Nation's double-digit joblessness nearing end?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shrinking American unemployment lines are causing economists in and out of government to voice hopes that the nation's double-digit joblessness may soon be a thing of the past.

had dropped to 400,000, reaching the levels that preceded the deep recession. Not since July 25, 1981 — at the onset of the business slump — had the weekly jobless claims figure been so low. In that week, the seasonally adjusted total of new applications for basic jobless benefits totaled 386,500.

703,000 in mid-September 1982 — as business layoffs reached a crescendo. The Employment and Training Administration claims report, released Thursday, showed across-the-board declines: the insured unemployment rate dropped 0.2 percentage point — to 3.9 percent; and the number of benefit checks issued by the federal and state governments receded sharply for regular 26-week program recipients, those on the 13-week extended benefits program and people getting relief under the Federal Supplemental Compensation Program. Coming as it did eight days before the Bureau of Labor Statistics' release of June's national unemployment figures, the latest report fueled speculation of a return to a national jobless rate below double-digit levels.

growing increase in employment and it suggests that we might have a good size decline in the (unemployment) rate," which stood at 10.1 percent of the civilian labor force in May, said Allan Sinai, senior vice president and chief economist of Data Resources Inc., a Lexington, Mass.-based forecasting firm. But Sinai sounded a note of caution, saying "I think I would like to see a few more weeks' reports" before predicting that unemployment will continue to decline. Michael Evans, president of Evans Economics forecasting in Washington, said that while new claims for unemployment have been receding in recent weeks, "I can't be too enthusiastic yet" because large numbers of long-term unemployed have not yet re-entered the labor market in search for work. "There's a ticking time bomb out there," he said. "These people still are waiting to get back into the labor force" and compete for jobs. Evans said that if there is a surge into the labor market by "discouraged workers" — those not now counted as unemployed because they've abandoned the hunt for jobs — the demand for work will likely outstrip the supply because business will continue to rehire very slowly. Thus, he said, this would force up the unemployment rate, which hit a post-Depression peak of 10.8 percent in December.

PUC may cut SW Bell request

AUSTIN (AP) — While Southwestern Bell lawyers headed to court today to try to add about $92 million to last year's rate hike, Public Utility Commission staff members considered a proposal that could shave $1.2 billion off the company's 1983 rate request. SWB asked for a $471.5 million hike in 1982, but was granted only $243.9 million by the PUC. State District Judge Harley Clark today will consider the company's complaint that it was entitled to about $92 million more. Company spokesman Jim Goodwin said the PUC forced Southwestern Bell to make higher refunds than necessary to customers who paid bonded rates for two months while the case was pending. Refunds totalling $29.4 million were made in June, according to Goodwin, although the company felt that refunds of only $8 million were justified.

Economists say spend today's tax break

WASHINGTON (AP) — Workers begin picking up their 1983 federal tax cut today along with advice from economists to spend it now and save later. The third installment of the permanent tax cut enacted at President Reagan's request won't mean a lot of money to most people — about $2.40 a week for the median-income married wage earner with two children. But the Treasury Department estimates it will pump $30 billion into the economy over the next 12 months — although much of that will be soaked up by rising state and local taxes. "I would assume most people are going to spend it," Robert Ortner, chief economist for the Commerce Department, said of the federal tax cut, which will average about 10 percent. He advised workers to "enjoy it any way you see fit because this will only unravel a few years of 'bracket creep' (inflation-caused tax increases) and take your effective tax rates back to where they were in late 1978." "Go out and spend it or we're all in trouble," said Sandra Shaber, a consumer economist with Chase Econometrics. She agreed with Ortner that the continued recovery from recession is dependent on consumer spending. Ideally, she said, consumers should spend this year's share of the permanent tax cut but start saving it next year and 1985 when, many economists say, the growing federal deficit is expected to begin pushing interest rates upward. A larger pool of savings at that time would relieve some of that pressure, Ms. Shaber said. Many Democratic members of Congress fear that the tax cut will do more harm than good for the economy. Since the government will have to borrow the money to finance the tax reduction, they reason, that is likely to push up interest rates. The tax reduction is supposed to show up in all checks paid after Thursday, even those that are compensation for work done earlier. The cut in the amount withheld from

Now pending before the PUC is a $1.7 billion rate hike request filed last week by Bell. That increase would mean the tripling of rates for basic residential service. Company officials said much of the increase is needed to cover revenues that will be lost as a result of a court-ordered break-up of the American Telephone and Telegraph system. PUC General Counsel Allen King said Thursday the staff might recommend that $1.2 billion of the request be thrown out because the status of the divestiture is unclear. He said there are uncertainties about Washington U.S. District Judge Harold Greene's divestiture order. Although Greene set Jan. 1, 1984 as the deadline for the

Committee named

PLO factions forge truce

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — While its rival factions called a truce, the PLO's top leaders ended an emergency meeting today by appointing a committee to mediate the bitter dispute between chairman Yasser Arafat and Syria.

Palestine Liberation Organization rebels backed by Syria declared a cease-fire in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley and appointed seven men to oversee the truce. Representatives of the PLO's eight major guerrilla factions announced the truce in a joint communique issued in the Bekaa city of Baalbek. Arafat has been fighting a mutiny by rebel PLO guerrillas in Lebanon for nearly two months. The mutineers claim he has botched the struggle with Israel and selected aides for their loyalty rather than skill. As the cease-fire took effect, 13 members of the 15-member executive committee, the PLO's highest decision-making body, were at Arafat's headquarters in Tunis for an all-night meeting that broke up today. The participants included one member who reportedly supports the rebels in Arafat's Fatah faction, Abdel Mohsen Abu Maizar. He was one of six men named to a committee which will try to resolve differences between Arafat and Syrian President Hafez Assad, according to a PLO official who asked not to be identified.

Poles approve church aid

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Communist government, seeking badly needed food for Poland's hard-pressed private farmers, has agreed in principle to an unprecedented church-sponsored agricultural aid plan. But the state and Roman Catholic Church face delicate ideological problems in a system where the government intends to dominate, and the program remains under discussion. A source close to the talks said the plan may involve the "silent support of some Western governments," including the United States, West Germany and France. "Of course, direct relations between the church and Western governments in this matter would be impossible," the source added. The church reportedly insists on asserting some control over the five-year, $2 billion program, described by one top church official as "something like a non-profit corporation." Polish leader Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski reportedly gave a "green light" to the program during a June 6 meeting with Poland's Roman Catholic primate, Cardinal Jozef Glemp, according to sources close to the church. They said Glemp reiterated this "promise" to Pope John Paul II during the pope's pilgrimage here last week. apparently confirmed this to the church this week in a letter thought to include "official views, and possibly some objections," sources said. The letter's contents have not been disclosed. On Thursday, the Vatican denied any link between the project and the future of Lech Walesa, the leader of the outlawed Solidarity trade union. "The links between that project and the position of Mr. Walesa are completely unfounded and the fruit of imagination," said chief Vatican spokesman, the Rev. Romeo Panciroli, responding to speculation Walesa might be asked to step aside. What is known from talks with church advisers and officials is that plans call for providing about $400 million

But the official added: "It is a very difficult suggestion. They have been killing our people and I can't see how we can reconcile with them that quickly." Relations between Syria and Fatah loyalists worsened after Assad kicked Arafat out of Syria last week to retaliate for accusations made by the PLO chief and his aides that mutiny was Syrian-backed. The PLO official said Maizar and members of five other PLO factions — but none from Fatah — will try to mediate the Arafat-Assad dispute. (See POLES, Page 2)

