CAIRO, Egypt (AP) Secretary of State George P. Shultz today began a series of intensive consultations aimed at breaking the deadlocked troop withdrawal negotia--tions between Israel and C. Habib. Lebanon.

Shultz met privately with President Hosni Mubarak in the Egyptian leader's office at Kubbeh Palace. The two were joined later by top officials from both countries, including Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan Aly and President Reagan's special Mideast envoy, Philip

'Obviously there was very much discussion about the Lebanese situation, which is the focal point of the secretary's trip," said State Department spokesman John Hughes about Monday's session with the ambassadors.

Lebanese and Israeli negotiators on Monday suspended their four-monthold talks at Khalde, a seasort resort south of Beirut, because of Shultz's trip.

"The talks will be renewed according to developments,' Israeli spokesman Youssi Amihud told reporters.

Hughes said there also was discussion of Reagan's faltering Mideast peace initiative but "Lebanon was predominant." Reagan's peace plan

The court also heard additional information about problems with copy machines within the courthouse and library from County Clerk David Ruland, who cited of continual cases breakdowns and poor copy quality from the machines the county currently is renting from Xerox.

Ruland is suggesting that the county purchase its own copiers, and showed evidence that the costs to the county would be virtually the same as the county now pays for rented machines.

Education decline threatens nation WASHINGTON (AP) would have "an enormous

The United States is threatened by "a rising tide of mediocrity" in education that can only be stopped by tougher standards and a longer school day or school year, a blue-ribbon panel reported today.

"Our nation is at risk," the National Commission on Excellence in Education said in blistering report being. released to an audience of educators, politicians and civil leaders at the White House.

"If an unfriendly foreign power had attempted to impose on America the mediocre educational performance that exists today, we might well have viewed it as an act of war," the diverse 18-member panel declared in its unanimous report.

'The ideal of academic excellence as the primary goal of schooling seems to be fading across the board in American education," it charged.

Education Secretary T.H. Bell, who created the panel 20 months ago, said in an interview that the report documented "the quite shocking collapse in student performance" since the late 1960s.

He predicted the report impact upon the country and upon American education.'

The panel, chaired by University of Utah President David Pierpont Gardner, who is soon to become president of the University of California system, held public hearings and commissioned 40 papers from educational experts in arriving at its findings.

Its final, 29-page report about 7,000 words - is labeled, "An Open Letter to the American People," and titled, "A Nation At Risk: The Imperative for Educational Reform.

It urged that:

-School districts and state legislatures "strongly consider seven-hour school days, as well as a 200-to-220-day school year." U.S. schools typically have six hours of classes, 180 days a year.

-All students seeking a high school diploma be required to take four years of English; three years of math; three years of science; three years of social studies, and a half-year of computer science. For the collegebound, it recommended two years of foreign language. -Colleges raise their en-

Eight spelunkers survive ordeal

MOUNT VERNON, Ky. (AP) - Eight spelunkers trapped for three days on a ledge deep inside a flooded cave were brought out today by a team of rescuers.

The explorers were found on a dry ledge Monday night after the discovery of a note on a tool box. They were taken food, dry clothing and blankets by police divers while pumps worked through the night draining water from the flooded cave 50 miles south of Lexington.

The rescue team, clad in diving suits and equipped with air tanks, made their way into the cave after one of the rescuers made an "exploratory pass" through the entrance, Staubitz said. The passage was found open, thanks to seven water pumps that were draining the cave's stream at the rate of 7,000 gallons per minute.

Crews installed an extra pump outside the cave early today to speed drainage of the cavern, which was flooded when a sudden rainstorm caused a stream to rise and seal the only exit.

The spelunkers were in good spirits and good health. They were "living the life of Riley," Staubitz said.

There had been no contact with the explorers between 11 a.m. Saturday and 5:50 p.m. Monday, when a scribbled message saying all were safe was found in a tool box about 1,800 feet inside the flooded passage.

Four divers wearing air tanks, making a third rescue attempt Monday, finally reached the eight explorers at about 10:20 p.m.

"All four came out and reported all the victims are in good shape," said Jim Burch, coordinator of the Warren County Cave and Rock Rescue Team. He was monitoring the rescue efforts (See ORDEAL, page 2)

Reagan to name special envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) -President Reagan, preparing a major address to Congress on his Central American policy, has decided to name a special envoy to the region, administration sources say.

