EDSC ends era with plan's approval

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

An era of sorts ended at noon Thursday in the basement of the Deaf Smith County Library in Hereford.

Years of fear for some area residents, hope for others, finally became a roadmap of promise for the future all who choose to follow.

Seven months of work by over 300 residents to develop a Strategic Plan for Economic Development ended with its adoption by the Economic Development Strategy Council.

The council was formed as a supplement to the Waste Deposit Impact Committee, which watched over the Department of Energy's work to determine if a nine-acre site in northern Deaf Smith County was suitable for the eternal burial of high-level nuclear waste.

That ended last December, when Congress passed the Nuclear Waste Policy Amendments Act of 1987. Deaf Smith County was no longer a candidate for nuclear garbage. The ones in fear of the waste celebrated. The ones hoping for good from the project were sad.

Instead of worrying about its feelings, the Waste Deposit Impact Committee quickly changed gears. It looked for the best-possible solution, and became the strategy council.

Through dozens of meetings, two surveys, data that took up reams of paper, the council came up with a plan that should boost Hereford for the next 10 years or more.

"This is well done and well presented," said council chairman Troy Don Moore. "I hope a lot of people study it because it has a lot of good information."

The information includes a view of Hereford's past, present and future by Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner, executive director of the WDIC/EDSC; raw data about Hereford and the county compiled by Dr. Steve Murdock, director of rural sociology at Texas A&M University; surveys directed by Murdock about Hereford's people, their thoughts and their needs; a poll of the business community compiled by Dianne Pierson; and a study of the available water supply and future water forecasts.

Most importantly, it has specific goals derived by the community from those meetings, surveys, databases and personal input from residents and WDIC/EDSC staff. It has specific tasks to follow to reach the economic development goals and to improve the quality of life. Both, if the plan is followed, will still focus around a rural lifestyle.

Economic development ventures will focus on industries related to the county's main industry — agriculture. Deaf Smith County ranks first in Texas in cattle and agriculture, and would like to seek compatible industry.

But other industry will be sought in an attempt to diversify. That industry must be compatible not only with the lifestyle but should never be seen as a possible harm to soil, water or air quality.

Community development — enhancing our quality of life — will focus on improving relations between Anglos and Hispanics, being good stewards of our resources, provide more entertainment, and do something to keep young people in Hereford when they become career-oriented adults.

All of these plans, goals and ideas are in place. What is the next step in the next era?

"You have to find a quality director to lead the way," Eichner said. "The Economic Development Council and the Chamber of Commerce must reach agreement on their roles and responsibilities and work toward common goals."

But this isn't the first plan of its type. Eichner has pointed repeatedly to the Goals for Progress, or Go-Pro, a comprehensive plan compiled by the community in the mid-1970's. Many of the ideas included in Go-Pro can be seen in the new Strategic Plan.

"One of the problems was that the community, after putting a lot of time and effort to develop an excellent plan, didn't do much with it," Eichner said earlier. "This is a doable plan."

"The community must rally behind this plan and provide the additional support necessary to make this work," Eichner said Thursday. In March, Eichner was more succinct. "We can't sit back and pat ourselves on the back, then let it sit on the shelf. We have to follow through."

Eichner still admits he was worried that the community wouldn't come together to develop the plan. He said he was able to sit back, as a newcomer who had spent only a year in Hereford, and see a town deeply split over the nuclear waste issue.

"But it was most gratifying to see the way the community got together and got behind this work," Eichner said. "This is the community's plan. 90-95 percent of the ideas are reflections from the community, and that's gratifying."

"It's really a relief that we were able to get through this. We are making a dramatic transition from being divided to 'don't know' to coming together."

Eichner won't be here to enjoy any possible fruits of his labor. He has already moved to Washington, D.C. to begin a new job, and has been commuting between the nation's capitol and Hereford for the last month.

"For people that didn't know Phil Niedzielski-Eichner, well, it was their loss," Moore said. "He has gone through a great deal of strife, and had to take a lot of strikes and hits that he did not deserve."

"People need to know that Phil was on our team 100 percent: he was for Hereford, Texas, and Deaf Smith County. He uprooted his family and brought them in to a totally different area.

"He brought in a lot of professionalism to the community. It was there, it existed. We are all better off for being subjected to that."

"We will miss you, and the community will miss you. We just don't know how much we will miss you."

Eichner praised his staff, including assistant director Dianne Pierson and office manager Peggie Fox. Eichner said the hours the pair worked were long "and not necessarily to their best benefit but they wanted to see this thing through. They are to be commended for their commitment."

And Eichner in ways regrets leaving Hereford.

