Hospital report pleases board

By REED PARSELL
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith General Hospital is showing encouraging increases over last year in occupancy and revenue, its June report indicates.

Among the report's items he cited was a rise in the average daily number of adult and children occupants. Since October, the figure stands at 33.6, which represents 7.2 more than was registered last year at this time. Last month, there were an average of 36.4 per day.

That amount of profit, Bullard claimed, "is as good as anyone is doing in this part of the country." The hospital administrator also pointed out "drastic" increases in EKGs (210 more than at this time last year) and surgical procedures (824-514). Of 14 professional performance items shown on the comparative report, only two showed reductions: drop-ins and outpatient visits.

The worksheet also calculated a possible 1984 budget by multiplying the revenue projections by 109 percent and the expense projections by 8-10 percent.

the hospital staff had expressed interest in soon having a renovation executed. Eddie Rineauer, a member of the hospital board, said, "What we really need is a major renovation project."

Off Central America

Reagan deploys battleships

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is stepping up focus on Central America on two fronts by sending an eight-ship battle group to the area's Pacific Coast while putting his commission on long-range policy for the region into action back home.

One White House official said Reagan's talk would be about persecution of Jews in Nicaragua, which the official said was taking place with Palestine Liberation Organization "influence."

persons" who are "representative, respected Americans."

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says it takes only 10 minutes to find in others the faults we often fail to discover in ourselves in a lifetime.

A husband is a person who goes window shopping only when he wants to buy a window.

Noting that the chamber and other organizations have been calling on residents to clean up their property from unsightly weeds, Al Dziuk called us to suggest a solution to the problem.

His idea is to have the city fathers proclaim the Kochia weed as the city flower. We already have plenty of the Kochia around town and we could let them grow, and even plant more. They're not that bad looking, according to Dziuk, and if they are the city's official flower—naturally we'd have flowers instead of weeds!

We're not sure if Al offered his idea as a tongue-in-cheek solution or a bonifide plan. However, didn't some well-known writer once say that "A Kochia by any other name is still a Kochia"?

Are you a good listener? While listening is probably the most common activity of human beings, many people do it poorly, according to Mortimer J. Adler, chairman of Encyclopedia Britannica.

Much emphasis is placed on learning to speak, but listening has remained an "untaught" skill. Adler recently published a book, "How to Speak, How to Listen," and he suggests ways to really understand what others are saying.

He points out that many people, when conversing with others, are not really listening—they are thinking of what they're going to say when it's their turn. "Some conversations are like two ships that pass in the night, with no signals exchanged," says Adler.

He claims that unless your mind as well as your ear is involved, you aren't really listening. Your job is to reach out and catch what is in the mind of the speaker.

"If you're not sure you've understood, there's a simple technique you can use," says Adler. "Say, 'Did I understand you to say...?' and put what you think the other person has said in your own words."

Motivation is the key to becoming a better listener. "If someone says to you, 'Shall I tell you why I love you?' or 'We're thinking of promoting you to Vice President,' you stop daydreaming and really listen to what that person has to say."

"If you bring even a small amount of that intense motivation to other conversations, all other rules become secondary," says Adler.

Band practice begins Aug. 1

Fall practice for the Hereford High School Big Red Band will begin August 1 in the band hall it has been announced by director Johnny Martinez. The band will rehearse on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays, from 6-9 p.m.

The band will also appear in the Town & Country Jubilee parade on Aug. 13, and has a concert scheduled on Aug. 30.

Rotary Governor Speaks
Dr. John H. Selby, M.D., was the featured speaker Monday at the weekly Hereford Rotary Club luncheon in K-Bobs Steak House restaurant. He is the 1983-1984 District 573 governor for Rotary International. After his speech, Selby praised the Hereford chapter and expressed hope it would show steady growth.

Arcade game boom flaggs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The video arcade business, which just a year ago seemed one of the best get-rich-quick opportunities of the '80s, is on a Donkey Kong slide, with entrepreneurs dropping out like Space Invaders from a video sky.

market, which accounts for half of all computer software disk sales. But the Bernstein report predicted that one of every four arcades operating at the time of the study would close by year's end.

"People thought you could put a Pac-Man on every corner and turn into the Bank of America," said Ira Bettelman, vice president of C.R. Robinson Co., one of the nation's largest arcade game distributors.

The losers appear to fall into two categories: the small operator who bought one or two games at the height of the craze, and the full-time entrepreneur who failed to follow what Bettelman described as "good business practices and principles."

"We've had more bankruptcies (among clients) in the past year than in the previous five," Bettelman added.

"Some didn't know the overhead and costs involved. Some would go into a bad location. A lot of our customers who went bankrupt didn't own an arcade but placed the game in so-called street locations, liquor stores and the like," he said.

Wall Street also appears to be turning bearish on video games. A report published this spring by Sanford C. Bernstein Co. says arcade income is down 25 percent to 50 percent from last year, and predicts arcades worldwide will take in $5.3 billion this year compared with $7 billion in 1982.

Part of the problem is the apparent saturation of the arcade market following last year's influx of newcomers who bought huge numbers of games and placed them in every conceivable location.

"When we were experiencing the boom, we were called night and day. We didn't need a marketing strategy," said Pamela Whishaw, marketing consultant to Games Unlimited, which puts video games in chain restaurants and other locations.

Another aspect is the all-important novelty factor. A new video game, which can cost up to $3,000, typically remains popular with its mostly youthful players for only two months. If it hasn't earned its cost by then, the operator is usually out of luck.

"Now we're consolidating," she said. "We can't afford to keep any game in a location that isn't earning at least $40 a week."

In addition, repairs are often necessary, and can be costly — especially for small operators.

The bust does not appear to be affecting the home video

Not everyone is pessimistic about the future. Sandy Bettelman, another Robinson vice president, said he believes the video game business is due for an upsurge as newly developed games using laser technology hit the market.

Veteran anchorman Reynolds dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank Reynolds, an ABC News anchorman known for his passionate pursuit of the world's major stories, died today after a long illness, the network said. He was 59.

The immediate cause of Reynolds' death was viral hepatitis but multiple myeloma, a form of bone cancer, was a secondary cause, said Elise Adde, a network spokeswoman.

Reynolds, who had been absent since mid-April from his anchor slot on ABC's "World News Tonight," died at 12:40 a.m. at Sibley Memorial Hospital.

The chief anchorman of the evening news program since 1978, Reynolds' network broadcasting included coverage of all major political conventions since 1965, the Senate Watergate hearings, and U.S. manned spaceflights.

During the Iranian hostage crisis in 1979, Reynolds anchored a nightly show recapping the day's events, a program that grew into ABC's popular "Nightline."

He won broadcasting's George Foster Peabody Award in 1969 and in 1980 was given an Emmy for a program called "Post-election Special Edition."

Reynolds' prolonged absence "has hurt us badly" in the ratings, ABC News Vice President David Burke said in June after "World News Tonight" dropped from second to third in the audience ratings behind "CBS Evening News" and "NBC Nightly News."

Reynolds would occasionally show his emotions while anchoring the news.

Reynolds co-anchored the "ABC Evening News" with Howard K. Smith from May 1968 until December 1970, when he lost the post to Harry Reasoner, who moved to the network from CBS.

Reynolds, who once told a friend his career was "Lazarus-like" made his return to the anchor slot eight years later, joining Peter Jennings and Max Robinson on "World News Tonight."

He joined the network news division from ABC's Chicago station WBKB — now WLS-TV — where for two years he had anchored two newscasts daily.

For 12 years prior to that he was a newsman with WBBM-TV, the CBS station in Chicago.

A native of East Chicago, Ind., Reynolds also lived in nearby Hammond, where he met his wife, Henrietta. The couple's five children include a son, Dean, who is a Washington correspondent for Cable News Network.

The close-knit Roman Catholic family lives in suburban Bethesda, Md.

Jewel thieves rob Dynasty star Collins

ST. PAUL DE VENCE, France (AP) — Actress Joan Collins, star of the television series "Dynasty," was robbed of $35,000 worth of jewelry while staying with a friend named Dallas, French police said today.

Miss Collins, together with her daughter Tati, was spending a vacation at the home of American architect Robert Dallas in this hillside resort on the French Riviera, the police said.

Thieves broke into the house last week while it was empty and stole rings and necklaces from Miss Collins' room. The police said no trace has been found of the thieves, who seemed to be familiar with the house and stole nothing apart from Miss Collins' jewelry.

Whale shark beaches itself, is freed

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A 3,500-pound whale shark grounded on a sandbar on Pensacola Beach was pulled back to deep water after a four-hour struggle, an official says.

"It's very unusual to have a whale shark up in here," said Marine Patrol Lt. John LaLander.

Swimmers called the Marine Patrol on Tuesday to report the 30-foot shark had beached itself in knee-deep water and was struggling for freedom because of the low tide.

"All he could move was his tail," said LaLander.

Workers using rope and a boat finally were able to pull the shark into water 30 feet deep, allowing it to swim away. The Marine Patrol, Coast Guard and a members of a marine group took part in the rescue, LaLander said.

Officials don't know why the shark beached itself about four miles east of Pensacola Beach in the Gulf of Mexico, he said.

Whale sharks can grow up to 65 feet and generally roam deep waters for their diet of plankton. The fish generally are docile and do not endanger swimmers, LaLander said.

For military draft

Court upholds registration

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — U.S. Attorney General William French Smith pledged more prosecutions after an appeals court upheld the nation's draft registration law, but a lawyer for a 22-year-old resister says the ruling will be appealed.

In a 2-1 decision, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld draft registration and reinstated an indictment against David Alan Wayte, 22, who claimed he was selected for prosecution only because of his vocal opposition.

"Wayte made no showing that the government focused its investigation on him because of his protest activities," the court said Tuesday. "He did not show that discriminatory policies underlay the selection of cases for prosecution."

"I'm sorry for David," said Alan Wayte, David's father. "I'm sorry the proceedings are going to continue, but I think David understood all that when he started out."

In Washington, Attorney General Smith said he was "pleased" with the court ruling and added, "We will continue to prosecute individuals who refuse to register for the draft."

Wayte's lawyer, William G.

