Allred celebrating 50 years with Phillips

By SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

The 50th anniversary celebration of Allred Oil Co., Inc. will be held here Thursday with two special events scheduled to honor Jimmie Allred, founder.

Phillips 66 Company officials will make special presentations to Allred at a private luncheon to be held at Hereford Country Club, and the public will have an opportunity to participate in the celebration when gasoline is offered at 66 cents a gallon for 50 minutes.

The 50 minutes commemorates Allred's 50th anniversary and the 66 cents commemorates Phillips 66 as the primary supplier for the company for those years.

"I'm just happy that Dad is not celebrating his 100th anniversary and that the company name was not Phillips 33," quipped Lynton Allred, president of Allred Oil Co., Inc.

The special gasoline sales will be held from 3 to 3:50 p.m. Thursday at Allred's Sav-A-Dollar location on Ave. A and Park Avenue. All vehicles in line at the end of the 50-minute period will be allowed to fuel up (30-gallon maximum) at 66 cents a gallon, according to Lynton Allred.

Bob Wallace, president of Phillips Petroleum Co., will honor Allred at the private luncheon at the country club from noon to 1 p.m. Employees and special guests will attend the luncheon and three other of Phillips' top officials will be present.

Allred signed an agent contract with Phillips Sept. 8, 1938. The agency operated as Jimmie Allred Oil Co. until 1946, when the name was changed to Allred Oil Co. at that time, Allred had two Phillips' stations located on US-60 and US-386 and at 3rd and Schley. The next full-service station was built on the corner of Park and 385.

"The city of Hereford was in a triangle shape," explains Allred, "so we had stations on each corner of the triangle. Anyone going through Hereford had to pass two of our stations."

R.C. Anderson, Allred's brother-in-law, was an employee of Allred Oil and became a partner in the founding of Hereford Butane in 1947. Phillips was the product first sold through Hereford Butane. "Phillips was the world's largest producer of LP gas at that time," said Allred.

Allred was born Feb. 1, 1913 in Amarillo, but the family moved to Wildorado, in Deaf Smith county, three weeks later. Allred grew up on the farm and graduated from Hereford High School in 1933.

His association with Phillips started in 1935 when he hired on as a "delivery boy" for T.E. Major, the Phillips agent. "I started at a dollar and a half a day, and it was a long day," recalls Jimmie. He worked in the wholesale petroleum delivery business until Major's death in 1938. Major started the Phillips business in Hereford in 1928.

Allred was a consignee and commission agent for Phillips until 1946 when the company changed all its bulk plant operators to jobbers. "Prior to '46, Phillips supervised the operation and audited all the records. We became our own boss in 1946," explains Allred.

Allred Oil and Hereford Butane have been "family" businesses through the years. Jimmie's wife, Mary, was secretary-treasurer of both firms for many years and still holds that title for the butane firm. She has a 45-year service plaque from Phillips.

Jimmie and Mary, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hogg of Claude, were married June 13, 1937. They have three children, six grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Mrs. James (Marlene) Durham lives in Brenham; Mrs. Bill (Clydene) Clark lives in Houston, and Lynton of Hereford.

"The success of our businesses is related to the people who have worked for us and to our customers," said Allred. He added that Phillips "is one of the best suppliers you could ever want—they do what they say they'll do and they gave us an opportunity to grow."

Allred's business ventures have included a grocery store building, a restaurant and a truck stop. The building currently housing Taylor & Son's Grocery at Park and 385 was constructed by Allred in 1950. In the early '60s, he added a truck stop and restaurant on West Hwy. 60. The truck stop was sold but Allred Oil still owns the building housing the Ranch House Restaurant.

Allred was the first president of Hi-Plains Savings & Loan Association when it was founded in 1957. He served as president for 25 years until health problems forced his retirement. Those same health problems caused him to turn over active operations of the oil company to his son, Lynton.

Jimmie holds the title of chairman emeritus of the board. Lynton explains that the duties include those "of being the official mailman and the bank depositor," chores he still takes care of each week day. Jimmie is still chairman of the board of Hereford Butane.

Despite his business ventures, Jimmie still took time to "pay his dues" to the community. He was ordained a deacon in the First Baptist Church in 1940. He served as a Sunday School teacher, superintendent of the young married people's class, and was youth training director for

TWINS

By ANDREA HOOTEN

With tousled hair, sour breath and goofy pajamas, the last thing a person would want to see is a duplicate wolfing down Wheaties in the morning.

But for the Daniel twins and the Scott twins, it's as everyday as brushing their teeth.

The Scott twins have lived together 34 years and prefer it that way. The Daniel twins, both 15, said they could stand to see a little less of each other.

Like it or not, both sets of twins are bound by the same faces, mannerisms and personalities, and arguments may erupt based on the likeness. But these twins know that having shared the same womb, an epoxy bond was formed early which the common singletons of the world shall never experience.

Ralph and Russell Scott, identical twins who live in Amarillo and work for a farm machinery dealer in Vega, have known this bond since birth and neither a career nor a woman will sever that.

"We've been apart a total of 10 days our whole lives," said the red-haired Russell, who is younger than Ralph by five minutes. "One time Ralph went to service school for International Harvester in Dallas for two days and it was pretty scary for me."

Entities set joint meeting

Three Deaf Smith County government entities will hold a joint meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Deaf Smith County Library in Hereford to discuss establishment of tax abatement and a reinvestment zone in Hereford and the county.

The Hereford city council, Hereford school board, and Deaf Smith County commissioners will meet to hold a public hearing on the establishment of a reinvestment, or enterprise, zone that would give special breaks to persons who build or expand in the zone.

A tax abatement plan would give a break on property taxes to persons who build new businesses or industries or to expansion projects, provided certain criteria are met.

The hearings are open to the public.

Chamber seeks more corn letters

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is seeking more letters of support from county and area farmers as the chamber's industrial development and agriculture committees try to land a food corn processing plant in Hereford.

The prospective industry, which could employ 170 persons and use up to 250 million pounds of food corn annually, is looking at Hereford, other sites in the Texas Panhandle, and a site in Arizona. The plant, a $20 million capital investment, will employ about 30 agronomists, 20 lab technicians, 15 electricians and maintenance workers, and 60 to 70 other employees.

The biggest need of the two committees is personal letters from area farmers who are interested in increased corn production. A full-page ad appears in today's Brand that includes a letter farmers can use to show how much acreage they could utilize to produce food corn for the plant.

The letters are not binding commitments, but are intended to show the area's production capabilities.

The deadline for the letters is Sept. 1, and they may be mailed to the chamber at P.O. Box 192 in Hereford or hand-delivered to the chamber office at 701 North Main Street in Hereford.

Local Roundup

Industrial Foundation board will meet

The board of directors of the Hereford Industrial foundation will meet Monday at 7:30 a.m. at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

New directors and officers will be elected at the meeting, which will include an update on industrial prospects and the Hereford Learning Center.

'Meet the Herd' is Monday

The "Meet the Herd" Night for all fall sports will be held at 7 p.m. Monday at Whiteface Stadium. Sponsored by the Whiteface Booster Club, participants in football, volleyball and cross-country will be introduced. Refreshments will be served.

School board meets Tuesday

The Hereford school board will hold a special meeting Tuesday at 6 p.m. at the administration building.

The board will hold a public hearing and approve the 1988-89 budget, amend the 1987-88 budget, and formally vote on the 1988 tax rate.

The meeting is open to the public.

CAP state commander to visit

Col. Tom Todd, Texas Wing Commander of the Civil Air Patrol, will visit Hereford on Monday in conjunction with the change of command ceremony of the Hereford Composite Squadron at 7 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center.

The public is invited to attend the ceremonies.

Police arrest eight

Eight persons were arrested Friday by Hereford police, including five men arrested for public intoxication.

Other arrests included a man, 18, on the Sugarland Mall parking lot after officers discovered he had assaulted his wife there. She suffered a small cut on the forehead; a man, 18, who turned himself in at the police department because he wanted to serve jail time instead of paying fines; and a man, 30, charged with driving while license suspended.

Incidents included a boy, 15, intoxicated in the 300 block of Mable; windshield wiper blades stolen from a parked car; an attempted burglary at the Church of the Nazarene; a domestic dispute over a borrowed bicycle; an unfounded tip on possible child abuse;

A woman reported two payroll checks that were mailed to her had not arrived; and a woman who is a patient at Deaf Smith General Hospital said her boyfriend took her car without her permission. Officers retrieved the car.

Three candidates set special events

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The general election is Nov. 8, over two months away, but political candidates are making the rounds now with several visits and special events planned this week.

Monday, Gerald McCathern will return home from a week-long whistle-stop tour of the 19th Congressional District with a rally at 7 p.m. Monday in Dameron Park.

The tour has been from a converted Southern Pacific railroad caboose that has been transformed into a trailer-type vehicles. The caboose has been named the "Truman Special," and McCathern has traveled to many of the towns in the district, making short speeches from the rear platform of the caboose.

McCathern, a Democrat, will first visit with local voters in a 4:45 p.m. stop at the Deaf Smith County Courthouse before the hometown rally in the park.

McCathern's opponent, two-term U.S. Rep. Larry Combest of Lubbock, will be making two visits in Hereford this week.

The first will be Tuesday at 2:15 p.m. at the courthouse as part of a two-day whirlwind tour by Combest to 15 cities in the district. All interested persons are invited.

Combest's second appearance will be at an appreciation dinner Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Hereford Country Club. Tickets to the dinner are $25 for singles and $40 a couple and are available locally from John Aikin at 364-1100.

Also visiting Monday will be Tom Phillips, chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court. Phillips, who was appointed to the post earlier this year by Gov. Bill Clements, will be appearing at the community room at the Hereford State Bank at 10:15 a.m. Monday, and the meeting is open to the public.

MeraBank acquires third Texas thrift

DALLAS (AP) — An Arizona-based bank acquired State Federal Savings and Loan Association of Lubbock on Friday as part of the federal Southwest Plan to help the ailing thrift industry, officials said.

MeraBank, a federal savings bank based in Phoenix, acquired the Lubbock thrift, the third it has taken over under the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's plan.

Through its Texas subsidiary, MeraBank also has acquired First Financial-A Savings Association of El Paso and Brownfield Federal Savings and Loan Association of Brownfield.

Friday's announcement came a day after MeraBank, Arizona's second-largest with assets of $7 billion, announced it would close seven of the 14 Texas branches it acquired in June when it bought the two other Texas thrifts.

"We are convinced that Texas offers many opportunities for healthy financial institutions like MeraBank to play an active role in rebuilding the state's economy," Gene E. Rice, chairman and chief executive officer of MeraBank, said in a statement released Friday.

As a result of the acquisition of State Federal, MeraBank acquires approximately $900 million in assets, three branches in Lubbock, two in Dallas and one each in Houston and Plainview.

MeraBank is contributing about $20 million in new capital in the transaction. All deposits of State Federal have been transferred in full to MeraBank's subsidiary thrift, known as MeraBank Texas, FSB, which will operate State Federal's former branches.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. will provide $585 million in assistance to MeraBank in the transaction. The amount of the FSLIC note needed to compensate for the negative worth of State Federal will be about $150 million, according to a statement released by the home loan bank board.

MeraBank Texas, FSB, when it acquired the First Financial in Brownfield in June, committed to acquiring a third thrift.

