Dukakis counters policies attacks

By DONNA CASSATA
Associated Press Writer

Michael Dukakis countered GOP attacks on his foreign and defense policies, pledging support for the Stealth bomber and assessing U.S.-Soviet relations, while George Bush, bristling at his rival's charge of "McCarthyism," renewed his attack on Dukakis as a liberal Democrat.

The Bush campaign suffered its second setback in as many days on Monday as five members of the vice president's ethnic coalition resigned amid charges of ties to anti-Semitic organizations.

The resignations come on the heels of Frederic V. Malek's decision to leave his Republican National Committee post after a published report said he had compiled a list in 1971 of Jews at the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Bush had appointed Malek to the RNC job.

Democratic nominee Dukakis, stung by GOP suggestions that he is weak on defense issues, was to deliver his evaluation of relations between the two superpowers in an address today in Chicago to the Council on Foreign Relations.

Bush, also in Chicago, was scheduled to give an economics statement to the businessmen's Executive Club before continuing his campaign swing in Jefferson City, Mo., while his running mate, Dan Quayle, campaigned in Bismarck, N.D.

The two presidential candidates were deadlocked in the latest public opinion poll. A Cable News Network-USA Today survey of 1,260 certain voters, conducted last week by the Gordon Black Corp., found 48 percent favored the Republican ticket while 46 percent preferred the Democratic slate.

The margin of error of 3 percentage points makes the race a virtual dead heat.

Stepping up his defense offensive on Monday, Dukakis issued an unusual promise to support the Stealth bomber — a pledge that appeared to go beyond the candidate's previous statements that he supported continued research of the project.

"That bomber was started by a Democratic administration; it was supported by the Democrats in Congress, and it's going to be completed under my administration," Dukakis told workers at a General Electric plant in Ohio.

At a shopping center rally in Illinois, Bush repeated his charge that Dukakis is a liberal Democrat and "card-carrying member" of the American Civil Liberties Union — terms the Democratic nominee used to describe himself, according to the vice president.

"Recently, the governor of Massachusetts accused me of McCarthyism," Bush said. "And it was suggested that when I said he is a card-carrying member of the ACLU that that was McCarthyism; when I say he's a liberal that's... unfair."

Shouting until he was nearly hoarse, Bush said it was Dukakis himself who said in Iowa, "I'm a very strong Democrat, a liberal Democrat... a progressive Democrat... a card-carrying member of the American Civil Liberties Union." (See DUKAKIS, Page 2)

County considers computers

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

A year after Deaf Smith County bought a $59,000 computer system, the system is only partially operating and commissioners must ditch the current software for another brand or hire a programmer to nurse the existing software.

The county established $35,000 in next year's budget to hire a computer programmer, but a less expensive choice would be to buy a software package from Hart Graphics with that money to supplement the county's present software, said County Clerk David Ruland, who has been studying the county's computer options.

"The ideal situation, really, is to have an in-house programmer, but if the system is not documented properly, we'll have problems when that person leaves," Ruland said. "The next best thing is to have Hart Graphics for future support and to further modify the programs we already have in the sheriff's office and the tax assessor's office."

County commissioners decided to hear from a Hart Graphics representative at its next meeting Sept. 26 concerning its software package.

Deaf Smith County originally purchased its software and hardware at a discount from Hood County last October with the intention to use a local computer programmer to set up the system.

However, the programmer's knowledge of courthouse procedure and the computer system was limited, so the county was stuck with only the county clerk's office and tax assessor's office on line. The sheriff's office was added later.

"The bad thing with the Hood County program is that you can't get a programmer to look at it when you hit a snag. With Hart (Graphics), you can," Ruland said.

County clerk David Ruland, one of the persons studying the county's options in computerizing the courthouse, told county commissioners Monday his gut feeling was to hire a programmer, but the cheaper route would be to buy more software.

Miller retires

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

Nell Miller, Deaf Smith County's tax assessor-collector for 28 years, retired from her position at Monday's county commissioners meeting.

Nell Miller

"After working for 35 years, I just wanted to take some time off," said Miller, who worked in the county tax office seven years before being elected to the tax assessor-collector office in 1960.

Miller has been battling leukemia for more than a year.

Her retirement will take effect Sept. 30, and commissioners plan to appoint a replacement at its Sept. 26 meeting to fill the tax assessor-collector position until the November elections.

Ralph Morrison asked the commissioners court to take action on a gentleman's agreement he said the county made with his father on March 13, 1961, concerning the county's maintenance of his father's driveway.

Plans made for 'Rapture' today

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A publishing company closed its offices in the belief that millions of the faithful will be called to heaven today in a prelude to the Second Coming. Most religious scholars and ministers doubt it.

All such forecasts in the past have been wrong, noted Malcolm Tolbert, professor of New Testament interpretation at Southeastern Theological Seminary in Wake Forest.

Nonetheless, a woman who answered the telephone at the World Bible Society in Nashville, Tenn., Monday said the office was closed to give employees time to be with their families. The company published the book by Edgar C. Whisenant that contains the prediction, "88 Reasons The Rapture Will Be In 1988."

