Langgood levies SO charges

Police Capt. Ted Langgood, Republican candidate for Deaf Smith County sheriff, told other Republicans at a meeting Thursday that county residents were receiving only minimal services from the current sheriff, Joe Brown.

The meeting was designed to introduce local Republican candidates to voters. Pct. 1 commission candidate Kim Blackwell and state senate candidate Teel Bivins also spoke at the meeting.

Langgood said that if he were elected, he would give the staff a greater amount of training than they receive and that having experienced supervision of field deputies during peak crime hours was important.

"Under the sheriff department's current administration," said Langgood, "the sheriff and chief deputy only work from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with holidays off, and there is no supervision when needed."

Sheriff Joe Brown, however, said that his chief deputy, Loy Smith, has worked from 5 p.m. until 2 a.m. Aug. 1 through Aug. 31, and when Brown and Smith are out of the office on holidays or after hours, deputies Jimmie Hudgens and Murray Hazlett work as acting supervisors.

Langgood added that Brown also used poor judgment by allowing inmates to watch Home Box Office (HBO), a private movie channel, which, according to Langgood, "glorifies drug abuse, violence and explicit sexual situations."

"A correctional facility should be punishment and a deterrent to criminals — not a country club," said Langgood.

According to Brown, the only movie channels that exist in the jail are in the jailers' office and in the dispatcher's office.

"The inmates are never allowed in either of these rooms," said Brown.

"The only TV the inmates can watch are the television sets their parents or friends bring them. And they can only get 12 channels of regular programming, nothing else."

Blackwell said that the county commission is needing to work — meaning more supervision of precinct employees.

"The current commissioners go out and check their workers about once a week and by the looks of the county roads, it looks like they should be going out there every day," said Blackwell.

Deaver fined; no jail term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michael K. Deaver, once one of President Reagan's closest aides, was given a suspended three-year sentence today and fined $100,000 for lying under oath about his lobbying activities after he left the White House.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson, saying he doubted a prison term would deter others from committing what he called "the crime of opportunity," also ordered Deaver to perform 1,500 hours of community service.

In addition, the judge directed Deaver to refrain from lobbying the federal government during the term of his suspended sentence.

After the hearing, Deaver told reporters, "It was a very fair sentence, if I had been guilty."

Outside the federal courthouse, Deaver said he has proposed to the court that he fulfill the community service requirement by counseling alcoholics.

Although Jackson said he did not doubt that Deaver had given false answers to questions about his lobbying, the judge said imprisonment would not be the correct way to rehabilitate Deaver.

Jackson, referring to Deaver's fight against alcoholism, said that "such rehabilitation as is needed, as he well knows, must come from within himself."

In pleading for leniency, Deaver, once Reagan's deputy chief of staff, said that the investigation "has taken a terrible toll on me and my family and my friends and my business."

But Deaver said, "I can take comfort in the fact that I have had the support of friends and family in coming to grips with the worst demon that I faced, and that was alcoholism."

His realization that he had a problem with alcoholism "changed my life dramatically," Deaver said before the sentence was announced.

In explaining the sentence, however, Jackson dismissed a defense argument that Deaver's memory was clouded by alcoholism when he lied under oath to a House subcommittee and to a grand jury.

The judge said there was "no physiological explanation and excuse for the incorrect answers he gave."

Deaver was convicted of three counts of lying when questioned about whether his contacting former Reagan administration colleagues on behalf of his corporate clients was a violation of federal ethics laws.

Noting that Deaver had "honorably served the president of the United States," Jackson said Deaver had not been convicted of influence peddling.

That comment appeared to be a rebuff to independent counsel Whitney North Seymour Jr., who had urged a prison term to set an example for influence peddlers.

The judge gave Deaver suspended concurrent three-year sentences for each of the three perjury convictions, which carried a maximum possible sentence of five years each.

Deaver, 50, was convicted last December of lying to the House Energy and Commerce oversight and investigations subcommittee and a federal grand jury impaneled at his request to consider allegations that his lobbying violated federal conflict-of-interest laws.

