Concerning invasion

U.S. vetoes U.N. resolution

By D.C. DOELLING

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States, abandoned by most of its allies and denounced as an aggressor, today blocked passage of a U.N. Security Council resolution that would have deplored the U.S.-led invasion of Grenada.

The voting, shortly before 3 a.m. EDT, followed three days of debate by more than 60 speakers. Most of them deplored the invasion Tuesday as a violation of international law and the United Nations Charter. In debate Thursday night, U.S. Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick said the U.S. and Caribbean forces invaded the tiny island nation to stop "an authentic reign of terror" following the murder of Grenada's prime minister.

Voting for the resolution were France, the Netherlands, the Soviet Union, Poland, China, Jordan, Malta, Pakistan, Guyana, Nicaragua and Zimbabwe.

Britain, saying it had "serious doubts" about the invasion, abstained, as did Togo and Zaire.

But United States vetoed the resolution that had enough votes to pass. As one of the five permanent Security Council members, the United States can veto a resolution receiving the nine or more votes needed for adoption.

Only the Caribbean nations of Saint Lucia, Barbados, and St. Vincent and the Grenadines, three participants in the military operation, backed the United States without reservation.

The United Way campaign here had to be extended beyond its Oct. 31 closing date, because only 58 percent of the goal of $125,000 has been reached. The drive to fund 10 worthwhile community agencies is now to close Nov. 12. That's not good news, but there are positive factors. When you consider that about half of the prospects have not been heard from, then you know it is still possible for us to reach our community goal.

We urge all citizens and businesses to give the volunteer workers time to present the program, and then get those contributions turned into the workers or the United Way office. We can still make this important campaign a success and, thanks to you, it can work for all of us!

Two representatives of the state attorney general's office presented an interesting program to the Hereford Lions Club this week. Both were with the Child Support Enforcement division, and they explained their support of Proposition 6 in the Constitutional Amendment Election on Nov. 8.

Proposition 6 will be on the ballot as a vote for or against. "The constitutional amendment allowing the legislature to provide for additional remedies to enforce court-ordered child support payments."

Simply put, the amendment will provide for the garnishment of wages in order to collect delinquent child support payments. Emil Schattel, regional director of Child Support Enforcement, says one of the main goals of the amendment, besides helping children, is to cut the welfare rolls.

If the state has a tool by which to collect these delinquent payments, many families can be taken off the welfare rolls. "As a taxpayer myself, I don't like paying for the mistakes of another person," said Schattel.

Texas has long had a law that prohibits the garnishment of wages, and this amendment would make only that one exception—for payment of child support. The guilty party would have to be two months behind before the law takes effect, and no more than one-third of his paycheck, after taxes, could be taken. Schattel said it is believed the state can collect $40 million the first year.

Grenada fight continues

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press Writer

POINT SALINES, Grenada (AP) — U.S. invasion forces battled Cuban and Grenadian soldiers today in the mountains around the capital of St. George's and between the island's two airports, American officials said.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger predicted resistance would continue "because the Cuban soldiers do not seem to have any communication with Cuba and have not yet apparently heard that they've been ordered to cease fire."

"There were three or four small pockets (of resistance) and the fighting does continue to eliminate that," Weinberger told the CBS Morning News today in an interview from Montebello, Quebec.

"Some of the fighting is in the hills" along the "road between the two airports," he said.

Eight U.S. troops were reported dead, eight were missing and 39 were wounded in the invasion, the Pentagon said Thursday.

No Grenadians were known to have died, U.S. officials said, and the number of Cuban casualties was not known, nor was the number of Cubans still resisting.

When the United States invaded this Marxist-ruled nation about 1,500 miles southeast of Florida on Tuesday, U.S. officials estimated the Cuban presence at 600. Now U.S. officials say the figure was closer to 1,000. The stated purpose of the invasion was to rescue as many as 1,000 Americans trapped by last week's bloody coup.

Asked why the United States didn't know how large the Cuban buildup was, Weinberger said, "I suppose because it was carried on clandestinely and we don't have any representation on the island. We did not have any way of really determining this."

Late Thursday, U.S. artillery pounded Cuban positions in the hills overlooking the captured airfield where American troops seized Soviet and Cuban arms on the southern tip of the island.

An undetermined number of extra U.S. troops arrived Thursday, bolstering the force of 2,800 Marines and Army Rangers already on Grenada, the smallest nation in the Western Hemisphere. U.S. officials said the American assault force was followed by 300 troops from six Caribbean nations.

Journalists on the first media tour U.S. officials allowed to the island reported intense artillery fire in the mountains Thursday night three to five miles east of the airport here. Military officials also said U.S. jets made some strafing runs.

The reporters were returned to nearby Barbados after a six-hour tour.

"The fighting was super intense," said Army Maj. Jim Holt of the 82nd Airborne Division based at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

Reagan claims in speech

Nation has global responsibility

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, declaring "we are a nation with global responsibilities," says U.S. troops are in Lebanon and Grenada to protect America's interests against a Soviet "network of surrogates and terrorists."

The president went on nationwide television Thursday night to address the concerns of an American public shaken by the startling deaths of more than 200 Marines and sailors in Beirut and the invasion of the tiny island of Grenada.

In strong terms, he defended U.S. actions on both fronts and blamed the Soviets for encouraging the troubles in Lebanon and Grenada.

"The events in Lebanon and Grenada, though oceans apart, are closely related," Reagan said. "Not only has Moscow assisted and encouraged the violence in both countries, but it provides direct support through a network of surrogates and terrorists."

"It is no coincidence," he said, "that when the thugs tried to wrest control over Grenada, there were 30 Soviet advisers and hundreds of Cuban military and paramilitary forces on the island."

And he noted that 7,000 Soviet advisers and technicians are in Syria, which, he said, "makes no secret of its claim that Lebanon should be a part of a greater Syria."

He opened his address with a reminder of another Soviet act: "Some two months ago, we were shocked by the brutal massacre of 269 men, women and children, more than 60 of them Americans, in the shooting down of a Korean airliner."

"Now," he added, "in these past several days, violence has erupted again."

He vowed that those responsible for the bombing of the Marine barracks in Beirut "must be dealt justice. They will be."

The president said before U.S. and Caribbean forces invaded Grenada on Tuesday it "was a Soviet-Cuban colony being readied as a major military bastion to export terror and undermine democracy. We got there just in time."

He said the foremost mission of American forces on Grenada was to guarantee the safety of U.S. citizens there. "The nightmare of our hostages in Iran must never be repeated," he declared.

Reagan put American actions in a broader context when he said: "We are a nation with global responsibilities. We are not somewhere else in the world in the world protecting someone else's interests. We are there protecting our own.

"The world has changed," he added. "Today our national security can be threatened in faraway places. It is up to all of us to be aware of the strategic importance of such places and to be able to identify them."

Reagan said he ordered the invasion of Grenada because of an urgent request from that island's neighbors "that we join them in a military operation to restore order and democracy in Grenada. "These small, peaceful nations needed our help," the president said, adding that three of the countries do not have any arms and the others have only limited forces.

"The legitimacy of their request, plus my own concern for our citizens, dictated my decision," said Reagan.

About 3,000 American troops and 400 from six Caribbean nations have landed on the island since a pre-dawn invasion Tuesday. "It is our intention to get our men out as soon as possible," the president said. But he gave no timetable.

Reagan said the number of Cubans on the island was larger than the invaders thought and that they were a military force.

"Six hundred have been taken prisoner and we have discovered a complete base with weapons and communications equipment which makes it clear a Cuban occupation of the island was planned," he said.

"Regrettably," he said,

Cuban President Fidel Castro "ordered his men to fight to the death and some did. The others will be sent to their homeland."

