1 in 8 American women have been raped

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some 12.1 million American women - one in eight - have been raped at least once and almost 62 percent of the assaults occurred when they were minors, a new study says.

The National Women's Study survey, financed by the government's National Institute on Drug Abuse, also said 683,000 American women were raped in 1990, a vastly higher number than those in other crime reports.

"Rape does seem to be a tragedy of youth in America," said Dean Kilpatrick, who directed the research and is co-author of the report, "Rape in America."

Twenty-nine percent of the rapes occurred when the women were 10 years old or younger and 32 percent happened from ages 11 to 17, according to the survey on which much of the report was based.

Kilpatrick would not estimate how many minors were raped in 1990. The report said that, given the other survey findings, the 683,000 rapes of adult women "probably constitute well less than half of all the rapes that were experienced by all Americans of all ages and genders" in 1990.

The National Women's Study, involving female interviewers talking by telephone to about 4,000 women, also found that:

-Of the estimated 12.1 million women raped, about 6.8 million were attacked once. An additional 4.7 million were raped more than once; 600,000 were unsure of the number of attacks.

-Twenty-nine percent of perpetrators were non-relatives known to the victim, such as neighbors or friends; 22 percent were strangers; 16 percent were relatives other than immediate family; 11 percent were fathers or stepfathers; 10 percent were boyfriends or ex-boyfriends and 9 percent were husbands or ex-husbands. Three percent were not sure or refused to answer.

-Seventy percent of victims were unharmed, while 24 percent suffered minor injuries and 4 percent were seriously hurt.

-Victims' biggest concerns after the assault were whether their family found out, being blamed by others for the attack and what others knew about it. Those worries declined slightly among those raped in the last five years. But others jumped: fear of having their name become public, getting AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases and becoming pregnant.

The estimate that 683,000 American women were raped in 1990 - based on an estimate of 0.7 percent of the adult female population - is more than five times larger than the Justice Department's National Crime Survey, or NCS, reported for that year.

The NCS, which interviews about 95,000 people ages 12 and older, said there were 130,000 attempted and completed rapes in 1990. Criminologists consider that survey a much better gauge of crime than the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, which said 102,560 rapes were reported to police in 1990.

But Kilpatrick told reporters that the FBI figure, combined with the survey's findings that only 16 percent of rape victims tell police about the attack, supports the study's estimate of 683,000 rapes.

Steven Dillingham, director of the Bureau of Justice Statistics, which produces the National Crime Survey, said the NCS and the National Women's Study had "significant differences in sample size, estimation procedures, wording, crime context of the survey and the administration of the survey."

"Exact levels of rape are always going to be problematic," Dillingham said.

Car driver walks away

DPS Troopers Darrell Matthews and Louis Cardinal take notes at an accident at Austin Road and Farm Road 2943 on Thursday morning. A 1988 Plymouth Horizon driven by Bill Fredrick, 34, of Amarillo, was southbound on FM 2943 when an eastbound truck driven by David Garcia, 26, of Lubbock, cut in front of him. Fredrick's car stopped just short of the large car at the boom of the truck, and the truck's rear tandem axles stopped at the edge of the car. Fredrick was treated for minor scrapes at Deaf Smith General Hospital and released.

Bush gaining ground in poll

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush would do a better job with the economy than Democrat Bill Clinton, according to voters surveyed in a USA Today-CNN-Gallup poll released today.

The poll also found that Bush leads both Clinton in a two-way race and Clinton and Ross Perot in a three-way race.

Bush showed increasing support among voters on the economy when compared to a USA Today-CNN-Gallup poll taken a month ago.

In March, 49 percent said Clinton could better handle the economy but that figure fell to 36 percent this month. Bush rose from 37 percent last month to 43 percent in the April poll.

While 73 percent of those interviewed disapproved of Bush's economic management, less than half said the economy is getting worse - down from 71 percent in January.

The poll also found:

-The president's unfavorable rating improved slightly - from 44 percent unfavorable a month ago to 41 percent unfavorable now. Clinton's unfavorable ratings rose 9 percentage points, to 49 percent.

-Bush held a 50 percent to 34 percent lead over Clinton in a two-way race and a 41 percent lead in a three-way race, with Clinton garnering 26 percent and Perot 25 percent. Perot drew support away from Bush and Clinton almost equally, the poll said.

-Barbara Bush has a higher favorability rating than Hillary Clinton: 81 percent vs. 38 percent.

Bush campaign chief Robert Mosbacher said: "We don't want to jump up and down and say there's nothing to worry about anymore, but it's moving in the right direction."

Guadalajara mayor, sewer chief bid adios

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) - Investigators grilled top officials early this morning on whether criminal negligence contributed to devastating sewer blasts that killed at least 176 people. The mayor and sewer chief, among those under fire, asked for leaves of absence.

Half the victims in at least nine explosions that turned much of a working class neighborhood to rubble Wednesday were children, said Jalisco state's health minister, Dr. Palemon Rodriguez.

Many tiny wooden coffins were among about 120 lowered Thursday into graves in one cemetery near the disaster site in Mexico's second-largest city.

Authorities said the likely cause of the blasts was either volatile hexane leaked by a cooking-oil company or gasoline leaked from tanks owned by the state oil company, Pemex.

A chemical engineer who heads a state team of investigators, Esequiel

Mendez, said late Thursday that Pemex is one of the main suspects. Officials from both companies denied responsibility.

In a news conference in Guadalajara Thursday afternoon, President Carlos Salinas de Gortari demanded that a probe determine within 72 hours who and what were responsible for the blasts. Residents had complained days earlier about fumes.

He ordered investigators to establish if the disaster "could have been avoided and as a consequence, if there was criminal negligence of public servants."

Questioning of officials began Thursday and continued early today.

If the investigation determines that Pemex was to blame, high-level federal and state officials may be fired.

People left homeless or bereaved by Wednesday's blast had no reservations about blaming the government.

"They cover up," said taxi driver Alfonso Gomez, who lived in the area. "The government does that all the time."

State officials promised to give the thousands uprooted by Wednesday's blasts priority in new government-financed housing.

Thursday, Guadalajara Mayor Enrique Dau Flores ordered the evacuation of a section of the Alamo district, east of the Reforma district struck Wednesday, after residents complained of fumes. Officials have been criticized for not responding to Reforma residents' complaints of gas fumes.

