Pheasant hunters to hit area Saturday

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The area's pheasant crop may not be as good as it has been some years, but that won't keep thousands of hunters from the Hereford area on Saturday as the 1989 pheasant season begins its 16-day run.

If appearances are everything, not as many of the colorful gamebirds have been seen around here as there have been in previous years.

However, the Conservation Reserve

Program may be aiding the pheasant habitat, and that may be where all of the pheasant are.

No matter where the pheasant are or aren't, there will be a variety of license plates from the United States, Canada and Mexico in the Hereford area over the next two weeks. It is estimated that more than 10,000 persons will be in the Texas Panhandle for the 16-day season, which runs through sundown on Christmas Eve. The area's cash flow will be helped, too: it's estimated the annual hunting season pumps $4 million a year into the Hereford-area economy.

The pheasant has been a prized gamebird since before the time of Jesus Christ. It's noted for its taste and for its elusiveness.

A pheasant can lie inches away from a hunter's foot, hidden by corn or maize stubble or grass. It can move almost 40 miles an hour and hardly move a twig on the ground, and has been known to outwit experienced hunters by flying high and away as hunters scramble to get the proper grip on their gun.

The birds may be harder to find than usual this year: not only are they more well-hidden in ever-taller CRP grasses, but there are probably fewer pheasant anyway.

Dave Dvorak, a wildlife biologist with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, explained that the area is probably at the bottom of its pheasant cycle. A combination of rain and hail during hatching season and prolonged dry conditions in many areas during the summer and fall have probably depleted the population.

But there may be many pheasant keeping to themselves around CRP acreages, which have become more well-established and provide an ideal home for the birds.

"All the covers really enhance nesting covers for pheasants," said Loren Smith, a Texas Tech University researcher. In a study last year, Smith said there were two nests per acre in some CRP land.

"If you get two nests per acre that's better than anywhere else we've seen in a long time in the U.S.," Smith said.

Larry Nutt, the area's game warden who will be going through his first Deaf Smith County pheasant season this year, said there may be more birds around than most people think because of all of the CRP land.

"I see lots of birds around it," Nutt said. "It's harder to hunt, but I think if people will hunt it, they'll find some birds. There birds are out there to hunt and it may not be as easy as it used to be. You may have to walk a little more, hunt a little longer, work a little harder, but that's what hunting's all about."

While the pheasant keep their nests in the CRP cover, they're still finding most of their food in nearby corn and maize fields.

All persons planning to do hunting, even on their own land, must have a valid Texas hunting license. Licenses and hunting goods are available at many Hereford stores.

The limit for pheasant is the same as it has been for many years: two cocks per day, with a limit of four in possession. At least one foot must be attached until the pheasant reaches its final destination. Hens may not be shot.

While many hunters make reservations well in advance for pheasant season, there are vacancies at some Hereford motels.

Showdown looms on workers' comp

AUSTIN (AP) - The battle for the hearts and minds of the Senate, especially the fight over two votes, has turned into a struggle between Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Sen. Carl Parker that will be the main attraction today in a showdown over workers' compensation reform.

On Thursday, the House approved 111-31 a business-backed workers' comp bill that is similar to a proposal previously rejected by the Senate, 17-14.

But with a two-vote swing meaning the difference between passing a bill and possibly another special legislative session, Senate leaders on both sides of the debate exchanged harsh words.

The House-approved bill is supported by Gov. Bill Clements, Speaker Gib Lewis and Hobby, who packed a legislative conference committee with members who favored the bill even though a Senate majority had earlier turned it down.

"It's not a fair game. It hasn't been a fair game. And if some of the Democratic leadership in the Senate had worked as hard to sell

Toys for Tots parade, festivities set Sunday

A Panhandle-wide Toys for Tots celebration will be held in Hereford Sunday, beginning with a big parade at 2 p.m. and continuing with festivities at the Bull Barn from about 3 to 6 p.m.

The charity parade on behalf of Toys for Tots, sponsored by the U.S. Marine Corps each year, is being held in Hereford this year because of the major contributions by employees of Hereford Bi-Products.

