Kumon is intended as a supplement to, not a replacement for, traditional instruction in mathematics. The system emphasizes speed and accuracy with each student progressing at the child's own rate. One of the benefits of the program is that it requires a student have 100 percent mastery of a mathematical skill before he or she is allowed to progress to the next step.

One of the concerns which caused Toru Kumon to develop the new learning system, starting in 1954, was the tendency to require students to progress to the next step before they had mastered a skill. In mathematics, comprehension of one step is required in order to function at the next level.

"How can a child do algebra if he does not understand fractions?" Matsumoto said during his explanation of Kumon.

Another innovative aspect of the program is the removal of the pressure of grades. Results in Kumon are not included directly in a student's academic score. The only means by which Kumon can affect a student's grade is by improvements in scores in regular math classes.

The program also ignores traditional class levels. Kumon has its own level system, and each child is given a diagnostic test prior to starting the program to determine the level at which the child should begin. Since each student works individually, there are no "smart" or "slow" students in any particular grade level.

"We like to emphasize that practice makes perfect," Matsumoto

Scientists look for addiction key

An AP Special Report By PAUL RECER AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The addict slips the needle into his scarred arm and drives down the plunger, or flares a crack-filled pipe and inhales the heated vapor. In both cases, the cocaine hits treatment that can be applied

Jack Blaine, chief of the treatment branch at the National Institute on Drug Abuse. "As yet, we don't have any good, solid research on successful crack or cocaine treatment."

Both cocaine and crack, a crystallized form of cocaine that is smoked, work directly on the

It's believed the drug causes protein molecules called neuroreceptors to ignite sensations of pleasure and send pulses of euphoria along nerve pathways time after time after time. Eventually, the molecules are absorbed and the effects diminish. For the user, there's a letdown and then, quickly, a desire for more of the drug.

That, Blaine said, is a cycle medical science has not found a of reinforcement that makes cocaine so dangerous.

By some estimates, almost half of all cocaine users quickly slip from casual use into an uncontrolled craving. And an even higher percentage of crack users quickly become addicts.

"Crack may be the most euphoric of all the drugs," said Dr. Herbert Kleber, a former Yale researcher who is with the National Drug Control Policy

"It is intensely pleasurable. It wears off very quickly and puts the user back to not feeling good. And the body has no barrier to its use."

Those who inhale powdered cocaine are limited by the amount the nose will absorb, Kleber said, and those who inject the drug eventually run out of veins. But the lungs have a virtually unlimited ability to absorb crack smoke, he said.

Success in treating addiction, he said, depends to a large degree on who is being treated.

'Some need only rehabilitation," he said. "Give me an employed (professional) and I will have 60 to 70 percent success. In a year, he'll be off the drug."

But for addicts living in poverty, particularly in the inner city, there are few positive elements to provide an incentive to stay away from cocaine. Drugs in such neighborhoods often are viewed as an industry and an economic opportunity for the young to gain wealth quick-

"For those in the inner city, you have to address not just the drug, but the whole lifestyle," Kleber said. "First they have to be off the drug. Then they have to get the skills to stay off it."

That must include medical care, housing, education and vocational training.

And "when they go back into the community there's got to be a strong support system, a drugfree network" to reinforce the new way of life, he said. Meanwhile, scientists are searching for a medication to help wean addiets from cocaine.

"This is not an area yet where we have good clinical science," said Dr. Donald R. Jasinski, chief of a chemical dependency clinic at Francis Scott Key Medical Center, which is affiliated with Johns Hopkins University Medical School in Baltimore.

Making sagging eyes appear younger, skin tones more even, and wrinkles less visible, are simply well-kept secrets of application. Now, in department and specialty stores across the country, National Makeup Artists are working with cosmetics customers to show them how it's done - to reveal the secrets of professionals.

