Senate okays new school deal

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas senators have sent the House a school finance reform plan that would cost an estimated $13.9 billion over the next five years in additional state and local property tax money.

Despite a looming Texas Supreme Court deadline for writing a reform plan, some lawmakers held out little hope for House passage, citing the bill's cost and concerns about its effect on local school districts.

The bill would shift hundreds of millions of dollars in local property tax money from wealthier to poorer school districts. It would result in an average 32 percent increase in local property taxes, according to Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock.

If lawmakers do not meet Monday's deadline, a court order is to take effect to halt state spending on education.

House Speaker Gib Lewis predicted a tight vote but said he hoped the measure would pass.

"Nobody's excited about this bill ... but they realize that under the circumstances and conditions we have, it's probably going to be as good as they can get," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

The Texas Senate approved the measure, which was developed by a House-Senate conference committee, with a 21-10 vote Tuesday.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Carl Parker, said failure to pass it could mean that some schools would close next month, some students not be graduated from high school and some teachers not get paid.

"Don't vote for the bill for me. Don't vote for the bill for you. Vote for it for the school children of Texas," Parker, D-Port Arthur, told senators.

Several senators said the Legislature later could make changes in school finance laws, after meeting the Texas Supreme Court's Monday deadline for writing a reform plan.

Texas Education Agency estimates released by Bullock showed the bill would cost about $6.4 billion more in state funds and $7.5 billion in additional local school property tax money through 1996.

The Texas Supreme Court unanimously ruled unconstitutional the current $14 billion-a-year school finance system, which relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money.

Differences in local property wealth now lead to wide disparities in education funding, and the court said poor districts must be equitably funded.

The conference committee bill was endorsed by a group of poor school districts that led the successful lawsuit against the current school funding system.

The plan would create 183 education taxing districts, largely along county lines, with some multi-county districts.

Bivins votes for school bill

State Sen. Teel Bivins (R-Amarillo) voted for the school finance bill Tuesday, but still intends to push for a constitutional amendment on the issue.

"Darrell Royal once said there were three things that can happen when you pass the ball, and two of them are bad," Bivins said. "Today, the Texas Senate was faced with a similar problem." Bivins said the legislature, if the bill doesn't pass, risks the Texas Supreme Court granting more time ("A highly unlikely option," Bivins said), closing public schools, or having the court write the law.

"I supported (the bill) because the odds of playing chicken with the Texas Supreme Court after two successive 9-0 decisions are lousy," Bivins said. "More importantly, if the courts take over this critical area of public policy all local control will be lost."

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says welfare should be used as a safety net, not a hammock.

Sometimes I get the feeling my desk is just a wastebasket with drawers.

Backed into a corner by the Texas Supreme Court, the senate passed a school finance bill Tuesday that State Sen. Teel Bivins calls a "nasty, horrible bill." Bivins, our senator from Amarillo, said he voted for the bill because the alternative could be even worse.

Sen. John Montford of Lubbock, however, voted no. He said the bottom line was "the extreme burden this package places on local taxpayers." This underlines a key matter that the school reform has brought to light--the inequity of taxes in Texas.

The Texas Association of Taxpayers (TAT) recently adopted a resolution calling for a complete restructuring of the state's tax system. "Such a restructuring would include dramatic reductions in property taxes, elimination of the franchise tax, and reduction in sales taxes," said TAT. The organization recommends both personal and business income taxes, along with a strict restraint on the Legislature's ability to increase future tax collection.

The school finance bill calls for dramatic increases in property taxes. More than 50 percent of total tax revenue in Texas already comes from the property tax, and two-thirds of that comes from business properties. These taxes on business make up a larger share of the tax system than they do in most states, and current taxes fall inequitably on different types of business.

No one wants to see Texas adopt new taxes. The only solution may be to completely restructure our state's tax system.

Former Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black tells a story about a jury trial in the backwoods of Alabama. A farmhand had been charged with stealing a farmer's mule.

The evidence was clear-cut, but everybody on the jury knew the farmer for being a jerk and most folks in the community despised him. When the jury returned its verdict, the foreman said, "We find the defendant not guilty, providing he gives the mule back."

The judge ruled that was no lawful verdict. After lecturing the jury at length, he instructed them to go back into deliberations. In just five minutes, the jury returned.

"We find the defendant not guilty," said the foreman, "and he can keep the mule."

Welcome Home celebration being planned

Group planning welcome

A special Welcome Home celebration for Hereford persons who served in Operation Desert Storm is being planned for July 4th here.

An initial planning meeting was held Tuesday at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, with 12 persons attending the first session. Mike Carr, executive vice president of the Chamber, said more persons will be needed to help make plans and to carry out any events that are held.

"This is not intended to supplant anything else anyone else is doing, and we don't want to pre-empt any plans that are already made" Carr stressed. "We want to support other activities and coordinate other events that may be planned for July 4th."

Carr said that all ideas anyone has for the celebration will be considered by the committee. Persons who have ideas or who would like to serve on the committee are urged to call the chamber at 364-3333.

The celebration will probably include a parade and other special events during the day of July 4th. Other possibilities include a barbecue and other festivities to which the entire city would be invited to salute the soldiers.

Wes Klett, who recently returned to Hereford after serving in the US Air Force, Henry Reid and Bill Lyles have been named chairmen of the event. Other persons attending the initial meeting were Diane Beavers, Janie Nino, Gene Streun, Miles Caudle, Grant Hanna, Janie Young, Joe Flood and John Brooks.

"We want to establish something for which the community can be involved in saluting them, letting them know of our appreciation of them and what they have done for our country," Carr said. "We welcome any input from anyone in the community."

Schwarzkopf 'suckered' by Iraqis on helicopters

WASHINGTON (AP) - Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf says the Iraqis "suckered" him into letting them use the helicopters that now are part of the bloody suppression of the rebellion against Saddam Hussein.

"I think they suckered me," the Operation Desert Storm commander said in an interview with David Frost, airing tonight on public television.

Discussing his cease-fire talks three weeks ago with Iraqi generals, Schwarzkopf said the Iraqis asked to use helicopters because the allies had destroyed their nation's bridges and roads, making travel difficult.

"They looked me straight in the eye and said ... 'We would like to fly our helicopters. And the purpose of flying those helicopters will be for transportation of government officials,'" the four-star general said.

Schwarzkopf said the request seemed reasonable since the Iraqis agreed not to fly over any allied forces.

"I think I was suckered because I think they intended, right then, when they asked that question, to use those helicopters against the insurgents that were going on. I think that absolutely was their intention - again, a personal opinion - but ... as I said, they suckered me," Schwarzkopf said, according to a transcript of the interview.

The Bush administration also said Tuesday that Iraq's use of attack helicopters against Shiite and Kurdish rebels violated an oral understanding

"Practically, what normally happens to people like Saddam Hussein is ... at some point they're taken care of by their own folks."
--Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf, who called Hussein "an evil man" who "lied at every turn."

between Schwarzkopf and Iraqi military officials.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater was vague about how the allies would deal with helicopters, although U.S. fighter planes have shot down two Iraqi fighters since the ground war ended.

