LeGate files for re-election Cowgirl Cafe opens in NY

LeGate files for re-election

Tom LeGate, city commissioner for Place 3, filed Thursday for re-election, but commissioner Sylvia Juarez has yet to file for the place 1 seat she holds.

"I'm currently serving on the Economic Development Council and I feel I have to continue the continuity with the EDC because we're just in the infancy stage and I'd like to see it get off the ground," said LeGate. "I still have things I want to accomplish with the city commission."

LeGate has won served terms as place 3 commissioner.

Juarez, who holds the only other place available for re-election, picked up an application to file, but hasn't submitted it.

Mayor Wes Fisher has also filed for re-election.

Filing is also open for seats on the Hereford school board and the hospital board.

The deadline for filing for the city and school elections is March 22. For the hospital board, the deadline is April 10.

In the school board election, the seats currently held by Kathy Moore and Shirley Wilson are up for election.

It had earlier been thought that the seat held by Sylvia Flores would also be up for election, but Superintendent Charles Greenawalt said this morning that, according to the secretary of state's office, she will not have to stand for election until the term expires in 1990.

Flores was appointed to the board last year after Jo Garcia resigned the post.

In the hospital board race, three seats are up for election.

Dr. Gerald Payne said this week that he will not run for re-election.

The terms of Ralph Detten and Raymond Schroeder are also up for election.

Cowgirl Cafe opens in NY

By JUDIE GLAVE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Hombres hankering for a bit of downhome cooking and a dose of cultural lore can get their fill at a new Texas-styled barbecue restaurant deep in the heart of Greenwich Village.

Some may dismiss the Cowgirl Hall of Fame Bar and Restaurant as the latest gimmick in a city that has a restaurant mortality rate of about 95 percent.

There are, after all, wagonwheel booths, checkered tablecloths, a fake stone fireplace and antler chandeliers. But the restaurant also has legitimate ties to the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame in Hereford.

Restaurant owner Sherry Delamarter has a licensing agreement with the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame which allows her to use its name and display artifacts from its museum in return for a percentage of the restaurant's yearly profits. She declined to give specific figures.

Delamarter, who was born in Waco and lived in Lubbock, Fort Worth and Arlington before moving to New York in 1979, got the idea for the restaurant after catering the Hall of Fame's national induction ceremony last year.

"I was so impressed with the museum," Delamarter said. "I'm sure most people don't even know there is one and I just felt the need to get the word out for them and support them in some way."

The 37-year-old Delamarter and her partners run three other restaurants in the Village: Tortilla Flats, a Mexican restaurant; Gulf Coast, which Police also arrested a 23-year-old man on a warrant for violation of his probation out of Dimmitt.

A $750 television was destroyed at a residence in the 600 block of Avenue H.

Seven citations were issued.

POW bodies are located

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The efforts of two Castro county women have led to the discovery of the re-burial site of five Italian prisoners of war who died while at the Hereford Military Reservation and Reception Center during their imprisonment during World War II.

The camp straddled the Deaf Smith-Castro county lines about five miles southwest of Hereford.

For many years, it was thought the bodies had been disinterred at the camp's chapel in 1957 and returned to Italy.

However, a lengthy search found that the bodies had been buried at the Post Cemetery in El Reno, Okla., not in Italy.

The five Italian POWs died between 1943 and 1945, and a chapel was constructed on the camp grounds by surviving POWs. The chapel and part of a tower are the only remains of the camp.

Last year, a group of former POWs returned to the site of their imprisonment and the partially-restored chapel. They were told that the bodies had been exhumed and returned to Italy on August 15, 1957.

Not long after the reunion, Clara Vick of Dimmitt and Teeny Bowden of Sunnyside went to Italy, where they met Rosalinda Ferri, a daughter of 2nd Lt. Evaristo Fava. Lt. Fava, 35, had died of coronary thrombosis on Oct. 17, 1944 while at the camp and was buried Oct. 19, 1944.

According to records of the Red International Committee of the Red Cross, an attempt was made to notify Fava's widow at the family's listed address.

According to the daughter, the family had been forced to move from that address due to bombings and no notification was given.

A decision has not yet been made on a final disposition of the bodies, according to Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's office. The bodies could be exhumed from the Oklahoma cemetery and sent to Italy at the expense of the Italian government.

Dan Garrett: non-famous movie star

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Dan Garrett's face looks almost as weather-worn as some the mules for whom he's played muleskinner.

But if he looks a bit familiar, you might have seen him.

He was in Lonesome Dove, the hit miniseries. But you'd have to look real, real closely to find him.

He's a little more evident in Gambler III. He's the bartender washing some glasses as Bruce Boxleitner talks while leaning up against the bar.

He's been in movies from The Alamo to She Wore a Yellow Ribbon to television productions like High Chapparral, Lonesome Dove and all three Gambler tv-movies.

At age 67, he still gets a charge from skinning a mule, out-drawing another man, or just working in and around a TV or movie set.

But Garrett gets a thrill from going around "country oprys" like the Country Opry in Hereford, where he'll be performing this weekend.

"People put a lot of efforts into things like the 'Country Opry,' and I believe in places like this where you can get together, have brotherly love and friendship, have a good time without drinkin' and cussin' and stuff, and just hear a lot of good country music," said Garrett. "I'd drive 500 miles to help some friends with something like this. If I can do anything to keep this alive, I'll do it."

"I'm impressed and pleased to see the progress here by the Walkers and everyone else involved. I've been here a couple of days and met all of the folks. They're just a bunch of good, hard-working people who want to have a place where anyone can have fun."

Garrett will do a little singing, pull out his bullwhip and crack it around, and show how fast a 67-year-old man can draw a gun.

"People don't believe a guy my age can draw a gun as fast as I can draw it," Garrett said. "I can draw my gun faster than you can clap your hands, and if I don't I'll give you my gun."

But why stay active at his age, doing stunts like getting shot by, say, Robert Duvall, and falling off a horse?

"Because I'm just a fun-loving cowboy," Garrett said. "I'd rather be workin' on a ranch somewhere, but between nature and the government, there's not a whole lot of ranch work to be had."

"I can do work around horses and mules, I can do whatever needs to be done around the set."

