Minister ready for challenge

Hereford welcomes new pastor
David Slamp, pictured with his Fiero, recently moved to Hereford to assume pastoral duties at Hereford Church of the Nazarene.

By DANEE WILSON
Staff Writer
Racing around in his fiery red Fiero, David Slamp looks for prospects. He isn't too particular about his potentials, they just have to meet one criteria, the desire to learn more about God.
Slamp recently took over the leadership at the Church of the Nazarene in Hereford. He began his ministry there approximately two months ago and is now living in Hereford full time.
"I'm deeply impressed with the church," Slamp said. "It's going to be fun to work with people who are doing things because they want to, not because they have to."
Being from a small town, Slamp is glad to be back in the small town atmosphere.

"I'm delighted to be here," he said with a smile. "This is the first time I've been able to be ministering in a town rather than a city."
Slamp is looking forward to becoming an active part of the community.
"It's going to be fun to be a part of the town. I'm looking forward to joining one of the civic clubs."
Prior to his move to Hereford, Slamp taught practical theology at Southern Nazarene University in Bethany, OK. He has been in the ministry for 22 years.

Slamp became interested in pursuing a career in ministry his second year in college.
"I was going through a very tough time when I was a sophomore in college," Slamp said. "As with most people that age, I was trying to figure out what life was about and adjust to the real world. I was wrestling with all these emotions, then I had sort of a spiritual awakening. That's when I decided my calling was to be a pastor."
After graduation, Slamp attended seminary and pastored churches at San Diego, Calif., El Paso, Texas and Vancouver, Wash.
From his experiences during his college days, Slamp realized problems work themselves out.
"When I was a sophomore," Slamp remembers, "I was wrestling with the values in my life, ethics, morals that sort of thing and came to realize things work themselves out. How we live our lives directly comes from what's inside."
Slamp finds his work very rewarding.
"It's very rewarding and most exciting to see lives changed through the power of the gospel," the excited pastor said. "It's very fulfilling to be a pastor, it is a most exciting thing to see people becoming more willing to have and live honest and kinder lives."
For someone trying hard to make a difference and impact other's lives, disappointments and frustrations are part of the job.

"I find it frustrating to know people's lives are being changed for the better and people who need the gospel don't want it," he said. "It's like I have the cure for cancer and someone who has cancer refuses the cure."
"I think people don't understand that lives are changed from within. To solve most problems, changes have to be made to what is inside a person."
As the new pastor, Slamp brings to the Hereford Church of the Nazarene new goals and personal ambitions.
"Primarily, my goal is to reach out and meet the needs of the community," Slamp said. "I've found that the number one problem in Hereford schools is alcoholism. We, as a church, need to do something about that. The church must create programs to meet the needs."
"As a church, we need to pass on the gospel. People need to know that sins can be forgiven. I want to help people apply the scripture to their lives. My personal goal is to see the church continue to grow."
Slamp believes that his life has to right with God, before he can help anyone else.
"In the ministry you are judged more by what you do, than what you arc," he said. "People can spot right off when something is not right. I want to make a positive impact, but first I have to maintain my life by maintaining a daily relationship with God."

When Slamp isn't working in the church, he enjoys spending time with his wife, Kathy and his two children, Scott, 22 and Dana, 19. He is also an avid runner, jogging three to four miles a day.
"I just want to be a minister and a leader," he said. "I hope to meet life's needs and be a positive influence."

Paper planners will get grant

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher
A potential Deaf Smith County project to make paper from milo stubble has received a boost with the announcement that the Texas Department of Agriculture has approved a $14,000 matching grant for research and development.
Ken Rogers, Lone Star Insurance Agency, reported Friday that he will be in Austin Wednesday to accept the grant. Joining him for the presentation will be Dr. Patrick Odell, Baylor professor, who has completed much research on agricultural residue pulp.
Rogers, Odell and Chris Peterson, a paper technology expert from the University of Miami of Ohio, hosted a group of local citizens to explain the project in November of 1989. At the time, Rogers announced the Hereford Industrial Foundation had agreed to fund up to $5,000 to update study on ag residue paper pulp. He has since received samples of paper made from local milo stalks.
At that time, Rogers said the idea "offers more potential for economic development in this area than any thing that has come along in years." He believes development of such an industry here could return about $50 million a year to farmers in the area.
Rogers, a past president of the chamber and ex-chairman of the industrial development committee, said he got interested in pursuing the idea after a chance conversation with Dr. Odell during a meeting at Baylor. Rogers serves on the board of directors for the business school at Baylor.

Rogers said application for the TDA grant was made last August. "They cut the number of grant applications to 100 before Christmas, then approved the funding of 20 requests recently, with our project being one of them."
He also noted that he has been working with the Baylor professor on a paper to be presented at a national and state grain sorghum producers association conference at Texas Tech Feb. 20.
As presented at the first meeting here, the industry could be put in place by installing a number of "digesters" around the county to convert the crop stubble to pulp, then either ship it to a paper mill or build a mill here.
"We think the project has tremendous potential. If the study proves to be economically feasible, we can get this up and running easier than anything I have ever looked at. If it's not feasible, we can drop it without making a large investment," said Rogers.

Buckley is merit finalist

Blake Buckley, a senior at Hereford High School, has been named as a finalist in the prestigious National Merit Scholarship Program.
Buckley will now be competing against about 14,000 other finalists from across the country in the selection of 6,000 Merit Scholarship winners.
The unique competition focuses on a student's academic abilities but takes many other factors into consideration, including how the student scored on the PSAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualification Test. Many juniors take the test each fall; about one-half of one percent of each state's seniors are named as semifinalists.

Besides the monetary stipends and awards from the National Merit Scholarship program, finalists are usually deluged with offers of financial aid from colleges and universities. About $25 million will be awarded to finalists this year.

EnCoRe, Red Cross to sponsor collections

EnCoRe and the Deaf Smith County chapter of the American Red Cross will be holding weekly collections of certain recyclable items every Tuesday afternoon beginning this week.
Hereford area residents may bring their used glass, plastic containers, newspapers and metal cans to the Red Cross office at 224 S. Main every Tuesday from 3 to 6 p.m. A semi-truck trailer has been loaned to EnCoRe and the Red Cross for the storage of recyclable goods.
The regular weekly collections have been made possible by Hereford Iron and Metal and its Amarillo affiliate.
EnCoRe encourages residents to take advantage of the weekly drop-off to reduce the solid waste stream that ends up in the city landfill. All donated items will be delivered to area recyclers.

Items you can donate to be recycled:
•Glass, sorted by color
•Metal cans

Hereford Travel sponsors soldier adoption

Joan Coupe, owner of Hereford Travel Center, stands in front of a display of adoption badges. Hereford Travel, in conjunction with National Cruise Month, is sponsoring contests and the opportunity to adopt a Hereford soldier. A badge bearing the name of a Hereford soldier will be displayed at Hereford Travel after they have been adopted.

HTC sponsoring 'adoption'

By DANEE WILSON
Staff Writer
February is national cruise month and to celebrate, Hereford Travel Center is giving out prizes and supporting the troops over seas.
Those who come in will be able to adopt a soldier on the "wall of heroes."
"We've taken the names of all the soldiers from Hereford and made badges for them," Jana Green said. "When someone comes in they can adopt a person."

As an adoptee, the person would be responsible for paying postage on a package put together at the travel center for the soldiers.
The packages will contain letters from the heads of approximately 30 major cruise lines and other cruise related paraphernalia. Adopters are encouraged write a letter themselves.
Those interested in adopting a soldier or looking into cruises can drop by Hereford Travel Center at 144 W. 2nd Street.
"We're having contests in conjunction with National Cruise Month," Joan Coupe, owner, said. "We'll award weekly prizes for the contest we are sponsoring."

In order to when a prize, the contestant must correctly fill out the crossword puzzle available at the travel center.
"To be able to get all the answers, the person will have to come in and talk with a representative and watch our cruise videos," Coupe said. Hereford Travel will also have registration forms available to win one of 100 cruises to be given away.

US brass meet to make plans

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) - Top U.S. military officials talked today about bringing the Gulf War down to earth, and allied warplanes rained more bombs on Iraqi troops to soften them for a ground blow.
Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and U.S. joint chiefs chairman Gen. Colin Powell are in Saudi Arabia to assess the war for President Bush.
They met today in the Saudi capital of Riyadh with the U.S. commander in the gulf, H. Norman Schwarzkopf, to discuss what many believe is inevitable - a ground war to drive Iraq from Kuwait.
Sporadic fighting, meanwhile, continued Friday night and early today along the Kuwaiti-Saudi border. The 1st Marine Division reported destroying an Iraqi command and control post and capturing two Iraqi prisoners. No U.S. casualties were reported.

The Marines, along the border west of the Umm Gudair oilfield in Kuwait, used artillery fire to pound the command post and called in air strikes on the position as well.
Nearly a week of relative calm in Israel was shattered when Iraq fired another Scud missile early today - the 31st launched at the Jewish state. The missile crashed into a street in the populous Tel Aviv area, injuring at (See BRASS, Page 2A)

Police arrest four Friday

Hereford police arrested four persons Friday, including a man, 21, for driving while license suspended; and three persons, ages 25, 28 and 35 for second offense no liability insurance. Reports included assault with a deadly weapon in the 300 block of Seventh; harassment and criminal trespass in the 200 block of Ave. F; theft of $35 worth of items from a store; disorderly conduct in the 500 block of Myrtle; assault in the 100 block of Ave. G; and a runaway in the 500 block of Ave. F.

County to meet Monday

Deaf Smith County commissioners will meet at 9 a.m. Monday at the courthouse in Hereford. The agenda includes discussion of reapportionments of commissioner's precincts; closing a portion of a road in Dawn; adoption of a resolution concerning highway funding; setting a date for a public hearing for tax abatement for Holly Sugar and New Life Development; and appointment of members to the Child Welfare Board.

Crimestopper Spotlight

Freddie Savage, owner of Hereford Texaco, is a dedicated family man. He and his wife, Tommy, have raised four children in the Hereford area and are aware of the problems facing today's youth. Hereford Crimestoppers is his way of putting back into the community what Hereford has given his family. Of course, Crimestoppers cannot work without volunteer and monetary support. Although the organization is non-profit, the key to Crimestoppers is money. With more funds, the organization can offer greater rewards. Freddie would like to see local businesses include Hereford Crimestoppers in their operating budget.

Dispatches from Saudi Arabia

EDITORS: The following dispatches were subjected to security review by the U.S. military.

WITH U.S. MARINES IN NORTHERN SAUDI ARABIA (AP) - Allied soldiers at the front are stockpiling extra food because military officials expect huge numbers of Iraqi soldiers to give up after a ground war starts.

Leaflets explaining how to surrender are being distributed in large numbers in southeastern Kuwait, where Iraqi troops are believed to be mainly conscripts of questionable commitment to battle, said Col. John Easton, commander of the civil affairs unit for the 2nd Marine Division.

Some of the 825 Iraqis now in allied custody were carrying the leaflets.

Iraqi prisoners have complained about food shortages in their units and have said day-and-night allied bombing is eroding morale.

Easton said it is not known how representative the prisoners are of the rest of Saddam Hussein's fighting force.

"What we do know is that the Iraqi troops on the fringe of the front here are probably not as disciplined as the professional troops," he said.

On Tuesday, six Iraqis drove to the allied lines in a four-wheel drive vehicle and gave themselves up to the Marine Division.

Two officers were among them.

Easton said the number of prisoners is expected to grow as the war shifts from the ground to the air and the allies clear mine fields believed to be preventing some Iraqis from surrendering.

"We have been advised to prepare for a large number," Easton said. "Hopefully, there will be large numbers because every one we get will be one less we have to fight."

WITH U.S. MARINES IN NORTHERN SAUDI ARABIA (AP)

Moltan Sultan's job in the event of a ground war will be to help the Marines tell friend from foe.

He is one of hundreds of Kuwaitis who have been assigned to American combat units to serve as interpreters and guides if U.S. forces move into towns and cities in Kuwait. They will help distinguish between Kuwaitis and Iraqis.

"At that time Captain Sultan will be indispensable," said 1st Lt. Fred Rudolph, a Marine intelligence officer. "There will be a lot of people anxious to see us and a lot of people anxious to hide."

Sultan is a 30-year-old police inspector who landed his job with the Marines because of the English he learned by watching American TV shows such as "Colombo" and "Kojak." He has been given a commission in the Kuwaiti army.

Sultan, who wore a uniform and flak jacket and was armed with an M-16 rifle, said it will be easy for him to identify Iraqis.

"They need punishment," he said. "I will control myself."

IN NORTHERN SAUDI ARABIA (AP) - Pvt. Jason Mattos is so raw that he has spent less time in the Army than his comrades have spent in the desert.

Mattos was among 27 combat engineers added within the last week to the 82nd Airborne Division, a rapid deployment force expected to see the first action in any ground war.

Mattos, an 18-year-old from Modesto, Calif., began basic training on Aug. 28, three weeks after the first paratroopers were in the desert.

"I'm not as scared as I thought I'd be," he said. "You just have to prepare yourself as much as you can."

"War was the last thing on my mind when I joined the Army."

Fast ground attack is likely

EDITOR'S NOTE: Portions of this story are based on pool reviews submitted to military security review.

By JOHN KING

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) - Officers in a unit expected to play a lead role in a ground assault say the attack will be prodigious in size and speed and will have to swiftly neutralize Iraqi minefields and artillery.

"You are going to see entire corps moving across the battlefield," said Col. Leroy R. Goff, a brigade commander in the Army's 3rd Armored Division. "We haven't seen elements of that size moving since the North African campaign in World War II."

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and Joint Chiefs chairman Gen. Colin Powell were due to arrive in Saudi Arabia today to assess the readiness of U.S. and other allied forces for what many believe is an inevitable ground war.

Men and materiel are being rushed to the front, the air war's focus has shifted to Saddam's ground forces - leading to speculation that an offensive on the desert could come as early as next week.

If so, one of the units expected to lead the charge probably will not be at full strength.

"We're the last division to come into the country so we just aren't ready yet," said Army Maj. Gen. Paul Funk, commander of the 3rd Armored.

His unit is awaiting the arrival of some of its M1-A1 main battle tanks and tank-killing Apache helicopters.

Still, aware that an attack order could come soon, Funk said: "I am prepared to go to war with what I've got."

Bad weather in Europe and shipping delays are the main reasons some of the weapons are arriving late, he said.

Cloudy weather also has hampered bombing missions.

Sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Thursday that Air Force leaders are expected to ask for at least two more weeks to pummel Iraq's ground forces before the allies send ground forces north against Saddam's heavily fortified defenses.

Funk's 3rd Armored, the 1st Armored Division and 2nd Cavalry are lead units in the allied battle. All are based in Germany and have extensive training for war with Warsaw Pact forces.

The first challenge for the ground units will be to cut wide swaths through Iraqi minefields.

The allies are expected to use bombing and artillery at first. But they likely will be forced to send in mine plows, rakes, mine rollers and other devices - many of them mounted on tanks and untested in combat.

Unless they break through the mines quickly, the allied forces will be easy targets for Iraq's huge artillery arsenal.

"We have to keep going forward," said Lt. Col. Dana Robertson, who heads the 3rd Armored's engineering battalion. "We want to be through the minefield before he can react."

His men will face infantry and artillery fire as they fight their way to Saddam's sophisticated anti-tank mines.

While Iraq's artillery is some of the best in the world, most of it is dug in and a swift allied advance would give it little time to reposition.

U.S. artillery will rely on several high-tech targeting devices designed to help gunners make their first shots. The gunners also will use two radar systems that track incoming artillery and return fire.

Martinez, wife may be reunited

By JOHN BROOKS

Hereford native Sgt. Robert Martinez has been in the Saudi Arabian desert since early August, but he may soon be reunited with his wife, Lisa.

The rub is that his wife is also in the 503rd Maintenance Company in the U.S. Army, and can't bring their two-month-old son, Zackary, with her.

Lisa had been on inactive status while she gave birth to Zackary. Lisa and Robert had been expecting to receive their discharge on schedule last November, but events in the Persian Gulf have changed their, and the Army's, plans.

