WeatherRAIN CHANCE

A flash flood watch is in effect until at least 6 p.m. today (it could be extended), and there's a 60% chance for more rain tonight, and a 40% chance for showers Thursday.

More rain expected in area

A flash flood watch was in effect for Deaf Smith County and the rest of the northwest Texas Panhandle today after heavy rains fell in the area on Tuesday night and early today. Hereford officially received .69 of an inch of rain at KPAN, the official National Weather Service reporting station. Other reports in the county ranged up to 1.5 inch of rain. The first shower, a light rain, fell at about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. A general rain, along with some lightning, thunder and wind, fell from about 11:45 p.m. Tuesday to about 2:30 a.m. today. The rain was the first appreciable rainfall received in the county this year, and raised the county's total for the year to only 2.71 inches of precipitation. Much of the earlier precipitation came from snows during the winter; the area was left dry during April, one of the higher precipitation months of the year. The flash flood watch was issued by the National Weather Service because of heavy rains received in the area overnight and more rain expected today. There was a 60 percent chance of rain today and tonight, and a 40 percent chance for showers and thunderstorms on Thursday, according to the official forecast. Areas north of the county were deluged Tuesday night and this morning: Dalhart had 2.46 inches; Dumas had 2.72 inches, and Hartley had 3 inches of rain. The most general report was 1.10 inch of rain, recorded by Bobby Hammock at Bootleg and at the Northwest Grain-Milo Center facility, and 10 miles southeast of Hereford. The Walcott area recorded 1.5 inch of rain. There was a chance for up to two inches, or more, of rain in some portions of the region today, warned the NWS.

Grand jury
indicts 5

The Deaf Smith County grand jury indicted five persons recently including: Steve Lee Rhodes, Pedro Prieto Castaneda and Antonio Pena, felony driving while intoxicated; Raymond Cantu, Jr., sexual assault of a child and Juan Ybarra Enriquez, attempted murder (re-indictment).

Man sought in murder

A Hereford man is wanted for questioning in connection with the death of an Amarillo woman last weekend.

Catherine Trace Angell, 28, who had recently moved from Georgia to Amarillo, was found in her one-room apartment at Woods Inn, 4600 E. Amarillo Blvd., at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. Amarillo police said the room showed signs of a struggle but did not release information about how the woman died, but said it was definitely a homicide.

Police said the woman was last seen alive on Friday night in her apartment.

Schools join finance fight

AUSTIN (AP) - Dozens of wealthy school districts, faced with losing some of their local property tax revenue to their poorer counterparts, are challenging the state's new school finance law in court.

But the sponsor of the measure, Sen. Carl Parker, said Tuesday he would bet in favor of the law being upheld.

"The courts have given us an open invitation to do what we did. They almost told us to do it," said Parker, D-Port Arthur.

The Supreme Court twice has unanimously ruled unconstitutional the $14 billion-a-year system that relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money.

School districts' use of their own local property tax revenue now causes large funding disparities. The court told lawmakers to even out education funding available to school districts.

The new law will shift hundreds of millions of dollars in local property tax revenue from wealthier to poorer school districts within new education taxing regions, drawn largely along county lines.

The new minister's car broke down and he took it to the local garage for repairs. "I hope you'll go easy on the price," he told the mechanic. "After all, I'm just a poor preacher."

"I know," said the mechanic. "I heard you preach."

Much has been written about the Robin Hood approach to school financing. The concept of taking from the rich and giving to the poor is illustrated well in the following column by R.L. Palmer, the Mount Pleasant Tribune:

"The State of Texas v. S. Claus--
"You are hereby requested and

Unless overturned, it will replace the current finance system beginning in September.

It is estimated the new law will cost $992 million to $2.1 billion more in local property taxes, and $1.3 billion in additional state aid, over the next two years.

The first challenge to the law was filed earlier this month by two wealthy suburban Dallas-area school districts, Carrollton-Farmers Branch and Coppell.

State District Judge F. Scott McCown, who is overseeing the case, has scheduled a June 17 hearing.

Forty more school districts challenged the law on Monday. Their lawyer, James George, said they want to immediately stop the state from using the new local property tax funding mechanism. They call it an illegal state property tax.

But the school districts also want the state to be required to fund schools at the same level as provided in the new law for next school year,

George said. They want spending that is not constitutionally mandated to be restricted until the school system is funded.

A challenge filed in state district court on behalf of eight school districts said while they have "oil fields or other valuable property which creates an unusually large base of taxable property, they are not districts in which the people are wealthy."

"The people in the districts are oil field workers, farmers, ranchers, ranch hands and the like. The bill will require the people of these districts to reduce the quality of their schools, suffer a huge ad valorem (property) tax increase mandated by the Legislature or impose upon themselves an even greater tax increase," their petition said.

The eight school districts are Andrews County; Austwell-Tivoli in Refugio County; Hawkins in Wood County; Iraan-Sheffield in Pecos County; Lago Vista in Travis County; Miami

Medicare losses send DSGH reeling
'Contractuals are destroying rural hospitals,' says Moore

Newly-elected directors Mal Manchee, Dr. Randal Vinther and Raymond Schroeder were administered oaths of office by County Clerk David Ruland at the regular meeting of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board Tuesday night. Schroeder will be serving his second term, while Manchee and Dr. Vinther are new board members. Schroeder was also reelected board chairman, while Craig Smith was elected as vice chairman and Boyd Foster was named as secretary of the board.

Hospital administrator Gary Moore reported the hospital showed a loss of $225,321 for the month of April. He said the loss was due to unusually large write-downs or contractual adjustments by Medicare and Medicaid. A contractual adjustment is the term used for the difference between what the hospital charges and the actual payment received from Medicare or Medicaid.

Moore said the new Swing Bed Program, which was recently initiated, should help control the amount of the contractuals, but it would not eliminate them.

"Medicare and Medicaid contractuals are destroying rural hospitals and the American healthcare system," Moore told board members.

As a routine business matter, the board members, administrator and the controller signed conflict of interest statements as required by law.

in Roberts County; McMullen in McMullen County; and Wink-Loving in Wink County.

The other 32 school districts, led by the Palacios ISD in Matagorda County, filed a separate lawsuit.

Al Kauffman - lead attorney for poor school districts that initiated the lawsuit leading to the Texas Supreme Court rulings - said his clients believe the county taxing districts are constitutional.

"We have not decided what we're going to do on the other issues," he said.

Rick Gray, attorney for a separate group of poor school districts, said he thinks they will support the law as providing "as least substantial equity."

He said they are concerned about school facilities funding, which wealthy school districts also said has not been adequately addressed.

However, Gray said, "You don't have to throw the whole bill out to address the facilities question."

will appoint a special Christmas master who will administer gift distribution.

"The Christmas master may consider a variety of alternatives, including, but not limited to giving the same present to each child in Texas regardless of age, sex or need. An alternative would be to raid all rich homes at 2 a.m., Dec. 25, collecting excess presents, above state minimums, and redistribute them to poor homes. Lastly, he could order an end to Christmas until an acceptable plan is developed.

"If any of the above suggestions require additional money, we suggest that you apply to the Texas Legislature which is in session and has access to unlimited funds."

