Around Town

Farming activity is running at top speed, with a lot more work to do yet. "It seems like the faster I work, the further behind I get," Stanley Slagle commented wearily Thursday night. But the griping is good-natured after the enforced lay-off through the winter and the promise of a "bump-up" year.

Dr. A. T. Mims has called a breakfast meeting of his Aviation Committee of the Chamber for 7 a. m. Tuesday, April 12, in the C of C conference room. A number of topics are on the agenda.

All mothers of high school band and choir members are asked to attend a meeting at (Continued on page 3).

Fire Destroys Frio Community Center Building

A 31 - year - old structure, at one time an elementary school and church and later a social center, was destroyed Wednesday evening when flames gutted Frio Community House, located six miles south of Hereford.

Of unknown origin, the fire was out of control when members of Hereford Volunteer Fire Department arrived on the scene at about 6:30 p. m. Wednesday. Firemen were able to keep the fire from spreading outside the building.

Fire Marshal Clay Angelo estimated loss at $10,000. The brick building had a wooden and plasterboard interior. Firemen and community residents salvaged furniture and kitchen appliances from the four - room structure before flames spread throughout the interior.

The fire was of such intensity that portions of the brick exterior collapsed. Black smoke above the burning building was visible to residents in Hereford. The community house was last used on March 22. For the past three years, it was used for meetings and other social events by Frio residents.

It was occupied in January, 1929, as a two - teacher elementary school, and was called Frio District School No. 10.

The school became Frio Baptist Church in 1948, and was used as a church until 1957. That year, it was redecorated for use as a community house when a new church was opened one - half mile north of the building.

Clovis Rally Tips Whitefaces, 9 - 8

Hereford Whitefaces bombed a Clovis Wildcat pitcher in the first inning here Friday, then saw the situation reversed in the seventh as the Wildcats pulled a 9 - 8 victory out of apparent defeat.

This gave the teams a split in the two - game series with identical scores in each contest.

Although it was the last regularly - scheduled game before the Whitefaces enter district play, Coach Joe Smith has arranged for the Herd to scrimmage the West Texas State College baseballers Monday afternoon in Canyon.

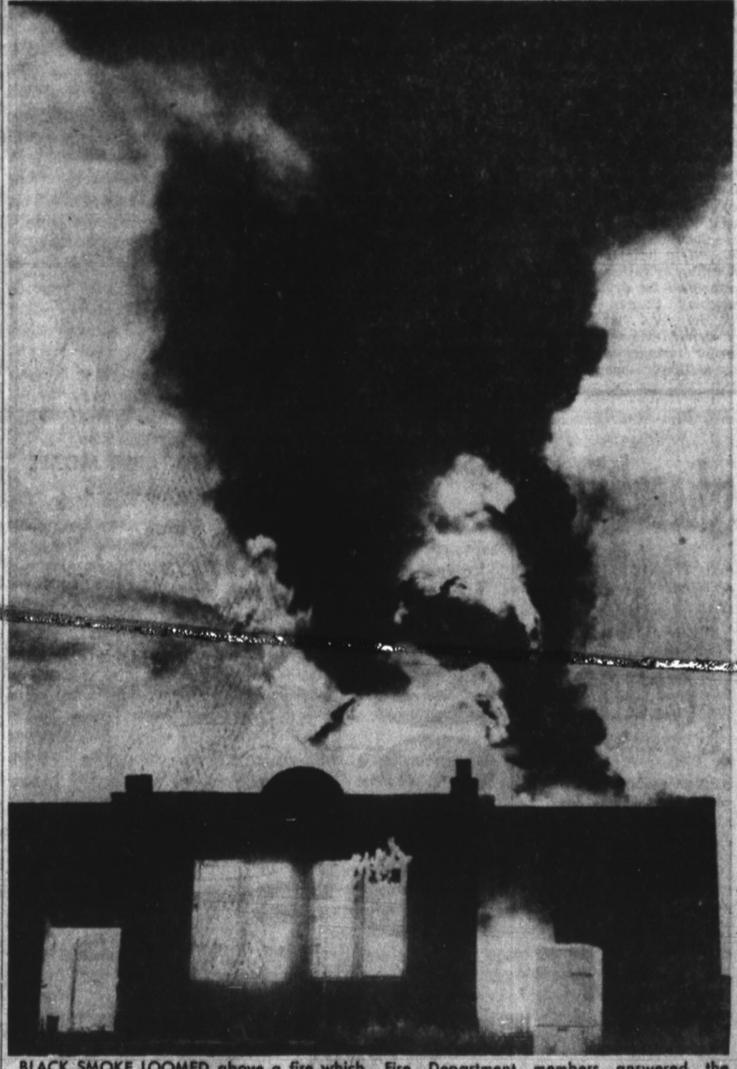

The scrimmage will start at 4 p. m. on the Buff diamond. West Texas will furnish pitchers for both teams and Hereford will use unlimited substitutions during the workout.

In Friday's game, Hereford lost little time in running up six runs in the first inning. They added two more to hold a big, 8-2 advantage going into the seventh inning.

But Clovis took advantage of inexperience to tally seven runs and salvage their second victory against seven defeats. Hereford now stands at 5-6 for (Continued on page 2)

Charles Corn

Eight...

Corn said 3,000 additional pounds of seed would be left in Hereford for other farmers interested in growing safflower. He said those farmers should contact Gentry for information on making contract to plant this spring. Last year, 25 county farmers planted more than 300 acres. It was grown on an experimental and educational basis, on dryland and in irrigated fields. A safflower variety, P-1, is recommended for dryland and is available at Pitman Grain, Corn said. He added that a P-7 variety should arrive in Hereford soon for farmers who plan to grow safflower under irrigation.

Commenting on last year's crop, Corn said results on dryland throughout the High Plains area were favorable. Poorer results were noted in total irrigated fields, he added. On Gentry's experimental plots northeast of Hereford, the specialist said, best yields were on pre-irrigated land in 30-inch rows, with approximately 22 pounds of seed planted to the acre. "We recognize that you need an additional crop here," Corn commented. "Demand for safflower is increasing and more uses for the oilseed are being found through research programs." "Three conditions favorable for dryland production of the crop," he went on, "are deep subsoil and adequate moisture; planting on weed-free seed beds; and enough surface moisture to germinate the crop." Corn explained that yields on dryland will vary a great deal because of amount of rain and various types of soil. "Safflower will not fit every farm operation, but it may fit yours," he said. Preparation of a seed bed for safflower should be similar to that used for other spring-planted crops, he said. It is important to kill all volunteer grain and weed growth immediately prior to planting safflower, and it is important to keep soil moisture as close to the surface as possible to insure germination. In answer to a question asked by a local farmer, Corn said safflower planting dates can extend over a long period of time. It can be planted in the spring when soil temperature reaches 40 degrees. Corn advised that it is important to place the seed in moist soil. Preferably, the seed should not be placed deeper than two inches into the soil. "The most effective way to control weeds in safflower is by utilizing a sound crop rotation plan which keeps the weeds in check," Corn said.

the season. Starting Cat pitcher Fred Tipton lasted just one-third of the first inning as Hereford took advantage of his wildness to chalk up six runs on three hits.

Greg Combs, Dan McDowell and Jim Collier walked to load the bases. Donnie Marcontell singled in one run, another tallied as Charlie Burrus was safe on an error. Ronnie Botkin walked in another run and Wes Poarch singled to bat in two runs.

