But hail damage high last week

Rainfall boost to crops

One of those "million-dollar rains" covered most of Deaf Smith County Wednesday afternoon and night, with only slight hail reported in some spots.

Rain reports ranged from .10 of an inch around Simms and Milo Center to 1 inch in the extreme northwest part of the county. KPAN Radio weather station recorded .44 here in town.

Reports of .40 and .50 came from Bootleg, .30 at Dawn and Frio, and about .50 of an inch southwest of Simms. Jim Conkwright, north of Hereford, reported just one-tenth Wednesday but said he had recorded 2.4 inches for the month of May.

Measurements of around .70 were reported west of town, according to Justin McBride, county agent. He said Joe Diller had 1.9 inches Tuesday and Wednesday, southeast of town. "The moisture will be very beneficial to dryland wheat crops," noted McBride.

McBride added that the county has received some damaging hail, "but we're fortunate it has not been worse."

While the rainfall was mostly beneficial Wednesday, the storm which moved through the county last Friday left an estimated $1.3 million damage to wheat crops in the north part of the county.

An estimated 4,000 to 5,000 acres of wheat was totally wiped out by the hail storm, while another 5,000 acres had 50 percent damage, according to John Fuston, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office manager.

Fuston made a tour of the north and northeast part of the county Tuesday and Wednesday. "Most of the damage is from east of Milo Center to Wildorado and covers a three to four-mile-wide strip by about 10 miles long," said Fuston.

Most of the wheat that was destroyed was irrigated and would have averaged around 50 bushels to the acre. The wheat which appeared to be 100 percent wiped out would amount to $875,000 if figured at $3.50 a bushel.

The ASCS manager estimated another 5,000 acres had 50 percent damage. He tabbed that dollar loss at about $437,000 to county farmers, or a total crop damage loss of $1.3 million from the one storm.

Cal Jones, Holly Sugar's ag manager, estimated about 1,000 acres of sugar beets were wiped out, but he said those acres would be replanted.

Fuston said most of the farmers didn't have any kind of insurance, and some of them still have to decide what course to take. Some farmers will plow the wheat under, while others will graze it or perhaps plant another crop.

There was only light hail in the city of Hereford and other areas of the county in last week's storm. The quick-moving storm lasted only a half hour in town, but left slightly more than an inch of rain. The moisture was very beneficial to farmers who did not sustain hail damage to crops.

Manor balloon launch Friday

King's Manor Methodist Home will hold a balloon launching at 3 p.m. Friday to raise funds for replacement of window blinds in each of the rooms at the Manor.

Residents will sell sponsorships, and each sponsor will be able to put his or her name on a card tied to the balloon. Cost of sponsorship is $5. A quilt will be given away during the festivities.

The launching will take place in front of the Manor's entrance, and a special flag ceremony and program will precede the launching. Popcorn and lemonade will be available.

Everyone is welcome to attend the balloon launching.

Japan quake, tidal waves leave 20 dead

AKITA, Japan (AP) — A severe earthquake and huge waves which followed it killed at least 20 people and left 75 missing along a 180-mile stretch of coastline in northwest Japan today, police reported.

Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone declared an emergency to coordinate relief efforts in the rural fishing and farming area as reports came in on what appeared to be the worst quake to hit the region in 44 years.

Most of the dead were swallowed up in the tsunamis, similar to tidal waves, which were triggered by the tremor. The Central Meteorological Agency said the quake registered 7.7 on the Richter scale and occurred off the shore of an area about 280 miles north of Tokyo.

The National Police Agency said a group of 50 people, including more than 40 children on a school excursion, were caught in a wave that struck the coast of the Oga Peninsula, near this prefectural capital of 200,000.

Police in Akita said one of the students in the group, which reportedly was having a picnic on the beach, was killed. The others were rescued, according to news reports.

The national daily Asahi Shimbun quoted Tsuyoshi Tsuruga, an agricultural cooperative worker in Oga, as saying a wave "rising to a (See JAPAN, page 2)

Reagan replaces three on civil rights panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is being criticized by major civil rights groups after replacing three members of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission with conservatives who share his opposition to racial quotas and school busing. The nominees, meeting with reporters at the White House on Wednesday, emphasized their independence repeatedly.

But Rabbi Murray Saltzman, who was dismissed from the commission, said, "I'm saddened and grieved and even on the verge of outrage in terms of what the administration is doing to the commission."

Thomas I. Atkins, acting executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the move was a vindictive attempt to "purge from the government ... people who have a commitment to effective civil rights enforcement and protection."

No one at the White House would say for the record why Reagan made the move. One White House aide, who spoke only on condition that he not be named, said: "He just wanted fresh blood there. Clearly, the president chose them because they are distinguished and because he feels comfortable with them."

If the nominees, all Democrats, win Senate confirmation, Reagan will have replaced all but one of the commission's six members since he took office.

The lone holdover would be Jill Ruckelshaus, wife of William Ruckelshaus, the president's new Environmental Protection Agency administrator.

Reagan attempted to replace several commissioners last year, including Mrs. Ruckelshaus, who was appointed by President (See REAGAN, page 2)

Change in DWI bill is rejected

AUSTIN (AP) — The House has rejected a move to change a provision of a DWI bill making a person automatically guilty if he scores a certain level on a blood alcohol test — despite warnings the provision may be unconstitutional.

The resolution failed 45-89 Wednesday night.

The Senate passed 16-14 the resolution directing a House-Senate conference committee on the DWI bill to change the section covering intoxilyzer tests, but the House's rejection means that the panel cannot change the provision in either version of the bill.

Sen. Bob Glasgow,

D-Stephenville, who is a former prosecutor, said the bill, sponsored in the Senate by Bill Sarpalius, D-Hereford, changes current law to make a person automatically guilty if he scores 0.1 percent on an intoxilyzer test, which measures blood alcohol content.

Glasgow said under current law, a person is presumed to have been drunk if he scores 0.1 percent, but he can still present witnesses to rebut the test results when his case goes to trial.

U.S. military adviser slain in El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — An American Navy commander was shot in the head four times and killed while he sat in his car near a San Salvador University, the first U.S. military adviser slain during this nation's civil war.

Navy Cmdr. Albert A. Schaufelberger, deputy commander of the 55 military advisers assigned to assist the Salvadoran military in its fight against leftist rebels, was killed Wednesday evening, U.S. Embassy spokesman Don Hamilton said.

Neither Hamilton nor government spokesman Francisco Jose Guerrero, who announced the slaying, would speculate on who the killer or killers were.

Schaufelberger is the first American adviser slain in El Salvador. Another adviser, Special Forces Sgt. J. Stanley Thomas, was wounded by rebel fire while flying in a helicopter above Usulután province in early February.

Thomas was shot in the leg, but his wound was not serious.

Hamilton said Schaufelberger was killed when he went to the Central American University in a western suburb of the capital about 6:30 p.m. to pick up a friend.

As he was waiting for the friend in the university parking lot, a car pulled up behind his automobile and four shots were fired from the vehicle, striking Schaufelberger in the head, Hamilton said.

He said a passerby placed the officer in his car and rushed him to the Military Hospital, but he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Hamilton said his account was based on reports from witnesses and information gathered by other embassy officials.

A night watchman at the university gave a somewhat different version.

The watchman, who identified himself as Roberto Alfaro, said the officer apparently had parked along the one-way street that runs through the university.

After he was shot, he drove his automobile about 20 feet before the vehicle jumped the curb and smashed into a parked car, Alfaro said, showing an Associated Press reporter broken glass and the tire marks he said were made by the victim's car.

The shooting occurred after dark when hundreds of students at the university were leaving class and heading home. At that hour the street was congested with vehicles and pedestrians, Alfaro said.

LVN charged with deaths in Kerrville

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — A licensed vocational nurse was jailed today on charges that she murdered a toddler and injured six other children when she administered injections of a powerful drug at a pediatric clinic here.

Gene Jones, 32, was named Wednesday in indictments handed down by a Kerr County grand jury. A Texas Ranger arrested her Wednesday night at an Ector County home, Kerr County District Attorney Ron Sutton said.

