Inmates share personal story

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

David and Robert look like typical young adults. Clean cut. Good manners. Outspoken in a way.

But it's the clothes that give them away. How many people go around making public speeches dressed in all-white clothes, bleached like they came from the Clorox factory?

David and Robert wolf down chicken fried steak, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans, corn, salad and bread like they haven't had a real good meal in a long time.

It's likely they haven't. They talk about how good "free world food" really is. It's better than the three squares a day they get at the Williams Unit at Huntsville.

David is there serving time on a robbery conviction. Robert's serving a 25-year sentence. Both were in Hereford on Wednesday to talk to local school students about the dangers drugs can lead to.

The two are one of three teams of inmates that go around the state urging youngsters to avoid drugs, alcohol and other abusable things that can lead to ruin. Neither of them felt they were going down the road: prison was the last thing on either of their minds.

They just wanted to get high.

"Every program we give to kids we ask them if any of them plan to go to prison," Robert told the Hereford Lions club on Wednesday. "They look crazy, look at us like we are nuts. If someone had asked me 10 years ago if I were going to prison I would have laughed.

"It (going to prison) can happen to anyone. You don't have to be old or young to lose your life to alcohol or drugs. There are a lot of people who say it will never happen, but everything you have right now could be gone in a snap of the fingers."

Robert said television is a culprit.

"They show commercials about the bad side of drugs, then there are alcohol commercials about having a good time. They don't say that because of alcohol you could go to prison, or you could die. They show how good it is, just like the guy that lights up that first (marijuana) joint does."

David had a wife and two kids when he entered the penitentiary. He hopes he still has them when he gets out, which won't be until next summer at the earliest. He was introduced to alcohol by his parents and grandparents, to drugs by his three older sisters. Later, he took speed from a friend.

"There were a bunch of people at a party, and I didn't want to look like a nerd," David said. "Today, I wouldn't mind being a nerd.

"You get to liking dope so much you throw everything else away. I pretty much lost my family. I stole from my mother and lied to my grandparents."

David and Robert plan to be drug and alcohol counselors once they leave prison, and hope to educate more young people about drug abuse.

"You have to educate the young," Robert said. "When a baby is old enough to talk is time to start telling them how bad drugs and alcohol can be."

Canned food drive Friday

Band to compete Saturday

The Hereford High School Mighty Maroon Band will perform at 5:15 p.m. Saturday at Ratliff Stadium in Odessa in the Region Marching Contest.

It is the third time the Mighty Maroon Band has participated in the regional contest since the contest's inception in 1984. The 1983 marching band participated in the state contest.

The band will perform its "Western Movies" show, including themes from several movies and television shows. The show also features the HHS drill team and twirlers.

Competing against the Mighty Maroon Band at the contest Saturday will be Pampa, Pecos, Monahans and two bands from the Lubbock district. Two of the bands from each class at the contest will be certified to the state contest in Austin on Nov. 12.

The contest will use a panel of five judges, who each rank the bands independently. The final order is determined by taking each band's rankings from the five judges, throwing out the high and low rankings, and adding the three remaining scores for a point total. The band with the lowest total score is then awarded first, the next lowest second, and so on.

AUSTIN (AP) - In their final televised meeting before Tuesday's election, the gubernatorial candidates each voiced disapproval of a state income tax and disagreed sharply on abortion.

Republican Clayton Williams said he would favor a state law requiring parents to be notified before minor daughters could obtain abortions.

Democrat Ann Richards said parents should be involved, but writing a law to require it was so difficult that some young women could be driven to "back-alley butchers."

The two participated in a "mini-debate" arranged by KDFW-TV and conducted in separate studios Wednesday night. They have not taken part in a face-to-face debate during the campaign.

Each candidate promised to build more prisons, start "boot camps" for first-time offenders and be generally tough on crime.

Williams asked Richards whether she would veto a state income tax, as he has promised to do. "I'm totally against an income tax, have said that consistently," Richards replied. The Republican said afterward that Richards still hasn't promised Texans a veto.

The two were at odds over parental consent for abortion. Richards has described herself as pro-choice on abortion, while Williams opposes abortion except in cases of rape, incest or danger to a mother's life.

"I've been talking about the right to privacy for a very long time," Richards said.

"I think any parents should be involved in such a difficult decision, regardless of the age," she said.

"The problem is that when you write legislation, you have to take the exceptions, like incest. Then what are you going to do?"

"The difficulty is that no recourse is offered to her. And what we're going to do is find young women going to back-alley butchers as we did in previous years, and no one wants that."

But Williams disagreed.

"Well, you can legislate many things," he said. "I believe in my heart that when a 13-year-old girl gets pregnant - a major problem for her life - that the parents should be involved. I feel like we must have legislation that they be involved in that decision."

"I will work for legislation to involve the parents, that it's required for the parents to participate in that decision before she can have that abortion."

Williams said he supports the state GOP platform on other abortion issues. He said he opposes abortions for gender selection and favors requirements for "safe health clinics" that perform the operations.

"We had many young women die last year because abortion clinics weren't licensed," he said.

But Richards said clinics are required to be licensed. "They are routinely examined by the health department," she said.

Richards also said a parental consent law could send some young women before judges. "The absurdity of it is, that the judge's decision is if the person is too immature to make the decision then she must bear the child. If she is mature enough to make the decision, then she can terminate the pregnancy."

Williams later said, "Part of the Republican platform establishes health and safety standards for clinics. The standards are not up to snuff and it is our belief that they should have more emergency equipment and be prepared for bleeding problems. ... There were several young women who died in abortion clinics across the country, I think seven or eight." He said he didn't know if any were in Texas.

DPS warns of area scam

AMARILLO (AP) - Scam operators offering home and yard repairs are working in the Amarillo area, the Texas Department of Public Safety says.

Four men were released from a Lubbock jail after pleading guilty to charges of deceptive business practices, Assistant District Attorney Russell Wasley said Wednesday.

In court documents, the four said they are currently staying in Amarillo hotels, Wasley told the Amarillo Globe-Times. The men are residents of Springfield, Mo., and Post Falls, Idaho, Wasley said.

Law enforcement authorities believe the men may try to stay in the Amarillo area and continue to work.

The men were arrested in Lubbock Oct. 24 after charging a 92-year-old Lubbock woman $12,000 for a "lightning protection system" that she didn't need, Wasley said.

After the woman paid for the lightning protection system, the four came back and began making repairs to her roof, telling the woman that her roof badly needed work, Wasley said.

Suspicious neighbors called police, who arrested the men and seized $13,600 in cash.

In the Halloween spirit

Kami Martin and Conny Whitehorn at Rainbow Car Wash were in the spirit of Halloween on Wednesday as they dressed up for work. Persons in many other local stores also took advantage of Oct. 31 to bring out their "finest."

TTU will host pump efficiency workshop

LUBBOCK -- The department of agricultural engineering at Texas Tech University will host a "Pumping System Efficiency Workshop" Friday and Saturday (Nov. 2-3) in Room 209 of the Agricultural Engineering Building.

The workshop, divided into two sections, primarily will focus on topics related to pumps on Friday and issues about well design and maintenance on Saturday.