Charlie Thomas walked and Botkin stole home. That was all for Tipton, as Wayne Mitchell came in to relieve. He got a break when Poarch and was caught trying to steal home. Mitchell walked Combs and McDowell singled to load the sacks again before Collier grounded out to end the rally.

Clovis got one run in the second inning. George Davis singled and stole second. James Rawls struck out but was safe on first as Poarch dropped the third strike. Bailey then singled in Davis.

Hereford was held to one hit through the next three innings, but scored two more runs in the fifth. With one out Bill Nelson walked, stole second and Kenny Loerwald was safe at first and went to second on two errors by the Clovis second sacker. Jim Collier then blasted a triple to left center to score both runners.

Clovis got its second run in the sixth as Bob Prince, Tommy Hartley and George Davis singled.

With what seemed to be a secure six-run lead, Hereford substitutes took over three infield posts and all outfield positions. Starter Marcontell was taken out, with what seemed to be his fourth victory of the season.

Sophomore Drew Kershen managed to get the first Clovis batter to ground out, and then the roof fell in. Mitchell was safe on an error and Alton Denton singled deep to left center to score the runner. Prince walked and Tommy Hartley singled in another run. Jimmy Boyd doubled in two runs and Davis singled. Boyd scored on an error that moved Davis to second.

James Rawls singled and took second on a fielding error. Jim Collier came in to relieve Kershen. Rawls took third on a passed ball and came in on an error for the winning run.

With two out in the last of the seventh, Hereford got a runner on base by an error, but he could not advance.

Winning pitcher was Mitchell, who worked six and two-thirds innings. He gave up two runs, three hits, walked three and struck out eight. Tipton worked just one-third of an inning. He gave up two hits, walked six and gave up six runs.

Charged with the loss for Hereford was Kershen, who worked one-third of an inning. He gave up seven runs, walked one and allowed five hits. Marcontell, who worked six innings, allowed two runs on six hits while walking one and striking out eight. Collier pitched the last two outs for Hereford. He walked one and struck out one.

courthouse and at Hub Community Center on Wednesday at 2 p. m. Fred Elliott, cotton work unit specialist of Texas A-&M Extension Service, and John Box, agronomist with the Extension Service, will cover all phases of cotton production at the meetings. Elliott's discussion will include pre-emergence treatment, lateral oiling, flame cultivation, weed control with naphtha oil, Dowpon, soil sterilents, post-emergence and Dicryl for weed control.

Potter County Attorney Lon Moser will be guest speaker for the semi-annual Hereford installation banquet Tuesday at 7:15 p. m. in the Jim Hill Hotel.

It seems like Deaf Smith County has really had its share of court action recently. And there's more to come, with petit jury, and grand jury both called for Monday morning.

Roger Brumley, who underwent an instantly successful brain operation last week, is in Room 712 at Harris Hospital, Fort Worth. He will be there for another week.

Have you noticed the gorgeous blossoms on the trees this year.

One of the prettiest is a flowering almond tree. It belongs to Mrs. R. M. Cantrell at 310 Avenue K and is located next door in a vacant lot.

County Commissioners are to meet Monday at 10 a. m. Judge H. E. Henslee says the meeting probably will be a brief one, due to district court activity.

Hereford School board is to meet Tuesday night in regular session. The trustees met in special session last Tuesday in order to canvass votes on the trustees' election. They conducted no other business.

Palmer Norton and R. G. Peeler have called a meeting for Wednesday night of all farmers and businessmen who are interested in investing in a feed mill and cattle feeding operation. Norton said they were interested in promoting the venture as a community cattle feeding program. Plans now call for lots of 100 and 200 head, with between 4,000 and 6,000 head capacity. The meeting is set for 8 p. m. in the Pioneer Flame Room.

As expected, Hereford placed

James Johnson Rites Pending

Funeral services were pending Saturday afternoon for James O. Johnson, about 68, who was found dead in his apartment at 101 E. Sixth St. at 11:15 a. m. Saturday.

Justice of the Peace Berry Miles ruled death was by natural causes. The body was taken to Marcum - Scott Funeral home in Hereford.

It is believed that Mr. Johnson had lived in Hereford from four to five years. The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department was trying to locate Mr. Johnson's niece, believed to be living in Phoenix, Ariz., Saturday afternoon. He has no relatives in this locality.

Campfire News

The Wa-O-Ki-Ya Campfire girls met at the Community Center on April 8. The group learned the Trail Seeker's Desire. They also went to the airport and saw 12 planes.

The group was shown around the airport, after which they returned to the Campfire Hut. They received their patches for flying last year in Blue Birds. They also got two trees - a red cedar and pine tree.

Present were Dianne Pitman, Charlotte Hill, Edith Davis and Dianne Brisendine. Those absent were Brenda Roberts, Jean Roberson and Sharon Garrison.

AFTER TEST

Tornado Signals Vague For Many

Although there are still some minor changes to be made, Thursday's tornado alert test was termed a good one by Civil Defense officials in Hereford.

All Hereford schools heard the wailing siren blasts and carried out pre-determined tornado routines. This is in direct contrast to the first test held in 1939, when none of the schools heard the alert.

"But the public still seems confused by the two signals," Fire Marshal Clay Angelo commented Friday.

As Civil Defense Director for Hereford and Deaf Smith County, Angelo again outlined the following signals for tornadoes:

ALERT is sounded by a solid blast of the special sirens. This means a tornado has been sighted in the general area.

TAKE COVER is sounded by alternating blasts of the sirens. This means a tornado is in the immediate vicinity and likely to hit Hereford and all citizens should take cover.

"It is vital that every citizen learn and understand these signals," Angelo said. "The alert is a general warning... the take cover signal is a special warning that a tornado is approaching Hereford and is likely to hit the town."

Installed April, 1938, the sirens are located atop City Hall and on Union Street, between Avenues H and I.

The safest place in event of a tornado is in a storm shelter or basement. Such shelters should be stocked with canned food, water, battery-powered radio, blankets, shovel, first aid kit and other emergency items.

In public buildings and homes, the safest place is in the southwest corner, away from windows and other openings.

Open several windows or doors, since a large part of tornado damage may come from rapidly changing air pressure.

If in the open, travel at right angles from the path of the funnel. Tornadoes generally move from southwest to northeast, but may move in any direction.

If caught in the open, the safest place is in a ditch. Do not call law enforcement offices, fire department, radio or television stations, weather bureaus or newspapers. The information will be announced as soon as possible and frequent calls may slow information channels.

If a person sights a tornado, he should report its location, approximate speed and direction of travel to the nearest law enforcement office.

In event a tornado approaches during school hours, do not attempt going after children. They will be protected and generally much safer in steel-braced school buildings than in a car or residence.

In the event of general tornado warnings for the area, Highway Patrol and Sheriff's Department mobile units will be stationed in scattered areas around the county. Any information received will be radioed to Hereford. The Fire Department will sound tornado signals only if necessary.

Civil Defense workers go into action in case a tornado should strike. All law enforcement personnel will be used, assisted by firemen and Red Cross workers.

The last tornado warning sounded here was three years ago, but the storm broke up about three miles from Hereford.

Residents should familiarize themselves with terminology used in issuing warnings.

Tornado "forecast" is issued for a relatively large area in which weather conditions will be favorable for one or more tornadoes to develop.

Tornado "alert" occurs where one or more weather reporting stations locate an area of turbulence or cloud formations which indicate the probability of a tornado. Immediately following such an alert, agencies will become increasingly observant as will local observers in the alerted area.