"If anyone is left here, they'll be here Wednesday morning," said a woman named Lorraine, who refused to give her last name.

"The odds of anybody being right are certainly greater than the odds of winning the recent Florida lottery," Tolbert said Monday.

He noted that such predictions have been made countless times in the past 2,000 years. "Nobody's been right."

Some evangelical and Pentecostal interpreters of biblical prophecy believe "the Rapture" is a sort of prelude to Christ's Second Coming.

But Tolbert said people who believe in the theory support it by picking various passages from the New Testament.

"People are treating the Bible as sort of a smorgasbord... and come out with a kind of unified approach that is not justified by any single passage in the Bible," he said. "So what you have is interpretations by people who are not biblical scholars."

Whisenant, a former rocket engineer, predicted the Rapture would come by tonight. He used mathematical calculations and biblical interpretations to predict that it would occur in the 48 hours of this year's Jewish New Year — 40 years and 120 days after Israel became a nation on May 14, 1948.

The time of the Rapture — by noon EDT — was determined according to the hour of sunset in Jerusalem, said KAAV general manager Dianne McArthur, whose Little Rock, Ark., radio station has been carrying Whisenant's "Rapture 88 Ministries" programs since March.

Whisenant spent most of Monday in Little Rock trying to spread his message.

He fully expects to be taken to heaven today, Ms. McArthur said.

Whisenant will not talk with the secular press "because God plainly told him not to sensationalize this," she said.

Whisenant, a 56-year-old self-taught Bible student, has predicted on broadcasts carried by more than 90 radio stations nationwide that Jesus would "rapture the church" — take the faithful to heaven.

But several ministers said the exact time of the Second Coming could not be pinpointed.

"How do you know that?" asked the Rev. M.D. Battle of the Praise Temple Church in Raleigh. "Because Jesus said he didn't even know the minute or the hour. I don't believe (the Rapture) is coming by Tuesday night. Of course, Jesus could come at any time."

The Rev. Tom Vestal of Mount Olivet Baptist Church in Raleigh said: "I have had calls from all over the state from people asking 'Do you think Jesus is coming Tuesday?'"

He said some of the callers were concerned that "Jesus really is coming before they have a chance to be married or have a family or see their children grown."

Report calls for Hispanic 'development'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans today released a set of recommendations to encourage full development of Hispanic talent, including a trade policy with Mexico that benefits businesses on both sides of the border.

The Senate Republican Conference task force on Hispanic affairs said education initiatives should be expanded to lower the illiteracy and dropout rates.

The task force said four advisory committees examined Hispanic education and literacy, economic development, employment, and health.

"By taking a fresh look at these and additional issues on the threshold of the 1990s, we intend to reenergize and refocus attention on the needs and potential of Hispanic Americans," the report said.

The committee, led by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, added:

"We do not see this potential as different from other Americans. Rather, we want to ensure that Hispanic Americans have access to the opportunities and support systems already available to most Americans for many generations. We want to take the steps necessary to ensure full participation of Hispanics in the many avenues of American enterprise, government, culture, and international leadership."

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, is on the task force. Other than Hatch, the other U.S. senators making up the task force are William Armstrong of Colorado, John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, Alfonse M. D'Amato of New York, Pete Domenici of New Mexico, Robert Dole of Kansas, John McCam of Arizona, Alan K. Simpson of Wyoming and Pete Wilson of California.

The Senate Republican Conference is the official caucus of Republican senators.

The task force's recommendations include:

— Broadening national and local initiatives to reduce illiteracy and combat the Hispanic student dropout crisis.

— Creating programs at the federal, state and local levels and in the private sector that provide managerial skills assistance to small minority businesses.

— Pursuing an aggressive trade policy with Mexico to benefit businesses on both sides of the border.

— Improving the recruitment of qualified Hispanics into managerial and professional positions in the private and public sector.

— Promoting health and disease prevention efforts, with an emphasis on battling AIDS.

— Supporting better access to bonding and insurance for small firms.

The committee said it hopes its efforts will boost the nation's appreciation for "one of our rich cultural treasures — the American of Hispanic descent."

"It is our hope that Hispanic talent will be nurtured and cultivated in ways that will improve the lives of all Americans. Our interest in helping Hispanics stems from the strong sense of self-interest in America's economic and political future in a fast-changing world," the report said.

Young wins football contest

Mrs. Ron Young of Hereford missed just two games and missed the tiebreakers score by only three points to claim first place in last week's Hereford Brand Football Contest.

Mrs. Young will receive $25 in Hereford Bucks for her effort. Placing second, also missing just two games, was L.V. Watts. Watts will receive $15 in Hereford Bucks.

Coming out best among four entrants who missed three games was Lois Hillwig, who will receive $10 in Hereford Bucks. Others missing only three games were Lloyd Olsen, Don Leverett and Ronnie Bell. Six contestants missed four games, and three missed only five games.

The third week of the football contest appears in today's Brand.