Local Roundup

Four persons arrested Tuesday

Hereford police arrested two persons Tuesday, including a man, 21, for possession of drug paraphernalia, and a man, 53, for public intoxication and assault.

Reports in the city included theft of clothes in the 400 block of Ave. F; criminal mischief in the 600 block of Ave. H and in the 900 block of Ave. K; domestic disturbance in the 300 block of Ave. E; and harassment in the 100 block of Ave. E.

Deaf Smith County sheriff's deputies arrested two men on charges of assault with a deadly weapon on Tuesday. In a dispute over money loaned by one of the men to the other, one used a baseball bat and another used a knife to "settle" the argument. One of the men was also arrested on a Tarrant County warrant for indecency with a child.

Hereford volunteer firefighters received no calls Tuesday, by Fire Marshall Jay Spain is investigating an arson which occurred Friday night at Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Hereford.

AIDS program is Thursday

A presentation on AIDS will be held in the waiting room of South Plains Health Providers, 603 E. Park Ave., at 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Thursday.

The program will be sponsored by Catholic Family Services of Lubbock and will be conducted in English and Spanish. There is no charge for the presentation, but persons wishing to attend should be there early because seating space will be limited.

Parents meeting is scheduled

Parents of children who participated in the Chapter or Migrant programs in the Hereford Independent School District are urged to attend a meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Stanton Learning Center auditorium.

Application for the Chapter 1 program for 1991-92 will be discussed, and students who made the honor roll this year will be honored. Babysitting will be provided and a children's movie will be shown.

Chance for more rain in forecast

Tonight, a continued 60 percent chance for showers and thunderstorms, some may be severe and produce locally heavy rain. Low in the upper 50s. South wind 5 to 15 mph.

Thursday, mostly cloudy with a 40 percent chance for showers and thunderstorms. High around 80. South wind 10 to 20 mph.

The extended forecast for Friday through Sunday: chance of showers and thunderstorms each day. Highs mid 80s to near 90. Lows upper 50s.

This morning's low at KPAN was 55 after a high Tuesday of 82. KPAN received .69 of an inch of rain from showers overnight.

A flash flood watch is in effect for Hereford and Deaf Smith County until 6 p.m. today, and could be extended if expected heavy rains fall in the region.

Democrats undercut own programs

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Democratic-controlled House is ready to scale back nearly $2 billion in commitments it made to health, education and labor programs and shift some of the money to pork-barrel projects.

The switch, outlined in documents obtained by The Associated Press, has some Democrats concerned that it undermines the party's efforts to criticize President Bush's budget and to cast themselves as more concerned than Republicans about kitchen-table issues.

It also has worried educators, health-care administrators and advocates for the poor, who fear they may end up with less federal aid than the budget promised.

"It really raises the question of whether the real dollars will be where Democrats say they should be," said Ellen Nissenbaum, lobbyist with the Center for Budget and Policy Priorities, which champions programs for low-income people.

Republicans have been harsher, contrasting the Democrats' repeated speeches about improving education and health programs with their decision to spend less than their own budget indicated.

"It's a now-you-see-it, now-you-don't kind of budget," said Rep. Willis Gradison of Ohio, ranking Republican on the House Budget Committee. "It's obviously a sham."

At issue is a decision by the Democratic leaders of the House Appropriations Committee to set aside $57.8 billion for education, health and labor programs. That's $1.7 billion less than the amount proposed in the Democratic-written 1992 budget that the House approved in April.

Documents show that at the same time, the committee leaders plan to add $900 million to the $19.7 billion budget proposed spending for energy and water projects, favorite prizes lawmakers like to bestow on their districts.

And they would increase the $2.1 billion the budget set aside for Congress itself by $200 million.

The full Appropriations Committee, meeting today, was expected to lock in the decisions the panel's leaders made at their annual private meeting last week. The committee and its Senate counterpart control spending of $527 billion - more than one-third of the federal budget.

The Senate Appropriations Committee has not decided how its spending will be distributed.

Simultaneously, the House and Senate plan to approve a compromise $1.45 trillion federal budget this week for fiscal 1992, which starts Oct. 1. The budget is used to guide Congress' spending decisions. The appropriations panels often ignore the budget's priorities, but rarely do they stray this far from it.

"It's the greatest deviation I can recall," Rep. Dale Kildee, D-Mich., a member of the Budget Committee, said in a sentiment echoed by others.

The amount the appropriations panel's leaders set for education, health and labor programs is still $450 million more than Bush has proposed.

Nonetheless, some Democrats regret that the gap between their own budget proposal and the amount that actually will be spent is so large, particularly since it comes in social programs they have repeatedly dubbed priorities.

"It concerns me," said Rep. William Ford, D-Mich., chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, who led a successful fight in April to add $200 million to the budget for education and job training. "I was operating on the assumption that we'd get the money."

Whitten and others blame the situation on tight spending limits imposed by last fall's five-year deficit-reduction plan.

"I'm all for strong education, but nobody gets everything they want," said Whitten, who at 81 is Congress' last New Deal-era Democrat. "We have the job of bringing everything together and staying within the limits."

Customs corruption under investigation

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) - A special panel has been formed to investigate allegations of corruption and mismanagement in the U.S. Customs Southwest Region, an official says.

Customs Commissioner Carol Hallett Tuesday announced the formation of the eight-member panel consisting of four U.S. Customs employees and four

The four Customs members will be Dave Warren, special agent in charge of Customs in Philadelphia; Bill Rhode, with internal affairs in Boston; Debbie Spero, with the labor and employee relations division in Customs headquarters in Washington; and Rudy Camacho, district director in San Diego, Customs spokeswoman Judy Turner said Tuesday night.

Members of the panel will visit Brownsville to investigate allegations of misconduct, Ms. Turner said.

The commissioner did not have a firm timetable, but expected a report by mid-summer, Ms. Turner said.

Although the announcement coincided with a network television report alleging problems in the Southwest Region, formation of the panel had nothing to do with the report, Ms. Turner said.

"Some of the allegations are not new allegations," she said. "Some of the allegations have been investigated and there is nothing to substantiate the allegations that have been raised," Ms. Turner said.

"The sooner all allegations are properly investigated and dealt with, the sooner we can all completely focus on what we are here for -- winning the war on drugs," Mrs. Hallett said.

ABC-TV News reported that

Customs officers have been disciplined or demoted for reporting agency corruption that may have allowed drugs to flow freely through the Valley.

In the ABC-TV report, former Customs agent Lou Smith said when he went to Brownsville three years ago to investigate a drug ring, he found from other agencies, such as the FBI, Drug Enforcement Administration and U.S. Attorney's Office, that corruption within the local Customs office was part of the enforcement problem.

After reporting what he had been told to his supervisors, Smith said he was given a desk job with no duties, his overtime pay was cut and his travel curtailed.

"One of the reasons I have formed this panel is that... I was very concerned about retaliation, any harassment whatsoever of our employees. If it is there, we intend to get to the bottom of it," Ms. Hallett said.

The allegations reported to Smith by other federal agents were that some Customs agents were smuggling drugs and protecting drug traffickers, he said.

