Stagner earns Bull Chip

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

John Stagner, a co-emcee at the Deaf Smith County chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfasts for five years, was the recipient of the Bull Chip Award at the fun breakfast this morning at the Hereford Community Center.

Stagner joins a list of 58 other recipients of the honor. It was a surprise for Stagner, who serves on the committee that picks the recipient for each fun breakfast. He was under the impression that someone else would receive the award, and a Bull Chip Award without a name engraved on it was on a table for Stagner to see.

He was presented a Bull Chip Award, with his name, by Speedy Nieman.

"Our recipient has been active in chamber activities, Hereford Hustlers and the Hereford Kiwanis Club, and is one of the dedicated volunteers of our community," Nieman said. Stagner is also the immediate past president of the Whiteface Booster Club.

After Nieman told a joke about Stagner, Stagner cut off Nieman's microphone so the crowd didn't hear that Stagner is an avid supporter of the John Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

"I'm honored and surprised," Stagner said after receiving the award. "I've seen that list of past winners, and I'm honored to be on that list."

The breakfast was sponsored by Olney Savings of Hereford. Bill Harris, head of the local office, introduced the local staff and several Olney Savings employees from Amarillo. Olney Savings presented $50 savings bonds to Kay Peck and Joe Walters.

The Hereford Emergency Medical Service was highlighted at the breakfast, with two ambulances available for touring and most of the EMS staff on hand to answer questions.

"The maximum response time is now just four minutes," said Sharon Pennington, chairman of the chamber's Health and Safety Committee and a member of the EMS crew. "Hereford is fortunate to have an excellent hospital, and excellent staff and an excellent ambulance service."

Brad Walser, new chief of the ambulance service, said the EMS currently has five paramedics, two Emergency Medical Technicians-Special Skills and four basic EMTs.

Walser said the ambulance service responds to about 70 calls per month and is able to provide advanced life support skills in all situations.

Chamber president Rocky Lee introduced 21 new members of the chamber, and chamber executive vice president Mike Carr said that 25 new families have recently moved to Hereford. Carr explained the newcomer welcome service recently begun by the chamber and said the newcomers would be given a special reception and tour of Hereford and Deaf Smith County on Oct. 7.

Other announcements included: --Hereford's new bowling center, including 10 lanes, an 18-hole miniature golf course and snack bar should be open by Oct. 1, according to owner Tracy Minson;

--Dr. Trow Mims said the United Way of Deaf Smith County's 1990 campaign is off to a good start, and could surpass its goal of $125,000;

--Joe Don Cummings announced that a duplicate bridge tournament, with up to 1,000 persons from the Southwest on hand, will be held in Hereford the first weekend in October.

--Carr said a seminar on personal selling will be sponsored by the chamber's Retail Merchants committee on Oct. 5 at 7 p.m. at the Community Center;

--The senior class at Hereford High School will host an enchilada supper Friday from 5-7 p.m. at the HHS cafeteria;

--The Xi Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will host a "Texas Trends" style show on Tuesday;

--St. Anthony's School will host a benefit supper for Holly King on Oct. 22 at the school's gym.

Surprise Bull Chip winner

John Stagner, right, was the surprise recipient of the Bull Chip Award at this morning's Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast at the Hereford Community Center. Presenting the award is Speedy Nieman. Stagner, along with Charlie Bell, is a co-emcee of the breakfast and was taken by surprise with the award.

Southeast coast braces for Hurricane Hugo

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) - Hurricane Hugo's leading edge lashed the coast from North Carolina to Florida today as thousands of coastal residents headed inland to avoid the brunt of the killer storm.

With landfall expected as early as tonight, schools were closed, homes and buildings were boarded up and South Carolina's governor declared an emergency.

"All we can do now is watch and wait," Gov. Carroll Campbell said late Wednesday in declaring the emergency. He urged residents to take seriously the storm that has killed at least 25 people in Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

In the hurricane's wake, more than 1,100 U.S. military police were due to arrive in the Virgin Islands today after President Bush ordered them to stop a frenzy of looting.

The troops were to join U.S. marshals, FBI agents and armed Coast Guardsmen already dispatched after police reportedly joined prison escapees and machete-armed mobs in wild looting.

"Everyone in the federal pen there is loose," said Eileen Long, a New York City advertising executive who was among 145 St. Croix tourists who arrived in Miami late Wednesday on a Pan Am evacuation flight arranged by U.S. marshals.

"There are murderers and snipers running around everywhere," she said.

Bush also declared the Virgin Islands a disaster area and freed up $500,000 in federal funds for the relief effort.

Hugo spared the Bahamas and quickly accelerated as it moved over open waters Wednesday.

"An increase in forward speed increases the likelihood that it will strike the coast and not recurve, heading out to sea," said Bob Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center in Florida.

Early today, rain from Hugo fell from North Carolina to Melbourne, Fla., said Bob Ebaugh of the hurricane center.

A hurricane warning was issued from Fernandina Beach, Fla., to Cape Lookout, N.C., and landfall was expected late tonight or early Friday.

Storm-surge flooding of 8 to 12 feet above normal can be expected near where the storm's center crosses the coast.

Hugo posed the highest risk for residents from Savannah, Ga., to Myrtle Beach, S.C. The highest probability was a 30 percent chance that the storm would land at Charleston or Savannah by Sunday, forecasters said.

At 6 a.m. EDT, Hugo's center was 390 miles southeast of Savannah, or at 28.6 degrees north latitude and 75.9 degrees west longitude. It was moving northwest at 17 mph, up from 12 mph Wednesday.

Hugo's wind speed also rose to 110 mph, but forecasters said little further strengthening was likely.

From north Florida to the Carolinas, people stocked up on emergency supplies to board up windows and carry them through several days without electricity and water.

"They're buying me out of all my candles, tape, flashlights, propane fuel, oil and lamps," said Tim Brindley, manager of a K mart store in Mount Pleasant, a Charleston suburb.

The governor requested that shelters be opened today in eight coastal counties. His emergency declaration put the National Guard and state law enforcement agencies on alert and ordered vans to be made available to evacuate elderly residents.

Twenty shelters were opened at schools and municipal buildings in Charleston County, said Bill Miller, public information officer for the Charleston Emergency Preparedness Division, who expected most people would arrive today.

Officials order the evacuation of Kiawah Island, a residential and resort island, by 8 a.m. today. Officials in Beaufort and Dorchester counties and in Myrtle Beach urged residents of coastal and low-lying areas to head for shelters.

On the island of Folly Beach, south of Charleston, some people didn't wait for evacuation orders. "People are making preparations to go ahead and leave on their own," said Police Chief Fred Welch.

Hurricane Hugo is expected to strike in this area, with storm surges much higher than normal along the Atlantic coast from Florida to North Carolina.

Animal rights group says research cruel

WASHINGTON (AP) - Animal rights activists say they hope a formal complaint filed against a Texas Tech University researcher will prompt the National Institutes of Health to investigate and ultimately cancel research grants to the school.

The 15-page complaint filed by People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals alleges more than 15 violations of federal law took place at the Lubbock university's Health Sciences Center.

The group said 16 medical and veterinary experts examined the work of John Orem, whose research focuses on breathing in sleep, and found his experiments, methods and purpose to be scientifically flawed and "unnecessarily cruel."

PETA researcher Mary Beth Sweetland said Orem has no medical or veterinary training, yet "he is drilling holes into a cat's head to secure the head to a restraining device" that holds the animal still for experiments involving breathing.

Sweetland said PETA hopes the complaint will ultimately lead to a revocation of NIH grants for what it calls "cruel experimentation and an unconscionable waste of animal life."

PETA said the experts, who volunteer to conduct such reviews for the organization, criticized Orem, a professor of physiology, for failing to use appropriate anesthesia in painful procedures.

Kenneth L. Barker, vice-president for research at the Health Sciences Center, said the school has received no notice from NIH about the complaint and has no response.

But Barker said animal research at the Lubbock university follows guidelines set by appropriate regulatory agencies.

In the complaint, James Riopelle, M.D., singled out Orem's use of steel sutures in cats' eyelids.

Wrote Riopelle: "Certainly if any of the wires protruded to the inside and rubbed the animals' eyes, the pain of each blink would have been excruciating ... the animal sensing the scraping of steel against his eyeball."

Other categories of violations outlined in the PETA complain include allegations of inadequate veterinary care, unqualified personnel performing invasive procedures, Orem's failure to establish scientific merit, the use of unsuitable restraint devices and restraint periods of excessive duration.

15 dead in bus wreck

ALTON, Texas (AP) - At least 15 people were killed and 49 injured this morning after a Mission school bus was hit from behind by a Coca-Cola delivery truck and plunged into a caliche pit, authorities said.

The death toll had reached 15 by 9:30 a.m., said David Wells of the Texas Department of Public Safety in Austin.

The bus was "mostly submerged," said Mike Cox, a DPS spokesman, and two justices of the peace were summoned. When rescuers arrived at the scene, only the tip of the rear end of the bus was above water. An industrial crane was being used to lift the bus out of the pit, and four McAllen Fire Department divers were searching the pit.

The bus was headed to Mission High School and was filled with students when the accident was reported at 7:40 a.m. The bus was carrying students in ninth grade and above.

The accident occurred on a Hidalgo County road at the northeast edge of Alton. Weather was clear and roads were dry, the Hidalgo County Sheriff's Office said.

At Mission Hospital, 29 people were listed in stable condition, said Nora Martinez, a nursing supervisor. Seven were listed in good condition at HCA Rio Grande Regional Medical Center, said spokeswoman Betty Baldwin. Thirteen were taken to McAllen Medical Center, spokeswoman Judy Gomez said.