Tornado "warnings" are announcements that a tornado has been sighted and reported. The warnings tell where and when the tornado has been reported and list the areas toward which the tornado is moving. These warnings cover a short period of time, usually less than an hour, and are for the purpose of advising persons in the path of the storm to take immediate safety precautions.

Radar "echo" is the term used to describe a suspicious formation appearing on the radar scope that is not identifiable as a tornado.

Warning of the approach of a severe storm or tornado is a public safety and welfare measure of greatest importance. Although many tornadoes cause little or no damage, the warnings can mean the difference between life and death.

Above all, residents should stay calm. Persons have been killed by running out into streets and by turning back into the path of a tornado. Even though a warning is issued, the chances of a tornado striking one's home or location are comparatively slight.

A tornado is usually observed as a funnel-shaped cloud, spinning rapidly and extending toward the earth from the base of a thundercloud. When close by, it sounds much like the roar of a squadron of airplanes.

"Tornado weather" includes hot, sticky days with southerly winds and a threatening sky. However, many such days occur without tornadoes.

Causes of a tornado's destructive force are violent winds which uproot trees, destroy buildings, and which create a serious hazard from objects blown through the air; and differences in air pressure which can lift automobiles and can cause buildings to collapse.

Wedding Date Set For Nelda Barnett

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barnett of 612 Austin Avenue in Hereford announce the engagement of their daughter Nelda to Jack Rogers of 311 Irving in Hereford. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rogers.

Miss Barnett is a senior at Hereford High School and is presently employed at Jack Renfro's office.

Rogers is a student at West Texas State College. He is also employed at Joe's Auto Clinic. The wedding is planned for June 25 in Hereford.

The Jivaro Indians in Ecuador shrink a human head to the size of an orange as a token of their victories in battle.

By JIMMIE GILBERTINE
Some good lady, who subscribes to an Oregon newspaper, sent us a bunch of clippings on the two important subjects of "Dog Control" and "Trash Collections". Hereford, she figures, might well adopt both of these policies.

The complaint is a seasonal one - and this is the season! Always, it seems, we have had a dog problem in these parts. Folks who own dogs get downright mad at those who poison them, and folks who are overrun by packs of stray dogs complain just as much or more. On the other side of the question. During the past weeks, I have heard both sides explored several times, and I don't believe there is any answer which will suit everyone. The Stayton, Oregon, policy (which the lady sent) is to impound all dogs which run at large between the dates of April 1 and August 31. Dogs are held for a fixed period and may be redeemed for a $2 fee, plus board and room.

The Oregonians also seem to have organized their kids in a big, area-wide anti-litterbug campaign. The drive was climaxed with a gigantic parade in which the youngsters carried placards and signs.

And in addition to these two items, I personally think it is just about time to pass an ordinance against dandelions. Instead of aiming the ordinance at people who have them, why not pass the ordinance against dandelions coming up in the city limits? If we can't get an ordinance, then maybe we could have a proclamation. Hardly anyone seems to care much for the pesky little yellow flowers, and this would save many people a lot of trouble.

Mrs. H. E. Miller says that several people have the idea that the proposed Golden Age Home for this area would house none, except Methodists. This is not true. It would be open to people of all faiths. The Methodist Church now operates around 100 of these homes in the United States and only the first two they built are confined to Methodists. Rev. Don Davidson further said that they are most unhappy with these two homes - and that the policy has been to keep the last 98 open to all persons, treating everyone alike. He emphatically stated that the Hereford project, if it becomes a reality, will be open to all persons who meet general qualifications.

I notice where some Yankee moved down to Colorado City and opened up a factory to treat tumbleweeds for making decorations. For a long time, we have colored and used tumbleweeds for the same purpose - only we did it out of necessity instead of choice. Argen Draper even had a little item a few years back in the Home Demonstration column in The Brand dealing with tumbleweed decorations, but it took an outsider to organize the deal and start marketing the pesky things on a national basis.

We still have one consolation, though. If this fad really goes, and folks start looking on tumbleweeds like roses, Highway 60 will be the best decorated road in the world - especially when the wind is blowing 70 miles per hour out of the west.

J. W. Robinson is an old boy who really gets around. You are just as likely to run into him one place in town as another. Usually, he has a big grin, too. J. B. Noland is another fellow I am always glad to see, because he always greets me with a big grin. I asked him once if he always felt as good as he indicated, and he replied, "Naw, it's just a front." I don't believe it, though. I figure a fellow has to honestly be in a good humor to radiate such cheer.

Earnest Langley and Dudley Bayne are giving me trouble about my weather predictions. They remember that I predicted a late freeze to get the peach trees, and they are challenging my accuracy. Frankly, I am beginning to wonder. The freeze is fast becoming overdue - and this 80 degree weather has me jittery. It begins to look, after all these years, that I may have finally missed a prediction. I don't mind too much, but I hate to spoil a perfect 15-year record over a little two-bit freeze.

Hold Homecoming of Adrian Church

By MRS. R. L. PINNELL
Old friends gathered for Homecoming at the Adrian First Methodist Church Sunday. Approximately 250 were present. Five ex-pastors gathered with the group. They are the Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Swinm of Dimmitt, 1931; the Rev. and Mrs. J. Paul Morgan of Burlington, Colo., 1933; Reverend and Mrs. Oscar Bruce, Haskell, 1937-1940; Reverend and Mrs. J. E. Young, Sundown, 1949-1954; and the Rev. and Mrs. Johnnie Williams, Turkey, 1956-1960.

Services began at 10 a. m. with a call to worship by the pastor, Rev. Gene Moore, and continued through the morning sermon by Dr. E. D. Landreth, District Superintendent of Amarillo.

After the morning service and while the meal was being assembled, a small "church-cake" was brought into the Sanctuary. It had been made by Mrs. N. L. Jacobson and Mrs. V. E. Lemke. A picket fence surrounded a 24 by 30 inch plot made of 50 candles depicting the 50 years.

Each ex-pastor was called to the front and each lit the candles for his years of service.

After the meal, the group regathered in the Sanctuary for a request program which was ex-

BUSY SUMMER
NEW YORK (AP) - The 1959 summer theatre season has been the busiest for actors in the history of Equity, the performing union.

At the peak of the period, 4,500 professionals were employed, compared to the previous record of 4,200 in 1958. During an average winter week about 3,000 actors are engaged.

Courthouse employees say that they are due to move back into the remodeled building in another 30 days, but I haven't run into any of them who think they will make it. Everyone seems to think that there is still too much to do. It is going to be nice, however, and they are all looking forward to the return trip.

Another nice building, opened this week, is the Temple Baptist Church auditorium. Most of the members have been working long hours to get things ready - and they are justly proud of the completed structure.

I hear that N. D. Bartlett is cutting his big building, across west from the post office, into three 25-foot structures. Workmen started on the project this week. There are several other business moves coming up soon, but most of them want to keep mum until they get the deals nailed down.

Doc Adams is a fellow who will bear watching these days. He has one of those midget miniature cameras no larger than a cigarette lighter, and is snapping pictures everywhere he goes. Worse still, the darn things are turning out fairly well - much to the discomfort of his subjects.

Jack Hagar is stationed out in California, and gets The Brand. He wrote home and told his folks that we are getting a lot of readers in his outfit - even the Bull Column.

Lee Benefield says that beet sugar is not out-selling cane in this area. One store, he says, is selling 70 per cent beet against 30 per cent cane. Lee is quite optimistic about the proposed sugar plant. He thinks our chances are excellent. He also says that Jim Witherspoon is unquestionably the hardest working man he has ever been associated with.