Smith, said he would appeal the decision to the full appellate court and, if necessary, to the Supreme Court.

The appeals panel said Wayte met the first requirement for demonstrating selective prosecution by showing that of the large number of men who failed to register, only 12 vocal opponents had been charged when his indictment was dismissed.

But in throwing out a lower court decision, the appeals court said Wayte failed to prove that by prosecuting him, the government had used an improper motive — namely, his right to speak out against the draft.

The court said the government may not "purposefully discriminate against persons who exercise their First Amendment (free speech) rights," but added, "selectivity in prosecution is not impermissible."

Judge Mary Schroeder cast the dissenting vote.

"The effect of the majority's decision," she said, "is to permit the government to prosecute a citizen because he has spoken out rather than because he has violated the law."

Wayte, a former Yale

University philosophy student, had written letters to the White House and Selective Service telling them he would refuse to register for the draft.

The majority opinion was written by Judge Eugene Wright and U.S. District Judge John Coughenour of Seattle, temporarily assigned to the circuit court panel.

The appeals court overturned U.S. District Judge

Terry Hatter Jr.'s ruling last year that reviving the Military Selective Service Act in 1980 was invalid because then-President Jimmy Carter put it into effect before a required 30-day waiting period.

The appeals court said the presidential proclamation did not fall within the notice-and-comment requirement of federal law.

Polish Parliament okays emergency bill

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Parliament today approved a constitutional amendment giving the Communist government broad emergency power and worked on proposals to lift martial law and free or pardon hundreds of political prisoners.

The state-run news agency PAP reported one vote against and one abstention among deputies who approved the amendment allowing the Council of State, Poland's executive branch, to declare a state of emergency to crush internal unrest. The agency did not identify the dissenter and abstainer.

Parliamentary sources said the deputies had begun work on a "special regulations" bill creating what they called an 18-month "recovery" period of tough regulations replacing the 19-month-old military crackdown.

Earlier, PAP reported that Parliament marshal Stanislaw Guwca said deputies had received a government-proposed bill on an amnesty and would discuss it Thursday. The agency did not elaborate on what the proposed bill said.

PAP also said Communist Party chief Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, who declared martial law on December 13, 1981, would speak to the deputies, but did not say when.

Parliament is expected to stamp its approval on a call by the Communist authorities for lifting martial law, ending the crackdown in time for Poland's national holiday Friday.

But the lawmakers' approval of the special regulations to replace martial law, edicts are meant to ensure that dissidents and activists of the outlawed Solidarity union are silenced.

Poland's Parliament has little real power and has invariably approved whatever proposals the Communists submit.

Official sources who decline to be identified have said the lifting of martial law would be accompanied by an amnesty for up to 1,200 people sentenced since the start of the crackdown.

They said it could affect about 450 people still in prison, and about 750 granted "conditional" leaves because of illness, family problems or other reasons. Top leaders of Solidarity trade union or dissident groups would not be freed, the sources said.

Armenian admits Orly bombing

PARIS (AP) — A 29-year-old Armenian has admitted masterminding the bomb attack which killed six people and wounded more than 60 at the Turkish Airlines counter at Orly airport, government spokesman Max Gallo said today.

The man, Syrian-born Varadjan Garbidjian, was among 56 people of Armenian origin rounded up by French police in a crackdown soon after Friday's explosion.

Gallo said Garbidjian was the organizer in France of the military wing of the Armenian Secret Army for the Liberation of Armenia, which claimed responsibility for the Orly bombing and for numerous other terrorist acts against Turkish officials in recent years in revenge for the massacre of 1.5 million Armenians in Turkey between 1894 and 1915.

Gallo said Garbidjian was one of 11 people formally charged today with terrorist offenses. Gallo refused to identify the 10 others, but he said three of them were women. He said the police seized a large quantity of weapons and explosives during the crackdown.

The suspects were taken to the courthouse in suburban Creteil early in the day, traveling in a windowless armored van accompanied by a heavily armed police escort.

Police sources said they suspected the group had close links with Middle East terrorist groups operating in Western Europe.

Today's indictments came one day after the Armenian secret army threatened violent retaliation against France if it continues a crackdown against pro-Armenian militants in the aftermath of the airport blast.

The Armenian secret army has claimed responsibility for several attacks on Turkish officials and offices over the past eight years, including the assassination of a Turkish diplomat in Brussels on July 14, one day before the Orly bombing.

Agence France-Presse, the French news agency, said its bureau in Tehran, Iran, received a call Tuesday from a person claiming he represented the Armenian secret army, who warned of retaliation against French authorities.

Private schools report increase in number of registrations

DALLAS (AP) — Many private colleges in Texas are reporting record numbers of students applying for admission this fall, while public institutions are battling just to stay even with a year ago, officials say.

Officials at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth said freshman applications for the fall stood at 2,403, up 10.4 percent from the year before.

Freshman applications at Texas Wesleyan College, also in Fort Worth, are up 23 percent from 1982-83.

Austin College of Sherman has received 10 percent more applications for beginning freshman this fall than last year, said Chuck Wharton, director of admissions.

Officials at Southern Methodist University report 6.7 percent more freshman applications have been received than last year.

In Georgetown, a spokesman at Southwestern University said 20 percent more freshman will enter that school this fall.

The number of applications for fall admission at Incarnate Word in San Antonio has increased, officials said, but enrollment applications remained the same at Trinity University, also in San Antonio.

But applications for places in the North Texas State University freshman class this fall are 6 percent lower than the same period in 1982, said Walter Bowen, associate director of admissions.

Application figures for Texas A&M and Texas Tech universities were not computed, officials said.

The number of fall applications at the University of Texas at Austin were holding steady, a spokesman said, compared with a slight increase at the University of Texas at El Paso.

"The private schools have very, very aggressive recruitment programs," said Bowen. "Another consideration, too, is in the area of merit-based, no-need scholarships. Very few of the state-supported schools have that kind of money for students, with the exception of Texas A&M and the University of Texas."

Dr. Ronald Brown, UT-Austin vice president for student affairs, said applications for fall enrollment at the 48,000-student campus is "almost the same as last year, holding on the mark."

Bowen said the Chronicle of Higher Education had earlier identified a decline in freshman applicants at public colleges and universities in the West and Southwest and an increase at private institutions.

The average decline in applications at public institutions was 5.2 percent, while private schools would have a median 10.7 percent increase in applicants, he said.

As of July 1, NTSU had received 3,357 applications for beginning freshmen, compared with last year's 3,577, Bowen said.

"But it is hard to really gauge by this figure, he said. "We had been on a gradual trend upward on freshmen for the last several months. In April, we were down 9 percent from last year with 2,429 applications, compared with 2,674 before. At the end of June, we were down only 6 percent. As that trend continues, we may have more (freshmen) by the time registration begins."

Southwestern currently has 285 entering freshmen signed up, said John Lind, vice president for admissions.

"I think it (the increase) reflects the economic situation in this section of the country," Lind said. "It also reflects the strength of Southwestern."

Committee clears Speaker Lewis in financial details incident

AUSTIN (AP) — Speaker Gib Lewis has been given a clean bill of health by the House Ethics Committee in his failure to report all his financial connections.

The committee vote, 7-0, commended Lewis for filing a complaint against himself and paying a fine for the misdemeanor.

Lewis said he was "pleased both by the action of the committee and the fact this matter is finally closed."

The committee put off until its next session a decision whether to investigate reports of irregularities in committee expense accounts submitted by Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston.

The vote on Lewis came after the committee was read a statement from Lewis giving details of changes he made in his 1981 financial statement after reporters asked about discrepancies.

"My business activities and relationships with the aforementioned gentlemen (business partners) have never affected my ability to honorably, honestly and sincerely carry out my public duties for the citizens of my district and of this great state," Lewis said in the statement.

He was not at the committee meeting.

Lewis said "any extemporaneous mistakes made were due to my interpretation of the meanings of certain words set forth in the financial disclosure form."

On May 29, the day before the regular legislative session ended, Lewis entered a plea of no contest before State District Judge Mace Thurman of Austin on a complaint he filed himself. He asked to pay the maximum fine of $1,000 but was assessed $800.

Rep. Jim Turner, D-Crockett, said Lewis "took jurisdiction out of our hands by entering a plea of no contest in a criminal court which was the most severe penalty we could have recommended."

"I move we consider the matter closed and also commend the speaker for stepping forward and taking the action he took," Turner said.

Also on Turner's motion the committee voted to consider issuing an advisory opinion to other legislators defining exactly what constitutes a "conflict of interest" between a lawmaker's financial holdings, his votes and legislative actions. The opinion will be presented to the next meeting of the committee.

Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline, committee chairman, said there had been no written request or sworn complaint given him despite numerous news reports of alleged irregularities in Wilson's expense accounts.

Some reports said Wilson collected $60 daily from the state while attending law school in Austin in 1981 and also charged the state for trips back to his Houston district.

Hollowell instructed the committee counsel to study the Wilson matter and make recommendations the next committee meeting.

Doctors try staples to aid obese boy

NEPTUNE, N.J. (AP) — At 6, William Richardson Jr. tipped the scales at 100 pounds. His mother tried locking the refrigerator door, and William wore a tag around his neck that read "Please do not feed." But the 13-year-old now weighs 312 pounds, and doctors resorted to special surgery Tuesday to help him shed some of the unwanted fat — an operation to staple shut part of his stomach.

The family agreed to the surgery because doctors said the problem pounds eventually could be life-threatening for Richie, as he is nicknamed.

"I need it," the boy said just before the operation, which took nearly two hours.

But he said he expects to miss some of his favorite foods — meatball submarine sandwiches, ribs and, most of all, the fried chicken made by his sister, Valerie Johnson.

During the gastric bypass operation at Jersey Shore Medical Center, doctors partitioned Richie's stomach with two rows of stainless-steel staples so that most food he eats will pass through his system without being absorbed, hospital officials said.

"It's the only thing medicine has to offer," said Dr. Walter F. Judge, the hospital's director of endocrinology, who has been treating Richie for seven years.

The stomach-stapling surgery is fairly low-risk because it does not involve opening the intestinal tract, which could cause infection, Judge said.

