Sales tax rebates up

Hereford sales tax returns

Hereford will receive a sales tax rebate this month of $53,075, up 9 percent from last year's October rebate.

For the year, the city has received $522,100, a 5 percent increase over 1989's rebates through October. The October rebate is for sales taxes collected in August and reported by late September to the state comptroller's office.

Deaf Smith County will get a check for $28,557, up from the $22,506 received last October. For the year the county has received $265,030, up 5.7 percent.

Over the state, Comptroller Bob Bullock sent checks for $93 million to cities and counties. For the year rebates are running almost 9 percent ahead of last year.

Many other area cities also reported an increase in sales tax receipts, including:

--Dimmitt, $26,445 this month, up 17 percent, and $487,927 for the year, up from $224,007 for the first 10 months of 1989;

--Amarillo, $1.57 million, up from $985,121, for August, and $13.4 million for the year, a 28 percent increase;

--Lubbock, $1.21 million for the month, up 10 percent, and $12.7 million for the year, a 3 percent raise;

--Frisco, $8,906, up 36 percent, for the month, and $91,576, a 5 percent increase for the year to date; --Vega, $2,349, up from $1,486, for October, and $20,332 for the year, up from $19,864 for 1989.

Social Security Increase

- Aged couple, both getting benefits, up $52 to $1,022
- Widowed mother and two children, up $62, to $1,203
- Disabled worker, spouse and children, up $52, to $1,022
- All disabled workers, up $30, to $587.
- Average retired worker, up $31, average check from $571 to $602

Figures supplied by Social Security Administration

Social Security benefits to rise

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's 40 million Social Security recipients will see their benefit checks increase by 5.4 percent starting in January, the biggest advance in 8 1/2 years, the government said today.

That increase will translate into an extra $31 per month for the average retired worker, whose monthly check will increase from $571 to $602.

The maximum monthly benefit for a worker retiring in 1991 at age 65 will rise by $47, to $1,022.

Since 1975, benefits have risen automatically each year, keeping pace with the annual inflation rate with the exception of six months in 1983 that were skipped to help bail the Social Security system out of a crisis.

The exact size of the 1991 increase became official today when the Labor Department announced the September change in the Consumer Price Index, the inflation measure used to determine cost-of-living increases for the Social Security program.

The 5.4 percent increase, which will show up in the Jan. 3 benefit checks, followed a 4.7 percent increase that took effect last January and a 4 percent increase in 1989.

It was the largest increase since a 7.4 percent jump in July 1982, when high inflation rates translated into bigger cost-of-living increases.

The 5.4 percent increase in 1991 also applies to the nation's 4.5 million recipients of Supplemental Security Income, which provides a minimum income floor for poor people who are aged, blind or disabled.

The maximum federal SSI payment will rise by $21, to $407 per month, for an individual and by $31, to $610, for a couple, as the government also said today that the maximum amount of wages subject to the payroll tax that finances Social Security benefits will climb from $51,300 to $53,400 next year.

UN head feels Gulf action likely

By CHRISTOPHER BURNS
Associated Press Writer

U.N. chief Javier Perez de Cuellar was quoted today as saying he sees little progress toward peacefully ending the Persian Gulf crisis, and that the United Nations is empowered to authorize military action against Iraq.

The secretary-general said the U.N. Security Council "can't strengthen the embargo and sanctions against Iraq, because everything possible has already been done," the German newsmagazine Stern reported.

However, he said that his pessimism did not mean he favors military moves to force Iraq to end its 12-week-old occupation of Kuwait.

Also today, Iraq nounced that it is willing to sell oil for $21 a barrel, about half the market price. The announcement appeared aimed at undermining the U.N.-ordered embargo on trade with Iraq.

Iraq already has offered free oil to the Third World but there have been no reports of any takers willing to get around a naval blockade.

On the diplomatic front, Soviet envoy and Middle East expert Yevgeny Primakov was to travel to Washington today for talks with President Bush.

"I remain a prudent optimist," Primakov said after his talks with French President Francois Mitterrand in Paris on Wednesday. "I think the Iraqi position could still become more flexible."

Primakov met in Baghdad with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein last month and has been quoted as saying Iraq might withdraw from most of Kuwait as part of a settlement. Iraq on Wednesday again rejected such reports.

Reports out of Kuwait said resistance fighters set off two car bombs on Tuesday, one of which destroyed at least three cars at an intersection heavily traveled by Iraqis. Refugees arriving in Saudi Arabia said there were reports of casualties, but no details.

Baghdad seized Kuwait on Aug. 2 in a dispute over oil, land and money and now has an estimated 430,000 troops on Kuwaiti soil. Combined with its own oilfields, Iraq controls about 20 percent of the world's crude. About 200,000 U.S. soldiers have been sent to region to stand up to Saddam. They lead a multinational land, air and naval force that has dug in in the Saudi desert and is enforcing a U.N.-ordered embargo on trade with Iraq.

In Washington on Wednesday, senators demanded that Bush get congressional approval if it decides to attack Iraqi forces. Secretary of State James A. Baker III said that would tip off Baghdad and he promised only consultation.

Papers tie Keating, senators

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate documents show Sens. Alan Cranston, Donald W. Riegle Jr. and Dennis DeConcini had more extensive dealings with the owner of the failed Lincoln Savings and Loan than previously acknowledged.

In one of the documents, Cranston thanks ex-Lincoln head Charles H. Keating Jr. for a $250,000 contribution to a pet political cause. In the same memo, the senator expresses pleasure that Keating's meeting with the chief thrift regulator "had gone so well."

The Senate Ethics Committee documents, obtained by The Associated Press, are expected to play a major role in the panel's deliberations, beginning today, on whether to intensify the investigation of the three senators.

Committee Counsel Robert S. Bennett has recommended advancing the investigation against Cranston, D-Calif., Riegle, D-Mich., and DeConcini, D-Ariz., while dropping the investigation of Sens. John McCain, R-Ariz. and John Glenn, D-Ohio. A committee decision was not expected today.

Some of the documents show: --Riegle's March 1987 visit to Keating's major company, a month before he met with banking regulators on Lincoln's behalf, had a fundraising purpose. The senator previously contended the visit to American Continental Corp. was a "brief stop" to meet employees.

Keating's fundraising efforts for Riegle, in the two months before all five senators met with regulators, were far more extensive than previously known.

A former top U.S. banking regulator, Roger F. Martin, said that just weeks before the government seized Irvine, Calif.-based Lincoln in April 1989, he received "highly unusual" calls from Cranston and DeConcini at his unlisted home number urging the sale of Lincoln rather than a takeover.

"It sounded to me as if they were reading from the same script or memo," Martin told the committee.

NEW YORK (AP) - He's 55, with a slight paunch, salt-and-pepper hair and a penchant for bologna sandwiches and cowboy hats. He's in the federal witness protection program ... or maybe producing movies ... or driving an 18-wheeler.

He's Elvis in the '90s. Or so says Gail Brower-Giorgio, author of the best-selling "Is Elvis Alive?" She's back with "The Elvis Files," her latest look at the phenomenon she's helped create about Elvis Presley and his (alleged) death 13 years ago.

The folks at Graceland say Elvis remains buried at his Memphis tourist attraction.

Biographer Albert Goldman maintains Presley committed suicide. Elvis' hairstylist, best man, personal cook and Memphis Mafia sidekicks - all in books of their own - confirm the King is gone. Gail is not convinced.

But the last word comes from an Oglvie, Minn., woman who asked her local postmaster to explain why there was no Elvis Presley stamp. The anonymous federal employee provided this ominous response:

"For a person to be on a postage stamp, he has to be dead. The government is not sure Elvis is dead."

Richards, Williams disagree over poll

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas gubernatorial campaigns disagree on the significance of a new opinion poll that found a narrowing gap between Democrat Ann Richards and Republican Clayton Williams.

Richards' aides said Williams is sinking. Williams' aides said Richards has stalled.

Several newspapers Wednesday published results of a Gallup organization telephone poll of 1,006 registered voters, conducted Friday through Saturday. Among all registered voters, it showed 45 percent for Williams and 40 percent supporting Richards, with 15 percent undecided.

"It means that Clayton Williams is in a free-fall situation, and there doesn't seem to be a bottom to the fall," said Richards press secretary Bill Cryer.

Gordon Hensley, spokesman for Williams, said the campaign believes a more accurate measure was the poll's findings among "most likely" voters. In that category, the poll had Williams ahead by a 49 percent to 39 percent margin.

"The accurate characterization here is that Ann Richards is in a total stall," Hensley said. "The Gallup numbers of most likely voters shows Williams with a 10-point lead."

Richards' spokesman said the race is getting close as election day nears. "He spent $15 million, a substantial portion of that on television, so people have seen him so many times that he has worn thin. They haven't particularly liked him, and they like him less every time they see him," Cryer said.