First Financial had 13 branches and Brownfield had one when they were acquired. The closures involve four of seven MeraBank Texas branches in El Paso, one of two in Amarillo, and the lone branches in Brownfield, Pampa and Canyon, Rice said.

TWINS

The two brothers, whose only disagreement is on the palatability of bananas, dress alike, live in the same house (but sleep in separate king-size beds) and share the chores as a married couple would.

"Russell's probably the smartest. I let him figure up the checkbook," Ralph said with a shy grin, even though their high school grade-point average differed by one-tenth of a point.

"Yeah, but Ralph does most of the talking if we're tradin' in a pickup. I do like to join in a dicker with them, too, though," Russell added.

Besides sharing a checking account, the twins split other responsibilities such as mowing the lawn, cooking and washing dishes because, Ralph said, "it's more fun with two than doing those things by yourself. You've always got a helper."

The Scott twins said they don't waste much time on women or dating.

"They're all right to look at, but we're happy with ourselves and we spend all our money on ourselves. You don't have women there to spend your money all the time," Russell said as he crossed his stocky arms.

Most twins prefer marriage was one of the things the Scotts discovered at the Twin Day Festival in Twinsburg, Ohio, the first week of August. This was their second year to swap how-we-fooled-our-teacher stories with 1,760 other twin sets, and their visit last year landed them a picture in Life magazine.

"We go because it's so much fun to talk to the other twins. They all know and understand what it's like to be one," Russell said. "A lot of people are amazed that we can stand each other, but those people up there (at the convention) understand why."

"It's like being born with a best friend," Ralph said.

consider themselves compadres but have no intention of living together their entire lives. And the boys, sophomores at Hereford High School, definitely don't like wearing the same clothes.

"If we've ever dressed the same, it hasn't been by our will," Mark said, purposely staring at his mother who quickly replies that she rarely dressed them alike except when they were babies.

"We've always tried to raise Mike and Mark as individuals by encouraging them to do different things. We want it that way because they'd be too dependent on each other otherwise," Linda Daniel said. "Mike is in orchestra right now and Mark is turning into a pretty good artist."

The teenagers do share an interest in football, however, with Mark playing defensive linebacker and center and Mike positioned as offensive tackle and defensive end for the 1988-1989 season.

"They're gonna kill me for telling this, but the only way the coach can tell them apart is by looking at their behinds," Linda said with a laugh as the boys issue threats for sharing such a demoralizing tidbit. "Mike has a bigger one."

"We'll have to go to Dimmitt now to find any dates," Mark said, "or worse — Friona."

Mike and Mark are constantly talking over each other, competing for the conversation while maintaining what Linda calls a comedy routine banter which "drives me up the wall sometimes."

Arguments, by their own admission, are the twins' strong suit.

"Fighting is our favorite thing to do," Mike said. "I took debate for class once and it was no fun 'cause I was so used to fighting with Mark."

Their older brother, Casey, once pitted the two brothers in a "chicken fight" for all the neighborhood boys to watch.

One of the differences that causes much of the arguing is their different temperaments, said their dad, Harley.

"Mike is pretty quick-tempered..."

"More like hot-tempered, I'd say," Mark chimed in. "Mike holds these grudges and it's like living with a 196-pound 3-year-old."

Despite the good-humored battling, the boys agree they share a friendship with each other not found in their other friendships.

"I can pick on him and he can pick on me, but if someone else picks on either of us, they're in trouble," Mike said.

The intimacy started at an infant age when, like many other twins, the boys developed a language code.

Harley said, "Yeah, we used to put them in the middle of the floor and they'd just grunt and mumble and we never did understand what they were saying. But they seemed to. I guess they were 3 or 4 years old before they started talking totally normal."

Raising the twins itself was a daily surprise for Linda, but the true surprise came on the delivery table when the doctor realized she was going to have twins.

"When Mike was born, the doc said 'Well, that baby oughta be bigger than that.' So he was real shocked when Mark came out three minutes later," Harley said. "The doctor told us that he could only hear one heartbeat that whole nine months and he thought they were just so closely cupped together in the womb that there was only one heartbeat to be heard."

The twins said they'll probably attend Texas Tech when they graduate from high school but will split the ways after the college years.

Even though they may be separated by hundreds of miles later on, the twins will always know the other is just a heartbeat away.

Schoolchildren remain computer 'illiterates'

By The Associated Press

America's young schoolchildren remain illiterates when it comes to using computers, a national survey indicates, but many college students consider the computer an important tool in career planning.

A recent study of some 24,000 pupils in the third, seventh and 11th grades found that — despite the so-called "classroom computer revolution" — access to computers is too limited at school and at home, schools have failed to use computers effectively, and teachers are trained inadequately.

"Although some schools offer excellent computer curricula," the survey concluded, "many other schools apparently do not provide effective instruction, at least in computer applications and programming, to a large proportion of pupils."

Titled "Computer Competence: The First National Assessment," the study was undertaken by the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP), a project established 19 years ago by Congress to conduct national surveys of various educational skills.

It suggests that schools have only dented the ignorance most students and teachers have of computers despite the huge purchases by many schools during the 1980s.

In 1980, 15 percent of elementary schools and 50 percent of high schools offered computer instruction. By 1985, 82 percent of elementary schools and 93 percent of secondary schools did so.

Even so, more than eight of 10 seventh- and 11th-graders said they never used computers to make a data base, slightly more than half said they never used them to write letters, stories or reports, and roughly three-quarters said they never used them to make graphs.

Except for word processing, students generally scored poorly on questions dealing with computer applications — making graphics or working with data bases, for example — because students said they hardly ever got a chance to practice.

Despite their poor showing, 91.2 percent of third graders and 86 percent of seventh graders said they liked using computers, and more than half said they wished they used them more.

Marc Tucker, president of the Washington-based National Center on Education and the Economy, called the survey results disappointing.

"The difference is between knowing a little about the computer, and being able to use it effectively. Few American schoolchildren can do the latter," he said.

Ironically, while the NAEP study indicates the nation's young students remain computer illiterates, in a recent survey at three New England colleges the use of the computer was ranked along with self-assessment and networking as among the most important skills to have while looking for a job.

The poll of more than 250 students and graduates at the University of Rhode Island, and at Smith College and Babson College in Massachusetts was reported by New York-based Drake Beam Morin, Inc., a career counseling firm.

One-third of those polled owned their own computers and more than one-half said they had access to one. Thirteen percent said they would use a computer as a tool to enable them to simplify and organize their job search.

As for those parents whose school-age children may be among the computer illiterates but who cannot afford a home computer, industry consultants suggest several solutions.

"Youth groups like the Girl Scouts have added a technology badge to their program, some libraries are making personal computers available to patrons, user groups abound for the major hardware systems, and there's always the school computer lab," suggests Mindscape, Inc., of Northbrook, Ill., an educational software publisher.

TRY OATS TO REDUCE CHOLESTEROL LEVEL

It's long been known that the fiber in oats lowers blood cholesterol in people who have high levels, thus reducing their risk of developing heart disease. Now researchers have also found it lowers blood cholesterol of people who have what are considered normal levels.

Research scientists at Northwestern University School of Medicine have found that just two ounces a day of either oatmeal or oat bran, which equals about two cups of hot cereal or two muffins, can lower cholesterol by almost five percent in a matter of weeks.

Before you start eating bowl upon bowl of oatmeal be aware of two factors. First, the oat products in the studies were found to be helpful only as part of a moderate-fat, moderate-cholesterol diet. So don't count on oatmeal to combat the effects of a fatty diet.

Second, it hasn't been shown that just because two ounces of oats are effective in lowering cholesterol levels that more than two ounces will be even better. So don't go overboard on oats to the exclusion of other carbohydrates.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

A Slipped Disc Can Be Misunderstood, Painful

BY DR. GERALD GLASSCOCK
Doctor of Chiropractic

Intervertebral disc. What a tongue-twister of a name for a shock absorber!

Unfortunately, tongue-twisting isn't the only twist involved. Anyone who does a lot of lifting, with the consequent twisting and bending, is a prime candidate for a slipped disc injury.

Although it works for us twenty-four hours a day, most people take the spinal disc for granted. Its center contains a jelly-like substance that is enclosed by a tough, fibrous cartilage. This is in turn encased in the ligaments which hold the vertebrae together. The discs cushion the vertebrae and act as shock absorbers, keeping the vertebrae from grinding together as we bounce, twist, and bend through life. Equally important, the discs help to form the nerve openings between the vertebrae.

If these nerves should become pinched, nerve impulses from the brain will be short-circuited.

Proper functioning of these nerves is essential to every phase of your life. When they are pinched by misaligned vertebrae or a slipped disc, any number of things can go wrong.

If the back is weak, the spine cannot endure the heavy abuse which it might otherwise withstand. A fall, sneezing or coughing spell, or overexertion can cause vertebral misalignment.

Office workers, truck drivers, and others who maintain a prolonged sitting position are prone to disc injury because their back muscles may become weak and flabby from disuse. To strengthen the back muscles and hold the spine and discs in place, proper exercise is a must. Your Doctor of Chiropractic will be happy to show you a series of exercises designed to help keep your back in condition.

While his knowledge in treating nerve, muscle, and bone disorders is especially suited to slipped disc cases, he would rather help you prevent the need for such treatment.

Help needed!

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is currently seeking a united effort from the community in its attempt to land a major food corn plant in Hereford.

The chamber's industrial development committee and the ag committee is compiling a promotional packet to entice the company to this community. A key part of the presentation will be personal letters from farmers, who are urged to express their interest in producing contracted food corn. Farmers and other interested citizens are invited to read the full-page ad in today's Brand.

The chamber will be accepting letters from all farmers in Deaf Smith County and adjoining counties. The letters should be hand delivered or mailed to the chamber office, 701 N. Main St., P.O. Box 192, and they need to be received before Sept. 1.

Ken Rogers, chairman of the industrial development committee, has stated that the project needs "broad-based community support." While the letters from farmers are a key part of the package, other interested citizens can help the chamber's work by becoming a dues-paying member of the organization.

The chamber does not have a big budget, and only a small part has been used for industrial development. An Economic Development Council has been formed and will be funded by tax funds, but this organization is not a legal entity as yet and cannot contribute to this project.

Rogers put it very well when he said: "We are giving this opportunity everything we have. We are going to work together and if we succeed, we are going to celebrate together. If we lose, I guess we will cry together, too."

Let's all help and celebrate together!

Bootleg Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnsongrass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek examines a new task Presidential candidates are confronted with.

Dear editor:

I guess one of the hardest jobs a candidate for President has is the requirement now that he define himself.

"Now that he is the party's nominee," television commentators keep saying, "he has to define himself."

Under this assignment, you can't assemble your advisers and speechwriters and tell them to "come up with a definition of me."

No sir, you've got to define yourself and you can't look it up in the dictionary. And it's too soon to look yourself up in a history book, not even as a footnote down at the bottom of the page.

Just to be doing, I tried to define myself. I walked around the subject clockwise and counter-clockwise, studying it from every angle, and every time all I could come up with was a blur.

Luckily, advisers and speechwriters generally give up on this self-definition business and aim their energies at defining opponents. That's where the fun is.

If you listened to the speeches at both the Democratic and Republican conventions, and if you listen equally to Democratic and Republican speeches during the next two months ahead of the November election, you could come to this conclusion:

(1) The country will zoom into the future.

(2) The country will shrivel up and return to the past.