"I have developed a fondness for the community that is unusual for someone who has only lived here 1½ years. I fell in love with the countryside and the rural atmosphere. I am happy I was able to have been associated with the community."

Dukakis courts voters, Bush courts contenders

By ROBERT GREENE
Associated Press Writer

Michael Dukakis courted blue-collar voters and Jesse Jackson supporters in a state that Jackson won during the primary season, and Vice President George Bush made another push for his child care plan while completing round one in his search for a running mate.

Dukakis' running mate Lloyd Bentsen continued his solo voyage for the Democratic ticket and wooed independent-minded Westerners whose suspicion of big government previously drew them to President Reagan.

Bentsen, like Bush, was also appearing at a day care center as both sides tried to win votes on one of the campaign's major issues.

Dukakis planned to tour a General Motors plant this morning before meeting with its union workers. On Thursday, his activities included meetings with prominent Jackson supporters in Ohio and New Jersey.

"I don't care who you were with in the primary, you're all Democrats," Dukakis told a crowd of about 500 people when he arrived at the Flint, Mich., airport Thursday night. Dukakis lost Michigan to Jackson but went on to secure the nomination with a string of primary victories.

Bush, who has been busy on the phone all week with prospective running mates, scheduled a visit to a corporate child-care center today in the Washington suburb of Tysons Corner, Va.

"He wanted to follow up on his child-care initiative," said Bush spokeswoman Sheila Tate. Bush on Sunday proposed a $1,000 tax credit for child care primarily aimed at low-income working mothers.

Bush said he hoped to have a tentative list completed by week's end, but planned to delay his final selection until the Republican National Convention on Aug. 15-18. "The process is going along in an orderly fashion," he said.

Those reached include former rivals Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas and Rep. Jack Kemp of New York. Dole's wife, former Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole, and several whose names did not figure in earlier speculation. Among those are Sen. Dan Quayle, R-Ind.

Campaign sources said Bush's list to date also includes Sens. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., Alan K. Simpson, R-Wyo., William L. Armstrong, R-Colo.; John Danforth, R-Mo. and Nancy L. Kassebaum, R-Kan.; Govs. Thomas H. Kean of New Jersey, John Sununu of New Hampshire, Carroll A. Campbell of South Carolina and George Deukmejian of California; and former Govs. Lamar Alexander of Tennessee and Richard Thornburg of Pennsylvania, who recently was nominated by President Reagan to be attorney general.

Bentsen, in a speech Thursday in Reno, Nev., told the National Conference of State Legislators, "If there is one lesson we have learned in recent years, it is that the federal government can't solve all of the (nation's) problems."

Mindful of Dukakis' promise of an activist government, he added, "But Washington can lead."

By putting him on the ticket, Bentsen said, Dukakis was "saying to Democrats who went and voted for Reagan, come home, there's a place for you in this party."

In Washington, the dispute over $46 million in federal campaign money for Dukakis entered a new phase as a federal appeals court ordered the Federal Elections Commission to respond to a request that the funds be held up.

Republicans charged that by running simultaneously for the Senate and for vice president — as Texas law allows — Bentsen gains an unfair financial advantage.

Dukakis' post-convention high in the polls continued Thursday, as a Harris poll gave him an 18-point lead over Bush.

Saturday will be partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms and a high near 90. South winds will be 5-15 mph.

This morning's low at KPAN was 67 after Thursday's high of 92.

Four arrested

Four men were arrested Thursday, all for public intoxication. Three arrested by Hereford police included two 21-year-olds and a 17-year-old. Sheriff's deputies jailed a 58-year-old.

Reports covered by Hereford police included criminal trespass in the 1500 block of 16th; domestic violence in the 400 block of Ave. C; civil matter in the 100 block of Ave. K; criminal mischief in the 500 block of Westhaven; and a vehicle stolen from the 100 block of East 15th was found in some trees north of Avenue I.

Police issued 12 citations Thursday and investigated two minor accidents.

Sheriff's deputies are searching for a suspect in a burglary after a 500-gallon water tank that was stolen in January was discovered south of Hereford on Thursday. Deputies also intervened in a dispute over rent for a trailer lot.

Farr kin want Davis tried

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Relatives of one of the victims of the so-called "Man in Black" killings say they will use the 12th anniversary of the shootings to make a new plea for once-wealthy Cullen Davis to be tried in the death of former Texas Christian University basketball player Stan Farr.

Relatives of Farr say they will hold a news conference Tuesday on the steps of the Tarrant County Courthouse to demand that District Attorney Tim Curry reopen the case.

Farr and 12-year-old Andrea Wilborn, Priscilla Davis' daughter, were shot to death in the August 2, 1976, shootings at the Davis mansion. Priscilla Davis, who was engaged in bitter divorce proceedings with Davis at the time, and Gus "Bubba" Gavrel, were wounded by the so-called "Man in Black."