The study of pumps and wells is important because water and energy conservation depends on the efficiency of pumping systems, said Marvin J. Dvoracek, conference organizer and a Texas Tech associate professor of agricultural engineering.

A lecture titled "Horizontal Wells - Are They in the Future?" concentrates on a current topic of concern and discusses a way to remove contaminated groundwater near leaking underground storage tanks, such as those found at gasoline stations or fertilizer distribution centers. The lecture about horizontal wells is scheduled 11-11-30 a.m. Saturday.

Conference speakers on Friday are: John Borrelli, chairman of agricultural engineering and associate dean at Texas Tech; Leon New, agricultural engineer and irrigation specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Amarillo; Joe Henggler, agricultural engineer and irrigation specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Fort Stockton; Stephen Amosson, economist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Amarillo; Carl Gelin, retired pump company representative and pump consultant; Ivor Smith, engineering manager at Goulds Pumps in Lubbock; and Charles Schlabs, a Hereford farmer.

Saturday's speakers are: Gary Walker, manager at Sandy Lands Underground Water Conservation District in Plains; Marvin Dvoracek, associate professor of agricultural engineering at Texas Tech; Bill Claborn, professor of civil engineering at Texas Tech; Mike Mehmert, a representative of Chris-Well Services in Golden, Colo.; and Gary Jacques, design engineer at Eastman-Christensen Environmental Services in Houston.

The workshop is sponsored by Texas Tech's department of agricultural engineering and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University in College Station.

SAT excludes multiple choice

BOSTON (AP) - In a few years, college-bound students will have to give their own answers to some Scholastic Aptitude Test math problems instead of picking from multiple choices. But they'll be able to use a calculator.

Those are among changes announced Wednesday by the College Board, sponsor of the SAT, the most widely used college entrance exam

The revisions - the most drastic in the test's 64-year history - also include more emphasis on reading comprehension. The revised SAT, called SAT-I, will be introduced in 1994, board President Donald M. Stewart said.

In addition, an optional test, known as the SAT-II, will be phased in starting next year and will include an essay section.

Critics who have charged that the test is culturally biased and a poor judge of students' ability said the changes don't go far enough.

"It's polish. It's adding new tailfins to the Edsel," says Bob Schaeffer, public education director at FairTest, a Cambridge, Mass.-based group critical of the SAT. "The SAT should be optional and it should be comprehensively overhauled to address its problems."

Stewart said the revisions were aimed in part at reducing students' reliance on test coaches. The changes will increase the SAT's "educational relevance and quality for all college-bound students," he said.

He denied the changes were prompted by charges that the SAT is biased, particularly against women and minorities.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," Stewart said at the board's annual meeting in Boston. "The SAT has been in almost continual evolution. It has never been set in concrete."

Gregg Driben, national director of pre-college programs for Stanley Kaplan Educational Center Ltd., which prepares students for standardized tests, said professional coaches still will play an important role.

The old SAT had 85 verbal and 60 math questions. SAT-I will have 75 to 85 verbal and 55 to 60 math questions. The new math questions requiring students to produce an answer on their own will make up about 20 percent of the math section.

War in gulf could triple oil prices; gas $3 gallon

WASHINGTON (AP) - The price of oil could easily "explode" to $100 per barrel if war broke out in the Persian Gulf, a panel of experts told a Senate committee Wednesday.

"There's no limit," said John Lichtblau of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation. "It depends on how much panic there is."

With the Bush administration rattling sabres in Iraq's direction, Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn., presiding over a hearing of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, echoed growing concern in Congress about what will happen at the pump if war breaks out.

"The day the war starts prices will explode," said Lichtblau, one of several experts on the oil industry to appear before the panel.

Oil prices hovering in the $33 per barrel range could easily triple, said Professor Fariborz Ghadar of George Washington University's business school. "I would not be surprised if oil prices reached $100 per barrel," Ghadar said.

Translating a crude oil price increase into a higher price at the pump is an inexact science. But some industry experts use a ratio of 12 cents more per gallon for every $5 increase in the price of a barrel of crude.

At $100 per barrel, under that formula, gasoline could rise to nearly $3 per gallon.

The witnesses told Lieberman that with oil production already at or near capacity, oil consuming states could do little beyond releasing oil reserves onto the market.

Tapping oil reserves would have to go beyond the use of the U.S. government's Strategic Petroleum Reserve, said Professor M.A. Adelman of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It would have to occur globally.

In addition to the strategic reserves there are the oil reserves held by private companies as well as substantial reserves held by Japan and western European nations, witnesses said.

The reasons for the sharp price rise, the experts said, would be fear that war would disrupt supply lines combined with the likelihood that a Gulf war would curtail Saudi Arabia's oil-producing capabilities.

Conversely, if Iraqi President Saddam Hussein suddenly ends the crisis by withdrawing forces from Kuwait, the price of oil could drop just as suddenly to levels below those that preceded the Aug. 2 invasion Iraqi, witnesses said.

"That range is likely to be reached approximately 48 hours after the crisis is over," Lichtblau said.

If the stalemate continues it is likely that oil prices will remain about where they are. But they could jump quickly with any disruption of a supply system already straining to meet demand.

"This is a very tight market," Ghadar said. "A pipe blowing up in Nigeria, a fire in Venezuela, some other disruption," could be enough to spread panic and push prices higher.

In the second of three hearings on the oil industry, Lieberman continued to pursue the question of whether oil companies and oil producing nations are unfairly gouging consumers.

"In the past few months there has been an enormous transfer of wealth from the many oil consuming nations, including the United States, to the few oil producing nations," Lieberman said. Saudi Arabia alone would reap a $50 billion windfall if oil averaged $30 per barrel over the course of a year.

The answers Lieberman received were not encouraging to consumers. The witnesses said there was little the United States could do to break up the OPEC cartel. In the meantime, the simple laws of supply and demand would govern the price of oil.

Witnesses rejected as unworkable, for example, Lieberman's suggestion that Saudi Arabia unilaterally lower the price of its crude in exchange for U.S. military support. The market would quickly absorb the cheap Saudi oil and no other countries would be compelled to lower their prices, Lichtblau said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last May you wrote a column about the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences' tuition-free medical school program. The response was simply incredible. We received 16,000 written inquiries and more than 1,000 calls, even though you didn't include a phone number. Applications this past year were up 40 percent. You can take credit for it.

Ann, I realize that you are not an advertising agency, but USUHS needs your help again. Due to defense budget cuts, we have even less money than before to publicize our program. There are millions of young people in our country who would make excellent doctors but they can't afford the education and they don't know about us.

Observance planned Friday

The local observance of World Community Day will be celebrated from 9:30-11 a.m. Friday in First Christian Church. The public is invited to attend.

Those planning to attend the event, which will be conducted by Leta Kaul in the chapel, are asked to enter the east door of the educational building.

World Community Day is an ecumenical worship event that brings Protest, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and other Christian women together into one community of prayer, advocacy and service. The observance, which is sponsored annually by Church Women United, represents a broad spectrum of religious tradition, race, age, economic status and ethnic background and functions through a national unit, 52 state units and 1,750 local units throughout the USA.

