were able to distribute $400,000 in capital credits when our margins were so low last year. We couldn't give $400,000 indefinitely, but we did receive that $3 million discount in 1986, so $400,000 is a very small amount."

Hull said the co-op could see rates even lower in 1988 because of two cases pending before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC).

"However, these cases have been pending since 1984 and 1985, so it's impossible to say how much the discount will be," Hull said. "FERC has total and complete dominance over the area they control, and they will settle this when they please."

Hull said he had recently written to the chairman of FERC and "expressed some frustrations."

There are 16 co-ops influenced by their decision on these two cases alone," Hull said. "This co-op alone services four counties, 3,600 miles of line, and 10,000 meters. I pleaded with him to consider our case, and told him this was not done lightly. I hope it will do some good."

Combest told the packed Bull Barn that "Congress seems to be doing more and more things to you. We have a process that needs fixing." Combest detailed how 13 separate bills must be considered to provide funding for various government agencies, and how they were finally placed together in an Omnibus Spending Bill after 11 unsuccessful attempts to pass bills in the Senate.

The final bill was 2,000 pages long and we had an hour to review it before we voted on it," Combest said. The Lubbock representative said, "If I don't know what it is, I vote against it. That's what I did on this bill."

Now, there are a lot of horror stories coming from this bill, like (See DSEC, Page 2)

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — There is no need to allow employers to hire workers from outside the United States to do seasonal farm work because there is no shortage of migrant farmworkers, witnesses have told a Texas House subcommittee.

Migrant workers crowded into a hearing room Monday to tell the Subcommittee on Labor and Employment Practices that Texas migrant workers are willing and able to travel to other states to do the harvesting of farm crops.

Testimony concerned revisions in a federal program which over the past decade has allowed employers to hire temporary workers from foreign countries for seasonal farm work.

Simplifications in the program (formerly called the H2 and now known as the H2A program) under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 will cause many employers to consider hiring illegal aliens before even looking for workers in the United States, witnesses said.

State Rep. Lloyd Criss, subcommittee chairman, said one purpose of the hearing was to show the federal government that there are farm workers in Texas who are willing to travel to other states.

"There's plenty of workers here and in the United States," said Criss. "There's no sense in not giving them the opportunity to work. They don't need to open it up and bring workers in from Mexico."

Criss said he would like to see a referral system set up through the Texas Employment Commission that would give American workers' applications first consideration.

A Lower Rio Grande Valley migrant worker told the subcommittee that employers like to hire illegal aliens because "they are easily intimidated and don't cause trouble."

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

Last Wednesday afternoon, there was freezing rain falling out of the sky and the temperature had plummeted to near 30 degrees.

An acquaintance of mine was fretting about having to cancel a long-weekend trip to Ruidoso.

"Don't worry," I assured him. "We'll be sliding around the streets and you'll be playing golf."

Sure enough—we're out here in the plains scraping ice off our windshields, while he's out playing nine holes in the Rocky Mountains, four hours away.

Can you imagine how droll our lives would be if it weren't for our exciting weather?

There are friends around from places like Columbus, Ohio, and Buffalo, N.Y., that have suffered through winters for all of their lives who haven't had the privilege of suffering through a real Texas winter.

What have we had—four snows? Chances are, they'll have the opportunity to experience a tornado watch and winter storm warning during the same afternoon. I know it happened during the last weekend of April in 1973, and I'm pretty certain that wasn't the only time.

I wouldn't give for the weather around here. Where else can you experience the joys of Anchorage weather and Phoenix weather in the space of a few days—or even hours?

It's really a challenge to live anywhere in the U.S. west of Interstate 35. When's the last time they had something in Pennsylvania like the night in 1971 when we had 24 tornadoes spotted in a line from Lubbock through Oklahoma? When's the last time Maine went four months with less than an inch of precipitation, like we're going through right now?

Sure, the weather's bad around here. The wind blows too much; it gets cold and snowy and icy; and you should be here the day we get our 16 inches of rain every year.

Tornadoes are damnable things. Sure, they have hurricanes on the coast that do more damage to more area, but they get days of warnings. Often, the only thing you can do with a tornado is pray.

I've seen hail beat a town to death twice. I've seen hay dropped out of helicopters for cattle stranded by a blizzard. I've seen all-of-a-sudden lakes formed after a deluge.

The debate is on about whether all this weather we "enjoy" makes us any harder, but it sure makes us enjoy a day like today.

Now, if I can just knock all the dust off my golf clubs after that dust storm Friday...

the diesel tax and the heifer tax. The congressmen that voted for that bill are going to have to answer to what they did in the future.

The diesel tax bill will force everyone, including farmers, off-road users and others who had been exempt, to pay the tax and later request a refund.

"That's like driving on the highway and the Highway Patrol stops everyone on the outskirts of town and gives them a ticket and makes them pay for it," Combest said. "Then we have to convince the judge we don't owe the money."

Combest said he has introduced legislation to change the diesel tax, but doesn't know if it can be put into effect before the April 1 start-up of collections. "We're down to 11 days, but I hope we can do something."

Combest said an effort was made to stop allowing electric cooperatives to receive discounts for paying off their REA debts early, like DSEC did. "It was a smoke and mirrors thing they tried to include. It would have added additional dollars to the treasury," Combest said.

Combest also explained that U.S. troops were sent to Honduras last week to allow the Honduran army to go to the front where Sandanista troops from Nicaragua had crossed into Honduras.

"The U.S. Army was sent there to occupy the Honduran bases while the Honduran troops went to protect their border," Combest explained.

Combest also made a pitch for

ELDRÉD BROWN

funding efforts to stop the spread of Communism in Central America.

"There are 18 terrorist groups operating out of Nicaragua," Combest claimed. "They are moving into Honduras, Guatemala, Costa Rica and Mexico. We need to stop the spread of terrorism and Communism in Central America."

"Peace is not the answer in Central America. We need to choose between peace and freedom. If we have a choice, we want freedom."

Co-op members re-elected board members Donald Wright, Clark Andrews and Clarence Martin, and viewed a high voltage arcing demonstration that showed the need for safety when working around the house and in the field.