The Toys for Tots program provides toys for less fortunate children who otherwise wouldn't receive the gifts for Christmas. The toys for Hereford children will be presented at the Bull Barn Sunday afternoon.

The parade is scheduled to start at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Winn's parking lot and travel east on Park Avenue, then across the railway tracks to the Bull Barn. Concession stands will be set up at the Bull Barn, with proceeds going to the Christmas Stocking Fund. Barbecue sandwiches, hot dogs, chili dogs, candied apples, cotton candy, popcorn and drinks will be available.

Volunteer workers at Hereford Bi-Products report that 50-plus vehicles and units will be in the parade. The units represented will include the Panhandle Antique Auto Club, various auto dealers, hot rod cars, and a fire truck. Pickups loaded with toys will also be in the parade.

Some toys will already be on display at the Bull Barn, and interested persons can take toys there to be placed around the Christmas tree. Contributions before Sunday can be taken to the Red Cross offices on S. Main.

Speakers at the Bull Barn festivities will include Garth Merrick of Hereford Bi-Products, who will make the presentation of the toys to Capt. Klippert of the U.S. Marines; Mayor Wes Fisher and State Rep. John Smithee.

The Red Cross office is taking care of the distribution since it acts as a toy donation point and repairs toys all through the year. The office already has a list of some 300 children. Persons who have applied for help from the Christmas Stocking Fund are on the list, along with ages and names of children. If parents have not applied for CSF assistance, they can still apply for toys until Dec. 15.

Red Cross workers will pack the toy bags on Dec. 19, and they will be delivered Dec. 22. Volunteers are needed on both these dates to help with the packing and distribution, according to Betty Henson, Red Cross director.

Heaviest snowfall at Bushland

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - Texas Panhandle residents woke to a blanket of snow on the ground this morning, and weather forecasters say cold temperatures will keep the stuff around, making travel hazardous at least until sometime Friday.

Some ground areas in and around Amarillo had a two-inch cover by dawn, with the heaviest snowfall recorded at Bushland, where three inches fell, according to the National Weather Service Amarillo station at the airport. Amarillo police at midmorning reported that snow-slick streets had contributed to a half-dozen minor traffic accidents.

The Department of Public Safety this morning warned that roads in the central Texas Panhandle were mostly wet with a few slick spots, but no roads were closed.

The Lubbock District reported light rain mixed with snow over most of the South Plains district. More snow is possible during the day.

Today's snow resulted from an upper-level storm system over New Mexico. The storm was expected to travel eastward today, allowing skies to clear off gradually from west to east across the Panhandle by tonight.

Other snow reported by the National Weather Service this morning included 1 1/2 inches at Guymon, Okla., Dimmitt and Vega; 1 inch at Borger and Pampa; one-half inch at Dumas and Hereford; one-quarter inch at Panhandle and Perryton; and a trace at Shamrock. Dalhart recorded the state's lowest minimum temperature this morning, 32 degrees.

A flash flood watch was in effect in extreme Southeast Texas, a dense fog advisory was in effect during the pre-dawn hours for the coastal bend and coastal plain.

Numerous showers and thunderstorms were reported over Southeast Texas and scattered showers were reported over East Texas and South Texas today. Some light rain and drizzle was reported over North Texas.

A cold front extended early today from a developing low pressure system in Southeast Texas southward to the coastal plains.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 40s and 50s, ranging from the 30s in West Texas to the 60s along the coast in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 32 at Dalhart to 67 at Brownsville, Kingsville and Corpus Christi.

Other early morning temperatures around the state included 33 at Amarillo, 42 at Wichita Falls, 48 at Fort Worth, 49 at Waco, 56 at Austin, 54 at San Antonio, 64 at Houston, 38 at San Angelo.

Unemployment rate edges up to 5.4%

WASHINGTON (AP) - The unemployment rate edged up from 5.3 percent to 5.4 percent in November as the economy added 210,000 new jobs but manufacturing employment fell for the eighth consecutive month, the government said today.