And one or the other will happen if one or the other party wins. Makes no difference which.

Have you considered how lucky we are that we don't have three political parties, three conventions, three campaigns, and one chance out of three instead of one out of two that electing the other man will ruin us?

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

DAMAGE CONTROL

I cannot imagine my writing a column defending the national media, but maybe it is time for me to be fair. There is another side to the badgering they seem to do that needs to be told. It is especially relevant now that they are catching so much flak for picking on Dan Quayle.

I have a friend who recently retired as Executive Vice President of a major oil company. He told me how they took training in a thing called damage control. They hire experts to teach seminars on dealing with the media in a crisis situation. The major thrust of the training is called "Broken Record." If there is an oil spill for example the executives are trained to immediately form a statement of response to the situation. The response has nothing to do with truth, it is aimed at putting the best face on the incident and saving the company's rear end.

After the response is set the next rule is to say it immediately. As soon as the press conference starts the statement is delivered. It does not matter what question is asked the statement is the answer. Each succeeding question is then answered with the same statement, like a broken record over and over.

In this kind of environment it is easy to see why the media keep pressing. This must be the most frustrating job in the world. They ask a question and get a broken record.

A good example of this process is the current "Flog Dan Quayle" craze. The question is, did he use influence to get into the National Guard and thus avoid the Vietnam War? The broken record is, "I am proud to have served in the National Guard. Are you saying service in the National Guard is not something to be proud of? This is followed by more questions and the same answer until a backlash is created and folks get mad at the press for picking on the poor guy.

A person trained in damage control becomes an expert at almost saying something. We the public become experts at almost hearing something. The result is nobody says anything and nobody knows anything.

Warm Fuzzies,
Doug Manning

Letters to the Editor

Writer proposes community-backed entertainment center

Dear editor:

The economy has been the topic ala-mode lately. Everyone is busy reading about it, talking about it, getting excited or depressed about our economy. Very few, however, are trying to do something about it. The very few who are trying to do something are, in my opinion, becoming one-track minded.

Pursuing and wooing industry to this community is not our only alternative. We have to remember that every community, large or small, is in the same footsteps. The reason I am writing this article is not to add another philosopher to the multitudes we already have. The reason is, however, that I would like to submit to this community a concrete proposal an alternative.

Everyone knows and talks about the lack of any entertainment facilities in this community. The fact is this forces people to leave town for entertainment and, subsequently, other needs are also fulfilled outside. Entertainment, such as, movie theaters, bowling alley's, small entertainment park, small zoo, a complex of small knick-knacks, foods, gifts, games, indoor golf, etc...are very much needed.

Granted this costs a lot of money. In fact, a lot more than any one person or small group of persons can or are willing to invest. However, the community as a whole can easily finance a project such as that.

A corporation should be started by the community, then issue two to three million shares at $1 to $5 a share. Sell the shares to the community and this should raise enough money to start working on the project. I am certain that we have small and large investors. I myself would be the first one to invest in such a project.

The advantages of this are many fold: (1) We fulfill a dire need. (2) Entertainment facilities attract the surrounding communities as well as relocation of industry and families. (3) When the majority of the community invests in the project they essentially own the facility and would have much more of an interest in making it work. (4) The community as a whole reaps the benefits of the presence of such a facility, as well as benefit financially from returns on investment. (5) The economy is stimulated by creating hundreds of jobs and especially summer jobs for our school children. (6) When successful other industries could be financed the same way to where the need for looking outside for industry will be obviated.

I am hoping by writing this article I have aroused the interest of enough people to get started.

Dear editor:

On Friday, August 12, 1988, Ms. Silvana Juarez and Ms. Irene Cantu and I attended the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project's 1,000th Campaign Kick-Off Dinner in San Antonio. We were able to attend this event because of the generous support of many people in our community, and by way of this letter we would like to express our gratitude to everyone who so generously supported us.

The dinner honored the memory of SVREP founder and former president, Willie Velasquez. The three of us were especially honored to be among the 1,000 plus guests who paid tribute to Mr. Velasquez for his extraordinary contribution to the American democratic process. Among the guests were the Hon. Katherine Ortega, United States treasurer; the Hon. Lloyd Bentsen, United States senator; and the Hon. Henry Cisneros, mayor of San Antonio.

In addition to attending the Friday night function, Silvana and I attended a "Field Training Seminar" held in San Antonio over the weekend to give us up-to-date training on the most effective techniques to use in registering new voters. Other individuals from our community attended this training, and they include Cirilia Dennett, Mr. & Mrs. Leo Chacon, Mr. & Mrs. Carmen Hernandez, Mr. & Mrs. Richard Gonzalez, and Mr. & Mrs. Carlos Hernandez. All those present at the two-day seminar will be involved in voter registration activities in our community.

Again, we would like to thank all those individuals who assisted us through monetary support so that we could attend this important event.

Sincerely,
Crisilla Garza

Mr. Speedy Nieman:

We would like to express our appreciation to Gary Christensen for his efforts in covering tennis, golf, and volleyball during his employment at The Hereford Brand. The media coverage these sports have received since Mr. Christensen arrived in Hereford as the sports editor has been both extensive and thorough. He has spent many hours in our workouts and at our games on the high school and junior high levels taking photographs and investigating statistics and facts so that these sports may be better publicized.

We realize, along with many of our young athletes, that the time and efforts Mr. Christensen has put into his job go far above and beyond the call of duty. We feel his outstanding interest and coverage in the sports we coach has resulted in strengthening these individual programs as well as the entire Hereford High School and junior high athletic system.

We express the thoughts and feelings of many when we say we will miss Gary's hard work and personal concern that has so often been taken for granted. We thank him and wish him the best of luck.

Sincerely,

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around Texas:

Texas School Year Shouldn't Be Lengthened

The issue of a longer year for public schools in Texas has been raised again by the Select Committee on Education.

But adding days ... at a time when public schools are still struggling with educational reform is unlikely to strengthen the system. Texas needs to do more with the classroom time already available before investing in more time.

Texas public schools have been turned upside down ... by the educational reform act of 1984 ...

The responsibility for carrying out educational reforms has put school administrators under increased pressure as well. School boards have been obliged to find construction funds to satisfy new state regulations that limit the number of children in each classroom.

While local school officials ... are struggling with details of educational reform, state school officials must come to grips with a court ruling that the present method of funding Texas public schools is unconstitutional.

Texas might benefit from a longer school-year in the future. But state and local school officials need to complete the unfinished tasks all around them before they are handed still more hours and days to fill.

Adults Need to Speak Up About Child Abuse

The results of a poll to be published in ... Parents magazine raise troubling questions about the responsibility of others to speak up about child abuse.

According to the poll, 11 percent said they suspected someone of child abuse. Of those, more than a third kept quiet about it.

... Of those who did nothing, the majority said they weren't sure they knew enough to speak out. Others said it was none of their business, or they were concerned about legal liability, offending someone, losing a friend or suffering physical injury.

... There obviously is a need to appeal to the moral responsibility of everyone to be concerned about the well-being of those too small to protect themselves.

It doesn't take a special prosecutor's staff to observe that children who suffer repeated broken bones need help. It doesn't take a private eye to know that children who are kept locked up without regular meals need help. It doesn't take a therapist to know that children who are raped before they are even in first grade need counseling. ... The message from the Parents magazine poll ought to be that more people need to speak their consciences.

Block Steel Firm Sale to Iraq

The proposed sale of the large USX Corp. steel plant in Baytown is disturbing news. ... USX Corp. should explore every means to sell the plant to another American firm. ... As a last resort, the Reagan administration should consider blocking the Iraqi deal.

Texas congressmen led by U.S. Rep. Jack Fields ... are trying to get the government to intervene. ...

He says at least two domestic companies would pay an amount either equal to or larger than the Iraqi offer of $100 million-plus. ... Fields contends (USX) isn't interested because it "doesn't want competition in the domestic steel industry."

That is outrageous when there is plenty of evidence that steel products the plant is capable of making are still in demand here. ...

The Iraqis say they want the plant to produce pipe for irrigation purposes and to expand oil exploration following a cease-fire in the war with Iran.

... Fields and other members of Congress say the plant would bolster Iraq's military capability. As Sen. Lloyd Bentsen puts it, "Iraq is certainly not a friend of the United States."

The USX Corp. should sell the plant to an American firm if that possibility exists. The jobs are needed here, and apparently the products are, too. If USX won't reconsider, the Reagan administration should help the firm change its mind.

— Dallas Times Herald, Aug. 20

National Energy Policy Needed

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, the No. 2 man on the Democratic ticket, is perfectly right to decry the Reagan administration's lack of interest in expanding the U.S. Strategic Petroleum Reserve. But it is also worth noting that an expanded reserve, while important, should be only one part of an overall national energy policy, and neither the Reagan administration nor the Congress has yet come close to developing such a policy.

... Everything is partisan during an election campaign, which is only to be expected. But after the issue of the presidency is settled, it is to be hoped that the new administration and the Congress will find time to agree on a bipartisan national energy policy that will include conservation, alternative and synthetic fuels, and incentives for domestic oil and gas exploration — a policy that will enable the nation to become an energy self-sufficient as possible.

HHS shines in scrimmage

Huge hole for Andrews

Deshaies misses no-hitter

By The Associated Press

Houston's Jim Deshaies didn't have quite the right stuff to pitch a no-hitter against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Deshaies pitched seven hitless innings before Pittsburgh got two singles in the eighth. But the Astros beat the Pirates 2-0 Friday night.

"I had a real good idea what I was doing out there tonight," Deshaies said. "I had shutout stuff and the best slider I've had all year."

Deshaies, 9-10, finished with a three-hitter, six strikeouts and two walks in pitching his second complete game and second shutout of the season.

"I had good stuff but I didn't think it was no-hit stuff like Nolan Ryan," Deshaies said of the major league's all-time no-hit leader with five.

In the first seven innings, the only Pirate baserunner came in the second when Bobby Bonilla led off with a walk but was caught stealing.

Bonilla broke up Deshaies' no-hit bid leading off the eighth with an infield single. Bonilla's slow grounder to third baseman Buddy Bell was bobbled momentarily, and Bell threw wide to first as Bonilla crossed the base.

The victory kept the second-place Astros 4½ games behind Los Angeles in the National League West. The Dodgers beat Philadelphia 7-2.

Elsewhere in the NL, it was New York 3, San Francisco 0; Atlanta 4, Chicago 0; San Diego 4, Montreal 3; and St. Louis 4, Cincinnati 2.

Earlier this season, both Ryan and Mike Scott took no-hitters into the ninth inning at the Astrodome but came up short. Six times this season, pitchers have taken no-hitters into the ninth but have failed to get them.

"You've got to be a little disappointed because you don't know how many chances you will have at a no-hitter," Deshaies said.

Dodgers 7, Phillies 2

Rookie Tim Lincecum won his seventh straight decision as Los Angeles beat Philadelphia at Veterans Stadium to snap a three-game losing streak.

The Phillies have lost three games in a row and 11 of their last 12.

Mets 3, Giants 0

Sid Fernandez allowed four hits in seven-plus innings and a throwing error by first baseman Will Clark led to two unearned runs as New York defeated visiting San Francisco for its fourth consecutive victory.

Fernandez, 8-10, got relief help from Randy Myers who got his 19th save with two hitless innings.

The Mets beat the Giants for only the third time in 10 games this season.