A jury found Deaver guilty of lying when he told the grand jury he couldn't recall contacting Reagan administration officials on behalf of major corporations that paid him six-figure fees to represent their interests in Washington.

Deaver also was convicted of lying by denying he helped South Korean trade envoy Kim Kihwan get a brief Oval Office appointment to hand Reagan a personal letter from President Chun Doo-hwan.

During the trial, prosecutors presented evidence that Deaver contacted a number of high government officials, including Secretary of State George Shultz and then-Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth Dole, on behalf of major corporations that paid him six-figure retainers.

1988 S&Ls worst since Depression

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman and ranking Republican on the Senate Banking Committee disagreed today over whether it's time for the government to bail out the savings industry, which a new report says is headed for its worst year since the Great Depression.

"It's a very, very serious problem ... more and more savings and loans are getting in very serious trouble," the chairman, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America."

Proxmire said he reluctantly favored liquidating insolvent thrift institutions, an action he said will cost at least $20 billion.

"The longer we put off stepping and closing down these S&Ls that are insolvent, the worse the problem becomes," he said today.

"The worst news for people is to hear that $20 billion of their money is going to have to bail out anything," said Proxmire. "I've opposed every bailout that has come before the Banking Committee ... and I would be against this if it were possible to do anything else."

But other approaches may still be possible, responded Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah.

"A taxpayer bailout may be necessary sometime in the future, but not yet, that should only be a last resort," he said on the same program.

"Rather than Congress at this point to say we need a taxpayer bailout, ... we can still do a great deal more in the private sector," Garn said. "If we've done all of those things, and then it fails, o.k."

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board said Thursday that the nation's thrift institutions lost $7.5 billion in the first six months of 1988, almost as much as the $7.8 billion loss for all of last year, a post-Depression record.

"The losses for the year are clearly going to exceed the record losses of last year," said Martin Regalia, an economist with the National Council of Savings Institutions, a trade group.

"I would say there is a very good chance we're going to see losses in the $10 billion to $11 billion range and maybe more," he said.

But, both Regalia and James

Barth, the bank board's chief economist, point to signs that the industry is at least not deteriorating as rapidly as before.

The S&Ls' loss for the April-June period of $3.6 billion was modestly better than the $3.9 billion of red ink in the first quarter and the $4.0 billion loss in the last quarter of 1987.

"Things are clearly not getting better rapidly, but they're not pitching off into the abyss," Regalia said.

As in the past, the industry's losses in the second quarter were concentrated in a relatively small number of institutions and in Texas, which has been hard hit by the collapse of oil prices.

The 271 thrift institutions in Texas — 133 of them insolvent — accounted for $3.2 billion of the loss. The 20 worst institutions in the nation — 17 of them in Texas — lost $2.6 billion.

Barth said most of the second-quarter loss came when institutions wrote down bad loans already in their portfolios. He said operating income was in the black, by $225 million, for the first time since the third quarter of last year. That means the industry is earning more than it's paying in operating expenses.

Barth said he suspects there are more loan writedowns, or non-operating losses, to come, but he said, "I like to think we have bottomed out and things won't get much worse."

In Texas, the vacancy and unemployment rates in the state have edged down and construction and oil-drilling activity are up, Barth said.

The number of insolvent institutions among 3,092 reporting slipped from 509 to 497, and the percentage of money-losing institutions fell slightly from 31 percent to 29 percent.

Barth declined to offer an assessment of how the industry is faring in the current quarter, but he noted that about $800 million of the second-quarter loss occurred at 60 institutions that have since been closed.

The institutions' unrealized losses do not go away, but they are transferred onto the books of the government insurance fund for S&Ls and do not add to the industry's red ink.

The Census Bureau will handle all hiring through the local Texas Employment Commission.

Fire ants enter Texas homes

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Fire ants are setting up house in homes in a big way for the first time, possibly because of the current dry spell, says a Texas A&M University entomologist.

Not since fire ants invaded American soil some 60 years ago have they behaved as badly as they have this summer.

