McCathern: 'Combest should have known'

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Democratic congressional candidate Gerald McCathern said Tuesday that U.S. Rep. Larry Combest should have known there was an effort underway to impose the diesel tax that Combest and others are trying to fight.

The diesel tax would be imposed on farmers and other off-road users formerly exempt from the tax on April 1. Those users would still be exempt from the tax, which will be collected at the wholesale level, but will have to apply for quarterly refunds.

McCathern said the original diesel tax legislation was passed out of the Senate Finance committee last Oct. 14, two months before the provision was placed in the Omnibus Spending Bill which passed in December.

"Anybody with a decent staff would be watching what comes out of the Senate, especially when it affects everybody in the district, like this diesel tax does," McCathern said.

National Agriculture Week is being observed here and across the country this week. Ag Week comes as natural as the sunrise in Deaf Smith County, where the land has always been the primary industry and asset.

Locally, farmers and ranchers are invited to an annual hamburger cookout on Saturday at Hereford State Bank. The event is sponsored by the bank and the local new car dealers and implement dealers. But the places where the week should be celebrated are the cities, by millions of people who rarely see plowed earth or cattle grazing in green pastures.

What these folks do see, in abundance, are choice steaks and pork chops, hamburger and breads and packaged foods of all kinds that the American consumer enjoys in more abundance than anyone in the world. At a time when United States industrial productivity continues to drop, this nation leads the world in agriculture—and feeds not only its people but a large part of the globe.

U.S. agriculture is an industrial wonder, and often a political whipping boy. A small percentage of Americans today make a living by the land but their production ripples out to make them and related businesses the largest industrial group.

The ag industry is unique and the reason for the difference may be as natural as the sunrise. Things grow by the sun, not by some man-made schedule, and the farmer fits his work schedule to the sun—and to the rains and other weather. This is the only way farming works, the only way it can.

Sure, there are faults in the farm program, some of them developed over the years as the U.S. followed and enjoyed a policy of cheap food. Mayors of large cities in the northeast may clamor for more federal monies as they point accusingly at the farm program, but they do it on full stomachs that required only a small percentage of their disposable income. There will be changes and farmers will adapt to them as they have mastered the many skills of modern farming—a business made even more complex by federal rules and programs.

So, this week, we join in a celebration of Agriculture Week, with gratitude to that special breed of people who know well when the sun rises and sets, so that we all can live well.

Mars to Plainview

Betzen new Energas head

Kelvin Betzen, a native of Hereford, has been named by Energas as district manager of the Hereford office, an area that includes the towns of Hereford, Friona and Dimmitt.

Betzen succeeds Jack Mars, who was named as the Plainview district manager. The Plainview District includes Plainview, Tulia, Hale Center, Floydada, Lockney and Quitaque. Mars had been manager in Hereford since 1983.

Betzen was born in Hereford and is a graduate of Hereford High School. He attended West Texas State University and joined Energas in 1971 as a construction trainee. After holding positions of service foreman in Canyon and Amarillo, Betzen was promoted to manager in Dimmitt in 1984. He had been Amarillo service superintendent since 1985.

An active Kiwanis Club member in Canyon and Amarillo, Betzen received the Kiwanian of the Year award in Canyon in 1982. He was also board member of the American Cancer Society. Betzen and his wife, Cathy, have three children.

Mars was born in Tulia. He joined Energas in 1964 and was promoted to irrigation representative in Plainview in 1968. Littlefield office manager in 1970, and manager in Lamesa in 1974. While in Hereford, Mars was Rotary Club president, served as president of the Industrial Foundation, United Way vice president, and was vice president of the day care board.

Farmers, Japan bashed

While "Japan-bashing" seems to be in vogue, Japan is the leading importer of seven major commodities exported by the United States.

Japan also ranks second in five others, and is in the top nine in six other farm-related commodities.

This is not something new—Japan has been the top farm export market for American-raised and processed goods for five years.

Japan, though, may be tiring of the complaints heard from the U.S. that Japan needs to "reduce import barriers." Sadanori Yamanaka, leader of the farm lobby of the Japanese Liberal Democratic Party, recently said the Japanese may ban imports of U.S. wheat and corn and buy from Argentina.

"It sounds like the second verse of Taiwan's threats to use feed grains to retaliate for the U.S. textile issue of two years ago," said Elbert Harp, executive director of the National Grain Sorghum Producers Association.

"Always, it seems, the pawn of retaliation is U.S. feed grains," said Harp. "Why? The answer is simply that feed grains have made a positive contribution to the U.S. balance of trade for the past 30 years. The world takes it for granted."

"Now that the U.S. trade deficit has bulged to an estimated $172 billion, it is time to put U.S. feed grain exports in their proper perspective."

"If every bushel of feed grains produced in the U.S. in 1987 had been sold into the export market at full price (farm value plus deficiency payment), the additional income would have reduced the U.S. trade deficit by less than 10 percent."

Common sense bears that out. Creating the widening trade gap between the U.S. and the rest of the world is the difference in the price of products imported by each country. Japan has filled our highways with cars and our homes with televisions and radios. The U.S. has filled Japan with grains and produce—and, yes, even a little beef.

The difference comes from the difference in those goods. A Japanese car costs considerably more than a bushel of grain.

Japan, however, may be able to import more, if the Japanese marketplace and its high tariffs are restructured. Japanese currently pay $30 a pound for steak, 45 cents for oranges, and even $1.62 a pound for rice—96 cents higher than U.S. consumers.

Japan is the No. 1 importer of American feed grains, wheat, livestock and meat, tobacco, fruit, cotton and poultry, and is No. 2 in soybeans, hides and skins, feeds and fodders, vegetables and tree nuts.

In 1987, Japan purchased $5.1 billion worth of U.S. farm goods—$3.8 billion more than the next largest importer, the Netherlands. If you put all 12 countries in the European common Market together, they would be only $1.2 billion ahead of Japan.

Walcott land answer near

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

The wrestling match between Mrs. N.A. Brown and Sons and the Walcott School District over the school's attempt to purchase clear title to its land will be settled in bankruptcy court April 4, said Superintendent Bill McLaughlin at the Walcott school board meeting Tuesday.

Walcott school board member Ernest Brown has been fighting the school's attempt to obtain title to 15.39 acres of land which Mrs. N.A. Brown & Sons (Ernest's family) deeded to the school in 1980.

But the school board wants the title because without it, Mrs. N.A. Brown & Sons has the full right to seize the school structures if the school district were abolished, said McLaughlin.

"We (the school board) offered the Browns $4,216 in December for the land, but they wouldn't accept it, saying that the school already had the deed to the land and didn't need to purchase it," said McLaughlin.

Ernest, in a previous interview, said, "We don't want the land or this school right now. It's not our concern to get it. But somebody needs to be in control when the school is abandoned."

So now the bankruptcy court, which had issued on a stay the Browns' holdings, will need to lift the stay, and if the Browns and the school district cannot agree on a price, the school district will pay the fair market price for the 15.39 acres.

"Chuck Hester (school district's lawyer) said the price the appraiser will set will be less than what we originally offered, but this isn't for sure," said McLaughlin.

"The school board originally offered a high price because we wanted to get this thing settled out of court, but it looks like that's where we're going to end up anyway."

TEA can't investigate possible Brown conflicts

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

There may be a conflict of interest concerning two Walcott school board members, but the Texas Education Association can't move on it without written complaints, said a TEA official.

Walcott school board member Ernest Brown has voted in several school board meetings regarding the school district's attempt to purchase the title to 15.39 acres which Ernest and his family deeded to the district in 1980.

"We need written complaints with documentation to look at before we come up to Walcott and alter its accreditation," said Joe Randow, a program director with TEA's accreditation division. "And even if we have the proof in hand, we'd have to get with the board and see where the conflicts are."

Randow added that an independent audit of the school district should bring any conflict of interest to the sur-

Postage going higher

By the Associated Press

Higher postage rates, including a 25-cent charge for first-class letters, will take effect April 3, the Postal Service announced Tuesday.

The rate hikes come after 10 months of study and hearings about postage rates. It is the first increase in rates since February 1985, when first-class rates went from 20 cents to 22 cents.

John L. Griesemer, chairman of the Postal Service board of Governors, said the service has been "managing the costs of operating a growing universal delivery system and moving a volume of mail that has nearly doubled" since 1972, the first year of the semi-autonomous postal service.

Rising even higher than first-class rates will be the third-class rate—it will cost more to send "junk" mail. Advertising material rates will go up 24.9 percent, while second-class rates (for newspapers and magazines) will go up 18.1 percent.