"Don't get the wrong idea about me, now. I'm no big star, and don't pretend to be. I've done some bit parts, and I've been an extra. Mostly, I just hang around and do whatever needs to be done for bit wages."

Garrett fingers the inch-long stubble that graces his worn face.

"I'm growin' a new beard for a part I'll have in a movie they'll start filmin' in Santa Fe before too long. I'll be an Indian scout. I've gotta let my hair get to shoulder length."

Garrett thinks there'll be more work for him, thanks to the success of Lonesome Dove.

"We'll have more good, down-to-earth Western movies again," Garrett said. "I worked a little bit in a bunch of John Wayne's movies as an extra or a wrangler or something. Lonesome Dove puts all of them in the back seat."

"Lonesome Dove let everyone be themselves and do their own thing, but they were able to pull together when they needed to. If focused on the different problems everyone had, but they were all eventually working together."

"You take something like a John Wayne or Clint Eastwood movie, and you had one big shot who would eventually pull the trigger six times and kill six people. That may be good entertainment, but it wasn't as good or as realistic as Lonesome Dove."

Garrett likes most of the people he's worked closely with, from people like Buster Crabbe, Jack Elam, Kirk Douglas and Lash LaRue to modern stars like Robert Duvall ("If Duvall don't get an award for Lonesome Dove I will personally feel like he got cheated"), Jeffrey Jones and Boxleitner.

He like Boxleitner best.

"He's a down-to-earth fella," Garrett said. "He's got enthusiasm and a desire in his heart that shows. I enjoyed being around him because he's got a personality. He's not conceited like a bunch of 'em."

"Bruce isn't too good to say 'hi' to you. It doesn't make any difference if you're the kind of person who's an extra or the bartender, like in Gambler III. He knows that you're important, too, and he won't brush you off."

"Jeffrey Jones is that way, too. To Jeffrey and Bruce, everyone was a friend. They're the kind of people Hollywood needs more of."

"Some of those people, the mighty dollar has gone to their head. They're just machines out there to make some money and they could care less about the rest of the world."

"And I gotta mention Linda Gray, too. She's just the most-relaxed person around. She'll talk to anyone, and won't be rude to anyone. She's a good person to work with."

But of all the people he's enjoyed being with, he calls on three stars of the past: Gene Autry, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans.

"Well, I've worked around Hollywood and all over the place since I was 14, and those were absolutely the best people to work with in the world. They're great."

Is Garrett going to get tired of what he's doing?

"I hope not. The Lord keeps providing for me. I don't go hungry, and I have a lot of great friends."

"I know that one of these days the Lord's gonna decide I need to slow down. I enjoy going to retirement homes and senior centers and stuff and playing for the people. I enjoy seein' 'em smile and a sparkly look in their eyes."

"I hope someone will come around when the Lord decides I need to slow down."

DAN GARRETT
...If you've looked very, very closely, you MIGHT have seen this face in movies, TV westerns, including Lonesome Dove.

People mourn for Hirohito

Elaborate ceremony draws large dignitary gathering

TOKYO (AP) - The body of Emperor Hirohito today was sealed inside a hillside crypt and offerings were made to his spirit, ending a 13-hour funeral attended by the largest gathering of world leaders in modern history.

A day of elaborate ceremony concluded by torchlight shortly before 9 p.m. after the coffin was placed on a cart and pulled 33 feet up a slope. It was then moved inside a prepared stone tomb dug into the hillside and sealed with concrete.

Hirohito's mound-like mausoleum is in a grove of towering cypress trees at the Musashi Imperial Cemetery west of Tokyo.

Worshiped as a living god and branded a war criminal during his long life, Hirohito was honored by the presence of official representatives of 163 nations at some of the ceremonies, including President Bush and his wife, Barbara, who sat in the front row covered with blankets to protect them from the winter chill.

Bush, the collar of his black overcoat turned up, paused in front of the coffin and lowered his head in a slight bow when his turn came to approach the coffin.

A bomb exploded in a roadside embankment about 20 minutes before a motorcade carrying his body and members of the imperial family passed by on its way to the burial ground.

Police said groups opposing the emperor system staged 11 demonstrations in the Japanese capital, and officers arrested five people in disturbances. The Japan Communist Party boycotted the funeral and some members of the main opposition Japan Socialist Party stayed away from the Shinto ceremonies while attending the state ones.

"The people will remember him forever," Emperor Akihito eulogized during the ceremony, expressing his "overwhelming emotion" and "extreme sense of sorrow." He thanked the Japanese and foreigners who sent condolences.

The $74 million, 13-hour funeral began with private Shinto rites within the walls of the Imperial Palace in downtown Tokyo. The body was then driven to Shinjuku Imperial Gardens for the main ceremony.

The metropolis of 12 million people came to a virtual standstill and 32,000 police mounted the largest security operation in Japanese history.

Police estimated 210,000 people - braving the wet and 37-degree temperatures - lined the streets as a black hearse carrying the lace-draped coffin drove at 6 mph from the palace to Shinjuku gardens.

The motorcade, escorted, 32-car procession passed Parliament, the democratic core of modern Japan, and the National Stadium where the emperor opened the 1964 Summer Olympics, heralding Japan's post-war re-emergence.

Police said 4,300 people took part in 11 anti-emperor demonstrations and rallies in the capital and officers arrested five people. Protesters carried banners denouncing the funeral and attacking Hirohito for his role as titular leader during Japan's World War II aggression.

But others cried or clasped their hands together in prayer as Hirohito's coffin passed.

A 72-year-old farmer, Morie Hiroki, tried to commit suicide by ritual disembowelment, or hara-kiri, on the southern island of Kyushi.

Police said Hiroki was in serious condition after slashing his abdomen with a kitchen knife. The World War II army private, who served in China, left a note saying he felt he had to follow his emperor in death.

Hirohito renounced his divinity in 1946 as Japan began its climb from the ashes of World War II toward spectacular economic success.

Emperor Akihito and Empress Michiko led the imperial mourners, but Hirohito's 85-year-old widow, the Empress Dowager Nagako, did not attend the public ceremonies due to reported poor health.