"They're behaving unusually bad this year," entomologist Brad Vinson said. "They are going into people's houses, into the kitchen, the bedrooms, even in the closets."

"They have entered people's homes in past years, but it's never been the kind of problem it has been this summer," Vinson said. "Either that, or people are just calling in a whole lot more."

Before this year's drought drove the pesky critters into our living rooms, fire ants were known mostly for entering a home during heavy showers. But they would eventually return to the outside, Vinson explained.

"In past summers when it got so hot and dry they retreated into the ground for the moisture, but this year there is so little moisture in the ground, they don't prefer it as much," he said.

The ground is so powdery it's hard for the ants to build their mounds, and the drought is killing some of them off, Vinson said. Meanwhile, as well as moving into houses, more and more of them are living in the tops of trees, in logs, on the roof, or in the gutters and most of these colonies are multiple-queen colonies, he said.

Controlling the ants will become more and more difficult as increasing numbers of multiple-queen colonies are established, Vinson said.

Increasing numbers of queens ensure their survival, says Vinson, who maintains it will be difficult to get fire ant populations under control using conventional chemical means.

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

I was reading through one of our trade magazines, Publishers Auxiliary, and came across a column written by Dennis Schick, executive director of the Arkansas Press Association, about acronyms.

If you don't remember your nym, an acronym is a group of initials that spells a word, like our old POWER (People Opposing Wasted Energy Repositories) group.

Some acronyms have become a part of our language. Snafu was first SNAFU, and it stood for something like Simultaneous Army-Navy Foul Up.

Today we have Yuppies, a semi-acronym for Young Urban Professionals. There are also Buppies (Black Urban Professionals) and Yuccas (Young Urban Cubans).

You mustn't be young to be attached to an acronym. You can be a YEEPIE (Youthful Energetic Elderly People Involved in Everything) or WOOFs (Well-Off Older Folks).

Schick suggests inventing a parlor game where you make up your own acronym for almost anything.

Today we have Yuppies, a semi-acronym for Young Urban Professionals. There are also Buppies (Black Urban Professionals) and Yuccas (Young Urban Cubans).

You mustn't be young to be attached to an acronym. You can be a YEEPIE (Youthful Energetic Elderly People Involved in Everything) or WOOFs (Well-Off Older Folks).

Schick suggests inventing a parlor game where you make up your own acronym for almost anything.

One of my first entries would be to make an acronym from this suggestion: People who drive crazily near schools.

Seriously, I wish some of you could see how you drive in and around our schools. I spent just a minimum of time in front of LaP, uh, I almost said it, Hereford Junior High on Thursday.

Incidentally, HJH is not the worst. It's just the most recent harrowing experience. Like your gas mileage, your school may be better or worse.

There were four cars parked in the middle of the street waiting to pick up a child or two, a lady shot a U-turn in the middle of the block, and meanwhile there are kids dodging these people.

I know it's inconvenient for you to follow basic traffic safety practices, but it's a wonder we haven't had a kid killed.

We can't afford all the police we need, because besides breaking up the Tijuana-style traffic jams around the schools, they're trying to keep people from driving 50 mph in 20 mph school zones and all the other bull they have to put up with during the course of their days.

We'll call these folks OOTLAWs, for Observance Of Tijuana Traffic Laws.

And we have the people who make East Park Avenue, from Main east to U.S. Highway 60, a four-lane street.

It is not a four-lane street, but there are a lot of folks, adults included, who try to make it that way.

It is especially scary if you're in a Chevette and you've got four-abreast traffic. East Park Avenue is TWO LANES!!!

Since acronyms are also memory aids, we'll call this EPITL: East Park Is Two Lanes. REMEMBER IT!!!

Other pet peeves are the PUPASINK. Pushy Parents Seeking Ink. Only THEIR kids are important, and the rest can go hang. We don't have many, but a few rotten apples do tend to spoil the bunch.

We also have some VELISINK: Very Limited Interests Seeking Ink. Again, a few rotten apples . . .