The 25-cent rate is only for the first ounce of first-class mail. Each ounce of additional weight will cost 20 cents instead of the present 17 cents, and postcards will cost 15 cents, up from the current 14 cents.

Local Roundup

Criminal mischief reported

The Hereford Police Department reported two incidents of criminal mischief Tuesday including an incident in the 500 block of Ave. H in which a vehicle was damaged, and in the 100 block of S Centre St., in which a window valued at $25 was damaged.

Other offenses included a runaway juvenile reported in the 300 block of Adelito Calle; burglary of a motor vehicle reported in the 100 block of Oak St. in which a purse valued at $20 was taken; a dog bite was reported in the 700 block of Ave. H.

Assault was reported in the 700 block of E. Park Avenue and a dog was reportedly being shot with a pellet gun in the 700 block of Ave. H.

Hereford firefighters were called to a well house fire on U.S. Highway 385 which, said Fire Marshal Jay Spain, was not heavily damaged.

Sixteen citations were issued and one accident was reported at Bradley Street and 19th Street.

More merchandise stolen

The Deaf Smith County sheriff's office reported that more than $150 was stolen from the Roland Stables located off of north Avenue K. Tack was stolen from the stables several weeks ago, and 1 more was recently discovered stolen.

County authorities also arrested a 22-year-old man on a bench warrant.

Slightly cooler

Tonight will be partly cloudy during the evening with a less than 20 percent chance of isolated thunderstorms. The low will be 42, with southwest winds at 5 to 15 mph.

Thursday will be partly cloudy, windy, and cooler, with a high of 75. West winds will be 20 to 30 mph and gusty.

This morning's low at KPAN was 42 after Tuesday's high of 82.

Insurance industry lays no claim to accusations that it jacked up liability rates

AUSTIN (AP) — Insurance industry officials vehemently denied they plotted to drive up liability rates, saying lawsuits filed by Texas and seven other states are politically motivated.

The suits accused dozens of insurance companies of conspiring to create the liability insurance crisis, making coverage unavailable or too costly for many governments and businesses.

Texas filed suit Tuesday in state district court in Travis County while seven other states filed in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Aetna Casualty and Surety Co. spokesman Steven Perelman said the action "should be seen for what it is — another political move by political officeholders who have consistently opposed any and all efforts to address the real problems of the nation's liability system."

Any business decisions made by Aetna executives are made independently, Perelman said.

David Ostwald — a vice president of the Insurance Services Office which is named in the suits — called the charges "unfounded and meritless."

"We've conducted our operations properly and legally, and ISO intends to vigorously defend itself against the state attorney generals' allegations," he said.

In announcing the state lawsuit, Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said the defendants "have sucked the blood of our nation's economic well-being."

The crisis was artificially created to drive up rates, change policies to provide less coverage for higher premiums and restructure the civil justice system to obtain more protection from lawsuit judgments, Mattox charged.

California Attorney General John Van de Kamp said at a news conference in San Francisco that the companies, through concerted pressure and threats of boycotts, virtually eliminated coverage that was previously available for property damage that occurs during the term of a policy but is discovered later, and for damage caused by pollution.

"It was the public and the consumer who paid the price for this collusive exercise in corporate greed," he said.

Breakup may be in order for ailing First RepublicBank

DALLAS (AP) — Ailing First RepublicBank Corp. may have to divest itself of some of its banks to become more attractive to investors, experts say.

First RepublicBank, weakened by a run on deposits and multimillion-dollar losses, received a $1 billion injection of capital last week from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

But because it could take as much as $5 billion to rescue the nation's 13th-largest bank holding company, banking regulators are considering breaking up the holding company as a marketing alternative.

"It's a very large bank for someone else to acquire," said Tanya Azarck, a banking analyst with New York-based Standard & Poor's Corp. "I don't see anyone on the scene that's willing to do that."

The holding company's banks in major markets could be packaged together or in regional or in statewide combinations, analysts said.

"The first thing you think of is splitting the company into bite-size morsels," said James Sexton, a former director of supervision at the FDIC who is a consultant at Bracewell & Patterson, an Austin, Texas law firm.

FDIC Chairman L. William Seidman said, "that certainly is an option."

No spokesman for First Republic Bank was available Tuesday to comment on the idea.

First Republic reported a 1987 loss of $656.8 million, $3.92 billion in problem assets and had deposit outflows of more than $2 billion this year. Assets total about $33.2 billion.

The bank holding company, however, is in the process of consolidating some of its banks, which could make a breakup more difficult. Those moves already have cut the number of banks from 103 to 73, and plans are to continue mergings until only 40 remain.

The holding company has banks in Dallas, Austin, Houston and San Antonio.

The Texas lawsuit was filed under the state's antitrust, deceptive trade practices and consumer protection laws.

That suit named the Insurance Services Office, a 1,400-member non-profit rate and policy advisory organization, and eight companies that served on its executive committee.

They include Aetna Casualty and Surety Co., Cigna Corp., Fireman's Fund Insurance Co., Hartford Fire Insurance Co., Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co., The Travelers Insurance Co. and USF&G Corp.

Also named were the Reinsurance Association of America and reinsurers Merrett Non-Marine Syndicate No. 799 and Robin A.G. Jackson. Merrett is part of Lloyd's of London, and Jackson is its underwriter.

The attorneys general of California, New York, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Massachusetts and Alabama filed similar suits in U.S. District Court in San Francisco, naming 32 insurance companies, underwriters and associations.

Van de Kamp said Arizona would file in the same court today.

Mattox said the Texas suit was filed in state court because "Texas has one of the toughest, best antitrust laws in the nation."

The lawsuits came after more than two years of investigation by the attorneys general for the eight states, Mattox said.

The Texas lawsuit seeks an injunction to prohibit illegal activities, civil penalties for the state and restitution for consumers. Civil penalties could be up to $1 million for each violation of the state antitrust law for the corporate defendants.

The suit also asks the court for permission to take away the Insurance Services Office's certificate of authority to do business in Texas.

Arsenic and Old Lace to be presented by HHS

The Hereford High School one-act play, scenes from Arsenic and Old Lace, will be presented Thursday at 7:15 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center.

Admission will be by donation. The play was presented recently in North Zone UIL competition. Cast members Sandra Bromlow, Jim Bob Parker and Bruce Williams were named to the honorable mention All-Star cast, and Truman Hill was offered a full tuition scholarship to Amarillo College for his performance as Dr. Einstein in the competition.

Other cast members include Josie Fogo, Carl Savage, Kevin Lindell, Adrian Castillo, Harold Sanders, Sandra Strafuss, Todd Culp and Johnny Marry. The crew included Doug Stewart, Elisa Smithers, and Delia Gonzales, while Cathy Smith, Julie Garcia, Robert Leal and Celia Tijerina were alternates.

The play was directed by Lana Hall and John Claypool.

McCathern

"My understanding is that what goes into a conference committee is open for compromise. That's when something should have been done. This diesel tax was not something additional thrown in an hour before the vote. It's something that should have been worked on before it got to the conference committee."

"I also realize there were a lot of pork-barrel things in there we didn't like, but the nuclear waste amendment was in there too. I don't know of anything more important to Deaf Smith county and the people of this district."

McCathern also pointed out that Combest's bill to rescind the diesel tax collections on farmers, oil field workers and other off-road users is not the only bill on the floor that would rescind the measure, "but that's what he (Combest) is intimating. There was one bill that was introduced two days before Larry's and another by Rep. Kika de la Garza that was introduced on the same day."

but with all of its faults it's the best process in the world," McCathern said. "We're prone to criticize something—it's human nature. But we've lived with it for 200 years and it has offered us the greatest freedom in the world."

"We must understand that in the House there are 435 representatives from all walks of life, all segments of the population, and from the largest towns and the very smallest."

"We have a diversity of opinions on what is the best for our country, and our congressman should have the responsibility of representing our district's viewpoint, and convince others that it's right for the nation as a whole."

Saying there was "more than one way to skin a cat," McCathern said he was "offended" that the situation in Central America was "supposedly the fault of the Democrats."

Civil rights bill supporters say bill will cure racism epidemic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of a civil rights bill enacted over President Reagan's veto say it will help cure "an epidemic of discrimination" that followed a 1984 Supreme Court decision limiting federal protection for many groups.

"Discrimination in federally funded institutions is occurring at accelerated rates," Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said Tuesday as the House joined the Senate in overriding Reagan's veto of the Civil Rights Restoration Act.

Edwards, chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee on civil rights, said the Education Department closed or suspended hundreds of sex bias cases after the court ruling.