"Robert's never seen him (Zack), and I know he'd like to," said Robert's dad, Raymond. Raymond and his wife, Hope, would like to help take care of the baby, who will likely stay with members of Lisa's family. Lisa will also have to sign over legal custody of Zack.

The last six months have been hard enough on Raymond and Hope Martinez, even before they knew Lisa may be going over to Saudi Arabia to join her husband in the 503rd, which supports the 82nd Airborne Division and goes wherever the 82nd Airborne goes.

"It has been pretty hard, especially on my wife," said Raymond. "We watch a lot of the news on television, hoping we might see Robert."

They have talked to Robert a few times, including just a few days ago. He had been within 12 miles of the Kuwaiti border, but was calling from back in Dherran where he was picking up supplies to take back to the front.

"I don't know when he'll call again, but last time he told us not to worry about him, that things would be just fine," said Raymond. "His brother planned to get him into the hog business with him by now, but I guess that will have to wait. They first said he might be over there a month, and now it's been six months. Who knows, it might be another six months, but I hope it's soon."

Patriot missiles streaked through the night sky to hit the Scud, but it wasn't clear if they succeeded.

Baghdad radio reported that Iraq had fired a missile at Tel Aviv and said its soldiers struck at allied ground troops in Saudi Arabia with a barrage of rocket fire, "causing many losses in men and ammunition on the hostile side." It gave no details. U.S. officials did not report such an attack.

For the first time in the war an oil slick from Kuwait forced Saudi Arabia to shut a desalination plant Friday, and workers rushed to scoop up black crude that fouled more than 60 miles of Saudi coast.

Authorities shut the plant at Safaniya as a preventive measure to keep oil from entering its intake valves, Saudi officials said. The slick, believed to be from an Iraqi tanker bombed by U.S. warplanes, remained up to 60 miles from the nation's main plant, officials said.

A Saudi environmental official said today that signs of oil might appear near the site of the world's largest desalination plant - at Jubail - in two to three days.

The slick is estimated at 21 million gallons, far smaller than the giant 460-million-gallon spill that allied officials say was started by Iraqi troops who opened the spigots at an offshore Kuwaiti oil terminal. Iraq claims allied bombing touched off that spill.

The timing of "K Day" - the invasion of Kuwait - is the big question on the minds of Gulf War strategists.

Powell, Cheney and Schwarzkopf met to discuss the war's progress, and Cheney planned discussions over dinner with top Saudi officials. He and Powell also planned to visit a Patriot battery on the outskirts of Riyadh.

Air Force commanders were expected to ask for at least two more weeks to pound Iraqi positions in Kuwait and southern Iraq before a ground campaign starts, informed sources told The Associated Press on Friday.

They believe Iraq is still strong enough to make any allied ground offensive bloody.

Accent on Health

BY EZRA DAVIDSON, M.D.

Not long ago, women who put off childbearing until their thirties were a unique breed. Today, waiting past age 30 to have children is becoming a popular (and growing) practice.

One reason for this trend toward later motherhood is the desire of many women to postpone marriage and a family to fulfill career and educational goals. Some also want to wait to have children until they feel settled and financially secure. In addition, divorce and remarriage have led some older women to start second families.

While thirtysomething mothers have maturity, wisdom and stability on their side, they do face some risks with pregnancy not as common among their twentysomething counterparts. The most notorious risk for older mothers is that of having a child with a birth defect, a risk that increases gradually with age. While women in their early 20s have a one in 500 chance of having a child with a genetic disorder, women ages 35 have a one in 192 chance, and women age 40 have a one in 66 chance.

Another concern for women who delay childbearing is declining fertility with increasing age. A decrease in the frequency of ovulation, blockage of the fallopian tubes and endometriosis are some causes of infertility.

In addition, some medical conditions such as high blood pressure and diabetes are more often present among 30-plus women and may increase the risk of complications during pregnancy. Also, the risk of miscarriage is slightly more common in women over 30.

Although the potential for problems during pregnancy increases with age, fortunately, we now have ways to identify and avoid or treat many of these problems. Prenatal testing (such as amniocentesis and ultrasound) enables doctors to detect birth defects and other problems before birth. When a disorder is identified, couples can plan for treatment for the baby or choose to terminate the pregnancy. Other medical conditions, such as diabetes, can be monitored and treated to offset the risks to the fetus.

We also have many new techniques to treat infertility. For couples with problems that can't be corrected, there may be other options, such as in vitro fertilization.

Despite the increased risk of some conditions for 30-plus women, most women over 30 have a low-risk pregnancy, except for age-related genetic risks. Remember that you play the most important role in having a healthy pregnancy. Getting early and continued prenatal care and following your doctor's guidelines will help ensure that your baby is born normal and healthy.

Shaw installed at meeting

Sadie Shaw was recently installed as right support to the vice grand by D.D.P. Susie Curtsinger at the regular meeting of Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228.

Noble Grand Jo Irlbeck presided at the business session. Twelve visits to the sick, 37 cheer cards, six dishes of food and a flower were reported.

The chili supper scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 23, was discussed.

Plans are being made for the Panhandle Association of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs which the Hereford lodges will host April 27-28.

Irlbeck was hostess to Shaw, Curtsinger, Tony Irlbeck, Rosalie Northcutt, Anna Conklin, Ben Conklin, Nelma Sowell, Lydia Hopson, Leona Sowell, Erma Loving, Jim Loving, Genevieve Lynn, Dorothy Lundry, Peggy Lemons, Fern Durham, O.E. Even though the war in the Persian Gulf is some 10,316.25 miles away from downtown Hereford, it seems a lot closer to home for many local residents who have family members serving in the United States Armed Forces.

Sacrifice, bravery, honor, glory, and tragedy are words that hold new meaning for each of us as the struggle in the gulf continues to touch each of our lives.

The employees of Hereford State Bank offer our prayers for the safe return of all American men and women who are fighting for our country and the high ideals it represents.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says one way to get high blood pressure is to go mountain climbing over molehills.

There are more ways than one to make a fortune, but most of us would be satisfied with one.

First movie star: "So your new wife has been married four times and you have been married only twice."

Second star: "That's right, she's two chumps ahead of me."

You can usually tell an Aggie, but you can't tell 'em much! In a column earlier this week, we commented on the number of A&M graduates living in Hereford and the area, and that their presence might be more pronounced by A&M's association with West Texas State.

Here's a response we received:
Dear Speedy:
In this land of "Raiders", "Sooners" and "Buffaloes", it was quite a treat to open my Hereford Brand on Feb. 5 and read your comments about the positive effects of Texas A&M on WTSU and the Texas Panhandle. Thank you!

Your column also spoke of a small boy's reference in church to Texas A&M being Number One. May I take the liberty of quoting to you from the Bible (KJV), Matthew 18:3: "Verily I say unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven."

Could we possibly infer from the comments made by this very intelligent child and by the Bible verse that God doesn't say "Amen", but "GIG 'EM."

Diane Hoelscher, an Aggie Mom

Well, Diane, you make a real good point. Being a Texas Tech grad, however, I look more for Bible references about red and black. For example, Nahum 2:3--"The shield of his mighty men is made red, the valiant men are in scarlet." Or, Revelation 6:1&5--"And I saw when the Lamb opened the seals... And I beheld, and lo, a black horse."

The Brand's weekly feature, "Hustle Hereford", spotlights community businesses and individuals who are helping make Hereford and Deaf Smith County a progressive place to live. Included in the series was H&R Manufacturing, which specializes in jackets and caps and other garments with embroidered logos and names. We were visiting with Herschel and Ruth Black this week and learned they have installed an automatic pocket-making machine at the plant. The machines are manufactured in New Jersey.

The factory representative who came to install the machine told Black it was the first one delivered west of the Mississippi, which says something about the progressive attitude of local businesses like H&R. Black said he called another sewing factory in Texas to see if they had one of the machines. They had about three times the number of sewing machines as H&R and were going out of business. The owner told Herschel he was too small to put in an automatic pocket-maker. Herschel had to point out that H&R was still in business.

In response to a recent column which listed 10 Ways to Stay Fit, a reader has sent us diet that is designed for people to cope with stress that builds up during the day. Jeanette Ramey says the diet was sent to her by a friend in Quannah.

DIETING UNDER STRESS

Breakfast		Lunch
1/2 grapefruit	4 oz. lean broiled chicken breast	1 cup steamed spinach
1 slice dry toast		1 cup herbal tea
8 oz. skimmed milk		1 Oreo cookie
Mid-afternoon Snack		Dinner
Rest of the package of Oreos		2 loaves garlic bread
2 pints Rocky Road ice cream		Large Supreme pizza
1 jar hot fudge sauce		4 cans beer
Nuts, cherries, whipped cream		3 Snickers candy bars
Late-evening Snack
Entire frozen cheesecake directly from freezer

RULES FOR THIS DIET

- If you eat something and no one sees you eat it, it has no calories.
- If you drink a diet soda with a candy bar, the calories in the candy are cancelled out by the diet soda.
- When you eat with someone else, calories don't count if you don't eat more than they do.
- Food used for medicinal purposes never counts. Examples: hot chocolate, brandy, hot toddy, chocolate bars for quick energy, etc.
- If you fatten up everyone else around you, then you look thinner.
- Movie-related foods do not have calories because they are part of the entire entertainment package and not part on one's personal fuel. Examples: Milk Duds, buttered popcorn, Tootsie Rolls, chocolate mints.
- Cookie pieces contain no calories. The process of breaking causes calorie leakage.
- Things licked off knives and spoons have no calories if you are in the process of preparing something. Examples: peanut butter on a knife while making a sandwich, ice cream on a spoon while making a sundae.
- Foods that have the same color have the same number of calories. Examples are spinach and pistachio ice cream, mushrooms and white chocolate. (NOTE: Chocolate is a universal color and may be substituted for any other food color.)

My grandmother out in Arizona says the banking business out there is so bad they only give away calendars by the month.

Well here it is, Valentine's Day is coming up again.

Biggggg deal.

Valentine's Day is probably a great holiday. It has been for me in the past, at times.

Now it's just Feb. 14, another day to pass by on all these calendars in my office.

I suppose I should be grateful that I'm saving all this money instead of spending it on flowers, cards, candy and stuff. Besides, chocolate and my face don't get along. I love chocolate: chocolate is a gift from God, but then the devil steps in and attacks the pores of my face.

And flowers. Some of them smell good. Most of them are pretty. Flowers, according to the commercials, mean you care enough to send the very best. But why is it that the most popular flower for Valentine's Day, the rose, is as noted for its thorns as its simple, elegant beauty? Why? I'll tell you why, if Speedy will buy another barrel of ink. Oh, the perils of love.

And cards. There are some whoppers out there, just waiting for you folks to not be able to make up your mind and, what the heck, I'll just get three of them and surprise her.

And why is Cupid shooting an arrow? Did anybody see the George Custer mini-series? That's what arrows are good for. They were the Scud missiles of earlier times, just

Editorial opinion around the state

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from Texas newspapers:

Jan. 31

Dallas Morning News on Gulf War:

The first blood of U.S. ground troops has been spilled on Arabian sands, the result of a fierce night battle ... to repel a border incursion by Iraqi forces. Allied military spokesmen called the four incursions onto Saudi Arabian soil "probing" attacks. ...

Inflicting allied casualties, especially U.S. casualties, probably had more to do with it. Reports of Iraqi tactics during Tuesday's incursion bear this out. When several of the invading Iraqi tanks encountered allied forces, they reversed their gun turrets, a recognized act of surrender and one interpreted as such by the allied forces. But after a few minutes, the Iraqi tanks opened fire, killing several U.S. Marines and other allied troops.

The temptation to go in and retaliate brutally for that duplicity now will be great - both for the troops there and the American people. That's understandable. That's also what Saddam Hussein is counting on, allied ground forces rushing prematurely into Kuwait where he expects to inflict enough casualties to turn U.S. public opinion against the war. ...

What this ... premature battle should do is convince the allied troops that no rules of war will be adhered to by the Iraqis. Not even that of surrender.

Fort Worth Star-Telegram on bank rescue:

President Bush, in his State of the Union message, said he wanted to bring America's financial system in to the 21st Century.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor,

The American Legion Post 192 of Hereford would like to commend Hereford and Deaf Smith County residents for their interest in flying the flag for our troops participating in the Persian Gulf.

We have had a flag project for some 40 years. When it began the Legionnaires remodeled an old ambulance to be used as a flag wagon (we still have it and use it occasionally in parades). Legionnaires would fill the wagon and line Main Street with flags each holiday. As the town grew, flags were placed at businesses on U.S. highways 60 and 385.

Today the 350 flags that are put out on the streets by the Key Club are all furnished by the American Legion Post. The rental fee is divided and all American Legion monies are used to buy new flags and poles for replacements. The Key Club is doing a good service in our community and we appreciate their help in keeping this project alive.

We have been concerned for sometime about our loss of flags when they are put out on the streets. We have to replace from three to five flags nearly every time, at a cost of about $35 per flag.

Sometimes, in the pickup of flags, some are missed. If they are, we would appreciate the merchant taking it in and taking care of it until the next holiday, and calling us about it.

In addition to this project, we have always had flags available for purchase. Sometimes we do not have them on hand but have always been ready to or any size or number wanted. The sudden interest and patriotic feelings have overwhelmed all of us. Suddenly, flag companies have depleted their stocks and orders are being back-ordered.

The last three orders we have placed have been delayed. We were informed our last order could not be shipped until March; however, we are expecting an order this week. It will be a limited number and since we do have some orders in hand, they will be filled as soon as we receive the flags.

We will continue to take orders and will fill them as soon as possible. In the meantime, call 364-1932 if you need a flag. We will do our best to get one for you as quickly as possible.

We would like to second Clint Formby's idea of making Hereford the most patriotic town in the Panhandle. We encourage everyone to fly the flag.

The first order of business, however, should be to make the financial system survive the rest of this century. To that end, Congress must act soon to bolster the disappearing bank deposit insurance fund and must focus on restoring confidence in the banking system. ...

(T)he Congressional Budget Office has suggested that the bank insurance fund borrow money temporarily from the treasury while raising the premiums that banks pay for deposit insurance from 19.5 cents per $100 of deposits to 30 cents per $100.

But other, permanent, changes may be needed. The $100,000 cap on insured deposits must be made meaningful, and taxpayers must be protected from another massive fund bailout, perhaps by charging depositors directly for insurance on amounts larger than that. Competing investments and instruments - municipal bond funds, for instance - can be had either with or without insurance, with the comfort of insurance reducing the interest paid to the depositor. ...

Whatever changes are made - and changes there must be, from Congress and within the industry itself - there should be more regulation, not less. If banks are to engage in new areas of business, those areas must be regulated. If non-banks are to infringe further into traditional consumer banking services, they too, must fall under banking regulation.

Feb. 3

The Houston Chronicle on state school funding:

There are indications that state officials may be counting on the indulgence of the Texas Supreme Court in trying to fashion a way out of their school-tax dilemma.

The kindness being hoped for from the court apparently concerns the 25-cent "local enrichment" part of Sen. Carl Parker's statewide school property tax proposal. Parker's proposal is widely seen at the moment as perhaps the only practical way of satisfying the court's ruling that funding available to every school district in the state be equal. ...

The plan has two parts: abolish local school taxes and establish a statewide school property tax of $1 per $100 valuation which will be redistributed by the state, and allow local voters to also add a 25-cent local enrichment tax.

When asked whether the court is likely to approve the 25-cent enrichment, the answer is generally along the lines of "We think so" and "We certainly hope so." That is not reassuring. ...

We trust the Legislature and other state officials will think this through to the point where they don't have to hope, but are sure that the 25 cents is legally sustainable.

Feb. 4

Dallas Times Herald on arms sales:

The routes arms take before they reach their final destination in the Middle East often are as tortuous as the region's politics. We're now seeing the tragic results of these uncontrolled, surreptitious arms deals that have left the nations of the Middle East bristling with weapons from a multitude of sources. In many cases, these same weapons are being unleashed against the very people from whom they were bought. ...