Consumer confidence said up

By The Associated Press With consumer confidence at a two-year peak, the 10 percent tax cut that takes effect today is expected to give the fledgling economic recovery an added push. The tax cut should show up in paychecks received today or later, including those that are compensation for work done earlier. The cut in taxes withheld from paychecks will be about 10 percent for most workers, raising to 23.5 percent the average reduction in withholding since the program took effect Oct. 1, 1981. The average family will receive only about $10 more each month from the latest installment, but the tax cut is expected to pump about $30 billion into the economy at a time when all economic guideposts point to a recovery from the recession. In the latest sign of improvement, the Commerce Department reported Thursday that new orders to factories climbed 1.9 percent in May. Orders had risen at a slightly brisker pace of 2.3 percent in April and 3.1 percent in March. The tax cut is expected to give the economy an added boost by stimulating consumer spending. Americans may not be able to spend all the money saved by the federal tax cut, however, since states are raising their own rates to make up for lost federal aid and the recession. An Associated Press survey of the 50 states and the District of Columbia found new taxes enacted or nearing final action this year that total at least $15.7 billion — more than half the $30 billion the federal government is giving up. And local taxes, too, are on the rise. Overall, these added burdens will tend to offset the economic stimulus President Reagan is hoping for in the final federal tax cut. Still, a measure of consumer confidence in the week ended Wednesday rose to 55.6 percent from 52.6 percent the previous week, reaching the highest level since the 56.7 percent of early June 1981, said the private research firm of Sindlinger & Co. Inc. in Media, Pa., which compiles the measure based on a survey of U.S. households. A 55.6 percent confidence level means better than 55 of every 100 households had the money and the willingness to spend it for such big-ticket items as cars, furniture and appliances. In other economic developments Thursday: —Prices farmers get for raw products fell in June for the first time in five months, dropping 2.2 percent from

May and nearly 3 percent from a year ago, the Agriculture Department said. At the same time, the prices farmers pay to meet expenses remained unchanged from a month earlier and still 2.6 percent higher than in June 1982. —Assets of the nation's money market mutual funds fell $1.3 billion in the week ended Wednesday, said the Investment Company Institute, a trade group. The decline, to $165.6 billion, was the 30th straight weekly drop in the funds' assets, which have been falling because of competition from banks' money market accounts and the rallying stock market. —Indefinite layoffs among U.S. autoworkers dropped to 202,300 this week while U.S. car production was slated to decline 10.3 percent from a week ago, according to industry reports.

Phil Gramm remains a big thorn in side of Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Rep. Phil Gramm, a thorn in the side of Democrats when he was one of them, is proving as much of a thorn as a Republican. He says he's corralled enough signed commitments from House members to uphold presidential vetoes of Democrat-backed spending proposals for next year. Gramm said Thursday that he and a group of other conservatives had obtained signatures from 146 House members on a letter to President Reagan asking in effect that discretionary domestic spending for next fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1, be frozen at this year's levels. The letter sets a series of ceilings on such spending, urges the president to veto any bill that exceeds the ceilings and pledges to support the vetoes in the House. It also calls for vetoes of four pending jobs, housing and health insurance measures and pledges support for those vetoes as well. "I have the number required to sustain a presidential veto," said Gramm, who estimated that the vetoes would save about $40 billion over the next three years, $20 billion of it next fiscal year. A two-thirds majority vote is required to override a veto in the 435-member House, thus making 146 votes against an override enough to uphold the veto. As a Democrat, Gramm was one of the original congressional architects of Reagan's budget programs. In retribution, the Democratic leadership in January stepped him of his seat on the Budget Committee. Gramm then resigned from Congress and was re-elected as a Republican in February. Gramm said in an interview that plans were laid for circulating the letter after it became evident that Congress was not going to approve an overall spending blueprint, as contained in a budget resolution, that would meet the president's goals. He turned out to be right when Congress in late June approved an $859 billion budget resolution that called for $21.5 billion more in domestic spending than recommended by the president. However, the general plan must be fleshed out by individual spending bills. And the conservative strategy, as reflected in the letter, is to seek and sustain presidential vetoes of bills regarded as excessive. Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Texas, chief deputy Republican whip, said the letter "in essence represents what we believe the budget resolution should have consisted of." Gramm said the signature drive had the support of the House Republican leadership. He said four Democrats signed the letter, but would only name one of them, Rep. Marvin Leath of Texas. Gramm said he would not release the names of other congressmen signing the letter until it is presented to the president sometime after the July 4th congressional recess. Loeffler said another 20 or 30 conservative Democrats would support the vetoes besides those signing the letter and that "we clearly have the strength to maintain the veto strategy." The letter asks Reagan to veto, if it passes, pending legislation that would provide mortgage payment loans to the unemployed, create more public works jobs and repeal 1981 changes in the public housing program. In addition, the letter urges Reagan to veto any bill providing health insurance for the

interest effective today

AUSTIN (AP) — A new law lowering the amount of interest consumers pay on their bank credit cards goes into effect today, and Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Mesquite, said it gives Texas the lowest rates in the nation.

"If you hold a Texas-based bank card, your rates should drop from as high as 21 percent in June to 16.69 percent after July 1," Lyon said.

He said even though the law goes into effect today, the lower rates won't show up until the second monthly bill received after July 1 on credit cards such as Visa and Mastercard.

"This means if your billing date is July 15, the lowered rate will take effect July 16," said Lyon, who sponsored the lower interest rates in the Senate.

The reduced rates were the result of a compromise Gov. Mark White worked out among bankers and lawmakers. The rate will be adjusted quarterly and will be twice the average rate for a 26-week Treasury note.

The 16.69 rate was based on the average rate paid on Treasury bills during the March-May period and will be effective through Sept. 30.

State wants back

Depression boxes

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas officials want to bring home abandoned safe deposit boxes that wound up in Washington when 19 banks failed in the state during the Great Depression.

As 627 banks folded during the difficult economic times, some were unable to locate owners of some safe deposit boxes. The U.S. comptroller of currency took the boxes and their contents.

Last October, Congress voted to allow the U.S. comptroller of currency to return the boxes to the owners or heirs. States, such as Texas, that have unclaimed property programs, can ask the federal government to return the boxes.

State Treasurer Ann Richards said Thursday that boxes from 19 failed Texas banks are in federal vaults.

The Texas banks that closed during the Depression were in Fort Worth, El Paso, Brownsville, Greenville, Denton, Llano, Frisco, Ranger, Howe, Pecan Gap and Roysse City.

"When we first inquired back in April, the comptroller of currency hadn't even written the procedures for how to file a claim," Mrs. Richards said.

Richard Paul, a spokesman for the treasurer, said the forms now are on the way to Texas, and should be filed next week. The state will then make every effort to contact owners or heirs.

"When these banks closed, if they couldn't find the owner, the boxes went to the federal government," said Paul. "God only knows what kind of effort the banks made to find the owners. Probably none."

Health officials report

meningitis outbreak

AUSTIN (AP) — A strain of meningitis that can be mistaken for more serious illnesses is on the increase in Texas, state health officials report.

Cases of aseptic meningitis, a non-fatal disease, has increased from about five per week to 36 per week, the Texas Department of Health reported Thursday. Most of the cases are reported in children. The heaviest outbreaks have been in Houston, Corpus Christi, San Antonio and Austin.

The illness' symptoms include fever, severe headaches, sensitivity to bright light, nausea and vomiting. The symptoms linger for up to a week, according to Dr. Phil Zbylot, chief of community and preventive medicine for the Austin-Travis County Health Department.

State health department epidemiologist Christie Reed said aseptic meningitis can be confused with the more serious spinal meningitis and encephalitis.

The illness is caused by viruses spread by fecal matter of infected persons. The sickness can spread quickly in families, according to Ms. Reed.

Good hygiene can help curb the spread of the illness, she said. Seventy percent of the Texas cases have been reported in children.

Policeman surrenders

to fellow officers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A San Antonio police officer charged with kidnapping his ex-wife has been suspended without pay and jailed on $100,000 bond after being involved in a separate shooting incident.

Samuel Saldana, 32, surrendered to fellow officers Thursday after a judge upped the $25,000 bond set on kidnapping and burglary charges. He was being held today in the Bexar County jail.

Saldana was indicted last week on charges he broke into a house, abducted his ex-wife, Irene Maldonado, and forced her to accompany him to Mexico.

He was shot in the right thumb Wednesday while traveling to Corpus Christi with Ms. Maldonado, who told employees at a truck stop she was again being forced to accompany her former husband against her will.