The president said he was sorry about the casualties on Grenada. "They were small planned," he said.

Politicians at odds about policies

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan won praise from congressional supporters for declaring that U.S. troops in Lebanon and Grenada are needed to protect America. But critics said he ignored questions of whether the risk is worthwhile.

"It was a powerful and moving speech, stating clearly a policy of resolve and concern," said Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. "Undoubtedly, it will have a unifying effect on the American people."

"I don't think that invoking the death of brave young Americans is a reasoned justification for lack of a policy or, in the case of Grenada, an illegal or unlawful policy," said Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., one of the president's toughest critics in the House.

There was continued doubt about the wisdom of keeping Marines in the midst of a civil war in Lebanon, but Reagan appeared to make a few potential congressional converts on Grenada.

"If Americans in Grenada were in danger and if a Cuban buildup threatening our security was imminent, I can understand our action," said Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"But I don't think enough facts are in yet," Biden said. Sen. Jeff Bingaman, R-N.M., said "there may be a good case" for evacuating Americans from Grenada, "but I'm not sure that we had to essentially invade the country."

Much of the congressional comment focused on style rather than substance.

Assistant Senate Republican leader Ted Stevens said, "My wife and I couldn't help but think about President Kennedy at the time of the missile crisis."

And Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, recalled another Democratic president, Franklin D. Roosevelt and his informal radio talks to the nation.

"I couldn't help but think of fireside chats," said Percy. "The president took a highly complex situation and skillfully boiled it down to its essentials," Percy said.

"The countries that were critical of us for our operation on Grenada, now realizing that Cuba and the Soviet

Damage suit filed in murder case

AUSTIN (AP) — A $1.35 million suit has been filed on behalf of prison inmate Eroy Brown by the legislator-lawyer who successfully defended him in two Galveston murder trials, alleging that Gov. Mark White and others are trying to deny Brown a third fair trial.

Sen. Craig Washington asked U.S. District Judge James Nowlin on Thursday to stop the state from spending money on prosecuting Brown in Edinburg unless it also pays for Brown's defense.

The senator's request for a temporary restraining order was granted by Nowlin, who set a hearing for next Thursday on Washington's motion for a preliminary injunction.

The trial, which had been scheduled for Monday, was postponed until Dec. 5. Washington, D-Houston, claimed Brown has no money to pay for.

"The law, in all of its equity and fairness, promises that neither the rich man nor the poor man may be required to sleep under the bridge," said Washington in a statement.

"Certainly, the state is going to have to pay for indigent defense. That's what we have done historically, and we will in this one," White told a news conference.

Central American aliens win

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Efforts are already under way to provide more material — in both English and Spanish — to inform detained Central American aliens that they can apply for political asylum, says an Immigration and Naturalization Service official.

Testimony ended Thursday in a class-action suit brought by five Guatemalan and Salvadoran refugees against the agency. INS district director Hal Boldin, the government's final rebuttal witness, said he had no objections to what they were seeking.

Boldin said his office has begun trying to accommodate complaints of attorneys for the plaintiffs concerning visiting hours, use of telephones, lower bonds, space for consultations and the provision of Spanish language legal forms at the Port Isabel Detention Service Center.

In the suit, the plaintiffs seek to make permanent a temporary restraining order issued in late 1981 by U.S. District Judge Filemon Veia that requires the INS to inform Salvadorans and Guatemalans of their right to request political asylum.

Canadian oil man gives money to foundation

A gift of $715,752.39 from Canadian oil man Malouf "Oofie" Abraham, will go to the Amarillo Area Foundation for distribution among a dozen named institutions and causes.

Abraham's gift was accepted Wednesday at a meeting of board of directors of the foundation, which will be responsible for distributing the funds, handling any paperwork, involved and monitoring use of the funds to be sure Abraham's intent is carried out.

The greatest number of gifts—eight, accounting for a total of $280,000—will go to provide scholarships in business administration at area colleges and universities. Other major beneficiaries will include Trinity University of San Antonio, to set up a scholarship for junior and senior pre-med students, and the Canadian Area Family YMCA.

Specifically, funds will go to: Amarillo College, $20,000 for scholarships in business administration; Carson County Square House

Museum, $10,000 for the museum's permanent fund; city of Canadian, $25,000 to pay for construction of baseball diamonds in the park area; Clarendon College, $10,000 for scholarships in business administration; Girlstown U.S.A., $10,000 for scholarships in business administration, $10,000 to be used as needed; McMurry College, $10,000 for scholarships in business administration; Texas State Technical Institute, $10,000 for scholarships in business-office education; Texas Tech University, $150,000 for scholarships in business administration; Trinity University, $100,000 to establish a scholarship for junior and senior pre-med students honoring Malouf Abraham, Jr., M.D.; Wayland Baptist College, $20,000 for scholarships in business administration; West Texas State University, $50,000 for scholarships in business administration; and Canadian YMCA, $200,000 grant to be matched dollar for dollar between Oct. 13 and Dec. 15, 1983, to finance construction of the Canadian Area Family YMCA.

A remaining $100,752.39 will be held in trust by the Area Foundation to be used upon request by qualifying charities and with Abraham's approval.

In recent years, Abraham and his wife, Iris, have donated hundreds of thousands of dollars to charitable projects in the area, in addition to establishing a $1.5 million trust fund which will channel more than $2.5 million in grants to Panhandle institutions and causes in the next 20 years.

Abraham, son of pioneer Canadian merchant Nahim Abraham, grew up in Canadian, attended schools there and is a graduate of Texas Tech University. He is a former mayor of Canadian and served as a state representative from 1966 to 1970. He is an independent oil operator and also is in the real estate business.

Reagan sees no quick answers to world crises

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has offered Americans a bleak picture of a world under siege by Soviet-encouraged terrorism, with little encouragement that the danger will soon end.

In his nationally broadcast speech Thursday night, the president seemed unable even to take much comfort from the quick success of the military action in Grenada.

And there could be little optimism in the wake of the terrorist bombing in Beirut that killed more than 220 U.S. Marines and Navy men.

"Let me ask those who say we should get out of Lebanon: If we were to leave Lebanon now, what message would that send to those who foment instability and terrorism?" the president asked.

The tone of the speech reflected his apparent conviction that the Soviet Union supported "network of surrogates and terrorists" is likely to strike again and Americans must remain ever vigilant.

"The world has changed," he said. "Today, our national security can be threatened in far away places. It is up to all of us to be aware of the strategic importance of such places and to be able to identify them."

His speech also reminded Americans of the nightmare any president must live with since the day a little more than four years ago when the U.S. Embassy in Tehran was overrun and its staff taken hostage.

In describing his decision to send U.S. military forces into Grenada, Reagan said a major concern was the safety of the 1,000 Americans on the island.

The safety of the Americans on the island was not the only objective of the Grenada invasion. Their evacuation possibly could have been accomplished with U.S. forces in not much more than 24 hours.

Another objective was to remove the Cuban and Soviet influence that both the United States and Grenada's island neighbors see as a threat.

Reagan described Grenada as "a Soviet-Cuban colony being readied as a major military bastion to export terror and undermine democracy. We got there just in time."

The two events, the bombing in Beirut and the leftist coup in Grenada, were both unpredictable and beyond the control of the United States.

13th consecutive month

Economy up again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's main economic forecasting gauge rose 0.9 percent in September, the Commerce Department said today.

The rise, the 13th straight monthly gain, appeared to be another sign the economy would grow at a more moderate pace into next year.

The forecasting gauge, the Index of Leading Economic Indicators, is a compilation of a dozen forward-pointing statistics covering manufacturing, employment, prices and other areas.

