Brown, Stribling win easily

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Incumbent sheriff Joe Brown won a 3-to-1 margin over Republican challenger Ted Langgood to highlight the local races in Tuesday's general election.

Democrat John Stribling Jr., defeated Republican Kim Blackwell, 834-250, to earn the County Commissioner, Precinct One seat.

The county generally followed regional and statewide trends as the county overwhelmingly back George Bush's presidential bid, gave a narrow win to Lloyd Bentsen over Beau Boulter in their U.S. Senate race, and voted for Teel Bivins over Mel Phillips in their race for the state senate seat vacated by Bill Sarpalius.

On the strength of the last two boxes, 3 and 4, counted Tuesday night, the county went to Republican incumbent Larry Combest over hometown Democratic candidate Gerald McCathern. Combest took an overall 2,884-2,791 win in the county (See separate story).

Trends established in the absentee voting in most races carried through the night, the biggest switch occurred in the Boulter-Bentsen senate race. Boulter led Bentsen, 1,004-875, after the absentee votes were cast but Bentsen picked up enough votes in rural boxes and in Boxes 1 and 2, which favored Democratic voters in most races, to gain a narrow win here.

Brown won every precinct except Box 9 at Simms to take a 4,342-1,474 win over Langgood to earn his second term as sheriff.

"I just don't know how to express how happy I am," Brown said. "I had some great campaign people, good supporters and good workers. You can't imagine how relieved I am after a year of campaigning."

Brown said the time from the March 8 primary to the Nov. 8 general election was "way too long."

"It's hard to concentrate on your work and campaign at the same time," Brown said. "Sometimes I wish this wasn't a political position, because you have to work really hard on campaigning. But right now, after a win like this, in a way it's pretty good."

Brown was optimistic about his chances before Tuesday, but didn't figure the decision would be so overwhelming.

"I figured to myself it would be more than a thousand votes," Brown said. "Some people were telling me it would be 3-to-1, but we continued to work hard, campaigning and staying busy."

"I think down deep people appreciated my campaign because we tried to keep it clean. I think that's what people like. We live in the same community, people know each other, and you don't have to play dirty politics. Keeping it clean has worked for two elections."

Brown gave credit to his 1984 election campaign against former Chief Deputy Dean Butcher for some of his success in 1988.

"The first election was a lot harder because I was new to the job and new to politics," Brown said. "That time it was totally different. This time we were more relaxed about the campaign because we had the same workers back and everyone, including me, knew what we were doing. It made it much easier for everyone."

Langgood was unavailable for comment.

In the 31st District state senate race, Republican Teel Bivins led here from wire-to-wire to win by 994 votes, 3,301 to 2,307, and won in the 29-county district by a similar 3-2 margin over Democratic opponent Mel Phillips.

"I'm really excited about serving the district," Bivins said Tuesday night. "The race always felt pretty good to me, but I kept worrying. I think the candidate is always the worst one to have an assessment of the campaign."

"This is obviously a jubilant evening. I just can't tell you how excited we are about this victory, but at the same time I am humbled by the challenges and responsibilities ahead of me."

Bivins said that Phillips was "sincere when he called me earlier tonight. He was extremely gracious, and he said he would help me any way he could and he was sincere when he said that. We identified a lot of the same issues in our part of the state, but we obviously had some differences, too."

Bivins said he will begin work today on the transition from the eight-year office held by Bill Sarpalius.

"There will be some constituents with problems we need to address, and other things we need to do," Bivins said. "This is kind of like the relays in the Olympics. We need a smooth passing of the baton from Bill to me."

"I also have to get my feet on the ground as the Senator-elect. I have to begin establishing good relations with all of the elected officials in Austin, starting with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby (Hobby serves as President of the Senate)."

Bivins said he will seek a seat on the agriculture sub-committee and would strive for a seat on the finance committee.

County Clerk David Ruland was a little disappointed with Tuesday's turnout. 2,096 voters had cast absentee or early ballots, but that turned out to be 36 percent of the total turnout as only 5,826 total ballots were cast.

"I definitely thought it would be better than that," Ruland said. "The way things were going, it should have been better. I think there was a lack of interest in the presidential race and a lot of people thought Joe Brown had the sheriff's race won and didn't vote."

The 1988 total is the lowest of the last three general elections that included presidential contests. In 1984, 6,324 votes were cast in the general election which included the Brown-Butcher race and the race between Combest and Democratic candidate Don Richards for the 19th District seat.

In 1980, 5,947 votes were cast in the county.

