Holly highlighted by media

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

Cameras were nearly as thick as beet dust at the Holly Sugar Corporation processing plant west of Hereford on Thursday, media appreciation day at the sugar facility.

Representatives of the Amarillo

Daily News, KFDD (channel 10), KVII (channel 7), the Plainview Daily Herald and, of course, the Hereford Brand were on hand for the event.

The plant's media presentation began to bear fruit Thursday when the first segments appeared on newscasts at the Amarillo television stations. Thanks to the tour, Hereford, Holly Sugar and the sugar beet industry were featured in a front page article by Kay Ledbetter in today's Amarillo paper.

Dennis Printz, agriculture manager for Holly, and Bill Cleavinger, president of the American Sugar Beet Growers Association, served as a team in spearheading a highly informative session. The day included a tour of the processing facility and a visit to a nearby field where beet harvest is in progress.

It is appropriate that Holly and the growers association should work hand in hand at presenting the sugar beet industry's case.

"We're kind of a rare breed as far as an ag industry goes," Printz said.

He was referring to the unique partnership between area sugar beet growers and Holly Sugar Corporation. Cooperation between the two entities begins even before the crop is planted. A joint research team works to develop plant varieties which are custom tailored to the needs of the area.

A farmer's interest in Holly Sugar does not end with the delivery of his last load of beets to the plant yard or to one of Holly's eight receiving stations scattered throughout the area. The farmer is paid for his beets through a series of four installments with payments based on the selling price of the sugar processed from his beets.

"It's good for us (the farmers) when they (Holly) do a good job of marketing," Cleavinger said.

When beets are delivered, the farmer is paid for 65 percent of his crop. In April he is paid for 12.5 percent with a second 12.5 percent payment in July. The balance is paid in November.

For the past 25 years, sugar beets and Holly Sugar have been a vital part of the local economy.

Watch this Sunday's Brand for feature coverage of Holly Sugar and the process by which they convert sugar beets to sugar.

The HHS band, twirlers and drill team will be competing in the district marching contest Saturday at 7 p.m. at Borger, hoping for a first-division rating and a spot in regional competition later this year.

Schroeter back from SF

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Margaret Schroeter is happy to be back in Hereford, where she can turn on the faucet and get water immediately.

Mrs. Schroeter has been to seven American Land Title Association conventions.

The 1989 convention was the most exciting.

It began last Saturday in San Francisco.

Mrs. Schroeter was sitting on the side of her bed in a room at the Hyatt Regency last Tuesday at 5:04 p.m. Pacific Daylight Time.

"The bed started shaking," Mrs. Schroeter said. "I thought maybe my granddaughter (Julie Kidwill) had come back into the room. Then, when the whole building started rocking I knew what it was."

Mrs. Schroeter joined other hotel guests in going downstairs to the ground floor.

"They told us to go outside, so we did, then the police out there told us to go back inside. Finally, we went to a paved-over park area. We sat out there for two or three hours, then went back inside the hotel."

Mrs. Schroeter and the rest spent the night on the ground floor, many sleeping on the floor or in chairs once they were able to calm themselves enough to sleep.

Through the night, they could hear machinery digging through rubble and leaning up around the city. They could also see and smell the smoke from the huge fire in the marina district near San Francisco Bay, but there was neither fire nor much damage around the hotel.

"It was really amazing that all of those buildings and skyscrapers stood up," Mrs. Schroeter said. "They must have really figured out how to build buildings since 1906."

"I hadn't really thought about an earthquake happening before I went out there, but I've always expected there would be a big one to cut off California."

"I just didn't expect to be there when it happened."

SW Bell urged to lower rates

AUSTIN (AP) - Southwestern Bell officials say employees would be "walking the streets" if the telephone company was forced to cut rates by more than $500 million, as residential customers and 80 cities recommend.

But the consumers and cities, which oppose Southwestern Bell's proposal to freeze rates, said in testimony filed Wednesday at the Public Utility Commission that the company is earning far too much.

The Office of Public Utility Counsel, which represents residential customers, recommended a $515 million a year decrease in the phone company's rates.

"If you are overearning and you freeze your rates, you guarantee continued overearnings," said Public Utility Counsel C. Kingsberry Otters.

The decrease would include a $175 million decrease in the company's rate of return, $50 million in reduced charges for state and local property and franchise taxes, and an $87 million reduction in earnings from Yellow Pages, she said.

Expert witnesses for 80 cities, meanwhile, are recommending a $702 million annual rate reduction for the telephone company. MCI Communications proposed cutting Bell's rates by $196 million a year.

Austin lawyer Don Butler, representing the cities, said their recommendation is based on lower federal income taxes for the company, excessive payments to affiliated companies and cost savings because of improved technology.