Richie was reported awake and in stable condition today in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Judge said that because the surgery reduced the size of Richie's stomach, the boy will be able to eat only soft and semi-soft food for the rest of his life and will have to take vitamin B-complex tablets every day.

Constant eating, rather than large individual meals, is to blame for Richie's obesity, according to his mother, Pearl, and doctors.

"At the clinic we have failed him in his eating problem.

We have tried everything," said Judge, who said the boy's problem has been diagnosed as morbid and genetic obesity. "He's 13 years old. If something isn't done, it will shorten his life span."

The doctor said he hopes Richie will be able to lose 100 pounds during the next year and 50 pounds the year after.

"We would be thrilled if he gets down to 150 pounds by the time he is 15," Judge said.

Richie, who will start eighth grade in the fall, said he would be able to cope with the surgery and the changes in his habits.

When doctors placed the "Please do not feed" tag around 6-year-old Richie's neck, "We were attempting to get others to cooperate. It didn't make a dent in his eating," Judge said.

Mrs. Richardson initially opposed the surgery, but the threat to her son's health finally persuaded her to allow the operation.

"It was frightening to think the overeating for him is a life-and-death situation, so I thought about it some more and prayed to God and decided to go ahead," she said.

Kissinger was part of the Nixon team that supported the overthrow of the Salvador Allende government in Chile in 1973, and the administration official who briefed reporters was asked about the overthrow of Allende, who died in the coup that brought Augusto Pinochet to power.

At the briefing for reporters at the White House, the administration official said the commission members, who will work without salary, would not be likely to make spending recommendations that would take effect before fiscal 1985, which begins on Oct. 1, 1984.

He said Kissinger's office initially would be in the State Department. The commission chairman was expected to meet with Reagan soon and begin briefings with administration officials next week.

As for the commission's budget, the official said: "Knowing Henry, it will probably be large."

"Certainly the president understands people have strong opinions about the (former) secretary of state (but) everyone accepts him as a leader in the field," said deputy White House press

ABC plummets in ratings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC plummeted in the ratings last week, and CBS was the big winner — placing eight of its programs in the Top 10 including the top-rated show, "Trapper John, M.D."

ABC scored just 9.8 in the Nielsen ratings for the week ending July 17, while CBS received a 14.8 overall rating.

ABC's score was the worst ever except for NBC's 9.7 for the week ending Aug. 17, 1980, an "atypical" week because it was during the broadcast of the Democratic National Convention, said ABC spokesman Jeff Ducios.

"Masada," the story of nearly 1,000 Jews who killed themselves rather than surrender to Roman invaders in A.D. 73, averaged a bare 8.9 rating for ABC during its prime-time run Tuesday through Friday.

ABC's "Monday Night Baseball," received only a 9.7 rating, or 8 million households, in head-to-head competition with the "Miss Universe Pageant," which rated 22.6 or 16.8 million households.

New York author headlines Panhandle Writers Workshop

Shelby Hearon, prolific Texas writer now residing in New York, will headline the Panhandle Writers Workshop slated for Saturday, Aug. 6, at Amarillo College.

Sponsored by Panhandle Pen Women, the workshop will include eight other study-group leaders whose subjects deal with a wide range of concerns relative to writing and publishing.

Hearon will speak at 8:40 a.m. on the subject of "Fiction as Still Life" and again at 1 p.m., on "Fiction as Screen Memory."

Author of seven novels and widely published in the non-fiction arena as well, Hearon is a native of Kentucky who spent much of her childhood in Texas and resided in Austin during the early part of her career. She is recipient of numerous awards and prizes for her writing accomplishments and is an experienced speaker, lecturer and visiting writer.

Her novels include "Afternoon of a Faun," "Painted Dresses," "A Prince of a Fellow," "Now and Another Time," "Hannah's House," "The Second Dune" and "Armadillo in the Grass."

It was to a group of Panhandle Pen Women that Hearon made her "first book talk" in 1968. The subject of that address, "Armadillo in the Grass," and Hearon's first novel, is now being reissued by Pressworks of Dallas.

In addition to a non-fiction work, "Barbara Jordan" (with B. Jordan), Hearon has published in The Dallas Times Herald, The Washington Post, Publishers Weekly, Redbook, Texas Monthly, the LA Times, Houston City, The Writers Handbook, Vision, McCalls and The Writer.

She has served as a visiting writer and lecturer at both the University of Houston and University of Texas at Austin. Her awards include the National Endowment for the Arts 1963 Creative Writing Fellowship and the Guggenheim Memorial Fellowship in 1962. She is past president of the Texas Institute of Letters, has chaired the Literature Panel for the Texas Commission for the Arts and the Dobie-Paisano judges panel.

Hearon was an active member of the Austin community, serving on the Arts Council and as president of the Junior League. She now resides near New York City.

Panhandle Writers Workshop activities will begin at 8 a.m. and end at 5 p.m. All activities will take place on the fourth floor of the Amarillo College Technology Building located at 24th Street and Washington.

In addition to Hearon's two addresses, study-group sessions are arranged for both morning and afternoon hours. During the course of the day, workshop participants can attend as many as four of the study-group sessions.

Study-group subjects and leaders include: "Enhance Your Writing With Quality Photographs," Helena Biasatti, The Quarterhorse Journal, Amarillo; "Writing for the University Press," Keith Gregory, associate director, TCU Press; "Copyright Law," Jerry W. Mills, attorney, Dallas; "Conducting the Personal Interview," Robyn Turner, author, Austin; "How-to on the Article: Query, Assignments, Sources, Preparation," Candace Farmer, former editor, Texas Department of Agriculture Quarterly, now freelance writer, Austin;

Also, "Commercial Copy, Print, Electronic and Film," Carol Finch, owner Finch Publications-Public Relations, Amarillo; "Inspirational Writing for Children," Roy Kornegay, minister-author, Amarillo; "Living in Words" (poetry), Robert W. Wylie, college instructor-poet, Amarillo.

Cost of the workshop is $35, which includes a luncheon and refreshments during breaks. Advanced registration is advised to facilitate luncheon preparation.

Registrations may be mailed to Panhandle Pen Women, 2517 9th Ave., Canyon, Tx. 79015. Enrollment in the workshop may also be accomplished between 8 and 8:30 a.m. on the day of the event. Brochures detailing workshop schedules may be obtained by writing the above-listed address.

your life. I spent eight years goofing off—not accomplishing one damn thing. What a fool I was!

It was hard getting off and took several months before I came out of the fog. But I'm back in school, facing my problems instead of getting stoned and avoiding them. I never dreamed I could have such vigor and so much energy! I feel alive for the first time in years and love it. Tell the world, Ann!—Free At Last In Hollywood

DEAR FREE: You did and more effectively than I ever could. Thanks, friend.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of bachelor showers? Our neighbor's son is getting married next week. My wife is invited to a shower for the bride and I have been invited to a shower for the groom. The lad's father is putting it on.

When I asked what I was expected to bring, I was told, "Joe is registered at both the big hardware stores on Main St. Go in and you'll see plenty of things that a guy needs arounds the house."

Is this a new fad, or what? I have never heard of it before.—Rockford, Ill., Ann Reader

DEAR ROCK: I think it's a nifty idea. The best part is that you can find a large number of items that are essential to every household and the cost is very modest. It is far more sensible than some of those stag parties I heard about where everybody gets smashed.

Basic loan-guarantee rate increased by VA

The Veterans Administration increased the basic loan-guarantee rate for single-family homes and condominiums by a half percent July 11 to 12.5 percent, said W.E. Weststead, Loan Guaranty Officer for the Waco VA Regional Office.

It was the second rate hike in one month and returned the basic rate to the level set last Oct. 13.

At the same time, the VA maximum interest rate for Graduated Payment Mortgage loans was increased to 12.75 percent.

Other current VA loan-guarantee rates are: 14.5 percent for purchase of manufactured home units; 14 percent to buy both a mobile home and a lot; and 14 percent for loans to purchase a lot and the cost of necessary site preparations.

For a veteran buying a home with a 30-year, average GI loan of $55,000, the rate increase of a half percent will raise the monthly payments by $21 over the previous 12 percent rate.

The change, however, doesn't affect existing GI loans, whose interest rate remains the same for the life of the agreement.

VA guarantees loans made by private lenders to eligible veterans, widowed spouses of veterans who died as a result of service-connected disabilities or spouses of service personnel officially listed as missing in action or prisoners of war for more than 90 days.

McRae beamed, rushes pitcher

By BEN WALKER AP Sports Writer

Was Toronto reliever Jim Acker throwing at Hal McRae, or did he merely slip?

"It doesn't really matter what his intentions were, it's what happened," McRae said.

What happened was that McRae, who homered off Luis Leal in the fifth inning of Kansas City's 6-2 triumph Tuesday night, got hit in the helmet by an Acker pitch to lead off the seventh.

"I've been hit several times since I got hit in the head in 1974, but I've never gone out to the mound," McRae said. Until Tuesday night in Toronto.

The Royals slugger charged Acker, knocked into him and then both players disappeared beneath a pile of bodies as the benches emptied. When order was restored, McRae and Acker were ejected.

"I'm not sorry I did it," McRae said. "I got hit in the head. I got a right to go." "I don't mind that style of play," said the rugged McRae. "I can give it and take it as good as anybody in the game."

Acker said the brawling-triggering pitch was a fastball that got away.

"Hitting somebody is part of the game, but you don't intentionally throw at the guy's head," Acker said. "We were only down by three runs and I was pitching good. The last thing I wanted to do was get myself ejected."

McRae said he didn't speak to the Blue Jays' pitcher after the incident.

"I didn't go out there to talk," McRae said. "I didn't say nothing. There was nothing to say."

In other American League games, New York beat Minnesota 4-0, Cleveland edged Chicago 5-4, Texas halted Milwaukee 3-1, California defeated Boston 6-1, Detroit got past Oakland 4-3, and Baltimore topped Seattle 6-1.

McRae's solo homer, his sixth, gave the Royals a 5-2 lead against Leal, 10-7, in the fifth inning. George Brett's 19th homer made it 6-2 in the ninth.

Bud Black, 4-3, allowed six hits in 7 1/3 innings and Dan Quisenberry finished up for his major-league leading 22nd save.