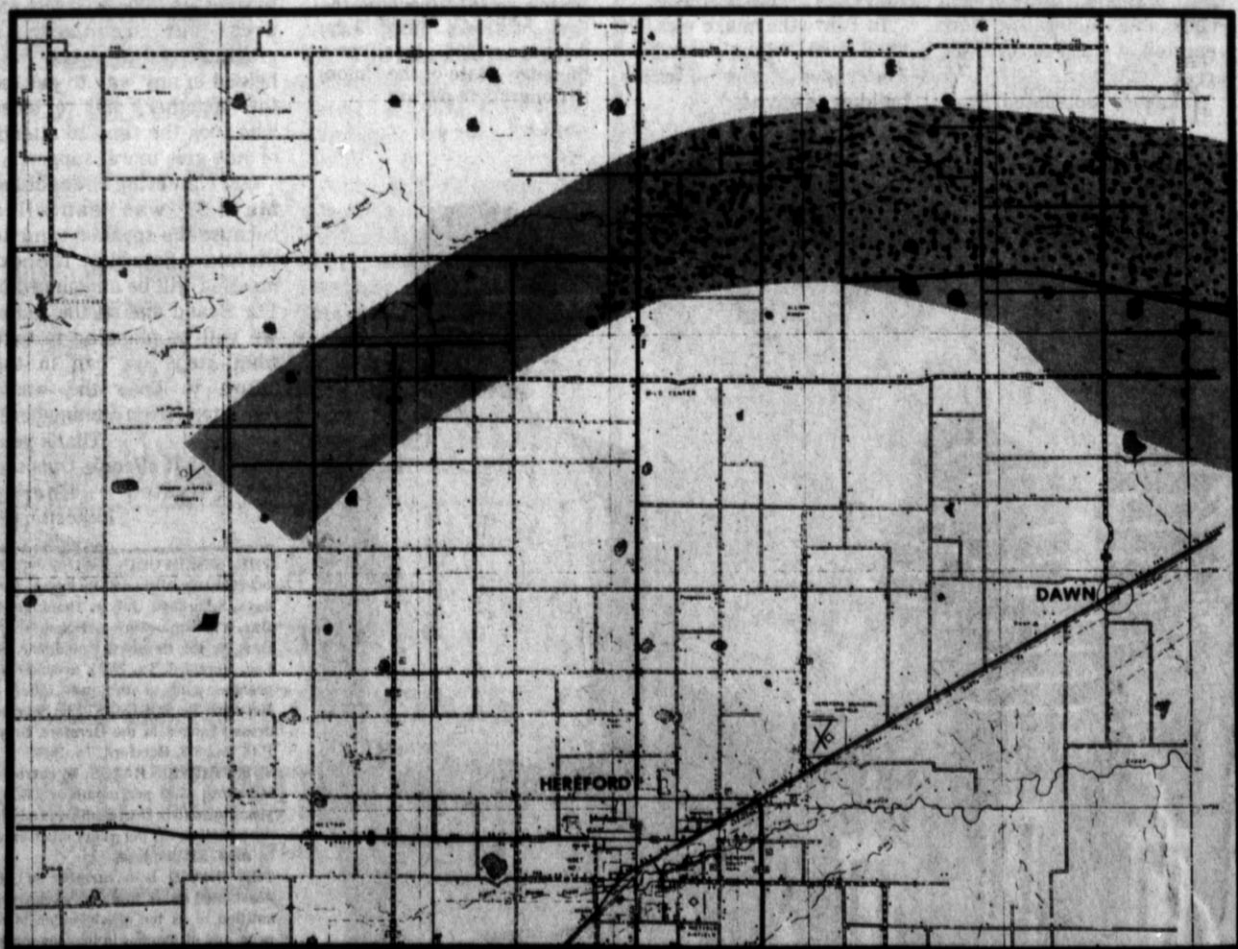

She was being held today in the Ector County Jail in Odessa on bonds totaling $225,000, said Sheriff's Capt. Carl Watters.

Ms. Jones is charged with murder in the Sept. 17 death of Chelsea Ann McClellan, who died of respiratory arrest.

All seven children, ranging in age from a month to seven years, suffered severe seizures from the muscle relaxant, but only one died, according to the indictments.

Sutton said his nine-month investigation was hampered by the unusual nature of the "bizarre-type crimes" alleged in the indictment.

Path of Hail Damage

This map shows the approximate path of the heavy hail in the county last Friday, resulting in an estimated $1.3 million loss to wheat farmers. The path of the heaviest hail was from east of Milo Center to Wildorado, with the hardest-hit areas shown in the dotted portion of the overlay screen. John Fuston, ASCS manager, outlined the path of the damage for The Brand.

Limited water package approved by House

AUSTIN (AP) — A $550 million package of water bonds for local water development, conservation and flood control projects has been approved by the House, which added a provision under which the state would guarantee local water bonds.

Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, amended a Senate-passed proposed constitutional amendment that would have established $300 million in new water bonds to finance projects.

Craddick's amendment added a $250 million program under which local water bonds would be backed by the state.

Both measures were part of a Senate-approved water "package," parts of which have been held up in Craddick's House Natural Resources Committee.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, a sponsor of the package, had charged that Craddick had held up passage of important parts of the package because Montford led the fight to bust the college board appointment of Ernest Angelo of Midland.

Craddick said there are not enough votes to get the measures, including a controversial bill to guarantee preservation of coastal estuaries, out of the committee.

Rep. John Gavin, D-Wichita Falls, who carried the Senate water bond measure on the floor of the House, accepted Craddick's floor amendment to the Senate measure.

"The water package seems to be in terrible, terrible shape," he said. "If they (the Senate) concur, at least a little more of the package will be in place."

Gavin said he did not think the compromise would be accepted by the Senate "until and if the entire package is put back together."

The gulf estuaries bill was designed to aid passage of the constitutional amendments which must be approved by Texas voters.

Murder suspect 'falls' into custody of police

HOUSTON (AP) — A man charged with capital murder in the slaying of a Houston executive literally fell into police custody, officials said.

Rodney Wayne Davis, 17, was held without bond today. He is charged in the May 10 shooting death of Sam J. Lucas, an official of Service Corporation International, a funeral home chain.

Police said Davis was trying to burglarize a pawnshop about 3 a.m. Monday when he fell through the ceiling. Thinking he had injured his neck, Davis went home and called an ambulance, detective Kenny Williamson said.

The detective said Davis explained to paramedics he had hurt himself attempting a burglary.

Davis was treated at home, then taken to the pawnshop by ambulance, Williamson said. Police were already there investigating a break-in.

Davis has also been charged with burglary, authorities said.

Fishing trip agent files suit on travel ban

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who used to organize fishing trips to Cuba has filed suit against President Reagan and five other federal officials, saying a government ban on travel to that island left him with nothing but bills.

Don Snow said in the suit filed Wednesday the ban cost him his "business, home, money for my children's education, credibility and credit."

"All I have left is a stack of bills," he said.

Snow is seeking $30 million in damages from Reagan, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan, Secretary of State George Shultz and three other Treasury Department officials.

The 1982 travel ban bars everyone but journalists, researchers and relatives of Cubans from the island nation.

Snow said when he received a directive in June 1982 ordering him to stop organizing the trips, 24 bass fishermen who had paid him for a tour were in Cuba. He said he had difficulty clearing their transportation back to the United States.

Snow said the 1st U.S. Court of Appeals found May 16 that the travel ban was unconstitutional and that the United States had no authority to use it to restrict Snow's business.

A Treasury Department spokesman had no comment on the lawsuit and said the tourism ban is still in effect until an injunction is issued against it.

Teen sentenced for mother's murder

BELTON, Texas (AP) — A Temple teen-ager who said he fatally shot his mother after she became angry over his school report card has been assessed a 25-year prison sentence.

Quint Reed, 17, testified he was only trying to wound his mother, Mary Jane Schlorman, when he fired a .22-caliber rifle at her Jan. 31.

The jury returned the punishment verdict Wednesday. Reed pleaded guilty to a murder charge Monday after the trial started.

Mrs. Schlorman, 39, was shot in the back three times and pronounced dead within 30 minutes of her arrival at Temple's Scott & White Memorial Hospital.

Reed said his mother was angry at him because of his poor grades and because of speeding tickets he received.

When he skipped school Jan. 31, his mother called him at work and told him she wanted to see his report card as soon as he got home.

"When she called me that night ... at the Whataburger, she just seemed so mad that night and I didn't want her taking my job, my truck, my hunting away," Reed testified Tuesday.

Later that evening, Mrs. Schlorman "came into my room and she asked to see my report card," Reed said.

"She kind of yelled at me to see my grades and about two seconds later, I shot three times at her. She screamed and ran out and fell in the den on the carpet."

Reed said he only was trying "to get across that I was real scared of her" and did not intend to kill his mother.

"I'm sorry, but I really can't give a reason why," Reed told prosecutor Jeanette Kinard.

Ms. Kinard then asked Reed if he cried the night his mother died. He replied that he didn't cry or try to get medical attention for his mother.

After he shot his mother, Reed said he left Temple in his pickup truck and spent the night at a rest spot near town. The next day, he returned to Temple to check on his mother's condition.

Thefts, mischief investigated Wednesday

Two thefts and a criminal mischief were investigated by Hereford police Wednesday.

At a residence in the 400 block of Avenue G, $1,400 cash was reported missing. The complainant said someone entered the house and combed through a chest of drawers to find the money.

Three months rent was the theft in the 100 block of Heibach. A few items from the house were also taken when the renters exited.

A pickup truck ran through a yard and over a mailbox in the 700 block of Thunderbird.

Police arrested on person for driving while intoxicated and investigated a minor accident.

Wet spring good for something

This cold, wet springtime was good for something. It was bad for fruit and vegetables and lowlanders and travelers and resorts and for the sellers of soda pop...

But it was good for something! Our lifeline of underground water was replenished, especially in northeast states.

America's reservoirs of underground water are called aquifers, mostly saturated and gravel. Most of that water is within 25 hundred feet of the surface.

Thirty percent of our nation's stream flow is supplied by this ground water; it surfaces in springs and seepage. Aquifers are recharged primarily by the downward percolation of rain or snow melt.

In many areas of the United States, underground water in recent years has been pumped up and used up faster than it has been replenished. Agriculture is the greatest user.