Farmers freed of fuel tax

By JIM LUTHER
AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted Monday to grant farmers and some other taxpayers relief from the 15.1-cent-a-gallon tax on diesel fuel used for logging, farming, oil drilling, mining, fishing and other off-the-road business purposes.

But since budget constraints require that every dollar of tax relief be offset by a dollar of tax increase on somebody else, the committee's bill would double the tax on fuel-guzzling cars — mostly expensive imports like Mercedes-Benz, whose miles-per-gallon don't meet federal standards.

Other sources of revenue for the diesel relief and a new "taxpayer bill of rights" include a few distilleries that dodge some of the $12.50-a-gallon tax on liquor by watering down products with a grape-based alcohol, and any number of people whose tax refunds could be grabbed to pay an overdue government loan.

After all that, farmers may have to wait six months for their tax relief. There is some doubt Congress can complete action on legislation before April 1, when off-the-road diesel users are to begin paying the tax. They would have to wait for a refund until they file their income-tax returns next year.

"I just don't want to go back home and explain to my farmers why we've set up this ridiculous bureaucratic nightmare," moaned Sen. David Boren, D-Okla.

Farmers and other off-road diesel users were caught up in Congress' efforts last year to reduce cheating on the fuel tax. The solution was to change the point of tax collection to the producer or wholesaler, and to require that those legally entitled to an exemption pay the tax and then apply for a refund when they file their income-tax returns the following year.

The typical farmer would thus allow the government interest-free use of $320 of his money, some of it for up to a year.

The panel's bill does nothing for another big group with a complaint: about 82,000 state, county and city government units that, starting Jan. 1, are now having to pay the 9.1-cent gasoline tax and apply for a refund later.

The Finance Committee package, still subject to action by the Senate and House, would:

—Allow diesel bought for off-road business use from wholesalers to escape the tax altogether. Tax-exempt buyers from retailers would have to pay the tax and get a refund next year. This would cost the government $543 million through 1993.

—Create a "taxpayer bill of rights," clamping down on perceived abuses by the Internal Revenue Service. This would lose $517 million over five years.

—Extend through June 30, 1989, the expiring authority for the IRS to withhold tax refunds from people who owe student loans, farm loans and other federal debts. This would raise about $400 million.

—Double the tax on new cars whose fuel efficiency does not meet federal standards, raising $375 million through 1993. In the current model year, the tax hits only expensive foreign cars, such as the $38,000 Volvo 780, which gets 21.2 miles per gallon, and the $61,130 Mercedes 560SL. Their guzzler taxes would rise to $1,300 and $3,600, respectively.

—Limit use of a "wine flavors credit" under which some manufacturers of distilled spirits avoid a significant share of the $12.50-a-gallon liquor tax by mixing some products with a grape-based alcohol.

Baby formula bidding process serves more Texas mothers and infants

AUSTIN (AP) — A competitive bidding process for buying infant formula in a nutrition program has worked so well that the state will be able to serve 95,000 more needy women and infants, says the Texas health commissioner.

But a company that lost out in the bidding process says it could have saved the state even more.

Savings from the winning bid by Mead-Johnson will bring the number enrolled in the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children — WIC — to 335,000, or about 23 percent of those eligible, Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein told a news conference Monday.

"It is earth-shattering," Bernstein said. The bid will give the state a 99-cent rebate on each can of infant formula purchased through the WIC program, for a total of $85.67 million.

But Ross Laboratories — which along with Wyeth Laboratories lost in the competition to provide formula for WIC — said its bid would have allowed more Texans to be served.

This is the first time competitive bidding has been used to buy formula for the Texas program. Health officials initially had estimated that the competitive bidding process would save enough money to serve an additional 42,000 people.

The Mead-Johnson contract offers a substantial savings to Texas compared with other states that use competitive bidding for infant formula, Bernstein said. Oregon gets a rebate of 60 cents a can, while the rate in Tennessee is 56 cents.

In the primarily federally funded program, mothers purchase infant formula with WIC vouchers from grocery stores, which are reimbursed by the state. Mead-Johnson's 29-month contract will make it the sole supplier of infant formula for the program, except when infants require another formula for health reasons.

The savings from Mead-Johnson's bid will allow the state to expand the WIC program to 39 counties, mostly in the Panhandle, that do not now have access to its nutrition counseling and food supplements, Bernstein said. He also said the program would be expanded to serve more people in urban areas.

Mignon McGarry, representing Ross, said her company's bid would have saved the state $93.74 million and allowed it to add 108,700 people to the WIC program. The bid, which was for 10 percent above other bids, would not have restricted the state to a sole supplier of infant formula.

Wyeth offered a rebate of 71.5 cents per can.

Bernstein said the department could not accept Ross's bid because it did not meet requirements set by the Board of Health, including that the bid be for a sole supplier.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Ridiculous, that's what I call in a nice way the actions of the four doctors who have suddenly changed their mind about Gerry Hollinger.

I take it that they are saying that they will lend their support as long as nobody knows about it. They knew that the letter would be presented in a public meeting, that makes the letter a matter of public record. Could it be that these fence straddlers are just trying to change their colors in the middle of the ball game?

Doctors, maybe we need to ask what else you have changed your minds on after the fact.

Jo Lynne Mitchell

Dear editor:

I just want to say a special thank you to Wes Fisher, Mayor of Hereford, for his thoughtful comments in the area newspapers recently regarding the closedown of the repository program in Texas.

This has been a very difficult time for many of the project families. We have met so many wonderful, kind, and caring people since moving to this area. The majority of the people in the Hereford, Canyon, and Amarillo communities have made us feel very welcome. John and I will miss all of the friends we have made here, and we will always carry beautiful memories of our year in the Panhandle.

Our heartfelt thanks goes out to each one of you that have made our year a memorable one.

Sincerely,
Lynne Treadwell

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago our family dentist said our 19-year-old daughter would probably need to wisdom teeth extracted. He recommended a specialist.

That dentist's receptionist said that he had just had a cancellation and would be able to remove "Betty's" teeth that morning. I drove her to his office and said I'd be back in about an hour to take her home.

Soon after, Betty phoned me at home to say the dentist had taken four X-rays and all four wisdom teeth should be extracted. His fee would be $1,000 and we had to pay now.