Eye Makeup Tips

The National Makeup Artist naturally have individual philosophies on beauty and makeup. But they do concur on this: Most makeup mishaps occur around the eyes. They offer the following tips to flatter the eye area, while keeping the look natural. Quips National Makeup Artist Marcus Monson, "I want people to look, not stare."

Herd 'ready' for Rebels

By SAM W. WALLER Sports Editor

IT'S HERE!!!

The one day in the world, i.e. Texas, that could ever hope to make usually normal people act like a bunch of five-year-olds on Christmas morning has arrived -- the first Friday night of high school football.

"We're ready," Hereford Whiteface Coach Don Cumpton said of opening night. The Herd opens the season Friday at Whiteface Stadium against the Tascosa Rebels.

Hereford junior varsity, sophomore and freshman teams get underway today. The JV will meet the Tascosa JV at Tascosa High while the sophomores and freshman Maroon travel to Palo Duro. The freshman White will take on Palo Duro at the South Field. All four games begin at 5 p.m.

In other District 1-4A action, Dumas vistis Caprock and Dunbar hosts Lubbock High tonight, while Friday will have Borger hosting Perryton, Randall hosting Tulia, Levelland hosting Lamesa, Estacado at Plainview, Pampa at Canyon and Frenship at Andrews.

"We're all tired of practicing and are ready to play," Cumpton said, "coaches, players, everybody."

After four weeks of workouts Friday. with only scrimmages against Monterey and Amarillo High there. We need to see as many providing Cumpton's team a chance people as we can." to hit on players not wearing maroon, the Herd coach can do something besides evaluate talent.

game," he added. "This is what we've been waiting for." Tascosa, 8-3 last year including a 12-7 loss to the Herd, comes into 1989 as defending District 3-5A champs. But graduation was most unkind to Coach Duane Huey's crew as the Rebels return exactly one starter, senior offensive lineman Chris McClain, and seven letter-

"The inexperience is definitely going to be a big factor for us," Huey said. "It (Friday's game) is going to be the first time in varsity competition for most of our play-

Despite the heavy losses from 1988, Huey said no drastic changes have been made in Tascosa's basic

"With our offensive and defensive sets -- we run the Wing T and a 50 defense -- we feel we can make any necessary adjustments without changing everything."

Huey added that he expects to get most of his team playing time

"We'll use a lot of players out

Cumpton said he would name his starting lineup this afternoon.

One aspect of the Hereford-"It ought to be a heck of a ball Tascosa series Huey downplayed was the fact that the Rebels are 0-9 against the Whitefaces.

"It won't mean that much to these players," he said, "because it goes back so many years. We used to scrimmage Hereford for years before they moved up into our district. And then we didn't play them the first couple of years after they dropped back down, so most of the kids we have this year have no connection with that."

Cumpton agreed, saying getting the season off to a successful start is more important than the streak.

"The No. 1 thing is, of course, to win the game," he said. "Then we start looking at the rest of it.

"That's why we play these nonconference games, so we'll know what we need to work on and what to change before we start playing in district.

"We do need to improve in all areas," he added. "We need to improve a little bit every week. If we do that, when the time comes we're going to have a tough football Cumpton said he was pleased with the work of his team going into the game.

"I'm real happy with the progress of our offense. They improved a lot this week. The running game looked as good as it has all fall. The backs are getting their timing down and seeing the holes much better than they did against Amarillo High."

On the other side of the ball, Cumpton said he expects continued good play from the defense.

"To play great defense you have to be an emotional player and have a great deal of intensity. We did real well against Amarillo in the scrimmage and need to continue with that kind of effort."

Injury report: Knees are the biggest problem facing the Herd heading into the season. Four seniors will miss Friday's game with assorted knee injuries. Cornerback Jim Andrews underwent surgery Wednesday for a torn ligament and OT Cameron Gulley had a knee scoped last week. Both are probably lost for the year.