Schools dismiss early Thursday

Hereford public schools will dismiss one hour early on Thursday because of the Hereford-Estacado football game.

The early dismissal will allow all buses to run their regular routes before Thursday night's game at Lubbock.

Gov't says residents should test for radon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The problem of radon contamination in the home appears to be serious enough to warrant testing for the deadly gas in every residence in the nation, the government's chief environmental and health agencies say.

New surveys show particularly high levels of the invisible, odorless gas in Minnesota, North Dakota and Pennsylvania and the average home in those states contains radon above the Environmental Protection Agency's guidelines, according to figures released Monday at a joint news conference of EPA and the Public Health Service.

EPA has estimated radon-caused lung cancers could be killing 20,000 people out of the nation's annual toll of 130,000 lung cancer deaths.

And though EPA hasn't changed its estimate that 10 percent of some 80 million homes have radon above the guidelines, new surveys in seven states and on Indian lands in two more showed more than 29 percent of all homes above the guidelines.

Combined with the results of 10 states surveyed last year, that means one home in four of the 12 million in the two surveys was above the agency's guideline of 4 picocuries per liter, said Rich Guimond, head of EPA's radiation office.

"We think we've documented the problem enough to recommend that every home be tested," EPA Administrator Lee M. Thomas told the news conference.

"Even if we are off by (a factor of 10), the problem is severe enough so that we ought to do something about it," said Vernon Houk, assistant surgeon general attending the news conference to announce a formal public health advisory calling for radon testing.

Houk said the health toll from radon "probably exceeds by 10 times outdoor air pollution," and physicians should learn about it to advise their patients.

Radon is a radioactive gas produced in the decay of uranium found in all soil and rock in at least trace amounts, and present in the outdoor atmosphere normally at a concentration about 0.5 percent of EPA's 4 picocurie "action level." Homes tend to concentrate radon indoors.

Radon kills by leaving its own radioactive decay products in the lung, irradiating the tissues for a lifetime. Smoking, itself the major cause of lung cancer, increases the effectiveness of radon by 15 times, Houk said.

"If you have any detectable radon in your home, don't permit smoking indoors," Houk said.

"We have not characterized 4 picocuries as safe," Thomas noted, and the agency is studying the adoption of using outdoor background levels as a goal for indoor programs. At 4 picocuries, EPA believes a lifetime resident increases his or her chance of lung cancer by about 1 percent, a risk level larger than any the agency tolerates in its other programs.

EPA has certified that about 1,000 companies are qualified to test for radon, and the test can be done for as little as $10, Thomas said.

The first thing someone confronted with an abnormal result should do is get it confirmed, "not unlike a lot of other things when you go to see your physician," Houk said.

If action is needed, a majority of homes probably can be fixed for less than $1,000, Thomas said.

In Minnesota and North Dakota, the survey identified "an area similar in severity to the Reading Prong," a well-known narrow area of high-uranium soils extending from about Reading, Pa., across northern New Jersey into New York.

Below is a list of the states surveyed. After each state is the percentage of homes above 4 picocuries per liter, and then the average concentration in that state.

Cisneros to pass over run for fifth term in office

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Saying the time has come for him to move on, Mayor Henry Cisneros vowed not to seek a fifth term, but declined to rule out the possibility of running for a higher office in the future.

The 41-year-old mayor's fourth 2-year term will expire next spring, and Cisneros said he will go into private life.

Along with handing over the gavel to the nation's ninth-largest city, Cisneros also will pass along some major civic projects he once said were the reasons he wasn't interested in seeking higher office.

"When his term ends, the popular mayor and one of the country's leading Hispanic politicians will have served his native city for 14 years.

"It's been work, and it's been fun. Mostly, it's been the most engrossing and fulfilling thing I've ever done," Cisneros said at a news conference Monday.

"Basically, I've been at it for 14 years — eight years as mayor and six as council member. That's a long time to go at full throttle," he said.

"Our country believes that eight years in a high office should be enough to get a job done. Presidents serve eight years. Governors serve eight years. And eight years is a good round number for a mayor, especially this one," he said.

Cisneros, who has served on several international commissions, was interviewed by Walter Mondale as a potential vice presidential running mate in 1984 and frequently mentioned as a possible Cabinet-level appointee.

Last year, Cisneros said he would not be running for statewide office because he wanted to devote time to San Antonio projects and to his son, John Paul Anthony, who was born with a congenital heart defect and stomach abnormalities.

Earlier this year, the former president of the National League of Cities declined an offer to make a keynote address to the Democratic National Convention. He said he wanted to devote time to the city projects, which include a controversial $160 million domed stadium proposal and a regional water plan.

Earlier this year, Cisneros, who has met Pope John Paul II and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, was approached by several San Antonio businessmen about the prospect of forming a business to handle business investments.

Cisneros said he has since received numerous job offers, but declined to elaborate.

The mayor's salary is less than $5,000. With two daughters nearing college age and an ill infant, Cisneros supplemented that income with columns and speaking engagements, but had to cut back because of the health of his son and the time-consuming city projects.

