Gramm stumps for Bivins in Hereford

Speaking out

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, right, made a campaign appearance with Republican state

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm (R-College Station) endorsed Republican 31st District state senate candidate Teel Bivins of Amarillo during a campaign stop in Hereford on Wednesday.

Gramm, who presented the keynote address at the National GOP Convention last week in New Orleans, met with about 75 supporters in the community room at Hereford State Bank.

"I'm here because I believe Teel Bivins is an outstanding person running for an office that needs our support," Gramm said.

"Texas is beginning to recover: Our economy is beginning to grow, we are creating new jobs, and the one thing we don't need is a state income tax. I know he'll vote against a state income tax. If we are going to get people to invest in Texas, the last thing we need is a state income tax."

Gramm, who introduced the original Ronald Reagan-era budget with the Gramm-Latta bill in 1981 and is the father of the Gramm-Rudman Act that calls for reductions in federal government spending, said that spending money is "always popular in government. People are always looking over your shoulder" in asking for funding of programs, Gramm said, but there are "seldom any people there to write letters home about someone who cares about people ... Teel Bivins won't forget the forgotten people who make America work."

"We want someone who will pass laws putting to death people who sell drugs to our children," Gramm said. "We want thugs who kill our policemen put to death, and we want someone who will put prisoners out there working, not sitting around under the air conditioner with piped-in television. We don't want prison to be something these people want to replicate."

Gramm did not refer to Bivins opponent, Democrat Mel Phillips, by name, but said the "Texas Rural Aid Society, or whatever they are, are working with the trial lawyers with him. The working people are for Teel Bivins."

Bivins, pointing to young Cimmaron McClure of Olton in the audience, said he wanted "to work so that children like Cimmaron, when they reach voting age, have a state government they can be proud of. We need a good school system for that, and we don't need the fiat of a state district judge (Harley Clark of Austin) telling us how to run our schools."

Bivins re-emphasized his stances on economic growth and total review of state expenditures.

TDA representative urges local farmers to testify at hearing

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

A Texas Department of Agriculture official from Amarillo told local farmers at a Wednesday night meeting that they can have an impact on the state's Agricultural Hazard Communication (Right to Know) Act by attending a hearing next Tuesday in Lubbock.

"Attend the hearing in Lubbock on Tuesday, make your point, shut up and get out so the next guy can make his point," said Lavon Harmon of TDA. "We want lots of comments."

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center. The law, which went into effect on January 1, requires farmers who have either a seasonal or migrant-worker payroll of $15,000 a year or permanent workers with a gross annual payroll of $50,000 a year, and purchase or use 55 gallons or 500 pounds of pesticide a year, to keep detailed records of pesticides used on farm acreage, inform workers of potential hazards, and maintain Material Safety Data Sheets.

"This is a documentation thing," said County Agent Dennis Newton. "You can't keep this in your glove compartment. I would suggest that if you read something to your employees that you have them sign it."

Newton also urged farmers with permanent employees to "let them off for an hour and let them know about this stuff. It's better safe than sorry."

The detailed law (it takes up almost all of seven pages, typed single-spaced) went into effect last

January 1 and was written in answer to a lawsuit pending in a Dallas federal court. It was compiled by the Texas Farm Bureau, Texas Agricultural Chemicals Association, Texas Farmers Union, United Farm Workers, AFL-CIO, and the Texas Civil Liberties Union, and is very similar to regulations included in the State Hazard Communication Act and Occupational Safety and Health Administration rules that covered all agricultural workers and employers.

The Texas law became the model for Environmental Protection Agency regulations that will probably take effect in 1989.

"Nearly everyone is going to fall into the 55 gallons or 500 pounds requirements because it is 55 gallons of any chemical, and they've kicked everything into 'pesticides' except fertilizers," Harmon explained. "The salary requirement might keep people out of having to do this."

The "salary" requirements are rather ambiguous. Harmon explained that "bookkeepers, housekeepers, cooks, any permanent employee that you have, their salary goes toward the $50,000. If you are a corporation and you draw a salary, that counts."

Also unclear are definitions for "seasonal" and "migrant" employees, but those definitions could become clear after the Lubbock hearing on Tuesday.

"This hearing is very, very important," Harmon said. "If you would like to have input on these regulations, please be there."

Suspect being sought

Hereford police are still searching for an unidentified suspect in a sexual assault case that occurred August 10 at 2:30 p.m., in the 200 block of Bradley Street.

The 30-year-old victim identified the man as a blond, 23-to-25-year-old Caucasian weighing about 200 pounds, 6 feet 1 inch tall with a muscular build.

According to police, the man knocked on the woman's back door, asked about her car and pulled a gun on her before he entered the house.

Former Gov. Daniel dies

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Former Texas Gov. Price Daniel, who once said he would rather hold that job than the presidency, died in this Southeast Texas town early today.

George Christian, a former press secretary to Daniel, said the former governor and U.S. senator died at about 1 a.m.

Christian said Daniel suffered what he believes to be a massive stroke at his ranch and was taken to Yettie Kersting Hospital at Liberty. He was dead upon arrival, a spokeswoman said.

Hospital spokeswoman Margie Hagan said Daniel was brought in at 1:10 a.m. and that he had no vital signs.

Bill Wainscott, a paramedic who tried to help revive the former governor, said, "We went out there and we did all we could do and that was all there was to it. Unfortunately, we were unable to revive him. We tried."

Wainscott said paramedics were unable to determine the cause of death.

"It could have been a stroke or a heart attack," Wainscott said. He said paramedics received the call at 12:37 a.m. and arrived at the ranch nine minutes later.

Daniel, 77, served three two-year terms as governor from 1957-63 but lost an unprecedented bid for a fourth term in a Democratic primary race won by John Connally.

"The death of Price Daniel is a loss to the people of America. He never, never overlooked the problems with which the people were concerned. We're going to miss people of his caliber," said former Gov. Preston Smith. "I've lost one of my best friends."

It was Smith who appointed Daniel to the Texas Supreme Court in January 1971. Daniel retired from the court eight years later.

Daniel started his public career as a member of the state House of Representatives in 1939.

He became speaker in 1943, but later waived his legislative exemption and enlisted in the Army as a private. He left the service in 1946 with the rank of captain and made a successful race for state attorney general.

He won two terms without opposition, beginning in 1947. He was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1952.

Daniel ran for governor after resigning his U.S. Senate seat in September 1956.

His early training was aimed at a career in journalism. He was a young reporter for the Fort Worth Star-Telgram and the Waco News Tribune. He received his undergraduate degree in journalism at Baylor University in 1931 before taking his law degree at the same school a year later.

In 1940, Daniel married Jean Houston Baldwin of Houston, a great-granddaughter of Texas revolutionary hero Sam Houston. The Daniels had four children. The first, Price Jr., like his father a former Texas House speaker, died in January 1981 after being fatally shot. His wife, Vickie, was found innocent of murdering Price Jr., 39, in a trial at Liberty.

Area alliance is announced today

The possible formation of an area-wide alliance was announced today by the Amarillo Strategic Area Planning (ASAP) Committee at the Amarillo City Hall.

A detailed 32-page report was presented at a morning presentation that featured two targeted projects for Amarillo and the Panhandle: the development of a mid-continent airport hub and a major medical research facility.

Presenting the report were ASAP co-chairmen Ann Whittenburg and Wales Madden Jr., and Mort Meyerson, chairman of the Texas SSC Committee and a past president of EDS. The three discussed the targeted projects, the purpose of the plan's Area Alliance, and a joint effort by Dallas and the Panhandle to form a network of area alliances throughout the state.

The report calls for the City of Amarillo to lead the Panhandle in the creation of the Panhandle Area Alliance to "develop a regional ability to respond instantaneously to political crisis situations and other threats and opportunities"; increase political influence in Austin and Washington, D.C.; create a unified voice for a Panhandle; and "support and complement, but in no way supplant, local chambers of commerce or economic development efforts."

According to the report, there is a need for an international mid-continent airport hub in Amarillo because of deteriorating air traffic safety at the huge airports in Dallas and Denver. "The Panhandle can reap the benefits of a new airport hub without experiencing the problems or expense that other cities might face," the report says.

A medical research facility would fit in with existing medical institutions in Amarillo.

"A consortium of area hospitals, Texas Tech's medical school, and the Harrington Cancer Center (are) poised to develop a nationally-recognized research program," the report says.

ASAP calls for $125,000 over two years from the City of Amarillo for "seed money" for the project, matching funds raised through a fund-raising campaign sponsored by the ASAP committee, and in-kind contributions in the form of loaned executives by leading area corporations.

Long-term monies would come from membership dues and ongoing fundraising efforts.

"Anything we do as a region will pull us more closely together," said Teel Bivins, a member of the ASAP committee, during a campaign stop in Hereford on Wednesday. "One of the great aspects of ASAP is that it is project-oriented, not committee-oriented. There won't be any organizations for organizations' sake."

County arrests four

Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office arrested a 26-year-old woman on charges of theft by check; a man, 60, was jailed for a driving while intoxicated commitment; a 27-year-old man was committed to jail for violating his probation and a man, 26, was charged with violating his probation.

A license plate was stolen in the 100 block of Columbus Street between Aug. 22 and Aug. 24; criminal trespassing was reported in the 500 block of Whittier Street and a mail box was damaged on North Avenue K.

Boy flees after stealing beer

A 17-year-old boy was charged with stealing beer and fleeing a peace officer this morning after he and other unidentified youths stole beer from Allsup's at 515 S. 25 Mile Ave., fled police in a pickup and struck a residence.