Braves 4, Cubs 0

Atlanta rookie Pete Smith pitched a five-hitter for his second straight shutout against Chicago.

Smith, 7-12, who has never been scored on by the Cubs in 25 innings, struck out five and walked none. Smith beat the Cubs 1-0 last Sunday at Wrigley Field. The shutout was Smith's third of the season and his fourth complete game.

Padres 4, Expos 3

John Kruk's run-scoring single in the seventh inning snapped a tie to lift San Diego past Montreal at Olympic Stadium. It was the Expos' 10th loss in their last 12 games.

Andy Hawkins, 12-10, worked 6 2-3 innings for the Padres and Mark Davis pitched 2 1-3 hitless innings for his 23rd save.

With the scored tied 3-3, Chris Brown led off the seventh with a single off John Dopson, 3-8, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on Kruk's single.

Cardinals 4, Reds 2

Vince Coleman drove in three runs to lead St. Louis past Cincinnati and Danny Jackson, 18-6, at Riverfront Stadium.

Jackson had won his last eight decisions, including four consecutive complete-game victories in which he allowed a total of two runs. It was only the second time he has lost in 15 starts at Riverfront Stadium, where he's 10-2.

HB sports editor resigns from staff

Gary Christensen, Brand sports editor since April, 1985, has resigned his position with the newspaper, it was announced this week by Speedy Nieman, publisher.

Christensen's resignation was effective Friday. He has accepted a job with another newspaper and planned to move Saturday.

Christensen is a graduate of Brigham Young University and served as sports editor at Dumas before coming to Hereford. "Christensen did a great job for us in covering all sports activities," Nieman said. "We'll miss him on the news staff, and we're sure many of our readers will miss his byline. We wish him much success in his new venture."

Ranger hurler tosses two-hitter

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Paul Kilgus has no plans for a future career as a broadcast analyst. The Texas Rangers lefthander was at a loss to explain his success Friday night.

"I have no idea," said Kilgus after throwing two-hit ball over 8 2-3 innings in a 5-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays. "I didn't feel my stuff was any better than in some of my other games lately. Tonight they were just swinging and missing."

Kilgus watched his perfect game and no-hitter disappear in the seventh when Lloyd Moseby's one-out soft liner fell into right field for a single.

Then in the ninth, Kilgus lost his bid for a shutout and a complete game when the Toronto Blue Jays loaded the bases with nobody out and pushed across a run on Jesse Barfield's sacrifice fly.

But Kilgus, with two-out ninth-inning relief from Mitch Williams, wasn't complaining even though he came within two outs of his fourth complete-game shutout of the season.

"I had the adrenalin going in the ninth," said Kilgus, 11-11. "Mentally I felt it was still there; physically I was getting a little tired. When I'm throwing three, four, five balls in a row I know I'm getting tired."

Kilgus struck out a career-high 10 and walked four before Williams picked up his 17th save by getting Kelly Gruber to fly out with the bases loaded in the ninth.

A great throw by Detroit pitcher Walt Terrell and a bad one by Milwaukee shortstop Dale Sveum preserved the Tigers' lead in the American League East.

Detroit scored in the 12th inning on Sveum's two-out throwing error Friday night for a 3-2 victory over the Brewers.

But a perfect peg by Terrell in the bottom of the ninth gave Detroit a chance to win. With the bases loaded and two outs, Jeffrey Leonard tapped a slow grounder down the third base line. Terrell sprang off the mound, grabbed the ball with his bare hand, spun and barely got Leonard at first base.

"Let him try that 100 more times and 99 of those he couldn't," Detroit manager Sparky Anderson said. "The situation, the way he threw it. I haven't seen a better play all season."

The Tigers held their two-game lead over Boston, which beat Seattle 5-3. New York, which lost to California 7-6 in 12 innings, fell 5½ games behind and Milwaukee is 11 back.

In other AL games, Oakland downed Baltimore 8-5, Kansas City stopped Minnesota 4-3, Texas defeated Toronto 5-1 and Cleveland beat Chicago 7-6.

Angels 7, Yankees 6

Tony Armas hit a solo homer with two outs in the ninth inning to tie the score and Johnny Ray singled home the winning run in the 12th to lift California over New York.

The Yankees, who led 6-0 in the third inning, have now lost seven games in which they were one out from victory. Armas connected against Dave Righetti for his 12th home run.

In the 12th, Bob Boone got an infield hit with one out and Dick Schofield followed with a bunt single.

Athletics 8, Orioles 5

Jose Canseco hit his 34th home run, most in the majors, and doubled as Oakland beat Baltimore for Storm Davis' eighth straight victory.

Canseco reached his career high for homers. He hit 33 as a rookie in 1986. Canseco's two-run homer tied the score at 4-4 in the sixth inning and Glenn Hubbard had a two-run single later in the inning.

Royals 4, Twins 3

Bo Jackson's three-run homer foiled Frank Viola's second attempt at becoming this season's first 20-game winner and Kansas City defeated visiting Minnesota.

Jackson hit his 21st home run, capping a four-run fourth inning. Viola, 19-6, allowed nine hits in 7 2-3 innings as the Twins' four-game winning streak ended.

Charlie Leibrandt, 9-11, gave up seven hits and walked none in his fourth complete game.

Red Sox 5, Mariners 3

Lee Smith got his 20th save this season and 200th of his career, helping Boston hold off host Seattle.

Wade Boggs hit a two-run double and tripled for the visiting Red Sox. Todd Beninger hit his 13th home run.

Preseason all-state team named

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

Dallas Carter linebacker Jessie Armstead and Cuero fullback Robert Strait are the top-rated players on the 1988 preseason Texas High School All-State football team selected by Max Emfinger, whose scouting service ranks athletes throughout the nation.

Strait, 6-0, 220, rushed for 3,515 yards last year, the second-highest single-season total in Texas history, leading the Gobblers to the state Class 3A title.

The Gobblers are favored to repeat as champions and Strait is within reach of long-standing state records of 899 career points by Sugar Land's Kenneth Hall and 38 100-yard performances shared by Steve Worster of Bridge City and Billy Sims of Hooks.

Strait starts the season with 753 career points and 33 100-yard games. Strait has 6,983 career rushing yards, third on the all-time state list behind Hall's 11,232 yards and Sim's 7,738 yards.

Despite Strait's rushing feats, Emfinger ranks Armstead as the top college prospect in the state.

"Jessie will dominate games in 5A more than Strait will in 3A," Emfinger said. "I think he'll be more of an impact player in college than Strait."

"Strait isn't in the category with Eric Dickerson (Sealy), Harvey Williams (Hempstead) or Kevin Williams (Spring)."

Denison's Reggie Perry, 6-2, 193, leads an outstanding crop of quarterbacks into the 1988 season.

"Everybody looking for a quarterback should be able to get one this year just like they got running backs last year," Emfinger said.

Perry, a 1987 second-team All-Stater in 4A, led the Yellow Jackets into the playoffs a year ago.

"He's big, fast and has excellent grades," Emfinger said. "He ran and passed for over 2,000 yards last year."

Perry ranks as the top quarterback prospect in the state on Emfinger's grading system but he also likes Houston Langham Creek's Bert Emanuel as a running quarterback and Tommy Maddox of Hurst Bell as a passer.

Tiandre Sanders, 6-0, 195, of Corpus Christi Carroll and Chris Weber, 6-0, 182, Arlington, are the running backs on Emfinger's team.

The wide receivers are Kevin Williams of Dallas Roosevelt and Darrick Duke of Houston Reagan. The tight end is Alan Webb of Aledo and Zack Chatman of Beaumont Central is the wingback.

John Karkoska of Aldine is the center. He is flanked by guards Todd Yeaman of Fort Worth Western Hills and Shannon Nevedomsky of Humble and tackles Shane Dronett of Bridge City and James Gargill of Plainview.

Ed Henderson of Port Arthur Jefferson ranked a close second to Williams at wide receiver and North Mesquite's Steve Sagraves was a runner-up at tight end.

Liberty quarterback Donald Douglas is the "athlete" on Emfinger's team. The athlete designation is for a player capable of playing several positions.

Quarterback Calvin Murray of Dallas White, a younger brother of former Texas A&M quarterback Kevin Murray, also ranked high in the athlete category.

Williams, 5-9, 175, is the top wide receiver candidate and not to be confused with Spring's Williams, a running back who is attending UCLA this fall.

"This year's Kevin Williams is an awesome receiver, he catches everything he gets his hands on," Emfinger said. "Everyone loves him as a receiver."

Armstead is joined at linebacker by Chris Rapp, Dallas

White, Kevin Watler, Houston Stratford and Derrick Johnson, Port Arthur Jefferson.

"This is a great year for linebackers, starting with Armstead," Emfinger said.

Other top linebackers are Rodney Townsend of Bridge City, Drew Small, Highland Park and Gary Mayby of Deer Park.

The ends are David Condon of Arlington Martin and Travis Pearson of Plano and the tackles are Stuart Tyner of Tomball and James Lane of Dallas Spruce.

Deaf Smith County Crops Tour is Monday

The annual Deaf Smith County Extension Crops Tour will be held Tuesday beginning at 7:40 a.m. with registration and refreshments in the game room at the Hereford Community Center.

The first tour stop will be at 8:15 a.m. (all times listed are approximate) to observe irrigated grain sorghum varieties on the Joe Grotegut farm located two miles north of Dawn on FM 809 and 1.5 miles west on the county road.

The second stop will be on the Roy Carlson farm 1/2 miles south of Milo Center on U.S. Highway 385 at 9 a.m. At the stop, food corn varieties of both yellow and white corn and a corn plant population demonstration will be featured.

The third stop of the morning, at 10 a.m., will be at the Gerald Marnell farm, 5 miles west of Westway and seven miles north on the paved road. At the Marnell farm, producers will have a chance to see dryland grain sorghum varieties grown using furrow diking.

At 11 a.m. the tour will view dryland grain sorghum varieties being grown using minimum tillage on the Mike Brumley farm, 11 miles west of Westway on FM 1058 and 1/2 miles south on FM 2298.

At 11:45 a.m., tour participants will have lunch at the Jimmie Christie farm and then view the food corn variety plots being grown by Kenneth and Jimmie Christie in cooperation with Frito-Lay, Inc.

The tour will conclude with a stop at the Miles Caudle farm four miles west of Hereford on U.S. Highway 60 and two miles south on the paved road. At the Caudle farm, cotton varieties and cotton planting style demonstrations will be viewed.

Persons planning to attend are asked to contact the County Extension Office at 364-3573 so arrangements can be made for the meal.

1989 farm income prospects lower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects for a hefty boost in the value of U.S. agricultural exports this year have continued to improve, but the Agriculture Department says the outlook is not quite so bright for 1989.

This fiscal year's export value is expected to jump 22 percent to a four-year high of $34 billion, up from $27.9 billion in 1986-87, the department said Thursday.

Shipments were forecast at 146 million metric tons in the year that will end Sept. 30, up 13 percent from last year.

Both the value and quantity estimates were up from the previous USDA forecasts on May 26 of $33.5 billion and 145.5 million tons.

Although the report cited no figures for subsequent years, it said export values may increase in 1988-89 due to higher prices but the volume of shipments may decline.

In another report last week, the department's Economic Research Service said the volume of 1989 wheat exports may drop 12 percent from this year; corn, 4 percent; and soybeans, 29 percent.