It is imperative that the new world order President Bush talks about include some mechanism to stanch the flow of arms to the Middle East. In this regard, we welcome the initial efforts of Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., the chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on the Middle East.

Mr. Hamilton is urging an international conference be called to discuss what he rightfully calls weapons of mass destruction. Mr. Hamilton even has suggested ending all arms sales to the Mideast.

Such goals will remain lofty - and elusive - as long as the region remains on the boil. Settling the Palestinian question and ensuring the safety of Israel would go a long way toward alleviating the obsession with weaponry that grips the region.

Perhaps one good that can result from the tragedy unfolding in the Mideast is the realization that dumping more arms there only would portend even greater disaster. Once the United Nations resolution ordering Iraq out of Kuwait is enforced, the world body should take up the issue of arms control.

Feb. 6

Waco Tribune Herald on use of cruise missiles:

Considering the extent of allied bombing over the last three weeks, it is somewhat amazing that Saddam Hussein has so little propaganda footage to show to the world of non-strategic targets bombed.

(T)here was film of a mosque half-demolished. Pictures have been shown of a residential area hit, of a hospital room full of injured children, plus more photos that might play on international sympathies.

But the fact is, evidence of that nature has been sparse. All things considered, allied forces really have done an amazing job of hitting strategic targets and avoiding civilian casualties. ...

All of which raises questions about the reported firing of cruise missiles toward Baghdad last week by allied ships. It would seem that with domination of the skies and with highly accurate airborne weapons, long-range missiles would be trained solely on the theater of war and on Iraqi troops. ...

It is an awesome task. No war takes place without civilian casualties, but allied forces have shown the technological ability to minimize such casualties like never before. They should remain devoted to that objective.

Boys sweep basketball games

Herd rolls to 3 wins

Hereford High School's boys' varsity, junior varsity and sophomore teams played Friday in Hereford, and all three won their games convincingly over the Dumas Demons.

The boys varsity Herd led the sweep with a 75-61 thrashing of the varsity Demons. Richard Sanderson led the Whitefaces with 22 points, including 11 in the decisive second quarter when Hereford took the lead for good.

The Herd trailed 13-14 after one quarter, but outscored the Demons 27-13 in the second to take a 40-27 lead into halftime. The burst was fueled by a pressing defense that Dumas found difficult to solve.

With seven to five minutes left in the game, Dumas threatened to cut the lead to under ten, but the Herd held them off.

"I admire Dumas," Hereford coach Jimmy Thomas said. "They could have folded their tent, but they didn't."

The lopsided win gave Thomas the opportunity to give plenty of playing time to four seniors who were playing their last home game: Jose Nava, Chris Steward, Andrew Tijerina and Ben Weatherly.

"Ben did a great job for us," Thomas said. "He had 10 points and several rebounds."

Other Whitefaces in double-figure scoring were Tijerina with 16 and Leo Brown with 14.

The Herd, now 4-5 in district and 9-18 overall, finishes its season Tuesday in Borger.

In the sub-varsity games:

Junior Varsity Herd 79, Dumas 50

The JV Herd ran past the Demons 19-10 in the first quarter and never looked back.

Kevin Kelso scored 23 points, Chad Sandoval had 16, Mark Kreighshauer had 12 and Kyle Hansen 10.

The sophomore team outscored Dumas in every quarter.

Jason Taterovich scored 20, and following him were Reuben Gutierrez with 17, Michael Melendrez with 13 and Greg Coplen with 12.

Freshman Boys

Both Freshmen teams played in their district tournament in Pampa Friday night. Their final games of the season were to be played Saturday morning and early Saturday afternoon.

Hereford Maroon 77, Canyon White 62

The Maroons led 57-52 after three quarters and pulled away in the fourth.

Mark Cooper paced the Maroons with 25 points, followed by Stacey Sanders 10.

Hereford White 56, Dumas 53

D-tails were unavailable on this game. Joe Cabezuella, coach of the Maroon team, provided the score and said that Dumas tried to tie at the end with a three-point shot, but failed.

Herd defense surrounds 'em

Hereford players Chris Steward (22) and Andrew Tijerina (50) surround Dumas player Kevin Scroggins during Friday's game at Whiteface Gymnasium. The Herd won its final home game, 75-61.

8th graders advance to finals of district tournament here

Both of Hereford' eighth grade teams won their games in the district basketball tournament being played Friday in Hereford.

The Maroon team advanced to the championship game against Pampa Red, after edging past Canyon 46-40 Friday night.

Canyon hit a three-pointer with 2:12 left in the game, cutting Hereford's lead to 42-38. After that, however, Hereford players hit 4 of 6 free throw attempts and allowed Canyon to score only two free throws the rest of the way.

Hereford's White team (the "B" team) advanced to the finals in the consolation bracket with a come-from-behind victory over Valley View's "A" team.

The Whites were down 12-13 at halftime, and still trailed late in the fourth quarter. But with just under three minutes left, Hereford's Benton Buckley hit a three-point shot to bring the Whites within three at 32-29.

Valley View soon hit two free throws to make it 34-29, but they didn't score again.

A nice turn-around jumper by Cody Curtis cut the lead back to three. The, with just under a minute left to play, Raymond Alaniz hit a three-point shot from the wing to tie it at 34-all.

Valley View turned the ball over on a travelling call, and Curtis hit another turn-around from 12 feet to win it 36-34. The Whites handled the ball well in running out the final seconds.

In other district tournament action Friday, Pampa Red, that school's "A" team, whipped Borger 54-36, enabling the Reds to advance to the championship against Hereford Maroon.

Also, Pampa Blue, their "B" team, squeaked by Dumas (an "A" team) 34-29, setting up a consolation final between the only two "B" teams in the bracket.

The championship game and the consolation championship game were played Saturday. The Brand will have details Tuesday.

YOUR EYES

IS YOUR CHILD NEARSIGHTED?

Myopia, or nearsightedness, doesn't wait for a particular time period before developing in a child. Its signs can be detected at virtually any age and parents should be alert for developing vision problems.

If your child complains of a blurriness after playing with small objects like puzzles or pegs, squints, complains that it's more difficult to see at night, or inches closer to the TV set all the time, those are the clues for you to bring in the youngster for a thorough eye examination.

Some parents depend on eye tests at school to provide them with an indication of a problem. However, they are only screenings that can identify children who are already nearsighted. The knowledgeable optometrist has specialized skills and instruments that can spot early myopic tendencies. In some cases, the progress of the myopia can be slowed through early treatment. Your child's vision is too precious for anything less than regular professional examination and expert treatment when indicated.

UNLV-Arkansas meet Sunday

By JIM O'CONNELL
AP Basketball Writer

March Madness comes early. Just about a month early and in the form of what could be one of the best college basketball games in recent years: No. 1 UNLV at No. 2 Arkansas.

The rankings alone make Sunday's matchup a treat so rare that there have only been nine games between Nos. 1 and 2 in the last 10 seasons.

Now add in some other factors: UNLV's 30-game winning streak, 19 this season, and the Runnin' Rebels' defense of a national championship that was taken away and returned amid some hard feelings.

Arkansas' 23-1 mark that includes 20 straight wins and the Razorbacks' determination to make their farewell season in the Southwest Conference a rousing success.

It gives you a game worthy of the attention and hype it has received.

"This has been a bigger buildup than the Final Four," Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson said. He should know about Final Fours since the Razorbacks joined the Runnin' Rebels there last year.

"There's never been a regular-season game with so much hype and expectation. I think it's great for the people here to bring a game of this magnitude to Barnhill."

That's Barnhill Arena, Arkansas' homecourt with a capacity of 9,000, half of the crowd to watch these teams last season at UNLV's Thomas & Mack Center. Barnhill crowds are among the loudest, staunchest and toughest in the country, but the Runnin' Rebels thrive on that and even play up to the road crowds.

This crowd appears ready for the challenge.

"The students started camping out today for the first-come, first-served seats," Richardson said Tuesday. "It's like we don't have another game left after this. The people think this is something they have to be here for. This is what's happening. It's been a hectic week."

It was for Jerry Tarkanian as well. The coach of the Runnin' Rebels was being besieged by callers, some from the media, the rest looking for a ticket.

"They're crying for tickets," he said. "They only gave us 30 and there are a lot of people who want to go. All they have to figure out is how to get a ticket."

What will be harder to figure out is which will give first - UNLV's swarming pressure defense which turns instantly into its offense or Arkansas' frantic pace at both ends of the court.

It's hard to imagine either team changing its style in any way.

"We don't ever talk about the other teams," Tarkanian said. "We prepare ourselves physically, mentally and emotionally and play the way we can and the way we talked about."

That means averaging 104.1 points per game, while holding opponents to 38 percent shooting and forcing an average of 20 turnovers per game.

"They are number one for a reason," Richardson said. "They have a great team and they can do so much."

Arkansas, which lost to Arizona in the preseason NIT final, averages 100.3 points per game and has also turned turnovers into points, forcing 22 per game.

"We know their team from last year and we know how tough they can be," Tarkanian said.

Last year's game, the first ever between the schools, was won by UNLV 101-93 and what happened then could be a key to Sunday.

Most of the scoring came from the guards on both teams, but UNLV managed to get some help from the frontcourt.

Arkansas has to stop forwards Larry Johnson, who leads UNLV at 22.7 per game, and Stacey Augmon, next at 17.4. The bulk of the defensive responsibility for the Razorbacks up front falls to Oliver Miller, a 6-foot-9 junior known for his bulk and blocks.

"No question Big O will be a key factor and we have to keep him in the game," Richardson said. "He helps us on defense because we can afford to take chances trapping with him blocking shots. This is a big game for Big O, but he has gone against some of the bigger and better players in the country."

Of the last nine 1-2 matchups, five were played on homecourts and the visitors won three. The top-ranked team managed a 7-2 record in those games.

You get the feeling no statistic can do this game justice.

"Every game is the most important game in the world," Richardson said. "I got on the scene late and every one is important to Nolan Richardson, every one of them. But I'd be lying if I said I haven't thought about this one a little more."

DOESN'T LIKE FILM

NEW YORK (AP) - Former big-league slugger Greg Luzinski was asked if he ever used film to correct his swing when he was in a slump.

Greg said no way. "I wouldn't even know what I should be looking for," he said. "When I was playing, I never thought of stuff like that. Why make the game more complex than it is? All baseball is, really, is seeing the ball, hitting it, throwing it and catching it."

Baseball historians say a form of baseball called rounders was played in England at least as early as the 18th century.

Knight decides he wants to be in Hall after all

By JIM LITKE
AP Sports Writer

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) - Just like always, he did it his way. And like almost always, Bob Knight won.

Three years ago, the two dozen electors for the Basketball Hall of Fame passed Knight over on his first appearance on the ballot, and the mercurial one, calling it "a slap in the face," demanded that his name be withdrawn from future consideration.

But last October a committee of the hall changed the rules and put Knight back on the ballot against his wishes. And Thursday, almost certainly with some trepidation, the same electors went along and voted to bring him in out of the cold.

If Knight seemed humbled upon hearing the news, it's because he was.

"When a coach is honored, it's an honor for all the players who played for him," he said. "A player enters the hall on his abilities. A coach enters on the ability of his players."

Minutes after Indiana hammered lowly Big Ten rival Northwestern, Knight was asked when and why his attitude toward the Hall had changed, and he responded with an uncharacteristically long, rambling answer.

He began by talking about the need to make a statement, but then shifted course and talked about how, once he really thought about it, too many people had invested too much in him to turn this singular honor down.

He talked about how one of the men who played for him at Army two decades ago now was commanding a battalion in the Persian Gulf and how he might read about Knight's election in the coming days and say to himself with a smile, "I had something to do with this."

And he talked about how he had driven legendary coach Clair Bee to the hall for Bee's own induction ceremony a few years back and spent most of the ride trying to convince his mentor that there was no shame in getting elected as a "contributor" to the game instead of as a coach.

From there he went on another few minutes, but the only thing that became clearer the longer Knight went on was how much he had wanted this honor all along.

And, as it turns out, getting him inside the building was the easy part. The real work begins with trying to decide which artifacts from his storied career go on display.

Do you emphasize the triumphs or the tantrums?

Do you go after his 1984 Olympic gold medal or the folding chair he launched across the Assembly Hall floor the very next season?

The 1976 NCAA championship trophy (one of three he earned) or the rap sheet following his scuffle with a Puerto Rican cop at the Pan Am Games a few years later?

A Coach of the Year plaque (he has five) or the tampon Knight left in a locker to let one of his players know he thought him a wimp?

Though the hall's curators will concern themselves only with the former, they should really go after both. Few coaches - or people in any profession, for that matter - segue from success to excess and back again with the clear-headed purpose and hard-hearted charm as the red-sweatered Knight.

Spurs' Iceman Gervin adjusting to life after basketball, cocaine

By DAVID WHITLEY
The San Antonio Light

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - If anyone ever wanted to hurt George Gervin, all they had to do was take away his basketball.

While others slept, he was in the gym. He practiced shots most never dreamed of. In his mind, he scorched Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Julius Erving and anyone else who got in his way.

"That's what made me. I loved it," Gervin said. "When I was young, if I didn't play basketball, the sun didn't shine that day."

His only problem was that he couldn't stay young forever. Eventually, Gervin had to grow up, to let go of the game that he thinks still hasn't paid him proper homage. It wasn't easy.

Two years ago this month, Gervin was rushed to the hospital. The initial report said he had tried to commit suicide. That wasn't completely false.

"I didn't sit down and say, 'I'm going to kill myself,'" Gervin said. "But being an addict is a form of suicide."

He had become an expert at it. Get high on cocaine. Come down with booze and marijuana. Even if there was a sun out there, Gervin wasn't up to see it.

"I was living like Count Dracula, where I'd stay up all night and sleep all day," he said. "I got sick and tired of George Gervin living in the Dark Ages."

His journey into the light has taken him back to where many of his problems started. Gervin is a community liaison with the Spurs. It wasn't the job he had in mind when he showed up at their doorstep a few months ago. He told Vice President for Basketball Operations Bob Bass that he wanted to play again.

"I was serious," Gervin said. "What did I have to lose?"

"We need another player," Bass told him. "But we need one with some legs."

With that, Gervin finally started to accept the unacceptable. Except for nostalgic appearances such as the NBA Legends game during this weekend's all-star festivities, the Iceman was history. It was time to become George Gervin.

He'll be 39 years old in three months. His legs may have lost their spring, but his appearance hasn't changed much from when he revolutionized the game. Before Magic, there was Gervin. A guard in a forward's body.

He hasn't added much weight to his lean, 6-foot-8 frame. The half-mast eyes that helped make his game look so cool and effortless still peer out. Flecks of gray hair have started frosting his head.

"Wisdom, that's what those are," Gervin said. "It's time they came out."

He still answers to Iceman, a name he picked up during his early ABA days. Iceman basically was the Spurs during the late 1970s and early 1980s. If you don't believe that, watch the stir Gervin causes when he makes an appearance.

He can't sit down at a Spurs game. That's partially because the rows are too close together for his legs to fit. But mostly, it's because he can't relax and watch like everyone else.

Gervin stands around and revels in giving autographs and chatting it up with fans. He has become wise enough to know that he needs the fans as much as they need him.

"I'm into the light. I'm not in the darkness trying to hide from people anymore," he said. "I want people to see me. That's a help. As long as I'm seen, people recognize that I'm all right."

The Spurs pay Gervin about $40,000 a year, roughly one-twentieth what he used to take to the bank. For that money, Gervin makes appearances on behalf of the team. Instead of a prepared speech, he just gets up and talks about where he's come from.

Being a regular working stiff more than agrees with Gervin. After years of having everything done for him, the regimented lifestyle is a major factor in his recovery.

He stays busy planning the George Gervin Youth Center, a home for abused and neglected children, which he hopes to open this summer. And he's found a new outlet for his addictive personality.

Six months after first picking up a golf club and with no lessons to guide him, he is shooting in the low 90s.

His goal, he says in all seriousness, is to make the Senior Tour.

"Damn right," he said. "I've got 20 years to practice."

These days, he's either at work, on the golf course, or at home with his wife and three children. It's a fairly G-rated existence for a guy who wants to make a movie about his life.