"Women for Justice/Justice for Women" is the theme for 1990's observance that raises consciousness to the condition of women of all races and cultures who are oppressed. It lifts up for support and prayer the groups and individual women who are working for justice.

The service and resource materials for World Community Day were written by a diverse group of Christian women from Arizona who are deeply involved in justice issues within their own communities.

Our graduates have proven to be outstanding military physicians. For example, three of the last four Air Force Flight Surgeons of the Year have been USUHS grads. And now because of the situation in the Middle East, we need military doctors more than ever.

Ann, I am asking if you could possibly print something about USUHS in your column again. And please, when you're in Washington, come and visit us. I promise that you will be thrilled by the caliber of our students.

All of us at USUHS thank you for your support of our national medical school.—Patricia Campbell, director of public affairs, Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences, Bethesda, Md.

DEAR PATRICIA CAMPBELL: I'm so pleased that I was able to help. Here's the repeat you asked for and I hope it produces good results.

If you are a U.S. citizen, a college graduate, 27 or younger (up to 33 with military service), married or single, and have the desire to work in the field of medicine and serve your country, the U.S. Department of Defense has a four-year medical school program at the F. Edward Hebert School of Medicine. Your tuition and books will be free. Upon entering, all medical students will be commissioned as officers (ensigns or second lieutenants) and will draw full pay and benefits while in school.

After graduation, students receive the M.D. degree and a promotion to captain or lieutenant. In exchange for their medical education, students must serve seven years in the Army, Navy, Air Force or U.S. Public Health Service.

Anyone who would like more information should write to: Office of Admissions, Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences, 4301 Jones Bridge Rd., Bethesda, Md. 20889-4799.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Add this to your file on how unfair a judge can be when it comes to divorce. Here's the story. I leave it to you.

My son lost everything in a bitter custody battle that lasted more than a year. His wife was awarded the children, the house and everything in it. She was—and is—a topless dancer, got pregnant by a lover, had an abortion, hired a thug to beat up my son and then tried to have him killed.

You will not believe the way this mess was resolved. My son has been ordered to pay his ex-wife's attorney's fees even though she is the one who started the divorce proceedings and makes twice as much money as he does. Two weeks ago, he was ordered to jail because he can't pay these fees. Every word I have written is God's truth. Where is justice anyway? -- Lake Park, Fla., Mother

DEAR MOTHER: Sounds as if your son had poor legal representation. He should try again for a more equitable settlement. Your anger sounds justified to me.

An alcohol problem? How can you help yourself or someone you love? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Alcohol, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

AMERICA DEPENDS ON IMPORTED OIL
NEW YORK (AP) - Evidence of America's increasing dependence on imported oil comes from an energy management-oriented publication that tracks the worldwide oil market.

According to a recent report from Energy User News magazine, the United States increased its oil imports from Iraq from 46,000 barrels a day in 1985 to 610,000 barrels per day in 1990.

A similar increase in imported oil from Kuwait is also reported from 21,000 barrels a day in 1985 to 121,000 barrels daily in 1990.

The publication notes that Saudi Arabia increased its output to the United States from 168,000 barrels a day in 1985 to 1,255,000 barrels a day in 1990.

These imports represent a five-fold increase from Kuwait and a seven-fold increase from Saudi Arabia.

Get the most from eye care

Consumers can now get much more than a pair of glasses or contact lenses from their optometrist, thanks to changes in state laws and advances in the profession.

Long recognized as the experts in helping people obtain the right lens prescription to meet their seeing needs, optometrists today offer consumers expanded eye health and vision care services as well.

Optometrists diagnose eye diseases, like glaucoma, and in 25 states are prescribing drugs to treat eye disease. According to the American Optometric Association, nearly 93 percent of optometrists offer patients dispensing services and, of those, 24 percent prescribe drugs to treat eye disease. Sixty-two percent offer non-prescription drugs for certain eye conditions.

Consumers can also get help from their optometrist with diagnosing and treating vision development and learning-related vision problems with a treatment program called vision therapy. Special services are available in such areas as on-the-job vision, including help for computer users; sports vision; low vision, including help for the legally blind; pediatric eye care; geriatric eye care; post-surgical care and contact lens follow-up care.

In addition, consumers will find today's optometrists a source of eye care information. They offer advice about a child's vision development, eye safety, ultraviolet radiation protection, sunglasses, on-the-job vision, lighting, driving, eyestrain, recreational vision needs, the effects of drugs on the eyes, age-related eye problems, eye disease and more.

Big Buck contest set for deer season

Great news! We are going to have a BIG BUCK Deer Hunting Contest. Paul Blake at Blake Brothers Sportsman Supply in Canyon is joining with Southwest Outdoors and the Canyon News in sponsoring the contest. To be eligible, the buck must be killed north of a line running from Lubbock to Childress. Prizes will be awarded for biggest antlers in two categories, typical and non-typical, for both whitetail and mule deer. That makes a total of four winners. The good folks at Blake Brothers will be the official check-in station. No registration fees; just some good fun. More details about this contest will appear in our next column.

As you read this, I will be on Ute Lake at the Redman Regional fishing tournament. Last year's Redman regional champion, Ted Miller asked me to be his official observer and I jumped at the chance. Ted has won the last four tournaments he has entered on Ute Lake using his homemade Glider Glitzit. If you are interested in buying some special Ted Miller Glider Glitzits, drop me a note in care of The Brand and I will endeavor to put you at the head of the line. That's just an extra benefit of reading Southwest Outdoors.

I will be staying at Butch Colantonio's cabin at Ute Lake. Staying with Butch and fishing with Ted Miller is my idea of a dream weekend. The top 10 of the 150 entries will advance to the Redman $100,000 All-American.

The radio edition of Southwest Outdoors has moved to Wednesday evening from 6-6:30 on KGNC (710 AM). Our next show will feature Bobby Nolan and some incredible bass fishing in Mexico.

Special congratulations to veteran angler Bob Shiffman of Pampa for winning the most recent and final Lake Meredith Fun Tournament of 1990. Bob, who serves as a B.A.S.S regional director, braved the stiff northerly winds and outlasted 75 dedicated anglers to claim his $375 prize money. Dondi Brame of Borger (wisely fishing instead of listening to Oklahoma football) finished second and is quickly becoming a regular money winner on the Fun Tournament trail. Fritch's Jerry Jameson nailed down third place by only .05 pounds over Richard Beilue of Dumas. Lucky Pennie Rigo of Fritch won the luck-of-the-draw and $50.

Hopefully, the Lake Meredith Fun Tournaments will continue next year and anyone wanting to help sponsor a Fun Tournament can contact me at 353-3654.

Good luck, good fishing and good hunting.

Herd sophomores fall, 21-6, at Amarillo High

The Hereford Whiteface sophomore football team dropped a 21-6 decision at Amarillo High Wednesday.

Gun Club sets plans for skeet league

The Hereford Gun Club will be open at 6 p.m. today for anyone interested in shooting in a skeet league.