The explosions destroyed 20 to 25 square city blocks in the Reforma district, hurled cars and trucks into the air and blew up adobe houses. About 15,000 people were left homeless, officials said.

The casualty count was uncertain. The state attorney general, Leonardo Larios Guzman, said the death toll was 202; the Red Cross said 184; and the state health minister said 176, half of them children.

Jalisco Gov. Guillermo Cosío Villegas said 1,361 people were injured. The first damage estimate was $300 million.

time."--Alfonso
Gomez, cab driver

At a makeshift morgue in a sports stadium, relatives wept as they looked at a list of names of the dead identified so far. One man picked up the body of child and put it into a tiny white coffin.

With the grief came angry demands to know why the government failed to act promptly on reports of fumes.

Guadalajara Mayor Dau Flores and his sewer system chief, Gualberto

Limon, on Thursday asked for leaves of absence during the investigations, Jalisco state officials said.

Gov. Villegas had earlier blamed Limon and two other city officials for taking no action on residents' complaints of leaking gas. Dau Flores said Limon and the fire chief sent inspectors to the scene Tuesday evening, but they went home after assuring him the danger was receding.

State officials had been quick to blame cooking oil companies, but backed off Thursday and said they would wait for the results of an investigation.

Jorge Alexandre, a senior manager for the La Central cooking oil company, said the firm had a system to control hexane seepage and leaked only traces of the chemical in the worst of times. It would have taken tons of hexane to cause a blast of Wednesday's proportions, he said.

Lawyer: no settlement in school finance case

AUSTIN (AP) - An attorney for taxpayers challenging use of the current school finance system in federal court says his settlement offer is not dead, but the state has not yet acted on it.

Lawyer Jim Keahey said he filed a report on settlement negotiations Thursday with U.S. District Judge James Nowlin. The judge on April 10 told lawyers to take about two weeks to see if they could come to an agreement in the case.

That two weeks is up Friday.

"It (the settlement offer) is not dead. It's just that they could not accept or reject it by the court's date," Keahey said. "The attorney general ... is working on it and is continuing to talk with the (legislative) leadership."

Keahey said he expects Nowlin to read his report. "I can't predict what he'll do next."

Gray McBride, spokesman for Attorney General Dan Morales, said he would not comment on the substance of settlement negotiations. "We've had some discussions, and there may be an opportunity to continue them at some point in the future," McBride said.

The Texas Supreme Court in January ruled unconstitutional the school finance system creating 188 county education districts, or CEDs. Each CED is made up of one or several counties and levies property taxes for public education.

The state court ruled that the system violates the Texas Constitution by imposing a statewide property tax and by levying a property tax without voter approval.

However, the court gave lawmakers until June 1, 1993 to fix the system, allowing 1991 and 1992 taxes to be collected.

Taxpayers then sued in federal court, saying collection of an unconstitutional tax, without opportunity for a refund, violates their due process rights under the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Nowlin has certified an estimated 8 million-plus Texas taxpayers as a class of plaintiffs in the case.

Commission's failure shows need Watchdog group calls for more work on ethics law

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Ethics Commission's failure to adopt several measures proves the ethics law needs more work, the director of a public watchdog group says.

On Thursday, the commission issued an opinion aimed at curbing the practice of lobbyists giving free passes to state officials.

But the commission postponed action on questions dealing with lobbyist-paid hunting trips and the use of campaign contributions by lawmakers for personal use.

In addition, commissioners voted 6-2 to refuse to release to the public draft opinions that were debated during the meeting, but not approved.

John Steiner, executive director of the commission, said the draft documents are not subject to the Texas Open Records Act. He said the commission would decide at a later meeting on a policy of whether to release the draft opinions.

Tom Smith, director of Public Citizen of Texas, said if draft opinions are not released "the citizenry is effectively precluded from participating in democracy."

The commission, created to oversee the state's new ethics law, has started issuing its first advisory opinions, but panel members found themselves mired in trying to interpret the law.

Smith said the commission's problems showed that the ethics law must be amended during the regular legislative session in January.

"The Legislature either accidentally or with forethought left lots of loopholes in this act," Smith said. "This commission is stepping into those loopholes, and beginning to realize how poorly the act was written."

The ethics bill was adopted by the Legislature in the closing moments of last year's regular session.

The legislation followed years of news reports detailing spending by lobbyists in the millions of dollars on entertainment, gifts and trips for lawmakers, and other state officials.

On Thursday, the commission adopted an opinion that states if a lobbyist gives a lawmaker a free pass to an event, such as a movie, then that lobbyist must accompany the state official to the event.

The commission also adopted emergency rules restricting the use of campaign funds raised by candidates for House speaker.

But it postponed a decision on whether state officeholders can use some of their campaign contributions to purchase goods, such as a car, that could also be used for personal purposes.

The commission also got hung up over an opinion that would govern the rules for lobbyist-paid hunting trips, and postponed a decision until next month.

Accused rapist given 15 years after 'no contest' plea at trial

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) - Jimmy Wayne Wooten finally knows his fate.

Next month, it will be official: 15 years in a Texas prison.

The 42-year-old Lubbock man accused of raping and impregnating his retarded sister-in-law pleaded no contest Thursday under a plea agreement specifying the 15-year prison term.

"We feel like justice has been served," said Lubbock County District Attorney Travis Ware. "The defendant will be behind bars."

State District Judge J. Blair Cherry Jr. of Lubbock accepted the plea and found Wooten guilty. He set sentencing for May 11 in Lubbock. Wooten remains free on bond until then.

The plea came after a morning of delays because of problems involving two jurors selected for the trial. The case was moved from Lubbock to Kerrville because extensive pre-trial publicity made it difficult to seat a jury in Lubbock.

Wooten, with his tearful wife Dori at his side, hurried from the courtroom shortly after the trial was adjourned. The couple declined to speak with reporters.

"The Wootens are very, very tired of this process. It has gone on for a couple of years," defense attorney Sam Ogan said. "They're both feeling pretty emotional right now."

Ogan said the Wootens were glad the case has been decided and want to get on with their lives. Wooten had maintained his innocence, and his wife stood behind him.

"It's been a roller coaster for Dori, an emotional roller coaster," Ogan said. "She has always expressed her belief and faith in her husband."