"We're going crazy here," said Mission firefighter Ruben Ortiz, who added that ambulances were sent to an information center set up for parents.

Ortiz said the parents "are very hysterical. They have really lost control, some of them."

"It's really sad if all these kids came out of the Alton area. It's going to affect a lot of people," said Hidalgo County Sheriff's Deputy Rene Torres.

Alton, with a population of 3,726, is a part of the Mission Consolidated Independent School District.

According to Mike Herrera of Alton, who was following the bus and a Coca-Cola delivery truck, the truck struck the bus from behind, knocking it into the gravel pit. Herrera said he jumped into the water and helped rescue three students.

The driver of the Coca-Cola truck remained at the scene, his truck pulled to the side of the road. It was not immediately known whether he was injured.

The truck was from the Valley Coca Cola bottling plant in McAllen, said Jean-Michel Bock, spokesman for the plant's parent company, Coca Cola Enterprises Inc. in Atlanta.

Bock said he did not know the identity of the truck driver.

The bus driver was unaccounted for, according to a reporter at the scene.

Ten ambulances, six fire departments and four boats were helping in the rescue, said Capt. Rene Lopez Jr. He said the pit is 20 feet to 25 feet deep. Authorities could not immediately say how deep the water was.

Mission police said the ambulances had been dispatched from surrounding counties as far away as Starr County. The town is about four miles north of Mission and 20 miles north of the U.S.-Mexico border.

Mission Police dispatcher George Anzaldua said a woman saw the bus plunge into the pit.

"All (she) told me is the bus was going into the caliche pit and (she) was really scared," Anzaldua said.

Greenawalt: programs to be watched

HISD Supt. Charles Greenawalt discussed the school budget and the necessity of a tax increase when he addressed the Hereford Lions Club Wednesday in the Community Center.

With the estimated reserve balance falling dramatically in the projections for the next three years, Greenawalt said the school will be "looking this fall at all programs and personnel to find places to cut the budget."

The school recently adopted a budget which necessitated an increase in property taxes from 74.44 cents per $100 valuation to 78.5 cents. This is still a low tax rate compared to other schools in the area, said Greenawalt.

"...We're looking this fall at all programs and personnel," --Supt. Charles Greenawalt

He urged all concerned taxpayers to contact their elected state officials about school financing. He said the issue is sure to come up in the next session of the legislature. He noted the Texas Association of School Boards has passed a resolution calling on the state to fund programs which they mandate, rather than leaving it the local district to come up with funds.

In other highlights of the Lions Club meeting Wednesday, President Mark Andrews announced that Daniel Limas was honored as "Lion of the Month" for August. The club also approved a contribution of $2,500 to the United Way of Deaf Smith County campaign.

Andrews announced the club was planning a big garage sale Oct. 7. It will be held at the old Phillips 66 station on the corner of Park Avenue and US-385.

Satanism suspected in deaths

LUBBOCK (AP) - Eve Coleman says she tried to warn Jessie and Josie Medlin that their "tortured and disturbed" daughter was plotting their murders, but the warnings were not enough.

The Medlins were found fatally shot in their home Wednesday by police detectives who went to the couple's home to tell them of their daughter's death.

Rebecca Medlin, 18, and her 16-year-old boyfriend, Eric Freeman, had been found shot to death in an apparent murder-suicide.

Police said it appeared that Freeman, Mrs. Coleman's son, shot the Medlins Tuesday with the girl's help, then drove to a city motel and killed Rebecca and himself.

Satanism may have played a role in the killing, police and Mrs. Coleman said.

"Is there a question of satanic worship with one or both of these people? Yes, there is that possibility," Police Chief Tom Nichols told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Mrs. Coleman said Miss Medlin was involved in Satanism for some time and lured her son into the occult. She also said Miss Medlin plotted the killings.

"She had written very explicit, brutal letters detailing this murder and their suicides," Mrs. Coleman said. "She was a very tortured and disturbed girl. It wasn't (Eric's) idea."

"He (Eric) called me Saturday and asked me to warn them (the Medlins) about it. I called the police about these and asked them to do something about it before the Medlins wound up dead," she said. "They just said, 'All we can do is file a report.'"

"I probably called them (Medlins) six or seven times during the last week. The last time was on Monday night and Mrs. Medlin said she had talked to Becky and felt everything was OK. Becky denied the letters and everything about it," Mrs. Coleman said.

Share house if lonely

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Jack and Ann O'Connell feel much more secure in their home, and Janice Collins can afford a car while she saves for a home of her own because she shares the O'Connells' big, comfortable house.

"It's not a hardship, it's a convenience," said O'Connell, 77. "You can leave your cats and go on a trip and Jan will take care of them."

"Besides, in this neighborhood, if you leave a house empty it'll be really empty when you come back."

It's an irony of modern life that people who spent decades paying for a house are finding it's too much to handle after the kids are gone. Others spend huge chunks of their incomes for a nice place, or pay less and live in a dump.

Community groups around the country have an answer: shared housing programs involving individuals or groups. There were 50 programs in the United States in 1981; now there are more than 400 in 42 states, according to the Shared Housing Resource Center, an 8-year-old Philadelphia-based umbrella organization.

It's an idea whose time has gone and come back. Americans rented rooms through the beginning of this century, before housing programs, zoning laws and the postwar building boom brought a decline in the practice.

The first "match-up" program for individuals in the United States was Project Homeshare, started in 1953 in Hartford, Conn. The oldest American group shared residence is Share-a-Home, founded in 1969 in Winter Park, Fla.

Anyone can hang a "For Rent" sign in the window, but those who use match-up programs want them to screen applicants and keep tabs on the situation.

Philadelphia Match, a non-profit homesharing service, screens tenants and landlords. "It's not for everyone," said Susan Levin, director of the group's Delaware Valley Division. The agency makes it clear it doesn't want people who can't pay or work for their rent. Other ineligible are those needing extensive care, people who require supervision or medication, non-recovered alcoholics or substance abusers and those in need of emergency shelter.

Renters and homeowners both pay a $5 application fee and $25 matching fee. Commercial "finders" who locate apartments for people often charge much more. Philadelphia Match recommends a two-week trial before the parties negotiate and sign a lease. Rent can be cash or a combination of cash and services.

Even less traditional are group households where an average of eight people share a home owned by a community organization.

Philadelphia Match opened St. George's Manor on April 17. The 103-year-old remodeled church rectory offers six bedrooms and a shared kitchen, living room and bathroom space. Residents must be at least 62 years old or disabled and have an annual income under $12,800.

Government-subsidized rent is 30 percent of each resident's income. The Shared Housing Resource Center estimates the average cost per unit in a group residence is $6,250, a bargain compared to other forms of housing.

A 1984 survey found the mean age of owners was 68, and half were paying more than 40 percent of their incomes for housing. The mean age of renters was 50, and many were middle-class and between jobs or at the end of a marriage.

For homeowners, the biggest advantage was financial, closely followed by companionship. Saving money was the attraction for two-thirds of the renters.

In group households, financial advantage was a relatively minor factor. Nearly two-thirds said "having somebody around" in the event of an emergency of to help with chores was what they liked best, and 20 percent saw their main advantage as safety in numbers.

Among the disadvantages, household management issues led the downside for landlords and tenants. These included rules on setting the thermostat, keeping the kitchen clean and not making noise at odd hours.

In group homes, personality clashes were the major disadvantage. Complaints included arguments, too much talking, criticism, etc. Loss of privacy was less of a problem; in fact, 45 percent reported no loss of privacy at all.

"You can shut your door with non-relatives," said one agency client. "They don't need to know where you are going. They don't get so involved in your affairs."

Maggie Kuhn, founder of the Grey Panthers, has been sharing her house for years. She says it creates a "family of choice."

"I have never regretted it. Shared housing makes loneliness obsolescent."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going with a 29-year-old girl (I'll call her "Lorraine") for five years. She is highly intelligent (computer science expert) and has managed her life well, even though she is high-strung and emotional at times.

Eleven months ago Lorraine told me she was pregnant. She always wanted a child and was thrilled. I wasn't happy about it, but I accepted the fact and suggested that we get married. She said, "It's not important to me. I'd rather wait."

Three months ago Lorraine told me that she was due in three weeks. The time came and went, and no baby. She had gained 27 pounds and had been wearing maternity dresses for nearly six months. When I asked, "What does the doctor say?" she told me that she had not been to a doctor. I was shocked.

According to Lorraine, birth is not an illness, but rather the most natural occurrence known to mankind. She has lined up a competent midwife and insists that this is all she needs.

I am worried sick, Ann. Lorraine's pregnancy will soon be going into the 12th month. She says she's certain that everything is all right because she feels the baby moving around and that the delay is due to a miscalculation of dates.

Please tell me what you think, Ann. -- Worried in Provo

DEAR PROVO: I think Lorraine's pregnancy is all in her head. The scientific term for this condition is pseudocyesis. It occurs in women who want desperately to become pregnant or when they are terrified of pregnancy.

False pregnancy can sometimes be missed because these women exhibit many physical symptoms of an actual pregnancy. They have morning sickness, gain weight and some even experience what they are sure are labor pains.

I hope Lorraine will see an obstetrician at once for a physical examination. When she learns that she is not pregnant (and never was) the poor woman will probably need counseling. See that she gets it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm writing this letter in the hope that it can help other girls between 15 and 17.

When I was 16, I got married. I had a baby two weeks before my 18th birthday. I've been married six years and now I have three kids that I love very much but I am no longer in love with my husband. He is not the man I want to spend the rest of my life with.