In addition, the Richards aide said, Williams' verbal gaffes about women have weighed heavily, and the Republican's refusal to shake

Richards' hand at a joint appearance last week "was the proverbial straw that broke the camel's back."

Hensley said the GOP camp believes Richards' support has peaked.

"She was at 40 (percent) a month ago; she's at 40 today. No matter what she spends on TV (advertising), she has been stuck there for weeks," Hensley said.

And Williams, stumping in San Antonio downplayed the Gallup survey. "Polls come and go. All polls don't show that," he said. "A poll is a snapshot of that point in time. ... The final poll is the decision of the voters on November 6."

In other political developments Wednesday:

- Seventeen months after the gubernatorial campaigns began, the first ballots were cast. Absentee ballots case under the state's "no excuses" absentee law may be cast in person through Friday, Nov. 2.

Several of the state's larger counties reported more than 100 votes cast by noon, said Mark Toohey, spokesman for the secretary of state.

"Overall, it seems like the turnout has been pretty good for the first day," he said.

- State Comptroller Bob Bullock, the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, began airing a television commercial critical of the way his Republican opponent, Rob Mosbacher, has directed the state's welfare department.

The commercial says that while Mosbacher was chairman, the Texas Department of Human Services plunged $340 million into the red but still paid nearly $1 million in bonuses to staff. "He makes the mess. You pay to clean it up," the Bullock ad charges.

DALLAS - Baylor University's recent charter change, a tactic used to dodge a possible fundamentalist takeover, is being scrutinized by some Texas Baptist leaders who feel betrayed by the move.

Vehicle thieves have no fear of the law

AUSTIN (AP) - The number of vehicles stolen annually in Texas more than doubled during the 1980s and authorities say that's because thieves no longer fear the law.

"The bottom line is there is no deterrence anymore," Cmdr. Roy Newman of the Texas Department of Public Safety told a special House Committee on Auto Theft and Uninsured Motorists on Wednesday.

"There is no fear of getting caught and there is no fear of incarceration. The profit is so great it simply outweighs the risks," he said.

In 1989, 150,974 vehicles worth $835 million were stolen in Texas, which is about an 11 percent increase from 1988 and more than double than 1980, according to DPS figures.

Texas' heavily trafficked border is the major route to Mexico and Guatemala for cars stolen in Texas and other states, Newman said.

"Vehicles leaving the country will continue to be a problem as long as the border is as wide open as it is now. Those poor people on the border almost feel like they are under siege," he said.

Jim Gimler, a public member of the committee from El Paso, said most car thieves caught there are released through plea bargain arrangements because there is no room for them in the prison system. "It's a joke," he said.

Newman also said catching car thieves is made more difficult because of poor relations between authorities on either side of the border.

"Sometimes we have a decent working relationship, but right now it's running kind of cold," he said.

Newman recommended increased penalties for auto theft, but admitted that would be of little help unless prison space is provided to incarcerate offenders.

Currently, the Texas prison system is at capacity under a federal court order to prevent prison overcrowding and thousands of state inmates are backed up in county jails awaiting transfer.

The committee also was urged to push for legislation that would require a standardized proof of car insurance card.

Sylvia Garcia, the presiding judge of Houston Municipal Court, said her judges are seeing more and more fake insurance cards.

She said many of these people buy these cards believing they are purchasing insurance.

West Texans want energy policy S&L trial of kingpin begins

ODESSA, Texas (AP) - Die-hard drillers in this West Texas oil town remember all too well the boom days of ten years ago, and they have a new attitude.

With oil futures prices at a 10-year high, the once brash crude-loving cowboys of the Permian Basin are hardly rushing to the oil patch to poke new holes in the ground.

Instead, they're sitting back, numbed by five years of losses, hoping Washington will start thinking about an energy policy.

"If we could get the federal government to put in a base price of $25 a barrel, we would see a lot more investment," said Harry Spannaus, executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association.

"We can not stand to have oil slip down to $10 to $15 a barrel. Oil that cheap would totally dismantle the industry. There would be nothing left after that."

Thousands of oil officials from around the world are gathering here at the 1990 Permian Basin Oil Show to share product innovation and ideas about the industry.

When asked about oil futures prices hitting an all time high of $41.15 last week, more than doubling prices of three months ago, leaders respond with words like, "caution" and "undependable."

The price of a 42-gallon barrel of sweet crude oil, known in these parts as West Texas Intermediate, closed down $2.17 at $36.72 in Wednesday's trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Veterans of the oil patch, who made millions in the boom days of the early 1980s, but watched the bottom fall out of the market by 1986, are taking a wait-and-see approach to the recent surge in prices, Spannaus said.

"Nobody thinks we could ever have the boom we had ten years ago," Spannaus said. "We don't have the equipment any more. The skilled man power have found other jobs and the banks that used to lend money to drillers have all gone under."

Texas was king and the Permian Basin was the throne, oozing with black gold.

"Everyone wanted to be in the oil business and this is where they came to get in," said Billy Burcham, who worked as a rig hand in the oil patch before the bust. Today, he works for an auto parts manufacturer.

"Transients from all over came here to work. Rich yankees invested here and people were spending a lot of money," Burcham said.

But the end of a eight-year war between Iraq and Iran uncovered a huge surplus of oil in the Middle East. Prices dropped and the bottom fell out.

Locals watched the demise of nearly every oil-related business that had lined up for miles on Highway 80, connecting Midland and Odessa. Pages of listings under the heading "oil" in the Yellow Pages dropped from 20 to 12.

"It's tough to see Odessa like this," Burcham said. "This town is oil. And when times were good, you would have thought this was downtown New York. But when the market dropped, people couldn't get out of here fast enough."

Fake inspection stickers sticking Texas

DALLAS (AP) - Some Texans would rather spend up to $50 for a counterfeit vehicle inspection sticker, and risk arrest, than spend hundreds of dollars for repairs, officials say.

The Department of Public Safety has been catching counterfeiters in Dallas, Tarrant and El Paso Counties and citing their customers.

"Our troopers are arresting people on a daily basis for displaying counterfeit stickers," said Sgt. Jerry Vaden with the motor vehicle inspection service at regional DPS headquarters in Garland.

Vaden said Wednesday that motorists have been trying to evade idle emission checks that went into effect in April in Dallas and Tarrant Counties and 1987 in El Paso County.

The bogus stickers are being bought by people whose cars cannot pass the test for one reason or another, Vaden said.

"Either the safety equipment is bad or they have removed a lot of the emission equipment," he said.

Displaying a counterfeit sticker is a misdemeanor that could result in a maximum fine of $200. The fake sticker is scraped from the windshield and the motorist is warned to get the car inspected. But Vaden doubts that happens.

"Probably as soon as we let them go they go buy another counterfeit because most of the cars cannot pass inspection," he said.

A recent raid in Fort Worth resulted in two arrests and the seizure of 3,500 counterfeit stickers and $17,000 in cash, Vaden said.

But that wasn't the only source, he said.

"I'm guessing we've got at least seven different types of counterfeit stickers floating around," he said.

Vaden said most of the operations are small-time with poor quality work and the same number on all stickers. However, he said the larger operators change the numbers and do a pretty good job of copying the official stickers.

The counterfeits sell for $30-$50, he said.

An El Paso man was arrested twice for making fake stickers, said DPS Sgt. Glenn Wood.

"We've probably seized about 500 in El Paso," Wood said. "They're selling them in flea markets, bars and garages that aren't inspection stations."

The annual vehicle inspections are performed by DPS-certified mechanics at privately-owned stations such as repair shops and gas stations. Checking the tailpipe requires a computer-controlled analyzer that can cost $15,000.

A legal way to avoid inspection is to get a one-year waiver from the DPS, Vaden said. A motorist can obtain a waiver if he can show the vehicle still can't pass inspection after $250 worth of repairs.

In following years, the ceiling drops to $200, but the motorist must reapply annually for a waiver, Vaden said.

"They must spend monies on their car to bring it into compliance," Vaden said. "If they cannot do that (comply), then waivers are issued."

However, Wood said some motorists would rather buy a bogus sticker and take their chances.

"That's a lot cheaper than spending $200-$300 to get your car to pass," he said.

Bride-elect honored

Hints given to care for cashmere

If you are lucky enough to own a cashmere sweater or scarf you might want to know how to take care of it so it will last.

Experts in the field recommend the following:

-Handwash cashmere in lukewarm water with a very mild unscented soap. Lavant is recommended by many experts. Let the garment soak for about 15 minutes, dipping it up and down into the mild solution. Rinse thoroughly for five minutes in lukewarm water. Gently squeeze to remove excess water, but never wring out the garment.

-Lay the sweater flat on a towel, blocking it back into its original shape. Allow the garment to dry naturally away from direct heat. To facilitate drying, turn the sweater every few hours.