Wooten was accused of raping and impregnating 34-year-old Debra Lynn Thomas, Dori Wooten's sister who was a Lubbock State School resident at the time of the alleged sexual assault. Ms. Thomas often visited the Wootens at home on weekends.

Ms. Thomas delivered a son Jan. 1, 1991, by Caesarean section. She has the IQ of a 2-year-old and does not realize she has given birth.

about what the trial evidence would have shown.

Court records stipulate DNA blood test results would have been presented showing the probability is 99.99 percent that Wooten is the father of Ms. Thomas' child.

The child currently is in Dori Wooten's custody. Attorneys for both sides said the child's future lies with the Texas Department of Human Services. Ms. Thomas now lives in a home for the mentally retarded, and Mrs. Wooten continues to visit her.

Ogan said Ms. Wooten wants to maintain custody of the child.

"She wants to keep the baby, she wants to have Jimmy home, she wants us all to go away. But not all of that's going to happen," the defense attorney said.

Ogan said Wooten could be eligible for parole after his actual time served and any good-time credit equals one-fourth of his 15-year sentence.

Ware said the fact that the trial was halted because of the plea bargain will save Lubbock County an estimated $30,000 on the case.

After a day of tedious jury selection Wednesday, the attorneys chose an eight-woman, four-man jury plus one alternate. But Thursday morning, one juror was disqualified for undisclosed reasons and another said she didn't believe she could fairly decide the case.

That left court officials with the option of trying the case with only 11 jurors, declaring a mistrial or reaching a plea agreement.

"When that happened, we discussed with the state a possibility of putting an end to it," Ogan said.

Speaker prospects selected by GOP

AUSTIN (AP) - The House Republican Caucus has chosen three favorites in the speaker's race, while the Democratic Caucus plans to meet on the issue as soon as an anticipated special legislative session convenes.

The Republicans' list includes Democratic Reps. Jim Rudd of Brownfield, Pete Laney of Hale Center and Tom Uher of Bay City. They were chosen Wednesday in a straw poll by the GOP caucus.

"We want to make sure we have fairness in how the House is organized," said Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland, chairman of the GOP caucus, which includes more than one-third of the 150 House members.

The speaker's powers currently include making committee assignments and naming committee heads.

House members will elect a new speaker in January to replace G. B. Lewis, D-Fort Worth, who is retiring. But the speaker's race could end sooner if one of the nine candidates gets enough support from colleagues.

Craddick and Rep. Ashley Smith, R-Houston, plan to meet with the Republican caucus' top three candidates in the near future. Craddick said he believed most of the group would vote as a bloc.

Other candidates, all Democrats, include Reps. David Cain of Dallas, Wilhelmina Delco of Austin, Betty Denton of Waco, James Hury of Galveston, Sam Russell of Mount Pleasant and Paul Sadler of Hallsville.

Russell, who is House Democratic Caucus chairman, has called a meeting of the 92-member caucus to discuss speaker candidates and the race.

He said the meeting will occur the first day of a special session, which Gov. Ann Richards has said she wants to call in early May on school finance.

"As a Democrat, I don't want to see Democrats fighting each other on the first day of the next legislative session in January," Russell said.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THERE WERE GIANTS IN THE LAND

THROUGHOUT THE OLD TESTAMENT THERE ARE SEVERAL REFERENCES TO GIANTS AS INDIVIDUALS AND AS A RACE. ONE RACE WERE THE ANAKIMS WHO HAD CITIES IN CANAAN. WHEN HEBRON WAS CAPTURED BY THE HEBREWS THE ANAKIMS ESCAPED DESTRUCTION BY FLEEING TO THE CITIES OF THE PHILISTINES. BUT UNTIL THAT TIME THEY RULED THE LAND, TAKING THE OTHER INHABITANTS AND, IN GENERAL, CONTROLLING THEIR LIVES. THE NOTORIOUS GOLIATH OF GATH, WHO WAS KILLED BY DAVID, WAS ONE OF THE ANAKIMS. AFTER THIS INCIDENT WE HAVE NO FURTHER RECORD OF THE GIANTS.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back I asked my homosexual readers to respond to the question, "Are you glad you are gay, or would you rather be straight?" I was not surprised that the yesses won, but the volume of mail was astonishing. The last count was 75,875 responses, with 30-to-1 saying, "Yes, I'm glad I'm gay."

I asked for postcards only, but thousands of gays and lesbians wrote letters. It has been a busy time—and an enlightening one. Here are some sample responses:

From San Francisco: What a question! If I had a choice I'd be straight, white, possibly Swedish, 6 feet 1 inch tall and Protestant. My life would be easier, but I am not sure that an easy life is always the best life.

Chicago: We have four children. One of our sons is gay. He is the brightest and most sensitive, caring and thoughtful of the four. We often wondered if being gay made the difference and have concluded that it did.

Upland, Calif.: Are there any studies on what causes heterosexuality? Are people born straight or do they choose it? The straight folks I know seem perfectly normal to me. How about another poll?

Detroit: Am I glad I'm gay? You've got to be crazy. I've been beaten up, spat on and discriminated against in the job market. Who would choose it?

Columbus, Ohio: Yes, I'm glad I'm gay, but I regret that it took me 20 years to admit it to myself and 45 years to be open about it.

Oakland, Calif.: Actually, I am bisexual and I choose to be so. When lucky enough to be presented by nature with two options, why not take both?

Harrisburg, Pa.: I have known since I was 7 years of age that I was different. I'm an adult now and have been in a rewarding relationship for five years. I do not push my preference on anyone and ask only that people not persecute me for being who I am. God alone is my judge.

Portland, Ore.: For the first 36 years of my life I wanted desperately to be straight. I married and became the father of two beautiful children. I am a successful attorney. When I turned 40, four years after my divorce, I tried to straddle the fence—straight by day and gay by night. It didn't work. Finally, I met a terrific man and we are extremely happy. So, Ann, to answer your question, "Yes, I'm glad I'm gay" because that's who I am.

Yonkers, N.Y.: I'm a straight female who wishes she were a lesbian. Why? Because women are much more intelligent, caring, sensitive, generous, honest and decent than men. My girlfriends are fabulous. The men I know are vain, exploitive, painfully self-absorbed and boring.

Charleston, S.C.: Everyone knows black people don't choose to be black but that doesn't prevent discrimination. Do you HONESTLY believe if people accepted the fact that homosexuals were born that way, it would make a difference? I don't.