COMBEST

Combest earns big win; Gerald won't run again

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest (R-Lubbock) won his third term to the House of Representatives with a 59,135-vote win over Hereford Democrat Gerald McCathern in Tuesday's general election.

Combest carried most of the counties in the wide-spread district, winning at least five of them for the first time. Combest carried Deaf Smith County by a 2,884-2,791 vote margin.

McCathern, who lost to Combest, 63-37 percent in the 1986 election, said he will not challenge Combest for the seat in the future and will probably not run for office again.

"I just don't accept the fact that we're going bankrupt, I don't accept banks closing. In an area as rich as ours with our people and technology and raw materials, that is totally unacceptable."

McCathern had no regrets about the outcome of his race.

"I did the best I could. I honestly feel as good about it as I would if I had won," McCathern made a point of not accepting contributions from political action committees, and said he "wouldn't change a thing if I had taken a lot of money."

"I gave the people a choice, and they chose," McCathern said. "I'm content with that and I hope they made the right choice."

McCathern thanked his campaign workers.

"We had a lot of people, a lot of friends, who put in a lot of work and effort," McCathern said. "I'm thankful for their work, their effort, and their prayers. I appreciate them, but I feel like I let them down, even though I tried my best."

Combest said he was "obviously pleased" with the election's outcome. "We won several counties that we had never won before," Combest said. "I think that is because of my accessibility and hard work, and I think it shows that people aren't swept in by empty promises."

Combest said the easy win by Republican presidential candidate George Bush was "great for me. I think we will have an administration that will be responsible to the people out here."

"I think the presidential election shows what the nation wants from the White House. I think that is very well spelled out. I also think we will have more than enough votes to sustain any vetoes by President-elect Bush of items on the liberal agenda."

Their race here was back-and-forth as ballots were counted Tuesday night. Combest had a 1,110-869 lead in absentee votes, but McCathern carried most of the rural boxes and boxes 1 and 2 in Hereford to lead Combest, 1,979-1,926 before the last two boxes were counted.

When the returns from boxes 3 and 4 were posted, Combest was a 93-vote winner in the county.

McCathern said he is bowing out of running for public office, but not bowing out of politics.

"I'm going to do some things I like to do," McCathern said. "I'm going to finish working on a book I almost have completed: it's a historical novel about the Llano Estacado, about the buffalo and the Indians and the horse soldiers and the ranchers. I'm going to publish that and make millions."

"But I couldn't ever quit politics with my experience and background, and I think too much of the nation. I guess I'll be like John the Baptist, preaching in the wilderness and hollering 'Repent!'"

The voter turnout for Deaf Smith County Tuesday was not as good as expected. Results of the general election showed that about 59 percent of the approximate 9,800 eligible voters cast ballots.

With the change in absentee voting rules, the county had a record 2,096 vote early and officials were hoping that this represented about 25 percent of the total vote. However, the absentee total turned out to be a whopping 36 percent of the total votes cast in the county.

The people have made their choices from the courthouse to the White House. George Bush is your president and my president, regardless of how we voted. The same can be said for each elected official on down the line. We need to support these officials and, at the same time, demand that they keep their pledges and work for the best interests of their constituents and this nation.

The penny is obsolete, claims the 1989 edition of the Farmer's Almanac, pointing out that it is "good only for making change and collecting sales taxes." In its place, the Almanac suggests a new coin—a bit—to be worth 12½ cents.

This may seem strange to some, but the "bit" has been around a long time. The word has been a common expression in Texas for years, though it may not be as popular as it used to be. A two-bit newspaper sells for 25 cents and some places you can still get a two-bit cup of coffee.

Some younger folks may respond with a blank expression when told that something costs two-bits, four-

Sarpalius, finally, is winner

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Democratic congressional candidate Bill Sarpalius won the 13th District race early today after waiting most of the night for results from key Republican precincts in Randall County.

Computer problems in the Panhandle county delayed ballot counting and reports from the Secretary of State's office in the congressional race and two county commission contests.

But with the mechanical problems resolved early today and 100 percent of the vote counted, Sarpalius captured 99,401 votes or 52.5 percent, to Republican Larry Milner's 89,981 votes, or 47.5 percent.

"We're honored to bring this Republican seat back to the Democratic Party," Sarpalius said after claiming victory.

Republican Beau Boulter, who made an unsuccessful bid to unseat U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, held the 13th District seat for the past four years.

Sarpalius held a commanding lead without the Randall County returns, but that area had voted nearly 3-1 Republican in 1986 and a Sarpalius win was no sure bet before the counting was over.

"We were over the top to start with, but we didn't want to call it until we got some of the votes from Randall County, which has been a Republican county," Sarpalius said.