"The fact is ... we want to be murky on this," Fitzwater said. "We aren't going to tell you exact rules for how we're going to deal with these helicopters. We aren't going to tell you why, and we aren't going to tell you why. Let him guess. Let him wonder about every helicopter that goes up."

Schwarzkopf, calling the Iraqi president "an evil man," said he has

"lied at every turn," and said the allies should not trust him.

"We are going to continue to keep our guard up until such a time as there is in fact a cease-fire ... and we are very, very sure that no one, absolutely no one out there in the battlefield is going to take offensive action against us," he said.

Saddam is a "war criminal by any definition you choose to apply," Schwarzkopf said, adding that he doubted that the Iraqi president would ever face a war crimes trial.

"Practically, what normally happens to people like Saddam Hussein is ... at some point, they're taken care of by their own folks," he said.

The Desert Storm commander also revealed that he recommended continuing the ground war beyond the time when President Bush ordered an end to the fighting.

"Frankly, my recommendation had been ... continue the march. I mean, we had them in a rout and we could have continued to ... reap great destruction on them. We could have completely closed the door and made it in fact a battle of annihilation," the general said.

But Bush "made the decision ... we should stop at a given time, at a given place, that did leave some escape routes open for them to get back out; and I think that was a very humane decision and a very courageous decision on his part, also," Schwarzkopf said.

Sarpalius says tape 'Watergate'

AMARILLO (AP) - A congressman says the use of a taped cellular phone conversation between him and an Amarillo woman is another "Watergate" at the congressional level.

U.S. Rep. Bill Sarpalius, D-Amarillo, said Tuesday that Dick Waterfield's congressional campaign and the Republican Party were involved in "dirty politics" and called for a federal investigation into the matter to be continued.

"This is another Watergate. Except it's on a congressional level," Sarpalius told reporters.

Joseph Edgar Clements, 75, of Amarillo pleaded guilty in federal court Tuesday to recording the conversation and then giving a tape to the campaign of Waterfield.

Clements was fined $250 and ordered to pay a $5 mandatory fee on his guilty plea to a charge of intentionally intercepting a wire or electronic conversation held on Aug. 29.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Vicki Howard said that the conversation was between Sarpalius and Michelle Martinez of Amarillo.

The tape had been distributed to members of the Amarillo news media in mid-October in the midst of the congressman's heated re-election battle against Waterfield.

A plea bargain agreement allowed Clements to plead guilty to a lesser charge than the felony charge of intercepting the call. The felony charge carried maximum punishment of a $5,000 fine and no jail time.

Clements, who works at an optical company, told the judge that he was scanning the airwaves when he accidentally picked up Sarpalius talking to Martinez from a golf course. He said he recognized the voice and thought the content of the conversation was "odd."

Clements, who said he didn't realize that taping the conversation was illegal, said he thought Sarpalius' statements in asking Ms. Martinez for a date weren't appropriate for an elected official and should be made public.

Defense lawyer Charles L. Rittenberry said a member of Waterfield's staff picked up the tape from Clements.

Waterfield, contacted Tuesday afternoon, said he did not know Clements and said he could not comment on the man's statements.

"I honestly did not know anything about the distribution of that tape," Waterfield said.

Sarpalius said he was "shocked" at the latest events and said Waterfield knew more than he let on.

"Dick Waterfield told us publicly on TV that he had no involvement in that taping, that he knew nothing about it, no connection to it," the Democrat said.

Last month, Sarpalius said he received a card from a Republican political consultant that Sarpalius said "implicated" both the Waterfield campaign and the GOP in distribution of the tape.

He said the card was from Tommy Garrett, a former consultant with the National Republican Congressional Committee, the congressional campaign wing of the national Republican Party.

"During the 1990 campaign against you, I was a consultant to the NRCC. I removed a copy of your taped conversation from Dick Waterfield's office and allowed a friend to copy it, not aware that it was illegal," according to the note.

"It's glaringly obvious that, beyond politics and elections, I have wronged you personally, and owe you an apology," Garrett wrote.

Garrett could not be reached for comment late Tuesday, the Amarillo Globe-News reported today. Waterfield could not be reached for comment on the Garrett matter.

Sarpalius said he had forwarded a copy of Garrett's card to the U.S. attorney's office in Amarillo.

Gunships key in fighting Iraqi rebels

Kurdish rebels who control a large chunk of northern Iraq appeared more vulnerable today to helicopter attacks after the United States declined to commit itself to downing Iraqi gunships.

The gunships have been key to Saddam Hussein's successes against rebels in southern Iraq, where his forces are now said to have regained control of all major cities.

A Baghdad newspaper said today that Iraq has restored "peace, stability and order" to southern Iraq. Al-Jumhuriya claimed the operation of "mopping up pockets of saboteurs in the northern areas" was going according to plan.

The Kurds today claimed they captured two Iraqi warplanes in overrunning an air base near the northern oil center of Kirkuk. The Kurdish and government claims could not be independently confirmed.

An Iraqi opposition leader on Tuesday accused the West of refusing to back the anti-Saddam rebellion because it fears Islamic radicals will take over if he were to fall.

Washington has refused to publicly take sides in the civil war that has raged in Iraq since Saddam's forces were defeated one month ago by U.S.-led forces in the war over Kuwait.

The temporary cease-fire that ended the war stipulated that Iraq keep its warplanes grounded, but there have been several violations and U.S. warplanes shot down two Iraqi jets last week.

U.S. forces continue to occupy a large area of southern Iraq but have so far made no attempt to keep Iraqi helicopter gunships from flying

Lobbyist reappears before grand jury

AUSTIN (AP) - A key figure in the grand jury investigation of indicted House Speaker Gib Lewis and state Rep. Hugo Berlanga testified for the fourth time before the panel.

Toni Barcellona, an Austin lobbyist, told reporters Tuesday after her hourlong session with the grand jury, "Basically, I believe that if everybody is honest in this deal, it will all go away."

Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle said Ms. Barcellona was subpoenaed again "to clarify some matters," but refused to elaborate.

He said Ms. Barcellona has been given immunity from prosecution based on her testimony, and that she is not under investigation.

Ms. Barcellona said of the questioning, "It's everything that we've talked about before."

According to news reports, Lewis, D-Fort Worth, shared an $800-a-night suite with Ms. Barcellona during a Mexican vacation paid for by her former employer, the law firm of Heard, Goggan, Blair and Williams. Lewis and Ms. Barcellona were among six men and six women who spent three days together in April 1987 at a Pacific Coast resort, according to the reports.

Heard, Goggan frequently lobbies the Legislature, and numerous bills that would have hurt the law firm's governmental tax-collecting business have died in House committee.

Last December, Lewis was indicted by the grand jury on charges that he received a gift in the form of a tax payment from Heard, Goggan. He has denied any wrongdoing.

Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, and one of Lewis' top lieutenants, was jailed for about six hours last week in his fight against a grand jury subpoena seeking his business records. Berlanga has surrendered the records after losing an appeal before the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Prosecutors said they are currently examining those documents, which were contained in one large envelope.

Confession ruling controversial

WASHINGTON (AP) - Criminal defense attorneys, law professors and civil libertarians say they are astonished at a Supreme Court ruling that opens the door to use of coerced confessions as evidence in criminal trials.