Southwestern Bell has proposed a "Texas First" plan at the PUC that includes a five-year rate freeze and $327.5 million in technological improvements.

The telephone company filed the plan after the PUC started an inquiry into its rates early this year. The staff of the regulatory commission contended that the phone company is overcharging customers by an estimated $100 million annually.

The proposed cuts were dismissed as "unrealistic" by Bill Free, Southwestern Bell's vice president of revenues and public affairs.

"It just doesn't fit the real world at all," Free said, estimating that $500 million to $700 million in cuts would reduce the company's earnings by 50 percent to 70 percent annually.

"There is simply no way we could continue to operate the way we are operating today. Period. There would be severe cutbacks in capital invested in Texas. There would be a severe cutback in jobs - management and non-management would be walking the streets," Free said.

Illegal aliens to count in census

WASHINGTON (AP) - House and Senate negotiators have agreed to include the number of illegal aliens counted in the 1990 census when congressional districts are redrawn to account for shifts in population.

Under an amendment approved by the Senate, the use of federal funds would have been prohibited for counting illegal aliens for the purpose of congressional reapportionment.

A House-Senate conference committee, however, voted Thursday to drop the Senate amendment when it approved appropriations for the judiciary and the Commerce, State, and Justice Departments.

Texas, which stands to gain as many as three to four new congressional seats because of an increase in population since the 1980 census, could have forfeited one of those seats had illegal aliens not been counted, a state official said.

"The outcome was never in doubt because the Constitution could not be clearer. The Constitution says that apportionment is based on the number of persons and everybody is entitled to their own opinion, but not their own constitution," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, a member of the conference committee.

The House had shelved attempts to adopt legislation similar to the amendment sponsored by Sen. Richard C. Shelby, D-Ala., sending the issue to the conference committee for resolution.

Rep. Thomas Ridge, D-Pa., had sought last week to have the House negotiators accept the Senate amendment during the conference committee.

Approval of the Shelby amendment would have tied the issue up in the courts and delayed the census, Gramm said. "so it just didn't make sense."

Bay area death toll shrinking

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Death toll estimates shrank but tensions and frustrations grew as Northern California tried to regroup from a devastating earthquake and its continuing, unnerving aftershocks.

President Bush was scheduled to tour the area today, hoping "to take a look and to provide encouragement to people."

Three days after the quake, the need for encouragement seemed to be growing.

Damage estimates by the state Office of Emergency Services rose to well over $4 billion. An estimated 12,550 people were displaced, 10,000 in hard-hit Santa Cruz County, the agency said.

In some towns, residents said they were too afraid to sleep indoors because of the Earth's unrest.

"I can't stop shaking," said Marcelina Toussaint, a 73-year-old resident of Watsonville, a town near the epicenter of Tuesday's magnitude 6.9 quake and wracked by four strong aftershocks Thursday.

"I guess I'm surviving, but I'm scared."

Spirits weren't much higher in Oakland, where the monstrous task of uncovering cars and trucks crushed in the collapse of a 14-mile stretch of Interstate 880 continued with no signs of survivors.

Rescuers did say, however, they were finding fewer cars than feared under the highway, known as the Nimitz Freeway. Some credited the World Series with reducing Tuesday evening's rush-hour traffic by drawing baseball fans to television sets.

"Maybe the World Series saved our lives," said Oakland police Sgt. Bob Crawford.

The third game of the championship between the Oakland A's and the San Francisco Giants had been set to begin just minutes after the killer quake struck at 5:04 p.m.

"Normally at 5 o'clock in the afternoon this area would be bumper-to-bumper," Crawford said.

Initially, authorities had estimated 253 people were buried under the debris. That was based on the assumption that cars stretched bumper-to-bumper on the crushed lower level of the double-deck highway.

"They are going lower, much lower in fact," said Lisa Covington, a spokeswoman for the state Office of Emergency Services.

No new official estimate of fatalities was made.

Atlantis, Galileo continue trips

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - The space shuttle Atlantis whirled around the Earth today taking samples of the ozone layer while its five astronauts tried to film the Grand Canyon, Japanese volcanoes and other parts of the world.

As the crew members began their third day in orbit, the nuclear-powered Galileo probe they deployed about six hours after blastoff Wednesday zipped across the solar system at more than 9,000 mph.

The $1.5 billion probe, which is on a six-year, 2.4-billion-mile trip to Jupiter, had traveled more than 290,000 miles as the day began. Once it reaches Jupiter, Galileo is expected to give the best look yet of another planet and find clues to the universe's origin.

Galileo was pronounced in "perfect shape" and "right on course" Thursday by NASA, and Atlantis also was given a clean bill of health after the crew members restored a cooling system that shut down the previous day when it overheated, cutting in a backup unit.