I'm trapped in a sour marriage and carrying around a lot of guilt for what I did to my parents. They begged me not to get married and tie myself down before I had a chance to live.

I've had very little happiness.

My message to young women everywhere is this: There is nothing wonderful about getting married at 16. If you think it is hard at home, let me tell you it will be a lot harder when you have a place of your own. I'd give anything if I could turn back the clock and do it all over again.

Most teen-agers think their parents don't know anything. I now realize how right mine were and what a fool I was for not listening. No name, please, just--Trapped in Ohio

DEAR TRAPPED: You didn't ask for advice so I won't give any, but I do want to thank you for being so honest. This is not the first time I've heard your story and unfortunately it won't be the last. Please, young readers, listen to what Trapped is saying.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one you can talk to? Ann Landers' booklet "Sex and the Teenager" is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teen, c/o Ann Landers, P. O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. Getting along requires work from both sides Relationships within today's four-generation families can be difficult. Adjustments in traditional roles and lifestyles make compromise necessary.

To ease the traditionally strained relationship with in-laws, communication and cooperation are both necessary, said Dorothy Taylor, a family life specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Changes in the modern family have reduced some of friction of 30 years ago. Couples today are less likely to live near their in-laws, women today are less dependent on their parents for emotional and financial support and negative stereotypes about in-laws, particularly the mother-in-law, are fading.

Today's mothers-in-law also are different. Many are young, attractive, busy and prefer to be called by their first name.

"Other changes in family life may add to problems with in-laws," Taylor said. "About half of today's marriages end in divorce and when children are involved, in-laws often have problems seeing grandchildren who are in the custody of the former daughter- or son-in-law."

"One of the best ways to solve problems with in-laws is to prevent them," Taylor said.

"If possible, get to know your future in-laws before you marry," she said. "Learn as much about them as possible and establish a friendly and warm relationship from the beginning and work to keep it."

During your first few visits with in-laws, try to avoid making absolute statements such as "I'll never..." or "I'll always..." These can come back to haunt you later, Taylor said.

"As with any relationship, honest and open communication about likes, dislikes and preferences will help prevent problems," said the Extension specialist.

Communication about holiday plans and special events is critical. Many couples compromise by alternating Christmas with one family and Thanksgiving with another, then rotating the next year.

As families divide and divorced children re-marry, parents may end up with several sets of grandchildren... and some children have several sets of grandparents.

Communication and understanding by all parties are the key to making family relationships work, especially with today's busy and complicated families, Taylor said.

Class supper Friday

The Senior Class Supper is planned from 5-7 p.m. Friday in the Hereford High School cafeteria.

Cost of the enchilada meal is $4 for adults and $3.50 for children. Tickets may be purchased at the door, from senior students or at either Hereford State Bank or First National Bank.

Chili supper scheduled

Plans are being made for the annual chili supper Oct. 14 at the Odd Fellow Hall by the Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228.

A repeat bake sale is scheduled for Oct. 7 at Thriftway.

Erma Loving served as hostess at the meeting Tuesday with 18 members present. Vice-grand Rosalie Northcutt presided at the regular business session.

Fifty-eight visits to the sick, 57 cheer cards, 41 dishes of food and seven flowers were reported for the past two weeks.

Those present were Northcutt, Loving, Jo Irlbeck, Tony Irlbeck, Jim Loving, Leona Sowell, Irene Merritt, Susie Curtsinger, Lydia Hopson, Verna Sowell, Peggy Lemons, Marie Harris, Faye Brownlow, Shirley Brown, Ada Hollabough, Anna Conklin, Ben Conklin and Gene Bishop.

Cooking fish can be easy

Cooking fresh or frozen fish should be a no more difficult than grilling a hamburger. Just remember the 10-minute-an-inch rule, says Texas Department of Agriculture home economist Carol Guthrie. That is, cook the fish 10 minutes for every inch of thickness, measure the thickest part of the fish.

To keep fat at a minimum, try these methods of preparation.

Poaching -- It requires no added fat, guaranteeing a low-fat finished product. If you can boil water, you can poach fish. Estimate the amount of skim milk, water or wine needed to cover a single layer of fish in a saucepan or frying pan. Add chopped carrots, celery, onions and peppercorns to the liquid, cover and simmer 10 minutes. Add fish and simmer until done.

Sauteing -- Heat a small amount of polyunsaturated oil in a frying pan with white wine or other liquid. Add chopped mushrooms, green onions, lemon juice and seafood. Saute over medium-high heat until done.

Broiling -- Brush seafood lightly with lemon juice and monounsaturated oil such as olive oil or polyunsaturated oil such as corn oil. Season with herbs and spices of your choice. Broil four or five inches from the heat until done.

Microwaving -- Fish adapts well to the microwave oven. Place it in a microwavable bag or non-metallic dish and cover with plastic wrap. Cook approximately three minutes per pound. If cooking fillets, turn under thin portions to ensure even thickness and cooking results.

In China, the color of the bride's wedding gown is red.

Herd plans 'new look' for 1-4A opener Friday

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces will be looking to get a leg up in the District 1-4A race Friday when they take on the Estacado Matadors at 7:30 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

"Practice has been real good this week," Coach Don Cumpston said. "There's been a lot of spirit and a lot of hard work. We're just thankful we have a chance to play again this week and redeem ourselves."

The redemption would be for the Herd's 34-7 loss to the Palo Duro Dons.

Meanwhile, the Matadors last week atoned for a season-opening loss to Plainview by dropping Big Spring, 20-14.

In other District 1-4A play, Dunbar hosts Frenship tonight while Friday action includes Borger at Levelland and Dumas at Pampa. Randall opens the district season with an open date.

Cumpston indicated the Herd will make some changes in personnel and strategy for the contest.

"We'll do some new things," he said. "We've had two games and two scrimmages and we've had a chance to evaluate where we're at."

"We think we've established what we do best offensively. Hopefully, we can take that strength and use it and make Estacado stop us. We'll have some things ready to go."

"Defensively, we've got to contain and we've got to tackle better. I thought that was a glaring weakness the other day against Palo Duro. Our tackling wasn't as good as it's got to be. And we've spent some time working on that this week.

"I'm going to wait until after practice (Wednesday) to see who our starting lineup is going to be," Cumpston said of the player changes. "I probably won't even tell the kids until Thursday. We'll have some changes, but who and at what positions -- I need to watch them practice one more day."

Cumpston said one area that has stood out for the Whitefaces was the play of special teams.

"I was real happy with our kicking game Saturday," he said. "Chris Tardy averaged over 36 yards a punt, we covered punts and kicks well and I thought our kickoff return team got us pretty good field position every time. I thought that was one of our pluses in the game."

As for Estacado, Cumpston said he expects nothing new from Coach Louis Kelley.

"They're not any different than they are every year," he said. "It's a very typical Estacado team. They're not real fancy offensively or defensively. They're extremely quick both ways. They've got good speed and they're very talented."

"We're playing, probably if not the best team in the district, then close to it," he added.

The Matador attack will feature the Johnsons -- tailbacks Robert M. and Robert J., wing back Natrcion, tight end Terry and possibly quarterback Jamie. Jamie Johnson was slated to start the season, but a broken hand during pre-season forced Kelley to start Calvin Thomas as the first two weeks.

Robert J. Johnson and fullback Patrick Williams have each totaled 206 yards rushing over two games. Thomas has connected on just over half his passes (5 for 11) for 133 yards on the season.

Cumpston said Hereford must avoid the mistakes made against Palo Duro in order to stay with the Mats.

"We've got to be consistent. I think the key to the game for us is not giving up any big plays. They thrive on that. They kind of live and die by the big play. If we can contain and not give them any big plays we have a good chance to beat them."

Cumpston added that Estacado will more closely resemble the Herd in terms of personnel than the Dons.

"They're not near as experienced as Palo Duro is," he said "as far as veteran players that have been there. They're very similar to us in that they have only 14 letterman back from last year."

"Probably, overall, they don't have the team speed that Palo Duro had. They've got two or three that can fly but overall their team speed is not as good. And they're probably not as big or strong overall either. Now, they are in a place or two, but not the whole team."

Stepping out

Herd tailback Tate Smith (44) heads outside with an escort from Aaron Savage (72) during last week's game with Palo Duro. The Whitefaces open District 1-4A action at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Whiteface Stadium when Estacado comes to town.

NCNB trying to unload 12 percent of Cowboys

HOUSTON (AP) - A federal banking regulator is concerned about the performance of a troubled Texas entity - the Dallas Cowboys.

William Seidman, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., told a congressional committee he is concerned about the fed's roughly $7 million share in the team.

"We're very disappointed in the recent performance by the Cowboys," Seidman said.

The FDIC, through NCNB Texas, owns 12 percent interest in the Cowboys, which is 0-2 after losing to Atlanta 27-21 Sunday.

"I'd be happy to go down there and help coaching if I could get out of this job," Seidman joked to the financial institutions subcommittee of the House Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee Tuesday.

The FDIC obtained an interest in the Cowboys last year when First RepublicBank Corp. of Dallas failed. The bank had taken control of the shares when three Cowboys limited partners defaulted on loans secured by the shares.

NCNB Corp. of Charlotte, N.C., later took over the bank with $3 billion in FDIC assistance. NCNB is managing the stake in the Cowboys, but the FDIC has agreed to take the risk on collecting on many of the bank's bad assets.

"Anything we have in the special asset division is for sale," said NCNB Texas spokesman Joe Bowles. "We have talked to a number of interested parties."

Arkansas oilman Jerry Jones led a partnership that paid an estimated $140 million to buy controlling interest in the team and related real estate from H.R. "Bum" Bright, whose financial empire was hard hit by the failures of First RepublicBank and his savings and loan, Bright Banc.