Lexington, Ky.: Am I glad I'm gay? My response is an unqualified YES. It's thrilling to know that there are people out there who would happily kill me because of my sexual orientation. I am delighted that the government discriminates against me at tax time and I can't file jointly. I'm ecstatic that I'm barred from serving my country in time of war. I'm overjoyed that all major religions reject my lifestyle. I love it that I could lose my job if the truth were known. Best of all, it's great to be viewed as an outcast by one's own family. This is what it means to be gay.

DEAR READERS: The following appeared in the Mayo Clinic Health Letter. It is an extremely thoughtful questionnaire that could prevent a great deal of grief in families:

Most older people prefer to live independently, in their own homes. But what if you can't care for yourself, yet you're not ill enough to be in a nursing home? Occasionally people opt for moving in with their adult children. Here are some questions to consider:

1. Do you really want to live with your son or daughter? Do they want you to live with them?
2. Can your family afford to have you live with them?
3. How easily can you adapt to your family's lifestyle and they to yours?
4. Will you feel like a visitor in their home?
5. What are the strengths and weaknesses of your relationship with your children? Comfortable? Compromising? Emotionally strained?
6. Can you continue to pursue hobbies you enjoy?
7. Can you keep in touch with your friends?
8. How much time do you expect your family to spend with you? If you are home alone during the day, will you feel bored, isolated or depressed?
9. Will you have your own room? How much personal space do you need?
10. Can you bring along a favorite chair? Are there stairs to climb?

11. Can you keep your car and driver's license? Are you willing or able to ride a bus? Do you have to depend on your family for transportation needs?

12. Can you help with the cooking and cleaning? Do you want to? Will your family let you?

13. Will you need help with your personal care? If you will, can your family accommodate your needs?

14. Can you help with household expenses?

15. If you can't manage your own financial affairs, who will assume this responsibility?

If you or your children have reservations about living together, consider a trial period.

Gifts for fun, fitness

Your can give someone the biggest gift of all: the great outdoors.

As the increasing popular fitness trend turns to outdoor sports all year round and in any kind of lime and community, more and more people are finding great gift ideas in accessories for jogging, biking, hiking, canoeing and other outdoor sports.

These outdoor sports products can include a baby jogger, a reflective vest for night walking, a strobe light for the back of a bike, or a fanny pack with adjustable bungee cords to keep cameras and other equipment safe.

Club hears program

Toujours Amis Study Club recently heard programs given by Deaf Smith County 4-H members. Katherine and Emily Fry, Susanne Baca and Ivory Isaacson presented 4-H method demonstrations teaching the club members how to "Pick A Perfect Present", recognize "Signals for Pesticide Safety" and prevent "A Day in the Life of a Mess" with laundry procedures. Not pictured are Brent Carlson and Justin Betzen who also gave a method demonstration.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: We are both very nearsighted and find it difficult to find dropped soap bars in the shower against the white tub, so I try to purchase a colored variety of our favorite soap, thus enabling us to see it before we step on it.

Along the same showering line, we each shave in the shower and do not want to use the same razor. Therefore I buy pink razors for myself and blue razors for my husband. There is never a mix-up in the shower. — H. A., Seabrook, Texas

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, PO Box 795000, San Antonio TX 78279 or fax it to 512-HELOISE. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

Decision near on new boys' basketball coach

Hereford boys' athletic director Danny Haney said that a press conference will be held early next week to announce a new boys' basketball coach. A committee made up of Haney, HISD Superintendent Charles Greenawalt and high school principal Terry Russell has met with two candidates and was to meet another today. They hope to make a decision this weekend, Haney said.

The search for a girls' basketball coach got underway in earnest this week, girls' athletic director Brenda Reeh said. She has talked by telephone to interested coaches, and might have a coach hired by the end of the school year, she said.

Freshmen host P-view; Varsity goes to Borger

Hereford's freshman baseball team will host Plainview for a doubleheader Saturday at Whiteface Field. The first game starts at noon.

The varsity will meet Borger at 1 p.m. Saturday in Borger. The Herd won the last meeting 2-0 April 7 in Hereford.

The Herd is 1-5 in District 1-4A and 4-16-2 overall. Borger is 2-4 and in fourth place in district--one place above Hereford. The Bulldogs are 10-9 overall.

Dumas and Randall lead the district with 5-1 records. Caprock is third at 4-2, and Pampa is tied with Hereford at 1-5. Overall, Dumas is 14-5; Randall is 17-5; Caprock is 11-8; and Pampa is 11-10.

Hereford's junior varsity is playing in a tournament in Lubbock today, and it will play Borger's JV as the second game of a double header Saturday in Borger.

Nichols, Snead lead Legends of Golf field

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Bogeying the third hole in a two-man, better-ball tournament is a lousy way to start. But for Bobby Nichols and J.C. Snead, it was motivation at the Legends of Golf.

"Bogies are very difficult to make up. But they happen. We realized that," Nichols said. He and Snead went on to shoot an 11-under-par 61 and tie for the first-round lead with Chi Chi Rodriguez and Dave Hill.

Nichols and Snead, making their second appearance at the Legends, had birdied the first two holes Thursday in the $770,000 tournament at the Barton Creek Country Club. Then, both missed the green and made 4 on the 153-yard, par 3 third.

"It makes you angry," Nichols said. "We got off to such a good start, birdieing one and two. You hate to just give it back."

They made up for the gaffe with an eagle at the fifth hole, birdies at eight, nine and six straight from 12 through 17. "J.C. hit every fairway except No. 18," Nichols said.

For Dave Hill, the secret was having the right partner.

"My partner just played up a storm. He made one mis-hit all day long, and that was at 18. I hit it out in the trees all day long except for 18," Hill said.

Hill did birdie the 546-yard par-5, one of three he added to the pair's total. Rodriguez made two eagle 3s, on the 500-yard eighth and the 527-yard 15th.

"It doesn't matter how one guy plays," Rodriguez said. "It's the team. We carried each other, we had fun. Every time I was out of the hole, Davy was there."

Hill saw it differently. "Chi Chi is being modest. I was as much help as a one-armed paper hanger."

Three teams were tied at 10-under 62 - defending champions Lee Trevino-Mike Hill, Jim Colbert-Tommy Aaron and Butch Baird-Gay Brewer.