Black had thrown high and inside to Cliff Johnson in the sixth inning after the Blue Jays' power hitter belted three long foul balls. Some said Acker's pitch precipitated the beanball to McRae.

Yankees 4, Twins 6
Shane Rawley threw a six-hitter in shutting down visiting Minnesota, which lost its sixth straight game.

Rawley needed just 101 pitches and faced only 31 batters as New York won its fifth consecutive game. It was Rawley's second career shutout and the Yankees helped out by turning four double plays.

Rawley upped his record to 9-8 as only one Twin reached second base. The left-hander is now 7-1 lifetime against Minnesota.

Oscar Gamble singled home the game's first run in the first inning against Bobby Castillo, 5-8. He doubled and scored on Graig Nettles' single in the fourth.

Dave Winfield's two-run triple capped the scoring in the fifth inning.

Indians 5, White Sox 4
Andre Thornton, usually a designated hitter, belted a solo home run in the bottom of the eighth inning to put the Indians ahead. He then made two fine plays at first base in the ninth to preserve the victory in Cleveland.

Thornton's 12th homer came off reliever Dick Tidrow, 2-2. Manny Trillo drove in Cleveland's first three runs.

Rick Sutcliffe upped his record to 12-4 despite allowing 10 hits. Three of those hits were RBI singles by Jerry Hairston, Vance Law and Jerry Dybuzinski in the fourth inning that put Chicago ahead 4-2.

Rangers 3, Brewers 1
Texas and the Brewers were tied 1-1 after five innings when the rains came in Milwaukee.

After a delay of one hour and 59 minutes, George Wright singled home the go-ahead run in the sixth inning, snapping Milwaukee's eight-game winning streak. The victory also ended Texas' five-game losing streak.

Wright got his key hit off Don Sutton, 7-4.

Rick Honeycutt, 12-6, went the first five innings for the victory. John Butcher took over after the rain delay and finished up for his fifth save.

Angels 6, Red Sox 1
Right-hander Ken Forsch threw a three-hitter to beat Boston.

Forsch, 9-6, blanked the Red Sox on two singles before Dave Stapleton led off the

Tigers 4, A's 3
Detroit rallied for two runs in the top of the ninth inning in Oakland to nip the A's.

Alan Trammell led off the decisive inning by drawing a walk from Dave Beard, 2-3. Lou Whitaker moved Trammell to third with a bloop single and Enos Cabell followed with his second sacrifice fly of the game.

Whitaker took second on the throw home, stole third and scored on Glenn Wilson's sharp single to center.

Davey Lopes hit his 12th homer for the A's.

Orioles 8, Mariners 1
Scott McGregor's four-hitter shackled Seattle while Cal Ripken drove in three runs with a homer and a double.

McGregor, 11-4, retired the final 16 Mariner batters in Seattle. He struck out one and did not issue a walk.

Hurler Neil Allen

Trade paying off for Cardinal

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

Neil Allen feels the difference, but perhaps not as much as the National League hitters who must face him since he was traded from the New York Mets to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Allen was 2-7 when he was traded to the Cards for Keith Hernandez on June 15. Since that time, he is 4-1 for St. Louis in seven starts with a 2.39 ERA in 49 innings.

"If I made a mistake and gave up a run or two, the game was over there (in New York)," Allen said Tuesday night after pitching a 4-0, three-hit victory against the San Diego Padres.

"These guys (the Cards) make that up, so I can just go after the hitters," Allen said. "It's a difference between night and day mentally. Here I don't have to worry about anything. All I have to do is throw strikes."

Ozzie Smith provided what little offensive support Allen needed with a two-run homer, his second of the season and second in four games, off Padres left-hander Tim Lollar, who also threw a three-hitter.

"There's no comparison," Allen said. "It's a whole new relaxed atmosphere here."

In other NL games, Atlanta defeated New York 11-7, Houston downed Philadelphia 7-3, San Francisco beat Chicago 4-3, Cincinnati took Montreal 5-2 and Los Angeles and Pittsburgh split a doubleheader, the Pirates winning the opener 4-1 and losing the nightcap 3-2 in 11 innings.

Braves 11, Mets 7
Jerry Royster homered and Glenn Hubbard hit a two-run triple in Atlanta's seven-run sixth inning, boosting the Braves over the Mets, who had led 6-1 when the inning began.

The Braves had six consecutive hits in the inning, chasing New York starter Tom Seaver and tagging reliever Jesse Orosco with the loss. Royster drove in the first run of the inning with his homer and the last run of the frame with a single. Bob Horner had a two-run double in the inning.

The big inning offset a pair of two-run homers by Mets rookie Darryl Strawberry, who has 11 on the year.

Astros 7, Phillies 3
Phil Garner homered and drove in three runs, and Terry Puhl scored three times to lead Houston to its 12th victory in 14 games. The Phillies, meanwhile, lost their second in a row under new Manager Paul Owens, who replaced the fired Pat Corrales.

Puhl singled, doubled and tripled in Houston's attack, twice delayed by rain, before the game and again in the first inning.

Bob Knepper, 4-9, gave up four hits in five innings, yielding three unearned runs, and Mike LaCoss recorded his first save of the season in a rare relief appearance.

Giants 4, Cubs 3
Darrell Evans raced home with the winning run on catcher Jody Davis' error in the 10th inning, and Milt May hit his third home run in three games as San Francisco edged Chicago.

The Giants loaded the bases in the 10th off Bill Campbell on a walk to Evans and consecutive singles by Jack Clark and Jeff Leonard, who bunted his way aboard. Max Venable then grounded to first baseman Bill Buckner, but Davis dropped Buckner's throw home for an error, allowing Evans to score.

May hit his sixth homer of the season to lead off the fifth.

Reds 5, Expos 2
Joe Price pitched five innings of one-hit ball and Dann Bilardello drove in three runs as the Reds beat the Expos in a game delayed nearly five hours by rain.

The start of the game was delayed for two hours and 48 minutes and rain returned in the fifth inning to add a further delay of 2:07.

Price, 9-5, allowed only a one-out single by Doug Flynn in the second inning. He won his fourth straight game by going the first five innings.

Ben Hayes took over after the second rain delay and allowed three hits in three innings. Bill Scherrer came on to pitch the ninth but left after walking two batters with one out. Tom Hume took over and allowed pinch hitter Terry Francona's sacrifice fly in recording his sixth save.

Bilardello stroked a two-run double in the seventh and Eddie Milner hit his fifth homer to lead off the eighth to break open a tight game. Bilardello added a run-scoring single in the ninth.

Pirates 4-2, Dodgers 1-3
John Candelaria pitched the Pirates to their eighth straight victory as they won the opener, and the Dodgers ended the skein in the nightcap when Rick Monday drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the 11th inning at Pittsburgh.

Candelaria ran his personal winning streak to six games, combining with Rod Scurry on a seven-hitter. Scurry worked 1 1/3 innings of hitless relief. Brian Harper homered for Pittsburgh in the first game.

In the nightcap, Monday's sac fly drove in Steve Sax for L.A.'s winning run. Sax singled and went all the way to third as Pirates first baseman Jason Thompson waited for Derrell Thomas' bunt to roll foul. It didn't.

Steve Howe worked 2 1/3 innings of scoreless relief for the victory, his first since being reinstated from a one-day suspension. Dusty Baker homered for Los Angeles and Jason Thompson homered for the Pirates.

Discovered Mets' Oquendo

Power baseball's superscout

By DAVE GOLDBERG AP Sports Writer

One day in 1975, as 12-year-old Jose Oquendo trotted off a Little League field in Rio Piedras, Puerto Rico, a middle-aged man came up to him. "You're something special," the man told young Jose, "and I'm going to teach you how to play and act like a big leaguer."

"Sure, I knew who he was. Everyone in Puerto Rico knows Vic Power," says Oquendo, 20-year-old rookie shortstop for the New York Mets. "He said he would help me get to the big leagues. And he said he would show me how to act when I got there."

Rio Piedras, a San Juan neighborhood located in the shadow of Roberto Clemente Stadium, is Shortstop City, home to three National League starting shortstops—Oquendo, Ivan DeJesus of the Philadelphia Phillies and Dickie Thon of the Houston Astros. Not to mention Ed Romero of the Milwaukee Brewers, Sixto Lezcano of the San Diego Padres and such former big leaguers as Felix Millan and Willie Montanez. All are disciples of Vic Power, who knows what life in the big leagues are about.

There may be more fertile areas for baseball talent—for example, San Pedro de Macoris in the Dominican Republic, a city of 100,000 that currently has 13 men on major league rosters, including Pedro Guerrero, Joaquin Andujar, Rafael Ramirez and Julio Franco.

But no one man has been as productive as Power, who compiled a .284 batting average in 12 big league seasons in Philadelphia, Kansas City, Cleveland and Minnesota. A part-time scout for the California Angels, he's also a full-time guru to young ballplayers like Oquendo and Juan Nieves, an 18-year-old pitcher with unlimited promise who just signed out of prep school with the Milwaukee Brewers.

Every Wednesday, from 2 p.m. until 7, Power runs a clinic for teen-agers; on Tuesdays and Thursdays, the younger kids get their shot. The clinics, free of charge, are tightly disciplined, akin to a major league spring training camp with graduates like DeJesus, Millan and Montanez often acting as instructors.

Power—born Victor Pailot 31 years ago in the rural town of Arecibo—knows about such things. In the early 50s, he was a showpiece of the New York Yankees' organization, slated to become the team's first black. But in 1954, a AAA sensation, he was traded to the Philadelphia A's and came to the majors with them.

He retired in 1965 and returned home. "I felt that I was obliged to give Puerto Rican kids my experience," he says. "I felt I represented Puerto Rico in the major leagues and they must do the same."

Jason Scott pitched a no-hitter, striking out 13 Dimmitt Red batters, Tuesday night for a 13-0 Hereford win in an 11- and 12-year-old Kids, Inc. district baseball tournament being held in Hereford.

Jeff Farr and Keith Brown contributed two hits apiece for the local all-stars, who will play the Dimmitt Red-Dimmitt Blue winner at 6 p.m. Friday.