-When storing your cashmere sweater never put it on a hanger, this can distort the garment and create marks. Rather, fold the garment flat and lay it in a drawer or on a closet shelf.

Is it okay to dry clean cashmere? The answer is yes, but, it is not recommended on a regular basis since the solvents and detergents used in the dry cleaning process can break down the natural oils found in cashmere. This can adversely affect the life of the garment. If intricate bead work or some other novelty is part of the garment it would be wise to check with a reputable cleaner or hand laundry for their recommendation.

Fine cashmere can and will last for years if properly cared for. In fact, fine cashmere sweaters improve over the years and the natural oils from the body can help to enrich the softness and luster of the garment.

Bridal shower held

Janet Hill was honored with a bridal shower Saturday at the home of Mrs. C.P. Worthan. The honoree and Jeff Mercer plan to exchange wedding vows on Nov. 24.

Welcoming guests with Miss Hill were her mother, Reva Hill; Mildred McBrayer, prospective groom's grandmother; and his mother, Betty Mercer.

Lisa Hill, sister-in-law of the honoree, registered guests. Ella Marie Veigel and Shirley Carlson served refreshments of punch, almond tea, assorted cookies and finger sandwiches. The table was adorned by an arrangement of pink and teal flowers. Also, decorating the table were a silver service and crystal punch bowl.

The shower honoree was presented a large electric mixer and a hand mixer by hostesses: Eleanor Goen, Margaret Bell, Adele Clements, Betty Jo Carlson, Betty Sue Worthan, Lois Mitchell, June Rudd, Willie Braddy, Marilyn Leasure, Nelda Fortenberry, Carolyn Waters, Martha Layman, Carolyn Clark, Patricia Robinson, Ella Marie Veigel, Elane Jones, Gladys Merritt, Marie Stringer, Dorothea Prowell, Shirley Carlson, and Sandi Blevins.

Sorority to attend convention

Members of Alpha Alpha Preceptor Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi discussed the area convention to be held in Perryton at their Oct. 16 meeting.

The convention is to be held Oct. 20-21. The members also discussed plans for the city wide Valentine Ball to be held February 16th at the Hereford Country Club.

Committee assignments for the entire year's activities of City Council were reviewed.

Members brought bags of beans for the Operation Good Shepherd food pantry.

Refreshments of pumpkin cake and stuffed vegetables were served by hostesses Rosemarie Robinson and Gerry Taylor.

Members present were: Lynda Brown, Barbara Burkhalter, Virginia Jackson, Phyllis Neill, Beverly Redelsperger, Karren Ruland, Brenda Thomas and Lillie Shipman.

Next meeting will be held on Nov. 6 in the home of Lynda Brown with co-hostess Jan Walsler. The program will be presented by Brenda Thomas and Alene Tindal.

Accent on Health

Calling AIDS "the most severe public threat in our country today," Gov. Bill Clements, responding to a request from Dr. Robert Bernstein, Texas commissioner of health, has named October "AIDS Prevention and Awareness Month" in Texas.

Clements stated that "education and awareness are crucial elements in the prevention of this devastating disease."

The first case of AIDS in Texas was diagnosed in 1980. As of Sept. 28, 10,757 AIDS cases had been reported in the state. Of these, 6,675 have died. The 10,757 total is a 44 percent increase over the number of cases reported a year ago. The Texas Department of Health (TDH) predicts the total number of AIDS cases in Texas will reach 20,500 by the end of 1991. AIDS cases have been reported in 172 of Texas' 254 counties.

Texas currently ranks fourth among all states in number of AIDS cases. Only New York, California and Florida have reported more. A Center for Disease Control report of AIDS cases diagnosed in the 12 month period ending Aug. 31 shows Texas with 17.7 AIDS cases per 100,000 population. The national rate is 15.8 cases per 100,000.

Houston and Dallas are among the top 15 U.S. cities in number of AIDS cases. Houston, with 4,370 cases, is fourth on the list after New York City, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Dallas is 12th.

AIDS, or acquired immunodeficiency syndrome, is caused by the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV). This virus, which destroys the body's disease-fighting system, is spread primarily through sex and the sharing of IV-drug needles. The virus can be present in the body for years before any disease symptoms appear.

Herd hosts Raiders in Homecoming

By SAM WALLER
Sports Editor

Just because the Canyon Randall Raiders are sporting an 0-6 record and have been blown out in two previous meetings with the Hereford Whitefaces is no reason to take the team lightly, according to Herd coach Don Cumpston.

The Raiders (0-6 overall, 0-1 in District 1-4A) visit Whiteface Stadium at 7:30 p.m. Friday as the Herd's (1-4-1, 0-0-1) Homecoming opponent. In the only other games played between the schools, Hereford owns wins of 43-6 and 38-0.

"When you've won one, lost four and tied one you better not overlook anybody," Cumpston said. "You better be ready to play every time you play."

"We haven't set the world on fire ourselves. We've just won one more game than they have and we better be ready to play because they're going to come over here and try to beat us."

"This is the kind of deal where they could get right back into the district race with a victory. Our team needs to realize that and I think they do. I think we'll be ready to play."

"We feel like we've improved this week. I think it's just a matter of us being mentally sharp, alert and being ready to play."