The Gun Club has facilities for shooting both skeet and trap. Anyone interested in joining a league is invited to visit the Gun Club range or call Jim Lassiter at 364-2006.

The game was originally scheduled for today, but was moved because of tonight's Amarillo High varsity game in Lubbock.

Hereford trailed 7-6 at halftime with the score coming on a 4-yard pass from Jake Head to Leonard Martinez.

The Sandies scored twice in the second half to put the game away.

Cody Powell had a pass interception in the contest for the Herd.

Today's Hereford sub-varsity games include the freshman Maroon team hosting Canyon Randall at 5 p.m. while the freshman White squad visits Borger at 5 p.m. and the Herd junior varsity plays at Borger at 7 p.m.

Much at stake when Herd locks horns with Caprock

By SAM WALLER
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces will be looking to all but wrap up a playoff berth in their home finale when they host Amarillo Caprock at 7:30 p.m. Friday in a key matchup of District 1-4A teams at Whiteface Stadium.

The district-leading Longhorns (3-5 for the year, 3-0 in 1-4A) need only one win in their final two games to make the playoffs while the Herd (3-4-1, 2-0-1) just have to keep pace with the Pampa Harvesters. Those three are the only 1-4A teams still in the playoff hunt.

Herd coach Don Cumpton said there is no doubt the game is the most important of the season for the Whitefaces.

"No question about it," he said, "this is it. The winner of this game clinches a playoff spot, so that makes it pretty important. It's by far the biggest game we've played."

While a loss would not totally eliminate either team, getting back into the race would require outside help in next week's final games.

In addition to securing a playoff spot, a win would put Hereford at .500 for the first time this season. The Whitefaces moved a step closer to finishing the season in the black when they picked up their first road win of the year with a 34-0 decision at Dumas.

"We had some disappointments early in the season," Cumpton said. "I think our players have responded well and have come back and really played well since district started. I think they're to be commended for that because they've gotten themselves ready to play and have done the things you have to do since district started."

Herd tailback Matt Bromlow can reach a personal plateau in the game as he needs only 74 yards rushing to reach 1,000 yards for the second year in a row. Bromlow, who has 926 yards heading into the game, broke the school career rushing mark two weeks ago against Canyon Randall and has 2,476 for his career.

Cumpton said the Longhorns should be more than ready to face the Herd, having won three straight after opening the season with five consecutive losses in non-district games.

How low can you go?

Hereford Whiteface quarterback T.J. Head (1) looks for running room during last week's 34-0 romp over the Dumas Demons while offensive linemen Andrew Tijerina (63) and Cody Page (55) provide backside protection. The Herd will host the Amarillo Caprock Longhorns in the 1990 home finale at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Whiteface Stadium in a game that will assure the winner of a playoff berth.

"They've got a lot of momentum," he said. "It will be a tough game."

"I know our guys are looking forward to it because this is a big game. You don't get to play many like this where you have this much on the line and this much at stake. It's been an exciting week for us."

Caprock has been led by senior quarterback Richard Williams, who has compiled more than 1,100 yards of total offense. Williams has rushed for 590 yards on 85 carries (6.1 average) and completed 37 of 98 passes (37.7 completion percentage) for 571 yards.

Harris picks Herd by 13 in 'Battle of the Cattle'

When the Hereford Whitefaces host the Amarillo Caprock Longhorns at Whiteface Stadium on Friday night, there will be more at stake than separating the bulls from the steers.

Both teams enter the ninth week of the season undefeated in District 1-4A competition with 3-0 Caprock holding a half-game lead over 2-0-1 Hereford.

The Harris Rating System has installed the Herd as a 13-point favorite to win The Battle of the Cattle and get a hoof up in the district race.

Hereford enters the contest fresh off a 34-0 pasting of Dumas while the 'Horns kept their 1-4A record clean with a 20-12 shocker at Borger.

The Dumas win helped the Herd gain 14 places in the Class 4A Harris rankings to No. 54 and added three points to the Whitefaces' power rating to make it 176.

Caprock used its win over the Bulldogs to move up 11 places to No. 106 and boost its rating two points to 163.

DISTRICT 1-4A GAMES

Caprock pulled off the upset last week to stay in the district lead at 3-0. Hereford and Pampa are still tied for second place at 2-0-1. The three are still in contention for the playoffs.

Borger, in fourth place at 1-2, and Dumas and Randall, both in the cellar at 0-3, have been eliminated from the race.

That has added some clarity to the playoff picture heading into the final two weeks, but not much with nine different combinations of wins, losses and/or ties between the top three that will have a direct effect on the race's outcome. The Hereford-Pampa tie has left things tight enough that none of the three can be mathematically eliminated this week.

This week's other games have Dumas at Pampa and Borger at Randall.

Dumas (0-8, 0-7) at Pampa (3-2-1, 1-0-1): Pampa remains 1-4A's highest rated team moving up three places to No. 43 and adding two rating points to 179.

Pampa routed Randall last week, 56-14, after scoring 49 unanswered points in the first half.

The Demons look more and more like they're headed for a final-week showdown with Randall for the 1-4A basement.

Last week's loss to the Herd dropped Dumas down seven places to No. 147 and lowered its power rating three points to 151.

The Harvesters have been installed as 23-point favorites.

Borger (3-5, 1-2) at Randall (0-8, 0-3): The Bulldogs are still smarting from last week's loss to Caprock while Randall is licking its wounds after being outscored 128-26 in three district contests.

Borger's loss dropped the 'Dogs 12 places to No. 111 and knocked of three points to 162.

Randall comes in, like Dumas, creeping ever closer to the bottom of Class 4A's 168 teams. The Raiders fell one place to No. 156 with a loss of two rating points to 143.

Borger gets the nod by 16 points.

Huntsville air attack more than just a passing fancy for coach, quarterback

By MIKE DRAGO
Associated Press Writer

There's good news and bad news for defenders hoping to catch the Huntsville Hornets.

The good news is that Huntsville coach Joe Clements has run out of sons to install at quarterback after Chuck Clements graduates.

The bad news is that Chuck, the state's passing leader, is only a junior.

Chuck is the latest in the Clements clan to light up Texas high school football scoreboards. His brother Steve, now a freshman at the University of Texas, holds the state career passing leader with 8,204 yards.

The elder Clements said he has been surprised by his son's 2,184-yard 23-touchdown passing performance.

"It's really hard to evaluate somebody until you see them play," Clements said. "I didn't really think he'd do this well. I hoped for the best and expected the worst. He's been a pleasant surprise."

HERD

Cumpton said Williams along with fullback David Davis must be stopped for Hereford to be successful.

"We've got to control the quarterback," he said. "There's no doubt in my mind he makes them go. He's a good runner, a good passer. Him and the fullback we think are their best two athletes. They're the ones who'll beat you if you don't do a good job."

"The quarterback and fullback are the focal point of their offense. They run a lot of misdirection plays. It's real important that your defense has a lot of discipline to stay home and take care of their responsibilities. If they don't they'll get faked out."

"They're a Wing-T team. They run the bootleg and the bootleg pass with their quarterback. And they'll run a little bit of option, but not a whole lot. They use the misdirection to set the quarterback up for the bootleg plays."