Should Hereford win that contest, it would be division champion. It can still win the title if it loses the early Friday game, providing it comes back to take the resulting 8 p.m. showdown.

In Dumas, the Hereford 13-year-old all-stars won for the second straight night in sectional play, downing Pampa 15-9. Their next scheduled game is Thursday at 6 p.m. against either Dumas or Granbury.

Another Tuesday night game in Hereford had the local 14- and 15-year-old all-star squad defeat Olton by a 7-4 count. Rodney Torres knotted the complete-game victory while Stephan Hacker and Curtis Cotton smacked homeruns.

Hereford's Babe Ruth team is slated to take on Dimmitt tonight at 8:00 while, at 6 p.m., Friona is supposed to tangle with Olton.

Friona knocked Muleshoe out of the district tournament Tuesday with a 9-7 triumph. Pitcher John Quinn of the Philadelphia Athletics hit a home run June 27, 1930, when he was only eight days away from his 46th birthday. He was the oldest big leaguer ever to hit a home run.

Avenue Baptist wins tourney

Avenue Baptist No. 2 rolled through the field undefeated to capture the YMCA Men's Church Softball League Postseason Tournament title last weekend. The Avenue team clipped Community Church 10-2 in the tourney finals Sunday afternoon at Veteran's Park.

Community came back through the loser's bracket with a 9-4 win over Avenue No. 1, and defeating Frio Baptist 12-5, St. Anthony's 16-5, and First Methodist, 13-2.

The tournament capped men's softball action under the auspices of the YMCA this year. The Y is now organizing a co-ed league to begin soon. Information about that league can be obtained at the Y office in Sugarland Mall.

The champions began the tournament with a 2-1 decision over Community Friday night, then entered the finals with a 9-5 win over First Methodist Saturday.

Justice Department feels

College telecast order to stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says a court order should be allowed to stand that would break up the NCAA's exclusive control of college football telecasts.

The department on Tuesday urged Supreme Court Justice Byron White not to stay a lower court order which nullified the NCAA's existing television contracts and opened the way for colleges to make their own TV deals.

The National Collegiate American League players hit 2,000 home runs in 1982, a major league record.

Athletic Association has been granted a temporary stay of the ruling that invalidated $281 million in television contracts with ABC, CBS and Turner Broadcasting System and is seeking one that will hold until the Supreme Court can decide whether to hear the case.

The University of Oklahoma and the University of Georgia Athletic Association won the ruling in U.S. District Court in Oklahoma in their suit charging that the contracts violate federal antitrust law. The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver upheld the lower court and rejected the NCAA's bid for a stay.

In a friend-of-the-court brief filed at White's invitation, Solicitor General Rex E. Lee said the department thinks it unlikely that the full Supreme Court would decide to review the ruling, and declined to give an opinion on whether anybody would be permanently hurt if a stay were not granted.

"Although many of the justifications offered by the NCAA merited careful consideration by the (lower) court," Lee wrote, "on balance, the NCAA failed to justify the restriction that it has placed on the ability of its member schools to arrange for the telecast of their own football games."

Lee said that the NCAA's conduct violated the Sherman Act, an antitrust law, although he said that the justice department disagrees with some aspects of the court of appeals ruling.

White over the weekend issued a temporary order postponing the effect of the appeals court ruling against the NCAA. He asked for briefs from both sides and the Justice Department to help him decide whether to issue a longer-lasting stay that would remain in effect until the Supreme Court decided whether to hear the case.

From backup Hogeboom

White hears footsteps

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Now Dallas Cowboys quarterback Danny White knows how Roger Staubach felt.

He used to covet Staubach's job and was involved in yearly training camp battles trying to take it away.

Finally, Staubach retired and made it easy for White, who has been the No. 1 quarterback for three years.

In 1983, White must fend off a serious challenge by young Gary Hogeboom, who is strong of arm and high in confidence.

"The shoe is on the other foot," White says. "I had my best season last year but now everyone expects more. I'm seeing the other side."

"I can remember when I was the underdog and couldn't do anything wrong. I was the new kid on the block and if I had a poor performance it was just chalked off to inexperience. When I was great everyone was surprised."

White has taken Dallas to three National Conference title games only to see the Cowboys lose each time. In the 31-17 loss to Washington last January, White only played in the first half because he was knocked out.

"It's been very frustrating," he said. "I felt bad about the loss to Washington but not as bad as I did the one to San Francisco two years ago when we had the game won."

"I decided I had no control over what happened to me in the Washington game."

On another topic, White said he wouldn't mind Coach Tom Landry taking a tougher stance with the team this year.

"I'd be happy to see Coach Landry tighten the screws on all the rules," White said.

There were unverified reports that a number of Cowboys violated Landry's curfew before the team lost the NFC title game to Washington.

"I don't know about anybody violating (the 11 p.m.) curfew but I've heard talk," White said. "I'd hate to think any of our players would be out past curfew."

"I'd prefer not to think that. I know me and Bob Breunig were sawing logs by 9 p.m."

White said the Cowboys need to get together as a team.

"When we step on the field we need to buckle down and be more professional and business like," White said. "Any Landry rules will help."

Then he joked, "What's that old saying 'you've got to hang together or hang separately'?"

SPORTS

Hereford resident honored shootist

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Frank Lyons of Hereford was selected by the National Training Team Directors as one of the nation's most aspiring young shooters and will attend the National Rifle Association's 1983 National Junior Olympic Shooting Camp Program, Colorado Springs, Co., July 11-22.

Lyons, 17, will participate in 15-hour training days in the trap shooting discipline. The athletes participating in this camp will be trained by nationally-recognized shooting coaches, many of whom are Olympic medalists. Firing, on-line coaching, guest lectures, and visual aids will be incorporated into this two week program. The National Junior Olympic Shooting Camp Program, currently in its fifth year, is co-sponsored by the National Rifle Association and the United States Olympic Committee (U.S.O.C.). This program offers instruction in the five Olympic shooting disciplines of pistol, rifle, running game target, skeet, and trap. Participants stay at the U.S.O.C.'s National Training Center where the U.S.O.C. provides free room and board.

Batting helmets were introduced in major league baseball by the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1941.

Wadkins seeks victory

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Lanny Wadkins, in a catch-up position for the first time in months, resumes his battle with Hal Sutton for golf's money-winning lead this week in the $350,000 Anheuser Busch Classic.

Wadkins took the lead in the chase for the prestigious money-winning championship when he made a successful defense of his title in the Tournament of Champions and held the top spot until he missed the cut in the Western Open two weeks ago. Sutton tied for 13th in that tournament, won $2,563, and went in front.

With $277,384 for the year, he now leads Wadkins by only $1,727. Wadkins has $275,657.

"Sure I'd like to win it," Wadkins said. "It's something I'd like very much. It would be awfully nice to have that on your record."

Time is beginning to become a factor.

The 10-month tour season enters the last third of its schedule with this tournament.

"With the season getting short now, each tournament becomes just that much more important," Wadkins said. "Depending on what happens in the World Series of Golf (which offers $100,000 to the winner) it could go down to the last week of the season. I expect I'll probably play a pretty heavy schedule the rest of the way."

Wadkins and Sutton both played in last week's British Open and have not competed in the United States since the Western. Both rank among the leading contenders for the $63,000 first prize in this event that begins Thursday on the 6,684-yard, par-71 Kingsmill Golf Club course.

Tom Kite, who took the money-winning title in 1981 and has led the Vardon Trophy standings for the past two seasons, could make it a three-way race. He has $228,392 and needs a strong performance here to move into serious contention.

Other major contenders in the 45-man field include defending champion Cal Peete, PGA champion Ray Floyd, host pro Curtis Strange and Morris Hatalasky, who has finished first and second in his last two starts.

Also in the field are Bill Rogers, Bruce Lietzke, and 1983 title winners Danny Edwards, Jim Colbert, Keith Fergus, Gary Hallberg and Mark McCumber.

NBC will provide national television coverage of the last two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Defender wins big at Newport

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Tom Blackaller sailed to a light-wind victory over America's Cup rival Dennis Conner, but says he must shell out big money for some changes in his boat.

"We've got to get her going in 25 knots of wind and a chop," said Blackaller. "It's expensive and its time-consuming, but we've got to do it."

The two-time world Champion in the Star class took the wheel of Defender Tuesday and pinned a whopping two-minute, 40-second defeat on Conner's Liberty, racing in a feeble southerly wind.

"Our boat is obviously very fast in light air," Blackaller said, with a grin. "If we can keep that and get her going in heavy winds, we are going to have a barn burner."

The 43-year-old silver-haired skipper from Alameda, Calif., was alluding to his two losses to Conner Saturday in blustery winds by margins of 1:09 and 2:39. The race committee later took away the second victory on Blackaller's protest.

"We will probably have to spend $50,000 on a lot of metal changes — hull shape changes," Blackaller said. "It will probably take 10 days."

"We know now how to do it without hurting the light air performance of the boat."

Defender, Liberty and two-time America's Cup winner Courageous are in the second set of trial races to determine which is chosen to defend the old silver mug in the finals in September.

Defender took the start by four seconds, built the advantage to 19 seconds after the first tacking leg and steadily pulled away.

Conner, 40, a San Diego, Calif., drapery manufacturer, conceded that Defender sped away when the wind was astern, but "Going upwind, we were pretty even..."

"We are going to have to look at the video tapes of the race. Maybe their spinnaker was different. Possibly they had a better combination (of sails)."

The race committee cut Tuesday's race from 15 miles to 12 because of the light winds in Rhode Island Sound. In the second set of defender trials which began Saturday, Defender now has a 4-2 record while Liberty is 1-3 and Courageous 2-2.

Liberty faces Courageous in today's races.

The pairings were Canada 1 opposing Australia II, Britain's Victory '83 against France 3 and Australia's Challenge 12 against Italy's Azurra.

The famous race track gambler, "Chicago" O'Brien, began his career as a bricklayer.

Trio's involvement deepens

Peter, Paul and Mary always have been known for their commitment to causes.

Twenty-two years after they started singing folk music together, they say their commitment is now even deeper.

"The issues have changed, and the titles of the issues have changed," says Mary Travers. "Instead of getting narrower, the issues have got broader. It was civil rights. Now it's human rights."