Ms. Turner said Mrs. Hallett's visit was also to reassure Customs employees that headquarters doesn't feel the Brownsville office is corrupt.

"She has been real open with the employees and sincere and letting them know she supports them and their work efforts on the border," Ms. Turner said.

Mrs. Hallett also introduced a newly-appointed Southwest regional commissioner, Robert S. Trotter, replacing James C. Piatt of Houston.

EnCoRe presents recycling program

Ken Gearn, representing the local Environmental Coalition for Recycling (EnCoRe), was guest speaker for the regular monthly meeting of the Hereford Board of Realtors Tuesday.

Gearn said EnCoRe was formed to help protect the environment and to promote recycling. "We're not a bunch of radicals, as some people seem to think," said Gearn, "but a cross-section of people from the community who are concerned about the ecology."

Gearn said recycling not only helps protect the environment, but also promotes industry. He spoke briefly about the recycling of paper, metals, glass and plastic, and the problems cities are facing with their landfills.

Mike Carr, executive vice president of Deaf Smith County

Chamber of Commerce, was also introduced at the luncheon meeting to discuss the Panhandle Regional Housing Finance Corporation's mortgage revenue bond program.

Carr said the corporation now has funds available for home loans to non-homeowners. The mortgage terms for first-time homeowners is 7.99 percent, with maximum purchase prices of $108,180 on new homes and $76,680 on existing homes.

The bond program has $11.5 million in funds to loan, and Carr said $3 million has been set aside for rural areas in the Texas Panhandle.

Joel Salazar presided at the meeting in the absence of president Carol Sue LeGate. Patrick Newton, scholarship recipient, was introduced as a special guest. The other scholarship winner, Daniel Esquivel, could not attend.

Green Berets Bangladesh storm heros

KUTUBDIA ISLAND, Bangladesh (AP) - The Green Berets have temporarily traded their cloak-and-dagger missions for the public spotlight, administering to thousands of sick and hungry cyclone survivors.

Leaving guns and combat gear behind, a three-man U.S. Army Special Forces team flew by helicopter to this storm-ravaged island off Bangladesh's southeast coast armed only with communications equipment, maps, survival gear and smiles.

It is one of nine teams from the Special Forces and the Air Force Special Tactics Unit sent to Bangladesh as part of a 7,000-strong U.S. military task force helping survivors of the April 30 cyclone.

Experts in the art of war, the Green Berets have been getting an education in misery in Bangladesh.

"You can't kick these people anymore. You can't hurt them anymore. They've already had it," said Sgt. 1st Class Mark "Max" McIntyre. "There's no short-term Band-aid solution to this problem."

The 28-year-old team leader from Thomaston, Conn., led a ragtag band of youngsters and middle-aged men through town, his blond hair and camouflage uniform a beacon for many who spend their days waiting for relief to be distributed.

LESLIE BILLINGSLEY

PAUL AXTELL

Billingsley, Axtell DAR Good Citizens

Awards assemblies at Hereford High School and Dimmitt High School have recognized the DAR Good Citizens at each school for the 1990-91 school year. Leslie Billingsley, daughter of Gary and Colleen Billingsley, is the HHS recipient, and Paul Axtell, son of Charles and Diane Axtell, is the DHS honoree.

Sponsors of this special recognition is Los Ciboleros Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. These honor students are chosen each year by the faculties of the two high schools, based on their dependability, leadership, patriotism and citizenship.

Organizations in which Leslie has been active include the National Honor Society, Peers as Leaders (PALS), Keywantes, the Mighty Maroon Band, the HHS Student Council, the Nazarene Youth Group and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. She has been a cheerleader at HHS and has served as Lions Club sweetheart her senior year. Leslie plans to attend the University of Texas in Austin, beginning with the fall semester with a liberal arts major. She will study to become a pharmacist.

Axtell lists as his high school organizations and honors: varsity football, Future Farmers of America, Fellowship of Christian Athletes and Key Club. He has served as president of the National Honor Society as well as of the senior class this past year. He was chosen by the Farm Bureau to attend a citizenship seminar in San Angelo. He is an active member of the First Methodist Church of Dimmitt and has been a member of its youth choir and has served as an usher.

Paul will enroll in Texas Tech University this fall with a major in journalism and he plans to transfer to Texas A&M his sophomore year to pursue the study of mass communications or broadcast journalism.

Cowgirl Hall of Fame cite of club meeting

Members of the Bud to Blossom Garden Club met recently at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center for their May meeting which included a salad luncheon.

Vice president Wilma Bryan conducted the business meeting. Reports were heard from the State Spring Convention held in Austin, the club's annual plant sale and the birthday party held for residents of Westgate Nursing Home. Members who assisted at the party were Phyllis Brown, Joanne Blackwell, Mildred Fuhrmann and Ursalee Jacobsen. Helping with the Westgate bingo party were Jacobsen, Blackwell and Naomi Hare.

Plans were completed for making the floral centerpiece to be used at the Annual Pioneer Day Celebration luncheon. Also, members participated in a plant and seed exchange with information given on various flowers and plants. Secret pals were also revealed.

Patricia Robinson presented the program, "New Designs in Flower Arranging." She reviewed the progression of floral arrangements and designs from traditional, which included Oriental designs and European designs. These designs were combined to the American designs. Creative designs are new types of designs.

Robinson discussed the parallel design, one with three or more vertical groupings of materials. In the parallel-vegetative, flowers are arranged as they grow in nature. In this style, stems may come together in groupings as if they are growing from one root, as in nature, but the groups must be parallel.

The underwater design is a creation with part or parts placed underwater to create interest. Water magnifies the materials, creating an element of interest and surprise. Scale must be given consideration when selecting plant materials. Also, plant materials must have hard surface qualities as these will deteriorate as rapidly when submerged. Robinson also discussed the problems that can be encountered when designing underwater.

Members present included Naomi Hare, Billee Johnson, Joanne Blackwell, Maria Escamilla, Ursalee Jacobsen, Pauline Mandina, Bryan and Robinson.

The fifth grade science class at the Nazarene Christian Academy has been studying geology. As part of their research, the students took a field trip to Palo Duro Canyon after visiting the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon. Lynne Carlile instructs the class.

Dance scheduled June 1

A dance honoring 1991 high school seniors will be sponsored by the Hereford Fiestas Patrias Committee on June 1 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Bull Barn. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from a committee member for $5 per person. All seniors will be admitted free. "Zepata" will provide the music. The dance will also feature a "Senior March," where all seniors will be formally presented. For more information or for advance tickets, call Sara Pesina at 364-4120.

Buckle Up America Week being observed

In recognition of Buckle Up America Week being observed through May 27, Maudette Smith, chairman of the Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council, is encouraging all motorists to use safety belts on every trip in a motor vehicle.

According to Smith, Buckle Up America Week is a national campaign highlighting the lifesaving potential of safety belts, child safety seats and air bags.

