WASHINGTON (AP) - The Air Force is inspecting all of its B-1B bombers for electrical, hydraulic and fuel line problems following the crash of one of the costly new planes in Texas.

The inspections were prompted by Tuesday's crash during a routine training flight out of Dyess Air Force Base at Abilene, Texas. The four men aboard ejected safely after steering the flaming aircraft away from homes where it crashed west of Abilene.

Pentagon officials said Wednesday that the remaining B-1Bs, long-range bombers designed to carry out nuclear strikes against the Soviet Union, would be grounded until the inspections were completed. Col. Albert Jensen, wing commander at Dyess, said television footage of Tuesday's crash led Air Force officials to believe the plane was downed by a fire in or around its two left-wing engines.

Jensen said the aircraft commander, or pilot, Capt. Michael E. "Muddy" Waters, "did an absolutely tremendous job, thinking of the other crew members as well as the local populace, before he got out of the air-

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

The election is over. To God be the glory.

I have had a file folder eating up a lot of room in my desk, and I'm going to clean it out today.

I thought you might want to go through it with me.

It's the folder that has some (not nearly all) of the propaganda, biographical sketches and other little goodies I've received almost from the day I started working at the Brand. That day was July 20, 1987 (a day that may or may not live in infamy), and I have been getting "stuff" ever since.

Let's take a look at it, then fill up two or three dumpsters.

A picture of Dick Gephardt. He's the guy from Missouri. I wonder if the Democrats are wishing . . . Nah, too young. Maybe in 1992, moderates will again be popular in the Democratic Party.

A rural development plan from Mike Dukakis. this came out on Oct. 27, 1987, as the Duke was stumping for votes in Iowa.

Hmmm, that's funny. I don't see anything about Belgian endive in here.

Here's a goodie from the anti-Dukakis folks. It's a little story about some 87 Massachusetts criminals who escaped.

These little clipplings came from someone other than George Bush. I think they came from a fellow Democrat, but after what I've seen this year, I can't identify a Democrat on the national level anymore.

At least, they're not like the Democrats around here.

"Good morning, my name is Mel

Last Jan. 4 was a busy day around the area. Bill Sarpalius had finally decided he wasn't going to run for reelection to the state senate, but would instead run for Congress.

Mel and Nancy Garms and Bryan Poff decided to run, and filed on the last day. It might have been interesting to see what they would have done, but, them's the breaks.

"Dear O.G.," the letter started. It was about, of all things, people accepting a half-million dollars in campaign contributions for their Texas Supreme Court campaigns.

If the guy only accepted a halfmillion, no wonder he got beat.

"Senator Gore Gains Endorsements From New Hampshire to Nevada," the press release blares.

Yes, Gore did win a lot of endorsements, and he did well on Super Tuesday, the March 8 mega-primary throughout the South. Unfortunately for Gore, he didn't win anything anywhere else, so he got a better job.

Staying home with his wife, Tip-A little goodie from my birthday last January.

"At a press conference today, Jerry Hodge and Jim Simms, two prominent Panhandle business and civic leaders, announced the formation of a committee to assist in the reelection of Senator Lloyd Bentsen."

Ron Slover. Heh, heh, heh.

I think I have it figured out.

Anytime there's an election, Slover puts all the offices available on a dart board and throws a dart. The office he hits is the one he runs for.

On the other hand, I'd almost rather have 100 Ron Slovers than all the apathetic and non-voting people we evidently have floating around. no, make that two Ron Slovers.

I have wanted to throw the Pat Robertson stuff in the trash for a long

Pat was the candidate who prayed about whether or not he should run.

I believe that God answers each and every prayer. But, you have to be smart enough to know the answer when you see it or hear it, and you have to realize that God's answer may not always be what you want it to be.

Perhaps "go" and "Whoa!" sound too much alike to Pat.

And here's Hereford's own Gerald

McCathern. Some folks too McCathern's candidacy seriously, and some didn't. I honor McCathern for giving the voters of the 19th District a choice when voting for their congressman. No other Democrat was brave, or whatever the word is, enough to take on an incumbent congressman.

Dr. Paul Dunn sent out his resume when he ran for re-election to the State Board of Education.

He made some unfortunate mistakes.

He mentioned he was appointed to the SBOE by Gov. Mark White. Strike One.

He was supported by a committee headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and funded by H. Ross Perot.

Strike Two. He's a dentist.

Strike Three, you're out.

Perhaps my biggest mail winner was Lloyd Bentsen.

Actually it was a tie between Sen. Lloyd Bentsen for Senate and Lloyd Bentsen, vice presidential candidate. "Boulter trying to buy seat."

"Bush trying to (fill in the blank)." Why do I not like Bentsen? His mail to the Brand is addressed to an editor that hasn't been here in 11 years. C'men, Lloyd, get a grip . . . But, then again, he's a representative of the national Democratic Party, so he couldn't get a grip and represent the national element.

Communists defy Solidarity

Strike organizers fired

GDANSK, Poland (AP) -Signaling a tough stance on work Communist stoppages, authorities announced that they have fired the organizers of a oneday shipyard strike which did not have the blessing of Solidarity chairman Lech Walesa.

The announcement by the staterun PAP news agency came Wednesday after workers at two small yards in this Baltic port ended strikes they called to protest government plans to close the nearby Lenin Shipyard, birthplace of Solidarity.

The young workers had quit their occupation strikes at the behest of Walesa, who told them there was "no other path than reconciliation."

Hours later, PAP said the director of the Repair Shipvard "sacked the inspirators of the strike action" at the 4,500-worker yard. It did not mention firings at the other affected yard, the 1,000-worker Wisla Shipyard.