There are also the RANSIBA. Run as news story, I'll Buy Ad. While we try to promote local business and industry, buying an ad doesn't guarantee news coverage. That's why there's a wall between the news and ad departments. We don't look at the ad log when determining news stories.

Airline regulation probed

Senators say service bad

WASHINGTON (AP) — One senator was perplexed that it costs more to fly across South Dakota than across the country.

Another said it now costs him $510 to fly home, more than four times as much as 10 years ago — and accommodations are not as good.

And a third suggested there's something wrong when an airline controls more than 80 percent of the flights in and out of a city.

The flaws of a deregulated airline industry came under fire Thursday at a Senate Commerce Committee hearing where no one expressed support for returning to the tight government control of years past, but many suggested that some fine tuning may be in order.

"My fares have zoomed up, up and away, and my service has gone down," said Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., chairman of the panel. He charged that in some parts of the country, airlines "have developed monopoly hubs" that allows them to charge passengers more for less.

But Transportation Secretary Jim Burnley disagreed and declared that while the industry may have "flaws," overall it "has become much more competitive as to price and service as a result of economic deregulation."

Since 1978, when Congress enacted the Airline Deregulation Act, domestic air travel has grown from 275 million passengers a year to more than 450 million a year, while average fares have declined 13 percent after inflation is taken into account.

But the national statistical averages did little to soothe the senators from states where, they contend, air travel has not improved and is now more costly.

Hollings said it now costs him $510 to fly from Washington to Charleston, S.C., compared with $120 in 1977, before deregulation.

An airline ticket from Aberdeen S.D., to Rapid City, S.D., costs $269, while a Washington to Los Angeles ticket can cost $269, complained Sen.

Larry Pressler, R-S.D.

"That is a very bizarre situation," he said.

Sen. John Danforth of Missouri, ranking Republican on the committee, suggested that "competition doesn't really exist" in cities such as St. Louis, Minneapolis, Detroit or Pittsburgh where single airlines dominate.

Congress must determine "whether deregulation is truly working and if it's not working, what are we supposed to do about it," said Danforth, complaining that in some parts of the country, single air carriers have gained "a lock" on an airport, leaving them free to raise prices and cut service.

The General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, issued a report earlier in the week saying that 82 percent of the flights in and out of St. Louis are controlled by Trans World Airlines. Similar concentrations can be found at Minneapolis-St. Paul and Detroit where Northwest Airlines is dominant and at Pittsburgh, which is the key hub for USAir, the critics argued.

But Burnley said that while he is disappointed more competition to TWA has not entered the St. Louis market, there is still room for competitors at those airports.

"Not only has new entry (by airlines) occurred at each of these hubs, but competing incumbent carriers continue to provide competitive service," he maintained.

But when pressed by Danforth, Burnley said the department had expected more competition to TWA at St. Louis. When the department approved the TWA-Ozark merger, he said, it had been expected that Southwest Airlines would expand its St. Louis operation to as much as 60 flights a day, but the airline today has fewer than two dozen flights a day into the city.

"I'd like to know why that has occurred," said Burnley, promising the department he would examine the competitive situation at the airport.

Jet's door jammed

DALLAS (AP) — When the rear left exit on American Airlines Flight 135 did not open, passengers safely evacuated the Boeing 727 using other exits after the plane belly-landed Wednesday at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

A similar rear left door also apparently jammed after the Aug. 31 crash at DFW of Delta Flight 1141 that resulted in 14 deaths.

Aviation experts say a wide range of possibilities could explain why some emergency exits cannot be opened after a crash. The Dallas Morning News reported in its Friday editions.

"Think about what happens when you're in a car accident," said a Dallas-area airline pilot with more than 20 years' experience. "Sometimes, even if you're in a fender-bender, the frame of the car buckles and the doors refuse to open. An airplane's not that much different."

Exits on a modern airliner are designed so the frame is smaller than the door. Structural engineers describe this as a safety feature that lessens the possibility of a door "blowing out" while the plane is pressurized, a procedure that ensures enough oxygen for passengers at high altitudes.