"Many people just don't realize how your chances of serious injury or death are reduced significantly if you wear safety belts. More than 20,000 lives have been saved by seat belts alone from 1983 through 1989," Smith said. "In 1982, before any state had a seat belt use law, America buckled up at an 11 percent rate. Use of safety belts has more than quadrupled since then in response to increased law enforcement efforts and public information campaigns. As encouraging as these results are, it's not enough! People are still being killed on our highways because they didn't take the three seconds need to buckle up. That's inexcusable!"

Smith also stressed the importance of using safety belts even if your car is equipped with an air bag. "Many people don't realize that air bags are only effective in a front-end collision. You still must wear a safety belt in case of a rear-end, side impact, or a rollover crash. For the best possible protection, use the 'winning combination' of safety belts and air bags."

In addition, Smith reminded parents of young children to protect them in a child safety seat that is installed and used correctly. "Child safety seats are very reliable in preventing deaths and injuries to child passengers, provided they are used correctly. Child restraints are credited with saving about 238 lives in 1989 alone. That's a good record, but it can be improved with everyone's participation."

Smith stated that this week's safety belt awareness activities will coincide with the Memorial Day weekend, the holiday that traditionally signals the beginning of the summer travel season.

Hereford citizens are urged to visit the Deaf Smith County Library to view the safety exhibit sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers and the Deaf Smith County 4-H. The information provided at the exhibit is free and viewers are urged to pick up materials and put them to the best use to protect their family and friends. How to control lower back pain during pregnancy Pregnancy greatly increases susceptibility to lower back pain. Dr. Michael Settecase, medical director of the Chicago Osteopathic Hospitals and Medical Centers, offers suggestions to some frequently asked questions about pregnancy-related back pain.

Q. Why do women experience back pain during pregnancy?

A. "Although it is true that the body automatically adjusts its center of gravity as the baby develops, the extra weight up front tends to cause 'swayback' or exaggerated backward curvature of the spine. And for many women, this means back fatigue," says Dr. Settecase. Back pain results from the repetitive pounding of the heel on the ground. Microscopic "shock waves" travel up from the heel to where they aggravate soreness in back muscles. The impact of this pounding is exacerbated during pregnancy.

Q. Will back pain go away after pregnancy?

A. "If left untreated, lower back pain can become a lifelong problem," explains Dr. Settecase. "Simple back-strengthening exercises (with your obstetrician's consent) before, during and following pregnancy can often prevent back pain."

Buechele, Rangers enjoy streak

By The Associated Press

Steve Buechele is enjoying his hot streak. So are the Texas Rangers.

Buechele homered for the third straight game Tuesday night as the Rangers won their eighth in a row by beating the Minnesota Twins 6-5. The Rangers' winning streak matched Seattle for the longest in the majors this season and tied a team record accomplished four times previously. Buechele's homer, his sixth of the year, was a two-run shot with two outs in the fourth inning that erased a 3-1 deficit. Buechele also had a key single during a two-run eighth inning at the Metrodome.

"I can't explain it; I'm not doing anything different," he said of his hot hitting.

Buechele, a career .237 hitter who's never hit more than 18 homers in a season, is batting .292.

Texas has scored 67 runs during their winning streak and Buechele said the Rangers feel there's no deficit that can't be made up.

"We have a real confident feeling right now," he said. "Whether we're down 1-0 or 3-1, we think we can come back. That's the type of attitude you have when you're winning."

"We have an eight-game winning streak, and that's nice, but let's start a one-game winning streak tomorrow."

In other games, it was Boston 10, Milwaukee 6; Toronto 11, Oakland 7; California 4, Chicago 2; Kansas City 4, Seattle 3; Baltimore 5, Detroit 4; and Cleveland 5, New York 2.

Buechele's homer helped Texas starter Bobby Witt win for the first time since April 18. Witt (2-3) allowed just three hits before leaving with one out in the seventh. Jeff Russell surrendered a two-run double to Brian Harper in the eighth but got the last five outs for his ninth save. Red Sox 10, Brewers 6

Boston spotted the visiting Brewers a 5-0 lead, then rallied behind Tom Brunansky and Mike Greenwell.

Brunansky capped a six-run third inning with a three-run homer off Jim Hunter (0-1). Greenwell's 4-for-4 performance included a two-run single in the fourth as Boston set season highs for runs and hits (14).

Blue Jays 11, Athletics 7

Oakland's pitching problems continued as the visiting Blue Jays broke open a scoreless, hitless game with six runs in the fourth and held on.

Greg Myers' three-run double highlighted the big inning off Kirk Dressendorfer (3-3) as Oakland's pitching staff allowed the opposition to hit double figures for the sixth time this season - one more than all last year.

Jim Acker (1-1) allowed only one earned run, Jose Canseco's first homer this month, in five innings. Angels 4, White Sox 2

Dave Parker, who hadn't homered since opening day, hit a three-run shot off Chicago relief ace Bobby Thigpen in the bottom of the eighth as the Angels won their fourth in a row.

Parker, mired in a 2-for-24 slump, hit a 3-0 pitch over the fence in left-center after the Angels started the inning with two hits off Scott Radinsky (2-2). Jim Abbott (4-4) won his fourth in a row.

Royals 4, Mariners 3

Warren Cromartie's pinch-hit RBI single in the eighth inning gave Kansas City its victory over the visiting Mariners.

The Mariners, who had won seven of eight and are off to their best start ever, led 3-2 when Terry Shumpert hit a one-out double off Bill Krueger (1-2). Brian McRae followed with an RBI single and took second on the throw home.

Mike Jackson relieved and Cromartie, pinch-hitting for Gary Thurman, singled home the winning run.

Kevin Appier (2-5) pitched a five-hitter.

Orioles 5, Tigers 4

Tim Lulett's two-run homer in the top of the ninth at Tiger Stadium ended the Orioles' three-game losing streak.

Billy Ripken singled off Paul Gibson to start the ninth. After Brady Anderson struck out, Lulett hit an 0-2 pitch into the left-field seats.

Mike Flanagan (1-1) pitched a scoreless eighth inning for the win.

Indians 5, Yankees 2

Greg Swindell finally got some runs to back up his solid pitching.

Swindell (2-5) scattered eight hits and allowed only one earned run to lower his ERA to 2.39. Albert Belle had three hits, including two doubles, and scored twice.

Dave Eiland (1-3) was victimized by three unearned runs in the third inning following an error by rookie second baseman Pat Kelly.

Regina Lewis ties for honors

Regina Lewis of Hereford tied for all-around girl honors at the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association rodeo on Saturday in Memphis.

Lewis was fourth in barrels, third in poles, first in goat tying and fourth in breakaway roping to earn 24 points. She was tied by Kerrie Pitts of Floydada.

Hereford performers and their placing included:

--Barrels: 4. Regina Lewis, 17.343; 5. Jennifer Smith, 17.562; 8. Chasity Rickman, 17.708;
--Poles: 3. Regina Lewis, 20.994; 6. Jennifer Smith, 21.389;
--Goat tying: 1. Regina Lewis, 9.204; 2. Chasity Rickman, 9.527;
--Breakaway roping: 4. Regina Lewis, 4.307; 7. Chasity Rickman, 5.399.

Dodgers pound Astros

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Darryl Strawberry was bound to break loose someday. But boy, it sure took awhile.