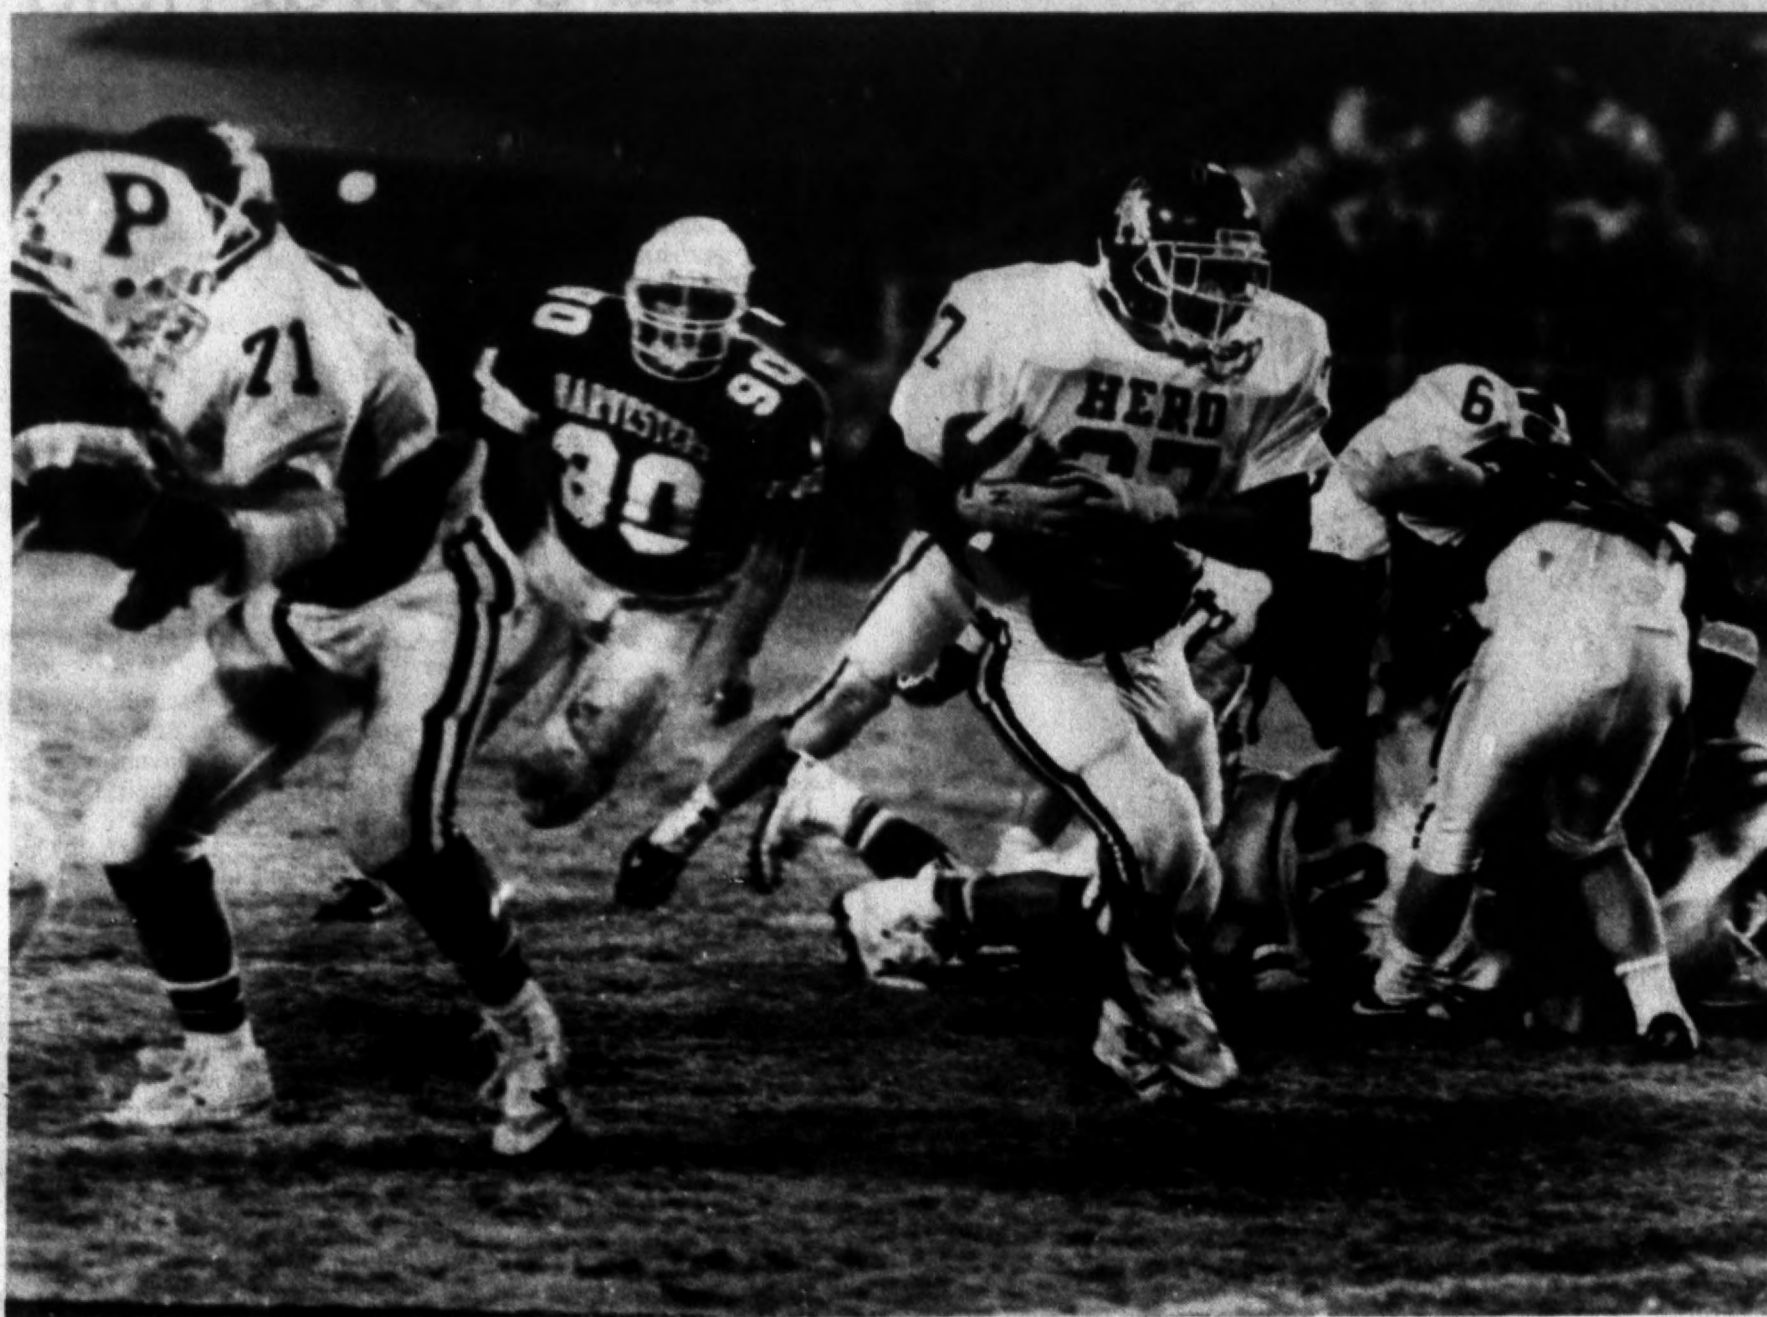

"This thing has got down now where you can kind of see a light at the end of the tunnel. Every game is critical, every game is important."

"Because of what happened last week we are in control of our own destiny and we don't need to worry about anybody but ourselves. That's what we've tried to stress to our team this week: you take care of our business and don't worry about anything else."

The Raiders have developed another strong passing attack similar to what the Herd faced in 1989. Wide receiver Doug Richardson has been the focal point of the Randall attack, catching 30 passes for 454 yards to rank sixth in the state regardless of classification.

"They're throwing about the same as they did last year," Cumpston said. "They're using a lot of drop-back passing and they do it pretty good."

Richardson is their best receiver, he's a good player. Anthony Benson (Randall's other wideout) has caught quite a few. And that little quarterback (sophomore Brandon Baker) is a good passer."

Cumpston added that the Raiders will also bring a potent ground game into the contest.

"They like to mix things up," he said. "They run the offset a lot and have run the wishbone some. They like to run the fullback on the quick trap and the tailback on the sweeps out their I set. They haven't run a whole lot of option, but they may come with some of that out of the wishbone."

"Last week they ran quite a bit wishbone against Caprock, and when they played Frenship, they took the opening kickoff 80 yards for a touchdown. They looked like a machine and just drove it right down the field."

Cumpston said the Herd will offer a variety of defensive schemes for the Raiders to solve, including some of the five-defensive back set that contributed to last year's shutout.

"We'll run some nickel," he said. "It'll depend on down and distance, but we can get in our nickel package out of our rover defense. That makes it simpler for us and easier to disguise what we're doing. And we'll bring some blitzes to try to get some pressure on the quarterback."

When the Herd has the ball,

Reds go up 2-0 with extra-inning victory Nasty Boys do it to A's CINCINNATI (AP) - At least the Oakland A's have a day off to figure out what happened.

Manager Tony La Russa and his A's have some time to consider how they lost the first two games of the World Series to Cincinnati and turned Reds Billy Hatcher and Billy Bates into local legends.

In a game that had more twists and turns than the Ohio River, Cincinnati beat Oakland 5-4 in 10 innings Wednesday night. Teams that have gone on to win 31 of 41 times.

Oakland entered the World Series with 10 consecutive postseason wins and looking for its second consecutive world championship. The A's swept the Boston Red Sox in the playoffs and had Dave Stewart well rested to open against the Reds.

Cincinnati took care of Stewart, winning 7-0 in Game 1.

The A's seemed set when Rickey Henderson scored in the first inning of Game 2. They were 26-7 during the season when Henderson scored the first run of the game.

With the score 4-4 in the 10th inning, Reds manager Lou Piniella picked Bates to pinch hit, and the diminutive rookie delivered an infield single off the usually untouchable Dennis Eckersley. It was Bates' first hit in a Reds uniform.

Chris Sabo followed with a sharp single and Joe Oliver won the game with a single just inside the third-base bag.

"I just wanted to get a good pitch when I came up to bat," Oliver said. "I had never seen Eckersley pitch before and I wanted to take a pitch and see how he threw. I was glad after I hit the ball that it stayed fair."

The A's took a 4-2 lead with three runs in the third inning off a shaky Danny Jackson. Jose Canseco hit his first homer since Sept. 16. Ron Hassey had a sacrifice fly and Mike Gallego capped the inning with an RBI single.

But on this night, the A's couldn't hold the lead or Hatcher.

Oliver doubled in the fourth and scored on Ron Oester's pinch single off Bob Welch to make it 4-3. The Reds tied it in the eighth when Hatcher led off with a triple and eventually scored on pinch-hitter Glenn Braggs' RBI force out at second.

Hatcher, a platoon player in center field, is 7-for-7 in the two games with five extra base hits. His streak of seven hits in a row broke the previous mark set by Goose Goslin (1924) and tied by Thurman Munson (1976).

He also doubled in a run and scored in the first, doubled in the third and reached on a bunt single in the fifth.

Cincinnati pitchers Scott Scudder, Jack Armstrong Norm Charlton and Rob Dibble, who got the win, combined for 7 1-3 scoreless innings.

Game 3 is Friday night in Oakland. Tom Browning is scheduled to pitch for the Reds against Mike Moore.

CINCINNATI (AP) - The Bash Brothers have run head-on into the Brash Bullpen, and it's been no contest. And neither has the World Series.

The Oakland Athletics were supposed to be a "dy-nasty," were supposed to win the Series in four straight games. But the best team in the world has been no match for the Cincinnati Reds' Nasty Boys bullpen.

In case you're scoring at home, your World Series scorecard should read: Cincinnati 2, Bay Area Bashers 0.

Oh, Jose Canseco hit one of his monstrous homers and Mark McGwire had two singles and a walk. But when it was clutch time in Game 2 on Wednesday night, the A's mostly clutched up.

"We let it get away," losing pitcher Dennis Eckersley said.

With one on and nobody out in the ninth in a 4-4 game, Rob Dibble got Canseco to hit into a double play in the ultimate matchup of power hitter against power pitcher. He then struck out McGwire swinging on a breaking ball after setting him up with a couple of 100 mph fastballs.

