Man jailed for City: no tax increase planned Feb. 4 murder

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

Eloy Fuentes, 26, is in custody at Deaf Smith County Jail today on charges of murdering Robert Youngblood, the 61-year-old man found dead of a heart attack on Feb. 4, 19 miles northwest of Hereford.

Deaf Smith County law enforcement officials also suspect a man, currently being held in Potter County Jail on a violation of parole warrant from New Mexico, was involved in the death.

Fuentes was arrested in Plainview at 11:45 a.m. Saturday and charged with capital murder. He made a statement that he and the other suspect beat Youngblood for his money while the three were on a trip to Colorado from Amarillo.

The three men lived in the Santa Fe Apartments, 1119 S. Polk Street, in Amarillo. Fuentes said in his statement that he and the suspect bought Youngblood some beer and the three became drunk.

The district attorney's office hasn't received word confirming whether or not Youngblood was intoxicated. A complete autopsy was performed on Youngblood by Amarillo pathologist Dr. Ralph Erdmann.

On the way to Colorado, according to Fuentes' statement, the suspect said Youngblood had "a lot of money" and he took the first dirt road they could turn on to, where they allegedly beat Youngblood before tossing him out.

The statement said the two netted $30 to $40 from the theft.

District Attorney Roland Saul said capital murder charges are pending on the suspect.

Fuentes is being held on a $100,000 bond.

Hereford's city property tax rate will remain static at .42 cents per $100 valuation for 1989-1990 if the city commission votes it in, said City Manager Darwin McGill at the city commission meeting Monday.

The commission, including newly appointed commissioner Terry Langehennig who was sworn in by Mayor Wes Fisher, did not vote on the budget Monday night because only a public hearing was slated.

But the commission did vote to consider a 6 percent salary increase for McGill and $300 extra a month in retainer fees for the city attorney, Earnest Langley.

These salary hikes, which would raise McGill's salary from $58,000 to $61,500 and Langley's fees to $1,300 a month, will be voted on along with the budget.

In a letter to the commission, McGill asked that the commission give a 5 percent salary boost to all city employees and a 7 percent increase to the nine department heads.

"If we compare our salaries to Canyon's, we're a little bit behind," said McGill. "We have less staff than most cities our size and I think they deserve a raise."

If the budget passes, the city can expect to spend $6,307 more than the 1988-1989 budget, even though the value of taxable property has slipped by $400,000 since the 1988 assessment.

"The best thing about this budget is no tax increase," said Mayor Wes Fisher. "With a loss of revenue sharing funds and the cost of business going up, I think we have to commend the city manager on a job well-done."

Also in his letter, McGill suggested adding $1 to each water customer's bill for June, July, August and September to generate about $20,000 for mosquito control.

He suggested, too, that the city's golf course fees for high school students and senior citizens should be raised.

"We're a little more than concerned that the new golf course in Amarillo will take a lot of the revenue from us. Plus, a lot of these senior citizens and high school kids rent carts for $13 and they could probably afford a $3 fee," McGill said.

The $5 weekday fee and $7.50 weekend fee for others were suggested to remain the same.

Commissioner Sylvana Juarez commented that more money should be allotted for park playground equipment.

"We do have old equipment that should be fixed up and we do need more money in that department. If we can't afford it, I can understand that, but I would like to see more done with the parks," said Juarez.

The city commission voted to award its life insurance to Commercial Union Life for 33 cents per $1,000 of life insurance coverage for the city employees. The supplemental insurance coverage went to Guardian Life.

The city had carried its life insurance through these two companies before through Lone Star Insurance Agency.

When the city discovered it was paying for the insurance but was not covered because of a mixup with the local agent, the city voted to rebid its life insurance through another agent--Gililland Insurance Associates.

The commission also awarded a radar unit bid to Kustom Electronics, Inc. for a dash-mounted radar costing $2,070.

A hand-held radar bid was awarded to M.P.H. Industries for $1,245--the lowest bid.

Commissioners voted to give the Volunteer Fire Department a 1948 fire truck to use in parades and for display, and abandoned a 60-foot right-of-way for Laloma Road and rededicated another right-of-way to the west.

Members of the Panhandle-Plains Higher Education Authority were re-appointed. They are Dr. Ronny Barnes, Dr. Charles Bassett, Carolyn Baxter, Duane Howard and Don Judd.

Welcome aboard

Mayor Wes Fisher swears in newly appointed city commissioner, Terry Langehennig, at Monday's city commission meeting. Langehennig took the place of Jerry Walsh who retired the first of the year.

Filing begins for elections

Mayor Wes Fisher announced his candidacy for mayor Monday night, but two city commission posts haven't had any takers since Monday when the city's filing date was officially opened, according to city secretary Bonna Duke.

The Deaf Smith County Hospital District will have three positions open Wednesday and the Hereford Independent School District has two confirmed school board slots vacant as of Feb. 10 when its filing date opened.

For the city, commissioners Sylvana Juarez (place 1) and Tom LeGate (place 3) will be up for re-election including Fisher. One has filed for the two-year-term commission positions.

Filing deadline for the city is 5 p.m. on March 22. Prospective candidates must have been a Texas resident for one year, lived in one's place for six months and must be 18 or older. There is a $10 filing fee.

For the hospital district board, the seats currently held by Dr. Gerald Payne, Ralph Detten and Raymond Schroeder are up for re-election.

Deadline for filing for the two-year-terms is April 10, and each person filing must submit a petition of 50 registered voters' names requesting the person's name be placed on the ballot.

One also must be a registered voter and a resident of the county.

The filing date opened Feb. 10 for the school board elections with Kathy Moore (Dist. 4), Shirley Wilson (Dist. 5) and possibly Silvia Flores (Dist. 2) up for re-election.

Since Flores was appointed to replace Jo Garcia last year, her term may not be finished, but Superintendent Charles Greenawalt is looking into the matter.

Filers must be a registered voter and live in the district for which one is running.

Elections for all three entities will be May 6 at the Hereford Community Center.

North trial is, finally, underway

WASHINGTON (AP) - A jury of nine women and three men was sworn in today to hear evidence that Oliver L. North covered up the Iran-Contra affair, the Reagan administration's most embarrassing foreign policy debacle.

"You're now judges, you're judges of the facts," U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell told the panel as the trial of the former White House aide and decorated Marine officer got under way. "It's going to be your job to decide what the facts in this case are. You are the sole judge of the facts."

Gesell administered the oath to the jury before San Francisco lawyer John Kecker, head of a team of prosecutors under independent counsel Lawrence Walsh that has been tracking North's activities for more than two years.

Some 100 lawyers, reporters and members of the public began lining up outside the courtroom for opening arguments in the long-awaited trial of the former White House aide and decorated Marine officer.

The crush of spectators prompted court officials to announce that only 15 seats would be set aside for the public, including some aides to Walsh who were hoping to observe the proceedings from the audience.

Brendan Sullivan, North's lawyer, was expected to focus on the defense assertion that President Reagan was personally involved in offering inducements to third countries to support the Contras opposing the leftist government in Nicaragua, and that Reagan and a handful of top administration officials then directed a cover-up of the arrangement.

If North hid the arrangement from Congress, Sullivan suggested in court filings last week, it was because he was directed to do so by the president and his aides.

The presiding judge, Gerhard A. Gesell, has spent much of the 11 months since North was indicted wrestling with problems stemming from balancing the use of classified material against North's right to a fair defense.