The director would have to be Spike Lee, "for the Black heritage," Gervin said. He would bring in Steven Spielberg for the special effects. Only Spielberg could come up with a demon worthy of the drug addiction Gervin knows he will carry with him for the rest of his life.

He doesn't remember when he first tried cocaine. But when dealers found out he liked it, they were more than willing to supply a superstar. Being seen with Gervin was good for business.

"They scratched my back," he said, "and I scratched theirs."

Gervin just "dibbled and dabbled" in drugs for most of his career. Toward the end, they became more a means of escape than recreation.

No athlete likes to admit he's near the end. When coach Cotton Fitzsimmons asked the four-time NBA scoring champ to make way for Alvin Robertson and become the Spurs' sixth man in 1985, Gervin thought he was crazy.

"I don't think anybody realized how much that hurt him," said Jim Turner, a longtime friend of Gervin's. "It was a slap in the face. It was like 'After all I've done for you, this is how you repay me?'"

Gervin now sees some merit in Fitzsimmons' thinking. But at that time, he rebelled quietly, missing a few practices and basically forcing a trade to Chicago for forward David Greenwood.

"Any other player would have attacked them," said Jerry Barisano, who is writing a book with Gervin. "But that's never been George's style."

The trade was the beginning of the end for Gervin. He averaged a career-low 16.2 points a game in one season with the Bulls, but his nose was on a career high when it came to cocaine.

"I was real, real depressed," Gervin said. "I had already been using. So after I left San Antonio, I pretty much quit basketball. Up in Chicago, I really got pretty sick."

The Bulls did not offer him a contract the next season, so Gervin played a season in Italy. He then moved back to San Antonio and briefly took a front-office job with the Spurs. It was a miserable time.

"I think after he quit playing, he didn't like himself very much," Bass said.

Truth is, he hated himself. His wife Joyce and friends tried to help him work out his drug problem. Two times, he went through rehabilitation. Two times, it failed.

"I kept going in for other people," Gervin said.

A few months after his overdose in 1989, he went to the John Lucas clinic in Houston for himself.

"I just reached the point where I said, 'I can't live like this anymore,'" Gervin said. "I didn't love myself. I really hated myself. I wanted to say I loved somebody, but I couldn't say that until I loved myself. It feels good to love yourself again."

"I got back in touch with my faith. Even that felt good again, being thankful to God again that you're alive."

Once drug-free, he couldn't resist giving basketball one more try. No NBA team was interested, so he played part of last season with the Quad City Thunder of the CBA. After a few weeks, Portland offered him a 10-day contract, but Gervin took a $100,000 offer from a team in Spain.

Gervin was going to return there this year, but the team was sold and that option dried up. He decided there was only one place left for him to try. He got a sympathetic ear from the Spurs, but not a contract.

Gervin said he would have liked a farewell tour like Dr. J or Kareem. Unfortunately, I was like the black sheep of that elite group. Being down in San Antonio, it was easy for them to skip over me.

"That's exactly what they've done. In the Legends-type videos, you seldom see me. It seems I've made somebody mad in the NBA office. But I don't take offense because I know I'm the people's choice."

Gervin has learned to be happy with that. His first Legends game is strictly for fun.

"The way I love the game, if I really geared myself up, I might start thinking I could play again," he said.

Deep down, Gervin probably thinks he can. But he's finally realized that the sun will still shine whether he does or not.

"I still love it, but I love where I'm at now," he said. "It was tough to let go. But you know, life goes on. I've had my turn. I'm satisfied."

New surface makes track waterproof

HONG KONG (AP) - It's called Nelton and it results in what is virtually a waterproof race track. It is a mixture of regular soil and polymers which create a polypropylene mesh to establish a turf that holds together under the most adverse conditions.

Hong Kong's famous Happy Valley Race Course had nine inches of rain and the grass course stayed in good shape. So far, Nelton has been used only on turf and not on dirt courses.

Santa Anita Park in Arcadia, Calif., is expected to be the first American track to try Nelton.

When Luis Tiant of the Red Sox beat Cincinnati by a score of 5-4 in the fourth game of the 1975 World Series, he made 163 pitches.

The game of badminton got its name because it was first played on a baronial estate called Badminton.

Pokes' offense starting over with Norval

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Give Norval Turner a merit badge for courage.

He's stepping into the boiler room as the new offensive coordinator of the Dallas Cowboys.

Like David Shula, he could become severely scalded if he doesn't handle the pressure gauges just right in tinkering with an offense that currently rests in the NFL junk yard of futility. Twenty-eighth. Dead solid last.

Turner has to find a way to harness quarterback Troy Aikman's immense talent and please a demanding coach Jimmy Johnson, who demoted Shula after two seasons of offensive misfires.

Turner was an assistant with the Los Angeles Rams for six years and learned the passing gospel according to coordinator Ernie Zampese. Of course, Zampese learned at the knee of the old pass-master Don Coryell, former coach of the St. Louis Cardinals and the San Diego Chargers.

Remember Dan Fouts with the Chargers? He was running the offense now used by the Rams and soon to be used by the Cowboys. Fouts seldom got trapped, threw on timing and set numerous NFL passing records.

The Rams offense has been near the top of the NFL based on quick three- to five-step drops, rollouts, and hitting receivers deep and on the run.

The days of the Shula "hook and curl" routes are numbered until summer camp starts.

The 38-year-old Turner could also make impressive strides if he could just teach the Cowboys how to run a screen pass, an art form of slowing down the pass rush that Shula all but ignored.

In defense of Shula's offense, he didn't have a training camp to work with running back Emmitt Smith, who blossomed late in the season to become NFL offensive rookie of the year. Smith was a holdout and once he came aboard, Shula tried to keep the offense as simple as possible.

Johnson, who listened to Shula's play-calling all season, decided a new offensive coordinator was needed and Shula is now at Cincinnati.

Johnson opted for Gary Stevens, who said "yes" then "no" then "maybe." Finally, Stevens stayed with Don Shula and the Dolphins as the passing game coach.

The key to Turner's success will be how he communicates with the future of the franchise, Aikman.

So far, so good. Aikman, who is recuperating from a separated shoulder and an elbow operation, thinks he might be healthier under Turner's offensive strategy.

"I think my style of play will be enhanced because I won't be just standing and waiting," Aikman said. "I'll be getting rid of the ball quicker and our receivers will get it on the run. Our offensive linemen won't have to block as long either."

Turner said he will "try to speed up" Aikman's mechanics.

This all looks good on paper, of course. Aikman's arm must heal properly and he has to absorb a new offense.

The Cowboys will once again go into next season searching for just the right offensive touch to augment a defense that has become more than respectable under Dave Wannstedt.

Dallas won seven games last year to get Johnson named AP NFL Coach of the Year but the club would have made the playoffs if the offense had clicked.

Turner, a former quarterback at the University of Oregon, could make a big name for himself if he becomes the savior of the Dallas offense.

Of course, if he doesn't.....

Just ask David Shula.

Gary and Patti Bidwell enjoy the outdoors with their sons Dwayne and Phillip.

"Here are two reasons we decided to move to this area from California."

"This is a great place to raise a family. We particularly like the school system and how the adults take part — no matter how busy they are.

"Our decision to move here was made with our eyes wide open. Since I was born and grew up here, then spent over twelve years in California, we were able to weigh one area's advantages against the other. And we decided to come here. It has turned out to be a smart move.

"You know, I kind of feel like I never left."

WALKING A MILE

LONDON (AP) - The English word mile has Latin origins.

It is derived from "milia passuum," meaning 1,000 paces. These paces, as marched by Roman soldiers in double step, were the equivalent of about 5 feet, and the mile originally measured 5,000 feet.

About the year 1500, the English statute mile was amended to measure 5,280 feet, or 1.6093 kilometers.

ORIGIN OF LONDON

LONDON (AP) - How did the capital of Great Britain get its name?

Historians believe the word London derives from the Celtic Llyn-Din ("hill by the pool").

Johnson picked to attend NYLC

David Johnson, a senior at Hereford High School, has been selected to attend the 1991 National Young Leaders Conference in Washington D.C.

Having demonstrated academic achievement, leadership and citizenship, Johnson will be among 350 high school students from across the nation at the conference for outstanding young leaders sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council.

Throughout the six-day conference, the scholars will meet with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the media and the diplomatic corps.

Johnson participates in varsity track and was accepted to 1990 Who's Who Among American High School Students and he is on the A honor roll.

He is the son of Steve and Sharon Johnson of Hereford and Peggy Elliott of Groom.

Farm and Ranch

It's dinner time

Cattle line up at Hereford Feedyards, east of Hereford, for their mid-day snack. Hereford Feedyard is one of 14 in Deaf Smith County that contribute to its success as one of the nation's largest cattle sales and feeding regions.

CRP planting begins

It's CRP planting time and the approved warm season perennial grasses in Deaf Smith County planting time is here.

December 1st to June 1st are the planting dates that apply to CRP plantings and overseeding.

The grass should not be planted where there is not adequate dead litter crop. Chemical carryover should also be recognized before planting the grass. Some chemicals react differently to certain species of grass; therefore, correlating the type of grass or the planting date of a grass is a must.

Not all species of grass are approved for planting in Deaf Smith County, so make sure the species of grass which you plan to plant is approved for cost-share.

A current grass seed tag from each bag of seed will be required by SCS, for CRP plantings, before the bills can be turned in for cost share assistance. The seed tags will need to contain the following information: lot number, bulk pounds, percent purity, percent germination, species, date tested and origin of seed.

The optimum planting depth for the approved grass species in Deaf

Smith County, is 1/4 of an inch deep and never over 1/2 of an inch deep; except for Buffalograss and Wheatgrass, where the optimum planting depth is 1/2 of an inch deep and never over one inch deep.

Please contact the Soil Conservation Service for your questions about technical assistance at 315 W. 3rd Street in Hereford or call at 364-6995.

Programs and services of the Soil Conservation Service are offered on a nondiscriminatory basis without regards for race, color, national origin, age, sex, religion, marital status or handicap.

Deaf Smith County leads nation in cattle production

By DANEE' WILSON
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County leads the nation in cattle sales, according to the recently released Texas Cattle Feeders Association (TCFA), Census Bureau figures.

Based on data collected in 1987, the county had $531 million in cattle sales.

Texas led the nation in the value of cattle and calves sold in 1987 at $6 billion. Texas was followed by Kansas and Nebraska.

In 1989, Deaf Smith County fed 885,563 head of cattle, far more than any other county in Texas. Parmer County was next feeding 492,088 head and Castro County fed 489,142.

According to Burt Rutherford of TCFA, the average payroll per thousand head fed cattle brings to Hereford is $2 million per year in direct payroll.

When broken down, $2 million in direct payroll brings approximately $5.64 million in potential economic impact for Hereford.

"That doesn't mean that feeders will spend $5.64 million in Hereford, but the potential is there," Rutherford said.

Large quantities of cattle require enormous amounts of feed. Approximately 3,584.74 tons of grain is needed per day to feed 885,563 head of cattle. Almost 143 semi-trucks are needed to haul that much grain. One local feedyard runs five trucks a day, all day long.

TCFA oversees the majority of trading in the tri-state area. Feeders in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico marketed nearly 6 million head of fed cattle in 1990.

Agency cites failure

WASHINGTON (AP) - A congressional watchdog agency says the Agriculture Department has failed to develop a long-range, strategic plan for selling farm products to overseas buyers.

The General Accounting Office said the department "is not prepared to guide agribusiness in a market-driven economy," although USDA agencies have reacted to some of the challenges.

By and large, the GAO said in a report Tuesday, the department's various agencies lack important marketing policies, practices and skills.

"For example, three of the four agencies (in USDA) we examined do not coordinate their program planning or systematically exchange information," the report said.

As a matter of background, the report noted that the United States "lost its preeminent position in world trade during the 1980s."

The report also said many U.S. competitors, including the European Community, "have developed significant expertise in identifying markets and promoting products" for those markets.

Moisture needed for crops

WASHINGTON (AP) - Much of the nation's food-producing area is brimming with moisture that will be needed in a few months to produce key crops such as corn, wheat and soybeans, says the Agriculture Department's chief weatherman.

"We're sitting with saturated soils over much of the eastern part of the nation right now," said Norton D. Strommen, chief meteorologist for the department's world agricultural outlook board.

"Most of the Corn Belt has got more moisture in the ground right now than when we started the growing season last year," he said.

No weather is perfect for all people. Too much rain or snow has caused floods and hardship for many. There also are huge pockets of severe drought where long-time moisture deficits still lurk ominously.

Strommen commented after a weekly report Tuesday by the government's Joint Agricultural Weather Facility showed the cold weather that pinched California fruit and vegetable crops was part of a frisky general pattern that wound up the old year and ushered in the new.

"The year 1990 ended with a slew of records and extremes," the facility said in its report for the week of Dec. 30-Jan. 5.

Low temperature records were set in nearly 50 locations, from the northern plains to Texas, westward to California, the report said. Heavy snow and gusty winds belted the Northwest as the latest surge of cold air settle in.

Feed grains costliest part of price support program

WASHINGTON (AP) - Corn and other feed grains are still the big cost items in the Agriculture Department's price support program outlook for next year.

Overall, net outlays by the department's Commodity Credit Corp. are projected at more than $11 billion in the 1992 fiscal year that will begin Oct. 1, just as the 1991 corn crop is being harvested.

That would be up from about $10.8 billion in 1991, $6.47 billion in 1990 and $10.5 billion in 1989.

According to the administration's budget plan sent to Congress on Monday, corn program costs in 1992 will exceed $3 billion for the first time since 1989, when they were nearly $3.4 billion.

Wheat costs next year are expected to be more than $2.5 billion, down slightly from their 1991 level.

Other costs of operating commodity programs in 1992, according to USDA's budget analysis, included: rice, $775 million in 1992 and $818 million this year; upland cotton, $823 million and $389 million; and dairy, $392 million and $665 million.

Stephen B. Dewhurst, the department's budget director, said that when the five-year 1990 farm bill was signed by President Bush last fall it was said that the measure would save about $11 billion over its lifetime.

At that time, farm program costs were projected to cost around $54 billion over the five years under price formulas included in the old law. But the 1990 farm bill, he said, would reduce the five-year cost to about $43 billion.

Dewhurst explained that USDA's latest projection puts the five-year cost of commodity programs at $49 billion, compared with a revised $60 billion if the old law had been kept. "The savings (of $11 billion) are still there," he said, "but like all entitlement programs, the absolute cost numbers have moved up because of economic conditions."

Total USDA spending in 1992 was projected at $55.7 billion, up less than 1 percent from $55.4 billion estimated for this fiscal year.

The budget seeks to reduce subsidies to wealthier farmers by $36 million in the 1992 fiscal year. Thereafter, through 1996, the annual savings would be $90 million.

According to the Bush proposal, the department's Commodity Credit Corp. would seek congressional authority to "reduce subsidies to those with off-farm incomes over $125,000" a year.

In the case of federal crop insurance, the 1992 savings would be $77 million because reduced subsidies would force up premiums paid by farmers. Those savings would vary but were shown to be at least $147 million a year through 1996.

One of the fastest-growing programs - and USDA's costliest - is the food and nutrition package, which includes food stamps, school lunches and WIC assistance for women, infants and children.

Those programs will cost about $30 billion in 1992, making up more than half of total USDA spending for the year.

Food stamp outlays are projected at $19.6 billion, up from $18.1 billion in 1991 and $15 billion in 1990.

Department officials said an average of almost 22.4 million people are expected to participate in the 1992 food stamp program, up from about 21.8 million this year and 20 million in 1990.

Maximum food stamp benefits for a family of four will rise to $370 a month in 1992 from $352 this year and $331 in 1990.

One major overhaul proposed in Bush's budget is certain to stir controversy on Capitol Hill. It would require rural power cooperatives to obtain more of their financing from private lenders.

Department budget managers said the Rural Electrification Administration's total program level, including rural telephone as well as electric loans, would rise to more than $2.2 billion in 1992 from about $2 billion this year.

Lawrence Wachs, associate budget director, said the intent is not to cut back on REA financing of rural facilities but to shift borrowers to loan guarantees provided by the agency.

