TEAMS scores improve in local schools

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Hereford school board hired a new assistant superintendent for business and heard an improved-over-last-year review of TEAMS test scores at the board's monthly meeting Tuesday at the school administration building.

Richard Souter, current superintendent at Alpine, was hired by the board for the assistant superintendent's job here. He will replace Larry Wartes, who will retire in June.

The board learned that there was improvement — in some cases, a marked improvement — in TEAMS test scores across the district this year compared with the February 1987 testing of third, fifth, seventh and ninth graders.

The TEAMS assessment tests the three basic skills of reading, writing and arithmetic. The test "doesn't have a top on it like the California Achievement Test does," explained

Assistant Superintendent for Instruction Marc Williamson. The test doesn't assess that a child is "excellent" or at a certain level. Instead, it is a pass-fail type test. A student is considered to have either mastered or not mastered certain matters in each of the subject areas.

"We improved on each objective from 1987," said Aikman principal John Ponder. "We also reduced the gap in scores between students who qualify for free or reduced-price lunches and student who did not qualify for that program. We were able to close that gap and improve on the upper end, too."

The Texas Education Agency had singled out the school district in 1987 because of the wide disparity in the scores of the students who qualified for the lunch program and those who did not. TEA uses the free-lunch qualifier in the testing program statewide.

"We improved in 16 of the 26 objectives," said Gary Billingsley, Northwest Primary School principal. While writing scores remained steady with the 1987 results, scores were higher than last year in both math and reading.

"At Shirley, our reading scores were up nine percent, the math was even, and the writing improved from 38 percent mastery to 65 percent mastery," said principal John Dominguez, who credited the improved performance in writing to special writing workshops at ended by Shirley teachers last fall.

Merlee McWethy, a teacher at Shirley, explained that this year's fifth graders' writing scores were compared to their scores as third graders. Of the 58 students, 28 increased their mastery level, while 25 did no worse than maintain their mastery of basic writing skills. Only five students showed any kind of decrease in mastery of basic writing skills.

"There were great improvements," McWethy said. "I felt the workshops we attended were beneficial. We learned some very basic things that we can use in any classroom in any subject. It really helped our students."

Philip Shook, principal at Tierra Blanca, said the school had "dancing in the halls with the improvement over last year." Reading mastery levels increased from 65 percent to 89 percent; math mastery rose from 42 percent to 58 percent; and writing mastery improved from 44 percent to 71 percent.

"Tierra Blanca had been in the lower five percent last year, and we just said 'We won't be this year,'" Shook said. "We are proud that we have improved in every area."

"We are proud of our improvements and percentiles in every area," said West Central principal George Ochs. "Just as an example in writing, in 1986 we had no 4's, the highest score attainable; in 1987 we had two 4's, and in 1988 we had nine 4's."

At Stanton Junior High, math scores increased markedly for seventh and ninth graders, while reading and writing skills remained steady with 1987 results.

"Our teachers worked hard," said Stanton principal Richard Rendon. "I feel one weakness we have, though, is concentration on these areas in the seventh and ninth grades when the students are going to be taking the test, then we slack off a little and forget that when they are in the eighth grade. If there is anything we need to do, it is to further departmentalize the departments so all of the English teachers and math teachers are working on the same things at the same time."

At LaPlata, scores were slightly lower for this year's ninth graders, but were improved in all areas for seventh graders.

Williamson said the district has compiled a list of weak points in all grade levels that will become an instructional focus. Williamson said that he was "extremely pleased with the improvements, but we're not nearly where we need to be."

"The amount of increase in some areas is fantastic," said Superintendent Charles Greenawalt. "We can't overlook the improvement."

In other business Tuesday night, the board:

—Agreed to visit with Sylvia Flores, the only person who has indicated a willingness to fill the vacancy in District Two, but will continue to accept applications and resumes from others who might be interested in the position;

—Decided to table bids for an asbestos management plan until the June 14 board meeting;

—Discussed changes in policy for substitute pay, ticket and sideline personnel at future football, and travel expenditures;

—Talked about supporting economic development efforts.

Dukakis takes lopsided wins

By LAURA KING
Associated Press Writer

Democrat Michael Dukakis hailed his lopsided presidential primary victories in West Virginia and Nebraska, declaring, "I'm working hard to wrap it up." Jesse Jackson, his hopes of derailing Dukakis fading fast, nonetheless vowed, "We will take it all the way to the end."

On the Republican side, Vice President Bush, poised to pick up President Reagan's formal endorsement today, cruised to uncontested victories in Tuesday's contests in Nebraska and West Virginia. The vice president already has a mathematical lock on the Republican nomination.

But Bush's showing in Nebraska pointed to possible weakness in the fight to come this fall. Sen. Bob Dole of neighboring Kansas, who dropped out of the Republican race almost two months ago, still siphoned off nearly a fourth of the vote.

Even though he has moved to avoid his own name, Bush has made a weak showing in some farm states.

Bush still has taken opposition from former television evangelist Pat Robertson, who technically remains a candidate. But Robertson concedes he has no hope of getting the nomination now — Bush went over the top in delegates two weeks ago, in the Pennsylvania primary.