The agency said all employees at the Repair yard would be admitted to work today "with the exception of those who have been given notice." It did not say how may workers were dismissed.

The immediate publicity given the firings seemed an attempt to undercut the credibility of Walesa, who had been urging moderation, among supporters of the banned Solidarity free trade union movement.

In early September, Walesa persuaded strikers to end Poland's worst labor unrest in seven years in exchange for a government promise to hold talks on ending the country's economic and political crisis and reinstating Solidarity.

But the talks have been repeatedly delayed, with each side refusing conditions set by the other. One Solidarity demand is that about 100 coal miners fired for striking in August be rehired. The Wisla and Repair shipyard workers went on strike on a day

Walesa had said he might call a nationwide strike alert over the government's announced intention to close the 10,000-worker

Lenin Shipyard on Dec. 1. But no strike alert was issued, and Walesa later said shipyard managers told him that liquidation of the huge complex would take several years.

Soon after hearing Wednesday of the end of the second strike. Walesa thanked the workers for heeding his request.

"I hope in the future, if there is such a necessity, we will fight together," he said at St. Brygida's church, a Solidarity headquarters.

He argued that striking was counterproductive at the moment, and attention should be focused on starting the blocked talks with Communist authorities.

"For Poland there is no other path than reconciliation, meeting halfway to solve our problems, including social, political and economic pluralism," he told reporters.

- - CRECHERAL STAND DE 730

But he added: "We will fight for the shipyard sooner or later, and we will regain it."

Solidarity was born in the yard, where Walesa workers as an electrician, in August 1980 during na-tionwide strikes. It was crushed 15 months later in a military crackdown.

An undetermined number of workers gave up a strike Wednesday morning at Wisla Shipyard, which makes yachts and small river craft, after being promised that those who took part in the strike would not be fired, the yard's strike leader Jan Stanecki said. He said several hundred workers supported the strike.

At the Repair Shipyard, 200 workers who rallied Wednesday morning ended their strike at around 1 p.m., one hour after management said they must leave or be fired, said Krzysztof Kamolak, one of the strike committee members.

Jackson headed for election '92

WASHINGTON (AP) - In the ashes of a lost Democratic presidential campaign, Jesse Jackson heads toward the next one strengthened by new rules and a new role.

Next time, Jackson will begin as the Democrat to beat - which is what somebody almost certainly will do. The odds weigh heavily against the nomination of a black man in 1992, in a party that at times shrank from the word "liberal" during the campaign just end-

Jackson said he doesn't fear that a liberal can't be elected. "Reaching out, making room, that's liberalism. So the liberal tradition is a proud tradition," he said. "I will not foresake it."

There surely will be ample competition, with Democratic names like Bradley, Cuomo, Nunn, Gore and Gephardt and more on the early list of pessible entries for 1992. Even as Gov. Michael Dukakis conceded his loss to President-elect Bush his supporters were chanting "ninety-two, ninety-two."

Whatever the field, the standing Jackson won in 1968 and the rules concessions he gained from Dukakis at the Democratic National Convention will make him more formidable next time. For a while, Republicans tried to bill him as a virtual third partner in the Dukakis-Bentsen ticket. He was a major, nationally-televised performer at the Atlanta convention.

Jackson is aware of the perils as well as its advantages of his enhanced political station. He's been talking with friends and advisers about the way to deal with both.

The first step already has been taken. It was a late campaign sprint in behalf of Dukakis. With it, Jackson guarded against any finger-pointing suggesting that he'd done less than his best for the Democratic ticket.

He said he'd put in more miles, registered more voters than anyone else in support of Dukakis. By election night his voice was hoarse and fading from the campaign strain as he said it was much too early to talk about 1992 politics.

"I have not yet made that decision, not even given it serious consideration," he said. That at least is the public posture.

Jackson also said the new political season began on Wednesday, pointing to city elections in 1989, off-year elections in 1990, the census and congressional reapportionment in 1991. "There's a lot to do, a lot of meaningful work, and I intend to be involved, right in the heart of it." said Jackson.

FORT WORTH (AP) - Fort Worth teacher Dionne Bagsby, spurred by support from the Rev. Jesse Jackson and a sweep of most black precincts, on Tuesday became the first woman and the first black elected to the Tarrant County Commissioners Court.

"The mere fact that the electorate endorsed me and what I represent shows it's time to look at change and the inclusion of females and minorities in county decisionmaking," said Bagsby, a Democrat. "I hope to be part of that movement."

Bagsby, 50, defeated former Fort Worth Mayor Woodie Woods by more than 3,000 votes. The two vied for the seat of Commissioner Dick Andersen, whom Bagsby defeated in the primary.

Woods blamed the defeat on heavy black voting for Bagsby in the strongly Democratic precinct.

Former Watergate schemer dies

WASHINGTON (AP) - John Newton Mitchell, the gruff former attorney general who went to prison for conspiring to cover up the Watergate scandal in his friend Richard Nixon's White House, is dead at 75 after collapsing on a Washington street.

Mitchell was the highest ranking of the government officials who served time for the political scandal that brought about Nixon's resignation from the presidency in August 1974.

"I considered John Mitchell to be one of my few close personal friends," Nixon wrote in his memoirs. "I believed that I owed my election as president in 1968 largely to his strength as a counselor and his skill as a manager."

An ambulance crew, alerted by a 10-year-old boy who was skateboarding, found Mitchell unconscious on a street in the Georgetown section of Washington in early evening Wednesday. Mitchell had suffered a heart attack.