I was appalled and asked to speak to the dentist. He put his receptionist on. I told her we didn't have that much money on hand on such short notice, but that we do have an excellent insurance policy and offered to pay $500 and $500 in 30 days. The dentist's reply: "Sorry, no."

I went to the office and spoke to the dentist personally. He offered to pull two teeth now and the other two in 30 days when we had the rest of the money. I said, "No thanks" and prepared to leave. His final words were, "You can expect a bill for my services."

Within a week we received a bill for $65-$25 for X-rays and $40 for "consultation." We paid the $25 for the X-rays but refused to pay the $40. We are now being harassed by the collection agency.

I would appreciate any suggestions you might have.—R.N. in Morristown, N.J.

DEAR R.N.: My dental consultants agree that the dentist is a jackass. (My word, not theirs) His lack of compassion is appalling. He should be in another line of work.

They did say, however, that you should pay the entire bill. The dentist did spend time with the patient and is entitled to be paid for this service. P.S.: Be sure to get the X-rays. They belong to you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 25 years old and in love with a wonderful man. The problem is that he is married. His wife is very demanding and treats him awful. She refused to do the things a wife should do for her man, but she won't let him out of the marriage. They have been together 20 years. He tells me their marriage is only on paper.

We have been sneaking around for nearly three years now. We can't go anywhere for fear of being seen. We don't want to hurt his wife.

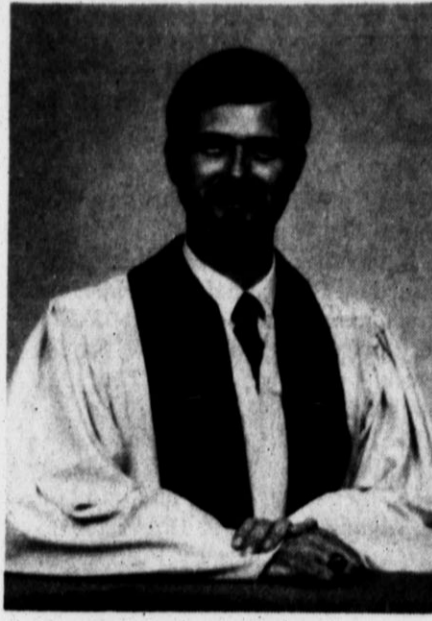

I am getting tired of having him come in the back door and jumping a foot whenever the telephone or doorbell rings. Also, Ann, I would like to go to a movie or out for a bite to eat once in a while.

I am attractive and fun to be with, but I'm not interested in anyone else. Please advise him to leave his wife so we can have a life together. We are perfect for each other.—Sandra in the South

DEAR SANDRA: He didn't write to me, you did. My advice is for you. Get out of this relationship at once.

The man is using you. If he were serious about marriage, he would have moved out and seen a lawyer by this time.

Rev. Steve McElroy, pastor of First United Methodist Church since 1966, has been awarded an Honorary Doctor of Divinity Degree from McMurry College, Abilene, it was announced to the First UMC congregation Sunday by Shirley Garrison, a longtime member of the McMurry Board of Trustees.

He is one of three ministers selected from over the Northwest Texas and New Mexico Conferences of the church to receive the degree this year.

The young minister has served three pastorates before being assigned to Hereford: At Slaton, five years; Crowell, five years; and as associate pastor at Aldersgate Church in Abilene. Also, he was student pastor at Avoca UMC while a student at McMurry. He received a bachelors degree there and completed studies at Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky. His high school graduation was from Cooper H.S., Abilene.

He married Toni Hudson in 1971 and they have two children, Carrie and Andrew.

Rev. McElroy has been chairman of the candidacy committee on the Board of Ordained Ministry in the NW Texas Conference, also on the

He began his ministry early, teaching a Sunday School class of teenagers at Abilene State School during college years. He served a summer internship at First UMC in Marfa, and was a chaplain at the University of Kentucky Medical Center in 1975.

FOOD FOR TRAVELERS

NEW YORK (AP) — Because it is refreshing, portable and nutritious, yogurt has nourished travelers during long journeys throughout history.

According to legend, yogurt was discovered in the 12th century when angry townspeople in Turkey filled the gourd of a horseback messenger riding to Genghis Khan, the Mogul emperor, with milk instead of water.

Rather than spoiling, says Dannon Yogurt, the heat of the desert and the galloping motion of the horse worked together to activate the milk and turn it into yogurt.

Dress shop site of study club meeting

Veleda Study Club met March 14 at Ruthies Dress shop in Friona which is owned by former club member De'Aun Sisson. Serving as hostess was Marjorie Lassiter.

Sisson gave a brief program on the latest in summer and fall fashions. She spoke of decorative scarves and hemlines, noting that fashions would come in all different lengths this season. She also stressed that the mini-skirt lengths had not proved to be the total "in fashions" the designers had hoped it would be.

Following the program, members enjoyed browsing in the shop and trying on various garments for both casual and formal wear.

Also, on the agenda for the evening was a program planned by the hostess where each member constructed on her Easter bonnet out of unusual items provided by Lassiter.

Prizes for the "prettiest" and the "funkiest" hats were awarded to Norma Walden and Ruth Fish.

The next meeting will be in the home of Joyce Ritter.

Lyles gives demonstration on stained glass to club

Bill Lyles gave a program and demonstration in the art of stained glass when members of Garden Beautiful Club met recently in his home.

Members also toured the Lyles' home before the business meeting was called to order by President Marguerite Newell. The club voted to have a salad luncheon in the home of Mary Herring as their closing meeting in May.

Also, a nominating committee was appointed by the president. They included Inez Witherspoon, Dorothy Noland, Louise Axe and Margaret Young.

Refreshments were served by hostesses, Jean Dowell and Marguerite Newell, to Ina Mae Gilbreath, Young, Dottie Darden, Noland, Louella Cowser, Bessie Story and Bobbie Metcalf.

Mulching, flowers discussed by Hereford Garden Club

Hereford Garden Club met in the home of Carmen Angel, 302 Park Ave., March 11.

The meeting opened with salutes to the flags led by Bessie Hill. President Ursalee Jacobsen conducted the business meeting. A time of silence was observed and prayer was held in memory of club treasurer Corene Smith. Jacobsen was appointed to finish her term.