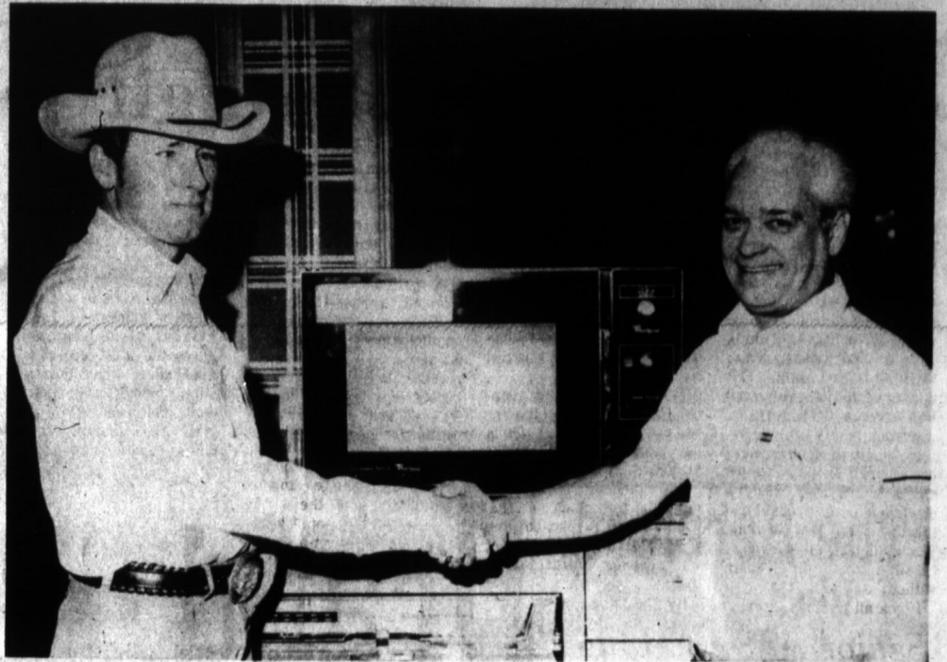

Prosecutors recommended Saldana's bond be increased to $100,000 because he had been released from jail on the condition he stay away from Ms. Maldonado, according to Assistant District Attorney Ed Springer.

Acting Police Chief Frank Hoyack said he doubted any other charges would be filed against the patrolman in the Wednesday shooting.

It has not yet been made clear how Saldana was shot in the thumb.

Solon says San Antonio hospital hires too much military brass

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The state health department has been asked to investigate a San Antonio public hospital by a Texas legislator who questioned the "extraordinarily high percentage" of retired military personnel on the facility's staff.

State Rep. Walter Martinez contends the San Antonio State Chest Hospital is operated more like a "country club for retired military top brass" than a service to the public.

Martinez has written a letter to Texas Health Commissioner Robert Berstein, saying he had "grave concerns" about the number of retired military personnel on the hospital's medical and administrative staffs.

Hospital Director Dr. Andre Ognibene, a retired Army general, said Martinez' concerns were unfounded.

"Any hospital in San Antonio" has significant numbers of retired military personnel on staff because of the number of military bases in the area, Ognibene said.

Martinez, a freshman Democratic lawmaker, said his actions were prompted by information from "some pretty reliable sources" who "are aware of the situations over there."

The legislator, who does not represent the district in which the hospital is located, asked that the investigation include information about the number of staff physicians and top administrators with military backgrounds.

Martinez also is concerned, the letter said, about a "possible conflict of interest" presented by staff doctors working for a private health maintenance organization and possible "duplication in billing" involving staff compensation by a "Medicare trust fund."

He also contended State Chest Hospital had not followed state policies covering merit pay raises and promotions.

Ognibene said five of nine staff physicians and three of eight top hospital administrators have military backgrounds.

He and several other State Chest doctors worked about three hours a week for six weeks for a private health maintenance organization — drawing $25 an hour — but not on "state time," Ognibene said.

Reagan blasted at convention

DETROIT (AP) — Americans want justice and jobs, but are getting neither from the Reagan administration, U.S. Sen. Gary Hart said in a campaign speech before a Hispanic group.

"The policy of this administration is to reverse years and years of economic and social progress in this country," the Colorado Democrat said Thursday night.

"In every area — education, job training, housing, health, business opportunities and all the rest — funds have been cut," Hart said. "It is a vision of this country's future which is negative and backward looking — one that must be reversed in 1984."

Hart was the first of five announced candidates for his party's 1984 presidential nomination to address the League of United Latin American Citizens' annual convention.

"We must work toward job training and education, the right and opportunity to own a business and create new jobs, cleaning up the environment of this nation, constructing a foreign policy which is not aligned with right-wing dictators but rather committed to human rights and democratic principles around the world," Hart said.

Delegates will hear today from U.S. Sens. Ernest Hollings of South Carolina, Alan Cranston of California and John Glenn of Ohio, while former Vice President Walter Mondale is Saturday's speaker.

President Reagan declined an invitation to speak, LULAC President Tony Bonilla said. He also told delegates that progress is threatened by "the callous attitude of the president."

"Our situation today is not as good as it should be and as good as it will be after 1984," the Corpus Christi, Texas, lawyer said.

Bonilla blasted Reagan proposals to allow tax credits to schools which discriminate against minorities, to cut programs for children and the poor and for failure to hire more minorities and women in key federal posts.

He also urged delegates to flex their political muscles to accomplish their goals.

"Those who hold political responsibility must be held accountable," he said. "Don't come eat our tacos, enchiladas and black beans and then return to Washington and kick us in the seat of the pants. If you're gonna do it, then you better be prepared when you come back to eat our tacos and find some hot sauce in it."

EPA plans dioxin campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency is preparing a campaign to identify and combat the toxic chemical dioxin across America, and to ballyhoo the plan with a major public relations effort.

"The dioxin issue is one of such magnitude and potential seriousness due to its extreme toxicity that it demands an agency-wide response," states the draft strategy, which is said to have the backing of top EPA administrators but will not be final until mid-July.

A copy of the document was shown Thursday to The Associated Press.

Sites contaminated with dioxin continue to turn up around the country, causing public worry and unknown health effects, the report notes, but there has been no governmental attempt to coordinate responses to the toxic threat.

"Dioxin is indeed a major environmental and public health problem that will not go away unless EPA takes a series of very specific steps over the next few years," it concludes.

Among those steps are a two-year, $12 million effort to ferret out locations where dioxin may have been produced as an unwanted byproduct of the manufacture of the herbicide 2,4,5-TCP, which is no longer being made. The search by the agency and state officials would begin at the 13 known sites where the herbicide was produced.

The agency also proposes to greatly increase commitments of manpower and money to the dioxin problem, especially in the area of research on the chemical's human health effects and on ways to destroy or otherwise dispose of contaminated material.

Another aspect the agency regards as important is use of the strategy as a public relations tool to reassure citizens that new EPA Administrator William Ruckelshaus is responding quickly to public concern over dioxin.

Twelve pages of the 67-page document are devoted to how to get the most out of the report's publicity value and how to mount a "community relations plan" on dioxin.

"There are indications that the administrator would like to take the high-profile approach and use the release of the strategy to call attention to EPA's efforts to address dioxin problems," the report says.

Teacher sues for $30 million

HOUSTON (AP) — A certified school teacher has filed a $30 million class-action lawsuit against the Houston Independent School District, alleging that the school system has discouraged blacks from applying for some teaching positions.

Barbara M. Mathews, 36, who is black, also claims in the suit, filed Thursday in federal court, that she was denied a position in the HISD because of her race.

Blacks as a class are discriminated against with respect to hiring, promotion, discharge "and other terms and conditions of employment," Ms. Mathews alleges in the suit.

In a complaint to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission filed before the suit, Ms. Mathews said she applied for a teaching position at HISD in June 1982, and was told in a subsequent interview there were no positions open.

In September, Ms. Mathews said she saw a posting at HISD for 12 teachers, but was told by the personnel department the positions were not available.

Later that month, Ms. Mathews said she was told by a HISD interviewer that the positions she had seen posted were reserved for white teachers.

unemployed unless a way is provided to pay for the program.

It also urges the president to veto any non-defense discretionary spending proposal which is more than his budget request for next fiscal year, or the amount provided for the current fiscal year, whichever is higher.

Gramm said that other congressmen active in the signature drive were Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss., the House Republican whip; Connie M. Mack, R-Fla. and Hank Brown, R-Colo.