"Heaven knows how many thousands of complaints have not even been filed," he said. "We are facing an epidemic of discrimination."

Both chambers of Congress came up Tuesday with the two-thirds majorities needed to override Reagan's veto — the ninth such rebuff he has suffered since taking office. The votes were 73-24 in the Senate and 292-133 in the House.

Even as the voting occurred, Reagan was calling the bill "a power grab" by the federal government. But the White House later issued a statement acknowledging the override and saying the administration would "work to implement the new law."

Congress was tied in knots for years over how to handle the high court ruling that only specific programs or activities receiving federal aid had to comply with four major civil rights laws protecting women, minorities, the elderly and the handicapped.

Lawmakers finally settled on a restoration act that bars discrimination by entire institutions, government agencies and some corporations that receive any federal aid. If a college athletic department discriminates, for example, the federal government can cut off aid to the whole school — even if that specific department received no assistance.

Ralph Neas, executive director of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, called the override "a bipartisan reaffirmation of civil rights." The conference, a 185-member coalition of major religious organizations and groups representing labor, women, minorities and senior citizens, was the moving force behind the bill.

Education Department spokesman Michael Jackson said the department had closed or narrowed more than 200 sex bias cases through 1986 as a result of the court decision. "We simply don't know yet" what their fate will be, he said. Marcia Greenberger, managing attorney of the National Women's Law Center, urged the individuals who filed those complaints to "bring them back to

Energas promotes Nunley to district manager slot

Gerald Nunley, former Hereford resident, has been promoted by Energas to the position of district manager of the Midland district office, an area that include the towns of Midland, Lamesa, Big Spring and Ozona.

Nunley, born in Canyon and raised in Hereford, joined Energas in 1971. He began his career as a clerk in Hereford. After holding a number of different positions, he became Hereford office manager in 1983. He was named assistant district manager in the Lubbock district in 1986.

Nunley has participated in a variety of community organizations including the Kiwanis Club, United Way, Lions Club, and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. He attended West Texas State. Nunley and his wife, Mary Ann, have two children.

"If this is an area of corrective action, the board would have to sign an affidavit or not," said Ernest. "I've talked to (District Attorney) Roland Saul about it and I have heard we could lose our accreditation, but I just don't know if I'll sign it."

Saul, who stated that he did talk to Ernest about signing the affidavit, said he is not planning to press criminal charges against the school district.

Proper support wanted in office chairs, say unhappy office workers

NEW YORK (AP) — Many office workers who feel their chair is important to their comfort are not satisfied with their present seating arrangement, according to a recent Louis Harris survey.

Ergonomic studies that examine how people relate to machines and other objects have found that the back experiences more strain from eight hours of sitting than from eight hours of standing.

One recommendation resulting from the studies is the use of a high-back chair in the office to help reduce back strain and minimize discomfort. High-back chairs provide greater back support so the muscles do not have to work as hard to hold up the spine.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just sat through another incredible meeting of Suicide Survivors, a mutual support group for people who have lost loved ones to suicide. This letter is written for the benefit of those who feel that their life isn't worth living.

If you think the following, it just isn't so:

1. They'd Be Better Off Without Me. Just one night at one of these meetings will convince you that you are mistaken. Suicide is a permanent solution to a temporary problem. Those who love you want you around, problems and all.
2. They'll Get Over It. Not true. Family and friends who are left behind suffer terribly. Their lives are changed forever. The realization that someone they cared deeply about felt life wasn't worth living is hard to accept. They ask themselves, "Why wasn't I enough?"
3. I'll Leave a Note and Explain Everything. Wrong again. Those notes invariably create more confusion. They also raise questions for which there are no answers.

4. I have No Friends. Not true. In today's world when everyone seems to be rushing, friends have a tendency to be less attentive, but it doesn't mean they don't care. True friends understand periods of silence (no letters, no calls). When they get together again, they pick up exactly where they left off.

5. I Have a Drug or Alcohol Problem That I Can't Beat. False. People beat those raps all the time. It takes guts and work, counseling and sometimes institutional care, but millions have done it, and you can, too. Call a hotline that will put you in touch with someone who can help. (The hotline numbers are: 800-ALCOHOL or 800-662-HELP).

6. My Money Problems Are Impossible to Resolve. So how will suicide help? Killing yourself will leave the problems on the doorsteps of those you love.

7. I've Embarrassed and Hurt My Family. So what? They'll get over the embarrassment and hurt, but they will never get over losing you.

8. I'm Mad. I'll Show Them. Anger doesn't last forever. Where will you be when you're not angry anymore?

9. The Special Person in My Life Doesn't Love Me. He (or She) Walked Out on Me. If they were really special, they'd be around insisting that you get help. Keep looking. You'll find someone else. And when you do, you'll wonder how you could have been so foolish.

Suicide has never solved a problem. It only creates others. Granted, there are times when you feel so worthless that you don't want to be a burden. But don't run off to be alone. Run to a phone and get some help.

The one line that is repeated most often by all of us who attend meetings of Suicide Survivors is this:

"If they had only known what their death would do to us, they never would have done it."

If you know anyone who should read this column, cut it out and send it to him or her. It could be the wisest, most constructive thing you've ever done. You don't even need to sign your name. I'm not signing mine. Just-K.G. in Reston, Va.

DEAR K.G.: Beautiful. Thanks a million—and that's only a small percentage of the people you reached today. (The American Association of Suicidology, 2459 S. Ash, Denver, Colo., 80222, can refer people to local suicide survivor groups.)

New Spring Fashions

Hereford Country Club members and their guests were entertained by a spring fashion show during a luncheon held Tuesday in the club's ballroom. As the audience enjoyed a buffet meal, new spring and summer fashions, including casual and dressy ensembles for both men and women, were modeled from The Pants Cage and EtCetera. Andrea Lamb is attired in a pastel pink all cotton shirt and a white and pink striped cotton skirt featuring a drawstring waist from The Pants Cage. Terry Sparks models khaki casual pants and a coordinating khaki and white striped cotton shirt from EtCetera. Other new styles from local merchants will be among the many items of interest to be featured in a special spring fashion section of The Hereford Brand April 10.

AN UPDATE ON GENITAL HERPES
By George W. Morley, M.D.,
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

Millions of Americans have been infected by genital herpes, and just as many other people are scared to death of contracting it. It is caused by the herpes simplex 2 virus, which is in the same viral family as chicken pox, cold sores, and shingles. In its active stage, genital herpes is spread by sexual contact, and can infect anyone regardless of age, race or sex.

You will know you have an active case of herpes if you find blisters in the genital area, or possibly around or in the mouth, eyes, gums, lips, fingers or other parts of the body. When these blisters are swollen and filled with fluid, you are contagious and you can pass the virus along if they touch the skin of your sexual partner. Before the blisters appear, you may get flu-like symptoms including fever, chills, aching muscles and fatigue. Sometimes your herpes symptoms are so mild that you may not realize you are infected.

Your first bout with blisters usually lasts about three weeks. The itchy, irritating blisters ooze and then dry up, leaving no scars behind. Most people have recurring outbreaks of herpes but each episode is less severe than the first one.

If you suspect you have herpes, you should see your doctor right away. The quicker the infection is diagnosed, the less chance you have of infecting others, and the sooner medication can relieve the symptoms and speed up healing of the sores.

To make sure you are not at risk of developing cervical cancer, you should have a Pap smear regularly.

Although it happens infrequently, pregnant women with active herpes blisters can transmit the virus to their newborns at birth, causing the baby serious problems. If your herpes is active near the time of delivery, a cesarean delivery will reduce the chance that the baby will come in contact with the virus.

The best way to avoid contracting a herpes infection is to limit your sexual contact to a partner you know and trust. You should also remember that except during outbreaks, your life will be normal, and that herpes rarely causes serious health problems.

Single, free copies of "Genital Herpes" (—064) are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 600 Maryland Ave., SW, Washington DC 20024.

— WALKING A FINE LINE
NEW YORK (AP) — There is a link between outstanding creativity and mental illness, according to Health Magazine.

It says a study shows artistic people most often suffer from mood related behavioral illnesses, including manic depression. In many cases, families often had a high incidence of both the illness and the high creativity, suggesting there may be a genetic link to these traits.

The study also contradicts the theory that affected artists are more creative during the peak of their mental illness. It claims artistic temperament is most creative during periods of relatively normal behavior.

C.R. WALSER

C.R. Walser to turn 100 this weekend

Hereford and Deaf Smith County pioneer, C.R. (Charlie) Walser, will be honored on his 100th birthday with a dinner Sunday, March 27. Eighty-two of his 98 descendants are expected to attend.