Based on Jones' price for the organization, observers estimate the FDIC's interest in the Cowboys is worth about $7 million.

Cowboys' 'Kitchen' goes looking for food

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Cowboys lineman Nate "The Kitchen" Newton has declared: "I need 20,000 pounds of food."

But the food is not for the huge offensive guard, who weighs 318 pounds and was fined several times during training camp for being overweight.

Newton has agreed to serve a local spokesman for a World Hunger Day food drive on Oct. 15 and is asking Cowboys fans to bring donations to Texas Stadium.

Newton told the Dallas Times Herald that he grew up in family where food was in short supply on some occasions.

Food collected during the drive will be given to the North Texas Food Bank and a similar agency in Tarrant County.

Only one catcher in major-league history ever threw out three would-be base-stealers in one inning. Les Nunamaker of the Yankees did it in 1914.

Whiteface tennis team manhandles Longhorns

The Hereford Whiteface tennis team upped its season record to 3-1 Tuesday with a 18-0 manhandling of the Caprock Longhorns in a non-district match in Amarillo.

The Herd thoroughly dominated the match, dropping only one set on the day which was decided in a tiebreaker.

In singles matches not counted in the standings, Eric Cortez and Jason Paetzold each won in straight sets.

"We're improving," Coach Luis Zavala said of the netters. "Everybody's getting a lot of playing time and that's what we need at this time."

"The boys are much better than their first match and the girls are as strong as anyone we'll face."

The Herd returns to District 1-4A action Saturday when they travel to Dumas for a 1 p.m. match.

Harris picking Whitefaces by seven points over Estacado

The Hereford Whitefaces have been rated a seven-point favorite in their District 1-4A opener with the Estacado Matadors, according to the Harris Rating System.

The Herd, 1-1, is coming off a 34-7 loss at the hands of the Palo Duro Dons, but lost only one point off its power rating to 176 and actually gained two spots in the state Class 4A rankings to No. 22 to remain the highest rated district team.

The Matadors evened their record at 1-1 with a 20-14 win over Big Spring last week. The victory added a point to the Mats power rating to 172 and boosted their five spots to No. 44 in the state.

Other district match-ups with Harris picks are:

Pampa at Dumas: The Harvesters, 1-1, gained two spots in the rankings but lost a point on their power rating (No. 29, 174) after losing to Amarillo High, 20-16, on Friday.

The Demons, 0-1-1, stayed near the bottom of the state ranks but did add two points to their power rating, (No. 143, 141) after tying Perryton, 13-13.

Pampa is listed as a 28-point favorite for the game.

Borger at Levelland: The Lobos and Bulldogs were rated even last week at Nos. 77 and 78 with power ratings of 164. But Borger's 23-20 loss to Tascosa dropped them six places to No. 84 with the same rating while Levelland edged a weak Snyder team, 14-13, and fell to No. 91 in the state with a rating of 162.

Borger is picked by a point. Frenship at Dunbar: The Panthers play their third Thursday game in a row when they host the Tigers at Lowery Field.

Last week Dunbar dropped its second close game to a Lubbock 5A opponent, losing 10-7 to Monterey to go 0-2. The loss raised the Panthers four spots to No. 81 and upped the power rating two points to 165.

Frenship was blanked by Coronado, 20-0, and fell from Np. 79 with a 164 rating to No. 92 and 162.

Dunbar is listed as a six-point favorite.

Randall: The Raiders take the first week of district play off after dumping Caprock, 12-7, to give the two-year-old school its only winning streak at 2 games.

The Raiders held steady after the win at No. 88 with a 163 power rating.

Power run

Whiteface fullback Greg Urbanczyk cuts upfield during the Herd's game against the Palo Duro Dons on Saturday. The Herd returns to action at 7:30 p.m. Friday when it hosts the Estacado Matadors in the District 1-4A opener for both teams.

Player sells T-shirts on Mustang revival

DALLAS (AP) - Some wags might joke that Southern Methodist players aren't hauling in the greenbacks the way they once did now that the NCAA has cleaned house, but one Mustang player is raking in the dough from football this year.

SMU reserve safety Malcolm Borlenghi has designed and mass-produced a $20 T-shirt that is catching on around campus.

The front of the shirt shows a Mustang rising from a grave with the tombstone marked Peruna, the name of the school's mascot pony. On the back, it reads: "Alive & Kickin'."

"Nothing was happening at SMU, and I had the idea in my mind for a long time," said Borlenghi, who is a sophomore economics major. "I know if I produced it, it could sell in Dallas because SMU would get a lot of support for football."

Borlenghi, who is not on scholarship, has sold more than 70 of the shirts at $20 apiece, he told The Dallas Morning News.

According to the newspaper, Borlenghi will not run afoul of NCAA regulations because the shirt does not promote himself as a player and his name or image does not appear on it. He can make a profit off sales during the academic year, but the profit cannot exceed the cost of an SMU scholarship. He also must report his profits to the school, which is monitoring his earnings.

Football fever went up a notch last Saturday when the Mustangs defeated Connecticut 31-30 on a last-second touchdown at Ownby Stadium. The victory was the school's first since 1986 when SMU was hit with the NCAA "death penalty" in retaliation for a slush fund scandal. The school did not field a team in 1987 or 1988.

Borlenghi, who grew up in Los Angeles and went to Beverly Hills High School, said he will use money from shirt sales for spending money and to buy an engagement ring for his fiancee who lives in California.

Part of the proceeds from the sale go to SMU, which has officially licensed the shirt.

Borlenghi originally was thinking small, believing he might be able to sell a few to his teammates. But other students saw the design created by a friend in Los Angeles and asked where they could buy one.

"It's one of the best sellers in the sports shop," said SMU marketing director Bryan Drake. "It's really classy and very popular."

Borlenghi, 6-3 and 195 pounds, has been seeing action on third-and-long situations as a fifth defensive back.

"The thing about Malcolm is he knows he doesn't have great speed, but he understands the game," said defensive backs coach John Tenuta. "It's his understanding of the game that helps him."

That goes for T-shirts as well as T-formations.

Lloyd is first banned player to rejoin team

HOUSTON (AP) - Former Houston Rockets Lewis Lloyd could become the first banned player in the NBA to rejoin his team after a battle with drugs.

"I guess I'll go down in history, I know that," said Lloyd who has been banned from the sport for two years. "It feels good to be the first guy to come back."

"It lets a lot of people know, and a lot of young kids know, if you do mess up in life, or make a mistake in life, you can always have that second chance if you get your life together," he said.

Lloyd agreed Wednesday to a one-year, $350,000 contract with the Houston Rockets for the coming season.

"We've reached an agreement in principle on a one-year contract with an option year," said Rockets general manager Steve Patterson.

"We hope to get it formalized and in the right form by tomorrow and try to get it signed as soon thereafter as we can."

Lloyd was banned from NBA play on Jan. 13, 1987, for violating the league's substance abuse policy. Since then, he has been working at the John Lucas drug recovery center in Houston.

Flourescent yellow ball tested

ARLINGTON (AP) - Reviews have been glowing for a fluorescent yellow football making its Texas debut in a high school game this week.

"It feels good and I like throwing it," Sam Houston High School quarterback Lawrence Luster said. "If everybody can see it better, that's fine."

Luster's team will use the ball in their game with Paschal High School Friday night.

The football is designed by Charles O. Finley, the former owner of the Kansas City A's and Oakland A's. Finley said the ball was created so fans will be able to see the ball under the dim lights of high school stadiums.

The ball is regulation in size and shape, but instead of two traditional white stripes around each end, there are eight half-inch wide yellow stripes parallel to the ball's four seams.

"Ninety percent of football games are high school, and the lighting is very inadequate," Finley said Tuesday. "And the college and pro games are hard to watch on TV, even in the daylight. These balls are for the benefit of the spectators. They can enjoy the game much better."

Finley, 71, has pushed for the designated hitter rule, night games in the World Series, more colorful uniforms and orange baseballs.

"It looks like a yellow ball of fire coming at you," Paschal coach Jimmie Walker said. "We got eight of those yellow bananas on Saturday."

The ball was first tested two weeks ago during a high school game in Finley's hometown of LaPorte, Ind. Last week, St. Francis College hosted St. Joseph College in Joliet, Ill., and the schools used the ball. It violates the NCAA rules, which high schools also use, and a waiver has to be granted for each game.

"I have no problem with the ball - if it helps the game, I'm all for it," Walker said. "But I don't know if we can play with a beach ball ourselves."

But he said he doesn't know what they're going to do with the novel balls after the game.

"Maybe we can take this stuff off," Walker said.

Giants rally to top Dodgers, 8-7

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

You really have to hand it to the San Francisco Giants, which is just what the Los Angeles Dodgers did.

"It's a crime to lose that one," Manager Tommy Lasorda said after watching his Dodgers blow a 7-0 lead en route to a stunning 8-7 loss to the National League West leaders Wednesday night.

this year, and we've just seen another one," said San Francisco manager Roger Craig, whose Giants reduced their magic number for winning the NL West to six.

The second-place San Diego Padres remained five games behind despite a 3-1, 10-inning victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Meanwhile, in the National League East, the St. Louis Cardinals made up ground on the front-running Chicago Cubs with a 5-3 win over the New York Mets. The Cardinals moved within three games of the Cubs, 9-8 losers to Philadelphia.