He stopped breathing as he was being taken to the hospital, and died despite cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

Mitchell was convicted on Jan. 1, 1975, of conspiring with Nixon's chief lieutenants, chief of staff H.R. Haldeman and domestic counselor John D. Ehrlichman, to cover up White House involvement in the Watergate affair, of the cover-up itself and of perjury. He fought the conviction in vain to the Supreme

All three were sentenced after a three-month trial to terms of 21/2-to-8

There was testimony at the Senate Watergate hearings, at the cover-up trial and in various published firstperson accounts that Mitchell twice rejected plans for spying on Democrats because they were too expensive but that he accepted a third, less expensive, version. Mitchell always denied the allegation.

But in a March 22, 1973, taped Oval Office conversation, Ehrlichman said "John says he's sorry he sent those burglars in there" to which Nixon replied: "That's right." Mitchell chimed in at that point and said "You are very welcome, sir," and the transcript shows laughter. The tapes also showed that Nixon once wanted Mitchell to take the rap for the entire Watergate cover-up. But Mitchell never said a harsh word about his former New York law partner and would not permit his defense lawyer to do so. By all accounts they remained friends.

"He was very loyal to the president and the president was not very loyal to him," the late Sen. Sam Ervin, who presided over the Watergate hearings in the Senate, once said.

Mitchell was the first former attorney general to be convicted of a crime. He was disbarred and served a 19-month prison term, which included five months of medical furloughs.

When he was done with prison number 24171-157 at the minimumsecurity facility at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama, he told reporters, "Henceforth, don't call me. I'll call you."

After his release, Mitchell went into the international consulting business with Jack Brennan, who was Nixon's chief aide in the early post-presidential years at San Clemente, Calif.

"I never heard him be really cross about any of the things that happened to him or any of the people who had hurt him, intentionally or not," Brennan said Wednesday. As attorney general, Mitchell was known for his credo that "when the going gets tough, the tough get going." And in Senate testimony he referred to Watergate as "White House horrors." The former attorney general's second wife, the flamboyant and peppery Martha Mitchell, gained a measure of fame for her late-night telephone calls to reporters in which she offered shrill, shoot-from-the-hip opinions on controversial issues of all sorts, including her husband's pro-

Sis has been wanting a portrait of Billy for a long time, so we went to a professional photographer. The photographer was determined to get Billy looking like a normal youngster, which is not what my sister wanted. He slouces forward when he sits and that is how she wanted him to look in the photograph.

There was a terrible tug-of-war between the two of them, and finally my sister said, "Look, this is not a normal child and we are not interested in hiding the fact. We'd like a photograph of Billy the way he is. We accept him and love him this way, and I want you to take the picture of the child the way he always

I hope this letter will encourage people to be more sensitive to and accepting of the needs of special children. Also, maybe an enterprising photographer somewhere will make an attempt to reach these parents who don't have professional pictures taken because they are too uncomfortable.

Thank you for this forum, Ann. Sign me – Aunt Linda from San Diego

DEAR AUNT LINDA: Bless you for making an excellent point. A true-to-life portrait of a special child can be a wonderful way to educate family and friends. When they see that you accept the child as he or she is, it helps them to do so also. Everybody wins.

If by reason of death, resignation, removal from office, or failure to qualify there is neither a president or vice-president to discharge the powers and duties of the office of president, then the speaker of the House of Representatives shall, upon his resignation as speaker and representative, act as president.

I'm going to be 89 years old next month and am in failing health. God has been good to me and I am not complaining. My life has been rich and full and I am ready to go any time.

I am writing about my faithful companion, "Raffles". He will soon be 14 years old. For years this adorable cat has slept on my bed and been beside me almost constantly. He does not take well to strangers and I am sure that he would never be able to adjust to another home.

If I should die before Raffles, would it be possible to have Raffles put to sleep and his ashes buried with me? This might sound like a crazy request but it would mean a great deal to me. Thanks for understanding, Ann – E.J.R., Wilmington, Del.

DEAR FRIEND OF 22 YEARS: I have dealt with this problem before so I know the answer. A 14-year-old cat is equivalent to a human who is about 80. I'm sure your veterinarian would agree to cooperate, since the cat has already had a long life.

Ask your lawyer to check with the cemetery you plan to be buried in. Each cemetery has its own bylaws. Most cemeteries and funeral directors will allow animal ashes to be buried with the owner, but just to make sure, you should check.

I hope I've helped put your mind at ease, faithful reader.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here's a tip for friends of the woman who has been recently divorced: Don't try to make her feel better by saying, "He was really a jerk." Or, "I could never understand why you married the creep." Such comments are an insult to her judgment.—Been True it in Mo.

Latchkey child care concerns addressed

A national resource center on school-age child care, with access via a nationwide toll-free hotline, has been established as part of "Project Home Safe," an outreach project targeted at latchkey children and their families.

The launch of the resource center and hot-line, plus the designation of Texas as one of six training sites for the program, were announced recently by the American Home Economics Association (AHEA) and Whirlpool Foundation, co-sponsors of the project.

The Project Home Safe resource center includes a library and a computerized data base of research studies, model programs, videos, legislation and other materials about school-age child care.

Anyone seeking information related to school-age child care or children in self care can access the resource center by calling 1-800-252-SAFE.

Dr. Sarah Anderson and Irene Keating, both with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will be directing the Home Safe training project for home economists in Texas in early 1989.

"The main goal of the program is to train professional home economists who can then return to their communities to work effectively with parents, teachers, children and community leaders in providing safe and productive ways for children to spend their time when they are alone," said Anderson.

Garden tips given during Garden Beautiful meeting

Members of Garden Beautiful Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Wilbur Axe with Bessie Story serving as co-hostess.

