Iraq makes peace offer

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) - Iraq agreed today to U.N. demands that it relinquish Kuwait, but said the withdrawal should be linked to a pullout of allied forces from the region and an Israeli pullout from the occupied lands.

The announcement, 30 days into a devastating U.S.-led air war to force a pullout, came in a communique from Iraq's ruling Revolutionary Command Council, which is headed by Saddam Hussein.

The Iraqi statement, carried on Baghdad Radio and released by the official Iraqi News Agency, said the council's agreement "should be regarded as a guarantee from Iraq and coupled with an immediate and comprehensive cessation of all land, air and sea military operations."

But in Washington, a senior military official said: "The campaign goes on. We're not going to change anything on the strength of a radio announcement."

President Bush and other U.S. officials have said since the war began that the fighting will stop only when a massive Iraqi troop withdrawal from Kuwait is actually in progress.

"In order to achieve a dignified and acceptable political settlement, the Revolutionary Command Council has decided to accept U.N. Security Council resolution 660 of 1990, including the clause related to Iraqi withdrawal," the Iraqi communique said.

Resolution 660 was the first in a series of United Nations resolutions passed after Iraq's stunning invasion of Kuwait on Aug. 2. It called for an unconditional Iraqi withdrawal from the oil-rich emirate and urged the two countries to discuss their differences through negotiations.

The communique came after what Iraqi media had earlier said was an overnight session of the country's ruling five-man council.

During the night, Baghdad was struck by the latest in a series of punishing raids, one of which damaged the headquarters of the country's ruling Arab Baath Socialist Party. AP correspondent Salah Nasrawi, in Baghdad, said the building in the heart of the capital was apparently vacant at the time of the allied attack. He quoted witnesses as saying the building was heavily damaged.

On Aug. 6, four days after Iraq's invasion, the U.N. Security Council ordered an air, land and sea embargo on trade with Iraq. The next day

President Bush ordered U.S. forces to the Saudi Arabian desert to counter Saddam's invasion and to protect Saudi Arabia and its oil fields.

Day by day the United States and the other countries involved in the international coalition built an armada around the Saudi Arabian peninsula and deployed the most modern jet fighters, tanks and artillery in the world.

Iraq moved its soldiers and tanks into Kuwait and prepared elaborate defensive positions based on a force of 5,500 tanks, about 700 combat aircraft and a supply of rockets, missiles and chemical weapons.

Iraq seized Kuwait, population 1.7 million, after a dispute over oil, money and land. Saddam complained that Kuwaiti overproduction had driven down world oil prices and Iraq's oil revenues.

The Iraqi invasion was widely condemned. The U.N. Security Council passed a resolution Aug. 3 demanding Iraq's unconditional withdrawal. Three days later, the council ordered the worldwide economic embargo.

The Security Council authorized the use of necessary force to dislodge Iraq from Kuwait after January 15. In the early hours of Jan. 17, the allies struck, beginning a non-stop air campaign that continued into today.

Iraq's apparent offer to withdraw from Kuwait came two days after the Baghdad government said up to 500 civilians died in the U.S. bombing of an underground structure.

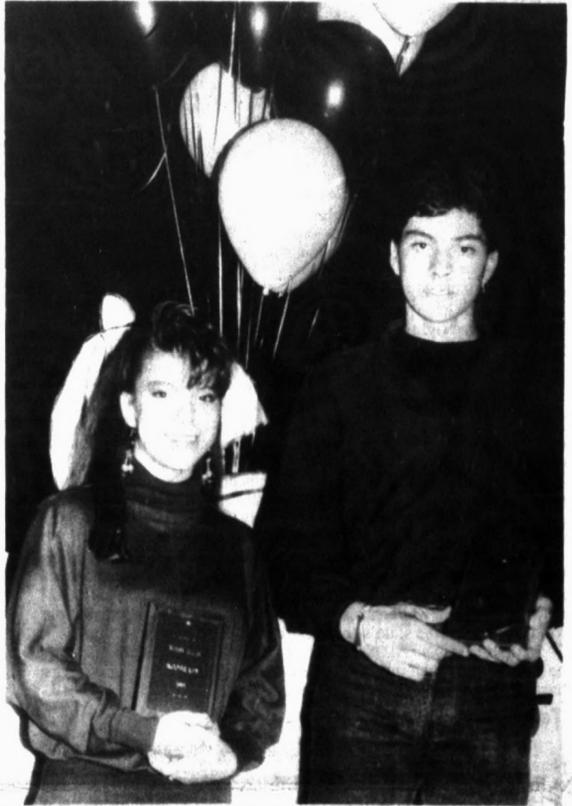

The U.S. Central Command said the bunker was a military command-and-control center. Iraq said it was an air raid shelter.

Iraqi civil defense officials said 306 bodies had been recovered by midday today from the wreckage of the reinforced concrete bunker.

The U.S. Central Command in Saudi Arabia, while insisting the bunker was a legitimate target, said the allies were considering new steps to help prevent civilian deaths, including the possibility of announcing bombing targets in advance.

Iraq's envoy to Japan, M.S. al-Rifai, told Japanese reporters in Tokyo on Thursday that more than 7,000 Iraqi civilians have been killed in the war. It was the highest estimate yet from an Iraqi official.

The allied side had claims of its own about civilian casualties in Kuwait. A Kuwaiti air force colonel, Col. Abdullah El-Kandari, said Thursday that Iraq has stepped up executions in the occupied emirate.

Ramirez gets 35 years in retrial

Paul Ramirez, a former Hereford police officer, was convicted by a Randall County jury for the second time Wednesday in the 1987 shooting death of his estranged wife. He was assessed a 35-year prison term Thursday by District Judge David Gleason.