On defense, Cumpton said the 'Horns will show a more basic look than the Herd has faced in several weeks.

"They run a simple 4-3 defense," he said. "They're pretty sound and play pretty good technique. They're well-coached and they execute well. They don't get out of position. They don't do a lot of fancy stuff, they just play good solid football."

Among the edges the Herd will have are size and depth. Caprock has seven players starting on both sides of the ball while the offensive and defensive lines average 185 and 178 pounds, respectively. But, Cumpton said, that hasn't mattered a whole lot in district games.

"They're not as big as some of the teams we've played," he said. "But they're big enough. It hasn't bothered them too much the last three weeks."

INJURY REPORT: For the first time since the start of the season, none of Hereford's regulars are definitely out. QB Richard Sanderson (hand) was cleared Wednesday to play. Only reserves WR Todd Selmon (knee) and RB Larry Brown (hand) will be held out of the game.

Members of the Hereford High School senior class will be taking donations for the Jesus Mariscal Medical Fund at the gate before Friday's game.

The fund, which has been set up at both local banks, is to help defray the medical expenses of the HHS senior, who has recently undergone two operations for thyroid cancer.

Mariscal has served the Herd varsity athletic teams as a manager his entire high school career.

Leyland tabbed NL's top manager

NEW YORK (AP) - Jim Leyland thought some changes might be good for himself and the Pittsburgh Pirates this year.

So he stopped screaming at his players, stopped smoking cigarettes and stopped drinking coffee. Calmed down, he then charged up his team and turned the Pirates from a fifth-place club into division champions.

On Wednesday, Leyland was rewarded with the National League Manager of the Year award.

"Sure, I'd thought about having a chance to win it," he said at Three Rivers Stadium soon after receiving the honor. "But it still was a shock. It was an unbelievable feeling."

Not much was expected from the Pirates this season after they went 74-88 in 1989. But they bounced back to become contenders, held up to the pressure of a stretch drive and held off the New York Mets in September to win the National League East. Pittsburgh finished 95-67, second-best in baseball to Oakland's 103-59.

Leading the way was Leyland, regarded as one of the most intense men in the majors. He was just as serious and studious this season, although he showed it in other ways.

"I took a little bit of a different approach. Everybody in the world has to make adjustments," Leyland said. "I stayed a little more low-key and I disciplined myself more."

"I think they were tired of hearing me yelling all the time and seeing hamburgers go flying across the clubhouse," he said. "I thought this club was at a point where it was important to keep things low-key and let the players stay focused on what they had to do."

Leyland had Barry Bonds and Bobby Bonilla for offense, but did not have a set starting rotation or a relief ace. Leyland juggled his staff and 18 pitchers wound up winning games.

Leyland got 17 of the 24 first-place votes and finished with 99 points. Lou Piniella, who led Cincinnati past Pittsburgh in the playoffs and sent the Reds to a sweep of Oakland in the World Series, got three first-place votes and was second with 49 points.

Montreal's Buck Rodgers also got three first-place votes and was tied for third with 32 points with Los Angeles' Tom Lasorda, who got the other first-place vote. San Francisco's Roger Craig and New York's Bud Harrelson tied for fourth with two points each.

No manager was named on all 24 ballots. Two members of the Baseball Writers Association of America in each NL city vote, and voting was completed before the start of the playoffs.

Jeff Torborg of the Chicago White Sox was selected the American League manager of the year on Tuesday.

"This is kind of like icing on the cake for this season," Leyland said. "But I still wish I was in the position Lou Piniella was."

The Pirates struggled for the first two weeks, then hit their stride and took over first place. Pittsburgh stayed there for most of the season and, even when the Mets nudged ahead in the first week of September, would not fold as many predicted.

Leyland, 45, was a catcher for seven seasons in the Detroit organization and managed for 11 years in the Tigers' system.

He joined the White Sox as a coach in 1982 and studied under manager Tony La Russa, who remains one of Leyland's closest friends, and stayed in Chicago until he was hired by Pittsburgh.

TIAA says West Texas will have to wait a while to join

DALLAS (AP) - West Texas State University must wait at least a year before it can be considered for membership in the non-scholarship Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association, the league's board of directors said Wednesday.

Presidents of the TIAA's eight member schools, who comprise the TIAA board of directors, were unanimous in their call for a 1-year moratorium on expansion, said Dr. Vic Morgan, chairman of the board of directors and president of Sul Ross State University.

A special meeting in Dallas on Wednesday was prompted by an informal request through a TIAA member resident on behalf of WTSU, league officials said.

West Texas State, now an NCAA Division II school, is having financial problems with its athletic program. The school is in Canyon, about 20 miles south of Amarillo.

"During this 1-year moratorium, we will conduct a careful analysis of the conference's future goals," Morgan said.

Now in the TIAA are Sul Ross in Alpine, Midwestern State in Wichita Falls, Hardin-Simmons and McMurry in Abilene, Howard Payne in Brownwood, Tarleton State in Stephenville, Austin College in Sherman, and the University of Dallas.

"We are not closing the door to discussions with any school or group of schools that is interested in joining," Morgan said. "We are simply saying we want to redefine what our goals are and where we want to go as a conference."

The TIAA was formed in 1976 as an alternative to high-priced scholarship athletic programs. It became the first coeducational, non-scholarship conference in Texas. Charter members were Sul Ross, Austin College, Tarleton State and McMurry.

The four other schools came aboard in the past three years. By choosing the non-scholarship route, Midwestern and Hardin-Simmons reinstated football after a long absence and the University of Dallas was able to initiate an intercollegiate athletic program.

TIAA member schools participate in the NAIA in football, volleyball, men's and women's basketball, baseball, tennis, golf and track and field.

Clements said. "At this point in time, we're in better shape than we were last year. The whole year's been quite a surprise."

The surprises continued for Huntsville's opponents during last week's 34-17 win over Conroe McCullough.

The Highlanders raced to a 17-0 lead before Clements' arm was unleashed late in the second quarter. He finished with 295 yards passing and three touchdowns.

"They get into these feeding frenzies," said McCullough coach Weldon Willig. "They just feed on points. They made so many good plays I don't know where to begin."

Coach Clements said he'll rest several players against Spring. "We're going to try not to play some kids and get ready for the playoffs," he said. "Our motto is to respect everyone and fear no one, but we've got some bumps and bruises."

Health experts say get flu vaccine now

It's that time again. Cooler days signal the upcoming flu season. While winter weather is still many weeks away, health experts are encouraging people to get their flu vaccination now.

"It's a bad idea to ignore the warnings or hold off getting a flu vaccine until the influenza season is underway," said Dr. Robert Webster, head of influenza research at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital and a member of the World Health Organization flu team. "You're not fully protected against the flu until a month after you receive the vaccine, so the smartest thing to do is get inoculated as soon as the vaccine becomes available."

But who should get the vaccine? While anyone should be glad to skip a bout with the flu, the vaccination is especially important for people over age 65 because the body's ability to fight disease declines with age.