Randall County sheriff's deputies transported a ballot-counting machine from neighboring Potter County about 1:30 a.m. today to begin counting nearly 40,000 ballots, according to Christina Castleberry, chief deputy county clerk.

"The technicians worked on it until probably 11 o'clock, thinking they could fix it," she said. "They brought in spare parts and everything."

Counting the votes by hand wasn't possible, she said.

Local Roundup

Police arrest two

The Hereford Police Department arrested a juvenile girl on charges of shoplifting at a grocery store, and a 29-year-old woman was charged with driving while intoxicated.

A woman reported that her ex-husband violated a restraining order by coming to her work place and causing a disturbance; and a woman in the 100 block of Avenue H filed charges against another woman for cussing and slapping the complainant.

Five citations were issued, one minor accident was reported and firefighters were called to the 300 block of Elm Street where a grease fire in a kitchen was reported.

County activity light

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office reported a forgery and passing and criminal non-support.

There were no arrests.

NBC 'bowling' foor for Irish

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

Picture this scenario: On Nov. 26, No. 1 Notre Dame beats No. 2 Southern Cal — assuming the Trojans are still No. 2 after playing UCLA on Nov. 19.

Meanwhile, No. 3 Miami wins its last three regular-season games — which also may be assuming too much because the Hurricanes play LSU, Arkansas and Brigham Young.

That would send Notre Dame and Miami into the bowl season ranked 1-2.

Now, picture this scenario: You're NBC. You've just lost the rich, glamorous Rose Bowl to ABC. But you now have the Fiesta Bowl in the same time slot.

If you've shelled out $300 million for the Summer Olympics and the right to televise such spine-tingling, audience-grabbing events as rhythmic gymnastics and synchronized swimming, surely you can come up with another few million for a Notre Dame-Miami rematch which, given Notre Dame, given Miami and given the ill will between the two schools, would blow the Rose Bowl right out of the TV ratings box.

Forget it. It won't happen. As of Tuesday evening, Notre Dame apparently had not made up its mind which bowl to grace with its presence, even though the Irish have more suitors than Zsa Zsa Gabor had husbands.

"Anybody that plays Notre Dame ... is going to fill the stands and the airwaves from Rome to Tokyo," Florida State coach Bobby Bowden said. "Especially Rome."

The most popular scenario has Notre Dame playing No. 4 West Virginia in the Fiesta Bowl. Both the Fiesta Bowl's executive director and president will be in East Rutherford, N.J., on Saturday to see West Virginia play Rutgers. Remember, this is the weekend when bowl invitations become semi-official, one week ahead of the Nov. 19 "official" selection date.

Notre Dame is idle on Saturday, which means there should be seats on flights in and out of South Bend if the Fiesta Bowl is inclined to send someone in that direction.

But, says Fiesta Bowl bigwig Bill Shover, "There's no deal. We've talked very seriously to both of them, they've talked to each other, but there's no deal."

It seems that where Notre Dame and Miami are concerned, "This town ain't big enough for both of us." And it doesn't matter whether the town is South Bend, site of this year's game; Miami, where they are scheduled to meet next year (remember that Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz suggested both schools consider dropping the remaining two games of their contract), or Phoenix.

A Fiesta Bowl official quoted Holtz as saying his players couldn't spend a week in the same town with the Miami team without ugly incidents.

This is all somewhat strange. All the animosity seems to be on Notre Dame's part, apparently having sprung from Miami's 58-7 rout of the Irish in Coach Gerry Faust's 1986 swansong.

Holtz's party line is that "we beat them (Miami) once and we have nothing to gain by playing them again. Besides, no rematch has ever been real good. I have no qualms about who we play — none whatsoever. I'm not afraid to play Miami again, but that's not my decision."

Don't weep for NBC, though. It may have Notre Dame in the Fiesta Bowl, followed by Miami in the Orange Bowl. That's the closest thing to a rematch you can expect.

Pro quarterback shortage not drastic as first reported

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

The score at halftime was Giants 26, Cowboys 0, and the Dallas fan was talking about how the Cowboys ought to bag the season, get the first pick in the draft, and take UCLA quarterback Troy Aikman as their rebuilding block.

Then Kevin Sweeney entered the game, the Giants started playing prevent offense and Sweeney threw for three touchdowns. Dallas lost 28-21 but, for the moment at least, their quarterback problems seemed less pressing.

It's hardly fair to make Sweeney an instant hero after a stellar performance in a game already lost. "I'm sure the Giants didn't know what to expect," he said. "I didn't know what to expect."