The astronauts will spend the rest of their mission working on experiments and photographing the Earth with still and movie cameras. Atlantis is scheduled to land at 2:38 p.m. EDT Monday at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

The shuttle crew members are commander Don Williams, pilot Mike McCulley, and mission specialists Shannon Lucid, Ellen Baker and Franklin Chang-Diaz.

On Thursday, Mrs. Baker and Chang-Diaz demonstrated a retinal photography experiment that could be seen on NASA satellite television.

With swimming goggles strapped around her head, Mrs. Baker steadied herself on the shuttle's middeck while Chang-Diaz pressed a camera to the right goggle to photograph her retina.

"We're trying to hold ourselves steady, which is probably the hardest part of this task," said Mrs. Baker, a medical doctor.

Researchers want to study the 35mm camera slides to determine if there are any changes in the eye's vessels in zero gravity. Such changes could indicate some brain swelling, and researchers want to find out if that is related to motion sickness in space.

Also Thursday night, a camera in the cargo bay showed spectacular views of Typhoon Elsie in the Philippines.

The incident began when Offutt allegedly took a pickup from Amarillo which he overturned while driving between Wildorado and Dawn. He left the scene of that accident and caught a ride into Dawn where he reportedly stole a second pickup. He was arrested by a DPS trooper shortly after the second pickup was overturned in an accident near Umbarger.

Corn harvest continues

Farmers have been taking advantage of the mostly-open weather to finish up this year's corn harvest. The harvest was slowed most of Wednesday by the rains received

Tuesday night, but the cold weather helped dry the corn remaining in the fields. Yields are reported to still be good to excellent across the area.

Today in History

Today is Friday, Oct. 20, the 293rd day of 1989. There are 72 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Oct. 20, 1944, during World War II, Gen. Douglas MacArthur stepped ashore at Leyte in the Philippines, 21 years after he'd said, "I shall return." Said MacArthur: "I have returned."

On this date:

In 1740, Maria Theresa became ruler of Austria, Hungary and Bohemia upon the death of her father, Holy Roman Emperor Charles VI.

In 1803, the Senate ratified the Louisiana Purchase.

In 1889, actress Margaret Dumont, who became a favorite foil of the Marx Brothers in several of their comedies, was born in Brooklyn, N.Y.

In 1903, a joint commission ruled in favor of the United States in a dispute concerning the boundary between the District of Alaska and Canada.

In 1947, Hollywood came under scrutiny as the House Committee on Un-American Activities opened hearings in Washington into alleged communist influence and infiltration in the movie industry.

In 1964, the 31st president of the United States, Herbert Hoover, died in New York at age 90.

In 1967, seven men, including a Ku Klux Klan leader and a sheriff's deputy, were convicted in Meridian, Miss., on charges of violating the civil rights of three murdered civil rights workers.

In 1968, former first lady Jacqueline Kennedy married Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis on the island of Scorpio.

In 1973, in the so-called "Saturday Night Massacre," special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox was dismissed after Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson and Deputy Attorney General William B. Ruckelshaus resigned.

In 1976, more than 70 people died when the Norwegian tanker Frosta collided with the ferry boat George Prince on the Mississippi River about 20 miles north of New Orleans.

In 1977, three members of the rock group Lynyrd Skynyrd were killed in the crash of a chartered plane near McComb, Miss.

In 1987, 10 people were killed when an Air Force jet crashed into a Ramada Inn hotel near Indianapolis International Airport.

Bill of Rights concerns cool passions

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate concern about freedom of speech and a cooling of the summer's political passions combined to defeat the proposed constitutional amendment to ban flag burning, lawmakers say.

"I don't know that public interest has faded; I think that public interest has changed," Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., said Thursday after the proposed amendment failed in the Senate.

Opponents of the measure said

Americans are having second thoughts about the notion of changing the Constitution.

White House lobbying appeared minimal despite a strong public campaign that last summer took President Bush to the foot of the two Jima Memorial.

The measure did win a bare majority in the Senate, 51-48, but fell 15 votes short of the required two-thirds of senators present and voting.

Eleven Republicans joined 37

Democrats to oppose the measure.

Thirty-three Republicans and 18 Democrats voted for the proposal, which would have authorized the state and federal governments to outlaw flag desecration.

Following the vote, White House spokeswoman Alixe Glen said Bush was "disappointed" and believes such an amendment represents "the only ... real protection for the flag." She said a bill sent to the president last week to ban flag-burning by statute "would not survive constitutional scrutiny."

Critics of the amendment, in contrast, said the bill would satisfy concern in the country about flag-burning.

"I think when the statute passed, it made it much easier to focus on the Constitution," said Sen. Patrick J. Leahy, D-Vt. "But this amendment should fall anyway because of the danger it poses to the Bill of Rights."