The department revised its August figure up from a previously reported 0.1 percent decline to a 0.3 percent increase and July's down from a 0.8 percent gain to a 0.6 percent gain. The September, August and July advances were the smallest of the year.

By comparison, the index jumped 3.1 percent in January, as the economy headed for the booming second quarter and by more than a full percent in every other month.

Other recent reports on consumer buying and industrial production have shown a slackening in growth from their brisk spring paces. The department also has estimated that the nation's total output — as measured by the inflation-adjusted gross national product — slowed somewhat to an annual growth rate of 7.9 percent in the third quarter from the rapid 9.7 percent in the April-June period.

And, because the leading index is designed to show economic changes that will occur in coming months, today's report appeared to be another hint that the economy will continue to expand strongly through next spring, although not at the rapid rate of the spring.

Today's leading indicators report said five of 10 available indicators rose last month.

Invasion blocked Cuban takeover

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says the U.S. combat force that invaded Grenada three days ago blocked Cuban plans to take over the Caribbean island for use as "a major military bastion to export terror and undermine democracy."

Reagan made the charge in a nationally broadcast speech Thursday night, after Marines and Army paratroopers, who seized control of Grenada earlier in the day, discovered new caches of Cuban weapons and supplies. One warehouse contained munitions stacked to the ceiling.

The president praised the invasion as a "brilliant campaign," which U.S. officials say encountered stiffer-than-expected resistance from Cuban and Grenadian defenders. He said the attack was "now in the mopping-up phase" and "it is our intention to get our men out as soon as possible," but he set no timetable.

Reagan argued that if the United States had not invaded Grenada and overthrown its leftist, military government, the Cubans would have seized control of the tiny island in the near future.

Marines search rubble amid fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Undeterred by sniper fire, searchers today reached the basement of the bomb-devastated U.S. Marine post at Beirut's international airport. The Pentagon put the American death toll at 225.

Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said the base took "some sporadic sniper fire during the night" that caused no casualties. He said the Marines did not fire back.

Jordan said the sniping from southeast of the base did not interrupt the round-the-clock search through the rubble of the Marine command post, shattered by a suicide terrorist's truck bomb Sunday.

"We are still working 24 hours a day," he said. "They (the searchers) are now working on the rubble of the first floor and basement."

He said it would be at least another full day before he would be sure the Marines have been through the entire building.

Cuba standoff termed dangerous

HAVANA (AP) — The fate of about 600 Cuban prisoners and an unknown number of casualties from the U.S.-led invasion of Grenada remained clouded Thursday after Cuba rejected a U.S. offer relating to the return of the captured, killed and wounded.

A Western diplomatic source, who asked not to be identified, described the U.S.-Cuba standoff as "a dangerous situation."

Government reports broadcast by television and radio said 100 of the more than 700 Cubans on the Caribbean island remained unaccounted for.

"The number of dead and wounded remain unknown," said a Cuban foreign relations official. "But casualties are said to be less than 100."

The United States offered to send the Cubans to Barbados under authority of the Organization of Eastern Caribbean States to await transfer home by the Cuban government, but the proposal was flatly rejected by the Cuban government.

Cuba earlier had said it would accept an offer by Spain and Colombia to mediate the evacuation of the captured Cubans on Grenada.

The State Department offer was delivered Wednesday to the Cuban Interests Section in Washington, where it was relayed to Havana. The Cuban government provided copies to foreign diplomats, and one was obtained by The Associated Press.

Bush defends Reagan

By SCOTT McCARTNEY Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Vice President George Bush vigorously defended President Reagan and his policies on Grenada and the Middle East, and said he had warned the Lebanese government during a visit that the United States expects it to "go the extra mile" in upcoming peace talks.

Bush, weary from his trip to Beirut 48 hours earlier, told 1,200 Republican loyalists at a $1,000-a-plate dinner Thursday night that the Reagan Administration would not alter its commitment to Lebanon because of a terrorists' bombing that killed more than 200 U.S. Marines.

Bush prefaced his remarks on his trip to Beirut by saying, "I want to share with you some of my experiences there in Vietnam ... there in Lebanon."

The vice president said he informed Lebanese President Amin Gemayel that the United States expected Lebanon to aggressively seek compromise among its warring factions.

"I wanted him to understand ... how badly we felt about this, how much uncertainty had been created by this act, how determined this president was to do what he set out to do and help with the reconciliation of Lebanon," Bush said.

But he said he also impressed on Gemayel "how it was absolutely essential that the Lebanese themselves go the extra mile in terms of compromise, the extra mile in terms of (peace) talks ... It is essential that they know with the American people are willing to help in this quest for freedom, but it is essential that they know that we want to see some compromise and some action on their part."

The reconciliation talks are to begin Monday in Geneva.

Bush said "insidious international terrorism" will never dictate American foreign policy and that he believes the controversial U.S. presence in Lebanon will enable that strife-torn nation to survive.

The vice president traveled to Houston late Thursday night for meetings there today.

He told the guests at the $1.25 million Dallas political fundraiser, at which Reagan had been scheduled to speak, that he was "deeply moved" by the president's address to the nation Thursday night.

Reagan's speech, which was also broadcast to the dinner, was "right from the heart — so sincere, and so appropriate," Bush said.

"One thing is absolutely certain, this president knows that our foreign policy will never be changed to accommodate terrorism," Bush said.

Bush, who said he had talked to the mothers of two Texas Marines — one dead and the other missing and presumed dead — during his stay in Texas, said he could not predict when American forces would be withdrawn from Lebanon. But he declared that "it would be wrong to get out of Lebanon in the face of international terrorism."

Across the street from the hotel where Bush spoke, about 50 protesters carried artillery and machine-gun fire as helicopters and transport planes ferried in the additional troops at dusk.

U.S. military officials said the Marines and paratroopers crushed the final stronghold of the island's defenders Thursday.

One military source said the U.S. forces controlled about two square miles around the airstrip, which had been under construction with Cuban aid.

No Grenadians were known to have died, U.S. officials said, and the number of Cuban casualties was not known, nor was the number of Cubans still hiding and fighting in the hills around the capital of St. George's.

Pro-Cuban Gen. Hudson Austin, the leader of last week's Marxist coup, was reported by U.S. intelligence forces to be holed up with a woman hostage in the southern end of the island.

A Pentagon press officer, Lt. Col. Gene Sands, said it was not known how many ground forces were resisting, nor how many of them were Cubans.

Initial reports at the time of the invasion estimated there were about 600 Cubans, most of them construction workers working on extending the runway and support buildings at the airfield.

President Reagan, in a speech Thursday night in Washington, said there were nearly 1,000 Cubans, most of them part of a combat engineering unit, opposing the American-led invaders.

in number but even one is a tragic price to pay," he said.

In Lebanon, Reagan said, the United States "will do everything we can to ensure that our men are as safe as possible."

He said there was strong circumstantial evidence that the terrorists responsible for the bombing were the same that destroyed the American Embassy in Beirut several months ago. While pledging that, "those who directed this atrocity must be dealt justice," he didn't name any group as being responsible.

He said the obvious purpose of the attack was to weaken American resolve and force the withdrawal of American and French troops from Lebanon.

"Let me ask those who say we should get out of Lebanon: If we were to leave Lebanon now, what message would that send to those who foment instability and terrorism?" he said.

And Reagan also asked: —"If America were to walk away from Lebanon, what chance would there be for a negotiated settlement producing a unified, democratic Lebanon?"

—"If we turned our backs on Lebanon now, what would be the future of Israel?"

—"Can the United States or the free world, for that matter, stand by and see the Middle East incorporated into the Soviet bloc? What of Western Europe's and Japan's dependence on Middle East oil?"

—"Brave young men have been taken from us. Many others have been grievously wounded. Are we to tell them their sacrifice has been wasted?"