Reagan, who had pledged to remain neutral until the nomination fight was settled, was expected to finally bestow his formal blessing today at the White House. Reagan and Bush are also scheduled to appear together tonight at a Republican Party function in Washington.

With two more victories in his column, Dukakis moved within striking distance of the 2,001 delegates needed to nail the Democratic nomination. According to the latest AP delegate count, Dukakis had 1,981 to Jackson's 942.

In West Virginia, Dukakis captured 77.61 percent, or 78 percent, of the vote, or 11,113 of 14 percent, with 30 percent of the precincts reporting. In Nebraska, Dukakis received 63.63 percent, or 62 percent, of the vote, or 43,919 of 71 percent, with 88 percent of the

Injured in accident

Jeremiah Castillo, 6, is treated by emergency care attendants after his bicycle was struck at the intersection of Barrett and Fourteenth in Hereford. The boy suffered a broken leg and lacerations in the accident.

Boy injured in car-bike accident

A 6-year-old boy suffered a broken leg Tuesday afternoon after the bicycle he was riding collided with a vehicle at 14th and Barrett streets in Hereford. Jeremiah Castillo of 400 Barrett St. is being treated at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

According to Marie Padilla of 627 Star St., who was driving the car, Castillo was heading north when he ran the stop sign at the intersection. Police charged Padilla with failure to produce a driver's license.

Man arrested for plots

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Police say they discovered a plot to kill Mayor Henry Cisneros and Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock, and have arrested a former Libertarian congressional candidate in connection with the scheme.

Parker E. Abel of Natalia was held in Bexar County jail today without bond, police said. Officers arrested Abel at Tuesday and charged him with hiring a hit man to kill Cisneros and Bullock for $5,000 each.

Abel was a Libertarian candidate who sought the 23rd Congressional District seat in 1982 and claimed to be the leader of a political extremists' group.

Officers told the San Antonio Express-News that they found in Abel's car typed "execution warrants," containing blanks to fill in names of public officials to be killed.

The above-named traitor or traitors are to be executed on sight," read the warrants. "Each accused has given public proof of guilt beyond reasonable doubt that he or she is a traitor to the people of the United States and the United States Constitution."

Bexar County Criminal District Attorney Fred Rodriguez planned a news conference today at the county courthouse on the reported assassination plot.

Officers arrested the 34-year-old Abel at a supermarket pay phone and he appeared before Night Magistrate Quon Lew in charges of criminal solicitation to commit capital murder. All records showed. He told detectives he was a head of the American Patriots.

Abel allegedly solicited this undercover officer as a shooter for himself and unknown associates, wrote John Veitkamp, the undercover investigator for the Bexar County District Attorney's office who posed as the hit man.

Authorities seized a .22-caliber revolver with 22 live rounds, records said.

The mayor said he has never met Abel and does not recall receiving threatening letters from him.

"We got threats on a regular basis, not always with a price. That's what makes this a little more serious," said Cisneros as he returned from an awards banquet at the Tomball School District near Houston.

Veitkamp said he did not know if more arrests would be made.

Natalia is 18 miles southwest of San Antonio.

Local Roundup

Tools stolen from shed

The Hereford Police reported that $1,000 worth of tools were stolen Tuesday from a storage shed on S. Douglas Street. A $170 fire and iron were stolen from a pickup parked at the YMCA; a man at 409 Douglas Street reported that his keys and a tool box were stolen from his pickup.

The Quality Motel at 1400 E. First St. filed charges against an individual for not paying his $170 bill; harassing phone calls were reported; a woman at 907 Union Ave. reported that a gas meter had been hit; a family disturbance was reported at 315 Bradley St.; police were called to 718 Ave. E. where family members divided some property.

A vacant house at 510 Union Ave. was reportedly vandalized by children, and a woman reported that a man had taken her car that was for sale for a test drive and did not return. Police were looking for the vehicle when the man returned the vehicle.

Police arrested a 26-year-old man after officials stopped him on a traffic stop and learned he had an outstanding warrant from Deaf Smith County for violating a promise to appear.

Two women, 24 and 63, were arrested on charges of shoplifting at Save-N-Gain.

Firefighters extinguished a grass fire near Dawn and an alley dumpster fire in the 500 block of Avenue H.

Twenty citations were issued.

County arrests two

Deaf Smith County officials arrested a 35-year-old man on charges of possession of marijuana under 2 ounces and a 34-year-old man on charges of possession of marijuana under 2 ounces and drug paraphernalia.

Sheriff Joe Brown stated that more information on the arrests will be issued at a later date.

Strike ends / Effort to reinstate labor union aborted

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Labor leaders said they ended an eight-day strike at the Gdansk shipyard to avoid a police raid, but communist authorities said the strike failed for lack of widespread support.

Still, the government said two weeks of strikes that ended Tuesday when Lech Walesa and about 1,000 haggard strikers marched from the Lenin shipyard will compel it to speed up efforts to revive Poland's crippled economy.

Heads held high, the shipyard workers filed out of the yard without a settlement but also without having backed down from demands whose centerpiece was reinstatement of the yard's Solidarity chapter.