But add the one-time strike replacement from Fresno State to the list of youngsters and the NFL's quarterback shortage suddenly looks less drastic than when the season started.

Rookies Chris Chandler of Indianapolis and Kelly Stouffer of Seattle are currently starting, and while Stouffer may go back to the bench now that Dave Krieg is healthy, he has looked good enough to hold out some hope for the future.

Beyond them is a group of second- and third-year men, led by Chris Miller of Atlanta, who are beginning to establish themselves in the way that Jim Everett of the Rams, another third-year quarterback, already has.

Others include Bubba Brister of Pittsburgh, Steve Beuerlein of the Los Angeles Raiders, Mark Rypien of Washington and Don Majkowski of Green Bay — plus Bobby Hebert of New Orleans, who after three seasons in the USFL and three in the NFL has finally harnessed his physical talents into Jim Mora's control game.

Miller is almost universally admired. "I don't think there's any question he'll be a star in this league," General Manager Jim Finks of the Saints said.

In fact, while the Falcons are 3-7, they are 3-4 in games in which Miller has played. One of those defeats was a 26-20 loss to Dallas which Atlanta may have won had Miller not sprained his ankle in the third quarter, and another was a 23-16 loss to the Giants, in which New York scored 17 points in the last five minutes to erase a 16-4 Atlanta lead.

There's also a bit of irony to the quarterback situation.

Beuerlein, on injured reserve as a rookie last year, is fourth in the AFC quarterback ratings. But after starting the season, he sat on the bench for four games in favor of Jay Schroeder, for whom the Raiders gave up two high draft choices and Pro Bowl offensive tackle Jim Lachey, whom they could use desperately right now.

Schroeder, meanwhile, was supplanted by Rypien, who in the five games he played while Doug Williams was out with an appendectomy threw 13 touchdown passes and got himself a rating of 114.1, by far the best in the league. Unlike Schroeder, Rypien is remaining silent now that he's back on the bench. In fact, they're selling sweat-shirts in Washington with pictures of Williams and Rypien and the caption "United Together."

Then there's Vinny Testaverde, whose 22 interceptions lead the league and whose rating of 50.8 is last among the 31 quarterbacks rated. Schroeder, at 52.8, ranks 30th.

All this leads to Aikman, who will almost surely be the top player taken in the draft, if only because there's still a premium on quarterbacks.

Cowboy problem: Players?

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Because they are down right now, buried at the bottom of the standings, anchored with identical 2-8 records that are among the worst in the league, it has become fashionable in some NFL circles to take shots — cheap and otherwise — at the Dallas Cowboys and Pittsburgh Steelers.

You hear that Cowboy coach Tom Landry is too old and Chuck Noll of the Steelers is too stodgy. The whispers are that the game, this complicated, high-tech game that they once ruled so thoroughly, has passed them by.

Well, truth be known, the game isn't all that complicated. It's my big guys against yours, my fast guys against yours, my team's execution against yours. So maybe what passed Landry and Noll by wasn't the game, but something much more basic than that. Maybe the troubles of the Cowboys and Steelers aren't the guys planning the plays, but the ones carrying them out.

When the Cowboys and Steelers were doing all that winning, the quarterbacks were Roger Staubach and Terry Bradshaw. That's a long way from Steve Pelluer (or Kevin Sweeney this week) and Bubba Brister. Receivers like Tony Hill and Drew Pearson and Butch Johnson don't suit up for the Cowboys anymore. And Franco Harris and Lynn Swann haven't been in Pittsburgh's offensive set for a long time.

Maybe what's wrong with these teams, then, is nothing more than a function of what goes around, comes around. Nobody wins forever. The losing is what makes the winning so sweet. Ask baseball's Minnesota Twins and Los Angeles Dodgers, who bounced from sub-.500 records one year to World Series champions the next.

In this era of parity, the talent is spread out instead of being stockpiled. Keep losing and you draft high and assemble top quality players. Then you stop losing and the cycle repeats itself for some other have-nots. If you keep winning, you keep drafting near the bottom every year and you start assembling marginal players. Then the coach could be Vince Lombardi or George Halas and it wouldn't make much difference.

Lombardi and Halas, by the way, never subscribed to the deep thinker school of football. They reduced it to simple terms like blocking and tackling.

Canseco is Player of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — While Oakland right fielder Jose Canseco doesn't consider himself a part of baseball history, he already has some historic numbers.

Canseco, the first major leaguer to hit 40 homers and steal 40 bases in one season, was selected The Associated Press Player of the Year on Tuesday.