In recent years across our nation's breadbasket states, wells went dry or had to be drilled deeper. Each year farmers got another ominous warning, "The water table is going down!"

Groundwater overdraft has been most serious in the high plains of Texas and Oklahoma where the daily deficit has equaled the total flow of the Colorado River.

Over the past 25 years our freshwater withdrawals from this underground supply have increased 3.8 percent each year.

One recent year 48 percent of the total fresh water used in California was obtained from wells, most for irrigation.

And though our subterranean supply was nowhere near exhausted it was diminishing at a worrisome rate; in some regions at an alarming rate.

Until this year when all-wise Almighty drenched us from January through April. So now...

Ground water levels in the Northeast are right now higher than ever during the 30 years we've been measuring. Ground water levels are "above average" in New Hampshire, Vermont and southern Maine.

In southeast states levels rose in Virginia and North Carolina, Arkansas, Mississippi and Florida.

Trends are mostly mixed elsewhere except above average in North Carolina, Alabama and most of Kentucky.

Also, near average or above in Great Lakes states.

Water levels are improved in some Western states—Washington, North Dakota, Southern California; above average in Nebraska.

Level remains below average in Texas, Arizona and Kansas and New Mexico. But the weather cycle records suggest it's their turn next.

Prison reform bills signed by White

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White has signed prison reform legislation that sailed through the Legislature and opened what White calls "a new era in criminal justice policy in Texas."

The four bills authorize "restitution centers" as an alternative to prison, allow release of low-risk inmates whenever the prison population approaches capacity, and establish a Criminal Justice Policy Council.

The fourth one goes before the voters in November as a proposed constitutional amendment. It would speed up the parole process by relieving the governor of the responsibility to approve each prospective parolee. It also would increase the size of the parole board from three members to six.

The bills were patterned after recommendations of the blue-ribbon Commission on Criminal Justice created last year by Gov. Bill Clements. There were fears at the time the concepts would be opposed as being "soft on crime," but — to the surprise of even the sponsors — almost no opposition surfaced.

The bills were passed without long speeches on the floor of the House or Senate.

"It surprised the devil out of me that it was so easy," said Rep. Ray Keller, R-Duncanville, a House sponsor.

As he signed them on Wednesday, White said, "Today marks the beginning of a new era in criminal justice policy in Texas. Perhaps the best example of this new approach is HB-658 which establishes restitution centers and holds criminals accountable for their actions."

The new law would authorize the Texas Adult Probation Commission to establish centers for non-violent convicts eligible for probation, who would then be required to live there for up to a year while holding down jobs on the "outside." Part of their earnings would be used to repay their victim.

Foundation rep speaks to Lions

John Bingham of Amarillo explained the work of the Amarillo Area Foundation when he appeared as guest speaker for the regular weekly luncheon meeting of Hereford Lions Club Wednesday at the Community Center.

Bingham said he had met with Hereford YMCA officers and the foundation "was very supportive" of the plan to build a "Y" facility here. The Foundation is investigating the possibility of grants to aid the fund drive here.

Ed Line, president-elect of the club, introduced Dana Cabbiness as the Lions' Sweetheart for 1983-84. Dana, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cabbiness and will be a senior at Hereford High this fall.

President Charles Watson presented a check for $72.50 to the Camp Fire Girls. The club has started a weekly project of presenting checks to local organizations from Lion fund-raising activities. Temple Abney, director, accepted the contribution for Camp Fire.

Watson also recognized the Students of the 9 Weeks from high school. Seniors Bethany Boyd and Tim Martin and sophomores Cindy Morgan and Randy Villarreal were honored for the past two periods of school.

Betty Owen, representing the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, appealed to the club members to make a special effort to donate blood to the local blood bank. The bloodmobile was here Wednesday and Hereford needs donors to renew the local supply.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

We wish to thank all of the people who so generously gave of their time and money to help us with the Nuclear Information Fair May 21.

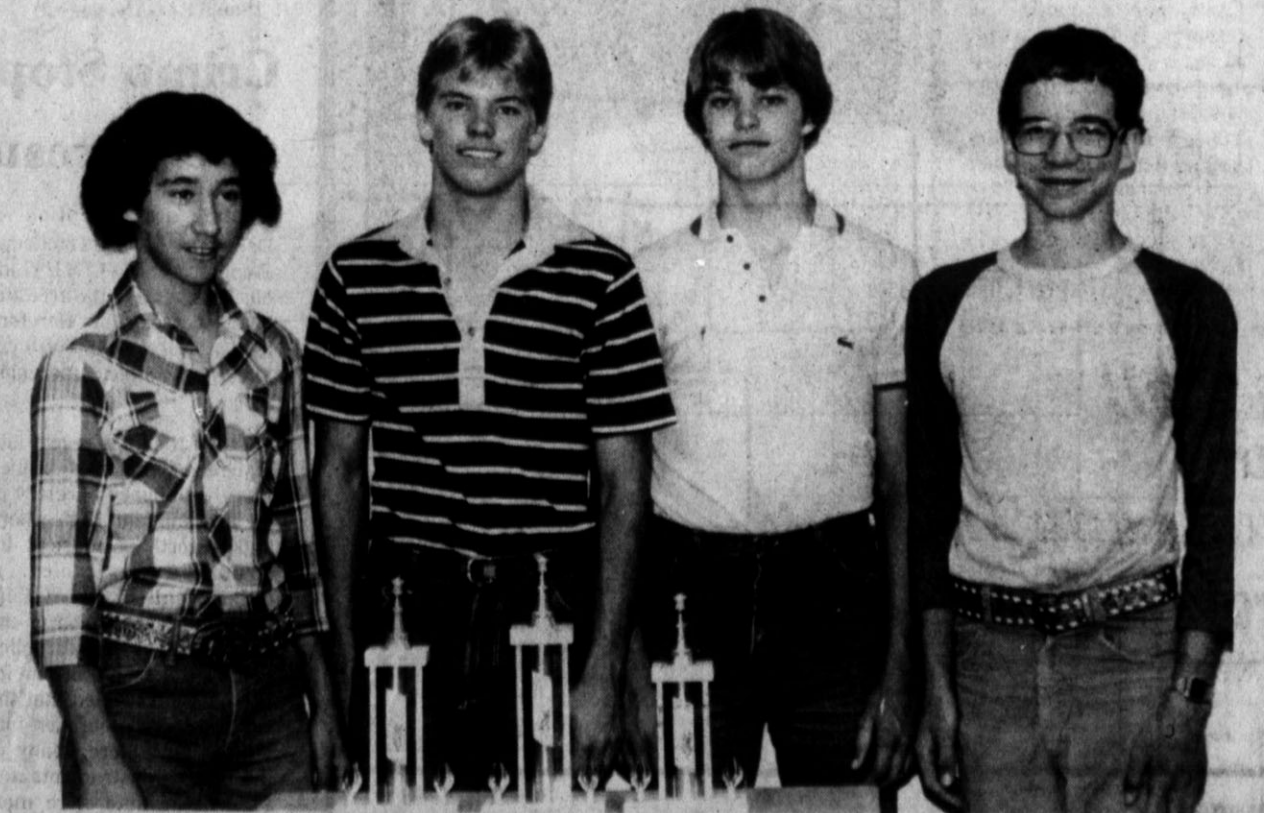

Help came from our own community, surrounding towns, and visitors from other areas. Many people made baked goods, sandwiches and sweet treats. Many people donated their entire day to help at the fair. And, some of the speakers spent the day to be available to answer questions.

We received assistance from many different businesses. We wish to express our organization's gratitude to everyone who helped in any way to put the fair together, and to those who took the time to attend, or just give moral support.

Our meeting scheduled May 24 was cancelled because the speaker came to the fair on Saturday. The next meeting will be announced in The Brand and on the radio. We will be planning to take what steps we can in the future to keep the waste repository from coming here.

Thank you,

By LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor

Keeping up with family history holds a special fascination for Ruth Newsom, whose own family has been in the Panhandle since the middle 1920s.

She came to Hereford with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Pickens, in 1943 and has lived here all of her life except for several years when her husband, Carroll, was in the U.S. Air Force.

He moved to Hereford with his family in 1939. The two were married here in 1950, and lived in several other locations before returning to Hereford in 1953.

Ruth enjoys genealogy, and although she admits that she hasn't gone into it as extensively as some people, she does have a file cabinet full of family history and old pictures which she hopes to put together into albums.

She wrote family histories for the Deaf Smith County history book, "The Land and its People," and more recently compiled her family history for the Amarillo Genealogical Society's book, "Panhandle Forefathers," which tells about families who came to the Panhandle before 1930.

Family events are special to Ruth and she enjoys entertaining members of her family on special occasions such as birthdays and holidays.

She and Carroll are the parents of three married children and they have one grandson. Janice Carr resides in Hereford with her husband and son, as do Robert Newsom and his wife. The Newsoms' other daughter, Nancy Woodman, and her husband live in Amarillo.

After the Newsoms were married, they lived in San Angelo, Lubbock, Great Falls, Mont., and finally Oahu, Hawaii, before coming back to Hereford.

Their daughter, Janice, was born in Hawaii while they were living there. They were able to return to Hawaii for a visit earlier this year and saw several old friends. "Things had changed a lot though," notes Ruth.