The Labor Department says the median wage — half the people earn more, half make less — is $319 a week. A married person with two children and earning $319 will take home an extra $2.40 a week starting Friday. Withholding will fall to $25.70 a week, $7.30 less than two years ago.

Withholding from a single person earning $319 will drop $4.40 a week, to $44.40.

A single person earning $1,000 a week will get an extra $19.80. A $500-a-week married worker claiming withholding allowances only for himself and his wife will get a $7.60 cut. A married person earning $400 weekly and claiming four allowances will take home $4.20 more.

The cut in withholding is less as wages rise above $637 a week because that is the point at which the maximum withholding rate — 37 percent — takes effect.

worth of materials annually to larger private farms.

Private farmers, often using primitive methods including horse-drawn plows, till about 70 percent of the country's arable land and produce about 80 percent of its food.

"The plan would provide what is necessary in the way of investments for about 20 percent of Polish agriculture," one church official said.

The official said the "investment aid" would take the form of tires, spare parts, machinery, fertilizer and pesticides — but no money.

Church sources say the aid will come from Roman Catholic episcopates, private aid foundations and public associations in the West, like much of the estimated $300 million in food and materials funneled to Poland since market conditions dipped to crisis levels in 1981.

Church sources say the government has demanded aid be distributed through its rural cooperatives and institutions.

The sources say the church has countered by insisting on some control to allay fears of Western donors that such massive aid could be misdirected, mishandled or misused.

break-up, King said the judge has not given final approval to all phases of the corporate split.

"It's a matter of there are no answers at this point and will not be any answers until Judge Greene speaks, or Congress or the Federal Communications Commission, and to a certain smaller degree, until the (PUC) speaks," he said.

Also unresolved are questions about how Southwestern Bell will recover long distance revenues lost when AT&T takes over most of that business.

"It's not just your typical uncertainties that can be resolved by research or by bearing down and filling out the forms," said King.

Among the options under consideration is a plan that would carve the rate request down to $502 million, the amount that Southwestern Bell officials said they would have asked for if not for the AT&T split and other changes in the industry.

Goodwin said the company would have no comment on the proposal until a motion is filed by the PUC staff.

Ann Landers Homemaking a big job

DEAR ANN: This is to all you men out there who think your wives do nothing but watch soap operas all day. Last summer my wife spent two weeks in the hospital. I decided to take my vacation and watch the kids—ages six, five and two. After the first day I thought, "This is a breeze." From then on it was downhill all the way.

By day four, we were eating fried eggs off paper plates because there wasn't a clean dish in the house. I had laundry up to my yin-yang. You couldn't find your way through the living room without a map. I took all the kids grocery-shopping and forgot the list at home. Of course I had to go back and the kids became irritable and got on my nerves. I lost my temper and let 'em have it right between the cornflakes and the bakery goods. If someone had offered to buy them cheap, I would have made the sale. The baby got sick and kept me up all night. The older two had the nerve to expect me to get up the next day and make breakfast. At dinner it took me 20 minutes to clean them up just so they could eat. The water company phoned and threatened to shut off the water because I forgot to pay the bill. By the time by wife got home, my nerves were shot. I couldn't wait to get back to work. At least there I got a coffee break. I was floored when my wife walked in and said, "It's so nice to be home." The woman is a saint.—Respect Reborn

DEAR REBORN: There is nothing like trudging in the little woman's moccasins for a few days to appreciate what her life is really like. Thanks for the confession. You've given all those male chauvinists out there 20 lashes with a wet mop. Every bone-weary woman in America loves you.

DEAR ANN: Eighteen months ago I found out my husband was having an affair. I have four small children and was going to school full-time to be a nurse. I filed for divorce and two weeks later I learned that thanks to my now ex-husband I had contracted Herpes II. The hell of having to deal with my husband's affair and contracting Herpes II from his girlfriend nearly caused me to wig out.

Four months ago I started dating a guy I care a lot about. A week ago I told him I have Herpes and how I contracted it. I told him all the facts—after the primary infection I'd never had another episode, but that someday I might and at that time and only then would I be contagious. I even made an appointment for a consultation so a physician could explain it to us both in detail. He never showed up for the appointment. Later he called and said he'd like to see me but we could never make love again. He was "afraid."

Moral of the story: If you have Herpes II, keep your mouth shut. If you become contagious again, find any reason—even pick a fight—to avoid making love. But don't tell the truth. Society considers it modern-day leprosy and you will not be forgiven.—Learned The Hard Way

DEAR LEARNED: Sorry, I don't agree. The ring kind of man, if he really cared about you, would have behaved differently.

Youngster too much for King

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King and Andrea Jaeger, the oldest and youngest semi-finalists in this year's Wimbledon, walked off Center Court together at the conclusion of their match. King, who has won a record 20 Wimbledon titles, turned and took one look at the famed grass court.

"I have never done that before," she later said. "I thought it might be the last time."

At 39, King, the "Old Lady" of tennis, failed to find another miracle, her astounding run this year ending in a 6-1, 6-1 thrashing by Jaeger, who wasn't born when King won her first Wimbledon crown in 1961.

"I had no injuries, no troubles. I was totally prepared for the match," King said. "But I just couldn't do one thing I had planned to do."

With the victory, the third-seeded Jaeger, 18, moved into Saturday's women's championship match against top-seeded Martina Navratilova, who raced through Yvonne Vermaak of South Africa 6-1, 6-1 in 36 minutes.

"The object is to play as hard as you can and get off the court as quick as you can," said Navratilova, the world's No. 1 player on the Women's Tennis Association computer. "I'm not out there trying to make it a good match for TV."

The men's semi-finals were played today, with second-seeded John McEnroe meeting No. 3 Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia and No. 12 Kevin Curren of South Africa taking on unseeded Chris Lewis of New Zealand.

Making her 21st appearance here in 22 years,

King — who retired after winning her sixth singles title in 1975 but returned to the All-England Championships in 1977 — never got going against Jaeger, whose sharp, accurate groundstrokes dominated the match.

"I decided to concentrate on every point," Jaeger said. "I usually don't do that, but I was determined."

Her determination was matched by her strokes and her quickness. Everything the wily King tried, Jaeger had an answer for. And, for the most part, it was a winning answer.

"I think she was geared up so much for the final she didn't get her game going," Jaeger said.

The dowager dame of Wimbledon had another way of putting it.

"She just cleaned my clock," King said.

The youngest finalist at Wimbledon since Maureen Connolly in 1952 — Connolly won that year, defeating Louise Brough — Jaeger's overwhelming victory still took 20 minutes longer than Navratilova needed to run through Vermaak.

She has lost only three matches since winning Wimbledon a year ago. And all three losses have come in the other Grand Slam events — to Pam Shriver in the U.S. Open, to Chris Evert Lloyd in the Australian Open and to Kathy Horvath in the French Open.

Only once in these championships has she been taken to a tiebreaker, that coming in the third round when she stopped Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia 7-6 in the first set.

In her first five matches, which have taken a total of 4½ hours, Navratilova has lost just 21 games.

Will Grimsley writes

Navratilova nearly unbeatable

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — When Martina Navratilova steps on a tennis court and starts hitting balls, you wonder how she could ever lose a match.

Based on physical assets and innate ability, she is probably the greatest woman player who ever lived. Conceivably, she could etch it all in stone.

Oldtimers sit around the tables at posh tennis establishments — such as the sedate All-England Croquet and Tennis Club here — and discuss such an interesting prospect.

France's Suzanne Lenglen was a tapestry of fluidity and grace. Helen Wills won eight Wimbledon titles with cold shattering precision. Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly could thread a sideline with her shots. Margaret Smith Court won all over the world, was big, strong but awkward.

Billie Jean King has been a competitive marvel. If you had one point to play and your life depended on it you'd want Billie Jean to play it. Then there's Chris Evert Lloyd, an ice princess who played the big tournaments as no one ever played them before — this year for the first time failing to make a semi-final in one of the Grand Slam events.

Yet when you imagine any of these pitted against Martina Navratilova at her best you can not think of any of them coming out ahead.

"I am not unbeatable," Martina says. "But at my best, I hope I am the best."