The Labor Department report showed job growth last month was far greater than most analysts expected. But the government also revised downward sharply the number of new nonfarm jobs created in October, from 233,000 to 93,000.

The civilian unemployment rate climbed 0.1 percentage point as more than 6.7 million Americans were looking for jobs but unable to find them. That data comes from the department's household survey, which also showed that 117.7 million people held jobs in the civilian economy.

The manufacturing slump has contributed to the overall slowdown in the economy as the year draws to a close, and today's report provided further evidence that the sector's lackluster performance continues.

The average manufacturing work week fell from 40.8 to 40.7 hours and overtime was unchanged at an average of 3.7 hours a week. The department said the dramatic revision of October's job growth number resulted from overestimating new hiring in state and local educational institutions, which is difficult to measure as the school year begins.

With that revision taken into account, the government said the average month-to-month gain in jobs during the second half of 1989 has been about 160,000, well below the average monthly gain of 270,000 posted in the past 2 1/2 years.

Contributions begin to mount for CSF

Christmas is a time of family togetherness, but for a family seeking assistance from this year's Christmas Stocking Fund, togetherness is quite a literal thing.

This family of 13 children and three adults all live in a single mobile home, which they heat with a wood stove. They can't afford electricity, so their lighting comes from kerosene lamps.

Because their income is limited, this family is asking for help buying school clothes and food. Such requests for help are what the CSF is all about.

An all-volunteer effort, CSF strives to make the holidays a little brighter for some of the community's less fortunate, using the donations of local residents to provide help such as utility and food assistance, payment of medical bills, and clothing.

Bolstering CSF are the efforts of other groups within the community. Local utility companies—including Southwestern Public Service, West Texas Rural Telephone, Energas and Deaf Smith Electric Co-op—are collecting canned goods, paper goods and toiletries to be used by CSF. Local schools are holding canned-food drives on their campuses, and local civic clubs and churches are coordinating their efforts with the anonymous committee that administers CSF.

You can make your donation to CSF at The Hereford Brand offices, 313 Lee, or mail it to CSF in care of The Brand, Box 673, Hereford.

The current total of the CSF campaign is $4,288.05. Following are recent contributions:

Herd gets first win, 81-51

The Hereford Whitefaces gained their first win of the season in a big way Thursday, blasting the Coronado JV, 81-51, in the first round of the Denver City Invitational.

In other tournament action, the Herd JV dropped the Pampa sophomores, 52-45, while the Herd sophos fell to the Randall JV, 66-51, at the Borger JV Tournament.

Herd 81, Coronado JV 51

The Herd scored a season-high 81 points and had five players score in double figures.

Dee Nall led all scorers with 21 points while Russell Backus had 14 and Jason Walterscheid, Matt Bromlow and Leo Brown 12 each. The quintet accounted for all but 10 of the Herd's points.

The Mustangs stayed even with the Herd through the first quarter, ending the period with a 20-20 tie. Hereford broke the game open in the second, outscoring Coronado, 25-10.

Hereford could add only one point to its lead in the third period, but gained a 20-6 advantage as the reserves took over.

The Herd will play Morton, a 75-64 winner over Seminole, at 7 p.m. today in the semifinals.

Herd JV 52, Pampa sophs 45

Richard Sanderson poured in 25 points to lead all scorers and Ben Weatherly reached double figures with 13 points. Chris Blair and Blake Buckley added six points apiece for the Herd while Miguel Casas had two free throws.

Hereford fell behind, 12-8, at the end of the first quarter, but took control of the game with a 16-8 run in the second. The Herd then managed to outscore the Harvesters by three points over the final two periods.

Pampa had all eight players suited up score, led by Brown's 21 points.

However, no other player had more than six.

The junior varsity will play the Pampa JV in the semifinals at 6 p.m. today.

Randall JV 66, Herd sophs 51
The Raiders built up a 20-point advantage mid-way through the third quarter before The Herd could shave a few points off the lead.

Hereford was led by Mark Kreighshauser with 17 points and Mikel Walser with 11.

The sophos were to play the loser of the Borger JV-Dumas JV game at 4:45 p.m. today in the consolation bracket.