"I don't want a penny of his money," Karen Farr, Farr's ex-wife, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram

Thursday. "I want a guilty verdict." Several witnesses identified Cullen Davis as the killer, but jurors found him innocent in the death of Andrea Wilborn in a celebrated 1977 trial at Amarillo.

Other charges, including a murder count in the Farr death, were later dropped by Curry.

Steve Sumner, a lawyer who represents Davis, said the family's actions were "offensive to me and they'll probably be offensive to a lot of people."

"I find it incredulous that they would be utilizing the criminal justice system to gain leverage in their civil suit and to gain money from Cullen Davis," he said. Karen Farr had brought a wrongful-death lawsuit against Davis on behalf of her two children.

The wrongful death case, pending for 12 years, was moved to the back burner last year when Davis, once considered one of the world's wealthiest men, filed for bankruptcy.

"We were awfully traumatized by the whole episode and continue to be every year," Ivonne Farr of Corpus Christi, Farr's sister, said. "We want something to be finished in this thing. This man (Davis) did something against God's law and against man's law. And he's walking around scot-free."

Curry was out of town Thursday and could not be reached for comment, a secretary in the district attorney's office said.

"We want this thing ended, even for Mr. Curry's sake, because we don't know what his thinking was in dropping the case," said Ivonne Farr. "We feel like public pressure is the only thing that is going to get him to talk to us."

Sumner said there is little chance that Curry will retry Davis because of the legal prohibition against trying a defendant twice on the same charges.

"The issue of whether Cullen pulled the trigger has already been litigated," he said.

Fisher named to committee

Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher has been named by Gov. Bill Clements to serve on the Panhandle Community Development Review Committee.

The committee reviews applications for funding community development projects including public facilities and housing assistance through the federal Community Development Block Grant Program.

Fisher and other elected officials from the area will review and score applications from the Panhandle. The committee will work with the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission to administer the program.

Babbling Brooks First black joins Rangers

Even when we write a "good" news story, sometimes we get no thanks. Sometimes we get a mumbled "thank you." Sometimes we get so much thanks we get embarrassed. And sometimes, we get more thanks than we know what to do with, but we gratefully take it all.

Such was the case with the "thank you" we got from Troy Schuder. No matter how humble you are, would you turn down a 72-inch cinnamon roll?

There are some in this business that say you should never accept anything of value from anyone. Some papers do not let their employees accept any type of remuneration or valuable consideration. Not even key chains and matchbooks.

Perhaps those that see this picture will rethink their policy.

Thanks for the thanks, Troy. It was well received.

One of the good things going this summer in Hereford is the Ag League Softball Series.

This was formed to provide some recreation for agriculture workers on Sunday afternoons. There are fewer agriculture workers it seems every day, so the league has opened its membership ranks a little wider.

Before you jump to any conclusions, let me tell you the top two rules of the league.

1. Players can't drink beer at the games.

2. If they do, they get to go home. those aren't the rules per se, but that's what they mean. The league is designed to give these folks a chance for some good, clean, wholesome fun. It's a good thing.

In 24 hours, if you got your paper before 6 p.m., Andrea Lamb will be no more.

Instead she will be Andrea Hooten. No, she will be Andrea Ooten. They don't pronounce the H in the Hooten family. 'Course, with a name like Lamb, you should be used to not pronouncing letters. In her case, she can use her B's again, but not her H's.

Miz Ooten will be going to Denver for her honeymoon.

Maybe I'm missing something, with my plans. She's going to Denver. Mile high. Nice and cool is not far away. I'm going to Arizona — and I don't mean Flagstaff. I mean down on the desert, out between Phoenix and Tucson. Out there where the growing season is never longer than 366 days a year.

Anyway, good luck, Miz Ooten. Have a wonderful marriage. Hope we get to write a 60th anniversary story about you.

Andrea's a good'un. We hope she stays with us for a good long time.

AUSTIN (AP) — The head of the NAACP's Austin branch said he is glad for the black lawman chosen to join the elite Texas Rangers, but another black officer who deserves the promotion still has not received his due.

The Department of Public Safety on Thursday announced that Lee Roy Young Jr., a 14-year DPS veteran and currently a criminal intelligence investigator in San Antonio, would join the Rangers. He is believed to be the first black to join the storied unit.

Young, 41, will be stationed in the Dallas-suburb of Garland when he becomes a Ranger in September, said DPS spokesman David Wells.

Gary Bledsoe, president of the Austin branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said black state trooper Michael Scott of Houston deserves to be a Ranger. Scott publicly voiced his disappointment last year when he was not chosen for the Rangers.