The club voted to donate $10 to Friends of the Library. Final details for the district convention were discussed and sample bags were filled.

Several topics were discussed including mulching, gladiolas, and dahlias. Jerri Jackson spoke on mulching, noting that it has a year round benefit, is a must for soil erosion problems, lowers temperature, and increases garden yield.

Mary Stoy discussed gladiolas. She said that April is the time to prepare the ground, then plant them two weeks from the middle of May through end of June for summertime bloom. It is wise to buy medium bulbs unless show flowers are desired. Spray when 6-10 inches tall as spikes appear; planting rye in the fall and turning it under is also suggested.

Dahlias, according to Lois Ethridge, need sunshine, and good drainage. Plant where there is no danger of killing frost and stake them. Roots come close to the surface in September so do not cultivate after this date. They should be fertilized three times.

Members present include Angel, Ethridge, Jackson, Hill, Jacobsen, Stoy, Mozelle Childers, and Meredith Wilcox.

Our Best Friends Are Cutting Us To Pieces.

Our best friends don't always give us the best treatment. Typically, they invite us into their homes, read us like a book, take what they need from us, and put us aside to use again at their convenience.

It's a tough existence, but we don't mind. In fact, we like it. The news, editorials, and advertising coupons clipped from our pages provide our readers with knowledge, enlightenment, even an occasional 30¢ off on breakfast cereal. We're kind of flattered that people enjoy hanging onto bits and pieces of us - sometimes for years. That's something no other local advertising medium can offer.

So, although our friends keep cutting us to pieces, we'll keep showing up at their homes. Our only request: sharp scissors and a steady hand.

Hereford is 1-4A leader with 3-0 record

Whiteface varsity whips Pampa, 10-0

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whiteface varsity baseball team did not just hope things would go their way against Pampa Saturday, but the Herd made things go their way in a 10-0 win over the Harvesters at the HHS field.

Hereford played an error-free game on defense, and did just about everything right as far as hitting, running and pitching is concerned. "We played all the parts of the game. We put it all together - pitching, hitting, running. We did it all," Hereford Coach T.R. Sartor said.

The victory upped the Whitefaces' District 1-4A record to 3-0 and their season record to 10-0. Hereford, which has an open date today, plays at home against Levelland on Saturday at 1 p.m. and plays at Borger on March 29 at 4 p.m.

In the other half of a doubleheader Saturday, Pampa defeated Hereford in a junior varsity game, 21-13. The Hereford junior varsity, 1-3 for the season, plays at home Thursday against Canyon at 4:30 p.m.

The Hereford varsity offense backed up the two-hit pitching of Jason Scott, by getting seven hits and taking advantage of three Harvester errors and nine walks by Pampa pitchers.

Scott struck out eight batters and walked only two. Both of the Pampa hits were singles - one in the second inning and the other in the third inning.

Scott's battery mate, catcher Robby Collier, threw out two Pampa runners attempting to steal second. Both of those outs were No. 3 outs - in the third and fourth innings.

The McCracken Brothers RBI Factory produced the first four runs of the game for the Whitefaces, three in the first inning. Keith Brown reached third base on an error to open the game, and Rodney McCracken drove him home with a double.

Rodney went to third base on a wild pitch, and Robby Collier walked and stole second base. Derrell Page walked to load the bases, setting up a two-run single by Roger McCracken, who stroked the ball into center field.

Rodney responded with another RBI double in the second inning. Ross Torres walked to begin the inning, stole second base and went to third on a throwing error by the Pampa catcher.

Phibbs singled and stole second base. Rodney hit his double to drive home Torres for a 4-0 lead. Collier walked to load the bases, and Page also walked to drive in a run.

James Hernandez made the margin 7-0 with a two-run single into right field.

In the third inning, Brown walked, stole second, and scored on an infield single by Phibbs, who beat the throw to first base.

After Jason Scott kept the Harvesters scoreless through five innings, the Whitefaces came to bat in the bottom of the fifth with a chance to end the game with the 10-run run.

Jared Victor got one run all by himself for a 9-0 lead. Victor walked and stole second. The Pampa catcher's second error of the game, when attempting to throw out Victor at second base, allowed Victor to score.

With one out, Clint Cotten walked. Cotten stole second, and the Harvester catcher committed still another error.

That error put Cotten at third base. Collier singled to bat in Cotten with the game-ending run.

The Hereford junior varsity team held a 6-4 lead after one inning of play, only to have Pampa take a 9-8 lead in the third inning and never trail again in beating Hereford 21-13.

Pampa had three hits in the first inning, and took advantage of four Hereford errors, to score four runs.

Hereford loaded the bases in the bottom of the first on singles by Russell Backus and Alonzo Ramirez, and an error on a grounder hit by Shane Kapka.

Nate Smith walked to drive in Hereford's first run, and Todd Collier followed with a three-run triple to tie the score at 4-4. Collier scored on a Pampa error committed on a ground ball hit by Jared Victor.

Later in the inning, Victor stole third and scored on an error. The error was committed on a fly ball hit into shallow center field by Backus.

Pampa went into the lead, 9-6, in the top of the third, hitting a three-run homer and an RBI single, and scoring another run on an error.

Fidel Ceballos tripled for Hereford in the bottom of the third. After Backus walked, Ramirez tripled to drive in two runs and cut the Pampa lead to 9-8.

Pampa hit two triples, a double and a single in the fourth inning to increase its lead to 13-8.

Hereford did not score again until the fifth inning, when two more triples were hit. Backus hit the first triple of the inning, and scored on an error.

Kapka hit an RBI double, and Joe Lopez tripled to drive home Kapka. That left Hereford behind by two runs, 13-11.

Pampa hit two singles and two doubles in the sixth inning, and took advantage of three Hereford errors, to score five more runs for an 18-11 lead.

Hereford scored its last two runs of the game in the sixth inning. Ceballos singled, Backus hit an RBI double, and Keith Edwards hit an RBI single.

Pampa added three more runs on a homer in the seventh inning.