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., a strong supporter of the amendment, told reporters that "the public was confused on this."

"They were led to believe a statute would do the job and produce results," he said. "Now we don't know what we've got if anything."

Supporters of the amendment claimed it was the only sure way to prevent a recurrence of the Supreme Court decision in June that overturned the conviction of Texas flag-burner Gregory Lee Johnson on grounds his right to free speech was violated.

"We all lose with this action," said Miles Eplin, national commander of the American Legion, after the vote. "Today, I feel like my friends have been let down, as well as those from other generations who died believing that our nation would always remember their sacrifices and respect the foremost symbol of all they held dear."

Critics said there would be a political price to pay at election time for opposing the measure. At the same time, though, they seemed increasingly emboldened to attack the amendment as a threat to the Constitution.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You asked for ideas on how to deter drunk driving. Here are some suggestions that could make a big difference.

Take the license away as soon as a suspected drunk driver fails a chemical test. Give no conditional license, no work license and no hardship license, give no license for 45 days or until the driver's case comes up in court. (Such a law has produced a 9 percent reduction in night-time fatalities in the 22 states where it is enforced. Property damage and injuries also declined.)

No plea bargaining should be allowed. Those who refuse to be tested should lose their licenses for one year. If they drive away, they should get a jail sentence or be ordered to perform community service. This is for first offenders who have not injured anyone.

Second offenders should be sent to jail, lose their license and have their car taken away. A family member who lends a car to the offender would also face jail. Beer is the beverage that causes the problem in 75 percent of the alcohol-related traffic fatalities. In order to make the public realize that beer is not harmless, we must eliminate advertising that pushes beer and wine coolers. They are trying to create the impression that the way to promote camaraderie brain-washing should be stopped. -- Founder of RID (Remove Intoxicated Drivers)

DEAR FRIEND: You've put a new spin on an old problem. Beer commercials are enormously effective and terribly misleading.

Thanks for the alert.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I love the theater, ballgames and musical events, but he has a habit that drives me nuts. This man must be the first one back to the car after every event. We always miss the last few minutes of everything, straining our ears to listen as we dash for the parking lot.

I am sick of missing the last inning and listening to it on the car radio. I also hate to leave during the last act of a play. This means we miss the encores and the chance to pay homage to the performers. What's his problem, Ann? -- Missouri

DEAR M.: Your husband is no doubt a Type A, high-voltage, short-fuse guy who becomes apoplectic when he gets caught in traffic. He'd rather miss the last inning of the final curtain than be bumper to bumper for a few miles. In order to change him, you'd have to start with grandmother. Forget it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a column about the Red Cross, you said that you and your sister had served as Gray Ladies (hospital volunteers, part of the Red Cross) in Eau Claire, Wis. May I tell you about a group of Gray Ladies who were truly heroic during the Vietnam War?

As a Military Airlift command crew member, I flew many medical evacuation trips through Elmendorf Air Force Base at Anchorage, Alaska, evacuating the wounded back to the States. The aircraft were reserviced and crews changed at Elmendorf. Since most of the patients were stretcher cases, they had to remain on the aircraft during servicing and crew changes.

The Gray Ladies never failed to meet the aircraft. Never mind if it was 2 a.m., 20 degrees below zero and the snow was two feet deep, they were there.

How about a cheer for those terrific women? -- James L. Rogers, Lt. Col. USAF, Ret., Colleyville, Texas.

DEAR LT. COL.: One cheer is not enough! They deserve at least four. Thanks for writing.

Herd wary of dangerous Dunbar

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces will be looking to move a step closer to the Class 4A football playoffs Saturday when they meet the Dunbar Panthers at 8 p.m. at Lowrey Field in Lubbock.

The Whitefaces sport a 2-1 mark in district 1-4A play while the Panthers pulled off a shocker last week, 21-13 over Estacado, for their first win of the year.

Herd coach Don Cumpton said the win over the Matadors was not a fluke. "They just outplayed Estacado," he said. "People ask how they beat them. They outplayed them, that's how they beat them."

Cumpton added that the win made the Herd realize that the bottom of the district is not to be taken lightly.

"I think it makes our players understand that anybody can win on any given night," he said. "Dunbar has enough talent to do that any time they play. I think our kids understand that each game from here on in is real important. It is mandatory that we be ready to play mentally and physically and give our best performance each week. They understand that."

"This goes with what I've said all year," Cumpton continued, "this (district race) is wide open. Last week No. 9 in the standings (Dunbar) beat No. 1 in the standings (Estacado). That shows you how equal this thing is."

Cumpton said a number of lineup changes the Panthers made contributed to the win over Estacado.