"Today is a little sad for me. It has to be," Cisneros said. "But I expect to wake up tomorrow morning, ready to make the most of the next eight months, same pace, same energy, same devotion to the city until midnight of the day before the next mayor takes office."

During his tenure, the bilingual, charismatic mayor helped attract numerous conventions and businesses to the city, including Sea World of Texas, the largest marine life theme park in the world.

COMPUTER

An Austin-based company, the cost for attaching the treasurer, justice of the peace and district clerk's offices would cost $21,750. If the county clerk's office program were modified, the cost would jump to $34,750.

"That price doesn't include a $5,000 per year maintenance cost," said Ruland, "so, if we bought Hart Graphics' software, the first year's cost would probably exceed the $35,000 we budgeted. But, we'd only have to pay the $5,000 each year after that, plus we'd get discounts on any new software we needed. The first year's cost is gonna be much higher."

Commissioner Johnny Latham said he was concerned that the courthouse was using too many different types of software with the Hood County system set up in three offices, and the district attorney's office having a software package of its own.

"It looks like we'll end up doing what we originally tried to avoid — having a bunch of different ones scattered in the courthouse," Latham said.

COUNTY

According to Morrison, his father gave the state a right-of-way easement 26 years ago so the state could build a road. The county then supposedly agreed to maintain the man's driveway.

"We haven't been able to find anything like that in the minutes," said Commissioner Austin Rose Jr., "but we're gonna keep on looking."

County Clerk David Ruland said the state has ruled that the petition to establish a noxious weed control district in Deaf Smith County was invalid because the name and address of the person signing was not sufficient.

Langley to chair committee

Austin — U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has announced the formation of the Deaf Smith County Bentsen Campaign Steering Committee, whose 26 members are pledged to work for his reelection this fall.

Bentsen, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, is a candidate in the November general election.

"Earnest Langley of Hereford has agreed to chair the Deaf Smith County Campaign Steering Committee," Bentsen said in the announcement.

"I'm glad to have their support and the active backing of the other outstanding citizens of Deaf Smith County who have signed up to work for my reelection this year," the senator said.

The committee represents a broad cross section of Deaf Smith County, people from every walk of life and all parts of the county. I would hope membership will increase in the months ahead as the Bentsen organization in Deaf Smith County continues to gear up for the November election."

In addition to Langley, other members of the Deaf Smith County Campaign Steering Committee are: Austin Rose, Jr., Helen Rose, Troy Don Moore, Johnny Latham, Donald Hicks, Hon. Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is in response to the man who said that he had slept with his minister's wife, his sister-in-law, his doctor's wife plus at least 100 others, but had never broken up a marriage because he always made it clear that he would never leave his wife.

My husband and I have been married for 30 years. I was a virgin bride and have been a faithful wife. A young woman (our daughter's age) came on to him and he took her to bed. He was so guilt-ridden and miserable that he told me about it the next day. I forgave him, did not mention it to a soul and he never saw her again. He believes no harm was done. SHE thinks no harm was done, but she has destroyed me. I am unable to grow old gracefully. I hate every wrinkle and every gray hair. I feel that I will never be able to be as sexually satisfying as that luscious young thing.

We still have an active sex life, but I always feel that he is comparing me to her, and my 54-year-old body is coming in a very poor second. I cry for hours when I am alone. No one suspects a thing. We now are going out with friends again and often get told what a super marriage we have. I feel like a fraud.

I love my husband and I understand why he was vulnerable but these women should not be allowed to think they are hurting no one. The damage that trollop did in one night was irreparable.—Slow Healer in Lansing

DEAR SLOW HEALER: I make no apologies for the trollop, but she didn't hit your husband over the head with a club, did she?

You need counseling to help you unload your anger. It's a poison that is polluting your life.

Be glad it was only a brief fling, dear, and start at once to talk it out of your system. Picking at old wounds is painful and it prevents healing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I read about the insensitive treatment of the AIDS patient by those pharmacy clerks, I had to write.

I have experienced similar rudeness not only from clerks but from pharmacists as well. I don't have AIDS.

I am a healthy, married woman who went to a pharmacy to fill a prescription for birth control pills. On one occasion the male cashier opened the package of pills in front of other customers and said, "I just wanted to make sure the pharmacist put the correct birth control prescription in your bag."

Another time, when I had switched to a diaphragm, the male pharmacist screamed across the store filled with customers, "We don't have that size diaphragm in stock—but we can order it." I said, "OK." He then said, "But you won't have it this weekend. Are you sure you can get along without it this weekend?" All eyes were on me. I was deeply embarrassed and left the store as quickly as possible. What should I do in the future?—A Miami Reader

DEAR MIAMI: Find another pharmacy.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to repay you for all the good advice by sharing a great tip on how to cook fish without smelling up the house. It's also healthier than frying.

Poach the fish in water or the liquid of your choice and add a crust of bread. The bread will deodorize the process. If you print this a zillion cooks will bless you.—Portland

DEAR PORTLAND: We tried it and it works. Bravo! What a boon to people who live in apartments.