Others planning to attend include his younger brother, Claude Walser of Quanah, Texas, a younger sister, Mae Baker of Sudan, as well as a host of nephews and nieces.

Friends are invited to the birthday party scheduled from 2-3:30 p.m. March 27, at the American Legion Hall. The family requests no gifts please.

Both affairs are being hosted by his children, Guy Walser of Summerfield, D.C. and W.H. Walser and Leatrus Clark, all of Hereford, and their spouses. Assisting them will be his grandchildren and great-grandchildren and their spouses. All but three of his 18 grandchildren are expected to be present.

Walser, born in Montague County, Texas, on March 26, 1868, was the ninth of 13 children born to Samuel Lafayette and Matt Ingram Walser. The Walser family moved from Montague County to Hardeman County, Chillicothe, Texas in 1903. While in Hardeman County, his older brother, the late S.L. Walser of Hereford, married Laura Lance in 1906. On Dec. 12, 1908, Charlie Walser married Della Lance (Laura's sister). In 1912, the two families moved first to Jericho (Donley County) then to McLean (Gray County) and to Deaf Smith County in March of 1917. Both families bought land and settled northwest of Summerfield to farm.

While living on the farm, Charlie

Walser had a threshing machine run by a steam engine. In 1921, he bought the first combine sold in Deaf Smith county.

Walser served as deacon in the Summerfield Baptist Church and instigated the first rebuilding of the original frame building which was torn down to make room for a new one. He also served several terms as a Summerfield School trustee. He remains a charter member of Consumers Fuel Cooperation.

Walser and his wife leased the farm out in 1954 and moved to 425 Star St. in 1954. Following his wife's death in 1974, he continued to live alone until two years ago when his son, D.C. Walser moved in with him.

Walser took his first plane ride in the summer of 1967 when his sons, Guy and W.H., flew with him to the Lithotripter Center in Dallas. He enjoys watching sports events on television and likes to have coffee at the Summerfield cafe once or twice a day.

Massimino's squad plays Kentucky in NCAA tourney

Will history repeat itself for Villanova?

By MIKE EMBRY
AP Sports Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Illinois may have unwittingly done Kentucky a favor by losing to upstart Villanova in the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

The Fighting Illini led Villanova by 14 points in the second half and seemingly had the game under control. Yet Villanova came back to beat Illinois 66-63, setting up a Thursday match against Kentucky in the semifinals of the Southeast Regional at Birmingham, Ala.

"I'm sure a lot of people would have counted them dead against Illinois, and yet somehow they won that basketball game," Kentucky Coach Eddie Sutton said. "That's a wonderful quality to have."

"They're an interesting ballclub in that they might not be the most talented team in the field of 16, but I don't believe any team plays any harder or they're any better coached or any smarter than this ballclub," he said.

Villanova's 23-12 record is the worst among the survivors of last weekend's double round of games. Louisville, 24-10, faces No. 4 Oklahoma, 32-3, in the other semifinal at Birmingham, with the survivors meeting Saturday to play for the Southeast Regional's berth in the Final Four at Kansas City a week later.

"I don't think it makes any difference whether you're playing the Cinderella team or whether you're playing one of the favorites when you get to this point," Sutton said.

Villanova proved that in 1985. Despite losing 10 regular-season games, the Wildcats surged through the NCAA Tournament bracket to win the national title, upsetting Georgetown 66-64 in the title game.

This year's run closely resembles the Villanova move of 1985. The Wildcats won two games in Ohio (at Dayton) and two games at Birmingham to reach the Final Four. This year's squad got the first part of it, right by winning twice in Ohio (Cincinnati) to earn a trip to Birmingham.

"I'd like to think it (repeating history) could have some effect on the way we're playing," Villanova Coach Rollie Massimino said via a conference call from Philadelphia.

Sutton says the two teams of Wildcats are similar except that

Don Taylor wins bass club tourney

Don Taylor won the Hereford Bass Club's second tournament of the season last weekend at McKenzie Lake, and Sharon Johnson is the leader in the season standings.

Don Taylor totaled 102 points in winning the tournament title, eight points ahead of second place Jim Taylor. Sharon Johnson was third with 72 points, giving her a season total of 188 points.

Jim Taylor is second in the season standings with 180 and one half points. Bruce Johnson stands in third place with 142 and one half points.

The big bass of the McKenzie Lake tournament weighed three pounds, six ounces, a catch of Jim Taylor. Nine club members competed in last weekend's tournament.

1-4A baseball standings

Team	District	All
HEREFORD	3-0	10-0
Lubbock Estacado	3-1	8-5
Canyon	2-1	7-5
Levelland	2-1	5-7
Lubbock Dunbar	2-2	7-7
Dumas	1-2	4-6
Pampa	1-3	6-5
Borger	1-3	6-8
Frenship	1-3	1-14

Saturday, March 19: Hereford 10, Pampa 9; Canyon 3, Lubbock Dunbar 6; Frenship 11, Borger 5; Lubbock Estacado 7, Dumas 3; Levelland, open.

Tuesday, March 22: Canyon 5, Pampa 2; Lubbock Dunbar 13, Levelland 3; Lubbock Estacado 15, Frenship 5; Dumas 14, Borger 1; Hereford, open.

Saturday, March 26: Levelland at Hereford (1 p.m.); Pampa at Lubbock Estacado; Canyon at Frenship; Lubbock Dunbar at Dumas; Borger, open.

Villanova plays a matchup zone defense while Kentucky relies primarily on the man-to-man.

"They do as good in the matchup zone as any team in college basketball," Sutton said.

As for Kentucky, "We've attained some of the goals our seniors set for themselves," Sutton said. "We still believe there are some hurdles to jump and some mountains to climb. We made one last weekend in Cincinnati and we're hoping we can win two more games this weekend and go to Kansas City."

The Final Four hopes of two other teams of Wildcats — Kansas State and Arizona — depend on how they fare against Big Ten competition.

Arizona, 33-2 and ranked second nationally, meets No. 17 Iowa, 24-9, in a West Region semifinal at Seattle on Friday. The winner advances to Sunday's region finale against the survivor of the other semifinal matching No. 10 Michigan, 26-7, and No. 7 North Carolina, 26-6.

No. 20 Kansas State, 24-8, faces a Midwest Region test at Pontiac, Mich., against third-ranked Purdue, 29-3, which is trying for its first trip to the Final Four since 1980, when the Boilermakers finished third. The other Midwest semifinalists are Kansas, 23-11, and Vanderbilt, 20-10, each unranked.

In the East Region at East Rutherford, N.J., top-ranked Temple, 31-1, puts a 17-game winning streak on the line against Richmond, 26-6, and Rhode Island, 28-6, opposes Duke, 26-6.

The Arizona-Iowa game reprises a December matchup at Iowa City between Wildcats Coach Lute Olson's current and former teams. Arizona won that game 66-59.

Iowa was trying to put together a team after losing four of the players who had helped guide the team to the region finals a year ago. The Hawkeyes looked every bit the experienced team, however, in eliminating Nevada-Las Vegas 104-86 last weekend.

Until Robinson era begins

Spurs hold down NBA's Alamo

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — They're holding the NBA Alamo down here until David Robinson can save it.

The 1987-88 San Antonio Spurs will probably make the NBA playoffs, but prospects are much bleaker than afforded their more talented Lone Star State cousins, the Houston Rockets and Dallas Mavericks.

The Spurs don't have the inside muscle needed to bruise and bully teams like the Rockets and Mavericks do.

With guards Alvin Robertson and Johnny Dawkins, and occasional spurts of brilliance from second-year forward Walter Berry and veteran forward Mike Mitchell, San Antonio is a pesky team.

But pesky won't get you a ticket past the first round in the NBA playoffs.

Once Robinson satisfies his service requirement in the Navy, some experts are predicting an instant Spurs vault into the NBA elite. Robinson, who has signed an eight-year $26 million contract, is expected to join the Spurs for the 1989-90 season.

It may take time for him to learn Coach Bob Weiss's system and adjust to the double-teaming he's bound to receive in the NBA.

"There will still be a period of adjustment," said team spokesman Wayne Witt. "But everybody's excited about what David can do for this franchise."

At any rate, "The Baseline Bums" are ready for their NBA Davy Crockett.

The infamous booster group has dwindled in HemisFair Arena. They still have a drum and a horn, but their boisterous efforts seems half-hearted and there aren't as many of them as there were in the heyday of "The Iceman" George Gervin.

The "Baseline Bums" are just waiting for Robinson to join the Spurs and get them back into the thick of battling for the "Texas" NBA championship. Once they win that one, then they can worry about the Boston Celtics and the Los Angeles Lakers.

