Chamber lists new candidates

New director candidates were named, committee progress reports were given, and economic development plans were outlined when the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board met in regular monthly session Thursday afternoon.

The nominees approved for three-year terms on the board include Jeryl Baker, Lone Star Insurance; Carol Gerl, Wishes; Ruben Gutierrez, Gutierrez Kerr-McGee; Scott Keeling, cattle feeders; Bobby Moore, Jack & Jill; Pat Robbins, farmer; and Gary Yosten, farmer.

Ballots will be mailed to chamber members in October and four of the candidates will be elected to the board, beginning in January 1989.

Mike Carr, executive vice president, reported that the industrial development committee is still optimistic about its position in seeking to land a new corn masa plant in the Hereford community. The group is still in contact with plant officials, who are expected to pick the geographical area within two weeks.

A report from Gary Yosten's ag committee indicated that the Farmer's Market, held each Wednesday afternoon, will be held again next week. This may be the last week for the market to be held.

Carr reported that the membership committee is planning a campaign soon, with the Hereford Hustler group assisting in the drive for signing up new chamber members. Cecil Oglesby and Bill Bankston are co-chairmen of the committee.

Sue Malamen, Women's Division president, announced that the group will start delivering Newcomer Bags this month to new residents of the city. The bags will include welcoming gifts from retail firms in the city.

Mike Bowles, past president, addressed the board on the Amarillo Globe-News campaign to contribute $1 a month to the local United Way drive for every month local subscribers sign up or renew subscriptions to the newspaper. He called the campaign a "weak attempt by the paper to better relations created from the PCBAN controversy last year."

Bowles was critical of the way the offer was made. He pointed out that subscription rates went up at the same time, "so the local subscriber is effectively paying 55 cents of each dollar contributed by the paper." No action was taken on the matter, and Bowles said he "just wanted the community to be aware" of the situation.

Shuttle keeps success going

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Discovery's astronauts have deployed a $100 million communications satellite that ground controllers will use to talk to crews in future space missions.

Crewmen John M. Lounge and David C. Hilmers, operating from a panel inside the cabin, released a $100 million Tracking and Data Relay Satellite that glided effortlessly out of the cargo bay a little more than six hours into the mission.

The satellite was pushed from a tilt-table that was raised out of the shuttle bay, and it waltzed away at about 2.7 mph after Discovery's successful liftoff from Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 10:37 a.m. CDT Thursday.

Deploying the satellite was the first post-Challenger flight's main mission. Another TDRS is in orbit, but a nearly identical one was destroyed in the Challenger explosion Jan. 28, 1986.

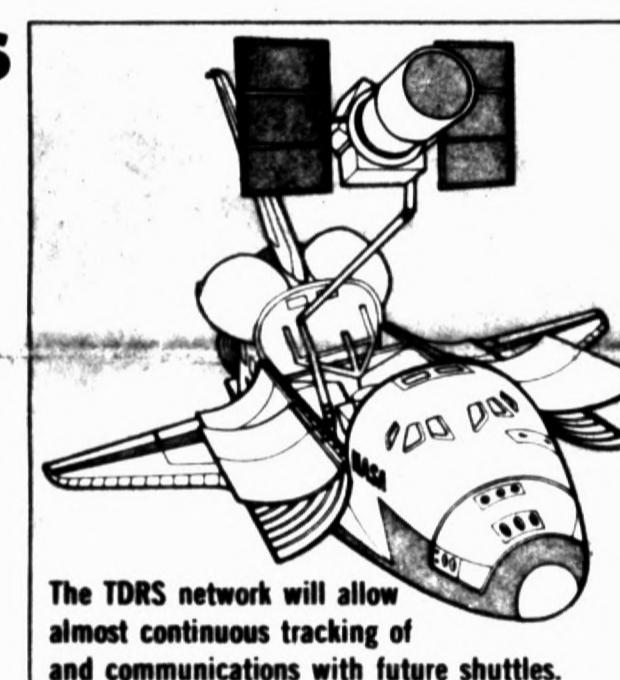

An hour later, after Hauck and pilot Richard O. Covey maneuvered Discovery to a safe distance, a timing device ignited a rocket attached to a giant satellite and propelled it toward a stationary 22,300-mile-high orbit. A rocket motor that fired early today placed it in a circular orbit.