Thursday's report said the rise in 1988 estimates since May stemmed from larger-than-expected exports of animal products, slightly larger subsidized wheat exports, and higher corn prices due to the drought.

Noting that 1987-88 exports are now expected to be up $6.1 billion and 16.8 million tons, the report said, "This largely reflects reduced competitor supplies; higher prices for grains, oilseeds and cotton; and increased U.S. export competitiveness" helped by a lower-valued dollar and the Export Enhancement Program, or EEP.

Under EEP, selected countries — including the Soviet Union and China — can get wheat and other designated commodities subsidized by the U.S. government.

The new forecast showed the value of grain exports at $12.2 billion, up from $11.8 billion expected in May and 1986-87 shipments worth $9.33 billion.

Oilseeds, mainly soybeans, were forecast at $7.6 billion, down slightly from $7.7 billion indicated three months ago. But that was up from $6.47 billion last year.

Exports of livestock products this year were raised to $4.7 billion from the May forecast of $4.5 billion. In 1986-87, those were valued at $3.96 billion.

Other major categories included: horticultural products, $3.7 billion this year, the same as indicated in May but up from $3.15 billion in 1986-87. Cotton export values were shown at $2.2 billion, the same as the earlier forecast. Last year's cotton shipments were worth $1.43 billion.

Ranchers should look at land

"Look before you leap" is an old adage, but one ranchers better consider before starting wholesale land restructuring.

A major speaker, Paul Bierschwale, told Texas Agricultural Extension Service faculty attending a recent state conference here that many producers are actually hurting their overall land value in an effort to improve production.

Bierschwale, with Bierschwale Appraisers in Junction, also serves as chief appraiser for Kimble County, one of the hottest markets for rural real estate in Texas.

Bierschwale said that a landowner's primary focus should be his land value.

"A lot of land has been butchered over the years because we've concentrated solely on agriculture and ignored the recreational side of it," he said. "All we do (as appraisers) is read the market land sales that we've seen. The pretty tracts will sell for a whole lot more than those that will run a cow to three acres."

Bierschwale said that from an agricultural management or production standpoint the U.S. is the most productive country in the world.

"Our goal as a rancher is not to increase production but to increase the bottom line...the value of the land. The bottom line is to increase net worth at the end of the year," he said.

"Management practices have a direct effect on land value," said the appraiser. "Many times land with hunting potentials are worth one and a half times more than one without."

Bierschwale warned that landowners must be bona fide producers in order to receive the lower agricultural use property taxing schedule. "Land must be used to the intensity typical in the area," he said. "Strictly speaking, those acres used for recreation purposes only do not qualify for agricultural use."

The exception, he said, is land in the Conservation Reserve Program, which allows for no use other than recreation for the duration of the contract. He said that this land is still taxed agriculturally so long as it remains in the government program.

"You better be concerned about the bottom line...that asset value and not just production. What you should be trying to do is make an annual contribution to the new worth of your place," Bierschwale said.

USDA sets pork referendum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has scheduled a referendum among hog producers and importers to determine whether a national pork promotion and research program will continue.

The vote will be held Sept. 7-8 at county extension offices, J. Patrick Boyle, administrator of the department's Agricultural Marketing Service, announced Tuesday.

"All pork producers or persons importing hogs, pork or pork products between Nov. 1, 1986, and Sept. 6, 1988, will be entitled to vote in the referendum," Boyle said. "A simple majority (one vote more than half the number cast) will determine if the ... program will continue."

The 1985 farm law authorized the pork program, which is paid for by an assessment of one quarter of 1 percent of the market value of all hogs sold in the United States, and an equivalent amount on imported hogs, pork and pork products.

A final regulation setting up the program was issued by USDA on Sept. 5, 1986, and the assessments began that fall on Nov. 1. Congress stipulated that for the program to continue in effect a referendum must be held between 24 months and 30 months after the department issued the final regulation.

Irrigation systems that may work in your area - may not work in mine. This seems to be the general consensus to improving irrigation efficiency and controlling production costs. Techniques such as chemigation, using irrigation systems to apply herbicides, pesticides, nutrients and other chemicals, can be a tool to improve efficiency, increase yield and profit. But, while chemigation may work for one area, it may not work for another. However, experts believe there are a few tools which have consistently for all. Moisture sensors can help locate water penetration, guide irrigation applications and identify crop rooting depths and soil moisture content. When considering improvements to an irrigation system, experts warn producers to look at more than the cost of the equipment. Savings of water, energy and labor in conjunction with effectiveness and uniformity of irrigation must be considered to determine the correct system for your area.

Allred Oil Company, Inc. Celebrates Anniversary

On Thursday September 1, 1988, one of Hereford's oldest businessmen and businesses will be honored and recognized for their tenure by Phillips 66 dignitaries and locals alike in a grand celebration marking Allred Oil Company's 50th Anniversary.

And for honoree Jimmie Allred, the number 50 surely holds a great deal of magic and fond memories. They are memories of raising a family and of building a successful business in the oil industry which would later be handed down in the family. They are memories which are recalled and framed here for their significance 50 years later.

Allred was born on February 1, 1913 and reared as a true panhandle farmboy in Wildorado, Texas. Raised within the "work ethic" philosophy, he moved back to Wildorado to help on the family farm following his graduation from Hereford High School, but returned to Hereford to start a career which would eventually become a family legacy.

He added to his family heritage when he married Mary Hogg of Claude in 1937 and the legacy began when he founded the family business in 1938.

At the tender age of 25 he signed on as agent for Phillips 66, following three years as a "delivery boy" under the helm of Phillips 66 wholesaler T.E. Major. Later, in 1946, the agency began operating under the personal name of Allred Oil Co.

Allred's vision for his growing company was to target his gasoline marketing to traffic at every entry point in Hereford. By 1946, he already had three successful Phillips stations.

Two stations were located on U.S. 60 and U.S. 385 while the third stood on 3rd St. and Schley. Soon, Allred added two more stations which completed the circle of coverage for traffic thoroughfares north, south, east and west. Those included two full-service stations on the corners of Park Ave. and U.S. 385 and Park Ave. and U.S. 60.

In 1947, an employee of the company, R.C. (Carles) Anderson became a partner in the founding venture of Hereford Butane. Philgas was the first product pumped and sold by the subsidiary.

Three years later, the building currently housing Taylor and Son's Grocery at Park Ave. & U.S. 385 was constructed by Jimmie Allred, and in 1960 Allred added a truck stop and restaurant on West U.S. 60 in Hereford.

The company has progressed with a progressive town. Now, 50 years since that opening day, Allred Oil Co. is still alive and well. It's complexion may have changed somewhat to meet the challenges and competitiveness of today's market, but in many respects the company is like the one Jimmie Allred founded in 1938. And among all the changes, the one that seems to chisel the biggest smile across his face is the knowledge that even though he sold the business to his only son Lynton in 1972, the company is still carrying on the vision and the dream as a family run, family owned business.

ATTENTION, AREA FARMERS:

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is working in an opportunity to increase the profits of area farmers.

You can help us shape Hereford's future by simply writing a personal letter expressing your interest and capabilities to grow food corn for a major contractor. Your letter will be an important part of a promotional packet now being compiled by the Chamber of Commerce.

These letters will not represent any binding commitment on your part, but will hopefully prove this area's ability to support a new corn plant and mill. Your participation is a crucial element in our efforts to attract this particular industry.

Due to this company's impending decision, it is necessary that we have your letter at the Chamber office before September 1.

For your convenience, a sample letter appears below. We welcome your involvement and will be happy to answer any questions which you may have.

Hospital chapel refurbished

One year ago, St. Anthony Catholic Church members Judy Detten and Loretta Urbanczyk saw the need to refurbish the chapel at Deaf Smith General Hospital. The room on the first floor of the hospital used for the chapel had fallen into disrepair and was beginning to look more like a storage closet. The women enlisted the help of the Catholic Youth Organization and local citizens in an effort to create a peaceful, comforting setting available night and day to needy people. The project was completed this past week with the arrival of a memorial plaque listing contributors. In the left photo, Trina Morgan watches as Bridget Baker and Dana Zinser, from left, position the plaque in the re-wallpapered chapel. In the top photo, Baker, Zinser, and Morgan look through a Bible and a book of comforting words that can be found on the altar beneath the newly-created stained-glass window. A picture of Christ can be seen in the left portion of the photo; a small fig tree and three cushioned, wooden pews complete the chapel.

Book and author dinner scheduled

The Friends of the Library, Amarillo, will have their annual Book and Author Dinner on Thursday, Oct. 6, at 6 p.m., Amarillo Sheraton Hotel.

Featured speaker for the evening

Merry Mixers set lessons

Square dance lessons will begin Sept. 15 and will be sponsored by the Merry Mixer Square Dance Club. Freddie McKee of Amarillo will instruct.

The first three lessons will be free with a nominal charge collected for continued lessons. The lessons will be held once a week.

Anyone interested in learning to square dance may contact Joan and Benny Womble at 364-0862 or Ann and Ed Line at 364-3597.

Guns, omnipresent in Guatemala, decorate the national seal and every Guatemalan coin.

will be Ann Lee Harris, world-renowned San Francisco restaurateur and author of a biography about her husband, Jack A. Harris. Also honored will be authors who are residents or former residents of the 25 counties of the Texas Panhandle who have published a book since last year's Book and Author Dinner.

The organization is searching for names of any authors who have published a book since September 1987. An autograph party for all honorees will begin at 6 p.m. in the Atrium of the Sheraton; dinner will follow at 7:30 p.m. with a short business meeting and Mrs. Harris' address.

Mrs. Harris, who grew up in Amarillo and whose professional name is Ann Lee, is also known as an actress and theatrical producer. Her acting career began at Amarillo Little Theatre and included roles in Broadway productions, stage plays and television shows.

She has written a book entitled "Load The Wagon," the life story of her husband, an agribusiness leader of the Southwest. At the dinner she will share anecdotes relating to her early days in Amarillo, her experiences as an actress and her dedication in producing the book to honor a man she loved and admired.

Reservations, at a cost of $20 per person, must be made in advance. For more information, call (806)378-4275 or write Friends, Amarillo Public Library, P.O. Box 2171, Amarillo, Tx. 79189.

LAKE TAHOE TO A TEXAN
A recent summer vacation to Lake Tahoe proved to be a great experience as my husband and I discovered interesting aspects of Nevada and California life, ranging from gorgeous scenery to 24-hour live entertainment in casinos.

Located at an elevation of 6,229 feet on the western border of Nevada and the eastern border of California, Lake Tahoe measured 1,645 feet at its deepest point and averaged 989 feet. It contained enough water to cover the entire State of California 14½ inches deep. Termed the second largest alpine lake in North America, Lake Tahoe contained water so clear and pure that one could see to a depth of 150 feet and could drink it. The 72-mile drive around the lake afforded beautiful mountain scenery and the blueness of the lake's water. But the life around it was just as fascinating as gambling complemented the area's tourist dollar.

We stayed at South Lake Tahoe in the town of Stateline, our lodge was in California but a three-block walk led to the casinos of Nevada. Since gambling is not legalized in California, the multiple casinos were a good indication of when we were in Nevada. (Incidentally, Nevada residents quickly inform visitors that the second syllable of Nevada rhymes with 'bad', not 'ahhh' like the sound a doctor instructs you to make during a throat exam.)