At 5-7½ and 145 pounds, she is a physical marvel — strong legs and body, a powerful left-handed serve, quickness of a jungle cat on the court and reflexes as finely tuned as a violin.

She has everything — physique, natural instinct, competitive drive. One bolt is missing. Maybe one cannot see it. It's an intangible you might call cold steel under pressure.

When she is pressed too hard and begins imagining the consequences too much, she is a target for defeat.

"I welcome the chance to get Martina at 5-5 in the final set," Lloyd once commented. Once, a few years ago, at Amelia Island, Chris beat Martina 6-0, 6-0. It should be impossible.

But there are occasions when Martina is inclined to crack. When she does, she loses all conception of the match, and her game turns into shreds before her very eyes.

To her credit, it must be said that she has worked hard to repair this one chink in her armor and these occasions are becoming rarer and rarer.

Such it has been a Wimbledon this week where she has now advanced to Saturday's ladies' final

Golfer wants confidence

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — In most sports, momentum is a winning factor. In golf it's confidence, and Tom Watson is trying to regain it.

"I put good thoughts to work," he said after blistering Butler National Golf Club with a 5-under-par 67 Thursday for the first-round lead in the 80th Western Open.

Keeping on Watson's heels entering Friday's second trip over the 7,079-yard, par 36-36-72 course was Buddy Gardner at 68. A non-winner, his best effort since 1979 was a tie for ninth in the Kemper Open this month.

Grouped at 69 were Bruce Fleisher, former U.S. amateur champion statistically ranked as fourth best putter on the PGA tour; John Adams, who has failed to make the cut 12 times this year, and Australian Greg Norman.

"I hit a lot of good shots and I've put good thoughts to work — I had confidence out there," said Watson, who made birdie putts of 50, 45 and 30 feet. "I turned a 70 into a 67 with those long putts and hit 16 greens. Maybe this is the start of something good."

"It was a solid, steady round. Anytime you break 70 at Butler, you've shot a great round," said Watson, tuning up for his next tournament — the British Open, which he won last year and three other times.

For the first year since 1974, when he made his start at becoming one of golf's greatest players by winning the Western Open at Butler, a season without a victory is slipping by Watson.

"It's my longest slump in six or seven years. I just haven't been playing worth a darn, but I am now, and it has certainly helped my confidence level," said Watson who lost the U.S. Open last month by a stroke to Larry Nelson.

Nelson and defending champion Tom Weiskopf will be struggling to make the 36-hole cut in the Western after first rounds of 75 and 77 respectively.

"This tournament is something special to me," Watson said. "It was the first I ever won as a pro ..."

Watson, who has been named to three Ryder Cup teams, must win the Western to be sure of making the 12-man squad that faces Great Britain, Ireland and Europe in October at the PGA National in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.

"The Ryder Cup team — that's something I really want to make," said Watson. "To be sure, I have to win here."

The team is selected on a point system determined by the top ten tournament finishers in a period of a year. The Western Open is the last tournament this year counting for Ryder Cup points. A win would give Watson 70 points, assuring him of a berth, although he could qualify with a second-place finish.

Shooting 70 were Jim Thorpe, Jimmy Roy, Lance Ten Broeck and David Edwards.

Robinson plans to shake Giant lineup

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

Frank Robinson thinks — or hopes — he has the recipe to get the San Francisco Giants cooking again: shake well.

"I don't know if they need to be shook up to go out there to catch and throw and pitch and hit the baseball," the Giants' manager fumed Thursday after his players responded to Wednesday night's 30-minute chewing out by committing four errors and a variety of other mistakes and getting clobbered 15-5 by Cincinnati, their third consecutive loss to the Reds.

"Between now and tomorrow night," Robinson promised, "we will get some people out there who know how to play the game — and will play it."

Elsewhere in the National League it was Philadelphia 3, Montreal 1; Chicago 4, Pittsburgh 3; San Diego 7, Los Angeles 6; St. Louis 6, New York 1, and Atlanta 6, Houston 4.

Cincinnati, which pounded out 16 hits, blew the game open with eight runs in the first inning — three on Gary Redus' homer — and added six runs in the fourth. "Everybody was fooling around, having fun. There was a lot of razzing going on," said the Reds' Paul Householder, who drove in four runs with a single and an inside-the-park homer.

Phillies 3, Expos 1

Rookie Kevin Gross pitched and batted the Phillies past Montreal, posting his second victory in his second start and drilling a tie-breaking single for the run that beat the Expos.

Gross said it was his first hit since high school. In two minor-league seasons he played under the designated-hitter rule.

Cubs 4, Pirates 3

Jody Davis entered June with 18 runs batted in. He leaves it with 43.

"It's been a great month," he said after driving in three runs against the Pirates, including the game-winner with a ninth-inning single off the Pirates' Kent Tekulve. "I've never experienced anything like this in the big leagues. I only had 52 ribbies all last season."

Padres 7, Dodgers 6

Sixto Lezcano drove in five runs, three on a third-inning

Same matchup, another Yankee win

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

You'd think Tim Stoddard would have learned by now.

The last time he faced Butch Wynegar in a crucial situation, he tried to blow a fastball by him and the New York Yankee catcher slugged a two-run single in the 11th inning for a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles on Monday night.

Thursday night, the Oriole relief pitcher was on the mound and Wynegar at the plate with the score tied 3-3 in the 12th inning, and guess what Stoddard, 3-3, served up?

That's right, a fastball.

"There's no doubt Stoddard's a fastball pitcher," Wynegar said after his home run led the Yankees to another 4-3 victory over the Orioles. "He's gonna come right at you. He's not gonna try and fool you."

"I said to myself that I handle a ball from the middle (of the plate) best, so if he gets it there, I'm gonna take a hack at it. He threw me almost the exact same pitch I hit Monday night."

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City whipped Oakland 7-4, Milwaukee stopped Detroit 4-1, Toronto hammered Minnesota 11-3 and Texas whipped California 4-2 in 10 innings.

New York relief ace Rich Gossage, 5-2, went four innings for the victory, although he blew a 3-1 lead in the ninth when he gave up a two-run double to John Stefero, playing in just his second major league game.

Royals 7, A's 4

U. L. Washington knocked in four runs with a double and a bases-loaded triple and Willie Wilson had three hits and scored three runs as Kansas City beat Oakland.

Rickey Henderson's double and Bill Almon's two-run single off Keith Creel helped the A's build a 4-0 first-inning lead. Washington got three hits, starting the Royals' comeback in the third with a run-scoring double after Wilson singled.

Wilson scored again the sixth when he singled, stole his 38th base, took third after two walks, and came home on a single by Willie Aikens. Washington put the Royals ahead to stay at 5-4 with his triple in the seventh off A's reliever Tom Burgmeier, 4-4.

Brewers 4, Tigers 1

Paul Molitor hit a two-run single and Bob McClure and Tom Tellmann scattered seven hits, leading Milwaukee over Detroit. McClure, 4-7, gave up six hits, then Tellmann pitched the final two innings to record his sixth save. It was McClure's second start since he missed two weeks because of a sore shoulder he says is still tender.

Blue Jays 11, Twins 3

Willie Upshaw led a 13-hit attack with three hits, including a three-run homer, as Toronto trounced Minnesota.

Upshaw capped a five-run fourth with his 15th homer to give Luis Leal a 9-1 cushion. Leal, 8-6, allowed just one run and four hits over the first six innings before Gary Gaetti slammed a two-run homer in the seventh. Randy Moffitt pitched the final two innings for Toronto.

Minnesota's Al Williams, 4-9, pitched 2 1-3 innings and allowed four runs before leaving with a bruise on his pitching hand.

The Blue Jays took over the AL East lead with the victory. They have never been in first place at this stage of the season and had never been over .500 before June 20, prior to this year.

Rangers 4, Angels 2

George Wright singled for two runs in the 10th inning to lead Texas over California and move the Rangers back into sole possession of the AL West lead.

The Rangers' decisive rally began when reliever Luis Sanchez, 8-3, nicked Buddy Bell with a one-out pitch. Larry Parrish followed with a single and Pete O'Brien greeted Andy Hassler with a single but right fielder Ellis Valentine's perfect throw to the plate nailed Bell attempting to score from second.