The NAACP has threatened to sue the department, charging that black officers have been passed over for promotion and discriminated against in other ways.

"I'm happy for Mr. Young. This is a step in right direction for him and his career. I'm disappointed for Michael Scott, because he really is the person who brought all this to bear," Bledsoe said.

"It appears there would be a policy in the department saying we're going to start promoting a few people because we have to, but we're going to promote people who don't complain or stand up for their rights, people who play by the rules of the game," Bledsoe said.

Scott was a top scorer on the written portion of the test required for Ranger eligibility, Bledsoe said, but was not chosen after the required oral interview.

The oral interview is before a board of six DPS supervisors, including at least two minority supervisors, Wells said. A DPS officer also must have at least eight years of law enforcement experience to be eligible to be a Ranger, and at least 60 hours of college or the equivalent education.

Wells said the reason there hasn't been a black Ranger before now is that Young was the first black to reach the required level in the testing procedures.

"They're all treated the same on the testing procedures. There's no difference," he said.

"We only have 94 Texas Rangers for the whole state of Texas. It's not unusual for 100 DPS officers to apply for one opening, or two or three (openings)," Wells said.

Col. Leo Gossett, retiring DPS director, said he's "proud" of Young's achievement.

"There's a certain mystique about the Texas Rangers. It's a highly sought-after job in the department, and many people have to apply many times — most do — before they're successful. The competition is keen," Gossett said.

Young said, "I feel pretty good.

It's been an ambition of mine for many years." Young and three white DPS officers will join the Rangers unit in August and September, Wells said.

While portions of the Rangers' long history is sketchy, Young is believed to be the first black to formally be included in the ranks. Rangers, in various forms, have been mentioned as far back as the 1820s.

Jim McNutt, director of research and collections at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio, which has published a history of the Rangers, said Thursday that the institute's "best information" indicated that Young would become the first black Ranger.

The institute's history noted that blacks worked as teamsters and blacksmiths for the Rangers in the past, and McNutt said blacks likely accompanied Rangers as they traveled the state.

"Probably, these guys were not called Rangers themselves, were not appointed by anybody," McNutt said. "That doesn't mean that when everybody got attacked, they weren't in the middle of the fight."

Today's Rangers are specifically charged with four duties: protection of life and property by enforcing state criminal statutes; suppressing riots and insurrections; investigating major crimes; and apprehending fugitives.

Rangers are called on by authorities in small towns and less populated counties for help with homicides, for example, Wells said.

"Becoming a Ranger brings a very proud feeling for them. Rangers have a good reputation. They have a very high level of training in various subjects related to felony investigation," Wells said.

There currently are five Hispanic Rangers and no women Rangers, he said.

The Rangers trace their history to the frontier days, when Texas still belonged to Mexico.

Although authorities say it is difficult to determine just when the term first was applied to fighting men, Stephen F. Austin in 1823 employed 10 men to serve as Rangers.

"The Texas Rangers may have been thought of as operating against Indians and Mexican raiders in the early years and later against outlaw bands, feudists, stock thieves and local rioters," says a history in the authoritative "Handbook of Texas."

That history also noted that "Texas never immediately following Reconstruction," when civil affairs were in chaos, Indians were threatening settlers and bandit raids caused trouble along the Mexican border.

"Here was a real opportunity for the Texas Rangers to rise to greatness, and there is no doubt that they did this in the period between 1874 and 1890," the history said.

In 1935, the Rangers were reorganized and placed in the DPS. Rangers are stationed in towns spread across the state.

Comet hit long time ago

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 66-million-year-old rock deposit in a Texas creek bed shows that the area was once smashed by a massive ocean wave, perhaps triggered by a large comet or asteroid that hit the Atlantic Ocean, according to a study published today in the journal Science.

Thor A. Hansen, a geologist at Western Washington University, said he and another researcher found evidence that a wave, perhaps as tall as 300 feet, scoured the floor of a primitive Gulf of Mexico, picked up sand and shark teeth, then dumped the material in what now is a bed of a tributary to the Brazos River in Central Texas.

"It (the wave) was so big, we think the circumstantial evidence is very strong that it was caused by a bolide (meteorite) impact," said Hansen.

The deposit, he said, was found in what is called the Cretaceous-Tertiary boundary. This is the name given a geologic formation that other researchers have identified as having been created during a time that meteorites were showering Earth, about 66 million years ago.

Hansen said the formation he found in the Texas creek bed is rich in iridium, an element that is common in meteorites but rare on Earth. It is considered a universal mark of the Cretaceous-Tertiary (called K-T) boundary.