Police had surrounded the shipyard since Thursday and the strikers had rejected government offers of wage increases, so quitting was the "best solution possible," said strike committee chairman Alojzy Szablewski.

The strike evoked memories of 1980, when a younger, leaner Walesa cosigned an accord at the same shipyard during a nationwide wave of strikes over price increases that toppled a government. A time of unmatched freedom followed.

The rest of the country did not follow suit this time, leaving the shipyard workers in the Baltic port city largely isolated. Government spokesman Jerzy Urban said on Tuesday that "the strikes and protests have not won the support of the working class and society" but had taught the government important lessons.

"The May events will compel the government to more consistently develop reform, which should be more strongly felt by society," he said.

The government planned today to introduce a bill that would allow it to take over money-losing enterprises and fire managers who resist economic change. Its reform program has increased prices by 42 percent this year.

And an official PAP news agency statement on Tuesday's meeting of the ruling Politburo spoke of the "indispensable" need to quicken democratization — a process it has so far only vaguely described.

Five major strikes since April 25 added up to Poland's worst wave of labor unrest since the 1981 military crackdown on Solidarity. The Soviet bloc's only independent labor federation ever was banned in 1982.

The opposition said the strikes illustrated a resuscitation of its fortunes after years of complacency caused by the shock of the 1981 crackdown and economic hardship.

"It's a new spring for Solidarity," strikers said in a statement issued before they left the shipyard. "We remain faithful to the slogan of our strike, 'There is no freedom without Solidarity.'"

The strike also pointed up the mood of a new generation.

During negotiations, the mostly young strikers often appeared more militant than their elders. On Monday, the young strikers refused to accept a compromise largely agreed to by the strike committee.

"You were 13, 14, 15, when Solidarity was born. ... This was your first protest for Polish workers," Solidarity chaplain the Rev. Henryk Jankowski told them after the strike ended.

He urged them to continue the struggle "until victory."

Szablewski, a 62-year-old shipyard veteran, said the strike committee had voted 13-2 to end the stoppage.

"I wanted to avoid the police taking them out," he said. "There were many wonderful young men there, and I could not allow them to be beaten."

Szablewski said the police blockade had taken its toll.

Telling the men the strike was over was difficult, he said. "The faces showed their disappointment. For them, it was a defeat."

Verifying intermediate-range treaty priority for Soviets

GENEVA (AP) — Eduard Shevardnadze soft-pedaled the issue, but a key point in his final pre-summit talks with George P. Shultz was expected to be the dispute over verifying the intermediate-range nuclear forces treaty.

Shevardnadze, the Soviet foreign minister, and Shultz, the U.S. secretary of state, were to begin talks this afternoon at the U.S. diplomatic mission following Shultz's arrival from Washington. Their full agenda includes human rights and regional problems as well as arms control.

The INF treaty was signed by President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev at their last summit meeting in Washington on Dec. 8.

The United States says the Soviets are trying to restrict the access of U.S. monitors to Soviet missile plants and sites. This would leave the United States unable to guarantee that the Soviets are not cheating on the agreement, which bans medium and shorter-range missiles.

The Senate has postponed debate on the treaty until the problems are solved, and the White House said on Tuesday that it supported that decision.

Presidential spokesman Martin Fitzwater said there is "unanimity between the administration and the bipartisan Senate leadership that these problems should be satisfactorily and promptly resolved prior to ratification."

He said, "The administration has made clear to the Soviets the need for an expeditious solution."

But Shevardnadze, upon arriving Tuesday from Moscow, said his government did not know what problems were delaying Senate ratification. "The American side was asking certain questions, certain points of clarification. We answered those questions and we thought that there is no problem," he said.

He indicated that the Soviets were not bringing with them to Geneva any new proposals aimed at resolving the problems.

Shevardnadze emphasized other aspects of his meeting with Shultz, which he said was their 26th encounter.

He told reporters the two sides "shall have to do a great deal of work on the 'discrepancies' that will be prepared for the Moscow summit meeting," scheduled to begin May 29. He did not elaborate.

The Soviet minister said the summit "will in a way summarize the result" of work done in many areas since last December's summit. "On the basis of that we shall determine the prospects of our work in the future," he added.

He said his talks with Shultz would cover conventional weapons, nuclear testing, regional problems and humanitarian issues.

A main topic, Shevardnadze said, would be a treaty reducing both sides' strategic, or intercontinental, nuclear missiles by up to 50 percent. But he said he doubted such an accord could be ready for signing at the Moscow summit.

Shevardnadze said it was difficult to predict when such an agreement might be reached.

Berlin's songs, 100th birthday celebrated

NEW YORK (AP) — It wasn't a White Christmas, but dozens of fans who usually sing Christmas carols to composer Irving Berlin serenaded him at his mansion today at the very start of his 100th birthday.

The reclusive composer, who hates to get up in the morning and wrote a song to that effect, didn't put in an appearance.

"If he's 100, he's probably sleeping," said Roberta Kaufman, who had been walking her dog and stopped to see what the crowd of 75 people was doing in front of the five-story brick mansion in BEEKMAN PLACE, an exclusive East Side enclave.