"They've changed some personnel around," he said. "They've got a new quarterback (Roy Danford) and a new tailback (Michael Jeffery) and that has made a big difference. It's helped them, it really has. It's made them better and you could tell that against Estacado."

"I think the key to this game for us is we have to go down there and play with a great amount of intensity," Cumpton added. "Dunbar always plays us tough, they always play us tough. I think it's critical that we go down there in the right frame of mind and are ready to play mentally. If we do that and play hard, we'll have a good chance to beat them."

Cumpton said the two teams will match up well in terms of size, but the speed of the Panthers could pose a problem.

"They've got speed," he said, "they always do. They won the district track meet last year and they've got several of those kids playing football."

"They match us probably pretty equally in size. They've got three or four big kids in the line and we do, too. The size factor will be pretty close to the same as far as each team is concerned."

The new personnel on offense has added another weapon to the Panther attack, the option, to go along with an already potent running game.

"They run the I-formation and run a lot of power and sweep stuff out of that," Cumpton said. "Last week they came out against Estacado and ran the option play and did a good job with it. Their quarterback had close to a hundred yards rushing and that adds a new dimension to them. I think that right there is enough for us to have to handle. We've got to do a good job defending all those areas."

On the other side of the ball, Cumpton said the Panthers will resemble the defense used by Levelland last week against the Herd.

"They're similar to Levelland," he said. "They run a six-man line some and a four-man line some. They don't have as many different looks up front as Levelland did."

"They're pretty much a man-to-man defense in the secondary. They try to take advantage of their speed," he added.

One problem that has plagued the Herd all season, injuries, has claimed more players for this game.

"Philip Martin (starting defensive tackle) will be out for a couple of weeks with a shoulder," Cumpton said, "maybe longer than that. (Quarterback) Chad Schroeder had back surgery Wednesday and he's out for the season. And (tight end) Aaron Burns has re-broken his thumb, so he's out for the season. So, we've lost those three kids to go along with people like Steve Tucker, Jim Andrews and Cameron Gulley. We're pretty bungled up, but we've got others that will step in there and play."

Cumpton added that linebacker Jason Lueb, who has missed two games with a shoulder injury, could see limited action Saturday.

Burns, who played in four games, including the last two in a cast, finishes the season without a catch, but Cumpton said his blocking ability will be missed.

Schroeder started the first two games of the season for the Herd despite a disk problem that had plagued him since last year and eventually forced the surgery. He had completed seven passes for 160 yards and had three touchdown passes in the season-opening win against Tascosa.

Cumpton said junior varsity quarterback Chris Blair will suit up for the game Saturday to give the Herd some insurance.

"I just prefer to keep three quarterbacks," Cumpton said, "and with the JV not playing this week we won't be hurting them."

Cumpton said Blair will wear No. 21 for the game.

Sophs, frosh Maroon fall

The Hereford Whiteface sophomore and freshman Maroon teams had their winning streaks snapped Thursday as the sophs dropped a 14-6 decision to Coronado at Whiteface Stadium while the frosh fell to Pampa, 36-21, on the road.

The sophomores, who had won their last five games, are now 5-2 on the year with both losses coming at the hands of Class 5A schools. The freshman Maroon suffered its first loss of the year to go 5-1.

Coronado 14, Sophs 6

Coronado limited the Herd to just 13 total yards and ran a total of four plays from its own end of the field in the first half.

The Herd lost two fumbles and was forced to punt four times out of seven possessions in the half as the Mustangs controlled the ball for nearly 20 minutes.

Hereford's defense kept Coronado from running away with the game the game, stopping three drives inside the Herd 20-yard line.

Coronado had one drive end when fullback Mark Cissell, who rushed for 143 yards on the day, fumbled into the end zone and linebacker John McBride fell on the ball for a touchback.

The Mustangs' next attempt reached the Hereford 9, but a penalty pushed them back to the 24 and on fourth-and-goal from the 12, Chad Burns sacked Coronado quarterback Carter McKenzie for an eight-yard loss.

Hereford fumbled the ball away on the second play after taking over, and Coronado drove to the Herd 3 before a penalty brought up fourth-and-seven from the 8. McKenzie's pass into the end zone fell incomplete and the Herd took over again.

Coronado finally broke through the Herd defense following Raymond Flores' third punt of the first half, moving 43 yards in eight plays. Cissell got the score on a seven-yard run and Coronado added two points on the swinging-gate play when wide receiver Robbie Anderson was left uncovered on the right side.

Hereford had two more possessions in the half, but quarterback Ben Perry was sacked for a seven-yard loss to force another punt on the first and the Herd had four passes hit the ground on the second.

Hereford started out in the second half the same way as the first as Leo Brown fumbled on the first play.