New, senior Art Guild members honored at tea

Members of the Hereford Art Guild met Tuesday in the Community Center for a tea honoring the new members and senior members of the club. Several of the members have been in the club since it was organized in 1945.

Meredith Wilcox presented a demonstration on the history of tole, folk and decorative art. She said that folk art is one of the oldest forms of art work and that tole painting and decorative art started to flourish about the same time.

The artists were not able to buy their paints, so they used many different articles from the kitchen and outdoors. Tole art was only used on tin at first.

The Pennsylvania Dutch gave us decorative art, said Ms. Wilcox. They used egg white or flour as a binder in their paints; yellow ochre was from clay found in the fields; and some of the best known art forms were roses, vines, ivy and grapes. Soot was used for black and walnut stain for brown.

Ms. Wilcox displayed pieces of her own art work, which gave members a better understanding of the different in art forms. Other club members also brought pictures they had done this year; about 30 pieces of art were shown.

There were 20 members in attendance. Carrie Mae Doak, Leota Cook and Eunice Petersen served as hostesses.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 29.

Square dance slated Sunday

The Country Singles Square Dance Club will host its second annual Halloween dance at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Knights of Columbus Hall. There will be no admission charge and door prizes will be awarded.

Troy Ray of Fort Worth will be the caller. Refreshments will be available. Costumes are optional.

Ode to a commode

DEAR READERS: My very first editor, back in 1955, was Larry Fanning (rest his beautiful soul)—a patient mentor and a marvelous teacher. He told me, "You can deal with any subject so long as you use the right words—with one caveat: Never take your readers into the bathroom."

Twenty-five years later I departed from his advice and printed a letter from a woman who was having an argument with her cousin. Should the toilet paper be hung so that it goes OVER the roll and hangs down in front or should it go in the opposite direction and hang close to the wall?

When I received more than 15,000 letters from readers with opinions, I knew it was an OK subject. Although I still harbor a twinge of guilt for going against Larry's admonition, here's "An Ode to a Commode," or "The Johns of Europe," by Bette Wright of Gross Pointe Farms, Mich.

In London you pulled a ring protruding from the wall, Heard a monumental flushing sound

And that was simply all. In Paris you pushed a button

On the side of the latrine, Waited 20 minutes And all was peachy keen. Lucerne was somewhat simpler,

You merely pulled a chain; Of this exceptional efficiency,

The Swiss are very vain. In Munich first you find a crank

And then you push a button, What happens after that, my friends, Is absolutely nuthin'. In Venice you must pull a knob

And then you push it in; Good grief, the water won't swirl out—

The canal just comes on in. When you turn the crank in Florence,

You get a little miffed; The toilet doesn't flush at all,

The window shade will lift. In America we don't have winding roads

Or cypress trees that line it; But look for the handle on a U.S. john

And you'll know just where to find it.

W. Virginia, Miami may be playing for Orange Bowl berth

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

The West Virginia Mountaineers journey to the Orange Bowl Saturday with the idea of securing another trip to that stadium early next year.

The 12th-ranked Mountaineers face seventh-rated Miami this weekend in a game which could determine the opponent for the Big Eight champion in the Orange Bowl Jan. 2. While the prospect of a possible matchup with top-ranked Nebraska wouldn't seem a sane objective, both teams are anxious to solidify their position at the top of the list of college football independents.

West Virginia comes off its first loss of the season, a 41-23 thrashing by Penn State. Miami, 7-1, hasn't lost since its season opener against Florida.

"We're going to have to play a much better football game defensively than we did against Penn State," said West Virginia defensive coordinator Dennis Brown. "A lot of questions that came up after the Penn State game defensively have to be answered Saturday against Miami."

West Virginia defenders missed 28 tackles against Penn State.

The other frontrunner for a berth in the Orange Bowl is third-ranked North Carolina, 7-0. The Tar Heels also have a Top 20 opponent on tap Saturday when they travel to Maryland, 6-1 and ranked 12th. The winner moves to the top of the Atlantic Coast Conference race. Since the ACC has no direct affiliation with any bowl, both North Carolina and Maryland will be coveted teams when the selections are made in three weeks.

Nebraska takes its 8-0 record to Kansas State in a Big Eight game, while No. 2 Texas, 6-0, is at Texas Tech. They are tied for first in the Southwest Conference.

Also, fourth-ranked Auburn entertains No. 5 Florida in a key Southeastern Conference tilt. No. 6 Georgia is at home to Temple before meeting Florida and Auburn in the next two weeks. Whichever team emerges on top from that three-week period will be the favorite for the host spot in the Sugar Bowl.

In the Big Ten, No. 8 Michigan is at No. 9 Illinois. The Wolverines and Illini are the only conference teams with fewer than two Big Ten losses — they're both unbeaten in conference play.

Elsewhere, it's No. 10 Southern Methodist at Texas A&M; No. 11 Washington at UCLA in an important Pacific 10 game; 14th-ranked Oklahoma hosting Kansas; Utah State at No. 15 Brigham Young; Wisconsin at No. 16 Ohio State; 17th-rated Iowa at home against Indiana, Mississippi State at No. 18 Alabama, and Notre Dame, which is tied with Boston College for the 19th spot in the rankings, entertaining Navy. The BC Eagles take on Penn State at Foxboro, Mass.

Lye tops Pensacola Open board; Zoeller, Peete keep hopes alive

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Mark Lye took the lead in golf's season-ending event, scattering ten 3's across his card, while Fuzzy Zoeller and Calvin Peete kept alive their hopes for major seasonal honors.

Lye, who scored the first victory of his nine-year PGA Tour career, once holed out from off the green, required only 24 strokes on the putting surfaces and birdied half the holes he played on the way to a spectacular, 8-under-par 63 in the first round of the $250,000 Pensacola Open golf tournament.

"I didn't expect anyone to shoot a really low score, and, after missing the cut last week, I sure didn't expect it to be me.

"But that's when these rounds come up," said Lye who had a three-stroke lead. He started his heroics Thursday with a 20-foot birdie putt on the sixth hole and got a some raised eyebrows from his partners, Cesar Sanudo and Peter Oosterhuis.

"Then I made a 40-footer for birdie on the seventh and Cesar is saying, 'aw, come on now,'" Lye said.

Lye scored a one-putt par on No. 8, and, on the ninth, missed the green again. Using a putter from well off the green, he holed out from about 70 feet.

"Nobody wanted to talk to me by that time," said Lye.

Zoeller and Peete still had hopes of overtaking some absent leaders and nailing down, respectively, the season's money-winning title and the Vardon Trophy, which goes to the golfer with the low scoring average.

Each had 68 on the Perdido Bay Country Club course, Zoeller despite pain from a chronic back condition. He received medical attention shortly after completing his round, and made a date for treatment before teeing off this afternoon in the second round.

"He was hurting. That back was really giving him trouble," said Andy Bean, who played in the same group with Zoeller. "If he wasn't going for the money title, I don't think he'd be playing."

Zoeller, with $415,689, must finish fourth or better in this last official-money event to overtake Hal Sutton, who completed his American play last week with a $426,668 total.

Peete, the defending champion, needs a 72-hole total of 269 or better to overtake Ray Floyd in the Vardon Trophy race.

With Zoeller and Peete at 68 were David Ogryn, Al Geiberger, Dave Barr, Russ Cochran, Mike Nicolette, Donnie Hammond, Ivan Smith, Larry Rinker and Mark McCumber.

Dallas, Miami, Washington picked in Sunday pro games

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

Last Sunday, Vince Ferragamo had a game that quarterbacks dream about. This Sunday, it's Dan Marino's turn.