What are the signs of alcoholism? How can you tell if someone you love is an alcoholic? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. Association to meet tonight

The Deaf Smith County 4-H Parents Leaders Association will meet at 7 p.m. today in the Hereford State Bank Friendship Room.

All parents of 4-H'ers, leaders or those interested in working with the 4-H program are invited to the first quarterly meeting. 4-H'ers participating in summer activities will present the program.

Plans for program support will be discussed at the meeting. Officers serving the organization for the 1988-89 year will be Jimmy Campbell, president; John Wilson vice-president; Jan Metcalf, secretary; and Loretta Urbanczyk, treasurer.

The car pictured on the back of the ten dollar bill is a 1926 Hupmobile.

Draper Homemakers learn about flower arranging

Draper Extension Homemakers met in the home of Tonie Vaughn recently and Maudette Smith was welcomed as a visitor.

After a barbecue luncheon, Carmen Rickman, President, called the meeting to order. Vaughn read the minutes of the last meeting and Johnnie Messer gave the council report.

The President encouraged everyone to attend Westway E.H.C. fifty year reunion held Sept. 11 at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

State meeting was discussed and two members, Sherrie Blackwell and Johnnie Messer, will attend. The meeting will be in Abilene. A silent auction was held after the business session.

Maudette Smith gave the program on silk flower arranging. She had books on book on flower arrangements and made a lovely arrangement of greenery, burgundy carnations and white baby's breath. She explained the different items that are used and brought several already made arrangements to show the many different ways to arrange.

Draper E.H.C. meets on the first Wednesday of the month and welcomes any visitors who would be interested in studying homemaking, self improvements and community interest. Anyone interested should call Beverly Harder County Extension Agent at 364-3573.

The reason there are so many surnames of Smith today is that during the Middle Ages the name was used for all metalworkers, or smelters, which means "to beat."

Surrounding the ball

Kathy Hernandez (11) of the Hereford Junior High eighth grade volleyball team sets the ball as teammates Joanna Redelsperger (10), Traci Deckard (4) Teresa Berryman (19) and Angela Belcher (17) get ready to help during Monday's season opener against Pampa. The eighth graders dropped the match at Whiteface Gymnasium, 15-3, 5-15, 15-6.

Cross-country places in Borger

Hereford High School placed fifth in the varsity girls' division and seventh in the varsity boys' division at the Borger Invitational Cross Country Meet.

Benny Carrasco was the top placer for the Hereford boys, finishing ninth in the varsity boys' division.

Hereford had two medalists in the varsity girls, with Alina Benitez placing sixth and Yvonne Padilla finishing 15th.

"I think we made a good start," said Hereford CC coach Martha Emerson. "We have a lot of potential, but the girls team is inexperienced."

"For various reasons, six of the 14 girls out did not compete on Saturday, and only five of those 14 have experience in our program.

"We only have 12 boys out this year and five of them are newcomers.

"We have a lot of room to improve but we competed well in Borger and I definitely feel we will get stronger each week."

The team will compete Saturday at the Plainview Meet at 10 a.m.

Pampa sweeps HJH, ninth

The Hereford Junior High and ninth grade volleyball teams dropped their season openers Monday in action against Pampa at Whiteface Gymnasium.

The seventh grade Whitefaces came back from a 14-5 deficit as Chasity Rickman served five straight points, then closed the gap to 14-11 after a side out and regaining the serve, but a position error on Hereford gave Pampa the ball, and Pampa won the first game, 15-11.

Pampa then won the second game, 15-4.

In the eighth grade match, Pampa won the first game, 15-3, then Hereford exploded to an early 7-1 lead. Pampa closed the gap to 8-4 before Jeanette Flores, who had ripped off four scoring serves earlier in the game, added five more to give Hereford a 13-4 lead.

Melissa Celaya served the last two Hereford points for a 15-5 Hereford win.

Pampa jumped to an 8-2 lead in the third game before Hereford came back to within two points, 8-6, but Pampa pulled away to a 15-6 win to take the match.

In a see-saw ninth grade match, Pampa jumped to an early lead in the first game, 4-2, before Hereford came back to go up 8-4. Pampa then rallied for a 9-8 lead before Hereford went up 13-9. Pampa rallied back with seven-straight winning points to take the first game, 15-13.

In the second game, Jennifer Bullard served the first five points of the game to stake the Whitefaces to a 5-0 lead, but Pampa allowed only three more Hereford points to take the second game, 15-8, and win the match.

HHS Rodeo Team places

The Hereford High School Rodeo Team competed in the Leedy, Okla., high school rodeo last weekend, and four team members placed in six events.

Marcie Smith was third in both pole bending and goat tying, while Regina Lewis was second in goat tying and fourth in breakaway roping in girls' events.

In boys' events, Kirby Kaul was third in bulldogging, while Chris Northcutt placed fourth in ribbon roping.

The HHS team will compete Saturday in Pampa.

ALL IN THE MIND
DALLAS (AP) — Ed "Too Tall" Jones, defensive end for the Dallas Cowboys, believes age is all in the mind and sometimes in the mirror.