Wright then singled home Parrish and O'Brien, who had moved to second and third on the throw home.

Dave Schmidt, 2-0, blanked the Angels for the final 2-2-3 innings to post the victory.

Ump entertains baseballers

Former Midwest and Major League baseball umpire Eldon "Tex" Moritz was the guest speaker Thursday night at the annual ice cream banquet for the Deaf Smith County Kids Inc. summer baseball program.

"People don't know where umpires come from," he told the large gathering in the Bull Barn, "though everyone knows where they all go."

Moritz, who umpired for a total of four years in the professional ranks, stressed his former profession is similar to being a player since one must pay his dues and work hard to become "the cream of the crop."

Umpire school taught Moritz he would have a 50-50 chance on every call: ball or strike, safe or out. Though his decisions would always be subjective, participants and onlookers of baseball and other games could "take a lot of anxiety out of their lives" if they were to never question the umpires or referees.

While umpiring in the Midwest League, Moritz said he once called a guy safe at second on the first part of a double-play ball. Since such a call is rather rare and he knew it would spark an argument, Moritz forgot to look at the first-base play. He signaled "out" for that one. Soon one of the two managers was yelling in his face with the other skipper waiting patiently behind for his turn.

"I still like baseball," Moritz said, "it's a great game. It's the managers and the players and the fans I don't like much."

Moritz concluded his speech by calling the United States "the greatest country in the history of the world," telling all the kids (many inattentive by this time) to keep practicing and imploring them to stay clear of "drinkin' and druggin'."

Following the former umpire's talk, awards were presented to girl, T-Ball, Mustang, Majors and Babe Ruth players. The two-and-a-half-hour proceedings were initially marred by a faulty public address system which was repaired prior to the main speech.

Umpire Shaken

Eldon "Tex" Moritz, former Midwest and Major League baseball umpire, takes time before a speech Thursday night to shake hands with Tom Simon, master of ceremonies at the annual ice cream banquet for the Deaf Smith County Kids Inc. summer baseball program.

against 18-year-old Andrea Jaeger.

She has played remarkably, not losing a set and dropping very few games. She's been devastating.

If Jaeger is to have a chance, she must strike early, put Martina in such a bind that the defending champion starts worrying about a possible loss and then apply the screws.

London bookies figure it can't happen.

California, Montreal dominate selections for All-Star Classic

NEW YORK (AP) — The California Angels, with the addition of third baseman Doug DeCinces and catcher Bob Boone, matched the Montreal Expos for the largest contingent named for next Wednesday night's 50th anniversary All-Star Game.

Each has five. Boone and DeCinces were among 12 reserves American League Manager Harvey Kuenn of the Milwaukee Brewers selected Thursday to fill out his roster. They join teammates Rod Carew, Reggie Jackson and Fred Lynn for baseball's July 6th showcase game at Chicago's Comiskey Park.

It is California's second-largest group of All-Star players, second only to the six they sent to the Seattle Kingdome in 1979.

Montreal boasts four starters and pitcher Steve Rogers on the National League team. The Expos' starters, elected by the fans, are catcher Gary Carter, outfielders Andre Dawson and Tim Lincecum and first baseman Al Oliver. All five played in last year's game at Montreal, with Rogers getting the victory.

Kuenn also selected Cecil Cooper, his first baseman at Milwaukee, Boston outfielder Jim Rice, Baltimore first baseman Eddie Murray, Detroit catcher Lance Parrish, Kansas City outfielder Willie Wilson and Oakland outfielder Rickey Henderson.

The 11 reserves picked by National League Manager Whitey Herzog of the St. Louis Cardinals included his slugging first baseman-outfielder George Hendrick, Atlanta catcher Bruce Benedict, Chicago outfielder Leon Durham, Los Angeles third baseman Pedro Guerrero, Pittsburgh third baseman Bill Madlock, San Diego catcher Terry Kennedy and San Francisco first baseman Darrell Evans.

The starting lineup for the AL is headed by shortstop Robin Yount of Milwaukee, who topped all players with 1,956,964 votes, and two perennial choices, first baseman Carew and third baseman George Brett of Kansas City.

Carew was selected for the 14th straight time and Brett was picked for the eighth year in a row. The other AL starters are second baseman Manny Trillo of Cleveland, outfielder Dave Winfield of New York and Milwaukee catcher Ted Simmons.

The rest of the NL starting team includes outfielder Dale Murphy of Atlanta, third baseman Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia, shortstop Ozzie Smith of St. Louis and second baseman Steve Sax of Los Angeles.

Among the National League reserves making their All-Star debuts are second baseman Glenn Hubbard of Atlanta, outfielder Willie McGee of St. Louis and shortstop Dickie Thon of Houston. The NL pitching staff has six first-time selections — Bill Dawley of Houston, Dave Dravecky of San Diego, Atee Hammaker of San Francisco, Jesse Orosco of New York, Pascual Perez of Atlanta and Lee Smith of Chicago.

DeCinces and Chicago outfielder Ron Kittle, the only rookie reserve on the team, are among five AL reserves making their All-Star debuts. The others are outfielder Gary Ward of Minnesota, second baseman Lou Whitaker of Detroit and shortstop Cal Ripken Jr. of Baltimore. Three AL pitchers — Matt Young of Seattle, Rick Sutcliffe of Cleveland and Aurelio Lopez of Detroit — also are first-time selections.

Earlier, Herzog picked a 10-man pitching staff — left-handers Dravecky, Hammaker, Orosco, Fernando Valenzuela of Los Angeles and Gary Lavelle of San Francisco, and righties Dawley, Perez, Smith, Rogers and Mario Soto of Cincinnati.

Kuenn had chosen three 10-game winners, Ron Guidry of the Yankees, Texas' Rick Honeycutt and Dave Stieb of Toronto to head his pitching staff. Behind them are Young, Rick Sutcliffe of Cleveland and three relief specialists — Lopez, Kansas City's Dan Quisenberry and Bob Stanley of Boston.

Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox and Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds, both retiring at the end of the 1983 season, were added to the teams, expanding the All-Star rosters to 29 players.

Smith leads Jackson Classic

POINTE CLAIRE, Quebec (AP) — M.J. Smith had a feeling her golf game was coming together, but even she had no advance warning that such improvement could lead to a career-best 65 for the first-round lead in the Peter Jackson Classic.

Smith eagled one hole and birdied seven others to go seven under par and take a two-shot lead Thursday in the Ladies Professional Golf Association event over the par-72, 6,033-yard Beaconsfield Golf Club.

"I told a friend last week I was really close to playing well," said Smith. "I'd been hitting the ball well, but I was making some stupid mistakes."

"I thought I might shoot a 68 today, but I'm surprised I shot a 65."

Former winners Pat Bradley and Donna Caponi head a group of five golfers five under par at 67. The others are Sharon Barrett, Marlene Floyd and Sue Ertl.

Jan Stephenson, another former winner, and Hollis Stacy are among five golfers three shots back at 68.

Smith, known as simply Marilyn in her native New Zealand, was told that wouldn't do on the LPGA tour since her namesake is a founder and charter member of the LPGA. So she became M.J. — the J for Janet.

Her previous best round was a 66 at the 1980 Sun City

Classic and Smith has never won a tournament. This doesn't torment her the way it would some of the more competitive tour members.

"I'm a survivor, I just try to make enough money to make it through the year."

New Zealanders tend to be happy-go-lucky, I'm just happy as long as I play some good rounds."

Smith birdied four holes on the front nine, including the fourth, fifth and sixth in succession, to turn around at 32.

Another dust bowl for West Texas?

RANKIN, Texas (AP) — Kent Powell thinks it's ironic that while the Colorado River is overflowing from a record snowmelt, a Pennsylvania-sized part of West Texas nearly has been denuded by the worst drought since the Dust Bowl.

The 18-month drought that has stricken 27 Texas counties has left Rankin nearly devoid of rain — two inches have fallen since last summer. The normal is 12 inches.

"It's a shame some of that (flood) water can't come here," said Powell, the Upton County agricultural agent said.

