Chaffin announces new Gibson's store

New store announcement

Owen Chaffin, left, chairman of the board of Chaffin, Inc., of Dodge City, Kan., and Ron White, personnel manager for Chaffin, announced at a Monday news conference the company's plans to open a Gibson's Discount Center in Hereford. The store should open in August.

An old friend with an entirely new look will be coming back to Hereford in about six weeks with the opening of a 50,000 square foot Gibson Discount Center, officials of Chaffin, Inc. announced Monday in Hereford.

The announcement was made by Owen Chaffin, chairman of the board of Chaffin, Inc., at a news conference at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

A definite date for the store's opening was not announced. Chaffin plans to totally remodel the interior and exterior of the current location of TG&Y in West Park Plaza. TG&Y will close the weekend of July 22-23, and Chaffin employees will begin work immediately on the store.

"We started in Liberal, Kan.," said Chaffin, 78, who maintains an active role in the day-to-day operations of the company, which had gross sales of $127 million in 1987. "Mr. Gibson told us we couldn't make it in a town that small. We had a 7,000-foot store." Not only did Chaffin make it in Liberal, but Chaffin is now the parent franchiser for Gibson's worldwide.

The Chaffin chain currently has 33 stores, with most of its operations in Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Nebraska and Montana. The company also owns and operates a 100,000 square foot distribution center at the Dodge City, Kan. headquarters that serves the 33 stores and a few other retailers.

"We are real excited about being here," said Ron White, Chaffin personnel director. "The attitude of Hereford is great. It has everything a town needs — schools, medical facilities, all kinds of retail establishments — except us. We were looking at about a half-dozen locations, and Hereford presented a tremendous opportunity for us.

"I feel we can meet the needs of the community with our concept. We are oriented to what the community needs. One example is sporting goods: We have 33 stores and we have 33 different sporting goods mixes. That's one of the easy-to-identify areas, but that's what we try to do with all of our departments in all of our stores.

"Our managers have a great deal of autonomy. We don't dictate to the store, but instead let the community dictate what the store should have. We're not big enough to dictate to each manager what his store should do or have."

What the store will feature will include health and beauty aids, paper and cleaning goods, domestics, fabrics, ready-to-wear for all ages, sporting goods, hardware, automotive goods, housewares, jewelry, electronics, toys, candy, cards, small appliances, horticultural needs and seasonal departments. The store will also stock some grocery items.

Chaffin officials said the store will employ about 50 full-time workers. Applications were taken Monday and today at the Texas Employment Commission office in Hereford. "A majority of our people will be full-time employees," White said. "There will be few part-time. We will also be bringing in three management people."

Heading that management team will be Jim Rakes, who has already moved to Hereford from Olathe, Kan. "I'm real excited about being here, and I'm looking forward to a long, friendly relationship. I am very happy to be here."

Between now and the opening in mid- to late-August, White said there is "a lot of work to do physically to the building. We plan to do a lot of painting and fixing up. There are a lot of tiles missing on the store's floor, and we must replace those. We want to give the store a new look, and we want to take the

Debate roars over road

By ANDREA LAMB

Southwest of Hereford, a road vital to several landowners' businesses and a Hereford school bus route was fenced July 4, and the landowners pleaded with county commissioners Monday to open the road.

"This road has been used for 50 years and it's the only way to get to our property without going through someone else's property," stated Bobby Griego, one of 10 landowners who is petitioning against Luis Lopez. Lopez erected the fence across the road, claiming it was his property. "We don't want to start a fight with the man, we just want our road opened."

Lopez' wife, Petra, said "We closed the road to get some kind of understanding. There's never been any set measurements for our land even when we bought it. I don't know what's gonna happen, but we'd probably give the land as a road if something were worked out."

Petra Lopez also said her family and a neighbor have disputed over boundary lines since they purchased the land.

County Judge Tom Simons said the road is not a designated county road and the county court didn't have the authority to raze the fence.

"We just don't have the legality to do it," stated Simons. "But the district attorney told me that the commissioners court had the authority to file for an injunction and so do the landowners.

Simons will talk with Lopez today to see if he will offer the easement for the road.

"If he lets us have it, we (county) will be more than happy to build a road out there. If he doesn't want to give the easement, the only alternative is for the landowners to seek this through the district court."

The county surveyor shows the road as a public alley and Rex Easterwood, attorney, stated that an injunction could be enacted rapidly and the fence would be taken down. Then the landowners and the court would hold a hearing on the merits of whether the road should stay open.

Monday, the commissioners voted to advertise for bids on a computer program even though the commissioners thought an offer from Hart Graphics would probably be their best bet.

Hart Graphics in Austin offered a computer software package for $40,750 with a $5,250 annual maintenance fee tacked on, said David Ruland, county clerk who is in charge of the county's computer system.

"This money for the computer software would be in lieu of hiring a computer programmer," said Simons. "This will be an expensive item initially, but it won't cost us as much if we hired a computer programmer."

For next year's budget, the county allotted $35,000 for a computer programmer to get the county's idle computer system on its feet, but commissioners decided that purchasing a county computer program would be easier and more efficient.

"This $5,250 maintenance fee would cover any kind of updates or

Sears family sells bank stock Monday

First Perryton Bank Corp., a holding company, has gone into contract to purchase a majority interest of stock in the First National Bank of Hereford, it was revealed Monday.

Ruby Kendrick Sears announced Monday that she, Helen Sears Cox and Jim Sears, former bank president, had elected to sell their stock, which represents a majority interest in First National Bank. She added that the sale was subject to approval by regulatory agencies and the transaction should be consummated within six months.

First Perryton Bank Corp. owns the First National Bank of Perryton. "The new stockholders will be a good corporate citizen," said James Witherspoon, chairman of the FNB board. "They are strong bankers with a successful reputation."

Witherspoon added that no changes were anticipated in the bank here. "They are completely satisfied with the management, the board and the policies of our bank. They purchased the stock because it is a good investment in a good bank."

Don Graham, FNB president, said the bank staff is "real happy with the people who are purchasing the stock." When the sale is consummated, Graham said John

RUBY KENDRICK SEARS

Cluck and Carl Ellis of Perryton would probably replace Ruby Kendrick Sears and Helen Sears Cox on the local board.