The defense held again, but the Herd had to punt the ball back on its next possession.

Coronado moved to the Herd 12 after the punt but the Herd defense came up with another big play when McBride intercepted McKenzie's pass in the end zone. The Mustangs had stalled at the Herd 28, but Cissell took the short snap from his upback position on fourth down and raced for 14 yards.

Hereford's offense finally got untracked following the turnover and moved 80 yards in 11 plays for its only score. Brown picked up 79 yards on 10 carries on the drive behind an over-shifted line and scored on a three-yard run up the middle. Brown finished with 128 of the Herd's 141 total yards, which were all on the ground, after being held to 14 in the first half.

Brown was stopped short on the try for two and Coronado led at 8-6.

The Mustangs wasted little time in getting the score back as Cissell took McKenzie's handoff on a "starburst" return and went 80 yards for the touchdown. Hereford blocked the conversion kick but safety Sean Smith could not break loose after scooping the ball up at the 10.

The Herd was forced to punt again on its next possession, but Joe Riojas jumped on a fumble on Coronado's second play at the Mustang 33. Hereford moved to the 7, but on fourth-and-two, Brown was stopped short of the first-down marker.

Coronado responded with a 19-play drive that used up nearly six minutes. The Mustangs converted five straight third downs to keep the drive going and almost had a sixth on a flanker pass from Anderson to Robert Donaghey, but Anderson was ruled down when his knee touched as he caught the lateral from McKenzie.

Hereford took over at its own 4 after the punt and Brown's pass was intercepted on second down.

Pampa 36, Frosh Maroon 21

Hereford jumped out to a quick 13-0 lead in the first quarter when Quincy Curtis scored on a one-yard run and Chris Brummett went three yards for a touchdown.

Richard Sanderson scored on a 14-yard run in the second quarter to make the score 21-6 before Pampa shut the Herd down.

Hereford was allowed only seven plays in the third quarter as Pampa scored three times to take the lead.

Hogs-Steers highlight SWC week

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Twenty years ago, the Big Shootout between Arkansas and Texas in Fayetteville became one of the Southwest Conference's all-time football classics.

Stakes won't be quite as high on Saturday but the same emotion will be there when these two old rivals meet in the same stadium.

The undefeated and defending

SWC champion Razorbacks are on a roll, seventh ranked and playing at home in the noon regionally televised (Raycom) matchup. The Longhorns stunned the college football world last Saturday by beating 18-point favorite Oklahoma 28-24.

Only the week before, Texas needed a controversial fourth-quarter touchdown to survive Rice 31-30. Texas is 2-0 in SWC play with victories over the Owls and Southern Methodist while Arkansas has thumped Texas Christian and Texas Tech in league action.

Arkansas was a whopping 14-point favorite over the banged up Longhorns, who lost starting left cornerback Stanley Richard in the Oklahoma game. Safety Graylin Johnson and tailback Adrian Walker were questionable.

In other SWC games, Houston was a 56-point favorite over SMU in a 4 p.m. game in the Astrodome. Texas A&M was a 7(-point choice over Baylor in a 1 p.m. game at Floyd Casey Stadium in Waco, and Texas Tech was an 10(-point favorite to bounce back against Rice in a 2 p.m. game at Jones Stadium.

TCU was outside the conference and 10-point underdogs against high-octane Air Force in a 2 p.m. game at Amon Carter Stadium.

Texas coach David McWilliams said it will be difficult for his team to get ready both emotionally and physically for the Razorbacks after such a big effort against Oklahoma.

"Oh, I guess we can do it," McWilliams said. "We can usually get up for Arkansas after we've lost to Oklahoma so a win should help us."

SMU coach Forrest Gregg wasn't bothered by the big point spread against his Mustangs. "I don't get roped into point spreads, but it doesn't surprise me," Gregg said. "We got beat by Baylor 49-3 last week and the team we're playing beat them 66-10 the week before."

If things weren't bad enough for SMU, Houston is irate after a 17-13 loss to Texas A&M last week. Also, it's homecoming for the Cougars.

Series players try to regroup

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The anguish is clear on the faces and in the words of the Giants and Athletics. A World Series of triumph will be remembered for tragedy.

While San Francisco and Oakland began the massive recovery from the Bay area's worst earthquake since 1906, the Giants and A's tried to think about baseball.

It was just about impossible for most.

"Probably no one wants to play right away. To be truthful, it's not going to be exciting," Oakland first baseman Mark McGwire said. "We'll play the game, but it won't be the same. If they asked us to play today, I couldn't."

The A's and Giants were not asked to play on Thursday. They were asked to work out while engineers inspected Candlestick Park and the Oakland Coliseum.

The quake hit at 5:04 p.m. PDT on Tuesday, while the players warmed up at Candlestick for Game 3.