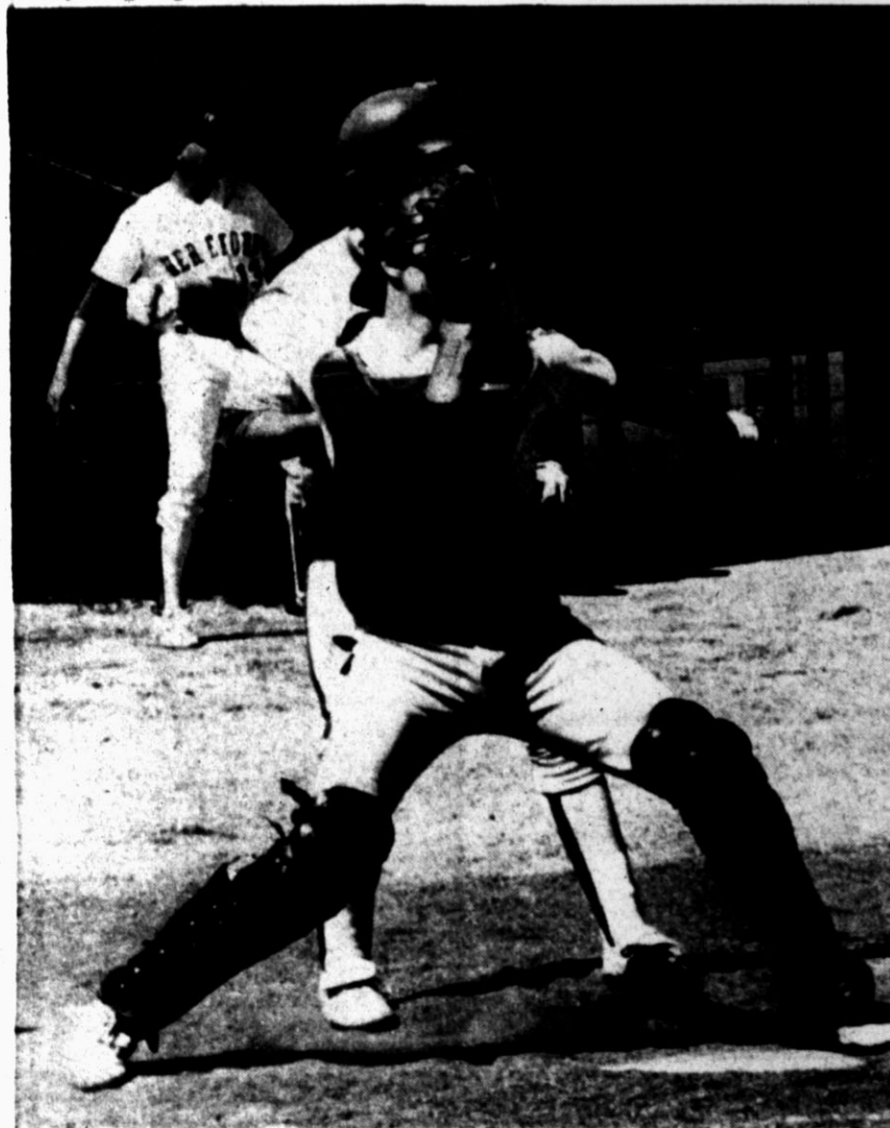

Final hits and errors totals for the game had Hereford with 14 hits and 12 errors, and Pampa with 23 hits and four errors.

REMEMBERS JULIUS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Al Bianchi, a veteran basketball coach, well remembers the now-retired Julius Erving as a rookie.

Bianchi was coach of the Virginia Squires of the defunct American Basketball Association when Erving reported to the team's rookie camp in Richmond.

Erving immediately attracted attention with his moves on the court, including rebounding and dunking. "After about five minutes," Bianchi recalled, "I thought... have we got something here! When we had been in camp three days it seemed that he had been there for about 10 years."

What Does a typical Brand Reader Look Like?

That's difficult to say because you are as different as your substantial number would imply! You are one of the 4,100 households we're invited to every evening. That's quite a few. According to the most recent census, our township has slightly less than 5000 households.

Your vocation is part of a broad spectrum as well -- white collar, blue collar, owners, managers, cowboys, teachers, housewives, students and professional.

Yet, with all your individual complexities, your interest in local issues and news gives you and other readers a common bond which is separated only by your level of curiosity.

You are an informed, intelligent and often vocal audience, and we're happy to be a part of your household every evening!

Committee establishes seven guidelines for better nutrition

March has been designated as National Nutrition Month. In conjunction with the special observance, the U.S. Senate Committee has released seven guidelines for more healthful and nutritional eating.

The first guideline is to make sure to eat a variety of foods daily. Every day, an adult's diet should include at least two servings of milk or milk products; two servings of protein foods, such as meats, fish, poultry, eggs or dried beans and peas; four servings of fruit and vegetables; and four servings of whole grain or enriched breads and cereals. In addition, children need another serving of milk or milk products. By including a variety of foods in your diet, you are less likely to miss the important vitamins and minerals that you need.

The second guideline is to maintain ideal body weight. If you are overweight, take steps to reduce. To find your ideal weight, either use the weight chart in your doctor's office or you can figure it yourself. For a woman, figure 100 pounds for the first five feet and add five more pounds for every inch above that height. For a man, figure 106 pounds for the first 5 feet of height, and add six more pounds for every inch after that. If you are big-boned, add 10% to your total, and if you are small-boned, subtract about 10%. This will give a good "rule-of-thumb" estimate for ideal weight.

Guideline number three says to avoid too much fat, saturated fat and cholesterol. Choose lean, well-trimmed instead of fatty meats, eat less beef and pork, and more chicken and fish; use eggs and organ meats in moderation; and try not to fry foods very often. Instead, broil, bake, boil or grill your foods. Remember too, that the more liquid fat is at room temperature, the less saturated it is. For instance, oils are less saturated than solid shortenings or lard.

Fourthly, the U.S. Senate Committee and dietitians agree that Americans need to eat foods with adequate starch and fiber. Certain types of fiber in foods have been found to help control diabetes, decrease risks of certain types of cancer, and help with diverticular disease. To increase intake of starch and fiber, eat more whole-grain breads and cereals, more fresh fruits and vegetables and more dried beans and peas. Be careful not to add too much fat to these foods!