"While the flu itself is not life-threatening, it can cause serious problems for people with respiratory problems like asthma or emphysema and for those whose immune systems are compromised either because of disease or age," Dr. Webster said. "The flu can leave them vulnerable to other dangerous, and even fatal, diseases, including pneumonia."

Regardless of your age, if you suffer from one of several medical conditions an influenza vaccine is definitely in order. Especially at risk are people with asthma, emphysema, organ transplants, and those on cancer therapy. AIDS patients, because of their weakened immune systems, also are at-risk.

It's also important to remember that each flu season brings a different strain of influenza virus. That means if you were vaccinated last year, you're not protected against this year's virus. Influenza vaccines need to be an annual ritual.

The 1990/91 vaccine contains the antigens A/Shanghai/89, A/Taiwan/86 and B/Yamagata/89.

"It's alarming that so few people get the flu vaccine—typically only one in three at-risk people," Dr. Webster said. "It's surprising, because the vaccines are quite effective."

One reason some shy away from the vaccine is fear of side effects. However, a recent study in the Journal of the American Medical Association found that 94 percent of senior citizens who went in for a flu shot felt as good or better after the vaccination.

The worst strain of influenza virus occurred in the 1918-19 pandemic. Between 20 and 40 million people died throughout the world. In fact, more WWI soldiers died from the flu than from combat.

Although, for most of us, the only treatment for the flu is time, aspirin and a warm bed, there is, from some, another alternative.

"Two prescription drugs, amantadine and rimantadine have been shown to be effective at warding off the disease in people exposed to the virus, who have not yet developed the flu," Dr. Webster said. "The drugs also can mitigate the effects of the virus in patients already affected. However, the drugs also have potential side effects, and should be used only for patients at risk of serious complications from the flu. The best treatment, of course, is a flu vaccine beforehand."

Influenza vaccines are available through most public health departments and private physicians.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital conducts research into the flu, childhood leukemia, and other serious diseases of children. St. Jude is one of the world's premier biomedical research centers dedicated to find cures for catastrophic diseases of children. Its work is primarily supported through public contributions raised by American Lebanese Syrian Associated Charities.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Campbell, Raymond Campbell and Elmer Carlson attended the Texas State Samboree in San Marcos, Arkansas

State Samboree, and the Louisiana Fall State Samboree.

Bob and Ruth Morris recently toured the north eastern states and Erce and Annie Brashear have been in North Carolina.

The Wertenbergers made a trip to Ohio and San Antonio.

The next meeting is scheduled for Nov. 8 at 6 p.m. for Thanksgiving dinner and regular meeting.

Easy steps to becoming a conservation achiever

Americans have a new attitude about the environment—and they are acting on it. Their heightened concerns have prompted millions of volunteers to become personally involved in environmental projects, from protecting endangered species to restoring wetlands. You can learn more about how you can improve the environment by thinking about these questions:

*Have you worked to better the environment in your own community? Start by joining a tree-planting project or picking up litter in community parks or along local beaches. By being aware of your own surroundings, you can begin to improve and enhance nature in your own backyard.

*Have you volunteered your time to conservation causes? Imagine what you could achieve by taking the initiative in your own environmental project. By converting a vacant lot into a community park, or working closely with a conservation organization, you could meet important environmental challenges.

*Have you tried to educate others about environmental challenges? Informing people about environmental issues is vital to improving the environment. You can better educate your neighbors by organizing a nature photo exhibit at your local library, conducting an environmental essay contest at area elementary schools or distributing conservation information to various businesses and social organizations.

There are just a few examples of how many Americans are responding to environmental problems by improving and enhancing the nation's air, water, land and wildlife resources.

The Chevron Conservation Awards Program has been encouraging people to become active in environmental efforts for the past 36 years.

The oldest, privately sponsored program has recognized and rewarded nearly 800 citizens and rewarded nearly 800 citizen volunteers, professionals and non-profit organizations for their dedication and outstanding contributions to the conservation of natural resources.

The program is now accepting nominations for those individuals and organizations making a difference in the environment. The 25 winners will be honored at a banquet next May in Washington, D.C., where they will receive $1,000 and a bronze plaque in recognition of their accomplishments. An independent committee of distinguished conservationists selects the winners.

Among the individuals and groups honored in 1990: a New York doctoral student who led efforts to protect the endangered Bahama Parrot; a courier service employee who coordinated the protection of a 20,000-acre wetland; and a group of student volunteers who restored fire-stricken areas of Yellowstone National Park.

"Though the years, honorees have demonstrated their dedication to the earth through their efforts to protect renewable natural resources," said Ed Zern, who founded and continues to direct the chevron program. "We hope to encourage more people to become involved in conservation efforts and find new ways of meeting environmental challenges."