John Wallowitch, who organized the midnight Tuesday serenade and has organized the Christmas carol singing outside Berlin's door for at least 20 years, was sure Berlin was awake.

"He's a night owl, I've seen him walking his dog at 3 a.m.," Wallowitch said.

"HAAppy Birthday Irving" a somewhat intoxicated reveler yelled at the drawn shades of 17 BEEKMAN PLACE. "We love you. Where are youuuuu?"

Many of those gathered seemed to be neighbors hoping to catch a rare glimpse of Berlin. Just before the singing began, a shade went up in the house and the crowd gasped.

The crowd sang "Happy Birthday," Berlin's "Always" and Wallowitch's "The Songs of Irving Berlin," which included the broad hint, "Knock on my door and I'll welcome you in."

Nearly five years ago, Wallowitch was invited into the Berlin home on Christmas Eve after a chorus of "White Christmas." On an impulse, he rang the doorbell. A maid answered and took him and his fellow singers into the kitchen.

There they were greeted by Berlin himself, in bathrobe and slippers. The composer hugged

But it was a teen-age girl and a matron. Both waved and the crowd waved back.

"Even if he didn't write a thing, to reach 100 is to be part of American history," said 21-year-old John Weissman, a junior at New York University. "But this guy wrote a lot. I love 'God Bless America.' Every American has got to love it."

The music and lyrics among the more than 1,500 songs Berlin created for the stage, screen and popular music are inextricably woven into the American culture. They include "White Christmas," "Easter Parade," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "There's No Business Like Show Business," "Puttin' on the Ritz," "Blue Skies," "Cheek to Cheek," and "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning."

Today's informal serenade will be followed tonight by a Carnegie Hall tribute to the composer, with stars like Frank Sinatra, Isaac Stern and Ray Charles scheduled to appear.

Wallowitch got the crowd ready by reading through a song he composed for the occasion.

"Just think, 100 years ago this little Russian lady was very pregnant," he said, referring to Berlin's birth on May 11, 1888, in Russia. Then he told the crowd to sing "softly, with great love."

The men, kissed the women and told them, "That's the nicest Christmas present I've ever had."

Still no Berlin, so the crowd ran through "We'll be loving you, always" again. Another shade went up but again it was the teen-age girl.

"Hey," the drunk said. "We would love to see Irving. Please bring him to the window."

The dispersing neighbors said they did not really expect to see him. It's a neighborhood known for its recluses like Greta Garbo. Garbo didn't show either.

ELECTION

precincts in. Dukakis was winning 36 of 47 delegates in West Virginia and 18 of the 25 in Nebraska.

Exit polls suggested Dukakis was beginning to make some inroads into Jackson's black support, which has been all but monolithic in contests to date. Only about 4 percent of West Virginia's voters are black, but about a third of them voted for the Massachusetts governor, ABC voter polls on Tuesday indicated.

But Jackson won 24 percent of the white vote in Nebraska, one of his best showings of the primary season among white voters, according to ABC. Dukakis, for his part, did well among Democrats in both states who voted for Reagan in 1984, which would bode well for him in a fall confrontation with Bush. And he was winning support across the ideological spectrum.

"Voters of different ideologies look at Dukakis and are seeing what they want to see," said ABC News poll analyst Doug Muzzio. "In a sense he's all ideologies to all voters."

Bush won 71,606 votes or 89 percent in West Virginia, with 69 percent of the precincts reporting. In Nebraska, he had 135,737 or 71 percent to Dole's 44,649 or 23 percent; Robertson had 10,188, or 5 percent, with 98 percent of the precincts in.

Bush, who is spending most of this week in the capital, was heading off Thursday on a campaign swing to New Mexico, California, Oregon and Washington state.

But both Dukakis and Jackson were turning their attention toward California, whose huge primary with its 314-delegate prize is less than a month away.

The Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met at the office of Dr. Stan Fry where Glenna Calaway served as hostess and Nancy George served as co-hostess.

President Beckie Fry called the meeting to order and asked members to respond to roll call with ideas for birthday present from their secret sister.

Thank you's were extended from various members. Fry announced that the last City Council meeting of the year would be held at 106 Redwood featuring a salad supper and election of officers. Dona Hendrickson, yearbook chairman, reminded all members to bring their empty yearbooks to the next meeting and to correct their personal page to be turned in to the new chairman.

It was announced by Dee Ann Matthews that the service committee headed by Camille Beville collected $719 for the American Cancer Society. Appreciation was extended by Fry to Beville for her efforts in behalf of the Cancer Society.

Wanda Huseman announced that the next meeting will be held May 19.

Officers for the 1988-89 year were installed by Fry. They were Dee Ann Matthews, president; Marrie Leverett, vice president; Gay Maclaskey, recording secretary; Wanda Huseman, corresponding secretary; Dona Hendrickson, treasurer; and Glenn Calaway, extension officer.

Patricia Sarchet presented a program entitled "Lawn and Garden Decoration." She gave suggestions as to appropriate flowers for summer gardens and said that anyone can have a beautiful garden even if they don't have a "green" thumb. Afterwards strawberry shortcake and pink lemonade were served.