Wide reciever Brian Vogler has a hyperextended knee and DT Danny Ruiz twisted a knee in practice Wednesday. They are expected to return to workouts Monday

But New Orleans Saints head coach Jim Mora spent some time Wednesday criticizing the NFL's new anti-noise

"There's no place louder than this," Mora told a Fort Worth

In a preseason game against the Cincinnati Bengals, the Saints were penalized three time-outs and also received two yardage penalties for excessive noise. At one point the officiating crew stopped the game while waiting for the noise to subside.

"I hate the rule," Mora said. "The crowd (for Cincinnati) wasn't really that loud compared to what it could be with 15,000 more fans in the stands, which we'll probably have Sunday."

A capacity crowd of almost 70,000 is expected to raise the Superdome roof and test the rule again when the Saints host the Cowboys in the regular season-opener for both teams.

Aikman is also preparing to face a blitzing Saints defense, which will further complicate his task.

'It's not the best situation (for a rookie quarterback) but we've talked about this since the off-season so we feel we're prepared." said Dallas offensive coordinator David Shula.

If Aikman is unable to call signals, the Cowboys will snap the ball using injury problems among their linebackers.

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas a secret system of communication between Aikman and the center. Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson said the noise factor may cause him to go with a more conservative offense.

'We don't have to throw the entire package if we're having problems (hearing)," Johnson said.

Aikman also anticipates blitzing tactics throughout the season and he said Sunday may be only a preview of things to come.

Every team is going to try and put pressure on a young player," Aikman said. 'I expect to see a lot of blitzing. Worrying about it won't help."

Offensive guard Nate Newton, one of the men entrusted with protecting Aikman, agreed that any rookie quarterback should expect special blitz packages from opposing defensive coordinators.

'It would be the same for any rookie," Newton said. 'Any rookie would get the heat because they figure he can't read defenses. We're expecting that."

The Cowboys completed their sixman developmental squad Wednesday with the signings of tight end Keith Jennings, linebacker Greg Gilbert, defensive lineman Jon Carter and wide receiver Bernard Ford.

Ford was recently cut by the Buffalo Bills. The other three were waived by the Cowboys.

The Cowboys also worked out linebacker Dwayne Jiles, recenty cut by the Philadelphia Eagles. Johnson said he would not sign Jiles now but might do so later if the Cowboys have

The Detroit Tigers are the worst team in the American League -until they play the Kansas City Royals at Tiger Stadium, that is.
The Tigers continued to mesmerize the Royals Wednesday night with an 11-5 victory, Detroit's 13th

'It's frustrating,' Royals manager John Wathan said. "There's no reason for it, yet it continues. I guess we'll just have to come back and try to win here next year."

The 13 straight losses, dating back to 1987, is the longest losing streak at a road park in the Royals' history. The six-game winning streak is Detroit's longest since the Boston Red Sox. In other games Wednesday, it was Cleveland 9, Baltimore 0; Toronto 4, Chicago 2; Texas 3, Minnesota 2; New York 5, Seattle

3, and Milwaukee 7, California 4. In beating the Royals this time, the Tigers combined homers by Mike Brumley and Lou Whitaker with three Royals errors. Brumley hit a two-run homer in the second and Whitaker gave the Tigers insurance with a three-run blast, his 27th, in the seventh.

George Brett had a two-run homer for the Royals, leaving him just one hit shy of 2,500 for his brilliant career.

Edwin Nunez, 3-3, the second of three Detroit pitchers, threw one pitch, resulting in an inning-ending double-play, and got the win. Brian DuBois pitched the last five innings for his first save.

Royals starter Charlie Leibrandt, 5-11, gave up six runs on six hits over two-plus innings.
Athletics 7, Red Sox 5

Dave Parker hit his first AL grand slam and Bob Welch won his fifth consecutive decision for Oakland.

Welch, 16-7, allowed five hits and two runs, one unearned, in five innings before leaving with a slight abdominal strain.

Ellis Burks, who went 3-for-3 for Boston to extend his hitting streak to 15 games, separated his right shoulder in a fifth-inning outfield collision with Mike Greenwell.