In a landslide result, Canseco received 141 1/2 votes from a panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. Los Angeles right-hander Orel Hershiser was runner-up with 13 votes followed by Minnesota's Kirby Puckett with five votes and Boston's Mike Greenwell with 4 1/2. The balloting was conducted after the World Series.

On Aug. 8, Canseco stole his 30th base to become the 11th player to reach the 30-30 club, joining such all-time greats as Willie Mays and Hank Aaron. On Sept. 23, Canseco took his place alone in baseball history when he stole his 40th base.

"I don't think I'm going to be a person to fit in (baseball history)," Canseco said. "I think the fans and the press will put it in some kind of category."

The fans put Canseco in the All-Star game at Cincinnati by naming him on more ballots than any other player in the American League.

"It means a lot because it shows the improvement I've made between 1986 and 1988," said Canseco, who was married earlier this month.

Canseco hit .290 in 1988 with 33 homers and 117 runs batted in en route to the American League Rookie of the Year award. In 1987, he had 31 homers and 113 RBI.

This season, it all came together as he led the majors with 42 homers and 124 RBI while hitting .307.

"I don't think I had a bad drought except for an 0-for-20. And even when I was 0-for-20, I was hitting the ball well, so the key was staying consistent," said Canseco, who led the Athletics to their first AL pennant since 1974.

The AL charts 17 different offensive categories and Canseco ranked in the top 10 in 12 of them.

Canseco has homered more times in his first three fall seasons (166) than anyone but Eddie Mathews (112) and Joe DiMaggio (107).

His 111 career homers, including five after a late-season callup in 1985, are the 18th-highest total for a player at the end of the year in which he turned 24. The other nine players are in the Hall of Fame.

"In spring training I thought there were other members (40-40) but then when I realized it, I said 'Did I stick my foot in my mouth by saying this?'" Canseco said. "Even though I did it this year, it doesn't mean I won't shoot for it again."

In Game 1 of the World Series, Canseco was hit by a pitch in the first inning and hit a grand slam in the second. But after that, he went 0-for-19 as Los Angeles won in five games to spoil an otherwise dazzling season for Canseco.

"I wasn't angry, I'm not depressed," Canseco said. "I'm real happy with the things we've done this year."

Hereford fullback Kyle Andrews surges for all the yardage he can get during Friday's 48-7 win by Hereford at Borger. Making the tackle for Borger include Johnny Bowie (75) and Robbie Burse (12). Andrews carried the ball four times for 55 yards.

Problem in lower back

Nicklaus faces decision that could affect golf career

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus faces a decision that will determine the course of his golfing career — indeed, whether there will even be a future career.

"I can't play the way I am. I've got to make up my mind what I'm going to do," Nicklaus said after a Magnetic Resonance Imaging examination confirmed a disc problem in his lower back.

Now, he said, he will seek further medical consultations to determine if "surgical procedures are advisable at this time."

"I want to get three different opinions from three different specialists," Nicklaus said by telephone from his home in Florida. "Then I'll weigh the risks and rewards and see where we go from there."

It may or may not involve surgery. "It may be that they can fix it easily," he said.

Or it may be that his back problem cannot be solved.

When North Carolina defeated Kansas, 54-53, for the NCAA basketball championship in 1957, the game went into three overtimes.

At best, he said, "I'll be able to play like Jack Nicklaus used to play."

At worst, he said, "I'm done. That's possible. That's always the worst-case scenario."

"But I don't expect that. I don't think that's what they're going to say."

"The worst thing the doctors could say to me is that they can't operate and can't fix it. If they do that, they'll tell me to lose 10 pounds and go through an exercise program and make it as strong as possible, and see what we can do with that."

"But I don't expect that. I wouldn't be doing what I'm doing if I didn't expect to play golf again," Nicklaus said.

For the moment, however, his playing schedule is on hold. The result of the consultations with specialists — an orthopedic surgeon, a neurosurgeon and a specialist in arthroscopic surgery — will determine whether he will be able to fulfill commitments to play in the Skins Game later this month, and in two tournaments in December.

No timetable has been set for the consultations but they should require several days, said Larry O'Brien, a spokesman for Nicklaus' Golden Bear International Inc.

Nicklaus, whose last victory was a dramatic triumph in the 1986 Masters, has a history of back problems dating back at least 10 years.

In the last couple years, he has reduced his competitive playing schedule drastically. He has played in only nine American tour events this year, and has not been a factor in any of them.

"My body just won't let me practice enough to be competitive," said Nicklaus, who has a record collection of six Masters, five PGA, four U.S. Open and three British Open championships.