Wachs said last year's budget proposal sought the same thing. Also, the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1990 provided a step in that direction, mandating a 25 percent shift from direct to guaranteed loans.

According to a USDA analysis, the 1992 budget proposal "continues to promote a shift from direct to guaranteed private sector loans and other reforms" for the REA.

"The administration has consistently proposed a more extensive shift and will repeat this legislative proposal for 1992," the report said.

4-H, FFA exhibit in stock shows

Sixty-five 4-H and FFA members from Deaf Smith County will compete in the Houston Livestock Show Feb. 16 through March 3 at the Astrodome.

The Houston show, including the junior division, the open show and the horse show, is the world's largest.

Exhibitors from Deaf Smith County include Amanda Andrews, Hayden Andrews, Holly Andrews, Nelson Beville, Caleb Brumley, Jason Brumley, Craig Campbell, Jim Bret Campbell, Kinann Campbell, Brent Carlson, Jeffrey Carlson, Michael Carlson, Colby Christie, Kelly Christie, Jaci Edwards, Damon Godwin and Donna Grotegut.

Also, Shawn Lance, Dustin Lewis, Patricia Martinez, Jason Messer, Nikki Messer, Don Metcalf, Cory Newton, Patrick Newton, Dusty Saul, Cheryl Schlabs, Jennifer Scott, Justin Scott, Sheila Teel, Trisha Teel, Greg Urbanczyk, Lori Urbanczyk and Chris Williams.

Also, Brady Wilson, Brian Wilson, Jay Wilson, Shambryn Wilson, Stephanie Wilson, Justin Griffith, Wade Johnson, Brandy Messer, Todd Reinart, David Russell, Brooke Seiver, Zachary Vasek, Brandee Wall, Carissa Wall and Steven Wheat.

Also, Art Allemann, Chuch Allemann, Karen Allemann, Brek

Binder, Brittney Binder, Chris Blair, Jeremy Blair, Cassie Brooks, Taylor Brooks, Aaron Caraway, Melissa Caraway, Jason Ford and Amber Griffith.

Several local youngsters will also be competing in the calf scramble at the Astrodome during the rodeo on March 2.

The youngsters include Jeffery Carlson, Michael Carlson, Jeremy Blair, Justin Blair and Wade Johnson.

A total of 288 certificates, 17 at each rodeo performance, will be awarded. The event involved 28 youngsters pitted against 14 calves. Each youngster is committed to capturing a calf, haltering it and bringing it to the finish line. The successful ones receive $800 calf purchase certificates. There will also be two "hard luck" certificates awarded.

Youngsters representing 862 4-H and FFA chapters will have over 13,000 entries in the lamb, barrow, steer and other shows this year. The youngsters will vie for spots in the annual premium auction which exceeded $2.7 million last year.

Other events include barbecue ccooking, fiddling, hay hauling, horseshoe pitching, washer pitching, quilting, dominoes and team penning contests. There will also be various animal specialty acts.

Arrowhead Mills honors

Nancy Shaw, center, and Raul Guerrero, right, were named employees of the year recently by Arrowhead Mills of Hereford. They received the honors from Boyd Foster, Arrowhead CEO. Guerrero has worked for the firm for 16 years, and Shaw has been at Arrowhead Mills for 12 years.

Ag department conducts survey

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department is conducting a special survey to help get a fix on how much corn, soybeans and other crops farmers will plant for the 1991 harvest.

The survey is being conducted the last two weeks of January by the department's National Agricultural Statistics Service. The results will be released by the agency on Feb. 11.

Charles Caudill, administrator of the agency, said the report will include the 1991 national acreage intentions for corn, sorghum, soybeans, barley, durum wheat, other spring wheat, all rice, all cotton and all sunflower.

The report also will show the proportion of farmers who intend to plant other oilseed crops such as canola, rapeseed, safflower, flaxseed and mustard seed.

Caudill said the provisions of the new farm law passed last year prompted the survey. The law includes new planting flexibility so farmers can adjust plantings to fit in with market signals.

The survey "will provide producers with early indications of what acreage shifts might be expected in 1991," he said.

Life!

BRANDED Women

By Sandy Stagner

We all have our "boiling points" and I am no exception. When I've taken all I can, I get crazy.

If I get upset at work, I have learned to control my frustrations until I get home. Then I let loose. I might go into the shower, turn on the water and scream for a few minutes. Or I might retreat to my bedroom, where I silently pout for a few hours until I can act like a normal human being. Sometimes I just punch pillows or frantically clean the house.

Unfortunately, I haven't learned to control my emotions when I get upset at home. If I'm really angry, the entire household is instantly alerted—the cats hide in the closet, John "on the spur of the moment" decides to play racquetball and my daughter begins cleaning her bedroom without me nagging at her. It takes a lot to get me mad but when I do—watch out.

For a couple of months now, my husband and I have been "possessed" with playing Scrabble. We got on this kick one Saturday afternoon when it was snowing and we were suffering from cabin fever. In an effort to keep from killing each other, we started playing Scrabble at 4 p.m. and didn't stop until 2 a.m. Sunday. I dreamed about making words all night and the first thing I did when I awoke was to challenge my husband to another marathon afternoon of Scrabble. Since then, we have been playing nightly.

I don't know why I play, I always lose. Following 200 Scrabble games and listening to my husband say, "I am sooooo good! I'm the greatest!", I finally lost it. I picked up the Scrabble board and hit him over the head with it (not hard). I then grabbed all the Scrabble tiles and threw them into the air. I looked around at the mess in amazement. Well, it wasn't my fault, John shouldn't have gloated.

"Gosh, you're a bad sport," John exclaimed. "It's not my fault that I'm smarter than you are...that I'm cool...that I'm the best...."

"Just one more word out of your mouth, and I will not be responsible for killing you," I glared. "I might just get one of your golf clubs, wrap it around your "big head" and stuff your body into the golf bag. You say I'm not smart. Think again. When I "do you in," I'll make it look like an accident and collect the insurance money. With the loot, I'll hire a Scrabble instructor, and then find another husband and beat the socks off him." This conversation was really getting ridiculous.

Unfortunately, my daughter had witnessed the entire "childish" scene. "Mother, you take this Scrabble thing much too serious. So, John is smarter than you, just accept it."

That did it. I was going to beat the big lug on willpower alone. "Okay, Stagner," I yelled. "We are going to play until I win. If it takes 24 hours, so be it. We are not moving from this spot except to answer the call of nature. Candi can toss us food if we get hungry. Are you man enough to except the challenge?"

With a smirk on his face, John set the board up and said, "Ready when you are."

We played non-stop from 5 p.m. until 3:30 a.m. Although I had lost eight games, I was determined to win the final one. We both had two letters left to play. The score was close but I was confident, I was going to make the word "quest" when it was my turn to play. That would give me big points pushing me over the edge.

The minutes ticked by slowly while I waited on John to play. A thin line of perspiration formed on his upper lip. I had the sucker right where I wanted him. There was no way he could win. Just as I was about to let out a victory cry, John made the word "zesty."

What? How had this travesty happened? I had covered all the angles. I had rehearsed my moves so carefully. After I composed myself, I looked up at John. I didn't see my husband (who 99 percent of the time is a great guy), I saw a man I very intensely disliked. He had turned into my enemy and he must be destroyed!

I'm not actually entertaining the thought of putting him away, I just need to take him down a notch or two. His ego definitely needs to be deflated. But how and when?

I haven't figured out how to get even but I do know I will wait until after Valentine's Day. And he thinks I'm stupid!

HEATHER WILLOUGHBY, JERRY MARK JOHNSON

Observance of Heart Month announced by association

Get clued in to the early warning signs of a heart attack. That's the message from the American Heart Association for Heart Month which runs throughout February.

"Our mission is to reduce disability and death from cardiovascular diseases and stroke. This February, the volunteers in Deaf Smith County Division hope to educate people on the early warning signs of a heart attack and to inform them how to respond," said Margaret Perez, Deaf Smith County Chapter president.

Today cardiovascular disease accounts for almost one of every two deaths in America—almost a million deaths a year. Heart attack—the number one cause of death—claims over 22,000 deaths each year in Texas.

"The American Heart Association's Heart Month activities will help the people of Deaf Smith County recognize and respond to a heart attack."

Activities that will be taking place in the following months include the Neighbor-to-Neighbor Heart Walk Sunday, Feb. 24; schools participating in the Jump Rope for Heart; and the Heart Association Celebrity Dinner to be held in mid-April.

The president with the most children was Tyler, who had 15.

Engagement announced

Heather Leigh Willoughby and Jerry Mark Johnson, both of Hereford, plan to exchange wedding vows April 13 in the Community Church.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Jerry Lee and Cyndi Walker of 224 Fir and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Jerry Mack and Mary Johnson of 245 Aspen.

Miss Willoughby is a 1989 graduate of Hereford High School. She is a licensed cosmetologist, beauty advisor and in partnership with her mother and grandmother at Merle Norman Cosmetics and The Gift Garden.

Johnson, a 1987 graduate of HHS, is the manager of the Dairy Queen in Dimmitt.

DETROIT (AP) - Miss USA, Carole Gist of Michigan, is upset about not getting all the $144,000 in prizes she won last year but won't boycott the 1991 Miss USA pageant, her lawyer says.

Gregory Reed also says he objects to a contractual clause preventing Gist, 21, of Detroit, from using her title in commercial endorsements for two years.

Gist has missed all her 1991 appearances as Miss USA. Pageant officials said she's been ill. Reed said his client is well enough now to work and will appear at this year's pageant, to be televised Feb. 22 from Wichita, Kan., on CBS-TV.

Mike Clark of Los Angeles-based Madison Square Garden Productions, which is putting on the pageant, said he couldn't comment on Reed's allegations.

MRS. JEFFREY JOHNSON
...nee Kaye Lynn Stubblefield

Stubblefield, Johnson vows spoken

Kaye Lynn Stubblefield of Amarillo became the bride of Steven Jeffrey Johnson of Dallas during a mid-afternoon wedding ceremony held Saturday, Feb. 2, in the Paramount Terrace Christian Church of Amarillo.

The marriage was officiated by Pastor Roy Wheeler of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Stubblefield of Hereford and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Johnson of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. Cary Hilliard of Niceville, Fla.

The church altar was adorned with four candelabra accented with greenery and white flowers tied with large white bows. The unity candle was decorated with a large white bow and pews were also marked with white bows.

Vicki Todd of Lubbock served as maid of honor and Mike Meeks of El Paso was best man.

Bridesmaids included Jane Howard of Houston and Karla McVicker of Plainview. Bridegrooms were Mark Bryant and Mark Dunlap, both of Dallas.

Guests were escorted by Todd Kenny of Dallas, Kendall Devault of Farwell, and Todd Pool and Craig Hall, both of Lubbock.

Monica Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Carter of Amarillo, was flower girl and Brett Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Payne of Amarillo, was ring bearer.

Candles were lit by Jeremy Payne, son of the Johnson Paynes.

Kirk Mann of Dallas, accompanied by pianist, Larry Landusky of Lubbock, vocalized "The Lord's Prayer", "Forever Is As Far As I'll Go" and "Through the Eyes of Love."

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white satin formal-length designer's gown. It was fashioned with a wedding ring neckline formed from beaded scalloped schiffli lace and embroidery. The front and back of the fitted satin bodice were encrusted with beaded schiffli embroidery appliques.

Swirls of pearls and sequins outlined each lace flower and leaf and small covered buttons lined the back bodice. The elongated waistline featured double ruffles at the side hip line which swept to the back bodice. The long, slender sleeves of satin and sheer illusion were accented with beaded schiffli appliques and formed bridal point cuffs.

The front of the skirt was A-line and the full back was created with cascading ruffles flowing from a bustle style back. Each ruffle was designed with bands of scalloped lace appliques and the skirt front was edged with double ruffles of chantilly lace and English de-spirit lace. The back of the hem finished with a wide satin ruffle and scalloped lace and flowed into a scalloped cathedral-length train.

The fingertip-length veil was gathered to a circlet of pearls that came to a point on the forehead. A cluster of silk flowers was arranged at the side of the circlet as was a cascade of lily-of-the-valley flowers and pearls. A double pouf of illusion tulle marked the back of the headpiece.

The bride carried a cascading Victorian style bouquet fashioned with white roses, baby's breath and greenery decorated with accents of pearl clusters and satin ribbon streamers.

The bride wore an antique locket belonging to her maternal grandmother. It was attached to a blue lace garter that had belonged to her fraternal grandmother.

Each bridal attendant wore a long, fitted silhouette dress split to the knee on one side and fashioned in black silk faille with a draped white collar dipping to a V-shape in the back. Each carried a single long-stem white rose.

Mrs. Mike Osmanski of Plainview invited guests to register at the reception held in the church.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Johnny Payne, served cake, and the groom's sister, Betsy Johnson, poured punch and coffee. Also, assisting was Tammy Blake.

The focal point of the bride's table, which was centered with her bouquet, was a four-tiered white spiral cake decorated with fresh white spider mums and fern flanked by tapered candles and flowers. The groom's table featured a chocolate cake in the shape of Texas.

Leaving for a wedding trip to St.

Kitts British West Indies, the bride wore a fitted two piece suit of azalea pink and black corduroy. The couple plans to reside in Plano.

The bride is a graduate of Texas Tech University and the bridegroom also attended Texas Tech and is currently employed by Touchstone Energy in Dallas.

Extension News

BY BEVERLY HARDER
County Extension Agent

With the increased military deployment across the United States, many couples are moving up wedding dates. Couples need to be aware of the differences in marriage regulations in the various states.

The following acts are necessary for a legal marriage:

* A marriage license must be obtained from the person authorized to issue it (usually a county clerk of courts).

* The ceremony must be performed by an authorized official.

* The marriage must be reported to the state department in charge of keeping records. (This is usually the responsibility of the person issuing the license).

In addition to the three regulations above required by all states, there are other regulations that must be met for a legal marriage to occur. Not all states agree on these. Such regulations refer to:

- * Age at which a couple can marry with or without parental consent.
- * Physical requirements
- * Mental requirements
- * License
- * Waiting period, if any
- * Official
- * Prohibited relationships (related by blood or marriage)

Allowable reasons for divorce vary from state to state. Incompatibility is basic to most. Similar to divorce, legal separation establishes separate households, though neither spouse is free to marry. For an annulment, grounds must exist at the time of marriage.

Laws pertaining to families change with changing lifestyles and social conditions. Formerly, men had complete legal control over their wives and children. Today, laws protect the rights of women and children.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Appreciation Luncheon discussed

The Annual Appreciation Luncheon, scheduled Feb. 25 and sponsored by The Hereford Brand, was discussed when members of the North Hereford Extension Homemakers Club met Feb. 7 in the home of Evelyn Crofford.

Edith Higgins presided over the business meeting and Edna Schulte gave a program on crafts.

Martha Lueb led the opening exercise and roll call was answered by "Middle East customs."

Those present included Crofford, Lueb, Higgins, Hoffman and Edna Schulte.

Henson speaks to group about emergency safety

American Legion and Auxiliary members were presented facts on emergency safety by Betty Henson, executive director of the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross, during a recent meeting.

Henson presented a film on emergency safety and members took a test to evaluate their skills. Several found they needed to update their knowledge and skills.

Clara Trowbridge, president, called the meeting to order and Lou Ann LaFever, treasurer, gave a report that the gift shop contributions given to the Amarillo VAMC total was $520.75.

A report was presented on members who have been ill. Those mentioned were Legionaries, Ned Trowbridge, Cliff Ueckert, Ernest Langley, and auxiliary members, Rachel Ueckert and Alice Gilleland. Also, mentioned was the loss of Lewis L. Walker (Mr. Larrymore).

Committee reports given were Americanism, Beverly Jesko; membership, Betty Jo Carlson; Girls State, Troyce Hanna; legislative, Pet Out; poppy, Bea Cargo; and yearbook, Ruth King.

A salute to veterans will be held at the Amarillo VAMC on Feb. 14 from 1:30-3 p.m. in the main lobby. The public is invited.