Hereford Youth Joins Boys Ranch Members

There are now two boys named Martin at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch near Amarillo, and although unrelated, they are both from Hereford.

The newest member of Boys Ranch is 14-year-old Leon Martin who came to the Ranch on March 9th. He soon looked up the other Hereford youngster, Norman Martin, who is a senior and will be graduating in May.

Another Hereford boy at the Ranch is Joe Shreve, 11, who has been a member of the growing "Cal Farley Family" since September, 1957.

Leon was immediately impressed with the new boy's dormitories that are slowly replacing the old, frame Army barracks so many boys lived in for so long.

Leon finds himself a resident of one of the new buildings, Maynard Hall.

The modern "family-designed" housing unit was constructed two years ago at the Ranch and accommodates 36 boys and two staff families. Six rooms were constructed for the boys, six of them sharing a room. Living quarters for the two staff families are located at each end of the home.

In cold weather the boys are kept warm with gas-heating units and in the summer they are cooled with air conditioning.

The family atmosphere is maintained at all times with general living area in the home where the boys and their "families" congregate for reading, television, or the other varied interests that go into a close family life.

Construction of multi-color stone bricks, Maynard Hall, is a far cry from the old weather-beaten Army barracks that some of the boys are still living in at Boys Ranch.

Leon Martin is living in the improved surroundings because of the hundreds of thoughtful and unselfish supporters who love boys and Boys Ranch.

He said that Hereford Library was installed in 1919, and received aid from the county in 1929. Today there are 23,000 books and 56 different magazines represented at the local library.

He urged all members to make use of the County Library, "a place where we can find anything we want to know."

Mrs. J. Early, representing Deaf Smith County Red Cross Chapter, presented certificates of appreciation to Kiwanians Dr. Hap Cavness and Clint Formby, and to a representative of the Brand.

Guests at the meeting included Clarence Caywood and Harry Caylor.

Tom Woodford In Finals At CU

Mr. and Mrs. Lisle Woodford have received word that their son, Tom Woodford, law student in the University of Colorado, was one of eight law students who went into the finals of the annual Rothgerber Competition.

The students, winners of two rounds held since the start of classes last fall, argued a case in the Supreme Court room of the State Capitol Building in Denver on April 6. Justice from the Colorado State Supreme Court acted as judge.

Tom Woodford and another law student presented the oral argument for their team in the fictitious case and won, but the opposing team won the written competition and the final decision by one point.

The Rothgerber Competition was established in 1950 in honor of a late Denver County Judge. Tom Woodford, who is completing his junior year in law school, was elected president of his class in September. He is case note editor of the Rocky Mountain Law Review, University School of Law magazine and his first article for this magazine will be published soon. He was awarded a scholarship at the end of last year because of his high scholarship rating. He was recently asked to serve on the board of directors of the Legal Aid Society in Boulder.

Piano Students Play Auditions

Seven local piano pupils from the class of Mrs. George McLean participated in the National Piano Teachers Guild Auditions, annual piano tournament, held in Dimmitt Thursday.

Dimmitt is one of the 650 centers in the nation where the National Guild of Piano Teachers, are held each spring. Two hundred experienced adjudicators are sent to these centers to hear students play. The students are judged according to pieces chosen from the Masters of pianoforte literature. A total of 40,000 piano pupils of the nation will participate this year as candidates for membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians. Judging the Dimmitt students was Lewis Lane from Cape Cod, Massachusetts. He was on the staff of the National Broadcasting Company, N. Y. for 20 years and was founder and director of the Music Research Section of NBC for 15 years. This is his 13th year to conduct auditions for the National Piano Teachers Guild.

Hereford students participating were Charlotte Babione, Beth Ballard, Nancy Gripp, Glenda Sue Dillard, Nicky Osborn, Donna Olson and Glenda Fuhrmann.

Mrs. Leroy Aven presented a review of The Day Christ Died, by Jim Bishop, at the regular meeting of La Plata Study Club in the home of Mrs. Dan Little Monday evening.

In keeping with the program topic, "Easter Thoughts", Mrs. Aven recounted the story, as told by Bishop, of the crucifixion and ending with the words of the captain, after His death on the cross, "Truly, he must have been the son of God."

With Mrs. Buddy Hutson playing the accompaniment, Ara J. Johnson, a guest at the meeting, sang "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?"

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Raymond White, vice-president, Mrs. A. J. Schroeter reported that the historical marker had been installed at the La Plata towns site section, culminating a project on which the club had been working for almost two years.

Appointed to serve on the yearbook committee were Mes-

Extending from the centerpiece at each side were mint green satin ribbons bearing the names and date "Bettye and Pat - June 5".

Well-Known Adjudicator Is Visitor

A nationally-known musician and piano judge visited in Hereford Tuesday night.

He is Lewis Lane of Cape Cod, Mass. He visited with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Osborn and their son, Nicky.

Lane was adjudicator (judge) for the annual National Guild piano auditions held in Dimmitt on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

A number of local piano students participated in the annual auditions, which are sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

Lane now terms himself a "free-lance" in the musical world, but has a colorful background of work with the great names in the music and concert worlds.

He was on the staff of the National Broadcasting Company in New York City for 21 years. He was founder and acted as director of the Music Research Section of NBC for 15 years.

Two years ago, during auditions at Tulla, Lane met Nicky Osborn. "I was impressed, not just with his fine piano technique, but with his charm and vivaciousness... his interest in many different fields," Lane said.

Nicky, now 11 years old and as much interested in baseball as in Bach, was among the Hereford pianists who auditioned in Dimmitt last week.

For several hours Tuesday evening Lane kept the Osborns amused with his anecdotes about the great musical figures he has known. While at NBC, during the hey-day of musical broadcasts, Lane came to know the temperamental Arturo Toscanini.

"You know," he related, "they have just released some limited edition albums of some of his rehearsals of the NBC Symphony Orchestra."

"One record includes the time when Toscanini blew up and finally threw his expensive Swiss watch on the platform and stomped out.

"A few days later, he found two gifts on his desk. One contained a new, beautiful Swiss watch. The other package was a cheap pocket watch, with a note attached: 'This watch for use only at rehearsals.'"

Lane also told several stories about the fabulous Rachmaninov, who got an average of $4,000 per concert, yet arbitrarily refused to appear in Schenectady, N. Y., because he couldn't pronounce the name of the town.

For the past 13 years, Lane has devoted April, May and June each year to the Guild auditions.

Out of the many thousands of young, aspiring pianists he has heard, several remain fresh in his mind.

Ten years ago he auditioned in Denton. Among the students was a curly-haired youth from Kilgore, Van Cliburn. "It was easy to tell that he could have a brilliant career as a concert pianist," Lane relates, "The only thing that surprised me was the speed with which he gaired world-wide prominence."

He also talked of the boy who played as badly as possible, because he had no interest. He told of the little girl from the backwoods Tennessee mountain country who talked to her fingers as she played, particularly when the left hand lagged behind the right one; and of the Chicago boy who tried all sorts of approaches to find out his rating, since his father had promised him a motor boat for a top grade.

Although most of his work with NBC was concerned with musical research, Lane studied piano with Edwin Hughes and Ignaz Friedman, both distinguished instructors, while Ruben Goldmark was his musical theory and composition teacher at the New York College of Music.

From Dimmitt, Lane was going to Plainview to conduct auditions. From there he will audition in Houston for about four weeks.

Her Number Work Pays Off In The Field Of Rocket Design

By RALPH DIGHTON
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — To talk with Olga Taussky Todd about the thing she knows best you need at least four years of advanced study in an exotic language — the hieroglyphic of higher mathematics.