The A's also got a runner on in the 10th. But then Dibble struck out pinch-hitter Harold Baines.

The Reds then won 5-4, beating Eckersley and his 0.50 ERA on an RBI single over third by Joe Oliver, a platoon catcher who was hitting .179 against right-handers.

Sure, Eric Davis set the tone in Game 1 with a two-run homer to center in the first and Billy Hatcher - yes, Billy Hatcher - is 7-for-7 with five extra-base hits. But, just as they were the decisive force in the six-game National League playoffs against Pittsburgh, the Nasty Boys are making this into a Red-letter October.

First the Killer B's of Pittsburgh. Now the killer A's.

"The key to the ballgame was the bullpen," Cincinnati manager Lou Piniella said. "We held them scoreless from the third inning on. But it's something they've been doing all year."

Well, not quite like this, because nobody's bullpen has ever been this Cumpston said they will usually be facing some form of an eight-man front.

"They're in an eight-man front, either a 5-3 look or a 6-2 look, most of the time," he said. "They have run some seven-man front. But Coach (Stocky) Lamberson has run that 5-3 forever everywhere he's been. He believes in it and they do a great job with it."

The Herd will continue to spread its attack around similar to what was shown against Pampa, Cumpston said.

"We're going to mix it up quite a bit. We're going to try to keep them off balance with throwing and running, have some misdirection in there."

One point in the Herd's favor this week is the return of offensive tackle Ralph Martinez from a knee injury.

"We've got Ralph back in the line and we've moved some people around in the offensive line," Cumpston said. "We'll play Andrew Tijerina some at guard and he's looked pretty good there."

INJURY REPORT: QB T.J. Head (concussion) has been cleared to play. OL Ralph Martinez (knee) returns and will play. QB Richard Sanderson (hand) and WR Todd Selmon (knee) are out. OL Brady Wilson (knee) will miss the game but has been cleared to return to practice Monday.

good for an entire season. The Reds' bullpen has pitched 9 1-3 scoreless World Series innings and has a post-season ERA of 0.33, allowing two runs, one earned, in 27 2-3 innings.

The Nasty Boys got some help Wednesday as Scott Scudder pitched 1 1-3 scoreless innings and Jack Armstrong allowed one hit in three innings before Norm Charlton and Dibble combined for three scoreless innings.

The Nasty Boys are making life miserable for the A-team's Canseco and McGwire.

In six at-bats against the Reds' bullpen, Canseco and McGwire are 0-for-6 with four strikeouts.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has filed an application with the Texas Public Utility Commission to introduce two experimental services called Call Forwarding - Busy Line and Call Forwarding - Don't Answer.

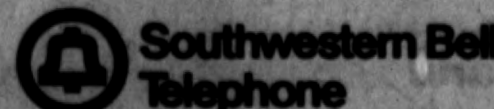

Call Forwarding - Busy Line and Call Forwarding - Don't Answer are optional call management services that will automatically forward a customer's incoming calls to a pre-designated number whenever that incoming call encounters a busy or don't answer condition. These services are for both business and residence customers. The company proposes that the services be available beginning November 19, 1990.

The monthly rates for Call Forwarding - Busy Line and Call Forwarding - Don't Answer are $1.00 for residence customers and $3.00 for business customers. The monthly rate for subscribing to both services is $1.75 for residence customers and $4.00 for business customers. During this experimental offering period the installation charges will be waived.

Call Forwarding - Busy Line and Call Forwarding - Don't Answer are expected to generate first-year revenues of approximately $752,000.

Call Forwarding - Busy Line and Call Forwarding - Don't Answer will be offered on an experimental basis in selected areas throughout the state for 12 months. The availability of these services after that time will depend on Southwestern Bell's decision of whether to offer the services on a permanent basis.

Persons wishing to comment on these services should notify the commission by November 9, 1990. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or you may call the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

Harris has Herd hacking Homecoming foe by 28

The Hereford Whitefaces come home after two straight weeks on the road for their second District 1-4A contest against Canyon Randall in what is, appropriately enough, the Herd's homecoming game.

The Harris Rating System has installed the Herd (1-4-1 for the year, 0-0-1 in district) as a 28-point favorite to handle Randall for the third time in three meetings between the schools. The Herd owns an 81-6 scoring edge over the Raiders (0-6, 0-1) in two previous lopsided wins.

The Herd used last week's 24-24 deadlock with Pampa in the 1-4A opener to move up 14 places to No. 66 in the Harris Class 4A rankings and added three points to its power rating to come in at 172.

The Raiders enter the contest more resembling the first team they fielded in 1988 than the 6-4 squad from last year. Randall has not played any of their opponents closer than 13 points and has scored more than two touchdowns in a game, including last week's 34-6 thrashing from Amarillo Caprock.

The Raiders continue to slide down the 4A list, losing six spots to No. 154 and three rating points to 146, making Randall the first district team to have a larger number for its ranking than its power rating.

DISTRICT 1-4A GAMES

The Hereford-Pampa tie gives the 1-4A standings a rather odd look after the first week of league play as Borger and Caprock occupy the top two spots at 1-0 with the Herd and the Harvesters next at 0-0-1 while Dumas and Randall are in their accustomed cellar positions at 0-1.

The situation could be cleared up or it could become even more muddled this week as Borger travels to Pampa and Dumas visits Caprock.

Dumas (0-6, 0-1) at Caprock (1-5, 1-0): The Longhorns enjoyed their first week in 1-4A by snapping a 13-game losing streak with the Randall win and claiming first place for the first time in who knows how long.

Caprock used the win to move up 11 places to No. 117 and add three rating points to 161.

The Demons are still firing nothing but blanks with their run-and-shoot offense after dropping their district opener to Borger 21-6.

Dumas traded a spot in the ranks for a rating point with the loss, stepping up one place to No. 140 while dropping one point to 153.

The 'Horns are a seven-point favorite to stomp the devil out of the Demons and remain atop the standings.

Borger (3-3, 1-0) at Pampa (2-2-1, 0-0-1): The Bulldogs have been the winningest team in the district all year long and could make a very strong case for their playoff hopes with a victory over Pampa.

Borger owns 1-4A's longest (and only) winning streak of the season after coming out on top for the second week in a row in the Dumas win. The 'Dogs made no gains afterwards, however, as they slid down three places to No. 95 and maintained their 166 rating.

The Harvesters will be looking for redemption after blowing leads of 14 and seven points against the Herd, and a loss would virtually eliminate them from the playoff picture.

Pampa, still 1-4A's highest rated team, escaped basically unscathed in the rankings, dropping only three spots to No. 52 and holding steady with a 176 power rating.

The Farmers are favored to plow the 'Dogs under by 10 points.

Vikings ready to pillage District 8-5A

ARLINGTON (AP) - Who could blame the Arlington Lamar Vikings for talking state playoffs with four games to go in the Texas high school football season?

The second-ranked Vikings not only are 6-0, including convincing 42-0 and 26-14 wins over District 8-5A rivals Arlington Sam Houston and Arlington High the past two weeks, they also field one of the state's most potent offensive weapons - tailback Shawn Walters.

Walters romped for 278 yards and two touchdowns in last week's win, his fifth 200-yard game this season. The 6-0, 220-pound junior, who transferred to Lamar this year when his family moved from Lawton, Okla., is Texas' second-leading rusher with 1,332 yards on 171 carries. Waco's Louis Fite leads with 1,366 yards, but Walters has 15 touchdowns to Fite's 13.

Walters will have a chance to increase his yardage total Friday, when Lamar battles Burlison. The Elks are winless in three district games and 2-4 overall.

In other games involving Class 5A teams ranked in the Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll, No. 1 Aldine visits Houston North Shore, third-ranked Longview takes on Nacogdoches, Fite and No. 5 Waco plays Round Rock Westwood and No. 6 Tyler John Tyler is pitted against powerhouse Marshall, a 1989 state semifinalist.

Elsewhere, seven th-ranked Dallas Carter battles North Dallas, while No. 8 Converse Judson plays host to San Antonio Roosevelt and No. 9 Richardson Lake Highlands goes against crosstown rival Berkner.

No. 4 Cypress Creek and No. 10 Midland Lee have the week off.

In Class 4A, top-ranked A&M Consolidated, which is cruising through its regular-season schedule at 6-0, plays host to Brenham, while No. 2 Lubbock Estacado takes on Lamesa and No. 3 Bay City travels to El Campo.

No. 4 McKinney, whose running back, James Thornton, leads 4A rushers with 1,128 yards, battles District 9-4A rival Allen, whose stingy defense has allowed only 148 yards and 7 points a game this season.

Elsewhere in Class 4A, it's Bridge City at No. 5 West Orange-Stark, No. 6 Henderson at Lindale, No. 8 Kerrville Tivy at Boerne, No. 9 Austin Reagan at Austin Anderson and No. 10 Big Spring at Fort Stockton.