Ferragamo threw five touchdown passes against San Francisco last week — but the Los Angeles Rams lost. These are the Rams with a pass defense ranked 26th in the National Football League, the defense that will be trying to cool off Marino, one of the hottest passers in the league.

Eric Dickerson will get his 100 yards or so against the Dolphins' defense, but the feeling from this vantage point is that Ferragamo will be brought back to earth, along with Los Angeles' dreams of a division title.

When the mistakes are made, they'll be made by Los Angeles, so take MIAMI minus 3 over the Rams.

Whether or not Dan Fouts plays for San Diego is not likely to determine the outcome of Monday night's game, only Washington's margin of victory.

The Chargers, with or without Fouts, have looked erratic and flabby on offense — and there doesn't seem to be anything anybody can do about that defense. What the Redskins will do is exploit it. Take Washington minus 3 over SAN DIEGO.

Now that the Dallas Cowboys' winning streak is over, they can get down to the business of winning their division. What better place to resume their drive toward a title than in — or behind — New York's secondary. Take Dallas minus 7 over the GIANTS.

In other games (home teams capitalized), take: PITTSBURGH minus 10½ over Tampa Bay

Calvin Murphy announces retirement from Rockets

HOUSTON (AP) — Calvin Murphy, a 13-year veteran who once hit a National Basketball Association record of 78 consecutive free throws, says he is retiring from the Houston Rockets because it's "time to go do bigger and better things."

"It's a good feeling to say I didn't need to play basketball anymore," Murphy said Thursday in making the announcement.

Chuck Nevitt, at 7-5 the tallest player in the league,

CLEVELAND minus 9½ over Houston

L.A. RAIDERS minus 6½ over Seattle

SAN FRANCISCO minus 6 over N.Y. Jets

PHILADELPHIA minus 5 over Baltimore

Minnesota minus 3½ over ST. LOUIS

Green Bay plus 1½ over CINCINNATI

New Orleans plus 2½ over BUFFALO

Detroit plus 2½ over CHICAGO

DENVER plus 2½ over Kansas City

New England plus 3 over ATLANTA

Last week's record against the spread: 6-7-1; for the season: 53-51-6.

announced Thursday he will play this season in Italy. The Rockets cut Jeff Taylor, bringing the roster within the NBA's 12-player limit.

Murphy said he would not be at the Rockets first regular season game against San Antonio Saturday.

"It takes time to put things in perspective," he said. "It is going to take some time to get this basketball out of my system," he said.

Murphy said he was pleased that his career has made him financially independent.

Information about your changing telephone service from Gary Stevens, Community Relations Manager

A look at the future

When Southwestern Bell is divested from AT&T next January and becomes a separate company, you can be sure that your local telephone service will continue working the way it always has. We're committed to providing high quality, dependable local service at affordable rates.

But there will be some changes in the way you do business with us... from how to handle telephone repairs to the way you're billed. Here's a quick look at what will and won't change:

Local service

As mentioned, Southwestern Bell will continue to be responsible for providing local telephone service. To start, stop, change or move service, you will do the same as you do now — call your Southwestern Bell business office.

Long distance service

Beginning January 1, Southwestern Bell will still provide long distance service within your surrounding area. However, calls outside this area will be handled by AT&T or other long distance companies. Since there will be more competition in the long distance market, there will be more choices for you as a customer.

Telephone sets

Between now and the first of the year, all single-line customers have the option of buying the telephones that they currently lease on a monthly basis from Southwestern Bell. If you decide to continue leasing your telephone sets, ownership of this equipment will be transferred to AT&T January 1. Of course, you'll still have the option of purchasing new telephone equipment from a variety of other suppliers. Pending agreement from the Federal Communications Commission, Southwestern Bell may also offer telephone equipment for sale, beginning in 1984.

Telephone repair

If you continue to lease the Bell-owned telephones, repairs will be handled by AT&T beginning January 1. There will be no charge for repair of these phones, provided you either mail your leased phone or return it in person to designated AT&T locations. However, if you wish to have a service technician repair your phone on your premises, there will be a charge for this service.

Telephones purchased from Southwestern Bell before the end of the year also will be serviced by AT&T, but you'll be charged for those repairs if your set is out of warranty. Of course, repairs of telephones purchased from companies other than Bell should be referred to the store they were purchased from or the manufacturer.

Billing

You'll continue to receive one bill for all services provided today by the Bell System, except for purchases of new equipment from AT&T. This single bill — to be produced by Southwestern Bell — will list Southwestern Bell's charges separately from AT&T charges. In the future, Southwestern Bell may serve as a billing agent for other long distance companies as well. Toll-free telephone numbers of each company will be featured on your statement in case you have questions about your bill.

We want you to know

At Southwestern Bell, we want you to know about these and other changes that will affect the way we do business with you. Watch for more details in the months ahead — both in this column and in your bill insert.

Remember, if you have something to talk about, don't hesitate to drop me a line.

Hope to clinch playoff berth against Sandies

Whitefaces go for win No. 8

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

The hustlin' Hereford Whitefaces aim to keep their playoff hopes alive tonight when they travel to Amarillo to take on the strong Sandies in another crucial District 3-5A contest.

The surprising Herd rules its own destiny as the 7:30 p.m. kickoff approaches. The Whitefaces can win a playoff spot by defeating the Sandies tonight and the Coronado Mustangs next Friday night.

The Whitefaces are 5-1 in district, tied with Plainview, and victories by the two leaders would assure Hereford of one of the playoff berths. Losses by either one opens up several possibilities; losses by both leaders could mean a five-way tie in the race.

Facing elimination from the race, Amarillo figures to put up a stout defensive front against the herd tonight. The Sandies have shown a smothering defense in most of their games this season, and Herd boss Jerry Taylor thinks his squad will have to play its best to move the ball.

The Sandies average 190 across the defensive front and the team has yielded only 70 points this season. The potential of that defensive unit is reflected in 7-3 and 3-0 wins over Monterey and Plainview, respectively.

Hereford has the firepower, however, if the Whitefaces operate on all cylinders. Mike Scott is the league's top passer and total offense leader; fullback Ronnie Terry is the district's top rusher, and receiver Mickey Stengel is the leading scorer and among the pass-reception leaders.

And, those three are statistical leaders because the Herd's offensive line has improved as the season progressed. The defensive unit has posted three shutouts this season, and only one team has scored more than one touchdown against them—that coming in the 21-7 loss to Plainview.

If the Herd loses another game in district play, it best not be this one. If Hereford and Plainview both win tonight, Hereford could lose to Coronado next week and be assured of no worse than a tie with Palo Duro for second place. And, since Hereford defeated the Dons, the Herd would go to the playoffs.

If Hereford wins tonight, however, and Plainview loses to Monterey, that sets up another possible finish. A loss to Coronado next week would then open the possibility to a three-way tie between Hereford, Plainview and Palo Duro. One would stay home on the flip of a coin.

If Hereford and Plainview both lose tonight, hold on to your hats—that would put the race in a five-way tie! (Assuming Palo Duro beats Lubbock High). Then, Hereford would probably have to defeat Coronado the final week just to gain a four-way tie. Palo Duro and Monterey figure to eliminate the other on the last week.

La Plata gridders win two two games against Clovis

Both the eighth and ninth graders from La Plata Junior High Schools came away from Clovis-Yucca with wins Thursday.

The older Mavericks prevailed 8-6, with the winning score coming with about 2:30 left in the game. Kasey Daniel crossed the goal line on a 65 yard pass play from Todd Shire.

In the earlier contest, Darrell Page netted two touchdowns and Tim Long added an extra point to boost the local eighth graders to a 13-6 win. Their record is now 2-5.

La Plata's ninth graders, meanwhile, improved their mark to 8-0.