The night clerk at the convenience store said the youths stole 12 packs of beer at 2 a.m. when patrolman Brent Harrison spotted the pickup they were driving and a chase ensued.

The pickup then struck a house at 500 Sycamore Lane but no one in the house was injured.

Witnesses said at least three people ran from the pickup after the accident.

Other arrests include a 25-year-old woman charged with failing to pay Municipal Court fines; a man, 46, charged with driving with a suspended license; a 33-year-old man charged with having no liability insurance (second offense) and with several traffic offenses on a city warrant; a man, 29, arrested for yelling obscenities and making obscene gestures to his neighbors; and a 19-year-old man charged with having no liability insurance (second offense) and having defective equipment.

Brockman sets Friday fly-in U.S. Army Capt. Greg Brockman will be flying his AH 64 Apache helicopter into Hereford Municipal Airport at about noon Friday for a brief hometown stopover before continuing to Amarillo where the helicopter will be one of the feature attractions at this weekend's air show.

Accompanying Brockman will be a UH 60 Black Hawk. Both helicopters are part of the Army's first combat-ready Apache squadron at Fort Hood.

Brockman and the remainder of the group will be at the airport for about 90 minutes Friday before continuing to Amarillo.

Brockman, son of Donna Brockman of Hereford, is a 1978 graduate of Hereford High School and a 1982 graduate of West Point Military Academy.

Marcos requests to return home to defend name

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Stock prices plunged today and businessmen expressed fears for government stability after Ferdinand Marcos requested permission for the first time to return home and confront an accuser.

The 70-year-old ex-president, living in exile in Hawaii, filed a petition Wednesday with the anti-corruption court demanding the right to defend himself when a former Cabinet minister testifies against him in November.

Last week, the court ruled that Marcos had the right to cross-examine former Public Works Minister Baltazar Aquino when he gives evidence in a deposition hearing Nov. 7.

It was the first time Marcos formally sought permission from any Philippine institution to return to the land he fled after the February 1986 uprising that toppled his administration and propelled Corazon Aquino to the presidency.

Mrs. Aquino said today that she would stand by a commitment to abide by whatever decision the court renders in the case.

"At the same time, I'm also committed to work for the national interest," she said without elaboration in a statement read by spokesman Teodoro Benigno. Mrs. Aquino had previously refused to allow Marcos to return.

Marcos asked the Department of Foreign Affairs to issue him a passport within three days and to request the U.S. government to lift restrictions that bar him from leaving Hawaii.

U.S. officials have said they will not allow Marcos to leave without Mrs. Aquino's consent.

In the petition, Marcos said the court had no choice but to grant his request or order the Philippine government to halt a preliminary investigation that authorities say will lead to the filing of formal criminal charges against Marcos.

Solicitor-General Francisco Chavez said Baltazar Aquino — who is not related to the president — will testify about alleged bribes paid by Japanese firms during the Marcos administration.

Marcos said that as a lawyer, he demanded the right to represent himself.

"The only possible way of lawfully preventing the undersigned from personally appearing and defending himself in all such cases is for the ... incumbent government to dismiss (any charges) with prejudice," Marcos said, meaning no charges would ever be filed.

Defense Secretary Fidel Ramos told reporters Wednesday that the military was drawing up security plans in the event Marcos comes home.

Today, share prices on the Manila Stock Exchange fell 20 points, and brokers said the drop reflected concern over a possible Marcos return.

Luisabel Cortez, clerk of the anti-corruption court, told The Associated Press the three justices were studying the Marcos petition but had not decided whether to call a hearing.

Lions service award

Jimmie Allred, right, was presented a 40-year service award Wednesday by Joe Walters, first vice president of the Hereford Lions Club. Others receiving service awards included Troy Sublett and Weldon Knabe, 10 years; Mark Andrews, Art Gonzales, Julius Bodner, Sid Shaw and Jerry Shipman, 15 years; Gayle Cotten, John David Bryant and John Thames, 20 years; James Hull, Virgil Walker, Philip Shook and Stan Fry, 25 years; Charlie Bell, 30 years; and Ernest Langley, 35 years.

Firefighters, soldiers battle blazes in Yellowstone Park

By BART ZIEGLER
Associated Press Writer

New wildfires ignited as hundreds of soldiers fanned out along fire lines, while a huge blaze threatened one of Yellowstone National Park's most scenic areas and flames came within a mile of a nuclear missile site in Montana.

In Oregon, Gov. Neil Goldschmidt declared an emergency Wednesday night, clearing the way for deployment of the National Guard to help fight raging fires. Crews also struggled against blazes in Idaho, Washington and California.

The out-of-control blaze reached 400 acres early today but winds pushed the flames 3 miles from the un-manned site.

Eleven firefighters and a tanker were dispatched to the site just in case, said Capt. Donald Planalp of Malmstrom Air Force Base.

Firefighters in Yellowstone hoped for continued low winds to help keep the 97,600-acre North Fork fire from moving the one mile to an evacuated campground and hotel complex.

About 360 visitors were evacuated Wednesday as flames advanced to within 1½ miles of the Canyon compound.

"It's a hassle," said visitor Pat Bentz of Prineville, Ore. "I just hope I don't have to go through this kind of thing again."

The evacuation left only firefighters and reporters to contend with the heavy smoke that obscured the sun and veiled views of the 308-foot Lower Falls and 109-foot Upper Falls.

Ten fires involving 355,000 acres were burning in Yellowstone, closing five other campgrounds, the Grant Village hotel area and the south entrance.

Firefighters at the 156,500-acre Clover-Mist fire in northeastern Yellowstone received aid from 635 soldiers from Fort Lewis, Wash., who took over mop-up work on the fire's east flank in the Shoshone National Forest.

To the south in Grand Teton National Park and the Bridger-Teton National Forest, firefighters planned to guide a 16,000-acre fire toward Yellowstone's southern border, where they hoped it would join two other blazes and consume all available fuel.

To the east, Bighorn National Forest officials hoped to contain an 11,000-acre fire by tonight.

In southern Montana, about 600 more firefighters headed for the 28,000-acre Storm Creek fire in the Absaroka-Beartooth Wilderness. Management of the firefighting was handed over Wednesday to a top-level team from Alaska.

Southeast of Helena, crews neared containment of a 16-day-old blaze that destroyed more than a dozen structures. Firefighters on Wednesday began hand-burning the last troublesome area along fire lines surrounding the 37,200-acre blaze.

A raging fire on the steep slopes of Hells Canyon at the Idaho-Oregon line forced crews to move their base camp to escape the flames. The fire mushroomed Wednesday from 1,200 acres to 2,000.

Oregon's state forester, James E. Brown, requested National Guard aircraft to help map the fires.

No ground troops were immediately called out in the governor's emergency order, which applied only to southwest Oregon.

A fire at Ward Canyon in northeastern Oregon grew to 1,000 acres Wednesday, forcing 220 firefighters to abandon the fight and consider moving their threatened camp.

Lightning storms Tuesday peppered southwestern Oregon, starting at least 60 fires.

In Washington state, a rapidly spreading, 50-acre blaze was reported late Wednesday seven miles northwest of Morton.

Near Cloverdale, Calif., about 65 miles north of San Francisco, a grass fire consumed 750 acres in steep terrain.

Dukakis says families struggling under GOP

By ROBERT GREENE
Associated Press Writer

Democrat Michael Dukakis kept up his attack on Republican economics with a claim that families are struggling harder than ever under President Reagan, while Dan Quayle countered questions about his military record with assaults on Dukakis' defense policies.

The countercharges occurred Wednesday against the backdrop of wrangling over when Dukakis and Vice President George Bush would debate, and polls showing that Bush's post-convention lead was narrowing.

Quayle fared well in one of those surveys, which showed support for his selection as the Republican vice presidential nominee and his service record during the Vietnam War.

As part of a Democratic effort to counter such Republican criticism of Dukakis on defense issues, Democratic vice presidential nominee Lloyd Bentsen was speaking today to the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Chicago.

The Texas senator and World War II bomber pilot addresses the group just three days after Bush and Quayle spoke.

Quayle, saying "I can take the heat," told an audience of 1,000 current and former National Guard members in St. Louis he was proud of his Guard service. Quayle has been dogged since his nomination last week with allegations that he pulled strings to get into the Guard and avoid duty in Vietnam.

Dukakis, touring the industrial states of Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania after picking up the endorsement of the AFL-CIO leadership in Washington, took aim at the Reagan administration's claims to seven years of growth and prosperity.

Conceding that more Americans are working today than at any time in history, he said average family income has remained stagnant.

The AFL-CIO has 14 million members, and President Lane Kirkland said Wednesday the endorsement should be worth a net of 2.5 million votes for Dukakis.

Dukakis, repeatedly criticized by Republicans as being soft on defense, was assaulted on that front Wednesday by Quayle and Reagan.

The Boise Interagency Fire Center, which coordinates firefighting in the West and Alaska, said 66,000 fires have blackened 3.3 million acres in drought-plagued 1988, 300,000 acres more than in 1986, considered the region's worst year.

"Obviously, we've got a wild year here," said spokeswoman Bernie Pineda.

In Montana, fire broke out Wednesday afternoon a half-mile from a Minuteman II nuclear missile site between Great Falls and Lewistown, the Air Force said.

merlife for 22 years. Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Harold (Rosemary) Barrett of Hereford; a grandson, Corey Barrett and a granddaughter, Deana Barrett. The family will be at 235 Ave. B.

MARY LEELAND WHITESIDE Aug. 23, 1988

Mary Leeland Whiteside, 74, of Hereford died Tuesday, Aug. 23, 1988 in Grand Junction, Colo. after a brief illness.