Game time will be held at King's Manor Methodist Home Lamar Garden Room on Thursday, Feb. 14, from 3-4 p.m. Refreshments will be served by Jesko and Cargo.

The 18th District Convention of the American Legion will be held in Tulia March 23-24. Delegates elected to attend are Clara Trowbridge, Lou Ann LaFever, Mildred LaFever, and Troyce Hanna. Alternates attending will be Karol Retman, Bernice Layman, Cargo and Jesko.

Dues have gone up to $12 due to an increase from department.

Pet Out brought a 1964 state winner scrap book that was made by the late Edna Smith and another to be restored for future history.

Refreshments were served by hostesses Hanna and LaFever.

D.A.R.E. program discussed

During the recent meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #4818, a detailed program was presented on Drug Abuse Resistance Education. Following the program, a discussion was held with, from left, Officer Bruce Lee, guest speaker; Betty Boggs, president; Bill Craig, VFW commander; and Officer Terry Brown, guest speaker. The auxiliary voted to donate $200 to the organization.

D.A.R.E. program given during meeting

The Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #4818 met in regular session recently for supper and a special program on D.A.R.E.

Officer Bruce Lee and Officer Terry Brown presented the program giving information on the schooling involved in training for D.A.R.E. They told of the increased number of schools now involved in the program and that all the county is included except Walcott because of the distance of the Walcott School and the lack of manpower.

A special candle light program for the service men and women in the Persian Gulf was held and Tom Draper led the prayer as members held hands around a lit candle. Jo Irlbeck led the members and guests in the singing of "God Bless America."

The business session was opened per ritual with Betty Boggs presiding. Minutes were read and approved. Correspondence was read and bills were paid.

The V.A. Hospital in Amarillo will have a special program Feb. 14 from 1:30 to 3 p.m. entitled "A Salute To The Hospitalized Veterans."

The auxiliary sent 52 valentines to local men and women of the armed forces who are serving in the Persian Gulf.

All members are urged to attend the District 13 VFW Convention in Plainview scheduled for Feb. 23 and 24.

The next meeting will be March 4 which will be the Voice of Democracy banquet.

Guests present were Officer Lee and his wife Rhonda, Officer Brown, Draper, Bob Morris, SuLee Charles, Tony Irlbeck and VFW Commander Bill Craig.

Members present were Betty Boggs, Martha Bridges, Leone Baum, Darleen Carroll, Mildred Deyke, Argen Draper, Dora Lea Howell, Jo Irlbeck, Essie Martin, Ruth Morris, Erma Murphey, Terry Rhyne, Doris Wilson, Kay Crismon, and Marie Goheen.

Abundant Life

BY BOB WEAR

The greater and more diverse the population, the greater the need for all of us to know and use the skill of 'graciousness'. It is vital to the strength and effectiveness of human relationships. All areas of human associations will be happier and more rewarding, when all persons involved are gracious. We are being 'gracious', when we are being merciful, kind, courteous, and pleasantly helpful.

Frictions are minimized, and often eliminated, when graciousness rules our speech, our actions, and our reactions. In the business world, graciousness has an inestimable value in dollars and cents. In the family, it is a must for a happy, strong family life. In general social life, it is the keystone of success.

The strain and stress of present-day living can be greatly modified by graciousness. Many folk recognize its value for special situations and special occasions, but some are slow, too slow, to give it the proper place in the ordinary experiences of daily living. Graciousness may not be a cure-all concerning human strife and unhappiness, but it is too valuable to be discarded.

"The growth of grace is like the polishing of metals. There is first an opaque surface; by and by you see a spark darting out, then a strong light till at length it sends back a perfect image of the sun that shines upon it." Payson

Graciousness is a strong characteristic. It even has the potential to overcome many of the undesirable elements in human interaction. We can be gracious, even when forced to be firm in dealing with the various forms of perverseness in human behavior. Graciousness is effective in both the offensive and the defensive of personal action.

Graciousness is the maturity of courage. The bully is rude and crude in behavior; but the courageous person is gracious. The truly courageous folk are not tactless, and hasty or rash or impudent; but are courteous, affable, patient, and understanding. Courage and graciousness complement each other, they go together and they work together.

Graciousness is the natural fruit of a well-developed self-confidence; a sense of personal security; and an over-all wholesome self-concept.

Graciousness in speech and in behavior reveal the spirit of a truly worthwhile human being.

Annual Spring Fling set

The "Center" of attention! That's what mature adults 55 and over will be at the Texas 4-H Center on Lake Brownwood when hundreds will enthusiastically participate in the 11th Annual Spring Fling during April and May say's Beverly Harder, Deaf Smith County Extension Agent.

Sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, five weeks are offered from which men and women alike may choose:

- Spring Fling I-April 2-5
- Spring Fling II-April 9-12
- Spring Fling III-April 16-19
- Spring Fling IV-April 23-26
- Spring Fling V-April 30-May 3

Featured educational programs and "hands-on" learning centers offer a wide variety of topics to fulfill the highest expectations of all who attend. Energizing and relaxing recreational opportunities will stimulate enthusiasm while all will welcome great fellowship and new friends.

Boat rides and fishing on Lake Brownwood add popularity to your stay. Lighted tennis courts, horse-shoes, billiards, volleyball, shuffleboard, dominoes, and card and table games round out the event.

A special theme of "Cartoon Characters" will provide a festive atmosphere to the facilities. Thursday's theme party will feature events and activities with "Comic Capers."

Spring Fling! 55 or older? It's for you! Each weekly event is limited to the first 165 participants at a nominal fee. Get away and learn to make the most of the best years of your life. Call you County Extension Office today at 364-3573. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

MRS. GUSTAVO OCHOA
...nee Marivel Valle

Valle, Ochoa wedding vows spoken Saturday

Wedding vows were exchanged by Marivel Valle and Gustavo Ochoa, both of Hereford, at noon Saturday in San Jose Catholic Church. Father Joe Bixenman of the church officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Valle of 427 Ave. I, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Maria Salud Ochoa of Mexico.

The church altar was decorated with two large arrangements of white and purple flowers. Every other pew was accented with white ribbon bows.

The bride's sister, Melva Valle, was maid of honor and the groom's cousin, Arturo Garcia, was best man.

Bridesmaids were Angelina Villanueva and Paula Claudio and groomsmen were Adrian Villanueva and Gilbert Rodriguez.

Juan Rodriguez presented "Anillo De Compromiso."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore the traditional white wedding gown adorned with flowers on the front bodice and the long lace sleeves. The back bodice was open and featured delicate drapes of string pearls. Ruffles cascaded from the back of the waistline to the cathedral-length train.

The white bridal illusion veil was attached to a double crown which was V-shaped at the front.

She carried an all-white floral bouquet adorned with ribbon streamers. To complete her ensemble, she wore pearl earrings and a matching necklace.

Attendants wore deep purple dresses with black velvet accents.

Rose De La Paz invited guests to register at the reception held in El Caribe.

Elizabeth Flores served the wedding cake and Lucy Garcia poured punch and coffee from the refreshment table covered with a white cloth and decorated with wedding bells.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Mexico. They plan to reside in Hereford.

The bride is a 1990 graduate of Hereford High School and the bridegroom is currently employed by Excel in Friona.

Following guidelines eases camcorder blues

If you've decided to purchase a new camcorder this holiday season, you'll no doubt have many questions you'll want to ask your local retailer.

It would help if you had the answers to those questions before you went to buy your new camcorder. The following, from the Electronic Industries Association (EIA), will go a long way toward helping you make the right camcorder purchase this holiday season:

1. What are some of the first things you should do before deciding on a particular camcorder model? Many retailers have different camcorder models hooked up to televisions and monitors in their stores: EIA recommends that you try a number of camcorder models and view the results. This is important because each camcorder has its own individual handling and operating characteristics and you may not need every camcorder feature you encounter.

2. What features should you look for? If you're planning to use your camcorder outdoors, make sure the model you purchase is equipped with in-camera playback through the electronic viewfinder (most of today's camcorder models are equipped to do this). This is important because, if you've just shot a scene that doesn't look quite right when you play it back through the viewfinder, you can reshoot it immediately.

3. Are there any other feature to look for? Of course. For example, camcorders equipped with auto-focus will automatically adjust the camcorder lens setting to any particular distance. All you need to do is point the camcorder at any desired subject, either close-up or at a distance and let the camcorder do the rest: When you play back the tape, everything will be in focus.

4. What does a camcorder's lux level refer to? Lux refers to how sensitive a camcorder is to light. The lower the lux level, the more you will be able to use your camcorder in low light situations without having to set up extra camcorder lights. Lux levels vary depending on where you are shooting a particular scene (for example, the lux level will be lower for a scene in which the only light is the light coming from candles lit on a birthday cake than a scene in which all the lights in a room are turned on). EIA recommends purchasing a camcorder with a lux rating of 10 or less.

5. Which camcorder lens features are important? EIA suggests that consumers check out a camcorder's zoom lens. Zoom lenses let you zero in on a scene and back away from it, without actually moving yourself. High speed shutter is also important: This feature allows you to record scenes with plenty of action and movement without the usual blurring that results from the use of a regular shutter. Also check out CCD lenses, CCD, or charge coupled devices, use integrated circuits rather than pick-up tubes, so they can't be burned out by shooting directly into the sun. This is an important consideration if you plan to do a lot of shooting outdoors.

6. Is it important to care for your camcorder? Of course. Some valuable tips: Don't drop or bump your unit. Keep the camcorder lens covered when the unit is not in use and keep the unit away from damp or extremely cold areas.

7. Which camcorder format should you purchase? First, it is important to know what camcorder formats are available: 8 mm, VHS-C, full-size VHS (the same as your home VHS unit), and full-size Beta. Both full-size VHS and full-size Beta use standardized tapes, while the compact formats, 8 mm and VHS-C, use specially-designed mini-cassettes that are about the same size as standard audio cassettes. None of these four tapes are interchangeable and in general, 8 mm and VHS-C camcorders are much smaller and lighter than full-size VHS and Beta units.

8. Can you play back 8mm or VHS-C tapes on your home VCR? Full-size VHS tapes can be played back on home VHS units because both full-size VHS camcorders and VHS home units use the same size cassettes. 8mm camcorder tapes can only be played back on an 8mm VCR or, of course, through the 8mm camcorder, hooked up to a television or monitor. Beta tapes can only be played back on Beta VCRs. VHS-C tapes can be played back on standard VHS VCRs with the use of an adaptor (and, like 8 mm tapes, by hooking up the VHS-C camcorder to a television or monitor.

LONDON (AP) - Andrew Lloyd Webber, composer of "Cats," "Phantom of the Opera" and "Aspects of Love," secretly married Madeleine Gurdon days before their planned church wedding.

The couple were married in a private ceremony at Westminster Register Office in London, a spokesman for the composer said Wednesday.

No date for the ceremony was announced, but the spokesman said it was held "several days ago and only a few very close relatives were in attendance."

Lloyd Webber, 42, and Ms. Gurdon, a 27-year-old equestrienne, had planned to marry on Saturday. Heavy media coverage had been expected. The composer's divorce from actress Sarah Brightman,

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been diagnosed as having uterine fibroids. They appear to be causing excessive bleeding during my periods, pain at times during intercourse and a growing problem with incontinence. I've had the problem for three years. I have had ultrasound tests to determine the size of the tumors.

I know I can have the fibroids removed or have my entire uterus removed. What, other than surgery, would you suggest? I am interested in nutritional, homeopathic or acupuncture treatments. My doctor says there are no options she knows of other than surgery.

I'm 40 years old and have two children. I do not plan to have any more. From my discussions with friends, I believe this is quite a common problem.

DEAR READER: Yes, fibroids are quite common, occurring in 20 to 25 percent of women over the age of 35. Uterine bleeding is a common complication and is the most frequent reason a woman has a hysterectomy because of fibroids. The bleeding may be heavy enough to cause a woman to become significantly anemic with the associated symptoms. They can also enlarge to the point that they put pressure on the bladder, which may be causing your incontinence. Very large fibroids may even cause enough pressure on the rectum to cause difficulties with bowel movements. They are also a cause of infertility in some women.

As with most other tumors, no one knows exactly what causes them. But they are hormone dependent. That is why they tend to decrease in size or disappear after the menopause. This observation has led to the use of Depo-Provera, which inhibits the pituitary gland's stimulation of the ovaries and estrogen production. That has been used to control fibroids until the menopause occurs. But what if you need estrogen replacement after the menopause? It is also dangerous to the fetus if you should get pregnant. You may be too far enough away from your menopause for that consideration, too.

Otherwise the only way to manage fibroids is either to have them removed surgically or to have a hysterectomy. For more information read my new Special Report 106, Fibroids, Vaginal Hernias and Hysterectomies. Others who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/106, P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Could you please tell me what toxic shock syndrome is? I've heard it is a very rare disease. If so, how would you contract it and who would be at risk?

DEAR READER: Bacteria produce toxins. Some of the toxins can be fatal. Toxic shock is a severe shock response to such a toxin produced by a special form of Staphylococcus bacteria. The most common form occurs in women from this bacteria living in the vagina. During menstruation, when a woman is using tampons, these organisms may multiply and produce enough toxin to cause this very serious illness. It does appear that only some women are susceptible to the toxin, apparently because of a low immunity to the bacteria.

Highly absorbent tampons that absorb magnesium, provide a proper media for the bacteria to multiply. Newer tampons are safer. But it is best to avoid using tampons for long periods of time. Rather change them frequently, preferably at least twice during the day, and use a napkin and not a tampon at night.

When toxic shock occurs, it causes a high fever, a rash, and shock.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Open house set today

An open house will be held at St. Anthony's Parish from 1-4 p.m. today. The public is invited to view the building. A reception will be held in the main entry of the church. Preparing the altar for the event are Monsignor Orville Blum, and Jeremy Reiter (lighting candles) and Sonny Perez, both six graders at St. Anthony's Catholic School.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are the other P.O.W.s—Prisoners of Welfare. Every day people face the bitter reality that they have no alternative but to become captives of the welfare system. We are mostly single and divorced mothers. Only through education can we escape this degrading trap and find out way into the job market.

I am a divorced woman, 35, with two sons. I've been stuck on welfare for seven years. Taking a handout from the government makes me feel like I'm nothing. If I work, the minimum-wage money earned is deducted from my next month's welfare check. There is no legal way to get ahead. If I don't report my earned income and the welfare people find out, I'm eliminated from the program.

Being forced to buy groceries with food stamps produces feelings of guilt and shame that I can't put into words.

Welfare recipients are considered lazy slobs who are looking for a free ride. Some of them may be, but the vast majority really want to work. I have a friend who holds down three jobs. She is close to a nervous breakdown. Babysitters are raising her three kids, and it makes her sick. Another friend turned to prostitution. She now has a pimp, and her life is a nightmare. Please, Ann, ask your readers not to judge us until they have walked in our shoes.

Welfare shouldn't be a way of life. It should be a temporary crutch to help people get back on their feet and be self-supporting. I'm just one person but I know this scene inside and out. Education is the only way to keep the number of welfare recipients from growing in this country.

Ann, please give a giant thank-you to all the states that have education programs for low-income and welfare people. They need to know that it works.—Almost Free in Iowa

DEAR IOWA: You did, and I thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm

If only those fathers knew how important it is, especially in the early years, to establish a bond with their little ones. "Uninterested" fathers are destined to reap a harvest of indifference and, ultimately, trouble. In a few years these dads will be scratching their heads wondering what went wrong.

In my own neighborhood I have seen this happen. Dad pays attention to "Junior" only when he gets into trouble. So what does Junior do? He gets into trouble at every opportunity in order to get the attention he so desperately wants. As I write this, Junior is in prison for a long list of offenses, the last one being assault and rape.

Daughters have a different set of needs. When they are ignored or rejected by their fathers, they look for male acceptance and approval, usually through sex. One unmarried teenage girl in our neighborhood has been pregnant three times.

These stories aren't from a book, Ann. I know the people. Deep down they aren't bad, the problem is that their fathers never spent any time with them.—A Student of Experience in Alabama

DEAR STUDENT: I'd give you an A. Your letter should be posted on the walls of every delivery room in every hospital. Thanks for sharing your wisdom.