After a game last fall, Jones received a phone call from a fan telling him he looked 18 years old.

"I looked in the mirror, and I still looked 36," Jones said.

Rozelle pushes Tisch for Cowboys' owner

DALLAS (AP) — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle says he has encouraged New York billionaire Robert Tisch to purchase the Dallas Cowboys.

"We've talked about it a great deal and I think he'd be a terrific owner," Rozelle told the Dallas Morning News Monday night at the Dallas-Phoenix game. "He's the kind of owner that the NFL would want and welcome. He's a great success in business, he's a former postmaster general and he would do a terrific job with the Cowboys. I'm encouraging him to do it."

Rozelle said that Tisch, a close friend, is concerned about the commuting distance between New York and Dallas.

A Cowboys owner, Tisch could continue to live in New York and allow Tex Schramm to operate the franchise.

"He has a great interest in sports," Rozelle said. "I think he wants to own a pro sports team, but he would like something a little closer to home. I don't think he would be a hands-on owner.

"He has a great deal of faith in Tex and Cowboys management. But he doesn't want to be an absentee owner, either, and I think making the commute is something he would not enjoy."

Dallas Cowboys majority owner H.R. "Bum" Bright is believed to be seeking about $150 million for the team and Texas Stadium.

DON'T MAKE IT A PROBLEM!

TV aerials making contact with overhead electric wires constitute a real danger for homeowners. Accidents of this nature are far too common because all such accidents can be avoided. If you are installing an aerial, steer clear of electric lines. Safe, dependable, indispensable electricity can kill if it's treated carelessly. Don't let a prize become a problem. Follow the guidelines provided by the electric cooperative.

Llama judging among events set

It should be easy to find the winners at the 1988 State Fair of Texas, set for Oct. 7-23 in Dallas. Competition has always played a large part in State Fair traditions. Winners abound—in the livestock arenas, in the contest kitchens, in the stadium, on the stages and scattered in almost every other spot around the 277-acre Fair Park.

But competition takes on even more importance this year, as the Fair's theme salutes "The Winning Ticket." For sure, the biggest winners will be Fair-goers—each year nearly three million—who will witness the fun of all the competitions. A special attraction playing at the Music Hall during the State Fair will be "Elvis: A Musical Celebration." The show is a multi-million dollar, multi-media look back at the life and times of the legendary "King of Rock and Roll."

It features 20 performers in addition to newsreel footage and movie scenes featuring Elvis. "Elvis: A Musical Celebration" is touring the nation for 50 weeks before opening on Broadway in 1989. Tickets range in price from $5 to $35. Separate tickets will also be required for the football games and wrestling matches. All other events will be offered under the regular State Fair gate admission of $4 for adults and $1 for children (ages 5 to 11) on weekdays and $5 for adults and $2 for children on Saturdays and Sundays. Senior citizens are admitted free each Tuesday.

Fair grounds will be open from 7 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. daily, and buildings will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Weddings outnumber divorces by 2 to 1

Every year, there are about half as many divorces as marriages in Texas, according to the Texas Department of Health's Bureau of Vital Statistics.

And Leland Carmichael, statistician for the bureau, said the ratio of divorces to marriages has been nearly constant for several years.

In 1987, 188,315 marriages were performed and 95,098 marriages were dissolved in Texas, according to Carmichael. The previous year, there were 194,777 marriages and 98,405 divorces in the state.

The most numerous age group of people getting married was 20-24 for both males and females (54,414 men and 55,926 women). Divorces were more common in the 25-through 29-year-old age group, where 20,413 men and 21,793 women were divorced in 1987.

The largest number of divorces occurred during the first five years of marriage (38,578). Some marriages were particularly short-lived since 5,703 divorces ended marriages of less than one year.

In the very young age group, 33 males and 713 females ages 15 or younger were married. But divorces for them were not common in 1987. No males and only 7 females, age 15 or younger were divorced last year.

While 3,419 men and 1,830 women age 65 or older were married, 1,588 men and 869 women in the age group were divorced.

Nearly half (49.4 percent) or 46,993, of the 1987 divorces involved no children. And 24.4 percent (23,182) involved just one child. The total number of children involved in divorces last year was 83,569.

As would be expected, the largest counties recorded some of the largest numbers of marriages and divorces, with Harris County leading in both categories.

Between the Covers

By REBECCA WALLS
Now that school is in session and schedules are semi-normal, I'm sure you want to catch up on all the books you missed during the hectic summer.

A patron of the Deaf Smith County Library found several books she wanted to share with other parents, striving to be the best parent possible. Among these are:

Childplay by Evelyn Moats, Manger and Susan Bowdon;
Kids and Play by Joanne F. Oppenheim;

How to Raise a Brat by Dr. Kenneth N. Condrell; and Schools out! Now what? by Joan M. Bergstrom.

Since this patron wrote such a fine review of each of these books I would like to share them with you.