The fifth dietary guideline is to avoid too much sugar. Currently Americans consume over 120 pounds of sugar each year—that is the same amount of sugar in 24 five-pound sacks! To decrease your sugar consumption, use less sugar, honey and syrup; drink less regular soft drinks; select fresh fruits, or those canned in their own juice, or in light syrup. Also, start reading the labels on the foods you buy. Any ingredient that ends with the letters-ose usually means some type of sugar. Examples are sucrose, fructose, maltose, dextrose and lactose.

Guideline number six states we should eat less sodium. Since table salt is 40% sodium, most people know that reducing consumption of table salt will help to decrease sodium in the diet. Reducing salt foods in the diet also helps. Pretzels, chips, salted nuts, pickled foods, cheese, and cured meats are all high in sodium.

The seventh and final Dietary Guideline for Americans suggests that if you drink alcohol, do so in moderation. Teetotaling may be best of all for your health, but if you enjoy an alcoholic drink, it is best to have no more than one-two drinks per day. If you have certain medical conditions, or if you are pregnant, the use of alcohol can be especially harmful.

These seven steps can help you to take a positive direction towards better nutrition and better health. Take a good look at your diet and see what steps you can take during National Nutrition Month to put you on the road to being healthier.

Woman's Health

By George W. Morley, M.D.
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

For the typical woman, menstrual periods occur regularly every 21 to 35 days except during pregnancy. So what do you do if your periods are sometimes irregular? Probably nothing, because for most women, occasional periods that are scantier, heavier, shorter, longer or missed altogether, are completely normal and nothing to worry about.

In teenagers just beginning to menstruate, and for women approaching menopause, skipped or irregular periods are not uncommon because the body is adjusting to hormonal changes. For a woman with established periods, irregular periods can be caused by a temporary hormonal imbalance, extreme weight changes, and strenuous exercise. Also some women, for no apparent reason, never establish regular periods.

Emotional upsets such as a death of a loved one or break up of a romance, moving to a new city, or starting a new job can interfere with the delicate balance of hormones that regulate your cycle. Even positive stress, such as going on vacation, a job promotion or going away to school can wreak havoc with your periods.

If you have extreme weight problems at either end of the scale, your estrogen levels may be thrown off kilter resulting in menstrual irregularities. For the very heavy women, extra weight increases estrogen levels, causing heavier flows or absent periods. The woman who has followed a semi-starvation diet, on the other hand, may produce little or no estrogen resulting in a complete loss of menstruation.

Other factors may affect your cycle including oral contraceptives, and such medical problems as fibroid tumors, a sluggish thyroid, or endometriosis. Of course, the major reason for interrupted menstruation is pregnancy. If you skip more than one period, and have some common symptoms of pregnancy such as nausea and swollen breasts, you should take a pregnancy test.

If you are chronically irregular, yet are basically healthy, your doctor may prescribe birth control pills, or other hormone therapy, to regulate your period.

If you have missed more than one period in a row, or if other menstrual symptoms cause you concern, you should see your doctor. Chances are you are perfectly fine, but let your doctor give you a clean bill of health.

ECTOPIC PREGNANCY: CAUSES, SIGNS, AND SYMPTOMS

The female body follows a routine script in millions of pregnancies each year: that is, the ovum (egg) leaves the ovary and passes into the fallopian tube, is impregnated by the man's sperm, moves on to the uterus (the womb), where it clings to the walls and divides, multiples, and in 39 to 40 weeks, becomes another news baby.

But one time in every hundred, this script isn't followed.

The fertilized egg doesn't move on to the uterus. Instead, it remains in the fallopian tube or becomes attached to the wall of the abdomen, the wall of the uterus, or elsewhere in the abdominal area. There it grows, with no room and no support.

A pregnancy outside the uterus is called an "ectopic" or "misplaced" pregnancy. Because the development of the fetus anywhere outside the womb can be life-threatening, an ectopic pregnancy must be diagnosed and removed as soon as possible.

Some women are more likely than others to have an ectopic pregnancy: women under age 30, those who use an intrauterine device for birth control, women with a history of infertility, women who've had pelvic infections of any kind, or those who've had surgery in the abdominal, uterine, or pelvic areas.

The symptoms of an ectopic pregnancy include pain in the lower abdomen and pelvis, unusual bleeding, and back pain, which may be caused by an internal build-up of trapped blood.

Unfortunately, these symptoms are associated with much more common and less serious problems. If they persist, you should consult with your doctor right away. He or she will do some tests, and, if they indicate an ectopic pregnancy—especially one that has ruptured—the doctor will prescribe immediate corrective surgery to remove the ectopic pregnancy and, if possible, repair the ruptured organ.

One pregnancy in every 100 is ectopic. And of every 1,000 ectopic pregnancies, help arrives too late and the mother dies. Unlike most other aspects of maternal and child health, this one is very troubling and must be taken seriously.

OF APPLES AND DOCTORS

NEW YORK (AP) — It may be more important than ever to eat an apple a day to keep the doctor away.

A recent study cites "white coat hypertension," a term coined for people whose blood pressure rises in the presence of a doctor.

Such occurrences can cause misdiagnosis for as many as one in five patients. According to the study, as many as 20 percent of patients treated for hypertension may be getting unnecessary medication.

Many doctors fear the side effects of medications aiming to lower blood pressure may be too dangerous for the borderline patient. There are 60 million Americans with hypertension.

Names in the News

MITCHELL, S.D. (AP) — Country singer Johnny Cash ended a three-city South Dakota tour here with an unwelcome non-musical sidekick — the hiccupps.

"This is an all-time first for me," Cash told his audience in the Corn Palace. "It's the first time I've done a show with the hiccupps."

Cash, who also had a recent bout with the flu, sipped water during Sunday afternoon's performance. He even left the stage for a short time to try unsuccessfully to get rid of his hiccupps.

He and his wife, June Carter Cash, performed to the audience of 2,000 for about two hours.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Doctors removed singer Dennis Day from the critical list after he responded to treatment for a head injury suffered last week in a fall at home.

His condition was upgraded to serious Monday after surgery Saturday relieved swelling of the brain, said Armen Markarian, spokesman for St. John's Hospital.