President Marguerite Newell conducted the business meeting. Garden tips were given by Ruby Carmichael who recommended washing flower pots before repotting plants. Also, Axe said to clean the flower beds of weeds and old plants to prepare them for winter.

Members voted to donate to the United Way of Deaf Smith County and Nadine Hill gave a report on the Christmas coffee and announced members who will serve on various committees.

Pat Northcutt was recognized a a special guest.

Story served as auctioneer for the club auction. Members brought crafts, picturs, jellies, homemade baked goods and a crochet afghan and slippers for the project.

Those present included Carmichael, Newell, Ina Mae Gilbreath, Dottie Darden, Camelia Jones, Dorothy Noland, Bobbie Metcalf, Louella Cowsert, Margaret Young, Hill, Jean Dowell, Audine Dettman, Phung Emmons and R. Gilbreath.

Surging Dumas here for final home game

Managing Editor

If you were looking for an upset special, you wouldn't have to look farther than Whiteface Stadium this Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Hereford has everything to play for. "This is sudden death," said Hereford coach Don Cumpton. "One loss and we're through."

Dumas comes to town 0-9. They've been close to winning several times. They've battled contenders Frenship and Estacado all over the field, and they have a tailback, Cliff Williams, who has picked up 1,086 yards on 191 carries. That's almost six yards a carry

"He's good," Cumpton said. "He's one of the top running backs in the district, the only one over 1,000 yards. That's over 100 yards a game, and that puts him in a pretty good field. And, he ran well against us last Dumas runs out of three offenses: The I, the straight-T, and the wing-T. "Mostly, they'll run out of the I, get him (Williams) back there and let him run to daylight. When they line up in the straight-T they use a lot of misdirection.

"And their quarterback (Brad Summersell) has come on. In their last couple of games (against Borger and Estacado) he has looked fairly impressive. He throws to his backs a lot, and it's helped free up their running game a little.

They've come a long way on offense. They were only behind 28-20 against Frenship at the start of the fourth quarter and had a couple of turnovers, and against Estacado they put 26 points on the board. They're tougher than their record

Herd is 47-point favorite

The Hereford Whitefaces are prohibitive 47-point favorites to win their final regular season game of the year Friday at Whiteface Stadium against Dumas.

Harris says the Frenship-Levelland game is a "pick'em" contest. The winner of that game would represent District 1-4A as the No. 1 team in the playoff pairings, and Hereford would be the No. 2 team, barring a tie between Levelland and Frenship that would throw the district into a four-way tie.

Here's how Harris has picked other games of interest in the region. The home team, when applicable, is in CAPS.

Permian 11 over TASCOSA: Lee 7 over PALO DURO; PAMPA 18 over Borger; DUNBAR 21 over Randall; Sweetwater 14 over Andrews; Big Spring 6 over FORT STOCKTON; MONAHANS 24 over Snyder; Pecos 7 over SA LAKEVIEW;

Everman 7 over Boswell; WF HIRSCHI 17 over FW Brewer; BRWONWOOD 7 over Belton; Taylor 6 over CLEBURNE; Littlefield 2 over CHILDRESS; Canyon 12 over Tulia; Greenwood 1 over Denver City; Brownfield 7 over Ker-

West Texas 1 over Canadian; ABERNATHY 4 over Shallowater: Quanah 23 over Panhandle: Idalou 8 over Olton; GRUVER 1 over Follett; WHEELER 13 over Sunray; WHITE DEER 25 over Booker; Happy 1 over Plains; Sudan 8 over O'Donnell.

Dumas vs. Hereford

WHEN, WHERE: 7:30 p.m., Friday, Whiteface Stadium. WHAT'S AT STAKE: If Dumas wins, it would be the most successful 1-9 season anyone has ever had. For the Herd, they're down to sudden death. They can finally concentrate on one week at a time, and this is like a playoff game. Cumpton's not worried about a team 40 miles west of Abilene; he's worried about a team 40 miles north of CUMPTON'S KEYS TO THE GAME: 1. Control the line of scrimmage both ways; 2. Don't let Cliff Williams, a very capable runner, break the long run; 3. Play with an intensity like the Herd played with against Frenship.

HISTORY: There are people who are fairly young who played on the first Hereford team to beat Dumas. Dumas used to own Hereford, but they also used to own everyone lese around here in WANNA BEAT THE COLD? The sophomore class chili supper will be from 5-7 p.m. on Friday at the HHS cafeteria. It's $3 for chili, cornbread and cobbler.

Hereford's offensive line will have another challenge this week. It won't be 300-pounders like they faced in Dumas, but a defensive front that's totally different from anything they've seen in the previous nine games.

"Dumas runs a Split-4 that puts eight people on the line of scrimmage," Cumpton said. "We haven't seen many even-front defenses all year and we'll have to recognize what they're doing.

"We have to block it differently because there are different rules for an eight-man front compared to a seven-man front. How you deal with it depends on how they line up."

Cumpton's worried about stopping Williams, but he's also about the Herd keeping its intensity up for this game. It's the fifth-straight "sudden death" game for the Whitefaces.

'Now we're down to a situation where we don't have to say we need to win two or three or four more times," Cumpton said. "Now, it's just one game at a time, and this is just like a playoff game. We lose this one, and we're out.

"I would hope that would bring out the best in our team because we understand what we face. And we need to have a good game. A bad game, even if we win, won't do us any good getting ready for the next game. We need to have a good Hereford's defense, including Kirby Kaul (52), Brad Smith (72) and Pat Mercer (8) was tested by Frenship tailback Jerry Newsome (22) in Hereford's last home game, which the Whitefaces won, 35-7.