"It defies logic," said Sam Dash, a Georgetown University professor who has been both a prosecutor and a defense attorney. "A confession beaten out of someone or through psychological pressures ... has historically always been excluded from trial."

The timing of the ruling as the country focuses on police brutality after the videotaped beating of Los Angeles motorist Rodney King "is a sorry coincidence," said Phil Gutis of the American Civil Liberties Union.

"Now is not the time that we need less restrictions on the police," Gutis said.

The 5-4 Supreme Court decision Tuesday, written by Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist, said using coerced confessions may be "harmless error" and therefore would not automatically require a new trial if other evidence was sufficient to convict the defendant.

The decision doesn't welcome coerced confessions into court, but admission of such a confession into evidence previously was cause to overturn a conviction, no matter what other evidence existed.

At the same time, the justices upheld rulings requiring a new trial for Oreste Fulminante of Arizona, who was charged with killing his 11-year-old stepdaughter. The court found that in Fulminante's case, the use of his coerced confession could not be ruled harmless and therefore he was entitled to a new trial.

The Justice Department, which filed a brief and gave oral arguments on the case, hailed the court's decision on the coerced confession issue.

"We're pleased that the Supreme Court agreed with our submission that trial errors should not automatically lead to a reversal of a conviction even when the error is the admission of an involuntary confession," a department official said.

But critics said the power of a confession to sway a jury cannot be underestimated.

"There is no way to really ever assess the impact of a confession on a jury," said Jeffrey Weiner, president-elect of the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers. "There's no way to say that it did not impact them and the conviction was based on other evidence, except in the rarest of cases."

Dash, who served as chief counsel to the Senate Watergate Committee in the 1970s, noted that the decision reverses years of judicial precedent.

"I think it's a very dangerous view by the court," Dash said.

"Almost every court that has ever considered coerced confessions has indicated a confession can never be harmless no matter how much other evidence there is because a jury is bound to put a great deal of weight on the confession," he said.

Weiner, who practices law in Miami, said he viewed the decision as one "that will give comfort to police officers because they no longer need to be scrupulously certain that their actions result in confessions which are not coerced."

To Michael L. Bender, chairman of the American Bar Association's criminal justice section, the decision amounts to "a diminishing of all of our individual rights when confronted by the police."

The decision is another way of "trying to solve the temporary problem of violent crime and white-collar crime in a way that tampers with fundamental concepts of the fabric of our society," said Bender, a private defense attorney in Denver.

HHS sets 'egg hunt'

The Hereford High School Student Council will hold an Easter Egg Hunt for HHS students on Thursday.

Hundreds of hand-painted Easter eggs will be hidden around the school to be hunted Thursday morning. Other eggs will be hidden in each classroom by teachers.

Students will have the opportunity to search for Easter eggs and those finding special eggs will receive Easter baskets filled with candy. One "lucky" student will get a "Yolk Egg," which will entitle the student to a consolation prize to be awarded after school Thursday.

Teachers will also receive a visit from Easter bunnies who will honor them with specially hand-made plastic Easter eggs which have been decorated and filled with Easter candy.

Canyon rides wind past Hereford 6-2

The Canyon baseball team rode Tuesday's winds to a 6-2 decision over Hereford in Canyon.

Whiteface coach T.R. Sartor said the Eagles hit two home runs in the game, including a three-run homer in the sixth inning which broke a 2-2 tie.

Sartor said the game was an improvement over the two teams' last meeting on March 19, which Canyon won 16-0.

"We played pretty well," Sartor said. "We had two errors.

"We put the ball in play a bunch, but they played error-free baseball."

The Whitefaces hit many line drives and hard grounders. Sartor said, but only five went through for base hits.

Amado Lopez pitched all seven innings for the Herd, and he drew praise from Sartor.

"Amado threw real well. I was real pleased with that," Sartor said.

Canyon led 2-0 after one inning, but Hereford tied it up with two runs in the fifth.

Amado Lopez led off with a single and was forced out on Chad Brummett's fielder's choice grounder. After Matt Bromlow had an infield single, Max Mungia hit a bloop single just over the infield. Sartor said an outfielder dove for it but couldn't catch it, and Brummett and Bromlow scored.

In the bottom of the sixth, Canyon led off with a pop-fly that caught the wind and fell for a single. Another single followed, then a left-handed Eagle batter lifted a ball to left field, and the wind sent it out of the park, Sartor said.

The three-run homer made it 5-2, and the Eagles added a solo homer in the seventh for the final score, Sartor said.

Hereford now stands at 3-12 with one game--1 p.m. Friday in Dalhart--remaining before Dumas comes to town to start district play.

The Herd plays the Demons at 1 p.m. Saturday at Whiteface Field.

Pitman offers handicaps

A new handicapping system will be used this year at Pitman Municipal Golf Course in Hereford, course pro Brent Warner said.

Minimax Handicap System of Fort Worth will perform the service April through September for $7.50, Warner said.

Participants will enter their scores in a journal, Minimax will calculate the handicaps and they will be updated each week.

Warner said people interested in the service should sign up now.

Elliot leads Spurs past Knicks

By The Associated Press

David Robinson keyed San Antonio's drive to a 56-win season last year. If the Spurs are to advance to the next level, young players like Sean Elliott and Rod Strickland will have to produce.

On Tuesday night, Robinson was thoroughly outplayed by New York's Patrick Ewing, but Elliott and Strickland came through as the Spurs beat the Knicks 129-119 in overtime. Elliott scored a career-high 34 points and made some key plays in overtime, while Strickland had 21 points and 16 assists and veteran forward Sidney Green had a season-high 19 points.

"Sean Elliott, Sidney Green and Rod won the game for us," Spurs coach Larry Brown said. "Patrick is a tough man to stop and I think he frustrated David. But Sean came up with the big plays."

"I just got into a comfortable groove and the points came," Elliott said. "I've known all along I could do it. It was a matter of getting the shots off."

Ewing had 37 points, nine rebounds and six blocked shots for the Knicks. Robinson fouled out with 19 points, nine rebounds and four blocked shots.

"Patrick was the most consistent player on the court," Robinson said. "I struggled a little bit, but to see Sean play the way he did was fantastic. When Patrick shoots his jumper like that, there is not much you can do."

"My goal is to win the game and it really doesn't matter who I'm playing against," Ewing said. "My shots didn't fall down in the stretch and that really hurt us in the overtime. You have to give the Spurs credit. They were able to come back when David fouled out."