Sorority honors Gauthreaux at surprise party, supper

Alpha Alpha Preceptor Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority members surprised Nan Gauthreaux with a salad supper and Valentine remembrance party at the recent meeting held in the home of Alene Tindal.

President Virginia Jackson conducted the business meeting following the opening ritual.

Lynda Brown, program and yearbook chairman, reported that the Valentine Ball will be Saturday, Feb. 16, at 8 p.m. at the Hereford Country Club.

Murlene Streun and Jackson will present the program at the next meeting scheduled Tuesday, March 5. Hostesses will be Gauthreaux and Lillie Shipman.

Brenda Thomas, service chairman, announced the items for the month for Operation Good Shepherd food pantry are tomato sauce, soup and jello.

City Council meeting is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 11, with Denise Halliger as hostess.

The meeting was adjourned and members stood for the closing ritual and joined hands for the "Mizpah."

Members present include Lynda Brown, Barbara Burkhalter, Gauthreaux, Jackson, Phyllis Neill, Beverly Redelsperger, Rosemarie Robinson, Karren Ruland, Streun, Gerry Taylor, Thomas, Tindal and Jan Walser.

Public invited to attend open house

The public is invited to attend open house from 1-4 p.m. today, Sunday, at St. Anthony's Parish.

Guides will greet visitors and show them through the church building explaining the unique features associated with "Catholic worship" and devotional practices. The vestments, chalices, and other objects used at Catholic worship will be on display. Visitors will be encouraged to ask questions and view all items "close-up."

All areas of the church building, including sacristies and confessional room, will be included on the tour.

A reception in the main entry of the church will conclude the tours and provide an additional opportunity for questions.

The open house is a project of the Evangelization Committee's response to the universal church's call for "The 1990s—Decade of Evangelization." The invitation to the open house is especially addressed to persons in the Hereford community who have never visited a local Catholic church building or who would like explanations of things seen at a wedding, funeral or other worship service.

Q. I taped some quarters in the glove box of my car to use in an emergency. Recently I had to use one of them to call a wrecker.

You can imagine how upset I was when it got stuck in the phone. Is there a way to keep coins in the car without them getting sticky or rattling around? — Kim Brady, Cincinnati, Ohio

- Put them in a pie crust to keep it from shrinking.

FIRE STARTERS

Q. Could you please tell me how to make fire starters using cardboard egg cartons? — Caroline Pauli, Edwards, Ill.

A. Sure can. Half-fill each section of the cardboard egg carton with dryer lint, pour melted wax over it and let harden. They can then be cut apart.

Caution: Do not use plastic foam egg cartons! They don't burn and can give off toxic fumes. — Heloise

COLD WRISTS

Dear Heloise: I have finally found a solution to a wintertime problem.

When my children played in the snow, their wrists always got wet and cold because their mittens and coat sleeves never stayed together.

Gallstones: causes, ways of prevention

"Before I had gallbladder surgery eating ice cream or pizza always seemed to bring on an attack."

People with gallstones often blame fatty foods for their recurrent pain, but are rich meals more likely to cause gallbladder attacks than low-fat foods?

"It's logical, but not proven," says Mayo Clinic gastroenterologist Dr. Johnson L. Thistle. "We know that fat makes the gallbladder contract harder and longer than other nutrients do. Yet research has failed to prove that eating fatty foods consistently causes attacks or that eating a low-fat diet guarantees pain relief."

Gallstones—round lumps of solid matter in the gallbladder or bile duct—are common. Almost 25 percent of women and 10 percent of men in the United States develop them.

Gallstones form when there's an imbalance in the ratio of substances contained in bile. (Bile is a liquid that's made in your liver and stored in your gallbladder. It carries waste products away from your liver hand helps digest and absorb fats.)

About 80 percent of gallstones are made primarily of cholesterol. If your liver secretes an increased amount of cholesterol or decreased amount of bile acid, bile becomes saturated with cholesterol. As cholesterol crystallizes from bile, it eventually forms a solid lump or stone.

Most people with gallstones have no symptoms. Indigestion aggravated by fatty foods, heartburn, belching, bloating and flatulence—symptoms frequently blamed on gallstones aren't unique to gallbladder disease and are no more common in people with gallstones than in those without.

True gallbladder disease causes pain that strikes suddenly in the abdomen, particularly in the upper middle or right side.

Food passing from your stomach to the small intestine causes the gallbladder to contract and expel bile into the intestine. If a stone blocks the exit of bile, the gallbladder keeps squeezing to push bile through. This builds pressure, cause a sharp, steady pain that lasts from 15 to 30 minutes or longer. Pain subsides when the gallbladder relaxes, allowing the stone to fall back into the gallbladder or pass into the intestine.

You may remember having a gallbladder attack last week after eating three slices of double cheese pizza. But you may forget that yesterday's hot fudge sundae left you symptom-free. How the gallbladder reacts to a specific meal varies from person to person. And even the same person responds differently to the same foods on any given day.

What should you do about recurrent gallbladder attacks? See your doctor about treatment options. In the meantime, "Avoid fatty foods, especially large, rich meals late in the evening," recommends Dr. Thistle. "There's no guarantee that avoiding a high-fat diet will prevent an attack. But because fat can force maximal contraction of the gallbladder, rich foods may increase the chance for a stone to get stuck in the bile duct."

The person with gallstones often typifies the four Fs—fat, female, forty and fair. Despite some flaws in this inelegant description, it does suggest why you or someone you know may develop gallstones.

* Obesity—In overweight persons, the liver produces more cholesterol, significantly increasing the risk of gallstones.

* Sex—Two or three times more women develop gallstones than men. The female hormone estrogen increase the liver's secretion of cholesterol.

* Age—Saturation of bile with cholesterol increases soon after puberty, leading to a gradual rise in the prevalence of gallstones with age in both men and women. There's nothing special about age 40, but many doctors find it's a common time when symptoms appear.

* Heredity—Having fair skin may men a higher risk of gallbladder disease (gallstones are particularly common in Sweden). But Native Americans have the highest rate of gallstones.

* Prescriptions—Taking estrogen after menopause or as an oral contraceptive roughly doubles the risk of gallstones.

Two cholesterol-lowering drugs, clofibrate (Atromid-S) and gemfibrozil (Lopid), are linked to gallstones. As they lower blood cholesterol and triglyceride levels, they increase the liver's secretion of cholesterol.

Open Floor Plan Ideal For Entertaining

ENTERTAINMENT AREA CENTRALLY LOCATED

FEATURE HOMES

BY W.D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

This open floor plan with large activity room, dining room, and sundeck is ideal for entertaining. A spacious foyer flows into a large vaulted activity room with fireplace. The dining room is conveniently situated between the activity room and kitchen and features a large bay window. The sundeck is accessible to both the dining room and the rear garage door.

This three-bedroom, two-bath plan includes a spacious master suite with garden tub, separate shower, double vanity, and walk-in closet. For convenience, this plan also includes a centrally located linen closet and laundry room as well as a pass through from the kitchen to the great room.

This home can be built with a basement or on a crawl space foundation. The open-rail stairway to the basement from the central hall makes the hall appear wider than it actually is.

The European exterior is elegantly enhanced with stone chimney, ornately trimmed multi-lite windows, combined hip and gable roof design with multiple roof breaks, stucco finish, side-entry garage, and large sun deck. The recessed front entry provides protection from wind, rain, and snow.

This is a computer generated plan. The plan is number 688. It includes 1,655 square feet of heated area. All W.D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn to meet VA and FHA requirements. For further information, write to W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

Home improvement questions answered

By POPULAR MECHANICS
For AP Newsfeatures

Q. - The stucco exterior on our house is beginning to look shabby. Can stucco be painted, and what are some other options of renewing the exterior?

A. - In warmer areas of the U.S. where temperatures never drop below freezing, masonry plants are sometimes used to renew stucco that has grown dingy with time. But in northern states moisture migration through walls that have no vapor barriers will often cause widespread paint failures, such as peeling and mildew. Stucco is in fact a masonry finish, and as such the finish coat is intended to be non-sealing masonry mixes.

If you have stucco that is aged first try power washing the stucco. Grime and mildew that can collect on the stucco make it look dull and dirty, but washing will often bring back the new stucco look. Use a garden sprayer or power washer itself to apply a masonry cleaning product to the stucco. The procedure should be to power wash with clear water to wet the stucco and begin soaking the dirt loose. Then apply a cleaner. You can use a 50-50 mix of water and ordinary chlorine bleach, or ask your janitor's supply store to recommend their own cleaner choice for masonry. Let the cleaner solution soak for a short period, usually 5 to 10 minutes, to lift the dirt from the rough stucco finish. Then power wash the stucco with clear water, blasting away all grime.

You should power wash any stucco before attempting to recoat it with paint or stucco mix. Often, though, washing will renew the stucco finish so you don't need to recoat it.

The first choice for renewing stucco should be a cement-base stucco coating, not paint. These are available in dry form and must be mixed with water. Most manufacturers offer several color choices: Thoro, for example, offers a color chart of 10 different stucco colors. Mix the stucco according to directions on the bag, and apply over the old stucco using a rental hopper-type sprayer or a sponge, brush or roller.

If you choose to use paint on stucco, advise your paint dealer of your intentions and ask for his advice for paint-product choice and proper application techniques. Also, ask for the address of stucco houses that have been painted with his product, and visit these houses to see the product first-hand.

The Hereford Brand

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.
 This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Technology makes gas stations safer

Fueled with the need to protect our environment from gas tank leaks, industry experts have come up with new technology that may do much to protect our safety.

Many people who stop at gas stations wonder about the safety of the underground steel fuel tanks: Do they leak? Can they leak? How can leaks be detected and prevented?

Underground fuel tanks can leak, contaminating groundwater and posing a safety hazard to crops, livestock, wildlife and humans. Many tank and piping systems fail from corrosion or structural problems. Fortunately, new technology tanks made of top quality materials, installed by professionals and employing cathodic protection have begun to relieve a major environmental problem.

Cathodic protection is an electrical method of preventing corrosion on metallic structures. The first application of its principles was developed by the British maritime industry in the 1800s for preserving metal hulls on ships that would sink in corrosive saltwater. The Steel Tank Institute customized the technology in recent years. The sti-P 3 system has been successfully used on about 170,000 underground steel tanks nationwide.

Besides preventing corrosion, one of the best things about cathodic protection is its ability to be monitored. This monitoring-after a tank is buried-tells the owner whether corrosion is occurring. Cathodically protected steel tanks employ the only tank technology approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency that offers a time-proven way to ensure a tank is dig its job, and protection of vital groundwater supplies.

New technology steel tanks also offer service station owners a variety of options for making his facility safe. For instance, some stations now choose "compartmentalized" tanks. Such sti-P3 tanks are built to reliably store more than one product-for example, diesel and premium unleaded-in separate compartments enclosed by one tank protected against corrosion. This decreases the number of underground tanks and may lessen the insurance costs of the gas stations.

Such new safety innovations should be "fuel" for though for many motorists and others concerned about the environment.

DARLA PRIVETT, JESSE LONG

Couple to wed

Darla K. Privett and Jesse L. Long, both of Seminole, will exchange nuptials March 16 in West Side Church of Christ in Seminole.

The bride-elect is the daughter of former Hereford residents, Pat and Kathy Privett of Andrews, and the prospective bridegroom is the son of J.D. and Janie Long of Seminole.

Miss Privett graduated from Hartley High School and West Texas State University. She is employed by the Seminole Independent School District as a second grade teacher.

Long is a graduate of Seminole High School and is employed by Walker Sims Oil, Co.

MR. AND MRS. MARION WITTHAR ... recently celebrated 50th anniversary

Witthars celebrate golden anniversary

Marion and Helen Witthar celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Feb. 2 with a dinner at Sirlain Stockade and a reception held in the home.

The celebration was hosted by their children.

Those attending were Kathryn Creegan of Banks, Ore., Rita Durbin of Aurora, Colo., Phil and Margaret Barth of Merced, Calif., Kenneth, Larry and Shawna Witthar of Amarillo, Paul, Regina, Sarah and Seth Kimball of Canyon, and Bernadine Witthar of Hereford.

Marion Witthar married the former Helen Hiebert on Feb. 3, 1941 at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church in Goodland, Kan.

Casting scheduled Tuesday

There will be a casting and organizational meeting on Tuesday, at 7 p.m. in the St. Anthony's Catholic Church gymnasium for auditions for parts in the upcoming outdoor dramatization of the Passion of Jesus Christ.

Several interested persons representing various church congregations in Hereford are pooling their energies and resources to put together the outdoor dramatization of the Passion of Jesus Christ based on the Gospel of St. John, to be held on Good Friday, March 29, at noon in Dameron Park.

To bring all this to life, the following are needed: actors, people who would be willing to play characters without any lines, etc.

This project is open to the public. For more information, contact Carmen Flood at 289-5381.

ARTHRITIS HURTS MANY

ATLANTA (AP) - Osteoarthritis affects an estimated 15.8 million Americans, according to the Arthritis Foundation.

In the disease, cartilage that cushions the surface of joints wears away as people age. As a result, bones rub together, causing pain and loss of movement.

Recently, a gene defect was discovered that leads to this condition in some people. Researchers also think a variety of other factors, including joint damage from certain types of on-the-job repeated movements, sports injuries and obesity, may lead to osteoarthritis.

New York restaurant to observe birthday

A New York City restaurant with strong ties to Hereford and West Texas will celebrate its second anniversary Thursday, Feb. 14.

The Cowgirl Hall of Fame Restaurant opened two years ago in Greenwich Village with a number of Hereford and area residents present as well as 300 media and show people in Manhattan.

Margaret Formby, president of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Hereford will represent the Hall and area residents at this special celebration. The restaurant was founded when Sherry Delamarter, a former Texan and a partner in three other New York City restaurants, conceived the idea of having a place that served real Texas barbecue and other western fare while featuring the memorabilia of women who have been inducted into the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Hereford.

The restaurant has been selected as the site for many celebrity parties and for two years has served as the location for the Neiman Marcus Party where the announcement of their Christmas catalogue was made.

The Lancaster Turnpike in Pennsylvania was this country's first macadam road.

'Guns' star a live wire off-screen

Jenny Beck, Matthew Newmark, Lee Horsley, Brian Lando and Michael Carter (clockwise from left) star in Guns of Paradise in which Horsley plays an Old West gunfighter who unexpectedly inherits his sister's four children. Airing Fridays on CBS, the drama enters its third season.

By Mary Ann Townsend

Jenny Beck, who stars as the young teen responsible for looking after her three younger brothers on CBS' Guns of Paradise, lives in a different time and pursues a much different lifestyle than her character.

Beck is an original cast member on the show, which is now in its third season and airs Fridays. The actress is much more mobile and carefree than her character, Claire Carroll, a 16-year-old who has been helping her uncle take care of her brothers since their mother died three years earlier. In fact, the actress said, if she were placed in the same situation as her character, she's not sure she could do it.

"What she's doing in the 1890s, it was difficult enough. If she needs to go to the market she hops on a horse, right? My character was 13 when this happened, and I would not have been able to take care of the kids as well in the 1990s," she said. "Back then it was so much simpler."

But that's not to say the 16-year-old is any less responsible. In fact, she received the American Youth Foundation Award in December for community service work through the mother-daughter Assistance League. Beck does, however, like to enjoy life more than her character.

"I like a lot of the spontaneous things that come along," Beck said, adding that her main community service work is done at the library. "We do iOK runs, things that you wake up real early for, and they have a big sleepover the night before at somebody's house. Those are a lot of fun."

Like other 1990s teens, shopping is another passion for Beck.

Jenny Beck may be shy on-screen, but off, she's a spunky teen.

"Whenever I go shopping I don't go for anything, usually. I go and if I see something that I like, I buy. And then I come home and I either have to find something to wear it with or find something to wear it for," she said.

In her spare time, Beck rides her quarterhorse named Braves. She's even given the other kids in the cast riding lessons on the side.

"None of the little boys had ridden (when the show started). I've had them over once or twice and we all go riding together. We have an acre — you don't get much farm in L.A. — we have an acre and barn on it and a house. That's as farmy as you get here," she said, describing the house where she lives with her parents and younger brother, Jason.