Day, 71, was diagnosed last July as suffering from amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, or Lou Gehrig's disease, a progressive nerve disorder that causes loss of muscle control.

Day became famous by performing with comedian Jack Benny starting in 1939. An accomplished Irish tenor, Day also was known for playing the innocent foil to Benny's irascible character on television and radio.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Allan Boesak, an anti-apartheid leader, says productions such as the movie "Cry Freedom" and the musical "Sarafina" play important roles in publicizing the struggle of blacks in his native South Africa.

"You cannot reach everybody by making a speech, or even by saying something on television," Boesak said in an interview in April's Essence magazine.

"Some other people are more convinced by reading a book, by meeting someone face to face, by seeing a play, by seeing a movie. I believe that if you get all these different audiences, and you speak to them in a medium that they can understand, then so much the better."

WESTLAKE VILLAGE, Calif. (AP) — Having a newborn baby won't keep three-time Grammy-winner Deniece Williams from the recording studio, her publicist says.

Miss Williams, 35, who gave birth Saturday, is planning to record an album next month, press agent Bob Angelotti says.

"Mother and child are doing fine" but will remain in the hospital for several days, he said.

Forrest Matthew Westering, who weighed 9 pounds, 3 ounces at birth, is the first child for the singer and her husband, Brad Westering, who were married in 1986. Miss Williams has two children from a previous marriage.

Miss Williams began her career as a backup singer for Stevie Wonder. In 1978, she recorded a No. 1 single, "Too Much, Too Little, Too Late," with Johnny Mathis. She recently won her third Grammy, best female gospel performance, for "I Believe in You" on the album "Water Under the Bridge."

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The illness that forced Michael Jackson to cancel a performance in St. Louis is not expected to affect his weekend concerts here, spokesmen said.

"It's just laryngitis," Jackson's press agent, Sherrie Levy, said Wednesday. "All he needs is time to recover. I'm confident he'll be in great shape for the shows in Indianapolis."

"We expect that the Friday night show will go as planned," said publicist Maureen O'Connor. "He is under a doctor's care, but he is feeling better."

Jackson was treated by doctors at St. John's Mercy Medical Center in suburban St. Louis after illness forced him to postpone a concert last Saturday night.

Jackson performed Sunday night as scheduled before about 19,000 people despite suffering from a cold. But it progressed Monday to laryngitis and he had to cancel that night's makeup concert. St. Louis Arena manager Roger Dixon said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Trumpet-playing bandleader Doc Severinsen says that having his television orchestra do albums seemed like a crazy idea, but it brought concert bookings and Grammy awards.

"Maybe there's life for big-band records, after all," Severinsen said in a recent interview.

Though his Tonight Show Band gets nationwide exposure on Johnny Carson's show, albeit for 30 seconds at a time, Severinsen said the idea of an album didn't arise until 1986 when Lenny Silverman of tiny Amherst Records proposed it.

"It turned out so well that we immediately went in and did 'Volume Two,'" followed by a sold-out concert tour, Severinsen said.

The Tonight Show Band's "Volume One" made an impressive crossover jump to the pop charts and won a Grammy last year for best big-band album. "Volume Two" won a Grammy for Bill Holman's arrangement of the jazz classic, "Take the 'A' Train."

NEW YORK (AP) — Philip Glass, an American composer who has seven operas scheduled to be performed around the world this year, has been commissioned to provide a work to mark the 500th anniversary of Columbus' voyage to America.

The Metropolitan Opera commissioned the full-length opera to be performed in October 1992, Met General Manager Bruce Crawford said Wednesday.

Glass said "The Voyage" will be an allegorical opera in three acts, using historical and fictional material about the human need to discover and explore.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The premiere of a film featuring John Hurt, Sarah Miles and Geraldine Chaplin is among highlights of North America's oldest film festival, which opens here today.

"White Mischief" from Columbia Pictures is a murder mystery set against a backdrop of the British aristocracy in Kenya's Happy Valley during the 1940s. The movie, based on the book by James Fox and directed by Michael Radford, also stars Charles Dance, Greta Scacchi and the late Trevor Howard.

The 31st San Francisco International Film Festival will continue through March 27th, offering 86 feature films, from Argentina, India, Greece, Egypt, the Soviet Union, China, Denmark, Australia and 24 other countries.

NEW YORK (AP) — The "All-American Girl of the Year" named by Teen Magazine says she is prepared to be a role model because she comes from a home and school where "everybody is motivated, striving to reach for the top."

Charlene Brown, 16 whose parents are immigrants from Jamaica, attends Manhattan's Stuyvesant High School, where she said "everybody works hard."

She was summer program director for the Junior Academy of Sciences in 1987 and won a "Future Biochemist's Award" for her performance in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's introductory engineering and science program.

SANDHURST, England (AP) — Prince Charles and eight other members of Britain's royal family attended a funeral service for Charles' friend, Maj. Hugh Lindsay, who died in an avalanche that narrowly missed the prince.

The 39-year-old heir to the throne read a eulogy in a steady voice during the service Thursday at the Royal Memorial Chapel on the grounds of the Royal Military Academy in Sandhurst west of London.

Among the mourners were Lindsay's widow, Sarah, who is six months pregnant with their first child.

The Metropolitan Opera commissioned the full-length opera to be performed in October 1992, Met General Manager Bruce Crawford said Wednesday.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bass player Emory Gordy Jr., guitarist Chet Atkins and keyboardist John Hobbs have won their second consecutive Academy of Country Music awards in instrumental categories.

Drummer Archie Francis won his 11th trophy, and fiddler Johnny Gimble and steel guitarist J.D. Maness each won their 10th trophies to lead other winners in ballots cast by the 2,500-member academy.

The winners were announced Thursday by academy Executive Director Bill Boyd; trophies will be presented during the 23rd annual Academy of Country Music Awards on Monday in B. na Park.

David Hungate tied Gordy in the bass category, Ronnie Milsap tied Hobbs in the keyboard category, and Ricky Skaggs, who plays mandolin, tied with Jerry Douglas, who plays the dobro, in the specialty instrument category.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jazz trumpeter Miles Davis had to cancel concert tour stops in Chicago, Detroit and overseas after being hospitalized for treatment of a leg infection, his publicist said.