Services will be at 11 a.m. Friday at Gilliland-Watson Rose Chapel with the Rev. Doug Manning, former pastor of First Baptist Church in Hereford officiating. Burial will follow in Amarillo's Llano Cemetery under the direction of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

She was born in Amarillo and moved to Hereford in 1944. She graduated from Amarillo High School and West Texas State University, and taught school in Amarillo and Hereford.

She married Carroll Whiteside on Oct. 24, 1936, in Amarillo. He died in 1967. She was a member of First Baptist Church.

Survivors include two sons, Carroll of Hobart, Okla., and John of Albuquerque, N.M.; a daughter Sally Manahan of Grand Junction; and six grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Family Center at First Baptist Church, Hereford.

DONNIE AVENT Aug. 23, 1988

Donnie Avent, 65, died Tuesday, Aug. 23, 1988 in Amarillo.

Services were held at 11 a.m. today, Thursday, in the University Church of Christ of Canyon with Brent Adams, minister, officiating. Burial followed in Dreamland Cemetery by Schooler-Gordon Funeral Directors.

Born in Canyon, Mr. Avent was ranch foreman for Durrett Cattle Co. of Claude for 2½ years. He moved from Claude to Canyon in April 1988. He married Betty Harwood in 1944 at Amarillo. He served in the Navy for three years during World War II.

He was a member of Canyon's University Church of Christ. Mr. Avent served on the Claude School Board, was a member of Claude American Legion and served on the Stinnett Chamber of Commerce in the early 1960s.

Survivors include his wife, Betty; a son, Scott Avent of Washburn; a daughter, Brenda L. Paschel of Hereford; his father, Wilson Avent of Amarillo; three sisters, Mary Jo Robinson of Gruver, Martha Wilkins of Amarillo, Juanita Allread of Wildorado; two brothers, Robert Avent of Tres Ritos, N.M., and George Avent of Stratford; and two grandchildren.

The family requests memorials be made to St. Anthony's Hospice or a favorite charity.

Former US soldier charged with selling secrets to USSR

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Authorities said today they have arrested a former U.S. soldier and charged him with espionage for selling military secrets to the Soviet Union over the past 10 years.

Chief Federal Prosecutor Kurt Rebmann said in a statement the charges against former Army Sgt. Clyde Lee Conrad involved an "especially grave case" of supplying American and NATO defense secrets to the Soviets through an international spy ring.

The most recent delivery took place last month in Vienna, Rebmann said.

In Stockholm, Swedish authorities said three East Bloc immigrants were detained this week on suspicion of spying.

The suspects — a married couple and a man — faced arraignment today on charges of illegal intelligence activity, the Aftonbladet daily said. Swedish radio, however, said the woman was released after questioning.

The prosecutor's spokesman said the ring was based in West Germany and used couriers from Sweden, but he did not mention the three detained immigrants.

The spokesman, Alexander Prechtel, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that he couldn't rule out the possibility of the charge of espionage against Conrad might be raised to treason. The spokesman said Conrad was a "central figure" in the case.

The statement came after The New York Times reported today that Swedish and West German authorities had arrested eight people involved in a spy ring that supplied secret military documents to the Soviets for at least 10 years.

Prechtel, speaking from his office in the city of Karlsruhe, confirmed virtually all of the Times report on the case.

He confirmed that documents concerning North Atlantic Treaty Organization defense plans for Europe were believed stolen as well as the U.S. Army contingency plans for a ground war in Europe against the Soviet Union.

But he emphasized that officials were still conducting in-depth investigations to determine exactly what was missing.

Prechtel said that while "several" people had been taken into custody or arrested, he could not confirm that the number was eight.

The ring was based in West Germany, while couriers were based in neutral Sweden, the spokesman also confirmed.

Rebmann said Conrad sold secret documents to "a Soviet bloc secret service."

Conrad has been sent to investigative detention following his appearance before a special panel of the West German Supreme Court, Rebmann's office said.

Rebmann's statement said that Conrad had worked for the U.S. military for 20 years before his discharge in 1965. It said he was born in 1947, but did not give his hometown in the United States.

Principals in the newly uncovered ring, which operated through a German-Hungarian connection, caused a major security loss to the United States.

Now You're Cooking

By GAYE B. REILY
Staff Writer

Although Teresa Peiffer of 139 Ave. B will gladly divulge her "recipe" for Elephant Stew, she carefully guards some of her family recipes. "I won't give out my spaghetti sauce recipe because that's Granny's best one!" she said. "I am of Italian descent and they take their cooking seriously." Peiffer and her husband, Mark, have lived in Hereford since April 1986, each leaving large families in southern Iowa to move to a place where they have no family. "We still return to Iowa for visits. But the people of Hereford have been so kind and friendly that we feel at home here."

Married for the past 10½ years, the Peiffers met while attending Indian Hills Community College in southern Iowa. Mark is in the church choir at St. Anthony's Catholic Church where the family are members; Teresa is a member of Xi Epsilon Alpha chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority and Hereford Young Homemakers. Golf, horseback riding, and genealogy complete her list of hobbies, yet both find time for the new addition to their family, 15-month-old Jessica.

"We are very careful to reserve time to spend with Jessica," said the petite, dark-eyed brunette mother. "I love to sew for her and I enjoy crafts of all types, especially tole painting and cross stitch. Someday I hope to be a fulltime stay-at-home mom." Peiffer currently is employed by The Service Company as a contract computer programmer while husband Mark is service manager of Stagner-Orsborn Buick-Pontiac-GMC.

Despite the rigors of working fulltime, the Peiffers don't care for fast food, opting instead for home-cooked meals. "I enjoy cooking when I have the time. Also, Mark barbecues a lot and helps with the cooking chores." Peiffer learned to cook by watching her Italian grandmother cook favorite family recipes. "My grandmother was the type that wanted me around to stir something when necessary but stay out of the way otherwise." Peiffer can follow a recipe or throw ingredients together successfully, a talent she developed while living with college roommates who couldn't cook.

Peiffer's favorite food is Italian but she discovered another type of food upon moving to Texas. According to her, although there are Mexican food restaurants in Iowa, the South-of-the-border cuisine is much tastier here.

Following are some of Peiffer's favorite recipes:

HOMEMADE VANILLA ICE CREAM (Makes 1 gallon)

4 eggs
2 c. sugar
½ c. Karo syrup
2 pints of half & half
1 Tbsp. vanilla extract
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. lemon extract
milk

Beat eggs until light. Add sugar and syrup, beating until mixture thickens. Add remaining ingredients. Mix. Put in freezer container and finish filling container with milk. Freeze in ice cream freezer per manufacturer's instructions.

GNOCCHI (pronounced In-Yoh-E)

2 lbs. potatoes, unpeeled

2 egg yolks
1½ tsp. salt
1 c. flour

Cook potatoes in boiling water (salted) until tender. Drain and peel. Return potatoes to saucepan and shake over low heat until dry. Mash potatoes until smooth.

Beat in egg yolks and salt. Gradually add flour. Knead until smooth. Working with a portion at a time, roll into thin ropes about ¾ inch in diameter. Cut into ½ inch pieces.

Drop pieces into boiling, salted water a single layer at a time and cook until they bob up to the surface. Drain. Transfer to buttered baking dish and keep warm until all are cooked. Serve with butter and grated parmesan cheese or with tomato sauce and grated cheese.

Gnocchi may be an appetizer or main dish; serve with tossed salad and garlic bread as appetizer or serve with spaghetti meat sauce as a main dish. Makes 6 servings.

GREEN BEANS AND CINNAMON

1 pkg. frozen green beans (your own garden beans work the best)
1-2 Tbsp. oil salt pepper
cinnamon
½ medium onion, finely chopped

Saute onions in oil. Add green beans (frozen). Cover with a lid and allow to simmer until tender and cooked.

Add salt and pepper to taste; add cinnamon to taste and allow to cook approximately 15 more minutes on simmer up to medium heat.

Fresh vegetables provide year-round nutrition

Even though summer is coming to a close, Texans can still enjoy their favorite garden vegetables. In fact, you probably should make an effort to eat more from this high nutrient, low calorie food group, says the Texas Medical Association.

Most people who have ever tasted vegetables right out of the garden agree that fresh is best. However, because of new technology in the produce industry, crops can be packaged and shipped so they reach the supermarket nearly field-fresh.

Vegetables are a good source of vitamin A, C, folic acid, minerals, and fiber. Some of the health problems they can help alleviate are high blood pressure, heart disease, and high cholesterol levels.

To help keep vegetables nutritious, store them in a cool, dark place, and away from air.

Also, when it comes to nutritional value, the general rule is the darker the better. For example, dark leafy lettuce and spinach have more nutrients than light green iceberg lettuce.

Heat, light, water, and air can destroy various vitamins. Try to cook with as little water and for the shortest time possible. Microwaving and stir-frying are good ways to accomplish this.

Try to keep the skins on. If you have to peel them, peel them thinly, because many nutrients are found just below the skin.

Finally, don't buy more fresh vegetable than you will use in a few days. As storage time lengthens, nutrients are lost.

Some of your favorite home grown vegetables may be disappearing with the summer, but maintaining your health is a year-round project.

Posses, riding club finals set Saturday, Sunday

The United Sheriff Poses and Riding Clubs Finals are scheduled Saturday and Sunday at the Hereford Riders Club Arena.

About 200 riders from clubs in Hereford, Amarillo, Pampa and Canyon will participate. Age groups include pee wee through senior.

The riders have been competing at range playdays since April to qualify for the finals. Each must have two qualified rides out of the five summer playdays.