On Thursday, the Giants were back and the crack of the bat was mixed with the rattle of a jack hammer.

Some expansion joints broke loose during the quake, resulting in some bits of cement breaking free.

But on the field, the Giants were back to work.

"This is my job, this is what I do. But it's not the best of circumstances," first baseman Will Clark said. "Nobody will feel comfortable until we play."

Commissioner Fay Vincent would like to resume the World Series at Candlestick Park on Tuesday. But he will do so only if the Bay area is ready.

During a news conference on Thursday, Vincent said minor repairs are being made at Candlestick and would be inspected by city officials on Monday.

"In order to play, we will need certification from the city," Vincent said. "But I don't expect that will be a problem."

Vincent said he would meet with city officials over the weekend, including Mayor Art Agnos.

"It is very important to me to talk to the mayor and get his advice," Vincent said.

"We have found no major structural damage to Candlestick Park," John Lind, the stadium manager, said. "No one involved in this process would allow the stadium to open if it wasn't 100 percent safe."

The Giants and A's had a hard time keeping their thoughts on baseball.

Before working out, the A's had a long team meeting to discuss their feelings.

"It's tough to come out here, but we have to as professionals," A's shortstop Walt Weiss said. "The World Series is a festive atmosphere, the mood here is one of depression. As professionals we will go out and do the best we can."

Players on both sides were just going through the motions for the most part.

"I think we had to wait at least seven days," Giants reliever Jeff Brantley said. "If you started right away it would seem we didn't care. We do."

Found-Brown & White male basset found no tags or collar found at high school parking lot. Call 364-6435 after 6 p.m. to claim.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Two years ago I was diagnosed as having genital herpes. Since my wife and I are faithful to one another, I realize that I brought the disease into our marriage from an earlier relationship.

The doctor who found the problem recommended no intercourse during an outbreak. At first this was no problem, but now I get an outbreak about once a month that lasts two to three weeks. My wife will not have relations unless I have no sign of lesions and the healing takes about a week after the open sore is gone. So now we have a sexless marriage.

Of course she has outbreaks, though not as often. We have used Zovirax with some benefit. What are the dangers to two infected people in a monogamous relationship?

DEAR READER: If your wife already has genital herpes too, there is no way she can get it from you. The virus lives in her body and will manifest itself with a breakout from time to time whether or not you are having sexual relations. In other words, what damage can occur has already been done. As an analogy, you can't catch tuberculosis if you already have tuberculosis.

If your wife did not have, and had never had, genital herpes, then more caution would be advisable. But a person can shed the virus even when there is no evidence of active sores. The only way you can avoid getting genital herpes, if you have never had it, is to not have sex with anyone who has been infected with genital herpes at any time. Condoms help provide protection if you have never been infected.

I am sending you Special Report 63, Oral and Genital Herpes, for additional information. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/63, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

I am concerned about the frequency of your attacks. It is now known that you can take Zovirax (acyclovir) on a daily basis for long-term therapy to prevent frequent outbreaks. A long-term course could free you of such frequent attacks.

DEAR DR. LAMB: This is in regard to the letter from the mother who was concerned about her 16-year-old daughter being too thin after joining a dance team. You and the mother seem to say it is more desirable, "feminine," to have fat deposits than muscles. You missed a chance to advocate fitness over flab and to educate that misinformed mother as to what a healthy body is. I'll bet that mother is an overweight flabby "feminine" couch potato with zero muscle tone. You can do better and usually do.

DEAR READER: Evidently my column did little to educate you. The point is that fat tissue does have a function. Women who have a little extra fat are far less likely to develop osteoporosis.

Young girls who have too little fat are also likely to stop having menstrual periods, or not have the first one, and in the "really fit fat-free young female" she may have fractures of her vertebrae, just as you see in menopausal women.

You can be in top physical shape with good muscle development and still have the normal amount of fat deposits nature designed you to have. When there is evidence of a hormonal imbalance because of a fitness program that is too demanding, or from inadequate nutrition, it is time to back off from wretched excess. I support and promote good fitness levels for all ages, which is why I have lectured for the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports for years. But like most good things in life, it can be abused as well. . . .

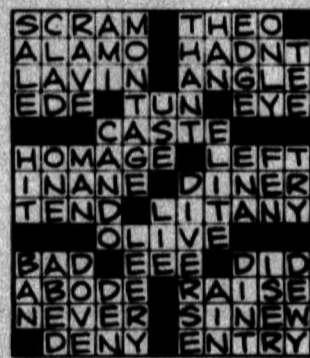

Napoleon suffered from ailurophobia—the fear of cats.