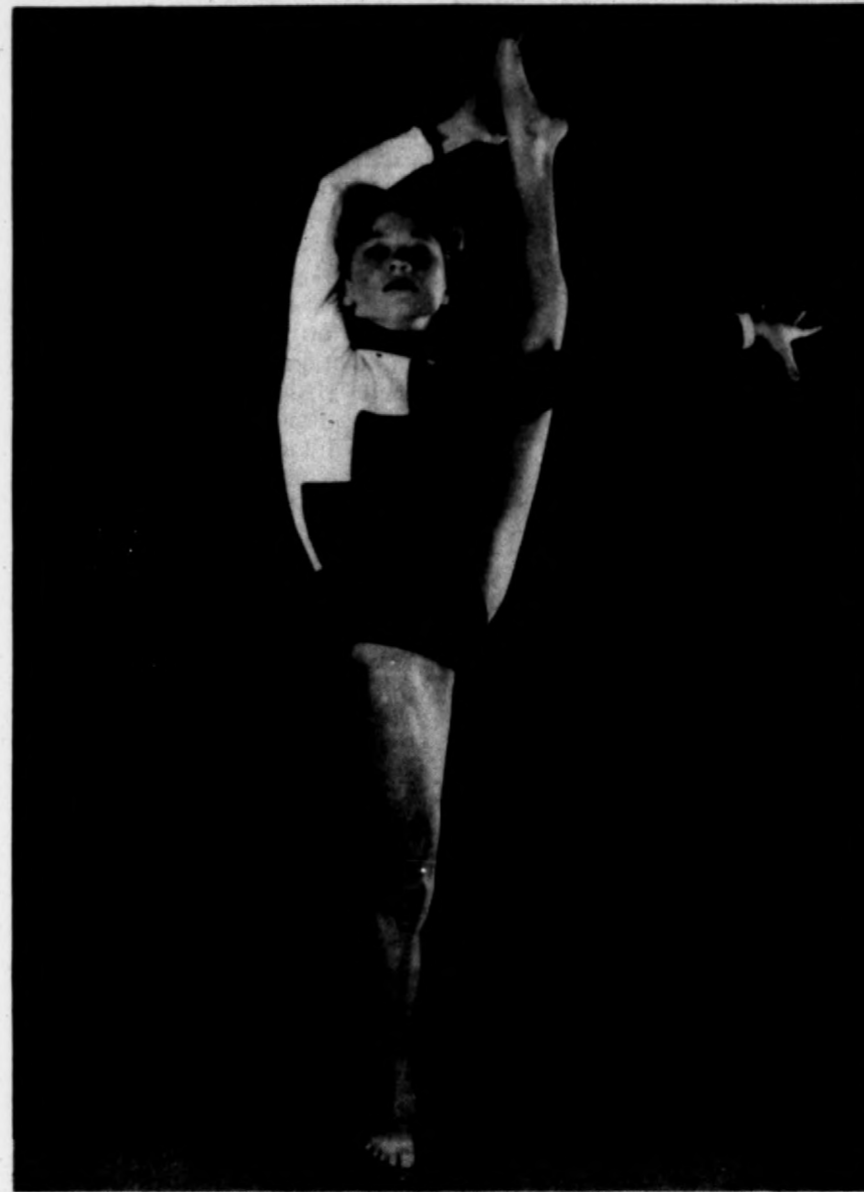

Trail Blazers 126, SuperSonics 113
Seattle, trailing by 27 points at Portland, closed within three before the Trail Blazers prevailed behind Clyde Drexler's 30 points.

The Trail Blazers, leading the Pacific Division by one game with their 50th victory in 68 games, took a 99-80 advantage into the final period, but Ricky Pierce scored 10 of his 21 points during a 31-15 spurt that closed the SuperSonics to 114-111 with 1:58 left.

Suns 117, Timberwolves 95
Kevin Johnson had 27 points and 10 assists for Phoenix, while Xavier McDaniel scored 22 points while Mark West had 12 points and 13 rebounds.

The Suns made 58 percent of their field goals (14 of 24) in the first quarter to take a 33-18 lead as the Timberwolves shot only 26 percent (7 of 27). Phoenix extended the margin to 72-45 at halftime.

Nets 98, 76ers 95, OT
New Jersey won for the fourth time in five starts at the Meadowlands as Mookie Blaylock scored six of his 25 points in overtime and Derrick Coleman had 23 points and 13

Alisha Easley--along with parents Paul and Billie a former resident of Hereford--won the Oklahoma state championship in Level 8 gymnastics Saturday.

Easley wins state gymnastics meet

Alisha Easley, a former Hereford resident, won the Oklahoma state championship in Level 8 gymnastics. She beat out 30 other girls at the United States Gymnastics Federation-sanctioned championship meet held Saturday in Edmond, Okla.

Alisha is the 11-year-old granddaughter of S.M. and Virginia Easley of Hereford. She is the daughter of Paul and Billie Easley, former residents of Hereford who now live in Yukon, a suburb of Oklahoma City.

"Level 8" refers to a gymnast's level of ability. The levels range from five to ten, with five being beginners. Above Level 10 is the "Elite" class. Alisha's all-around score Saturday was 35.60, and that included a personal best of 9.2 on the balance beam. The 9.2 was high for the Level 8 competition. Alisha also finished second in the floor exercise and third in the vault and uneven bars.

She trains under Steve Nunno and Peggy Liddick at Dynamo Gymnastics in Oklahoma City. Dynamo is also the training home of Shannon Miller, who is ranked third in the country and is a member of the senior national team.

Alisha has competed as far away as Los Angeles and Reno, Nev. On April 6, she will compete in a regional meet in Dallas, going against girls from Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Reggie Miller also scored 24 points for the Pacers. Dominique Wilkins led the Hawks with 34 points.

Hornets 97, Warriors 94
Rex Chapman led the Hornets to their biggest comeback in team history, rallying from 20 points down against Golden State.

The Warriors led 82-62 late in the third period and entered the fourth quarter with an 83-70 lead. But Golden State made just four of 19 shots in the final 12 minutes and was outscored 27-11 in the quarter.

Chapman scored eight of his 17 points in the final 2:22.

Heat 104, Cavaliers 98

Miami snapped an eight-game losing streak, winning at home behind Kevin Edwards' 28 points and Grant Long's four free throws in the final 34 seconds.

The Cavaliers had the ball trailing 99-96 in the final minute before Edwards knocked the ball away from John Morton and Long scored his only four points of the game on Miami's next two possessions for a 103-96 lead.

Hawks next for Rockets

CHICAGO (AP) - The Houston Rockets want to be taken seriously, and it's a safe bet the Atlanta Hawks will oblige them Thursday.

The Rockets won their 12th straight game Monday, a convincing 100-90 win over the Chicago Bulls in Chicago, to move within two games of first place in the Western Conference's Midwest Division.

"Winning at L.A. and Phoenix didn't get us the national respect, but this victory will," reserve guard Sleepy Floyd said after contributing 21 points in Monday's win. "This is going to cause people around the country to sit up and realize the Rockets are for real."

Atlanta had better realize it. The Hawks are fighting for a playoff spot in the Eastern Conference and are coming off a 123-113 loss to Indiana on Tuesday. They're 4-6 in their last 10 games.

The Rockets, meanwhile, have won 15 of their last 16 games. They've held opponents to less than 100 points in the last four games and 36 times this season.

Houston has the eighth-best record in the league at 44-24 and is in third place in the division behind Utah and San Antonio. They have already qualified for the playoffs.

Nastase, Vilas in tennis hall of fame

NEW YORK (AP) - It made Ilie Nastase feel old. For Guillermo Vilas, it was the last step.