Ramirez, 47, had elected to have a judge set his sentence. He was originally convicted in October 1988 of shooting his wife, Mary, but a court of appeals reversed the decision due to introduction of an extraneous offense. Ramirez, a Potter County deputy at that time, was sentenced to 40 years in prison after the first trial.

Mrs. Ramirez, who had been a counselor at Stanton Junior High in Hereford, died of multiple gunshot wounds in November 1987. She was found dead in her car off U.S. 60 about three miles west of Umbarger after a passing motorist notified authorities of a man standing alongside the highway, waving a gun. Randall County authorities captured the former deputy after a brief car chase.

Ramirez was a former lieutenant on the Hereford Police Department and an unsuccessful candidate for Deaf Smith County sheriff.

Bush wants no strings attached

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush today dismissed a sudden Iraqi peace proposal as "a cruel hoax" that will not settle the Persian Gulf War - and said the ouster of Saddam Hussein is one way to end the conflict.

He said Desert Storm coalition members agreed the Iraqi offer was "nothing new."

Bush said military orders remained the same, and commanders said bombing of Iraqi troops was continuing in the effort to oust Iraq from Kuwait.

The president said he woke up to television reports of the offer and was happy that there was a glimpse of hope to settle the war. He said the hopes were dashed when the reports from Baghdad made it clear there were conditions to the offer.

"We thought we had a shot for peace; that is not the case."

Bush said he had spoken with key leaders of allied nations and that the war will continue until there is unconditional withdrawal. He said his initial optimism about the Baghdad proposal evaporated when he saw its details.

"Regrettably, the Iraq statement now appears to be a cruel hoax, dashing the hopes of the people in Iraq and indeed around the world," Bush told a meeting of scientists.

Bush took note of celebratory reaction from residents of Baghdad when first word of the peace offer was broadcast and emphasized that the United States had no quarrel with the people of Iraq, only with Saddam Hussein and his military.

He said the Iraqi offer turned out to contain nothing new, "with the possible exception of recognizing for the first time" that Iraq must leave Kuwait. He said it not only repeats earlier conditions - the withdrawal of Israel from the occupied territories - but adds new ones.

"They must withdraw without condition," Bush said, and that cannot be linked to other Middle East issues.

He said the war will continue "until a massive withdrawal begins."

At the Pentagon, a senior analyst was asked whether there was any evidence that Saddam's army was turning back. "None whatsoever," the analyst said.

"We have seen no indication of any kind of Iraqi withdrawal," said the official, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Speaker: vote close on lottery

AUSTIN (AP) - House Speaker Gib Lewis says lottery backers tell him they are near the two-thirds majority needed to put a lottery proposal on the ballot. But opponents say they have enough votes to block passage.

Because starting a state lottery requires a constitutional amendment, two-thirds of the 150-member House must approve placing the plan, which then goes to voters for ratification or rejection.

"They say it's very close," Lewis said Thursday. "They have confirmed 98 affirmative votes with seven or eight they think are swing votes."

John Bender, the speaker's press secretary, said officials are researching whether the lottery bill could be approved with less than 100 votes right now because of vacancies in the House. Special runoff elections still must be held to fill three seats.

Rep. Glenn Repp, R-Duncanville, said opponents have more than the 51 votes needed to stall any lottery proposal.

Past lottery bills have won two-thirds support in the Senate but fell short in the more conservative House. Gov. Ann Richards, seeing the lottery as a way to bring in more state funds without new taxes, has urged lawmakers to approve the game.

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said he will vote to put a lottery on the ballot, although he isn't convinced it offers a stable revenue source for the state or a good deal for lottery players.

"I will certainly vote for a lottery," Lewis said. "I'll probably never buy a lottery ticket."

A Texas lottery is projected to bring in $731 million for the next budget cycle if approved by voters in May and started in January 1992. Backers say it is the most attractive way to beef up state income when facing a $4.5 billion deficit for 1992-93.

But lottery opponents, stepping up their campaign against the gambling game, argued that it would be morally wrong for the state to encourage people to gamble and lose just so the government could have more money.

"The only way the state wins in this deal is for people to lose," said Rep. Billy Clemons, D-Pollock, one of a group of anti-lottery lawmakers sporting buttons that read: "Ethics? Yes. Lottery? No."

Dollars diverted from other purchases to buy lottery tickets take money out of the economy which ends up being "spent on bureaucracy and false hopes," Clemons said.

The lottery's chief House sponsor, Rep. Ron Wilson, said lottery opponents won't offer another way to raise needed state funds. He said that if lottery fails, a state income tax could be next.

"I think they're afraid to. Because the issue is - at this point - either a state income tax or a lottery," said Wilson, D-Houston. "They can try to run, they can try to hide, but that's the issue."

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says most of us carry our own stumbling block with us; we camouflage it with a hat.

The service stations are changing gas prices so often, the owner is spending more time on a ladder than under a hood.

It's a sad state of affairs when Congress has to borrow a buck before it can pass it.

A "Support Our Troops Rally" is scheduled to be held Sunday, beginning at 2 p.m., at the Deaf Smith County Courthouse. Sunday is also proclaimed as "Red, White and Blue Day" with all citizens encouraged to wear the colors to the rally.

Rally organizers say the event is being held to show support for our troops in the Persian Gulf and around the world. It is not sponsored by a particular group or organization.

A special sign with names of local service personnel serving in Operation Desert Storm will be unveiled at the rally and will remain on the courthouse square. Special certificates will be presented to family members of soldiers involved in the war.

We hope a lot of folks in the community take time to attend the patriotic event.

There's no doubt we have one of the most active senior citizens center around. I was out visiting recently and listened to an oldtimer philosophize about the pros and cons of getting older. The man insisted there were some advantages to being older.

"Name one," said a doubtful listener.

"You can sing while you brush your teeth!" he replied with a big grin.