Members present were: Janis Betzen, Calaway, Fry, George, Hendrickson, Huseman, Elizabeth Jesko, Kathie Kerr, Maclaskey, Matthews, Sarchet, Christi Smith, and Jaime Neepser.

Visiting at Westgate

Soon-to-turn 97 years old, Ina Hastings, center, and her daughters, Ina Mae Gilbreath, left, and Temple Hill recently found time to visit amidst activities held during National Nursing Home Week. The annual observance, set for May 8-14, is conducted to better acquaint the public with nursing home operations and services. A part of King's Manor is three levels of care, Westgate has 71 beds and provides nursing care while the Manor has 33 apartments serving as a retirement center. The third level of care present is the 23 cottages available to independent retired persons. The public is cordially invited to view the facility and participate in special activities.

Judy King receives degree

Judy Birdwell King, daughter of Howard and Billie Birdwell of Hereford, recently received a master of education degree in reading education from the University of Oklahoma.

King is a graduate of Hereford High School and received a bachelor of science degree from West Texas State University.

Students from Oklahoma, 40 other states and 29 countries were among the 4,500 who received degrees. CBS News anchorman Dan Rather gave the commencement address.

King and her husband Chris have resided in Norman, Okla. for six years. She teaches third grade at Little Axe Public Schools.

THE LAST WILD CONDOR
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) - If San Diego Zoo authorities are correct, the California condor will no longer answer the call of the wild.

Last spring, scientists from the Condor Research Center in Ventura, Calif., caught what was generally believed to be the last condor to inhabit the wild. The seven-year-old male was taken to the San Diego Wild Animal Park which, with the Los Angeles Zoo, is caring for all 27 of the living California condors.

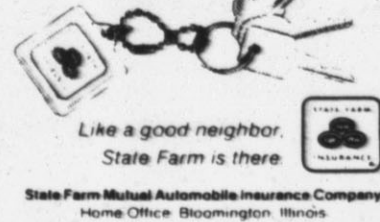

Signs of courtship between condors in the zoos have become evident leading zoo officials to think some of the birds will produce eggs next year.

Athletic Director T Jones declares

Texas Tech has 'turned the corner'

Texas Tech University has "turned the corner" in its quest for top-notch athletic programs and facilities, athletic director T Jones told a group attending a Red Raider Club dinner here Tuesday night at Hereford Country Club.

Jones, defensive grid coach Carlos Mainord, and assistant basketball coach Jim Wall discussed athletic programs at Tech and gave a preview of the coming seasons. Steve Locke of Lubbock, president of the Red Raider Club introduced each of the coaches and urged support of all Tech athletic programs.

Locke was introduced by Speedy Nieman, master of ceremonies, who also recognized the local committee for the Red Raider Day program. Dave Hopper was chairman of the group, and was assisted by Dave Workman, Tom LeGate, Cal Mitts and Nieman.

Winners of the Red Raider golf scramble Tuesday afternoon were presented trophies and golf balls by Workman. The winning team was composed of Steve Locke, Dan Warwick, Ike Stevens and Dorman Smith. Another team equalled the low-ball score of 60 but took second place on a playoff hole on the card. On the runner-up team were Cal Garrett, J.A. McWhorter, Dave Workman and Cal Mitts.

A total of 62 golfers entered the scramble tourney. Bob Baker had the longest drive of the day, and Virgil Marsh was closest to the pin on a three-par.

Helping sponsor the local event were Farr Fetter Feeds, Northwest Grain, Gene Coulter Insurance and Champion Feeders.

2-man scramble openings are available

Openings are still available for Saturday and Sunday's Hereford 2-Man Scramble at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Entry fees are $55 per team. Each team has its choice of tee time in Saturday's round.

To sign up for the 2-Man Scramble, call the Pro Shop at the golf course at 364-2782.

Other tournaments scheduled in May are the Kiwanis Tournament on May 20 and the Masonic Tournament on May 21.

To enter the Kiwanis Tournament, send entry and handicap to Dean Herring at Route 4 in Hereford. The tournament has an entry fee of $25 per person, and a tee off time of 1 p.m.

The Masonic Tournament will begin at 8:30 a.m. May 21. Entry fees are $40 per team. Interested golfers should call the Pro Shop to sign up for this tournament.

Tech talks

are Shorty Roark, Don T. Martin and Gerald McCathern. Roark, an A&M ex, supports the Raiders in all but one game.

Final district record is 14-2

Herd beats Estacado, 6-3

The Hereford Whiteface varsity baseball team closed out the District 1-4A season Tuesday in Lubbock with a 6-3 victory over Lubbock Estacado, dropping the Matadors into a three-way tie for second place.

Hereford scored two runs on an error in the second inning, and Rodney McCracken hit a two-run homer later in that inning, for a 4-0 lead over Estacado.

The Whitefaces loaded the bases when Derrell Page doubled, Bill

Shortstop Dick Schofield is the son of former major league infielder Dick "Ducky" Schofield.

Lou Gehrig, who played his last game for the New York Yankees in 1939, still holds the all-time grand-slam record with 23.