There, it will serve as a space switchboard for relaying communications between ground stations, future shuttle flights and up to 25 other orbiting satellites. Secure channels on board will enable the Defense Department to keep in touch with intelligence-gathering spacecraft.

NASA and the Pentagon considered the satellite so important it was scheduled as the cargo for the first post-Challenger mission.

An earlier one, launched from a shuttle in 1983, is not working fully. Another is set for launch in January.

NASA needs to get the TDRS in orbit because it will nearly double the time ground controllers can monitor future shuttle flights. The satellite now in orbit allows controllers to keep track of shuttle about 45 percent of each orbit, but it has had some minor breakdowns and is operating at about 98 percent capacity, space agency officials said.

The TDRS provides more continuous coverage of manned and unmanned spacecraft orbiting the Earth than NASA's worldwide network of ground-based communications tracking systems. The satellite relays signals and data between a spacecraft and a ground terminal at White Sands Missile Range, N.M., which then routes it to the appropriate NASA facility.

The satellite is thrust into its final orbit 22,300 miles above Earth by an inertial upper stage rocket.

A spring-loaded ejection device pushed the TDRS and the booster from the cargo bay.

The satellite and booster and its carrying cradle weigh about 45,000 pounds, making it the heaviest payload to be carried aboard a shuttle, Johnson Space Center officials said. The satellite itself weighs about 5,000 pounds and it has 50-pound antennas that look like giant umbrellas.

The TDRS' final stationary orbit will be over the Pacific Ocean near the Gilbert Islands.

Rhetoric roars in campaign

George Bush dismissed rival Michael Dukakis' criticisms of the Republican nominee's vote to freeze Social Security benefits, citing a similar decision by the Democrat three years ago, as the two White House contenders exchanged rhetorical barbs over the environment, Dan Quayle and the savings industry.

The GOP presidential nominee, turning the tables on an issue the Democrats have used against him, said Thursday that at the National Governors' Association meeting in February 1985 Dukakis voted for a resolution calling for an overall freeze of Social Security benefits.

Dukakis has criticized Bush for casting a tie-breaking Senate vote in May 1985 to approve legislation that included a one-year freeze on Social Security cost-of-living adjustments.

"He supported exactly the same thing he was attacking me on the other night," Bush said referring to charges Dukakis leveled during Sunday night's debate.

The Massachusetts governor acknowledged Thursday that he cast his vote for the resolution, but noted that initially he supported a proposal to delete Social Security from a list of programs to be covered by a one-year freeze.

Dukakis was campaigning in Idalou, Texas, today before touring a toxic waste dump and attending a town meeting in Riverside, Calif. Bush was picking up an endorsement from a police organization in Paterson, N.J., and stumping for votes in Hartford, Conn.

The two vice presidential candidates — Republican Dan Quayle and Democrat Lloyd Bentsen — were devoting much of their time to preparing for their debate Wednesday in Omaha, Neb.

Bentsen was addressing a rally in Charlotte, N.C., and the National Education Association in Washington, D.C. Quayle was spending the day poring over debate briefing books and meeting with advisers before traveling to Philadelphia tonight for the Great American Firehouse Exposition and Muster.

After a day of trading one-liners, Bush lashed out at Dukakis for suggesting that the GOP nominee would "raid" the Social Security trust fund to cut the federal deficit.

"I was a little surprised to see this demagoguery from the man who had exactly the same position that the president had on that one-year slipping of the COLAs," the vice president said.

Dukakis said he voted for the overall freeze after the effort to protect Social Security increases failed. The Democratic nominee said the vote was "a general expression of my concern for the deficit, but I made it very, very clear that I was opposed to cutting cost-of-living increases for Social Security recipients."

Senate passes welfare reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first major welfare overhaul since the Great Depression holds out the prospect of jobs, education and self-sufficiency to poor people who otherwise could face a lifetime of dependence on government handouts.

The Family Welfare Reform Act won a ringing 96-1 endorsement Thursday from the Senate, with Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., the only dissenter.

The House scheduled a vote on the measure today, with certain White House approval at the end of the road.

Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., the leader of the effort, said the bill constitutes "an entire redefinition and overhaul of what we've come to know as our welfare system," the first since it was established in 1935.

The cornerstone of the act is the

When the Rev. Bruce Kochsmeier and his wife, Nancy, were honored with a farewell luncheon here Sunday in the First Presbyterian Church, some of his parishioners had a surprise for the pastor. He and his wife were issued an "unofficial" document, duly signed by County Judge Tom Simons, which "sued, entreated, beseeched and requested" that the couple not remove their beautiful daughter, Katie, "from the jurisdiction of the noble State of Texas without providing ample time for the church body to instruct her in her noble birthright or without providing adequate assurances to petitioners herein that provisions for such instruction and nurturing will be made for the benefit of the child."

The petitioners for the "decree" included Leroy and Mary Williamson, Helen Rose and "like-minded people." Rev. Kochsmeier was not to be outdone, however, as he quickly pointed out that his sister, an attorney in California, had taken steps to have the order revoked through extradition proceedings filed by the grandparents and other relatives in California.

Rev. Kochsmeier has been pastor of the local church since July 1985. He has accepted a position as associate minister for youth and colleagues at La Jolla Presbyterian Church in La Jolla, Calif.

Herschel Black, the head man over at H&R Manufacturing, has long been a critic of his better half, and I don't know how he gets away with it. Ruth has taken his sharp tongue in stride over the years, even when she refers to her as ole what's-her-name.

Ruth seems to have suffered enough. A friend of the family ran into Ruth at the grocery store recently and asked about the couple's approaching wedding anniversary.

"What are you getting for him?" asked the family friend.

"Make me an offer," was Ruth's quick reply.

Bride says 'Yes!'

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Michelle Bryan of Abilene didn't have any problem fielding her boyfriend's proposal — once it was ingrained in her mind.

Tim Wood of Tulsa, Okla., spelled out his proposal to Miss Bryan in giant block letters 140 feet long on 11 acres of her father's wheat field near Winters, about 45 miles south of Abilene.

Wood, an airline pilot, then headed for Abilene to pick up Michelle after she got off work, and they went up in a rented plane for what purportedly was a pleasure flight.

Naturally, they wound up over the Bryan farm. After circling the plane into reading position, Wood instructed Michelle to look down.

"I have a question that I've been wanting to ask you for a long time," he told her.

It took Michelle only seconds to find her message.

"WILL YOU MARRY ME MICHELLE?"

"All of a sudden, the letters just popped out," she recalled.

It took her only a moment longer to respond. "Yes!" she cried.

With the help of his future father-in-law, Sealy Bryan, and a farm worker, Wood designed, surveyed and directed the project last weekend.

It took the three men eight hours to lay out and flag the letters and another two to three hours to plow, Wood told the Abilene Reporter-News.

"We started work on this Friday afternoon and spent the better part of two days working on it," said Wood, who flies for American Eagle Airlines.

Bryan plowed the letters with a 20-foot chisel plow, Wood said. The proposal covers an area larger than 10 football fields on her father's farm, but is readable only from the air.

Wood's novel way of popping the question didn't affect Michelle's answer — she would have married him anyway, she said.

But it was still worth all the bother to Wood.

"I just wanted some way to show her how special she was," said Wood.

Only about one bride in a million gets such an imaginative proposal, he said. "And she's one in a million."

Soviet meeting could shake up hierarchy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist Party's policy-making Central Committee met today in a hastily organized session to discuss a reorganization of the party structure that likely will mean top-level personnel changes as well.

The Tass news agency said Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev was making a report to the 300 members of the Central Committee, made up of party, government and military leaders.

Tass said in its three-paragraph statement that the plenary session would consider "proposals on reorganization of the party apparatus in the light of the decisions of the 19th Communist Party conference."

At that congress in June, the Soviet leader outlined a series of political reforms. His blueprint calls for the creation of a full-time, standing legislature and a more powerful presidency, a post Gorbachev himself could assume.

Following the Central Committee meeting, which was likely to last for only one day, an equally unusual gathering of the 1,500-member Supreme Soviet, the nation's parliament was called for Saturday.