Events include pylons, barrels, poles, flags, golfette, rings for individuals, plus partner games of two-man, rescue and ribbon.

Grand entry is scheduled for 9 a.m. each day, with church services on Sunday. Guest speaker on Sunday will be Joe Weaver of Hereford.

The queens' contest for the United Queen of 1989 is scheduled after Sunday's grand entry. Food at the concession stand will include an early breakfast on Sunday.

Novice roping is also scheduled Saturday. Books will be open at 7 p.m., with the roping set for 8 p.m.

For more information on the United Sheriff Poses and Riding Club Finals, call 364-1346.

Rangers' Witt gets 7-4 win, 9th straight complete game

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Two months ago Bobby Witt was struggling against American Association competition. These days he's perhaps the hottest pitcher in the major leagues.

Witt, 6-8, pitched his ninth straight complete game and the Rangers rallied for four runs in the eighth inning Wednesday night for a 7-4 triumph over the Kansas City Royals.

"I like challenges," Witt said. "Getting back to the major leagues was a challenge. I worked hard in the minors and now I'm surprising a lot of people. I never doubted myself."

Witt's tidy performance allowed the Rangers to rest a bullpen that on Tuesday night gave up six walks and eight runs in the top of the ninth as the Royals went on to an 11-7 victory.

On Wednesday the Rangers fell behind the Royals and Bret Saberhagen, 4-0 in the third inning, leaving the impression of a carry-over from Tuesday night's disaster.

SHOOTING

Small bore rifle (3 pos) — Viktor Vlasov, Soviet Union, 1980 and Malcolm Cooper, Britain, 1,173 points.

Small bore rifle (prone) — Ho Jun Li, North Korea, 1972; Karl-Heinz Smieszek, West Germany, 1976; Karoly Varga, Hungary and Helfried Helfort, East Germany, 1980; Edward Etzel, United States, 1984; 599.

Free pistol — Aleksandr Melentev, Soviet Union, 1980, 581.

Rapid fire pistol — Norbert Klaar, East Germany, 1976, 597.

Running game — Thomas Pfeifer, East Germany and Igor Sokolov, Soviet Union, 1980, 589.

Trap — Angelo Scatzone, Italy, 1972, 199.

Skeet — Evgeny Petrov, Soviet Union, Romano Garagnani, Italy and Konrad Wirthner, West Germany, 1968; Josef Panacek, Czechoslovakia and Eric Swinkels, Holland, 1976; Luciano Giovannetti, Italy, 1980; Matthew Dryke, United States, 198.

Air Rifle — Pat Spurgin, United States, 1984, 593.

"That's got to be one of my best wins," said Witt, who tied the club record for consecutive complete games also held by Ferguson Jenkins and Gaylord Perry. "Last night the clubhouse was like a morgue. But everybody came in with a good attitude today and forgot about that."

Witt allowed three hits and struck out a season-high 11 as he continued the longest complete game streak in the major leagues since 1965 when Bert Blyleven went the distance in 10 consecutive starts for Cleveland.

Texas sent nine men to the plate in the eighth, with Mike Stanley's two-out double and Steve Buechele's RBI single highlighting the rally.

"We didn't dwell on last night," said Rangers manager Bobby Valentine. "Bobby was a little shaky at the beginning of the game and it took a few innings for him to get into a good rhythm. But he went from shaky to outstanding."

Danny Tartabull had three RBIs as the Royals scored two runs each in the first and third. Witt walked two in the first and both runners scored.

"In the past when I'd make mistakes early I'd start throwing stuff and cursing," Witt said. "But I've told myself that I've got to get off that stuff. You have to forget the negatives and go on. That's something I really worked on in the minors."

Witt started the season 0-5 with a 7.68 ERA before he was optioned to Class AAA Oklahoma City on May 10. Witt, the 1984 Olympian, returned to the majors on July 7 and since then he is 6-3 with a 2.08 ERA to lower his overall ERA to 3.86.

"All the club records I've ever had have been negative — walks, wild pitches, failing to complete games," Witt said. "Finally I have a positive record. Now I'm just going to stay positive."

Witt matched the low-hit game of his major league career as he threw his 10th complete game of the season.

Not guaranteeing victory over Aggies

Huskers' linebacker stays quiet

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Nebraska linebacker Broderick Thomas remembers the last time he "guaranteed" a victory for his team. It turned out to be a disappointing loss to Oklahoma.

He's keeping his mouth shut this time as the second-ranked Cornhuskers prepare for Saturday night's Kickoff Classic with Texas A&M that officially opens the 1988 college football season.

"I'm just taking it easy," said the Huskers' outside linebacker. "I'm just happy to be alive. I just want to play football."

Last year, Thomas was more outspoken. He proclaimed the 1987 Cornhuskers "the Hell Raisin' Tour," and made bold predictions. However, two of them didn't pan out — including a bitter 17-7 loss to Oklahoma during a 10-2 season.

Thomas has been so outspoken in the past that Coach Tom Osborne has had to defend him on several occasions.

"I don't think I've been around a player who loves football more or wants to win more than Broderick," Osborne said. "Basically, I think people think Broderick is a hothead, out to have fun."

Osborne says Thomas is not really the braggart he may seem to be in the news media.

"As far as being quieter or not, I don't know," Osborne said of Thomas this season. "Broderick is Broderick. I think maybe he will show a little different tact in how he handles questions."

He has so far, in answering questions about Saturday night's game at Giants Stadium. Asked to defend Nebraska's linebacking corps against claims that Texas A&M has the best linebackers in the country, Thomas said:

"You all just watch the game and watch it close. It's going to be a great game. A&M is going to be a great team. I basically don't have anything to say about the game. I'm ready to play."

As for his Nebraska team in general, Osborne isn't quite sure yet of its capabilities, despite its No. 2 ranking and favorite's role Saturday night. Texas A&M, coming off a similar 10-2 season, is ranked No. 10.

"I think number one at this time of year in the rankings doesn't mean much," Osborne said. "In college football, you're losing about half your people every year so I'm not even sure how good we are."

Nebraska has had 26 consecutive winning seasons, which ties Penn State (1939-64) and Alabama (1958-83) for the NCAA record for most winning seasons in a row.

Three top Cornhuskers probably will miss the Classic while Texas

A&M apparently is healthy.

Nebraska's junior center Jake Young suffered a knee strain at practice Tuesday and received treatment at the Nebraska training room Wednesday. Placekicker Chris Drennan, with a thigh pull, and middle guard Lawrence Pete, who returned to practice this week after being out with mononucleosis and strep throat, probably will miss the nationally televised game.

"They have seven starters back from a great defense," Osborne said of Texas A&M, which beat Notre Dame 35-10 in last season's Cotton Bowl. "It's going to be very hard to move the football on this team."

Texas A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill has chosen sophomore quarterback Bucky Richardson to start the game. But Sherrill said he wouldn't hesitate to revert to last season's triple quarterback system that led the Aggies to their third straight Southwest Conference title.

Richardson, the most valuable offensive player in the Cotton Bowl, was glad to hear the decision.

"I would hope if I go in and move the team and put points on the board, I'll stay in the game," Richardson said. "But that's a decision for Coach Sherrill to make."

Sherrill could go to Lance Pavlas or Mississippi transfer Chris Osgood if Richardson falters. Osgood has replaced the graduated Craig Stump in the quarterbacking derby.

"We utilized three of them last year and all them of them had something to do with our winning the Cotton Bowl game," Sherrill said.

Richardson and Pavlas finished 1-2 in voting for the outstanding offensive player in the 1988 Cotton Bowl.

"There were a lot of positive things that happened last year," Pavlas said. "I'm looking forward to the season and if I get a chance to play, I'll try to take advantage of the opportunity."

'Y' schedules volleyball organizational meeting

A volleyball league organizational meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA.

The meeting is for all individuals and teams interested in competing in co-ed, men's and women's leagues.

"We want input from the participants so that we can improve the quality of our leagues," YMCA program director Jerry Brock said.

Brock said items for discussion include player restrictions, league referees, game days and starting dates, determining league champions, sign-up deadline, unsportsmanlike conduct penalties for individuals and teams, game locations, entry fees, uniforms, length of league season, forfeit rule and rule modifications.

For more information on the organizational meeting, call the YMCA at 364-6990.

All five teams challenged for title last year

AFC East could have replay in 1988

By STEVE HERMAN
AP Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — AFC East coaches generally agree the 1988 season could see a replay of 1987, when all five teams challenged for the division title that Indianapolis won in the final game.

Buffalo coach Marv Levy picks Miami, because of quarterback Dan Marino and the Dolphins' winning tradition under Don Shula.

Shula hedges his nod to the Bills by emphasizing every other team's strengths and the tight race a year ago.

But most predictions are nothing more than wild guesses, although if you had to pick a non-contender, it would be the New York Jets.

Otherwise, it could be a replay of last year, when all five teams were tied at 6-6 with three games to go.

"You can't afford a mistake or a slip," says Ron Meyer, who took over an 0-13 Colts team with three games to go in 1986 and led them to a 12-6 mark since, including their first division title in a decade, last season.

The Colts gained instant respectability with the acquisition last October of All-Pro running back Eric Dickerson from the Los Angeles Rams. The deal also sent rookie linebacker Cornelius Bennett, the Colts' unsigned top draft pick, to Buffalo, and helped make the Bills contenders, too.

The Dolphins and Patriots finished a game behind Indianapolis. The Bills, who had won just eight of 48 games the previous three years, were 7-8. And the Jets were only one game behind Buffalo, finishing 6-9.

Buffalo's hopes are based on four young, emerging stars at four of the most important positions — quarterback Jim Kelly, defensive end Bruce Smith, Bennett and Shane Conlan, who became more effective when he moved to inside linebacker after the Bennett trade.