Ruth and Carroll settled at the Newsom farm, about six miles southeast of Hereford, when they returned to Texas, and lived there until they designed and built their present home on 150 Liveoak in 1967. "It was one of the first houses built in this part of town," says Ruth.

Carroll has an office at home and presently manages cattle feeding and farming operations as well as other business interests. The Newsoms have, in the past, owned a feed yard.

Ruth has been employed for brief periods of time, but mostly keeps busy with volunteer work. When the children were young, she helped with Camp Fire and Cub Scouts.

More recently, she has served on the board of directors of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and as art chairman for that organization.

"I have helped put together booklets and pamphlets, working with printers and artists," comments Ruth, "and I've really enjoyed meeting the artists that we've featured. I enjoy proofreading and public relations, so it has all been very rewarding."

Ruth is also a member of Los Ciboleros Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution and will serve as treasurer of that club next year. She is a charter member of the Hereford CowBelles. "We eat a lot of beef and are involved with the cattle industry, so I enjoy that organization," states Ruth.

A member of Deaf Smith County Republican Women, Ruth has been active in the Republican party since the early 1960s and has participated in all phases of the party. She has served as county vice-chairman, delegate to state convention, and twice as secretary to the district caucus.

"I've really enjoyed the people I've met through all of these groups," comments Ruth.

But one of the things that the Newsoms like best is traveling. Ruth and her husband have visited such places as Italy, Spain, Jamaica, Panama, Puerto Rico, Grand Cayman and many other islands in the Caribbean, as well as Hawaii and Alaska.

Last summer the couple went on a 16-day tour of Alaska, during which they took a cruise, rode on a train, and flew on an airplane. "It was very interesting," comments Ruth. "Alaska is a beautiful state."

They have been on two cruises, but Ruth says they prefer to fly directly to an island so they can stay there as long as they wish. If they were on a cruise, they would only stay in one place a day or two.

Ruth has a number of treasures from their trips, but she says that she has just about stopped collecting souvenirs. She has several Japanese tea sets and other Oriental items which her husband purchased while they were living in Hawaii. "He flew to Japan when he was in the air force," she recalls.

Ruth and Carroll both like to swim and they love the beach. She has collected a number of shells and sand dollars from the beaches on the islands they have visited, as well as along the Gulf Coast.

Ruth was born in San Benito and she and her husband used to have a house in Rockport, so she says it's almost like going home when they visit the coast.

Ruth also has several tablecloths from foreign countries and she likes to collect dishes and table service. She uses these items at parties when she serves as hostess.

She belongs to a women's bridge club and enjoys entertaining the members at brunches. She also likes to help with showers and parties and enjoys trying new foods which she can serve for such occasions.

"I've really developed an interest in cooking in the last few years," notes Ruth, "and I've started collecting cookbooks."

Ruth shares two recipes that she enjoys preparing for guests.

COMPANY CARROTS

2 lbs. young, tender carrots
4 Tbsp. butter
Salt, pepper, sugar
1/2 c. Sherry wine
Water to cover
Minced parsley
Scrape carrots and cut in half and cut the halves lengthwise. Saute in butter until well-coated, turning often. Sprinkle with a bit of salt, pepper and sugar.

Add Sherry wine and simmer for 5 minutes. Add just enough water to cover. Cover the pan and cook slowly about 15 minutes or until just tender.

Cook uncovered over high heat for a short time until the liquid is absorbed and only a little remains in the pan. Sprinkle with minced parsley.

BRUNCH EGGS

1 1/2 lbs. sausage (mild)
4 eggs beaten
2 1/2 c. milk
1 tsp. dry mustard
3 c. plain croutons or 8 slices of bread, buttered, cubed and toasted
2 1/2 c. (10 oz.) sharp cheese, grated
1 (10 3/4 oz) can cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
Place croutons or bread cubes in 13x9x2 inch buttered dish. Cover with grated cheese. Cube sausage, brown and drain; place on cheese.
Beat eggs; mix with mustard, milk, mushroom soup and mushrooms. Pour over sausage. Cover and refrigerate overnight.
Bake 1 1/2 hours uncovered at 300 degrees.

This is similar to cheese souffle but does not need to be served immediately and will wait for guests; may be reheated. Serves 8-10.

Members of Art Guild meet for breakfast

Twelve members of the Hereford Art Guild met Tuesday morning at the Thompson House for breakfast. President Hilda Havens presided over a short business meeting following the breakfast.

The club voted to meet during the summer on the fourth Tuesday in June and the fourth Tuesday in July for work days and painting. The work of each member will be open for constructive criticism.

The club will meet again on Aug. 23, when Carmen Angel will demonstrate the painting of photographs. Election of officers will also be held at this meeting.

After the business meeting Lottie Wertenberger presented the program, giving highlights of her recent trip to New Zealand and Australia.

After flying to the South Pacific, her party toured these countries in rented mobile homes. They not only found the people interesting and the food good, but the countryside very beautiful, according to Ms. Wertenberger.

The group visited some of the larger cities, including Auckland, Wellington, Christ Church, and Sydney, and enjoyed seeing the Koala bears, kiwi birds, sheep stations and ranches, botanical gardens, hot springs, the famous cave of the glow worm, and programs presented by the Mauri people, the first inhabitants of the South Pacific.

Pardee interested in Gamblers' job

HOUSTON (AP) — The managing general partner of the Houston Gamblers says he hopes to have an announcement "in the very near future" about whether former Washington Redskins coach Jack Pardee will coach the new pro football franchise.

Jerry Argovitz said Pardee and owners of the United States Football League club held one of several meetings Wednesday and expected to talk again today.

"We feel very positive at this moment and hopefully something in the very near future will come about," Argovitz said.

But he refused to say specifically what was discussed with Pardee, who was named National Football League coach of the year in 1979.

"We've talked a lot of philosophy, we've talked a lot about the future of the new league," Argovitz said. "We've had some very positive talks. He's not only an outstanding coach, he's an outstanding man."

Pardee, the former head coach of the NFL Washington Redskins and Chicago Bears, had said direct communication with the owners will be important in his decision of whether to accept the job.

"I never want to be in a coaching situation where someone is between me and the owner," Pardee said. "My talks with the Gamblers are only preliminary."

"But if I get back into coaching, I'll want to be able to discuss any problems with the owner. If a coach can't do that, little problems become monumental."

Pardee was fired as the Redskins coach in 1980 following a change in ownership.

"Edward Bennett Williams hired me in Washington," Pardee said. "We worked well together. Then Jack Kent Cooke took over. He brought in his people. The first day we really talked was the day he called me in to fire me."

Pardee said he had met Argovitz previously as a player agent. Argovitz represented 29 NFL players including Billy Sims of Detroit.

"He has been on the other side of the table as an agent, he knows what it takes to win," Pardee said.

Pardee said he told Argovitz several years ago, "If you ever get a team give me a call."

Pardee currently is in the oilfield service industry in Midland and was out of football last year. After he was fired at Washington, Pardee spent the 1981 season as an assistant coach for the San Diego Chargers.

The former Texas A&M linebacker completed his playing career in Super Bowl VII with the Redskins and served as an assistant coach for the team in 1973. He was head coach of the Florida Blazers of the defunct World Football League in 1974.

In Memorial Tournament

Stadler seeking first victory

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — A year ago at this time, en route to pro golf's annual money-winning title, Craig Stadler had won twice, finished second twice and earned more than $286,000.

In 1983, prior to today's start of the $400,000 Memorial Tournament, Stadler is still searching for his first victory of the season and is not among the top 10 money-winners.

"I had a slow start. It's starting to come together. I'm not down on myself," Stadler said over lunch in the Muirfield Village locker room.

"Let's see, I'm $330,000 short of last year. It will be tough reaching that figure because I'm not sure how much I'm going to play the rest of the year," said the 29-year-old, who won four titles last year.

So why the big difference between 1982 and 1983?

"The only difference is putting," he answered. "I haven't had the tremendous amount of confidence I had last year. If it's possible, I was close to having too much confidence then. I putted so well day in, day out, it didn't matter how I hit the ball."

The 1973 U.S. Amateur champion, seven times a winner in eight tour seasons, believes a two-week layoff before last week's Atlanta stop will benefit him mentally. Even missing the cut at Atlanta has not dampened his enthusiasm.

Stadler, in six Memorial attempts, finished third once. Otherwise, he's been no higher than 27th. He shot 84 in one round over Jack Nicklaus' 7,116-yard layout and had 80 another time.

"I still love this course and these greens. I just haven't putted well here. One or two bad holes have killed me. Like Hilton Head, I know someday I'm going to win

Rockets, Heinsohn break off job talks

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Boston Celtics coach Tom Heinsohn left town saying the Houston Rockets offered him only a chance to get ulcers by coaching that team, the worst in the National Basketball Association last season.

Heinsohn and his attorney, Phil McLaughlin of Boston, met with Rockets owner Charlie Thomas and team president and general manager Ray Patterson Wednesday.

The Rockets' offer was "far shy of what the top guy is making. They closed the door," Heinsohn said. He said the offer asked that he cut his "living standard to come in here and coach Ralph Sampson and maybe get ulcers."

The Rockets won the right to draft the 7-foot-4 Virginia center in a coin flip with the Indiana Pacers.