San Antonio is hanging in the neighborhood of 18 games behind Dallas and 13 games in arrears of Houston in the Midwest Division.

1988 Oil Bowl dedicated to Steve Owens

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — The Oil Bowl all-star game, which each summer matches graduating high school football stars from Texas and Oklahoma, is being dedicated in 1988 to the only participant who went on to win the Heisman Trophy.

"It's a great honor," said former Oklahoma University fullback Steve Owens on Monday. "It's an honor because it's a great cause and they are wonderful people."

Owens, who won college football's highest award at Oklahoma in 1969, played in the Oil Bowl in 1966 after an outstanding high school career at Miami, Okla.

"There was a lot of state pride," Owens recalled of the year he played in the classic. "Anytime you put Oklahoma and Texas together, something is going to happen. That was the first time I really carried the ball a lot."

This year's game is scheduled for Aug. 6 in Wichita Falls.

Proceeds from the game are directed to Oklahoma and Texas charities. Oil Bowl Chairman Dr. Ted Alexander Jr., said. Last year, the game raised nearly $28,000 for the Oklahoma Crippled Childrens Society and various Wichita Falls charities.

Unlike previous years, Alexander said, the Oil Bowl will not be played under supervision of the NCAA, which voted in January to drop all affiliations with all-star games.

Alexander said the Oil Bowl still will follow the NCAA guidelines, but game officials plan to give Oil Bowl sweaters to this year's participants.

Alexander said the television rights to the game have been sold to Lafayette Broker in Austin. Lafayette Broker officials said Monday that a verbal commitment has been reached with ESPN to have the game televised on a tape-delay basis.

"We're young and improving and do have a lot of potential," Weiss says. "Of course, potential means you haven't done it yet."

The Spurs recently suffered through a seven-game losing spell and came home with a bad case of the NBA road blues. It took a 113-110 victory over the Los Angeles Clippers, which didn't come easily, to get back into the victory column.

"We don't lack for effort," said Weiss, who learned the NBA ropes under former Dallas Coach Dick Motta. "We just have to have patience."

Critics of Weiss suggest he has too much patience and doesn't discipline his players enough. But there's no question who takes charge in time outs.

Weiss thoughtfully studies the situation, whips out a small basketball clipboard, then begins to pencil in plays. He looks each player in the eye making sure he understands the assignment.

"Bob has a good rapport with the players," Witt says. "But he's no pushover. He has discipline."

He also doesn't shout like some NBA coaches from the sidelines but handles himself with control, not adopting Motta's legendary referee-baiting tactics.

At a recent game, Weiss' biggest display of emotion was holding his palms upward at an official's call late in the game, asking "Well, what was it?"

For making controversial statements

Campanis got fired, but not Knepper

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

The job of baseball's in-house sociologist has been vacant for nearly a year now, ever since Al Campanis performed an expert clean-and-jerk on the trap door positioned beneath him and then conveniently fell through the resulting aperture.

Now, on the eve of a new season, we at last have a replacement — Houston pitcher Bob Knepper.

Last week, Knepper offered his thoughts — some of them bordering on the bizarre — about Pam Postema, a National League umpiring prospect who happens to be of the feminine persuasion.

Among Knepper's observations, developed from his religious beliefs, were the opinions that women should not be "in any position of leadership," and "were created ... in a role of submission to men."

Campanis got fired by the Los Angeles Dodgers after planting his foot firmly in his mouth with some sociological silliness about blacks. Knepper, however, remains entrenched in the middle of the Astros' starting rotation, despite opinions about women that were every bit as offensive. This tells you something about the relative value of general managers and pitchers in baseball today.

Writers apparently fit into the GM category. When Detroit reliever Willie Hernandez celebrated the start of spring training by dumping a bucket of ice water on a newsmen who had the nerve to offend him last season, the Tigers looked the other way and shrugged it off with a boys-will-be-boys grin.

Two decades ago, when Denny McLain, then with the same team, tried a similar stunt, he got himself suspended for a week. Obviously, times have changed. But, according to Knepper, they haven't changed enough to make baseball an equal opportunity employer, at least not when it comes to gender.

On the subject of umpire Postema, who came to her spring training tryout with 11 years of minor league experience, the pitcher explained that, "God created women to be

Magic Johnson returns to Los Angeles lineup

Rockets shoot 46 percent, lose to Lakers

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Although admittedly displaying one of their poorer performances, the Houston Rockets have clinched a playoff spot for the fourth straight season.

"Watching what we did, you wouldn't expect us to go far," Rockets Coach Bill Fitch said Tuesday night after Houston got beat by the Los Angeles Lakers 117-95.

"Fortunately, we don't play every team like we play L.A."

The Rockets hit only 46 percent of their shots and were outrebounded 61-47. The Lakers are now 37-5 when they have the edge on the boards and 10-9 when they don't.

"We played like we had it wrapped up," Fitch said of the playoff spot. "This game will probably go a long way toward shaping us up. I'm anxious to see how we respond to this, whether it'll take the fight out of the dog. I don't think so."

Houston got the nod because Phoenix lost to Utah 103-96.

"We didn't look like we were trying to be cute out there, we just weren't clicking," said Rockets guard Robert Reid. "We've just got to hope we can get it together before the playoffs."

Magic Johnson returned to a standing ovation from the Lakers 22nd consecutive sellout crowd of 17,555 at the Forum.

Johnson, still nursing a groin injury that had kept him out of five straight games, returned to the Laker lineup and contributed 10 points and 12 assists in 24 minutes as the Lakers recorded their eighth straight regular-season win over the Rockets since opening night of the 1986-87 season.

"We wanted to get the running game going again," Johnson said. "We have been playing tentatively while I was out. I think James (Worthy) and Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar) suffered the most, because I know how to get them the ball."

Fitch said he couldn't come up with an explanation for Houston's disappointing game.

"I guess I just didn't find a way of getting the effective people on the floor," the coach said. "The Lakers are a great team, even without Magic Johnson, but he is a helluva player. They are a good team without him, but a potential champion with him in there."

The victory was the Lakers' fourth in four meetings against the Rockets, who are the only Western Conference team to have eliminated the Lakers in playoff competition during this decade. They did it in 1981 and again in 1986.

"We're just not playing well," Reid added. "You compare our fastbreak to their's. I mean, we came in with a YMCA fastbreak and they had one from the NBA."

While Magic was in, Michael Cooper sat out his third straight game and his 15th in the last 17 with a sprained left ankle.

In other games, it was Dallas 124, New York 105; Denver 136, San Antonio 109; Detroit 123, Indiana 104; New Jersey 102, Philadelphia 90; Milwaukee 111, Atlanta 98; and Utah 103, Phoenix 96.

Mavericks 124, Knicks 105
Dallas Mavericks forward Roy Tarpley is the NBA's sixth-leading rebounder despite the fact that he has started only three games this season.

Tarpley broke his club record with 24 rebounds Tuesday night and had a career-high 29 points in Dallas' 124-105 victory over the New York Knicks.

Yet Tarpley will let his fans do the lobbying for his inclusion in the starting lineup.

For now, his sixth-man role spiced with an occasional start is satisfying enough for the second-year forward from the University of Michigan.

"The coaches let me know before the game that they (the Knicks) had a lot of smaller-type forwards so I knew going in that I should have been able to rebound," Tarpley said.

"Records really weren't on my mind. I'm just trying to play as hard as I can."

Tarpley got his third start of the season, replacing leading scorer Mark Aguirre, out for his third straight game with a bruised thigh.

Sam Perkins, who shifted from power to small forward in the Mavericks revamped starting lineup, left the game with 9:23 to play after suffering what was later diagnosed as a bruised left knee. Spare forward Bill Wennington also missed the second half after incurring a shin injury in the second quarter.

"I had to pick up the slack," Tarpley said. "Mark, Sam and Bill were hurt and we needed the help on the boards."

In Tarpley's five career starts, he has averaged 21.4 points and 17.2 rebounds. In starting the last three games for Aguirre, Tarpley has averaged 25 points and 19 rebounds.

Tarpley, the front-runner for the NBA's sixth-man award, set the previous club rebounding record of 23 earlier this season.

"Roy just keeps getting better and better," Mavericks coach John MacLeod said. "There is better soundness to his game. He can get rebounds in traffic as well as when they bounce out."

"He got a lot of rebounds tonight with bodies flying around."

Dallas tied a club record with four players scoring 20 or more points. Rolando Blackman had 26, Perkins 24 and Derek Harper 23.

The Knicks, who won at San Antonio Monday night, saw their road record fall to 4-28. New York is 25-9 at home.