If they get the running they expect from rookie Thurman Thomas and second-year man Jamie Mueller, they could win.

The Colts' big edge is Dickerson, who played only nine games last year but still led the AFC with more than 1,000 yards rushing. Indianapolis isn't likely to catch its opponents by surprise this year, though, and Meyer says repeating as champion will be very difficult.

"I think whenever you go after the divisional championship as an opponent, the sense of urgency to prepare and compete is that much greater. You can't sneak up on anybody," he says.

"Quite frankly, in the past, the Colts probably have been considered a win on our opponents' scorecard. That isn't taken for granted anymore."

The Colts were 3-3, including two victories with replacements during the players' strike, when General Manager Jim Irsay pulled off one of the biggest trades in NFL history with the acquisition of Dickerson.

The Colts' offense improved drastically with Dickerson and the steady performance of Albert Bentley, first in the AFC and second in the NFL with 1,578 all-purpose yards.

But going into the season, the Colts have problems on the offensive line, where Ron Solt and Kevin Call were holdouts. The off-injured Gary Hogeboom is the quarterback, with Jack Trudeau behind him.

On defense, the leader is outside linebacker Duane Bickett and the Colts hope for help from nose tackle Joe Klecko, picked up after being released by the Jets because of his chronic knee problems. So far, the knee has held up.

"We're better right now, but unfortunately that isn't always reflected on the scoreboard," says Meyer. "Injuries, performance and attitude all have a big part to play as the season progresses."

Marino at Miami and Kelly at Buffalo are considered the top quarterbacks in the division.

Kelly passed for 2,798 yards and broke his own club record with a 59.7

completion percentage last year.

New England's Steve Grogan, a 14-year veteran, will be trying to turn around an offense that ranked 23rd in the NFL, down from 13th the previous year. But the receiving corps is deep with Stanley Morgan, Irving Fryar and Cedric Jones. Rookie John Stephens looks like instant help at running back.

In 3-2 loss to Dodgers

Astros were too generous

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — If the Houston Astros hope to catch the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers in the NL West, they have to stop being so generous.

They gave away too many runs Wednesday in dropping a 3-2 decision to the Chicago Cubs, said Manager Hal Lanier.

Rafael Palmeiro doubled to open the ninth and scored the tie-breaking run on a single by Vance Law. Both hits came off reliever Juan Agosto, 10-1, who saw his 10-game winning streak end.

"It shouldn't have come down to that," said Lanier. "We gave them the first two runs and that run shouldn't have made any difference."

"You can't give away runs and expect to win ball games."

The two unearned runs in the second and sixth innings came off starter Nolan Ryan, who allowed only four hits and struck out nine before leaving for a pinch batter in the seventh.

The unearned run in the second inning was a baseball oddity.

With two outs and a man on first, Shawn Dunston struck out. But the ball bounced into catcher Alex Trevino's mitt. Trevino flipped it out to the mound as Ryan was walking off the field.

Dunston went to first and Law advanced all the way to third on the play, in which Trevino had to tag Dunston or throw to first for the out. Greg Maddux then singled to score Law.

"I had started to walk off the mound, I didn't realize what happened," Ryan said.

Marino should get help at Miami from Troy Stradford, who ran for 619 yards and caught passes for 457 in becoming the NFL offensive rookie of the year last season.

But a holdout by offensive tackle Jon Giesler was a concern, and the Dolphins' line was further depleted by center Dwight Stephenson's inability to return from a knee injury sustained last December.

Stepenson is on the physically unable to perform list and will miss at least six games.

The defense continues to be a problem — instant help is needed from rookie defensive end Eric Kumerow and two second-year men, linebacker Rick Graf and defensive end John Bosa.

The Jets are rebuilding after cutting nine former starters, including Klecko. New York also lost its top linebacker, Lance Mehl, who retired with bad knees and another veteran linebacker, Bob Crable, will miss the start of the season with knee trouble.

If quarterback Ken O'Brien can get protection and Freeman McNeil and Johnny Hector get some running room, the Jets can score. Wide receiver Al Toon led the AFC with 68 receptions.

But the offensive and defensive lines are inexperienced and two or three rookies may start in the secondary.

"We're going to be a younger team and we have to find out quickly how much the young players can do for us," Coach Joe Walton says. "We need to find the blend of experience and youth. You can't win without that blend, and we seemed to lose it last year."

Injuries haunt Baylor in preseason practice

WACO, Texas (AP) — The Baylor Bears have the firepower to contend for the Southwest Conference football title in 1988 but injuries are beginning to haunt the Bears in fall practice.

"Last year we were reloading," Baylor Coach Grant Teaff said Tuesday during the SWC press tour. "This year we need to pull the trigger. We were within an eyelash of going 8-3."

The Bears finished 6-5.

"We can be better than that if we make the big plays. I like our defense as we enter this season. We have a lot more depth in the secondary. Our linebackers are improved and experienced," Teaff said.

"We have a defense that gets to the ball in a hurry and is in a foul mood when it gets there."

Injuries have already become a problem.

Free safety Mike Welch has a knee surgery that required arthroscopic surgery and cornerback Ray Crockett has a pulled groin muscle. Center Bobby Sign has a knee injury.

Teaff said Welch, Crockett and Sign are questionable for the Sept. 3 opener against Nevada-Las Vegas at Baylor Stadium.

"We'll have to find a way to turn the negatives into positives," Teaff said. "Last year Ed Lovell was injured and Brad Goebel developed very rapidly as a quarterback."

Teaff said the heralded bluechip running back recruit, Anthony Ray, is beginning to work back into practice. Ray suffered a knee injury in the 1987 Texas High School All-Star game.

"How much he will be able to play is sheer conjecture, but he looks good in a helmet," Teaff said. "We hope to get him into pads sometime next week."

Names In The News

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Rock star Prince can't be faulted for lack of hard work.

Prince will barely be back from his European concert series next month when he will begin his first U.S. tour in four years with a pair of concerts in his home state of Minnesota.

Prince, who lives and records in suburban Chanhassen, is scheduled to play Sept. 14 and 15 at the Met Center in Bloomington.

Then, he'll hit the road through at least Oct. 19, taking his 90-member entourage to suburban Chicago, Cincinnati, New York City, Washington, D.C., Atlanta and Philadelphia.

More dates will be added, said Bob Merlis, vice president of publicity for Warner Bros. Records Inc.

And after concluding the U.S. tour, Prince might just jet off for a Far East tour early next year, Merlis said.

HONOLULU (AP) — One day in Hawaii is not Thaa Penghis' idea of a vacation, but the actor is happy that television work is cutting into his holiday.

Penghis, who will play disguise and dialect expert Nicholas Black in the new "Mission: Impossible" television series this fall on ABC, said Hollywood has finally accepted him as more than a "mysterious foreigner" playing terrorists and dignitaries.

"I've never been in this extreme a role. I'll be playing so many characters, because this man is a master of disguise," Penghis said Wednesday from the condominium where he spent a day relaxing before heading to Australia for rehearsals, publicity work and four months of filming.

Born in Sydney, Australia, to Greek parents, Penghis is best known as Victor Cassadine in the soap opera "General Hospital" and as Count Antony DiMera on "Days of Our Lives."

NEW RICHMOND, Ohio (AP) — Country singer Johnny Paycheck, who faces up to 9½ years in prison for his 1986 conviction in a barroom shooting, will perform this weekend in his native state.

The bearded performer is to sing in this southwestern Ohio town and in Dayton on Saturday, and then at a benefit concert Sunday near Chillicothe.

Paycheck, 49, faces a prison sentence of 4½ to 9½ years for his conviction on charges he shot and wounded another bar patron, Larry Wise, on Dec. 19, 1985, at a Hillsboro tavern. According to Wise, Paycheck apparently took offense when Wise offered him a meal of turtle soup and venison, to which Paycheck responded, "I'm no country hick."

Paycheck, best known for the 1978 hit "Take This Job and Shove It," claimed self-defense in the shooting. He has been free on bond for two years while he appealed. But the 4th Ohio District Court of Appeals this week upheld his conviction.

Highland County Prosecutor Rocky Coss said the singer could start serving his prison term within three months.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — An attorney for Howard Rollins Jr. entered innocent pleas on the actor's behalf to charges of cocaine possession, drunken driving and speeding.

State Judge Freddie Pitcher Jr. agreed to waive the presence of the 37-year-old actor and allowed attorney Jim Boren to enter the pleas Wednesday. No trial date was set.

Rollins was arrested in March while he was in Louisiana filming the NBC television series "In the Heat of the Night." A state trooper reported Rollins was driving more than 100 mph on Interstate 12, and police said they found two bags of a substance that turned out to be cocaine.

Rollins, who lives in Baltimore, had leading roles in the films "Ragtime" and "A Soldier's Story."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Wheel of Fortune" letter-turner Vanna White says mystery spells success and has turned down an offer to be host of the daytime version of the show when Pat Sajak leaves.

"I think America likes what I do," White said Monday. "I'm a mystery to people. They want to know more." The show's producer says she discussed the idea of White taking over as host, but White, 31, says she doesn't want a bigger role.

"I think the fact that I don't do more has made me what I am," said White, whose largely non-speaking role on the popular game show turned her into a star.

Sajak will remain as host of the nighttime version, the nation's top-rated syndicated show. But he will leave the NBC daytime version at the end of the year to be host of a late night talk show.

Film on U.S. racism creates ad dilemma

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's one thing getting filmgoers to watch the make-believe violence of a "Nightmare on Elm Street." It's another luring them to witness a true-to-life racial lynching that mirrors the sickness of their society.