Mike Smithson, 7-14, was victimized by a five-run third.

"I was going to take one big swing during that at-bat and see if I could do some damage," Parker said of his homer off Smithson in the third inning. "I very seldom guess. I usually just look for the ball and attack it. For once, I guessed right." Indians 9, Orioles 0

Bud Black pitched a four-hitter and Cleveland erupted for 15 hits, including home runs by Dion James, Cory Snyder and Brad Komminsk.

> Blue Jays 4, White Sox 2 Fred McGriff continued his good hitting against Chicago with an RBI single and Todd Stottlemyre, 7-5, won his fifth straight game.

McGriff's RBI single triggered a three-run first inning off Eric King, 7-9, and the Blue Jays went onto their 11th victory in 12 games this season against the White Sox.

Charlie Hough scattered seven hits over six innings to improve his record to 5-1 since coming off the disabled list on Aug. 4.

Jeff Russell pitched 1 1-3 innings for his 33rd save.

Twins rookie Dave West, 2-1, gave up 10 hits and three runs over six innings.

Yankees 5, Mariners 3 Mel Hall and Bob Geren hit tworun homers off Seattle starter Brian

Mets win tightens race

By The Associated Press

Because Bruce Ruffin remembered to come over the top, the Chicago Cubs are in danger of falling from the top.

The Cubs' lead in the National League East is down to a measly one-half game following Wednes-day night's 9-1 loss to Ruffin and the last-place Philadelphia Phillies. Hot on Chicago's heels are the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2 winners over the New York Mets. The Montreal Expos, who beat Pittsburgh 11-6, are two games out and the Mets trail

Ruffin, 5-8, scattered eight hits for his first complete game since May 8, 1988, and Darren Daulton and Dickie Thon each drove in three runs for Philadelphia.

Ruffin, who came into the game with a 5.13 earned-run average after wild streaks the last two years that threatened to end his career, said he felt some pain in his shoulder when he allowed his delivery to drop down to where he threw sidearm.

'The pain forced me to stay on top with the ball, which is the way I have to pitch to win," Ruffin said. "I've been a little sore, and it made me conscious of staying on top with my delivery."

In the NL West, San Francisco beat Atlanta 7-2 and maintained its six-game lead over San Diego, which nipped Houston 3-2 to snap a second-place tie with the Astros. Cincinnati defeated Los Angeles

Ruffin walked three and struck out four while the Phillies had 17 hits against Greg Maddux, 16-11, and three Chicago relievers.

The Phillies took a 2-0 lead in Thon singled and Daulton and Steve Jeltz followed with consecutive triples. Lloyd McClendon hit his 12th home run in the fifth for the Cubs' run before the Phillies pulled away with five runs in the bottom of the fifth.

Len Dykstra led off with a single, took second on an infield out and scored on John Kruk's single. Ricky Jordan beat out an infield hit to short and Von Hayes singled to load the bases. Thon doubled home two runs to make it 5-1 and two more runs scored when Daulton greeted Scott Sanderson with a double.

Cardinals 3, Mets 2

Pedro Guerrero drove in the tying and winning runs and the Cardinals took advantage of two New York errors.

With the score tied 2-2, Mets second baseman Gregg Jefferies muffed Ozzie Smith's grounder to start the eighth inning. Smith went to third on Jose Oquendo's hit-and-Roberto Alomar drove in two run single and scored on Guerrero's grounder. Guerrero doubled home the tying run with two out in the sixth.

Ron Darling lost his third straight decision despite allowing just one earned run in 7 1-3 innings. Expos 11, Pirates 6

Hubie Brooks drove in four runs with a first-inning single and a three-run homer in the second. The outburst enabled Mark Langston to snap a personal three-game losing streak and win for the first time since Aug. 11. Langston yielded Tim Wallach had a two-run single in Montreal's four-run fourth. Bilardello and Bobby Bonilla homered for Pittsburgh.