National security concerns by the Reagan administration led to the dropping of the two central charges against North. The trial was delayed last week due to fears by U.S. intelligence agencies that North would be allowed to spill out in the courtroom a mass of classified material damaging to the national security.

In a tartly worded opinion issued in December, Gesell accused the defense of trying to force disclosure of irrelevant but sensitive classified information to scuttle the case.

Iran leaders want ties cut

By JEFF DONN
Associated Press Writer

Moslem leaders in Iran called for severing ties with Britain after 12 European nations decided at London's urging to recall their ambassadors to protest the Ayatollah Khomeini's death decree against novelist Salman Rushdie.

Iranian newspapers today bristled at Monday's decision by the Common Market governments to withdraw their Tehran envoys because of the death threat against the author of "The Satanic Verse," which many Moslems consider blasphemous.

One paper was quoted as saying Iran would prefer to remain outside "the so-called civilized world ... as long as it is free to proclaim the command of God and implement it."

Britain, where the Indian-born Rushdie lives, said Monday that it was pulling out its entire embassy staff out of Tehran. The two countries had only just resumed diplomatic relations in November after a 17-month break.

The Common Market foreign ministers, who met in Brussels, Belgium, also said Monday that they would suspend high-level diplomatic exchanges with Iran.

Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher of West Germany said the nations might, in addition, limit the movement of Iranian diplomats in Europe.

Today, Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency reported that the Moslem fundamentalist leaders in Tehran want relations with Britain to be cut "as soon as possible."

"British colonialism and the Great Satan (the United States) had played a basic role in insulting the prophet Mohammed," the religious leaders were quoted as saying. IRNA said the leaders issued their statement late Monday.

The statement called Rushdie's novel "slandrous" and asked the world's Moslems to carry out Khomeini's week-old order that the author be killed.

Iranian clerics have put a $5.2 million bounty on the author's head. Rushdie is reportedly in hiding under police guard.

Many Moslems say "The Satanic Verses" portrays the prophet Mohammed's wives as prostitutes and suggests that he - rather than God - wrote the Koran, Islam's holy book.

The novel has been banned in Pakistan, Bangladesh, Iran, India, Egypt and South Africa. Publishers in France, West Germany, Greece and Turkey have canceled plans to publish it and it has been pulled from bookstore shelves in Japan.

BABBLING BROOKS By John Brooks

All kinds of things to take care of... Congratulations to Jim Curtsinger, whose Lubbock Christian High School team won the state championship in the Texas Association of Private Schools tournament last weekend in Waco. Jim graduated from Hereford High School, and recovered from Cuby Kitchens' coaching to play at West Texas State. He coached for several years before getting into the sporting goods and then the golf business, but the coaching bug bit him again.

In his first year back, Jim won the state title and was named to coach the all-star team in the upcoming TAPS all-star game. He'll think coaching got easier while he was away.

Whatta we got, car wars or something?
No, not really, but things are getting a little humorous out on North 25 Mile Avenue.

Stevens Chevrolet used to have that neck of the woods to itself, but Whiteface Ford/Chrysler/everything else moved out there a couple of weeks ago.

First thing Whiteface noticed was that when they were a block from the police station they didn't have much vandalism. About the second night at the new place, on the other side of the city from the police station, they had some vandalism and theft.

Whiteface has all kinds of things going on this week for their grand opening, including a little "welcome to the neighborhood" display from the folks across the street.

Taking a cue from a TV commercial, the folks at Stevens banged up an older-type Ford pickup and placed a new Chevy over the top of it.

Now wait a minute, I thought the commercial said don't try this at home. Anyway, the folks at Stevens also took a cue from another TV commercial, but added a line to it.

The sign on the pickups says, "Have you driven OVER a Ford lately?" The folks at both dealerships say we can expect some "fun" out of them, and that it could be fun, and good, for Hereford car buyers.

Meanwhile, the folks at Stagner-Orsborn Buick-Pontiac-GMC kinda like having the south-side territory all to themselves.

We'll be standing by.

I don't see how a whole lot of good is going to come out of all this stuff our ill-lustrous state ag commissioner is trying to do with our beef industry. Besides backing a lot of ill-informed people who pay no attention to study after study that show growth hormones used in cattle are not harmful to consumers, certain ag commissioners are not using any semblance of common sense about the needs of the Common Market.

We raise a bunch of cattle in Deaf Smith County every year. We turn out about 430,000 head. It would take almost 20 times that amount, 7.2 million head, to meet the total needs of the European Community.

Texas doesn't raise that many cattle. No one state raises that many cattle. Besides not having enough cattle to meet the need, can you tell me how we are going to find enough state officials to actually certify that every head is "hormone-free?" Leave it to our ag commissioner, he'll figure something out. Whether it makes sense will have to be determined.

And what about the higher cost of production? A cattleman would have to spend up to another $161 per head to get "hormone-free" slaughter cattle up to the same weight as cattle which have been using the growth stimulant. Multiply, say, a million head of cattle times even $100, and you see the possible effect on the cattle industry.

We don't need to be taking that kind of money out of any industry, much less the cattle industry. But that's what some folks in Austin are saying we should do.

I still say it's time to get a friend, not a foe, of agriculture at the head of our agriculture department. Our current head (and you know the navy's definition of head) is anything but a friend of agriculture.

Senate repeals '87 Medicaid law

AUSTIN (AP) - Senators have voted to repeal a law that both scared and angered the elderly in Texas, and may have cost an influential senator his job.

The law, which apparently slipped unnoticed through the 1987 Legislature but was never applied, would have allowed the Department of Human Services to recover the property and estates of nursing home patients and other Medicaid recipients after they died.

The bill to repeal that law was sent to the House on a 28-2 vote Monday.

The provision to recoup money for Medicaid was included in an 86-page bill whose main purpose was to extend the life of the human services agency.

After the DHS published rules in early 1988 to implement the law, concerns were raised by legislators and general public, as well as the elderly.

Some attribute Sen. Temple Dickson's victory over former Sen. Grant Jones in the Democratic primary to Dickson's effective campaign use of Jones' vote for the bill containing the Medicaid lien provision.

Dickson, D-Sweetwater, said Monday the law "created anxiety" among people that they would lose their homesteads.

"The first principle this bill illustrates is that we ought to read carefully lengthy bills and be sure we know everything that's in them," said Sen. Hugh Parmer, sponsor of the bill to repeal the law. "The second principle is, when we make a mistake ... we ought to be willing to stand up and say we made a mistake."

The bill, he said, "repeals the authority, which we should never have given the Department of Human Services, to place liens against the homes of Medicaid recipients."

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said he was "confused by the logic" behind Parmer's bill and joined O.H. "Ike" Harris, R-Dallas, in voting against it.

"How does protecting an inheritance of young, healthy folks that don't care enough about their parents to take care of them help other old people?" Parker asked. "It just takes money out of the pot that would be available for other needy old people."

Parmer, D-Fort Worth, said, "I think what you will find most of the time is that not only are mom and dad poor, but the kids are poor too, and this old home is about the only thing left that mother and dad has to leave those children."

"It just doesn't make any sense, if you want to expand Medicaid, to make the poorest people in Texas - who are ultimately themselves likely to be the recipients - pay the freight for expanding Medicaid," he said.

Parker said, "Just because momma and daddy are poor and elderly and sick, it doesn't follow that we ought to ask the taxpayers of Texas and the needy poor and elderly to foot the bill to preserve an inheritance for those who are young and healthy."