Johnny Newman led the Knicks with a career-high 28 points.

The Knicks made a fourth-quarter run, cutting what had been a 23-point third-quarter Mavericks lead to 101-91 with 4:09 to play.

But Tarpley's three-point play with 3:45 left pushed Dallas' lead to 104-91 and New York was never able to draw closer than 10 the rest of the way.

Dallas extended a 53-41 halftime lead to 86-66 after three quarters, hitting 13-of-22 shots in the period. Newman was practically New York's entire offense in the third quarter, scoring 16 of the Knicks' 25 points, including 14 consecutive New York points late in the period.

The Knicks scored the game's first eight points and the Mavericks failed to score during the first 2:16.

But Dallas got untracked and after trailing 10-2 with 9:32 left in the opening period, outscored New York, 28-10 the rest of the period for a 30-20 lead after one quarter.

The Knicks worked the deficit to as few as two, 36-34 with 5:15 to play until halftime. The Mavericks then scored the next 12 points, opening a 48-34 lead with 2:03 to play in the second quarter.

"We just didn't have it tonight," Knicks coach Rick Pitino said. "You have these nights in the NBA and you just have to forget about it and go on to the next city."

Pitino also left impressed with Tarpley.

"He's a professional rebounder," Pitino said. "He owns that plane from the floor all the way up to the roof."

Nuggets 136, Spurs 109

Everything worked out just as the Nuggets needed: Denver romped to a 136-109 NBA win over San Antonio, and Michael Adams scored two 3-pointers, extending his league-leading streak for those long shots.

Blair Rasmussen scored 28 to lead the Nuggets' offense, which pulled out to a 9-0 lead Tuesday night, including one of Adams' 3-pointers, led by 27 at half and boosted the lead to a maximum of 30 points during the fourth period.

For Adams, his eight-point performance included two of four from 3-point range, extending his streak to 27 games. The string of consecutive games in which he's scored a 3-pointer now dates from the Jan. 28 game against Milwaukee.

In total, he's made 70 of 185 attempts from that range during the period.

As for Denver's win, Coach Doug Moe said it just seemed that everything worked out.

"We played well and we were aggressive. It seemed like everyone got out of their shooting slump," he said.

But he did express some concern about the team's coming road games; they play eight of the next 10 on the road.

"We would sure like to go out and win some games on the road," he said, adding the key to Denver's remaining season will be the home games. "We have to knock them off one by one. The key is we just can't lose at home."

Rasmussen had 14 of his points in the first period to help Denver to a 35-25 lead at the first period break, then the Nuggets hit on 18 of 20 shots in the second period, including 16 straight, to move out front 73-26 at half.

"I certainly hope we can play like that on the road stretch," said Nugget T.R. Dunn. "We got at them early and played very well and continued on through the whole game."

Except for a four-minute scoring drought in the fourth period, when the Spurs closed the gap from 30 points to 16, the Nuggets coasted to victory.

Jay Vincent came off the bench and had 20 points for Denver and Alex English added 18.

"We played really well as a team and hopefully this will propel us to some victories on the road," Vincent said. "We feel we can go in on any of the road games and compete, and hopefully we will win three or four."

Jon Sundvold hit 10 of 15 shots en route to 24 points for the Spurs, whose roster was depleted by injuries to David Greenwood and Frank Brickowski.

Denver's Danny Schayes had 11 rebounds, as the Nuggets had a 48-33 edge there.

Pistons 123, Pacers 104

Detroit won its 18th consecutive home game and pulled 25 games over 500 for the first time in franchise history, beating Indiana behind Isiah Thomas' 25 points and 11 assists.

The Pistons pulled away early in the fourth quarter and led by as many as 21 points. Wayman Tisdale led the Pacers with 27 points.

Jazz 103, Suns 96

Utah clinched a playoff berth with a victory over Phoenix as Karl Malone has 28 points and a career-high 21 rebounds.

Bobby Hansen scored 22 points, including two free throws with 11 seconds remaining that put the Jazz ahead 99-96. The Suns, hoping for a three-point goal to tie the game, called timeout, but Hansen stole Alvan Adams' inbound pass and dunked to clinch the victory.

Bucks 111, Hawks 98

Milwaukee defeated Atlanta as Randy Breuer scored 27 points and matched his career high of 17 rebounds for the Bucks.

Dominique Wilkins, who had 25 points, helped the Hawks close the gap to 99-94 with 5:44 left. But a basket by the Bucks' Ricky Pierce made it 101-94 with 4:33 left, and Atlanta never got close again.

Nets 102, 76ers 90

Roy Hinson scored 27 points and hit all 13 of his shots from the field, the best shooting performance in an NBA game this season, as New Jersey defeated Philadelphia.

Hinson and center Tim McCormick, who added 22 points, combined for 17 points in the third quarter as New Jersey outscored Philadelphia 33-18 to take an 85-68 lead.

The 76ers got 22 points and 12 rebounds from Mike Gminski.

Names in the News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope is in excellent condition after undergoing surgery for what was described as a benign condition of his prostate, his publicist says.

The 84-year-old comedian does not have cancer, spokesman Jim Mahoney said after the surgery Monday.

Hope was operated on at the University of Southern California Kenneth Norris Jr. Cancer Hospital and is expected to be released late this week, said Mahoney.

Hospital spokesman Gordon Cohen said Hope's surgeon, Dr. Donald G. Skinner, described the comedian's condition after surgery as excellent.

NEW YORK (AP) — High movie prices are one thing when you're sitting in the audience, but as soon as Mayor Ed Koch filmed a scene for a new Woody Allen picture he seemed to forget his recent chagrin at rising ticket costs.

The scene took place Monday in the basement press room of Gracie Mansion, with the mayor, playing himself, fending off a bunch of reporters during a news conference.

The reporters were played by actors, and when real reporters asked Koch to read his lines for them, he refused and alluded to his recent unsuccessful campaign to put a $6 cap on movie prices. "You'll have to pay $7," he said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vanna White, the queen of the letter-turners, plans to become "The Goddess of Love" in an NBC movie of the same name.

In the movie planned for next year, Miss White portrays the Roman goddess Venus, who comes to life when a young man places his fiancée's wedding ring on the statue's finger.

The comedy will be in the mold of "Splash," "Bewitched" and "I Dream of Jeannie."

It's the first film for Miss White, who has become a celebrity phenomenon on the highly popular game show "Wheel of Fortune."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ed Flanders bewildered his fellow actors and angered producers when he delivered an unplanned speech on death during his sentimental return for the last episode of NBC's "St. Elsewhere."

Flanders, who earlier this season left his role as Dr. Donald Westphall, was back for a farewell to the series, which is leaving the air at the end of the season.

The script taped Friday called for Flanders, as Westphall, to make a touching statement about beginnings and endings at St. Eligius Hospital, otherwise known as "St. Elsewhere." Instead, USA Today reported Monday, he talked about death.

"He spoiled the moment for everybody," producer Tom Fontana told the newspaper.

"There was no immediate word on what the producers would do, although there was talk of refilming the scene with Dr. Mark Craig, played by William Daniels, reading the lines.

SANTA YNEZ, Calif. (AP) — A hotel owner says it's only a rumor that singer Michael Jackson purchased his hotel.

Jackson paid $28 million for a 2,700-acre ranch, which he plans to make into a new home for his menagerie of monkeys, llamas, snakes, birds and barnyard animals, the Los Angeles Times reported Sunday.

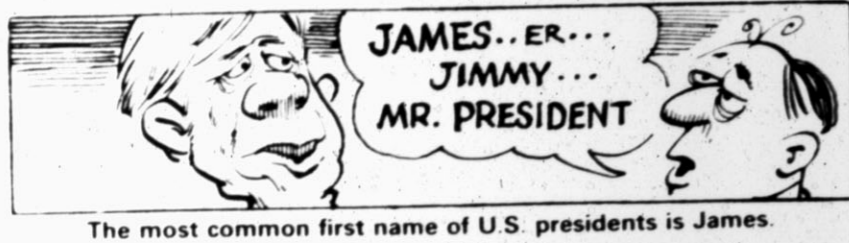

It also was reported that Jackson purchased the nearby Grand Hotel for $5 million.

However, owner William Healy said Monday he has not talked with the singer or his agent about the hotel.

"It's a rumor," he said. "There's absolutely no truth to it."

The ranch Jackson agreed to purchase is in the scenic Santa Ynez Valley, 100 miles northwest of Los Angeles, and not far from the ranch owned by President Reagan and his wife, Nancy.