The area is so dry that "if a grasshopper had to cross the county, he'd better pack a sack lunch," Powell said. "Our land is looking like an extension of the Chihuahuan desert out of Mexico right now."

Officials say the parched land from southeastern New Mexico to the Big Bend area and 250 miles east to Big Spring is reviving memories of Dust Bowl days.

"We've got the makings of a new Dust Bowl out there," Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said. "These 27 counties cover an area larger than Pennsylvania, and the drought is wrecking an agricultural economy that produces sales of a half-billion dollars in a normal year."

Hightower on June 21 asked U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block to declare Upton County a federal disaster area and start an emergency feed program across West Texas to help beleaguered ranchers, who have had to import costly feed for their range animals since January 1982. Block has not acted on the request.

"I've burned (thorns off) cactus so that my cattle can feed. It's just terrible what's going on here. There's going to be a shakeout in West Texas — me included," said

Rankin rancher Lewis Smith.

"I'm losing a tub of money. In all likelihood, I'm going to sell out pretty quick," said Smith, who has 10,232 acres of land for sale at $150 an acre — "or about 50 cents on the dollar. I'm going to get out while I can."

Rankin isn't the only hard-hit area. Portions of Winkler County near the New Mexico corner haven't registered rain in two years, Powell said. The lack of rain has had a ripple effect on most of West Texas.

Some ranchers are pulling their cattle from the land before the ground cover is eaten up and shipping them to fields as far away as Muleshoe, west of Lubbock.

Some of next year's animal crop also could be lost because "the momma cattle and ewe, she won't produce (under adverse conditions)," Powell said.

The drought also has affected area wildlife. Deer increasingly are spotted in roadside ditches, trying to find greens near water runoff spots.

Hungry rabbits also have swarmed on garden plots. One farmer shot about 300 rabbits who kept digging up his garden, Powell said.

"More predators seem to be coming in — coyotes, bobcats, some mountain lions. And skunks — some with rabies — have started showing up in town," he said.

There is faint hope that rain still could fall by the Fourth of July weekend, traditionally the end of West Texas' summer precipitation. But so far, nothing.

"We've got lots of wind (but) no rain," Midland County cotton farmer Vernon Chandler said.

Oldtimers who lived through the Dust Bowl days of the 1930s and 1950s that extended into the Great Plains from Texas say it's the worst drought in memory, Pecos County extension agent Jennifer Truby said.

"People get the feeling the whole world is falling in on their shoulders," she said. Pecos County only received 2.14 inches of rain the past year. The annual average precipitation is 13 inches.

On other hand, the Colorado River, fed by Rocky Mountain snowmelt, last Sunday reached its highest level in 66 years at Grand Junction, Colo. The flooding forced the evacuation of 1,200 people. The river runs into the Gulf of Mexico in Mexico south of Yuma, Arizona.

In drought-stricken Upton County, bankruptcies and foreclosures have been relatively few. However, two ranches have gone under and another was foreclosed by the bank in Rankin, a town of 1,200. And other ranchers are borrowing to pay for feed; one in Reeves County recently borrowed $150,000 to meet feed bills.

Said Fort Stockton cattle rancher John Berry: "We're running out of grass." He has been forced to sell one-fourth of his cattle herd.

That's nothing unusual, Pecos County extension agent Zan Matthies said.

"Many ranchers are being forced into evacuating their animals or selling them," he said.

"It's getting to the point where we could lose the ground cover, sands could start blowing and we could have another Dust Bowl situation," Powell said. "About the only good news is that we're still alive."

White signs smoke detector bill

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — During a visit to the city where a motel fire claimed five lives, Gov. Mark White signed into law a bill designed to avert similar tragedies in the future.

Flanked by Fort Worth lawmakers, White held a news conference here Thursday to sign the measure, which requires all hotels and motels in the state to install smoke detectors in all guest rooms by Jan. 1.

"I think the bill is going to save lives," said Rep. Doyle Willis, D-Fort Worth, sponsor of the measure.

The bill was approved by legislators during their four-day special session last week.

Investigators said the five victims of the June 14 fire at the Ramada Inn Central died from smoke inhalation. Thirty-four people were injured in the blaze.

Many of the survivors of the fire said they escaped their smoke-filled rooms only because they were awakened by honking car horns and the sound of shattering glass.

A city ordinance required smoke detectors in hotels and motels built after 1976. But the 10-year-old Ramada Inn did not have the devices, and investigators said the fire alarm in the wing where the blaze broke out did not sound because its batteries were corroded.

Investigators have said the fire started in rolls of carpeting stacked in a hallway and that it probably was deliberately set.

White, who was in town for a speech to the Texas Bar Association, praised lawmakers for their quick action on the measure, but called it the "absolute minimum" hotel guests should expect.

"I think a person has the right to expect that he's not going to be going into a public accommodation like that and not have the latest technological, and in this case, very inexpensive, equipment to protect his life," White said.

White said the cost of the devices, which already are standard in many hotels and motels, would "be a lot cheaper than the litigation that flows from the tragedy that occurs."

White added the smoke detector bill to the special session agenda after lawmakers acted on the two emergency measures they had been called back to Austin to address — extension of the Texas Employment Commission and creation of a federally approved program to test cattle for the contagious disease brucellosis.

The governor is expected to call lawmakers back for another special session to address teacher pay raises and public education funding.

Lawmakers declined during the regular session to accept White's proposal to raise taxes on "luxury" items such as tobacco and liquor to fund a 24 percent, two-year teacher pay raise.

White said he will not call another session until he receives a report from a special committee appointed to study education funding.

In the meantime, White said, he is continuing to try to convince lawmakers to consider raising taxes to fund the teacher pay raises he expects the committee to recommend.

White said the committee's report is expected late this summer or early this fall.

White also signed into law Thursday a bill appropriating about $250,000 over two years for a seventh civil appeals court judge for the 2nd Judicial District, which is seated in Fort Worth and covers 14 counties.

The Legislature created the new judgeship during its regular session, but neglected to add funding for the position to the state spending bill.

Stop Looking—It's All in The WANT ADS

Company produces silent complainers

GATESVILLE, Texas (AP)—They're all there, as if they just walked, stumbled or were carried on a stretcher from the pages of the catalog. Choking Charlie, Mr. Hurt, I.M. Hip, Baby Hippy and sundry plastic hearts, lungs and skeletons are displayed in the waiting room of Medical Plastics Laboratory

Inc. of Gatesville. The small-town Texas company that makes the products has a promotional flair that gently and good-naturedly violates the often stuffy decorum of the medical profession. The company's educational and training aids familiarize medical students, nurses and ambulance attendants with human anatomy. When they see genuine human distress, it might look like Mr. Hurt, a lifelike model of a man's head with no fewer than eight serious injuries.

Mr. Hurt comes complete with the grimace that would be expected of a man in his condition.

Choking Charlie is a plastic mannequin used to practice dislodging food from the throats of choking victims. Included is a piece of "meat" that can be placed in his throat to simulate the real thing.

I.M. Hip and Baby Hippy teach intramuscular injections and diagnosis of congenital hip malformation.

The SK-1APBP Deluxe Biology Specimen — not all the products have clever names — is what company president Charlie Wise calls a "plastic cadaver." He also calls it Liberace.

The device can be wheeled around a medical school in its tubular stand and presents none of the storage problems of the real thing, Wise said.

Thirty employees, many of them white-haired and grandmotherly, manufacture Medical Plastics Lab's extensive range of training products, while nine salesmen sell them throughout the country. Clients often refer to a company salesman as the "bone man," Wise said.

A major selling tool is a four-color catalog, which explains the likes of I.M. Hip, Ms. Catheter and Liggy in medical jargon inscrutable to the average person. Designations such as Mr. Hurt are not meant to be flippant, Wise said.

"The names are something people will remember," he said, adding with a smile that "if a guy has all that trauma, he has to hurt."

The company was founded in 1949 by three Gatesville doctors who saw a need for the training devices and a need for the industry in Gatesville, 80 miles north of Austin. It took them two years to develop the plastic compound used in most of the products.

Annual sales now are $1.5 million to $2 million, Wise said.