In other NL games, Pittsburgh beat Montreal 9-1 and Houston edged Atlanta 7-6 in 14 innings. Kevin Mitchell opened the Giants' ninth-inning barrage with a home run, his 46th, off Dodgers relief ace Jay Howell. Ernest Riles singled and scored on Matt Williams' double to cut the lead to 7-5. Terry Kennedy singled to score Williams, chasing Howell and bringing in Mike Hartley.

Pinch-hitter Chris Speier doubled, moving pinch-runner Mike Benjamin to third, and pinch-hitter Greg Litton singled to score the tying run and finish Hartley. Left-hander John Tudor came on to face Butler, who singled to cap the rally.

Hartley, 0-1, took the loss while Trevor Wilson, 2-3, earned the victory as the last of three Giants relievers who held the Dodgers hitless over the final 6 2-3 innings.

Padres 3, Reds 1

Jack Clark scored the winning run on third baseman Luis Quinones' throwing error in the 10th inning.

Clark walked with one out in the 10th and moved to third on a single by Chris James off reliever Norm Charlton, 6-3. Quinones then fielded a sharply hit grounder by Benito Santiago and threw wide of home. The error scored Clark and sent James to third, from where he scored on pinch-hitter Carmelo Martinez's grounder.

Greg Harris, 7-8, allowed one hit in the ninth and got the victory, and Mark Davis pitched the 10th for his 41st save.

Phillies 9, Cubs 8

Von Hayes drove in four runs and Ricky Jordan's run-scoring single broke a sixth-inning tie.

Don Carman, 5-15, pitched 2 2-3 scoreless innings for the victory. Todd Frohworth pitched two-plus innings and Roger McDowell got the last three outs for his 19th save. Les Lancaster, 3-2, was the loser.

Cardinals 5, Mets 3

John Morris and Milt Thompson drove in two runs apiece as St. Louis made an early five-run lead stand up for a victory.

The Cardinals scored three runs in the first and two in the second off David Cone, 13-8, to stretch their winning streak to four games.

Frank DiPino, 8-0, worked three scoreless innings in relief of ineffective St. Louis starter Ken Hill to get the victory. Ken Dayley, the fourth Cardinals reliever, got the last two outs for his 12th save.

Pirates 9, Expos 1
Bobby Bonilla's three-run homer highlighted a five-run first inning.

Kevin Gross, 11-12, gave up four runs before he retired a batter in the first. Neal Heaton, 5-7, struck out five of the first nine batters he faced and allowed four hits in six innings.

Astros 7, Braves 6
Alex Trevino led off the 14th inning with a home run.

Trevino, who had struck out his previous two times up, connected on a 1-2 pitch from Joe Boever, 4-11, the Braves' sixth pitcher.

Kevin Bass also had a grand slam for the Astros.

Larry Andersen, 4-4, the Astros' seventh pitcher, got credit for the victory.

Orioles finally gain game on Jays

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Finally, the Baltimore Orioles made up a full game on the Toronto Blue Jays. It only took a full month.

For the first time since Aug. 20, the Orioles won on the same day that Toronto lost. Baltimore routed Detroit 9-2 while Boston beat the first-place Blue Jays 10-3 Wednesday night, pulling the Orioles to within one game in the American League East.

"We finally gained a game. That's what we need," Baltimore manager Frank Robinson said. "There's no sense going around jumping up and down. We're still a game behind."

Toronto had lost seven times in the last month, but Baltimore also lost on four of those days and was idle on the other three.

"We just have to forget tonight and worry about Milwaukee on Friday," Toronto's Ernie Whitt said.

In other games, Oakland downed Cleveland 8-6, California beat Minnesota 9-1, Chicago topped Kansas City 7-2 and Texas defeated Seattle 3-2. The Milwaukee-at-New York doubleheader was rained out.

Jeff Ballard, 18-7, won for the seventh time in eight decisions. The Orioles supported him with 17 hits, tying as season high. Mickey Tettleton contributed his 25th home run and four RBIs.

Red Sox 10, Blue Jays 3

Dwight Evans homered and drove in three runs and Wade Boggs snapped a 2-for-29 slump with a pair of RBI singles.

Roger Clemens, 16-10, gave up three runs on nine hits in eight innings. Jimmy Key, 12-14, allowed six runs on 10 hits in three-plus innings.

Boston hit a triple, two doubles and a single in taking a 3-0 lead in the second inning.

Athletics 8, Indians 6

Rickey Henderson led off with a home run for the 40th time and Tony Phillips hit a bases-loaded triple during a five-run rally in the sixth inning.

Storm Davis, 18-7, won for the ninth time in 11 starts.

Greg Swindell, 13-6, gave up five runs in 5 1-3 innings.

Henderson stole four bases and scored three runs. He came home on the first of two sacrifice flies by Jose Canseco for a 3-all tie in the sixth and Phillips tripled off Jeff Kaiser.

Angels 9, Twins 1

Jim Abbott scattered nine hits and Tony Armas' RBI single broke a seventh-inning tie.

Abbott, 12-11, struck out six and walked two in his fourth complete game, which came one day after his 22nd birthday.

The Angels scored four times in the seventh inning for a 5-1 lead, added two runs in the eighth, and Wally Joyner hit a two-run homer in the ninth. Mark Guthrie, 2-2, took the loss.

White Sox 7, Royals 2

At Royals Stadium, Ivan Calderon and Ozzie Guillen each hit two-run singles during a six-run second inning as Chicago chased Mark Gubicza.

Melido Perez, 11-13, gave up six hits and struck out nine.

Rangers 3, Mariners 2

Ruben Sierra broke a seventh-inning tie with a sacrifice fly, increasing his league-leading RBI total to 113.

Mike Jeffcoat, 9-5, got his fourth consecutive victory and Jeff Russell got his 36th save.

Keith Comstock, 1-2, took the loss. His two-base wild pitch enabled the tying run to score in the seventh and Sierra followed with his go-ahead fly ball.

Jeffrey Leonard hit his career-high 24th home run.

Abundant Life

Something To Give
BY BOB WEAR

We have something to give, even though we may not have much material wealth, or money. There are so many things that are useful, and things which are available for our giving; if we are truly in tune with life. It has been learned and is generally accepted, that there is a real sense in which 'giving is living'. With this, it is admitted that there is a sense in which we must be selfish, to the extent that we take care of ourselves and our primary obligations. This must be done before we can move beyond the self, and be equipped to give. With this essential balance established and maintained, we are ready to broaden and enrich our lives with our justified generosity.

Generosity is not so much in how much we have, but in how well we do with what we have. In most of the truly important areas of giving, helpful giving, there is not as much disparity in our potential as there seems to be. Giving must involve more than money and material things.

We can give in the sense of helping feed the hungry, clothe the needy, ect. This kind of giving is not all of giving. We have some time to give, time to be used for doing helpful things. We have abilities, usually more than we think, that can be used for good. If we view life with a generous eye, we will find many opportunities.

"The best thing to give to your enemy is forgiveness; to an opponent, tolerance; to a friend, your heart; to a child, a good example; to a father, deference; to your mother, conduct that will make her proud of you; to yourself, respect; to all people, charity."—Balfour

We must not withhold, when it is within our power to give. To do so can lead to stagnation of life, and this is not what we desire for ourselves.

Sensible giving is living, in the very best sense of living.

Chocolate revel bars

Bar cookies are not only delicious, they're also easy to bake and serve. The top and bottom layers are made with a mixture of oatmeal and brown sugar; the middle layer is made with chocolate and nuts. (Photo: Better Homes and Gardens magazine)

Gruyere is a variation of Swiss cheese with a slightly sweeter flavor due to natural flavoring enzymes. No coloring or bleached milk is used, as may be the case with some Swiss cheeses.

Bar cookie becomes a favorite

Our test kitchen home economists are crazy about this rich, chocolate bar recipe. We first tested it 15 years ago and our home economists still won't have a party without it. For easier slicing and fast cleanup, they suggest that you line the baking pan with a piece of foil 2 inches larger than the pan. After baking and cooling, lift out the cookie mixture, foil and all. Then slice and serve.

CHOCOLATE REVEL BARS
1 cup margarine or butter, softened
2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
2 cups packed brown sugar
2 eggs
4 teaspoons vanilla
1 teaspoon baking soda
3 cups quick-cooking rolled oats
1 1/2 cups semisweet chocolate pieces

One 14-ounce can (1 7/8 cups) sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
In a large mixer bowl beat 1 cup margarine with an electric mixer on medium speed for 30 seconds. Add about half the flour, all the brown sugar, eggs, 2 teaspoons of the vanilla and baking soda. Beat on low speed until thoroughly combined. Beat in remaining flour. Stir in oats.

In a medium saucepan cook chocolate pieces, sweetened condensed milk and 2 tablespoons margarine over low heat until chocolate is melted, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Stir in remaining vanilla and nuts.

Pat 2-3rds of oat mixture (about 3 1/2 cups) into bottom of an ungreased 15- by 10- by 1-inch baking pan. Spread chocolate mixture over oat mixture. Dot with remaining oat mixture. Bake in a 350-degree F oven about 25 minutes or until top is lightly golden. (Chocolate mixture will still look moist.) Cool on wire rack. Cut into bars. Makes 60.