Foyt involved in auto and horse racing

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Conceivably if not predictably, sports fans opening their newspapers after a busy Memorial Day weekend could face these mind-boggling announcements:

"INDIANAPOLIS — The devil red and blue colors of the famed Calumet Farm in Lexington, Ky., roared to victory in the 67th Indianapolis 500-mile speedway race."

"NEW YORK — Unbeaten Foyt scores in the $50,000-added Peter Pan thoroughbred racing feature at Belmont Park."

Calumet, proud producer of Whirlaway, Citation and six other Kentucky Derby champions, winning an auto race? A. J. Foyt, the most celebrated of the nation's auto drivers, scoring on a horse track?

Come on, now. Somebody got his stories all mixed. It has to be a mistake.

Not so. "A. J. and I have been the best of friends for years," said J. G. Lundy, president of the renowned Warren Wright breeding farm outside Lexington.

"We've been talking about sponsoring one of his cars at Indy for a long time. This year we did it. A. J. is as interested in horses now as cars and I think his secret ambition, since he has won everything in motor racing, is to win a Kentucky Derby."

Foyt, who will be seeking his fifth victory in Sunday's Indy, owns a sprawling, 2,000-acre horse farm just outside

THE HEREFORD BRAND SPORTS

The Hereford Brand—Thursday, May 26, 1983—Page 5

Houston where he has around 150 thoroughbreds — colts, mares and stallions.

He is a regular attendant at the Kentucky Derby and this year his fine 3-year-old, Steel Robbing, won one of the races on the Derby card.

He doesn't own the colt named Foyt. That is a Calumet horse named for Lundy's favorite automobile racer.

"He's a full half-brother of Alydar," said the master of Calumet.

To further complicate the picture, Foyt, the driver, will not be driving the car which will wear the same colors that Whirlaway and Citation wore.

That car, owned by Foyt, will be driven by A. J.'s good friend, George Snider, a 42-year-old veteran of nearly two decades at the wheel, starting from the fifth row after a qualifying time of 198.544.

The 48-year-old Foyt will be in the cockpit of the March Cosworth machine backed by Jim Gilmore, his sponsor of 10 years. His qualifying time was 199.557.

It seems that horse racing and car racing would create strange bedfellows. The two sports are markedly different in both concept and style, and alike only in that their priorities deal with speed and improvement of the breed.

Indy's Gasoline Alley is an ear-splitting, nose-stinging scene of howling engines, grease and fumes. The backstretch of Louisville's Derby is a throwback to the country's birth — as graceful and serene as the magnificent animals that habitate it in the spring of the year.

The sports' followers are even cut of contrasting bolts of cloth.

Car racing fans are a rough-hewn, lusty breed who thrill to blinding speed and the death-defying proclivities of their helmeted knights of the road. Thoroughbred horse racing is far more reserved — its roots planted deep in the nation's society with most of the top stables owned by the very wealthy.

"But you are wrong if you think Calumet is the first to take an interest in auto racing," says Lundy, whose wife Lucille is the daughter of Warren Wright.

"Howard Keck, one of the most prominent horsemen on the West Coast, has been very active in sponsoring race cars. He backed the late Billich (a two-time Indy winner).

"The Richard C. duPonts and Nick Brady — they have had interest in both horses and cars. Our interest is quite understandable. We long have been friends and admirers of A. J."

Foyt is of the stuff that heroes are made. His father, who died last Saturday, was a sometime racer but principally a genius with tools and engines.

No one was better at getting an engine ready. He built a car for A. J. when the latter was five. A. J. dropped out of school after the 10th grade and began racing midgets. He went wherever cars raced, slept in the rear of a truck on the grounds.

Even after becoming the best — 67 championships, seven national driving titles and unprecedented four Indys — twice almost killed in accidents, he continues to show up at obscure tracks, racing midgets, sports cars, coupes, sedans and stocks.

"It's obsession — an obsession drives him," a friend once said within A. J.'s earshot.

"Obsession hell," snapped A. J. "Ol' A. J. is driving this car. Let Obsessions find his own car."

76ers host Lakers tonight

Malone says it's time to win an NBA crown

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Moses Malone doesn't want to spend any more of his considerable salary in a jewelry store.

"It's time to win it," the Philadelphia 76ers center said Wednesday after practice for tonight's second game of the National Basketball Association championship series. "I'm tired of having to go to a store to buy a ring. I want to win one."

Malone, who earned more than $2 million in the first season of his six-year, $13.2 million contract, is itching to beat the Los Angeles Lakers in the best-of-seven title series, which the 76ers lead 1-0 after winning the opener 113-107 last Sunday.

"Those 65 games we won in the regular season won't mean anything if we don't win the championship," Malone said.

The two-time NBA Most Valuable Player, who is considered likely to win that award again after this season, had 27 points and 18 rebounds in 41 minutes of action in Sunday's victory. But reserve center Clemon Johnson is sidelined with a urinary tract infection, so Malone could see even more playing time tonight.

"I've played 48-minute games a few times," Malone said. "It's no big deal. I was ready to go Tuesday night. I didn't see any reason to wait four days between games."

In the playoffs, Malone said, "you don't worry about getting tired."

With Johnson out, Earl

Cureton, who has played in only three of Philadelphia's 10 playoff games for a total of six minutes, is Malone's primary reserve.

"We don't expect him to be a dominant force, we just hope he will play up to his capabilities," Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham said of Cureton. "Moses could play more. We have three additional TV timeouts and we can spread our own timeouts to give him more rest."

Cunningham said he expects both teams to be mentally tougher tonight.

"The effort always intensifies when a team gets behind," said Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

The Lakers, who beat the 76ers in the opener of the championship series in 1980 and last year and went on to win the title in six games both times, will go into Game 2 at less than full strength again.

In addition to the loss for the entire playoffs of rookie star James Worthy, Bob McAdoo still is slowed by a bruised thigh. But McAdoo said he possibly could play some tonight.

Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley said the Lakers could win the series without McAdoo's help, "but our margin of error shrinks a little bit. We can't afford to make as many mistakes as we could if we had McAdoo and Worthy."

Claims he's innocent

Martin fighting again

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Billy Martin, the fiery manager of the New York Yankees, is embroiled in yet another controversy. He maintains he's done nothing to deserve it.

A man who said he just wanted to buy Martin a beer claims that he was struck by the Yankee skipper and roughed up by Dom Scala, New York's bullpen catcher.

But the versions of what happened early Wednesday morning, a couple of hours after the Yankees suffered a 7-6, 10-inning loss to the California Angels, differ.

Police said Wednesday that no charges have been filed, but that they are continuing their investigation of the incident that occurred at the Anaheim Hyatt Hotel bar.

Robin Olson, 27, of El Toro, Calif., filed a report with police alleging that he was hit in the face by Martin.

Olson also claimed that Scala banged his head to the floor several times in rapid succession while holding him by the hair.

"I told the police I didn't even touch the guy," Martin said after the Yankees' 7-1 loss to California Wednesday night. "The guy came up four or five times and wouldn't leave us alone and one of the coaches (Scala) collared him."

"Nothing happened as far as I'm concerned. The guy was just looking for publicity. He came behind me and it seemed like he threw something at me. We called the security guards and they threw the guy out of the place."

Scala said, "In a nutshell, I was trying to prevent an altercation. I would have done it for anybody on the t. The guy was hassling him (Martin) for about 20 minutes and he (Olson) was shouting obscenities. I didn't hit him or anything."

Jack Jewell, 62, the security chief of the hotel, said "All I know is that I got the call on it about 1:35 a.m. and that there was a fight, so I went into the bar to take care of it," Jewell said. "One guy was getting dragged off another guy when I got in there."

"I think it was Scala. I made sure he was neutral in a corner. The guy he was tangling with took a seat behind Billy Martin and started jaw-ing at Martin.

"It was just a normal eviction, things like that happen in bars."

During the 1979 off-season, Martin was involved in a scrape in a Bloomington, Minn., hotel bar with a marshmallow salesman.

Martin was fired as manager of the Yankees four days later. It was the second time he had been dismissed by George Steinbrenner. Martin was hired to manage the club for a third time by Steinbrenner last winter.

In November of 1978, Martin got in a fight with sportswriter Ray Hagar in a hotel bar in Reno, Nev.

2 teams tie again in local scrambles event

Despite early afternoon rain, coupled with hail, two teams tied for top honors in the weekly scrambles at the John Pitman Golf Course Wednesday.

Tying at five-under par-30 were the teams of Bob Baker, George Ochs, Troy Waddell, Dick Gholson and Tiffi Dirks, Clay Richerson, Darwin Manning and Mary Shelton.

That makes two weeks in a row teams have tied for top honors. As a result, prize money will be carried over yet another week, as only one team will be declared a winner.