While the people were nice and friendly, we did tire of being asked where we were from everytime we said anything. Feeling alone among non-Southwesterners, I felt a kinship with one Georgia native I heard talking in a soft, Southern accent!

The general atmosphere of the area was that of a lackadaisical, laid back, anything-goes California stereotype. We never saw or heard the word "gambling" out there; rather, the locals referred to the popular, 24-hour-a-day activity as "gaming." Casinos offered cheap buffets and cheaper drinks while such games as blackjack, baccarat, keno, and craps are available. Slot machines fed by nickels, dimes, quarters, and even dollars seized the interest of many and direct telephone lines to branch banks kept cash readily available.

If 'gaming' wasn't enough, star-studded shows were present. Celebrities ranging from Dean Martin and the Goldiggers, Kenny Rogers, Pia Isadora, and a magic/illusionist show could be seen, some beginning as late as 11:30 p.m. No one under 21 was allowed inside casinos, although children could attend some shows while being escorted in and out by security guards. For the young at heart who wanted to try Lady Luck, shuttles from the large casinos were available to transport the 'gamer' to the casino from anywhere in the area.

Delicatessens and sushi bars were prevalent. The connoisseur of Continental Cuisine could partake of the sushi (raw fish) beginning at $10.95 while such delicacies as squid ink pasta, smoked salmon at $11 per pound, and chicken liver pate could be purchased in the delis.

Cutesy signs could be found at different locations. "We be cleaning and stuff," was posted at one deli. Continuing on a street marked 'Dead End' would lead the driver to another sign saying "I told You So."

Wedding chapels offered a one-stop wedding service where anything from bridal gowns to an organist could be rented. Episcopal and Presbyterian churches were the most predominate churches found in the area although the Jewish Star of David could be found in some businesses.

Oriental restaurants, ice cream shops and fine chocolate shops dotted the landscape and it was the first time we'd heard of Basque cooking, which alludes to a people from an area in Northern Spain and southwestern France. Prices in the grocery stores were approximately the same or higher than Hereford's stores and liquor of all kinds were accessible in all of them. I was aghast to find that avocados were priced at $1.29 each; Hereford residents could buy them here at 8 for $1 or even 10 for $1 not too long ago.

Specialty shops stuffed with souvenirs were everywhere and furs and leathers were featured in one such store. Designer catfants were discounted from $198 and fur coats could be picked up for 'only' a few thousand dollars.

Outdoor entertainment took various forms all around-and-in-Lake Tahoe. Ferrys or small boats took the tourist all over the lake and windsurfing was offered. A hydraulic wench attached to one commercial boat made parasailing available to the adventuresome.

For a price of $40, parasailing offered the tourist eight minutes of being suspended 300 feet up in the air following a 55 minute boat ride. (Observers could go along for $10 each).

Home to phenomenal snow skiing in the winter with such famous areas as Squaw Valley nearby, Lake Tahoe also offered a tram which the rider could take a four-and-a-half minute ride to the top of a mountain for $9 and view the lake. For the hiker, multiple trails ranging in length from a few feet to five miles one way were featured. We finally learned that the little green metal boxes on some of the pine trees were placed there to control the dreaded Mediterranean Fruit Flies.

One of the most impressive aspects of Lake Tahoe was the cleanliness of the town and civic attempts to keep it that way. No litter was ever present while we were there, and petunias and pansies of various colors were planted alongside the streets and in planter boxes.

The only disappointment came in the form of their Chamber of Commerce. One bored-looking woman was there who knew nothing about the area. Several pamphlets were present but she didn't care whether we got information. It made us appreciate the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and their professionalism.

After visiting the U.S. Forestry Service to acquire information about hiking trails, my husband stopped by Lake Tahoe's U.S. Soil Conservation Service. He was astonished to find that they had rock and roll music on so loud that they had to turn the volume down in order to deal with him.

We flew home from Reno's airport which was located 50 miles from Lake Tahoe. The airport featured an elderly man playing such peppy tunes as 'New York, New York' on his accordion. This wandering minstrel was barely heard above the din of the slot machines.

All in all, Lake Tahoe offered breathtaking beauty along with an active nightlife. It offered a great respite to us as it is a truly unique vacation spot.

WTSU to sponsor outdoor music concert

Billy Crockett, one of Christian music's guitarists and songwriters, will perform Friday, Sept. 9 at the Palo Duro Amphitheatre. The 7:30 p.m. program is co-sponsored by the West Texas State University Student Activities Council and the WTSU Bible Chairs.

Crockett combines Latin/rock/jazz music with a contemporary Christian message. During an interview with Christian Musician magazine editor Thom Granger, Crockett explained, "The writing is fairly introspective. It attempts to say that a person's value comes from the love of God in Christ."

Although recognized as an inspirational songwriter, Crockett is best known for his talents on the electric and acoustic guitar. He is a studio guitarist in Nashville, hosts his own 32-part cable series entitled "Guitar Workshop" and serves as a clinician for Yamaha Acoustic Guitars.

Crockett turned to religious music full-time after touring Mexico and South America with Latin star Jose Luis Rodriguez and quickly found himself on the contemporary Christian charts. His DaySpring Records album "Carrier" was one of the surprise hits of 1985.

Most recently, Crockett has appeared on the bill with Christian artist Sandi Patti.

The Billy Crockett Outdoor Christian Music Concert is free to WT and Amarillo College students. General admission tickets are $2 and may be purchased at the Activities Center on the WT campus. For more information call 656-2328.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLIE BELL

Bells observe 40th wedding anniversary

A special family dinner at Hereford Country Club Tuesday night commemorated the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Bell of 132 N. Texas.

Charlie Bell married Margaret Lair of Canyon on Aug. 24, 1948 in First Methodist Church of Canyon. They resided in Cisco where he was a band director prior to moving to Hereford in 1956, where he became band director of Hereford Schools. In 1959 he went into insurance sales; she retired from the Hereford Public Schools five years ago.

Mr. Bell is currently serving as chairman of the administrative board of First United Methodist Church and is a member of the Lions Club and the Shriners. Mrs. Bell, also active in FUMC activities, is Worthy Matron of the Order of the Eastern Star, is a member of Pilot Club, Daughters of the American Revolution, Delta Kappa Gamma, and United Way.

The couple belong to First United Methodist Church and are the parents of four children: Becky Williams of Canyon, Sara Belknap of Austin, Kathi Lee of Canyon, and David Bell of Austin. The Bells also have six grandchildren.

Club plans cake decorating class beginning Sept. 20

Cake decorating classes for beginners will begin Tuesday, Sept. 20 at 7 p.m. in the Community Center Ballroom.

The class will be held over a total of four class sessions. In addition to the Sept. 20 session, the classes will meet Sept. 27, Oct. 4, and Oct. 11. Teaching the class will be members of the Sweet and Fancy Cake Decorating Club.

Class participants should bring a cake that has not been iced to the first class session. The cake may be of any size, such as one layer or multiple layers. For a list of additional items needed, or for more information, call Carol Kelley at 364-7260. Icing recipes and problems with cake recipes, (such as pans, ovens, and equipment) will be discussed. Overall goal of the class is to make a cake that looks and tastes good.

Making the cake look better will be discussed in the second class session as work on roses and other icing flowers will commence. Borders, leaves, and writing will be featured on the third class session; putting the newly-learned skills together by

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: Remember the letter from the woman in Bristol, Conn., who complained that her husband, a private sanitation contractor, regularly picks up useful items that stores have discarded to make room for new merchandise? She said almost every month he brought home a big box of shoes from the Thom McAn stores. Each shoe had been slit up the side so it couldn't be resold.

I contacted Thom McAn about this rash policy and was told that they slash and throw away shoes only when a single shoe from the pair is missing or the pair is mismatched. I was assured that there would be no more slashing and that shoes would be given to charities.

That letter sent shock waves around the country. Apparently there is a great deal of this sort of thing going on. Read on:

Fremont, Neb.: I used to work for Wal-Mart and it made me sick the way they threw out clothing that had the slightest defect. They cut shirts and pants and sweaters down the middle and put them in the trash. I asked why they didn't give these items to the needy. The answer was, "Because they would come to expect it." I then asked why they didn't give the garments to us employees. They said, "Anyone taking merchandise from the store will be fired." I hope that woman's letter helps put an end to this nuttiness.

Palmer, Ark.: When I worked in Alaska, Kinney stores up there slashed not only the shoes they couldn't sell but ladies' purses as well. I tried to get the store to stop this but was told to mind my own business.

Sierra Vista, Ariz.: That wasteful system of "merchandise disposal" described by the woman in Connecticut goes on here, too. It's obscene!

No City, Please: You want to talk senseless waste? The food thrown out by the military is enough to make a grown man cry. When I offered some sensible suggestions on how to get that food to the homeless I was told to keep my trap shut or I'd be in big trouble.

From West Palm Beach, Fla.: Just because shoes are mismatched is no reason to cut them up and throw them out. Single shoes are useful to people who have major foot surgery. Any foot doctor knows how to get in touch with groups that coordinate distribution of single shoes. (I'm an 11 left and a 13 right.)

Newark, N.J.: Apparently slashing shoes that don't sell is a common practice. Last winter I was walking behind a mall and picked up dozens of pairs of shoes that had small cuts in them. No, it wasn't Thom McAn. It was Shoe-Town.

Modesto, Calif.: Some bookstores here tear off covers of perfectly good books and they are then tossed in the trash. When I asked about donating the books to our rummage sale, I was told, "It's too much trouble."

Louisville, Ky.: I worked in a good shoe store in this city and saw them slash shoes left and right and toss them out. When I asked why they weren't given to the poor I was told, "Foot Disease." (This answer was an insult to my intelligence.)

DEAR READERS: The only plausible explanation for slashing merchandise came from Columbus, Neb.

A woman wrote: "Retailers must protect themselves against people who get merchandise through charitable organizations and take it back to the store for credit. Most folks are decent but there are a lot of crooks out there."

Well, readers, if this is true there's got to be a better way. We invite the stores named to respond. We'll print their statements.

Octoberfest for older adults scheduled

Mature adults 55 and over will be welcomed at the Texas 4-H Center on Lake Brownwood for the 8th Annual Octoberfest set during September and October.

Sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, five consecutive weeks are offered from which men and women alike may choose:

Octoberfest I, September 27-30; Octoberfest II, October 4-7; Octoberfest III, October 11-14; Octoberfest IV, October 18-21; and Octoberfest V, October 25-28.

Featured educational programs and activities offer a wide variety of topics to fulfill highest expectations of all who attend. Topics include exploring insurance options, cooking demonstrations, new tax laws, floriculture, and more. Energizing and relaxing recreational opportunities will stimulate enthusiasm while all will welcome great fellowship and new friends.

Learning Centers will offer "hands-on" experience in a variety of areas such as oil painting, wind chime making, needlecrafts, antique restoration, country crafts, collectibles, and more.

Boat rides, guided nature tours, and fishing on Lake Brownwood add popularity to your stay. Swimming in the olympic-sized pool, lighted tennis courts, horseshoes, billiards, volleyball, shuffleboard, dominoes, and card and table games round out the event.

A special theme of "Come On Board" will provide a festive atmosphere to the newly expanded facilities.

Each weekly event is limited to the first 105 participants at the nominal cost of $89 per person. Get away and learn to make the most of the best years of your life. Call your County Extension Office today at 364-3573.