Giants 7, Braves 2 Will Clark reached 100 RBIs with a two-run homer in the first inning and Scott Garrelts scattered eight hits.

After Robby Thompson singled with one out in the first, Clark hit his 22nd home run of the season off Derek Lilliquist.

The Giants made it 4-0 in the third after Clark doubled with two

Padres 3, Astros 2

EXCELLENT GOOD FAIR POOR DON'T WASTE MONEY "TO KILL A MOCKINGBIRD":

if you are broke from summer spending or busy getting ready for your annual September start-up, here's a brief guide that may help.

"WIRED": A disturbing, misdirected expose of the drugged-out life of John Belushi told in fairy tale surrealism guaranteed to confuse (not warn about) the issue of drug addition. Rated R. One Box

"ACT OF WAR": Starring Sean Penn and Michael J. Fox. A decidedly anti-American movie that pretends to be only anti-war. The script attempts to manipulate the audience and shame the men and of War failed not because of its agenda but because it is poorly acted and has no believable down. The director, I think, wanted dialogue. Michael J. Fox proves once again that he is a TV actor and cannot carry the big screen. Rated An Upside Down Box

"UNCLE BUCK": Starring John Candy. If you like gross; if food fights and practical jokes are your bag, maybe you'll find the laughs in this one. Rated PG-13. Two Boxes

AGING BRIDGES

NEW YORK (AP) - More than half the suspension bridges in the United States are more than 50 years old and experts say it will require extensive cable maintenance to keep them safe

sion bridges that have passed the 50-year mark include the Washington, Williamsburg, Manhattan, Triboro and Brooklyn bridges in New York; San Francisco's Golden Gate and Transbay bridges; the St. John's bridge in Portland, Ore.; Philadelphia's Benjamin Franklin bridge, and the Cincinnati, Maysville, Ky., and Wheeling W.Va,. bridges spanning the Ohio River

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Computers with reasoning powers are now helping corporate executives make business decisions.

to make a police suspense drama but ended up with a big city cop comedy. Rated R. Two Boxes

"RAIN MAN": (1989) Starring Dustin Hoffman and Tom Cruise. A brilliant film about two brothers; one a con man, one autistic, who teach each other. This film won a bunch of Oscars and, if you have een it, deserves to be seen again not only because of its message but because of what really stands out under Barry Levinson's direction: beautiful cinematography, sharp editing and an imaginative score. Rated PG-13. Four Boxes

"TEQUILA SUNRISE": (1988) Starring Mel Gibson, Kurt Russell and Michelle Pfeiffer. Robert Towne is an immensely talented storyteller and the script of Tequila Sunrise alone makes it worthwhile

entertainment. Mel Gibson is a sensitive drug dealer, Kurt Russell a shrewd cop and Michelle Pfeiffer is the smooth restaurateur who comes between them. Together they flirt, lie, and make love and war in a web of mystery that becomes even more intriguing as the threads of the plot reveal themselves. A super popcorn-at-home movie. Rated R. "NEIGHBORS": (1981) Starring John Belushi and Dan Aykroyd. This is a strange movie. John Belushi plays a surburban home "THE JANUARY MAN": (1989) owner whose peaceful existence is Starring Kevin Kline and Mary threatened when his new neighbors Elizabeth Mastrantonio. This movie turn out to be complete wackos. It was not a big box office success but isn't a laugh-a-minute farce, but would be a fair at-home-between- there are numerous chuckles and a women who went to Vietnam. Act the-toes type of movie. Kevin Kline few guffaws along the way. It's plays a detective as unconventional never boring; you're always as the serial killer he's hunting wondering what outrageous thing will happen next. Rated R.