Strawberry emerged from a season-long power slump Tuesday night, hitting a pair of two-run homers at the Astrodome and leading the Los Angeles Dodgers over Houston 7-3.

"It's a good sign to show things are going to fall into place," Strawberry said.

Strawberry began the game batting .216 with only two home runs and 11 RBIs. He struck out three times, but when he hit the ball, it went a long, long way.

"Even though he hasn't been hitting like he should, he's a good guy to have on the team," Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda said. "Darryl hit some moon shots. They were missiles."

In other games, New York beat Chicago 8-6. Cincinnati stopped San Francisco 3-2. Montreal defeated Philadelphia 3-0. Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 5-3 and Atlanta downed San Diego 4-1.

Strawberry homered in the sixth inning against Jim Corsi (0-3) for a 2-1 lead. It was the left-handed Strawberry's first home run off a right-handed pitcher since last Sept. 13 against Doug Drabek.

Mike Scioscia led off the seventh with a home run against Corsi, and Strawberry and Eddie Murray hit consecutive homers off Dwayne Henry later in the inning.

The Dodgers had not hit four home runs in a game since last July 3, 1990, also against Houston. Strawberry was supposed to add some pop, but has been mostly popping up and striking out.

"When you start reading your stats, that's when you start to worry," Strawberry said. "I just try to let it balance out and take things in a positive way."

Bob Ojeda (3-3) pitched six innings for the victory. He gave up Ken Caminiti's solo home run in the sixth, tying the score at 2.

Mets 8, Cubs 6
Chicago had three managers during the day, and none of them won. Don Zimmer was fired in the afternoon, interim manager Joe Altobelli was ejected during the game and coach Chuck Cottier finished up.

Dwight Gooden (5-3) improved to 23-3 lifetime against the Cubs despite giving up six runs on nine hits in 6 1-3 innings. John Franco got his eighth save, retiring George Bell on a grounder with runners on second and third.

Gooden is 13-1 against Chicago at Shea Stadium and has won 11 straight overall versus the Cubs. Rick Sutcliffe (2-4) allowed six runs and left in the second inning.

Kevin McReynolds and Gregg Jefferies each had three hits for the Mets. Bell and Damon Berryhill homered for the Cubs.

Pirates 5, Cardinals 3

Barry Bonds hit home runs in his first two at-bats - the first extra-base hits at home this season for last year's MVP - as Pittsburgh beat St. Louis. Bonds was hit by pitches in his next two at-bats, but no trouble developed.

John Smiley (6-1) overcame three unearned runs, set up by his throwing error.

Bonds hit a solo home run off Jamie Moyer (0-5) in the second inning and connected for a two-run shot in the third.

Expos 3, Phillies 0
Dennis Martinez pitched a five-hitter and lowered his ERA to a league-leading 1.73.

Martinez (6-3) struck out three and walked three in his second shutout of the season and 20th of his career.

Jason Grimsley (1-5) gave up five hits in seven innings. Martinez doubled and scored in the fifth for a 2-0 lead.

Reds 3, Giants 2

Eric Davis broke out of a 1-for-20 slump with a two-run homer that sent Cincinnati past San Francisco.

Davis homered in the fourth off Bud Black (4-4) for a 3-0 lead. Robby Thompson homered off Tom Browning (5-3) in the sixth.

Rob Dibble pitched the ninth for his 11th save in 11 tries. The visiting Giants loaded the bases with two outs, but Dibble retired Terry Kennedy on a grounder.

Braves 4, Padres 1

Ron Gant hit a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning as Atlanta won despite getting only four hits.

Lonnie Smith and Mark Lemke drew one-out walks from Steve Rosenberg (0-1) before Gant hit his sixth home run of the season.

Kent Mercker (2-2) pitched one inning as the Braves stopped San Diego's three-game winning streak. Mike Heath homered for Atlanta's first run.

Lemieux leads Penguin win

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) - Mario Lemieux is back on his feet, and so are the Pittsburgh Penguins.

"It's great having him back. People don't know how tough he is," Kevin Stevens said after his celebrated teammate gave the Penguins an emotional lift and a goal in their 5-3 victory over the Minnesota North Stars Tuesday night.

Lemieux had been a question mark right up until gametime because of a back problem, but became a big exclamation point with some rugged physical play as the Penguins evened the Stanley Cup finals at two games apiece.

"I felt great today," Lemieux said when asked about his troubled back that had kept him out of Game 3 Sunday night.

Lemieux sat on the sidelines Sunday with back spasms similar to the kind that disabled him in the seventh game of the first-round New Jersey series.

From the start, Lemieux looked the picture of health as the Penguins rushed to a 3-0 lead in the first 2:58. No team has opened a Stanley Cup finals game with three goals in a shorter amount of time.

"We wanted to get on them early in the game," said Stevens, who had his team-leading 16th playoff goal in the burst.

As it turned out, the Penguins needed all those goals - and more.

Once they got over the shock of an early three-goal deficit, the North Stars made things interesting. They actually trailed by only one goal going into the third period and had the opportunity to tie with several good chances.

Zimmer fired by Chicago

NEW YORK (AP) - Don Zimmer has been knocked out, knocked down, flattened and frustrated so many times in baseball that nothing really surprises him anymore.

So when his boyhood buddy, general manager Jim Frey, told him Tuesday that he was fired as manager of the Chicago Cubs, it wasn't that much of a shock.

After all, the Cubs, favored by many to win the National League East when they added All-Star free agents George Bell, Dave Smith and Danny Jackson, were just 18-19.

And just last week Zimmer met with Cubs president Don Greneko, who said he wanted to evaluate the manager when the season was over. Instead, Zimmer said he wanted to know something by July 1.

He found out even sooner than that.

"When I had the meeting, I knew what to expect if it didn't go in my favor. I was ready to accept whatever was going to happen," Zimmer said. "I'm sorry I'm fired, but at 60 years old and 43 years in baseball, he says he's going to evaluate me at the end of the year. It's a joke."

Cubs batting coach Joe Altobelli, who led Baltimore to the 1983 World Series championship, was named interim manager. He got ejected during Tuesday night's 8-6 loss in New York and coach Chuck Cottier finished up as the Cubs' third manager of the day.

Frey said he wanted to name a full-time successor shortly. Jim Essian, manager of the Cubs' Triple-A Iowa team, arrived in town late Tuesday night and was to meet today with Frey.

"All I know right now is that they requested my presence in New York," Essian said. "We'll take it from there. I have no idea what my chances are or who they're considering."

Zimmer left Shea Stadium with tears in his eyes after Frey delivered the bad news around 3 p.m. He returned to Chicago.

He made his pro debut in Brooklyn's organization in 1949 and was being groomed to take Hall of Famer Pee Wee Reese's spot at shortstop when he was hit in the temple with a pitch in 1953, an accident that split open his skull and left metal plates in his head.

He still made it to the majors and stuck around for 12 years, despite being hit in the face by another pitch in 1956. When his playing days were over, he coached in Montreal, New York and San Francisco. He also got fired as manager in Texas, San Diego and Boston.

In 1984, Zimmer was the Cubs' third base coach when Frey managed the team to within one game of the World Series. After the 1987 season, Frey, who went to high school with Zimmer, made his old friend the manager.