At the Shinjuku gardens, 51 black-robed men carried the coffin on a 22-foot-long palanquin to a wooden shrine for Shinto rites led by Emperor Akihito. The body of Hirohito, who died of cancer Jan. 7 at age 87, was encased in an inner wooden coffin and an outer one of metal.

In his eulogy, Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita referred to Hirohito by his posthumous name, Emperor Showa.

Bush undaunted by vote to reject John Tower

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush vowed today to "stand strongly" with Defense Secretary-designate John Tower through a Senate floor vote despite the Armed Services Committee's rejection of Tower's confirmation because of questions of character.

"I'm going to strongly continue to back Senator Tower and I don't believe he's going down the drain," Bush told reporters in Tokyo, where he was attending the funeral of Japan's Emperor Hirohito.

The committee, voting strictly along party lines, recommended by 11-9 Thursday night that the Senate reject Tower's nomination after Democrats expressed continuing concerns about questions of his character.

"I cannot in good conscience vote to put an individual at the top of the chain of command when his history of excessive drinking is such that he would not be selected to command a missile wing, a SAC bomber squadron or a Trident missile submarine," Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., the committee chairman, said before the vote.

Bush, faced with a political defeat at home as he made his global debut at the Hirohito funeral, said he believed lingering doubts about Tower would be answered when the full Senate takes up the nomination.

"I am going to strongly continue to back Senator Tower," Bush said as he left the U.S. ambassador's residence in Tokyo. "... I am hoping that this debate that will follow next week will clear up any questions."

"I haven't considered any options. I stand strongly with John Tower," said Bush.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III, in Tokyo with Bush, said it would be a mistake for Bush to withdraw the nomination in advance of a vote on the Senate floor.

"If he now pulled it I think all of you would say, 'this is a terrible thing. It shows that his judgment was flawed from the beginning,'" Baker said on "CBS This Morning."

The committee vote marked an abrupt departure from the month-long honeymoon between the new Republican president and the Democratic majorities of Congress, but Bush said he still believes his relationship with Congress "is still going fine."

Should the full Senate reject Tower, it would be the first time in history a newly elected president had suffered a rejection of a nominee to his first Cabinet. In all, eight Cabinet nominations have been rejected, the most recent 30 years ago.

A handful of Democrats suggested after the committee vote Thursday night that Bush seek a replacement for Tower before next week's scheduled floor vote. "It doesn't do the president any good," said Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia. "It's a tremendous burden for any nominee to go to the floor with a vote of no confidence."

But the White House quickly rejected that suggestion.

"There's no consideration of alternative candidates," presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater told reporters traveling with the President in Japan. "There's no alternate list - bar none."

"He'll be working to contact senators throughout the days ahead, sometimes by telephone, sometimes in person," he said.

Tower, a former Texas senator who had once chaired the committee, said in a statement he was "obviously disappointed" but would continue to work at the Pentagon "and await the vote of full Senate."

Regulatory agencies may face big reforms

AUSTIN (AP) - State agencies regulating insurance, utilities, and the state's banks and savings and loans face proposed reforms during the legislative session amid a climate of investigations and general criticism.

"It is clear that at a number of these state agencies, the regulated industries have for too long been calling the shots. The Legislature is going to have to take action," Tom "Smitty" Smith, director of Public Citizen of Texas, said Thursday.

The State Board of Insurance charged with regulating the $25 billion a year insurance industry has been at the center of controversy. Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, is heading a probe and wants to beef up legislative oversight of the agency.

The Public Utility Commission and Railroad Commission have been criticized by lawmakers for not passing to consumers millions of dollars in federal tax savings.

The PUC, which regulates electrical and telephone companies and determines the rates that customers pay, has generated additional complaints because of bickering among commission members and a recent flip-flop on a rate case.

The Texas Finance Commission is also the target of proposed changes. A task force report called for increasing the pay of regulators and distancing officials responsible for oversight from the industry they supervise.

State Rep. Bruce Gibson, D-Godley, said lawmakers are looking at regulatory agencies more closely because the Legislature has become a more hands-on manager of state government.

"I try to make my restaurants a cultural experience and I thought this was something that would honor the West and some pretty important but under-recognized women," she said.

The 120-seat restaurant, which opened to the public Wednesday, will honor four Hall of Fame members a year. There are 96 women in the Hall of Fame and 10 more will be added in June.

Singer Patsy Montana, inducted into the hall in 1987, will be the first honoree. Montana, who recorded "I Want to be a Cowboy's Sweetheart" in 1936, is said to be the first woman in the United States to sell 1 million records in the country category.

The museum has lent Montana's awards, outfits she wore performing at the Grand Ole Opry and other items for display in the restaurant.

The menu will include specialties from Montana's home state of Arkansas, including black-eye peas, meatloaf and cornbread.

The displays will be changed every four months.

Though the restaurant at 519 Hudson St. is in a spot where three previous restaurants have failed, Delamarter believes this venture will succeed "because of the decor, because it's going to be an educational experience ... but most of all because it's going to be fun."

Her staff, she says, is not made up of "professional restaurateurs, just friendly Texans." Everyone - the chef, bartenders and the waiters and waitresses - is either from Texas or "at least somewhere in the South."

"I've made that my top priority," Delamarter says. "I want that good ol' Texas homeyness to come through."

Report: smoking does not help control weight

CHICAGO (AP) - People who smoke to control their weight are simply redistributing their fat and putting themselves at risk for potentially deadly illnesses, according to a study published today.

Smoking does reduce weight, the researchers acknowledged, but flab stays around the waist, increasing the chance for heart disease, diabetes - and early death.

"If you're a cigarette smoker who is continuing to smoke in order to control your body weight, or a non-smoker considering starting up again ... you're making a bad decision," said Dr. Reubin Andres, a co-author of the study and clinical director of the National Institute on Aging in Baltimore.

"There's no question that the risk of cigarette smoking is much greater than the risk of a few (excess) pounds of body weight," he said.

Cigarette smokers generally weigh less for their height than non-smokers and typically gain weight if they quit, the researchers acknowledged in their report in today's Journal of the American Medical Association.

But in looking at the ratio of waist size to hip size in men over a period of 26 years, the researchers found that waist sizes generally were larger in relation to hip size among smokers than non-smokers.