"It's ironical that Jack is able to play tennis and everything else without much difficulty," said Dr. Bruce Waxman, who conducted the examination of Nicklaus earlier this week.

"Most people in this situation wouldn't even need to take into consideration the possibility of surgery."

"But in this case the only thing it's preventing him from doing is the thing he does so well," Waxman said. "The constant lower back stress of a golf swing has caused a degenerative problem."

Raiders lure top cagers

By The Associated Press

The early national basketball signing period started today, with Texas and Texas Tech expected to get a jump on their Southwest Conference counterparts in signatures of top high school and junior college players.

High school or junior college players who don't commit in the early signing period, which extends through next Wednesday, must wait until April 13.

Texas already has an oral commitment from 6-4 Tony Watson of Pflugerville, who averaged 26 points, seven rebounds and four assists as a junior.

Tech's Red Raiders already have an oral commitment from Barron Brown, a 6-3 guard from Lancaster, and Tech is expected to sign 6-1 Leslie Wallace of Lubbock, who can play either guard spot and is regarded as one of the state's top players.

Texas was waiting to hear from 6-7 Jamal Faulkner of Queens, N.Y., considered one of the nation's top 15 players, who said he had narrowed his choices to Texas and Pitt.

Cory Lockridge, 6-9, of Abilene, who averaged 10 points and 11 rebounds last season, said he would choose between Texas, Texas Tech, Lamar University and Miami, Fla.

Bart Beasley, a 6-8 forward from Eustace, indicated he would decide today between Texas and Texas Tech. Beasley earlier committed orally to Southern Methodist, but reneged on that commitment after SMU officials grilled him at length about his academics, even though he passed his SAT.

"There should be no embarrassment whatsoever about asking about prices for a funeral service."

"When you're my age, you usually have had to make funeral arrangements for someone who is near and dear to you. And I can tell you it's never an easy thing to do."

"You have so many decisions to make... the funeral services are involved in some of them. And most of the time you really aren't prepared to make those decisions, especially if it's an unexpected loss. In fact it's best to have a pre-need plan before you require these services."

The personnel at Rix can arrange the kind of service that you feel you can afford either at time of need or by having a Pre-need Plan before the inevitable happens.

Give Rix your ideas in this instance, ask for a price list and an explanation of services, then stay within the budget you set by selecting the services you want.

Pre-planning takes much of the pressure off you at the time when death does come to a member of your family. Let our professional counselors give you the experience that comes with years of service.

For more information on Pre-need funeral plans call us or fill in the coupon printed below and we'll be glad to answer any questions you may have.

Please send me information about your Pre-need funeral plans. I think this might be the answer of how to arrange a memorial service which would be in keeping with my personal desires.

Red Cross Update

Special thanks is extended to all of the volunteers that helped with the cholesterol screening at the YMCA recently. We did 186 screenings. We hope all of those screened will improve their diets by cutting down on fats. Those helping were Olivia Brown, Alice Gilleland, Peggy Oakes, Audine Dettmann, Ruth King, Jim Scott, Martha Paetzold, Alice Koenig, Mary Jane Burrus, Reba Watson, Lester and Viola Wagner, Janie Corona, Rosemary Davila, Sally Walker, Mary Sandoval and George Oaks. Extra special thanks goes to Jerry Brock for helping with publicity and setting up the screening. Thanks to McDonald's for furnishing juice.

The Uniformed Volunteers will meet Thursday at noon in the Red Cross office. Anyone interested in attending is invited to come and bring a covered dish.

Thanks to all of the volunteers for helping with the spook house and game booths at the Crimestoppers Carnival on Halloween. Special thanks to the Pat Michael's family. Pat was the spook in the spook house. The other volunteers helping were Ruth King, Jane Packard, Alice and Aron Gilleland, Helen Nunley, Sally Walker, Margaret Gamez, Jim Scott, Dale Henson, Phyllis Cornelius, Janie Corona and Janie Davila and Larry Malamen, who donated the pumpkins used for prizes.

Workshop to begin

An Adult Literacy Workshop, sponsored by Deaf Smith County Library and the Texas Panhandle Library System, will be held Friday and Saturday in the library's Heritage Room.

The workshop will be held from 6-10 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday. It is designed for people interested in becoming tutors for adults and will be led by qualified personnel from Amarillo and Pampa.

Christmas Tour of Homes set

Holiday activities have already begun in Hereford and one of the major events is the Annual Christmas Tour of Homes sponsored by La Madre Mia Study Club.