Paul Waner, a Hall of Fame outfielder, was only 5-8 and 150 pounds, but he led the National League in hitting three times.

Ruckman walked, and Keith Brown was hit by a pitch. Michael Phibbs hit a ground ball toward third base, where the Matador third baseman stepped on third for a forceout but committed an error on the throw to first base.

James Hernandez pitched six and two thirds innings to pick up his seventh win of the season against no defeats, he struck out six batter and gave up six hits before giving way to Jason Scott in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Scott recorded a strikeout to end the game, leaving the Matadors with three runners on base.

Hereford had seven hits in the game, including two doubles by Page.

Hereford finished the district schedule with a 14-2 record. The Whitefaces, 21-2 for the season, play Pecos in the bi-district playoffs on May 20-21. (See story, this page.)

Estacado finished the district season at 10-6, tied for second place with Canyon and Dumas. The three-way tie makes necessary a three-team tournament Friday and Saturday, in Hereford. (See story, this page.)

WHO'S THE BEST?

CHICAGO (AP) — There are always different opinions on just who is the best player in the NBA.

John Paxson of the Chicago Bulls has this theory: "Larry Bird of the Boston Celtics and Magic Johnson of the Los Angeles Lakers are probably the best in the game who play on the floor," Paxson said. "But Michael Jordan of the Bulls is the best among those who play in the air."

Spud Webb of Atlanta votes for Johnson. "When you watch Magic play," he said, "it's like going to school."

It's Hereford vs. Pecos in bi-district playoffs

The baseball bi-district playoff series between District 1-4A champion Hereford and District 2-4A runnerup Pecos has been scheduled for May 20-21, Hereford schools Athletic Director Don Cumpton announced today.

The best-of-three series will be played at Chaparral Field on the Lubbock Christian University campus in Lubbock. The series begins on May 20 with game one at 7 p.m.

Game two is scheduled at 1 p.m. on May 21. If a third game is necessary, it will be played immediately after game two.

Hereford won the District 1-4A championship with a 14-2 record. The third-ranked Whitefaces are 21-2 overall.

Pecos tied for second in the final District 2-4A standings with Monahans, with 11-3 records. Pecos defeated Monahans 9-7 Tuesday in a playoff for the second place playoff spot. Pecos has a season record of 18-8.

Admission to the bi-district playoff games will be $2 for adults and $1 for students.

1-4A second place playoff tourney set in Hereford

A three-team tournament is scheduled Friday and Saturday in Hereford to decide the second place playoff spot from District 1-4A. Canyon, Dumas and Lubbock Estacado tied for second place with 10-6 records. The first game of the tournament will be played at 4 p.m. Friday at the Hereford High School baseball field.

The winner of Friday's game will play the third team at 1 p.m. Saturday. The winner of Saturday's game advances to the bi-district playoffs against District 2-4A champion Andrews.

Andrews had a 12-2 district record and is 21-5 overall.

The three-way tie in District 1-4A came about Tuesday when Estacado lost to Hereford 6-3, coupled with Dumas beating Levelland 6-4 and Canyon defeating Borger 12-2.

Canyon and Estacado both have 15-10 season records, and Dumas is 13-10.

In game one of series with Denver

Mavericks lose, 126-115

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer
DENVER (AP) — The Denver Nuggets shot 58 percent, Lafayette Lever scored 30 points and Mike Evans got 11 points in just six minutes of playing time in the second quarter. But overconfidence may be what really did in the Dallas Mavericks.

Denver romped to a 126-115 victory Tuesday night in the opening game of an NBA Western Conference semifinal playoff series. Game 2 in the best-of-seven series is scheduled for Thursday night in Denver.

That's when the series will really start, according to Denver Coach Doug Moe.

"Dallas came in here pretty high after winning two games in Houston," Moe said. "It seemed like that gave them the sense of 'Boy, we're good, we can come into Denver and win easily.' I think they'll settle down now and play a completely different game on Thursday. I don't expect any other games to be this easy."

"This game doesn't mean anything. It was just a game we had to win. The series starts Thursday. The second game is always the one the visiting team has the best shot at winning."

Dallas forward Roy Tarpley hinted that Moe may have been right about the Mavericks' attitude coming into the game.

"We had the confidence to win both games here after beating Houston," he said. "Denver caught us off-guard, and we didn't really get into our game until the fourth quarter. We have to be more aggressive."

The Nuggets moved to a 12-point halftime advantage, thanks to Evans' superb play in the second period, and a 10-1 run early in the third quarter opened up a 21-point lead. Dallas got no closer than eight points after that.

Besides his 30 points, Lever had 11 rebounds, eight assists, three steals and a blocked shot.

"Fat (Lever) was really super," Dallas Coach John MacLeod said. "He was playing his game, hitting the outside shots and rebounding the way he does."

"Denver played hard and was the better team tonight. They kept pressuring half-court to keep us out of our offense. We'll have to have a better effort Thursday."

Lever scored 12 of his points in the first quarter as the Nuggets ended the period with a 34-32 lead. In the first five minutes of the second

Homers in Rangers' 13-5 win over Orioles

Parrish hopes he is on hot streak

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — In the pecking order of American League streak hitters, Larry Parrish is near the top of the list. Last May, for example, the Texas Rangers designated hitter hit .393 with 35 RBI, a club record for any month.