At the time that the wave was created, Hansen said Texas and the whole Gulf coast area looked far different than now. The waters of the ocean were much higher and the coast was much farther inland.

Hansen said the massive wave churned against the ocean floor, moving huge clay boulders, picking up sand, limestone and shark teeth, and leaving a path of great erosion.

When the waters settled down, the debris was deposited again on the ocean floor, leaving a mark of the violence that occurred. Over many centuries, the sea water receded, dry land emerged and now the deposit left by the wave is seen in the wall of a creek bed in Falls County in Central Texas.

"The thing that is remarkable about this deposit is that it was produced far offshore on a quiet water shelf," said Hansen. "Above and below is just mud, quiet water sedimentation. There's no evidence of any disturbance at all. Yet, in the middle of that, there is this quite large unit."

Based on the force required to move the material left in the deposit, Hansen said he calculated that the wave had to be 150 to 300 feet high.

Circumstantial evidence, he said, leads to the theory that a meteorite striking the ocean caused the wave because there is no geologic evidence suggesting that a volcano or an earthquake could have triggered the wave.

"There was no volcanic activity nearby at the time," he said. "Also, we find no volcanic ash in the formation."

North tried to divert funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. drug enforcement official says former White House staffer Oliver L. North suggested in 1984 that $1.5 million designated for a drug sting operation be diverted to the Nicaraguan Contras instead.

Ron Caffrey, now in charge of the Atlanta office of the Drug Enforcement Administration, told a House panel Thursday the DEA rejected the idea. Caffrey said he told North the suggestion would have compromised the chief operative in one of the agency's most significant undercover operations.

As it turned out, according to Caffrey and other DEA witnesses, the investigation was compromised anyway — and closed prematurely — several weeks later when details were leaked to the Washington Times.

The hearing was the first in a series by the Judiciary subcommittee on crime, which is trying to learn whether Reagan administration officials condoned drug smuggling and other criminal activities to further its Central American policy — especially winning aid for the Contras.

North, who has been indicted in the separate diversion of millions of dollars from the administration's Iran arms sales to the Contras, figured prominently in Thursday's testimony.

The public is invited to hear the Rev. Jerry W. Kunkel and his wife Kathy during revival services at the church set for 7 p.m. today; 7 p.m. Saturday; and 11 a.m. Sunday.

Rev. Kunkel has been nominated for the coveted Harry Denman Award for Evangelism in the United Methodist Church. He has spoken in more than 500 different settings around the Southwest and is a popular after-dinner and revival speaker. He utilizes masterful storytelling techniques and often hilarious anecdotes from a colorful early life to convey his message effectively to people of all ages.

He teams together with his wife, Kathy, to form a music ministry. Kathy has been widely recognized as a singer, musician and choir director for many years.

Westway Reunion set Sunday

The annual Westway Reunion is scheduled Sunday in the Westway Community Center. All former and current residents are invited to attend.

Those attending are asked to bring a basket lunch. Drinks and breads will be furnished.

During the event, an honorary mayor will be named to succeed Mary Morrison, 1987 honoree. Also, the oldest and youngest persons in attendance will be recognized as well as those who have traveled the longest distance.

Ice cream social set for club

A film on the economy of the tri-state area was shown to members of the Deaf Smith County Lapidary Club when the group met Monday evening in the Energas Flame Room.

During the regular business session with President Thama Pearson presiding, members were reminded of an ice cream social Aug. 22 with the location to be announced at a later date.

Jason Ruland won the door prize which was furnished by Roy Martin. Serving as host couples were Messrs. and Mmes. Bert Brown, Clarence Botts and Bud Cawthon.

Recognized as special guests were Jason, Whitney and Patrick Ruland, grandchildren of Jack and Helen Nunley. There were 30 members in attendance.

THE BENEFITS OF EXERCISE

NEW YORK (AP) — An estimated 30 to 60 minutes of daily aerobic exercise gives close to maximum benefit in terms of preventing heart attacks, according to the Reebok Aerobic Information Bureau.

It says researchers at the University of Minnesota studied heart attack risk and exercise patterns in 12,138 middle-aged men. In addition, they found that there was little difference in heart disease risk between those who did light exercise and those who exercised strenuously.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm tired of reading the warnings to young girls about teenage pregnancy. Aren't there any teenage boys out there? Where are their parents anyway? Don't they know that girls don't go to bed with boys just because it's fun? Those poor things believe they are being loved.

Nobody tells the boys about the problems that result or the guilt they will feel when they abandon a girl and her baby. Somewhere along the line boys have come to think that pregnancy is the girl's problem, and if she weren't so careless (or stupid) it wouldn't have happened.