In other action, the Senate refused to debate what Parker called his "boating while intoxicated bill." The measure would provide criminal penalties for operating waterborne devices, including water skis, while intoxicated.

"Water skis operated by a drunken person are as dangerous as a lethal weapon, and we need to put an end to it," Parker said.

At 22-8, Parker was two votes short of suspending rules for debate.

The Senate also approved, and sent to the House, bills that would:

- Prohibit job discrimination against peace officers who refuse to take a polygraph examination.
- Permit a non-physician to serve as director of a public health district or local health department.
- Require fingerprinting of a child who engages in delinquent conduct that includes a felony offense.

New business opens

Ricky Lloyd cuts the ribbon to officially open Mallard Enterprises at 244 North Main in Hereford. Lloyd will sell a full line of insurance, along with other ventures. The ribbon-cutting ceremony was sponsored by the Hereford Hustlers, the goodwill ambassadors of the Deaf Smith County chamber of Commerce. Chamber officials also presented Lloyd with a chamber membership plaque and his "first dollar of clear profit."

Shut insurer raises industry questions

DALLAS (AP) - Just as Texans are hearing reports of an economic revival and new plans for reviving savings and loans, they're faced with yet another industry crisis: insolvencies in dozens of the state's insurance companies and the collapse of one of the largest.

The $54 million failure of National County Mutual Fire Insurance Co., which had an estimated 100,000 policyholders, triggered a state inquiry into the State Board of Insurance and the industry itself. With 42 Texas-based insurance companies and 98 that do business in the state being liquidated, fears are brewing that Texas insurers are following the same road as the S&Ls. "The potential is there," said State Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi, House Insurance Committee chairman of budget and oversight. "I don't think we have gotten to the bottom of the pit (of insolvent insurance companies) and the closer we get to the bottom, the more horror stories I hear."

A state auditor's report issued last week estimated that the liabilities of insurance companies in receivership exceeded their assets by an estimated $200 million to $300 million as of Aug. 31.

In 1987, Texans paid an estimated $26 billion for insurance premiums, the audit said.

The audit urged the Insurance Board to make identifying financially troubled insurance companies its highest priority.

State officials say the factors that bedevil the insurance industry are the same as those that endangered the thrifts: lax and inept regulators, depressed real estate and oil markets and freespending company officials.

In the case of National County - whose president, Robert H. Walker, is believed to be in Switzerland - state regulators have suffered much of the fallout.

The Insurance Board staff knew about National County's problems as early as 1986 but did not move to place the Dallas-based casualty and property insurer in receivership until Oct. 24, 1988.

A legislative report showed the agency taking an average of more than one year between the time examiners knew a company was in deep financial trouble and when it was put into conservatorship.

In December, when Insurance Commissioner Doyce Lee resigned under pressure, he described the agency as "under seige," trying to keep up with the insurance industry after years of being understaffed and under-funded while the sour economy brought on record insolvencies.

During 1987 the agency was reorganized and its staff expanded from about 850 employees to 1,300. Board members said reorganization contributed to the agency's problems.

But state Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, blames an "inept" management. "They're running at a pace that would have worked in the 1930s," he said.

Montford, who chairs the state Senate Affairs Committee that conducted hearings on National County's failure, sponsored 11 bills aiming to restructure the Insurance Board. Also being drafted is a measure that would set up an oversight panel including Montford, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and key legislators.

"The state board isn't doing its job," said Montford, whose proposals have been supported by the insurance lobby and other lawmakers. "It's been kind of a political boneyard over there."

"What we need is a bill that says all the crooks are no longer allowed to do business," said House Insurance Committee member Cavazos.

Cavazos has proposed legislation that would change the appointed insurance panel to an elected board. "One of the main problems is we are appointing people to head those commissions based not on expertise, but on political patronage," he said.

Regulatory and criminal investigations are under way to determine what led to National County's insolvency, the costliest in Texas history. The company's primary business was automobile insurance for high-risk drivers.

Insurance Board liquidator James T. Odiome has filed a lawsuit against Walker and his sons alleging that Walker "and perhaps others" diverted premium money to affiliated companies. Also named in the suit are Texas National Insurance Co., Southern Life Investment Co., Bent Tree National Bank, Western Fire & Casualty Insurance Co. Ltd., Walker National General Agency Inc. and Superior Premium Finance Inc.

The Insurance Board has notified policyholders that their National County coverage will be canceled March 10.

As in the savings and loans crisis, consumers could end up footing part of the bill to pay claims, which are expected to total $40 million.

Initially, claims will be paid through the Texas Property and Casualty Guaranty Fund, supported by healthy insurance companies but subsidized indirectly by the state.

Tax credits the state gives to insurance companies that contribute to the guaranty fund translate into lost state treasury revenue, leaving taxpayers to make up the deficit.

But the new insurance commissioner, A.W. "Woody" Pogue, said he doesn't expect the insurance crisis to follow the direction of the savings and loan industry.

"Anytime you've got an industry as big as the insurance industry, you're going to have some failures. I'm not naive enough to think we're not going to have more failures in Texas."

Pogue said, however, he doesn't expect any more failures of the magnitude of National County.

Three promoted at FNB

Three persons were named to new positions recently at First National Bank in Hereford. They include Rita Bell (standing, left), who has worked for 22 years at FNB, promoted from assistant cashier to assistant vice president; Scott Bentley (standing, right) who came to Hereford in August 1987, promoted to assistant vice president; and John Sherröd (seated), formerly at American State Bank in Lubbock, named senior vice president. The appointments were made by the FNB board on Feb. 8.

Girl recovers Houston heifer

HOUSTON (AP) - A young girl's pet heifer, whose theft just before a livestock show aroused the community, was returned to its owner after investigators tracked the cow down and arrested two suspected rustlers.

"I was jumping up, screaming and standing on my head," 9-year-old Ginny Sherman said Monday, describing her reaction when the white-faced, polled Hereford named T.C. was returned the night before.

"We're never going to sell her. We're going to raise her to show and keep her until she dies," said Ginny, who is showing T.C. at the Houston Livestock Show.

There was an outpouring of concern after the cow disappeared on Valentine's Day from the Future Farmers of America Barn in the Houston suburb of Pearland.

Police offered a $1,000 reward and at least two Houston radio stations reported a big response after airing stories about Ginny and T.C.

"We had a call about every minute and a half for four hours," said KILT announcer Robert B. McEntire.

Investigators for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, working with law enforcement officers, traced the heifer to Abilene.

Investigator Doyce Cook said the animal was sold at an auction in Llano, northwest of Austin, and was easily identified because it had tattoos in both ears.

Authorities said two Houston teenagers were in the custody of juvenile authorities, but have not been charged.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I told my daughter that if she got pregnant again I would kick her and her child (age 2) out of my house. Am I justified?

When "Thelma" was barely 14 she became pregnant. My husband and I talked it over with our minister and our family doctor, and it was decided that she should have an abortion. I wanted to put her on the pill at that time, but the doctor wouldn't allow it because she had high blood pressure.

When Thelma was barely 17 she became pregnant again. She didn't like the boy who was responsible but wanted to keep the baby. (Also, the doctor said he would not perform a second abortion on anybody).

Thelma has a good job, the child is adorable, and now she tells me she is pregnant again. When I asked, "Who is the father?" she said, "I'm not sure. It's one of three guys, but I wouldn't marry any of them."

I warned her that I would put her out of the house if she became pregnant again, and I plan to keep my word. The girl has to learn sometime. My husband and I separated last year and I don't have anyone close to talk to. Please tell me if I am doing the right thing.--Richmond, Va.