Yet that's the challenge facing the makers of the explosive movie "Betrayed," which opens in theaters across the country on Friday but has already suffered one advertising snafu that left preview audiences steaming.

Filled with unbridled bigotry and an all-too-real racial murder, the film stands as a study in how — and how not — to market an earthshaker.

"This movie is enormously difficult," says Gordon Weaver, who is supervising the advertising campaign. "This is a very tough, tough film."

What makes "Betrayed," directed by Costa-Gavras, a hard sell is its explicit depiction of U.S. white supremacists — a topic audiences might want to avoid. So producer United Artists looked for another marketing hook within the movie.

Cut to Debra Winger and Tom Berenger, the film's stars. For United Artists, the popular pair made for a natural advertising angle. Thus, in the first "Betrayed" posters, or "one sheets" as they are called, Winger and Berenger were shown embracing.

From the looks of the poster, "Betrayed" appeared to be a steamy little film, perhaps an update of "Jagged Edge," which was, in fact, written by "Betrayed" author Joe Eszterhas.

But preview audiences expecting "Betrayed" to resemble an adventure-packed pulp romance were startled to see a band of hard-working Midwestern farmers who lead a double life as racist killers.

The white supremacists murder a talk-show host reminiscent of Denver radio personality Alan Berg, who was gunned down in 1985 by members of The Order. They hunt down and lynch a black youth and denounce homosexuals, Jews and various ethnic groups.

In more than one instance, preview audience members spontaneously erupted in anger, either walking out or speaking out against the film while it was still on screen. Said one woman at a Century City screening: "All white people are not like that!"

The time was ripe, it seemed, for a new advertising campaign — the film's future hung in the balance.

"What we found out was that people didn't know how to react to this film," said Brenda Farrier, who with Weaver was called in to consult on the $6 million advertising campaign.

"We had to help the audience along and say, 'It is going to be an upsetting film. It is not going to be a musical,'" Farrier said. The decision was ironic: If the movie were to be popular, United Artists was saying, people had to be ready to hate what they saw.

"Powerful films do cause people to say, 'I don't want to see this. ... It makes me uncomfortable.' That's the risk that you run," said Tony Thomopoulos, chairman and chief executive officer of United Artists Pictures.

Costa-Gavras, a French director, has made a career specializing in disturbing films such as "Missing," "State of Siege" and "Z."

"When we first started screening the film for people," Thomopoulos said, "we found out that if people were not prepared for what they were going to see, their reaction was so shocked that they weren't able to digest it all, and they missed a great deal of the film. Now we are taking this approach of making people aware."

Among the first moves that Farrier and Weaver made was dropping the sexually tinged poster, which was to have been used as a newspaper advertisement.

The poster was replaced with an unusual, unillustrated full-page ad that ran in newspapers in Los Angeles, New York and Chicago — but in the hard-news, not entertainment sections.

The movie, the ad said, is "a profoundly disturbing and often shocking motion picture portrait of a hidden part of contemporary America. It will anger you. It will upset you."

A new television ad, which began the first week of August, was just as blunt: "It will change the way you think... forever."

Soon, United Artists introduced a television commercial built around interviews with average-looking moviegoers leaving screenings. Said one: "The movie was terrifying." Said another: "It will kick you in the rear end."

After that ad ran, United Artists finally began running commercials that addressed the entire storyline, and Winger and Berenger were finally revealed to be lovers.

ALF's Schedeen gets sudden fame

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Anne Schedeen, by her own calculation, figures she became famous a few weeks ago.

"I went to the hardware store in my jeans," she says. "My hair was sticking out all over. This man comes up to me and says, 'Oh, you're Kate Tanner.' It went like that for the rest of the day."

"The other day I answered the door in my bathrobe. A man says, 'You're the woman on "ALF." I'd never been recognized before. The recognition came when the show started hitting the Top 10 in the ratings.'"

Schedeen stars on NBC's "ALF," a hit comedy about a furry, wisecracking alien from the planet Melmac who moves in with a typical American family. Max Wright also stars as her husband, Willie Tanner, and Andrea Elson and Benji Gregory as their children, Lynn and Brian. And ALF is played by, well, ALF.

"I consider myself lucky," Schedeen says. "For years I've been able to make a wonderful living and retain my anonymity. It helped me hit the antique stores, which is a passion of mine. It's a little hard to bargain if the store salesman knows you're on a hit show."

The actress has more than 60 replicas of the Statue of Liberty, including one 8-foot version in the back yard. "I like to say the people of France gave it to me," she says. "I have them in thermometers and lamps. They're all old. I only bought one new one during the centennial, and it felt like cheating. The old ones are hard to find. People keep them, but I find one in a flea market every now and again."

"It seems like there's nothing I can't collect. I collect architectural details, like moldings, cornices, newel posts. My husband says if it's heavy I want it."

She's married to agent Chris Barrett. Her sister, Sara Schedeen, is also an agent with the same company.

Schedeen has starred in one other series, ABC's "Paper Dolls," and in six pilots that never got on the air. She was a contract player at Universal Studios, where she had a recurring role on "Emergency!" and was a guest star on numerous series, as well as in several TV movies and feature films.

"When 'ALF' came along it was another pilot season," she says. "I kept reading scripts. I almost got involved with one, then withdrew at the last minute. Then I read 'ALF.' I said, 'This is funny. It makes me laugh.' I met the people involved, I met ALF, and became more convinced I wanted to do it. That little alien made me laugh."

Schedeen grew up on a farm outside of Portland, Ore., and began acting "with teapots and flowers" at the age of 6. The family name was originally Sjoedin, but got changed somewhere on the journey from Sweden. Her first agent wanted to change it again, but she said no way because it would be fun for the whole family.

She took acting lessons at the Portland Civic Theater. Her first professional job, which paid only room and board, was in a dinner theater on the island of Kauai. She studied at Portland State University and Fort Wright College in Spokane, Wash., then took off to backpack across Europe.

"When I came back I settled in New York," she says. "I didn't even know there was a trade newspaper. I called a girl I had acted with in Portland and said I'd come to New York to act. She said, 'Oh, no!' I think she was responding to all the problems she knew I would go through. Getting an agent, getting to the right classes, getting a survival job and waiting for the magic to start."

"It was a long wait. I sold clothes, modeled clothes, was a shoe model. I played in summer stock and did a commercial. Then I got signed by a big agent. Within a month I had a contract with Universal. I thought I'd come out here, take fencing lessons, drive a small Thunderbird and sit by the swimming pool. Instead, I was the daughter on 'Marcus Welby, M.D.'"

WOMEN'S RIGHTS
 ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — In the area of women's rights, some victories are easier to win than others, according to Nan Johnson, a political science teacher at the University of Rochester.

"When women argue that the change is a matter of fairness, Americans are less resistant," she says. Hence, laws in such areas as equal pay for equal work or equity in lending have passed relatively easily.

But when an issue is seen as a threat to traditional sex roles, opposition lingers. "The ERA is an example: People worried that all women might be forced to leave their children and go to work," Johnson says. "People worried over 'unisex' bathrooms."

Cheese tarts, other summer fare perks up party time

As the steamy days continue, appetites need a boost. Small cheese tarts, which are easy to prepare, come to the rescue for a simple party or get-together. Serve with relishes and fresh lemonade or ice tea.

PARTY CHEESE TARTS

2 packages (12) graham-cracker ready-crust tarts
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon melted butter
½ small onion
1 green onion or small leek, finely chopped
3 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup Cheddar cheese, grated
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
2 to 3 drops Tabasco pepper sauce

Brush bottoms and sides of tarts with egg yolk. Bake at 350 degrees for 3 minutes. Remove from oven.

Gently cook onion and green onion in melted butter until soft, but not brown. Beat the eggs and blend in milk, cheese, onions, salt, pepper and pepper sauce. Pour into tarts. Bake at 350 degrees for 18 to 20 minutes, or until set. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 12 tarts.

CORN AND CUCUMBER RELISH

1 large cucumber, seeded and chopped
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup fresh or frozen corn
½ cup sugar
½ cup white wine vinegar
¼ cup sliced green onion
1 teaspoon grated gingerroot
2 tablespoons diced pimiento
½ teaspoon sesame oil
½ teaspoon ground red pepper

In a medium mixing bowl sprinkle cucumber with salt. Let stand for 20 minutes. Rinse cucumber; drain well, pressing out excess liquid.

Meanwhile, in a medium saucepan combine corn, sugar, vinegar, onion and gingerroot. Bring to boiling; stirring occasionally. Reduce heat; simmer, uncovered for 4 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in drained cucumber and pimiento. Toss with sesame oil and red pepper. Transfer corn mixture to nonmetallic container; cover and chill for several hours or overnight. Drain mixture before serving. Makes 2 cups.

PASTA DELI SALAD

(Makes 6 servings)

(What could be simpler than one stop at the deli counter, then cooking up a pot of pasta?)
8 ounces uncooked pasta twists, shells, or penne
¼ pound hard salami, cut into thin strips
¼ pound provolone cheese, cut into thin strips
1 small red onion, cut into thin rings
1 cup chopped green or red pepper
1 cup black olives, sliced
¼ cup chopped fresh parsley
Dressing:
½ cup salad oil
3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
1 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
½ teaspoon oregano, crushed
½ teaspoon celery seed
½ teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper to taste
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Mix all dressing ingredients thoroughly in a medium-size bowl. Cook pasta according to package directions; drain. Toss in a large bowl with ¼ cup dressing. Do not refrigerate.