This year marks the 19th year of the club's benefit project which is scheduled from 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4. The three local residences to be featured on the tour include the homes of John and Jodi Meyer, 36 Fir; Lee Roy and Erma Rickman, 500 Union Ave.; and Earl and Dodi Brookhart, 200 Kingwood.

Tickets are priced at $2 per person and may be purchased from any La Madre Mia Study Club members or at the doors of the tour homes. Proceeds will be used for various community projects.

Also, during the tour hours, the public is invited to have refreshments of spice tea, coffee and cookies at the E.B. Black House which will be specially decorated for the Christmas holidays. In order to be eligible for door prizes, tickets need to be placed in canisters at the last tour home or at the Black House.

Club members will be at each tour home to welcome guests. Serving as hostesses at the Meyer residence will be Gladys Merritt, Merle Clark, Susan Robbins and Pat Walsh; Rickman home, Georgia Sparks, Carolyn Baxter, Bettye Owen and Marlene Watson; Brookhart house, Mary Herring, Nancy Paetzold, Lucy Rogers and Ruth Black; and E.B. Black House, Sharon Hodges, Beverley Lambert and Debbie Tardy.

La Madre Mia Study Club members include Joyce Allred,

Auction set this weekend

The public is invited to attend the Antique and Collectible Auction Friday through Sunday in the Amarillo Civic Center.

The Hereford Senior Citizens Association will be among 25 Panhandle senior citizens organizations participating as well as local businesses and individuals.

All proceeds from the sale will be used for present and future funding of the center and its permanent foundation.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Statue of Liberty doesn't have two heads but it sure looks as if it does in a photo created by K&L Custom Photographics.
The firm uses a process called image manipulation to create pictures that are as lifelike as the real thing. It created the Statue of Liberty photo to commemorate the 100th anniversary of modern photography, which is dated to the sale of the first Brownie camera in 1888. The Statue of Liberty turned 100 in 1987.

Spinhirne presides at meeting

President Mary L. Spinhirne presided during the business meeting when members of the hospital Auxiliary met Monday in the board room of Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Alice Koenig led the group in prayer and during the business session it was reported that for October, seven care bears and 23 baby books had been distributed to patients. Also, members were reminded of a bake sale set Nov. 22.

The next meeting will be a Christmas luncheon at noon Dec. 5 in the Flame Room of Energas. Those present included Bonnie Sublett, Mary E. Williamson, Jane White, Baxter London, Spinhirne, Koenig, Helen Brown, Bertha Dettmann and Irene Reinart.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR READERS: In keeping with warnings from government and private health organizations for Americans to cut back on salt in their diets, the American Spice Trade Association is offering a new low-sodium seasoning chart, using spices and herbs to season foods instead of salt.

This chart shows various spice combinations which will enhance poultry, fish and seafood, beef, pork, vegetables, potatoes, rice, pasta and fruits.

The idea behind using combinations of spices is the same as in most recipes — the blending contributes smoother, rounder flavor. In seasoning winter squash, for example, cinnamon and nutmeg are a traditional spice combination. Ground allspice and red pepper, however, can create quite another taste.

Included in the chart are recipes consistent with the dietary guidelines of the American Heart Association, plus tips for seasoning low-sodium dishes.

The chart is available by sending 50 cents plus a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to the American Spice Trade Association, 928 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10010.

Aikman voter

Aikman Elementary School held an election yesterday while adult voters in the U.S. also went to the polls. In top photo, Jay Cavazos showed his voter registration card to Jessica Martinez and Bobby Mejia, then proceeded to the private election booth to select his choice for president. A final tally of the school's voters showed a preference for Bush at 277 votes while Dukakis claimed 141 votes.

Reach to Recovery forum set Saturday

How often do we hear the statement, "It will never happen to me"? This is what millions think about breast cancer. It can, and likely will, happen to more than 100,000 American women this year. Today, however, the early recognition and prevention are very different than in the past. Great strides have been made in early detection and prevention of the disease.

On Saturday, Nov. 12 the Reach to Recover Forum will be presented. Three highly recognized authorities in the control and treatment of breast cancer will share the latest techniques and break throughs in their field.

At 9 a.m. Dr. Shala Masood will speak on Fine Needle Aspiration in the Diagnosis of Breast Cancer. Dr. Masood graduated from School of Medicine, Shiraz University, Shiraz, Iran. She is presently Assistant Professor of Pathology, University of Florida College of Medicine, Gainesville, Florida. Dr. Masood acts as Director of Cytology and Fine Needle Aspiration Biopsy at University Hospital in Gainesville. She has published numerous articles and has been involved in much research of breast cancer.