Mean measurements among smokers were 35.7 inches at the waist and 39 at the hips, compared with a mean ratio of 35.7 to 39.5 among non-smokers, the researchers said.

The more a person smokes, the larger the comparative waist size, the study found.

While the difference between the two ratios is small, Andres said previous studies have indicated this can have a big effect on risks of heart disease.

"If you are fortunate enough to be shaped with the fat down around the hips, then you have a relatively safe form of obesity," Andres said.

India supports collider

$50 million to go for construction

WASHINGTON (AP) - India has already agreed to spend $50 million toward construction of the super collider, and U.S. officials have discussed cost-sharing options with other nations, a Texas congressman told a House panel considering funding for the $5.9 billion high-energy physics project.

Rep. Joe Barton testified that non-federal sources can provide a "substantial" chunk of the cost of building the super collider.

Barton, an Ennis Republican whose district includes the SSC site, said in addition to India, Texas has committed $1 billion, and officials of Japan, Taiwan, Korea and several Western European nations have held preliminary cost-sharing discussions with U.S. officials.

President Bush has endorsed the super collider and recommended $250 million be appropriated in next year's budget toward initial construction of what would be the largest scientific instrument ever built.

The Department of Energy has chosen a site south of Waxahachie for the 53-mile underground tunnel, but Congress last year agreed only to spend $100 million on the project and decreed none of the money could be used for construction.

Robert O. Hunter Jr., director of the office of energy research at the Energy Department, said "several hundred million" is a minimum estimate of the foreign contributions to the project, but the exact sum won't be known for another year or two.

The project is expected to face tough funding challenges this year as Congress grapples with budget cuts to a host of programs as well as funding requests from other high-energy physics and basic research projects.

Burton Richter, director of the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center, the world's highest energy electron accelerator, said there is a "real dilemma" in juggling funds between existing high-energy projects and construction of the super collider.

If those programs are not supported in the interim, by the time the SSC is built there won't be the scientists around to run it, Richter told the House subcommittee on energy research and development in testimony Thursday.

Leon M. Lederman, director of the Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory in Illinois, also urged the panel not to abandon other high-energy projects during construction of the SSC.

Barton argued the project is vital to the country's world leadership in high energy physics.

"If we ultimately lose our leadership position in high-energy physics, we will lose our leading edge in world economics," Barton testified.

She reminded the group of the patriotic efforts women did during the conflict of war such as collecting aluminum, recycling clothes and collecting old grease.

Ott cited her husband as her American hero. She exhibited certificates of appreciation from French Gout for the few months Mr. Ott had served with the French Army.

The next meeting was planned

March 7.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married five years to a lovely man, and we have a son who will soon be 2 years old.

Last year my husband's sister told me that she was sexually molested by her father (my father-in-law) when she was very young. My other sister-in-law says the same thing happened to her and added, "Mother knew this was going on, but she didn't do one thing about it!"

My husband says both sisters are telling the truth. He once caught his father in the act of molesting one of the girls and told his mother. She said, "Just mind your own business."

I will not allow my in-laws to be alone with my son. My husband is furious with me and keeps saying, "That happened a long time ago and it was with a girl." I say once a pervert, always a pervert.

My question: Is there a chance that my husband is right and that I am unduly concerned? Can a person change without therapy? Please answer soon. I'm worried.--Wheeling, W.Va., Reader

DEAR WHEELING: Child molesters are deeply disturbed individuals. It is most unlikely that such a person will change without intensive, long-term therapy.

There is no way to tell if your father-in-law is partial only to little girls. I certainly wouldn't bet the rent.

No way would I let any child, boy or girl, be alone with this man. Tell your husband that you are not backing down an inch, and that I support you all the way.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married five years. Marriage was a big commitment for me and I decided from Day One to make it work. I read your column faithfully and try to understand what women of the '80s want and need from a man.

I listened and tried to learn. I became what I thought was a man of the '80s--every woman's dream come true. I hold her hand in public. I shower her with compliments. I send flowers and gifts and tell her every day that I love her.

I am too modest to consider myself good-looking, but she describes me as "tall, handsome, sexy, great body." I ask her what I can do to make her happy and she says "nothing." She insists that her life is wonderful, that I am the perfect husband, and that she would not change me for anyone in the world.

Why, then, am I writing? She is cheating on me.

I can't eat. I can't sleep. Her friends are my friends. I have no one to talk to. I don't have a minister. I can't tell my family. It's too humiliating.

My wife either thinks I don't know or she doesn't want to bring it up. I am afraid to talk to her because I fear that once the cat is out of the bag, our marriage will be over. I don't know if I could deal with that.

Where does a man go for help? Women have support groups, crisis centers and hot-lines. Men are told to "be strong and deal with it."

If you print my letter, please no name or state. Just sign me--Devastated

DEAR DEVASTATED: Remaining silent is not the answer. You and your wife both know that she is having an affair. Get it out in the open. Tell her you know what is going on and that you want to talk about it.

Ask your wife to see a marital counselor with you. If she refuses, go alone. Men can get the same help women can get. You don't have to suffer in silence. There is help out there. Get it. And good luck. You sound too good to be true.

What are the signs of alcoholism? How can you tell if someone you love is an alcoholic? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. To receive a copy, send $3 and a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Hints from Heloise

BEAUTY TREATMENT

Dear Heloise: Recently I bought the wrong shade of pancake makeup. I was about to throw it away, but then I thought, why not bring it with me to the nursing home that I visit quite often.

I bought some small sponges and had some fun with some residents who wanted to be made up. They adored the extra attention and loved the way they looked. Now when I visit I bring my makeup kit and give the women beauty treatments whenever they want them. -- Evelyn Beck Wakeman, LaPorte, Ind.

Three cheers for you. You certainly are a thoughtful person and I bet the ladies love you! -- Hugs, Heloise

Dear Heloise: When I'm ready to leave for the airport I dampen a few cotton balls with my favorite cologne and put them into a clean pill bottle. I then poke a few holes in the plastic lid and pack it in between my clothes in my suitcase. The fragrance escapes and makes my clothing smell delightful and there's no problem of the cologne coming directly in contact with my clothes.