"We hate to see Ruby sell her stock," said Witherspoon, "but we also want to see her do what is in her best interests." The Sears family has had controlling interest in the bank since 1959. The late Henry Sears was the bank president for 1959 to 1970 and was succeeded by his son, Jim.

First National Bank was founded here in 1900 as Hereford National Bank, and the name was changed to First National in 1906. FNB had deposits of more than $80 million as of March 31, 1988.

Bentsen will be Dukakis VP pick

By JOHN KING
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Michael Dukakis today will name Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as his vice presidential running mate, according to a well-placed party source, giving a conservative and Southwestern flavor to the Democratic ticket.

The selection came late Monday night in a meeting among Dukakis, his long-time confidant Paul Brontas and campaign manager Susan Estrich. The word was passed to Bentsen late in the night or early this morning and he accepted, the source said.

Bentsen, 67, was expected to fly to Boston today for a 2 p.m. news conference in Faneuil Hall near the Massachusetts statehouse.

Bentsen appeared briefly this morning on the Senate floor in Washington but declined to answer reporters questions.

"I hope to be in Boston," he responded with a smile when asked what his plans were. Other Democratic senators congratulated Bentsen as he made his way to the Senate chamber and then back to his office.

Bentsen's selection will give the Democrats a ticket much like that of 1960, when John Kennedy of Massachusetts chose Texan Lyndon Johnson in a successful effort to add experience and balance.

In 1970, Bentsen defeated George Bush in a run for the Senate from Texas. Bush, now the Republican presidential nominee-in-waiting, said recently, "(Bentsen) doesn't worry me," adding, "We can carry the state" even if Bentsen is on the Democratic ticket.

With his choice, Dukakis signaled a determination to challenge the Republican Party's Electoral College stronghold in the South and especially in Bush's presumed strongest state. Texas is his adopted home state.

Texas has 29 electoral votes, more than any state except California and New York, and some Dukakis aides have said they hope selecting a Southerner would at least force the expected Republican candidate to spend more time defending the region than he would want.

Bentsen, an elegantly tailored, silver-haired patrician, is the scion of a wealthy landed family from the Rio Grande Valley — and a card-carrying member of the Senate Democratic establishment. He is a former chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Committee, a position that requires fund-raising to elect Democrats to the Senate, and has been chairman of the Senate Finance Committee since Democrats gained control of the Senate 18 months ago.

On at least one key issue, Bentsen has parted company with Dukakis, voting for aid to the Contra rebels fighting the Nicaraguan government. Dukakis frequently has denounced the Reagan administration support for the Contras a "failed and illegal policy."

Bentsen, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, campaigned with Dukakis in Texas last Friday and downplayed talk he would be chosen for the vice presidential nomination, telling reporters: "I don't think you have to worry about that."

At the time, Dukakis said of Bentsen: "He could make a great contribution to this country in many, many ways. He already has."

Bentsen as well gave no hint, either in words or body language, that he felt close to the selection.

Bentsen is up for re-election to his Senate seat in November, and if he chooses, could run for both offices at once — a precedent set by Johnson in 1960.

Bentsen will be nominated at the Democratic convention in Atlanta on July 21, the fourth and final night of the party gathering. Convention delegates must ratify Dukakis' choice.

Bentsen was chosen over six others who were being considered by Dukakis: Jesse Jackson, Sens. John Glenn of Ohio, Albert Gore Jr. of Tennessee and Bob Graham of Florida and Reps. Richard Gephardt of Missouri and Lee Hamilton of Indiana.

Bentsen's selection closes weeks of speculation on who Dukakis would choose to round out his ticket. Jackson had raised the stakes on Monday by saying he would accept if asked. Jackson's reaction to the selection of Bentsen could be crucial to convention harmony and Democratic hopes of a victory in November.

While the Massachusetts governor has an unquestioned majority in the convention hall, Jackson's response to being passed over may provide the first signal of how hard he will work for the ticket in the fall campaign.

Bentsen, a millionaire businessman, has been a central player in Congress' battle with President Reagan over trade legislation — an issue Democrats plan to play heavily in this fall's campaign. His committee also oversees tax legislation and the welfare reform bill currently before a House-Senate conference committee.

Bentsen mounted a 1976 run for the Democratic presidential nomination but excited little interest. In 1984, he was on Democratic nominee Walter Mondale's list of possible running mates — the only white male interviewed by Mondale in a field that included former San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein and eventual pick Geraldine Ferraro.

On the negative side, Bentsen created a brief furor in February 1987 when it was revealed that he had asked lobbyists to pay $10,000 apiece to join him for breakfast once a month.

The breakfast club, called the "Chairman's Council," held one meeting and was quickly disbanded with Bentsen promising to return the money collected from an estimated 40 lobbyists.

time necessary to make it right."

The store will undergo a full facelift. Chaffin plans to install an illuminated awning in front of the building, change the foyer from the store's interior to the exterior, and plan an entirely new interior decorating scheme.

"It would be easy to go in and just put merchandise on the shelves, but we don't want to do that. We want everything to be right. This is our first Texas operation, and I think people will find a different concept in what we're doing compared to what people were used to (when Gibson's was here in the 1970s and early 1980s). The rapport of the people with Gibson's was good when they left, and I think it will be good again."

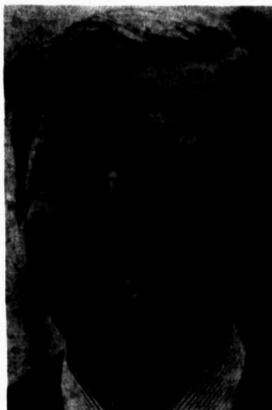

"In Olathe we had a bad rapport when I took over that store three years ago, but it has come way up since then. Chaffin has a good reputation in Olathe, and a good reputation throughout the retail business," Rakes said.

"We really like what we see here in Hereford," White said. "You have a nice community with very nice people. It is a real pleasure to have people so congenial and friendly."

"We are excited about this," said Mike Carr, executive vice president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. "This is one of several real exciting things that is going to happen in Hereford."

Bentsen on ticket won't win Texas, says Clements

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Democrats rejoiced today over the reported selection of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as Michael Dukakis' running mate, but the state's Republicans said the move would not put Texas in the Democratic column in November.