The Supreme Soviet likely was called to approve decisions made by the Central Committee.

Meetings of the party's policy-making Central Committee and the 1,500-member Supreme Soviet, the nation's legislature, are rarely called on such little notice. The move indicated urgent or unexpected business has come up.

The Supreme Soviet usually convenes twice a year after meetings of the Central Committee to ratify the decisions of the party body. It last met May 24-26.

Soviet media reported Sunday that a regular session of the Supreme Soviet would begin Oct. 27, but the special session was announced Thursday.

The Central Committee was to finish by October a draft law on amendments to the Soviet Constitution and on multi-candidate elections of legislators.

However, comments of government spokesmen and official sources on this week's meetings focused on structural changes in the party's Central Committee. One source, who works in the Central Committee staff, said it was "logical" to expect that personnel changes would follow structural changes.

Besides broad policy decisions, the Central Committee can make changes in its own membership or in the ruling 13-man party Politburo.

The Central Committee source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said reforms were moving "faster than was expected."

Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze, a full member of the Politburo, arrived back in Moscow on Thursday after cutting short a visit to the opening session of the U.N. General Assembly in New York.

Gorbachev said last week that the Politburo would meet soon to review a draft law on governmental reform.

The Soviet leader also is demanding that the Communist Party disengage itself from everyday government and economic affairs, instead focusing on long-range policy and theoretical work.

However, Gorbachev also has made clear that he expects the party to continue as the dominant force in Soviet society without opposition.

UN failing to keep peace

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Soviets charged that U.N. peacekeeping forces in Afghanistan were failing in their mission hours after the peacekeepers popped champagne corks to celebrate their Nobel Peace Prize.

Several Western leaders, including President Reagan who was himself in the running for the prize, praised the decision to award it to U.N. peacekeepers worldwide.

U.N. leaders said they, too, were delighted with the award announced Thursday, but they also pleaded for the release of a U.S. Marine kidnapped while serving with a peacekeeping group in Lebanon.

Spokesman Gennady Gerasimov of the Soviet Foreign Ministry said Thursday that U.N. peacekeeping forces in Afghanistan are "not doing their job properly." He said they should be investigated by the head of the United Nations before any future peacekeeping forces are approved.

"If we do not succeed in creating an efficient control mechanism here in Afghanistan, which is kind of a testing ground, then we will have difficulties in creating this kind of mechanism in other conflicts," said Gerasimov.

Up to 500,000 people have worn the blue helmet or beret of the U.N. peacekeeping forces, and 9,000 soldiers now are in the force supported by about 2,000 civilian personnel. A total of 733 have died on missions.

The foreign ministers of the five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council met Wednesday at the request of Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze to discuss Soviet claims that the United States and Pakistan are violating the Afghan accords signed in Geneva on April 14.

Those accords call for the Soviets to withdraw more than 100,000 troops from Afghanistan and for Afghanistan and Pakistan to respect each other's territorial integrity.

Humayun Khan, Pakistani secretary of state for foreign affairs, said Thursday in Islamabad that it was the Kabul government, not his own, that had violated the accords. He said he expected the Soviet Union to withdraw from Afghanistan as scheduled.

The Soviet Union has been bolstering a Marxist government in Afghanistan, and Pakistan and the United States have backed anti-government rebels.

Gerasimov also said that at the meeting of the Security Council foreign ministers, "We drew the attention of the ministers and of the (U.N.) Secretary-General (Perez de Cuellar) to the flagrant violations by Pakistan of the Geneva Accords and said that the consequences of these actions may be unpredictable."

In New Delhi, India on Thursday, Soviet Ambassador-at-large Nikolai Kozyrev said Pakistani violations include supplying rebels with long-range missiles for bombing Kabul and preventing Afghan refugees from returning home.

Gunman planned crash for jetliner

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A hijacker who wanted a pilot to crash a jetliner carrying more than 100 people into a government building was wounded and captured after he shot four crew members, killing one, officials said.

Security forces shot Rainundo Conceicao on Thursday night as he walked toward a getaway plane with the pilot of the passenger jet, a Boeing 737 from Brazil's VASP airlines.

Conceicao turned and shot the pilot, wounding him in the leg, officials said, describing the 28-year-old as a "psychopath."