No-fault insurance should result in a boom for the legal profession, says Larry Crabtree in the Vernon Daily Record.

"After all, it will still take lawyers to figure out whose no-fault it is."

"Things from home always make our day," writes a Hereford soldier from the Persian Gulf.

Nell Culppepper of Hereford sent a card and box of "goodies" to Mike Fitzgerald and recently received a note from him. Excerpts from the note, dated Jan. 13, include:
"Thanks so much for the card and the box of goodies. We really appreciate your thoughtfulness. I gave everyone two jellybeans as they came by my truck...they were all like little kids. Things from home always make our day."
"This Army has been penned up and teased like a wild dog and has been waiting to avenge its name from Vietnam. Saddam is a demon-possessed man who must be removed from power and his army dismantled. We are just the ones to do it, too."
"Your package got here in 10 days - a record. God must have had it sent with angels protecting it. My love to all. Mike."

Mrs. Culppepper said Mike also asked for an inexpensive metal coffee pot, and she mailed that to him but hasn't learned if it arrived as yet.

Health secretary outlines program

DALLAS (AP) - Americans must focus on the needs of babies who fail to live until their first birthday, the nation's top health official says.

To do that, U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services Louis Sullivan Thursday proposed a new policy, called Healthy Start, to deal with the health problems of low birthrate babies and the social structure of dysfunctional families.

Healthy Start, will act as a network service to target low birthweight babies and a lack of prenatal care, Sullivan said at the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation's leadership conference in Dallas.

"Tragically, it is our babies and children who are slipping through the weakened threads of our cultural fabric," Sullivan said.

The United States is ranked 24th in the world in the number of infants who survive after birth, with an infant mortality rate of 10 deaths per thousand births.

Each year, 40,000 babies die in this country before their first birthday, Sullivan said.

With 25 percent of the nation's mothers foregoing prenatal care, alternative measures must be found, he said.

Healthy Start also will address teen-age pregnancy, another culprit of high infant mortality rates.

The initiative will focus specifically on 10 troubled cities, but Sullivan did not name which ones will be targeted.

Healthy Start is expected to reduce infant mortality rates by 50 percent within five years in those communities, he said. Approximately $171 million will be designated to the program in 1992.

Sullivan blamed the nation's high infant death rates on some parents and their ignorance of proper health methods, poor child-raising skills, addiction to drugs or alcohol and weak family structures.

"We, as a nation, need to discuss, openly and frankly, the critical roles that marriage, family and community support systems play in ensuring infant health," Sullivan said.

Sullivan also received the March of Dimes Frank A. Rose Leadership Award, said Michele Kling, spokeswoman for the organization.

Commercial space flights expected

WEBSTER, Texas (AP) - A Houston firm will be responsible for half of a NASA-related project to begin commercial space flights from the United States as early as next year.

"The idea here isn't to service our governmental needs, but to service commercial needs," said Joe Pawlick, program manager of the NASA-sponsored Commercial Experiment Transporter program known as COMET. "And that's the real key to the COMET program."

Space Industries Inc. signed three contracts with the University of Tennessee Center for Aerospace Research on Thursday as part of the $85 million COMET project.

"The COMET program represents a very significant step by the United States to establish not only a foothold but a leadership position in what is becoming an international market in microgravity research," said David Langstaff, executive vice president of Space Industries.

Project officials hope to launch a spacecraft, powered by a rocket supplied by another Houston firm, in September 1992, and keep a space capsule in orbit about 300 miles high for 30 days before returning it to earth.

Inside the capsule, modeled after the Mercury and Gemini spacecraft used in the early days of the nation's manned space program, would be scientific experiments designed to take advantage of the lack of gravity in space.

"If we were to look at its most mature point, much like you fly your air mail package on UPS today, you will be able to fly your commercial package, perform your experiments and have the data or finished product returned to earth on a totally commercial basis," Pawlick said.

COMET will be directed by a group of seven centers for the Commercial Development of Space, led by the Center for Advanced Space Propulsion at the University of Tennessee in Tullahoma.

According to its contracts, Space Industries will design and manufacture the capsule and integrate the experiments with the vehicle. It also will operate the system while in orbit, including the establishment of a tracking station.

"We just provide the wheels," Space Services division chief Donald "Deke" Slayton, one of the original Mercury astronauts, said. "The other guys provide the important stuff."

Besides Space Industries, Westinghouse Electric Corp. won contracts to supply a service module on each flight and systems engineering. Space Services Inc. of Houston will provide rocket launch facilities, including a four-stage, solid-fueled rocket capable of handling about an 1,800-pound vehicle. Launch would be from Wallops Island, Va.

The rocket, known as a Conestoga, only has made suborbital flights, most recently in May 1990. Slayton, however, said he was confident "within 95 percent" the rocket could put the capsule into orbit.

The capsule would be steered from orbit, then lowered to earth by parachute, hitting the ground at about 15 mph either at White Sands, N.M., which has served as landing site for similar types of vehicles, or at a new commercial landing site in Texas.

Officials said Texas Land

Commissioner Garry Mauro had expressed interest in building a first-of-its-kind commercial site in Texas, but no areas of the state have yet been explored. The site would require an area 20 by 50 miles.

The COMET contracts are for three flights with an option for two more. The initial three flights should be complete by 1995, officials said.

"From there, it depends on the extent of how the market has developed," Langstaff said. "We now have in place the capability to do this on as frequent a basis as the market requires."

"The state of space research is still very young. This could have a dramatic impact."

He estimated once the system became established, it could cost customers between $20 million and $25 million to fly. While neither he nor Pawlick could say how that compared with the cost of putting an experiment aboard the space shuttle, Langstaff said the price "is quite competitive with the numbers we hear in Europe and elsewhere."