Bruce Devlin and Don Bies were alone at 63, and that after taking a double bogey 6 on the 420-yard 16th hole when both hit approach shots into a creek guarding the green.

In the Legendary Champions division for players over 60, Charlie Owens and Billy Maxwell teamed for a 7-under 65. Owens made five birdies despite having lost the vision in his left eye, which he said severely hampers his short game.

"I've been trying to learn to play with one eye. I haven't really gotten adjusted to that," he said.

Owens said he lost sight in the eye last September due to high blood pressure. The lack of depth perception, he said, may have cost him a birdie on the par-5 18th hole.

"I was really looking forward to birdie on 18," said Owens, 62, who last won a tournament in 1986. "But it's been a long time since I've been in the lead of anything but the soup line. We both got a little shook up there."

Trailing by a shot at 66 were Bob Toski-Mike Fetchick and Freddie Hawkins-Howie Johnson.

Bay City's football coach indicted for sexual assault

BAY CITY, Texas (AP) - A grand jury has indicted Bay City High School's former athletic director and head football coach and a former junior high coach in connection with a student's sexual assaults.

Jim Richard Walker and Johnny Wooley are named in the Matagorda County grand jury's sealed indictments Wednesday.

The indictments, which were unsealed Thursday, name the two in connection with sexual assault of a child under the age of 17.

Walker, 49, stepped down as athletic director and head coach last month. The 29-year-old Wooley, former Bay City junior high coach, was arrested in Conroe and returned to Bay City.

The female student was the victim in two attacks, said Matagorda County District Attorney Danny Shindler.

He said the indictments charge Walker in an attack Nov. 20, 1990, and Wooley in a second assault Jan. 17, 1991.

Walker, accompanied by attorney Tom Uher of Bay City, surrendered to Matagorda County sheriff's officers Thursday. He was later released on a $10,000 bail bond.

Wooley, currently employed at Conroe High School, remained jailed in lieu of a $10,000 bail bond.

Shindler and investigator Mary Matocha of the Bay City Police Department would not say whether the attacks occurred on school property. Shindler said only that the assaults took place in Matagorda County.

Sonics overpower Warriors

By The Associated Press

The Seattle SuperSonics came up big against the Golden State Warriors on opening night of the NBA playoffs.

The Golden State Warriors, who scored 995 more points than Seattle during the regular season but lack a power player, couldn't handle the SuperSonics inside Thursday night, losing 117-109.

"They are bigger and more athletic than we are," Warriors coach Don Nelson said. "They beat us in all areas of the game. I'm a little discouraged. The matchup problems at our end are not going to go away."

The Warriors, playing with a homecourt advantage for the first time since 1977, were outrebounded 52-34. Shawn Kemp, a 6-foot-10, 245-pound forward starting at center despite the return from injury of 7-footer Benoit Benjamin, was Nelson's chief tormentor with 28 points and 16 rebounds.

Seattle led 96-80 after three quarters before the Warriors closed to 106-101 with 3:07 left. The two teams traded two baskets before Gary Payton made a reverse layup with 1:27 left, giving the Sonics a 112-105 lead.

"We had an inside mentality, but I thought the ball bounced our way a lot," Seattle coach George Karl said. "We kind of panicked a little bit down the stretch, but we were able to get back into it with our offensive rebounding."

Billy Owens scored 25 points, Sarunas Marciulionis 23 and Tim Hardaway 22 for third-seeded Golden State, which plays at home again on Saturday. Chris Mullin, who suffered a leg injury on Sunday, struggled throughout and finished with 16 points, nearly 10 under his regular-season average.

Trail Blazers 115, Lakers 102

Portland opened a 36-point lead in the first half and scored a team playoff-record 75 points by halftime, then coasted in the second half.

Cliff Robinson scored a career playoff-high 24 points, Clyde Drexler had 22 points and 10 assists, Buck Williams 21 points and 13 rebounds and Terry Porter 20 points for the Trail Blazers, top-seeded in the Western Conference.

Trailing 74-41 at halftime, the Lakers scored 16 straight points early in the third quarter and closed to 89-74 with 1:08 left in the third quarter. The closest they got in the fourth period was 13 points.

Byron Scott and Terry Teague scored 22 points apiece for the Lakers.

Cavaliers 120, Nets 113

Despite 40 points, 16 rebounds and nine assists from Brad Daugherty, Cleveland trailed New Jersey 111-110 with 1:36 left before outscoring the Nets 10-2 down the stretch.

The Cavaliers, who haven't won a playoff series since 1976, won it at the foul line, outscoring the Nets 39-15 on free throws in the game and 21-6 in the fourth quarter. Cleveland made all 21 of its fourth-quarter free throws.

Daugherty's 40 points were a Cleveland playoff record, as were the 40 points by the Nets' Drazen Petrovic. Mark Price scored 35 points for the Cavaliers.

Celtics 124, Pacers 113

Reggie Lewis scored 36 points for Boston, but Indiana had a 106-103 advantage with 5:22 remaining before a 15-2 run put the Celtics in control.

Kevin Gamble triggered the decisive run with a short jumper, and Kevin McHale followed with a 15-footer, putting Boston ahead to stay.

With injured starters Larry Bird and Dee Brown watching on the bench, the Celtics outdueled the Pacers down the stretch despite being outscored 24-0 on 3-pointers for the game. The 15-2 run gave the Celtics a 118-108 lead with 1:33 left.

McHale scored 21 points, Gamble 20 and Robert Parish 19.

Reggie Miller finished with 29 points, including three 3-pointers. Detlef Schrempf had 21 points and George McCloud 17 with three 3-pointers.

Despite the long-range shooting discrepancy, the Celtics outrebounded the Pacers 48-24.

Three NBA teams change coaches

By The Associated Press

The start of the playoffs signaled the end for three NBA coaches.

Paul Westhead of Denver and Frank Hamblen of Milwaukee were fired on Thursday, while Cotton Fitzsimmons resigned as coach of the Phoenix Suns to rejoin the front office.

Westhead lost his job because he didn't produce enough excitement or victories in Denver. His teams went 20-62 and 24-58, the two worst records in franchise history.

"We feel it is imperative that we move in a different direction," general manager Bernie Bickerstaff said.

Hamblen became Milwaukee's interim coach last December when Del Harris quit to work fulltime in the Bucks' front office. The Bucks, who were 8-9 when Hamblen took over, finished with a 31-51 record and missed the playoffs for the first time in 13 years.