Nastase and Vilas joined Ashley Cooper on Tuesday as the newest inductees into the International Tennis Hall of Fame, swelling the Newport, R.I., shrine to 154 members. The three players will be formally inducted in ceremonies at the Newport Casino on July 13.

"I feel like an old man," Nastase said when told of his selection. "I am lucky, I guess."

Vilas called his entry into the Hall

"a great honor. It's the last step you can ask from a sport."

Called the "Clown Prince of Tennis" because of his on-court antics, Nastase, in a telephone conversation from Paris, said his image has changed dramatically since he quit playing fulltime.

"Once you finish playing tennis, people love you more," he said. "I changed myself a little bit. I shut my mouth. When you start losing, you shut your mouth."

But in his prime the Romanian right-hander was brilliant, a master of every stroke who was ranked in the world's top 10 from 1969 to 1977. In 1973, he finished the season ranked No. 1 in the world.

The holder of 57 career singles titles, Nastase won the U.S. Open in 1972 and the French Open in 1973.

Nastase, 44, was a member of the Romanian Davis Cup team from 1966 to 1984, compiling a 110-35 record in both singles and doubles. He also won the doubles titles at the French Open in 1970 with Ion Tiriac, the U.S. Open doubles title in 1975 with Jimmy Connors and the mixed doubles at Wimbledon in 1970 and 1972 with Rosemary Casals.

Vilas won the French and U.S. Open singles titles in 1977 and the Australian Open singles in 1978 and 1979. A member of the Argentine Davis Cup squad that was runnerup to the United States in 1981, Vilas, now 38, was ranked in the top 10 from 1974 through 1982 and owns 61 career singles titles.

In 1977, the left-hander, who excelled on clay, won 46 consecutive matches, a men's professional record, and 15 tournament titles.

Vilas said his two Grand Slam wins in 1977 were his favorite titles.

"When I won the French Open, that was my first Grand Slam title," Vilas said from his home in Buenos Aires, Argentina. "But the U.S. Open was really special, how the people came to the court and put me on their shoulders."

Cooper, now 54, won the Australian singles crown in 1957 and captured three of the four Grand Slam singles titles in 1958 - the Australian, Wimbledon, and U.S. championships.

Cooper teamed with Neale Fraser, already in the Hall of Fame, to win the doubles crown at Australia in 1958, the French in 1958 and the U.S. in 1957. He also captured the 1957 French doubles title with Mal Anderson.

Carter signs with Dodgers

By The Associated Press

Gary Carter's back. But actually, he wasn't even gone.

Carter, invited to spring training as a non-roster player by the Los Angeles Dodgers, was given a one-year contract Tuesday worth approximately $500,000.

"I wasn't really worried," the 16-year veteran said. "I was prepared either way. I felt with the work I did in the off-season and my experience, I was going to be a proven factor."

Carter, who will be used primarily as a pinch hitter and a reserve, is hitting .185 this spring with five hits in 27 at-bats, no homers and one RBI.

"Gary Carter adds to our ballclub experience and competitiveness," Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda said. "He can still swing the bat enough to get you some big hits."

Carter, 38 on April 8, hit .254 for San Francisco last season with nine homers and 27 RBIs in 244 at-bats. He is 57th on the all-time list with 313 homers.

"Tommy called me during the winter and just said 'Come down and be ready to go,' and I was," Carter said. "This really is a dream come true. I was born in Culver City. I grew up in Southern California. I followed the Dodgers all the way. I'm absolutely thrilled."

On the other side of Florida, outfielder Bobby Bonilla and Pittsburgh still were unhappy about their contract situation.

The Pirates proposed a four-year agreement to start in 1991 that would be worth slightly more than $4 million a year, and Bonilla's agent Dennis Gilbert called the offer "interesting," but said, "There's no way we can accept this proposal."

"I'm disappointed, because we thought it was a good contract," Pirates president Carl Barger said. "We're going to keep working at it and trying to get it done."

In exhibition games:

Blue Jays 6, Rangers 2
At Dunedin, Fla., Pat Tabler hit a three-run homer in the second inning and four pitchers combined on a five-hitter for Toronto, which won for the second time in 11 games.

Orioles 9, Phillies 9, tie
At Clearwater, Fla., Dwight Evans hit a two-run homer, his first for Baltimore, and Dave LaPoint was pounded for five runs in four innings.

Red Sox 6, Reds 3
At Plant City, Fla., Mike Marshall went 4-for-4 and Mo Vaughn hit a two-run homer off Jose Rijo.

Pirates 7, White Sox 6
At Bradenton, Fla., Bobby Bonilla hit a two-run double and Jay Bell had a two-run triple as Pittsburgh survived four hits by ex-Pirate John Cangelosi.

Braves 3, Astros 2
At West Palm Beach, Fla., John Smoltz gave up three hits and two runs in six innings, and Mike Heath drove in two runs.

Midland Lee drops Rebel flag as logo

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) - Midland Lee High School will change its logo from a Confederate flag in order to avoid controversy, but the banner will remain as a historical symbol, school officials said.

The Midland school board of trustees voted 5-2 Tuesday night in favor of creating a new logo for the school while keeping the Confederate flag as a historical symbol.

The measure allows students and boosters to continue displaying the flag, but all school-sponsored clubs and teams will be required to use the new logo.

"This action kept the board from making a decision on removing the flag," said Ted Miller, a spokesman for the Midland Independent School District.

A student contest will be held to develop a new logo, Miller said.

Trustee Ken Mark's motion for a new school logo was prompted by a recommendation from a committee that had studied the issue since mid-February.

Student Wayne Wilson, a committee member, said the group met several times before developing a proposal that "everyone could agree upon."

Trustee Kenneth Morrison said the proposal would avert a confrontation, but "in effect let it (the flag) die a slow death."

A slow death isn't good enough for trustee James Fuller. He and fellow trustee Adela Marmolejo voted against the proposal, saying the flag should be used neither as a school logo nor a historical symbol.

"I hope we're not assuming the flag would disappear," Fuller said. "I want to ensure that the flag will be eliminated."

Members of a group called Citizens for Positive Change asked Midland Lee principal Jack Fryar to remove the flag and the song "Dixie" from use in the school last November. The group said the flag and song were offensive to minority students.

Students voted to keep the flag in a November referendum.

In a 5-2 vote on Dec. 8, trustees approved of the school's use of "Dixie."

Together We're A Team!

Members,

Survival seemed to be the basic rule of the day the last few years for all financial institutions. Credit Unions, Banks and Savings and Loans have all been struggling to maintain stability and remain profitable - Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union just completed a very successful 1990.

1991 - is developing into a real challenging opportunity. Falling interest rates and a low loan demand are compounded by a recessionary environment which is affecting the local economy. Add to this scenario, the "Desert Storm" war and resulting inflationary pressures.... These factors bring management to the questions - What is best for our membership? What plan of action should we follow with our investment? Do we expand our portfolio of loans or just remain static?

The answer to these and many other questions and our resulting game plan are relevant to the Hereford / Dimmitt communities' future growth and our members standard of living. The plan of action chosen by management will be conservative by nature of the Credit Union philosophy, but flexible enough to respond to our communities' needs and desires. Management plans to meet all challenges and to seize every opportunity available.

Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union has doubled in asset size the last five years. Hopefully this growth will continue. Despite our rapid growth we are striving to maintain a personal relationship with our membership. It is our goal to extend our services for membership's convenience. Presently we are struggling to fine-tune and correct some of our growing pains.

Management is totally committed to providing a safe, efficient and effective financial institution for the communities of both Hereford and Dimmitt.

The question management is most often asked today concerns the safety of the members money.

How does the N.C.U.A. share insurance fund compare with the condition of the F.D.I.C. insurance funds of Banks and thrifts? Most financial analysts and economists believe the number of Credit Unions that could conceivably get into trouble and impose losses on the insurance fund does not appear to be remotely close to the number of troubled banks and thrifts.

Today the limit for deposit insurance is generally $100,000.00 per person. This limit can be increased by setting up a variety of joint or trust accounts.

The N.C.U.A. is better capitalized than the F.D.I.C. insurance fund and credit unions generally make loans that are less risky than commercial real estate loans. Losses on the conventional consumer loans made at Credit Unions will probably increase during the current recession, but not enough to endanger the fund.

Today, Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union is a very healthy financial institution. Our growth factor indicates a high level of trust in our Board of Directors as they lead us into 1990's.

Our staff does a professional job. Yet, I want to emphasize the cornerstone of a successful Credit Union is the confidence of its members. I am thankful for this support.

The future demands are exciting and I know this Credit Union Team is up to the task.

Respectfully,

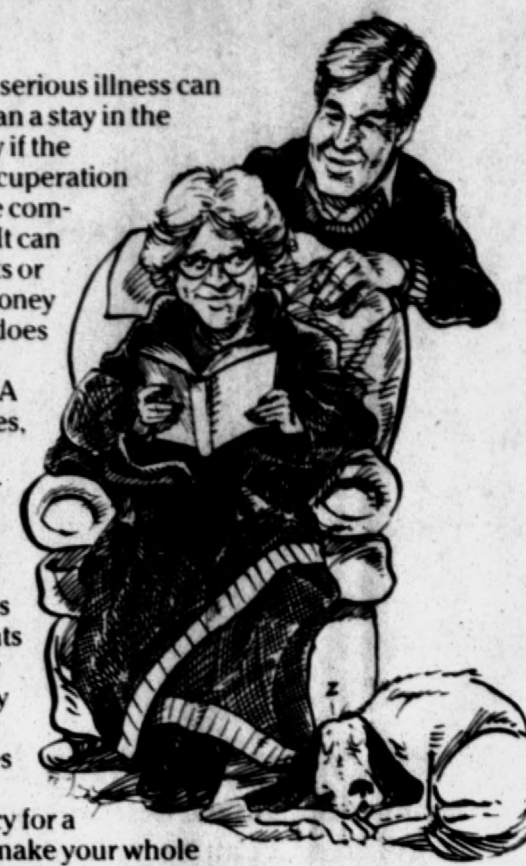

Robert L. Baker
Manager

Home health care coverage can make recovery more comfortable.

Full recovery from a serious illness can take much longer than a stay in the hospital... especially if the patient is elderly. Recuperation at home can be more comfortable and secure. It can also cost your parents or your family a lot of money for which Medicare does not reimburse you.

That's why the CNA Insurance Companies, one of several major companies our independent agency represents, created a new Home Health Care Plan. It provides coverage your parents and your own family may need to help pay the costs of professional health services performed at home.

Contact our agency for a discussion that can make your whole family more comfortable about the future.

Little's Fashions--45 years of retail service in Hereford

Hereford clothing store actually dates back to Gillis family in 1929; Little family has operated ladies' store since '45

By ORVILLE HOWARD
Special Feature Writer

Little's Fashions has a flair for friendliness.

Hospitality swirls from season to season in this fashion scene on Main Street -- hub of Hereford lifestyles in the richest agricultural center in Texas.

But the vast wealth from the turnrows and loading chutes of the Greater Hereford trade territory has not dampened the hometown atmosphere found on the sidewalks of this Deaf Smith County seat.

And Little's Fashions is a living example of a family trust in the economic future of Hereford--the W.B. Little family of Lubbock.

After 45 years of continuous retail service smack in the middle of the Hereford business district, Little's Fashions is flourishing, now carrying the largest inventory in the history of the business. And this is no small-time stuff.

The women's clothing shop features the latest trends in the moderate price-range of fashions for the fair sex. A few racks of after-five styles may hit close to the top price bracket, but for the most part, Little's Fashions stocks an inventory that even the squeamish spenders can well afford.

What's the "in" thing for '91--bold florals, polka-dots, big stripes and flowing accessories...short skirts if you hang your hat on Paris and New York promotions, but folks here in the Southwest treat some trendy trails as a thin thread...very, very carefully.

Jamie Thomason, co-owner and granddaughter of the fashion center founder, said the trademark of Little's is courteous service to the customers--"We like to think of our business as being a friendly store where folks can feel free to just browse, feel, touch or try-on. You know, like ask questions or seek advice without having an obligation to buy. We want folks to feel good when they come into our store."

This image of friendliness is found everywhere at Little's Fashion--from the display windows on Main Street to the alteration room at the far end of the store. Professional salespersons and counter clerks follow this theme to the last wrapper. They have that "sixth sense" in knowing when a customer wants a bit of personal attention, giving assistance to the smallest detail in an unpretentious mood of merchandising.

I grew up in this business and I just love it," said Mrs. Thomason, who is in partnership with her mother, Billie Ruth McCarty. "Merchandising clothing has been a family business since long before I was born, so this is sort of a way of life in our family."

Mrs. Thomason is no newcomer to retail selling. She graduated from Texas Tech at Lubbock in 1981 with a degree in textiles, majoring in the merchandising of clothing. Though clothing stores were sort of a second playground as a child, Mrs. Thomason moved into the professional world of fashion sales following graduation from Tech and just this past year, she took over the business interests of her grandmother, Ruth Little.

Her mother, Billie Ruth, is also a graduate of Texas Tech, while her father, Fuston McCarty, holds a degree from Texas A&M University... "He's a true-blue Aggie."

Having a staff of six, Jamie and Billie Ruth run a tight ship on the business end of purchasing and merchandising, but give a world of freedom to the sales people. Becky Horton is currently manager of the store, but is expected to be leaving in May.

Other employees include Lynn Andrews, LouAnn LaFever, Vickie Dobbins, June Henderson, Bea Wiseman and Mildred Knox.

Jamie who served as spokesperson for the family-owned business, said the main inventory includes ladies moderate to better dresses, sportswear, coordinates, separates (blouses and pants), some of the top lines of cosmetics and colognes, including a fine selection of colognes for men.

"We carry only the better name-brands in cosmetics and colognes," said Mrs. Thomason. "And the same goes for our line of cologne for men."

Spring and summer fashions are now on display at Little's, but frost was on the pumpkins when the two Hereford businesswomen picked them out last fall at a fashion show in Dallas.

"We try to make about five trade shows a year in Dallas," said Mrs. Thomason, while going through a spring inventory of hundreds. "A little later this spring and during the summer shows, we'll be buying our winter clothes and coats. You must always think a season ahead in the fashion business, and sometimes it's pretty difficult to pick the right ones. But we really try."