DEAR RICH: Putting Thelma and her 2-year-old out of the house will not solve the problem. It will only create others, probably more serious.

What Thelma needs is a thorough grounding on birth control (Planned Parenthood will provide this). Your daughter is in desperate need of counseling. She needs to find out why she keeps getting pregnant when she knows it is not in her best interests.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A woman who signed herself "Night Owl in San Diego" wrote to say that she had been going to sleep just before dawn and getting up mid-afternoon for several years. "Owl" had planned her life around this unusual sleep pattern and considered herself well-adjusted. She then asked if she should see a psychiatrist about changing her sleeping habits in order to be in step with the rest of the world. You said, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

I am a clinical psychologist with the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., and I specialize in sleep disorders. If the lady is comfortable with her current arrangement, there is no need to fix it, but should she want to change, there is a simple and effective method called chromotherapy. Here's how it works"

Take off five days from work. Delay sleep three hours per night. For example, go to bed at 9 a.m. the first day, noon on the second, 3 p.m. on the third, 6 p.m. on the fourth and 9 p.m. on the fifth. Each time she should sleep as long as she is comfortable. This will be easy to do because her "clock" is slow.

Once she has "marched around the clock" and goes to sleep in the evening she should wake herself up at a regular time each morning, including weekends. If there are problems she should contact a sleep disorder center.--Peter J. Hauri, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. HAURI: Thanks for what appears to be a simple solution to a rather complicated problem. And it's free. How nice!

DEAR READERS: I have just read an excellent book that will help you stay well and tell you what to do when you're not. It is loaded with information about headaches, stress, back pain, sleep disorders, nutrition, AIDS, sexually transmitted diseases, cancer, heart disease, stroke, impotence and dental implants. The title: "Your Good Health." Send $24.95 (money order or check, please) to Harvard University Press, 79 Garden St., Cambridge, Mass. 02138. This will be one of the best investments you've ever made.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Club meets for luncheon

Mrs. J.V. Perrin served as hostess when members of Bippus Extension Homemakers Club met recently in her home for a sandwich luncheon.

Perrin used a Valentine motif for the refreshment table which was specially decorated with keepsake Valentine cards.

Vice president Mariellen Homfeld conducted the brief business meeting and welcomed Mona Gee as a special guest. Roll call was answered with "my most unusual Valentine".

Mrs. Joe Flood presented the program on baskets. She explained the history of them and how to make and decorate various styles. She emphasized that it takes her approximately four hours to complete one basket.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Jerry Homfeld.

Key Club chili supper tonight

A chili supper hosted by Hereford Key Club will be held today from 5-7 p.m. in the Hereford High School

Art students display works to club members

Members of Hereford Fine Arts Association met Feb. 14 in the Hereford Community Center for their regular monthly meeting.

President Suzy Wall opened the meeting and introduced Gayla Kimball, art instructor at Hereford High School. Kimball presented students who showed some of their works and told something of how they were accomplished and spoke of their individual aspirations in the art world. Some of the art shown was award-winning at the Amarillo High School Art Exhibit.

HHS students present were Louis Mungia, Rudolfo Vasquez, Steven Wheat, Brian Jones, Jamie Trevino, Yvonne Padilla, Matt Keenan, Juan Martinez, Tracy Stone, Wendy Peabody, Ruben Rodriguez, Jerry Gallegos and Gloria Perez, visitor.

Linda Minchew was the recipient of the dinner-out check.

The meeting concluded with refreshments served from a table decorated with a Valentine motif. Norma Hendon served as hostess.

The next meeting is set for 7 p.m. April 11 at the Community Center. Guest artist, Angeline Shockley, will present the program on China painting.

Members present included Louella Cowser, Bobbie Wilson, Minchew, Hendon, Wall, Zelma Dillard of Amarillo, Vinita Wear and Melba Dillard.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I read recently that a person should drink two quarts of water a day. I began following those instructions, drinking water from the tap. Then a few weeks later I saw a TV program that said our drinking water has unsafe levels of lead in it. My question is, what is the difference between spring water, purified water, distilled water and bottled drinking water? If our tap water is unsafe, are any of these waters any more safe?

DEAR READER: There are many factors that can cause tap water to be less than desirable. Increased lead levels may occur if a person uses tap water provided by lead-soldered pipes in old plumbing. Another question is the reaction of chlorine, added to eliminate bacteria, with various chemicals in the water to form substances that may increase the risk of cancer.

But some spring water and bottled water is no better. If your tap water is not OK, I would recommend distilled water as it should not contain bacteria, lead or other chemicals. The distillation process provides almost pure water.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Make muffins ahead of time

Fresh-baked muffins may bring the family to the table in a hurry on a weekend morning. The night before, the dry ingredients can be measured and mixed in one bowl; cover and refrigerate the liquid ingredients in another, ready for quick mixing at breakfast time.

HONEY-WHEAT MUFFINS

1 c. all-purpose flour
1/2 c. whole wheat flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 beaten egg
1/2 c. milk
1/2 c. honey
1/4 c. cooking oil
1/2 tsp. finely shredded lemon peel

In a bowl, stir together all-purpose flour, whole wheat flour, baking powder and salt; make a well in the center. Combine egg, milk, honey, oil and lemon peel; add all at once to dry ingredients, stirring just until moistened (batter should be lumpy).

Fill greased or paper-lined muffin cups two-thirds full. Bake in a 375 degree oven about 20 minutes. Makes 10.

4-H Parent Leaders meet tonight

The banquet room at Hereford Community Center will be the site of today's meeting of the Deaf Smith County 4-H Parent-Leaders Association meeting.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. and will feature reports on past events and upcoming needs of the 4-H program.

Public Notice

On November 9, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed a tariff which proposes to prevent local exchange calling over interstate, unrestricted, multi-jurisdictional, WATS Access Lines (UWALs) and intrastate WATS Access Lines (WALs).

UWALs are provided to interexchange carriers for their use in the provision of interexchange interstate and intrastate long-distance and WATS-type services. Similarly, WALs are designed for use in the provision of interLATA and intraLATA WATS services. The UWALs and WALs were not intended to allow local exchange calling.

If these proposed tariff changes are approved, the blocking of local exchange calls over intrastate WATS access lines and UWALs will take place within 30 days. This proposed tariff change will not result in the blocking of local calls placed to an 800 Service number.

The Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas has assigned this matter to Docket 8421. A hearing on the merits of these proposed tariff changes is scheduled for March 13, 1989.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should mail a request to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757 by February 27, 1989. Further information may also be obtained by calling the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

Hereford coaches Ron Young and Danny Haney work over the weekend shingling the new home dugout at the HHS baseball field. Work has been going on for a month on the new dugout, press box and storage facility at the field. The HHS baseball team began workouts earlier this month in preparation for next week's season opener in the tough Abilene Tournament.

Louisville's bad start costs Cards

By The Associated Press

Even good teams get off to bad starts. But what happened to No. 8 Louisville was beyond belief.

Memphis State raced to a 24-0 lead, brought out the boo-birds at Freedom Hall and beat the Cardinals 72-67 Monday night.

"I don't think I've ever had a team come out and get more than 10 or 12 points behind in 29 years of coaching," Louisville Coach Denny Crum said.

Louisville was shut out for more than seven minutes. By the time Pervis Ellison scored, the 19,267 fans were booing.

"They hit everything they threw up and we buried ourselves in a hole," Crum said. "The first four minutes of the game were a joke."