"This decision does not reflect on Frank's coaching abilities," said John Steinmiller, vice president of business operations. "Frank's a good coach. We just thought it was time for a change."

Phoenix finished third in the tough Pacific Division with a 53-29 record and made the playoffs, but Fitzsimmons decided it was time for a career change.

"To be able to coach that team on the court was fantastic," said Fitzsimmons, who has coached the Suns since 1988. "I told my players they've given me a great ride on the Orient Express."

Fitzsimmons, who won 805 regular-season games in his 19-year NBA coaching career, helped turn a lottery team into one of the league's best in four years. The Suns open a best-of-5 playoff series against the San Antonio Spurs tonight in Phoenix.

"To be able to put a team together was great," said Fitzsimmons, who also coached the Suns from 1970-1972.

The Suns' new coach will be Paul Westphal, who coached at two small colleges in Phoenix before he was hired in 1988 as Fitzsimmons' assistant. Westphal, a former Suns star, will take over after the playoffs.

"Right now, I'm just an assistant coach and we're trying to focus on the playoffs," Westphal said.

Westhead revised his fastbreak style this season and built a more traditional attack around rookie center Dikembe Mutombo. But the Nuggets didn't show much improvement after going 17-24 in the first half of the season.

"Paul came into a very difficult situation," Bickerstaff said. "He has laid a solid foundation with our young players that will be significant in their development in subsequent years."

No decision has been made on a new coach.

"I'm going to take three days off to collect my thoughts and return on Monday," Bickerstaff said. "I'd like to have someone in place by the time of the draft (June 24), but that timetable won't force my decision."

In a statement released by the Nuggets, Westhead said he "did everything possible to help this team in a forward direction. We made considerable strides this season with the acquisition and development of Dikembe Mutombo and Mark Macon. With another successful draft, I feel the team will be on its way to a bright future. It is unfortunate... that I will not be a part of this positive swing."

Royals roll over for Mussina, Orioles

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Another day, another set of stats showing just how bad the Kansas City Royals are this season.

Add those two numbers following the Royals' seventh straight loss, an 8-1 defeat by Baltimore:

- Kansas City just completed the worst homestand in its 24-year history, going 1-8.

- Ninth-place hitters are batting .364 against the Royals. Mark McLemore's first career four-hit game led the Orioles to their seventh consecutive victory.

"That's just embarrassing. There's nothing more to say about it," Royals manager Hal McRae said.

Mike Mussina (2-0) tossed a six-hitter and became the latest pitcher to look good against Kansas City. He struck out four and walked one.

"Mussina is a good young pitcher and he has good stuff," McRae said. "You don't want to take anything away from him when he pitches that well, but everyone has been shutting us down so far."

While the Orioles are off to a 10-5 start that is their best beginning since 1971, Kansas City has the worst record in the majors at 1-14. It doesn't figure to get much better much sooner for the Royals, who begin a weekend series tonight in Toronto against the bruising Blue Jays.

Mussina, 23, has made 15 starts in the majors and 11 times has allowed fewer than three runs. The Orioles made it simple for Mussina, giving him an 8-0 lead in the sixth.

Brady Anderson homered for Baltimore and David Segui, playing for the injured Randy Milligan, hit two doubles. Mark Davis (0-2) lasted only 2 1-3 innings and gave up two runs on four hits and two walks.

Blue Jays 13, Indians 8

Kelly Gruber homered twice, doubled and drove in four runs as Toronto rapped a season-high 15 hits and ripped Cleveland at the SkyDome.

Joe Carter, who extended his hitting streak to 16 games, and Devon White each added two-run homers for the Blue Jays. Albert Belle homered and drove in four runs for the Indians.

Belle's third homer, a two-run shot, capped a three-run first inning against Todd Stottlemyre (2-1). Toronto came back with four runs in the second against Dave Otto (1-2) and tagged Eric Bell and Brad Arnsberg for nine more runs in the next three innings.

Tigers 11, Rangers 5

Mickey Tettleton hit a three-run double in a five-run first inning and Detroit again used an early burst to beat the Rangers.

The Tigers, who scored six times in Wednesday's 12-8 victory, swept the three-game series in Texas. Detroit had 27 runs and 36 hits in the sweep.

After two innings, Detroit led 6-5 and the teams had combined for 15 hits. The Tigers added two runs in the third inning and Milt Cuyler hit a three-run homer in the seventh.

Les Lancaster (1-1) relieved Frank Tanana in the second inning and shut out Texas on three hits for 4 2-3 innings. John Doherty pitched 3 1-3 innings for his first major league save.

Cecil Fielder hit an RBI single in the second as Detroit roughed up Kevin Brown (3-1).

Brewers 3, Red Sox 2

Bill Wegman won a duel with Roger Clemens in rainy County Stadium, a day after the teams had their game postponed because of bad weather.

Milwaukee stopped Clemens' streak of 20 scoreless innings with a three-run fourth. An error by third baseman Wade Boggs, a sacrifice fly by Darryl Hamilton and a single by Dante Bichette scored the runs.

Clemens (2-2) went the whole way, allowing seven hits. He struck out eight and walked one. Boston scored twice against Wegman (2-1) in the second on Tony Pena's broken-bat double. Wegman gave up six hits in 7 1-3 innings, and Doug Henry got his second save.

Mariners 3, Twins 2

Greg Briley singled home the go-ahead run in the seventh inning and Seattle kept Scott Erickson winless.

The Mariners scored twice in the seventh against Erickson (0-2), a 20-game winner last season. Jay Buhner led off with his first home run of the season and Briley hit his RBI single with two outs.

Russ Swan (2-2) allowed two runs on five hits in seven innings. Mike Schooler pitched the ninth for his fourth save.

Agosto hits Boston; Mets win

NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Mets felt like it was their lucky day even before beating St. Louis 1-0 in the 13th inning.

For nine of those innings, Bret Saberhagen pitched shutout baseball and gave up only five harmless hits. He struck out seven and walked none.

This was the Saberhagen the Mets wanted when they traded Gregg Jefferies, Kevin McReynolds and Keith Miller to Kansas City last December for the two-time Cy Young Award winner.