U.S. Sen. LLOYD BENTSEN

"Lloyd Bentsen will be a tremendous asset for us in Texas. He will help immeasurably," said State Treasurer Ann Richards, keynote speaker for next week's Democratic National Convention at Atlanta.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements, a Republican and co-chairman of the Bush campaign in his state, called the Bentsen selection a "movement of last resort."

"(Dukakis) is desperate. He knows he can't win without carrying Texas. Well, it ain't going to work," Clements said.

Mark Sanders, spokesman for the Republican Party of Texas, said Dukakis is beyond help in his effort to capture Texas' 29 electoral votes.

"George Bush is going to carry Texas regardless of who Michael Dukakis' vice presidential nominee is. Presidential races are not won by the vice presidential candidate. They are won by the man at the top of the ticket. George Bush understands how to talk to Texans. Michael Dukakis doesn't," Sanders said.

No Democrat has ever won the White House without carrying Texas.

Former Democratic Texas Gov. Mark White also hailed the Bentsen selection.

"I think Lloyd Bentsen typifies what Texas is about and what Texans are proud of. He's a successful businessman and he's a successful politician," White said.

Dukakis was scheduled to announce his running mate later today in Boston. Well-placed Democratic sources today said it would be Bentsen, the 67-year-old senator who is seeking a fourth term this year.

Under a 1959 Texas law written to let Lyndon Johnson run simultaneously for the U.S. Senate and the presidency, Bentsen can make both races. Johnson's presidential bid fell short, but he wound up as John Kennedy's running mate.

"There's always been a sort of Austin-to-Boston, Massachusetts connection, and I think that this ticket adds that same sort of magic," Ms. Richards said.

In 1970, Bentsen beat Bush in a Texas Senate race. Both claim Houston as their home, although Bush's legal address there is a hotel room.

Many Texas Democrats have been pushing Bentsen as vice presidential material since it became clear that Dukakis would win the presidential nomination. Bentsen made an unsuccessful 1976 presidential race.

"I just think that Bentsen is such a level guy and he will make a great vice president," Ms. Richards said.

Bentsen's current Senate opponent, Republican U.S. Rep. Beau Boulter, has said it would be unfair for Bentsen to run dual campaigns this year.

If Bentsen becomes vice president and resigns his Senate seat, Republican Clements would appoint an interim successor until a spring special election.

Johnson won both races in 1960. The special election to replace him in the Senate drew 70 candidates and put Republican John Tower in the seat. Texas Democrats have not yet been able to win back that seat.

COUNTY

repairs we may have," stated Ruland. "And most of the repairs can be handled over the phone on a toll-free number."

Simons said, "I would rather just take the Hart Graphics offer and not spec out (take bids) because this is such a good deal, but then again, I would hate to let another software program slip by us that was better than Hart Graphics' program."

In other action, the court voted to apply for the Texas Enterprise Zone Program which would give prospective industry extra incentives to locate in Hereford's blighted areas.

Commissioners Johnny Latham and Austin Rose Jr. and Simons voted to adopt the 1988-1989 budget which will require the support of a 4 percent ad valorem tax increase. Commissioners Troy Don Moore and Bill Brady voted against adopting the budget.

"I voted against primarily because it's a deficit budget for the precincts," said Moore. "It needs to be set up showing our income and disbursements. The overall budget is probably correct, but what's gonna happen is we'll have a budget amendment to bring it in line with the precincts, and I think we could eliminate that by showing the income and disbursements now."

Brady stated that he didn't think it was legal for the county to budget a deficit.

The commissioners also:

—Named Janie Aguillon as the county member to the District Mental Health Advisory Committee.

—Voted to replace the deputy clerk in the tax assessor's office.

—Appointed all former election judges and alternates for the year starting in August.

—Voted to advertise for bids on medical insurance for Deaf Smith County employees.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is in the private sanitation business. He picks up for mails and other stores. Sometimes he brings home useful items that have been thrown out to make room for new goods.

Almost every month my husband brings home a big box of shoes from the Thom McAn stores. Each shoe is split up the side so that it cannot be resold.

Ann, when I see these perfectly good shoes ruined it makes me sick. My friend who works in an area emergency shelter tells me that they are in dire need of shoes for men, women and children. My grandfather, who is a shoemaker, has offered to fix the shoes that are salvageable. I'm sure other people in the shoe repair business would help if they were asked.

I wrote a letter to the president of the company but he did not reply. Meanwhile, perfectly good shoes are being sliced.

Can you persuade this company to stop the foolish practice and donate those shoes to shelters for the homeless? Please try.—Concerned in Bristol, Conn.

DEAR CONN.: Something is wrong somewhere. A spokesman for Thom McAn told us that it is company policy to throw away shoes only when a single shoe from a pair is missing, or the pair is mismatched (different sizes), or if a shoe is defective.

Slashing good shoes and tossing them in the dumpster is against company policy. Shoes that don't sell are donated to local charities.

By the time this letter appears in print I doubt that your husband will be picking up any more slashed shoes from Thom McAn. The home office is going to check the stores in your area to make sure that the unsold shoes get to charities that need them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married for eight months. These have been the worst eight months of my life. Strangely enough, to look at us, you would bet that we are the happiest couple in town. "Ed" and I are attractive, outgoing professionals with excellent incomes. We have a lovely home and two new cars. In public Ed treats me like a queen.

At home, he is both physically and mentally abusive. I have no one to blame but myself, however. The abuse started well before we married. If I went into detail about the beatings, you'd think I was making it up. If you met Ed, you would not believe my story. He is totally charming. I can't count the number of women who have told me how lucky I am.

The reason I'm writing to you is to warn other women. Men who are abusive will not change after marriage, no matter what they say. It only gets worse. I don't know what is going to happen, Ann, but I hope I live to start my life over.—Dead End in Virginia

DEAR VA.: Your only hope is joint counseling that works, or else get yourself out of that marriage.

If you can't locate a counselor or a family service agency experienced in this area, contact the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence. It will refer you to support groups and counseling programs in your area. The toll-free number is (800)333-SAFE or write to P.O. Box 15127, Washington, D.C. 20003-0127.

Your letter should put to rest once and for all the crazy notion that women-beaters stop when they marry. A man who punches and slaps his girl around during courtship will knock the daylight out of her after the knot is tied.

WOMEN IN BUSINESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Women are starting and operating their own businesses in growing numbers.