Parrish was three-for-three with a two-run homer Tuesday night, raising his average to .171 as the Rangers pounded the Baltimore Orioles, 13-5.

Parrish hopes this is the start of one of those hot spells.

Mets' Cone ups record to 4-0 with win over Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — New York Mets manager Davey Johnson likes what he sees in starting pitcher Dave Cone.

Cone improved his record to 4-0 with a 5-2 win over the Houston Astros Tuesday night, allowing one run and four hits while striking out four in seven innings.

Cone replaced Rick Aguilera in the Mets starting rotation when Aguilera injured his right elbow. He has thrown 16 innings as a starter, allowing only one run and 12 hits.

"Do I have any plans to take him (Cone) out of the starting rotation?" Johnson asked. "No!"

"He showed me last year that he could be a quality starter. In one sense I was happy that we would have him in the bullpen early in the year because I knew he would give us some strong innings."

The Mets scored first in the sixth when Carter drilled a two out double to the wall of left center, scoring Keith Hernandez.

Houston tied the game in the bottom half when Glenn Davis lined a single to right that scored Billy Hatcher from third.

The Mets scored three times in the eighth, including another Carter RBI that scored Darryl Strawberry. Pitch hitter Lee Mazzilli's sacrifice fly scored Kevin McReynolds from third and Mookie Wilson singled to bring in Carter.

New York added an insurance run in the ninth when McReynolds sacrificed to score Hernandez from third.

Houston scored once in the ninth on a single by Bass, a walk to Denny Walling and an RBI single to right by Alan Ashby.

New York improved their road record to 11-5.

The streaking Mets have won 11 of their last 13 and 14 of their last 17 overall.

good-luck charm, at least for the time being. Parrish shot the elk last winter during a hunting trip in New Mexico.

"The way I've been going, I'm going to leave him here as long as I keep swinging the bat," Parrish said. "I guess the slump is over, for tonight anyway. I need a week of what I did tonight, just to catch up."

The Rangers have had 10 hits or more in their last four games, including 13 hits Tuesday night. Steve Buechele had a career-high four hits and Pete Incaviglia had three.

Incaviglia and Parrish had two-run homers and Buechele and In-

More frozen dinners improved

Over 177 new frozen dinners and entrees were marketed last year, giving shoppers an even greater choice among ethnic cuisines, "light" meals, dinner "classics," and nutritional value. "Frozen dinners can be part of a balanced diet, but only if you know what they do and don't offer nutritionally," says Dr. Alice Hunt, a nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Actually, frozen meals have improved in recent years, as manufacturers have tried to respond to the nutrition concerns of the buying public," she says. Nutrition researchers at Tufts University recently evaluated 451 dinners and entrees for nutritional value and rated 44 of them as highly recommended and another 55 as falling only slightly short of rigorous standards for fat, sodium, calories and protein. Just two years ago the Tufts researchers assessed 350 frozen dinners and could high recommend only 34 of them, reports the Extension specialist. Hunt, who is also a registered dietitian, suggests that like the researchers, consumers read package labels for the following indicators of nutritional value in frozen meals and entrees:

-No more than 300 calories per serving. If it's a single serving entree or individual dinner, counting calories won't be difficult. But if the package contains multiple servings you'll have to exercise your own portion-control to stay in the limits.

-No more than 30 percent of calories should come from fat. Americans have been urged to reduce their fat intake to this level to help reduce the risk of heart disease. A 300-calorie product should have 1 grams of fat or less to meet this requirement.

-No more than 1,000 milligrams of sodium, which is about a third amount you should be getting in a day. If you sprinkle salt on your food at the table, you'll be adding more sodium.

-About a third of the U.S. Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) for protein, or about 15 grams.

-A net weight of about 9 ounces or more to provide you with enough bulk to feel full.

"Even when a frozen meal or entree fits these guidelines, it will still probably be low in one or more essential vitamins or minerals," says Hunt.

Extension News

By BEVERLY HARDER
County Extension Agent
VITAMIN D AND AGING

Milk is the principal food source of vitamin D. Yet, as people age, a substantial number develop an intolerance to the milk sugar lactose, and others believe it's for children only. As a result, vitamin D deficiency among the elderly, especially in northern climates, may be a big problem, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Vitamin D helps the body absorb calcium from the intestinal tract, and maintains blood levels essential for proper bone mineralization. Deficiency in adults may lead to softening of the bone, compounding the problem of bone loss in the elderly.

A vitamin D deficiency on top of osteoporosis may significantly increase the risk of bone fracture. Studies indicate that 30 to 40 percent of men and women with hip fractures are vitamin D deficient. The Recommended Dietary Allowance for vitamin D is 400 international units.

Aside from fortified milk, vitamin D is also found in egg yolk, saltwater fish, liver, and sunshine. However, those living in latitudes above Boston and beyond receive none of the sun's benefits during the winter.