My parents never talked to us kids about sex. It's a miracle none of us got into trouble. Believe me, Ann, our sons are being educated and taught to respect girls. My husband and I are doing everything we can to make sure they have plenty of information, and that it sinks in, so their heads will rule when the urge becomes strong, as it most surely will when they hit 16 or 17. Thanks for helping by printing letters like this one in your column.—D.H., Edmonton, Alberta

DEAR ED: And thank you for a letter that will teach young people something. They need help in putting things in proper perspective. Peer pressure is heavy and temptation is everywhere.

The best safeguard against trouble is good information and a sense of responsibility and personal worth. It would be wonderful if all parents were able to provide this, but unfortunately such is not the case. Hooray for you and your husband. Your children are very lucky.

Bengals, Rams play in NFL Hall of Fame game

By RUSTY MILLER
AP Sports Writer

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Four players who grew up within a few hundred miles of each other will be coming home Saturday for induction in the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Jack Ham of Johnstown, Pa., Alan Page of Canton, Mike Ditka of Carnegie, Pa., and Fred Biletnikoff of Erie, Pa., will join an exclusive club of 144 when they are inducted.

Following the induction ceremonies, the Cincinnati Bengals meet the Los Angeles Rams in the annual AFC-NFC Hall of Fame game. The game will open the 1988 NFL exhibition season, with the San Francisco 49ers playing the Miami Dolphins Sunday in London.

"Ditka wasn't from too far down the road," said Ham, a former Pittsburgh Steelers linebacker. "All four of us are from the same locale in general."

"Western Pennsylvania and Ohio have always been known for great football players. This will be a nice coincidence that we all go in together."

Ham, who was a part of three Super Bowl championship teams, played 12 seasons with the Steelers. He had 25½ career sacks, 21 fumble recoveries and 32 interceptions during his career.

Page, a defensive tackle, played 228 games for the Minnesota Vikings and Chicago Bears in 15 seasons, and was the NFC defensive player of the year four times. In 1971, he was the first defensive player to be named Most Valuable Player.

Biletnikoff caught 509 passes and scored 76 touchdowns with the Oakland Raiders from 1965 through 1978. He ranks seventh in career receptions and was the MVP of the 1977 Super Bowl with four receptions for 79 yards.

Ditka, the first pure tight end to be named to the Hall, had 427 receptions and scored 43 touchdowns for the Chicago Bears, Philadelphia Eagles and Dallas Cowboys from 1961 through 1972. Ditka also coached the Bears to a Super Bowl championship in 1986.

Pease, Carlson to battle for position

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

SAN MARCOS, Texas (AP) — Brent Pease won the first round in his battle with Cody Carlson to become the backup quarterback for the Houston Oilers.

Pease earned the spot by performing for the replacement team during the NFL players' strike last season and Carlson spent the rest of the season on the sidelines.

They are again trying for the same job this season but on much friendlier terms.

"I think we're both No. 2 right now," Pease said. "I think the competition will bring out the best in both of us."

Pease is trying to keep his job and Carlson is still awaiting his first NFL regular season snap.

"I don't think we can be best buddies," Carlson said. "Brent's a nice guy but I'm not looking for him to win the backup job."

"Our relationship is fine. There's no animosity, just competition."

Pease, an 11th round pick by the Minnesota Vikings last year, says he can feel acceptance by Carlson and the rest of the Oilers and that's enough for now.

"I feel more accepted this year," Pease said. "I don't even want to bring up last year. I'm here to compete for a job and that's all."

"I can just go out there and relax and perform."

There was little relaxation for either Pease or Carlson last season.

When the players went out on strike, Carlson, the third round draft choice, walked with them.

"You can't forget what happened last year but that's all in the past now," Carlson said. "We're competing for the same job but we're friends."

Pease and other members of the replacement Oilers were jeered and pelted with eggs by the striking players.

Despite the tension, Pease and the replacements were one of the more efficient substitute teams.

They helped the Oilers reach the NFL playoffs for the first time since 1980.

Pease started all three replacement games and played in four other games, completing 56 of 113 passes for 728 yards, three touchdowns and five interceptions.

Pease also gained the respect of the veterans.

"Brent conducted himself well during the strike," Moon said. "He didn't go around mouthing off and that's earned him the respect of the team."

Carlson was the 64th player chosen in the 1987 draft after a pass record setting career at Baylor.

Despite sharing the quarterback's job with Tom Muecke, Carlson left Baylor owning every school passing record, including 336 completions for 5,411 yards, 33 touchdowns and 5,835 yards of total offense.

8,518 fans watch Oilers, Seahawks in scrimmage

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Yes, folks, the NFL preseason schedule is under way. Sort of.