The appointment had been sought by critics of his efforts to increase aid to the wartorn area and was revealed Monday as several congressmen were returning from inspections of El Salvador and Nicaragua. One official, who asked that he not be identified by name. said Reagan's decision would be conveyed in a letter drafted at the State Department and addressed to Rep.

Clarence Long, D-Md., chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee handling Reagan's request for $60 million in emergency military aid for El Salvador.

The administration source said the letter would probably be sent after the subcommittee votes today.

Long, who held two days of talks with Salvadoran officials, declined to say what recommendation he would make to his subcommittee. but indicated he was encouraged about prospects for appointment of a high-level envoy to seek a political solution to the civil war in El Salvador.

Baby improves slightly

after marrow transplant

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - A 3-monthold Texas girl who underwent an experimental bone marrow transplant aimed at saving her life has shown "slight improvement" but remains in critical condition, a hospital spokesman said.

Stephanie Garcia was born with severe combined immune deficiency syndrome, a disorder that leaves her body defenseless against infection.

Doctors at the University of Minnesota Hospital at Minneapolis performed the bone marrow transplant April 8.

The infant has been in critical condition since the operation and kept in an isolation ward, said hospital spokesman Ralph Heussner. Her condition has been complicated by pneumonia.

"There's been a slight improvement in the pneumonia. She's listed as critical but stable," Heussner said. He said it usually takes about four Stephanie, of Raymondville, Texas, developed pneumonia shortly after birth and was admitted to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston. Tests showed the immune deficiency and her physician, Dr. Randall Goldblum, arranged for the transplant at the University of Minnesota Hospital.

Preferred treatment is a graft of bone marrow from a brother or sister, but doctors found that Stephanie's only sibling, 1-year-old Ralph Garcia, had a different tissue type.

Instead, doctors removed bone marrow from Stephanie's father, Rodrigo Garcia. The marrow was cleansed of cells that cause rejection and then transplanted into the infant during a 30-minute procedure.

Election proposal ready for debate

AUSTIN (AP) - A House-passed bill that would make the Secretary of State the official agency to collect, count and distribute election results has been approved 7-0 by the Senate State Affairs Committee.

The vote sends the measure to the Senate calendar ready for debate.

If approved by the Senate the measure must go back to the House for approval of an amendment that would allow computer monitors for the Capitol offices of the governor, lieutenant governor and speakers, in addition to those provided - for fees - for print and broadcast media.

"I can see the day when we will have a computer linkup from the county clerk's office to the secretary of state and get practically instantious election reports," said former Secrettary of State David Dean, now a Dallas attorney.

The bill also would require county clerks to report results of general elections to the secretary of state's of-Present Secretary of State John Fainter also approved the measure.

"We think this system works beautifully and serves the people of Texas very well," said John Cranfill of the Dallas Morning News, speaking for the Texas Election Bureau. Election Central will replace the TEB.

Others endorsing the computerized vote tabulating system included Ron Rogers, president of the Texas Association of Broadcasters; Marc Wilson, Associated Press, Dallas; Frank Cook, United Press International, Dallas, and Jane Ely of the Houston Post.

Farm hands get chance

for compensation

AUSTIN (AP) - House members get a second chance today to challenge a controversial bill that would give farmworkers worker's compensation benefits.

The bill, without debate, was given quick tentative approval on a voice vote Monday while Rep. Frank Madla, D-San Antonio, was manning the speaker's chair.

House members swarmed around the House clerk to register in the journal as opposed to the bill sponsored by Rep. Juan Hinojosa, D-McAllen.

Rep. Bob Simpson, D-Amarillo, called to Speaker Gib Lewis, who had resumed as presiding officer, "What happens if more than 76 members registered 'no?""

There are 150 members of the House.

However, the clerk said only 61 members had registered a no vote on the journal.

Farm and ranch workers, as well as domestic laborers, are excluded from coverage under the law. Bills to include farm and ranch laborers have been introduced since 1977.

Employers with 10 or fewer employees or payrolls of $50,000 or less would be exempted under the bill. Supporters of the bill say it is unfair to exclude farmworkers from benefits paid when they are injured or killed on the job. Opponents say the bill would pose a financial burden on farm owners who would have to buy workers' compensation insurance

Rep. Paul Hilbert, R-Spring, wants the minimum age for fireworks buyers moved up to 16 from the current 10.