At first, a lot of critics charged cronyism. But when Zimmer's wild and wacky plays, like hit-and-runs with the bases loaded, helped the Cubs win the National League East in 1989, no one was complaining.

That season Zimmer was a near-unanimous choice as manager of the year.

It was the way the Cubs were doing things that irked Greneko, particularly after the Cubs gave millions to Bell, Jackson and Smith.

"The club was not performing the way we expected it to, especially in view of the talent that is on the team," Greneko said in announcing Zimmer's firing.

Jordan, Bulls whip Pistons

CHICAGO (AP) - By the time Michael Jordan got untracked in the second half, his Chicago Bulls teammates already had the game under control.

Jordan scored 27 of his game-high 35 points in the second half Tuesday night, and the Bulls defeated the Detroit Pistons 105-97 for a 2-0 lead in the best-of-7 Eastern Conference finals.

"I didn't have the opportunities in the first half but my teammates scored," Jordan said. "When they had to clamp down on my teammates, I got more opportunities to score."

The scene shifts to the Palace of Auburn Hills for games Saturday and Monday, and if a fifth game is necessary it will be played in Chicago on May 29.

"A sweep? We're not even thinking about it," Jordan said. Disregard Tuesday's final score. The game wasn't that close.

"How the game was so close at the end, I have no idea," Detroit coach Chuck Daly said. "They controlled the game all night. We couldn't match their quickness or intensity."

Jordan was limited to eight points in the first half, and didn't score until 2:19 remained in the first quarter. Still, the Bulls broke a 10-10 tie with a 9-2 run led by Scottie Pippen and Horace Grant to take a 19-12 lead that was never seriously threatened.

It was 27-22 after one quarter and Pippen and four reserves opened the second quarter with a 14-3 run that put the Bulls ahead 41-25. Vinnie Johnson came in at this point to help cut it to 49-41 at the half and then Jordan got hot as the Bulls pulled away to a 76-61 lead after three quarters.

"The game was determined after three quarters with a solid defense," coach Phil Jackson said. "Vinnie Johnson got hot in the fourth quarter but we had the kind of lead that we didn't think they could get back into the game."

Johnson scored 18 of his 29 points in the final period while Joe Dumars scored 24 points, 16 of them in the first quarter. Pippen had 21 points and 10 rebounds.

Jordan attempted only seven shots in the first half and finished with 10-for-20 from the field, including a pair of 3-pointers in the third quarter. He was 13-for-14 from the free throw line.

The Pistons haven't been able to get their offense in gear against the Bulls.

"Our plan was to take the game to them," Jackson said. "We have been very aggressive on the outside, keeping them from running their halfcourt offense. We are double-teaming aggressively, rotating effectively and forcing them to take tough shots."

Daly, claiming the Bulls seem hungrier than the Pistons, said, "We have to get more people involved in the offense. We can't depend on two guys to carry the load."

Mark Aguirre, who has had 41 points in the two losses, said, "They are clogging up the middle and taking away some of our offense."

And Bill Laimbeer, held to a total of six points in the two games, said, "Because of their switching rotation, the perimeter has not been open for anyone, especially me. They're taking away the things we're used to. We need to adjust quickly."

Portland's Porter sparks 109-98 win over Lakers

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - A sign in the stands proclaimed the city Porter-land.

In Game 2 of the Western Conference finals, the name fit.

Terry Porter, the Portland playmaker rendered ineffective by foul trouble in Game 1, scored 26 points on 12-for-15 shooting and pushed the fast-breaking Trail Blazers to a 109-98 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers Tuesday night, tying the best-of-7 series 1-1.

"I didn't bring my hatchet tonight," he said, "so I was in pretty good shape."

The game showed how important Porter is to the Blazers.

"That's the Terry I like to see," Clyde Drexler said. "He made some shots. He forced the tempo. He played a super overall game."

Portland outscored the Lakers 51-28. The rebound total tied an all-time playoff low for Los Angeles and was the fewest ever by a Blazers playoff opponent.

The Blazers also outscored Los Angeles 27-2 on fast-break points.

"Our team was the aggressor," Drexler said. "That's the way we play. That's Blazer basketball. We didn't want to leave any stones unturned. We just wanted to come out and give a total effort."

That was the message Portland coach Rick Adelman had for his team.

"We said before the game if you're going to make mistakes, you make them being aggressive and active, you don't make it by standing around like we did the first game," he said.

Still, this was no blowout. Portland had a 37-15 rebound advantage in the first half, but led only 56-52.

"As badly as we played in the first half, and being down four, I felt pretty good about our chances," Lakers coach Mike Dunleavy said.

Down the stretch, Los Angeles did some un-Lakerlike things. They missed three of four free throws over a one-minute stretch midway through the final quarter. And they had three turnovers, two by Magic Johnson, after cutting the Portland lead to 100-96 on Johnson's 3-pointer with 3:11 remaining.

Byron Scott hit eight of 11 shots, including all four 3-point attempts, for 20 points in the first three quarters. But he took only one shot and didn't score in the final period.

The Blazers deserved to win, Scott said.

"I think they just played harder," he said.

Portland's Buck Williams set the tone when he decided to charge Johnson with a fierce double-team almost every time the Lakers' star touched the ball early in the game.

"There were a few times I questioned when he went, but it did throw (Johnson) out of whack a little bit," Adelman said.

Drexler had 21 points and 10 rebounds for the Blazers, while Jerome Kersey scored 18 points and Kevin Duckworth 17.

James Worthy scored 21 points for the Lakers. Johnson had 19 points and 12 assists, but committed eight turnovers. Sam Perkins also scored 19 for the Lakers, who lost on the road for the first time in five playoff games.

Portland led most of the game, including the entire fourth quarter, but the Lakers never were more than nine points down until the final seconds.

Porter hit a 20-footer to boost the score to 103-96 with 1:38 to play. After Perkins made a 5-footer, the Blazers scored the final six points of the game.

Three recitals planned

Students from the Susan Shaw Studio will be featured in three upcoming recitals.

The first recital is planned at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room. Those singing will be Jana Nelson, Cristin Leasure, Kathie McWhorter, Candi Pankey, Heidi Hafliger, Shelia Teel, Misty Dudley, Brianna Reinauer, Brenna Reinauer, Chelli Cummings, Carrie Wilkerson, Jo Jo Lytal, Vanessa Gonzalez, Melissa Celaya, Mandi Tijerina, Tonya Selmon and Esmerelda Torres.

Piano students will be included in the recitals on Tuesday, May 28, and Thursday, May 30. Both programs will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Heritage Room. Those playing will be Ben Sublett, Taylor Sublett, Cady Auckerman, Scott Shaw, Carrie Wilkerson, Denae Brinkman, Marci Goldsmith, Ashley Henson, Emily Curtis, Emilee Hafliger, Heidi Hafliger, Lori Poarch, Leslie Poarch, Jamie Self, Jana Nelson, Sara Gromowsky, Craig Ames, Shelia Teel, Kristan Kimball, Sarah Perrin, Amy Perrin, Cristin Leasure, Tracie Gilbert and Stephanie Walls.