Childplay is a book in agreement with the recent research proving the first three years of a child's life are so crucial to his lifetime of learning. The authors, experienced in the fields of early childhood programs and learning centers, have organized the book into quarters focusing on the first three years. The parent is given a listing of behaviors, activities, capabilities and appropriate

Registration planned Thursday

Girl Scout registration, for all girls ages five through 17, is planned at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Hereford Community Center.

Parents should accompany their daughters to the meeting where the purpose and program of scouting will be explained. Returning Girl Scouts and new members are both invited.

If it is impossible to attend the registration meeting, contact Linda Vermillion at 364-4019 or 364-3211.

toys for each period.

Instructions and advice on health, safety, nutrition, possible illnesses, clothing, household organization should help the parent to better prepare for this busy and most important period. Parents might be surprised at the reminders given throughout the book to consider themselves, and to give themselves a break often from the demanding, exhausting, seemingly endless, but enormously rewarding activity known as child-raising.

Kids and Play is an easily-read book in which parents can locate chapters most pertinent to the particular ages of their children, and find ways through play to establish a lasting rapport. This time of activity and common interest may help the parent guide the child during the crisis years when many bored and unoccupied teenagers are influenced by unhealthy peer groups. This book deals with the development of the child from the beginning through teens.

How to Raise a Brat is a highly entertaining paper back in which "How to" instructions are followed by "How not to raise a brat" instructions. Written in 1985, this child psychologist, with 20 years of private practice and three children of his own, still has very sound advice.

Children need help early and parents need to know what positive behavior to encourage and yet be alert for signs of beginning problems. The parent is given five general wrongs that we can all identify with, which is practiced, can create a genuine brat by Kindergarten time.

Some of the problems dealt with are jealousy, sibling rivalry, problems in school and the reasons for these problems, bedtime problems, alienating your teenager, using the kids in a divorce, and a special chapter on family life. While reading this book is recreational it is also most supportive of the parent who never sets out to raise a bad child, but who urgently needs helpful pointers maintaining their rights while directing the development of another human being. Instead of worry and guilt, parents need to lighten up, adopt some achievable guidelines, and relax more with their children.

According to Schools Out! Now What? just saying 'no' to drugs could be much easier if more stimulating, positive opportunities were provided. Dr. Bergstrom, an educator from the Boston area, suggests "creative choices for your child ages 6 to 12" for free time afternoons, weekends, and vacations. Dr. Bergstrom realized the importance of guiding a child's free time when her son was eight years of age; 80% of a child's waking time a year is free time.

During this time a child learns of his special interests and skills that can influence their adult lives. While play is a vital part of the middle years, spending time wisely is even more important than spending money wisely. Dr. Bergstrom offers ways for parents to teach values, resourcefulness, responsibility, reliability and foster independence. The author points out, through a system of self-questioning, how a parent can set goals during this age period, to bring up a confident, directed, motivated young person on his way to a productive adulthood.

Thank you, Mrs. Ford, for your comments on these books and I hope others will follow.

If any of you would like to share some jewels you have found on the shelves of the Deaf Smith County Library please write them down and bring them into the library. They can be old books as well as new. Maybe you have found a children's book you would like to recommend to other parents for their children.

Donations for the book sale are still being accepted, so now is the time to clean closets, garages and book shelves.

Thank you so much for your support.

Abundant Life

LIKE YOURSELF
Bob Wear

YOU MUST LIKE YOURSELF, and you can like yourself. This need not be an expression of vainglory, but even this is better than disliking and mistreating yourself. There is a very wholesome way in which you can 'like yourself' and you should do so. If you do not 'like yourself', you must seek help from people who are qualified to help you; however, you can do much to help yourself.

You will begin to 'like yourself' when you stop comparing yourself with others, and measuring yourself by others. It is true that some others may have more than you have; may be more popular than you are; may even be more capable in some things than you are; and may be able to excel and outdo you in many ways; but all of this must have nothing to do with determining your like or dislike for yourself. You 'like yourself' because you are you, and you are being the best you that you can be, and doing the best you can, in your situation and with your opportunities.

Self-respect is perhaps the most essential element in the formation of the wholesome view of 'liking yourself'. This is not what is usually considered selfishness. If it be called selfishness, it is a very wholesome and recommended selfishness. 'Self-respect is the noblest garment with which a man may clothe himself; the most elevating feeling with which the mind can be inspired.' S. Smiles. When you think and act in the ways which produce and nurture self-respect, you will 'like yourself', and living will be better for you and those associated with you.

You must never bemean, belittle or misuse yourself, because this kind of action is self-destructive. It is not part of true humility, or any other desirable quality of human character and personality. Of course, it is a mistake to be arrogant, haughty, or boastful; because none of these are part of 'liking yourself'. You are somebody, and you should be about the business of 'liking yourself'.

Goals serve to plot future conditions

Goal-directed management can be a key to success in virtually any type of business.

This opinion was expressed by Dr. Paul Gessaman, an agricultural economist with the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service, during the International Ranchers Roundup (IRR) here last week.

"Goals provide direction for management decisions," Gessaman told several hundred people assembled for IRR.