I don't bother bringing any cologne with me since the aroma stays on my clothes for the entire trip. -- Michelle Adams, Boise, Idaho

The baseball squad is gearing up for a tough field in next week's Abilene Tournament with a scrimmage today at the HHS field. The junior varsity will begin at 10 a.m., with the varsity expected to begin at 1 p.m.

The HHS tennis team will face a tough field this weekend in the San Angelo tournament. Next weekend, the tennis team will be home for the HHS Team Tournament.

LaSalle upsets Florida State; UA, IU win

By The Associated Press

A couple of weeks ago, Florida State was winning games and support. Now, it looks like the 12th-ranked Seminoles are real - really in trouble.

Florida State lost its fourth straight game, falling 101-100 to LaSalle on Thursday night. Earlier this week, the Seminoles lost to New Orleans and that followed setbacks against Memphis State and Louisville.

This time, Lionel Simmons did the damage. The nation's second-leading scorer got 36 points and 10 rebounds to lead host La Salle.

"We got off to a slow start and that really hurt us," Florida State coach Pat Kennedy said.

George McCloud scored 36 points for the Seminoles, 19-6. He was 10-for-17 from 3-point range, but missed a 3-point try with four seconds left that would have tied it.

In other games, No. 2 Arizona routed Arizona State 109-74, No. 4 Indiana beat Michigan State 76-65, No. 9 Duke defeated North Carolina State 86-65, No. 11 West Virginia downed St. Joseph's 65-50, No. 13 Michigan beat Ohio State 89-72, No. 16 Stanford got past Oregon 54-50 and No. 18 Nevada-Las Vegas held off Fresno State 75-71.

La Salle, 23-5, led 50-33 at halftime and was ahead 87-76 with 6:07 remaining. Florida State closed within one point, but was still behind 101-95 with 24 seconds left.

McCloud then made a 3-pointer. After a turnover, McCloud missed his potential tying shot and Tharon Mayes put in the rebound as time expired.

Jack Hurd scored 19 points and Doug Overton had 17 for La Salle. Mayes had 24 points and Tony Dawson 20 for Florida State.

No. 2 Arizona 109, Arizona St. 74. All-American Sean Elliott scored 22 points in his final home game as Arizona clinched a tie for its second straight Pacific-10 Conference title.

Anthony Cook scored 18 points and Ken Lofton had 13 in joining Elliott as seniors making their farewell appearances. The Wildcats, 21-3 and 15-1 in the Pac-10, went 14-0 at McKale Center.

Trent Edwards scored 29 points for the Sun Devils, 12-13.

No. 4 Indiana 76, Michigan St. 65. Jay Edwards scored 21 points and sparked a first-half burst for Indiana. The Hoosiers, 22-5, improved to 12-1 in the Big Ten.

Indiana shot 71 percent from field. Edwards was 7-for-8, including 3-for-4 from 3-point range, and led a 12-2 burst that made it 29-17.

Ken Redfield scored 15 points for the Spartans, 12-11.

No. 9 Duke 86, No. 17 North Carolina St. 65

Danny Ferry got 26 points in his final home game and Duke moved within a half-game of Atlantic Coast Conference co-leaders North Carolina State and North Carolina.

The Blue Devils, 21-4, are 8-4 in the ACC. North Carolina State is 18-6 and 8-3.

Ferry scored seven points during a 14-0 run that put Duke ahead 37-19 late in the first half.

Chucky Brown scored 16 points for the Wolfpack.

No. 11 W. Virginia 65, St. Joseph's 50

West Virginia clinched the Atlantic 10 championship and extended the nation's longest winning streak to 22 games.

Herbie Brooks and Steve Berger scored 14 points apiece for the host Mountaineers, 23-2 and 16-0. Ahead 22-21, West Virginia opened the second half with a 22-7 run.

Henry Smith scored 24 points for St. Joseph's.

No. 13 Michigan 89, Ohio St. 72

Glen Rice scored 30 points and Michigan reached the 20-victory mark for the sixth straight season.

The Wolverines are 20-6 and 8-5 in the Big Ten. Ohio State is 17-9 and 6-7.

Rumeal Robinson scored 16 points for Michigan. Perry Carter scored 23 points for the Buckeyes.

No. 16 Stanford 54, Oregon 50

Todd Lichti scored 19 points and Stanford won a slowdown game at Oregon.

The Cardinal, 21-5 and 12-4 in the Pacific-10, was ahead 44-36 midway through the second half but managed just three baskets in the final nine minutes. Oregon got within 47-46 before Stanford held on.

Randy Grant scored 17 points for the Ducks, 8-17.

No. 18 UNLV 75, Fresno St. 71

David Butler scored 19 points and UNLV got past visiting Fresno State in the Big West to clinch a tie for its seventh straight conference title.

Fresno State rallied within 73-71 with 28 seconds left, but UNLV's Greg Anthony made two foul shots with six seconds to go.

Anthony and Anderson Hunt had 15 points each for the Runnin' Rebels, 20-6 and 13-2. Jervis Cole scored 18 points for the Bulldogs, 12-12.

Cowboys may be sold

DALLAS (AP) - Amid reports that Dallas Cowboys majority owner H.R. "Bum" Bright has sold the team to an Arkansas oilman, an aide close to Bright said negotiations are continuing with several prospective buyers.

"Jerry Jones is not someone to take lightly," aide Jim Francis said Thursday night. "We think he's serious. The Bright people are taking him seriously. He's a good guy and he'd make a good owner. He's for real."

"But there has been no deal. We're working on several deals. Some are ahead of others. Some are closer. Some are more real."

Francis' remarks came late Thursday night after KXAS-TV in Fort Worth, citing unnamed sources, reported the Cowboys had been sold to Jones, president of Arkoma Exploration of Little Rock, Ark.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram, citing a source close to the negotiations, reported in today's editions that a deal is in place and could be completed as early as next week. That same source said if Jones' bid to buy the team and the lease to Texas Stadium is approved, there could be wide-sweeping changes in the organization, changes that could put Coach Tom Landry's job into question.

"Things are about to change," the source told the Star-Telegram. "If Jerry buys the team, things won't be the same."

KXAS reported that Jones, 46, would replace longtime Cowboys Coach Tom Landry with University of Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson, who played with Jones on Arkansas' 1964 national championship team.