Both squads are to face Stanton Junior High School next Thursday in Whiteface Stadium.

Dempsey picks up prizes, says 'I was just lucky'

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Dempsey admits he is something of a ham, probably because his father was a vaudeville singer.

However, that had nothing to do with Dempsey being tagged one of the "Three Stooges" along with infielders Rich Dauer and Todd Cruz, the light-hitting bottom of the Baltimore Orioles' lineup.

Dempsey put on quite a show himself in the World Series — enough to win the Most Valuable Player award in helping the Baltimore Orioles to a five-game triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Thursday, the 35-year-old catcher, best known for his handling of pitchers and defensive work, came to New York to pick up his prizes, from Sport magazine, a new Pontiac Trans Am, and from the baseball commissioner's office, a trophy.

"I'm the only Series MVP to get pinch-hit for twice," said Dempsey at a news conference. "I'm pretty excited. I never thought that a No. 8 hitter who has a .230 or .240 average most of my career would win it."

Dempsey batted .385 and set a five-game World Series record for extra base hits with four doubles and a home run — which was his total hit production in the Series. His lifetime average is .240.

"I was guessing fastball that last game," said Dempsey, referring to his homer. "I was just lucky." He hit only two homers during the regular season and had batted .167 in the four-game American League Championship Series sweep over the Chicago White Sox.

Dempsey said that things were much calmer this year under Manager Joe Altobelli, who succeeded longtime skipper Earl Weaver.

"Joe's pretty laid back," he said. "Not like Earl Weaver, who used to scream and holler all the time about how to pitch certain batters. The game plan was different, but the outcome was the same."

Dempsey thinks the Orioles will be on top for years to come because they are "pitching rich and pitching is the name of the game. Nobody is close to us in talent."

He ticked off starters Scott McGregor, Mike Flanagan, Jim Palmer, Dennis Martinez and Storm Davis and the bullpen headed by Tippy Martinez and Sammy Stewart.

Another catching Dempsey may be in the Orioles' future. Rick's brother, Pat, played for the Orioles' Charlotte and Rochester farm clubs last season after six years in the Oakland system.

"He's 6-foot-5 and about 210, batted about .318 last season and hits a long ball," said the 6-foot, 184-pound Dempsey. "But I'm not too anxious to see him up here because he's a right-handed hitter."

Dempsey, also a righty hitter, was platooned with lefty swinging Joe Nolan during the season, but Altobelli started Dempsey in every Series game — a move that paid off.

Volleyers end season; JV team wins

Volleyers from Hereford High School ended their seasons Thursday night, with varsity girls losers and the junior varsity squad, for the first time this year, victorious.

Palo Duro's Dons came here to first win the varsity match 15-10, 15-12. HHS captain Shonda White, a senior, led the Whitefaces with six points. With four apiece were Rosemary Castillo and Nancy Moreno.

In the JV contest, Hereford prevailed 15-11, 7-15, 15-1. Leading the way for HHS were Nancy Escobedo (10 tallies), Elida Acosta and Sharon Wright (both seven).

Palmer is free agent, may stay with Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Although Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles has filed for free agent status, the 38-year-old righthander will likely stay with the reigning world champions for at least one more season, his agent says.

Baltimore attorney Ron Shapiro said he and the three-time Cy Young Award winner are continuing to negotiate with the Orioles and are "close to an agreement."

Palmer, who became the 38th player to file with the Major League Players Association for the Nov. 7 re-entry draft, took the action only as an "important defensive measure in case negotiations broke down," Shapiro said late Thursday.

The sticking point in the negotiations has been that Orioles general manager Hank Peters is in Palm Springs, Calif., at a general managers meeting and Shapiro is in Baltimore. "It's been hard getting in touch with each other," Shapiro said.

Shapiro said both sides have agreed on the essentials of the contract and have only to work out certain details. He added that it appears unlikely Palmer will have to take advantage of free agency.

The two sides are talking about a one-year contract, but Shapiro would not disclose any dollar amounts.

Palmer wants to show next season that "he can be the player he was in 1982," said Shapiro. Palmer was 15-5 in 1982, winning 11 straight games over a three-month period.

A veteran of 18 major-league seasons, Palmer was sidelined by injuries for much of the 1983 season, posting a 5-4 record with a 4.23 earned run average, and appearing in just 14 games. He was the winning pitcher in the third game of the World Series against the Philadelphia Phillies.

He's been with the Orioles his entire major league career, starting in 1965.

Color

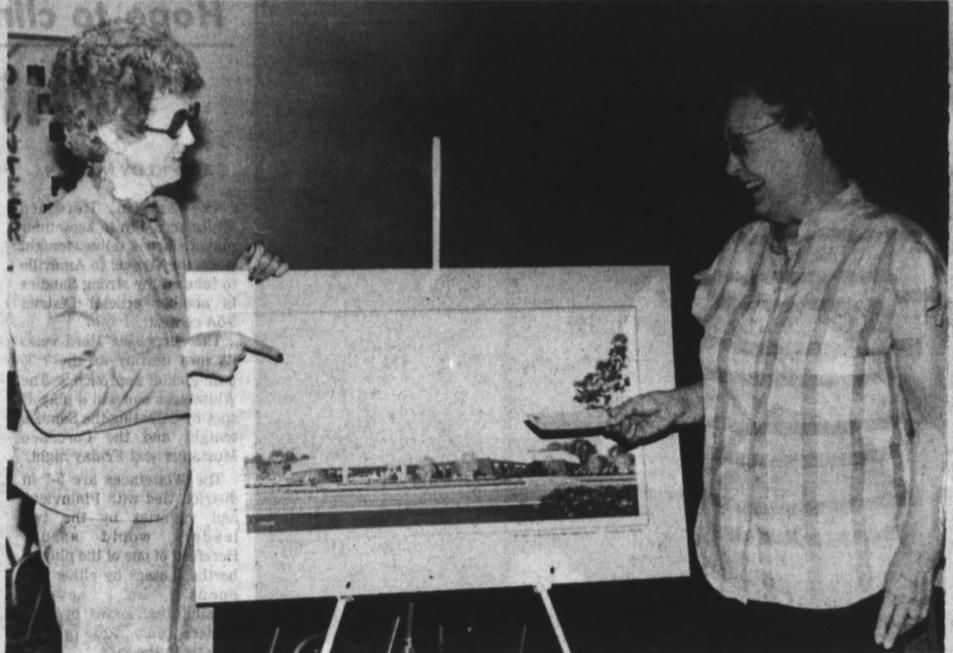

Color, an electromagnetic wave phenomenon, is a sensation produced through the excitation of the retina of the eye by rays of light. The colors of the spectrum may be produced by viewing a light beam refracted by passage through a prism, which breaks the light into component wave lengths. Customarily the six primary colors of the spectrum are red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet.

Miss Hand honored at bridal shower

A bridal shower was held for Tawnya Hand, bride-elect of Scott Morrison, Tuesday evening in the E.B. Black House. Providing wedding selections was pianist, Leta Kaul. Receiving guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Burke Hand; her grandmother, Mrs. L.R. Hand; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Kay Morrison; and his grandmother, Mrs. Ira Scott. Kathy Urbanczyk invited guests to register at a marble topped table centered with an arrangement of mauve baby mums. The serving table was covered with a navy blue and lace cloth and was centered with a silver epergne holding teal blue candles amidst an arrangement of teal blue silk flowers. Silver appointments were also used. Teresa O'Brien poured punch and coffee was served by Sherry Thompson. Cookies and nuts were also provided. Before the close of the shower, the honoree presented her hostesses with decorated candy jars. Hostesses included Mary Duggan, Sharla Nasta, Dixie Fortenberry, Betty Monroe, Loretta Urbanczyk, Ms. Kaul, Jane Packard, Kay Hall, Mary Johnson, Nedra Robinson and Beth Gearn.