This Friday, the Whitefaces will be challenged by Dumas tailback Cliff Williams, who has over 1,000 yards this season, in Hereford's last home game of the 1968 season.

Twins' Viola named AL Cy Young winner

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Frank Viola, the American League's most honored pitcher over the last 13 mon-ths, is thrilled with his latest award. But not thrilled enough to bring a Cy Young Viola or Cynthia Young Viola into the world.

Viola, who on Wednesday was 1988 AL Cy Young Award, is on a roll. He was most valuable player in the Twins' seven-game triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals in the 1967 World Series. He started and won the 1988 All-Star Game. He joined Jim Perry as the only Twins to win the Cy Young. And any day now, he and his wife, Kathy, will become parents for the third time.

"This is the most incredible yearlus anyone could even dream of, let alone have happen," Viola said in a telephone interview from Orlando,

Bills claim drug abuse not rampant

NEW YORK (AP) — Drug abuse is not rampant among the Buffalo Bills, General Manager Bill Polian insists in the wake of the team's third player suspension this season.

The Bills, owners of the NFL's best record, lost linebacker Hal Garner for 30 days after the league announced Wednesday that he had violated its substance-abuse policy.

"If you're intimating that there is rampant drug abuse on this football team, the best evidence that we can glean is that there is not," Polian

He called the latest suspension 'another isolated incident. It is not indicative of a quote-unquote drug problem on the Buffalo Bills."

Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who hoped the early spate of substanceabuse penalties was reducing the league's drug problem, also suspended Houston's Doug Smith for 30 days.

That brought to 22 the number set down this year. All but one player -Indianapolis running back Tony Collins - got 30 days as second-time violators. Collins was suspended for at least a year for a third offense.

In keeping with the league's policy, spokesman Joe Browne did not disclose the substance involved or go beyond the three-paragraph announcement that has accompanied the others. Both defensive end Bruce Smith and running back Robb Riddick were given 30-day suspensions earlier in the season. They have returned and made key contributions to the Bills, who stand 9-1

The suspensions come two weeks after Roselle said he hoped the problem had slackened off following the suspension of 14 players in August and September. The most recent was Mike Bell of the Kansas City Chiefs, suspended Oct. 21.

"I think the suspensions are having an important impact on players who might be tempted to do something with drugs," Rozelle said at an NFL meeting in Chicago. "Because there has been a slack period, I would hopefully assume there will be fewer cases the rest of the season."

Doug Smith, the starting nose tackle for the 7-3 Oilers, has been having the best season of his career.

But he missed two practices in September, then was sent home by Coach Jerry Glanville when he finally showed up. A day later, after a meeting with General Manager Ladd Herzeg, Smith returned to practice and said he had passed a leagueadministered drug test.

Under the NFL's drug policy, players can be tested at the start of training camp or for reasonable cause, such as a first-time failure or erratic behavior. First-time violators may continue to play; second-timers get 30 days and thirdtimers are suspended indefinitely with the right to apply for reinstatement after a year.

Most suspensions this year have involved cocaine or marijuana use although one player, Charles White of the Los Angeles Rams, was suspended for excessive alcohol use. White had previously had a history of America finally notified him late Wednesday afternoon that he had won the Cy Young in a landslide.

"Today was the first day that, I have to say, I was really nervous," he said. "Today, I knew it was the day. I was a little itchy."

So, to relax, he played golf with ex-teammates Butch Wynegar, Sal Butera and Jack O'Connor and former Harlem Globetrotter Curly Neal.

"I got the camera crew out of my face finally after the first nine holes and was able to play better," Viola said. "I can pitch in front of 50,000, but I can't play golf in front of a

Fortunately for Viola, the Twins pay him handsomely to pitch in front of big crowds. Including a $100,000 incentive for winning the Cy Young, Viola made $1.6 million in 1968. He'll get a $1.55 million base salary next Viola rewarded the Twins with a major-league-leading 24-7 record in 1988. His 2.64 earned-run average and 193 strikeouts ranked third in the AL. The Twins didn't repeat as champions, but they did win 91 games - six more than they won during the 1967 regular season.

Viola was especially valuable in 1968 because one-time star Bert Blyleven had a poor year and has since been traded. Viola also served as mentor to young lefty Allan Anderson, who began the season in the minors. Anderson was called up, gradually mastered Viola's pet pitch - the changeup - and went on to win 16 games and lead the league in

In the Cy Young balloting, Viola captured 27 of a possible 28 firstplace votes and 138 of a possible 140 points.

Dennis Eckersley of the Oakland Athletics got the other first-place vote and was second with 52 points. Mark Gubicza of Kansas City was third with 26 points, Dave Stewart of Oakland had 16, Bruce Hurst of Boston had 12 and his teammate Roger Clemens, the Cy Young winner in 1986 and 1987, had eight.

"I've always known I had the ability. I think I'm just reaching my prime. I think I can be better," Viola said. "Roger Clemens - as far as natural gifts, there's no question he ple are, too."

Deals in the mill for TV, baseball

Season: 174-71, .710

AP Sports Writer

It's "Let's Make a Deal" time on network row. Two of the biggest prizes in television sports - the broadcast rights to major league baseball and the 1992

Summer Olympics - are expected to be handed out by the end of the year. At this point, nobody knows the winners. But everybody's guessing.

The baseball speculation centers on a possible cable deal with Turner Broadcasting System, ESPN or even SportsChannel America, the new consortium of regional sports networks.

Each candidate is waging a strong campaign for a piece of the new major league contract. The current sixyear, $1.1-billion deal with NBC and ABC expires after next season.