California's water supply cut

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - The federal government says it will cut water to farmers in California's parched Central Valley - one of the nation's top agricultural areas - by 75 percent and to cities in the region by up to half.

State officials also made new plans for dealing with California's five-year drought. Gov. Pete Wilson scheduled a news conference today to release a task force's recommendations.

Federal officials Thursday announced water cutbacks to the Central Valley, the fertile farmbelt that extends from Redding in the north to Bakersfield in the south and contains more than a third of the state's 9.2 million acres of irrigated farmland.

The 75 percent reduction, on top of state and local cuts, could take up to 1 million acres out of production, said Jason Peltier, a spokesman for water contractors who sell the Central Valley Project's water to local irrigation districts and other users.

"It's going to be very tough on a large number of farmers," Peltier said.

Officials gave no immediate estimate on how much the cutbacks could cost California's $16 billion-a-year farm industry, the nation's largest.

Although Central Valley farmers get only about 20 percent of their water from the federal government, growers say the cuts are critical because they reduce what has been a reliable supply at a time when other sources are drying up.

State Water Project officials announced two weeks ago they were halting all irrigation water to farmers and cutting supplies to cities by 50 percent.

Central Valley growers get about 5 percent of their water from the state, mainly from the State Water Project, and about 75 percent from local agencies and ground-water supplies.

"We know there's no water in the reservoirs, and that also means there is no local water to make up the deliveries," said Mike Henry, a California Farm Bureau spokesman. "That means districts are going to be pumping it out of the ground, when they can, as we've seen for the last few years."

Ground-water supplies already have been exhausted in some places, however, particularly in the southern end of the Central Valley.

"The effects are going to vary widely from one farmer to another depending on whether they have access to ground water," said Don Upton, a spokesman for the 600,000-acre Westlands Water District in the southern San Joaquin Valley, the state's largest user of Central Valley Project water.

He said 170,000 acres of Westlands farmland - about 30 percent of the total - would have to be taken out of production, at a loss to farmers of more than $200 million.

Rainfall throughout California is far below normal as the state experiences its worst drought since the mid-1970s. Reservoir storage and ground-water levels are below 1976-77 levels in some areas, authorities said.

Local agencies throughout the state have instituted rationing and other water conservation plans.

Vote expected on school finance bill

AUSTIN (AP) - Legislative leaders say they are feeling the heat of the Texas Supreme Court's April 1 deadline to reform the school finance system.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said Thursday the Senate next week will vote on his proposal that would shift some funds from wealthy schools to poor ones.

"I think we can pass it just like it is," before the full Senate, he said.

Parker said the bill is needed to comply with the state Supreme Court order to make equitable funding available to poor school districts.

In addition to shifting some funds from wealthy to poor schools, Parker's plan would consolidate all school districts into 20 taxing regions that would collect and distribute local property taxes.

"Unquestionably we need to move as fast as possible, but we want to be very careful in what we do," said Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, presiding officer of the Senate.

"It's not moving fast enough for me," House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth said, but added, "It's moving as fast as it can."

Lewis said education funding "is the most frustrating issue that the Legislature has to confront."

Parker blasted an alternative plan filed by Rep. Libby Lineberger, D-Manchaca, that would continue to allow some school districts to raise more money than others through local property taxes.

"Until we get everybody in the same boat, we're never going to have a unified effort to move Texas up above the national average in what we do for education."

Ms. Lineberger has defended her bill, saying it would allow supplemental local funding only after all school districts had access to enough money for a quality program.

Facts about rats

Did you know that a rat can fall from heights of up to 50 feet and land on its feet without being hurt? It can also swim for days, and climb straight up the side of a building to the roof.

Rats can gnaw through wood, mortar, concrete, brick, and even metal.

Like other rodents, rats' teeth never stop growing. If the rat didn't grind them down daily, his teeth would grow back into his brain and kill him.

Rats aren't picky eaters either. They will eat any kind of food they find around.

Earnhardt, Allison 'holding nothing back' for Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Neither Dale Earnhardt nor Davey Allison believes the other will spring any surprises during their anticipated shootout Sunday in the Daytona 500. That certainly figures if both drive according to the form they showed Thursday while wiring their respective fields in qualifying races for Sunday's $2 million event.

"I don't think Davey was holding anything back, and I wasn't either," Earnhardt said after his victory in the second 125-mile qualifier. "When I saw Dale swerving in and out on the racetrack, blocking Ernie (Irvan), I figured there's nothing wrong with him."

So the hand seems to have been dealt for a battle of the two most dominant cars to wage a high-stakes battle at the Daytona International Speedway. But there may be a few jokers in the deck.

Irvan finished a strong second to Earnhardt in a battle of Chevrolet Lumina's, with Kyle Petty's Pontiac also a factor, finishing third in the first race.

And it could be a family affair, considering the presence of Kyle's father, Pontiac driver Richard, and Hut Stricklin. Stricklin ran third in the rain-delayed opener, driving a Buick owned by Allison's father, Bobby, himself a three-time winner of stock car racing's most coveted event.

That brought back memories for Davey, who in 1988 finished second to his father. Bobby Allison, seriously injured later that season and since retired, beat his son to the line in the only 1-2 father-son finish in the history of the race.

"I wouldn't mind another one of those," Davey said, "as long as the order of finish gets reversed."

Both Earnhardt and Allison say they will change engines for Sunday. "We learned some things out there today, and we're going to put them to good use," Allison said. "We've got to change our engine," Earnhardt said. "It's the same one we used all week and it's worn down."

Earnhardt used it to win the Busch Clash, a sprint race last Sunday for 1990 pole winners.

"This wasn't our Sunday engine," Allison said. "Our Sunday engine is better than this one."

Allison will sit on the pole Sunday, having qualified his Ford Thunderbird at 195.955 mph. Irvan, second fastest in qualifying, will have the outside pole.