Reagan raises $3 million for Bush

HOUSTON (AP) — President Reagan came to Texas to give Discovery astronauts a presidential sendoff and help raise big bucks at a George Bush fund-raiser where Reagan told Bush supporters to send liberals a message: "Don't mess with Texas."

The fund-raiser, entitled "A Texan Becomes President," raised about $3 million for the Bush campaign coffers.

Bush, a former Texas oilman, came to the Lone Star state, armed with a comprehensive policy for national energy security.

The plan includes tax incentives for returning stripper wells to production and more research and development, tax credits for exploration and drilling, liberalization of the intangible drilling cost provisions in the tax code, increasing the fill rate of the strategic petroleum reserve and decontrol of natural gas.

"With the struggles we're going through here in Texas, we can't afford to hand energy policy back to the liberals who gave us the windfall profits tax and who have berated the oil industry for years," Bush told 2,400 attending the $1,000-a-plate function at the George R. Brown Convention Center in downtown Houston.

Reagan announced earlier Thursday he had signed a measure to repeal the windfall profits tax which he said was a windfall for the liberals and their government programs.

The president said the choice for Texans come November is simple.

"Do we want a future that continues and expands on the policies that have brought America back and standing tall, a future that rests on the bedrock principles we all hold dear? Or do we want a future that seems like a depressing rerun of the years of malaise?"

"The choice is clear. We are the change. And on Nov. 8, you're going

Soviets want more arms control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev is proposing that interim limits be placed on the most potent U.S. and Soviet long-range nuclear weapons to keep arms control momentum going, U.S. officials say.

Gorbachev's proposal was sent to the State Department before Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze began talks Thursday with Secretary of State George P. Shultz on a wide range of arms control measures, human rights and regional problems.

The U.S. side is willing to consider the proposal, but will emphasize that any limitations on nuclear weapons must be reinforced with strict verification measures to guard against violations, the officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Thursday.

These include assurances there will be no interference with the monitoring of test flights of the strategic nuclear missiles that carry the warheads and have ranges of 3,500 miles and beyond.

After a session today with Vice President George Bush and another round with Shultz concentrating on problems in the Middle East, southern Africa and Southeast Asia, the Soviet foreign minister had a session scheduled at the White House with President Reagan.

A joint statement was to be issued then "to mark the progress that's been achieved," and Shultz and Shevardnadze were to hold separate news conferences in the evening, a U.S. official said.

It was not clear whether an agreement on temporary ceilings could be reached during the two-day visit.

THE NOISES OF CHILDREN

ORADELL, N.J. (AP) — Respiratory noises that children make range from soft gurgles to full-blown wheezes, snoring and snorting.

Most can be distinguished by history and physical examination and even by a doctor listening to the child's breathing over the telephone. A common source of parental concern is a "snurgle" — a sound produced by infants as they inhale through loose mucus in the nose. But such breathing, while noisy, is normal and will disappear as the baby grows.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I believe that I am a typical high school student. I get good grades, teachers like me, I'm happy most of the time and I have never thought about killing myself.

We had an assembly today on suicide prevention and I couldn't believe it, Ann. One out of every four teenagers will attempt suicide before he or she is 16. Every minute of every hour a teenager attempts suicide. Every day, 33 kids will succeed. Why? Nobody knows for sure.

The speaker at the assembly gave us the following 12 warning signs. I know that if you print them, Ann, a life somewhere will be saved. Maybe some kid from my school who had been thinking of suicide tonight will show up Monday morning because somebody recognized these signs and got him or her to get help. Here they are:

1. Sudden change in behavior.
2. Dramatic change in appetite.
3. Sleeping difficulties. Some people want to sleep all the time when they're depressed, others can't sleep at all.
4. Poor performance in school.
5. Trouble concentrating; agitation; inability to sit still.
6. Unexplained loss of energy or excessive fatigue.
7. Loss of interest in friends.
8. Increased drug/alcohol use.
9. Constant feeling of worthlessness or self-hatred.
10. Excessive risk-taking.
11. Preoccupation with death, dying or suicide.
12. Giving away personal or prized possessions.