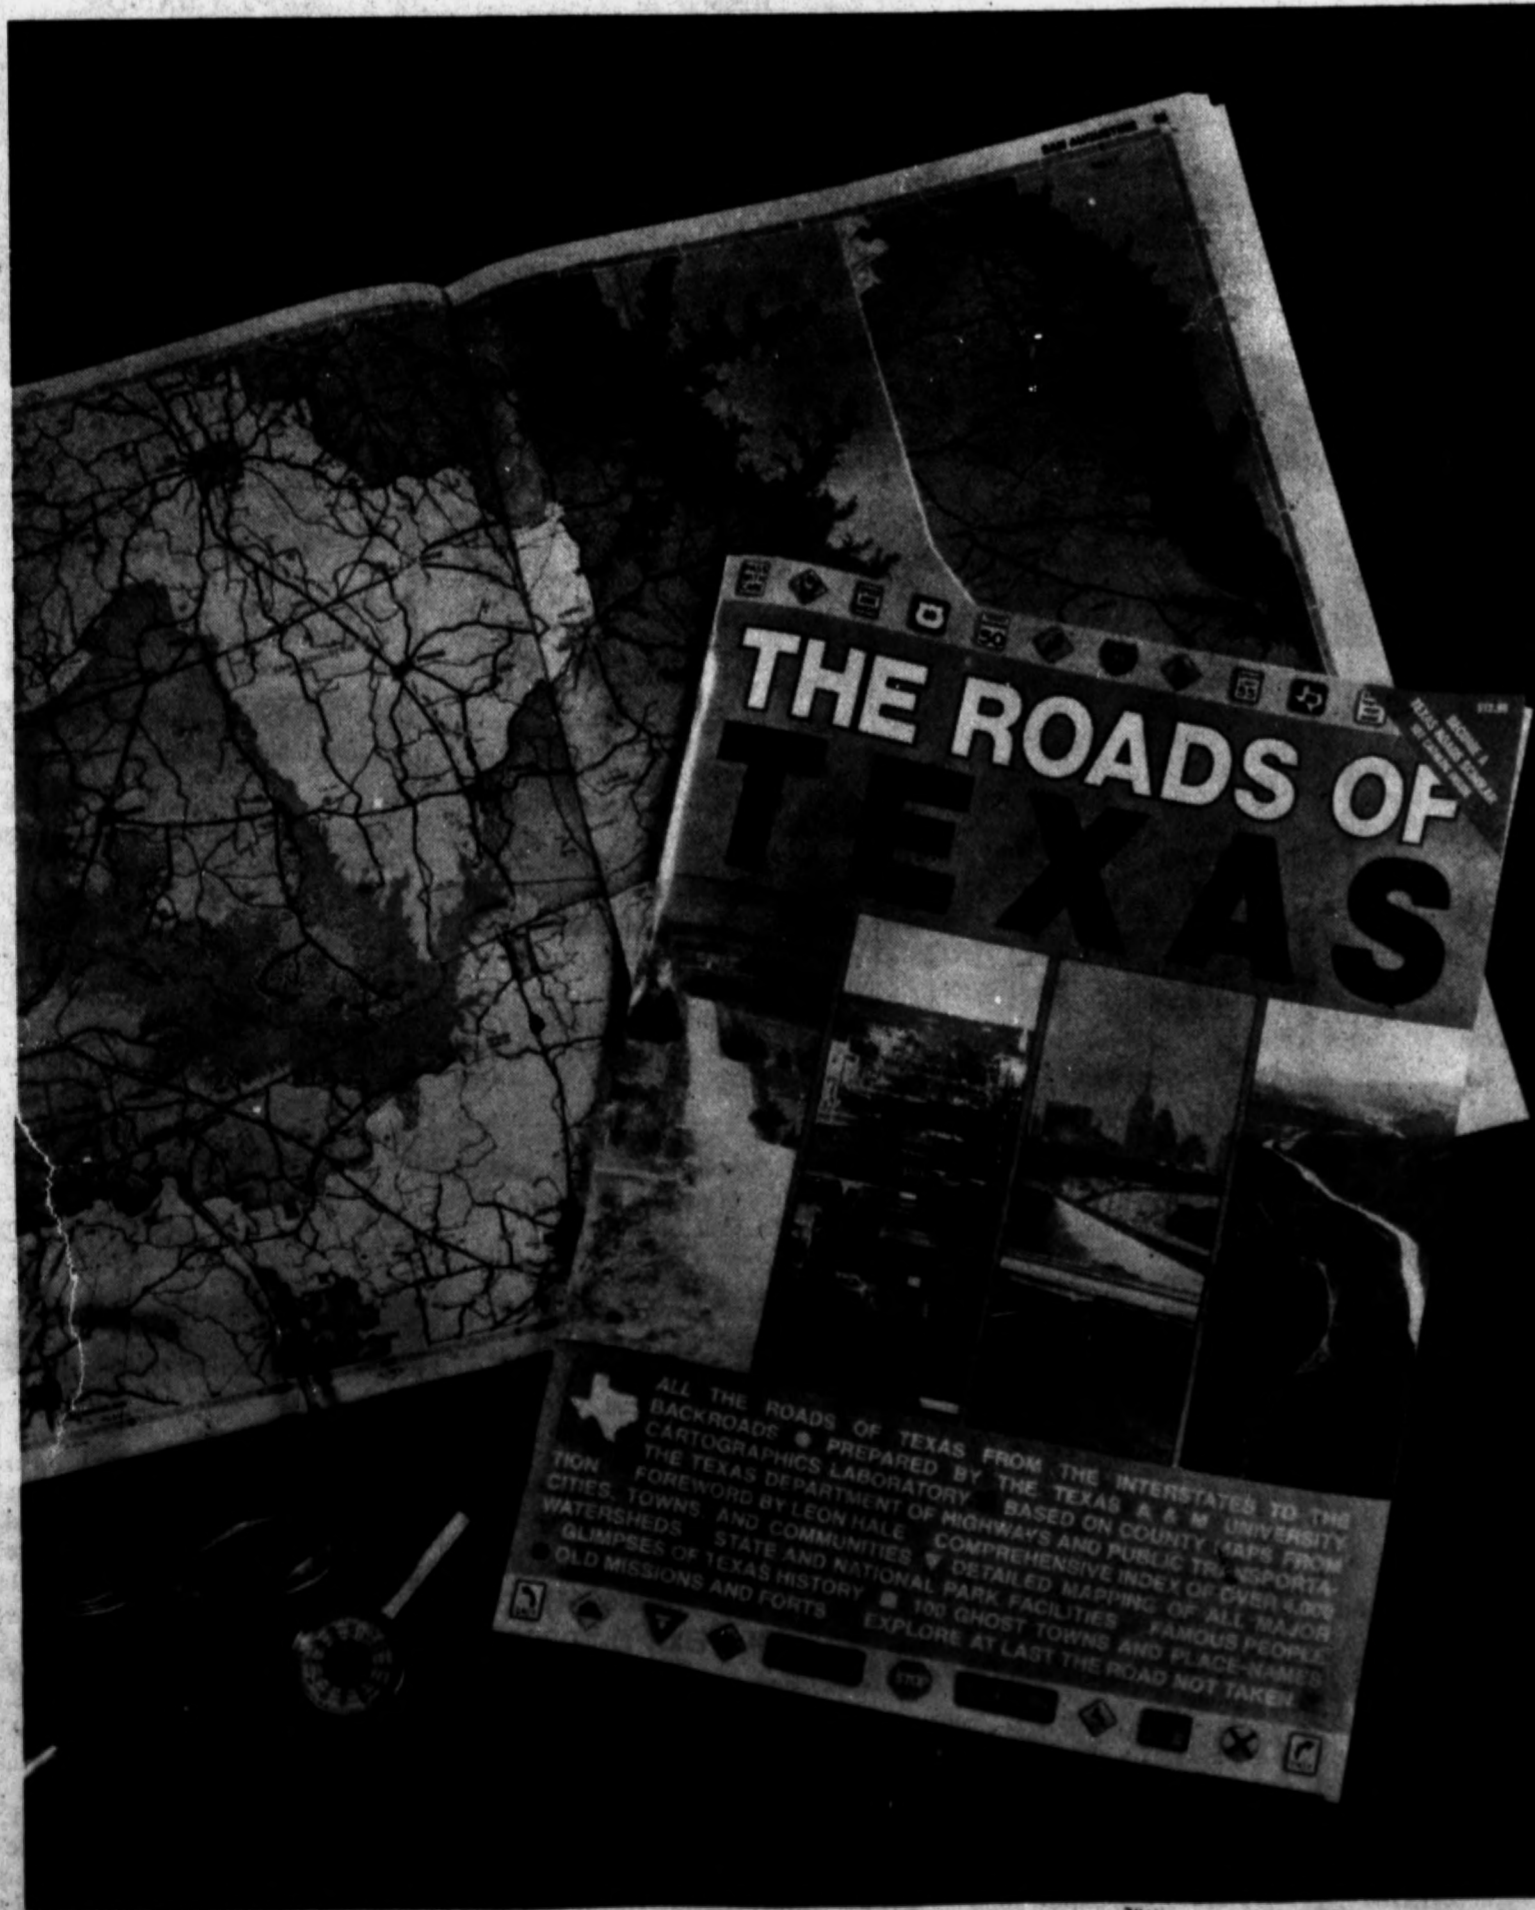

A bulbmaking capacity and the six petals to all its blooms mark all the members of the lily family. Thus, the calla, with its single bowl, is not a member of the lily family at all.