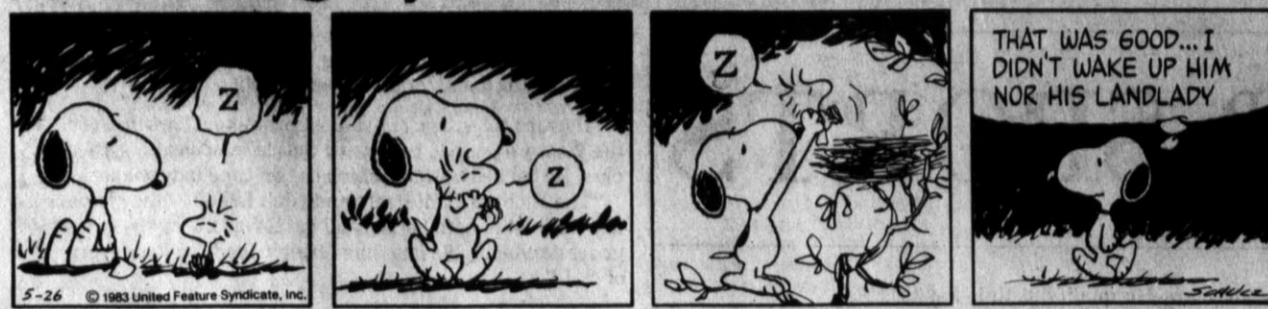

In all, 14 teams played Wednesday. Entry deadline for next Wednesday's event is 2 p.m. the day of the tourney. Entry fee is $3 plus green fees.

The Newspaper BIBLE

ARE YOU A GOOD NEIGHBOR?

One day an expert on Moses' laws came to test Jesus' orthodoxy by asking Him this question: "Teacher, what does a man need to do to live forever in heaven?"

Jesus replied, "What does Moses' law say about it?"

It says, he replied, "that you must love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind. And you must love your neighbor just as much as you love yourself."

"Right!" Jesus told him. "Do this and you shall live!"

The man wanted to justify his lack of love for some kinds of people, so he asked, "Which neighbors?"

Jesus replied with an illustration: "A Jew going on a trip from Jerusalem to Jericho was attacked by bandits. They stripped him of his clothes and money and beat him up and left him lying half dead beside the road. By chance a Jewish priest came along; and when he saw the man lying there, he crossed to the other side of the road and passed him by. A Jewish Temple-assistant did the same thing; he, too, left him lying there."

"But a despised Samaritan came along, and when he saw him, he felt deep pity. Keeling beside him the Samaritan soothed his wounds with medicine and bandaged them. Then he put the man on his donkey and walked along beside him till they came to an inn, where he nursed him through the night."

"The next day he handed the innkeeper two twenty-dollar bills and told him to take care of the man. 'If his bill runs higher than that,' he said, 'I'll pay the difference the next time I am here.'"

"Now which of these three would you say was a neighbor to the bandits' victim?"

The man replied, "The one who showed him some pity." Then Jesus said, "Yes, now go and do the same."

Luke 10:25-37

JULIAN BOND

Harold & Jesse & Bert

What do Harold Washington, Jesse Jackson and Bert Lance have in common? On the surface not much.

Washington is the former Illinois state legislator and current member of Congress who is the Democratic nominee for mayor of Chicago. He is black, and he wants to win. He faces Republican Bernard Epton in the April 12 election.

Jackson, of course, is the civil rights leader who heads the Chicago-based People United to Save Humanity (PUSH). He is black, and he wants Harold Washington to win.

Lance was Jimmy Carter's budget director. He was forced to resign because of financial difficulties at his Georgia bank. He now heads Georgia's Democratic Party, and he also wants Harold Washington to win. Lance is white.

Only Jackson and Washington can vote in Chicago, and only they can benefit directly from a Washington victory. But Lance has joined Jackson and other prominent Democrats in supporting Washington's attempt to win the mayor's office in the Windy City.

Why? Why does the white chairman of the Georgia Democratic Party care whether black Harold Washington defeats white Bernard Epton to become the mayor of majority-white Chicago? Because Lance — like national Democratic chairman Charles Mannatt — is afraid that if Washington loses, black voters will develop hostility toward the Democratic Party and its candidate for president next year. And both men are afraid that an Epton victory in heavily Democratic Chicago will give added impetus to the potential candidacy of Rev. Jackson. A Republican victory would give credence to Jackson's claim that the Democrats can't be trusted when black aspirations clash with the hopes of white Democrats for political and economic power.

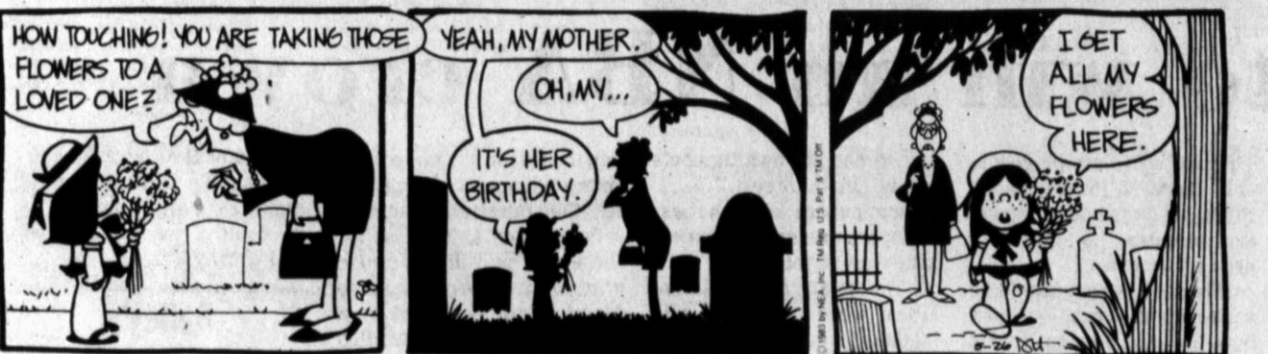

Lance has risen from the ashes of his resignation to become a power in Georgia politics and a spokesman for Southern Democrats. His Southern strategy, he hopes, will produce a Democratic victory over Republicans in 1984. He believes that can best be accomplished if the Democrats nominate a moderate candidate who can lean far enough left to attract black voters without leaning too far from the white voters who helped elect Ronald Reagan in 1980.

Mid-Plains Pioneer Day set Saturday

The Hereford Bull Barn will be the site for the annual Mid-Plains Pioneer Day.

The event will begin Saturday morning with registration starting at 9:30 a.m. The program is scheduled to start at 11 a.m. followed by a covered dish luncheon.

Highlighting the event will be the naming of this year's Pioneer of the Year by KPAN Radio.

Other special recognitions during the program will be the oldest man and the oldest woman present and the person traveling the farthest distance to attend the event.

President Argen Draper will preside over the meeting, the invocation will be brought by the Rev. Jim Bozeman and the Pledge of Allegiance will be led by L.J. Clark. Leatrus Clark will give the welcome and Mary Jane Morgan of Muleshoe the response.

Nell Culpepper will read the minutes and give the treasurer's report, and Bartley Dowell will give the report of the nominating committee. Election of new officers will be conducted.

Special music will be provided by Jeryl Hoover and J.B. Noland will give the benediction.

Those attending the annual festivities are asked to enter the Bull Barn from the east entrance.

Distributing Poppies

Memorial poppies were distributed Wednesday by members of the Hereford Unit No. 190 of the American Legion Auxiliary. Proceeds from the poppy sale aid disabled veterans and their families. Rachel Keyes, five

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I respond to the women who objected to the news media showing human grief and suffering?

Sometimes we go overboard. I say "we" because I am a journalist who has walked that tightrope of reporting disasters with dignity while trying not to fall into the chasm of sensationalism. It's a fine line.

I am sorry the woman was repulsed by the TV cameras showing that father's grief over the loss of his family. But perhaps someone watching was moved to write a letter of support or send money or furniture or clothing to replace what was lost in the fire. Because of the news coverage, thousands of disaster victims receive letters and contributions from strangers moved by their plight.

As for those "hard-boiled" journalists, I have seen my colleagues struggle to keep from breaking down during an interview. I have also seen them slip a $10 bill into the hand of a victim.

God knows, journalists aren't all angels. But nothing makes us feel better than to follow up on a story of a disaster victim who has experienced an outpouring of love from strangers because his picture appeared in the newspaper or on T.V.—Reporter in San Diego

DEAR S.D.: Glad you wrote. I am happy to present the other side of the argument.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you recommend a book that will help teenagers spend money wisely and prepare for a life in this tough, competitive world? We have three teenagers and feel totally inept.—Parents From

Anywhere, USA

DEAR USA: Sylvia Porter's "Your Own Money" (Avon paperback, $12.95) is jam-packed with excellent information from how to earn and save money to career options, buying a car and getting your boss to pay you what you're worth. Run, don't walk to your nearest bookstore and get it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Got a soapbox? Get on it! Got some flags? Wave them. Shout like a fishwife. Get the attention of mothers who have young daughters. Warn them against letting six-and seven-year-old girls take baths and showers with their fathers. If they have little brothers, they know the difference between males and females. If they don't, by age six they should be shown pictures in books. They do not need to see their fathers in the showers, hanging out all over.

Teach them that their bodies are private property and no one should be allowed to touch those private parts. If anyone tries, they should come and tell you at once. This goes for Grandpa, neighbors, daddy, brothers, anybody.

I just learned about incest in the family of a close friend. I never would have believed that such a respected, distinguished man would molest his grandchild—but he did—for six years.

Keep hammering away. You get the word across like nobody else. Bless you for saving so many kids.—Williamsport, Pa.