Historic lunches set

April 1989 will feature women's luncheons each Tuesday and Thursday at the E.B. Black Historical House. Reservations are still being taken at Deaf Smith County Museum, according to Juanita Koetting, executive director of the museum.

The noon meal will be served to groups of at least 20 and not more than 32. Cost per plate for the gourmet meal is $7. Reservations may be made by calling the museum at 364-4338.

Lifestyles Policies

The Hereford Brand welcomes new articles of interest from local residents, groups and organizations. Because this is a daily publication, certain guidelines should be followed when submitting news items.

-The Brand reserves the right to edit any and all copy submitted to the Lifestyles department.

-Photos of club officers, donation presentations, etc., can be made at The Brand office, preferably after 2 p.m. Appointments for such photos must be made at least 24 hours in advance.

-Lifestyles reporters do not take photos for engagements, weddings, anniversaries or showers.

-On-location photos can be made, on approval, providing The Brand has at least TWO DAYS notice.

-No polaroid pictures are acceptable under any circumstances.

-New items or changes for the Lifestyles calendar of events must be submitted one week BEFORE the Wednesday or Sunday publications.

-General news items for the Lifestyles section must be submitted by 1 p.m. the day before publication and by noon on Friday for Sunday's publication.

-The Brand has forms available upon request in preparing engagement announcements and wedding stories. Neither will be taken by phone.

-Engagements should be announced six weeks BEFORE the wedding to ensure publication. Couples submitting engagement announcements after that deadline must choose to have either the engagement or the wedding photo published. Photos should be in black and white. A color photo may be used if the contrast is suitable for reproduction.

-Wedding and anniversary writeups must be submitted at least five days prior to the ceremony. Wedding notices submitted late will be edited considerably.

-Birth announcements are obtained from Deaf Smith General Hospital. Information on local babies born elsewhere, or who have grandparents in Hereford, must be reported to The Brand within two weeks.

-Club reports must be submitted within THREE DAYS, of the meeting or will be subject to considerable editing or omission.

-Brief items of interest about former residents or children of Hereford residents are welcome when they concern degrees earned, academic honors, college news, career promotions, etc.

-Birthday celebrations will only be written for those Hereford residents who are 80 years old and up. All other birthday wishes, including Quinceaneras, may be submitted to the advertising department.

-Photos may be picked up from The Brand after 3 p.m. of the publication date. Published photos taken by Brand staffers may be purchased for $1. Reprints are available at $3.50 for 5x7 photos and at $5.00 for 8x10 prints.

-Obituary information, with or without accompanying photo, must be submitted to the office by 11 a.m. for that day's publication.

To submit an article or obtain more information, contact Sandy Stagner, or Gaye Reily at 364-2030 from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. After 5 p.m., stories may be placed in the night drop located at the front door of the office. We take no responsibility for articles left in the night drop which may be lost.

YOUR EYES

WHEN A YOUNG CHILD NEEDS GLASSES

Sometimes a young child's examination may take longer than an adult's. This extra time allows the optometrist to get to know the child, cater to his or her shorter attention span and doublecheck marginal responses.

If glasses are indicated, the child should be very involved in the selection process. Parents should not interfere, but should respect their child's taste, just as the optometrist does. Be patient. If choosing a frame takes considerable time, it is well-spent. Unless your child likes the selected frame, he or she will not wear the glasses.

There is a wide variety of frames available -- in various colors and shapes, some imitating adult styles -- with spring hinges or heavy-duty eyepieces that are durable enough to survive a young child's roughhousing. Almost all prescriptions can be ground in the new, thinner lenses. Truth is, glasses are IN -- more popular than ever with youngsters. There's something just right for any child who needs glasses to see better.

Merrills to celebrate wedding anniversary

Joe "Red" Merrill and Naomi Anderson Merrill of 411 East Third Street will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary today, Sunday, at 2 p.m. in Ward Parlor of First United Methodist Church.

The couple exchanged vows in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Merrill on Aug. 28, 1948. Rev. Don Davidson officiated and Ada Vaughn and Bob Brooks were witnesses.

While living in the Hereford area throughout their marriage, the couple reared three children: Linda Gardner of Amarillo, Yvonne Horton of Hereford, and Bob Merrill of Austin. They also have seven grandchildren. Mr. Merrill is employed by Deaf Smith County while Mrs. Merrill is now a housewife after working 19 years for Hereford Medical and Surgical Clinic.

Out-of-town relatives expected to attend include Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Self, Bradford Anderton, David Self, Leon Self, Leroy Self, Joe Self, Clovis Henderson, Bill Bollinger, James Welch, Jim Howard and Ms. Audra Howard.

Friends of the couple are invited to attend the reception and it is requested that no gifts be brought.

Rare aye-ayes, the strangest of Madagascar's lemurs, are killed by some villagers who fear their skeletal middle finger as a harbinger of death, while in other areas it is taboo to harm them.

MR. AND MRS. WOODROW JONES

Dimmitt residents to celebrate anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Jones of Dimmitt will be honored on their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception Sunday, Sept. 11 at Lee Street Baptist Church in Dimmitt from 2-4 p.m. The event is being hosted by the couple's children: Jimmy Lee and Lanona Jones of Carthage; Vic and Betty Sue Steward of Mesa, Ariz.; Lillie Faye Smith of Dimmitt; Richard and Vera Louise Berryman of Hereford, Cecil Woody and Sharon Jones of Odessa.

The former Vera Mae Rhodes married Woodrow Wilson Jones on Sept. 11, 1938 at the First Baptist Church of Anson. The couple resided in Anson prior to moving to Dimmitt in 1959.

Mr. Jones retired from the Dimmitt School System after retiring from farming. Mrs. Jones is a housewife and Avon representative. The couple are members of Lee Street Baptist Church. They have 14 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

All friends and relatives are cordially invited to attend the golden wedding anniversary observance.

KACV on air Monday

Just in time for the debut of 11 new series, KACV-TV in Amarillo will be going on the air this week. KACV-TV is the Amarillo College television station, and will be originating several hours of programming each week as well as the complete line-up of the Public Broadcasting System.

For non-cable viewers, KACV-TV will be on Channel 2. For cable subscribers, KACV-TV will be on Channel 5, replacing WTVS-TV in Detroit.

The new series will include: —CE NEWS MAGAZINE, which uses a "60 Minutes"-type format. One big difference: It is reported by youngsters aged 8-14. The series will include profiles of teenagers on Death Row and interviews with makers of war toys.

--The AMERICAN EXPERIENCE will examine diverse facts from America's past with storytelling about the experience by people who recorded their original thoughts and feelings.

--A variety of election specials including Jim Lehrer, Robert MacNeil, Bill Moyers, and a contribution by satirist Mark Russell.

—THE MIND, a variety of programs on the workings of the mind. It's a sequel to the award-winning series, "The Brain."

—BILL MOYERS' WORLD OF IDEAS, a nightly series throughout the presidential campaigns.

—Series about our neighbors, Canada and Mexico, and other countries throughout the world.

—LIFE MATTERS, a 13-part medical series about hope and living life despite disability and chronic illness.

KACV-TV will also offer a new season of "Masterpiece Theatre," which will begin its 18th season with "A Perfect Spy," based on John Le Carre's novel; "Great Performances," which begins its year with Eric Idle of Monty Python starring in the riotous production of "The Mikado"; "Wonderworks"; and children's favorites like "Sesame Street," which begins its 20th year,

"Square One TV," "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood," and "3-2-1 Contact."

The new season's specials will include "First Things First," part of the outreach campaign of Project Literacy U.S.; "The Explorers: A Century of Discovery"; "JFK: Where Were You in '63"; "Munich — The Peace of Paper"; and several others, as well as encore presentations of past specials.

KACV-TV is the 319th PBS member, and will serve about 329,000 people in a 74-mile radius of Amarillo. That is the largest unserved population area in the United States without public television. The station will broadcast 16 to 18 hours of programming daily beginning Monday.

CHANNEL 2 CAN AMAZE.

KACV-TV's programming is spectacular.

Examine the intricacies of our universe with programs like Nova and Nature. And you'll be astonished how much your kids are learning from Sesame Street and Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood. Get the inside track on what's new from Wall Street Week, Nightly Business Report and The MacNeil/Lehrer Newshour. And for pure entertainment try Mystery! and American Playhouse.

Turn to Channel 2 for TV worth watching. Only on KACV-TV — public television for the Panhandle.

PBS. It's here.

Ceiling Fans Throughout Help Conserve Energy

TRADITION AND COMFORT BLEND IN A LUXURY HOME

© By W. D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

The first floor of this plan includes palatial rooms in every instance and they are all separate rooms affording privacy in all aspects. There is a study and a living room, each with a bay window. The study includes a fireplace and book shelves. Bay windows are also shown in the dining room and breakfast room. Traffic flow to each is easy from the centrally located kitchen. The kitchen includes an island cabinet, pantry and built-in appliances. A pass through is shown from the kitchen to the sizable breakfast room.

A full tub bath with a separate powder room and a walk-in pantry are centrally located, and the basement stair is located under the L-shape open rail and foyer stair. The spacious sunken family room is accessible only from the double garage or the breakfast room but traffic also flows easily to the wide sun deck through the sun porch or the center of the breakfast bay. The second floor is accessible from the family room and the laundry is located in an access hall in this wing.

There are four large bedrooms and a play room located on the second floor. The master bedroom suite extends the full depth of the plan and includes a garden bath with tray ceiling, luxury tub recessed in a bay, and separate shower and commode areas. Closet space throughout the second floor is exceptional and tray ceilings are shown for the upper foyer and the master bedroom. There are two additional baths, both accessible from the hall and one also accessible from another bedroom.

The exterior is constructed of stucco, enriched by corner quoins, bay windows and combination hip and gable roof.

The plan is number 3707. It includes 3,734 square feet of heated area, the play room adding another 334 square feet. All W.D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. This is a computer plan. Some changes may be made from the plan stored in the CADD memory at less cost to you. Direct inquiries about CADD plan changes to the following address or for further information write, W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

FROM BALLS TO BALLOTS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The word "ballot" came into the English language more than 200 years before the birth of the United States.

According to "Webster's 9th New Collegiate Dictionary," ballot was first used in 1549. "Ballotta" is the Italian word for a small ball used in secret voting. The practice of using little balls for secret voting goes back to ancient Greece where jurors voted with different balls for either acquittal or condemnation.

Today, a ballot is a sheet of paper used to cast a secret vote. The word also applies to the whole system of secret voting, even when machines are used.

Lack of time is the main reason people don't take part in aerobic dance, says the Reebok Aerobic Information Bureau. An International Dance-Exercise Association survey of 1,000 adults found that of those who didn't participate in aerobic dance, 29 percent blamed time restraints.

GALLSTONE DISEASE

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Nearly 1 million new cases of gallstone disease were diagnosed in 1987, making it one of the more common problems in clinical medicine, according to Dr. Gerald Salen.

Salen, professor of medicine at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, says one in 10 Americans, totaling close to 25 million, suffers from gallbladder disorders.

"About half of the cases diagnosed were asymptomatic and may remain untreated," he said.

SECURITY FEDERAL REFUSES TO PLAY BY THE RULES

Security Federal Savings & Loan has only one simple game plan: giving you the best checking account in town. Without a bunch of rules and restrictions.

For instance, there's no per-check charge. Ever.