ABC, which has been losing millions on its Monday night telecasts, will switch to Thursday nights next season in an attempt to cut its losses. No one will be surprishas it all, but I think I'm in the same ed if the network drops baseball after category, and I feel a few other peo- that, leaving NBC with the over-theair package.

Turner Broadcasting, owned by media magnate Ted Turner, is league games per week on its new TNT network.

Turner already has close ties to baseball as owner of the Atlanta Braves, whose games are broadcast on Atlanta SuperStation TBS.

"Turner Broadcasting System and major league baseball have had a very good relationship for the past dozen years," executive vice president Robert Wussler said. "We expect this relationship is going to continue."

ESPN has never shown major league games, but the all-sports network gives baseball extensive coverage and has a much bigger audience than its cable competitors. ESPN reaches 50 million homes, compared with 18 million for TNT and six million for SportsChannel

"We think our audience is a positive factor." ESPN spokesman

The cable competition is more con- Chris LaPlaca said. "We reach a lot more people than the other guys."

SportsChannel America, which took the National Hockey League reportedly willing to pay $120 million contract away from ESPN, appears a year to broadcast five major to be a longshot in the baseball bid-

But the network has a powerful ally in NBC president Robert Wright, who has offered to back SportsChannel's bid in exchange for a future partnership with SC's parent company, Cablevision. It's the latest effort by NBC to get involved in the profitable cable business, something ABC has done with its ownership of Cable also is expected to play a part in the 1992 Summer Olympics from Barcelona, Spain. Before that role is decided, however, the broadcast rights will be awarded to one of the three major networks.

Spurs can Heat

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Willie Anderson came up with five steals. Anderson is a rookie, but he plays more like a National Basketball Association veteran.

Anderson dazzled the home crowd with 29 points Wednesday night as the San Antonio Spurs routed the Miami Heat 117-93. "I think my style of play is more suited to the NBA," Anderson said of a performance that included strong drives to the basket, finger rolls over lunging defenders, and even longrange jumpers. "In a lot of ways this is like what we used to play back home on the court," Anderson recalled. "It's a lot of instinct and quickness. You make a move and then you go."

Most of what Anderson shot Wednesday night went in, especially in the third quarter when San Antonio pulled away for good.

Anderson was virtually unstoppable, scoring 14 points on seven of eight from the floor. For the game he connected on 13 of 18 shots, while passing out seven assists, making five steals and pulling down three rebounds.

"Willie Anderson is a great player," said Heat forward-center Scott Hastings. "He's very multi-

Spurs coach Larry Brown called Anderson, guard Alvin Robertson and reserve guard Vernon Maxwell the "three Amigos." Robertson had 10 points, seven assists and like Maxwell scored 14 points in 23 minutes of action.

Spurs guard Johnny Dawkins tallied 21 points, while dishing out a game-high 12 assists.

The Heat stayed close throughout the first half, trailing 57-50, but Anderson turned it into a rout in the third quarter.

The first year man from Georgia got San Antonio's transition game going and the Heat's defense could do little to stop it. Miami, winless in its first three outings was led by center Pat Cummings with 12 points.

The Spurs' Greg Anderson chipped in 20 in the win.

"They outplayed us and beat us at every position," said Miami coach Ron Rothstein. "Getting back on defense just killed us."

Healthful benefits observed in study of apple eaters

to ensure every apple arrives at its destination looking as if it had just dropped from the tree but was caught, bruise-free, before it hit the ground.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture and Michigan State University have developed a computerized "apple" with a beeswax skin to study the way fruit bruises. The high-tech peel encloses an accelerometer (to measure the impact of the bumps), a clock, and "storage" to record the data en

Michigan State University also made apple news headlines with a study that tested just how effective "an apple a day" was at keeping students out of the school medical center. Over an experimental period of three years, the apple-eating volunteers chomped their way through one to three apples per day. When compared to the general university body, the apple eaters had made one-third fewer visits for upper respiratory infections and one-sixth fewer visits for tension-related complaints.

> A survey by the trade newspaper, The Packer, entitled "Fresh Trends 1988: A Profile of Fresh Produce Consumers," found one-third of the nationally representative 1309 U.S. households polled are increasing their intake of fresh fruit and vegetables.

Apples were named more than any other produce item as being purchased for at least one of five health considerations listed in the survey. The most popular reasons given for purchasing apples were "added fiber," vitamin, mineral content" and "aids in calorie control."

Also in this survey, 74 percent of those polled chose apples as one of their "three most preferred fruits for snacks" from among a list of 13 fruits, including bananas, seedles grapes, oranges and strawberries.

According to the Menu Census group of MRCA Information Services, the apple was voted the most popular fruit by children for brown bag lunches. 25 years, Foster is currently teaching pre-kindergarten at the Stanton Special Program Center through Hereford Independent School District. "I love teaching children because it's a joy to work with them when they are eager to learn," she said of her work with mainly Hispanic children.

She taught four-year-olds for 17 years, second grade for two years, and Spanish to youth in grades 2-6 one year.

A native of Dallas, Foster was immersed in the Spanish language when she spent a year in a boarding school in Mexico. Upon graduation from Highland Park High School, she moved to Lubbock to-attend Texas Tech University. "That was my first introduction to West

Upon receiving a degree in elementary education, Foster moved to Odessa with three other teachers. Since one roommate was, a home economics major, it was there that Foster began to learn more about cooking. "We took turns buying the groceries and cooking," she said.

She and her husband, Boyd, are the parents of two sons, Michael, who owns Foster Electronics in Hereford, and Hunt, who is a student at TTU. "I've never minded not having daughters since we have four goddaughters," she laughed.