The most recent government statistics show that women now own 3.7 million businesses, generating $65 billion a year. That is almost one-third of all firms in the United States. A decade ago, women owned 700,000 companies.

Traditionally, women-owned businesses were mainly in retail services.

30 major leaguers on roster for first time

'Kids' are plentiful in all-star game

By JOHN NELSON

AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mark Davis likens his first trip to the All-Star Game to "a two-minute spree in a toy store for a kid." And there are lots of kids in this toy store.

Davis, the San Diego Padres' bullpen ace, is one of 30 first-timers on the teams that will meet tonight in the All-Star Game. The National League will have 18 first-time All-Stars, the American League 12.

Whitey Herzog of the St. Louis Cardinals, manager of the National League, believes this may signal a changing of the guard in the major leagues, "but there still are a lot of good veteran ballplayers out there."

And there will be several on both sides for the scheduled start at 8:30 p.m. EDT, if rain that washed out part of Monday's workouts holds off tonight.

There are two first-time All-Star starters on the American League squad, the battery of left-hander Frank Viola of the Minnesota Twins and catcher Terry Steinbach of the Oakland Athletics. The AL starters, however, have 39 years' All-Star experience among them, including 12-time All-Star Dave Winfield of the New York Yankees.

The National League starters include three first-timers — Vince Coleman of the St. Louis Cardinals, Bob-bonilla of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Will Clark of the San Francisco Giants. Nonetheless, the National League starters have 41 years' All-Star experience among them, including 11-time selection Gary Carter of the New York Mets.

"There are a lot of young players here," American League Manager Tom Kelly of the Minnesota Twins said. "And there are a couple more around who didn't get picked like Ellis Burks, Joe Carter, Dave Henderson, Dave Stewart. There could have been more first-timers."

"But you've also got your Dave Winfields and Don Mattinglys — bona fide All-Stars who get the job done year in and year out," Kelly said.

Both starting pitchers come into the game with some rest. Dwight Gooden of the Mets, 11-5 with a 3.04 ERA, will start for the National League on three days' rest, one short of normal, after last pitching on Friday night in Houston. Viola, 14-2 with a 2.24 ERA for the defending World Series champion Twins, has not pitched since last Wednesday, giving him five days' rest.

"It'll be hard to top what we did in the World Series, but at least this will be a chance to show off our ability," Viola said, referring to himself and four teammates on the squad, the most ever for Minnesota. Oakland also has five All-Stars. Viola is the first Minnesota pitcher to start an All-Star Game since Dean Chance in 1967.

"I kind of feel like the old man of the team," said Strawberry, on his fifth All-Star team. "There are so (See ALL-STARS, Page 5)

Pirates are champions

The Pirates captured the Deaf Smith County Kids Inc. boys' minor league tournament championship Monday night by defeating the Rangers in two title games, 2-1 and 3-0.

Earlier this summer, the Pirates won the regular season league championship with an 8-1 record.

The league tournament concluded Monday after 10 games were played Saturday and Sunday. The Pirates lost to the Rangers 5-3 on Saturday, but came back to win three games Sunday to earn a spot in the championship game.

Final scores of Sunday's games were: Pirates 12, Angels 1; Pirates 3, Dodgers 2; and Pirates 3, Yankees 2.

In other games on Saturday, it was Pirates 15, Angels 9; Yankees 6, Mets 0; Pirates 8, Giants 2; Dodgers 11, Braves 5; Angels 18, White Sox 9; and Yankees 15, Giants 3.

The champion Pirates' overall record for the season and tournament was 15-2.

Final scores from earlier in the tournament were:

Thursday, June 31: Rangers 13, White Sox 12; Giants 18, Braves 3. Friday, July 1: Dodgers 21, Red Sox 12; Yankees 12, Cardinals 2; Angels 14, Mets 2; Braves 20, Red Sox 12; Rangers 11, Yankees 4; White Sox 13, Cardinals 5. Tuesday, July 5: Giants 14, Dodgers 8.

ALL-STARS

many new faces here that it just doesn't seem like the same NL All-Star team anymore. It's good to have some new blood."

The Cubs top the NL with six All-Stars, the most in their history. The Mets and Cardinals have four each. Kelly said Viola would be followed on the mound by Roger Clemens of Boston, who pitched Saturday, striking out 15 Chicago White Sox. Herzog will follow Gooden with left-handers

Bob Knepper of Houston and Danny Jackson of Cincinnati.

Bonilla, hitting .303 with 17 homers and 59 RBI, was elected over 11-time All-Star Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia, who is suffering through a subpar season.

"He's really improved at third base, and his numbers at the plate speak for themselves," said Davis, whose own numbers are pretty good (tied with Todd Worrell of St. Louis for the league lead with 16 saves). "It's a great tribute to him and to all these young players."

The National League's backup third baseman, Chris Sabo of the host Reds, is the only rookie on either squad.

Weather threatened to be a problem tonight when the major leagues hold their first outdoor All-Star Game outside California since the 1983 game at Comiskey Park in Chicago. Rain washed out the American League workout and a special skills contest — which includes home run hitting and relay drills — on Monday. The forecast called for 80 percent chance of rain today, 50 percent tonight.

"I would have liked to go out there and pitch some batting practice today," Kelly said. "Cincinnati's been great except for the weather. Great for the farmers, though."

This is the fourth All-Star Game in Cincinnati. The National League won the previous three — 1938 and 1963 at Crosley Field and 1970 at Riverfront.

Although the American League ended the National's All-Star winning streak at 11 in 1983, the National Leaguers — who lead overall at 37-20-1 — still have won 14 of the last 16 and three of the last four. In fact, the only two National League losses — 1983 and 1986 — in the past 16 years have come with Herzog managing, following his World Series appearances in 1982 and 1985.

He doesn't relish the prospect of going 0-3, "but the All-Star Game doesn't have anything to do with league superiority," Herzog said.

"It's only important in that I like to win," Herzog said. Herzog said he liked the philosophy of former Minnesota Vikings football coach Bud Grant, who lost all four of his Super Bowl appearances.

"I'd rather be 0-4 than 0-0," Herzog said.