"The world in the past 20 years got real small and the issues today are no longer just somebody else's. There aren't national boundaries on issues any more."

"The problems of the Middle East affect all the Western world. The nuclear buildup between the Russians and the U.S. affects the whole world. One of the most exciting things we see as we've been traveling is that so many people are beginning to register the fact this is a small planet and very interdependent."

"Every age has an idea and perhaps the idea being born in the late 20th century is that in the 21st century the community of man will have to deal with the planet Earth in very constructive fashion. Otherwise we won't have it."

Peter Yarrow, who lives in New York, has come to Miss Travers' Manhattan apartment to be interviewed with her as the trio begins a U.S. tour. Paul Stookey, who uses his real first name, Noel, with his friends, has not yet arrived from his Maine farm.

Earlier this year, Peter, Paul and Mary played 15 European cities in 21 days, their first European tour since 1967, and gave a big outdoor concert in Jerusalem.

The trio disbanded in 1970, got back together in 1978 at a California antinuclear rally organized by Yarrow. Since, they've spent part of each year touring together, leaving time for individual projects. This year, they visit 18 American cities — one for five days — from the last week in June through August.

Mead, the mildly alcoholic beverage that was the favorite drink of Queen Elizabeth I, was made by combining honey and water with spices, herbs and lemons. After boiling, it was left to stand for three months. Finally it was bottled, and considered fit to drink six weeks later.

On Aug. 21 they'll be on PBS-TV's "Evening at Pops," performing with the Boston Pops Orchestra.

Speaking about their strong involvement in social issues, Miss Travers says, "It's interesting that what began it all was the music. Folk music always had a conscience. As my mother used to say, with awareness comes responsibility. A sense of responsibility was always part of the tradition of folk music."

Yarrow says, "Mary has acquired a new part of her life that relates to the group. She has made some important trips that have pinpointed and focused things for her, Paul and myself."

Miss Travers says, "Peter can organize large events that are demonstrations of commitment. I have always looked on that with awe. The logistics alone would send me running."

SOCIAL WORK CERTIFICATION

AUSTIN — The Texas Legislature has approved legislation we sponsored which calls for changes in the state's social work certification process.

The new measure allows the Texas Department of Human Resources to consider experience and degrees which are closely related to social work when a person applies for social work certification.

Under the new provision, a person can become a Certified Social Worker, which is the highest level of certification, if he or she has a Ph.D. or master's degree in a social work related field and two years of experience. In addition, an individual can qualify as a Certified Social Worker if he or she has a bachelor's degree in social work or a related field and five years of experience, or a bachelor's degree in any field and ten years of experience. Previously, a person applying for Certified Social Worker status was required to have a Ph.D. or master's degree in social work.

To become certified as a social worker, which is the second highest degree of certification, a person will now be eligible if he or she has at least an associate's degree and ten years of experience or a high school diploma and fifteen years of experience. Previously, a person would be considered for Social Worker Certification only if he or she had a bachelor's degree in social work.

The new provisions included in the Social Work Certification process will only be in effect until 1985. After that time, the standards for certification will revert back to the original educational requirements, and the "grandfathering" period will be over.

The grandfather clause is necessary to protect those workers who are highly respected in the field of social work and who are extremely competent despite the fact they may not have a Ph.D. or a master's degree. We believe the grandfather clause is important to allow for certification of those individuals who have worked in the field of social work for ten, twenty, thirty years or more and contribute a great deal towards understanding and responsibilities of child care.

We believe this legislation is significant to Boys Ranch and Girlstown as well as to many other child care facilities around the state.

If you have questions or comments about the certification process, you can contact us by writing, Senator Bill Sarpius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Some may be entitled to additional benefits

Persons receiving GI Bill or vocational rehabilitation education benefits from the Veterans Administration may be entitled to additional benefits for dependents, advises Jack Coker, Director, Waco VA Regional Office.

Those who qualify as dependents are the veteran's spouse, dependent parents and/or child.

The term "child" includes an unmarried natural child, adopted child or stepchild under 18 years of age, between the ages of 18 and 23 and attending school, or over the age of 18 and permanently incapable of self support due to a physical or mental handicap prior to reaching the age of 18.

For further information, visit, write or telephone the Waco VA Regional Office toll-free number listed in your local telephone directory under "Veterans Administration" or "U.S. Government." A VA counselor will respond.

Antique carriages destroyed

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A disgruntled former employee threatened to put Alamo Carriage Co. out of business the day before fire destroyed four of the company's antique horse-drawn carriages, arson investigators say.

Some of the carriages, used to ferry tourists around San Antonio, were worth up to $10,000 and were over 125 years old, investigator Raymond Trevino said.

The fire, started with bales of gasoline-doused hay, first was noticed about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday by a 16-year-old boy riding his bicycle home.

Alamo Carriage co-owner Laszlo Beres said he immediately suspected two employees he recently fired.

Collins is recognized at reunion

Seventy-one persons attended the annual Progressive Community reunion Sunday at the Hereford Community Center.

Doris Collins from Piqua, Ohio, was recognized as having traveled the farthest distance. She is a cousin of the Ray Hersey children.

After a covered dish luncheon, everyone enjoyed visiting and an old-time sing, with Augustine Gregory at the piano. Officers for the next year were elected. They include John Hunter, president, and Mrs. Dempsey Alexander, secretary.

Trevino said investigators were following that angle, especially because of the former employee's threat, but also were "checking every possible avenue."

"The employee approached a driver downtown and said, 'You're going to be off the street in three days,'" Trevino said. "That's what the driver told us."

Seven quarterhorses used to pull the carriages were removed from their stalls at the compound before the fire was set and were not injured, Trevino said. The intruders may have been planning to steal them, he said.

Gasoline-soaked hay was strewn throughout the Alamo Carriage offices, in two pickup trucks and along the ground, Trevino said. The gas had been siphoned from the trucks, he said.

"Someone went to a lot of trouble to set that fire. They had planned to do a number on that compound and they seemed familiar with the operation," he said.

The guard dogs at the carriage compound also did not bark at the intruders, he said.

Beres said the horses wouldn't be able to take to the streets with only the one carriage left.

"These carriages are hand-made and extremely hard to repair," he said. "We'll definitely be out of business for awhile."

The arsonists, who gained entrance by cutting a chain-link fence, also left soaked hay atop the fifth carriage, but did not light it, Trevino said.

Family's plight draws city housing

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A San Antonio man living in a 1966 Plymouth with his wife and three young children says he learned that "you can't give up hope" after receiving donations and comforting letters from sympathetic people.

Of his family's plans to move into reduced-rent city public housing, Marvin Matherly says, "It's a miracle." "You can't give up hope because there are some good people in the world," he said. The Matherlys soon will trade nights in their Plymouth parked under an expressway for one of the city's two-bedroom apartments.

Matherly, a 32-year-old former soldier, lost his $12,000-a-year job in January when the company he worked for folded. He couldn't find permanent employment, he said, and the minimum wages he drew from his sometime job with a local temporary service did little to care for his family.

"Camping out" in the summertime seemed to be a good way to save money, Matherly said Monday.

Dozens of people sent money and wrote letters to the San Antonio Express-News after a story about the Matherly family first appeared last week.

John Sturgis, 57, offered to share his San Antonio home.

"It would have been crowded because I have a wife and two daughters, but we could have done it," Sturgis said. "My door will always be open."

"I know what it means to be zeroed out," said Sturgis, who moved here from Baltimore after retiring as a policeman.

A local pharmacist offered a prayer and a promise of free medication.

And one couple wrote: "Don't give up hope because there are a lot of people who care about you."

Some of the approximately $340 collected in donations will go for a deposit on the apartment and the first month's rent, Matherly said. The bulk will go to groceries and beds for Aaron, 7, Kevin, 5, and Jacob, 11 months.

The rest, Matherly said, will "definitely be saved for a rainy day."

Hobby family puts Houston Post up for sale

HOUSTON (AP) — The William P. Hobby family, which has owned The Houston Post since 1945, is offering to sell the morning paper and a newspaper analyst says it might bring a record price.

John Morton of the Washington stock brokerage firm of Lynch, Jones and Ryan, said Tuesday that the Post could sell for between $175 million and $225 million. He imagined most major newspaper companies would be interested.

The current record is held by the Florida Times-Union and Jacksonville Journal of Jacksonville, Fla., which Morton said sold for a little over $200 million to the Morris Communications group of Augusta, Ga., on Nov. 18, 1982.

Morton's price tag is "without seeing the books or without seeing any of the other things you need to have access to.

"We're estimating they had $160 million in revenues last year but that it was only marginally profitable at best," Morton said, citing the Post's approximate 41 percent share of the advertising lineage in the Houston newspaper market.

He pointed out that the Post is also the traditional morning paper, which has proved important in other markets.

The Houston Post is owned by H&C Communications, a corporation privately held by Oveta Culp Hobby, board chairman; her son, William P. Hobby, president of H&C Communications and the Post; her daughter, Jessica Hobby Catto, a vice president, and other family members.

Managing Editor Kuyk Logan listed "tax considerations and other owner interests" as reasons for selling. He would not elaborate.

The Hobby and Catto families, through H&C Corporation, will continue to own and operate television stations KPRC in Houston, WTVF in Nashville, Tenn., KVOA of Tucson, Ariz., WTOK of Meridian, Miss., and radio station KPRC-AM in Houston, Logan said.

Mrs. Hobby, widow of former Texas Gov. William P. Hobby, headed the Women's Army Corp. during World War II and served as the first secretary of health, education and welfare in President Eisenhower's cabinet.

Her son, Bill, is lieutenant governor of Texas and his wife, Diana Poteat Hobby, is a vice president of the parent corporation and a director of the newspaper.

Mrs. Catto is a vice president of the corporation and the Post. Now living in McLean, Va., she is publisher of the Washington Journalism Review. Her husband, Henry E. Catto, is assistant secretary of defense for public affairs and has held several ambassadorial posts.

The Post was founded on Feb. 19, 1880 as the Houston Evening Post, but did not rise to prominence until after the Great Depression of the 1930s.