DEAR WILLIAMSPORT: I've been on soapboxes, I've waved flags and shouted like a fishwife. Thanks for giving me an opportunity to yell some more.

Council meeting held at library

Nine extension clubs were recognized at the Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council meeting held Monday in the Heritage Room of the Deaf Smith County Library. Seven clubs had 100 percent attendance.

Cindy Norvell, chairman, presided and recognized Lotie Wertnerberger of Dawn and Mary Bass of the Messenger Extension Club, as visitors.

Mrs. Wertnerberger gave the opening exercise for the Dawn Club and assisted Lazelle Fowler, president, in serving refreshments following the meeting.

Education committee chairman, Johnnie Messer, outlined plans for a float in the Town 'n' Country Jubilee in August.

The treasurer's report was given by Bertha Dettmann and Louise Walker, county extension agent, announced summer activities.

Ornamental Garden Club will be held June 28 at the Community Center.

Becky Sanders will present a program on fashion June 21. A fashion revue was scheduled July 13 and the district fashion revue was slated for Aug. 9.

It was also announced that seven 4-H club members will attend Round-Up.

The extension agents state meeting will be held in Amarillo this year and council members voted to make a contribution to help cover expenses.

Pet Ott, parliamentarian, Carol Odum and Grace Covington were named to a committee to revise the standing rules.

Anna Messer, TEHA chairman, reminded club presidents that the next meeting will be held Aug. 22. Delegates to the state TEHA meeting in Lubbock will also be elected at that time.

When the true cost of home-grown tomatoes is totaled, the store-bought variety is a downright bargain.

It's a challenge to read a traffic zone sign for 50 miles per hour if you're driving a clunker like ours.

If do-gooders contented themselves with merely doing better, they'd not be quite so obnoxious.

Military Muster

Pvt. Pedro S. Macias, son of Juan L. and Lucia S. Macias of 610 Union, has completed an Army food service specialist course at Fort Jackson, S.C.

The course trained personnel to prepare and serve food in large and small quantities. Students received training in baking, field kitchen operations, and the operation of an Army dining facility.

He is a 1982 graduate of Hereford High School.

Sgt. Raul Gonzales, son of Narciso M. and Josephine Gonzales of 334 Ave. C., has been decorated with the U.S. Army Commendation Medal at Fort Clayton, Panama.

The Army Commendation Medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Army.

Gonzales, a voice intercept transcriber with the 193rd Infantry Brigade, is a 1978 graduate of Hereford High School.

Army Pvt. Richard A. Villarreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pablo Villarreal of 618 Ave. F, has completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesies, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

He is a 1983 graduate of Hereford High School.

Governor to honor TFU workers

Governor Mark White will sign a special proclamation declaring June 1 as Texas Farmers Union Green Thumb--Senior Texans Employment Program Day in recognition of the hundreds of older workers enrolled in the two senior employment programs.

Texas Farmers Union (TFU) has sponsored the Green Thumb program in Texas since 1970. The largest and oldest federally-funded senior employment program, Green Thumb has more than 17,000 enrollees nationwide, including 1,059 in 111 Texas counties.

In 1973, the Texas Legislature adopted a TFU proposal to establish the Senior Texans Employment Program (STEP), which now receives both state and federal support through the Texas Department on Aging. STEP employs 830 workers in 122 counties.

"Both programs concen-

WT students receive scholarships

Three West Texas State University students from Hereford have received scholarships during the annual school of business spring awards convocation.

Richard Kendrick Jr., a junior accounting major, received a $500 scholarship from the Petroleum Accounting Society.

Willa Bess Lawson, a junior finance major, received a $250 scholarship from Panhandle Personnel Association.

Brian Rahlfs, a senior finance major, received a $250 scholarship from Panhandle Personnel Association.

Legislature set for debate to thwart threat

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas senators say they will try again to pass a bill that could thwart threats of a federal quarantine of the state's cattle trade with other states, and a congressman is asking President Reagan to intervene on Texas' behalf. "Probably Friday," Sen.

Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, said Wednesday when asked when the Senate would act.

Glasgow's bill, already approved in the House, is aimed at voiding the U.S. Department of Agriculture's announcement of a ban on interstate cattle shipments, effective June 1, because Texas does not have adequate controls for the cattle disease brucellosis.

In Washington, U.S. Rep. Bill Patman, D-Texas, wrote to President Reagan Wednesday requesting that the quarantine be postponed from June 1 until Jan. 1 so that the issue can be more fully examined, a spokesman said.

Glasgow blamed former Gov. Dolph Briscoe and "some other big ranchers in South Texas" for bringing on the crisis.

"They just have stocker cattle that they round up once a year and send to market," Glasgow said. "They don't want to go to the trouble and cost of inspecting them for brucellosis once a year."

"What is an inconvenience to him (Briscoe) can kill the rest of the industry in Texas," Glasgow said.

Briscoe was not available Wednesday by telephone.

Last week Briscoe told reporters in Austin that he thought the USDA quarantine threat was just a bluff.

"The president would not sit by, with an election coming up next year, and put a quarantine on the state of Texas," Briscoe said last week.

Brucellosis causes reduced calf crops and lower milk production, although it causes no danger to consumers of meat and pasteurized dairy products.

In his letter, Patman said the question of a brucellosis control program "is a particularly divisive question in Texas" because the disease virtually does not exist in the western and much of the southern part of the state, while it has been a continuing problem in the east and southeast parts.

Patman said a statewide quarantine "would impose a severe economic blow to the Texas cattle industry and therefore to the already depressed state economy."

Patman said that many cattlemen, including himself, believe the USDA's brucellosis control program "is unworkable, unwarranted, of questionable validity, and should be terminated as a waste of taxpayer money."

The Texas Senate tentatively passed the House-approved bill on May 11 that would give the Texas Animal Health Commission authority to adopt rules to comply with the federal program of testing and vaccinations.

However, Glasgow was shy two votes in getting permission for a final Senate vote.

Reaction to the federal quarantine threat has been divided in Texas.

The legislative proposal is supported by the powerful and long-established Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

It is opposed by the Independent Cattlemen's Association, a newer group including many small cattlemen, who claims it would give unlimited power to the Texas Animal Health Commission.

"This is really more than a breeders vs. feeders battle," Glasgow said, "because so much of our trade is out of state. In my area at the cattle auctions about 40 to 50 percent of the cattle are bought for shipment out of state."

Gov. Mark White told a news conference Wednesday "there have been conflicting interests in this situation. The proposals that have been made about this regulation are simply that it's been an ineffective program. They've been unable to get a vaccine that's effective."

"It is very disruptive to the cattle industry," White said. "I would hope we could find some solution to the problem that is effective and urge a speedier research program on a vaccine that works."

Frates Seelgion, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, said the quarantine could mean $80 million to $100 million in lost revenues for the Texas livestock industry.

"If they quarantine the state, a purebred man or registered producer would not be able to move cattle out of the state or into a foreign country," he said.

"We must go forward with eradication of this costly disease. It is important to both the livestock industry and to public health," said S.M. True Jr., a Plainview farmer and president of the Texas Farm Bureau.

"An embargo of Texas cattle would have drastic economic results for Texas producers," said True.

Dr. Donald E. Farris, agricultural economics professor at Texas A&M University, said a quarantine would not apply to slaughtered beef moving out of Texas and thus should not affect meat prices.

"I'm not sure that prices of meat in the store would be affected in Texas or anywhere else," Farris said. "The market makes a fairly rapid adjustment to those sorts of things."

"Texas ships a great deal of the beef we produce out of state so this quarantine certainly could have a depressing effect on our cattle market here," said Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower.

Larry Mark, a spokesman for the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service in Washington, said other states had expressed concern to the federal agency about the cattle situation in Texas.

"We are concerned with breeding cattle from the standpoint of the disease spreading to other cattle," said Mark.

Mark said the quarantine is "not going to cause any shortage in meat supplies for the consumer."

Under the proposed quarantine breeding cattle could be shipped out of Texas only from "qualified herds," that have passed two tests for brucellosis. Individual cattle shipped must be tested and found negative 30 days before shipment.

Steers and spayed heifers are exempt from testing. Cattle that do not meet the quarantine requirements must be branded with an "S" and shipped only for slaughter.