In other games, No. 9 Duke trounced Georgia Tech 91-66, No. 10 Illinois beat Purdue 102-75, No. 16 Stanford stopped Southern California 68-52, No. 17 North Carolina defeated North Carolina-Asheville 90-75 and No. 18 Nevada-Las Vegas downed Long Beach State 104-74.

Memphis State made 10 of its first 13 shots while Louisville missed its first nine.

"I've never been in a situation like that. I'm just glad it happened to us," said Elliott Perry, who scored 25 points for the Tigers.

The Cardinals certainly had never seen it happen to them.

"All of a sudden we looked up and it was 24-0 and I thought, 'What the hell is going on?'" reserve center Felton Spencer said.

The Cardinals whittled their deficit to 41-30 at halftime and closed to 66-64 on Ellison's basket with 2:18 left.

Perry made six straight foul shots in the final 1:05 to give Memphis State its sixth consecutive victory.

Memphis State is 20-8 and 7-3 in the Metro.

Ellison scored 23 points for Louisville, 18-6 and 7-2.

No. 9 Duke 91, Georgia Tech 66

Danny Ferry scored 26 points and Duke overwhelmed undermanned Georgia Tech for its sixth straight victory.

The visiting Yellow Jackets played without leading scorer Tom Hammonds, who is injured, and Anthony Sherrrod, who is suspended. That left Georgia Tech with just nine players.

Duke raced to a 45-19 lead late in the first half and coasted the rest of the way. The Blue Devils are 20-4 and 7-4 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Dennis Scott scored 26 points for Georgia Tech, 17-9 and 6-5.

No. 10 Illinois 102, Purdue 75

Nick Anderson and Marcus Liberty each scored 21 points and Illinois ran off 21 straight points in sending Purdue to its worst loss this season.

The host Illini led 16-15 with 12 minutes left in the first half and quickly made it 37-15.

Kenny Battle added 20 for Illinois, 22-4 and 9-4 in the Big Ten. Tony Jones scored 20 for the Boilermakers, 11-15 and 4-9.

No. 16 Stanford 68, Southern California 52

Stanford held Southern Cal without a field goal for more than 10 minutes in the second half during a 19-1 burst that led the Cardinal to its sixth straight victory.

Howard Wright scored 20 points and Todd Lichti had 16 as Stanford beat the host Trojans for the 10th consecutive time. The Cardinal is 21-5 and 12-3 in the Pacific 10.

Southern Cal led 43-42 early in the second before Stanford went ahead 49-48 with 10:06 left.

Ronnie Coleman scored 26 points for the Trojans, 8-18 and 1-13.

No. 17 North Carolina State 90, North Carolina-Asheville 75

Chucky Brown had 23 points and 14 rebounds and North Carolina State pulled away from North Carolina-Asheville.

The Wolfpack, 18-5, led just 54-47 early in the second half. But they made 15 of their next 18 field goal tries in taking command.

Milton Moore scored 39 points for the visiting Bulldogs, 12-14. No. 18 Nevada-Las Vegas 104, Long Beach State 74

Reserve Bary Young scored 28 points and Stacey Augmon added 18 as UNLV ran past visiting Long Beach State.

Young was 10-for-15 from the field, including seven of 10 on 3-pointers.

The Runnin' Rebels are 19-6 and 12-2 in the Big West. John Hatten scored 20 points for Long Beach State, 12-12 and 9-6.

Wilson trades caps and jobs

MONTGOMERY, Texas (AP) - Customers at Glenn Wilson's Hit and Run Exxon station will have to turn on their television sets to catch a glimpse of their favorite gas attendant for the next few months.

Wilson, the veteran outfielder who serves gas, changes oil and signs autographs at his small-town service station has traded in his Exxon cap for a Pittsburgh Pirates baseball cap and headed to Bradenton, Fla., to begin spring training.

"I guess it's not every day that someone can get their car fixed by me in the winter, and turn on the television in the summer and watch me play ball," said Wilson, who added he has signed about 250 autographs in the past month. "It baffles some people, but the locals just think of me as old Glenn who owns the gas station."

Dominique does in Clippers; Heat drops

By The Associated Press

The Atlanta Hawks knew what they had to do. Dominique Wilkins made certain that it happened.

After losing to the expansion Miami Heat Sunday night, the Hawks knew it was important to come out strong against the Los Angeles Clippers.

"That's what you've got to do with a team like that," Wilkins said. "You don't want to hang around and hang around, because a team like that can hurt you. We took the game away from them and didn't let them back in it."

The Hawks built a 12-point lead in the first 3:17 and, with Wilkins leading the way with 30 points, defeated the Clippers 114-100 Monday.

In other NBA games Monday, it was Cleveland 110, Houston 90; Chicago 102, Portland 98; Denver 103, Detroit 101; New Jersey 117, Miami 109; Dallas 105, San Antonio 93; Utah 118, Phoenix 92; and the Los Angeles Lakers 100, Sacramento 97.

Wilkins scored eight points as the Hawks rolled to a 14-2 lead. The Clippers closed to 22-19 on Gary Grant's jumper with 2:16 left before the Hawks stretched it to 30-23 by the end of the quarter.

Los Angeles got no closer the rest of the game. The Clippers trailed 58-47 at the half and were behind by 28 points at the end of the third period, 92-68.

When the Clippers got within 105-94 on Reggie Williams' layup with 3:41 left in the game, the Hawks scored the next nine points.

Rookie Charles Smith led Los Angeles with 19 points, while Benoit Benjamin and Williams added 17 each.

Jazz 118, Suns 92

Karl Malone scored 28 of his 35 points in the first half as Utah won its fourth straight game.

The loss snapped a five-game winning streak for the Suns, who were led by Eddie Johnson's 23 points.

With Utah leading 18-14, the Jazz went on a 16-3 run and led 36-17 after the first period. The Jazz led 71-51 at the half and 95-71 going into the final quarter.

Lakers 100, Kings 97

David Rivers hit two free throws with four seconds left to clinch the Lakers' victory in Sacramento. Byron Scott scored 33 - just two points shy of his season-high - to pace the Lakers.

Kenny Smith and Ricky Berry led Sacramento with 15 points apiece.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's sky hook gave the Lakers a 97-94 lead with 1:09 to go. Ten seconds later, Rodney McCray's two free throws cut the Kings' deficit to 97-96.

Nets 117, Heat 109

Roy Hinson scored 24 points and Chris Morris 23 as New Jersey ended the Heat's two-game winning streak.

Miami, which had trailed by 16 points late in the second quarter, rallied in the third period, twice taking one-point leads, the last at 79-78 on two free throws by Kevin Edwards, who ended up with a franchise-record 34 points.

With the score tied at 83, the Nets took the lead for good.

Rory Sparrow had 21 for the Heat.

Mavericks 105, Spurs 93

Rolando Blackman scored 19 of his 37 points in the fourth period to lead Dallas over San Antonio.

The Mavs also got 16 points and 21 rebounds from James Donaldson.

Frank Brickowski paced San Antonio with 24 points.

Cavaliers 110, Rockets 90

Mark Price scored 27 points and Larry Nance blocked seven shots as Cleveland used a relentless defense to beat Houston.