He said goals serve to plot future conditions and outcomes that individuals and families want to attain.

"Goal-directed management requires periodic identification of goals, priority setting, selection of suitable enterprises and activities, and appropriate resource base and management that supports goal attainment," Gessaman said.

He said that this type of management can apply to virtually any business but functions quite successfully for ranch operations.

Gessaman said that ranch management goals can range from identifying the basics of life and work to those specific to each family's situation and work arrangements.

"Recent experience indicates that, given an opportunity to do so, many families can and will identify goals and use goal-directed management strategies," Gessaman said.

Another speaker, Dr. Tom Troxel of Uvalde, livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, discussed "How Many Is Too Many?" concerning the number of animal production units a ranch should support.

Troxel, a coordinator for IRR, said a computerized method has been developed to provide a rancher with guidelines for the number of animal units a ranch can graze.

"This computer program provides assistance in determining the entire beef cattle herd composition. It also has been completed for sheep (ewe/lamb) and angora goats (does/kids)," Troxel said.

He said the two most important factors that determine the herd composition are the size of the animals by live weight and the reproductive and culling rates of the animals.

Troxel said that ranchers, including those experienced and others new to the game, probably will "always try to balance forage demand with forage supply."

This question of balance affects the success of a rancher in both immediate and future projects and planning, Troxel said.

"The rancher who can better judge forage supply and demand while keeping this forage relationship problem in the right sequence will have the most chance for success," Troxel said.

Individuals desiring more information about the computer software programs may want to contact Troxel at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Uvalde.

Pasta salads may sound like an excellent food for exercisers, but be careful. A recent survey by the Center for Science in the Public Interest found that many packaged and deli pasta salads are full of fat. In many cases, fat accounted for 40 to 60 percent of the dishes' calories.

Soup scores high at football season

Football season is upon us. And while your family and friends enjoy the game on TV, why not serve up a zesty bowl-of soup?

The flavorful combination of nutrient-rich beef, savory vegetables and tasty spices in the following recipe not only will please the palate, but provide a hearty meal rich in protein, iron and vitamins.

And it's so simple to prepare, you won't even miss a play.

BEEF 'N' BARLEY SOUP

- 1½ lbs. beef for stew, cut into ½ to ¾-inch pieces
- 2 tbs. cooking fat
- 5 cups water
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- ½ cup barley
- 2 tbs. instant beef bouillon
- ½ tsp. thyme leaves
- ½ tsp. marjoram, crushed
- ¼ tsp. cracked black pepper
- 1 bay leaf
- 4 to 5 medium carrots, sliced diagonally
- ½ lb. fresh green beans, broken into 2-inch pieces
- 1 cup celery, sliced diagonally

Brown meat in cooking fat in Dutch oven. Pour off drippings. Add water, onion, barley, bouillon, thyme, marjoram, pepper and bay leaf; cover tightly and cook slowly for one hour and 15 minutes.

Stir in carrots, green beans and celery, and continue cooking, covered, 45 minutes, or until meat is tender and vegetables are done. Remove bay leaf.

Serves 5 to 6.

Gordon earns degree

A Hereford student at Angelo State University was among 160 students to receive degrees during summer commencement at the university.

Donnell Gordon Anderson received a bachelor of business administration degree with a major in computer science.

conceive at all, given all of nature's requirements. There are at least six basic physical conditions that must be met for a couple to conceive a child, and, if there is a problem anywhere in this complicated process, infertility can result.

"The man must produce a certain number of normal live sperm.

"His sperm must have an open pathway to pass from the testes out through the penis.

"He must be able to ejaculate the sperm into the vagina.

"His sperm must then travel up through the cervix, the uterus, and into the fallopian tubes.

"The woman's ovaries must produce a healthy egg (ovulation) and release it into the tubes, where it must be fertilized by the sperm within 12 to 36 hours.

"Once fertilized, the egg must migrate into the uterus, where it attaches itself in the rich lining of the womb, which nourishes it. The woman is now pregnant.

About 40 percent of the time, infertility is caused by a problem with the woman's reproductive system. Some women are infertile because they do not ovulate. For these women, "fertility drugs" can be given that will help the release of the egg. Most of the time, when these drugs are used, ovulation will occur within three months. Fertility drugs must be used with caution, though. Some of them can cause more than one egg to be released and fertilized, causing multiple births.

If ovulation does not occur after fertility drugs are taken, the doctor may increase the dosage. If the woman still releases no egg, then a drug known as human menopausal gonadotropin (hMG) may be recommended. Although it is more expensive and difficult to administer, the rate of pregnancy after using hMG is between 50 and 70 percent. The chance of twins, though, is two and a half times as likely with hMG.

If a couple suspects they have an infertility problem, they should see their doctor. A complete evaluation of both partners will help discover what is causing the problem and what steps are best to take. Talking to your doctor could be the first step leading to the arrival of a healthy bouncing baby.

Single, free copies of "Infertility: Causes and Treatments" (p-002) are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 409 12th Street, SW, Washington, DC 20024-2188.