Texas boasts unusual fare

(AUSTIN)—The Texas Department of Agriculture assists 87 locally-run farmers markets in 70 towns and cities around the state. Though growing seasons vary by area, most markets were abundantly supplied in June and continue throughout July. Exceptions are on the High Plains and in the Panhandle, where markets will open in mid- and late July.

Health regulations usually prevent the sale of homemade products at big city markets. Small towns, however, are less likely to frown on jars of homemade jelly, baked goods and, in some places, live animals—chickens, rabbits and goats.

Here is a rundown of products that will be available at markets around the state during the next two months. Markets are classified by area, and food items may vary slightly from place to place.

Corpus Christi and Beeville—Peaches, watermelons, cantaloupes, honeydews, grapefruit, cucumbers, tomatoes, cherry tomatoes, yellow tomatoes, green beans, purple hulls, black-eyed peas, dried pinto beans, corn, okra, jalapeños, banana peppers, serranos, bell peppers, 1015, Vidalia, Egyptian and purple onions, garlic, yellow pattypan, zucchini and tatum squash, bread, quail eggs and yard eggs. Summer produce in this area is expected to run out by mid-July.

South Texas, including San Antonio and Winter Garden area—Green beans, cucumbers, potatoes, yellow, white, zucchini and tatum squash, tomatoes, green tomatoes, green, yellow and red bell peppers, banana peppers, jalapeños, serranos, sweet and field corn, okra, peaches, watermelons, cantaloupes, apples, pears, honey, yard eggs, quail, cut flowers, flowering plants, bedding plants and shrubs. In small markets look for homemade cookies, breads, kolaches, cakes, pies, peanut brittle, North Central Texas—Turnip greens, mustard greens, zucchini, yellow squash, green beans, turnips, beets, new potatoes, broccoli, cauliflower, carrots, tomatoes, black-eyed peas, watermelons, peaches, plums.

East Texas—Black-eyed peas, purple hulls, crowders, cream peas, squash, okra, cucumbers, new potatoes, onions, bell peppers, jalapeños, snap beans, beets, pinto beans, eggplant, blueberries, peaches, Israeli melons, watermelons, cantaloupes, honey.

Lubbock and Plainview—Onions, tomatoes, green beans, black-eyed peas, squash, beets, potatoes, broccoli, watermelons and cantaloupes.

Panhandle—Sweet corn, black-eyed peas, tomatoes, potatoes, onions, cucumbers, eggplant, broccoli, zucchini, turnips, organically grown apples, sausage, yard eggs, quail eggs, fresh and frozen quail.

picante sauce, vegetable, fruit and diabetic jellies, live chickens, rabbits and at Eagle Pass live goats.

South Central Texas—Onions, tomatoes, green beans, okra, cucumbers, squash, corn, potatoes, herbs, organic produce, peaches, watermelons, shrimp, crab, cased eggs, plants.

Houston and Gulf Coast—Squash, okra, sweet corn, green beans, red potatoes, tomatoes, bok choy, daikon, onions, herbs, cucumbers, radishes, organic produce, watermelons, blueberries, eggs, honey, potted plants.

Central Texas—Tomatoes, cucumbers, zucchini, yellow squash, onions, black-eyed peas, sweet corn, okra, peaches, watermelons and cantaloupes, fresh herbs, table grapes, edible flowers.

FIGHTING THE GERMS

NEW YORK (AP)—Most people see a hospital as a place to get better but last year 2 million Americans left hospitals with viruses they didn't have when they walked in, reports Health Magazine.

It says disease control researchers in Atlanta found that hard to control hospital bacteria are responsible for all sorts of infections, including staph, strep and urinary tract complications. The problem has become so great that fatalities are estimated as high as 20,000 people a year.

Some hospitals are fighting the germs by providing patients with disposable telephones the patients may take home after their stay. Researchers estimate up to 100 types of bacteria can accumulate on hospital room phones.

Make good use of your home freezer

The money saved by freezing fresh produce or food bought on sale can easily be eaten up by energy costs if you don't make good use of your home freezer.

A frost-free freezer costs about $15 per month for electricity, depending upon its size and your local electric rates. You can keep your freezer from using more electricity than necessary by making sure it operates efficiently, according to Bonnie Piernot, a consumer economics specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"A freezer inside the home requires less energy than one kept in the garage because it doesn't have to work as hard to maintain its low temperature," she said.

"When the garage is the only space available, put the freezer against an inside wall, if possible, since it will be cooler there. If your garage has no ventilation, consider adding a roof vent for air circulation and lower temperatures," said Piernot.

The specialist said a full freezer runs more efficiently than one that's half empty. If you use your freezer very little, consider pulling the plug on it, buying only what you need for a short period and storing it in the refrigerator-freezer.

"Older freezers often use extra energy because they have leaky gaskets that let cold air escape," she said. "Test the rubber gasket by placing a piece of paper in the door and closing it. If you can pull the paper out without tearing it, the gasket needs to be replaced."

Depending upon the size of the freezer, Piernot said replacing a rubber gasket is about $15-25 do-it-yourself job.

"Don't freeze foods you eventually have to throw away. If your family doesn't eat zucchini, for example, freezing quarts of it will simply be a waste of money. Freeze foods you need and use most often and in amounts you can use within the recommended storage time," said the specialist.

For best quality in frozen foods, Piernot suggests checking the temperature of the freezer with a freezer thermometer to make sure it is at 9 degrees Fahrenheit or less.

"Invest in moisture-vapor proof plastic bags and wraps, freezer wrap, freezer containers or heavy duty foil to prevent freezer burn," she said. "Don't try to cut corners by using old plastic bread bags or containers not meant for freezing since that will just reduce the quality of the food."

"Also label and date frozen food packages. Then keep a simple inventory of your freezer to tell you what's on hand and remind you to use packages of food within the recommended storage time," said the specialist.

DENSE FUEL

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Researchers at the University of Rochester's Laboratory for Laser Energetics have used a laser to compress hydrogen fuel to what they say is the highest density ever directly measured.

The density was in the range of two to four times that of lead. (If you compressed water to the same degree, a gallon of it would weigh nearly half a ton.)

Fusion research is the effort to recreate and harness the power of the sun on earth. To do that, scientists must compress and heat deuterium, a form of hydrogen present in ordinary water, to the extreme temperatures and densities at the sun's center. If such research is successful, it could yield a limitless and relatively safe and clean form of energy.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I really enjoy reading your hints. I find quite a few that I can use. Here is my contribution.