The elder Hobby started in the newspaper's business office and rose through the ranks to become publisher in 1932 when he changed the paper's name to The Houston Post. In 1945 Hobby assumed complete control and The Post became a morning newspaper.

Mrs. Hobby became publisher of the paper after her husband's death on June 7, 1964.

Items from historic hotel go on sale

HOUSTON (AP) — Furnishings from the Lamar Hotel, famed Houston home of some of the wealthiest men in history, go on sale today, with thousands of buyers expected to line up for a chance to buy bits of history at bargain prices.

The hotel's furnishings — from wine glasses for a buck to crystal chandeliers for thousands — are being offered to the public as a step in preparing the hotel for the wrecking ball. The Lamar closed last month and its site eventually will be used for a skyscraper.

For more than 40 years, the Lamar has held a special place in the big money lore of Houston. It was built in 1927 by Jesse H. Jones, a towering figure in Houston's development, and he lived in a 16th floor suite for almost three decades. Other suites were permanently held by major figures in oil, politics and banking.

Decisions that shaped Houston were made in Suite 8F, a group of rooms occupied by George Brown of the Brown and Root Co. The so-called "8F Crowd," included Brown, Jones and a handful of other very wealthy Houston men who met there regularly, said Edward C. Davis, the last general manager of the hotel.

"They were the people who ran Houston," said Davis. After his retirement from the White House, Lyndon B. Johnson regularly stayed at the Lamar, as did his wife, Lady Bird. Davis said they had a special suite that included arrangements for their Secret Service agents.

H. L. Hunt, the Dallas oil billionaire, stayed at the Lamar when he was in Houston. He was fond of sitting in the lobby in shirt-sleeves to read a newspaper.

The hotel did not book conventions and Davis said the Lamar became an elegant retreat for the wealthy. Eighty-eight of the hotel's 350 rooms and suites were sold permanently and rich businessmen enjoyed the hotel's tradition that permitted them to slip in and out anonymously.

"We catered to people who wanted to stay where it was quiet, where there was nobody around," said Davis.

Davis refuses yet to identify some of the patrons, but he said many of them were on Fortune Magazine's list of the nation's wealthiest.

The hotel furnishings were strictly first rate, but there was no fancy French food or haute cuisine, said Davis. The most popular item was an $8.50 steak charcoal broiled and served any time from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m.

"We didn't even have a chef," he said. "Just four women cooks who made good, honest meals."

Furnishings from the 16th-floor suite where Jones lived are the most expensive items to go on sale. The furniture there includes a mahogany wardrobe priced at $5,500, a hand looped rug at $3,650 and a Japanese screen at $2,425.

The room itself also is for sale. For $8,500, a buyer can get walnut paneling, an Italian marble fireplace mantle, hardwood flooring and carved doors. The buyer must remove the furnishings.

Clem Long, president of National Content Liquidators, the Dayton, Ohio firm handling the sale, said most buyers will be people of modest means who have special memories of the Lamar.

"We're selling nostalgia by the roomful," he said.

While suites in the hotel rented for $290 a day, there were many rooms available at $54 and many people rented those for special occasions. Now they want to remember them.

NCL vice president Mike Kabealo said hundreds of people have called inquiring about special items. Some have asked for the numbers from the door of the room where they spent a honeymoon. Others want the bed itself.

"People just want a little something to remember it by because they were married here or they spent New Year's here," said Kabealo. "They want anything with the name of Lamar Hotel on it."

There are more than 250,000 items for sale, ranging from wineglasses at $1 each to European crystal chandeliers for $2,100. There are 300 color television sets, offered at $145 each, and hundreds of pillows, bedspreads, chairs, plates and utensils.

"The first three days we expect about 7,000 people," said Claudia Kabealo, wife of the NCL vice president. "There'll be a line around the block and we'll only let 'em in a hundred at a time."

The hotel and the land it sits on have been purchased by the Gerald D. Hines interests. Hines has not announced the specific plans for the site, but he now owns the whole block.

"I knew the hotel would close eventually," said Davis. "The dirt we're sitting on is just too valuable for a place like this. This is the last totally owned downtown block in the city of Houston."

Waco man handed another 20 years

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A Waco man already sentenced to life in prison for killing his girlfriend has been slapped with a 20-year prison term for the shooting of a Henderson grocery store clerk.

A state district court jury deliberated just over an hour Tuesday before ordering the sentence for David Leslie Culverhouse, who had called his decision to act as his own lawyer "a terrible mistake."

Culverhouse, 24, had attacked his court-appointed lawyer with a metal water pitcher during his previous trial, when he was convicted of murdering his 24-year-old girlfriend.

State District Judge Donald Ross ordered that the 20-year sentence be served after the life term is completed. Earlier Tuesday, the jury took only 37 minutes to convict Culverhouse on an attempted murder charge in the shooting of Safeway store clerk Layton Cummings. His trial was moved here from Rusk County on a change of venue.

Prosecutors said Culverhouse shot Cummings after fatally wounding his girlfriend, Donna Ray of Grand Prairie.

Culverhouse barricaded himself in a Jacksonville motel following the Jan. 9 shooting spree and surrendered after a 19-hour standoff.

The defendant, handcuffed and bound with chains and leg irons, had summoned about 20 witnesses.

The Newspaper BIBLE

IT'S THE PLAIN TRUTH!

As Jesus was speaking, a woman in the crowd called out, "God bless Your mother—the womb from which You came, and the breasts that gave You suck!"

He replied, "Yes, but even more blessed are all who hear the Word of God and put it into practice."

As the crowd pressed in upon Him, He preached them this sermon: "These are evil times, with evil people. They keep asking for some strange happening in the skies to prove I am the Messiah, but the only proof I will give them is a miracle like that of Jonah, whose experiences proved to the people of Nineveh that God had sent him. My similar experience will prove that God has sent Me to these people."

"And at the Judgment Day the Queen of Sheba shall arise and point her finger at this generation, condemning it, for she went on a long, hard journey to listen to the wisdom of Solomon; but one far greater than Solomon is here and few pay any attention."

"The men of Nineveh, too, shall arise and condemn this nation, for they repented at the preaching of Jonah; and someone far greater than Jonah is here but this nation won't listen."

"No one lights a lamp and hides it! Instead, he puts it on a lampstand to give light to all who enter the room."

"Your eyes light up your inward being. A pure eye lets sunshine into your soul. A lustful eye shuts out the light and plunges you into darkness. So watch out that the sunshine isn't blotted out."

"If your are filled with light within, with no dark corners, then the outside will be radiant too, as though a floodlight is beamed upon you."

Bandidos plan major funeral for slain biker

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Members of the Bandidos motorcycle club rode here from across the country to join in a rumbling funeral procession today as tribute to a fallen fellow biker.

Steve Leonard Jonas, 34, was killed by a single shotgun blast to the neck early Sunday after a barroom argument. Police have made no arrests, but say they have a suspect.

Up to 200 Bandidos planned to attend this afternoon's funeral for Jonas, known as "Panhead" to his fellow bikers, according to the club's San Antonio president, who would identify himself only as Pablo.

"Everybody who can possibly make it will be there — from Texas and Mississippi, Alabama, South Dakota, New Mexico," Pablo said.

No religious ceremony was planned for the funeral and the location of the gravesite was not disclosed.

"Panhead, he didn't go to church," Pablo said. "We'll pick one member to give some type of eulogy at the gravesite."

All Bandidos members will be wearing their "colors," jackets with the Bandido emblem and other decorations, and riding their motorcycles, he said.

The bikers expected federal law enforcement officials to attend the Bandidos funeral, as they have in the past, Pablo said.

"They always show up when we're burying our dead. They don't show any respect for the dead," he said.

"They'll be there, as usual, taking pictures at the gravesite."

Jonas once was questioned in the Nov. 21, 1978, attempted assassination of former Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr.

Kerr's car was hit by a barrage of gunfire as he was driving to his office, but he escaped injury by ducking under the dashboard.

No arrests have been made in the attack and the statute of limitations expires this November.

Jonas' mother, Nona Jonas, said the police never officially informed her or her husband about her son's death. She learned, she said, when the Bandidos showed up at her house about 4:30 a.m. Sunday.

"That's one of the reasons they came to see us," Mrs. Jonas said. "They wanted to ask permission to hold a Bandido funeral."

Ranch owners have 'nontraditional' resources

SAN ANGELO, Texas — Ranchers throughout the Southwest have numerous "nontraditional" ranch resources which can be aggressively marketed. Many of these resources are often easily overlooked since they are usually not in mainstream of ranch activities.

But some innovative ranchers these days are marketing artifacts, rocks, bird watching, photographic tours, manure, squirrels, varmint hunting, trapping, horseback riding, camping, quail, and dove hunting, and many others. These resource alternatives will be discussed in detail during marketing sessions at the International Ranchers Roundup (IRR) which will be held at the San Angelo Convention Center August 1-5. Registration and complete program information is available by writing IRR, P.O. Drawer 1849, Uvalde, TX 78901.

Popular as deer hunting may be in the South, cities are full of people who would not pay a dime to hunt them, but would gladly pay substantial fees to hunt quail or dove.

It's not uncommon for a landowner to ask and receive $500 to $1,000 per season for hunting rights at onedirt tank or windmill.

Some Central Texas landowners are leasing the rights to dig for cultural or historical artifacts. Many areas of Texas contain minerals and rocks that rock hunters will pay to search through. In addition, rocks suitable for use as building stones increase in value each year. As water becomes more scarce, more and more city dwellers are apt to change to rock, sand or gravel yards instead of grass. Some Dallas residents are known to pay $75 each for large limestone rocks to hold decorate their front yard. Riverbeds are full of rocks that will soon become in great demand for building purposes.

Today there are thousands of varmint hunters. Since it has long been determined that cougars and black bear will respond to a varmint call in the hands of an expert, demand for places to call has grown dramatically. Varmint calling leases may be just around the corner.

An upsurge in the price paid for the pelt of furbearers has brought a marked increase in the number of fur trappers. Many landowners allow trapping on their property on a percentage basis which runs from one-fourth to one-half the total catch. With no effort, a landowner can get a varmint population thinned and pick up easy pocket money at the same time.