The USDA also said the quarantine would mean a cutoff of most federal funds to fight brucellosis in Texas — about $8 million last year.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

Home-canned safety

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — How — and for how long — should home-canned vegetables be cooked before eating? These are jars of corn and beans that were processed in a pressure canner. — SHEILA

DEAR SHEILA — If the jars are solidly sealed and show no signs of spoilage, boil the vegetables for a minimum of 15 minutes for beans, 20 minutes for corn, before tasting or serving. Do not even taste the vegetables before boiling them. If foods are to be eaten cold, boil them, then chill in the refrigerator. Toxins can be present in home-canned foods that show no sign of spoilage and only the boiling procedure can assure you of the foods' safety. (This precaution must be followed even if you're sure the foods have been properly processed in a pressure canner—and you know that's the only way low-acid foods like vegetables can be properly canned.) If the lid is not sealed tightly, if liquid spurts from the jar when you open it, if the contents smell yeasty, sour, putrid, mushy or slimy, or contains any mold whatsoever, discard it in the following manner: Empty the contents into a saucepan, bring to a boil, then boil 20 minutes. While the food is boiling, wash your hands and any surfaces exposed to the spoiled food with a chlorine bleach solution of two tablespoons bleach to one quart water. When the food has boiled 20 minutes, dispose of it by flushing it down the toilet. Also boil the jar and lid 15 minutes in soapy water. For more information, consult (and follow meticulously) a reliable, up-to-date guide on canning such as those available from the US Department of Agriculture (make sure it is the latest published edition) or a book like the one these guidelines came from: "Canning" by Sue and Bill Deeming (HP Books, 1983). — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I spray a nonstick cooking spray on the burner drip pans of my range. This makes clean-up time a snap. — JOAN

DEAR POLLY — For a change of pace taste, and a help to those who want to cut down on their coffee consumption, try pouring very weak coffee over a tea bag. Sounds weird, but tastes great. Let's call it COFF-TEA. — JANE

DEAR POLLY — Years ago, I used to use a darning egg to slip into hose and socks when mending them. Since they seem to be a thing of the past, I use a large plastic Easter egg and put a package of needles, a thimble, and a spool of neutral color thread inside the egg. This is slipped into my work basket. I never have to look very far when I need to mend a hole or a run. — Z.E.

DEAR POLLY — If you have an old rubber water bag and need a soft cushion to kneel on when gardening, fill the bag with old nylon pantyhose. Gives you a soft cushion that will last a long time.

After you've been out working in the garden, add some warm water to one-half cup baby oil and soak your hands in it for several minutes. They will feel very soft. — MRS. L.G.

DAR install officers for two year term

New officers were installed when members of Los Ciboleros Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met for a luncheon and business meeting Saturday at Hereford Country Club. Serving as hostesses were Mmes. Arthur Clark, Beth Clark and David Blackburn of Friona.

Mrs. L.W. Norvell installed Mrs. Stan Knox, as chapter regent; Mrs. Joe Reinauer Sr., vice-regent; Mrs. Austin Rose, Jr., recording secretary; Mrs. Jack Gilliland, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Carroll Newsom, treasurer; Mrs. Arthur Clark, registrar; Mrs. Abel Ruga, historian; Mrs. Alfred Smith, librarian, and Mrs. Garth Thomas, curator.

Mrs. Leroy Williamson, regent, led the opening ritual and conducted the chapter business.

Mrs. Gilliland presented the President General's Message, her farewell message of appreciation for the completion of her project, "A Legacy Preserved," and the repair and restoration of the NSDAR complex of buildings at 1776 D Street in Washington, D.C. which also included the Administration Building and Constitution Hall.

Mrs. Rose presented the National Defense Report in which she discussed the responsibility that duty should be shared equally by all. She quoted our first president, George Washington, in his message "that every citizen who enjoys the protection of a free government owed not only a proportion of his property, but even his personal service to the defense of it."

In commemorating Flag Day, she read a portion of the essay submitted by Rusty Talarico, age 12, "....I will fly my flag until I am too old to lift it to the pole. The flag is the symbol of my country. When I fly it, I am telling the world that I feel like Daniel Webster, when he wrote "Thank God! - I also am an American."

Mrs. Merlin Kaul reported on the special tea held in April honoring the DAR good citizens and American history essay winners and their parents.

Mrs. Knox showed the blue ribbon awarded from the state yearbook committee for the excellent chapter yearbook.

Mrs. Jess Robinson read an invitation from the Commancheria Chapter, DAR, of Canadian, to the Flag Day Luncheon, the 10th Birthday of their Chapter and honoring Mrs. Wayne D. Tinner, state regent, TSDAR, to be held Saturday, June 13, in the First Presbyterian Church of Canadian.

Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Norvell attended the first meeting of prospective members interested in organizing a DAR Chapter in Tulia in the home of Mrs. L.S. Foreman, organizing regent, with Mrs. John Will Nichols assisting. Mrs. E.S. Brainard, honorary state regent, and Mrs. John K. Harrell, state organizing secretary of Bandera Chapter, conducted the meeting and all assisted prospective members in the preparation of their applications for membership.

Mrs. Norvell reported on the Continental Congress held in Washington D.C. in April. She stated that evidence of repair to the headquarters buildings under the President General's "A Legacy Preserved" project was noticed. She toured the entire headquarters, viewing displays in the various state rooms in connection with the DAR Museum, the offices, board rooms and the President General's reception room as well as the DAR Library.

Reports from state regents of all 50 states, Canada, Mexico and France were heard. Twenty-six national committee chairmen also gave reports. Speeches from notable persons were heard.

Numerous resolutions were approved. Some previous resolutions were re-affirmed, most notable of which was the one against the National Council and World Council of Churches denouncing their support of terrorist groups in developing countries.

Mrs. Walter Huey King was elected as president general.

Following Continental Congress, Mrs. Norvell went to Monroe, N.C. where she dedicated a Daughters of the American Revolution grave marker in Wesley Chapel Cemetery at the grave of Peter Rape, Senior, who served in the resolution in the North Carolina Militia. Los Amarillo visitors extend invitation

Visiting Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 Tuesday evening were Juanita Haines and Junanne Pinckert from Amarillo Rebekah Lodge No. 222.

Ms. Pinckert, a member of the youth committee, Rebekah Assembly of Texas, issued an invitation to Junior Odd Fellows and Theto Rho Assembly to meet in Amarillo June 9-11 at the Quality Inn.

An impressive memorial service was presented in observance of Memorial Day, directed by Helen Bishop. Taking part were Lydia Hopson, Lavita Fitzgerald, and Karrol Rettman; speakers; Susie Curtsinger, musician; and Ms. Bishop, soloist.

Noble Grand Ms. Fitzgerald presided at the regular business session, during which 44 visits and 14 cheer cards to the sick were reported.

Plans for a covered dish supper to honor fathers has been scheduled for June 14 by Kee Ruland, committee chairman.

Eugenia Brown was hostess to C.D. Fitzgerald, Bessie Lawrence, Roberta Combs, Anna Conklin, Faye Brownlow, Merle Boozier, Ruth Rogers, Verna Sowell, Ciboleros Chapter will receive credit for marking the grave of the Revolutionary War soldier.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gibson, regent of John Foster Chapter, DAR, of Monroe, introduced Mrs. Norvell to a gathering of approximately 150 descendants of Peter Rape who had gathered for the service. A reception in Monroe followed.

Mrs. Reinauer announced completed plans and schedule for the DAR garage sale to be held June 18 in the building next door to the Stan Knox Music Store.

Mrs. Williamson reminded all DAR members to fly their American Flags on Memorial Day. Mrs. Tom Draper announced that Friday graves of veterans of wars in three cemeteries would be decorated with American Flags and DAR members plan to assist in this service.

Mrs. Kathryn Muser was welcomed as a guest to the meeting.

Members present included Bea Barrett, Mmes. Blackburn, T.J. Carter, Arthur Clark, Draper, J.J. Durham, Gilliland, V.O. Hennen, Sue James, J.R. Johnson, Kaul, Knox Norvell, Reinauer, Robinson, Rose, Smith, Williamson, J.P. Jones, Glenn Reeve and Willo Ellison of Friona, Mildred Smith and Beth Clark.

Scholarship Awarded

Jason Clark, second from left, a very recent Texas A&M University graduate, congratulates Kari Walterscheid, a 1983 graduate of Hereford High School who was named this year's winner of the Aggie Moms scholarship. Brian Frederick, right, and Mitch Clark, not pictured, both of Hereford, and Shelly Frye, left of Dimmitt, other aspiring TAM freshmen, were also honored by the Aggie Moms Tuesday evening.

Tours program planned for citizens

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program and the Amarillo Senior Citizens Association have joined together in sponsoring a tours program. These tours are especially designed and planned with senior citizens in mind, but are open to all and offer something for everyone.

Special features of ASCS - RSVP Go-Getter tours include several meals and parties; all travel expenses; baggage handling; escorts and tour guides; trip interruption insurance; all tickets to scheduled events, sites or activities; scheduled carriers, and handicapped provisions.

The Grand Southwest Trail leaves July 25 and returns August 4. The tour includes two nights in Santa Fe; Durango, Colo., for the magnificent train ride; Mesa Verde for ancient cliff dwellings; two nights in Las Vegas via the Grand Canyon and Boulder Dam, free dinner and show, and return home through Flagstaff and Albuquerque.

Total cost from Amarillo is $729. Reservations are due June 10. For further information, contact Louise Orr at 374-5500 or Floy Tatum at 373-8389.

Approximately 69 percent of Americans read a newspaper at least once a day.

Aggie Moms honor students at dinner

Aggies, past, present and future, were honored Tuesday evening at the Aggie Moms annual dinner. More than 50 persons gathered at the home of Bill and Mary Lyles, 127 Liveoak, for a covered dish dinner and visiting.

Jason Clark, recent Texas A&M University graduate, received a gift from the Moms, a paper weight featuring the university's emblem. Clark also recently received his commission as 2nd Lt. in the U.S. Air Force and will report to duty in August at Mather Air Force Base at Sacramento, Calif.

Other graduates recognized but not present at the dinner were Kent Ellis, Jim Lyles, Laurie Higgins, Scott Bagley of Dimmitt, and Susan Skaggs and Peter Brown of Adrian.