Her parents, Jim and Lori Beck, run Nature's Best, the nation's largest health food distributor, which was started by the actress' grandmother.

STAR NOTES

Mother opened door for Susan Flannery

By Candace Havens

She is a licensed pilot, a gourmet cook and a Dodgers and Rams fan, and in her spare time she portrays the conniving Stephanie Forrester on The Bold and the Beautiful.

Susan Flannery is actually one of the original cast members who began with the show in March, 1987. Since that time B&B has grown in popularity and is now in direct competition for a top spot in the ratings with many of the soaps that have been around a lot longer.

Flannery was born in New York City to Marian and Leo Flannery. Her mother was a John Roberts Power model, and that very fact helped to draw Flannery into the entertainment business. After she graduated from college, her mother sent her to Los Angeles to meet a friend who introduced her to an agent. Through that agent she met several others and was signed on by one of them. Her acting career began in the television series Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea.

Shortly thereafter, she was offered a leading role on the daytime drama Days of Our Lives, where she starred as Dr. Laura Horton for eight and a half years. During her last year on the show, she won an Emmy Award as Outstanding Actress in a Daytime Series. Flannery has also starred in The Towering Inferno, The Moneychangers, Women in White and Anatomy of Seduction. © TV Listing Inc.

Robin Pearson Rose (left) and Frances Fisher star in Lucy & Desi: Before the Laughter, Sunday on CBS.

Casey Siemaszko (left) plays an escaped Texas convict whose crime spree involves abducting actress Georgia Emelin in The Chase, a true story, Sunday on NBC.

TIME OUT

Networks provide pro, college hoops

By Steve Paschal

The stars of the NBA will shine Sunday when NBC televises the league's annual All-Star Game, but a double-shot of big-time college basketball on CBS and ABC will make it hard for many basketball junkies to keep their hands off the remote control.

While Michael Jordan, Isiah Thomas and the rest of the best in the NBA are putting on their mid-season show in Charlotte, N.C., Nevada-Las Vegas and Arkansas, the top two teams in the pre-season college polls, will clash in the first half of a CBS twin bill that also features Duke and Louisiana State. ABC will counter with Purdue at Indiana followed by either Arizona at UCLA or Illinois at Minnesota.

The Runnin' Rebs of Nevada-Las Vegas proved they were the dominant college team in the nation last year when they crushed Duke by 30 points in the NCAA Championship Game. This year they're gunning for a second straight national championship after a miracle ruling by the NCAA. The ruling allowed the Rebs to escape sanctions that banned them from post-season play because of recruiting violations by Coach Jerry Tarkanian.

Arkansas is in the process of giving the Southwest Conference one last roundball lesson before moving on to the Southeastern Conference. The Razorbacks were the pre-season favorites to take the national title before UNLV returned to the picture.

LET'S TALK

By Polly Vonetes

Q: My friend and I saw a movie on TV called Crash Course. It had a gorgeous actor in it named Brian Bloom. What else has he been in, how old is he, and where is he from?—Please answer, we are in love!

A: Brian Bloom was born on June, 30, 1970, in Manhasset, Long Island, N.Y. He won a Daytime Emmy Award as 1984/85's best young actor for his role in the daytime series As the World Turns. Brian began his career in commercials for Hi-C, Jello Pudding Pops and Quaker Oats. He has also had roles in Once Upon a Time in America with Robert De Niro, Walls of Glass with Geraldine Page and The Stuff with his brother Scott. His prime-time TV roles include the NBC-TV movie Crash Course.

Q: To start this year, I'd like to set you straight re: Mr. Russell. Apparently you haven't utilized the MPAA Library for filmologies nor watched any recent westerns. Mr. Russell did not "fade out" but has also done the TV series around the time of Lawman called Soldiers of Fortune. He more recently can be seen in Pale Rider and a little further back, The Outlaw Josey Wales. Please try to be more positive and accurate in the future to others of whom you write.—B. Engels, Sedona, Ariz.

A: Yes, let's start the year right. In reference to my Dec. 23 column, I quote, "John Russell was hardly seen on the screen after The Lawman series left the air in 1962, although he did return for a few episodes of Alias Smith and Jones during the early '70s." Nowhere did I say "fade out." His series, Soldiers of Fortune (1955-56) aired before The Lawman (1958-62). I also mentioned his TV series Jason of Star Command (1979-81). I must remind you my column deals primarily with the TV screen. His roles on the movie screen have hardly been starring ones. Limited column space does not permit me to write a full biography. I appreciate your interest, but please—if you are going to quote me, at least do so accurately.

Q: Please settle a dispute between my friend and me. In the movie The Wizard of Oz are the three boy munchkins who give Dorothy a lollipop called the "Lollipop Give" or the "Lollipop Guild?" We've been arguing about this for five years. Please try and answer this for us.—Jill Ellis, Mellen, Wis.

A: The three little munchkins were members of the Lollipop Guild. Jerry Maren, 17 years old at the time, was the one who actually gave Dorothy her lollipop.

Classic 'Bambi' makes premiere on TV

By Christy Bergslien
For the first time in five decades, the classic animated feature Bambi comes to television. The beloved young deer and his friends Thumper, Flower and Faline can be seen this week on The Disney Channel, Feb. 10, 11, 13 and 14. (Check listings for times in your area.)

Derived from the book by Felix Salten, Bambi was five years in the making. Its technical and artistic qualities rank it a classic by animation experts and historians.

As most people will recall, Bambi is a happy little fawn until his mamma doe is shot and killed by hunters. Poor Bambi must learn for himself to forage for scarce amounts of food in the dead of winter. But when spring comes, all is well when Bambi becomes a buck and falls in love.

Although the story of Bambi focuses on how the young deer blooms with the seasons, the real show-stopper is the floppy-eared, foot-stomping bunny, Thumper. Thumper is an example of Disney's "personality animation," in which music, more than dialogue, tells the story and reveals the personal qualities of the animals.

Disney handpicked a group of top artists to learn animal anatomy and locomotion before producing Bambi. In fact, two fawns, two skunks and a sampling of birds, squirrels, chipmunks and rabbits were kept in a pen outside the animation building for the group to watch and study. © TV Listing Inc.

Fred Dryer plays a no-nonsense detective on the police drama Hunter, Wednesdays on NBC.

SOAP TALK

Role more important than recognition

By Candace Havens

Almost every weekday you can see John Aprea portraying Lucas on Another World. His character has gone through a transformation over the past year, beginning as a bit of a hoodlum who could do no right and becoming a man simply trying to prove himself.

"When my character was younger I was supposedly a bit of a scoundrel who was driven out of town. Now I've come back to try to clean up my act," said Aprea in a recent interview.

"I've actually played a lot of characters of ill repute," said Aprea. One such character, Manny Vasquez on Knots Landing, brought him more recognition than he could have ever imagined. "I didn't realize the power of that show. Manny wasn't a part where they call you up and give you a contract. He just started and then ended up going through an entire season. He was a recognizable character, but I didn't feel like a real part of the show. But it turned out that more people knew me during that period than all of the other stuff I've done put together."

After the role on Knots ended, Aprea moved his family, wife Ninon and 2-year-old daughter Nicole, to New York to work on Another World. The flashy show business arena of L.A. became a distant memory. "Another World has been around for 26 years, and there is a real feeling of family there," Aprea explained. "We shoot in Brooklyn, and the crew is a very neighborhood kind of people. It's not at all 'show business' there."

He believes the soaps are a great place to perfect the craft of acting. "I've seen some of the people on our show do scenes that were just magnificent, and they didn't have near the time to prepare for it that someone in the movies or theater would have had."

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

TRIVIA, ETC.

Liza Minnelli had early debut

By Steven Alan McGaw

Correction Dept: Some time ago, I asserted that Liza Minnelli made her film debut in Charlie Bubbles. Wrong! Actor Christopher Bradley hastened to point out that the infant Liza made a brief appearance in her parents' Meet Me in St. Louis. I stand corrected.

Questions:

1. Identify the actor who plays the protagonist of Lina Wertmuller's harrowing 1976 film Seven Beauties.
2. Name the actor who played Tessio in the first two Godfather films. (This character's ingenuity makes a memorable contribution to the first film. As a very large bonus, what is it?)
3. David Bowie has described this work as his "...32 Elvis Presley movies rolled into one." What is it?
4. In Kenneth Branagh's dazzling 1989 film version of Henry V, who plays the King of France? (Bonus: Name the role and film for which this actor received his Oscar.)

Answers:

1. Giancarlo Giannini
2. Abe Vigoda played Tessio, who, in the first film, came up with the hiding place for the gun which Michael Corleone used in an assassination. They hid it behind the toilet.
3. Just a Gigolo
4. Paul Scofield plays the French monarch. Scofield was named Best Actor for his 1966 portrayal of Sir Thomas More in A Man for All Seasons.

HAVE FUN at the Movies

EXCELLENT GOOD FAIR POOR DON'T WASTE MONEY

THE GRIFTERS: Starring Anjelica Huston, John Cusack and Annette Bening. What evil lurks in the minds of the truly perverted? The Grifters know, and they tell you, in a chillingly malicious manner. The Grifters is a wicked and sexy tale of who's-conning-who? Based on the novel by the late 1950s mystery novelist, Jim Thompson, this film noir turns on a volatile triangle: Roy the small-time grifter (con artist); his ruthless girlfriend, who uses any means, any way (including a rather stunning body) to get her prey; and Roy's mother (Lily), who scams racetrack odds for the mob. These three circle fields of suckers (honest citizens) like world class predators. To complicate matters, along with murder and treachery, the story involves potentially explosive traces of incest. Stephen Frears' direction is brilliant. The audience is caught right on the edge of depravity; but never pulled in or driven away. Just held in suspended fascination by the mesmerizing depiction of life's underside.

The three stars (and Pat Hingle, in a dazzling brief appearance) give astonishingly complex, brooding performances. The Grifters is a powerful, haunting film with a dangerous, jagged edge. Rated R for sexual content, nudity, language, and violence. This is a film for mature audiences only, and for lovers of film noir.

FILM NOIR VIDEO MOVIES

Film noir is a French phrase meaning dark film. Good video film noir:

WHO'LL STOP THE RAIN: (1978) Starring Nick Nolte, Michael Moriarty, and Tuesday Weld. In this outstanding film, Nick Nolte gives one of his finest performances as a hardened vet who agrees to smuggle drugs for a buddy (the also excellent Michael Moriarty). What neither of them knows is that the scheme is a setup. Set up by hardened pros who want to steal the dope and kill them. Based on Robert Stone's Dog Soldiers, the plot also concerns Nolte's psychological hangups about the war. Rated R for violence and language.

Four Boxes

BLADE RUNNER: (1982) Starring Harrison Ford and Sean Young.

A superbly crafted sci-fi, which invests a remarkable storyline with a distinctive noirish visual style, and a nineties high-tech look. Ford plays a bounty-hunter out to terminate four escaped androids who are thought to be dangerous. The film is impeccable in every detail; from casting to scripting, to the unforgettable look at a future where machines have a truer sense of soul than humans. Rated R for brief nudity and violence.

Four Boxes

BLOOD SIMPLE: (1984) Starring John Getz and Frances McDormand.

This film has been praised for its black humor. It's a twangy yarn about a couple scheming to murder the woman's husband (who may or may not be dead) and the slimy detective hired (who may or may not be on the husband's side) to do the deed. The movie has been described as: "a state of confusion that follows the commission of a murder." Rated R for suggested sex, violence and profanity.

Three Boxes

BLUE VELVET: (1986) Starring Isabella Rossellini and Dennis Hopper.

This film is not for the weak of stomach, mind or heart. The contrived plot follows a nightmare world of decadence and sex hidden right in the heart of a small town. The movie's message - about there being a seamy underside to every small, American town - is obvious. But the clincher is Dennis Hopper's full-tilt incarnation of town psycho Frank Booth, one of the most manically inspired performances he's ever given. Rated R for violence, decadent sex and excessive, vile language.

Three Boxes

NO WAY OUT: (1987) Starring Kevin Costner, Gene Hackman and Sean Young.

In this gripping, sexy and surprising suspense film noir, Kevin Costner plays a morally upright naval hero who accepts a position with the Secretary of Defense (Hackman). Things get a bit sticky when the Secretary becomes involved in a murder. There are excellent performances by all in this tightly directed, puzzle of a film. Rated R for nudity, sexual situations, language and violence.

Three Boxes

STORMY MONDAY: (1988) Starring Melanie Griffith, Tommy Lee Jones, Sting and Sean Bean.

In this highly recommended extremely stylish film noir thriller, Melanie Griffith and Sean Bean play unlikely lovers who attempt to stop ruthless American businessman Tommy Lee Jones from taking over a jazz nightclub owned by Sting that is in Liverpool, England.

Four Boxes

Jamie Lee Curtis Ron Silver
A rookie officer learns her boyfriend may be a serial killer, and the two get engaged...in a violent game of cat and mouse.

Instant FOOD & TREASURE

Rules and Instructions

1. Receive a FREE INSTANT FOOD & TREASURE™ Game Ticket every time you visit a participating store (All visits within 3 hours are considered 1 visit). No purchase is required. Only adults eighteen (18) years and older are eligible to play.
2. To play INSTANT GAME: Push off all three (3) silver spots with edge of coin. If all three (3) prizes match on one ticket, you win that prize instantly upon verification. $1.00, $5.00, $20.00 and Grocery Product prizes paid immediately upon verification by store manager. $50.00, $100.00, and $1,000.00 prizes must be verified by Headquarters Game Coordinator before payment. SWEEPSTAKES: All remaining tickets are eligible as sweepstakes entries. Each store will award 13 weekly $100.00 Shopping Sprees. One Grand Prize of a new Ford Escort will be awarded at the end of the promotion. Fill in your name and address on the back of the ticket and deposit in store display. 3. All applicable taxes on prizes including sales tax, license and transfer fee for Car Prize are sole responsibility of prize winners. Federal Trade Commission rules require winner's name and address be posted in participating stores. Game void where prohibited. 4. All game materials will be rejected and junked if not obtained from authorized personnel, or if game ticket is torn, illegible, altered, forged, tampered with, contains printing errors or is irregular in any way. Liability for rejected game tickets limited to replacement of ticket rejected. 5. Game ends upon distribution of all game tickets. All prizes must be claimed within ten (10) days after announced termination of game or they are forfeited. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, at such time as the verified submissions for prizes in any category equals the total quantity of prizes allocated and advertised for that category, then the game, as it relates to that prize category, immediately terminates without notice, and any unverified game materials at that time shall automatically be rejected. 6. All game materials submitted for prizes must have the series number, the complete prize description, and all security patterns clearly visible. Fraudulent, counterfeit, and altered submissions may be prosecuted. 7. Employees (and members of their households) of participating supermarkets, their advertising agencies, or producers and manufacturers of materials for this game program are ineligible to participate. 8. Game materials also available (one per inquiry per day) by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope to: INSTANT FOOD & TREASURE™ Program 457, P.O. Box 348, Huntington, Indiana 46750.

FOOD AWARENESS By Ann Crowley R.D., Ph.D.

What's a Surimi?

Surimi (pronounced sir-REE-mee) begins with a white fish, usually Alaskan pollock, a species of cod from the deep cold oceans of the Pacific Northwest. The firm fleshed fish is skinned, filleted, minced, washed in purified water, and flash frozen for shipping to the processors. The processors add the particular desired flavorings, natural binders and stabilizers like starch, salt or egg white. The fish is processed into a paste and shaped into the desired seafood equivalent.

Crab flavored surimi or imitation crab is by far the most popular. It outsells all the shrimp, lobster and scallop varieties. Crab flavored surimi is available refrigerated or frozen. It can be purchased in legs, sticks, claws, chunks or flakes or salad style, a combination of flakes and chunks.

The average 3 1/2 ounce serving of seafood surimi contains only 85-90 calories. It has less than 2% fat or 2 grams. The remaining calories come from high quality protein.

This delicious, inexpensive seafood product can be used in salads, soups, sandwiches, or casseroles and as a seafood cocktail.