COMPUTERS USED FOR DESIGNING

NEW YORK (AP) - Some of the computer magic that helps create designs for movie special effects, fashions, automotive parts and other products is being used to design merchandising displays for America's grocery, drug, hardware, supermarkets and general merchandise retailers.

Computers are generating the detailed drawings needed to turn engineering specifications into usable designs through a system called computer-aided design (CAD).

How to help physicians overcome impairments

When patients sense that something is not quite right with a physician—he or she smells of alcohol, looks disheveled, is irritable, has memory lapses—they can do themselves and the physician a favor, says Texas Medical Association, by calling the county medical society.

"Doctors are human," says Neal H. Gray, M.D., a member of TMA's Committee on Physician Health and Rehabilitation (PHR).

"The incidence of alcoholism among physicians is the same as for insurance salesmen, lawyers, airline pilots, and everyone else—roughly 10 percent of the population," explains the San Antonio anesthesiologist.

"It's not stress that causes doctors to become alcoholics or addicts," says Dr. Gray. First, a person must have a "genetic predisposition" that increases susceptibility.

Second, "they're usually just trying to be a better doctor—taking a pill to sleep at night and another to be alert in the morning—and they fall into a trap." Because of self-prescribing, drug addiction among physicians may be higher than the general population.

If patients notice unusual behavior, they often are afraid to become involved or worry about getting themselves or the physician in trouble, so they simply find another physician. Still others become angry and look for ways to punish the physician.

"Saying nothing, getting the doctor fired, or running the doctor out of town is not a solution," Dr. Gray says. "The doctor just goes down the road to another town."

Instead, the problem must be recognized for what it is. "These are not bad doctors—they're sick doctors, and they need to be treated," adds Dr. Gray.

Texas cities have a county medical society PHR committee or PHR committee district coordinators to receive reports. Or the patient can call the state referral number, (512) 477-5575, and leave a message on the recorder.

In reporting, a patient will be asked basic facts—the physician's name and address and details about the incident. The patient's name will

Autumn art show Nov. 4

More than 20 artists will display their works in the Autumn Fine Art '90 to be held Sunday, Nov. 4, from 2-5 p.m. The event will be held at Spanish Skirts, Gamble's Frame and Art and the upstairs atrium of the Old Bank building (above the Coldwell Banker office) in Canyon.

The public is invited to attend and refreshments will be served.

Canyon area artists who will have works on display include: Jon Birdsong, Ann Crouch, Bill Burrell, Carl Smith, Jim Ward, Bill Hughes, Gene Murray, Barbara Wooten, Bill Bradley, Laura Hill, Lavern Nelson, Pat Dagnon, Judy Kracke, Danny Gamble, R. Russell Brown, Margaret Campbell, Victoria Taylor-Gore, Carl Hollabaugh, Betty Graham, Gary Ward, Rick Gilliland, Robert Hirsch, Vicki Simmons, Pam Nixon-Miller, Beth Nelson and Mike Loe.

Co-sponsor of Autumn Fine Art '90 with Spanish Skirts and Gamble's is The Canyon News.

The boundary between Maryland and Pennsylvania, the Mason-Dixon line, was agreed upon in 1767.

be kept confidential, and the patient is protected from liability for good faith reporting under state law.

A local committee of physicians will investigate and confront the physician. "This is not just a way for the physician to get off the hook," explains Edgar P. Nace, M.D., a Dallas psychiatrist and vice chair of TMA's PHR committee. "If the physician is in imminent danger of harming someone or does not cooperate, then we will take action."

When confronted, a physician may respond in different ways. "Some get angry and threaten to call their lawyers, and others try to laugh it off," says Dr. Gray. "But many are relieved. They're glad the nightmare is finally over."

Physicians treated for alcohol or drug addiction have recovery rates roughly twice that of the general population because they are motivated to regain medical practice and because of stringent after-care and monitoring.

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization of more than 29,000 physician and medical student members. It is based in Austin and has 119 component county medical societies around the state. The Association represents 82 percent of the doctors of medicine licensed and residing in Texas, and its goal is to improve the health of Texans through the professional and personal development of its members.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have had high cholesterol and high triglycerides for five years. I have been taking niacin and it caused my blood glucose to go so high my doctor said I was going to be a diabetic. I understand diabetics are not supposed to take niacin and am wondering if I should continue it.

I'm a 68-year-old female and weigh 113 pounds. My cholesterol started out at 360 and my triglycerides were over 600. I went on a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet with exercise and took Lopid. My cholesterol was still 272, triglycerides 207, HDL 46, LDL 184, and my glucose was 101.

He added niacin, 50 mg three times a day. My tests showed: cholesterol, 209; LDL, 145; triglycerides, 118 and my HDL, 40. That is when I asked to take just niacin instead and I worked up to 1,500 mg a day. It did wonders for my cholesterol which was only 173. My HDL rose to 55, my LDL dropped to 88 and my triglycerides were only 153. The bad part was my glucose rose to 170 and I had abnormal liver tests.

The doctor cut my niacin to 1,000 mg a day and my cholesterol and triglycerides went back up, but my glucose was normal. He let me increase the niacin to 1,250 mg but my cholesterol was still 257, my LDL, 166; triglycerides, 215; glucose, 116 and my liver functions tests were OK.

What should I do? Go back to 1,500 mg of niacin? Will the niacin cause me to have diabetes?

DEAR READER: Niacin does not cause a person to develop diabetes, but it can cause a normal person to have abnormal glucose tolerance as happened in your case. And it can make diabetes worse if you already have it. That may require an increase in medicine for those diabetics taking medicine to control it.

The truth is you were doing fairly well with the Lopid and only 50 mg of niacin three times a day. You might ask your doctor to put you back on Lopid and take a reasonable amount of niacin (nicotinic acid) along with it — perhaps 500 mg a day. But your liver function will need to be followed.

Or you could combine niacin with one of the bile binders that lower cholesterol in a different manner, such as Colestid or Questran. Read about them in Which Cholesterol Medication that I'm sending you. Others who want this information can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/35-10, P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My husband and

King Louis XIV of France revoked the Edict of Nantes in 1685. It had established the legal toleration of France's Protestant population, the Huguenots.

I used oat bran regularly, believing that it would decrease our risk of a heart attack. Then we learned that its only effect was to replace high-calorie foods and lower your calorie intake. Neither one of us is overweight or need to lose weight. I know that fiber provides bulk which is good for your bowels, but is that the only reason to include it in your diet?

DEAR READER: You may not have heard the last of the oat bran story.

And there are soluble fibers that do lower cholesterol independent of the bulk action. A good source of these fibers is fresh fruit, such as apples.

High-fiber cereal may also help fight cancer in quite a different way from just bulk. They contain a chemical that may have an anti-cancer effect — called inositol hexaphosphate (InsP6). It is found in oats, wheat, rice and corn. Laboratory studies of rats and mice treated with InsP6 decreased cancers and even slowed the growth of tumors that were already present. Cereal fiber is still a good idea.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.