Little accessories in fashions become big items at Little's. From dainty lapel pins to dangling earrings, accessories for the finicky dressers are top-shelf mentionables in this Hereford clothing store.

Top lines of lingerie fill a full section of the dainty displays, while racks of fine belts, scarfs and handbags give the fashion center a mini-market image of big-city department stores.

Little's does not handle wedding dresses--but it stocks about everything else that would deck out a bride in fine style--"We carry dresses for the mothers of the brides, but not the wedding gowns."

From chic suits for the businesswomen to top styles for Sunday sashays, Little's lines can fill the order--after-five styles straight from the cutting tables of the Big Apple are part of the year-around stock, with washed denim trimmed in lace now being among the top sellers.

"The city walking shorts are very popular this spring," said Mrs. Thomason, as she flipped through a score of styles.

LouAnn LaFever, a veteran employee of the store, said rompers are "in" for this spring--"A style sort of on the jumpsuit line but they're coming out as rompers...very popular among teenagers and the younger set."

Lynn Andrews, a long-time sales leader in women's fashions in Hereford, said bold floral patterns, polka-dots and stripes are popular styles this spring.

"Anything nautical with the sailor look is popular right now," said Mrs. Andrews. "We've noticed that the real bright colors, like the fluorescent colors, are really in demand this season...hot pink, orange, yellows and a blend of them all are hot items. Pink-white, black-white, and Navy-white are all in this spring."

Mrs. Andrews also noted that the split-skirts and city-shorts done up in suits are moving among the leaders--"We really have a stylish selection for the career woman."

"We're beginning to carry more and more of the junior lines for the younger clientele...you know, like high school age," Mrs. Andrews added. "Once you kinda get them started, they then become customers later on as they become adults."

"Actually, we try to carry favorite lines for all ages--from the juniors to the senior citizen group. We're also carrying some nice lines for the larger ladies. We think this is very important to our overall fashion image."

Customer services at Little's Fashions include special gift wrapping, free home delivery and home display of sale selections for the shut-ins. Sales personnel also maintain a card-index file of regular customers, itemizing such information as sizes and pattern preferences.

Owners Billie Ruth McCarty and Jamie Thomason

"This allows us to handle gift selections by telephone," said Mrs. Andrews. "Of course, exchanges and alterations are handled free of charge on all non-sale items."

The Hereford store also participates in a number of community style shows each year.

While pointing out how clothing styles are picked at the Dallas fashion shows, Mrs. Thomason said this is where a seller becomes a customer--"For a period of time, we become the shoppers or the customers...where you listen to what the salespeople have to say but in the end you make up your own mind as to what the people back home wants. Sometimes you guess right and sometimes you don't."

Merchandising women's clothing is a full-time career for the mother-daughter business team at Little's. Updating, upgrading, rotating and moving styles to fit the season or the occasion is a continuous caper in clothing for Jamie and Billie Ruth. They think summer in the spring and think winter in the fall--styling a year ahead of such holidays as Christmas, Valentine's Day, Mother's day or funtime of the summer.

"It's really strange how some styles will catch on and go like wildfire," said Mrs. Andrews, who handles the window displays and up-front arrangements. "There's been times that we've sold out of a particular fashion before we've had time to put them on the racks. Then, we'd call around to other stores to see if they had some extra stock and find that the same thing had happened to them...when something catches on, it really goes."

Though sportswear is a leader at Little's, the store does not carry swimsuits. Hosiery, jackets and sweaters, however, are year-around items which sell well in every season. Costume jewelry, travel bags and house slippers fill another marketing niche. Coats and woolen items will go on display just about the time that Deaf Smith County farmers crank up their sugarbeet harvesters.

Though the Little family business dates back to 1945, the Hereford clothing store actually dates back 1929--to a time shortly before the stock market crash and the beginning of the Great Depression.

First named "The Fashion Shop," it was started by Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Gillis who had moved to Hereford from Denton. They decided that with the good economic times of the 1920s, combined with the "hustling atmosphere" of Hereford, the town could support a women's fashion store. Since Mrs. Gillis has previously worked at a dress shop in Denton, it was an easy move to go into business for themselves.

The Gillis family operated the store through the tough times of the 1930s, never closing their doors for a single day because of the low cash flow, but always looking to the tenacious leadership of Hereford businessmen when times were lean. During this time, they moved from an original location about midway in the 200 block of Main on the east side of the street to the present location on the west.

In 1945, W.B. Little of Lubbock, who at one time had fashion stores in Lubbock and Littlefield, bought the Hereford store from the Gillis family and changed the name to Little's Fashions, a name that has spanned almost 46 years of retail service to the Hereford community.

At the time of the 1945 purchase, Mrs. N.C. Voegel, who made custom-designed hats then in vogue, had a millinery shop in the building along with the Fashion Shop. After she retired, the Littles continued to sell women's hats until styles changed and they were no longer in great demand.

Mr. Little, who earlier had been with Cobb Department Stores, made Cora Thompson manager of the fashion shop. Following her death, Thelma Snyder Damron was named manager, then later, Ruth Wilson. The clothing store was completely remodeled when the Little's took over ownership in 1945, and in the early 1960s, a 30-foot addition was built at the rear.

It is believed that Little's Fashions is the oldest women's clothing store in Hereford, if not the entire Texas Panhandle...a total of 62 years in continuous retail sales.

Though trendy goods are not necessarily the best money-makers in fashion shops, they fill a marketing niche in this fantastic world of women's fashions. And during the past few months, the hot stuff has been patriotic items, such as Old Glory decked out in rhinestone lapel pins for both, men and women--the young and the old.

It's a fairly long trail from Main Street to the far end of Little's if distance is counted in terms of inventory. And plush carpeting, combined with decoration schemes befitting the finest in fashions, provides comfort with convenience for day-to-day customers--nothing short of a holiday in fabric for Main Street browsers.

Why shop at home?

We hear it over and over: Shop at home. Support your local merchants. But why? Why shop here when I can drive about 50 miles and get better selections at lower prices? Why should I spend my money with local merchants--what do they do for me?

As a matter of fact, the local merchants--your neighbors--do a lot for you. They pay a disproportionate share of your taxes, helping educate your children, paving streets, paying for fire and police protection. They are the ones who donate to your worthy causes, sponsor Kids, Inc., teams, serve on councils and boards, work in the Chamber and the churches. Without them, a lot of the good things you enjoy about this community simply would not be here.

But they don't want your business out of a sense of duty--they want to earn it. Before you assume that prices are better in the big city, check them out. This area has stores that offer quality merchandise at competitive prices. They can earn your business in other ways, too: through better service, a personal attention to your needs, knowing your name, treating you like a friend.

Local businesses, like a local newspaper, help give a community its identity. Without them, you'd be driving to the city every time you need something, standing in lines, sitting in traffic, wishing you were home.

If you value your community, shop at home every chance you get. We all need each other.

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) - Bandleader Lawrence Welk says the much-debated $500,000 federal grant for a German-Russian heritage museum in his hometown is no boondoggle.