"THE MAN WITH THE GOLDEN ARM": (1955) Starring Frank Sinatra, Eleanor Parker and Kim Novak, directed by Otto Preminger. This is an admittedly dated attempt to show the horrors of drug-addition that somehow works. Frank Sinatra is the loser on the needle in sleazy Chicago surroundings. Eleanor Parker is his crippled wife and Kim Novak, in a very early role, is the girl who saves him. It's a study of those who say yes. Would be rated PG-13.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My husband was perspiring so much at night that the mattress would not dry out enough in one day to avoid mildew. We changed our eating habits and now consume much less protein-rich food at our evening meal. The excessive perspiration problem is solved, but he does get an offensive body odor.

He is a very clean person, showers daily and uses antiperspirants. He has had a complete medical checkup and everything is fine. He does not have this offensive odor during the day.

He drinks three to four cans of beer in the evening before dinner and eats raw onions with his meals.

The odor stays in the linens, even after spraying them with Lysol, until they are laundered. Do you have any idea what might explain this odor problem?

DEAR READER: Yes. Beer and raw onions. He probably still sweats at night even though it may not be enough to cause the bedding to be wet. Since your husband does not have an odor during the day, I would think that he washes off whatever causes the odor. But since the perspiration is still in the bedding, it smells.

Some people have body odor problems because of bacteria under the skin that are the source of the odor. Usually that causes a more persistent problem that would also be present during the day. In those individuals, the use of certain soaps and pHisoHex — a prescription skin cleanser — will kill the bacteria and eliminate the odor. Most ordinary soaps will not penetrate the skin and eliminate the bacteria.

I have discussed the sweating and body odor problem in a new Special Report 99, About Sweating and Body Odor, which I am sending you. If he follows the measures discussed, it may help. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/99, P.O.

Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Alcohol is well known for increasing sweating and the evening cocktails are a frequent cause of night sweats. Spices may also turn on the sweating mechanism and that is where the onions apply.

Overeating in the evening, will cause night sweats, regardless of the source of the calories. A low-calorie evening meal, limited in fats, avoiding spices and not using alcohol often helps. So will losing excess pounds of body fat.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Turn vine-ripened tomatoes into sauce

through winter?

The pale, cardboard imitations tomato aroma. marketed then bear little resemblance to the full-flavored, intensely red tomatoes enjoyed for a brief few months of the year. But, alas, ripe tomatoes won't keep like turnips in a before cooking, choose some that are root cellar. They must be eaten in their less ripe. To prevent spoilage, place time. The most you can do is try to preserve their essence. One simple, rewarding way is to make sauce.

Basic tomato sauce freezes well with little loss of flavor. It's a boon to cooks who like to "eat Italian" in all its Neapolitan robustness. For some that means a simple plate of spaghetti. For others, it's a cheese-laden lasagna or manicotti or a hearty sausage and pepper hero. As Italians know, many of the best dishes start on the tomato vine. Italians were, after all, pioneers, the first people to cultivate tomatoes and use them as they are used today.

Tomatoes probably arrived in Naples in the 16th century when it was under Spanish rule. When discovered by explorers in Peru, they were a small yellow fruit about the size of an egg. Early tomatoes were ribbed and may have separated easily into triangular segments. It took Italians to develop a smooth, red-skinned variety and that not until 1723.

Today, of course, tomatoes flourish in many countries of the world. Even in the United States, seemingly doomed to long winters of anemic, rubbery specimens-raises prime quality when the weather is right and the shipping distance short. The best in Texas come from home gardens for from farmers who sell them at farmers markets and roadside stands.

Texas boasts a network of nearly 100 farmers markets in towns and cities all over the state. Assisted by the Texas Department of Agriculture, these markets are expected to gross $30 million this year for thier 3,500 participating farmers. They are a great place to buy vine-ripened tomatoes in 2 T, olive oil

Wouldn't it be nice if only some of bulk at reasonable prices. Some the juicy ripe tomatoes that weigh farmers also will sell directly to down summer vines could be stored grocery stores. Look there for deeply colored fruit with that umistakable

> For making sauce, Carol Guthrie, TDA home economist, recommends buying tomatoes that are ripe and feel heavy. If you must wait a day or two the tomatoes stem-side down and away from direct sunlight and warm areas of the kitchen.