North and South Vietnam were officially united in 1976 after 20 years of war.

The most common first name of U.S. presidents is James.

Eggs are a "best buy" in time for Easter

Eggs are always a bargain protein food, and prices are going even lower just in time for Easter.

"We haven't seen the low egg prices that are in the markets now for some time," says Dr. David Mellor, a poultry specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

"Eggs are selling at 30-50 cents per dozen in sales and there will probably be many store specials before Easter," he adds.

If you're tempted to color baskets and baskets full of eggs for Easter, remember to store them properly, or to not eat them. Mellor says a recent study in the Poultry Science Journal showed that hard-cooked eggs stored at room temperature spoil in less than a week. But eggs put in the refrigerator after 2 days at room temperature keep for 3 weeks.

Hard-cooked eggs kept in their shells and stored the whole time in the refrigerator show the least bacterial growth, he reports.

"It's best to remove the Easter eggs from the basket as soon as possible, refrigerate them and use them within a few days," according to the specialist.

"If you children like to carry their Easter baskets around for days, include some plastic eggs for play and refrigerate the real eggs that the family will eat," Mellor advises.

Bride Honored

A bridal shower-brunch feted Mrs. Christopher Alan La Tona recently in the home of Juanita Koetting. The honoree is the former Robin Gail Coleman. Receiving guests with the bride, at far right, were her mother, Mrs. C.E. Coleman, and her sisters, Rachel Walser and Rebecca Coleman.

Recent bride honored with bridal shower

Mrs. Christopher Alan La Tona, nee Robin Gail Coleman, was honored recently with a wedding shower-brunch in the home of Juanita Koetting.

Receiving guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. C.E. Coleman, and her sisters, Rachel Walser and Rebecca Coleman. Each was presented corsages of red and white silk roses by the hostesses.

Frankie Skinner invited guests to register from a table covered with a red cloth with a lace overlay. Sue Morris registered gifts.

The serving table, which was also covered with a red cloth and lace overlay, was decorated with a floral arrangement of ivy, baby's breath and accented with red filler made by Nikki Walser. The table was appointed by a white coffee and tea service and white napkins with red engraved names, "Robin and Chris."

Rachel Walser and Rebecca Coleman served sausage balls, finger cinnamon rolls, and mixed fruit with bride and groom toothpicks.

Out-of-town guests represented Amarillo, Vega and Friona.

Serving as hostesses were Frankie Skinner, Wilma Bryan, Elaine Berryman, Rosie Wall, Debbie Tardy, Delores Webster, Sue Morris, Eva McKnight, Nell Mills, Juanita Koetting, Nikki Walser and Luella Thomas.

The bridal couple plans to make their home in Buffalo, N.Y. later this month.

The British North America Act came into effect in 1867. It created the Dominion of Canada out of Upper and Lower Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Upper Canada became Ontario and Lower Canada, Quebec. A vast central area, purchased from the Hudson's Bay Co. in 1869, became the provinces of Manitoba, which joined the confederation in 1870, and Saskatchewan and Alberta, which joined in 1905.

Ask Dr. Lamb

Tinnitus

BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Would you please advise me as to what I can do, if anything, about ringing in my ears? I'm a male in my 60s. The ringing started about three months ago, with severe headaches. The headaches subsided but the ringing continues. What are the chances of a brain tumor causing this?

DEAR READER: Ear noises are called tinnitus. They are quite common. Most people have tinnitus without headaches or any other symptoms. That gives you more reason to have an examination by an ear, nose and throat specialist to try to identify the cause.

One cause is a brain tumor, but I hasten to add that most cases of tinnitus are for an entirely different reason. A frequent cause of tinnitus is a hearing loss. You may have decreased hearing that does not involve the sound frequencies used in normal conversation. As a result you may not know you have a hearing loss, but you may already have the ringing or buzzing in your ears associated with it. In these cases, improving the hearing with a hearing aid may eliminate the tinnitus. At your age, I would think the onset of hearing loss would be the most likely cause.

Noise damage may also result in ringing in the ears. Noise damage may cause findings similar to loss of hearing with increasing age.

Add to this diseases of the middle ear, circulation problems, wax in the ear and medicines — even aspirin can cause it — and you begin to realize how complex the problem of ear noises can be. I have discussed these causes and what can be done for tinnitus in Special Report 51, Ear Noises (Tinnitus), which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $1.00 and a long, self-addressed envelope with 39 cents postage to THE HEALTH LETTER/51, P.O. Box, 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a high school senior looking forward to going to college. However, I have one worry — sex. Not the lack of it, but the fear that I might have sex gland deficiency. When I was in the eighth grade, a few pubic hairs began to appear and I thought everything was fine. I began to masturbate around then and have done so quite often since. I thought nothing of it until now.

Then I read in an old medical book that there is such a thing as sex gland deficiency in which there is little growth of a beard and little pubic hair around the sex organs and under the arms, which is my problem. I would like to know if my masturbation could have slowed my full maturation process, and if I stopped would it finish, or should I seek medical help about possibly inserting testosterone. I'm very worried.

DEAR READER: It is really unfortunate how much human suffering occurs because of a lack of knowledge of the body. You have wasted a lot of time in needless worry.

There is a lot more to masculinity than hair. People often inherit hair distribution characteristics. Some races have very little body hair. If the rest of your development is normal, then hair distribution has no significance.

Casserole sale set Saturday

The Hereford CattleWomen are sponsoring a casserole sale beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday in Sugarland Mall.

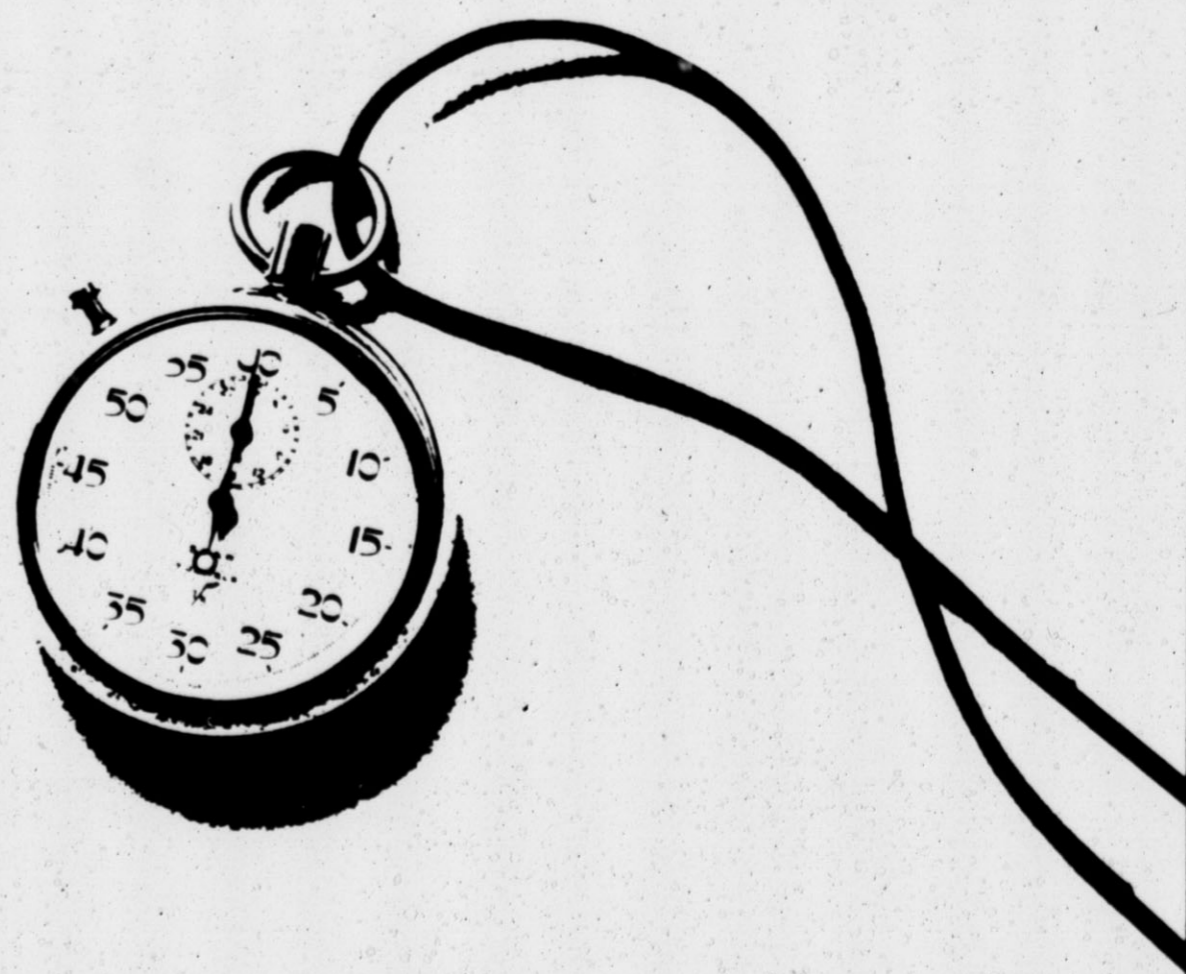

The annual fund-raiser is being held in conjunction with Ag Week which concludes Saturday.