All-SWC gridders named

DALLAS (AP) - Heisman winner quarterback Andre Ware of Houston and linebacker James Francis of Baylor, a top three finisher for the Butkus Award, headline The Associated Press 1989 All-Southwest Conference football team as picked by the league's coaches.

The dream team is perhaps one of the most talented in SWC history. Ware, Francis, Houston's Emmanuel Hazard, and Jim Mabry of Arkansas all were AP first team All-Americans.

Ware, a junior from Dickson, Texas, broke or tied 21 NCAA Division I-A records as he earned Offensive Player of the Year honors. Ware had 46 touchdown passes and seven games where he passed for over 400 yards.

Francis blocked 10 kicks to tie an NCAA record and clearly was the dominating defensive player in the league.

The Houston Cougars, who weren't eligible for the conference championship because of probation, dominated the first team.

Hazard, also a junior, set an NCAA receiving record with 142 passes caught and had a national record 22 touchdown receptions.

James Gray of Texas Tech rushed for 1,509 yards to gain a spot on the all-conference time while Houston's Chuck Weatherspoon was second with 1,146 yards. Weatherspoon led the league in tandem offense with 1,881 yards.

Eric Henley of Rice was the second leading receiver in the conference with 81 catches and earned the other wide receiver berth.

The tight end was Mike Jones of Texas A&M, who helped A&M to a 8-3 record and a Sun Bowl bid.

The offensive line included Mabry of Arkansas, Richmond Webb of Texas A&M, Joey Bances of Houston, Charles Odiorne of Texas Tech and center Elbert Crawford of Arkansas.

The placekicker is Todd Wright of the SWC champion Razorbacks.

The defense, of course, is led by Francis, and Arkansas lineman Michael Shepherd, and defensive back Cornelius Price of Houston, who broke the SWC season pass interception record.

The SWC Coach of the Year was Spike Dykes of Texas Tech who brought the Red Raiders a bowl bid and a hard run at the SWC title. Tech will meet Duke in the All-American Bowl.

Dykes was selected by his peers in balloting which included SMU's Forrest Gregg, A&M's R.C. Sloucum, and Ken Hatfield of Arkansas.

The defensive newcomer of the year is also from Tech, Tracy Saul, who was named the top kick returner in the league.

The offensive newcomer of course was Hazard, the junior college transfer. He beat out Southern Methodist's Mike Romo, who had the second best passing statistics in the conference.

Co-ed spike champs

Leonard takes 'Uno Mas' from Duran

LAS VEGAS (AP) - No more "no mas."
 This time Roberto Duran didn't quit. He couldn't quit.
 But the frustration that prompted "No mas" in New Orleans nine years ago was once again etched plainly on Duran's face. Sugar Ray Leonard bored the crowd but won the judges to score a lopsided decision over Duran and retain his super middleweight title in a battle of two old adversaries.
 Nine years after he forced Duran to quit, Leonard was at it again Thursday night, mugging and dancing and jabbing circles around a fighter who suddenly looked very much his 38 years of age.
 "It was deja vu," Leonard said. "It had been nine years since we've been together and it was deja vu."
 If it was, it was because Leonard was able to turn the clock back and rediscover the form that served him so well the last time they fought.

Duran, once again, couldn't adjust and spent the evening in futile pursuit of a mobile opponent who refused to stand and trade punches.
 "Leonard didn't come to fight, he came to run," Duran scoffed. "He was just running around."
 It was a masterful technical performance on Leonard's part, one that was clearly evident as early as the second round when Leonard began mugging at Duran and even at one point wound up for a bolo punch.
 As a crowd pleaser, though, it was a bust. The lack of sustained action by either fighter brought boos from the crowd throughout the late rounds, and some fans were even leaving by the 10th round.
 "I think I fought a strategic fight," Leonard said. "It's a matter of going with what got me this far. I was very pleased with my performance."

