So far, this week has been crammed with activities and, for many, the climax will come with Hereford's first football game of the season at Canyon in Buffalo Bowl. We know that the Whitefaces have almost no depth this year, and not too much experience. But we think that the Whitefaces will do well. They are in good condition and will hit hard and harder. Team members realize that they will be called on to play long and hard and are entally and physically prepared. Win or lose, they deserve your support during the

The Friendship Room of the First National Bank was the scene, Tuesday, Sept. 4, for the opening meeting of the Progressive Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. E. C. Hammett was the presiding officer. Mrs. Floyd McGee, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Argen Draper, County Home Demonstration Agent, who presented a program "Women of Fashion in Cotton". She said, "Styles are fun, simple, plain and of on e color for the new season. Pins are in high fashion for this year. The hemlines remain the same. Stand-up collars, scooped necklines, and waist lines anywhere, form the silhouettes. Two new looks are seen: low important looking pockets and wide belts. The trend will all be toward one color." Colors mentioned by Mrs. Draper included fiesta brown, murky green, peacock or sapphire blue, true red, and gold.

OFF THE

This should be the top-rated novel of the year: Youngblood Hawke by Herman Wouk, brilliant author of The Caine Mutiny and Majorie Morningstar. To us, it is the most gripping book we have read since Advise and Consent, yet reminds us at times of Poor No More.

This is not a book to be taken lightly. It demands and attention from the reader. Just to finish the book is a large task and it should best be taken in huge doses. In slightly less than 800 pages. Wouk weaves a wonderful story of a young author and his blazing successes.

Arthur Youngblood Hawke light from the hills of Kentucky, scoring a huge success with his looks as if Russia sits around first mammoth book. Hawke and figures out ways to heckle was a huge bear of a man, 26 us as part of their "cold war" years old, who had started tactics. They also figure we are writing while in the Seabees. bound to make a mistake soon- He existed by operating a bullthey will move in and take over day and writing through the the situation. Anyway, we are night. And to Hawke, writing getting a taste of what the peo- was more important than food,

With the publication of his first book, Alms For Oblivion, Congressman Walter Rogers Hawke's life changed. It could never be the same again. Although he did not seek to be lionized, it came. Wealthy, influential New Yorkers invited him out to eat in the finest places.

One of the first persons he met in New York was young Jeanne Green, an assistant ediwith Prince House. At Hawke's insistance, she was given the job of editing his first book.

Another was Frieda Winter, brilliant concert manager, investor in plays and wife of a well-to-do businessman.

Although he was strangely attracted to Jeanne, he found himself involved in a sensational adultry with Frieda.

This book races from Kentuc ky to New York, California, Europe and back again gathering characters as he goes. Movie stars, actors, agents, publishers, editors, and lawyers swirl through this book, dropping from the narrative and then re-appearing.

As Hawke gains wealth from his writings, money becomes more of a problem. When he had none, he needed little. But with success, he finds that investments, taxes and money management is a continual headache that threatens his independence. Hawke's second large book won him a Pulitzer Prize and still more acclaim. His first offering from a publishing house he formed was panned dreadter stories. But he regained form with another book, and then another. Added to these were movie rights, a job adapting one of his novels for the screen, and then two Broadway plays, one an original and the other taken from part of one novel. After some years, Hawke broke off his affair with Frieda, although Jeanne had married out of spite. Like a harried giant, Hawke waded through his troubles, seeking only the security that would allow him time to write his crowning works, a planned 20-volume essay on America.

Wouk, in his first book since 1955, has equalled The Caine Mutiny, perhaps even surpassed it. He has produced a mammoth excitement and drama, poverty and wealth. However, we should like to blood Hawke very highly

Filipino Youth Financially Adopted By County Family

A frail-looking eight-year-old | cels of clothing and food. Filipino boy will now receive adequate food and clothing to continue his schooling since his financial "adoption" by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Edd Andrews of Route 2 through the Foster Parents' Plan, Inc.

The youth adopted by the Deaf Smith County family is Renato M. Soliman, whose main ambition is to get an education and become a lawyer when grown.

Renato is one of five fatherless children of a destitute family in the Philippines. He has three brothers, Ireno Jr., 13; Raul, 5 and Florentino, 3; and two sisters, Josephine, 11, and Sonia, 9.

When the youth was five, his father died and the mother was left to raise, educate and support the six children. She had no skills with which to earn a

Even if she had, she would not have been able to leave the children. At the time of the father's death, her children ranged in ages of from one to 11 years old.

Renato's mother did the only thing she could - took in washing and ironing. Without modern equipment, it is hard and tiring work in the tropical heat.

According to the case history of Renato, the mother managed to support the children and keep them in school although she could not provide adequate meals for the growing youngs-

As the children grew, living expenses increased as well as school expenses. The children's clothing is worn out and Renato's mother is not able to replace it with decent clothing even though it is relatively inexpensive in the tropics.

At present, the mother is very worried about the childen's schooling for she realizes that if they drop out, their entire lives will be blighted, according to the history,

Renato's mother has not been able to earn more than $10 a month and it simply cannot support the family, states the re-

It was explained that even though the Philippine Constitution provides for free elementary education, the provision is yet to be enforced, School facilities are not available and there are budgetary shortages. Expenses for school usually run about $7 a semester for the elementary grades, $8 for inter-mediate grades and $13 for high

When the new school term opens in the Philippines in June, Renato will be in the second

The case history describes Renato as an "outgoing boy with a pleasant personality and full of spirit. He likes school and is a diligent little student."

Through the Andrews adoption, the youth will receive a cash grant, medical care, par-

A LARGE BABY BIRD puzzles John E. McCleskey as he wonders what kind of a bird has been raising a family at Deaf Smith County Gin. The small bird, about six inches high and covered with down, was found in the cotton seed bin of the gin on Monday. The bird was first thought to have been an eagle, others said it was an owl, and it was even thought to be a baby hawk. As yet, the type of bird (Staff Photo) is undetermined.

inexperienced squad. On Aug. 20 the 1962 edition of the Hereford Whitefaces took the field for the first time. The team held workouts twice day for a week and a half. The first inter-school competition took place on Aug. 30 in a scrimmage against the Clovis Plans For Year Wildcats on the old Whiteface field. Clovis took the ball for 12 offensive plays before handing the ball over to the Whitefaces. This exchange took place until each of the teams had the ball for 84 offensive plays.

The Wildcats outscored the Whitefaces 19-13, although the Whitefaces were able to gain almost at will on the ground,

Year-Old Sales Tax Fails Shy Of Estimated Revenue

By Vern Sanford Texas' new sales tax was one year old on September 1. First year's income averaged some $2,870,000 a week, or a total for the first 12 months of approximately $149,000,000. Robert S. Calvert, State Comptroller, says "I think the general public has accepted it quite well."

Despite years of pro and con arguments in the legislature and by political candidates, concerning the sales tax, the first and the state's main bank acyear's operation was generally

One of the exceptions is a court ruling that Calvert cannot collect the 2 per cent tax on total receipts from sales of less than 25 cents. This ruling is on appeal.

Another court has ruled that natural gas and electricity used in laundry and dry cleaning businesses should not come unappeal.
