WASHINGTON (AP) - A House subcommittee chairman is telling Energy Department officials to "do your homework" before pushing Congress to approve the opening of an underground nuclear waste disposal facility.

Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., made the statement Tuesday after his Government Operations environment, energy and natural resources subcommittee was told that major questions remain about the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant (WIPP) in New Mexico.

The department wants to begin putting waste into the underground facility next month, but it has not adequately proven that it can operate it safely, according to witnesses and documents at the hearing.

Among those raising questions were the department's office of safety appraisals, its Brookhaven National Laboratory and an environmental consultant it hired to review WIPP

At the same time, the congressional General Accounting Office said it would be premature for Congress to approve the Energy Department's request to pass legislation needed to launch the $700 million project.

"There are many uncertainties involving WIPP performance that must be addressed before DOE can demonstrate that the facility is suitable," GAO's Keith Fultz said.

Synar called the hearing to look into the department's plan to place 125,000 barrels of so-called transuranic waste into the repository 2,150 feet below the ground near Carlsbad.

Coast braces for Gilbert

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) -Residents along the Gulf Coast are stockpiling on food and supplies as they brace themselves for powerful Hurricane Gilbert while emergency preparedness officials make plans for evacuations.

The hurricane, packing winds of more than 170 mph, already ripped through Jamaica and the Cayman Islands and took aim early today on the resort island of Cozumel, Mexico, and was expected to move into the Gulf of Mexico late today.

Robert Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center, said early today he expects Gilbert to make land fall on the Texas-Louisiana coast in about 48 to 60 hours.

"There's a little bit of uncertainty how fast it's going to turn to the north or northwest, so we're going to wait until the center moves off the coast of Yucatan Peninsula and we'll still have 38 to 46 hours," Sheets said during an interview on NBC-TV's "Today" show.

Bill Tompkins, coordinator for the Galveston County emergency preparedness, said communications systems were being tested and procedures were being reviewed. Based on weather forecasts from at least four sources, he expected the storm to be in the Gulf by Thursday morning

"That's probably our most critical time," he said "We'll be making decisions Thursday morning about what to recommend to the citizens." possible evacuation.

us," said Orange County Emergency ing," said George Shannon, an assis-Management Systems Coordinator tant manager at a Wal-Mart store.

"This could come right at us," Stanfield said. "I hope it doesn't. I hope it goes into the part of Mexico where nobody lives."

In Brownsville, Cameron County Sheriff Alex Perez said he has already posted special schedules for his officers to follow if a hurricane watch is issued.

"We've contacted all the schools for shelters, to see which ones we'll be using this, time," said Perez. "We're getting all the emergency generators ready for the jails, and getting extra gas for the patrol cars and getting everything set up. It seems like it will be coming this way, so we are getting prepared."

For the second time in two weeks, oil companies evacuated thousands of workers from rigs in the Gulf.

Houston city officials also scheduled a meeting today to develop detailed emergency plans, said Dick Hawkins of the Office of Emergency Management.

He said the city's plans include cordoning off the downtown area, which was littered with glass from skyscrapers by Hurricane Alicia in 1983.

The Gulf Coast Regional Blood Center and all major hospitals in the Texas Medical Center asked eligible donors to give blood Wednesday and Thursday. Blood Center officials hope to collect 4,500 units because blood supplies will drop in the event of a severe storm.

Residents in Galveston crowded In Orange County, officials were local stores in search of provisions meeting this morning to pre-plan a such as batteries and plywood to board up windows.

"This thing could come right at "Oh man, business is really boom-nuclear weapons production, is a combination of radioactive material and a wide variety of hazardous substances. The waste proposed for WIPP represents approximately half the amount now stored above ground in about half a dozen states.

Synar said energy officials should 'go home and do your homework and then come back and ask us for the legislation. Don't put the cart before the horse. We're one month away from this targeted (waste) loading and you can't justify this loading."

Jill Lytle, deputy assistant energy secretary for nuclear materials, told Synar the agency plans to follow environmental laws governing the disposal of dangerous waste during a five-year test of the WIPP facility.

WIPP will not endanger the safety and health of the public," she testified.