Dr. Todd, 52, is widely regarded as the outstanding woman mathematician in the United States. For 10 years a math consultant for the National Bureau of Standards in Washington, she came to the California Institute of Technology a year ago for special research in numbers.

That's right, just plain numbers, like 2 or 10 or 4,579,321. But she uses them in a special way — to help design airplanes and spaceships. Much of her work is classified as top secret.

You can talk to her husband, Prof. John Todd, on a more earthly level. He's a mathematician, too, but he teaches, and understands the limitations of average mortals.

Olga Todd also finds some time for teaching, but she starts with Ph. D.'s.

"I'm working with two youngsters now," she says, "who may turn out to be quite brilliant. I'm very fond of them."

You get the impression her fondness is that of an electronic computer for the baby computers at her feet. One mistake, and bloop! Back they go to the laboratory to learn how to become good little computers.

The comparison isn't exactly fair, Olga Todd is human. She's slender and dark haired, and you wouldn't be able to tell her from the other women at the corner market — until she got to the cash register. She'd have the exact change laid on the counter before the checker punched his first key.

Numbers have been Olga's life since the day she first succumbed to what she calls the "music of mathematics" as a schoolgirl in her home town, Olomouc, Czechoslovakia. She was 15 then.

Nine years later she won her Ph. D. at the University of Vienna.

Her father had died in the meantime and she spent her last year in school doing odd jobs to pay her way.

"I hated it then," she recalls, "but I'm very proud now that I had to do some practical work. One job" — and here her nose wrinkles as she says it — "was testing for acidity at the local vinegar plant."

Olga met John Todd in 1937 while both were on the faculty of the University of London. A year later they married.

Then came World War II and the long grind of making certain — as scientists for the Ministry of Aircraft Production — that British planes would stand up against the Luftwaffe. Math is a basic part of airplane design.

Olga and John moved 18 times during the war, from bombed out flat to bombed out flat. Finally even their furniture, which had been stored for safekeeping, was destroyed by a German V2 missile. The Todds, themselves unscathed, came to this country in 1948.

John Todd is Irish. He likes the feel of a tennis racket in his muscular hand and even now, at 48, plays often.

Olga has no form of recreation, "except perhaps a little music now and then."

Most evenings the childless Todds can be found in separate rooms at their home, studying, grading papers, scribbling the symbols of algebra on page after page of thick tablets.

"I started out to be an engineer," Tod says, "and found math so tough I had to make a special effort to master it. Having done so, I stayed with it to teach others."

"My wife, however, has always had a genius for math," he says proudly. "She has had more than 60 papers published in scientific journals and contributed to the defense of two countries. She is doing something with her life, which is more than one can say of many of her sex."

Beauty At Home

By LYNN CARTER
Q. What do you say is the prime secret of a good, durable nailpolish job?

A. Thorough drying of your polish. So, it's wise to plan this routine for whenever you have at least a half-hour of uninterrupted time. If you do it before you go to bed at night, your polish will have an even better chance to dry and harden thoroughly.

Q. How can I remove a fresh wine stain from an unwashable dress?

A. Try using an absorbent, such as French chalk, cornstarch, or fuller's earth. Apply this, let remain for sometime, then brush it off. Repeat, if necessary.

Q. Please suggest an exercise that will help me to achieve a firmer bustline.

A. Sit cross-legged on the floor. Sway the torso to the right, extending your left arm over your head while your right elbow rests on the floor for support. Reverse, and keep repeating for at least 25 times or more.

Q. What makeup routine do you recommend for the girl with a very round face?

A. She should apply her rouge close to her nose and blend it upward over her cheekbones. Her eyebrows should be slightly irregular, angled, and high, so as to add length to her features. Piling her hair high is a help, too.

Q. I'm a girl of 13 and am beginning to be troubled with pimples, which embarrass me very much. Please tell me what I can do about this.

A. Your very best procedure is to see your doctor immediately. Medicine has made big strides in the treatment of acne — X-ray treatments, diet checks, peeling of the outer skin, and so on. Your own doctor can either treat you, or recommend a good skin specialist.

Q. My eyebrows are very sparse, but when I use a pencil on them, it is very noticeable. Can you suggest anything else I can do to help bring them out?

A. Try using an eyebrow CREAM which, because of its creamy texture, doesn't create a harsh line that pencil is prone to do.

MATHEMATICS IS MUSIC to Dr. Olga Taussky Todd, who says she became enamored of math as a girl. Now Dr. Todd, one of the leading mathematicians in America, is engaged in special research in numbers at the California Institute of Technology. Her work plays an important role in aircraft design.

YOUR RED CROSS ON THE JOB

The chapter office has had calls on donating to Red Cross for the Midwestern flood area. We are not conducting a drive but the office will accept and send any money that people want to give. Some who have family and/or friends are giving through the chapter now, and anyone wishing to do so, may mail or bring check to the Red Cross Office in the Court-house or mail to Box 137 marked Red Cross.

Through the beginning in March to April 4th, 18 shelters were open to 1,200 persons seeking refuge.

The Red Cross has 65 professional disaster staff workers assisting some 10,000 volunteer workers in the eight state flood area. These workers come from all over the United States and have had special training and experience in flood work. We are fortunate enough not to live in a flood area but now is the time of the year for us to think about tornadoes, which can be just as destructive. Each of us should make definite and concrete plans what we would do in case of such a disaster. Read and clip from the Hereford Brand the suggestions given you by Civil Defense last week. Those are the same rules that Red Cross uses in her preparedness plan - and encourages all to become familiar with and remember well.

Small Vote In Our City Election Example of What Khrushchev Means

Elections have long been a king size puzzle to students of human nature, and the two which were held here the past few days are no exception.

The school election Saturday drew a tremendous vote, totaling 723 ballots — and without any apparent issue at stake — although six candidates did seek three board posts. Observers noted, however, that similar school elections have frequently dropped below the 400 total under similar conditions.

The city election Tuesday, on the other hand, drew few more votes than might have been accounted for among the election judges and employees in the building when only 36 ballots were marked in the entire election. True enough, the two candidates in the city election were unopposed, a fact which pretty well testifies to city operation having already been endorsed by the voters.

Negligence and indifference seem to be the only possible answer — and some 2,000 of us are guilty of these two infractions in the operation of a sound democracy.

Danger in the situation is another matter which deserves more than passing thought. What, for instance, if some small minority of 50 people had banded together and staged a write-in campaign around 5:30 p.m.? There are several firms in the community whose employees and wives might easily have swung the entire city election. Is this good business?

During recent years we have watched small groups with selfish interests literally take over our labor unions through this route. Worse still, Mr. Khrushchev has openly told us that Russia plans to take over the United States of America without firing a shot — and we have a suspicion that, should this silent revolution ever occur, it will come through situations like we saw in the City of Hereford election Tuesday.

A democracy must ever be vigilantly defended if it is to prosper and flourish, and in these peak periods it appears most vulnerable. This time we were fortunate in that the will of the people continues, if we have learned a lesson from the situation, the total of 36 votes Tuesday was a good thing.

If we are to make a practice of the custom, then we are headed for trouble. A good thing.

April 15 Final Date On Stickers

Friday, April 15, is a date to remember, especially if you do not have your vehicle operator's sticker for 1960.

Stiff penalties during the past two years will, no doubt, send many people hurrying to inspection stations. More important, however, is the fact that accident tolls have been dropped in recent months on Texas' highways — and the inspection system is given credit for a portion of this drop.