To get the benefits of the summer sunlight and minimize cancer-causing effects, researchers recommend light-skinned elderly adults restrict exposure to 5 to 10 minutes around midday, when the sun's rays are most direct. Exposure can be longer when the angle of the sun is lower.

Dark-skinned people require 5 to 10 times longer in the sun, depending on the amount of pigmentation in the skin. Protective lotions, called sunblocks, with a high protection index completely block the sun and prevent the skin from producing vitamin D.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

4-H Firsthand

By DAVY VESTAL
 County Extension Agent
4-H BEEF PROGRAM—
 DESIGNED WITH ECONOMICS
 IN MIND
 A new 4-H beef cattle program will begin soon for those youth interested in the economics of feeding.
 The Commercial Steer Feeding Program will involve procurement of at least one pen (three head) of feeder steer weighing in at a maximum weight yet to be determined. The 4-H or FFA youth will have to keep accurate records over purchase price, weight, medical expenses, feeding rations and be aware of breed characteristics.
 The animals will be judged by a qualified fat cattle buyer at the end of the feeding period and that more will be added to an interview score to determine placings of each pen and youth. The tentative feeding period will be from September through January.

 Exact rules and requirements will be determined at a meeting of interested parents and other adults in late July. Interested individuals are asked to contact the Extension office as soon as possible so we can inform you of when the organizational meeting will take place.

School registration scheduled

Parents wishing to have their child attend summer school should contact their child's teacher concerning registration. The registration forms must be returned to the school by Friday.
 Tuition-free summer school will be offered for students in grades K-12 by Hereford Independent School District.
 Summer school grades 7-12 will run from June 6-July 15 as classes are set for 8:30 to 10:10 a.m. and 10:20 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday.
 Classes lasting from 8:30 a.m. until noon Monday through Friday will be held for elementary students July 5 through Aug. 12.
 For further information, contact a building principal or Marc Williamson the HISD central office.
 Women in France were allowed to vote for the first time in 1945.

Visitors welcomed

Hereford citizens are reminded of the observance of National Nursing Home Week which concludes Saturday. The staff at Golden Plains Care Center welcomes visitors and family members to enjoy the large reception area with the home's residents. Elizabeth Hayes is the activities director at the center.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband was a therapist who lost his license after becoming sexually involved with several female patients. He led these women to believe that he loved them and broke up their marriages.

Please, Ann, warn your readers that if a therapist starts to talk about his personal problems, especially if he is critical of his wife, this is inappropriate behavior. He should be told at once to get his own therapist.

If he makes any sexual advances you can be sure that he has made the same advances toward others.

I am at loss to understand how I could have lived with this man for nearly 20 years and not have known how twisted and devious he was.

Please, Ann, print this letter as a warning to female patients everywhere. A therapist who violates the ethical and moral code of his profession deserves to have the work thrown at him. No name, no city, please. Just—Crushed in the U.S.

DEAR CRUSHED: I have addressed this subject in the column before, but once more won't hurt.

Several months ago at a meeting of the Illinois Psychiatric Society in Chicago, an Oak Brook psychiatrist said that sexual involvement between a patient and his or her therapist is not necessarily harmful. He described five of his patients who had had sex with previous psychiatrists, but he made it clear that he had never done so himself.

Dr. Richard Baer, a member of the society's ethics committee, disagreed vehemently. He said providing sexual gratification for money was characteristics of another profession that has nothing to do with psychiatry.

A survey by a Harvard Medical School researcher, Dr. Nanette Gartrell, found that about one psychiatrist in 16 admits to having had sex with patients. She said the survey probably understated the problem. As evidence Dr. Gartrell cited a meeting of more than 100 psychiatrists where the question was asked, "How many of you have treated patients who had had sex with a previous psychiatrist?" Nearly every hand in the room went up. Doctors, heal thyselfes.

DEAR READERS: Rumors persist that:

(a) I have retired.
 (b) I work only part-time and someone else is writing my column.

(c) I died and the papers are keeping it quiet.
 I am happy to report that I am alive and well, that every word written under my byline is written by me and will continue to be, and the word "retirement" is not in my vocabulary.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is there a legitimate marriage broker in the United States?

I read a newspaper article about a New York-based organization recently that sounded as if it was in business to do the kind of arranging that family, friends and community groups used to do in bygone days. Unfortunately I misplaced the article and can't track down the organization.

I'm not interested in dating services or lonely hearts clubs (too risky.) But is there a legitimate organization that matches partners for marriage, especially professional people (which I am)? I would very much like to contact such an agency. Can you help?—Marriage-Minded in Oregon

DEAR M.M. IN O: Sorry, no. While arranged marriages couldn't possibly be worse than what people do on their own, I want no part of such operations.

How much do you know about pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, crack, speed and downers? Think you can handle them? For up-to-the minute information on drugs, write for Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped No. 10 envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Rosie edges Lori

Kind of crowded at the starting line

What looks like a bunch of boys pushing and shoving is actually the start of the fourth grade boys 400-meter dash at the Kiwanis Elementary Track Meet. The race was won by Jeremy Peace of Shirley in 1:17.06, and Michael Serna of Shirley finished second in 1:18.31.

Lindeman's turn to leap

Teammates in next-door lanes