Cowboys president Tex Schramm denied any knowledge of the KXAS report.

"This is all a complete surprise to me. It's totally new to me. I guess anything can happen, but I know nothing of it," Schramm told The Associated Press in a short telephone interview Thursday night.

Shortly after the sportscast, which aired at 10 p.m. CST, Landry said from his home, "I don't know a thing about it."

Schramm said he last talked to Bright on Wednesday, "and he said nothing about it." Although it was conceivable the team could be sold without him knowing about it, Schramm said, "I think it would be strange."

But Schramm also told The Dallas Morning News that he no longer is directly involved in the sale discussions. Earlier, Bright had instructed Schramm to solicit prospective buyers for the franchise.

Jones, who has been involved in sale negotiations for the last six months, recently intensified his efforts to purchase the Cowboys. He visited Bright's office at least twice last week, and a source in Little Rock told The News he has enlisted the services of an investment firm, Stephens Inc., to help raise funds for the purchase price.

"He's legitimate," Francis said. Asked whether Jones was the top candidate to buy the team, a source close to the sale told the Dallas Times Herald, "You're sniffing up the right path."

Jones was not available for comment. Bright did not return phone calls from The Associated Press.

There also was no answer at Johnson's Miami home early today.

anything to say about the Cowboys right now."

Jones' name has been on the list of potential buyers of the Cowboys since last fall, but recent speculation had Los Angeles Lakers owner Jerry Buss the most likely to emerge as the team's owner. Bright is believed to be asking $180 million for the team, the lease on Texas Stadium and outstanding debts.

KXAS-TV said "sources in Little Rock" told the station on Monday that Jones and Bright were in deep negotiations all last weekend and into the early part of this week.

Then Thursday, the station said, "sources in Miami" revealed that Johnson was rumored to be the next Cowboys coach and supposedly on his way to Dallas.

In 29 years as the Cowboys' only head coach, Landry has a record of 250-162, including five Super Bowl appearances and two Super Bowl victories.

Rangers deal reported

FORT WORTH (AP) - Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth has given his personal stamp of approval to a group of Texans, headed by the president's son, George W. Bush, who are trying to buy the Texas Rangers from Eddie Chiles.

Bush, the president's oldest son, and Edward Rose met with Ueberroth here Thursday, but Chiles said he has not talked with Ueberroth concerning the deal.

Others in the partnership include Fort Worth businessman Richard Rainwater, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today. The newspaper said the Bush-Rose group has emerged as the most viable candidate to purchase the American League team.

"I met with this partnership today and they have shown us at group of Texans with roots who are their group and we find them to be satisfactory," Ueberroth told reporters Thursday at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. "They will be moving forward toward the purchase of Mr. Chiles' ownership position."

"They have not done it, but they will be moving toward doing it right away," the commissioner said.

It was the commissioner's second trip to the area in the last nine days in connection with the sale. He said the ownership switch could gain approval at the next regularly scheduled owners' meeting in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., March 10-11.

A second Texas-based group, "an amalgamation of several different interested parties," is also in the picture should something happen to derail the Bush-Rose partnership, the commissioner said.

"I'm asking (the second group) to take a standby position," Ueberroth said.

Bush, a possible Texas gubernatorial candidate in 1990, has tried to maintain a low profile during the negotiations but said Thursday night that he is optimistic about his group's chances of purchasing the team.

"We have baseball's endorsement and are proceeding as quickly as possible to get a deal signed," Bush said. "There's no deal yet, but we are going to proceed on course."

He wouldn't give a timetable for completing the transaction, but said it will be done "as soon as possible."

Chiles had little to say about the impending sale.

"It's in the developing stages," Chiles said. "It's nothing solid yet."

Bush, a consultant for Harken Energy in suburban Bedford, apparently will be the spokesperson for the new partnership.

Rose, 47, is owner and president of Cardinal Investments and chairman of the board of Darling-Delaware, an animal rendering company, and chairman of Drew Industries, Inc., a manufacturer of aluminum windows and other products.

Chiles' chief concern has been seeing that minority partner Edward L. Gaylord, whose second attempt to purchase controlling interest in the team is being rebuffed.

Dantley finally joins Mavericks

DALLAS (AP) - Adrian Dantley was in Dallas today after an 8-day holdout, vowing to give the Dallas Mavericks 100 percent and let "bygones be bygones" in his contract dispute with owner Donald Carter.

Dantley, acquired by Dallas Feb. 15 along with a first-round draft choice in a trade with the Detroit Pistons for Mark Aguirre, arrived Thursday night and was given an enthusiastic welcome by a group of Mavericks fans at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

There were only a few boos and a few anti-Dantley signs, but they were in the minority.

The former Notre Dame star explained his holdout by saying "the circumstances of the trade were so unusual that I needed time to sort things out."

Dantley's contract, which calls for $12 million a year, was not renegotiated and the $45,000 that Dantley would have earned in the three games he missed still will be deducted from his pay, Carter said.

Asked if he thought it would be a good will gesture to pay Dantley, Carter said, "Good will has industries after it."

Dantley promised to give the Mavericks 100 percent.

"I haven't talked to (John) MacLeod yet, but I plan to handle whatever role he has in mind for me," Dantley said. "I'm told this could be the team of the 1990s and if that's the case, I would like a contract to the year 2000."

"Adrian wants to outlive Kareem Abdul-Jabbar," Carter joked.

Dantley, the 10th leading scorer in NBA history, said, "Let's hope this is my last stop. I guess I will probably hear some boos Friday night, but I've heard them before."

Dantley, who averaged 18 points a game for the Pistons, was scheduled to play in tonight's game against Golden State.

"I'm not sure how much I'll play," Dantley said. "I've been working out at American University and playing against college students and that's not exactly like going against the pros."

Carter's persuasiveness had a lot to do with his coming to Dallas, Dantley said.

"The more I talked to Mr. C., the easier it was for us to work things out and I'm sure once I'm around the coaches, the fans and the team, we will all be able to appreciate each other," Dantley said. "We've agreed to put this behind us and I'm a Dallas Maverick now."

He added, "I hope this is my last stop. I'm set financially and really don't need to play basketball, but this team has a lot of talent and I would like to see us win a championship."