It doesn't take someone who has attempted suicide to realize that a friend has these symptoms, but it takes a TRUE friend to reach out and try to help.—One Who Cares in Alabama

DEAR ONE WHO CARES: Thank you for a letter that is sure to make a difference. You've done a wonderful thing today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My 43-year-old mother was divorced after many years in a painful and unrewarding marriage. She still is very bitter toward my father. Mom sees a therapist once a week and has recently started to go to Alcoholics Anonymous even though she is not a problem drinker. I told her that she doesn't belong at those meetings, but she says they talk about self-esteem and she needs help with hers. I also know that Mom is eager to have a man in her life and she says AA is a great place to meet people.

Mom has tried singles clubs and church affairs, but didn't like them because she met only older folks—mostly women. What do you think about AA as a place to meet people?—

A. Concerned Daughter

DEAR CONCERNED: The purpose of AA is to help people stay sober, which can mean the difference between life and death. It is not a social club.

It is possible, however, to make new friends at the meetings and undoubtedly some of those friendships have ended in marriage, but that's not what AA is about.

Your mother should check with the local Chamber of Commerce and YWCA for a list of organizations and groups where she can meet people. If all the lonely folks found each other they wouldn't be lonely anymore.

Do you have questions about sex, but nobody you can talk to about them? Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," will give you the answers you need. To receive a copy, send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

8th grade teams win

The Hereford 8th grade White A team won with a last-second touchdown to pace Thursday night's football action.

The White B squad dropped a 6-0 decision, while Hereford's sophomores had their game canceled in the third quarter after the lights failed at Whiteface Stadium.

Ruben Gutierrez scored on a 57-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Chad Sandoval with 21 seconds left in the game to give the 8th grade White A team a 12-8 win over Valleyview's A unit at Hereford Junior High's field.

With 20 seconds left in the third quarter, Sandoval kept the ball on a quarterback sneak to score from three yards out to give Hereford a 6-0 lead. That play was set up by a 30-yard pass from Sandoval to Greg Copen to the Valleyview 3.

The eighth grade B unit lost a tough defensive battle when a Valleyview receiver made a shoe tops catch in the end zone for the game's only touchdown.

Petey Colvin scored on runs of 48, 57 and 2 yards and had a two-point conversion run, and Jason Tatarevich caught a nine-yard pass from quarterback Richard Sanderson to pace the Hereford Maroon 8th grade team to a 27-0 win at Friona. Sanderson also kicked an extra point.

The seventh grade maroon team defeated Friona 18-0. Alejandro Nava scored on runs of 49, 38 and 23 yards.

The seventh grade white teams dropped two games at Valley. The A team lost, 20-0, while the B unit fell, 8-0.

In the sophomore game, a bad snap over the punter's head by Hereford on the Whitefaces' first possession of the game was finally covered at the Hereford 1. Littlefield scored on the next play and kicked an extra point to give the Wildcats a 7-0 lead.

The two teams then enjoyed a defensive battle until 2:53 left in the third quarter, about 8:30 p.m., when the lights failed at Whiteface Stadium, cancelling the game.

Other games had not been reported at presstime.

Winning touchdown

mate (above). The 57-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Chad Sandoval came with 21 seconds left in the game to give Hereford a 12-7 win.

USC wants to snap OU wishbone

By The Associated Press
When it comes to snapping Oklahoma's Wishbone, Southern Cal has had its share of luck.

On Saturday, the Trojans will try to continue that success in the meeting of intersectional football powers.

"I know that this football game is going to be a very physical game and we're going to have to dip down to all of our resources," Southern Cal Coach Larry Smith said as he prepared his team for the heralded matchup of Top Ten teams.

A crowd of about 88,000 is expected for the nationally televised game at the Los Angeles Coliseum between the third-ranked Sooners and fifth-ranked Trojans, one of 15 games involving ranked teams.