Add salami, cheese, onion, pepper, olives and parsley to remaining dressing, toss well. Combine the deli ingredients with the pasta and toss together. Serve at room temperature or slightly chilled if the day is hot.

NEW ORLEANS BUTTER PRALINES

2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup firmly packed light-brown sugar
½ cup unsalted butter or margarine
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
3 cups pecan halves
2 teaspoons vanilla extract

Place 2 large parchment-paper sheets on baking sheets; butter parchment paper. Set aside. Combine all ingredients except vanilla in a heavy 2-quart saucepan over medium heat. Bring mixture to a boil, stirring often. Cook to soft-ball stage, 234F (114C). Remove from heat; stir in vanilla. Stir briskly until mixture loses its glossy sheen. WORKING QUICKLY, drop mixture by tablespoons onto buttered paper. Let pralines cool completely before removing from paper. Store at room temperature in an airtight container. Makes 24 pralines.

BEENE SEED WAFERS

Toast two-thirds cup of beene (sesame) seeds in a heavy pan in a preheated 400 degrees oven for about 10 minutes, or until they take on a light brown color, and let cool. Cream together 1 stick of butter and 1 cup of light brown sugar. Add to the mixture 1 egg (beaten), ¾ cup of all-purpose flour (sifted), and ¼ teaspoon of baking powder, blending thoroughly. Next, add 1 teaspoon of vanilla extract and the two-third cup of toasted beene seeds. When the dough is well mixed, drop it by teaspoonfuls onto a buttered cookie sheet and bake in a preheated 325 degree oven for 10 minutes. Let cookies cool for one minute and then remove to racks. They will harden and stick on sheet if left longer. When completely cooled, store in tins with tight fitting lids. The recipe will make about 5 dozen cookies.

RUSSIAN DRESSING

½ cup catsup
One-third cup white wine vinegar
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 one-inch piece onion
½ teaspoon paprika
1 black peppercorn
¾ cup vegetable oil

Put first seven ingredients and ¼ cup oil into blender container. Cover and process at MED-HIGH. Immediately remove feeder cap and pour in the remaining oil in a steady stream. Cover and continue to process until well blended. YIELD: 2 cups.

ICE TEA

Put 3 cups of fresh water in a non-aluminum saucepan and bring it to a rapid boil. Reduce heat to low, put 3 heaping teaspoons of fresh orange pekoe bulk tea into the water, cover the pan, and let the tea steep and simmer for 5 to 10 minutes. Strain into a large pitcher, add 4 cups of cold water, and the job is finished. The yield is a cup less than a half-gallon. Serve in ice-filled glasses with sugar, lemon or lime, and mint springs, if available, for flavoring.

End-of-summer party

Cheese tarts with onion appeal to summer appetites, as do relishes, iced drinks and desserts.

Civil Air Patrol cadets return from encampment

Seven local Civil Air Patrol members participated in a Type A encampment hosted by the U.S. Air Force Aug. 14-20 at Lackland Air Force Base.

Jeff Clyde, Benny Dominguez, Audi Sciombato, Eugene McMorris, Jerry Gallegos, Jeremy Condarco, and Michael J. Kester were among 245 other youths from Texas that attended the encampment. The CAP cadets ranged in age from 13 to 20.

The Cadets were introduced to basic military life and different educational programs in the Air Force, including their academy, reserve officer training program, and enlisted careers in the Air Force. They attended a demonstration of the Security police dog training program and participated in the officer candidates' Leadership Reaction Course and the basic training obstacle course.

At the end of the week, the cadets were involved in a pass and review graduation ceremony following a week of difficult and demanding drill practice. Upon completion of the encampment, the cadets are able to continue their advancement in the CAP cadet program which will qualify them for CAP college scholarships.

Car wash Saturday

A car wash will be conducted from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday by youth of First United Methodist Church at the Rainbow Car Wash on 25-Mile Avenue.

All car owners are invited to drive by and get their vehicles cleaned and polished by hard-working girls and boys.

Payment will be by donations. Proceeds will help defray expenses of the annual youth ski trip which is planned for the winter.

Public Notice

TO ALL FORMER AND CURRENT INTRASTATE WIDE AREA TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICE (WATS/800) SUBSCRIBERS:

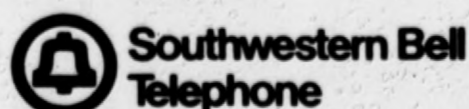

The General Counsel of the Public Utility Commission of Texas has instituted an inquiry into possible overcharges, due to rounding practices, on the bills of intrastate WATS/800 customers of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and other telephone companies which concur in Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's tariffs. The possible overcharges relate only to those customers who were billed for overtime WATS/800 hours. The inquiry has been assigned Docket No. 7297.

Companies which are named in the inquiry include AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, and all other local exchange carriers within the State of Texas except the following: Brazos Telephone Cooperative; Byers and Petrolia Telephone Company; Caddoan Telephone Company; Cameron Telephone Company; Electra Telephone Company; Ganado Telephone Company; Knippa Telephone Company; LaWard Telephone Company; Lake Livingston Telephone Company; Lipan Telephone Company; Mid-Plains Rural Telephone Company; Panhandle Telephone Cooperative; Romain Telephone Company; San Marcos Telephone Company and West-Tex Telephone Cooperative.

Persons who wish to obtain further information should contact the Public Utility Commission Public Information Division at (512) 458-0100 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Persons who wish to intervene formally to participate actively in this proceeding should notify the Commission as soon as possible, but no later than September 30, 1988. Four copies of formal requests to intervene should be filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, and a copy sent to each other party in the inquiry.

Failure to intervene or seek further information will not preclude any former or current subscriber from receiving a refund if the Commission ultimately finds that overcharges have occurred and refunds are required.

Opera baritone to be at KACV-TV benefit

An additional guest star has been added to the group of "Stars Under the Stars" benefit party for KACV-TV, the Texas Panhandle's new PBS Channel. Festivities begin at 7 p.m. Saturday in the home of Francie Whittenburg Klein, 1702 N. Julian, Amarillo.

Metropolitan Opera baritone Richard Fredricks will bring his vocal artistry in solo performances and in duet with film, stage, and television star Carole Welles Doheny.

Richard Fredricks, who stars with the Metropolitan and New York City Operas, is recognized as one of today's finest singing actors. At the Metropolitan he has appeared as Athanael in "Thias," Don Carlo in "La Forza del Destino," and Barnaba in "La Gioconda."

His appearances with other major companies in the U.S. and abroad in 40 additional roles from the standard to contemporary repertoire attest to his versatility as do his appearances in over a score of musicals including "Kiss Me Kate," "Carousel," "Kismet," "The Unsinkable Mollie Brown," and "Camelot."

He has been guest soloist with most of the major American symphony orchestras and is highly esteemed as a recitalist. He sang in the first telecast of the prestigious "Live From Lincoln Center" series in "The Ballad of Baby Doe" and "Roberto Devereux," "La Traviata," and "Manon."

He has also appeared on "The Tonight Show" with Johnny Carson,

"Merv Griffin Show," "Mike Douglas Show," "Dinah," and with Tony Randall and Jack Klugman on their hit series "The Odd Couple" as well as in repeated appearances with the Boston Pops and NET Theatre.

An artist whose vocal endowments are matched by his theatrical sense and dynamic stage personality, he is one of today's most sought-after baritones.

Reservations may be made by calling Jackie Wilson at the station, (806)371-5266.

Reservations now being accepted

Reservations are being accepted from ladies who wish to attend one of the luncheons in April of 1989 at the E.B. Black Historical House.

Lady Bird Johnson touts 'Wildflowers Across America'

If this country's highways and byways are not more attractive today than they were 25 years ago, don't blame Lady Bird Johnson.

When she was first lady at the White House, she planted wildflowers alongside roads and rivers and in pocket parks in and around the nation's capital and along countless highways across the land.

She led a national movement towards highway beautification that resulted in the refreshment of numerous unsightly spots across the land and the removal of billboards and junkyards from the edge of the roads, and even chose wildflowers as the motif of the Johnson White House china. After leaving the White House, she returned to her home state of Texas and proceeded to nurture wildflowers there.

Now, having helped strew flowers across the country, she is tending her own wildflower garden and encouraging others to do the same. Her latest effort in a seemingly unending love affair with the natural landscape is "Wildflowers Across America," a new book which she has co-written with Carlton B. Lees.

Both authors have donated their royalties from the book (published by Abbeville) to the National Wildflower Research Center which she started in 1982 with a donation of $125,000 and 60 acres of land outside Austin.

Recently in New York to promote the book, she enumerated the practical reasons why wildflowers have much to offer Americans.

"They need less water and maintenance and little or no fertilizer or moving and, since each region has its own wildflowers, they help maintain regional identity." Furthermore, she said, the plants are part of our national heritage and therefore should be saved. Since carelessness towards native plants has been a hallmark in the past, it's important to reverse the trend.

A recent legislative effort supported by Mrs. Johnson is a new law that mandates 1/4 of 1 percent of the federal dollars allocated for landscaping the federal highway system be used to plant wildflowers.

In addition to such large-scale efforts, planting and nurturing wildflowers at home is another activity she and botanist Lees encourage.

Lees says wildflower meadows can contribute to the home landscape and, by mixing wildflowers and plentiful cultivated flowers such as daylilies, rudbeckia, daisies and bee balm, a home gardener can create a low-maintenance meadow that is not out of place in a suburban setting.

The word "meadow" implies that only a fall or winter mowing will be required, thus freeing an individual from the tedious weekly mowing, fertilizing and watering that go with grass lawns.