Carter said that Dantley had called him at 4:15 p.m. and said, "I want to be a part of the team, but there is a big if."

"I was kind of worried when he said that big if, but it turned out the if was if we could shake hands and let bygones be bygones and look to the future," Carter said.

Before Dantley's late afternoon phone call, Mavericks officials had been shopping around the NBA, looking for a team that would give Dallas a first-round draft choice for Dantley, but they found no takers.

Bruno carries Brit tradition

LAS VEGAS (AP) - Frank Bruno carries the added weight of nearly a century of British heavyweight futility when he steps into the ring Saturday night against Mike Tyson.

Not since Bob Fitzsimmons lost the heavyweight crown to James Jeffries in 1899 has a British fighter held the title. Eleven times since then, Britons have fought for the crown, and each time they came away emptyhanded.

Odds makers figure Bruno, who became victim No. 11 when he was knocked out by Tim Witherspoon in July 1986, will also become No. 12 when he faces Tyson for the undisputed heavyweight crown.

"Being in America I know I'm the underdog," Bruno concedes. "And being a British heavyweight, I know I'm another underdog. But I get strength from it. I really do."

Bruno will need all the strength he can muster against Tyson, who will be making the eighth defense of his undisputed heavyweight title at the tender age of 22.

Bruno is a 7(-1) underdog in man-to-man betting and odds makers are taking even-money bets on whether the scheduled 12-round fight will last four full rounds.

Even Bruno seems to hedge his bet on the fight, talking vaguely about a "plan" and how Tyson's personal troubles have somehow made the undefeated champion vulnerable inside the ring.

"I've said from the beginning that I think this is a peak time to beat Mike Tyson and I'll stick to that," the British challenger repeated this week. "You journalists should know why."

If any do know why, they're not saying. And boxing professionals are unanimous in giving Bruno almost no chance to still be standing when the scheduled 12-round fight is over.

"I don't think Bruno will last five rounds," said Johnny Tocco, a veteran trainer at whose gym both fighters worked out in the weeks prior to the fight. "He stands straight up in the air.

All those tall guys, Tyson just chops them down."

Eddie Futch, who trained Michael Spinks for last June's fight that Tyson ended in 91 seconds, agrees.

"He's a big guy, a strong guy and not a bad boxer, but he's slow," Futch said.

The 27-year-old challenger still keeps a stiff upper lip going into the biggest fight of his career.

"Saturday night there will be a new heavyweight champion from England," Bruno said at Wednesday's news conference.

Bruno, who last fought 16 months ago when he knocked out an aging Joe Bugner in London, is an imposing physical specimen, standing 6-foot-3 and weighing about 230 pounds.

He has seldom fought out of England, however, and though he has a big punch, his chin is also suspect.

BO'S 1988 STATISTICS

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bo Jackson is still doggedly pursuing his two-sport career, baseball in the summer and football in the winter.

Bo played more than half the 1988 NFL season with the Los Angeles Raiders after a full campaign with Kansas City of the American League.

Jackson finished his second season with the Royals in 1988 and his statistics were mixed. He batted only .246 but had 25 home runs and 27 stolen bases. He struck out 146 times and drew only 30 walks.

STYLISH HORNETS

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — One of the two new teams in the NBA for the 1988-89 season, the Charlotte Hornets, won't win any titles but they may rank as best-dressed.

The Hornet uniforms were designed by the award-winning Alexander Julian. The uniforms were white and teal with hints of purple, Kelly Green and Carolina Blue, featuring pleated boxer-like shorts and V-neck shirts.

Names In The News

ATLANTA (AP) — Soul singer Isaac Hayes has been cited for contempt of court and jailed for being $346,300 behind in child-support and alimony payments.

Hayes, whose recordings include the score for the movie "Shaft," was told Thursday by Superior Court Judge Philip F. Etheridge that he can get out of jail only by coming up with $22,000.

The judge said he jailed the entertainer, who lives in Marietta, because of Hayes' repeated refusal to comply with court orders to catch up and stay current on payments.

Etheridge described the amount of the past-due payments as "categorically ridiculous and almost beyond belief."

Hayes, 50, told the judge he has been financially strapped and has not been able to schedule enough performances to make the amount of money he needs to meet the $2,500 monthly court-ordered payments.

PHOENIX (AP) — The son of former United Nations Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick has been jailed for investigation of aggravated assault involving a woman he was apparently living with, police said.

Douglas Kirkpatrick, 32, was arrested Tuesday at the apartment of an 18-year-old Phoenix woman who claimed she had been threatened with a knife, police spokesman Sgt. Andy Anderson said Thursday. Kirkpatrick was reported missing several weeks ago from Sheppard and Enoch Pratt Hospital, a private, 322-bed mental institution in Towson, Md., just outside Baltimore, where Mrs. Kirkpatrick lives.

During an initial appearance Thursday morning in Maricopa County's Madison Street Jail, Kirkpatrick's bail was set at $8,220. A jail official said bail was not posted and Kirkpatrick remained in custody.

Jail officials also scheduled a March 3 appearance date for the defendant in Tolleson Justice Court.

Anderson said Kirkpatrick apparently had been living at the apartment of Nora Kaplan, the woman who called police.

Gil Kleiner, a spokesman for the mental hospital, refused to comment on Kirkpatrick's disappearance. Mrs. Kirkpatrick, reached at her home, also declined to comment.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Former U.S. astronaut James B. Irwin gave acting President Alfredo Fortin Inestroza a Honduran flag taken to the moon on a 1971 space mission.

"I'm here to share Christ with the people," said Irwin, 58, a retired U.S. Air Force colonel whose trip was sponsored by the Christian Embassy evangelical organization.

Irwin presented Fortin Inestroza with a tiny Honduran flag that he took on Apollo 15 and a copy of a book that relates "how my life was transformed by the trip to the moon," he told reporters at the presidential mansion.

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — Former South Carolina Rep. John Jenrette intends to appeal his conviction on charges of shoplifting shoes from a department store, despite a judge's finding that he is "overwhelmingly" guilty.