Tomatoes should be peeled and seeded for a smooth sauce. To peel, blanche whole tomatoes in boiling waters for about 10 seconds. The skins will slip off easily. To seed, halve the blanched tomatoes and squeeze until the seeds fall out. If necessary, remove the remaining seeds with your

Sauce for pasta requires a few basic ingredients in addition to tomatoesolive oil, garlic and onion. "Bell pepper and carrots can also be used," said Guthrie. "Carrots add sweetness that counters the acidity in the tomatoes. They also boost the sauce's nutritional value. Herbs and spices should be added according to taste."

A light tomato sauce will cook in 20 minutes, not including preparation time. For a thicker sauce simmer 45 to 60 minutes. To make tomato paste, continue cooking several hours until the sauce is reduced by half and sticks to the back of a spoon. Paste can be frozen in ice cube trays, emptied into freezer bags and stored until time to

Finished sauces make versatile accompaniments for fish and chicken as well as pasta. They also add flavor to vegetable soup. For a quick but nutritious meal, add broccoli, mushrooms, more garlic and onions to a basic sauce and serve over the pasta of your choice.

FRESH TOMATO SAUCE

I cup chopped onion I minced garlic clove I med. bell pepper, seeded and chopped 6 med. fresh tomatoes, peeled, cored and coarsely chopped 1 1/2 tsp. salt 1/4 tsp. black pepper 1 tsp. dried or 1 1/2 T. chopped fresh

basil 1/2 tsp. dried oregano

2 T. minced fresh parsley

Heat oil in heavy saucepan or Dutch oven. Add onion, garlic and bell pepper. Cook and stir over medium heat just until vegetables are soft but not brown.

Add tomatoes, salt, pepper, dried Grated Parmesan cheese basil and oregano. Cook, stirring occasionally over low to medium heat 50-60 minutes or until sauce is desired thickness.

Taste for seasoning. Stir in parsley. If using fresh basil, add now. Cool. Freeze, if desired. Makes approximately two cups. NOTE: This recipe yields a chunky sauce. Sieve mixture for a smoother sauce. Every ingredient can be halved or doubled to make smaller or larger batches. .

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Everyone in my family loves avocados in salads and main dishes, but I have a problem picking out avocados that are ready to eat right away. Either they are too hard or they ripen overnight and can't be used.

When I'm buying them I check to make sure they are soft. They feel right, but when I peel them I find they are brown and tasteless.

Is there a certain way I can check to make sure the avocados I buy are not too ripe? - Sara Burns, Laredo,

When buying avocados, don't pick the soft ones unless you are going to use them that evening. Avocados to use in a few days should be firm, but not rock-hard.

If the avocados are too hard, you can put them in a brown paper bag and set it in a warm place to help them ripen quickly.

To check for ripeness, stick a toothpick in the fruit at the stem end. The fruit is ripe if the toothpick goes in and out easily. If you have too many ripe avocados, keep them in the refrigerator to prevent them from ripening any

Don't toss the pits in the trash; plant them. They make beautiful indoor plants that are easy to grow. I have some that are touching the ceiling. — Heloise SEND A GREAT HINT TO:

Human progress is possible if we give proper consideration to the past happenings in human behavior. There is no reason for us to continue to make the same mistakes as the people before us. We can learn, and should learn from their mistakes. This is not denying whatever progress may have been made. We know, however, that most progress has been in the field of technology and it is self-evident that progress, in the area of human behavior, has not kept pace.

Progress in technology has been made because we do not insist upon performing the same experiment over and over. In this area, we learn from the past and build upon what has been learned. notion that we must be permitted to make our own mistakes, and so we do, over and over. We seem to be always learning but never coming to a knowledge of the truth.

It was learned a long time ago that "righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."
This has been established as a proven fact. It may be that we do not know this or that. We do not believe it and so we continue experimenting, trying to find something different that will work.