The next 28 drivers earned their starting positions for Sunday in the qualifiers.

Earnhardt will start fourth, outside Richard Petty, who earned his spot by outmaneuvering Stricklin with one lap remaining.

"I couldn't have beat him if it wasn't for that lapped car," said Petty, a seven-time winner of the Daytona 500.

Petty went to the bottom of the track, forcing Stricklin to take the slower high line around a lapped car with one lap remaining in the opener. Petty beat Stricklin by a matter of inches.

Irvan was a factor throughout the second race, in which Earnhardt duplicated Allison's feat of dominance in the opener.

"I thought I had a good chance at getting Dale on the last lap ... but he slid the car up and blocked the line," Irvan said. "That's racing."

Earnhardt, who averaged 156.974 in beating Irvan by a car length, had no sympathy for his competitor.

"Not when he hit me in the back and almost spun me out," Earnhardt explained without noting that Irvan appeared to make contact at least twice in close drafting.

Kyle Petty also was strong throughout, although he was unable to mount a serious challenge in the final lap.

"But we learned some things and we'll be better for it," he said.

New putter helps Crenshaw

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Ben Crenshaw has a new putter in his hands and a new nemesis on his heels.

The new putter is very similar to "Li'l Ben," the club given Crenshaw by his father a quarter-century ago and the one that helped Ben gain a reputation as one of the great putters golf has seen.

He gave "Li'l Ben" - he has called it "my best friend" - some time off.

"It's tired. I've leaned on it too much," Crenshaw said Thursday after he'd used the new stick for the first time and compiled a tournament-leading 65 in the opening round of the Shearson Lehman Brothers Open.

The new nemesis is Phil Mickelson, a left-handed amateur who, at age 20, is about five years younger than Ben's best friend.

"He's a wonderful player with a very natural, flowing swing and a really beautiful sense of touch," Crenshaw said of the youngster who has taken golf by storm.

A junior at Arizona State but a native of San Diego, Mickelson won the national collegiate championship in 1989 and '90. Last year, he joined Jack Nicklaus as the only men to win the NCAA and the U.S. Amateur titles in the same year.

This year, he became only the second amateur in 37 seasons to score a victory on the PGA Tour when he captured the Tucson Open.

And now he's threatening again. A last-hole birdie in the gloom of early evening finished off a thrice-delayed round of 66 and left the lefty a single stroke back.

With his father in the crowd, his mother acting as a marshal and his girl friend serving as his caddy, Mickelson drew the largest gallery of the day at Torrey Pines, a milling mob of boyhood friends, neighbors and well-wishers.

"I was nervous, kind of shaky," Mickelson said of his third start of the season among the pros.

"I think that first delay helped me, gave me time to settle down and get over the nerves," he said of the three fog delays that totaled about one hour, 40 minutes.

Shortly after play resumed, Mickelson reeled off a string of three consecutive birdies, the first of two such bursts he produced in a round that was capped by his 8-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

Mickelson was tied for second with Andy Bean, Lon Hinkle, Hal Sutton, Mike Standly and Bart Bryant.

Drabek, a 28-year-old right-hander, became the fourth highest-paid pitcher in baseball behind Roger Clemens ($5,380,250), Dave Stewart ($3.5 million) and Bob Welch ($3.45 million). Drabek became the 38th player and first Pirate with a $3 million contract.

"We're delighted ... but we thought we clearly won," said Randy Hendricks, one of Drabek's agents.

"The Pirates were respectful and cordial in negotiations, but they came in with a low-ball figure. This represents the flow of the market."

Drabek won $1.1 million in arbitration last year, when he was 22-6 with a 2.78 ERA for the National League East champions. He was a near-unanimous choice for the Cy Young Award, receiving 23 of 24 first-place votes.

Pirates pay for success

NEW YORK (AP) - The Pittsburgh Pirates have begun to find out how much it costs to be successful.

The National League East champions received a shock Thursday when Cy Young Award winner Doug Drabek set an arbitration record with a $3.35 million award. And a decision on outfielder Bobby Bonilla's request for $3,475,000 could be decided as soon as today.

"Doug is deserving of a generous salary ... but this is another example of the unchecked escalation of salaries that's currently plaguing our industry," Pirates president Carl Barger said. "We thought we made a generous offer."

While Bonilla is attempting to top Drabek's record, the Pirates are offering him $2.4 million. Meanwhile, outfielder Barry Bonds and Pittsburgh are scheduled for a hearing today. Bonds is asking for $3.25 million while the Pirates are offering $2.3 million.

"Salaries are going up a lot, but people don't complain about movies stars making (big) money; they still go to the movies," Drabek said after

Heat set scoring mark

By The Associated Press

Now wait a second. Isn't Denver the team that's supposed to be scoring all those points?

The Nuggets, who earlier in the season made a habit of piling up points (even though they usually lost), were the victims of an offensive show Thursday night as they were routed 141-112 by Miami.

"They score a lot of points and give up a lot. We took advantage of our open opportunities," Miami coach Ron Rothstein said.

It was a franchise-record scoring binge for the Heat, who on Tuesday scored their season low in a 94-78 loss to Cleveland.

"It's always great for a young team like us to be able to blow a team out," center Rony Seikaly said. "They've been playing pretty good basketball, so it's a good indication that we may be growing up."

Miami led 65-47 at halftime as Denver shot 19-for-50 in the first half. The Heat stretched the lead to 85-59 with 5:39 left in the third quarter following Glen Rice's dunk off an alley-oop pass from Sherman Douglas.

Consecutive steals and baskets by Bimbo Coles and Kevin Edwards helped Miami to a 106-80 lead after three periods.

Orlando Woolridge, playing his second game since returning from a detached retina, scored 20 points for the Nuggets.