Those who admire wildflowers and who have attempted to introduce them through seed or plants to a home garden know that although "nature will accept help," in Mrs. Johnson's words, it's not always the help the gardener tries to give.

Learning more about how to propagate wildflowers and care for them is one of the primary missions of the National Wildflower Research Center.

"Little research has been done and we need to know much more about how and when and where to plant them to get reliable, predictable, consistent results," she said. Growing projects in Austin at the center as well as cooperative efforts with universities and botanical gardens and planting trials are some of the ways this information is being gathered.

Individuals interested in a list of sources for wildflower seeds can request a pamphlet that provides such information as well as guidance on how to select a site, prepare the ground and manage wildflower plantings and when to do the planting.

People may wonder why she has chosen to devote her volunteer efforts to wildflowers, rather than to work to alleviate hunger and suffering, said Mrs. Johnson, answering her own question by adding that at 75 she has accepted that she can't take on everything, but must choose to devote her energies to the projects that have special meaning to her.

She calls her work for the wildflower center one of the activities that is "closest to my heart." Even though arthritis has made bending and stooping too difficult to do the planting herself, she says that "for my own pleasure I grow wildflowers out at the ranch and have the experience of personally watching what does well, which are the strongest germinating seeds."

(A list of seedsmen and planting information is included in "Wildflowers Across America." For membership information on the National Wildflower Research Center and a list of wildflower seed sources and growing techniques send a SASE to: Clearing House, National Wildflower Research Center, 2600 F.M. 973 North, Austin, TX 78725-4201.)

Buff Branding promises big splash for WTSU students

West Texas State University's biggest bash of the new academic year will sport a nautical theme, but that's not the only reason Buff Branding '88 will make waves on the 78-year-old campus.

More than 500 new students are expected to attend the three-day get-acquainted party Saturday, Aug. 27-Monday, Aug. 29.

The nautical theme will be carried out with white t-shirts with Buff Branding spelled out in four-color nautical flags, name tags designed as life preservers, an invitation to "Cruise The Organizational Fair" and the showing of the motion picture "Splash."

In spite of this year's theme variation, Buff Branding '88 promises to be a super splash for the same reasons that have made the orientation a success since its inception in 1982.

One hundred four select undergraduates will serve as counselors, team leaders and activity coordinators, and WT faculty and administrators will be more involved than ever. At the first-night dinner, members of the faculty and staff will don the look of celebrities, refilling water and tea and performing skits. Faculty members have also volunteered to help cook at Monday's picnic.

Evening activities for Saturday and Sunday include outdoor and indoor dances with a wide variety of music. A special feature will be country western and square dance lessons.

With more than 500 students divided into small groups and teams comprised of those small groups, competition is natural. Buff Branding participants are encouraged to compete for spirit awards and will be heard shouting spontaneous yells almost any time throughout the three days. Simple costuming and creative names for the groups will enhance the fun.

A steering committee, chaired by assistant director of admissions Tana Miller and comprised of faculty, staff and students, planned Buff Branding '88. For more information, contact the WT admissions office at 806-656-2121.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Yesterday, at one of the busiest (and most dangerous) intersections in town, a woman driving a white car sailed through a red light.

It dawned on me that my 8-month-old child would have been killed instantly if the front of her car had plowed into the side of mine. I pulled out and drove alongside the woman, leaning hard on the horn. Then I rolled down my window and screamed, "Do you realize that you just missed killing my child?" She yelled back, "Haven't you ever gone through a red light?" I shouted back, "No!"

The woman seemed totally unconcerned and kept going. This is not the first idiot driver I've encountered who has broken the law and threatened the lives of innocent people. Please, Ann, tell us how to protect ourselves against these fools.—Still Shaking in Texas

DEAR STILL SHAKING: Drive defensively. Remember that the cemetery is full of law-abiding citizens who had the right of way.

When you get behind the wheel of your car, assume that everyone around you is either drunk or on dope and that he or she will do the wrong thing. Then, when it happens, you will be prepared for it.

Today, drivers talk on the phone, daydream and window-shop. Some have a hot dog in one hand and a can of pop in the other. Also, there's a new brand of nut out there—malcontents who are mad at the world and run red lights to show their disdain for authority. Crazy? You'd better believe it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm responding to the letter signed "Male Chauvinist in Pensacola, Fla.," who thinks that women should stay at home, have babies and bake bread.

I can't believe that the only thing you could find wrong with this jerk's tirade is his failure to realize that the majority of mothers who work need the money.

He says, "Since women entered the work force..."—when was that? When my grandmother, widowed with four small children, chopped cotton in Louisiana? When my stepfather's mother, also widowed, took in washing in Texas? When my mother, widowed at 26, became a stenographer to support my sister and me? Women have always been in the work force, but they were never paid a living wage until recently.

There's no denying, as the chauvinist pointed out, that substance abuse is a tremendous problem and dirty language is everywhere. But why blame the mothers? Where are the fathers? Men who aren't willing to share the responsibilities of parenting should keep their pants zipped.—My Point of View in Rochester, Minn.

DEAR ROCH.: Let's give the men the credit due them. Today many more husbands are involved with the laundry, marketing and children than their fathers were. Happily, the kids are benefiting from it. Give 'em a break.

For up-to-the minute information on drugs, write for Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Only four years after achievements of U.S. stars Retton, Connors

Soviet gymnasts favored in Olympics

By PETE HERRERA
AP Sports Writer

Was it only four years ago that Mary Lou Retton was vaulting her way to an Olympic All-Around gold medal, the highest award ever achieved by an American woman gymnast?

Are we only four summers removed from Bart Connors' tears and that August night in Pauley Pavilion when the U.S. men's team captured the gold medal over the favored Chinese?

Could so much have changed so quickly within a gymnastics community that after 1984 was certain it had liberated itself from the shadows of the Communist bloc's supremacy in the sport?

The answer is an unquestionable yes.

On the threshold of the 1988 Summer Games in Seoul, it would be difficult to find an amateur organization engulfed in more turmoil, controversy and in-fighting than the United States Gymnastics Federation.

And it is within that atmosphere the U.S. teams have had to prepare to challenge the powerful men's teams from the Soviet Union, China and East Germany and the world champion women's squad from Romania and equally talented Soviets.

The Soviet Union, led by two-time world champion Dimitri Bilozherchev and floor exercise specialist Valeri Lyukin, should reclaim the men's team gold medal it abdicated four years ago with the country's boycott of the Games.

Bilozherchev, who in 1983 at the age of 16 became the youngest world champion in history, has fully recovered from a near-fatal automobile accident in 1985 that left his left leg broken in 40 places. He led a Soviet sweep of the All-Around men's competition last October in Rotterdam.

The Chinese, with Li Ning and Lou Yun, both individual event gold medalists in Los Angeles, are considered the top challengers to the Soviets. That would leave East Germany, another of the boycotting countries four years ago, Bulgaria, Japan and the United States to battle for the bronze.

The U.S. will make a bit of history when Charles Lakes of Chatsworth, Calif., takes the floor in Seoul. He will be the first black gymnast to compete for the United States in the Olympics. Lakes was the top qualifier on the American team, and along with 1984 team member Scott Johnson, will head a U.S. team relatively inexperienced in international competition.

Dan Hayden, the national champion, failed to qualify for the squad after falling twice from the horizontal bar at this month's Olympic Trials in Salt Lake City.

Despite the absence of Hayden, American Coach Abie Grossfeld remains confident the men can win at a bronze medal.

"We have some youngsters (Lance Ringnald and Dominick Minicucci) who are not afraid to take chances," said Grossfeld. "If they hit their routines, it will help the team a great deal."

Other individuals to watch in the men's competition include Sylvio Kroll of East Germany and Zsolt Borkai of Hungary.

Romania and the Soviet Union will resume their battle for supremacy in the women's competition. The Romanians, led by world champion Aurelia Dobre and Daniela Silivas, are the defending Olympic team champions.

Romania upset the Soviet Union at the World Championships last year as Dobre won the All-Around title and Silivas finished third.

The Soviet Union, which will be meeting the U.S. in Olympic competition for the first time in 12 years, will send to Seoul a veteran women's team expected to include former world champion Elena Shushunova, 19, who finished second to Dobre at the World Championships.

Oksana Omelianchik, who shared the 1985 world title with her best friend Shushunova, did not place among the top six in the USSR Cup competition this month, falling twice from the uneven bars. However, since the Soviet Union can select its Olympians on the basis of past performances and is not bound by the results of the USSR Cup, Omelianchik is expected to be on the squad.

The Soviets also have a trio of impressive young gymnasts in Natalia Lashenova, 14, Olga Strazheva, 15, and Svetlana Boginskaya, 15.

The United States women's team, an entire new cast from the 1984 squad that finished second to Romania, also is very young. National champion Phoebe Mills, Brandy Johnson and Chelle Stack all are 15.

The three are trained by Bela Karolyi, a central figure in the country's recent gymnastics turmoil.

The resignation of women's team Coach Don Peters two days after the team was selected at the Olympic trials in Salt Lake City is indicative of the USGF's problems during the past year.

The thorns have ranged from former women's Coach Greg Marsden admitting he conspired with a Romanian coach to fix scores at the 1987 World Championships in Rotterdam to a U.S. Justice Department review of the federation's financial records.

Mixed in has been an ongoing power struggle that led to the resignations of Marsden and Peters, and a rift between the federation and Karolyi, the man who coached Retton to the All-Around title in 1984.

Unable to resolve the coaching situation with one individual in control, the United States Gymnastics Federation has decided to tag-team the Olympics. Federation Executive Director Mike Jacki announced after Peters' resignation that Karolyi and the three other coaches whose students made the team would alternate coaching duties in Seoul.