The Mets won the game when Juan Agosto's pitch grazed Daryl Boston with one out and the bases loaded in the 13th. New York got to that point because of Saberhagen and some clutch relief pitching by Paul Gibson, Jeff Innis and winner John Franco (2-0).

In his first three starts of the season, Saberhagen did a very good impersonation of a very bad pitcher. Entering Thursday's game against the Cardinals, he was 0-2 with a 13.15 ERA.

In Saberhagen's first 13 innings, he had allowed 22 hits and the opposition was batting .373 against him.

Saberhagen did not get a decision against the Cardinals, but he did regain his confidence and showed the fans at Shea Stadium just how good he can be.

The Cardinals had runners on first and third in the fourth but Saberhagen struck out Milt Thompson swinging with an explosive fastball.

In Saberhagen's first start of the season at St. Louis, he gave up seven runs on nine hits in 2 1-3 innings. But this was a different Saberhagen.

"In my last start I had that one bad inning (five runs) in Montreal," Saberhagen said, "but I was happier with my location and today it was the best it's been."

There were only two other NL games Thursday, both in the afternoon. Montreal beat Pittsburgh 6-3 and Philadelphia defeated Chicago 8-2.

The Mets, who swept the three-game series, took advantage of their bases-loaded situation after the Cardinals failed on one in the 11th.

The Cardinals loaded the bases with none out in the 11th off Innis. But Innis got Todd Zeile to hit into a third-to-home force play, struck out Pedro Guerrero and got Brian Jordan on a grounder to third.

Dave Magadan singled with one out in the 13th off Agosto (0-2) and Rodney McCray pinch-ran. Junior Nohea followed with a looping opposite-field single to right. McCray then stole third and pinch-hitter Charlie O'Brien walked to load the bases.

Agosto, a left-hander, had a 1-2 count on the lefty-swinging Boston when he grazed him on a uniform button with the pitch to score McCray.

St. Louis starter Donovan Osborne also had a solid performance, allowing only four hits in seven innings.

Expos 6, Pirates 3

At Olympic Stadium, Montreal took advantage of five errors to stop Pittsburgh's nine-game winning streak.

The Expos scored twice in the first inning, helped by misplays from left fielder Cecil Espy, catcher Mike LaValliere and third baseman Steve Buechele.

Mark Gardner (2-1) gave up seven hits and left in the ninth inning after the Pirates scored twice. John Wetteland closed for his third save.

Phillies 8, Cubs 2

At Wrigley Field, Tommy Greene pitched two-hit ball for seven innings and Kim Batiste hit his first major league home run to lead Philadelphia.

Newman's little contributions may keep him with Rangers

By STEVE CAMPBELL

Fort Worth Star-Telegram
ARLINGTON (AP) - Al Newman hasn't gotten around to renting an apartment just yet. He lives on the edge of the Texas Rangers' roster, right next to the black hole of lost apartment deposits. Until Newman gets some assurance he fits into Rangers' plans beyond the next Arlington Stadium dot race, home stands and road trips alike will be a succession of stays in hotel rooms.

Newman makes less than one-fifth of the average major-league baseball salary - but then, his career batting average isn't all that many oh-fers away from Mario Mendoza territory. His job description calls for filling in at a moment's notice, hacking away against the toughest pitchers, picking ground balls when there is no margin for error and keeping a Mr. Congeniality disposition.

If one of the occupational hazards is getting dismissed as casually, as well, an Al Newman baseball card, then so be it.

"You know what's the hardest part?" Newman said. "You get a little kid coming up to you and saying, 'What position do you play?' You say, 'Utility infielder,' and they go, 'Oh, you warm the bench.' A lot of people don't realize your bench players are almost as important as the starters."

Little Albert Dwayne Newman, who is not to be confused with "Mad" man Alfred E., has made a career out of doing little things. Have glove, will catch. Have bat, will bunt. Have head, will use it. Have backside, will sit on it until told otherwise. Have smile, will share it. Here is a 31-year-old man who can take an empty glass and marvel at how it isn't broken.

At 5-foot-9 and 190 pounds, Newman hasn't hit a major-league home run since July 6, 1986. That was 1,744 at-bats ago, leaving Newman with the longest homerless streak among current major-leaguers.

"I never expected I would be playing 6 1/2 years," Newman said. "When I came to the big leagues, I remember making $40,000 and I thought, 'I'm rich.' The next year, it went to $62,000, and I went, 'A couple more years like this and I'll be on the gravy train.'"

The switch-hitting Newman brings a .226 career batting average - 11 points higher than Mendoza - into a three-game series against the Detroit Tigers that begins today at Arlington Stadium. Newman never has hit above .253, accumulated more than 446 at-bats, scored more than 62 runs or driven in more than 38 runs in a season. While Newman has been drafted four times, traded three times, encouraged to try free agency once and released once, he has never wanted for work long.

He also has twice as many World Series rings as the rest of the Rangers' active roster.

"I think what I bring to the team is a guy who is a very positive," Newman said. "I like to pep the other guys up. You've got to know how to put the other guys at ease when things aren't going well. You're not a cheerleader, but you're a bench psychologist. You tell a guy things are better than he thinks, even though you're dying to get in there. A lot of guys don't enjoy it."

Nobody - ever - has filled a utility role quite like Newman has. Newman is the only player in major-league history to play at least 25 games at second base, third base and shortstop for four consecutive seasons. Though the presence of the righty/lefty-hitting tandem of Dickie Thon and Jeff Huxton has kept Newman away from shortstop this season, he still has appeared in 10 of the Rangers' first 14 games.

Newman has 18 at-bats, two singles (one on a bunt), a double, two runs batted in, no errors and a team-leading two sacrifices. On a team long on power and short on intricacy, Newman's ability to field a ground ball without endangering everyone around him makes him somewhat of a revolutionary. Two years ago, in a poll of managers, Newman was voted the best utility player in the American League.

"He kind of adds some things the team didn't have before he came here," Rangers infield coach Toby Harrah said. "Someone who can get on base. Someone who can bunt. He's not going to make many mistakes in close ballgames."

As a second baseman last season, Newman had a .992 fielding percentage and 5.58 chances per nine inning, compared with .981 and 5.04 for Gold Glover Roberto Alomar of Toronto. At shortstop, Newman had a better fielding percentage (.986 to .965) than Huxton while averaging nearly as many chances per nine innings (4.63 to 4.81). At third, Newman had a .964 fielding percentage and 2.72 chances per nine innings, compared with .943 and 2.38 for the Rangers' Dean Palmer.