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

SPECIAL ELECTION
NOVEMBER 7, 1989

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 102 proposes a constitutional amendment that would increase the salary of members of the legislature to one-fourth of the Governor's salary and increase the salary of the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker of the House of Representatives to one-half of the Governor's salary. The annual salary of members of the legislature, the Lieutenant Governor, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives is currently $7,200. Under this provision, the annual salary of the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker would be $46,716, and the annual salary of members of the legislature would be $23,358, based on the Governor's current annual salary of $93,432. The increase for the Speaker and the members of the legislature would take effect when the legislature convenes for its regular session in January 1991. The increase for the Lieutenant Governor would take effect when the term of that office begins in 1991. The salary increase for the Lieutenant Governor would not make members of the legislature ineligible to run for the office of Lieutenant Governor.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to limit the salary of the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house of representatives to not more than one-half of the governor's salary and to limit the salary of a member of the legislature to not more than one-fourth of the governor's salary."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 5 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the Texas Water Development Board to issue an additional $500 million of Texas water development bonds. The additional bonds are to be used as follows: $250 million of the bonds are to be used for water supply loans and facilities acquisition; $200 million of the bonds are to be used for water quality enhancement projects; and $50 million of the bonds are to be used for flood control. The legislature may provide that $100 million be used for subsidized loans and grants to economically distressed areas of the state for water and wastewater facilities.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to authorize the issuance of an additional $500 million of Texas water development bonds for water supply, water quality, and flood control purposes."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 51 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature to provide for the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide money to establish a Texas agricultural fund, a rural microenterprise development fund, a Texas product development fund, and a Texas small business incubator fund in the state treasury. The Texas agricultural fund would be used to provide financial assistance to develop, increase, improve, or expand the production, processing, marketing, or export of crops or products grown or produced in Texas by Texas agricultural businesses. The rural microenterprise development fund would be used to stimulate the creation and expansion of small businesses in rural areas. The Texas product development fund would be used to aid in the development and production of new or improved products in this state. The Texas small business incubator fund would be used to stimulate the development of small businesses in the State.

The principal amount of bonds outstanding at one time could not exceed $25 million for the Texas agricultural fund and $5 million for the rural microenterprise development fund. The financial assistance offered by both funds could include loan guarantees, insurance, coinsurance, loans, and indirect loans or purchases or acceptances of assignments of loans or other obligations. To carry out the Texas product development fund, the legislature could authorize loans, loan guarantees, and equity investments, and the issuance of up to $25 million of general obligation bonds for initial funding. To carry out the Texas small business incubator fund, the legislature could authorize loans and grants of money, and the issuance of up to $20 million of general obligation bonds for initial funding.

Bonds authorized under this amendment would be paid out of the first money coming into the treasury in each fiscal year that is not otherwise appropriated by the constitution, less any amount in any interest and sinking account at the end of the preceding fiscal year that is pledged to payment of the bonds or interest.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for the recovery and further development of the state's economy, with goals of increasing job opportunities and other benefits for Texas residents, through state financing of the development and production of Texas products and businesses."

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to authorize the legislature to exempt property of nonprofit veterans organizations from ad valorem taxation."

PROPOSITION NO. 5 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 11 proposes a constitutional amendment that would provide an exemption from ad valorem taxation for goods, wares, merchandise, other tangible personal property (including aircraft), and ores (other than oil, gas, and petroleum products) if the property is acquired in or imported into the state and is destined to be forwarded out of the state, regardless of whether the intention to forward the property existed when the property was acquired or imported into the state, if it remains in Texas for 175 days or less for assembly, storage, manufacture, processing, or fabrication. The proposed amendment would authorize the governing body of a county, municipality, school district, or junior college district to prevent the exemption of this tangible personal property from taxation by taking official action before April 1, 1990. A county, municipality, school district, or junior college district could rescind a decision to tax the property, in which case the exemption would become effective in the year of the rescission and the property could not thereafter be taxed.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment promoting economic growth, job creation, and fair tax treatment for Texans who export goods to other states and nations by restoring and allowing, on a local option basis, an ad valorem tax exemption for certain personal property that is in Texas only temporarily for the purpose of assembling, storing, manufacturing, processing or fabricating."

PROPOSITION NO. 6 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment that would enable the legislature to provide, by general or special law, that members of a hospital district board may serve terms not to exceed four years. Currently, hospital district board members' terms are two years.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"Authorizing the members of a hospital district governing board to serve four-year terms."

PROPOSITION NO. 7 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 40 proposes a constitutional amendment that would change the format of the oath of office for officeholders in this state. All elected and appointed officers would be required to take an oath or affirmation swearing to faithfully execute the duties of office and to preserve, protect, and defend the constitution and laws of the State and the United States. In addition, each elected and appointed officer would be required to sign a sworn statement that he or she had not paid, offered, or promised anything of value for a vote or to secure appointment to an office, as applicable. The written, sworn statement would be filed with the secretary of state. The information in the statement is currently contained in the oaths of office taken by elected and appointed officials.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to require that a member of the legislature, the secretary of state, and an elected or appointed officer, before assuming office, sign a written oath stating that the member, the secretary of state, or the officer did not engage in bribery to obtain the office."

PROPOSITION NO. 8 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 24 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature to authorize the issuance of up to $400 million in general obligation bonds. The proceeds of the bonds could be used to acquire, construct, or equip new corrections institutions, mental health and mental retardation institutions, youth corrections institutions, and statewide law enforcement facilities and to repair and renovate existing facilities of those institutions. The bonds would constitute a general obligation of the state. The bonds and interest on the bonds would be paid from the first money coming into the treasury that is not otherwise appropriated by the constitution, less any amount in a sinking fund at the end of the preceding fiscal year that is pledged to payment of the bonds or interest.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the issuance of general obligation bonds for projects relating to facilities of corrections institutions, youth corrections institutions, and mental health and mental retardation institutions and for the expansion of statewide law enforcement facilities."

PROPOSITION NO. 9 ON THE BALLOT

The legislature could combine into one or more agencies all agencies that have authority over the confinement and supervision of convicted criminals, that set standards for or distribute state funds to political subdivisions with authority over the confinement and supervision of convicted criminals, and that gather information about criminal justice administration. Agencies that could be combined would include the Texas Department of Corrections, the Board of Pardons and Paroles, and the Texas Adult Probation Commission. The amendment would also authorize the legislature to pass laws authorizing the appointment of members of more than one department of government to serve on the governing body.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to organize and combine various state agencies that perform criminal justice functions."

PROPOSITION NO. 10 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature to enact laws requiring or permitting judges to advise juries that a defendant convicted of a criminal offense can receive credit for good conduct that results in a shorter prison term and that eligibility for parole or mandatory supervision can also affect the length of time a convicted criminal serves in prison.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to require or permit courts to inform juries about the effect of good conduct time and eligibility for parole or mandatory supervision on the period of incarceration served by a defendant convicted of a criminal offense."

PROPOSITION NO. 11 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 102 proposes a constitutional amendment that would increase the per diem of members of the Legislature. The amount of per diem allowed during a calendar year would be equal to the maximum amount allowed for federal income tax purposes as of January 1 of that same year as a deduction for living expenses incurred by a state legislator. The per diem of $30 would increase to $81, which is the current maximum living expense deduction.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to set the amount of per diem received by a member of the legislature at the amount allowed for federal income tax purposes as a deduction for living expenses incurred by a state legislator in connection with official business."

PROPOSITION NO. 12 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 53 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature to provide for the use of the permanent school fund and the income from the permanent school fund to guarantee bonds issued by the state for the purpose of providing loans or purchasing the bonds of school districts to acquire, construct, renovate, or improve instructional facilities. If the permanent school fund were required to make payment as a result of its guarantee of bonds issued by the state, the fund would have to be reimbursed immediately from the state treasury. The amount of bonds guaranteed by the permanent school fund could not exceed $750 million unless a higher amount was authorized by a two-thirds vote of both houses of the legislature. If a school district were to become delinquent on a loan, the amount of the delinquency would be offset against other aid to which the district was entitled.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide for using the permanent school fund and its income to guarantee bonds issued by the state for the purpose of aiding school districts."

PROPOSITION NO. 13 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 19 proposes a constitutional amendment that would provide a bill of rights for crime victims. This constitutional amendment would give crime victims the right to be treated with fairness and respect and to be reasonably protected from the defendant. On his request, the crime victim would have the right to notification of court proceedings, the right to be present at all public court proceedings unless a court determines that the victim's testimony would be affected by hearing other testimony, the right to confer with a representative of the prosecutor's office, the right to restitution, and the right to information about the conviction, sentence, imprisonment, and release of the defendant. The legislature would be authorized to enact laws to define the term "victim," to enforce the rights of crime victims, and to provide that certain public officers and agencies are not liable for a failure to protect a victim's rights.

"The constitutional amendment providing a bill of rights for crime victims."

PROPOSITION NO. 14 ON THE BALLOT

"The constitutional amendment requiring a district attorney serving in Fort Bend County to be elected and serve a term in the manner provided by general law for criminal district attorneys."

PROPOSITION NO. 15 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 32 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature, by general law, to permit charitable raffles conducted by qualified nonprofit organizations. The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to permit and regulate raffles conducted by certain nonprofit organizations for charitable purposes."

PROPOSITION NO. 16 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 34 proposes a constitutional amendment allowing the legislature to pass general laws authorizing the creation of hospital districts upon approval of a majority of the qualified voters of the district. The amendment would also permit the legislature to authorize the creation of hospital districts by general or special law in counties with populations of 75,000 or less and to authorize the commissioners courts of such counties to levy ad valorem taxes and issue general obligation bonds for the support and maintenance of such districts.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment granting to the people the right to decide whether to create and maintain hospital districts to protect the public well-being in a manner independent of the legislature."