But in a memo written Sept 2, James Knight, director of the Energy Department's office of safety appraisals, said the department's final safety analysis report lacks "sufficient information for us to independently conclude that the facility can be operated safely."

poll also showed the Democratic nominee trailing by 8 points, and Bush capitalizing on defense issues. Dukakis continued to respond to GOP complaints that he is weak on defense with a foreign policy speech today at Georgetown University in Washington and a visit to Annapolis, Md. Bush planned to tour a farmerowned cooperative in Fresno, Calif., and visit San Francisco's Chinatown. President Reagan planned a foray into Missouri today to stump for Bush with speeches on his administration's economic successes and the nation's military strength. Democratic vice presidential candidate Lloyd Bentsen looked to reinforce Dukakis' defense stance as the former pilot inspected World War II aircraft today and toured a defense contractor in Texas. GOP candidate Dan Quayle planned a visit to NORAD, the North American Aerospace Defense Command, in Colurado.

Campaigning in Missouri on Tuesday, Bush pledged his support for expansion of American markets abroad and suggested that Democrats are only concerned with production controls, similar to the grain embargo imposed by former President Carter.

They want to "control the lives of the farmers," the GOP nominee said.

Bush cited a published report that quoted a Dukakis aide as saying the Democratic nominee might reexamine the U.S. policy of selling government subsidized wheat to the Soviets.

"Can you imagine another president who leaves open the door of using agriculture products to make the political points and using our producers in that way?" he asked.

Earlier, in a speech to Chicago businessmen, Bush said that Dukakis' promise of a "helping hand" from government would translate into that hand reaching "right for the wallet" of the taxpavers.

He said the economic picture has been bright during the Reagan administration and promised to 'strengthen and broaden our economic growth.

Dukakis used his campaign day to assess U.S.-Soviet relations and take a ride in an M-1 tank, considered one of the fastest and most advanced in the world

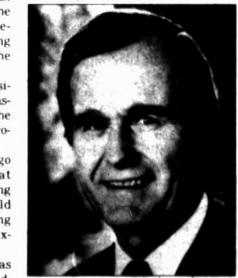

The Democratic nominee, in a speech outside the General Dynamics plant in Sterling, Mich., said the nation "needs a new president who will invest our defense dollars in the fiber and muscle of our defense.

Dukakis promised a "strong and effective and credible" nuclear deterrent and continued research on strategic defense systems but said his main concern was improving conventional might.

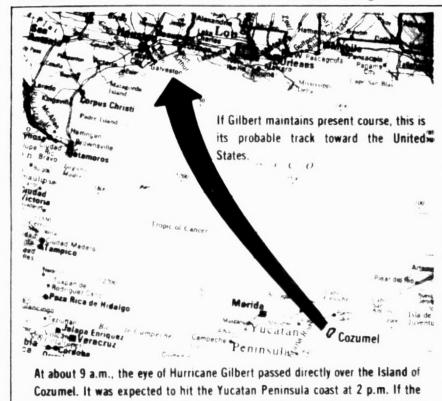

The CBS-Times poll, which showed Bush ahead 47-39 percent, found that 28 percent of the probable voters surveyed believe Bush would make the nation stronger while only 4 percent said he would weaken its defense

In comparison, 39 percent said Dukakis would make U.S. defenses weaker and 13 percent said stronger. The poll surveyed 1,043 probable voters from Thursday through Sunday and had a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

The Gallup poll, which found Bush leading 49-41 percent, showed that 40 percent have an unfavorable view of Dukakis, up from 32 percent last month and the Massachusetts governor's highest all year.

Freeport is the mostly likely landdeadly Hurricane Gilbert and its fall for Gilbert, said Bill Hecke of Moody, meteorologist for the Texas AP Network and several Texas radio stations.

Basing his prediction on 20 years of monitoring tropical weather for the U.S. Air Force, Hec'te expected the storm to track west-northwest after weather forecaster Larry James crossing the Yucatan Peninsula.

'My early-on prediction was Port Lavaca and that's modified now slightly to Freeport, but that's with no change in strength or intensity," Hecke said.

Hecke said the high pressure ridge over the southeastern U.S. has a weak spot in it and he thinks the storm will track toward the upper Texas coast.

Mike Pass with the National Weather Service in Alvin was reluctant to pick a specific landfall yet.