The seventh-ranked Athens Hornets play Chapel Hill, which is 2-4 after last year's 12-4 season that ended with a 14-0 win over A&M Consolidated in the state championship.

Despite losing 20 lettermen, including all-state running back Ryan Lyons, to graduation, Arlington Lamar returned strong after losses to Odessa Permian in the state quarterfinals the past two years.

Permian, the defending state champion, won't be standing in the way this year, thanks to a September University Interscholastic League ruling that found the Panthers guilty of rules violations and barred them from the 1990 playoffs.

"I think we have a good chance of going to the state championship and coming away with it," said Walters, who already is being courted as a college prospect by Texas A&M, Louisiana State and the University of Southern California. "It wouldn't be as sweet as it would if we could play them (Permian) for the state championship."

Lamar likely will end up in the "small" bracket of the new two-tiered Class 5A playoff system, which sends the top three teams in each district into postseason play. The smallest school, according to average daily membership, competes in a 32-team bracket while the other two move into the regular 64-team field.

Lamar coach Eddy Peach doesn't care whom the Vikings meet or which bracket they're in come November. He just hopes to be there.

"Our main goal is to get to Texas Stadium and to get to the playoffs," Peach said. "Then you get to find out how good a football team you really are."

"We're proud of the last two football teams. Two years ago Permian dominated us. Last year we had a chance to win the football game. So these kids have been around this," Peach said. "They know that if you get in the playoffs, everybody has a chance of winning the thing."

Peach admits his fortune at having a star running back like Walters step in just as Lyons moved on to the University of Missouri.

"They're two different types of backs," Peach said. "Ryan was about 5-foot-10 and 175 pounds and had quick feet. He was the more slasher-cutter type runner. Shawn is a big strong kid. He runs hard and runs over people."

Lamar's opponents concur. Arlington Martin assistant Dave Hodgson, whose team must face Lamar on Nov. 2, has said Walters is "like the Moses Malone of high school football."

Walters, who carried for more than 900 yards as a sophomore on Lawton's varsity squad last year, said he is surprised at the magnitude of his success.

"With the size of this (offensive) line, I knew that we'd be able to do something," Walters said. "I didn't know we'd do this well."

Bo ready to resume hobby with Raiders

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (AP) - Bo Jackson didn't hesitate when asked what his most difficult adjustment was in his transformation from a baseball player to a football player: "This press conference."

For the fourth consecutive year at the Los Angeles Raiders training camp, Jackson had "this press conference" Wednesday, enabling the horde of interested reporters to talk with the talented two-sport star.

The usually media-shy Jackson spent 30 minutes answering reporters' questions and, after what appeared to be a couple of nervous moments, seemed totally at ease.

Jackson, 27, said on the two-week anniversary of the end of baseball season he anticipated no problems in his return to football.

"I pretty much know the offense," he said shortly before going through his first full practice session. "I just have to refresh my memory. I did that in one day, yesterday. I did some work in the past couple of days. I'm already familiar with it."

The Raiders have won five of their six games without Jackson, a far different mode for them than in his previous three NFL seasons when they went 5-10, 7-9 and 8-8 and failed to make the playoffs each time.

Jackson had his best year last season, gaining 950 yards on 173 carries and catching nine passes for 69 yards while playing in 11 games.

"At this point, I'm the third-string tailback (behind Marcus Allen and Greg Bell) and I've accepted that," he said.

Jackson might be needed Sunday against the San Diego Chargers.

Bell suffered a sprained ankle during last Sunday's 24-17 victory by the Raiders over Seattle.

"There's a chance," Raiders coach Art Shell said when asked if Jackson would play Sunday. "We'll watch him this week, see how he does and then make a decision."

An outfielder with the Royals, Jackson hit .278 with 28 home runs and 78 RBIs and 15 stolen bases in 405 at-bats. The highlight of his season came July 17 at Yankee Stadium when he hit home runs in his first three at-bats, the third of which was the 100th of his major league career.

However, in the sixth inning of that game, he suffered a shoulder injury while attempting to catch a sinking line drive hit by Deion Sanders, coincidentally the other two-sport star who's now playing for the Atlanta Falcons.

Jackson missed 5 1/2 weeks. Then, in his first at-bat upon his return, he hit a 450-foot homer against Seattle on Aug. 26, thus becoming the 19th player in big-league history to hit home runs in four consecutive at-bats.

Jackson made no predictions about how much longer he would play both sports.

"I am not in either one of these sports to be a great player. I'm doing what makes me happy. I'm not doing this for the attention. I'm doing this because this is what I love. You could say I'm doing this to breathe."

Hogs hole up to prep for UT

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Texas football coach David McWilliams isn't clairvoyant, but he knows what's going on during Arkansas' closed practices.

Arkansas has dropped two in a row and McWilliams said there are changes afoot.

"For two weeks, it hasn't worked," he said Wednesday.

In fact, Arkansas has given up 103 points and 760 yards passing in losses to Texas Christian University and Texas Tech.

Arkansas travels to Austin on Saturday and Arkansas coach Jack Crowe wants to be sure it isn't three in a row.

At Fayetteville, closed practice meant closed to fans, pro scouts and media. Some say that's a first at Arkansas.

"We're not having an ice cream social," Crowe said when asked about the goings-on.

McWilliams wasn't talking about ice cream either.

"If there are any changes, I would anticipate maybe they'd be defensively," McWilliams said.

"Offensively, they've done so well. Quinn Grovey is one of the top football players in America. He's almost impossible to get down. Nobody has really shut them down offensively, from the standpoint of moving the ball and scoring points."

Some things are different, Crowe admitted. For instance, some players are practicing in shorts, others in pads. And, he said, there are some little things for the Longhorns.

"The biggest thing is just to get the concentration back on what we're doing, quiet down our practice field a little bit," he said.

Honestly, he said, he didn't want to be distracted with specifics about the last two weeks. Arkansas gave up 428 yards passing last week; 322 the week before.

Texas is 3-1 for the season after a 14-13 victory over Oklahoma and 1-0 in the Southwest Conference. The Razorbacks are 2-3 and 0-2 in the league.

"When Texas and Arkansas play, it doesn't make a lot of difference," McWilliams said when asked about the records. "You know they're going to come down and play hard against Texas because it's Texas and Arkansas."

He said earlier in the week that he felt his fourth Texas team was different - better.

"You are always looking for confirmation and we got some by beating Oklahoma," he said.

This is the first year the Longhorns have played well in all of their big games. They won at Penn State, barely lost to Colorado and beat the Sooners.

"The last two or three years, we haven't won the big game," he said. "We knew going into the season, with the schedule we have, there would be a lot of tossup-type games. We won two of three and that certainly does help your confidence."

The Oklahoma victory wasn't pretty, he said. The defense kept the Longhorns in the game and Peter Gardere directed a 91-yard drive in the fourth quarter. That drive is the type that builds character, he said.

"Texas is as good on defense as they ever have been," Crowe said. "Offensively, they've found a way to win."

ND-Miami series put on hold

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) - Miami Hurricanes offensive tackle Mike Sullivan expects the last game between his team and Notre Dame to be memorable, which is just one more reason he hopes to play well.

"In 10 to 20 years, when you throw this tape into the VCR after you put the kids to bed, you don't want to sit there saying, 'I wish I'd played a bit harder in that game,'" Sullivan said.

Saturday's showdown at South Bend, Ind., will mark the end of one of college football's best rivalries. Notre Dame officials have declined Miami's repeated requests to continue the series, and the schools are not scheduled to play again.

The Hurricanes and Fighting Irish have met in 19 of the last 20 seasons, and the winner of the past three games has gone on to the national championship. Second-ranked Miami and sixth-ranked Notre Dame, both 4-1, are in title contention again this year.

"We hate to see the rivalry ending," Hurricanes coach Dennis Erickson said. "The last one may be the best one."

The series, labeled Catholics vs. Convicts by Notre Dame students, has strained relations between the schools. Coach Jimmy Johnson was accused of running up the score in Miami's 58-7 win in 1985. A pregame fight between the teams two years ago increased tension, and Notre Dame players have complained about taunting by the Hurricanes.

"I do think there has been a certain charge, a certain passion to the series," Notre Dame athletic director Dick Rosenthal said. "Perhaps a year or two off is not without its benefits."

Miami has won five of the past six meetings, outscoring the Fighting Irish 190-61.

Pumpkin crop says 'Happy Halloween'

Legend has it that jack-o-lanterns lead late night travelers into swamps and marshy ponds where, confused and frightened, the hapless souls fall in and drown. Great ghosts! It's nice to know that pumpkins beam a cheerier message today. Piled in heaps at farmers markets, roadside stands and supermarkets, they welcome the arrival of autumn and its first celebration, Halloween.