Pianists and vocalists have been involved in UIL contest, the Hereford Junior Music Festival and the Greater Southwest Music Festival. They will be performing solos and ensembles entered in these competitions, in addition to other repertoire learned throughout the year.

All family members and friends are invited to the recitals.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was still off-key, but this time, at least, Roseanne Barr's rendition of the national anthem wasn't booed.

The star of "Roseanne" sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" Sunday at a fund-raiser for the T.J. Martell Foundation for Leukemia, Cancer and AIDS Research. The event at the University of Southern California featured a celebrity baseball game.

Barr was among other singers leading the crowd in the anthem, but she was nearest the microphone and she clearly struggled with the high notes.

The comedian was jeered when she butchered the song in 1990 at a San Diego Padres game.

Bone marrow transplants boost cancer survival rates

Today, more than 9,000 Americans will continue their search for a bone marrow transplant. By day's end, 25 will have died waiting.

Each year, nearly 3,000 bone marrow transplants are performed in the U.S., a large percentage on children. For most this risky procedure is their last hope for defeating a disease that has defied other, more conventional, treatments.

Although bone marrow transplants are effective against diseases ranging from breast cancer to aplastic anemia, most childhood patients are either fighting acute myelocytic leukemia (AML) or are second remission acute lymphoblastic leukemia (ALL) patients.

"While we've been able to raise the survival rates for some childhood cancers up to 90 percent, we have had very little success against AML," said Dr. Malcolm Brenner, head of the bone marrow transplant research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn. "Chemotherapy and radiation, which are very effective against other forms of leukemia, have been less successful against AML."

"Bone marrow transplants do offer a lot of promise against AML," Dr. Brenner said, "but only if we can discover ways to make them more available and less risky."

Bone marrow transplants also have succeeded against ALL, the most common form of childhood cancer. ALL strikes 2,000 youngsters in the U.S. each year. While two-thirds or more can be cured with standard therapy, many others cannot.

"Up to one-third of children with ALL relapse after chemotherapy," said Dr. Brenner. "If this happens, a bone marrow transplant offers their best chance of cure."

Bone marrow transplants do offer new avenues of hope, but they are not the sought-after sure cure.

"I wish we could say that every child who receives a bone marrow transplant will be cured, but that's just not the case right now," said Dr. Brenner. "The cancer may come back or they may not be able to survive the transplant."

While transplants are virtually risk-free for bone marrow donors, the question of survival is real for the patients, who must undergo a grueling, life-threatening procedure. The children first receive total body irradiation and doses of chemotherapy much higher than the levels given in normal cancer therapy.

"Normally, we can't risk ultra-high doses of chemotherapy and radiation because the therapy destroys both the cancer cells and the normal blood cells," said Dr. Brenner. "With bone marrow transplants, however, we get to start over with a clean slate of new, cancer-free cells."

After the chemotherapy and radiation is complete, the transplant begins. In a procedure much like a blood transfusion, the donated bone marrow is injected into the patient. The new cells find their way through the bloodstream to the center of the bones and slowly begin to generate new cells.

Because only a small "starter set" of bone marrow cells are transplanted, the body is still virtually barren of disease-fighting blood cells. To lower the risk of infection, the child is cured in a special room with filtered air for weeks, occasionally months, following the transplant and continually monitored for complications.

The transplant's success is determined, to a great degree, in the first three months. During that period, life-threatening infections can arise from anywhere, even the normally harmless bacteria, fungi, protozoa, and viruses in the patient's body.

Graft versus host disease (GVHD) is the most serious complication from bone marrow transplants. In the disease, the new bone marrow actually attacks the patient's organs and tissue. "Up to 60 percent of bone marrow recipients develop GVHD if their donor is a brother or sister whose tissue type matches the patient, up to 90 percent of patients will develop the disease if the donor is genetically unmatched," said Dr. Brenner of St. Jude. "Of those with severe GVHD, one-third or more will die for it. It's a very serious threat, and a disease we're devoting a lot of research toward."

The bone marrow transplant research program at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., is funded primarily through public contributions raised by American Lebanese Syrian Associated Charities.

Reflection of '60s revealed

Softer, sleeker and neater hairstyles go with the 1960s retrospective fashion styles being offered this season.

"The silhouette and balance harken back to the movement, volume and wave of the '60s, but there is a much softer, more diffused feeling about the styles," says Philip Voss Jr., who heads Zotos International, which makes hair care products.

While hair may be short, neatly trimmed at the sides and nape of the neck, it can be cut longer at the crown, for more a fuller effect, he says. The styles can either hug the head or expand with texture.

The great musician, Ignace Jan Paderewski, became the first premier of the Republic of Poland after World War I.

Childhelp hotline expanded

Helping substantially increased numbers of troubled families is the goal of the newly expanded Childhelp IOF Foresters Hotline. The Childhelp IOF Foresters Hotline (1-800-4-A-CHILD) is the only toll-free national child abuse crisis line providing 24-hour access to counseling professionals, referral and reporting services. Of the more than 200,000 calls answered in 1990, 65 percent were crisis-oriented from parents, children and adult survivors of abuse. Due to the limited capabilities at that time, an audit revealed close to a million attempted calls could not get a vitally-needed response. The IOF Foresters, one of the world's oldest and largest family fraternal benefit societies, offers a series of free effective parenting tips and booklets on family stress. For more information call, toll-free 1-800-922-4-I.O.F.

We want to help your garage sale be a success.

That's why we are introducing our special "Garage Sale Directory" that will appear in the Hereford Brand each Thursday. For your listing to appear in the directory, just pay to have your regular garage sale classified appear in the Brand for three consecutive days (like Wednesday, Thursday and Friday). If your ad runs in three consecutive issues, you get a free listing in the directory. The directory will make it even easier for bargain hunters to find your garage sale. It will look like this:

Address	Dates	Times
313 N. Lee	Th, Fri, Sat	8-5 each day

Come by the Hereford Brand today (sorry, cash only on a deal like this), place your classified ad with us for three days and get a listing in our weekly Garage Sale Directory.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Choking and suffocation are two of the most common causes of preventable death in children under one year of age. According to the Textbook of Pediatric Basic Life Support from the American Heart Association and the American Academy of Pediatrics, one of the most common causes of choking and suffocation is giving formula, milk or juice to an infant who is lying down.

I am writing to you because I am distressed by the number of parents I see propping up baby bottles in restaurants, grocery stores and malls. The babies are lying in a stroller with a bottle propped up on a blanket or a jacket so the parents can continue to shop or eat a meal without being interrupted.

One of the lessons taught in the pediatric CPR course is that in the event of choking an infant, the victim is not able to make noise. A distinct advantage of breast-feeding is that it ensures the mother will take the time to sit and feed the baby. For the mother who chooses to bottle-feed her infant, I hope she will take the time to sit and hold the little one during feedings. Besides the safety-factor, holding and cuddling is very good for the baby's development and self-esteem. -- A Mother in San Jose or later and it can be a real jolt. It happened to me recently and I want to say thank you.

A while back you wrote, "NEVER ask married sons and daughters when they are going to start a family. That is an intensely personal matter and the intrusion will not be appreciated."