Child abuse studied

AUSTIN (AP) - Dozens of changes recommended in a study of how the Texas child protection system operates offer a plan to combat child abuse and make the state's system one of the best, officials say.

"As private citizens and parents, we are not satisfied with a child protective services system in Texas that is merely average," said board member Rob Mosbacher in releasing the study Tuesday.

"We must have a program for Texas that is second to none. Today, we do not have that program. But for the first time ever, we have a plan to attain one," he said.

The study, conducted by the American Association for Protecting Children, will be presented to the human services board on Thursday. It found a number of problems and offered recommendations that Mosbacher said could lead to a "truly exceptional" system for Texas if they are implemented.

"What these experts found is that Texas, like most other states in the union, is struggling with the problem of child abuse and neglect," Mosbacher said.

No cost estimate has yet been prepared, he said, although it may not be that expensive.

"While resources is part of the pro- family.

blem, it is by no means the whole problem ... But I don't think the pricetag is going to be that substantial," Mosbacher said. "A great deal of the help can come at the county level, and it can also come from private sector organizations."

Reported cases of child abuse soared 119 percent from 1976 to 1986, while the size of the state's Child Protective Services staff grew just 6 percent.

Among the recommendations, the study found a need to improve support for foster homes. "Despite the enormous need, the number of foster homes in Texas declined from 1984 to 1987," Mosbacher said.

The study also suggested improved cooperation between law enforcement officials and the child protection workers

"Although CPS and law enforcement agencies are required by law to notify each other of abuse and neglect reports, a cooperative effort does not extend past that point," Mosbacher said.

The court system was the focus of other recommendations. Currently, the courts generally are involved only when state officials seek conservatorship or to remove a child from a

And because the department can be represented in court only by local prosecutors or a member of the attorney general's staff, whose expertise may not be child abuse issues, Mosbacher said "the effectiveness of our legal representation is sometimes in question." "If the working relationship among (the Human Services Department), law enforcement, legal counsel and the courts is poor, children become the innocent victims of the system," he said.

The study also said:

- Caseloads for some workers are two or three times higher than recommended standards of 15 to 25 per worker.

An effective assault on child abuse "can only be waged with the combined forces of the community," but that in Texas the Human Services Department staff works in near isolation. "Those in the community who could be, and should be, our allies too often end up as adversaries," Mosbacher said.

 Crisis intervention is a strong point of the Texas system, but one of the weakest is the effort with a family to prevent future problems.

Donnell Gordon Anderson received a bachelor of business administration degree with a major in computer science.

Conkwright selected for choir

Robin Conkwright of Hereford has been selected as a member of Austin College's A Cappella Choir for 1988-89. A soprano, Conkwright is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Conkwright.

The 50-member choir will perform throughout the year in Sherman, Denison, Dallas and Fort Worth area churches.

Founded in 1942, the choir has been under the direction of Bruce Lunkley, AC music department chairman, since 1959. The group has toured extensively throughout the United States and Europe.

Lunkley teaches voice and opera in addition to his choral responsibilities. He holds degrees from the University of Minnesota and has taught extensively in master classes and clinic situations throughout the United States and England.

Members of the group are selected through a series of auditions open to all students regardless of their area of study.

Former members of the choir are active in opera, concert and oratorio in the United States, Canada and in Europe, while others are active in musical theater on Broadway and elsewhere.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a message for family and friends, casual acquaintances and others who may not fit into any of the above. I hope you will print my letter because there must be thousands of women who feel exactly as I do.

Dear You-Know-Who-You-Are: Yes, we just had a baby girl. Yes, I know we already have two girls.

No, we are not disappointed that it wasn't a boy.

No, we are not going to try again for a male child.

No, my husband isn't interested in borrowing your son to take hunting and fishing. Girls like to do those things, too.

Only a fool would be unhappy about having a healthy child simply because it wasn't one sex or another. We feel blessed. Sign us-Tickled Pink in Pa.

DEAR TICKLED: Three cheers for the pink or the blue. My own dear parents had four daughters, and there was never any indication that we weren't exactly what they had hoped for. Parents who specify that they prefer a boy (or a girl) are one brick short of a full load. And friends who ask if they are disappointed are numbskulls.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you stand one more letter about flying pets across the country? It illustrates the trauma that we seldom see or hear about, but it's there, nevertheless.