Donation For New Center

Margie Daniels, director of Hereford Senior Citizens, points out details in the artist's sketch of the proposed new Senior Citizens Center to Lorene Newman as Ms. Newman gives her a $100 donation for the new center from members of the Panhandle Road Riders Motorcycle Club. The main reason the check is being presented to a Hereford organization, according to Ms. Newman, is to express appreciation for the hospitality and support received locally when the club held its motorcycle rally here in August.

The Newspaper BIBLE

Peter went to the home of Mary, mother of John Mark, where many were gathered for a prayer meeting. He knocked at the door in the gate, and a girl named Rhoda came to open it. When she recognized Peter's voice, she was so overjoyed that she ran back inside to tell everyone that Peter was standing outside in the street! They didn't believe her. "You're out of your mind," they said. When she insisted they decided, "It must be his angel. (They must have killed him.)" Meanwhile Peter continued knocking! When they finally went out and opened the door, their surprise knew no bounds. He motioned for them to quiet down and told them what had happened and how the Lord had brought him out of jail. "Tell James and the others what happened," he said--and left for safer quarters. At dawn, the jail was in great commotion. What had happened to Peter? When Herod sent for him and found that he wasn't there, he had the 16 guards arrested, court-marshaled and sentenced to death. Afterwards he left to live in Caesarea for a while. Acts 12:12-19

HALLOWEEN SHOWS US SOME MISCONCEPTIONS ABOUT FAITH

Everyone knows Halloween as an occasion of fun and mysterious excitement for children, as well as costume parties for all ages. However, few of us are aware of the true religious origin of this October event, and there some confusion reigns because of the similarity of this ancient Druid festival in name and date to the All Hallows' Eve of the Christian tradition. This is but one minor example of the many misconceptions about religion, as well as the commercialism of all our holidays. You and your family should learn the truth about your own faith, including the origin of its customs and proper observance of its holidays; and the best place to separate fact from fantasy is at the Church of your choice, at any time.

"...in the later times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils."

— I Timothy 4:1

Nothing is so firmly believed as what we least know.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock told an Amarillo crowd last week to expect higher taxes coming out of the next legislative session.

When other politicians speak of the need to raise taxes, they are a bit suspect of trying to raise money to keep political promises to some group.

But when Bullock, the high tax collector for the state, says Texas government is running out of money, most people lend an interested and believing ear.

Bullock's bad news in a speech to the independent automobile dealers convention was that the oil market slump is healing slowly, at least in terms of the tax revenues that the oil industry contributes to the state.

In addition, Bullock said, the peso devaluation which weakened economic havoc along the Rio Grande border is also causing a loss of sales tax revenues.

"When cities don't pay as much (sales tax), it counts in the Treasury."

"There has been a loss of sales revenue of up to 50 percent for example, in Laredo, and El Paso lost 38 percent," Bullock said.

Tax Hike Forecast

The oil and peso problems, together with the national recession, have created what Bullock calls "a Texas recession—unique to Texas."

He predicted the Legislature will raise taxes to boost support for the more than half of Texas school systems "which are substandard."

Which taxes will be raised? Bullock said he thinks changing some exemptions in the sales tax, increasing "sin" taxes (alcohol, tobacco) and gasoline taxes will temporarily raise "a considerable sum."

"I don't see any increases in oil and gas taxes because that industry has been hit so hard."

King Ranch Audit

If Texas government finds extra revenues anywhere, some quiet predictions are they will come out of General Land Office efforts.

Among other overhauling projects being conducted by Land Commissioner Garry Mauro is an audit of about 2,900 state properties to determine if the state is getting its share of money.

Last week Mauro said the 18,093 acres on the King Ranch in South Texas, may be "a problem lease."

Mauro's staff is looking to see whether the King Ranch has lived up to its responsibilities under the Relinquishment Act, and whether Exxon oil company has paid the state its full share of royalties.

Exxon has leased King Ranch oil and gas rights since 1933.

Gamble Paid Off

In those Depression years, the King Ranch family leased nearly a million acres, including the 18,000 acres of state tracts, to then Humble Oil and Refining Co. in exchange for a $3.5 million loan.

The lease was the largest for Humble at that time, and it paid off with over $100 million in oil and gas revenues.

Mauro may try to attack the lease as invalid, as he did on Exxon-leased land in Duval County which brought the state $400 million.

Exxon says there is no basis to invalidate the lease.

"Mauro is the first land commissioner in 50 years who has seen something wrong with the lease," a spokesman said.

Democrats To Dallas

Republicans consider Dallas to be their town in Texas, but Texas Democrats will be coming to visit.

Following a spirited struggle, the party's executive committee voted to hold the 1984 state convention in Dallas—and only two weeks after the Republican National Convention will be held there.

Dallas city officials expect to take in $15 million from the Democratic convention alone, and $35 million from the GOP caucus.

Austin and Travis County Democrats were a bit rankled at the Dallas selection, but the party committee decided Dallas would be the best place to showcase the differences between the two parties.

Gramm's Old Seat

With controversial Congressman Phil Gramm running for the Senate, interest has picked up in the race to take his House seat.

The latest count has two new contenders from the small portion of Tarrant County which was pieced into the district last session.

One is state Sen. Hugh Farmer; another is oil man Marshall Brachman.

For the Republicans, state Rep. Ray Keller of Duncanville is considering a try.

Dan Kubiak, who finished second to Gramm in a 10-candidate special election last spring, has been quietly shopping for a house in the Bryan-College Station area. Kubiak, who garnered 40 percent of the vote in losing to Gramm, is the frontrunner, and friends say he will make an official announcement soon.

Future questionable for shrinking industry

NEW YORK (AP) — By general agreement, it is far too early—in fact, ridiculous—to write off the industrial age, in spite of the rapid emergence of another, the age of information and its associated technology.

The older age, it seems safe to say, will be here a long time yet, at least as long as man needs machines to make other products, to transport him on Earth or in the heavens, or even to provide him with the major weapons of war.

But heavy industry is hurting nevertheless. No matter that automotive production is booming and that farm equipment dealers have an occasional smile these days, something of the old has been lost.

It is revealed, for example, in a letter to employees by Don Trautlein, chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp., second-largest producer behind U.S. Steel Co., a letter that graphically depicts the downsizing of an industry.

"At the end of December 1980," it begins, "Bethlehem had more than 85,000 employees on its payroll—59,000 hourly and 26,000 salaried employees."

"Since then we've reduced our employee force considerably, so that by August 1, 1983, we only have approximately 53,000 employees—37,000 hourly and 16,000 salaried."

But that reduction, of roughly 37 percent, isn't the extent of the shrinkage. "The consolidations of operations already announced will result in forces through the rest of the year," he wrote.

He conceded that business will pick up, and some hourly workers might be recalled.

But, he said, "it is unlikely that the majority will return to work for Bethlehem." That verdict, he said, "is also true for the nearly 2,500 salaried employees now on layoff."

Still plays tennis

DEAR READER — Thank you for sharing your experience with others. I'm really glad you didn't give up your exercise. Your story emphasizes that the pain in the heels is not always the bony spur that may be seen. There are several different causes for painful heels. Often when a spur is present it is the result of another problem. The attachments of the tendons to the heel may pull on the spot and eventually cause the spur. The sore soft tissue causes the pain.

Many cases are helped by a variety of measures that change the weight-bearing action of the individual's foot. By putting more weight on the outside of the foot and less across the arch, the strain on the muscles and tendons across the arch is relieved. In turn the pain stops, even though the spur may still be there. In other instances taking weight off the spur also takes pressure off the soft tissues.