Elsewhere, No. 1 Miami, Fla., hosts Wisconsin; Tennessee is at No. 4 Auburn; No. 6 Georgia at No. 14 South Carolina; No. 7 LSU at Ohio State; Purdue at No. 8 Notre Dame; Michigan State at No. 9 Florida State, and Arizona State at No. 10 Nebraska.

Also, it is No. 11 West Virginia at No. 16 Pitt; No. 12 Clemson at Georgia Tech; Vanderbilt at No. 13 Alabama; Rutgers at No. 15 Penn State; San Jose State at No. 17

Washington; Texas A&M at No. 18 Oklahoma State; Wake Forest at No. 18 Michigan and Mississippi State at No. 20 Florida.

In 1981, No. 1-ranked USC beat the visiting No. 2 Sooners 28-24 on a 7-yard touchdown pass with two seconds to play. The following year in Norman, Southern Cal's 12-0 victory snapped Oklahoma's record scoring streak at 181 games. On that day, the Trojans limited the Sooners' potent Wishbone to 43 yards and Oklahoma has scored only seven points in the last six quarters against USC.

In addition, a 7-7 tie with Southern Cal in 1973, Barry Switzer's first season as Oklahoma's head coach, was the only blot on the Sooners' 10-0-1 record. Southern Cal leads the series, 3-2-1.

Oklahoma quarterback Jamelle Holieway, the consummate

Wishbone quarterback, says the Sooners may rely more on the passing attack than the run against Southern Cal.

Teaff looks for No. 100

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Grant Teaff can join The Century Club if the Baylor Bears win the regular season opener of the Southwest Conference football season in Lubbock on Saturday night.

Teaff, in his 17th season at Baylor, is looking for his 100 victory but it could be hard-earned although his Bears are field goal favorites over the well-rested Red Raiders, who had two weeks to prepare for the homecoming game.

In non-conference matchups on Saturday night, Texas A&M was a field goal underdog at Oklahoma State, Texas Christian was a one-point favorite over Boston College in Fort Worth, Texas is a two-touchdown pick over North Texas, the No. 1 rated NCAA 1-AA team, and Rice was a field goal underdog at Southwestern Louisiana.

The SWC went 5-0 on the intersectional front last week to up their record to 12-7 against outside competition.

Houston and Arkansas are idle. Baylor boasts the No. 1 defense in the nation, allowing just 104.7 yards per game and only 67.7 yards passing.

The Bears haven't allowed a rushing touchdown in 12 quarters. Teaff could move up to fourth on the all-time conference victory list with a win over Tech, tying the late D.X. Bible, who coached at Texas A&M and Texas.

"Tech is pointing to this game," Teaff said. "They've had an open date so they're healthy, rested and well prepared. (Tech coach) Spike Dykes scouted us himself last week. I don't ever remember having a head coach scout us in person."

"Winning my 100th game would be nice but only because it would mean that we are 1-0 in conference play. That's the most important thing about this game."

Dykes said Baylor's defense "is about as awesome as I have seen. They remind me of the really good Texas defensive teams about five years ago with their speed and quickness, and their ability to rush the passer. There's nobody playing like they are now."

Tech has lost four consecutive games to Baylor in Lubbock and eight of the last nine games overall.

Baylor is off to its best start since 1980 when it began 7-0 and won the SWC title.

A&M will be getting back into action after an unexpected two week layoff.

Alabama refused to travel to College Station last week due to the threat of Hurricane Gilbert.

"Oklahoma State will give us as tough a game as Nebraska and LSU did," said A&M coach Jackie Sherrill. "I'm not sure who will start at quarterback for us, but they (Bucky Richardson, Lance Pavlas, Chris Osgood) may all play. It'll depend on what situations we're confronted with during the game."

Cheese, in moderation, can be part of healthy diet

NEWS USA—Cheese is a good food that sometimes gets bad press coverage because of its high fat content.

Many people feel either they should avoid cheese completely or else just ignore its fat content and eat as much as they want.

The best answer, of course, is picking a middle road of sensible consumption. Most cheeses are, indeed, high in fat. And many organizations, including the American Institute for Cancer Research, now advise lowering the amount of fat in the average diet in order to reduce cancer risk.