The Cavaliers swarmed over Alceem Olajuwon whenever he touched the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company:

Public Notice
On December 22, 1988 Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas several proposed changes in its Universal Emergency Number Service (911) Tariff. These proposals include:
a. deletion of the current regulation which restricts E911 Service to a single exchange area which has 50,000 exchange access arrangements or more;
b. revising the tariff text to clarify that costs associated with network rearrangements required to accommodate the 911 code may result in additional charges to be determined on an individual case basis;
c. a text addition to clarify that telephone company provided Public Safety Answering Equipment is required when a service includes Automatic Location Identification (ALI); and
d. a text addition to explain emergency ringback.
The application is styled Docket No. 8565, Application of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company for Approval of Amendment of Universal Emergency Number Service (911) Tariff. It is anticipated that Docket No. 8565 will be evidentiary in nature.
The public may intervene or participate in this docket but it is not required to do so. Anyone who wishes to intervene in this proceeding or comment on the relief sought by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company should contact the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757 or call the Public Utility Commission Information Office at (512) 458-0010 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf. Motions to intervene in this proceeding must be filed with the Commission's filing clerk by April 12, 1989.

Mavs give Dantley until Wednesday

DALLAS (AP) - Adrian Dantley has been given until Wednesday to report to the Dallas Mavericks and complete a trade that sent Dallas' moody Mark Aguirre to the Detroit Pistons for Dantley and a first-round draft choice.

Mavericks general manager Norm Sonju Monday set a Wednesday deadline for Dantley to show. Sonju issued a statement after talking to David Falk, Dantley's agent.

"We're still optimistic that Dantley will report. However, if he has not reported by Wednesday morning, we will make a formal statement regarding our position," Sonju said. "Consistent with our announcement of last Friday, he will not be paid for any games he misses."

This means that Dantley has apparently lost pay for two games, a figure that comes to about $15,000 per game.

So far, Dantley missed games against the Midwest Division-leading Houston Rockets last Saturday and Monday night's game against the San Antonio Spurs.

While Sonju was giving Dantley a mandatory reporting date, Mavericks players were hoping that the Dantley trade, like the Aguirre problems that preceded it, will soon be behind them.

"The main thing is just to play as hard as we can," said Rolando Blackman. "We just hope it's not going to become a holdout situation. The important thing is for him to know we want him."

"It's a strange situation. But it will take care of itself," said Sam Perkins.

"I don't even think about it. When he shows, he shows. He's just looking out for his best interests."

"We can't sit here and look over our shoulders waiting for AD (Dantley) to come," said James Donaldson. "Everybody's just pitching in and raising their level of play to help us win."

Mavericks owner Donald Carter had flown to Washington Sunday to meet with Dantley and Falk, but he was unable to influence Dantley to return with him to Dallas to join the team. He also failed in an attempt to get Dantley to report to the team in time for the game against San Antonio Monday night. Dallas defeated the Spurs, 105-93.

A source with knowledge of the situation said Dantley wants either a year added to his contract, which has two more years to run, or the final year of his contract paid in cash. Currently, the final year of Dantley's contract, the source said, would pay him $500,000 in cash and another $750,000 in deferred money.

"The only way Dantley was able to get that contract was to get the final year broken up into deferred money," the source told the Dallas Times Herald.

After returning to Dallas, Carter said he understands why Dantley hasn't arrived and is confident he will soon be with the team.

"When you've been through that many trades, his life is changing," Carter said. "I would rather he was already here."

Hershiser happy to get down to business

By The Associated Press

With his financial business finished, Orel Hershiser got back to his main business.

"I enjoyed getting out there again," Hershiser said Monday after arriving at the Los Angeles Dodgers' camp in Vero Beach, Fla. "I'm glad to be back to baseball."

Hershiser, who agreed to a three-year, $7.9 million contract last week, went right to work and took part in team drills.

The National League Cy Young winner said he doesn't think his highly publicized contract negotiations will affect how he pitches this year or how he is perceived by fans.

their No. 1 draft pick in 1980. By 1982, he was the Tigers' rookie of the year and was playing in the outfield.

He played with Philadelphia and Seattle before being traded to Pittsburgh in the 1988 season. Recently, Wilson signed a two-year contract with the Pirates and bought his gas station.

During the season, the gas station will be run by Hal Bent, the manager and co-owner. Bent met Wilson when he was the baseball player's hunting guide in Wyoming in 1985.

The station's walls are covered with posters and photos of Wilson and some of his famous friends. Caps from each team he's played for sit on a shelf behind the counter and the sign on the door to his office reads "Baseball Drive."

"Things are going good, and people have accepted us in full force," Wilson said.

"I don't feel like there's an image problem," he said. "I don't feel like there was any greed involved. You just do the best you can. You're only worth as much as the club will pay you."

Hershiser, 23-8 last season and the World Series Most Valuable Player, will be the highest-paid player this year.

Camp News

Tony Gwynn says he still isn't completely comfortable in center field, but intends to stay there for the San Diego Padres. Gwynn, a former Gold Glove winner in right field, moved to center for the final two months last season.

"My confidence level is not where it should be right now but hopefully it will be by opening day," Gwynn said. "I'm going to play it and I'm going to be a lot better at it than most people think I will. But until I believe that myself, it could be a comedy of errors out there early."

The St. Louis Cardinals have hired a tutor to teach Vince Coleman and rookie Alex Cole how to bunt and get bigger leads off third base. The Cardinals want them to get the most out of their speed.

Cal Ripken Sr. is back with the Baltimore Orioles, the team that fired him as manager last season.

Ripken has returned as third base coach and training camp coordinator for Frank Robinson, the man who replaced him last April. The Orioles dismissed Ripken after opening the season with six straight losses, then dropped 15 more games under Robinson to set an American League record.

"I certainly wasn't looking to be fired after six games," Ripken said.

"I was unhappy about it - there wasn't any question."

Financial Doings

David Cone and the New York Mets are still trying to settle on a new contract. Cone, who went 20-3 despite not being in the starting rotation all season, is looking for about $500,000 while the Mets are offering around $400,000.

Cone, unlike reliever Randy Myers, has decided to come to camp without a contract.

"This is the place to be," he said. "I think we can work things out but I don't want to fall behind while it's being done."

Cone also had a team-low 2.22 earned-run average and led the Mets with 213 strikeouts.

"It was my first full season as a starter in the majors and I have to establish myself again in order to be in the same level as the Goodens and Clemens," Cone said.

Pitchers Greg Mathews and Scott Terry of St. Louis agreed to one-year contracts Monday.

Mathews, plagued by shoulder problems, was 4-6 with a 4.24 earned run average. He underwent arthro-

EIGHT DOUBLES

SALEM, N.H. (AP) - The track computers nearly blew a fuse last fall when a series of improbable events brought on eight payoffs in the daily double at Rockingham Park.

For openers, there was a dead heat in the first race. Then, in the second race, three horses were late scratches. That meant six consolation doubles. The winner of the second race brought on the other two payoffs.

scopic surgery in June and returned two months later.

Terry was 9-6 with a 2.92 ERA. He moved from St. Louis' bullpen to the team's starting rotation in mid-August and won seven straight starts after 40 relief appearances.

Bert Blyleven agreed to a one-year contract with the California Angels. There also is an option for 1990. No other terms were disclosed, although Blyleven had long been expected to sign for the same $1 million he had earned last season with the Minnesota Twins.

CON BUT NO TACT

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - There was a testimonial dinner last fall for Maurice Lucas, long-time star in the NBA, who retired last season to join the Trail Blazer coaching staff.

A former teammate of Lucas, Lionel Hollins, had a wry comment about Maurice as a player.

"To Maurice," Hollins said, "basketball was a contact sport. It was all con and no tact."