Your orthotics probably balanced your foot and relieved the strain. Taping the foot and using wedges to put more pressure on the outside of the foot is included in The Health Letter 11-10 which I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about the reader who had severe pain from heel spurs. I was told by a doctor that I would have to stop playing tennis. He said, "You'll stop playing tennis when it hurts enough." Wrong. I went to a university sports department and had a pair of orthotics made. They molded plaster to my foot and then built a plaster device I wear in my shoes. It cost $125 then, but it was wonderful. No more pain. I still play tennis four times a week.

Working Ranch is living museum

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Best-selling author James Michener says preservationists should honor a uniquely American way of life by putting together a working ranch as a "living museum" of cowboy and cattlemen history.

And Texas might not be a bad place for it, he said. Michener, who has spent the past two years researching his upcoming novel "Texas," said Thursday that not just historic buildings should be saved and restored. A legacy showing how people lived — and why — is just as important, he told members of the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

A working ranch, one not less than 1,000 acres, would be a fitting tribute "to the local cowboys who gave this area of the country such color," Michener said. "What is really needed is real buildings in a real setting that have been recovered from occupancy," he said. "This is one of our great heritages."

A number of states "from North Dakota to Nevada" would provide a good home for the project, but Texas would be "one of the most appropriate," he said. "What is discouraging is that some ranchers in Wyoming and Texas have the

Former Air Force chief of staff dies of heart attack

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Retired Gen. John D. Ryan served as Air Force chief of staff at a "difficult, frustrating time," friends recalled, at the height of the Vietnam War. The career military man, who had been retired 10 years, died of a heart attack early Thursday at a local hospital. He was 67. "He wasn't afraid of tough problems and he faced (Vietnam) like any other," said retired Gen. William McBride, a former Air Force vice chief of staff.

"He was a man of great integrity and he expected that much from everybody else," McBride said. During his 35-year military career, Ryan also served as Air Force vice chief of staff, commander in chief of the Pacific Air Forces and the Strategic Air Command, and an Air Force inspector general.

McBride, now president of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, said Ryan recently had been "in and out" of the Air Force's Wilford Hall Medical Center.

"He's had symptoms of cardiac problems for the past few months," he said.

Ryan's stint in the service started in 1939 in San Antonio, where he received his pilot wings a year after graduating from the U.S. Military Academy. A native of Cherokee, Iowa, he spent the majority of his career at the Strategic Air Command in Omaha, Neb.

Ryan commanded a bombardment wing in Italy during World War I and at Biggs

Air Force Base in El Paso, Texas, in 1952.

He commanded the Second Air Force at Barksdale Air Force in Louisiana after being promoted to lieutenant general in 1961.

"Jack really knew people. People wanted to do their best for him," said retired Gen. William Reddell, who now works for Ellison Industries in San Antonio.

"We still played golf together," Reddell said. "He was a do-it-yourself kind of guy. When we'd go out, he'd still carry his golf bag himself. That may not sound like much, but it just illustrated the kind of man he was."

Ryan received numerous decorations and, in 1971, he became the first foreign dignitary to receive the Golden Wings of the Philippine Air Force.

He is survived by his wife, Jo Carolyn Guidera Ryan; a son, Michael; and a daughter, Patricia Jo. A second son, Air Force Capt. John D. Ryan Jr., was killed in 1970 when his F-4D crashed on takeoff.

"He has been a very private man," McBride said. "He kept to himself and his family a lot since he retired."

Funeral arrangements were pending at Angelus Funeral Home in San Antonio.

South of the Border

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican senate passed a formal resolution condemning the U.S. invasion of Grenada as "a shameful act" that "violates the fundamental principles of international law."

In a plenary session Wednesday, the 64-seat senate, controlled by the official Revolutionary Institutional Party, also condemned the Oct. 19 murder of former Grenadan Prime Minister Maurice Bishop.

But it said his death "in no way validates" the "shameful act" of invading the tiny Caribbean island.

Some 2,000 U.S. troops backed by a 300-member force from six English-speaking Caribbean nations Tuesday invaded Grenada and Thursday were reported to control the island.

Miguel Gonzalez Avelar, president of the Great Commission of the Senate, said that despite Mexican opposition to the military junta that replaced Bishop, Mexico stands by its principals of non intervention.

"The principle of non-intervention in the internal affairs of other states, applies just the same to small nations as it does to the large ones," he said, reading the condemnation.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — An official probe into a $6.6 million fraud scandal has implicated officials from Pemex, the national oil monopoly, an official of the Attorney General's office said.

The official, quoted in the daily El Universal Thursday, said at least one official from Pemex' personnel department would be charged in the case, following two weeks of testimony by eight Pemex cashiers.

The cashiers testified at the ninth district court here they were under orders to pay Oil Workers' Union official Hector Garcia Hernandez $6.6 million in government money, the official said. He did not mention the names of the implicated officials.

In another development Thursday, Garcia Hernandez' lawyer, Pedro Rodriguez Regino, charged

Coconut tricks
DEAR POLLY — Can fresh coconut be frozen? — SARAH
DEAR SARAH — Yes, fresh coconut does freeze successfully. Simply shred it (if you have a food processor, it does a super job of shredding coconut meat; otherwise use a hand grater), then package it in tightly sealed plastic bags or freezer containers. You also can prepare a wet pack. Put the shredded coconut in freezer containers, cover it with coconut milk, then seal and freeze as usual. Shredded is the most convenient form when you use the coconut in substantial quantities for baking or cooking. However, I've also wrapped larger pieces in freezer-proof plastic wrap, stored them in the freezer, then shredded a little off the frozen coconut (you may have to let it thaw just slightly) when I needed a small quantity for garnish. Handy to keep on hand! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — If you buy prepared frozen pie crust and you want a shorter crust, melt a little butter or margarine. Using a pastry brush, brush the melted butter all over the crust. Bake as usual. Your crust will brown better and taste better.

Here's a solution to sticky marshmallows in a bag. Add a little cornstarch to the bag of marshmallows. Close it and shake very well working the cornstarch through the marshmallows (with the bag still closed). The marshmallows will not stick together and will be like new again. Shake off excess cornstarch before using the marshmallows. — OLGA

DEAR POLLY — I recently noticed the use of an old screen-door grill in the window glass of a garage window. It was attractive and a deterrent to thieves.

My husband takes gelatin salad in his lunch and the fellows at work wonder how it stays firm in his lunch box all morning. My secret: I soften two tablespoons unflavored gelatin in two-thirds cup cold water, then add it to the hot fruit gelatin mixture. Then I add the cold water called for in the instructions. This makes the gelatin firmer and it won't melt so rapidly in warmer conditions. — ERLIENE

DEAR POLLY — Instead of using plain petroleum jelly to remove makeup or as moisturizer, I mix the petroleum jelly half and half with baby oil and whip it with an electric mixer for a few minutes. This makes a wonderful lotion that smoothes onto the skin more easily.

Juan Manuel Ramirez Carranza, technical director of the Metro, Mexico's subway system, said the express trains would be installed "in the near future." But he said the trains were still in the planning stages.

The express trains will prevent overcrowding on the subway system serving this city of 16 million people, Ramirez said.

He made the comments at a public forum Wednesday on transportation. He was quoted in the daily newspaper Excelsior.

The current system, serving 3.5 million people daily on 51 miles of track, works well but suffers already from the city's mushrooming growth.

During rush hours, people are packed into Metro cars like sardines and crowd onto narrow platforms waiting for the arrival of trains.

On most of the six lines now operating, stops are made at an average of once every quarter mile. The express train would have far fewer stops, Ramirez said, in order to move more people and move them faster.