Pineapple Sweet Potatoes

Take advantage of the bountiful supply of sweet potatoes this holiday season. Spices and pineapple blend to create a heavenly vegetable dish. Serve it often — it's a no-cholesterol, low-sodium and low-fat treat.

- 4 medium sweet potatoes, unpeeled (about 1 pound)
- 1/4 cup pineapple juice
- 2 tbsp. vegetable oil
- 1 tbsp. chopped pineapple pinch each cinnamon, nutmeg and allspice
- 1 tbsp. molasses
- 1 tsp. margarine

Boil potatoes until tender (about 30 minutes), and remove skins. Mash pulp. Add the fruit juice, oil and whip until fluffy. Add chopped pineapple and spices.

Turn into an oiled 1-quart baking dish. Spread molasses over the top, dot with the margarine, and bake at 425° F. uncovered until lightly browned.

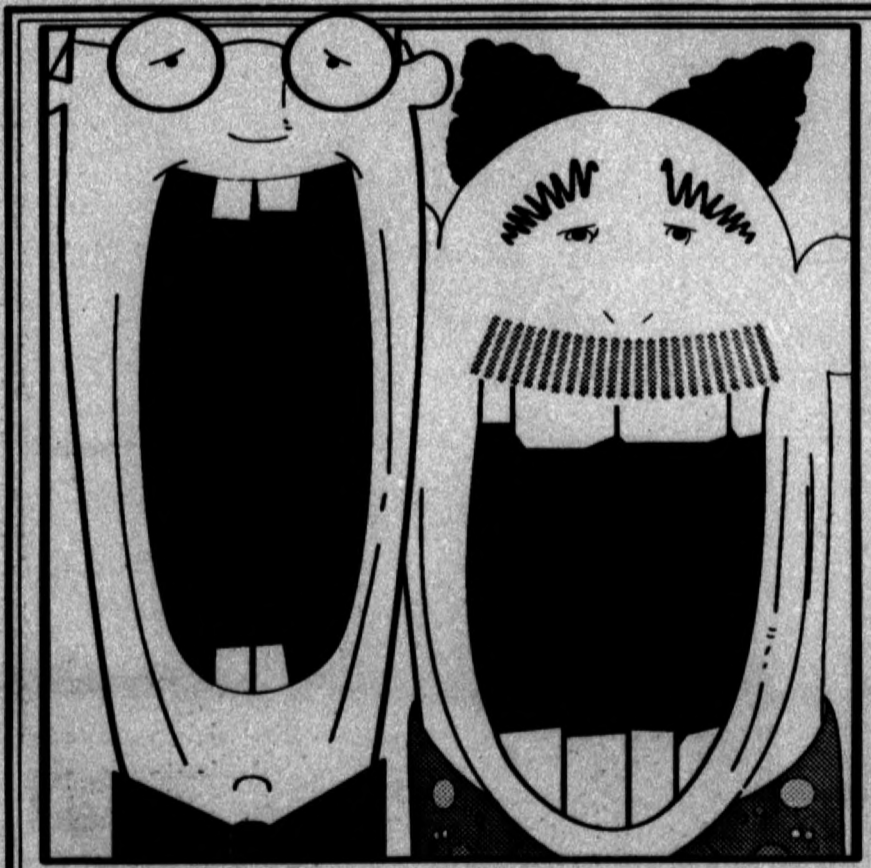

Vegetable Tip: Vegetables are cholesterol-free, low in fat, sodium and calories, and high in vitamins, minerals, potassium and fiber. Most fresh vegetables should be steam-cooked in a small amount of water to retain flavor and nutrients.

Yield: 6 Servings

Teens can snack "smart"

Now that school has resumed, families with teenagers may notice their snack supplies are usually low. Teenagers seem to eat constantly.

However, because teenagers also are growing constantly, they need the vitamins, minerals and protein they get from meals and from snacks, said Dr. Mary Kinney Sweeten, a Texas Agricultural Extension Service nutrition specialist.

Nutritionists admit that snacking or grazing is important to today's lifestyles, Sweeten said, citing a recent FDA Consumer article by Cheryl Weinstock.

However, getting into good snacking habits is critical for teens to benefit from snacking.

"Teenagers often fall into the habit of eating the same foods all the time," Sweeten said. "And sometimes the snacks they choose may not provide the variety of nutrients these youngsters need."

Sweeten pointed to an example from Weinstock's recent article: The soda that replaces milk at lunch may reduce the calcium in the diet. Weinstock suggested that teenagers replace the calcium by adding cheese to their hamburger they eat with the soda.

"Weinstock also cited a slice of cheese pizza as an item popular with teenagers that also is a good source of calcium," Sweeten said.

Another good choice for teenagers is high-fiber foods, said Weinstock. They stimulate salivation, which helps wash away excess sugar from sugary snack foods.