Conceicao was in critical condition late Thursday night, while the wounded pilot, Fernando Murillo Silva, and the flight engineer were in stable condition. A wounded steward was treated and released, officials said. Officials said Conceicao killed co-pilot Salvador Evangelista earlier.

The VASP airlines Boeing 737, with 98 passengers and seven crew members aboard, was on a routine flight from Porto Velho in the western Amazon jungle to Rio de Janeiro when the eight-hour ordeal began. No Americans were aboard, the Air Force Ministry said.

Twenty minutes after the jet took off from the southeastern city of Belo Horizonte, the hijacker, armed with a .38-caliber pistol, shot the steward and entered the cockpit. He shot copilot Evangelista in the head and the flight engineer in the leg, said air force spokesman Col. Eden Avolinsque.

Conceicao had the plane flown to the federal capital of Brasilia, 150 miles to the southeast, but was told that for security reasons it would not be allowed to land, officials said. After nearly running out of fuel it landed in Goiana, 125 miles southwest of Brasilia and 850 miles northwest of Rio.

Federal Police Chief Romeu Tuma said Conceicao told the control tower at Goiana's Santa Genoveva airport that he wanted to "slam the Boeing 737 into a ministry building in Brasilia."

Air Force Minister Octavio Moreira Lima told The Associated Press in Brasilia: "The hijacker told negotiators he wanted to settle accounts with the president over the country's economic policies. ... He is a psychopath."

Brazil's inflation is running at 25 percent monthly and unions estimate Brazilians have seen more than 40 percent of their wages eaten by cost of living increases in the last year.

During negotiations the hijacker, demanding to fly back to Brasilia, allowed all but pilot Murillo Silva off the jet and agreed to change to a smaller Brazilian-made Bandeirantes passenger plane.

"We had orders from President (Jose) Sarney not to negotiate with the hijacker and not to refuel the plane," Brazilian Air Force spokesman Col. Eden Avolinsque said in Brasilia. "Police weren't going to budge."

According to Avolinsque, police opened fire on Conceicao as he walked to the smaller plane and the hijacker turned and shot the pilot, wounding him in the leg.

"The pilot's calm state of mind and patience in negotiating with the hijacker saved our lives," said Joao Lanza, one of the passengers, praising Murillo Silva.

Lions list contributions

Using the program topic "We Care, We Serve," Rocky Lee showed slides on Lions International activities to the Hereford Lions Club Wednesday, then outlined ways in which the local club cares and serves in the community.

Lee, a past president and past district governor, listed the charitable gifts made by the club last year to indicate the many projects in which the Lions assist. For the year ending June 30, 1988, the club made charitable contributions totalling $5,589.84.

These contributions included: United Way $2,500; Texas Lions Crippled Children's Camp $2,230; Girlistown, Inc. $975; Kings Manor $700; Hi Plain Eye Bank $500;

Cars need repair

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — If getting your imported car fixed is a hassle now, just wait: it could get worse.

Demand for imported car repair service may be growing too fast for traditional establishments to keep up, according to John Ayers of Allied Aftermarket Division, which markets auto products.

Since the 1970s, import car sales have increased dramatically. As many of these cars enter their "prime repair age," they need more service. The result: demand for foreign car service is growing five times as fast as for domestic cars.

WELFARE

Job Opportunities and Basic Skills program, a large-scale work, education and training program aimed primarily at welfare mothers. Support services such as child care would be available to program participants and those moving into low-wage jobs.

Welfare will "no longer be a permanent or extended condition," Moynihan said. Instead, he said, the new system will stress work, child support and last-resort cash supplements while encouraging the needy to get the education and training needed to avert long-term dependence.

"If it does only half of what we hope, it's an immense step forward," said Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore.

The five-year, $3.3 billion welfare act, modeled closely on a measure passed last June by the Senate, won nothing but praise Thursday in that chamber.

Some members of the House, which originally passed a much more lavish bill costing twice as much, were prepared to give it a tickler reception today.

Help children deal with disaster fears specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service's home economics program.

She said children should be allowed to talk about their fears or act them out through play.