Requirements for securing the stickers are comparatively small and, generally speaking, practical. They cover adequate brakes, lighting equipment, horns, mirror and windshield wipers. All of these things without doubt do contribute to general highway safety.

If more people will view the little stickers as a means of helping them get back home without an accident, instead of a mandatory state requirement, we feel sure that not one single vehicle will appear on the roads after April 15 without meeting the requirement.

Boat Bug Bites Area Residents

Bankers keep telling us from time to time that they consider loans on small pleasure boats as good collateral; better, perhaps, than automobiles.

Out in this country, miles from adequate water to float such craft, the conclusion is confusing, especially when it comes from a hard-boiled banker. Mostly, they say, it boils down to a matter of sincere desire by the owner to keep his boat. "People will pay off their boat," declared one banker. "They just won't let it go back. Besides, if they did, a boat is one of the easiest things to move, due to heavy demand."

Boats in this area are, without doubt, luxury items. They are expensive to own, operate and maintain. Despite all of this, you'll find more than 100 privately owned boats in the community, along with more proficient water skiers than probably any other area in Texas, when computed on a per capita basis. Furthermore, the fad is spreading, and so long as the bankers continue to look favorably on boat loans the fad will, no doubt, keep right on booming.

Optimistic Note On Sugar Plant

Hereford's bid for a sugar beet processing plant is picking up steam and, according to our special committee, should result in erection of a plant during the next 24 months.

This is difficult for some people to believe, we feel sure, but it is the honest thinking committee members who have worked tirelessly on the project, and who are in a position to know. Needless to say, their efforts have been well directed and despite numerous handicaps, including needed acreage quotas, the report comes out favorable.

Realization of such a plant, as we have said before, will do more to renovate the community than many people realize. In addition to the small industry, it will place a needed emphasis on cattle feeding in the area, and will contribute generously to an already well rounded diversification program in the area. The by-product, in fact, may well outshine the original plant when it comes to community improvement.

Hereford during the past two decades has emerged from a small, dusty village into a bustling little city. It affords competitive shopping facilities and has made a place for itself in the economy of the High Plains. Erection of the proposed $12 million plant would guarantee that the community is still growing and, still more important, that it has community-minded citizens who are willing to place the overall welfare of the area ahead of personal interests.

As we have said before: A town never stands still; it either goes forward, or starts slipping downhill.

Pastor Outlines Community Plan

Business men usually are proud of their own "college of hard knocks" through which they have become educated in the profit and loss tactics of competition. For that reason, they sometimes are dubious of advice from outsiders, especially when those outsiders haven't climbed the same business ladder.

But a preacher turned the tables on them here last week in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce workshop. The table was turned neatly and efficiently.

Rev. Gage Lloyd, Presbyterian minister of Big Spring, did the trick as he mapped a 4-point program for civic leaders in their leadership responsibility.

Here's the 4 markers the preacher posted for responsible leadership and service to community: (1) planning, (2) capital, (3) the will to reach out and (4) courage to propose new progress in face of opposition.

The minister, who probably has looked at as many money worries as the businessmen while fighting a never-ending battle with church budget, focused special attention upon the matter of capital — risk money, in particular. "When you find tight money," he warned, "you find a community that is dead."

The applause from more than 100 Chamber of Commerce leaders from an area reaching from Canadian to Del Rio was enthusiastic — a pretty fair indication of agreement.

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

In the Steps of Christ

I feel joyful when I sketch the great events of Palm Sunday. Maybe it is because I once rode down the old Roman road on the Mount of Olives, astride a little donkey borrowed from a friendly farmer in Bethphage. I still recall the crisp, clear air, the whir-r-r of a bird on the wing and the blue sky and gentle landscape. It was not hard to imagine that when Jesus was "at the descent of the mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoice and praise God with a loud voice . . . Saying blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord." (Luke 19:37-8)

Wild Men, 'Cats Good Campfire Tale Topics

By MRS. R. L. CRISWELL Tales of the past are most interesting, and when they are local or near enough that you have visited or driven through the canyons in which they occurred, you are even more interested.

This one happened in the Yellowhouse Canyon near Lubbock, or so the story goes. If you have a more detailed story than this one, this writer would be glad to hear it.

Lubbock did not exist at this time or perhaps there were a few tents near where Lubbock now stands. But there were a few ranch houses scattered along the canyon and perhaps a few "nesters" that had settled on the land, hoping that one day they would be able to own a section or two and run a few cattle along with the farming they planned to do. I am sure it did not enter the minds of these few people that one day Lubbock would be in one of the greatest cotton production centers of the Staked Plains.

This story is about "The Wild Man of Yellowhouse Canyon". It's a story told by neighbors to each other and talked over with enthusiasm, because of the man's survival through the years. Cowboys had reported seeing a wild man, almost entirely covered with hair and so fleet of foot that he could and did easily outrun a horse and had done this many times — for

If a cowboy saw a wild man, he was sure to give chase.

It was fun to tell that you had seen the wild man and the fact that he outran your horse made an even more interesting story. The young men of the territory would often ride the canyon on Sundays, hoping to get a glimpse of him. It made them something of a hero to tell to their best girl friends. Perhaps the girl would show just a little concern about his being in the canyon where wild animals as well as the wild man might attack them. Once in a while they would see a wildcat or a Lobo, but the wild man held their interest.

One spring the wild man began to get bolder; perhaps he was lonely, for it seems that children held a peculiar attraction for him. He would show up where they were at play, never trying to touch them or annoy them in any way. He just sat quietly and listened to their chatter and watched them at play.

Sometimes he would give himself away by chucking at some of their childish antics and they would run, crying in fright to their mothers. This, of course, frightened the mothers even more than the children. It seems that he made a point of never coming near a home when the man of the house was there. This could have been because he had had men on horses to chase him and he did not want to go near them for this reason.

He either became bolder or his interest in the little folk became more intense, because more and more women were frightened. He was seen most often near the homes near the canyon. The mothers became afraid to let the children out alone because of their fear that he would kidnap one of them.

The men too, became concerned. They formed a hunting party, and since he had eluded them so many times before, decided to hunt in relays. If one group saw him, they were to give chase and send one of their number to report, and when the horses ran down, another group would begin where they left off. He had disappeared in the brush many times, and search as they might, they could never find him.

Three days they were after him, and as he neared a particularly brushy part of the canyon, they feared he was or would be lost to them again. Someone had brought a rifle along and shot the poor wild man. Whether he shot to kill or not, no one will ever know, but he fell fatally injured and was dead before any of them reacted to him. He was about six feet tall and his body was completely covered with hair an inch or so long. His body seemed to be normal in every way and he was about 40 years old, they estimated.

Conjectures were that he may have escaped from the Indians and hidden in the canyon as a child when there were no white people there. Being afraid of the Indians, he had not joined them; so grew to manhood alone and wild.

His very loneliness had trapped him into searching out the children to watch them at play, and if he had not been disturbed would have probably joined them. Perhaps he could have learned to talk, and if so; think of the stories he could have told of his struggle for existence, living off the land and his battles with animals for meat that he could live through the dreadfully cold winters of the Staked Plains.

Is the story fact? I do not know, but it does make a good story.

Now for a hunting story or "Panther" story.

A long time ago, when little boys loved to hunt O'possums and coons and would take their

JAYCEES WANT GO-KARTS

Members of Friona Jaycees are planning to sponsor supervised "go-kart" competition in Friona. Go-Karts, or whatever the proper terms for the low-slung, lawn-mower engine-driven carts can be, have become popular among youngsters in this area during the past few months. All enthusiasts who would like to compete with their go-cart in a contest are asked to notify The Star office as soon as possible. If enough interest is shown, Jaycees will give their go-cart plans the green light. Proposed program will include division as to age of the driver, horsepower of the cart and perhaps others if drivers in sufficient numbers show up.