NEALE'S DOUBLE

NEW YORK (AP) - It was a unique and great double for the late Earle "Greasy" Neale. He is the only man ever to play in a World Series game and coach a team to an NFL championship.

Neale coached the Philadelphia Eagles to NFL titles in 1948 and 1949. The 1948 game was played in a foot of snow in Philadelphia.

He also was an outfielder with the Cincinnati Reds when they played the White Sox in the infamous "Black Sox" scandal series in 1919. Neale, an outfielder, batted .357 in the series.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Become one of the first in our community to own a copy of this magnificent atlas.

Chocolate facts given

With Americans eating about 11 pounds per person annually, chocolate could be called America's favorite flavor.

We know we love the taste of chocolate, but we know very little about this popular food. Here are some facts about chocolate to think about the next time you indulge in your favorite chocolate dessert:

*Aztec folklore claims that chocolate originated in the heavens and was brought to earth by the god Quetzalcoatl.

*Chocolate is low in sodium. A 1.65 ounce Hershey's milk chocolate bar contains just 45 milligrams of sodium compared to one ounce of Swiss cheese with 440 milligrams.

*Chocolate contains very little caffeine. A 1.65 ounce milk chocolate bar contains about 10 milligrams of caffeine while a five-ounce cup of brewed coffee (drip method) has about 115 milligrams.

*America wasn't Christopher Columbus' only discovery. It is thought that, during his fourth voyage to the New World in 1502, he was the first European to come in contact with the cocoa bean.

*Cocoa was introduced to Spain's King Charles V in 1528, and it soon became the rage of Spanish noble society. It was served as a hot beverage with cinnamon and vanilla, which was to become the world's first hot cocoa.

*Despite popular myth, chocolate does not cause acne. Dermatologists tell us there is no cause-and-effect relationship between any type of food and acne.

*Milton Hershey produced the first Hershey's milk chocolate bar in 1894 in Lancaster, Penn.

*Milk chocolate contains a small amount of cholesterol due to its milk content--just 12 milligrams in a 1.65 ounce milk chocolate bar.

*Cocoa is low in fat (13 percent) and is the only chocolate baking ingredient approved by the American Heart Association for use in fat restricted diets.

*Chocolate milk has the same amount of the major nutrients found in whole milk.

For more information about chocolate, write for a free brochure, "Myths About Chocolate," Box 815, Dept. NS, Hershey, Pa. 17033-0815.

GRAPEFRUIT BERRY SHERBET

Sherbet a great dieter's delight

Sherbet with very little sugar? Sounds too good to be true, yet Grapefruit Berry Sherbet is made with only three ingredients: Texas Ruby-Sweet grapefruit, sweetened strawberries and milk--and no sugar. The unique sweetness of the Texas Ruby-Sweet makes this magic possible.

To add to the magic, this homemade sherbet is ready to eat in less than 10 minutes. The secret is two-fold. The first secret is to make the sherbet with fruit that is frozen. Peel and section the Texas grapefruit, place them in a single layer on a baking sheet and freeze until firm. (This usually takes only about 30 minutes, but you can do it days ahead. Buy frozen, sliced strawberries sweetened or in heavy syrup.) The second part of the secret: place both fruits--still frozen--in the food processor. In just a matter of minutes, the frozen fruits and a splash of milk turn into creamy smooth sherbet. The result is elegant enough to serve in stemmed glasses with a splash of orange-flavored liqueur to your finest dinner party and nutritious enough to serve to your children after school.

There are only 60 calories in a half-cup serving of Grapefruit Berry Sherbet, compared to 118 calories in commercial sherbet and as much as 187 in some commercial ice creams. You can decrease the calories even more by using unsweetened strawberries and substituting skim milk for whole milk. Any how many desserts like this luscious Grapefruit Berry Sherbet can also add vitamins A and C, potassium, calcium and phosphorus to your diet?

Using a grapefruit spoon to remove the sections can make this recipe even quicker. Serrated tipped spoons have many uses.

Their sharp tips give you bite-sized pieces of grapefruit or other fruit with a quick flick of the wrist.

Ruby-Sweet Grapefruit will be in good supply from now until May. Texas fruit is easy to identify: look for blushes of pink showing through the thin yellow skin. There is no need to worry about ripeness: Texas grapefruit are ripened on the tree before being picked and sent to market. As the season comes to a close, buy a few extra Texas grapefruit to peel, section and freeze so you can enjoy Grapefruit Berry Sherbet all summer long.

GRAPEFRUIT BERRY SHERBET

2 cups Texas Ruby-Sweet grapefruit sections
1 (10 ounce) package frozen sliced strawberries, sweetened or in heavy syrup
1/4 to 1/2 cup milk

Place grapefruit sections in a single layer on a baking sheet; freeze until firm.

Remove berries from container and coarsely chop. Combine frozen berries and frozen grapefruit in the container of a food processor fitted with the steel blade. Process with on/off flicks until finely chopped. With motor running, add 1/4 cup milk. Add smooth and creamy. Serve at once or transfer to freezer container and store in freezer. Yield 3 1/2 cups (4 to 6 servings). Approximately 60 calories per 1/2 cup serving.

The albatross has the greatest wing spread of any bird--11 feet from tip to tip.

Club meets for annual party

A Valentine party was held for Valeda Study Club members and their guests Feb. 13 in the home of the George Ritters. Marjorie Lasiter and Tommie Savage served as co-hostesses.

As guests arrived, they were served chips and dips from a Valentine decorated table. The centerpiece was a white swan in a bouquet of white flowers, red rose buds and red hearts.

Games of crazy bridge were played by members and guests and Freddie Savage won the prize of a box of Valentine candy for the highest score of the evening.

Following games, refreshments of desserts, coffee and spiced punch were served to those present: Della Hutchins and Messrs. and Mmes. Gid Brown, Floyd Crume, Beryl Fish, Ritter, Ike Stevens, Savage, Bill Walden and Frank Zinser.

The next meeting will be in the home of Norma Walden with Sylvia Khuri giving the program on "Palestinian Women."

TAKING THE CAKE

NEW YORK (AP) — Baking delicious desserts can really be a piece of cake — just as long as you follow the recipe.

Pastry chef Flo Braker, who is also a California caterer, food consultant and author, gives some personal tips in Family Circle magazine.

— Preheat oven 15 to 20 minutes before baking: This ensures even heat distribution and prevents uneven cooking.

— Use a warm, not hot, liquid to dissolve and activate yeast: Liquid over 110 degrees will destroy the yeast cultures.

— Store nuts in the freezer: They should be kept in an airtight container. Always taste nuts before adding to a recipe as their high oil content can cause them to spoil.

— Mark the date of purchase on all spices: After a year on your shelf they will lose flavor and should be replaced.

Names In The News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Angela Lansbury has decided to return to CBS next year for a sixth season as a crime-solving mystery writer on "Murder, She Wrote." "Angela Lansbury as Jessica Fletcher is one of the most beloved characters on television," said Kim LeMasters, president of CBS Entertainment. "We are delighted that we will be bringing her back for one more season."
The agreement was signed earlier this week with Universal Television. The actress had said previously this would be her last season on "Murder, She Wrote," CBS' highest-rated program, but added she would consider reviving the role in an occasional television movie.