"Parents shouldn't be disturbed if children play hurricane and pretend to blow down houses, tear up things or even play dead. Young children do not have many coping mechanisms for dealing with their fears, and play is one way of working through them," the specialist said.

"Parents can also use this event to talk simply and matter-of-factly with their children about what happens in big storms or tornadoes, explaining for example, that it will rain very hard and the wind will blow but that the family will be safe."

Anderson said children should also know that being safe sometimes requires evacuation, or seeking shelter in the interior or basement of their home. A brief drill can help children understand what will happen in case of emergency.

"Young children primarily want reassurance that they'll be taken care of if a storm comes their way, and parents can provide that feeling of security," she said.

Hints from Heloise

HOT-LATHER SHAVING

Dear Heloise: If you want hot lather for shaving, do this: When you wash your hands and face, keep the sink filled with hot water and keep the tube or can of shaving cream in the hot water.

After you've finished washing, the shaving cream will be just the right temperature for hot-lather shaving. — Barry Jerome, Biloxi, Miss.

MICROWAVE TIP

Dear Heloise: When cooking anything in the microwave, rather than cover it with paper towels, use a paper plate. The plate doesn't go limp and fall into the food as paper towels do. — Betty Givens, Toledo, Ohio

CLEAN OFF BUGS

Dear Heloise: If your car has bugs stuck to it, there's an easy way to remove them. Put some baking soda on a scrap of nylon stocking or a damp rag and scrub away. — John Jenkins, Miami, Fla.

JV, sophs win Thursday

The Hereford JV manhandled the Pampa JV, 24-7, at Pampa to top Thursday's sub-varsity football games.

The JV was led by Stephn Banner, just called up from the sophomore team, who picked up 156 yards on 13 carries and scored three touchdowns.

Banner scored on a 32-yard run in the first quarter, and Aaron Savage kicked the extra point. Savage added a 36-yard field goal in the second quarter.

Pampa cut Hereford's lead to 10-7 in the third quarter after the JV Harvesters blocked a Hereford punt at the Whiteface eight. Pampa had only 50 yards offensively against Hereford.

Banner scored twice in the fourth quarter on runs of 12 and 23 yards. Savage added both extra-point kicks.

"We stopped the fullback and stopped their option," said coach Ron Young. "Jared White had a great interception for us, Cody Page had lots of tackles, and Mark and Mike Daniel played well."

"Our entire second played well, knocking down passes and running backs. It was a great defensive effort."

"Banner had those three touchdowns and had another called back," said coach Stan Carter. "He just moved up from the sophomores and is a tough runner. We're proud of the way he played. We had a third-and-41 and he picked up 42 yards. That broke their backs."

"We had some other big plays that were called back: We have to work on not holding on the road, because we had about 200 yards in penalties and they didn't have very many. I really thought our offensive line

The Hereford sophomore football team extended its unbeaten record to 5-0 with a 14-8 win over the Tula JV on Thursday in Tula.

Hereford scored all 14 of its points in the first quarter as Chris Steward broke a 45-yard touchdown run and Shea Brannon caught a 15-yard pass from Mar Mungia.

"We came out strong in the first quarter, played great, and scored twice real quick," said coach Oscar Rendon. "We lost a little momentum but picked it up again late in the game."

"Jose Nava played a real good game. He ran the best that he has run all year."

"The defense played a good game," said coach Ed Coplen. "Their touchdown (in the second quarter) came after recovering a fumble inside the 20, and a penalty on fourth down gave them one more play."

"Jesus Gonzales, Blake Buckley and Barrick McPherson played good games."

The Dumas freshmen defeated the Hereford freshman White team, 31-12, in a game at the Hereford South field.

After Dumas exploded to a 31-0 lead, Hereford fought back with a 60-yard drive in the third quarter. On fourth down at the goal line, Hereford fumbled, but offensive lineman Chris Short recovered the ball in the end zone for the touchdown.

With 5:09 to play, quarterback Ben Perry scored on a one-yard quarterback sneak. That play was set up with a 50-yard pass-and-run from Perry to Kevin Kelso.

SWC begins family feud

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The Southwest Conference football chase gets down to a heavy dose of the probation-stained defending champion Texas Aggies finally getting to play their first game in Kyle Field.