Douglas and Rice scored 20 points apiece for Miami. The Heat had a franchise-record 69 rebounds, including 17 by Seikaly.

Bulls 102, Knicks 92

Michael Jordan had 29 points and B.J. Armstrong scored eight of his 14 points in the fourth quarter.

Kiki Vandeweghe scored 21 points for the Knicks.

Sonics 102, Magic 90

Derrick McKey scored 21 points and Seattle held Orlando to one field goal in the first eight minutes of the final quarter.

Scott Skiles led Orlando with 17 points.

Rockets 129, Bullets 117

Otis Thorpe scored 19 of his 28 points during a fast-break first quarter as Houston took a 14-point lead.

Vernon Maxwell, with 26 points, and Kenny Smith, with 23, picked up the scoring in the second half.

Bernard King led the Bullets with 29 points.

Pistons 102, Bucks 94

Joe Dumars scored a season-high 31 points, including a key three-point play with 19 seconds left.

Ricky Pierce's three-point play with 2:29 left gave the Bucks a 92-91 lead. But the Pistons regained the lead on Mark Aguirre's basket seconds later, and Dumars' three-point play sealed the victory.

Pierce had 18 points. Aguirre had 19 for Detroit.

Suns 106, Spurs 97

Tom Chambers scored 37 points and Phoenix held San Antonio without a field goal for more than eight minutes in the fourth quarter.

Phoenix trailed 82-80 with 11:45 left, but went on a 19-5 run over the next seven minutes to take a 12-point lead with 4:42 to go.

San Antonio got a career-high 21 points from Avery Johnson.

Celtics 128, Warriors 112

Larry Bird scored 29 points and hit two 3-pointers during a decisive fourth-quarter run.

Golden State, led by Chris Mullin's 35 points, cut the lead to 97-91, but Boston went on a 14-4 run to close it out.

Kings 98, 76ers 81

Lionel Simmons had seven of a career-high 38 points in Sacramento's opening 17-point run.

The Kings hit seven of their first 10 shots while the Sixers missed their first seven.

Ron Anderson led the Sixers with 20 points.

Buckeyes having special season

By The Associated Press

In those special seasons, teams always find a way to win close games, especially on the road, and the players who aren't considered the stars have to step forward and contribute in a big way.

Consider this a special season for Ohio State.

The second-ranked Buckeyes won 73-71 at Wisconsin Thursday night after blowing a 14-point second-half lead. Oh, yeah, the winning shot with one second to play - a banker in the lane following an impressive ballhandling exhibition - was hit by point guard Mark Baker, the one Buckeye not known for his scoring.

"You have to win some games like this if you're going to be a contender in this conference," Ohio State coach Randy Ayers said after his team improved to 21-1 overall and 11-1 in the Big Ten.

The Buckeyes play host to No. 4 Indiana on Sunday and the Hoosiers are just one-half game behind in the conference and 22-2 overall.

In other games involving ranked teams Thursday night, it was: No. 1 UNLV 98, Cal Santa Barbara 71; South Alabama 92, No. 9 Southern Mississippi 85; No. 10 East Tennessee State 90, Liberty 49; No. 12 New Mexico State 80, Fullerton State 74; No. 14 Utah 77, Wyoming 74; and California 82, No. 15 UCLA 79.

Wisconsin (11-10, 5-6) wiped out the 14-point deficit with a 24-9 run that featured three 3-pointers by Tim Lokum. The Badgers got their only lead of the second half at 61-60 with 4:35 left and they were tied 71-71 with 35 seconds to play on a three-point play by reserve center Lou Ely.

Ohio State called a timeout with 11 seconds left and no one else touched the ball after that besides Baker.

"We had two plays called, one for man-to-man and one for zone. I said to myself that I didn't feel I'd had one of my best games, so if it's man-to-man, I'm going to hit the shot," said Baker, who finished with 12 points and eight assists.

Jim Jackson had 21 points for Ohio State. Locum scored 23 points for Wisconsin, 15 on 3-pointers.

No. 1 UNLV 98,

Cal Santa Barbara 71
The Runnin' Rebels won their 32nd in a row and beat the last team to beat them. Larry Johnson scored 27 points and Greg Anthony added 20 as UNLV solidified its hold on first place in the country and in the Big West conference.

South Alabama 92, No. 9 Southern Mississippi 85

Kevin McDaniels scored seven of his 19 points in the final 11 minutes as South Alabama took a 76-66 lead with 7:54 left.

No. 10 East Tennessee State 90, Liberty 49

Keith Jennings became East Tennessee State's all-time leading scorer. Jennings, a 5-foot-7 senior point guard, had 12 points against the Flames and now has 1,811 points. The Buccaneers led 39-19 at halftime as they forced 17 turnovers.

No. 12 New Mexico State 80, Fullerton State 74

Reggie Jordan scored 18 points and Randy Brown and Tracey Ware each had 16 for New Mexico State, which made four of four free throws in the final 1:37.

No. 14 Utah 77, Wyoming 72

Josh Grant scored 18 of his 24 points in the second half. Grant scored six straight points to give Utah a 70-65 lead with 1:40 to play.

California 82, No. 15 UCLA 79

Billy Dreher scored 24 points and made five of six free throws in the final minute as California had to hold off a last-minute 3-point assault by UCLA's Tracy Murray, who had 25 points.

Funny how winter causes grown men to take leave of their senses. Case in point: just because Baylor Lake near Childress has a new lake-record black bass of 13.2 pounds, anglers from across this region want to go fishing in the middle of winter. Now, winter in the Texas Panhandle is held in great respect by locals and regarded with trembling by our cousins in downstate Texas.

Winter is certainly not finished with surprises, but after talking to numerous dedicated anglers, I have agreed to be the tournament director of the $2,500 Big Bass Tournament at Lake Baylor on Saturday, Feb. 23. Only the first 100 fishermen will be allowed to enter. The entry fee will be $50 if paid by Monday, and it increases to $60 after Monday.