Ron Waters, executive director of the State Fire Marshals Association, said he knows a fireworks ban might not be too popular across the state.

"We're going against a historical tradition close to apple pie and motherhood," he said.

A ban would be ineffective, according to Trout, who said prohibition would mean the proliferation of more dangerous "black market"

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am told that the Buffalo Lake Restoration Fund is off to a poor start. I would like to urge everyone who has fond memories of the good times experienced at Buffalo Lake when it was at its best to get behind this project and PUSH. Don't you remember the boat races, the skiing, the fishing, the picnicking? Those are some of my families most pleasant memories.

I would like for my (and your) grandchildren and great-grandchildren to have the same joys. And it is possible if we will get behind this project.

Just send your check to the Buffalo Lake Project, Box 95, Hereford, Texas 79045.

Washington native adapting to life in the Panhandle

By LINDA CAUDLE Family News Editor

Cats are known for their uncanny ability to land on their feet when they fall or jump from high places. And if Linda and Scott Ward's cats are any example, they also have very good timing.

When the Wards, including 6-year-old daughter Tara, moved to Hereford in late August, they brought their two cats with them on the five day trip from Washington State, staying in KOA Camps along the way.

And as if to signal the arrival at their new home, one of the cats gave birth to six kittens their first night here. Three weeks later their other cat had five kittens for a total of 13 felines!

We were afraid she might have her kittens while we were traveling," smiles Linda. "But both cats made it just fine."

The Wards like all kinds of animals, and currently have both of their original cats (after finding homes for the kittens), a dog, a pedigreed rabbit, four chickens, and two ducks.

Scott, who is employed at BAMCO, is a native of Hereford and has lived here all of his life except during his service in the U.S. Navy.
It was while he was stationed at Puget Sound Navel Shipvard in Bremerton, Wash., that he met Linda, who was born and raised in the Seattle area.

She had never been to this part of the country before and has had to get used to quite a few things.

"I had never seen a feedlot--or smelled one," laughs Linda. "There are quite a few dairy farms in Washington, and with the abundance of trees, the lumber industry is very big. I do miss the trees."

Linda was also surprised by the lack of water in the Panhandle, having lived on the Puget Sound Peninsula, which is nearly surrounded by water.

'The weather varies a lot more here," she adds. "It has been much colder and also much warmer than what I'm used to. Almost no one has an air conditioner there, because it doesn't get that 'The rain is different too. At home it doesn't come down so hard and it hardly ever thunders."

Linda has been working at Sweetbriar in Sugarland Mall since September. She majored in retail merchandising at Bassitt College in Portland, Ore., and has worked in large department stores buying, and handling bookwork and other management duties.

She attends Hereford Newcomers Club and says that she's enjoyed meeting people through that organization. Linda enjoys cooking, sewing, and all kinds of handcrafts, but comments that she's had to give up her main hobby, horseback riding, for the time being anyway.

"We had to sell my horse when we moved down here," she states, "but maybe we'll be able to get another one sometime. My daughter misses riding too.'

Tara attends kindergarten at Northwest Elementary School. Linda and Scott are expecting a child in June, and Linda is looking forward to going back to Washington for a visit after the baby is born.

Ann Landers Regrets time spent

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I think you made a mistake in your advice to the daughter who is exhausted from visiting her mother four times a week in a nursing home. The old lady is hostile and doesn't recognize her. She calls her by her sister's name, or her niece's or her daughter's. After every visit the poor girl has to go to bed for two hours. You told her, "Keep going. You won't regret it."

My father was sick for 13 years, the last three in a nursing home. I took care of him almost single-handed, even though I was working at a job. I felt it was my duty. My mother really knew how to set me up for a guilt trip. Her favorite line: "You'll be sorry the rest of your life if you don't take care of your father."

Well, when I look back at what I put myself through I feel like a damned fool. It was terribly hard on me and my family, and I don't see that it did any good.

My mother is now 85 and I am terrified that I will go through the same thing with her. How sad it is that love for parents can be killed when too much is demanded. Sign me-One Woman's Opinion In Quebec

Colts make Elway No. 1 pick in NFL draft

Baltimore Colts selected John Elway, the brilliant Stanford quarterback, as the first pick today in the National Football League draft.

The selection came after weeks of intrigue involving the All-American who was coveted by so many teams.