A&M hosts the surprising Texas Tech Red Raiders, 36-4 upset conquerors of the Baylor Bears last week.

Oddsmakers made the winless Aggies, who have lost to Nebraska, LSU, and Oklahoma State, eight-point favorites over the Raiders in the 2 p.m. clash in College Station.

In other games, unbeaten Arkansas was a six-point pick over Texas Christian in a 2 p.m. clash at Fayetteville; Houston was a 4½-point favorite over Baylor in a noon Raycom TV game at Waco; and the Texas Longhorns were 18-point choices over Rice in a 6 p.m. game in Houston.

Tech was the only SWC team to beat the Cotton Bowl champion Aggies last year.

Quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver was The Associated Press' SWC Offensive Player of the Week, with four touchdown passes against Baylor.

A&M's home opener against Alabama was postponed from Sept. 17 to Dec. 1 because the Crimson Tide was worried about Hurricane Gilbert, which hit Mexico.

"It will be nice to play a game in front of our student body," said A&M coach Jackie Sherrill. "We'll have the 12th man on the field with our kickoff teams and in the stands."

Chris Osgood, the transfer from Mississippi, is expected to start at quarterback for A&M.

Arkansas will be looking for its first SWC football title since a 1979 co-championship with Houston when it entertains the Frogs, a 31-17 victor over Eastern power Boston College last week.

The Hogs have won 27 of the last 29 games in the series.

Arkansas was idle last week and polished its passing attack, which is averaging almost 212 yards per game.

The Frogs' Tony Darthard has had back-to-back games of 131 yards rushing.

Jack Pardee's Cougars are leading the nation in pass offense, averaging 460 yards in victories over Louisiana Tech and Missouri. The Cougars have nine touchdown passes.

Houston had an off week to prepare for the Bears in the first regional telecast of the year featuring two SWC clubs.

Baylor returns home after three straight road games. The Bears have won the last three games between the schools.

Houston's defense is also playing well, forcing 12 turnovers in two games.

The 91 points Houston has scored are the most a Cougar team has posted in the first two games of a season in school history.

"Houston's offense can score on one play from any position on the field and that's scary when you consider they usually have about 83 snaps a game," said Baylor coach Grant Teaff. "They are much improved from last year."

Baylor starting quarterback Brad Goebel was a doubtful starter because of a sprained ankle.

Texas has won 22 consecutive games over the Owls, whose last victory over the Horns in Rice Stadium was 7-0 in 1960. Rice last defeated Texas 20-17 in 1965 in Austin.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 15-year-old girl who has had a lot of experience with a sex abuser. My parents were divorced when I was 4, and I had to visit my father every weekend and one month in the summer. He began to abuse me when I was about 7 years old. I was so confused because he told me it was a father's place to teach his daughter how to love so that she could be a good wife. He made me promise never to tell anyone our "special secret."

When I turned 11 I knew it was wrong and warned him to leave me alone or I would go to my mother and spill everything. He never touched me after that.

Last spring a wonderful teacher sensed that I was a loner, very insecure and withdrawn. She broke through the wall that I had built around myself. Once the floodgates were open I told her everything that had happened to me.

That dear woman arranged for me to have counseling, and now, after six months, I feel like a different person.

If any child who is reading this has been sexually abused, or is being sexually abused right now, please tell somebody about it. If you can't tell someone in your family, tell a teacher, or someone at your church, or a friend's mother. You must have let this awful thing go on. The best way to stop it is by telling. Remember, it is not your fault. You did nothing wrong. It started long before you were able to understand what was happening to you.

Sure, therapy is scary. It's awfully hard to talk about such a personal thing, but you must. It is like a poison that will ruin all your relationships unless you get it out of your system. Talking to a counselor is a piece of cake compared to what you've been through.—Rockford

DEAR ROCKFORD: I hope every youngster who is trapped the way you were will take your advice. You told your story in a way I never could. Thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You've been selected to settle an argument. My brother says the No. 1 singer in the world, based on number of albums sold, is Elvis Presley. I say it is Michael Jackson. Who wins the pizza dinner?—Battling B's in Burbank

DEAR B'S: You both lose. It's Julio Iglesias.