PROPOSITION NO. 17 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 33 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature, by general law, to authorize the use of public money to provide local fire departments and other public fire-fighting organizations loans or other financial assistance to purchase fire-fighting equipment and to aid in complying with federal and state law. The legislature would also be allowed to authorize the use of public money for scholarships and grants to educate and train members of these organizations. Part of the money could be used for administrative costs of this program. The legislature would provide for the terms and conditions of all such scholarships, grants, loans, and other financial assistance.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the state to provide scholarships, grants, loans, and other financial assistance to local fire departments and other public fire-fighting organizations to purchase fire-fighting equipment, to aid in providing necessary equipment and facilities to comply with federal and state law, and to educate and train their members."

PROPOSITION NO. 18 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 44 proposes a constitutional amendment that would repeal subsection (e) of Article III, Section 50-d of the constitution. Article III, Section 50-d currently allows the Texas Water Development Board to issue and sell Texas agricultural water conservation bonds in an amount not to exceed $200 million, if two-thirds of the members of each house of the legislature approve. Under subsection (e), this authority will expire in November, 1989. Repeal of subsection (e) by passage of this amendment would continue in effect the authority to issue and sell the bonds.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to eliminate certain time limitations relating to the issuance of Texas agricultural water conservation bonds."

PROPOSITION NO. 19 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 59 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow local governments to invest their funds as authorized by the legislature. Currently, the constitutional prohibition against a grant of public money to an individual, association, or corporation or against becoming a stockholder in a corporation, association, or company prevents local governments from making some kinds of investments. This proposed amendment would allow local governments to make any investments authorized by the legislature.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to authorize local governments to invest their funds as provided by law."

PROPOSITION NO. 20 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 16 proposes a constitutional amendment which, if passed, would abolish the office of county surveyor in Cass, Ector, Garza, Smith, Bexar, Harris, and Webb Counties. A majority of the voters in an affected county must vote in favor of this proposed amendment before the office is abolished in that county. If the office of county surveyor is abolished in any of these counties, the powers, duties, and functions of the office are transferred to a county officer or employee designated by the commissioners court of the county in which the office is abolished.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to abolish the office of county surveyor in Cass, Ector, Garza, Smith, Bexar, Harris, and Webb Counties."

PROPOSITION NO. 21 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 74 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the legislature to enact laws authorizing the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board or its successor to provide for, issue, and sell an additional $75 million in general obligation bonds as college savings bonds. The form, terms, and denominations of the bonds would be prescribed by law. The interest rate and installments would be prescribed by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board or its successor. The maximum net effective interest rate would be set by law. Proceeds from the sale of the bonds would be credited to the Texas opportunity plan fund, which is used to make loans to students to attend institutions of higher education in Texas. The bonds and interest on the bonds would be payable from the first money coming into the treasury in each fiscal year that is not already appropriated by the constitution, less the amount remaining in the sinking fund at the close of the prior fiscal year.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of general obligation bonds as college savings bonds to provide educational loans to students and to encourage the public to save for a college education."

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have had this problem all my life, but now it is getting worse. I wonder if there is any help for me and thousands of other women who have so much facial hair.

I tried electrolysis for years, but eventually the hair grew back. I read an article that stated two doctors tested spironolactone on women with facial hair and after two months they could see a slowdown of hair growth. I would appreciate a comment on the use of spironolactone to reduce hair growth on the face, or any other suggestions.

DEAR READER: Yes, this is common and not always abnormal. When something is common, you need to be careful about deciding that it is abnormal. Sometimes it is the public perception rather than the condition that is abnormal.

To start with, women have just as much or more facial hair than men. The difference is that the very fine hair growing from the follicles in women is usually too fine to be noticeable. But if you stimulate it to become large and coarse, it will become very obvious.

You can inherit a tendency to have more prominent hair. That is particularly true of Mediterranean, Latin, Jewish and Welsh women. That doesn't mean they are more masculine, just that their hair is often different from Japanese, Danish and American Indian women.

Then male hormone does make a difference. Women do form male hormones. Even progesterone can be converted to testosterone. Many women develop more prominent facial hair after the menopause because they have less estrogen and more testosterone. This change in hormone balance is often missed because the right tests for hormone levels are not done. You need three blood tests for "free" testosterone to be more certain what the active level really is.

I have explained all of this in Women's Unwanted Hair, which I am sending you. Others who want this information can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for THE HEALTH LETTER/33-03, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

When male hormone (androgen) excess is the underlying cause, spironolactone (Aldactone) will help. That is because it has an anti-androgen effect. This medicine is commonly used to treat high blood pressure.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 55-year-old female and I had my uterus removed 14 years ago. I still have my ovaries and still enjoy sex very much. I was wondering if a 55-year-old woman could still get pregnant in her tubes. I think I have been, or am, going through the menopause because I still have very hot spells.

DEAR READER: There is no way a woman of any age can get pregnant after a hysterectomy. The operation closes the opening where the cervix of the uterus protrudes into the vaginal vault. That leaves the vagina as a blind tube with no openings. Sperm cannot escape the vagina.

As long as the ovaries are left in place and are functioning normally, a woman should have the normal hormonal cycle she had before the hysterectomy. Of course she will not menstruate. She usually enjoys sex as much as she did before. But if the ovaries are removed, and she does not receive adequate hormone replacement, she may lose interest in sex.

You certainly should be in the menopause phase, if you have not already completed it. And if you are having hot flashes, you are probably deficient in estrogen. Any other woman with ovarian failure may need hormone replacement therapy.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

NAME THAT HURRICANE

ATLANTA (AP) - The system of using women's names to identify each individual hurricane began in the 1950s.

At that time, the U.S. Army alphabet code (Abe, Baker, etc.) was used as a reference. However, this system conflicted with the foreign weather code used in the Caribbean. So, the National Weather Service began using women's names in alphabetical order to avoid confusion.

In 1979, according to The Weather Channel here, influence from the women's movement added men's names to the list and today both sexes are represented in the identification system.

Soviet Union eyes 'Big Mac Attack'

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) - Somewhere in the Soviet Union future Big Macs are still on the hoof. But the people who will run the first McDonald's restaurant in Moscow are training hard already at Hamburger University.

Five Soviets arrived at McDonald's suburban Chicago headquarters Sunday for two weeks of training at its school for restaurant managers.

After returning to Moscow, they will be in charge of what's expected to be the world's highest-volume McDonald's, scheduled to open near Pushkin Square early next year with seating for 900.

"There is a great need for fast-food restaurants such as McDonald's that will provide Muscovites with nutritious food and excellent service," said Alexander Egorov, deputy general director of Moscow-McDonald's.

Egorov and his fellow trainees spoke Wednesday while making fast work of lunch before heading off to afternoon classes.

Moscow Mac's is a joint venture between McDonald's Restaurants of Canada Ltd. and the Food Service Administration of the Moscow City Council. Plans call for 20 restaurants and for all food -including the beef - to be raised in the Soviet Union.

"There are herds already waiting," Egorov said.

Joining Egorov at Hamburger University are four restaurant managers: Khamzat Kazbulatov, Mikhail Shelesnov, Georgij Smoleevskij and Vladimir Zhurakovskij.

Before arriving at Hamburger U., the five spent the summer studying at McDonald's Institute of Hamburgerology in Toronto. Their training included counter work and cooking at McDonald's restaurants, but in Oak Brook they are taking advanced operations courses to learn management skills.

Their counselor, Hamburger U. professor Henry Chapoy, said the five are "typical McDonald's people."

"Opening a country, I really wasn't expecting them to be at that level, but yes, they have that level. It's called 'ketchup in the veins,'" Chapoy said.

The five spend long days in classes and were to start laboratory work today. At night, they study from manuals printed in English and Russian.

On Wednesday, the five could be distinguished from fellow students in an "Effective People Practices" class only by their headphones. Although each studied English this summer, translator Oleg Shakov, who took the course two weeks ago to prepare, worked from a darkened booth nearby.

The seminars "are very useful to me because I personally have learned a lot of new things for myself, for example, effective people practices," said Shelesnov. "My basic knowledge of how to communicate to people comes from Moscow, but what I've learned here has provided some insight into how to communicate well."

All but Zhurakovskij, whose background is in foreign trade and engineering, have extensive experience in the food-service industry. They were selected from nearly a thousand applicants.

The Soviet McDonald's is one fruit of a Kremlin law on joint ventures enacted in 1987 to woo foreign capital, technology and expertise from abroad. That mission is not lost on the new Hamburger U. students.

Asked about the problems of transferring their training to a Moscow workforce, Shelesnov said, "I can only guess, because this has never been done before. It won't be easy."

Although they expect no shortage of customers at home, none of the five has much experience with the product they'll be selling. None had eaten any McDonald's food before arriving in Canada.

"I really liked it a lot," Shelesnov said matter-of-factly.

"No, really, it was tasty," Zhurakovskij quickly emphasized.

Scat is ready

Scat, the Hereford Whiteface mascot, needed sunglasses at the Palo Duro game in Amarillo Saturday, but Friday night she needs to help "gore" the Matadors. Renee Sublett is this year's Scat and she'll help lead the cheers when Hereford takes on the Estacado Matadors tomorrow night at Whiteface Stadium.

Gubernatorial debates planned

AUSTIN (AP) - The League of Women Voters of Texas Education Fund plans to sponsor three gubernatorial debates to be broadcast statewide in the 1990 election year.

Two debates, one among Republican candidates and one among Democrats, are planned before the March 13, 1990, primary elections, said Diane Sheridan, who heads the education fund.

A third debate is anticipated before the November 6, 1990, general election, she said Wednesday. The fund is making arrangements to broadcast the debates on television and radio from the Dallas area.

"The goals of the debates are to educate the public, motivate voters to participate in the elections, and give voters the opportunity to hear candidates' views on a variety of public policy issues," said Ms. Sheridan.

Each debate will cost about $40,000, to be financed by donations, she said.