Clubs including San Diego, Dallas and the Los Angeles Raiders had shopped for additional draft picks to trade to Baltimore for the right to

In the end, the selection by the Colts was somewhat of a surprise, considering that Elway had let the Colts know he does not want to play for them. He has the option of signing a multimillion-dollar baseball contract with the New York Yankees, who paid him a reported $140,000 last summer to play minor league

The 6-212, 205-pound Elway, considered a pure passer with extraordinary arm strength and a quick release, had let it be known that he wishes to play either on the West Coast or for Dallas, and for weeks there was speculation that the Colts would trade the rights to their No. 1 pick in exchange for a wave of draft choices, veterans or a combination of both.

no one's surprise, selected Southern Methodist running back Eric Dickerson with the No. 2 choice obtained from the Houston Oilers.

Dickerson had exulted in the fact that he would be playing on the West Coast, referring to his prospective team as "Hollywood."

The Seattle Seahawks, who traded with Houston and the Rams to get the No. 3 pick, used it to take running back Curt Warner of national champion Penn State.

The fourth pick was Denver's, and the Broncos spent 13 of their 15 allotted minutes before selecting Chris Hinton, an offensive lineman from Northwestern. Hinton was a tackle who was announced as a guard by Commissioner Pete Rozelle when he read the Broncos' selection.

The San Diego Chargers. using the No. 5 pick acquired from San Francisco, chose linebacker Billy Ray Smith of Arkansas, considered to be the most dominating defensive player available, not unlike Lawrence Taylor was two years ago.

The Chicago Bears, with the first of their two openinground selections, took Jimbo Covert from Pitt, who allowed no quarterbacks sacks and only three pressures last season and graded 96 percent on his runblocking.

Kansas City, with the seventh pick, chose Penn State quarterback Todd Blackledge, who elected to graduate with his class and give up his final year of eligibility.

The Chiefs' new head coach, John Mackovic, coached the quarterbacks for the Dallas Cowboys the past few seasons and was noted for his wide-open passing attack when he was a head coach at Wake Forest Univer-

The Philadelphia Eagles then selected Michael Haddix, a Wishbone halfback from Mississippi State.

The Houston Oilers, hoping to give Earl Campbell some blocking, selected offensive lineman Bruce Matthews from Southern Cal. He played guard for the Trojans, but was listed as a tackle by the

The New York Giants, with the 10th pick of the opening round, selected defensive back Terry Kinard, the Clemson safety who is said to have enough speed to play corner-

He joins cornerback Mark Haynes, selected No. 1 by the Giants three years ago.

There was muted approval from the gallery of several hundred at the hometown Giants' pick.

The Green Bay Packers made cornerback Tim Lewis of Pitt their No. 1 choice. Lewis is considered the prototype of an NFL cornerback with good size and 4.5 speed.

The Buffalo Bills, picking 12th, went for tight end Tony Hunter of Notre Dame. The 6-41/2, 230-pound Hunter, who spent 21/2 years as a wide receiver, has run a 4.66 forty, 21.7 in the 220. He is third on the all-time Notre Dame reception list with 1,897 yards and fourth with 120 catches. He is not considered to be an overpowering blocker.

The Detroit Lions then selected James Jones of Florida, a 228-pound bruiser who was considered the best pure fullback in the draft. A power runner who has been timed in 4.7. Jones is fourth on the Florida career rushing list with 2,026 yards.

Buffalo became the first team to pick twice. Using a selection acquired from Cleveland for linebacker Tom quarterback Jim Kelly of Miami, Fla.

The New England Patriots also selected a quarterback, Illinois' Tony Eason, who played only two seasons after transferring from junior college but owns virtually every Illinois passing record and several Big Ten marks, including 6,608 passing yards. Eason also set nine NCAA passing and total offense records, more than any other quarterback.

The Atlanta Falcons drafted Mike Pitts, a 255-pound defensive end from Alabama. Pitts is an outstanding pass-rusher who also can roam from sideline to sideline on running plays. Pitts made 214 career tackle, including 30 behind the line.