I recently picked up a friend at the airport in Colorado Springs. While waiting for her baggage to come around the turnstile I spotted a beautiful golden retriever in a crate so small that the retriever could neither turn around nor lie down.

I waited to see who came to claim the animal, but after the poor thing went round and round about 15 times I began to wonder if anyone was goFriends of Animals, the ASPCA and all those folks who claim they love animals? Here's a project for you.

DEAR READERS: I hope you will not feel that printing the following letter is too self-serving. It made me feel good and I decided, after much deliberation, to share it with you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read with pleasure your column in praise of Maryland's handgun control laws. The passage of these regulations that ban the sale or manufacture of cheap Saturday night specials, in addition to plastic handguns, is an act of which I am extremely proud. For the first time, a state has acted to get these dangerous weapons off the streets. I hope our example will be emulated throughout the nation. I was particularly happy to learn of your support because I know the influence you have in this country. With help from concerned and thoughtful public figures like you, we will surely succeed in making safe gun laws a national trend. Thank you again for your help. We are lucky to have such a great advocate in our corner.--William Donald Schaefer, Governor of Maryland

Herd, Estacado ready for head-knockin'

By JOHN BROOKS Managing Editor

A traditional, head-knockin' rivalry between two good football teams will be renewed Thursday night when Hereford travels to Lubbock Estacado for the District 1-4A opener at Lowrey Field.

It's only the third game of the year, and the first district game, but the winner of Thursday's game will be the favorite to take the district championship. The loser won't be cast into the also-rans, but may not be able to afford another loss later.

"On that field Thursday night, you'll see two good football programs. Estacado has a great tradition, Hereford has a great tradition. said Hereford coach Don Cumpton. "Both teams will go all out to win. From the fan's point of view, you won't see a better game than you will Thursday night."

Estacado comes into Thursday's game with a 2-0 record after wins over Plainview and Big Spring. "Estacado has looked good in its first two games," Cumpton said. "They have scored a lot of points (64) and so far they have thrived on the big play. That's the strength of their team.

"They're a typical Estacado team. They have a big stable of running backs, and they're all quick.

"They don't do a lot of stuff, but everything they do, they do well."

, The stable of running backs includes tailbacks Derick Shed and Robert Johnson, who will split time. "Their fullback is Clyde Boyd," Cumpton said. "He weighs about 205 lbs., and he played against us last year. He's a good football player.

"They have a better quarterback this year. He's Reginald Essix, and he's a good athlete. He plays basketball and baseball, too. Estacado probably throws the ball better than they have in the past.

"It's just like against Tascosa and Palo Duro: We must do a good job of containment," Cumpton said. "The best way to handle that is to keep them off the field, and not let them have the big play. We just have to

Hereford at Estacado

WHEN, WHERE: Thursday, 7:30 p.m., Lowrey Field, Lubbock. YOUNG RIVALRY: This is only the third meeting between the Class 4A powers. Estacado won, 28-18, two years ago in Lubbock. Hereford held on (remember Lee Young, not previously known as a speed demon, running down an Estacado runner last year?) for a 7-6 win last year that knocked Estacado from the playoffs.

WATCH OUT FOR: A few added wrinkles. Estacado will actually throw a few passes. Hereford has some new things to show that the Whitefaces have been saving.

HOW IMPORTANT IS THE GAME? Very. The winner of the game won't be assured of anything, but will be in the driver's seat for the district championship. For the loser, it's a tough loss, but there are seven more district games. It's very early in the year for a game to be called a "key" game, but it's a key game.

IF IT WEREN'T FOR THESE TWO TEAMS: District 1-4A has a combined 6-11-1 record. Hereford and Estacado are 2-0, Levelland is 1-0-1. Dunbar is 1-1. Everyone else is 0-2.

CUMPTON'S KEYS TO THE GAME: 1. Ball control. If Hereford can hold onto the ball like it did last week against Palo Duro, good things will happen for Hereford.

2. If Estacado's stable of running backs is kept in check by the tenacious Hereford defense, good things will happen for Hereford.

even-man front in three weeks, counting the Amarillo High scrimmage.

"It's just something we've had to adjust to," Cumpton said. "They don't do anything fancy on defense, either. They just execute very well.