The biggest crop of Texas pumpkins comes from the High Plains, which has the warm days, cool nights and low humidity necessary to grow a quality product. "We have as good a quality pumpkin as anywhere in the country," said Floydada grower Gary Carthel, who sells his pumpkins in and out of state. "That's what the buyers tell us."

Carthel estimates that 14 million pounds will be harvested this season in Floyd County, the state's biggest pumpkin producer. An additional 10 million pounds are expected in nearby Bailey County. About 80 percent of the total is sold for jack-o-lanterns, the rest for pies and other pumpkin dishes.

Carthel calls pumpkins "a good cash crop. Farmers as a whole have been struggling," he said. "If you raise a good pumpkin, you can pretty well get a good price for it." This year farmers have been paid five to six cents a pound. That translates to 18 to 20 cents a pound for consumers. Carthel said the best jack-o-lantern pumpkins weigh between 15 and 20 pounds, have bright orange, blemish-free rinds and well defined ribbing. To carve one, cut off the top stem section and scoop out seeds, pulp and meat with a spoon. Outline the jack-o-lantern's face on the shell and carve with a sharp knife.

The leftover fresh pumpkin meat can be steamed or boiled to make pumpkin puree, which can be converted to pie filling or a vegetable dish. "Pumpkin is a winter squash comparable to other varieties in taste and nutritional value," said Texas Department of Agriculture home economist Carol Guthrie. "It's size makes it more difficult to cook, so less fresh pumpkin is sold directly to consumers for food."

"Sugar pumpkins" weighing two to four pounds have sweeter, more tender meat and fewer fibers than big ones. They are preferred by consumers who make pies and other pumpkin dishes from scratch. A small pumpkin can be steamed easily. Halve it lengthwise, remove the seeds and fibers and cut each half into four equal pieces. Remove the rind with a small, sharp knife and cube the meat. Steam the cubes until tender, 15 to 20 minutes. Drain the pumpkin on paper towels and process it in a blender or food processor. The resulting puree can be seasoned to taste and served hot as a side dish or used as a pie filling. Pumpkin puree freezes well.

Pumpkin is an excellent source of vitamin A and potassium. It also contains fair quantities of calcium, phosphorus and iron. With only a gram of sodium and a trace of fat, it's a fine choice for side dish or dessert. Pumpkin in Syrup, an old-fashioned Mexican dish, tastes good topped with cream. Serve it as a special after-dinner treat on Halloween.

PUMPKIN IN SYRUP
1 (2 lb.) pumpkin
1 (2 lb.) light brown sugar
1/2 lb. dark brown sugar
1 thinly sliced orange
1 cinnamon stick
1 bay leaf
1 cup water
Pinch of salt

Cut pumpkin into wedges. Remove seeds and strings. Cut wedges into 1/2 to 2-inch pieces; peel. In a 3-quart saucepan, layer peeled pumpkin pieces, brown sugars and orange slices. Add cinnamon stick, bay leaf, water and salt. Bring to a boil; reduce heat. Cover and simmer gently 2 hours. Boil gently uncovered 30 to 45 minutes longer to reduce syrup. Do not stir. Serve in small bowls with cream at room temperature or chilled. Makes 6-8 servings.

Auxiliary elects officers

Officers of King's Manor Auxiliary, with Birdene Huff to serve again as president, were elected at the semi-annual meeting held in Lamar Garden Room of the Manor Tuesday morning. Installation of officers will be during the spring meeting of the auxiliary.

Ruby Stevenson was elected vice-president, Mildred Fuhrmann re-elected secretary and Carman Angel treasurer to complete the slate of officers.

Committee heads appointed for the coming year are Betty Martin, resident aid; Irene Berger, sunshine cart; Mrs. Stevenson, birthday cards for Westgate residents; Sue Coleman, public relations; Marguerite Cole and Ruth Robbins, refreshments.

Work of the auxiliary for the benefit of King's Manor residents was summarized in reports from chairmen. Hundreds of hours of volunteer service by members were totaled during the past six months.

Plans for the next half-year were discussed briefly, including the enlistment of more members for the organization. It is open to anyone interested in its objective—to make life happier for Manor residents.

The auxiliary has been functioning for more than two decades. Its members assist with such major annual events at the Manor as the Founders Banquet and the barbecue which raises funds to help pay cost of care for some residents unable to pay their own. Members also work directly with the residents, and coordinate the volunteer work of clubs and church groups of Hereford.

After the business session Tuesday, a program on Pioneer Families of Deaf Smith County was presented by Marjorie Thomas. Coffee and snacks were served by Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Robbins from a table bright with fall colors.

Grass team organized

The citizens 4-H club met recently to discuss and organize a grass identification team.

Johanna Pate, a recent graduate of Texas A&M University, has volunteered her time to organize the team.

Pate was on the plant identification team of Texas A&M, with her team scoring in the top 5 percent in the competitions held statewide.

Pate explained that team members would learn to identify 73 different grasses by their common name. Grasses native to Texas as well as those later introduced to the state will be classified by their annual or perennial patterns as well as being judged for their forage value to livestock and wildlife.

Although grass is Texas greatest resource, it is often the most neglected. Knowing range grasses is the foundation of the ranching profession. Ranchers must know the kinds of plants growing on the range, their forage value, how to utilize them properly with the right kind of livestock and at the proper season. Regional contests are available for junior and senior teams as well as state contests for senior teams. Any 4-H members interested in joining the grass judging team needs to contact the County Extension Office as soon as possible.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - The Judds say they are breaking up because Naomi Judd, the older half of the mother-daughter country duo, has hepatitis.

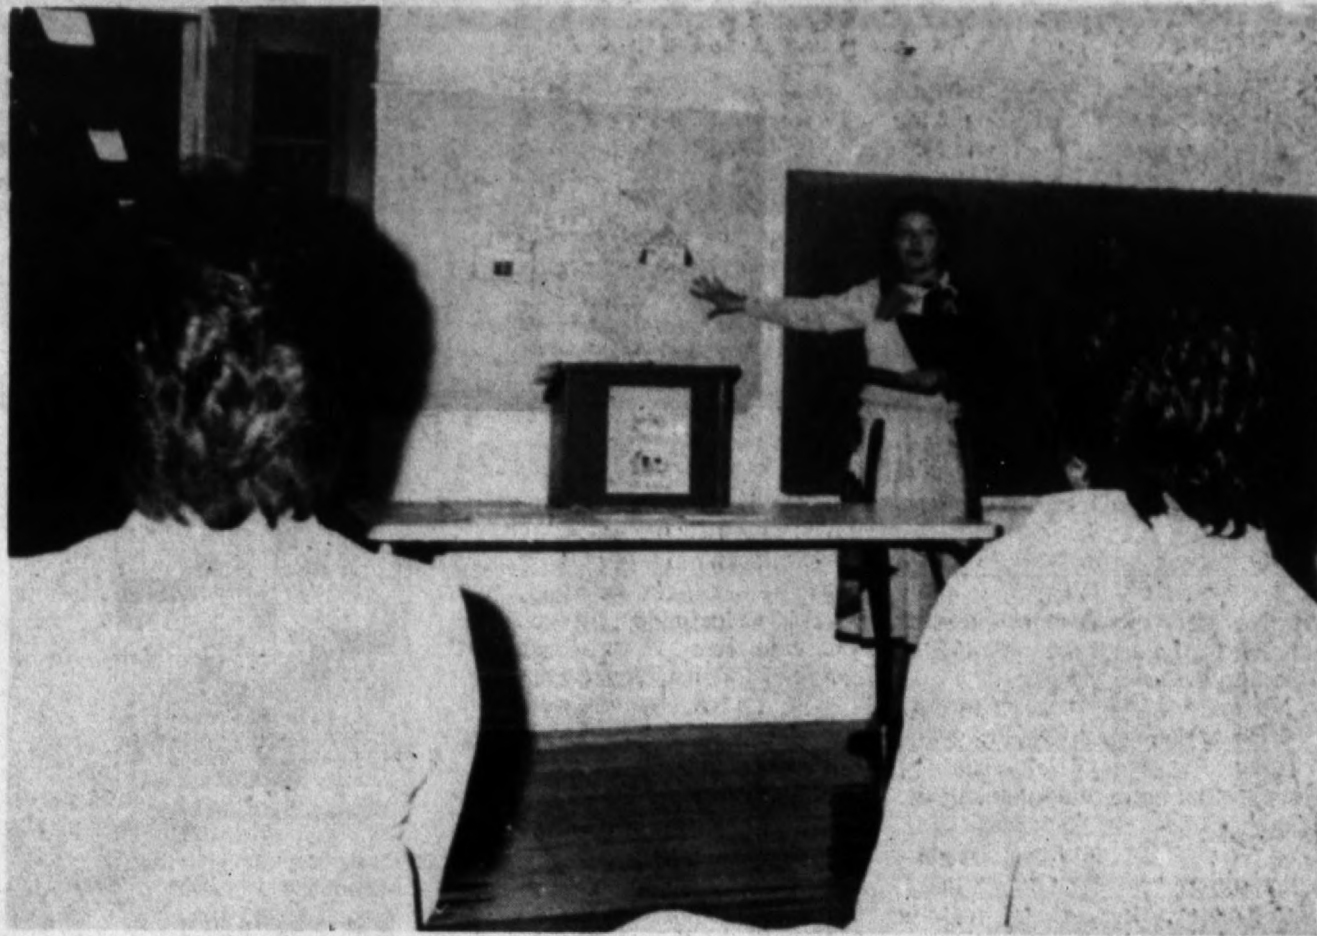

Naomi Judd, 44, said at a tearful news conference Wednesday that she will continue writing songs. Her daughter, Wynonna, 26, will start a solo career.