The St. Louis Cardinals made cornerback Leonard Smith of McNeese State their No. 1 pick. Smith, a 1979 walkon, was named Louisiana's outstanding defensive player

The Chicago Bears had Tampa Bay's first-round pick as a result of a 1982 deal. The Bears used all of their allotted 15 minutes before grabbing wide receiver Willie Gault of Tennessee, a world-class track star who has been timSPORTS

ed in a 4.38 forty. He recently became the first man ever to win both the 60-yard dash and 60-yard high hurdles in the NCAA Indoor Track Championships.

The Minnesota Vikings selected Joey Browner, a defensive back from Southern Cal, and San Diego, with the second of its three first-round picks, added Arkansas' Gary Anderson to its arsenal of deep-threat targets for record-breaking quarterback Dan Fouts.

The Pittsburgh Steelers. switching to a 3-4 defense, added some beef to their defensive line by selecting Texas Tech's Gabriel Rivera, who has played both tackle and nose guard.

Rivera, the most accomplished defensive lineman in Texas Tech history, has had weight problems, at times going over 300 pounds. "Senor Sack" was the Southwest Conference's Defensive Player of Year last fall with 62 solo tackles and 43 assists, including five sacks.

San Diego, with its third pick of the opening round, provided a surprise by taking Gill Byrd, a defensive back from San Jose State who has been plagued by injuries the last two seasons after intercepting seven passes as a sophomore.

The Dallas Cowboys, perhaps the most computerized organization in the NFL, picked defensive end Jim Jeffcoat of Arizona State, a 255-pounder who was one of the catalysts of the nation's top defensive unit.

The New York Jets quickly followed Dallas' pick by taking quarterback Ken O'Brien of Cal-Davis, who could be this year's Neil Lomax, according to some scouts. Playing at the Division II level, O'Brien completed 217 of 349 passes last fall for 2,976 yards and 23 touchdowns.

The reaction by the fans who had begun applauding when they thought Pitt quarterback Dan Marino was the Jets' choice - was almost unanimous disapproval of new Coach Joe Walton's selection.

"We want Walt!" they chanted, a reference to former Coach Walt Michaels.

It was the first time in the history of the NFL draft that five quarterbacks were selected on the opening round. Four quarterbacks had been drafted in the first round three times in the past. The Cincinnati Bengals' first-round choice was Nebraska center Dave Rimington, a two-time Outland Trophy winner as the nation's top collegiate lineman. The 290-pound Rimington also won the Lombardi Trophy in 1982 and is perhaps the most decorated offensive lineman in college history. His crushing blocks helped Nebraska lead the nation in total offense, rushing and scoring.

The Los Angeles Raiders picked 270-pound tackle Don Mosebar from Southern Cal,

The Miami Dolphins, who lost the Super Bowl to Washington because of the inability of young David Woodley to generate an offense, made Pitt's Dan Marino the sixth quarterback selected in the opening round.

Each of the five teams in the Eastern Division of the American Conference selected a quarterback.

Marino, a classic pocket passer, slipped somewhat after an outstanding junior season. But he has an excellent arm and holds 13 school records, including 8,416 passing yards and 79 scoring passes.

The Super Bowl champion Washington Redskins completed the first round by taking Little All-America cornerback Darrell Green of Texas A&I. defensive Player of the Year in the Lone Star Conference. Green is a speedster who doubles as a dangerous kick returner.

The first round took three hours and 14 minutes.

Herd has chance to finish .500

Hereford, picked last in the district when the season began, has a chance to finish at the .500 mark in the 3-5A baseball race.

But, to accomplish that, the Herd, which boasts only four seniors on the club, must win its final two games-against Amarillo High Friday in Amarillo and Plainview Saturday here.

The district's two playoff spots still are up for grabs as the final week of regular season begins today.

Monterey leads the way with a 11-2 record, while Plainview and Coronado are a game back at 10-3. AHS is fourth at 8-6 and Hereford fifth at 6-8. The top two teams qualify for the playoffs.

Last Saturday, Hereford enjoyed its biggest ofensive output of the season, blasting Caprock, 17-4, in fixe innings.

The Herd, which improved its season record to 9-11, scored in every inning.

Caprock took a 3-0 lead in the top of the first, but the Whitefaces knotted the count in their half of the inning.

After Caprock scored a single run in the second for a 4-3 lead, it was all Hereford. The hosts erupted for five runs in the second, three more in the third and put the game on ice with six in the fourth.

USFL boss interested in today's NFL draft

NEW YORK (AP) -Among the more interested viewers of today's cabletelevised National Football League draft was the head of the competition, Chet Simmons, commissioner of the United States Football League.