Of course, it's Honus (as in Wagner) Newman to Rangers manager Bobby Valentine. As a member of the Minnesota Twins from 1987-91, Newman was forever finding ways to beat the Rangers. Before a 10-for-55 tailspin against the Rangers the last two seasons, Newman had a .266 career average against them. Newman has been a particular pain in the earned-run average of Bobby Witt, going 9 for 24 with eight walks. More than that, he has thwarted numerous would-be Rangers rallies with seeing-is-believing defensive plays.

"If you want to know what I thought of him, look at how he played against us," Valentine said. "He always played against the tough pitchers - Bobby Witt, Nolan Ryan, Kevin Brown. He would play second base, shortstop, third base. He hurt us with the glove. He did the little things that win you games. I would go, 'Who is that, Newman or Wagner?'"

WagnerNewman signed with the Rangers on April 3 as a free agent. The Cincinnati Reds actually had first crack at Newman but released him in the final week of spring training. When it comes to paying $175,000 for players, Rangers general manager Tom Grieve has carte blanche from ownership. Newman has started six games for the Rangers, five at second base and one at third. He has pinch-run twice and come in as a defensive replacement twice. In a 9-1 victory against Seattle on April 9, Newman flip-flopped from second to third and back to second.

"I've always thought he was a guy who played with a lot of enthusiasm and had a winning air about him," Grieve said. "A below-average offensive player and a utility defensive player who when you fill out the roster you like to have because he goes about his business with a smile on his face."

Then again, why not smile?

Earth Team volunteers needed

This is National Volunteer Week and the Soil Conservation Service is looking for people to join the Earth Team, the volunteer arm of SCS.

Anyone with an interest in conservation work can apply. People who volunteer their time and talents to SCS can help with a variety of unique conservation programs being carried out in the community.

Each and every volunteer can make a difference. Earth Team volunteers can work part time, full time, outdoors, or in the office. There are a couple of volunteer jobs needed to be filled including conservation technician assistant and conservation clerk.

Anyone interested in joining the Earth Team can stop by the local SCS office for more information.

Operation survival

Earth: it's the only planet we've got.

Each of us can make a difference in saving it. It doesn't take major life-style changes. Small step go a long way toward saving water, conserving energy, and reducing trash and pollution.

But what about the environment in which we work? Thousands of American workplaces contain toxic substances that not only threaten the lives of workers, but also pose a danger to the communities where they're located.

The 1.3 million member United Food and Commercial Workers Union (UFCW) is concerned.

Each year, about 10,000 workers die and another 340,000 are disabled by diseases they develop from exposure to toxic substances. Corporate polluters threaten not only workers but also the lives and health of people living nearby. The same substances that poison workers inside also can poison the environment outside.

Unions and community groups worked together to make the right to know about toxins in the workplace the law.

The next step is to work together for the right to act to make sure that employers eliminate hazards and clean up workplaces and communities.

Every inhabitant of Planet Earth should have clean air to breathe and safe water to drink.

NEW YORK (AP) - In the latest round of Trump: The Divorce, real estate developer Donald Trump is threatening to withhold this year's $350,000 alimony payment to ex-wife Ivana.

At a court hearing Thursday, Trump's lawyer said Mrs. Trump violated an agreement to keep quiet about Trump and their marriage when she said in an interview that she had gotten her ex-husband's "last $10 million."

Attorney Judd Burstein says that means Trump doesn't have to make this year's payment, due in August.

Trump said later he has always paid $300,000 in child support and will continue to do so. A message left for Mrs. Trump wasn't immediately returned.

Diabetes needs no help to hurt heart

Diabetes is bad enough alone. Don't make it worse.

By itself, diabetes increases your risk of developing heart disease, says the American Heart Association. More than 80 percent of diabetics die of some form of heart of blood vessel disease. It can also lead to kidney disease, blindness and nerve damage.

Your chance of having a heart attack or stroke is even greater when diabetes is combined with other risk factors for heart disease. Obesity and physical inactivity are often related to diabetes. These are two more risk factors that you can change.

So if you have diabetes, try to control your other risk factors: cigarette smoking, high blood cholesterol and high blood pressure. Major risk factors that can't be changed are heredity, male sex and increasing age.

Diabetes mellitus is the inability of the body to produce or respond to insulin properly. Insulin allows the body to use glucose (sugar). The two major forms of the disease are juvenile diabetes and adult-onset diabetes, but the adult-onset disease most often affects middle-aged and overweight people.

Diabetes is more prevalent - and more deadly - among Hispanics. For example, Hispanics are three times more likely than other races to develop adult-onset diabetes, according to the recent federal government Hispanic Health and Nutrition Examination Survey. Hispanics are also more likely to suffer complications from diabetes.

These differences are in part due to greater cultural and economic barriers to health care.

Unfortunately, there's no known cure for diabetes. The worse it gets, the greater the chance of complications such as high blood pressure. And diabetes can go undetected in a mild form for many years.

That's why getting regular check-ups is smart. Your doctor may suggest that you change your diet to one that's high in complex carbohydrates low in fat and cholesterol. You may need to take medicine.

And remember to deal with those risk factors for heart disease that you can change: cigarette smoking, high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol, obesity and physical inactivity. Diabetes needs no company.

CICERO, Ind. (AP) - Jeanne White, mother of teen-age AIDS crusader Ryan White, plans to marry a neighbor who befriended her late son.

Ms. White said Thursday she is engaged to Roy Ginder, a construction worker. They plan to marry in December, she said.

"I never thought there would be another man in my life, but now there is," Ms. White said. "Our daughters kind of fixed us up, that's what so funny about it."

Ms. White, 44, is divorced and has an 18-year-old daughter, Andrea. Ginder, 37, is divorced and has three teen-age children.

WHEN YOU HAVE SOMETHING TO SELL, NEWSPAPER SELLS IT BEST.

No matter what it is you're selling, newspaper can sell it best. You can show it. Describe it.

Explain it. Compare it. Offer a coupon for it. And cover your entire marketplace with it. All in one day.

And for a lot less than radio and TV.

And the unique thing about newspaper is that it adds credibility to your message.

People believe it when they read it in the paper.

Maybe that's why retailers use newspaper more than any other medium?

Newspaper. It delivers.