The first exhibition games won't be played until the weekend — Cincinnati against the Los Angeles Rams in the Hall of Fame Game on Saturday, San Francisco vs. Miami at London on Sunday.

But the Seattle Seahawks and Houston Oilers got a jump on everyone Thursday with a scrimmage at the Tacoma Dome that was attended by 8,518 fans.

Although there was no scoring, the Seahawks were happy that rookie quarterback Kelly Stouffer, who completed eight of 13 passes for 41 yards, got some action. Stouffer, a 1987 first-round draft pick of the Cardinals who missed all of last season in a contract dispute, was dealt to Seattle just before this year's draft.

"I just wanted to get out there and feel confident and at ease," Stouffer said. "After the first couple of snaps, I felt good."

Elementary girls' basketball camp starts Monday

Fourth, fifth and sixth grade girls may attend a basketball camp Aug. 1-5 at the La Plata gym.

The girls must be in the fourth through sixth grades in the 1988-89 school year. The basketball camp will be held each day from 9 a.m. to noon each day, with all three grades in one session.

Frank Belcher, Herford High School head girls' basketball coach, said camp instruction will be on fundamental skills, with emphasis on shooting and ball handling.

Cost for the camp is $10 per girl. Belcher said no preregistration is required. For more information, contact Belcher at 364-8724.

"Kelly was rusty," coach Chuck Knox said. "He's got the arm. He just needs to get back in a groove and this is his first real work in more than a year."

Regular quarterbacks Warren Moon of Houston and Dave Krieg of Seattle were used sparingly. Moon completed three of seven passes for 27 yards and Krieg was 3-for-3 for 32 yards.

Third-string quarterback Cody Carlson completed eight of 12 passes for 93 yards for Houston, but he was intercepted twice. Brent Pease, Moon's backup, was 8-for-13 for 91 yards.

Overall, the defenses dominated, which didn't surprise Jacob Green.

"It's much easier to put stuff in the defense at this point of training camp," the Seahawks' Pro Bowl defensive end said. "The offenses take longer to develop."

Houston coach Jerry Glanville, whose Oilers beat the Seahawks 23-20 in the AFC wild-card game, last January, said the scrimmage was worth the team's plane flight from Texas.

"We get so much work out of these scrimmages with the unlimited practice against another team," he said. "Now, we'll go back and look at the film and that's a great tool."

Knox was most impressed by Seattle's top draft choices, receivers Brian Blades and Tommy Kane. Blades, a second-round pick from Miami, caught two passes for 20 yards and Kane, a third-round selection from Syracuse, caught one pass for seven yards.

"In seven-on-seven, Brian Blades made some good catches," said Knox. "Tommy Kane also did well. Those guys were obviously standouts."

Through the 1987 season, the Cleveland Browns qualified for the playoffs 20 times in their 38 years in the NFL.

'London Bowl' matches up bruising Dolphins, 49ers

By ROBERT MILLWARD
AP Sports Writer

LONDON (AP) — It was a bruising, rugged battle as the Miami Dolphins and the San Francisco 49ers clashed on the football field.

There was nothing at stake, no scoring, and the action was simply a scrimmage session before an exhibition game.

But Dolphins fullback Chad Stark wrenched his knee in a crunching tackle by 49ers linebacker Riki Ellison and there were a couple of flareups as the scrimmage became fiercer.

The teams meet at Wembley Stadium on Sunday for the benefit of an expanding British football audience. It also is a chance to scrape off the preseason rust in readiness for the NFL campaign, which begins in early September.

"It was very physical today," 49ers wide receiver Jerry Rice said.

"When you've got guys this size coming at you full speed, you'd better watch out," he said. "You get your bumps and bruises but you've got to bounce back.

"But I love the competition. When I'm out there on the football field, I'm like a machine. If I'm mad at somebody, I can take it out on the opposing team."

Rice, 25, is one of the stars of the 49ers, and relishes the prospect of facing the Dolphins in game action on Sunday.

"It's going to be a very physical game. From our standpoint, we've got something to come out and prove," he said. "We've still got a bad taste in our mouths from when we lost to the Minnesota Vikings in the playoffs."

"Miami is thinking the same thing after a mediocre season. It's going to be a close match ... exciting."

Miami quarterback Dan Marino sees the value of facing the opposition in practice sessions.

"Having the 49ers here breaks up the monotony of just practicing against yourselves," he said. "It makes it a little different and a little more fun."

Doran's two-run homer leads Astros past Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pitcher Eric Show says he took a gamble at the urging of catcher Benito Santiago, but it didn't pay off for the Padres.

It resulted in a two-run homer in the first by Astros second baseman Bill Doran, who led Houston to a 3-2 victory over San Diego Thursday.