When I make tacos, I use my slow cooker to warm the taco shells. This saves energy and avoids having an overly warm house because I'm not using the oven.

I just put the taco shells in the slow cooker and cover them with a paper towel, place the lid on and turn it on High for about an hour. They are really nice and crisp when ready to fill. — Ruth Jones, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Sounds great. The best part is keeping your house cooler. — Heloise

PLASTIC GROCERY BAGS

Dear Heloise: Do you have a collection of plastic bags from the grocery store that you don't know what to do with?

We all know they make excellent liners for waste baskets. But did you know they hold quite a supply of daily newspapers to recycle or put out for the weekly trash collection? No more tying papers in bundles or leaving them loose to be distributed by the wind. — Mrs. Mitchell Boyd, Denver, Colo.

Babe Ruth 14-15 all-star tourney begins Wednesday

The all-star teams of the Deaf Smith County Kids Inc. Babe Ruth League are preparing for their first tournament action.

The Hereford 14 and 15-year-old all-stars host the district tournament starting Wednesday. Hereford plays Plainview at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, with the loser playing Tulia at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

The tournament will continue Friday night. The winner advances to the West Texas State tournament in Canyon, which starts on July 23.

Hereford's 13-year-old all-star team heads to Denver City July 23 for the state tournament. No district tournament was held, since the Tulia league decided to have only one all-star team, to compete in 14 and 15-year-old tournament play.

Hereford will play at 6 p.m. July 23 against the District 4 champion. A win would mean a 6 p.m. game on July 24. Championships of four other districts will be decided in tournaments this week.

Host Denver City will play in the tournament. The double-elimination tournament will conclude July 28 with the championship game.

To when he was British Open favorite

Watson aims to turn back the years

By LARRY SIDONS
AP Sports Writer
LYTHAM, England (AP) — Tom Watson is literally taking a page out of his own book to try to turn back the years to when he was automatically a favorite to win the British Open instead of a 25-to-1 shot. Watson got in a practice round over the Royal Lytham & St. Annes Golf Club on Monday and said his best hopes of claiming a record-tying sixth championship in the open's 117th edition rested in his putting.

Tippy toeing

Michael Melendrez, a member of the Kids Inc. Babe Ruth League 13-year-old all-star team, goes up on his toes after deciding to let a pitch go by Saturday in a scrimmage in Hereford against the Tulia Babe Ruth League 14 and 15-year-old all-star team. The Hereford all-stars will play in the West Texas State tournament in Denver City, beginning on July 23. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

"You have to make the putts to win," said the 38-year-old Watson, who last won the open in 1983 at Royal Birkdale and finished 14 strokes behind winner Seve Ballesteros when the tournament was last played here in 1979.

In recent years, Watson has had trouble all over the professional tour, not just on British courses.

He collapsed over the final nine holes a year ago and finished four strokes behind winner Nick Faldo at the open last year. His victory last year at the Nabisco Championships of Golf was his first tournament triumph in three years. During the slump, Watson said, his tee-to-green game has remained strong, but his putting touch — once one of the surest in the game — has deserted him.

The problem was simple to figure out, Watson said.

"I wasn't accelerating through the ball," he said. "It was a typical hacker's stroke, a typical bad golfer's stroke."

"If I had read my own book, it would say, 'The backswing should be shorter than the follow-through.' But my backswing was longer than my follow-through. I hope that's changed now."

Watson said he had discussed the problem with another veteran, Lee Trevino, and that the 1980 open runner-up agreed the trouble was in technique. Watson said he had feared it was a vision impairment.

"When the putt was lined up correctly, it looked to me as if it were shaded to the right," he said.

The departure was accepted form, the eyesight and the long time it has taken to get to the bottom of the problem all have a common cause, according to Watson.

Age. "I think that's it," he said. "When you're 38, your hair gets thinner but your brain gets thicker ... I hope this stands the test. My confidence is sorely shaken. I just hope this starts a surge of confidence in my putting."

Britain's legal bookmakers are quoting Ballesteros and U.S. Masters champion Sandy Lyle of Scotland as co-favorites at 8-1. Faldo is second at 10-1, followed by Bernhard Langer of West Germany and U.S. Open champ Curtis Strange at 14-1.

Watson is rated only a 25-1 shot and said he was not sure if those were realistic odds.

"Ask me Wednesday, after a couple more practice rounds," he said.

But at least two people will be putting money on the American — Watson himself and the hotel porter who carried his bags Sunday night.

"The guy asked about the state of my game, and said he'd like to put a few bob on me," Watson said. "I said, 'You know that I'm 25-to-1.' He said, 'That's why I want to put a few bob on you.'"

Watson said he would be betting on himself to win and tie Harry Vardon for the most open championships.

"But I won't tell you how much," he said. "The tax man might not approve."

Tom Watson was the first golfer to win more than $500,000 in one year. He did it in 1980 with earnings of $530,808.

It may sound a little odd, but in 1942 college football passed a rule specifying a lineman must line up facing an opponent's goal line.

Woman's Health

THE NEW GONORRHEA
By Robert C. Park, M.D.
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

Old-fashioned gonorrhea has been around for centuries and has afflicted millions and millions of people. Despite the promise of drugs such as penicillin, gonorrhea continues to flourish. A very strong, new strain resists and actually destroys penicillin.

Gonorrhea lives in warm moist parts of the body such as the vagina, and is spread by sexual contact. Women are more susceptible to gonorrhea than men.

About 80 percent of infected women have no symptoms of the disease in its early stages. Those with symptoms develop them shortly after exposure. They may have a vaginal discharge, painful urination, and pelvic discomfort. Gonorrheal infections in the throat may cause a sore throat; in the rectum, pain and bleeding. These symptoms usually disappear after the first few weeks.

To test for gonorrhea, the physician samples a discharge from the cervix or other place where the infection occurs for testing in a laboratory. If left untreated, gonorrhea can lead to serious problems such as pelvic inflammatory disease or other diseases, such as arthritis or meningitis.

Until now gonorrhea has generally been cured with penicillin or other antibiotics. To halt the new resistant strain, most doctors use newer, potent, and costly antibiotics.