It was Simmons who came up with the idea four years ago of putting this siege of name-calling on television, when he was the head of ESPN, the all-sports cable system.

It starts off with all the excitement of a Miss America pageant - the crowning of a new king to supplant last year's No. 1 choice. But along about the end of the second round or the beginning of the third, the thrill is gone, replaced by the pedestrian business of restocking

With few exceptions, the name players are gone and, one after another, the draftees are the "who's he?" of the college ranks.

This year, though, Simmons was interested in those players, too, namely because some of them were his players in the USFL, that is.

'That's what I'm most interested in now." The USFL had 118 USFL players - stars and nonentities - eligible for the NFL draft. It was far different from the first ESPNtelevised draft, when Simmons was responding to his Joe Fan instincts.

"I felt the biggest offseason news event was the draft." he said, "something I liked a lot. I thought, with ESPN having the time available, it was something that might be of interest to a lot of people.

"Granted, I knew we'd be broadcasting to a narrow audience," he went on. "The daytime audience, I'm certain, is mostly women. Still, I thought something like this, one of the biggest non-sports events in sports, could generate an awful lot of interest."

It does - in person, too. Each year, hundreds of fans line up hours before the start of the draft, pick a number a balcony area in the Grand Ballroom of the New York Sheraton in order to view the proceedings first-hand.

They sit, charts and lists at the ready, and debate the decisions of the club representatives below them. When New York's local teams, the Jets and Giants, make their selections, the spectators let the teams know exactly how they feel about it.

When the Giants, noted for their inept drafting in the 1960s and early '70s, selected little known quarterback Phil Simms in 1979, the fans' first reaction was the stony silence of dismay, followed by hooting and name-calling. When the Giants picked Lawrence Taylor two years ago, the fans gave the team a thunderous standing ovation.

The Giants haven't been the only team to make mistakes in drafting.

[88] NBA Playoffs [98] Mary Hartman, Mary Final passage sought for horse racing bill

AUSTIN (AP) - The Senate sponsor of a bill that would legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse races in Texas for the first time in nearly half a century searched today for the right combination for final passage.

The bill was tentatively approved 17-12 Thursday, but Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris needs a two-thirds vote of those present to get the bill up for a final Senate vote.

That means he must make his move at the precise moment he has such a majority. Harris, R-Dallas, said a possible "right combination" dissolved Monday when Houston Sen. Craig Washington, co-sponsor of the bill, missed the Senate session because of a federal court appearance in Houston.

With all 31 senators present, Harris figures he has a 20-11 vote, one short of the necessary two-thirds, but he reminded reporters that not every senator shows up every day - "some people get sick, some people have law business. Unfortunately, the one who had law business was one my side."

"I'm hopeful," said Harris. "I'm just going to wait until the right combination matches up. ... I've just got to play that game and see who happens to be missing on the other side tomorrow (Tuesday).'

Harris said he hunted turkeys with Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, over the weekend, but could no longer count on Montford's vote, which he got once.

Asked if the delay since Thursday had hurt his chances, Harris said, "I got a bunch of phone calls, but so did everybody else. (Sen.) Roy (Blake) said he got more for it this weekend than he did last weekend."

A similar betting bill has been locked in House committee, but Harris said, "I have reason to believe that may change, or I wouldn't push as hard as I have. I just hear from good sources over there that things will change when we get the momentum going here and get the bill over to them."

Texas has horse racing at 16 tracks, but pari-mutuel wagering - where money goes into a pool to be shared by the state, track, race winners and betters - has been outlawed since 1937. Parimutuel betting had been in effect only four years at the winners 5 percent. The rest would go to bettors.

The Senate bill would legalize betting on a localoption basis if voters pass a November 1984 statewide referendum.

If local voters rejected or approved horse race betting, another election to change the results would be held in five years.

Harris mentioned a 21/2-hour speech by Sen. John Leedom against the bill on Thursday in which Leedom, R-Dallas, talked "about the Mafia and organized crime,' and added:

"One of my friends in the horse business said, 'Shoot, if we was involved in organized crime and the Mafia, we wouldn't be having to put up

ARE YOU INVESTING WISELY?

Because Jesus was nearing Jerusalem, He told a story to correct the impression that the Kingdom of God would begin right away.