Dr. Davor Vugrin will speak at 10 a.m. on Therapeutic Options in Managing Breast Cancer. This type therapy is one of the latest methods of preventive treatment. Dr. Vugrin has done extensive research and work in this area. He graduated from Medical School of University of Zagreb, Yugoslavia. Currently, Dr. Vugrin is Director of Breast Cancer Control Course and Professor of Internal Medicine, Division of Oncology and Hematology, Texas Tech University Health Center, Lubbock.

Then at 11 a.m. Dr. Guy Newell will speak on Issue in the Prevention of Breast Cancer. Dr. Newell is Professor and Chairman, Department of Cancer Prevention, University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center, Professor of Epidemiology, School of Public Health, University of Texas Health Science Center, Professor of Community Medicine, University of Texas Medical School at Houston.

Dr. Newell graduated from the Tulane School of Medicine, Louisiana. Dr. Newell is very active in the study of prevention and control of cancer. He has been Deputy Director of National Cancer Institute, National Institutes of Health. Presently, he is on the Clinical Information Services Advisory Committee, University of Texas System Cancer Center. He currently is Chairman, Executive Committee of the Medical staff at U.T., M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. in Harold Smith Auditorium at High Plains Baptist Hospital, 1500 Wallace

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing this letter from the hospital. A nurse has promised to mail it. I need to know if I am justified in being upset.

Three days ago I gave birth to my fourth daughter. My mother-in-law came to see me and the new baby within three hours of the birth. She patted my hand and said, "Don't be upset because it wasn't a boy. You can try again, dear. You know we are depending on you to make sure the family name is carried on."

I said, "Look, Mother, I am 38 years old and have had four children and three miscarriages in seven years. Please don't depend on me to do any more."

I then got a lecture on "tradition, family pride and a wife's obligation." I couldn't believe it! After all, they aren't exactly the Kennedys or the Rockefellers.

My husband sat there like a bump on a log. He didn't say a word. Was I wrong to answer her back and to be hurt because he didn't speak up for me?—Providence, R.I.

him this column and let's hope he can work up the gumption to be more supportive of you in the future.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a widower 68 years old. I have met a wonderful lady who loves me as much as I love her. Now the problem:

My wife was socially prominent, dignified and well-bred. Our marriage was better than most but she was cold, didn't like sex and never made me feel like much of a man.

My new love is warm and affectionate. We have a great time together. I have given her a ring but recently I postponed the wedding. We have no problems regarding religion, no money problems and no trouble with our grown children. To put it frankly, I am ashamed of the way she talks. Her English is atrocious and she can out-cuss any man I've ever met.

I'm well-respected and have been reluctant to take my new companion to nice places because of her language. What should I do?—Topeka, Kan.

DEAR TOPEKA: Tell your lady what is bothering you. She can certainly clean up her language if she wants to and her "atrocious" English can be improved with some tutoring.

This relationship appears to have so many pluses for you I hope things work out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For the past 31 years I have had my brother and his whole family for Thanksgiving dinner, Christmas dinner and Easter brunch.

We love him and his wife dearly, and their children and grandchildren are all wonderful, but I would consider it heaven to be a guest once in a while instead of always the hostess.

How can I call a halt after all this time without offending anyone? It was my husband's idea to write to you.—Milwaukee Dilemma

DEAR MILWAUKEE: Family traditions die hard—especially when good ol' "Aunt Nell" sets a great table and is such a lovely hostess.

Phone your brother's wife today and tell her that you want to alternate from now on and that you'd like the next holiday dinner to be at her home. It's as simple as that.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Westgate residents entertained

Bud to Blossom Garden Club members met Thursday in Westgate Nursing Home to assist residents with making wreaths and other holiday decorations. A business meeting followed.

Members were asked what their favorite holiday arrangements were when answering roll call and various members gave reports on what they were doing in their neighborhoods with the Adopt-An-Alley program.

Pat Robinson gave a report on the recent state meeting of Texas Garden Clubs held in Odessa. The theme of the convention, which was attended by 25 clubs and represented by 171 members, was "A Taste of West Texas."

Plans were made for a Christmas social in the home of Ursalee Jacobsen. Also, Billie Johnson and Marie Escamilla were welcomed as new members.

Members voted to adopt the Garden Center as a club project.

Those present included Phyllis Brown, Wilma Bryan, Mildred Fuhrmann, Naomi Hare, Jane White, Jacobsen and Robinson.

Thomas A. Edison invented a workable electric light Oct. 21, 1879, at his laboratory in Menlo Park, N.J.

The U.S. Navy frigate Constitution, also known as "Old Ironsides," was launched in Boston Harbor in 1797.