My son was married three years ago, and I was very eager to become a grandmother, so on my occasions and in a variety of ways, I would hint to my daughter-in-law that I couldn't quite understand what they were waiting for. She always evaded the question and, after I read your column, I stopped asking.

This past weekend my son and his wife came to the house to tell me that they are expecting. My daughter-in-law then said, "We have been praying for this for almost a year and when you used to ask me about it, I felt terribly depressed." She then added, "You haven't asked me recently and that took a lot of pressure off."

Thank goodness for that column. It certainly improved my relationship with my daughter-in-law and I'm ever so grateful.

Keep saying it, Ann, over and over. Often when people are too close to a situation, their vision is blurred. Sign me -- Grateful in Hacksack

DEAR HACK: OK, I'll say it over and over. M.Y.O.B., Mother, M.Y.O.B., Mother, M.Y.O.B. And thanks for letting me know.

Gem of the Day: Genuine consideration for others is: Leaving some hot water. Leaving the party sober. Telling a woman she has lipstick on her teeth.

Telling a man his fly is open.

DEAR MOTHER: Thank you for an extremely valuable bit of information. And the point about cuddling is very important. Babies need to be held, rocked and made to feel cherished. This is what bonding is all about.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm sure that everyone who reads your column regularly sees him or herself sooner

Breast screening clinic planned Friday in Hereford

A breast screening clinic, in cooperation with the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center and High Plains Baptist Hospital of Amarillo, will be held at the South Plains Health Care Providers, Inc., 603 E. Park, from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Friday, May 24.

Exams will be done by appointment only. For more information, call the clinic at 364-7688.

Funding for the breast screening community outreach clinics is available through the Texas Cancer Council for screening mammography for Texas residents qualifying for financial assistance.

Early detection of breast cancer is the major goal of cancer control for each woman seen in the clinic. The clinic provides low cost screening which includes a breast exam by a registered nurse trained in breast cancer detection, teaching of breast self-examination and a mammogram.

Currently, the most effective method known to win the battle against breast cancer is early detection. Early detection is best done by following the guidelines recommended by the American Cancer Society for breast cancer screening for women who have no signs or symptoms of breast cancer. The guidelines are:

1. Learn and perform breast self-examination every month.
2. Have a physical examination every year.
3. Have a mammogram according to the recommendations by age.
 - 35 to 40—One baseline mammogram.
 - 40 to 50—A mammogram every one to two years.
 - Over 50—Yearly mammograms.

Students to perform in National Piano Auditions

Seventy-Eight local piano pupils from the classes of Cappy Cory, Johnnie Walters and Evelyn Hacker have registered as candidates for membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, Teachers Division of The American College of Musicians, of which their teacher is a member.

The group of young piano hobbyists will play in the National Piano Playing Auditions beginning today through Friday at the First Christian Church. Students are working toward Pledges, Local, District, State, National or even International honors which the Mother organization will confer according to the number of standard baroque, classic, romantic and modern pieces chosen from the Masters of pianoforte literature each student can credibly perform in the presence of an imported examiner of note.

Entrants from the class of Walters are Amy and Heidi Ruland of Hereford; Janell Raymond, Sarah Rushing, Sarah Hale, Amy Knowles, Alicia Widner, Julie Goddard and Candace Ingram, all of Friona.

Students from Hacker class are Cindy Harder, Jana Baird, Leah Turner, Cameron Turner, Aaron Hendrickson, Amanda McMeen, Stephen Cloud, Bri Reinauer, Jamie Marquez, Kimberly Scott, Robert Reinauer, Amber Vasck, Julie Schlabs, Janae Schlabs, Karon Harder, Stacy Culppepper, Andrew Carnahan, Kristin Carnahan, Daniel Carnahan, Melissa Cloud, Lee Harder, Riley Hall, Michelle Chand, Brent Carlson, Annie Keenan, Annie Hoffman, Cheri Euler, Johnathan Keenan, Laurie Gilbert, and Jace West.

Shirley Pegram from Canyon will be bringing 24 pupils from Nazareth. Any student or teacher interested in entering in the 1992 auditions may contact one of these teachers.

From coast to coast over 116,447 enthusiastic piano pupils of the nation will participate in this annual national piano-playing event being held in 840 music centers of the country and every entrant worth his salt will be certificated, given a gold or bronze embossed pin, a year's membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians and Piano Hobbyists of the World.

Begun at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, Texas, in 1929, national headquarters are still maintained in Texas, where rules and regulations are available on requests free of charge by addressing Piano Guild, Box 1807, Austin, Texas 78767-1807.

PATRICIA C. ANTHONY

Patricia C. Anthony will be judging local piano pupils in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians piano auditions.

She was awarded the Lubbock Music Teachers Association Scholarship for studies in music at Texas Tech University and holds a bachelor of music education degree on both elementary and secondary levels, with piano as a major study. She taught public music and directed school choirs before residency in Lubbock. She is currently teaching in Lubbock and has had a private piano studio there for the past 21 years.

She has served as adjudicator for National Piano Guild auditions and numerous other piano contests and festivals in Texas and New Mexico. She has been guest lecturer for piano pedagogy classes at Texas Tech University and Lubbock Christian University. She has had many winning students in piano contests and some of the top theory students.

Anthony is a member of Lubbock Music Club, Mu Phi Epsilon, Lubbock Music Teachers Association, Texas Music Teachers Association, Music Teachers National Association and is a nationally certified piano teacher.

She is past president of the Lubbock Music Teachers Association and is competition co-chairman. She has held various offices and chairmanships in that association in addition to serving as music representative on the board of West Texas Arts and Botanical Association. She has been State Assistant Theory Coordinator for the past three years. She was named 1985 Teacher of the Year by Lubbock Music Teachers Association.

Kingdom Seekers Sunday School Class assembles

Members of the Kingdom Seekers Sunday School Class met May 14 in the home of Nancy Duncan for election of 1991-92 officers.

Serving as president will be Erma Bain; vice president, Juanita Houle; secretary, Trudy Gray and Ruby Skelton; treasurer, Velma Carroll; reporter, Dorothy Sargent; and assistant reporter, Fannie Townsend. Social leaders will be Nancy Duncan, Coy Tice and Ruby White; group captains, Luella Thomas and Rosie Wall; and yearbook committee, Juanita Houle, Erma Bain, Trudy Gray, Rosie Wall and Pauline Landers.

Landers will serve as the new teacher with assistance from Townsend and Bain. Roll call was answered with "what I accomplished the past year" and members also discussed future plans for the Kingdom Seekers.

Dorothy Sargent led a prayer and Townsend read a poem entitled "A Mother's Advice." Townsend also asked class members to be aware of the many times that they have seen the word "light."

Duncan exhibited a restored Bible, printed in the late 1800s, which had belonged to her great-aunt.

The group will resume meeting in September.

Those present included Nancy Duncan, Rosie Wall, Dorothy Sargent, Wilma Bryan, Erma Bain, Trudy Gray, Velma Carroll, Fannie Townsend, Juanita Houle, Luella Thomas and Pauline Landers.