Fairfax County, Va., Circuit Judge Donald B. McDonough on Thursday found the former Abscam convict guilty of petty larceny and altering price tags at Marshall's discount department store in Tyson's Corner, Va., on Dec. 7.

"I find overwhelmingly, without a doubt, that he is guilty on both charges," McDonough said after a 3-hour trial.

McDonough sentenced Jenrette to two concurrent 90-day jail terms for each of the two misdemeanor charges, with 75 days suspended. The judge also fined him $1,000 for each charge, with $500 suspended.

Jenrette, a 52-year-old Democrat, got caught in the Abscam sting operation in which FBI agents posing as Arab sheiks and businessmen offered bribes to lawmakers. He was convicted in 1980 and sentenced to two years in prison and five years' probation for bribery and conspiracy charges. He served 13 months in prison and is on probation.

Kenneth Robinson, the attorney who represented Jenrette in the Abscam trial as well as the shoplifting case, said he plans to appeal. In the meantime, Jenrette was freed on personal bond.

NEW YORK (AP) — At first it appeared Forrest Sawyer was going to be a runaway in the New York Post's mail-in survey on who should replace Diane Sawyer on "60 Minutes."

Then, someone noticed that nearly all of the votes for the anchorman of ABC's "World News This Morning" had been run through the same postage meter, which was traced back to his New York agent, Arthur Kaminsky.

"We thought it'd be fun. We thought it'd be hysterical," Kaminsky told the Post.

After the bogus ballots were thrown out, the people's real choice turned out to be NBC anchor Connie Chung. She got 49 of the 302 total votes.

Forrest Sawyer got one reader's vote, the Post reported.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tipper Gore, who has spoken out against lyrics in rock 'n' roll music, had no objection to dancing a few slow waltzes at a senior citizens center.

Mrs. Gore, the wife of Sen. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., visited the Adult Day Care Center where she greeted more than 20 people making crafts and enjoying other activities Wednesday.

"Services like these are so important to the many elderly people out there who need facilities where they can go to enjoy others and get the care they need," she said.

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Actor Robert De Niro will make a rare public appearance at the premiere of his latest movie to raise money for children with birth defects linked to the defoliant Agent Orange.

De Niro has arranged to stage Saturday's premiere of "Jacknife," a story about two Vietnam veterans, at a New York City theater as a benefit for the Connecticut-based Brandie Schieb Children's Fund.

"He just feels that this cause is very worthwhile and he's just very interested in trying to help," Diane Collins, a spokeswoman for the reclusive actor, said Wednesday.

Organizers hope to raise $15,000 to $20,000 from the $25-a-ticket premiere and a $125-a-ticket party afterward, Collins said.

The movie tells the story of two veterans reunited 15 years after the war whose strained relationship becomes even more volatile when one falls in love with the other's sister.

De Niro met members of Stamford-based Vietnam Veterans Agent Orange Victims Inc. while filming the movie in Meriden. The group started the fund in 1985 to help pay the medical bills of Brandie Schieb, now 9, who was born deaf and without ears, and without most of her right cheekbone, jaw and eye socket. Doctors believe the girl's birth defects were caused by her father's exposure to Agent Orange while serving with the U.S. Navy in Vietnam.

LONDON (AP) — The brother act of "Rain Man" co-stars Dustin Hoffman and Tom Cruise was just as convincing in the flesh to the Duchess of York.

"You look like brothers - I'm convinced of it," the former Sarah Ferguson, wife of Prince Andrew, told the actors at the London charity premiere of the film Wednesday.

Hoffman, who plays Cruise's autistic brother in the film, joked back: "I'm Cruise, he's Hoffman."

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Dorothy Bush LeBlond, President Bush's daughter, has taken a job as a planner with the state tourism office.

LeBlond, 29, had been staying at home with her two children but said her experience campaigning for her father last year helped her decide to make a change.

"I decided that I want to work," she said in a telephone interview Wednesday, her first day on the job.

She will earn $25,729 a year to promote Maine as a spot for business conferences. She said she expects to spend about one day a week in Augusta, the capital, about 60 miles from her home in Cape Elizabeth, and the rest of the time traveling.

Toastmasters hold debates during Thursday meeting

Five rounds of debates were conducted during Hereford Toastmasters' regular Thursday morning meeting held in the Ranch House Restaurant.

The invocation was given by Bruce Hernandez and the pledge was led by Bob Lohr.

In preparation for the debates, members drew for their jobs and positions. Joe Don Cummings was moderator and judges were Tom Weemes and Joe Walters. The winner of each round advanced to a higher level.

"The U.S. Supreme Court Should Rule in Favor of Abortion" served as the topic of the first debate session. Rocky Lee took the affirmative argument and advanced to the third round while Joe Weaver replied in the negative.

The second session featured the topic, "College Athletes Should Be Paid." Bob Lohr gave the affirmative side and Doc Adams won the round and advanced to the fourth round.

"Pepsi is Better than Coke" featured Hernandez in the affirmative. Lee won by replying in the negative and advanced to the fifth round.

The fourth session pitted Adams against Lynn Cook with "Marijuana Should Be Legalized." Adams took the affirmative; Cook won with his negative side and advanced to the fifth round.

"Every State Employee Should Be Drug Tested" served as the topic of the fifth and final round. Winner Cook took the affirmative and Lee took the negative side.

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

Q. What's the best way to store oatmeal cookies? Mrs. G.G., Kankakee, Ill.

A. For crisp oatmeal cookies, store in a loosely covered container in a dry climate. Or in a damp, humid climate, store in tightly covered container.

If your oatmeal cookie is soft and chewy, store in tightly covered container to preserve moisture.

Q. What's the difference between baking powder and baking soda? N.W., Oklahoma City, OK

A. Baking powder has baking soda plus an acid so when mixed with liquid produces carbon dioxide causing baked goods to rise. Baking soda is used in recipes containing an acidic ingredient, such as sour milk, buttermilk, molasses or chocolate. It neutralizes the acidic ingredient, releasing carbon dioxide and allowing the baked food to rise.

Soda and baking powder are not interchangeable. Recipes may be developed using one or the other or both. Use is based on the combination of other ingredients in recipe.

TIP OF THE WEEK: To "bake" cakes in a microwave, there's no need to dust greased pans with flour.