Leonard was so dominant that one judge didn't give Duran a round. Another gave him only the 12th round, when Leonard, bleeding from a cut around the left eye, decided to simply dance the round away.
 Judge Bob Logis had the 12-round fight scored 120-110, Jerry Roth had Leonard winning 119-109 and Joe Cortez had it 116-111. The Associated Press had Leonard winning 118-111.
 "By the third round I figured if I stayed outside I'd stay out of harm's way," Leonard said. "Outside was my territory."
 The punch statistics reflected

Leonard's dominance, showing Leonard landing 227 of 438 punches while Duran threw 588 punches but only landed 84.
 Still, the proud Panamanian refused to concede he had been beaten.
 "I don't think Leonard beat me," Duran said. "As the rounds went by I was hitting him."
 Duran's manager-trainer, Carlos Hibbard, had a more realistic view. "Sincerely, I don't think we won," Hibbard said. "But I also don't think we were that far out of there."
 Leonard picked up at least $15 million and Duran $7.6 million for the lucrative fight, which was televised on pay-per-view and to closed circuit locations across the country.

 A sellout crowd of 16,305 paid a gate of more than $9 million to watch the fight on a chilly 50-degree night in an outdoor arena at the new Mirage hotel.
 Most left unsatisfied, displeased with a lack of action in a fight many had thought would live up to its advance billing.
 "Styles make fights," promoter Bob Arum said. "It's obvious their styles don't mesh."

Duran, who still owns the World Boxing Council middleweight title because only Leonard's title was at stake, had trimmed from 193 pounds and appeared in top shape when he weighed in at 158 the morning of the fight.
 When Duran managed on occasion to get inside, Leonard would tie him up and referee Richard Steele would have the fighters break.
 "The referee didn't let me do nothing," Duran complained. "Whenever we went into a clinch, he'd push me away. He wouldn't let me fight."

Cowboys' Zendejas claims to have tape recording of bounty warning

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Cowboys kicker Luis Zendejas says Philadelphia Eagles special teams coach Al Roberts pleaded with him not to tell the NFL that he warned Zendejas about Eagles' attempts to knock him out a Thanksgiving game between the two teams.

And Zendejas says he has it on tape.
 Zendejas said Wednesday he taped a phone conversation between Roberts and him two days after the Cowboys' 27-0 loss to the Eagles.

After that game, Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson accused Eagles coach Buddy Ryan of offering a bounty to Eagles players to knock Zendejas and quarterback Troy Aikman out of the game.

"When I talked with Al Roberts on the phone, he said, 'Luis, I'm 47 years old, I still want to keep coaching in the league and this and that, and why don't you just say I told you that if you go down and make a tackle we're going to take you out, or something like that,'" Zendejas said.

"I said I can't say that."
 Roberts on Wednesday denied that he warned Zendejas of any bounties and said he will sue Zendejas if he plays the taped conversation.

He confirmed, however, that he talked with Zendejas twice on the phone after the game.

He said Zendejas asked him why the Eagles went after him.

"He said, 'I was alerted the night before,' and I said, 'That's the b.s. talk, we do that all the time, we always say we are going after you, we try to intimidate before, after and during the game that we're going to kick your butt. Luis is over-sensitive,'" Roberts said.

"No one said we're going to knock out Luis and get $500 or $200," he said. "It makes me look bad. As long as he drags me through, they'll say, 'That's the guy involved in the Luis Zendejas deal.'"

Zendejas said he has not turned the tape over to National Football League officials because he believes it's against the law to tape a conversation without the other person's knowledge.

"But if the tape happens to get lost, and somebody happens to get it on a TV station, then it's out of my control," he told the Dallas Times-Herald.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read the letter from Arthur Hu and his statement, "With all its shortcomings, America is still the envy of every nation in the world."

To that I say, "Amen!" My husband and I have lived in four foreign countries in the past seven years, and we are thrilled to be back in the U.S. I do feel, however, that we are headed for destruction if we don't stop and take a good look at ourselves. It appears that we are turning into a grabby, greedy, insensitive lot.

I watched children in Algeria play all day with sticks and old wheels. They were thrilled to death with the bean bags we made for them. Now I'm back home watching American children scream and grab toys in discount stores while their mothers push shopping carts piled high with gadgets and games. (Most are paid for with plastic.)