The Fosters farmed the first eight years of their marriage and he has a continued interest in plants and landscaping. A native of Kress, he maintains a French intensive garden on raised beds in their back yard at 120 Centre and uses drip irrigation. He is now with Arrowhead Mills and much of the family's eating habits center on grains and vegetables.

"We are not a vegetarian family by any means, but we do use a lot of recipes that contain grains and fresh produce," she said. "In fact, Boyd is a wonderful cook in his own right as he has developed some recipes on his Casseroles are her favorite dish, although she admits to liking almost any type of food. "We have a Sunday tradition of cooking pizza that night for the family. I chop the vegetables and Boyd prepares the crust. I sometimes make lasagna."

The family goes to St. Anthony's Catholic Church and enjoys renovating a 75-year-old farm house located east of Tulia. "It's like a second home, a place to get away. When we're not there, we're doing things around the house here."

Foster is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma and has belonged to El Llano Study Club for the past 25 years. She serves as secretary to both organizations and is a member of such teachers' organizations as

Some of her favorite recipes follow:

GREEN ENCHILADAS The day before serving prepare the following: 1 large white onion 2 4-oz. cans green chiles

1/2 c. parsley sprigs or raw spinach 2 chicken bouillon cubes 1 can mushroom soup

1 green tomato, if available (otherwise omit) 2 c. whipping cream salt and pepper Put onion, chiles, parsley, bouillon cubes, soup and tomato in blender.

When blended, add the cream. Season with salt and pepper. 1/2 c. salad oil (not olive oil) 16 soft tortillas or crepes

1 lb. Swiss cheese, grated Meat from a 3-lb. roasted chicken,

Have 2 small skillets ready. In one heat the oil, in the other heat % c. of the sauce. Dip each tortilla into the hot oil quickly and drain. Dip into the sauce and stack. When all are ready put 1 Tbsp. of the cheese and some of the chicken on each tortilla and roll. Place in an oblong casserole. Mix remaining sauce with remaining cheese and any of the sauce left from dipping. Pour over the enchiladas. Bake at 350 degrees until hot. When serving, top with sour cream.

1 c. whole wheat flour

1/4 tsp. salt (optional)

1 Tbsp. baking powder 3 Tbsp. margarine

1 c. oat bran 1/2 c grated lowfat cheese

1 c. skim milk

Place first three ingredients in mixing bowl. Cut in margarine to resemble coarse meal. Add oat bran and grated cheese and stir well. Add milk all at once; stir to make manageable dough. Turn onto lightly floured board; knead 10 times. Roll to 12" thickness; cut into biscuits. Bake on oiled cookie sheet at 400 degrees for 12-15 minutes.

Social Security

SOCIAL SECURITY WORK CREDIT

Before any Social Security benefits can be paid, a worker must have enough credit for work covered by Social Security to be insured, Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo said Recently.

Social Security credits are measured in units called "quarters of coverage." both wage earner and self-employed people earn these credits based on their total annual earnings.

A wage earner's earnings are generally covered from the first dollar earned during the year up to the maximum that counts for Social Security, $45,000 for 1988. A selfemployed person's earnings are covered, however, only if net earning amount to $400 or more. If net earnings are at least $400, then total earnings are covered up to the Social Security maximum.

In 1968, a person earns one quarter of coverage for each $470 of covered annual earnings. If total 1968 annual earnings amount to $1,800 or more, the person earns four quarters. No. more than four quarters of coverage

The amount of covered earnings needed for a quarter of coverage will increase automatically each year to keep pace with increases in average wage levels.

The general rule is that a person needs one quarter of coverage for each year after 1950, or after the year a person reaches 21, if later, up to the year he or she reaches 62, becomes disabled, or dies before reaching 62.

For example, a person reaching 62 in 1968 needs 37 quarters of coverage to be insured for retirement benfits. No one needs more than 40 quarters to be insured and a person cannot be insured for fewer than 6 quarters. More information about Social Security credits can be obtained at the Amarillo, Tx. Social Security office, located at 3601 W. 15th. The telephone number is (806)376-2241. NEW YORK (AP) - Members of upscale households are the biggest cheese eaters in the United States, says the Nutri-System Health & Fitness Information Bureau. Its source is a survey by MRCA Information Services which also reports that older homemakers and households headed by college graduates are also among the heaviest cheese consumers.

Other facts revealed by the survey: Amercan is the best-selling sliced cheese while Parmesan tops the grated cheese market.

Many adults also need immunizations

preventative medicine these days, too many adult Texans are not adequately protected against vaccine-preventable diseases, says the Texas Medical Association.

To determine whether you should obtain one of the immunizations listed below, check your vaccination record. If you are unsure about whether you have been sufficiently immunized, consult your doctor. Be sure to keep a record of current and future vaccinations.

Tetanus/Diphtheria. Tetanus, or lockjaw, can cause painful muscular contractions. Diphtheria typically produces a sore throat but also can affect the heart and other internal organs. Most adults received primary immunization for tetanus and diphtheria during childhood; if you did not, do so without delay. To remain immune, all adults require a booster shot every 10 years.

Measles. Many adults no longer are susceptible to this disease because they had it as children. But a substantial number of young adults born after 1967 have had neither the disease nor vaccination. Furthermore, people vaccinated for measles Rubella. Injury to a fetus or miscarriage are the major consequences of rubella (German measles) in adults. Women of childbearing age who have no history of vaccination should be tested for antibodies and, in their absence, be immunized. Following immunization, a woman should ait at least three months before becoming pregnant.

Influnenza. To be effective, flu vaccine must be administered yearly. The vaccine is strongly recommended for people over 65, since severity and risk of death from flu increase with age. Anyone with chronic lung, heart, or kidney disease or with diabetes also should get annual flu shots.