Screening planned Saturday

In conjunction with the observance of National Red Cross Month, there will be a free blood pressure screening from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday in front of M.E. Moses in Sugarland Mall.

The screening will be sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Turkey is always a great buy, and here is how I use everything except the bare bones.
Roast the turkey and enjoy a delicious meal with all the trimmings. Freeze leftover slices, dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy for an easy oven (or microwave) meal for another day.

While the turkey is roasting, cook the giblets. Use the broth for gravy and the chopped giblets in either the gravy or the dressing. Remove as much of the meat as you can from the carcass. Save the small pieces for casseroles.

When the carcass is as "clean" as you wish, disjoint it and put it into the slow cooker with the skin, gristle and fat. Add an onion, carrot, celery, salt and peppercorns. Cover with water and cook all day or all night (or cook in a Dutch oven on top of the stove for a couple of hours). Strain the broth and cool the carcass just enough to handle.
Divide the broth into plastic containers in one- to two-cup amounts and freeze. When frozen, remove the container and store the broth in plastic bags to save room in the freezer. Use it for gravies and casseroles.

Remove all the good meat from the bones. It comes right off, and you will be surprised how much there is. I freeze these small pieces on a cookie sheet then put them in a plastic bag so I can use as much or as little as I want each time. — Della Wiebe, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Turkey is great all year long. It is low-calorie and economical if prepared properly. You certainly showed us how to stretch one. Thanks. And for more budget-stretching tips, order my pamphlet, How to Save at the Supermarket. Send $2 and a stamped (39 cents), self-addressed legal-sized envelope to Heloise/Supermarket, P.O. CAYENNE PEPPER
Dear Heloise: I was recently following a recipe in a favorite cookbook when I came across an entry for red pepper. What is red pepper? I am unfamiliar with this spice. — Justine Hopen, Howard, Colo.

Cayenne pepper is now being labeled as red pepper. The spice trade has stopped using cayenne pepper as a labeling term because it didn't refer to any particular variety, and there was never a "heat" standard for it. Hope this explains it. — Heloise

BING CHERRIES
Dear Heloise: I just came across this interesting little tidbit: This is how bing cherries got their name. They have been traced back to China. A gardener happened to find a seedling on a trash heap and took very good care of it. It bore large, dark beautiful sweet cherries. The Chinese gardener was called Bing, and that is how the most popular of the Northwest cherry varieties received its name. — Catherine Johnson, Dallas, Texas

DEAR READERS:
With many of us exercising during colder months, it is important to know how to dress correctly. Dressing in layers is the most comfortable and also helps your body keep the heat in and wetness out. Wear layers that can be easily removed as you gain heat in the workout.
The first layer should be a sports fiber like polypropylene. This material will keep you warm and dry because it pulls the perspiration and wetness outward.
Next, you ought to wear an absorbent long-sleeved shirt or sweater. Cotton is good, although wool may be warmer. Wear a thin water-resistant jacket and a pair of sweat pants; if it is very cold, a pair of insulated underwear could be added.

Hands, feet and ears will probably feel cold — wear mittens and socks. Your head is a major escape route for body heat, so a warm cap is a must!
You can exercise safely in cold weather if you dress properly. To your health! — Heloise

CLOTHES HAMPER
Dear Heloise: My son lives on his own now and has come up with some ideas to make things easier. Here's a good one.
His work involves some dirty and greasy jobs. In order not to get his other laundry greasy when he puts his clothes into the hamper, he turns his greasy pants inside out.
I think he is clever! — Leila Mutchlec, Indianapolis, Ind.

STORING FISH
Dear Heloise: Could you please tell me how to store fish. We eat a lot of it, but I just don't know what's right. I would really appreciate any input on this subject. Thank you. — Ellen Frantz, Salida, Colo.

Fresh fish should be wrapped loosely and kept refrigerated for use the same day. Frozen fish

NEW YORK (AP) — Three out of every 20 adult Americans are so afraid of such everyday aspects of life as heights, air travel and enclosed spaces that they actually experience feelings of panic when confronted with them.
A survey conducted by the Upjohn Co. shows twice as many women as men acknowledged "panic anxiety," in a range from acrophobia (fear of heights) — the most frequently reported — to gephidrophobia (fear of crossing bridges) and topophobia (stage fright).
There's even phobophobia: fear of one's own fears.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to use deadly force against drug smugglers has been included on the National Drug Policy Board's agenda for action.
According to General Aviation News, the board wants authority to shoot down aircraft that do not respond to radio calls from drug enforcement officials, or who were observed throwing materials from aircraft, or doing touch and go landings in suspicious areas.

Social Security

BAD CHECKS LIMITED
People who delay applying for Social Security retirement or survivor benefits for some time after they become eligible may miss out on some checks. Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo, Tx. said recently.

This is because the number of months for which back payments can be made is limited.
In general, people who apply for retirement or survivor benefits after they reach 65 can get back benefits for up to 6 months before the month they apply, but not before the month of their 65th birthday.

People who apply for reduced benefits before 65 generally cannot get benefits for any month before the month they apply.
People who apply for benefits because they are disabled-workers, adult children, widows, and widowers—can get benefits for up to 12 months before the month they apply if they are eligible in all other ways.

People can save time when they do apply for benefits if they have the necessary documents ready, Jim said. This includes the person's Social Security card or record of the number, birth or baptismal certificate, W-2 forms or self-employment tax returns for the past year and marriage and death certificates, if appropriate.
More information about applying for benefits can be obtained at the should remain frozen if it is not to be used immediately. It can be stored in the original wrapper. Do not thaw and then refreeze it.

You may keep frozen filets and steaks from lean fish for up to six months in the freezer. Store-bought frozen breaded fish can be stored for three months in the freezer. Do not freeze fish that has been breaded at home; cook it immediately. — Heloise

REMOVING APPLIQUES
Dear Heloise: I am trying to remove the old appliques from my bathtub without much success. Do you have any suggestions?
Actually, I have been able to remove the decals but not the residue they leave behind. — Rosemaria Giggins, Washington, D.C.

One of the fastest and easiest ways of removing the sticky residue is to spray it with a pre-wash stain-remover spray with an oily base.
If the spray does not completely remove the residue, sprinkle dry baking soda on the spots and then rub them with a dry cloth. — Heloise

LETTER WRITING
Dear Heloise: To keep up with my correspondence and keep in touch with my friends, this is what I do.
Upon receiving a letter, I immediately address and stamp an envelope to that person and put stationary in it. It is then ready for future answering when time permits. — M.H. Jensen, Portland, Ore.

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, P.O. Box 795000, San Antonio, Texas 78279. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

NEW YORK (AP) — Three out of every 20 adult Americans are so afraid of such everyday aspects of life as heights, air travel and enclosed spaces that they actually experience feelings of panic when confronted with them.

A survey conducted by the Upjohn Co. shows twice as many women as men acknowledged "panic anxiety," in a range from acrophobia (fear of heights) — the most frequently reported — to gephidrophobia (fear of crossing bridges) and topophobia (stage fright).

There's even phobophobia: fear of one's own fears.
WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to use deadly force against drug smugglers has been included on the National Drug Policy Board's agenda for action.

According to General Aviation News, the board wants authority to shoot down aircraft that do not respond to radio calls from drug enforcement officials, or who were observed throwing materials from aircraft, or doing touch and go landings in suspicious areas.

FINDING YOUR FAMILY RECORDS

NEW YORK (AP) — Would you know how to locate your important family records if your spouse was hospitalized or out of town?
Managing important papers should be a joint family responsibility, says Family Circle magazine, but all too often they are shoved into old shoe boxes and forgotten, or only one member of the family knows where they are.
Here are some tips on organizing important materials:
— Documents are safest in a bank vault. Make sure signature cards are on file for several members of the family to insure access in case of emergency.
— Wills and life insurance policies, however, should never be kept in a safe-deposit box since it could be sealed at the time of death.
— Most financial records can be kept at home, but in fire-resistant boxes made for such purposes.