We're living in houses we can't afford, purchasing appliances we could live without and buying cars that fall apart two days after the warranty expires.

Are we becoming so materialistic and spoiled that we are in danger of losing our position of leadership in the free world? -- West Coaster

DEAR WEST COASTER: If you want a one-word answer, it's yes.

DEAR READERS: A while back a reader asked where the expression "the whole nine yards" came from. Here are some responses. Take your pick.

FROM NATCHEZ, FLA.: It takes nine yards of fabric to make a monk's robe. That is the exact measurement of an entire bolt of cloth. The monk's robe became the symbol of total commitment to a cause because it required the entire bolt of cloth, or "the whole nine yards."

FROM TAMPA, FLA.: The expression "the whole nine yards" comes from Scottish culture. Kilts, the traditional dress of Scotsmen, are made from yards and yards of tartan. A skimpy kilt contains seven yards. An average kilt measures eight yards. An extraordinarily fine kilt has a majestic nine yards. The uniforms of the mighty kilted regiment of the Black Watch and Queen's Guard consist of "the whole nine yards."

FROM NORFOLK, VA.: I have been in the construction business for 15 years and am well acquainted with the expression: "the whole nine yards." A concrete mixer truck can be loaded with nine cubic yards of concrete, but because of weight limits most trucks are loaded with only eight yards. Anyone who receives a nine-yard load gets more than a full measure of concrete.

SHREVEPORT, LA.: When coal was delivered in large trucks, the trucks were divided by two heavy partitions into three-cubic-yard sections. When the driver arrived at the house of a customer, he would ask, "Do you want three yards, six yards or the whole nine yards?" That's where that line originated.

FAT CATS
NEW YORK (AP) - Don't let your cat get fat.

At an ideal body weight of 8 to 12 pounds, just a 5 pound excess could result in 50 percent overweight - the equivalent of a 120 pound woman suddenly weighing in at 180.

Surveys suggest that several million U.S. cats are presently overweight.

"The best way to control weight in cats is to keep it off to begin with," says Dr. Elizabeth Hodgkins, a veterinary-nutritionist for Science Diet pet foods. "Once overweight, cats frequently join humans in the 'yo-yo' syndrome of pound gain and loss. Keeping a healthy weight is as good a preventive measure for cats as it is for people."

Association offers safety guidelines

Christmas and Hanukkah just wouldn't be the same without toys for the children. But each year many children are injured by cute, seemingly harmless playthings meant for joy and entertainment. Texas Safety Association offers the following safety guidelines to help you make the smart choices during your holiday season buying.

-When selecting toys for babies or toddlers, choose those made of washable, flexible materials. Toys constructed of glass, brittle plastic, or other hard materials should be avoided.

-Toys should not be small enough to fit in mouths, ears, or noses.

-Avoid toys with cords or strings that could wrap around a child's neck.

-Select brightly colored toys that are light enough not to cause injury if dropped on the child. Mobiles, squishy stuffed dolls, or squeeze toys make good choices.

-Avoid toys with sharp edges, small detachable parts, or electrical or toxic components.

-Check stuffed toys for internal wires, or small pieces such as eyes that might be pulled off and swallowed.

Purchasing toys for older children require a safe approach, as well.

-Be sure that playthings are well-constructed and strong enough to withstand hard use.

-If you purchase electrical toys, make sure that they bear the Underwriters Laboratories (UL) label. You can eliminate shock and cord hazards by buying battery-operated toys, instead.

-Avoid toys that have heating elements.

-If used with the chemicals provided in the set, chemistry sets are generally a safe buy.

-Avoid toys that shoot a projectile, such as arrows, rubber-tipped darts, or other hard materials that could injure an eye.

After all the gifts have been opened and the wrapping thrown away, show your children the safe way to play with their new toys, and how to store them when they are finished. Remind older children to keep their toys out of reach of smaller children, and if a broken toy can't be fixed, throw it away.

Texas Safety Association is a non-profit, non-governmental organization whose members work in government, private industry, and as individuals to prevent accidents and needless loss of life and property.