ROTARY HEARS FORMOSA SENATORS

Senators Cheng She-wo and Liu Ming-Hou of the one-house Nationalist Chinese Congress on Formosa Friday noon spoke to the Dalhart Rotary Club at its noon luncheon program in El Chorro Room. The Senators have been in the U. S. a month studying a wide variety of subjects including: government, industry, agriculture, political and social life, newspapers and other mass media, freedom of the press, corporation and public finance, fiscal policies, and the securities and money markets. They probably will remain about another month. The two senators were introduced by City Manager Stan Kennedy who was designated by the U. S. State Department as the Senators' official host during their Dalhart stay. Senator Cheng, speaking in English, said he had been in the U. S. during the depression years of the 1930s, and attended a university in Missouri a while. Senator Liu, although he understands and speaks English, spoke to the club through Samuel Chang, of the State Department, who is accompanying the Senators as escort-interpreter.

SHOP DOUBLES AS FACTORY

Until recently anyone interested in handicraft work had a limited field in Dimmitt. But about a year ago Noland Roney came to Dimmitt to cook in his father's cafe. Noland brought with him considerable knowledge about plaster casting, which he picked up in his spare time over the years. It wasn't long until he had installed some of his equipment here and was making wall plaques, figurines, and other items from plaster. Mostly it was a hobby, but Roney hung out a sign that read "Noland's Craft Shop." He had a little business, but not much. He was still a cook and devoted his time to that occupation. However, about two months ago his father sold his cafe and Noland decided to go full time into his crafts materials sales. Since then his unique business has grown steadily.

DREAM WORLD REALIZED

Wide-eyed and alone, Muhidin Ekrem Spahic of Yugoslavia, a tall, thin, good-looking lad, stepped off an airliner last week into a new world, to find his dreams and hopes of coming to Dumas, Tex., U.S.A., to live, turning to reality. Excitedly waiting to greet him was the boy's father, Muhamed Spahic, who had not seen his son for nearly 15 years. Mrs. Spahic and several interested Dumas residents. Recognition came easy to the father and the son as well as others in the welcoming party who were able to point out the boy as he descended from the plane, because of the close resemblance to his father.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editors note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm discusses television this week. At least we suppose that's what he's doing. Dear editor:

It never has worried me much about what other people thought about me; consequently I don't get riled up over what the television industry thinks of the American public, but this doesn't go for some people.

I was reading in a newspaper only this morning where the head of the National P.T.A. was outraged at what the television people are offering the public, especially the children.

She said there is far too much violence, too much silliness, too much trash, offered the 30 million children watching T.V. these days. Also she said if the television industry would take the survey they'd find the American public isn't moronic as the industry apparently thinks.

Well, it's my opinion that the television people aren't in much shape, mentally speaking, to be surveying anybody's intelligence, judging by some of the programs they had a chance to see.

But back to the violence angle, the brutality, the shooting, the crime, the delinquency, the stupidity, shown on television, with millions of kids watching. I know there are some people who say if you don't think your children ought to see such programs, turn the thing off, but they don't understand the control the kids have over the situation. The only way to keep most children of most parents from watching television is to wait till the picture tube blows out.

Consequently, the argument is that the only way to improve the situation is to improve the programs, and until they do, we're liable to have more juvenile delinquents, more youthful crime, more children with the wrong viewpoint toward life, etc.

Well, now, I'll tell you. I think a lot of kids could stand some improving, but I doubt if improving television will do it.

And if you want to protect children from hearing about violence, silliness and stupidity, you'd better not let them read the newspapers or listen to the radio or read history. In fact, you'd better not let them associate with adults at all.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Wild Men.....

(Continued from page 1) dogs along to kill them, or at least to help in their battle against the animals. A boy of 12 had begged his older brothers to go hunting with him. They refused and taunted him with being afraid to go alone.

Stung by their ridicule he had called his dog, Tige, and set out with a determination to bring at least one — but fate was against him.

He had gone across the fields without any luck and decided to go to the lake, although his father had warned him many times not to go near the lake alone, panthers there.

Forgetful of this, the boy thought only of finding a possum or a coon so he would not go home empty-handed.

He reached the lake without finding anything and was a little afraid, but he held his dog by the scruff of the neck and walked nearer the water so he could look across the lake as well as the edge near his feet.

Suddenly the hair on Tige's neck stood straight up and he growled menacingly, stepping in front of his young master and pushing him back a little as he did so. The boy looked in the same direction and saw an animal as big as his dog coming straight toward him — only 50 yards or so away. To say that he was frightened would be saying little. His hair, too, stood on end and he started for home. The animal followed, and the dog stayed between the two.

He trotted along for a ways and stopped to look. When he stopped the animal stopped, and when he walked the animal walked; when he ran, the animal also ran.

He became more frightened. Suddenly as a branch of a small tree was across his path, he broke it off with a snap, turned and beat the path with the brush. The animal tucked his tail between his legs and slunk back a few yards, but as the boy started for home the animal again turned and followed. Each time he looked back, the beast would stop, and again when he moved the animal resumed stalking him.

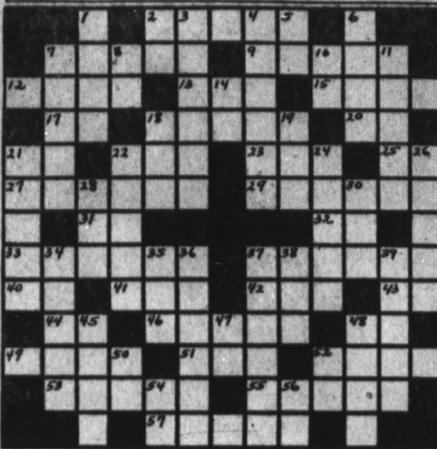

He had been three miles from home when the animal began following him and now that he had less than a quarter of a mile to go, he began running. The dog kept near, always between the boy and the beast. He practically fell into the door as he was so exhausted, for a few minutes he could not speak but at last told his tale to his father. After listening to his son, the man told him it undoubtedly must have been a panther, for the big cats would stalk people as well as animals if they were hungry.

The big rascal thought the boy would make a nice meal. The boy never went hunting again without the support of his elders, and they always wished to find a panther. But luck was not with them for they never saw one and they moaned about their luck. But the panther stalk was a tale to be told to the sons of the little boy. That he had presence of mind enough not to run when he knew he could not outrun the beast for three miles.

Beauty At Home

By LYNN CARTER

Q. What are some hairdressing tips for the girl with a crooked kind of nose?

A. She should wear a soft dip, or, if the forehead allows, a soft bang worn opposite the crook in the nose. If the bulk of the nose is on the right, she should part her hair on the right and wear a bang or dip to the left to counterbalance the irregularity. If the bulk of the nose is on the left, she should handle her hair in just the opposite manner.

Q. How can I add a delicate fragrance to my handkerchiefs?

A. When laundering them, put a small piece of orris root in a muslin bag and boil this with the hankies. This will add a faint aroma of violets to them.

Q. What can I do to induce more gloss or luster in my eyebrows and eyelashes?

A. Try smoothing a bit of brilliantine on them with some cotton on a toothpick.

Q. I've noticed lately some unsightly dandruff flakes in my eyebrows. What can I do to correct this situation?

A. Your brows need some good scrubbings with a complexion brush and warm soapsuds, then a gentle massage with some olive oil or mineral oil before retiring at night.