"A nobleman living in a certain province was called away to the distant capital of the empire to be crowned king of his province. Before he left he called together ten assistants and gave them each $2,000 to invest while he was gone.

"Upon his return he called in the men to whom he had given the money, to find out what they had done with it, and what their profits were.

"The first man reported a tremendous gain--ten times as much as the original amount! 'Fine!' the king exclaimed. 'You are a good man. You have been faithful with the little I entrusted to you, and as your reward, you shall be governor of ten cities.' The next man also reported a splendid gain-five times the original amount. 'All right!' his master said, 'You can be governor over five cities.' "But the third man brought back only the money he had started with. 'I've kept it safe,' he said, because I was afraid, for you are a hard man to deal with, taking what isn't yours and even confiscating the crops that others plant!"

"'You vile and wicked slave,' the king roared. 'Hard, am I? That's exactly how I'll be toward you! If you knew so much about me and how tough I am, then why didn't you deposit the money in the bank so that I could at least get some interest on it?" Then turning to the others standing by he ordered, 'Take the money away from him and give it to the man who earned the most.' 'But sir,' they said 'he has enough already!' 'Yes,' the king replied, 'but it is always true that those who have, get more, and those who have little, soon lose even that." Luke 19:11-26

State Treasurer's File No.

(Do not write in this space)

Instructions: This form, identified as Form STD-201, is prescribed by the State Treasurer for use in reporting the names and addresses of missing depositors and the advertising thereof required by Section 3, Article 2272b, Title 53, Revised Civil Statutes 1925, as enacted by the Third Called Session of the Fifty-Seventh Legislature. Each copy of this report shall consist of at least two pages, this, the beginning page and a concluding page that contains the sworn statement required by the Act. If more space is required to list the names than is provided on these pages, the additional names should be listed on intermediate pages prepared for that purpose. The pages shall be so arranged to provide the listing of the names in true alphabetical sequence. Depositories should execute this report in quadruplicate. Two complete copies of such report must be forwarded to the State Treasurer within thirty days after the date of publication of the following notice, together with two copies of proof of publication on Form STD-202, which shall be completed in accordance with instructions thereon. Depositories shall retain one copy of this report and deliver one completed copy to the newspaper. The newspaper will publish only the notice that follows, there being no need for the publication of the information contained in and preceding these instructions. It is not necessary to publish the item number requested in the left hand column of the report, and run in form is acceptable. If many, or all, addresses are within one city it is not necessary to repeat the name of such city with each name advertised, provided explanation is given. Example: "Unless otherwise indicated all addresses listed are in Example City, Texas."

Tower working for economic problems

WASHINGTON (AP) -Sen. John Tower says he expects a "sympathetic response" to his request that President Reagan appoint a special task force to tackle economic problems in South Texas created by devaluation of the peso.

Tower, R-Texas, also said he would introduce a package of legislation aimed at helping relieve economic distress in border areas.

Beware raw egg white

DEAR POLLY - When making sugar paste and Royal frosting for molded Easter eggs, raw egg white is used. Is there a danger of contracting salmonella poisoning from eating these decorated Easter eggs? If no, why not? - APRIL

DEAR APRIL - I did a lot of research into your question and it's a toughie, but here's what I found out. Yes, there is a danger of contracting salmonellosis from eating decorated Easter eggs made as you described; however, if you make them yourself using fresh shell eggs, the danger is fairly slight. That's because the salmonella micro-organisms must contaminate the egg originally for these to be any danger, or the organisms must be introduced during their preparation. Salmonella is not really very common in fresh shell eggs in this country. It is more likely to occur in commercially processed egg products like separated dried whites or eggs, since there's more opportunity to introduce contamination at various points during the processing. However, it is still possible for your eggs to be contaminated, even though that possibility is slight.

If the eggs you use are indeed contaminated, the salmonella micro-organisms will multiply rapidly at room tempera-ture. The more of these micro-organisms present in the product, the more chance there is that you'll become sick from eating it. Salmonella does not multiply or grow rapidly under refrigeration. Therefore, the safest course is to simply play it safe and make the eggs off limits for human consumption. By the way, cooking does destroy salmonella which is why it's always safer to eat cooked eggs and meat products rather than raw. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - When I make banana nut cake, I squeeze the banana in its skin until it's very soft, then peel it and drop the banana right into the batter. The banana is neatly mashed without having to get any extra dishes dirty.