The Judds were voted duo of the year for the third straight year Oct. 8 by the Country Music Association. Their hits include "Grandpa," "Mama He's Crazy," "Why Not Me," "Rockin' With the Rhythm" and their current "Born to Be Blue."

Their current tour is booked through Nov. 4 at Philadelphia, but RCA spokesman Greg McCann said additional dates were certain to be set.

Program for migrant families

Marilyn Leasure, assistant superintendent for special services, informs parents of the migrant home education program for three-year-old children at a recent parent meeting conducted at Stanton Special Program Center. A family which has moved in the past six years for the purpose of agriculturally related work is classified as a migrant family. If you meet these qualifications and have not been contacted call 364-5941 and ask for the migrant recruitment office for more information.

Early anniversaries important milestones

When people think of important anniversaries, the 25th and 50th used to come to mind. However, couples are increasingly finding that early anniversaries are exceedingly important milestones in their marriages, because it is in the first 10 years that many major changes take place in their lives, from buying their first home to creating a family.

To celebrate early anniversaries, a popular tradition has evolved for couples to reaffirm their commitment to each other. The anniversary gift that recently married husbands are choosing to give their wives is the gift of love that initiated their marriage—the diamond. In the same way that the diamond engagement ring signifies engagement, a diamond anniversary band is becoming a symbol of successful marriage for millions of American couples.

A diamond anniversary band is a single row of matched diamonds, either half way or all the way around the band, which may be worn on the left or right hand. All shapes of diamonds, including round, pear, marquise, oval, square and baguette, are used in diamond anniversary bands.

When selecting a diamond anniversary band, a husband needs only to know his wife's ring size and understand the four C's of diamond quality.

Cut, to a diamond expert, denotes the precise formulation of the diamond's overall proportions. These exact little planes direct the diamond's natural brilliance to create scintillation or "fire." Many people confuse cut with the shape of a diamond. Diamonds are cut into a number of shapes depending on the nature of the original rough stone, and selection of shape is a matter of personal preference.

Color of a diamond is measured by the degree to which it approaches colorlessness, allowing the diamond to purely reflect and refract light. The best color is no color. A diamond expert defines the color of a diamond on a letter scale beginning with D, which is absolutely colorless and comparatively rare.

Clarity refers to the diamond's degree of freedom from natural interior inclusions, which have been called nature's fingerprints. The fewer the inclusions, the more valuable the stone because the flow of light is less obstructed.

Carat weight describes the weight of a diamond with a term derived from ancient times when the unit of measure was determined by the weight of a karob seed. The larger the stone, the rarer and more valuable. The rarity of a diamond is appreciated even more than the knowledge that approximately 250 tons of ore must be mined and processed in order to produce a one carat polished stone.

CHICAGO (AP) - Pat Boone says he made rock 'n' roll nice at a time when it was considered dangerous, but he doubts he will get the recognition he is due.

Boone, 56, said Wednesday he deserves to be voted into the Rock 'n' Roll Hall of Fame but doesn't think he'll make it.

"I think I unwittingly made a significant contribution to rock 'n' roll," said Boone, who had 38 Top 40 hits in seven years. "I was a catalyst who made it more palatable and acceptable at a time when there was a hue and cry about it."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother passed away recently. A friend came to my home a few days after the funeral to make a condolence call. She brought along a letter she had found in her father's desk drawer after he passed away several years ago. It was from my mother.

In the letter, my mother asked this man to please try to forget what had happened and to make a life with his wife and children. It sounded as if my mother and my friend's father might have had a brief affair while they were both married. It may have been a one-night fling. There were no details.

My mother was always considered a paragon of virtue, a pillar of society. My friend confided that she was stunned when she found the letter, but now that both principals were dead she was prepared to give it to me to tear up or do with as I pleased.

The following day I showed the letter to my sister and asked if we should show it to my father. She said we should destroy the letter at once and forget that we had ever seen it. I disagreed. After all, our father is the one who is still alive and I felt loyalty to him should take precedence over our mother's good name. In my opinion, he had a right to know the truth about his wife.

I handed the letter to my father, told him how I came to have it, asked him to read it privately and then return it to me. Several days passed and he said nothing to me about the letter. Finally I asked him point-blank what he thought about it. I was shocked by his cavalier attitude. He pooh-poohed to whole thing and said the letter did not indicate that my mother and this man had had an affair. He concluded that she was merely trying to discourage his attention without hurting his feelings. When I asked him to give the letter back to me he said, "I destroyed it."

This is typical of the way my father refuses to face reality and it burns me up. I spoke to my sister about getting him some professional help so he could learn to face the truth and deal with it, but she was not in favor of it. I then talked to a lawyer about taking my father to court and forcing him to undergo therapy for his own good. The lawyer said he would take the case, but I would have to give him a retainer of $1,500 and there was no assurance that the action would be successful.

I really love my father and want him to be an emotionally healthy person, but I don't have a lot of money to throw away. If you run this letter in the paper don't print my

NEW YORK (AP) - What's Jack Nicholson done for kicks lately?

"Had my baby," he says with a grin.

Playing Daddy is "not my most flamboyant role, but I've always liked it," the Oscar-winning actor told USA Weekend magazine in an interview for its latest edition.

Nicholson's daughter, Lorraine, was born four months ago to Rebecca Broussard, 27, a waitress he met in Aspen, Colo. Mother and child live in a carriage house on the grounds of an estate Nicholson owns, and he says he sees them every day.

name as it might embarrass my father. Meanwhile, I'd like your views. Sign me--T.R., Long Island, N.Y.

DEAR LONG ISLAND: Professional help is definitely indicated. Your father doesn't need it. You do. The deep-seated hostility you harbor for both your parents borders on the pathological. You need to get rid of it.

The lawyer who offered to take your case for a $1,500 retainer is another sweetie. I am disgusted with both of you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wrote the following after standing in line behind someone who smoked continuously:

I smoked for 17 years, two packs a day, while talking on the phone, after dinner in restaurants, in the homes of friends and in dozens of offices. I had the "right" to smoke and I enjoyed it. Finally I realized I was killing myself and quit.

Now, years later, I want to apologize to everyone I may have made sick. I am truly sorry.--Donna F., Calif.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teen-Ager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, Send $4.45.)

DPS offers helpful hints for safe winter driving

There's nothing more beautiful than a fresh blanket of new-fallen snow. Unless, of course, you're driving in it.

Winter snow and ice pose special problems for even the most experienced driver, and is more hazardous than most people realize.

Major Vernon Cawthon, Commander of the Department of Public Safety's Region Five, said, "Safe winter driving, when it's all said and done, is largely the application of common sense to some basic driving facts." The Department of Public Safety offers the following winter driving precautions.

The mistake that breeds the most trouble is too much speed on slippery roads. We must adjust our driving habits to fit the weather and road conditions.

Trips on icy roads are going to take longer, so we need to face the facts, don't be in a hurry. If the road is covered with ice or snow, start your vehicle moving slowly and gently. When stopping, apply the brakes lightly and much earlier than usual. When turning, slow your speed and turn as smoothly as possible.

If your car begins to skid, take your foot completely off the gas pedal and don't touch your brakes at all. Then, steer in the direction you want the front of the car to go. Try to use small turns of the steering wheel for skid correction. After you recover from the skid, resume a safe, reduced speed.

When the temperature drops to near freezing, roads may hold only water, but ice can quickly form on bridges and overpasses. With no soil as insulation, a bridge is five to six degrees colder than the road and freezes faster. Try not to accelerate, change lanes, or brake while crossing a bridge or overpass under these conditions.

Icy roads, also, call for more driving preparation. Before you drive, completely clean your windows-front, rear and side. Don't peephole drive!

Bags of sand or kitty litter can be helpful, if stuck on snow or ice. Throw handfuls of either under the tires to get the traction you need to pull away from an icy patch.

In an added caution, don't use cruise control, if your car has that option. Reason being, if you hit ice with your cruise engaged, your speed and the danger will increase.