Pneumococcal pneumonia. A vaccine now is available that offers protection against most of the pneumococcal diseases. The same groups immunized for influenza should be immunized with this vaccine. People who have lost their spleen-regardless of age-should also receive the vaccination, but only once. Yearly or booster doses definitely should not be given.

Hepatitis B. Hepatitis B immunizations are needed only by certain groups of adults. It is recommended for health-care workers, clients and staff of institutions for the mentally retarded, kidney dialysis and hemophilia patients, homosexually active men, intravenous drug users, and sexual contacts of hepatitis B carriers. The immunization is effective for at least five years.

All of the diseases listed above have two things in common: they can be fatal, but they can be prevented. Make sure your immunizations are up to date! A pamphlet, "Immunizations-

Beat air infiltration to lower heating cost

When that first "Blue Norther" than oil-base caulking but also lasts 7 blows thorugh Texas, you may feel it to 10 years. Silicone caulking comindoors as well as out, especially if pounds are the most expensive, but your home caulking and when properly applied will give top weatherstripping isn't doing its job.

"Caulking and weaterstripping don't last forever, yet homeowners often assume they do," said housing expert Dr. Susan Quiring.

"Settling that causes doors or windows to shift slightly or inexpensive caulking that has lost its bond are just two causes of air infiltration," she said.

Quiring, a specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, advises homeowners to inspect all caulking and weatherstripping

The exterior areas of a house most likely to require periodic caulking include around the chimney flashing, door frames, inside corners formed by siding, joints between chimney and siding, joints between masonry or concrete parts and the main part of the house, and all window joints.

According to the specialist, the least expensive oil-base caulking lasts only about 1 to 2 years. Acrylic latex caulk, designed primarily for interior use with latex paints, lasts about 5 to 7 years.

Butyl rubber is more expensive performance for up to 20 years.

"There are many types of caulking compounds on the market. Since each type has been designed for a specific purpose, it's important to get the right kind for your home maintenance job," Quiring said.

Weatherstripping around all doors and any wood casement windows also merits inspection.

"Pliable gaskets of vinyl or rubber can become rigid over time and the felt gaskets may compress or deteriorate so that the seal is ineffective," said the specialist.

The weatherstripping made of metal and applied with screws or nails will be the longest lasting.

Quiring said homeowners often have weatherstripping around the sides of a door but neglect the bottom. Special threshold weatherstripping kits are available at most home improvement stores.

When inspecting for adequate weatherstripping, Quiring cautions homeowners not to neglect interior doors between heated and unheated

DO'NG OUR BEST By Bob Wear

Much harm is being done by the unjustified and unwise emphasis on competition among people. Of course, there is a time and place for the right kind of competition. We must, however, in the midst of the climate created by competition, give proper place to the understanding and acceptance of the success that is based upon the individual's best. It is imperative that we learn to be satisfied with our best.

Even when measured by the accomplishments of others, our best doesn't seem to be much; it is still our best and we must not reproach ourselves. In fact, it is not wise to measure ourselves by others. We may profit sometimes from good examples, and we may learn from others; but we must not permit ourselves to be stressed, never depreciate ourselves or belittle ourselves because we are unable to equal or outdo others.

It seems to be generally agreed that, in doing our best our best will better grow. Within our potential capabilities, we can make some improvement, and we will as we continue to honestly do our best. True happiness and personal well-being do not demand success in all of our endeavors, but does demand that we continue to do our best.

It is unfair to expect more of ourselves than we are capable of doing, and it is also unfair and not very sensible to expect to be able to do anything anybody else can do. It is best to forget the saying, "I can do anything anybody else can." This is not a fair statement, not wellthought-out.

The capabilities, circumstances, and opportunities of people differ widely; and we must learn to be content with doing the best we can, where we are, with what we have.

"My business is not to remake myself, but to make the absolute best of what God has made."-R. Brown-

At the close of the day, or at the close of life, let us be happy with the realization that we have honestly done our best.

NEW YORK (AP) - Four states -Vermont, Connecticut, New Jersey and Georgia -rely on nuclear energy for over half their power. with Vermont leading at 76 percent, reports an energy industry journal. According to Energy User News, 16 other states rely on nuclear plants for at least 25 percent of their electricity. The publication also says that since 1973 nuclear power has displaced 3.5 billion barrels of imported oil, and current nuclear plants will displace at least another 12 billion barrels over their lifespan.

Bazaar discussed by club

New officers were elected when members of Westway Home Entension Club met recently for a covered salad luncheon in the home of Carolyn Evers.

Serving as president will be Martha Rickman; vice president, Elizabeth DeKoster; secretaryreporter, Carolyn Evers; treasurer, Jeanette Ramey; bazaar chairman, Evers; and council delegate, Grace Covington.

Members discussed their annual Country Christmas Bazaar set from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday in the Hereford Community Center. A variety of handcrafted items will be for sale and a stuffed baked potato booth will be manned by members of Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. All proceeds from the event will be used for local 4-H projects.

Members present answered roll call by giving suggestions on raising children. In attendance were Joyce Aycock, Grace Covington, Jeanette Ramey, Leta Kaul, DeKoster, Helen Brown and Evers.

A CIVIL WAR SPY

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP) -Belle Boyd, born here in 1844, was a Confederate spy during the Civil War. Her career began when she shot a Union soldier in her home.

At 17, she used secret codes to inform Southern armies about Northern troop movements. She was captured and released twice, then was caught aboard a ship running the Union blockade. Her guard was a young ensign, Sam W. Hardinge, who fell in love with her.