The winner each hour will also win $100. Big Bass tournaments are a great escape and some lucky angler will walk away with over $2,500. All paybacks are based on 100 entries. We anticipate that this tournament will be sold out, so if you want to enter, send in your entry fee to: Southwest Outdoors; 3214 Parker; Amarillo, TX 79109.

One more little detail: we will call this a "30/30" tournament. That means the weather guessers must forecast a high temperature over 30 degrees and winds under 30 miles per hour. No tournament is worth risking frostbite or injury. I will have my answering machine, at (806) 353-3654, giving the latest status of the tournament. We will fish--except in the face of a blue norther. Okay?

Winners of previous Baylor Big Bass tournaments include Randall County fishermen Tommy Pugh and Ron Griffith and Childress angler Allan McGouirk. It could be you this time.

Outdoor World '91--the largest sportsman/RV/boat show between Dallas and Denver--will be held March 1, 2 and 3 at the Tri-State Fairgrounds in Amarillo. Sponsors of this show include KVII-TV, KGNC-radio, Cellular One and Beef and More dog food. The Fishing Seminar Center is sponsored by Boots and Jeans clothing store.

I know for a fact that several tackle shops have discovered some of the newest baits that the pros are using and will have these "secret" baits available for your inspection and purchase.

Outdoor World '91 will have new bass baits, new RV's, new campers, new fishing and ski boats, new motorcycles, free fishing seminars, the secrets of trout fishing, hunting dog demonstrations and gun dealers. It will even have a "Kids' World," so it's a show for the entire family. For more details and interviews with special guests, listen to my radio show at 6 p.m. each Wednesday at 710 on the AM dial.

Fame finds inductee incognito in Alaska

SOLDOTNA, Alaska (AP) - Byron Townsend thought he had left his high school football past behind when he moved from Texas to Alaska more than two decades ago. Last week, fame caught up with the 61-year-old technician.

Townsend - born in Crane, Texas, and raised in Odessa - last week was elected to join Texas football's finest in the Texas High School Football Hall of Fame.

"It's really a great honor," said retired coach Gordon L. Wood, of Brownwood, Texas, the nation's winningest high school coach, a hall of famer himself and a member of the committee that selected Townsend.

"It's kind of embarrassing after this long," grinned Townsend, a quiet man who is a maintenance and instrument technician for Unocal. "Most of the people here don't even know I played football, which is good."

"I kind of thought I might get something like this," he added shyly. "But the more time elapsed I didn't think I would. I had a pretty fantastic high school career."

Townsend's incredible prep career in the hot bed of American football speaks for itself.

In 1947 he was named the outstanding high school football player in Texas by the Texas Sports Writers Association after a standout three-years at Odessa High School.

During his tenure with the Broncos the school lost only two games - one early in his sophomore season in 1945, the other in the state finals of his senior year. In between, Odessa won 28 straight and a state title in 1946.

As a workhorse fullback with 9.8-second speed over 100 yards ("Not so fast nowadays," Townsend admitted. "But that was pretty fast then.") and a penchant for maneuvering in the open-field, the 6-foot, 190-pound Townsend made his mark.

An all-district selection from 1945-47, Townsend was all-state in 1946 and 1947 and a prep all-American as a senior.

Not surprisingly, Townsend was a blue-chip college prospect.

"I had 57 offers, from Notre Dame all the way across," he recalled during an interview at his home in Soldotna on the Kenai Peninsula. "There was always a coach in the house."

"But I thought it'd be a sin to cross the Red River," he smiled, and so signed close to home with the University of Texas.

After 43 years to reconsider, he says, that was probably a mistake. While he went on to set the National Collegiate Athletic Association record for carries per game - 28 - during his junior season in 1950, earn Collier's All-America honors and establish six school records at Texas, his college years were filled with disappointment and he was injured much of his senior year.

A year later, he was drafted by the Los Angeles Rams and played for them in the college all-star game, an annual affair pitting the country's best collegians against the reigning National Football League champs.

At halftime, however, the Rams coach told Townsend that he'd been drafted again - this time by the military.

After a stint in the Korean War, he came home to find the pro ranks saturated with proven players, up-and-coming rookies and other veterans returning from Korea.

His dreams of playing pro football ended after a year with the Winnipeg Jets of the Canadian League. Despite leading the Jets in rushing in 1954, a reoccurring neck injury told Townsend it was time to give up the game.

"I decided it wasn't fun anymore," he said.

Townsend came to Alaska on vacation in 1968 and never left. Until Wood called him last week with news of his induction, Townsend had let the glitter of his all-star past fade.

"Looking through all the clips I was in my second childhood," he said. "Then I'd think, 'Hey, wake up, man. You're 61 years old.'"

Still, he swells with pride when he thinks of being in the same company with the likes of Earl Campbell, Bobby Layne, Doak Walker and Forrest Gregg.

"Making this is like making all-world because Texas is the nucleus of football," Townsend said still grinning that embarrassed grin. "This is probably the greatest thing that's ever happened to me."

UIL may relax 'token gift' rule

AUSTIN (AP) - University Interscholastic League rules against high school athletes accepting even token gifts would be relaxed under a recommendation forwarded to the UIL's Committee on Athletics.

The current rule, which applies to gifts from school officials or other students, prohibits even baking cookies or passing out balloons to athletes, said UIL officials, who acknowledged that it is a common practice in Texas.

The awarding of letter jackets is allowed by the UIL, the governing body of high school athletics.

One thing a special UIL committee on the amateur rule could not agree on Thursday was a definition of a "token gift."

That will be left up to the Committee on Athletics, which also was asked to determine what types of gifts might be allowed, how many would be allowed in a year, and to set a price limit on such gifts.