"They lost their middle linebacker, James Dobbins, in two-adays, but, like always, they have great depth. Their defensive end is No. 74, Billy Frances, and he played well against us a year ago. That guy, and all the people they just keep running at you, are their strengths. They don't lose much if they put a secondteam guy out there."

How does Estacado compare with past teams? "They're better than they were a year ago," Cumpton said. "They're about like they were in '86.

"Against that '86 bunch we were in pretty good shape until they broke a 97-yard run that really broke our backs (Estacado won the game in 1986, 28-18). Of course, last year we had to chase 'em down a time or two." Hereford ended Estacado's 1987 playoff dreams with a 7-6 win at repetitive stuff, but this early in the Whiteface Stadium.

up, just ask him about trolled the line of scrimmage throughout the game, and that should give them some confidence.

"They need to just take that and improve. They're a good bunch that works hard.

"Our whole rushing game is much more in sync now, and a lot of that had to do with just getting used to one another. The field might have had something to do with it, too: It was hard to run up in Amarillo (at Dick Bivins Stadium against Tascosa). That grass was so deep you had to pick your feet up a foot to step.

"Our defense really played good last week. We went into the Palo Duro game with two goals: To hold Michael Westmoreland at bay and to control the football. We made them earn every step. They had just one drive, and that was for 90 yards.

"It's critical this week that we not give anything away. It'll take a great effort from both sides."

One problem facing the Herd is the short week.

"Later on in the season it's a lot of season we are still trying to work If you want to get Cumpton fired things out," Cumpton said. "We had to basically combine out Monday and

Volleyball begins district with sweep

The Hereford High School volleyball team improved its season record to 8-4 and is tied for first place in District 1-4A after a 15-1, 15-1 victory Tuesday at Lubbock Dunbar.

"This was a great way to win a district opener," a happy Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said. "The match went by very quickly because we so intense and fixed on our task from the very beginning.

"We had a total team effort against Dunbar. We scored very few unearned points.

"The team's confidence is way up right now. That's what we need on our side as we go into an important match against Dumas on Saturday."

Dumas, 9-10 on the year, defeated Pampa in their district opener Tuesday, 15-5, 15-10. Dumas will travel to Hereford for a match Saturday afternoon beginning at 2 p.m. at the Hereford High School gym.

"Saturday will be a tough test for us," Reeh said. "We will have to be ready to play."

Hereford is ranked No. 1 in the area by the Amarillo newspaper.

"The JV did a good job after a week off," Reeh said. "It's tough to spend an entire week working out without a game right before you go into district, but the girls certainly rose to the occassion."

Last weekend, Hereford's varsity squad earned third place in the Borger Tournament. Hereford defeated the Dalhart JV in the first round, 15-0, 15-0, lost in three games against the Amarillo High JV, 15-11, 13-15, 15-7, then came back to beat district rival Borger, 15-11, 15-10, to claim third place.

"The Borger tournament gave us lots of muchneeded court time," Reeh said. "We don't have as many pre-district matches as some of the other teams in the district (Dumas, Borger and Estacado have each played 19 matches, seven more than Hereford) and that's a disadvantage.

"We got a chance to see Dumas play, and earned a victory against Borger. That third place finish was a good way to go into district."

Rice socks By BEN WALKER AP Baseball Writer

Even in a season of discontent, Jim Rice still finds moments of solace. Enough of them might make him and the Boston Red Sox very happy.

Rice, relegated to a role as parttime designated hitter, connected for his eighth career grand slam Tuesday night as the Red Sox beat Baltimore 6-4 and increased their lead in the American League East.

"I'm ready to play any day, but if I'm not in the lineup I can't do anything about it," Rice said after starting for just the fourth time in 14 games. "My attitude has been the same for 14 years. I'm not going to change.'

"When I'm called upon, I want to go up there and do my job. If I'm not called upon, I don't have anything to worry about."

Reds stifle Astros,

CINCINNATI (AP) - The Houston Astros' failure to hit in the clutch cost them another chance at a clutch win.

The Astros managed just three singles off Cincinnati starter Jose Rijo, then left five baserunners stranded in the last two innings Tuesday night against the Reds' bullpen. The result was a 5-2 Cincinnati victory that left the Astros adrift in second place in the National League West.