Davis, 62, entered a New York City hospital, whose name was not disclosed, on March 3 and was expected to remain under treatment three more weeks, Terrie Williams said Thursday.

Davis injured the leg in France, second stop on a tour that began in Italy. Dates in Chicago and Detroit and in Hawaii, New Zealand and Australia have been canceled, Williams said.

Ask Dr. Lamb

Herpes and AIDS BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: About three years ago I broke out with genital herpes. I have had only one minor breakout since. I read this statement in the paper: "Dr. Robert Gallo, one of the discoverers of the original AIDS virus, also reported that certain common herpes viruses can directly activate AIDS infection in people carrying latent forms of the virus."

This has upset me very much. I don't understand this statement completely or know what to do. Also, I get a gamma globulin shot every three to four weeks for a low gamma globulin level.

DEAR READER: Let me tell you what the statement does not mean. It does not mean that if you have herpes you are going to get AIDS. Rather it means that if you are already infected with the AIDS virus, and then get an infection with another virus, such as herpes, that may stimulate the AIDS virus you already have to start multiplying and cause active AIDS. So unless you have been infected with the AIDS virus, the genital herpes infection will not cause you to get AIDS.

genital herpes, I would suggest getting a blood test to find out.

To update you on AIDS, I'm sending you my recently revised Special Report 61, Sex and AIDS. Others who want this report can send $1.00 and a long, self-addressed envelope with 39 cents postage to THE HEALTH LETTER 61, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

The other side of the picture is that AIDS can compromise the immune system and make a person susceptible to other infections, such as herpes zoster (shingles), cancer and, of course, the AIDS pneumonia. Your need for gamma globulin does suggest a decrease in immunity, but from some cause other than AIDS.

DEAR DR. LAMB: A friend of mine recently mentioned that she was taking bee pollen. When I asked why, she could only answer, "Because it's supposed to be good for you." What is the truth about bee pollen?

DEAR READER: Bee pollen is food used by bees. It is remarkably similar to many other foods. It is made up of carbohydrates, fats and proteins. Like all foods, it must be digested into single sugars, amino acids from the protein, and fatty acids. It offers no advantage over the proteins, carbohydrates and fats found in your normal foods.

Some have claimed it provides energy. It does just as your food does, but it is no magic source of energy or other nutrients.

In addition, the pollen is collected by wire scrapers that scrape the pollen off the bee legs as the bees enter the hive. This pollen may be contaminated by any variety of noxious agents from our environment. And some people are allergic to the pollen, resulting in asthma, hives, rhinitis and other allergies.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

AUSTIN — Sometimes, the news moves so fast in this business that material is out of date almost as soon as it is published. Such was the case with a couple of recent columns on the "Super Tuesday" presidential primary and the renewed volatility in world oil prices.

We thought some updates might be in order.

Super Tuesday proved to be, by most people's reckoning, a smash success. For the first time in this nation's history, 20 southern and border states conducted presidential primaries on the same day. The result was that better than one-third of all the delegates in both political parties were at stake in a single day, and virtually all the

— CPR COURSE SAVES LIFE

DENVER (AP) — Pat Walsh has received a Phillips 66 Meritorious Safety Award for saving the life of a woman stricken with a severe asthma attack.

Walsh was dining at a Craig, Colo., restaurant when a woman at another table stopped breathing. He went to the woman's aid, using training he had received in a Phillips CPR course.

He worked on the 66-year-old woman for nearly 15 minutes before she began breathing again. She was airlifted to a hospital where she fully recovered.

delegates came from one region of the country — the South.

Texas was a newcomer to the Super Tuesday concept (some states had such a primary in 1984) and something of a unique participant. We were the only state holding primaries for other offices in conjunction with our presidential primary. There seemed to be no ill effects on the process from moving our regular primaries up from their traditional May dates. If anything, the election season was shortened, something for which we all can be thankful.

A number of positive things happened, however, as a result of Super Tuesday. Both major political parties enjoyed a tremendous turnout at the polls. The Republicans had more than one million people participate in their primary, roughly double that party's previous best. More importantly, all the major candidates in both parties paid close attention to the South in general and Texas in particular.

Almost every advertisement run in this state by a presidential candidate showed that candidate addressing Texas issues. That's a vast improvement over 1984 when none of the presidential candidates paid attention to Texas during the primary season.

Political "experts" around Texas and the country have spent the last weeks trying to analyze the overall effect of Texas' first Super Tuesday. Some said it backfired for one alleged reason or another. That's just not true. More Texans than ever got involved in our democratic process, and Texas became a key player in presidential politics. As a staunch supporter of the Super Tuesday concept, we can tell you that's all anyone ever wanted.

Last week, we reported some volatility in the world oil markets. We discussed how the price of the leading U.S. oil, West Texas Intermediate Crude, had been soft in recent weeks, sliding from almost $18 per barrel to as low as $15 at times. The clear impression was that the price of oil might continue to slide, and that oil ministers from OPEC (the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) might have to meet to try to shore up prices.

Well, this week the market is no less volatile, but much has happened in the intervening seven days. Late in the week of our initial report, oil prices began to strengthen, with cash prices for West Texas Intermediate Crude climbing 50 cents in one day to return to the $16 level.

Much of this was due to reports that OPEC members would agree to a 5 percent production cut, thus tightening slightly the world's oil supply. OPEC production currently is around 18 million barrels of oil per day, a level too high to support OPEC's target price of $18 per barrel. OPEC members could not agree on a way to distribute production cuts among member nations, though, and by the weekend it was clear no cut would be achieved.

As a backdrop to all this, it should be noted that many analysts feel oil prices will continue to rise and the energy sector to recover. For one thing, scaled back operating costs have allowed companies to resume exploring for new oil. Lean operations mean a barrel of oil can be profitable for companies at $18 to $20, whereas it used to take well over $20 for a barrel to be profitable.

Many say oil supplies will begin to contract dramatically in the 1990's and that oil prices again will rise. More than a few people predict the cash price of West Texas Intermediate will be above $20 by year's end.

Does any of this change our recipe for a healthy energy economy? No, the increase volatility only reinforces our belief that only sound, practical energy policies at the state and national level will return stability to the energy markets.