Invitations will be issued soon to candidates who have formally announced for governor and are eligible for their party's primary ballot, the organization said in a statement. Additional invitations will be issued to other qualifying candidates as they announce.

"The League of Women Voters has been sponsoring candidates debates for 70 years," Ms. Sheridan said. "If national surveys and the letters we receive from voters are any indication, voters do watch League-sponsored debates and find them a helpful method of preparing to cast an informed ballot."

The League of Women Voters of Texas Education Fund sponsored statewide, televised gubernatorial debates in 1982 and 1986.

Announced Democratic candidates for governor in 1990 include State Treasurer Ann Richards and country singer Les Chambers of Lancaster in Dallas County.

Attorney General Jim Mattox, a Democrat, has set up a campaign office but has not made a formal announcement.

Announced gubernatorial candidates for the Republican primary include Dallas lawyer Tom Luce, Railroad Commission Chairman Kent Hance, former Secretary of State Jack Rains, West Texas businessman Clayton Williams, Merkel janitor Royce X. Owens and the Rev. W.N. Otwell of Fort Worth.

Among the largest human teeth scientists have found are those of the Java man, who lived one and a half million years ago.

Names in the News

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) - Ivan Lendl didn't have much time for a honeymoon.

The 29-year-old tennis star was married Friday to longtime girlfriend Samantha Frankel and played an exhibition match Monday in Vienna against Australian Thomas Muster. On Tuesday, he was in Barcelona, Spain, where he won a first-round doubles match in the County of Godo tournament.

The small, private wedding was held at Lendl's Greenwich home. Attending were Lendl's father, Jiri, who is a lawyer in Czechoslovakia, and his mother, Olga, who once was the No. 2-ranked woman player in Czechoslovakia.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - Singer-actress Lainie Kazan said she is tired of playing mothers on television and film and fears that she is being typecast.

The 49-year-old Kazan, appearing at TropWorld Casino and Entertainment Resort this weekend with Jerry Lewis, received a New York Drama critic's Golden Globe Award in 1982 for her Jewish mother role in the film "My Favorite Year." In 1987, she was nominated for Emmy for playing the mother of comedian Howie Mandel on the television show "St. Elsewhere." And last year, she was in "Beaches," playing the mother of Bette Midler.

"Now I want to do mature leading lady roles," Ms. Kazan said.

Hints from Heloise

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise: I read about the lady with rust spots on her laundry and decided to write. I had the same problem about a year ago. Being a young person and not very knowledgeable about laundry or appliances, I just thought I was doing something wrong.

Then I realized that the little round rust spots on my clothes matched the little round pock marks all over the drum of my clothes dryer. I had thought these little marks were normal wear and tear, since I had never owned my own dryer before. When I checked, I learned these marks were caused by a manufacturing defect.

I contacted the store where I had purchased the dryer and the manufacturer replaced the drum free of charge.

The moral of this story is: Never assume something just because you don't know differently. Always ask. There are people out there who know these things and who can help you. — Marge McCarthy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

You are so right, and you have just helped a lot of other people with the same dilemma. — Heloise

T. Boone Pickens increases his stakes in Japanese company

WASHINGTON (AP) - T. Boone Pickens Jr., the Texas oilman and takeover specialist, says he's raising his stake in Koito Manufacturing Co., the Japanese auto parts supplier that won't let him on its board.

Pickens told a Washington news conference Wednesday that Boone Co. - already Koito's largest shareholder - was buying 10 million more shares but "has no plans" to take over the company.

"But we do want to participate in the management of Koito, and share in its long-term success," said Pickens, adding that he had "no interest in accepting greenmail from Koito."

A takeover target can ward off a suitor by offering "greenmail," which refers to buying back shares acquired by a potential raider at a price higher than the raider paid.

Pickens said he expected to request a special Koito shareholders meeting in early October.

A Japanese news agency reported later that Koito planned to call such a special meeting Nov. 11 to discuss Pickens' requests.

A Pickens spokesman, Mark Helmke, said Boone Co. had not been contacted by Koito, but added: "We are concerned that before an agenda is set by Koito, we will demand that a number of our points be included on the agenda."

The stock purchase does not involve Pickens' Mesa Petroleum Co. or the shareholders rights group he heads, the United Shareholders Association.

Pickens said the additional shares were being purchased privately from Azabu Group, a large car dealer and real estate concern in Japan.

Pickens said the stock purchase would give his Dallas-based, private investment merchant bank a total of 42.4 million shares, or 26 percent of Koito. He acquired 20.2 percent of Koito's shares in March.

Toyota Motor Corp., Koito's second-largest shareholder, is also the auto headlight distributor's leading customer.

Noting that Toyota has three representatives on the Koito board, Pickens said he and Boone Co. have been "denied our rights because we are Americans. Koito and its so-called stable shareholders, like Toyota, don't want us to see how their cozy relationship works."

"Not only do they want to keep out Americans from participating in Japan's economy, but they also don't want the Japanese public to see how their closed corporate structure benefits a few elites to the detriment of the public."

Pickens also called on Koito's board to increase the size of its interim dividend from 4 yen, or about 2.7 cents, per share to 7 yen, or nearly 5 cents, per share "in order to give fair consideration and treatment to the rights of the shareholders."

In addition, he wrote Koito shareholders asking them to support his requests.

In late June, Pickens was rebuffed when he attended a Koito shareholders meeting in Tokyo and tried to get three seats on the company's board. Pickens' hand was the only one raised in favor of giving him the seats among the 200 shareholders present.

Koito officials said their reluctance to give Pickens more say in the company stemmed from a history of U.S. corporate takeovers, not because he is an American. They said they doubted he had a long-term interest in the company.

Pickens later testified before Congress about his attempts.

Pickens would not say how he planned to finance the new stock purchase, noting that Boone Co. is privately held and not required to reveal that information.

Get ready for the big bean count(at cost of $2.6 billion)

By KEN BRODNAX
The Odessa American
ODESSA (AP) - In a nation agog over statistics, the ultimate in bean counting - actually human being counting - is cranking up once again.

Every 10 years, Big Brother comes around poking his nose into your business. The census process that started merely as a means to keep up with the number of people residing in the United States has turned into much more.

Having a head count is in the best interest of everybody. It is with this information that the powers that be carve up the nation into supposedly equal legislative districts - the better to brag about how fair the congressional process really is.

Also, with information gleaned from the census, government and private business alike will gain valuable information as to trends in living preference.

No doubt, California and Florida - meccas of sunshine and moderate temperatures - again will show tremendous gains. It will be interesting to see what happened to Texas in the roller coaster '80s.

But whatever the trends, the polls in Washington, D.C., will get an idea what areas should be pampered in order to maximize vote getting. And private concerns then have some solid figures on where to aim their various advertising blitzes.

But has the counting process gotten out of hand?

Considering that it reached the point a few censuses back where the nation's citizens were asked to truthfully declare the number of toilets in their residences, the obvious answer is: Yes, the census is getting a bit ridiculous.

But it sure is helping the people who manufacture potty seats determine their version of supply and demand.

And it's even getting more personal this time around. Back in 1980, workers asked if you were living with a person. This time, the census bureau instead will be inquiring about "unmarried partners" in your home. That is a bit more specific and should clear up a lot of relationships, unless you happen to be rooming platonically - with the person who is your tennis or golf companion.

For the record, this will be the 21st time the government has counted noses. And - as Gomer Pyle used to say, surprise, surprise - it's going to cost a lot more than any other census.

The effort, which actually got started five years ago, is expected to cost $2.6 billion. Considering that best estimates place the U.S. population at 250 million, that means it will cost $10.40 per person to be counted. That seems to be an especially appropriate figure considering the number atop the Internal Revenue Service form that most Americans face each year.

Also for the record, that $2.6 billion represents a doubling in cost from 10 years ago. Wonder why? Why heck, the census bureau is hiring almost a half-million folks to do the dirty deed.

But the feds tell Americans they're getting a bargain. Workers will be armed with language cards to get them through any one of 32 different jargon problems.

What's more, a bunch of workers are going to stay up all one night in March in hopes of getting an accurate count on the number of people who don't have potties, or even homes for that matter. In fact, the bureau actually is recruiting homeless people to help count their peers.

But for the average person who is readily accessible to telephone solicitors and a mailbox full of can't-miss sweepstakes, the census should be relatively painless. Just receive the form from the direct-mail campaign next March, fill out the questionnaire and then let the workers go about finding all the non-conformists (about 85 percent of homes receiving such a form in 1980 responded) and other lost souls.

They're undoubtedly going to miss a few noses, maybe even some of those "unmarried partners." But what Big Brother doesn't know won't hurt him.

Bogota political offices are bombed

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) - Ten bombs exploded early today in Bogota, causing heavy damage to nine offices of Colombia's main political parties and to one bank, police said. At least two people were reported injured.

Bombings have occurred almost daily since the government declared a crackdown on Colombia's powerful cocaine traffickers on Aug. 18.

The explosions came hours after lawmakers urged the government to publicize reported "black lists" of corrupt politicians and officials.

Police said the bombs went off around 3 a.m.

They damaged offices of the Liberals and Conservatives, Colombia's two main political parties, located in several neighborhoods of the capital of 6 million people. Another blast ripped through a bank. Banks have been a favorite target of the cocaine cartels.

Police said the two injured people were taken to hospitals.

Liberal Party leader Julio Cesar Sanchez, a former mayor of Bogota, called for an emergency meeting of the Congress to discuss additional security measures.

An average of 150 tornados hits the United States each year.

Only about three percent of the earth's water is fresh. About three fourths of the fresh water is frozen in glaciers and icecaps.