Mike Scott, 13-7, allowed just two runs over six innings, but the Astros' inability to produce in the late innings left him with the loss.

"You've got to score more than two runs to beat this ballclub," Astros manager Hal Lanier said. "I've been saying it for a long time you can't win unless you score, I don't care who you have on the mound."

The Astros' offense has struggled the last six weeks, leaving their starters with little to show for good performances. Scott hasn't won since Aug. 13, losing four of his last six starts despite giving up just 13 runs Shutout for shutout, the Los Angeles Dodgers almost match up with the New York Mets.

While the Mets have grabbed all the attention with their 22 shutouts, the Dodgers quietly have compiled their own impressive total. They beat the Atlanta Braves 2-0 Tuesday night for shutout No. 19.

We're not really concerned with the pennant race," Mike Scioscia said after hitting a two-run homer that proved decisive.

Fear of fat can lead to problems perhaps always be a concern of teenaged girls and their college counterparts. But exaggerated concerns about body size and shape can cause malnutrition, dental problems, and impaired concentration and memory, according to the September issue of Texas Medicine.

Being svelte and attractive will can result from two eating disorders, anorexia nervosa and bulimia nervosa, where fear of being fat is the hallmark. These disorders "primarily affect adolescents and young women. Only about one patient in 20 is male," according to autor Dr. David A. Waller, Dallas.

In anorexia nervosa, the patient is These and other health problems at least 15 percent below the weight

Herring serves as hostess for club meeting, luncheon

Members of Music Study Club met Monday in the home of Mrs. Dean Herring for a business session and a luncheon served by Something Special.

President Mrs. Thomas Betzen presided over a short business meeting with cards of thanks read from Cindy Meiwes and Whitney Whitaker. Resignations were also accepted with regret from Mrs. Brent Caviness and Robbie Ames.

Mrs. Duffy McBrayer was elected to membership and Mrs. Bill Bradly gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. J.B. Caraway ot Dawn, treasurer of District I, Texas Federation of Music Clubs, gave a brief talk and announced the upcoming conventions-district, state and national expected for persons of their age, sex, and height, yet they continue to consider themselves fat and are fearful of eating, states the article in the official journal of the Texas Medical Association. However, other ilinesses also may cause the person to lose weight, such as a specific type of brain tumor or depression.

With bulimia nervosa, victims have recurrent episodes of binge eating followed by attempts to get rid of the food, usuall by self-induced vomiting, writes Dr. Waller, Associate Professor, Department of Psychology and Director of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center, Dallas.

Laxatives and diuretics also may be used to control weight. "It is as though they (persons with bulimia nervosa) were in the grips of an addiction; there is great distress and embarrassment at not being able to control the behavior," the article states.

Bulimia nervosa is difficult to diagnose because the persons's weight remains relatively stable. "Physicians may screen for this syndrome, particularly in young women patients, much as one would screen for alcohol and/or other substance abuse behavior," writes Dr. Waller.

NAMES OF DISEASES

NEW YORK (AP) - The names of diseases come about in many different ways.

Some names are translations of Greek and Latin words, such as arthritis and hepatitis. Some names are descriptive, such as blackwater fever, a complication of malaria in which damaged red cells darken the urine.

Diseases also can be named for geographic areas, such as lyme disease (Lyme, Conn.) or for groups such as Legionnaire's disease (American Legion).

Other diseases carry the surname of an affected family or honor discoverers or leading doctors. There are times a disease is linked to a famous victim, one of the best known being Lou Gehrig's disease, which refers to amyotrophic lateral sclerosis.

Homemade soups quick, easy with appliances

Making a homemade, delicious cream soup can be a cinch with the help of two handy kitchen appliances...the blender and the microwave oven.

That's right, with the cooking ease of a microwave oven, the ingredients for soup can be cut up and cooked in a microwave safe container. After they're cooked, simply pour the ingredients, liquid and all, into the container of a blender. Add milk or cream (or vegetable juice for a lower calorie version), cover and blend. It's that simple!

When blending hot ingredients, be sure to remove the built-in feeder cap in the blender cover in order to allow steam buildup to escape. Soups will blend more easily if the liquid is placed in the container first..then the