The special committee also proposed loosening penalties in another area.

Currently, if a high school athlete, perhaps in summer semipro baseball, plays on a team where another member is paid, the high school athlete must be ruled ineligible for UIL competition, according to UIL Director Bailey Marshall.

The committee recommendation would provide for lesser penalties, such as a reprimand, Marshall said.

The athletic committee meets June 11, with any recommendations going to the UIL Legislative Council, which holds its next meeting in October.

Tennis coach Betty Sue Hagerman of Dallas Highland Park asked the committee to consider changing awards for winning from trophies to other prizes.

Hagerman said that over time, trophies fill display cases and cannot be properly shown. More useable items such as T-shirts, key chains or pictures would be more appreciated, she said.

Her suggestion was forwarded to the UIL Policy Committee, which meets June 19.

Don Newcombe of the Brooklyn Dodgers won the first Cy Young Award in 1956 when it covered both major leagues.

Ann Landers

A.A. WEBSTER JR.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I agree with your advice to "Not Proud of Myself in Orlando." I, too, had an affair with a married man, for whom I broke up my marriage and almost lost my child. That affair lasted five years, two of which I spent in therapy and three in support groups.

I could analyze my lover and myself, but the details don't matter. The important part is that I was unhappy with myself, but I didn't know it was about me so I went looking for something or someone to hang it on. "Zack" made me feel loved, desired and special, but it was like dope. I could never get enough; it worked less and less and was costly.

I broke up with Zack last year and my therapy is really paying off. I function better at work, at home and as a friend. It's not magic. It's very difficult not to escape into that blaming pattern. My child has stopped behaving in a destructive way since I learned to be an adult and a parent.

Did it hurt to give up Zack? You bet it did, but not as much as staying in a hopeless relationship. (The old story, he couldn't leave his wife because she was ill, etc. etc.) Do I miss him? Yes, but I know I'll live through it and I'll be a better, stronger person when I heal. What hurts the most is how I deceived myself. Zack wasn't a bad man, he was just too damaged emotionally to make a real relationship work.

I began to turn the corner after I read, "Women Who Love Too Much: When You Keep Wishing and Hoping He'll Change," by Robin Norwood. The second half of the title is the real tip-off. I had to quit saying, "If only he would (fill in the blank), everything would be OK." He couldn't, and it wouldn't. The only person I can change is me.

To my child, my ex-husband, my ex-lover's wife and children, and all family members who were hurt by the breakup of my marriage, I would like to say: I'm sorry you had to pay such a heavy price for part of my growing up. I'm sorry your lives got screwed up by my emotional immaturity. Living the rest of my life intelligently is the only atonement I can make and I hope it will be enough.--Recovering in Arizona.

DEAR ARIZONA: Your letter is about twice as long as the ones I usually print, but it is well worth the space. Thank you for being so honest. I'm sure a great many women saw themselves today and learned something.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You recently mentioned the singer Jan "Pierce" in your column and misspelled his name. It is Peerce. He started in Brooklyn as a cantor (singer of liturgical music in the synagogue) and then went into opera. He persuaded his brother-in-law, Richard Tucker, who was also a cantor, to go into opera.

It is obvious, Miss Landers, that you are not of the Orthodox persuasion. Some time ago, your column stated that memorial prayers (Yizkor) are recited on the High Holidays. Yizkor is said four times a year. As a former resident of Brooklyn who now lives in Hawaii, I hope I have enlightened you.--M.A.

DEAR M.A.: You are right on all counts. I did indeed misspell Jan's name and appreciate your correction. I wonder how many copy editors around the world caught it? And no, I am not Orthodox. I was brought up in the conservative tradition and later switched to the Reformed.

Every year, foreign visitors spend about $14 billion in the U.S.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

WHEN THE ISRAELITES FIRST ASKED FOR A KING TO LEAD THEM AGAINST THEIR ENEMIES, SAMUEL, THE PROPHET, WHO WAS THE LAST OF A LONG LINE OF JUDGES, (SPIRITUAL LEADERS OF THE TRIBES) CAUTIONED THE PEOPLE (CIRCA B.C. 1000) HE EXPLAINED TO THEM ALL THE LIBERTIES, WHICH THEY ENJOYED, THAT THEY WOULD BE GIVING UP—ONCE THEY HAD A KING!
(1 SAMUEL 8: 10-19)

AND NEVER DID A PROPHET PREDICT MORE TRULY FOR IN THE FIVE HUNDRED YEARS THAT KINGS RULED OVER ISRAEL NEVER WERE THE PEOPLE FREE FROM BONDAGE EACH MAN HAD TO WORK ONE MONTH OUT OF A YEAR FOR THE KING, TEN PERCENT OF ALL HIS CROPS AND CATTLE WENT TO THE THRONE, HIS BEST LANDS INvariably WERE USED BY THE KING, HIS HEALTHIEST CHILDREN PUT TO WORK IN THE PALACES, AND EVEN WHEN HE WENT TO PRAY IN THE TEMPLE HE WAS TAXED! EVERYTHING SAMUEL HAD PREDICTED CAME TO HAPPEN!

NEXT WEEK: A PARABLE!

Help us send a little bit of Hereford to the Persian Gulf.

A special issue of the Hereford Brand on Sunday, Feb. 24, will be dedicated to local soldiers serving in the Persian Gulf and elsewhere in the Armed Forces.

The special issue will be mailed by the Brand to service personnel from Hereford and promises to be a special keepsake edition for everyone.

This special issue will also be designed so that advertisers may show their support for the service personnel stationed in the Gulf and elsewhere. A special civic rate will be offered to allow as many businesses and individual persons as possible to show their spirit.

The deadline for these special Persian Gulf messages will be Thursday, February 21 at 5 pm.