CBS threw a lavish party for Lansbury on Sunday to celebrate the show's 100th episode.
NEW YORK (AP) — Mikhail Baryshnikov's new staging of "Swan Lake" will be the opening night attraction of the American Ballet Theater season at the Metropolitan Opera House.
Baryshnikov announced the lineup for the May 8-July 1 season on Thursday.
It includes New York premieres of three works choreographed by artistic associate Twyla Tharp: "The Bum's Rush," to music by Dick Hyman; "Everlast," to music by Jerome Kern; and "Quartet," to music by Terry Riley. It also features company premieres of two more dances by Tharp, "The Fugue" and "In the Upper Room."

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I have been hearing a lot about a special emergency number one can dial: 911. What is this service and does every city or town have it? — Ginger Reece, Gary, Ind.

It is a universal emergency number where people can get fast, expert assistance from the police, fire department and medical personnel, but 911 is not offered in all cities. To see if your town is included in this program, first look in the front of the telephone book or call your local police or fire department on non-emergency numbers. — Heloise

FAST-FOOD CHOICES

Dear Heloise: I read with interest many of the dieting and health tips you have had in your column.

At the office where I work we almost always go to fast-food restaurants. I found a few tips when trying to watch calories and still go to lunch with the girls at the restaurants.

I stay away from high-fat foods like fried chicken, fried fish, french fries and double burgers. Instead of shakes I drink either low-fat milk or juice.

A good choice for lunch for me is a regular-size hamburger (no fries), a green salad with low-calorie dressing or a squeeze of lemon and a glass of iced tea.

These tips help me to be health-conscious and still enjoy lunch out. — Virginia Repoza, Colorado Springs, Colo.

COPY CARDS

Dear Heloise: I have a lot of credit cards and bank cards. I have found an easy way to keep track of them.

I took all the cards and made copies of them on a copying machine. I now have all the information I need in case I lose one or all of them.

It is also handy because all of the information is on one sheet of paper. — Brigg Hart, Staten Island, N.Y.

You are so right, this is a great way to keep track of all your cards. One note of caution: Be sure to remove all your cards and copies from the copying machine. — Heloise

FESTIVE CREAM

Dear Heloise: I realize the holidays are past but I want to pass along this cute idea.

We had Christmas at my aunt's house. It was wonderful. She loves Christmas and always decorates everything and makes all of us feel the holiday spirit.

This year she went one step farther — with the usual pumpkin pie she served green and red dessert topping. It was so festive!

I thought it would be cute for Valentine's Day to dye it red and on St. Patrick's Day dye it green. It makes for great conversation! — Barbara Wheeler, Campbell, Ohio

DINNER MENU

Dear Heloise: For families who don't like the word "leftovers," do as I do. I put a menu on the refrigerator and start it off as a joke with the name of a leading restaurant in our area. Under that I write that each may have a choice of the following. Then I list all the leftovers. It reads somewhat like a menu.

My family thought this was pretty good since they had a choice of what was available. It sure is a good way to get rid of leftovers. Another added plus is that it hardly takes any of my time to heat them. — Maria Vicknair, LaPlace, La.

What a cute idea! That is a new way to make sure that leftovers are used! — Heloise

PLAIN YOGURT

Dear Heloise: I like yogurt and buy it quite often when I do my shopping. I accidentally picked up some plain yogurt instead of flavored. I didn't care for it, but I didn't want to waste it since I am on a limited budget.

So, I just added some fruit. I used peaches and it was delicious! The additions can be numerous! — Suzanne Haley, Delray Beach, Fla.

COFFEE FILTER

Dear Heloise: When the filter basket of my automatic coffeemaker has been washed, I place a clean filter in it before replacing it. Somehow it makes it easier to make the next batch of coffee. A little thing but it works for me! — Mary Finkler, Columbia, S.C.

Abundant Life

SEE THE GOOD

By Bob Wear

There is some good to be seen, and we must see it. Of course, there are flaws, shortcomings, and some unpleasant and undesirable elements, and some 'bad' things. These are kept before us, and we see them and are always trying to do something about them. With all of this, however, there is some good, and we must not permit ourselves to be unaware of it. We must 'see the good' and appreciate it.

The Pollyanna attitude of irresponsible optimism is not a justified view. The view that everything is alright, or that everything will turn out alright are not justified views. On the other hand, the hopeless and helpless view of the pessimist is also unjustified.

We must see the whole picture. It seems that the bad is being almost constantly placed before us, and this can be detrimental to us and to the common good. We admit that the bad cannot be ignored, but, at the same time, we must not overlook the good. Historically, both 'good' and 'bad' have always existed, and the world of people has never been all good or all bad; but people have always been involved in making choices.

It has been said, and may be true, that we usually see what we are looking for, especially in our associations with our fellowmen. It is also said that we see the world as we are. Without trying to settle these observations, one fact seems to stand out; we must not overlook the good in our fellowmen or in the world, because seeing it and appreciating it will help preserve it, and increase it. "To be happy and effective, the disposition must be cheerful and pleasant, not gloomy and melancholy. A propensity to hope and joy is real riches; one to fear and sorrow is real poverty." — Anon.

Seeing the good in ourselves and in others will more firmly establish the 'good' in us and in them.

Fresh, hot whole-wheat breads and muffins, as well as nutritious vegetable soups, help to balance one's diet and reduce fat intake. Using whole grains and legumes such as lentils, barley, beans and oats is a delicious way to provide nutritious meals.

The following recipes for Vegetable Bean Stew and Lentil and Vegetable Medley are among those offered in the "Eat Well, Be Well" cookbook (Simon and Schuster). The 100 recipes included in the cookbook follow the federal government's "Seven Dietary Guidelines for Americans" based on moderation, variety and balance as the keys to healthful eating. The cookbook also includes a comprehensive nutrition guide.

VEGETABLE BEAN STEW

- ¾ cup dry white beans
- 1½ cups cold water
- 3 teaspoons vegetable oil
- ½ cup chopped onion (about ½ medium)
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- One 16-ounce can whole tomatoes, crushed
- ½ teaspoon thyme, crushed
- ½ teaspoon basil, crushed
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon crushed red pepper
- 1 cup sliced carrots (about 2 medium)
- 1 cup sliced zucchini (about 1 medium)
- One 8½-ounce can kidney beans

In small saucepan, soak beans in cold water overnight, or for quick method, heat beans and water to boiling. Cover and boil about 2 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand, covered, about 1 hour.

Drain and measure soaking or cooking liquid and add enough water to make 1½ cups. Return water and beans to saucepan; heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low; cover and simmer about 1 hour.

In medium saucepan over medium-high heat in hot oil, cook onion and garlic about 3 minutes. Add white beans and bean liquid, tomatoes and seasonings; heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low; cover and simmer about 30 minutes. Add carrots and zucchini; continue to simmer covered about 30 minutes. Stir in kidney beans; cook about 5 minutes until beans and vegetables are tender. Makes 6 servings.

LENTIL AND VEGETABLE MEDLEY

- 2½ cups water
- One 13½-ounce can chicken broth
- 1 cup lentils, washed and sorted
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- ½ teaspoon thyme, crushed
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 4 teaspoons vegetable oil
- ½ cup chopped carrot (about ½ small)
- ½ cup chopped onion (about ½ medium)
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 cup chopped tomato (about 2 medium)

In a medium saucepan over medium-high heat, heat water, chicken broth, lentils, chili powder, thyme and pepper to boiling; reduce heat to low, cover and simmer about 30-35 minutes until lentils are tender. Meanwhile, in a large skillet, heat oil over medium-high heat. Add carrot, onion and garlic and saute about 7 minutes until tender. Stir in tomatoes; cook about 2 minutes more. Combine mixtures. Makes about 4 servings.