The Institute recommends reducing fat intake from the current average of 40 percent to 30 percent or less of total calories. But that doesn't mean cheese can't still be an enjoyable part of your diet.

The important thing to remember in reducing fat in your diet is that you want to lower total dietary fat. That doesn't mean you have to avoid every high fat food choice. If you are going to include a high fat item, such as cheese, balance that out with other menu items, such as vegetables or grain products, which are truly low fat.

It also makes sense to use moderation. Be aware of serving sizes, and if you want to lower fat consumption, eat a little less of a high fat item such as cheese, avoid going back for seconds, and modify recipes to use slightly smaller amounts of cheese.

You may also want to look for cheeses that are lower in fat. Many of these are made, in part, from skim milk. You'll find most dairy cases now offer "lighter" cheeses with less fat and calories. Become a label reader and compare the fat figures listed.

Cheese is a wonderful source of calcium, protein and other essential nutrients. It can be an enjoyable part of a healthy diet.

To learn more about the nutritional value of cheese and other dairy products, get a free slide chart about these products by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope to American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. HT10, Washington, D.C. 20089.

Susan Cardinal selected sweetheart by local chapter

The selection of Susan Cardinal as chapter sweetheart of Xi Epsilon Alpha chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was announced during Tuesday night's meeting of the chapter.

Held in the home of Holly Bixler, 305 Cherokee, the meeting served as a rush party. Guests present included Melinda Henson, Barbara Kerr, Gene Ann Marasco, Mary Ann O'rear, and Karon Pettiet. Following the meeting, they were given centerpieces composed of English ivy, U.S. flags, and "Go USA" banners which focused on the 1988 Olympics.

In keeping with the Olympic spirit, games were played and Oriental food was served by hostesses Sharon Bodner, Susan Shaw, Melinda White, and Bixler. Korean native Haeseung Park of Hereford gave the program on "Korea—Its People and Customs."

President Peggy Hyer conducted the business meeting and noted that the state Beta Sigma Phi convention is set in Amarillo in 1990. A farewell cake was presented to Teresa Peiffer, who will move to Iowa. Replacing her as scrapbook committee chairman is Gaye Reily.

Service committee chairman Cardinal announced final details of the upcoming Sept. 27 benefit style show set to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Center. Work details were assigned and Cardinal distributed tickets to be sold by members. She noted that the $2 tickets also would be available at the door or from participating merchants.

Secret sisters were thanked by Barbara Cochran, Hyer, Kay Williams, Connie Matthews, and Deann Harris. Marge Bell expressed gratitude to Linda and David Arellano for the last meetings program at Floor Decor and Peiffer thanked the chapter for her going-away gift and cake.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 4 in Bell's home at 114 Fir. "Beta Sigma Phi Home Movie" will be featured.

Members attending included Arellano, Bell, Bixler, Bodner, Cardinal, Cochran, Pene Coplen, Denise Hafliker, Harris, Hyer, Matthews, Peiffer, Reily, Shaw, Melinda White and Williams.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: My teen-age daughter and I could never agree on clothes when we went shopping for her. She would not look at anything without a designer label and refused to shop in bargain stores.

After many battles, I finally gave her all of the money budgeted for her clothes. I turned her loose at the mall, reminding her that if she purchased only two or three outfits for her money, that was all she would have to wear.

Not surprisingly, her taste in clothes changed when the money was in her hands and she has become a very smart shopper as well as a smart dresser. — Stephanie Korpitz, Little Rock, Ark.

I learned to budget the same way. My mother gave me "X" amount of money per school year and that was it, except for a winter coat and shoes. It sure taught me how to shop! — Heloise

The first Jewish congregation in the United States consecrated its synagogue in New York City in 1730.

WHO SHOULD GO FIRST?

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Should a planeload of corporate executives on business who have been delayed an hour be allowed to take off ahead of a planeload of vacationers delayed three hours?

"Only if they are willing to pay," says Richard B. Pitbladdo Jr., a professor at the William E. Simon Graduate School of Business Administration.