"Over 90 percent of all museum funding in the United States comes from government grants," the 88-year-old said in a letter in Monday's Bismarck Tribune. "I believe that this museum, too, will serve as an important resource for the nation."

Beef, produce among best buys in April

Texas consumers will find some good fresh produce buys in supermarkets during April, and lower beef prices enjoyed through the winter are expected to continue well into the coming month.

Dr. Dick Edwards, a food marketing expert with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said the expected rise in beef prices won't occur until the oversupply of cattle in feedlots clears the market during the next several weeks.

"Some spring produce prices will be down as marketings increase, but others are up from last year because of inflation resulting from the Iraqi conflict and a drought-reduced California harvest," he said.

Consumers can expect ample supplies and lower prices on broccoli, cabbage, cucumbers, radishes, carrots, onions, green peas, egg plant and tomatoes in particular, since these are grown in many states other than California, Edwards said.

"But prices may be up and supplies tighter on strawberries, asparagus and artichokes coming from California," he said. "These products, affected by both the December freeze and drought, will arrive at supermarkets later than normal this season."

Edwards said except for spring crops, however, expectations are that other states will add more production acres to increase summer and fall food crops. "The slack will be taken up by expansion elsewhere, as the severity of water shortages becomes more evident in California."

"Weather is always a factor when it comes to food production," Edwards said. "Although southern California received some rain this week, droughts there for the past four years are requiring growers to reduce water usage by 75 percent. Attempts are being made to find quick solutions."

Produce also making its 1991 debut in April, Edwards said, will be sweet corn, watermelons, cantaloupes and honeydews. Produce going out of season during the month will be mustard and turnip greens, kale, grapefruit, oranges and the imported soft fruit from Chile.

"The cattle marketing delay will cause beef prices to remain flat for a longer time before starting the upward trend predicted earlier," he said.

"Supplies of pork and chicken also are greater than they were this time last year, and these larger supplies are expected to stabilize pork and poultry prices."

As the oversupply of beef clears the market, lower pork and poultry prices will force consumer beef prices to become more competitive with these meats, Edwards said. This will likely mean more advertised and discounted beef specials through supermarket promotions.

"Beef specials in April will shift from winter cuts of roasts to spring cuts of steaks. Look for specials on round, sirloin and hamburger steaks."

Pork products will have fewer specials on roasts and ham, he added. "Instead, look for specials on pork steaks, chops, ribs and smoked sausage."

Demand for specific poultry cuts tends not to shift seasonally, thus the continual discounting of whole birds, chicken breasts and leg-thigh combinations will be featured in April, he noted.

Many supermarkets will promote National Supermarkets Week, April 22-26. This will set off a flurry of sales activities in floral sections, particularly for ivy and other non-blooming container plants that will be heavily discounted, Edwards said.

Other items for spring that supermarkets will display and discount are charcoal, grills, gardening and cleaning supplies and automotive care products.

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) - Troops back home from the Persian Gulf are scrambling for seats at Whitney Houston's "Welcome Home Heroes" concert Sunday.

Only 3,100 people will fit into a Norfolk Naval Air Station hangar for the concert, and they must be military personnel who served in the war or their families.

Cmdr. Tim Taylor, spokesman for the Navy's Atlantic Fleet, said people don't want to be left out. "We've been getting a zillion calls," he said.

The Navy will give a share of the tickets to the Army and the Air Force, Taylor said. The Navy is letting commanding officers decide who goes. The other services can distribute their tickets as they please, Taylor said.

"We want to be as fair as we possibly can," Taylor said. "But some people are going to be left out."

Re-enactment planned

The public is invited to attend an ecumenical dramatization of the passion of Jesus Christ to be presented at 3 p.m. on Good Friday on the south side of the First Baptist Church. According to the Rev. Darryl Birkenfeld, who is assisting with the play, "The event is offered by various persons from local churches who wish to jointly enrich the observance and significance of this important day for the entire community." In case of inclement weather, the dramatization will take place in the north end of Sugarland Mall.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing to let you know that a column you printed a while back had a profound effect on my life.

The letter signed, "Ex-Con, Ph.D. in Texas" caught my eye. It was from a man who got into an awful mess with his ex-girlfriend's father. When she broke their engagement, he went a little crazy and decided to kill himself in her presence. Her father saw him put the bullets in the revolver and lunged at him. A brutal fight resulted. He nearly killed the old man.

The following day he was arrested, was later sent to prison and then paroled after 27 months. He vowed to turn his life around, went back to school and earned a Ph.D. But all his former friends deserted him and he felt very much alone.

When I read that column I knew immediately that the man who had written that letter was my long lost friend. I decided the best way to reach him was to call all the major cities in Texas and see if, by chance, he was listed in the phone directory.

Believe it or not, I found him on the first try. He was thrilled to hear from me and we talked for over an hour, catching up on one another's lives. We promised to stay in touch and never lose track of each other again.

You will be pleased to learn that my friend is now in private practice and doing beautifully. He has a promising career, good friends and a bright future.

I hope you will print this letter to let others know that it IS possible to overcome a black past and make a good life. It takes courage and believing in yourself. My friend proved it can be done. -- Grateful in Florida

DEAR FLORIDA: One of the most rewarding aspects of writing this column is receiving letters such as yours. Thank you for letting me know that my correspondent is doing well. I love happy endings.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing in regard to "Hurting Alone," the girl who contracted genital warts.

I agree with you, Ann, it really doesn't have to ruin her life. I know because three years ago, when I was 17, I had sex for the first time with someone I didn't know very well and he didn't have the decency to tell me he had herpes. Although he used a condom, I still became infected.

I remember sitting in my doctor's office hearing those awful words, "You have herpes simplex II." I broke down and cried. All I could think of was that my life was over. Time proved me wrong. I have learned to live with the disease, knowing I have no choice because there is no cure. I've made several changes in my life, all for the better. I've learned to be completely honest at the start of a relationship and have had no problems with boyfriends.

Please, Ann, let "Hurting Alone" know she doesn't have to be hurting and she is definitely not alone. -- Coping Well in California

DEAR COPING: You've written a letter that is sure to help others. Herpes should not be taken lightly. It can be a very serious problem if not treated. If anyone wants information on how to cope with herpes, send a stamped (52 cents postage), self-addressed envelope to: American Social Health Association, P.O. Box 13827-H, Research Triangle Park, N.C. 27790.

Gem of the Day: There is one thing to be said for ignorance -- it sure does start a lot of interesting arguments.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. In Canada, send $5.05.)

LONDON (AP) - Composer Andrew Lloyd Webber says ex-wife Sarah Brightman will perform a program of his music here in May.

When Lloyd Webber and Brightman divorced in November, he said the split would not affect their professional relationship.

She starred in his musical "Phantom Of The Opera" and has been appearing in the American production of his "Aspects of Love."

Now Lloyd Webber will supervise Brightman in "The Music of Andrew Lloyd Webber," at the Prince Edward Theater.

"I am so pleased that Sarah has decided to return to London to repeat the performances that America has taken so much to heart," he said Tuesday.

Brightman said in an interview, "I am greatly looking forward to coming back to London and singing Andrew's music once again."

Lloyd Webber recently married Madeleine Gurdon.