Q. Will you please mention a few good rules for true hair beauty?

A. Wash your hair as frequently as necessary. Brush every day. Change styles with the seasons. Be sure to examine carefully the back as well as the front of your coiffure with a hand mirror. Give your hair sun, air, exercise, nourishment, and a medicine if needed.

Q. How can I exercise for the removal of excess flesh from my hips?

A. One of the best for this is the "boomer." Sit on the floor, legs extended, hands on floor slightly in back. Raise body on hands and heels, then bump hips onto the floor, bumping from left to right in easy rhythm. This is a fine one, if practiced regularly!

Q. What is a good, inexpensive recipe for a "homemade" shampoo?

A. Heat together an egg and a teaspoonful of mild skin soap. Apply this with the fingertips, rubbing well into the scalp. Rinse with hot, then lukewarm, then cold water.

REMEMBER WHEN?

By CHARLIE SEEDS

Any man will tell you that women have always had a lot to say about everything... including politics. But there was a time when women didn't vote... and not so long ago.

The year women finally won their fight to obtain suffrage was the year another great experiment began... when 13 representatives of the world's nations met at Geneva to form the ill-fated League of Nations. But here in America as many headlines were reserved for the passage of the 19th Amendment... extending to women the right to vote. Now women could have their political say... officially!

The great hue and cry, the threats of calamity, that preceded this great political step soon died down. It turned out that women knew what they were doing in a voting booth after all. America's fair sex soon proved their right to be solid voting citizens!

Remember the year?

That same year Americans continued to buy more cars than ever before... and the American way of shopping for savings made good sense, as it always has.

The year was 1920.

Well, this year it makes better sense than ever for the new car buyer to get the best deal he can... and that's what we can offer you on our new 1960 FORD. You'll find we're easy to do business with... and we'll save you money!

Q. How can I clean my suede shoes and purses?

A. After a light sandpapering, wipe off the articles with a cloth moistened with vinegar.

Q. How can I prevent the constant smearing of my lipstick?

A. Probably your best answer to this is the exercise of more care. But if you'll add a bit of perfume over the lipstick, it will give it more permanence until you are ready to remove it with cold cream.

Q. Can you suggest a quick, emergency treatment which will help call color back to a pale and wan-looking complexion?

A. Try pouring a piece of gauze and patting this lightly over your face — and this should help revitalize your skin. A bath of tepid water, without soap, followed by a dash of cold water, also helps to whip up the color in one's face.

Q. What is a good facial beauty mask that will also help to bleach the skin?

A. Add the juice of a lemon and enough powdered oatmeal to one beaten egg white to make a paste, and apply this to the skin in the usual manner.

Q. How should the shape of a girl's eyebrows be governed by the size of her nose?

A. If her nose is upturned or too short, the inner corners of her brows should be tweezed to a point downward. If her nose is too long, the hairs should be tweezed to form a line at a decided angle to the line of her nose.

Bud To Blossom Club Holds Meet

Bud To Blossom Club met in the home of Mrs. Calvin Edwards April 1 for a business session and program.

Plans were made to plant trees on the south side of the Community Center in cooperation with landscaping plans of other clubs of the community.

Mrs. Don Steele gave a report of the District 1, Texas Garden Clubs convention held recently in Lubbock, and plans were made for installation ceremonies for new officers on May 20.

ON COMMUNISM

WASHINGTON — The Rev. James W. Mundell, a Maryknoll Missioner in Chile, says there is strong evidence that Communists are deeply entrenched in Latin America.

Vicki Burns gave a speech on public speaking about "What 4-H Has Done For Me." They will give the demonstrations and speech for county eliminations.

Those present were Carolyn Webb, Regina Steward, Mary R. Weaver, Alice Myers, Adair Melton, Gay Wyly, Marilyn and Phyllis Tice, Dianne and Marla Jack, Elizabeth Burrus, Vicki and Marsha Burns, Sylvia Ivie and Nancy Tyler.

Elizabeth Burrus and Sylvia Ivie brought refreshments.

"There is a wide gap between rich and poor throughout most of Latin America," he says. Naturally, the Communists are exaggerating social and political injustices perpetrated by the upper class in their Marxist appeal to the working class.

"Thousands of peasant families have migrated to slum sections of the big cities where they live in extreme poverty. If communism offers them a better way of life, naturally, they're willing to experiment."

CHANGE IN NAME

RIVER FOREST, Ill. — The 20,000-member Slovak Evangelical Lutheran Churches has changed its name to the Synod of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

Church president Dr. Paul Rafaj of Olyphant, Pa. says the change was initiated by the fact that "in our church work we are no longer limited to Slovak-speaking people."

SHIP FOR CHURCHMEN WASHINGTON — Plans are afoot to charter a ship to take North American delegates to the Baptist World Congress in Rio de Janeiro next June.

If enough delegates show an interest in the voyage—at $1,000 and up per person—the vessel also would serve as a floating hotel during the eight-day convention.

The Philippines were discovered by Magellan in 1521. A month later he was killed in a fight with the natives.

Wilhelmina is the Teutonic word for "a resolute helmet."

CHEVY! YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS ...UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!

Anyone who's looked around knows the majority of Chevrolet models—6's and V8's together—list for less than comparable models of other low-priced cars. But the price tag alone is only one of a whole raft of reasons a Chevy does better by your dollars.

Nothing near Chevy's size and price can match the Full Coil cushioning of its ride, or the fine, finished workmanship of its Body by Fisher. That even applies to some cars that cost a lot more. You're up in the higher price brackets before you find a car that moves as quietly as a Chevrolet or offers the inner space that Chevrolet does.

Or look at the extras Chevy gives you—at no extra cost—that others in its class can't offer at any price. Shock-cushioned steering. Safety Plate Glass in every window. Keyless locking of all doors. Crank-operated vent windows. Chevrolet offers the widest choice of power teams, too. Drive a Chevy just once. You'll have a tough time settling for anything less. CHEVROLET

CHANGE IN NAME

RIVER FOREST, III. (S) — The 20,000-member Slovak Evangelical Lutheran Churches has changed its name to the Synod of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

Church president Dr. Paul Rafaj of Olyphant, Pa. says the change was initiated by the fact that "in our church work we are no longer limited to Slovak-speaking people."

SHIP FOR CHURCHMEN
WASHINGTON (S) — Plans are afoot to charter a ship to take North American delegates to the Baptist World Congress in Rio de Janeiro next June.

If enough delegates show an interest in the voyage—at $1,000 and up per person—the vessel also would serve as a floating hotel during the eight-day convention.

CHEVY! YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS ... UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!

Anyone who's looked around knows the majority of Chevrolet models—6's and V8's together—list for less than comparable models of other low-priced cars. But the price tag alone is only one of a whole raft of reasons a Chevy does better by your dollars.

Nothing near Chevy's size and price can match the Full Coil cushioning of its ride, or the fine, finished workmanship of its Body by Fisher. That even applies to some cars that cost a lot more. You're up in the higher price brackets before you find a car that moves as quietly as a Chevrolet or offers the inner space that Chevrolet does.

Or look at the extras Chevy gives you—at no extra cost—that others in its class can't offer at any price. Shock-cushioned steering. Safety Plate Glass in every window. Keyless locking of all doors. Crank-operated vent windows. Chevrolet offers the widest choice of power teams, too. Drive a Chevy just once. You'll have a tough time settling for anything less.