Bones used in the company's stable product, plastic skeleton replicas, still are cast from molds taken from a human skeleton the founders imported from India in 1961. Medical Plastics continues to import skeletons from India to satisfy a clientele that "for sentimental or nostalgic reasons have wanted a human skeleton ever since they've been out of medical school," Wise said. "It's like having an antique car."

Doctors at several medical schools check products for accuracy and sometimes design them. But not all of the company's output goes to the medical profession. Robert Burns, an Austin filmmaker and special effects wizard, occasionally buys plastic body parts for use in Hollywood horror movies, Wise said.

Simulated engine failure may have caused crash, investigators say

HOUSTON (AP) — A routine training procedure of simulating engine failure may have contributed to the plane crash at Hobby Airport that killed two people, investigators said.

The pilot of a twin-engine business jet was simulating a partial shutdown of an engine for routine training purposes Wednesday, and had eased the left engine throttle back to idle during takeoff, said Warren V. Wandel, an investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board.

The craft, which was 10 to 15 feet off the ground, then rolled to the left and the wing tip hit the runway, sending the craft on a 300-yard skid that ended when it crashed into a single-engine plane and killed its two crew members almost instantly.

Wandel said Thursday he has not established whether the simulated engine shutdown was the cause for the crash, but said it is a possibility.

The investigation won't be completed for about six months, Wandel said, until he files a report with the NTSB's five-member board in Washington. The on-scene investigation of the accident will end today or Saturday, he said.

Wandel said he has ruled out genuine engine failure as the cause of the crash, and probably will rule out any problem with wind turbulence.

Jacques Lonchambon, a Federal Aviation Administration inspector in Houston, said the fact the shutdown simulation was being performed immediately before the jet veered out of control "may have helped the accident."

Lonchambon said such simulations are routine training procedures for pilots.

Killed instantly in the crash were Kenneth Robinson, 31, flight instructor on the single-engine plane, and student pilot Marshall Stauffer, 34. Both men lived in Houston. The men were idling the Grumman Cheetah on a taxiway while awaiting the jet's takeoff from an adjacent runway.

Wandel said his preliminary investigation also has found that the crew of the Grumman, just returning from a training flight in the Houston area, apparently tried desperately to get out of the way of the oncoming jet but failed.

The smaller plane was at full throttle, indicating the pilot tried gain speed quickly, and the victims were not wearing seat belts, an indication they possibly were preparing to jump free, Wandel said.

Please call the Hereford Brand between 6 and 7 p.m. on days you miss your paper.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Getting a checkup

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a student nurse working on a health education project. What can we expect from a comprehensive physical examination? I would appreciate your going through the different systems: respiration, urinary, circulatory and so on and what you look for as you assess your patients. I think if the public knew what to expect they might schedule examinations even if they felt fine.

DEAR READER — It is very important for people to understand that a regular medical examination is a useful part of their health program. You may feel fine but still have warning signs of future trouble that need attention right away.

Sometimes there are arguments, even amongst physicians, about the value of such examinations. Often these discussions are based on pencil and paper analyses of cost effectiveness. Human life and health are more than a simple profit and loss sheet.

The MRFIT (Multiple Risk Factor Intervention Trial) project report this year really established the importance of regular medical examinations. The scientists were astonished to find out that when they detected individuals with high blood pressure, high cholesterol or a smoking habit that a high percentage of the individuals improved their habits, on their own or with the help of their regular physician.

The key point was discovering the problem. The incidence of heart attacks in this group was well below what had been predicted because these people took steps to lower their risk.

It follows that regular medical examinations are most useful when they include measurement of the important risk factors that precede obvious disease and are coupled with a medical program aimed at preventing disease.

I have outlined just what a medical examination should include for these purposes in The Health Letter 10-2, Your Valuable Medical Examination, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Major causes of death can often be prevented or significantly delayed by preventive programs. Your regular medical examination is part of such a preventive program.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I got very upset when my family became infested with this miserable "itch mite," scabies. I have been too embarrassed to talk about it with friends. I was always under the impression you got scabies from not bathing regularly and not wearing clean clothes, in other words from living in filth.

But we are all very clean and I have always been a good housekeeper, especially seeing that everyone has clean clothes, towels and bedclothes.

How did we get scabies? Can we avoid getting them again? The doctor had us put on a lotion from the neck down.

DEAR READER — A lot of people have the same misconception you have. You can be as clean as a whistle and still get scabies. After all, it is a mite as you suggested. All you need to do is shake hands with someone or be close enough to someone who has scabies and one or more mites can move to you. Obviously, the more close contact you have with anyone who has the mites, the greater your risk.

Careful attention to cleaning "everything" including bedding, clothes and towels is important to eliminate them. Not because the bedding might be "dirty" but because some mites may still be lurking around.

The Newspaper BIBLE

IT MAKES SENSE, DOESN'T IT?

Once, when Jesus cast out a demon from a man who couldn't speak, his voice returned to him. The crowd was excited and enthusiastic, but some said, "No wonder He can cast them out. He gets His power from Satan, the king of demons!"

Others asked for something to happen in the sky to prove His claim of being the Messiah.

He knew the thoughts of each of them, so He said, "Any kingdom filled with civil war is doomed; so is a home filled with argument and strife. Therefore, if what you say is true, that Satan is fighting against himself by empowering Me to cast out his demons, how can his kingdom survive?"

"And if I am empowered by Satan, what about your own followers? For they cast out demons! Do you think this proves they are possessed by Satan? Ask them if you are right!"

"But if I am casting out demons because of power from God, it proves the Kingdom of God has arrived. For when Satan, strong and fully armed, guards his palace, it is safe—until someone stronger and better-armed attacks and overcomes him and strips him of his weapons and carries off his belongings.

"Anyone who is not for Me is against Me; if he isn't helping Me, he is hurting My cause.

"When a demon is cast out of a man, it goes to the deserts, searching there for rest; but finding none, it returns to the person it left, and finds that its former home is all swept and clean. Then it goes and gets seven other demons more evil than itself, and they all enter the man. And so the poor fellow is seven times worse off than he was before."

Luke 11:14-26

Brightening brass

DEAR POLLY — My solid brass bed is getting dull and no amount of polishing seems to shine it. I suspect it was coated with something and that the coating has discolored. Is there any way I can remove this coating so that the brass can be properly polished? — MARTHA

DEAR MARTHA — Many pieces of brass manufactured today are coated with lacquer and I'm sure this is the coating on your bed. It can be removed with lacquer thinner (caution: flammable). Be sure to have excellent ventilation while you work, since the fumes can be dangerous. Once the lacquer has been removed, you should have no problem restoring a high gloss with regular brass polish and vigorous buffing. For a softer glow, try lemon oil as a polish. However, don't attempt to polish items that are merely brass-plated. You could eventually wear away the plating. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — If you like stewed prunes, try using apple juice as the soaking and cooking liquid. Ummm, delicious. — PAM

DEAR POLLY — Need a form to dry knitted hats on? Grab that bag of balloons left over from the last birthday party. They can be inflated to whatever size is needed and the hats stretched over them. The hats dry perfectly shaped without wrinkles, stretching, or shrinking. — KAREN

DEAR POLLY — I had a birthday party at which we had four half-gallons of ice cream to serve. Instead of using an ice cream dipper, I used my electric knife to divide the ice cream into servings. I first cut the block down the center, then cut each half into slices. You can make them as thick or thin as you like. — MRS. O.H.

DEAR POLLY — Instead of copying recipes from newspapers and magazines onto my recipe cards, I clip out the recipes, then just staple or tape each one onto a card. I can keep a neat card file with less work. — ANNIE

FAITH TEACHES US THE MEANING OF REAL WEALTH

From the great love of money, the evil that springs is the same kind of trouble that avarice brings. With the habit of wanting material things that we usually cannot afford. When we shorten our lives with all work and no play, Then our taxes increase while the years fade away; And the loss of our health is a high price to pay For excessive financial reward. If you'll go to the Church of whatever your creed, There's a lesson you'll learn on the evils of greed; For the only true riches that you'll ever need Will be found in the love of the Lord!

—Gloria Nowak

Heaven does not choose its elect from among the great and wealthy.
—William M. Thackeray

"Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not highminded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy."
—1 Timothy 6:17