Marrow and anemia

DEAR DR. LAMB - My brother was told he has hypoplastic anemia after having blood tests, bone marrow tests and numerous scans of the body.

His blood is 10.5 which I understand is low and it should be about 14. When it goes under 10 he has to get a transfusion.

Can you give me any information on this blood disease? Is the only treatment a blood transfusion?

DEAR READER - Hypoplastic anemia is also known as aplastic anemia. It means a failure of the bone marrow to produce blood cells.
There are three general factors that control the number of blood cells - the rate of formation of new blood cells, the rate of destruction of existing red blood cells and the loss of blood from bleeding.

There are many factors that affect the formation of blood cells by the bone marrow, although in about half the cases the cause is not determined. Often toxins such as benzene in solvents attack the marrow. In some cases the person has an autoimmune response and forms antibodies that attack his own marrow. Even some medicines, including Chloro-mycetin, gold shots and Butazolidine, affect the bone marrow.

When the cause can be found, the treatment is directed at the elimination of that cause, such as eliminating exposure to some toxin. Transfusions are necessary if the blood count gets too low. If laboratory evidence supports an autoimmune reaction, a number of medicines have been tried to control this, but again you have the prob-lem of medicines being harmful to the bone marrow.

In recent years bone mar-row transplants, when they can be done, have completely altered the outlook for aplastic anemia patients. Transplants are usually done in younger patients if a suitable donor can be found

DEAR DR. LAMB - Is there anything that can be done for pre-menstrual tension? Sometimes I get very high strung with so much nervous energy that I find it difficult to cope. Sometimes I get very depressed and have suicidal tendencies. It is always just before my menstrual periods. This frightens me very much because of my feelings of hopelessness.

I take Midol and sometimes it works and other times I get no relief at all. My children and husband must find it hard to live with me too sometimes.

DEAR READER - The common problem of pre-menstrual tension is not completely understood. Part of the symptoms are from retention of water, related to increased estrogen formation which causes sodium retention, which in turn causes the body to retain water. A diuretic that eliminates water may eliminate swelling, bloating and some digestive complaints.

Tranquilizers are sometimes used as are other medicines that affect a woman's mood. Adjusting hormone balance may help some but fails to help many

It is important to recognize that this is a transitory state and doesn't indicate a serious disease that will otherwise affect a person's health. The entire family needs to understand that it is not something a woman can

Onion cure

Capt. James Cook applied the 18th century onion remedy for scurvy on his voyages to the remote areas of the Pacific. At one point, he ordered each man in his crew to eat 20 pounds of onions, followed by 10 pounds two days later.

In a letter last week to James A. Baker, the president's chief of staff, Tower noted that the government had acted to help Mexico with its economic problems but that "this same degree of coordination and commitment seems lacking...to deal with the growing economic problems of South Texas."

Tower asked that Reagan appoint a federal task force to visit South Texas, evaluate the problems and come up with some solutions. Tower said Monday that he had received no reply to his request but that "I expect to get a sympathetic response in a timely way."

At a news conference, Tower said his own package of legislation would:

Allow border businesses to defer, under certain circumstances, repayment of loan money from the Small Business Administration.

-Require that the government provide technical assistance money to small cities along the border, allowing such cities to design and apply for Urban Development Action Grants.

-Require that areas affected by the peso devaluation be allotted a certain percentage of Reagan's proposed "enterprise zones," which would provide special tax and regulatory relief.

Tower said his package would also provide federal aid to school districts burdened by a Supreme Court ruling requiring that public schools provide free education to children of illegal aliens.

In addition, Tower said he would ask the Department of Commerce to give priority to border communities in processing applications to become "foreign trade zones," areas given special tax breaks in manufacturing goods for export. Tower's announcement added to the mounting pressure on the Reagan administration to help border areas cope with the loss of business and mounting unemployment caused by Mexico's economic problems. Gov. Mark White had similarly sought assistance in February from Vice President George Bush. On other topics:

-Tower said he had no comment on the possibility that the government might locate an underground repository for high-level nuclear waste in the Texas Panhandle, though he said such a move "could conceivably pose a problem."

-Tower, who has indicated he will seek re-election next year, said he expects to raise "in excess of $1 million" at a fund-raiser on Friday in Houston, which will be attended by the president.

-Tower said a concern for