With the increased interest in landscape and wildlife photography, professional and amateur hunters, alike, will pay for the opportunity to photograph all aspects of a ranch. Such visitors rarely cause problems and often are glad to repeat or refer business if desired by the owner. If there's something of interest on a ranch, someone will pay to take a picture of it.

Also, don't forget such possibilities as wildlife ranch setting. This is but one of 10 programs in the comprehensive IRR five-day schedule. Other concurrent sessions will feature talks in beef cattle, sheep and goats, grazing management, ranch family business management, wildlife and a computer workshop. Over 100 speakers from 12 states will be on hand for the third annual IRR.

Mare-foal clinic in Brenham Aug. 5

COLLEGE STATION — Stallions Unlimited at Brenham will be the site of the 1983 South Central Texas Mare-Foal Clinic Aug. 5.

The horse breeding farm is about seven miles north of Brenham on Texas 36.

The fourth annual clinic will feature four major areas of discussion, announces Bill Thane, Washington County Extension agent.

Dr. Jack Kreider, associate professor of animal science at Texas A&M University, will discuss a broodmare's reproductive system.

Dr. H.A. Smith, a Brenham veterinarian, will describe how to get broodmares ready to go to the breeding farm.

practical application. The day-long clinic will conclude with a discussion by Jack Benson and Brad McCamy, owners of Stallions Unlimited, who will provide clinic participants with an inside look at a horse breeding farm.

Thane invites horse owners and others in the horse industry from throughout Texas to take part in the annual clinic. "The Texas horse industry is booming, and this clinic provides horse owners an opportunity to learn about some of the key facets of horse production and management," Thane points out.

How about a good manure cleanup job? People will come to your ranch, clean out the barns and goatsheds and pay for the manure they haul away. It must be cleaned regularly anyway, so why not get paid for it and let someone else do the work? Trucks have been driven 250 miles to one Hill Country ranch just to haul goat manure.

Wheat harvest will still be big

WASHINGTON (AP) — After idling nearly a fifth of their land, America's winter wheat farmers have redoubled efforts on the rest and are preparing to harvest a crop that will rival nearly every other in history.

An unprecedented national average yield in excess of 40 bushels an acre is creating the third best winter wheat crop on record despite President Reagan's massive production cutback program, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

USDA, in a report issued Tuesday, now estimates that this year's winter wheat crop will hit 1.94 billion bushels, only 8 percent less than last year's record and just 161 million bushels short of the 1981 crop.

And over the past decade, that July crop forecast, based on field conditions at the first of the month, has understated the final harvest six times while overestimating it only four.

Production increases are carrying over to barley as well, the department's Crop Reporting Board said. This year's harvest is estimated at a record 560 million bushels.

Beef supply may be tight later

COLLEGE STATION — While marketing of fed cattle in May was up 12 percent from last year, reduced placements of cattle on feed indicate that beef supplies are going to be tight later in the year, says Dr. Edward Uvacek, Jr., economist in livestock marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

The June seven-state cattle on feed report shows that large supplies of cattle are being marketed and that the April-June quarter will probably be close to the 9 percent increase anticipated earlier in the year, Uvacek says.

But continued low placement levels during May as in recent months are going to result in a fed cattle marketing level of 9 to 10 percent below last year for the July-September quarter, he says.

He adds that unless placements increase drastically within the next few weeks, the fourth quarter fed marketings will also be substantially reduced.

This reduced fed cattle supply, however, will be partially offset by some increased pork production, he maintains.

Fortunately, broiler production should remain below the level of a year ago, at least during the next three or four months. Both chick placements and egg hatchings have been from 1 to 2 percent below last year for the last several weeks. Thus, beef's competition from other meats should only be up slightly during the rest of 1983.

Residents of Goreville learn to live with guns

GOREVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A black leather holster strapped to her side, Sandy Lively stood on the firing range. On command, she lifted a pistol, locked her arms tight in front, squinted and squeezed the trigger.

It was the first time in her 35 years that she had fired a gun. But in Goreville, a southern Illinois town too small for even one spotlight, guns are a must.

Goreville is one of only eight towns in the United States with an ordinance requiring residents to own firearms, according to the Second Amendment Foundation, an anti-gun-control organization based in Bellevue, Wash. As in the other towns, Goreville's law was prompted by the nation's strictest gun control law, passed almost two years ago in the Chicago suburb of Morton Grove.

And, as in the other towns, the ordinance isn't scrupulously enforced. But residents say that's not the point.

"The whole town of Goreville is showing everybody else we don't want to be a Morton Grove. We want to have our guns," said Rebecca Dorsey, who helped teach Mrs. Lively and other residents how to use a gun after the ordinance was passed.

Says Mrs. Lively, "In Morton Grove, they took away their rights."

The law hasn't made much difference in Goreville, a quiet town of 1,200 where folks hunt rabbits as often as their big-city counterparts hunt parking spaces. No one has been arrested for not owning a gun, said Mayor Gary Vaughn. In fact, he said, most people owned guns before the law was passed.

"They're used to guns," said Mrs. Lively, recalling that members of her family often went hunting when she was a child.

Eight women and four men signed up for the firearms class sponsored by the village earlier this year. There wasn't much crime before the law was approved in December and hasn't been much in the seven months the ordinance has been on the books, but the proximity of two prisons makes residents a bit uneasy. The town sits a few miles south of the maximum-security federal prison at Marion and a few miles north of the state prison at Vienna.

"When they passed the gun law (the prisoners) knew we had guns," she said. "Now with the teaching, they'll know we know how to use one."

Another student, 66-year-old Ray Stearns, says he's owned guns all his life but took the class as a refresher course. He approves of his town's ordinance, he says, "Because I think the day has come when people are going to have to be able to protect themselves.... It's got to where anymore a person isn't even safe in his own home."

But gun control opponents readily acknowledge that the ordinances are more than a response to fear.

"What they are is symbolic of the people's dead-serious intent not to allow somebody ... to deprive them of what they see as their God-given constitutional rights," said Doug Zimmer, spokesman for the Second Amendment Foundation.

DECLINING ENERGY USE

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Industrial energy consumption in Delaware has been reduced by 25 percent since the 1973 oil embargo.

This is the largest percentage decrease in the nation, according to Honeywell's Energy Management Information Center here.

New Mexico followed Delaware with a 21 percent decrease in industrial energy use, and West Virginia was third with a 15 percent reduction since 1973. The most energy used is by Alaska with an increase of 121 percent.

PUBLIC SERVANTS by the Local Government Numbers

2,100 (Thousands)

Full-Time Workers In:

SOURCE: Census Bureau

NEA/Morrill Cecil

The largest number by far of public employees at the local government level is in the schools. In a Census Bureau survey of the nation's 75 largest metropolitan areas, which account for 53 percent of the population and 60 percent of government payrolls, 2.1 million public servants — half the total — were in education. Law enforcement was a distant second.

HEALTH

DR. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have read your column and when you have mentioned smelly feet you have never said a thing about people cleaning out from under their toenails.

I wish you would please tell people to clean under their toenails at least once a week if not more often. When they don't, this causes a terrible, terrible odor. Thanks for listening.

DEAR READER - Well, you have told millions of people. Now let's hope there are more clean toenails in your household and perhaps millions of others.

Of course you are right. It is just part of cleaning or washing your feet. But I must add that there are many people who have problems with smelly feet who do in fact clean their toe-nails and wash their feet once or twice a day.

The first step in controlling odors is to wash the feet regularly and dry them thoroughly. Twice a day is not too often if a person has a problem. The second step is to change socks twice a day if possible and, when the temperature and situation permits, go barefoot. Dry feet are less likely to be smelly feet.

Anything that helps prevent sweating of your feet is also important. There are many preparations, as well as a number of home remedies, that do just that.

But the thing most people miss is that often the odor is caused by bacteria that live under the surface of the skin and are unaffected by ordinary soap and water. That is why I recommend asking your doctor for a prescription for some phisoHex preparation to use as a soap. As this penetrates the skin it will kill the bacteria and soon there is no odor. Without help from such a product, all the washing in the world will not solve this problem for people who have it.

For other tips on caring for the feet I am sending you The Health Letter 11-8, Your Feet and How to Care for Them. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Is it true or just a myth that a drink of whiskey or brandy warms the body? In the winter the older members of our family take brandy or whiskey with them when they go ice fishing "for warmth." It has been a subject of much controversy in our house. What about an alcoholic drink to cool you in the summer?

DEAR READER - A person who is drinking often has a flushed skin. That is because there is an increased flow of blood to the skin. That warm blood warms the skin. If you feel cold (which is different from actually being cold), that alcohol flush makes you feel warm. However, you lose body heat through the skin. Your skin is your radiator and bringing blood to the surface cools the body.

In cold environments, and especially in cold survival, alcohol is dangerous because it may cause the body's internal temperature to drop too much because you lose that heat through the skin when you use alcohol to feel warm.

In the summer you feel hot from the same effect but the cooling of the internal body does occur, provided the external environment is cool enough for you to lose heat from your skin. Thus alcohol is a great deceiver about body temperature.

I suspect it is taken along for ice fishing for the same reason it goes on fishing trips in summer — because the fishermen like it.

DEAR POLLY - I couldn't reach the oranges and grapefruit near the top of my citrus trees, so I used a long-handled fishnet to pull them down. Worked great! — NANNA

DEAR POLLY - I cut quilt patterns from medium sandpaper. These sandpaper patterns cling to the fabric and make cutting quilt blocks very easy.

Always use tapioca when making cherry pie filling. It never fails to thicken and gives a nice clear color. — CLARICE

DEAR POLLY - This one's for all gardeners. If you have leftover spraying solution and must use the sprayer for something else, put a paper paint strainer in a funnel and pour the solution through the funnel into another container for storage. This straining will prevent foreign particles in the solution from clogging up your sprayer the next time you use that solution. — JERRY

DEAR POLLY - When I have a garage sale with high-priced or unusual items not found in every sale, I scan the local papers for a picture and retail price of an item comparable to what I have to sell. I attach this to the item at my sale, giving the buyer some idea as to what the item, bought new, would cost. The buyer can then determine whether this is a real bargain or not. — CHARLOTTE