If you keep just $200 in your Security Checking Account, or you're a senior citizen, you can avoid paying the low $4.00 monthly service charge.

Every dollar you deposit earns interest.

Plus, you can get a free Security PULSE 24-hour ATM card that works in thousands of machines nationwide — with no transaction fee.

That's it, clear and simple. No complicated rules, restrictions or run-arounds. The only thing that's hard to understand is why anyone would want a checking account from anywhere else.

Security Checking. Simply the best.

Problem with the house? Here's the answer

ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We have an old-fashioned toilet with a metal float ball that rises and falls when the toilet is flushed, empties and fills. After our toilet is flushed, the bowl doesn't flush properly, as though not enough water is coming into the tank. What can I do to see that enough water goes into the tank?

A. — Your guess probably is correct. Not enough water is going into the tank after the flushing. That means the tank ball or float is not doing its work properly. It is shutting off the flow of water into the tank too quickly. To get more water into the tank, bend the float rod upward. Do this with both hands and work gently so you do not throw the mechanism out of kilter. By bending the float rod upward, the float will sit higher in the water and delay shutting off the valve that stops the flow of water into the tank. The water should fill the tank and stop rising about three-quarters of an inch before it reaches the top of the overflow tube. Of course, there can be other reasons why not enough water is entering the tank, but this is the most common one. Should you not get good results, consider installing one of the modern flushing devices. Before you do that, make sure the float ball itself is not the problem. If more than half of it sits in the water, it may be leaking and need replacing.

Q. — Our house has an unfinished attic which I plan to finish soon. I have looked at some finished attics and find all of them have ceilings. Would it not be possible to leave everything wide open, just installing insulation between the rafters? It seems this would make the entire space look a lot larger and save a lot of work. But there must be a reason why everybody puts up a ceiling. Can you tell me?

A. — Everything in the attic can be controlled better if there is a ceiling. Without a ceiling, you will need all sorts of special measures to keep the attic warm in cold weather and cool in hot weather. Also, if you plan on putting in a couple of bedrooms, which most people do, there will be a distinct loss of privacy if neither room has a ceiling.

Q. — Our garage has an automatic opener, the kind that operates by pushing a transmitter while you are in the car. Next to the regular door is a second much smaller door, yet it is quite heavy. It is for getting in the basement when you are on foot. This door has begun to warp a tiny bit on the side of the hinges. It doesn't interfere much with the opening and closing of the door, but it appears to be a future troublemaker. What do you suggest?

A. — You may have caught it just in time. Quickly install a third hinge on the door midway between the two others. This should prevent any future warpage. It also will make the door operate more smoothly.

Q. — In our previous house, we had vinyl tile on the floor in two of the bedrooms. I had to replace a couple of them at one time and had very little trouble. In this house, we have sheet vinyl rather than resilient floor tile. A damaged area has developed. Is there any special way to repair this?

A. — The principle is much the same as with the tile, except that you must cut out the damaged portion and replace it. The big difference is that when you replaced a tile, you had only to use the same kind of tile. With the sheet vinyl, you have to make as close to a perfect match as you can to keep the patch from standing out. After you have cut out the portion of flooring and scraped off any remaining adhesive, fit the new piece into the opening to be sure it fits before you apply any adhesive. Once the patch is in place, weigh it down with some books until the adhesive has had time to dry.

Stain, hangers new products

THE PRODUCT — An exterior stain that combines the benefits of an oil and an acrylic stain in one formula.

Manufacturer's claim — That this stain offers the penetration and control of an oil stain with the durability and protection of an acrylic stain ... that the product was given thorough tests at the South Texas Tropical Testing Service at Brownsville, Texas ... that it is waterproof, maintains its color, resists ruboff, chalking and fading and protects wood against mold, mildew and soot ... that it is produced in seven solid colors and seven semi-transparent colors ... and that it is available in one-gallon cans designed to cover 100 to 300 square feet.

THE PRODUCT — A dial-adjust sliding door hanger.

Manufacturer's claim — That this product requires no tools for door adjustment ... that the adjustment is made from outside the door, facilitating installation and reducing the time of adjustments ... that it permits door to be adjusted with the fingers by turning the hanger dial clockwise to lower the door or counterclockwise to raise it ... that, after each adjustment, the weight of the door locks it in place ... and that it can be used on doors 3/4ths of an inch thick or 1 3/4ths of an inch thick weighing up to 60 pounds each.

THE PRODUCT — An insulated glass skylight that can be used as a cathedral ceiling or as an attic roof window.

Manufacturer's claim — That the unit can be opened all the way for full ventilation or just an inch or so for weatherproof protection ... that its features include copper, leakproof flashing, insulated glass, welded external frame and a two-part gasket system of thermo-plastic rubber that makes the skylight tight even under the severest weather conditions ... that its opening mechanism has a stainless steel chain that imparts added strength and operating ease ... and that it has been engineered with a durable powder-coated polyester finish.

(The hot melt adhesives are manufactured by Emhart Home Products Division, P. O. Box 3716, Reading, PA 19605; the exterior stain by Thompson's, 825 Crossover Lane, Memphis TN 38117; the door hanger by Stanley Works, 195 Lake St., New Britain, CT, 06050; and the skylight by Ventarama Skylight Corp., 140 Cantigue Rock Rd., Hicksville, NY 11801.)

(Do-it-yourselfers will find much helpful information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," which can be obtained by sending $2 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, NJ 07666.)

Avoid consumer problems with mail-order shopping

Shopping by mail can be the ultimate in consumer convenience—or in frustration, if things go wrong. Last year Americans spent $43 billion on products ordered by mail. Most mail-order shoppers must be satisfied, since mail-order sales have been on the increase for years, and rose over 11 percent between 1986 and 1987 alone. However, problems with mail orders also top the list of consumer complaints made to Better Business Bureaus throughout the nation. Common problems include overstated claims, poor quality merchandise, failure to deliver, delayed delivery, failure to provide refunds for undeliverable goods, failure to answer letters of complaint and outright fraud. According to Bonnie Piernot, a consumer economics specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, buyers can take some steps to avoid mail-order problems. "Ordering from catalogs or companies that are well-known or have a track record in the mail-order business will generally increase your chances of being satisfied," she said. "The reputation of the company is important because advertisements for mail order goods in newspapers or on television are not screened and the claims may be exaggerated or untrue," said Piernot. She advises consumers to keep a copy of the order and the advertisement being answered and a note of when and where it was sent. "Don't send cash with an order. You need a cancelled check or credit card statement to prove that the order was received by the seller," she said. "Consumers have to do their part too. Before ordering clothing, for example, check the company's return or exchange policy. If you have difficulty making decisions about size and color without seeing the item, you should select a mail-order firm with a liberal exchange policy. "Also be sure to give necessary information. Mail order companies complain that many problems are caused by consumers failing to give complete or correct addresses," said the specialist.

With the Christmas catalog shopping season approaching, Piernot said consumers should know the Federal Trade Commission regulations regarding mail order: -Goods must be shipped within 30 days of receiving the order or within the time stated in the advertising. -Companies that can't deliver within this time period must offer the consumer the option of a refund or an additional waiting period. -Following the second waiting period, the order is automatically cancelled and the money refunded unless the customer notifies the company of willingness to wait even longer. -A mail-order company must adjust a refund to a credit account within one billing cycle. -Cash, checks or money orders sent with purchase orders must be refunded within seven business days of a legitimate request to do so. -Consumers don't have to accept refunds in the form of credit for additional company merchandise. Services not covered by these regulations include photofinishing, magazine subscriptions, book sets, seeds and growing plants, and c.o.d. orders. Piernot said that when you have a complaint about mail-order service or merchandise, contact the company first. If you don't get a response, write to the Better Business Bureau in the city where the mail-order company is located. You may also wish to complain to the state Attorney General's office. The Direct Mail/Marketing Association, Inc. is a trade association that provides a free service to help consumers with mail-order complaints. Write to them at Mail-Order Action Line, Direct Mail/Marketing Association, 6 East 43rd Street, New York, NY 10017.

Red Cross Update

Special thanks to all volunteers that helped clean the clothing room at the office this past week. There is a lot of clothing available to needy families, thanks to the many donations this summer. Those needing clothing are asked to call the office of come by. We have some clothing and shoes left at the Pool during swimming classes. Come by the office to check out the lost-and-found sack. The Uniformed Volunteers will meet for their regular luncheon meeting Sept. 8, noon, at the Red Cross office. Volunteers are needed to help with the physical therapy program at Westgate Nursing Home. This service takes about one hour each week.

Special thanks to Mary Denton and Leta Eubanks for their work at Westgate Nursing Home this summer. The Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross is a United Way Agency.

Between the Covers

By REBECCA WALLS
One of the most delightfully interesting books you will find this week is Kirk Douglas: The Ragman's Son. This autobiography is told in Kirk's own words, making it an honest, frank and often very tender look at the son of the Ragman. Born Issur Danielovitch Demsky, the son of an illiterate immigrant Russian Jew who make a living as a rag man, Kirk reveals the childhood of brutal poverty. With profound insight and determination Kirk leaves that childhood to succeed on his own terms. Taking all the money he had saved, which was $163 Kirk and his friend Pete started for college. Hitchhiking and walking the 100 miles to St. Laurence University they arrived late, smelling of horse manure from the last ride they were given. Dean Hewitt asked him if he wanted to be a "college man" and asked how much money he had; when Kirk said $163, the Dean looked at him for a long time and replied in a gruff voice, "All right. We'll take a chance on you. We'll work out a college loan." By supporting himself as a waiter, steel mill worker, and selling haberdashery, Kirk Douglas struggled to become an actor. Kirk tells how his father could hypnotize people with his "dramatic storytelling" a trait I found passed to the son in this captivating autobiography. Tom Clancy's The Cardinal of the Kremlin is also available this week. Colonel Mikhail Filitov of the Soviet Union, an old line-warrior, is not trusted by the army's new inner circle of technocrats nor by CIA analyst Jack Ryan, and yet Filitov, code-named cardinal, is America's highest agent in the Kremlin. Ryan and Filitov have been given the assignment of assessing the Soviet's capabilities in the race for the Star Wars missile defense system. Each man must use their craft to the fullest in order to arrive at the truth. As Kilitov uncovers the truth he is about to be exposed to KGB, and it becomes Ryan's job to rescue him. The rescue-mission could mean the difference between war and peace and life and death for them both if Ryan succeeds. Shining Through by Susan Isaacs is the story of a young woman named Linda Voss, who falls in love with her boss, John Berringer. Even though she is a realist and knows that the handsome Berringer will probably never become romantically involved with her, four years later she becomes Mrs. John Berringer. The marriage isn't anything like Linda had dreamed and soon John's faithlessness leaves Linda feeling betrayed and alone. As the war develops Linda becomes the master of her own fate when she enters the war effort as a spy. Entering the heart of Nazi terror Linda carries out one of the war's most dangerous missions. India Fan by Victoria Holt is the story of Drusilla Delany, the daughter of the local vicar. As a small child Drusilla becomes bound to the wealthy Framling family, and through them discovers that she is the heir to an extraordinary bejeweled fan made of peacock feathers. The fan is priceless, dazzlingly beautiful, and bears a curse of ill fortune and death to all who possess it. Educated in France, Drusilla grows into a practical young woman, but is still controlled by the Framlings until a brutal murder changes her future forever.

Fall style show set