"I had him 0-2 with a fastball and slider," Show said of Doran. "Then (Santiago) called for a curve, which is not a pitch I usually throw in that situation. But I figured why not? It was slow curve, and he just hit it out."

"It certainly wasn't anything I was trying to do," Doran said. "I was just trying to pull the ball on the ground to get (Billy) Hatcher over to third base. It was a mistake but I'll take it."

Show, 7-10, admits he wasn't exactly stellar in the four following innings either.

"I was having problems with my mechanics. I really didn't have my good stuff until the sixth inning," said Show.

Houston's starter, Bob Knepper, 11-3, had the opposite problem.

"My first part of the game I thought I was throwing real strong," Knepper said. Then he wrenched his shoulder fielding a Carmelo Martinez bunt in the second.

"From that point on I didn't have the sharpness," Knepper said. "I was lucky we got the three-run lead so I could throw sinkers, change speeds, keep them off balance and try to get through six innings."

Knepper allowed seven hits, walked two and struck out three in six innings.

The win brought Houston 5½ games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West. The two teams open a three-game series tonight in Los Angeles, where the Astros play seven of their next 10 games.

"We're close enough where we can control our own destiny," said Doran.

Houston Manager Hal Lanier said he confident facing the Dodgers because of the strength of his bullpen.

"I think we have more depth in the bullpen now than I had at start," Lanier said. "It gives me more flexibility. I can go to four different people out there instead of just two or three."

"Larry (Andersen) was throwing great," Lanier said of Andersen, who gave up two hits and struck out three in three innings to earn his fifth save.

The Astros have made no determinations on the status of first baseman Glenn Davis, who pulled his left hamstring Tuesday night. According to Lanier, Davis is expected to be out several weeks and may be placed on the disabled list.

ADDRESS: 313 N. LEE

CLASSIFIED ADS
Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	.14	2.80
2 days per word	.24	4.80
3 days per word	.34	6.80
4 days per word	.44	8.80
5th day FREE

Ten days (2 free) is $16.80 minimum; 15 days (3 free) is $24.80 minimum; one month is $32.80 minimum.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALIS
Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS
Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

ASK DR. LAMB

Aspirin Answers BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Is it better to use buffered aspirin or coated aspirin? The manufacturers' advertisements make it impossible for a layman to choose.

DEAR READER: Some of the coated aspirin may not be absorbed, as the coating is so effective that it is not dissolved. The amount that is absorbed is often considerably less than the actual amount of aspirin inside the coat. That is not always bad, as small doses of aspirin may be more effective than large doses when taken to prevent platelet clumping to prevent blood clot formation.

Larger doses may render natural anti-clotting factors in your blood ineffective, as well as neutralizing factors that cause clotting. The result is that larger doses are less effective in this regard. Coated aspirin may also be less effective in controlling pain if less of it is absorbed.

Buffered aspirin serves simply to neutralize stomach acid. That decreases the acid effects of aspirin. While it may help to limit stomach "burning," it is not always effective in preventing irritation of the stomach lining. Aspirin tends to cause reddening and erosion of the stomach lining. It may cause bleeding from the stomach — particularly if taken in large amounts. But buffered aspirin will be readily absorbed.

My choice would be neither. Rather I would recommend taking regular aspirin, crushing it into a powder and dissolving it in about a half cup of milk. That prevents any small chunks from lying against the lining of the stomach and causing a chemically burned spot. It also provides some buffering. And the milk will decrease the absorption a small amount. Taking aspirin with food has similar benefits and also decreases absorption.

You can learn more about the proper use of aspirin by reading Special Report 41, Aspirin and Other Analgesics. I'm sending you a free copy. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/41, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Aspirin is not the only analgesic available, and it is not the only one that may cause some complications. Often the choice of medication depends on what it is to be used for — to relieve pain, to prevent blood clotting or to relieve inflammation. There has been some concern that some of the analgesics used over time may cause serious kidney damage.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 66-year-old man in good health except my blood pressure is up a little. I am concerned because my right testicle is more than twice the size of my left testicle. It started getting larger a few years ago. The last year it enlarged faster. This past summer, when the weather was hot, they hung low and I had to watch out for them when I sat and couldn't wear tight pants. I am still careful how I sit and when I sleep I put a pillow between my knees. My sex has slowed down, too.

HYDROCELE

DEAR READER: You will need an examination to know why this has occurred. The most likely cause is fluid in the sac around the testicle. This common condition is called a hydrocele.

When that becomes too much of a problem, an operation on the sac can be done to prevent the accumulation of fluid. If the testicle itself is enlarging, then you need to find out why and what should be done. Then there is the possibility that a loop of bowel has herniated into the scrotum, which may require attention as well.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions.