Treatment for gonorrhea is effective only if both sexual partners are given drugs; otherwise, they may reinfect each other. Patients are re-tested a few weeks after treatment to be sure all traces of the disease are gone.

A pregnant woman with gonorrhea can infect her baby during delivery. As a precaution against blindness in the baby, a newborn's eyes routinely are treated with silver nitrate or an antibiotic.

To minimize the risk of contracting gonorrhea, women should use a barrier method of birth control, such as a condom, or the diaphragm with a spermicide. Obviously, unprotected women run the greatest risk of infection.

If you have had sexual contact with someone who has or may have gonorrhea, get medical care at once. Remember, prompt treatment cures, and taking proper precautions can minimize your risks. Gonorrhea is one disease you don't have to catch.

Single, free copies of "Sexually Transmitted Diseases" (p009) are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 600 Maryland Ave., SW, Washington, DC 20024.

Women more aware of breast cancer

Eighty percent of Texas women reported they had heard "a lot" about breast cancer in the last year, according to a Texas Poll commissioned by the American Cancer Society.

Awareness increased 10 percent over 1987 poll results. An initial Texas Poll in 1986 had recorded 59 percent of Texas women reporting they had heard "a lot" about the disease.

"The dramatic increases in breast cancer awareness over the past two years are a healthy sign," said George N. Peters, M.D., Dallas, chairman of the Society's Breast Cancer Awareness Task Force in Texas. "Awareness is the first step a woman takes toward action to protect her health," he added.

Awareness of mammography as an early breast cancer detection test also increased by 10 percent over the last year, according to poll results. Seventy percent of the 576 women who participated in the spring 1988 Texas Poll reported having seen or heard recent information in the media encouraging women to have mammograms, compared to 60 percent in the 1987 poll.

Importantly, almost 27 percent of the respondents reported taking some action as a result of the information about mammography. An additional 42 percent "thought more about the problem" of breast cancer, results showed.

"This is an important indication of the impact of the American Cancer Society's Texas Breast Screening Project," Peters said. "We know we can save lives through early detection, and these results prove women are receptive to learning more about what they can do to help protect themselves."

In February and March of 1988, American Cancer Society volunteers again promoted opportunities for low-cost screening mammograms. The initial Texas Breast Screening Project, in 1987, triggered more than 100,000 calls to the Society and resulted in at least 60,000 women having a mammogram. Participating facilities reported about 400 early stage breast cancers detected as a result of the Project.

The '88 project, again promoted with the help of local television stations around the state and the cooperation of participating hospitals and screening facilities, prompted more than 95,000 calls to the Society's volunteer-staffed phone banks. Participating facilities are still reporting screening results.

Other results of the Texas Poll indicate the direction future American Cancer Society programs should take, Peters said. "While 43 percent of women over 40 reported having a mammogram, 62 percent said they rely on regular doctor visits for their breast care needs," he said.

Moreover, 49 percent of the women surveyed indicated that they would not consider having a mammogram without a physician's recommendation," Peters said.

"These results show us the work that remains to be done both in educating physicians and in teaching women to be advocates for their own health," he said.

As part of its continued campaign to educate women about the importance of early detection, the American Cancer Society in Texas recently released a new television public service announcement featuring businesswoman Mary Kay Ash. Ash has served as honorary chairman of the Texas Breast Screening Project for two years.

The American Cancer Society continues to offer educational programs on breast health awareness to employee groups and community groups at no cost. Pamphlets on mammography and breast self-examination are also available to the public free of charge.

For more information contact your local American Cancer Society.

Names In The News

LONDON (AP) — Singer Michael Jackson will go ahead with a planned British tour despite quarantine laws banning his pet chimpanzee Bubbles, his record company says.

Jackson was allowed to take the ape into Japan last year and he would have liked to bring him to Britain, Jonathan Morrish of CBS records said Wednesday.

"Michael enjoys Bubbles' companionship but he is a consummate professional and knows the show must go on," Morrish said.

"He is obviously disappointed but he understands the quarantine laws here."

Jackson's British tour begins July 14.

NEW YORK (AP) — Leona Helmsley, already facing federal and state tax evasion charges, is now on the rocks with an interior decorator who allegedly ignored her wishes for outfitting one of her homes.

The decorator, Rita Silbert Davis of El Paso, Texas, has refused to return a $50,000 advance on the Paradise Valley, Ariz., home, court papers filed by Mrs. Helmsley alleged Thursday.

Mrs. Helmsley, the self-proclaimed "queen" of the hotel chain run by her husband, New York real estate magnate Harry Helmsley, has requested that Ms. Davis use Mexican volcanic stone inside the house, among other things.

"Davis' recommendations did not reflect the concept for the house previously agreed upon with Helmsley," the court papers charge.

Ms. Davis was fired March 31. Mrs. Helmsley, one of the world's wealthiest women, seeks the return of her $50,000 — with interest — along with unspecified damages and payment of her legal fees.

Ms. Davis, reached at her home, declined to comment.

The Helmsleys have pleaded innocent to tax evasion charges that they hid about $4 million in renovations to their Greenwich, Conn., mansion as business deductions. Their federal trial is set to begin Sept. 14.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — David Cassidy, the squeaky-clean rocker of "Partridge Family" fame, has been sued by a woman who says the actor fathered her 18-month-old daughter and refuses to pay child support.

Model-actress Sherry Williams, 35, says Cassidy, 38, is the father of her daughter Katherine Evelyn Cassidy, according to the paternity suit filed Tuesday in Los Angeles Superior Court. Lawyer Marvin Mitchelson, best known for claiming "palimony" rights for the live-in lovers of Hollywood celebrities, filed the lawsuit.

The complaint seeks to establish paternity and asks for $5,000 a month in child support and medical care.

Cassidy, who is divorced, was in Europe and couldn't be reached for comment, said his manager Melanie Green.

Cassidy was 20 when he starred as the teen heartthrob on "Partridge Family," which also starred his stepmother Shirley Jones. He also turned out several records before returning to acting on stage a decade later.

LONDON (AP) — Australian's Paul Hogan turned up worlds away from the rugged outback he inhabited in "Crocodile Dundee" when he brought his co-star and girlfriend Linda Kozlowski to meet Prince Charles and Princess Diana.

The couples were attending the royal charity premiere of Hogan's new film "Crocodile Dundee II" in London's Leicester Square on Tuesday night. The foursome chatted and joked before the premiere, which was expected to raise more than $265,000 for the Prince's Trust for disadvantaged young people.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Mel Torme says it doesn't bother him in the least that his new popularity is due in part to the NBC comedy "Night Court."

"It is ironic that the younger people have learned about me that way, but I'm grateful for it," said Torme, who is depicted as the musical hero of the show's main character, Judge Harold T. Stone, played by Harry Anderson.

"Any way you can be remembered, if it works, then it's terrific. I'm delighted for what "Night Court" has done for me," he said recently.

The 62-year-old entertainer, who has been performing since he was 4, is preparing to release his autobiography, "It Wasn't All Velvet," and is working on a biography of the late jazz drummer Buddy Rich.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have a 16-year-old son who is 6 feet 6 inches and weighs 250 pounds. He is lifting weights to gain strength and muscle mass for football. Some of his friends have told him to take amino acids to burn body fat and increase muscle and energy and strength. Is this safe for him to use? Also, are there any booklets on vitamins and diets for weight lifters?

DEAR READER: The amino acids usually touted to promote muscle development are arginine and ornithine. These are the same amino acids that are advertised to help you "burn off fat, even when you sleep." The preparations that are sold to take by mouth will not harm people because the amount required to do anything is so much more than is provided in the products available. These amino acids have far less effect on the body when taken by mouth than the preparations for injections. Incidentally, don't inject the oral preparations! That could be a disaster.

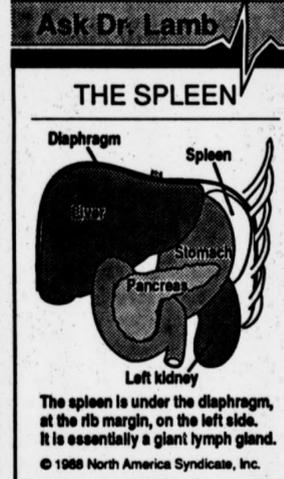

The rationale for taking these amino acids is the belief that they will stimulate the release of growth hormone. The growth hormone from the pituitary does stimulate muscle development, but the muscles may be weak. It can stimulate bone growth. Before the long bones calcify that can result in gigantism, an unwanted medical problem. Later, if a person takes enough growth hormone, it can cause acromegaly, with an enlarged lower jaw, enlarged skull bones, hands twice normal size and changes no one in their right mind would want. So I do not recommend amino acids. I do not recommend growth hormone, and I do not recommend taking steroids. I do recommend a sensible diet with sufficient calories, sufficient good quality protein and a proper exercise training program for muscle development.

If your son is on a good diet that provides the calories he will need, it is unlikely that he should need any vitamin supplements. He doesn't need protein powders either, as his diet should provide better protein and nutrition from lean meats and protein-fortified skim milk.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My son had his spleen removed because of a bicycle accident when he was 10. Now he is 20. I understand that the spleen makes extra white blood cells to fight infection. I've always wondered if not having a spleen makes him more susceptible to the flu viruses or causes the flu or any other illness to last longer because he doesn't have those extra white blood cells. What other function, if any, does the spleen have?

DEAR READER: The spleen is a giant lymph gland and it does produce lymphocytes, one type of white blood cells. They do play a role in immunity or defense against toxins and infectious agents. It is quite possible that a decreased level of immunity could increase his susceptibility to infections. During fetal development, the spleen produces blood cells the same as the bone marrow, but that stops after birth. It then acts as a blood filter, literally filtering out old or damaged red blood cells and white blood cells. In its filtering capacity, it filters out bacteria, parasites and debris, again like lymph nodes do. In certain disorders the spleen is too active in destroying blood cells and may be a factor in low blood cell counts.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Including No. 1 choice Michael Irvin

Rookies to challenge Cowboys' veterans

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — No. 1 draft pick Michael Irvin is only one of several rookies likely to challenge veterans for starting positions for the Dallas Cowboys.

Irvin, a wide receiver, signed a 4-year, $1.85 million contract Sunday, allowing him to report to camp on time and begin earning a starting position at the other end of the line from veteran Mike Renfro.

Irvin could reap the benefits from an early signing as soon as mid-season, coaches say.

"There's no question when you are a No. 1 draft choice you have the skills to do it," said pass offense coordinator Paul Hackett. "We all saw what (Mike) Sherrard, who missed a lot of camp, did at the end of his rookie year (1985). That can happen to Michael Irvin in the middle of his rookie year."

The Cowboys will initially line Irvin up at flanker, his college position. Irvin's 6-2, 198 pound-size, speed and background from pass-happy

Miami, the college team with a pro-style offense, could make him a candidate for another Cowboy need — relieving Herschel Walker.

"Our great need at this point is to have an emergence at wide receiver, like a Sherrard," head coach Tom Landry said. "Somebody who the defense can look at and say, 'We've got to defend him; we can't just defend Herschel all the time.' We need to prevent the defense from playing an eight-man front against Herschel."

The Cowboys' youth movement, highlighted by last season's defeats of the Los Angeles Rams and the St. Louis Cardinals while starting four rookies, should continue this year.

"We would like to have a football team starting with people in place who can help us two years down the way," Landry said.

No. 2 pick unsigned linebacker Ken Norton is also expected to compete for a starting post.

Norton will be shifted from inside linebacker, his position at UCLA, to the outside on the Cowboys.

Veteran Mike Hegman, the left-side linebacker, could be the first choice to lose his starting slot to Norton, though perhaps not this year.

Norton instead will probably be a role-player — cover man or blitzer in the nickel defense and also on the special teams, linebackers coach Jerry Tubbs says.

"We need to look at him in specialized situations rather than being a savior," Tubbs said.

Short of Irvin, line coach Jim Erkenbeck said his pick as most-likely-to-succeed to a starting spot is No. 4 selection Dave Widell, a tackle from Boston College.

"I'm most excited about Widell," Erkenbeck said. "I give him a good chance to beat out (starter Kevin) Gogan. Widell is exciting because he has everything you look for in a pro tackle except for real great foot quickness."

Look out!

Braves batter C.J. Kabacak ducked from a high inside pitch in a Kids Inc. boys' minor league tournament game Saturday, and then kept his eyes on the ball all the way to the catcher's mit.
