New Concepts files suit against DSGH

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor and ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

New Concepts Health Services, a company which had contracted to perform respiratory therapy and physical therapy services at Deaf Smith General Hospital, has filed suit against the Deaf Smith County Hospital District for unspecified damages for breach of contract.

New Concepts is seeking "actual damages for the reasonable value of services," lost profits, attorney's fees, court costs, interest, and "such other and further relief as to which (New Concepts) may be justly entitled."

The suit was filed in 22nd District Court in Hereford this week. No trial date has been set for the suit.

New Concepts and DSGH officials have met several times since Oct. 20, when the DSGHD board formally decided to pursue a renegotiation of its contracts with New Concepts. The negotiation effort apparently failed.

Deaf Smith General Hospital officials and DSGHD board members declined to comment to the Brand about the suit.

However, the suit is expected to be discussed at the June board of directors meeting. That discussion, since it concerns pending litigation, will likely take place in closed, executive session.

The eight-page suit, accompanied by the service contracts, traces the history of New Concepts' dealings with the hospital.

According to the filing, New Concepts presented a proposal for respiratory therapy on Sept. 3, 1986. A contract was signed by former DSGHD Administrator Jim Bullard and a New Concepts representative on Jan. 15, 1987.

The respiratory contract called for New Concepts to exclusively "supply all necessary services for the hospital, and that the hospital would lease certain equipment and purchase supplies from New Concepts.

As compensation for services, the hospital agreed to pay fees based on actual procedures performed, but in no event less than $8,950 per month nor more than $11,500 per month."

On March 1, 1987, DSGHD and New Concepts entered a similar contract for physical therapy services, calling for a minimum of $8,000 per month to be paid to New Concepts.

Both contracts were for three-year terms.

Soon, DSGHD began incurring financial problems that forced the hospital to delay payments to several supply and service providers, including New Concepts. The company says that "beginning with invoices dated June 1, 1987, Deaf Smith (Hospital District) failed to make some payments for services rendered." New Concepts said it wrote several letters pointing out that the hospital was in default and requested payment.

"On or about August 20, 1987, the hospital controller Ms. Phyllis Morrison, sent a letter to New Concepts indicating that the hospital was experiencing an 'extremely difficult time financially' but that a payment would be made on Sept. 1, 1987.

"Although some payments were made up to Sept. 25, 1987, the outstanding balance through Nov. 1, 1987 was $163,132.41.

"On Oct. 28, 1987, New Concepts sent final demand that if all accounts due through Nov. 1, 1987 were not paid in full by Nov. 15, 1987, New Concepts would cease operations at the hospital." No payment was received, and the company stopped its services.

The suit also charges DSGHD directors with "blatantly attempting to find ways to avoid the contract."

New Concepts charges that an "informational meeting" was held for all DSGH employees on Aug. 10, 1987. New Concepts alleges that DSGHD Chairman Margie Ford "stated that the board was looking into problems with the contract services and that the contracts could be cancelled in 30 days.

"Statements were made that the contracts were not profitable and that the contractors were getting the 'good money' and none of it was going to the hospital.

"Ms. Ford allegedly stated that a partial solution to the problem would be for Deaf Smith to hire certain New Concepts personnel directly and do away with the contract services."

That step would be in direct violation of the contracts. Under both contracts, DSGHD agreed that it would not hire New Concepts personnel for a year after the contracts ended.

The suit also points out an Oct. 21, 1987 story in the Brand in which Ford "urged the board to be 'ornery' when it pursued a new contract for the therapy services as several board members claimed the final contract signed with New Concepts was not the same agreement they had seen before the contract was signed" by New Concepts and Bullard.

In fact, at an informal informational meeting held in mid-April at the hospital, a copy of two different New Concepts agreements was shown to Managing Editor John Brooks and to two other Hereford residents not connected with DSGH by longtime DSGHD board member Frank Zinser Jr.

At the April meeting, Zinser said that the proposed contracts were presented to the board at a board meeting. "We were asked to turn our copies back in," Zinser said, "so they could use them for copies.

"We were shown a contract that would call for (New Concepts) compensation to be 60 percent of the current charge system," Zinser said, "and if the payments exceeded $50,000 in a calendar year we could renegotiate. Their fees for physical therapy would be $6,000 a month if the fees (based on actual collections) were less than $6,000.

"They were to invoice the hospital monthly. There would also be a 30 percent bad debt discount," Zinser also said that the original agreement seen by the board called for termination at any time with a 30-day notice.

"What we ended up with was, say, you have $100," Zinser said in April. "The $100 would be discounted to $70 (the bad debt discount), and the $70 would be split 50/50. The final contract also called for three years with no termination and 90-day notice if you want to end the contract after three years."

County health care costs begin dropping

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

The county has seen a $178 drop in inmates' monthly health care costs since March after the county commissioners informed inmates in April that the inmates will be responsible for their health bills.

That, added to the fact that Dr. Bill Benjamin from South Plains Health Providers Organization visits the county jail twice a week, has curbed the number of jail illnesses.

"I've had people who get drunk, get thrown in jail for little while, and have their health problems taken care of for free," said Sheriff Joe Brown.

According to the county treasurer's office, inmates' health bills for March were $998. For May, they dropped to $821.54.

"The amount of patients we have wanting to see the doctor is not anything like it used to be," said David Castillo, county jail administrator. "The visits to the dentist have dropped, too, after the county made the inmates aware that they (inmates) were responsible for their own bill. It's also helped that Dr. Benjamin is coming because the inmates realize they don't get that opportunity to get out of jail for a few hours."

Before the county began paying Dr. Benjamin $20 per patient per visit, the county was transporting all prisoners to county health officer, Dr. Tim Bevell at $18 per patient.

During March while the county was using Dr. Bevell, there were 11 inmates reporting illnesses. Since Dr. Benjamin arrived on the scene June 2, the number is holding at five.

Mosquito spray set for Sunday

The City of Hereford and Deaf Smith County will perform the first of three mosquito sprays Sunday if weather permits, according to City Manager Darwin McGill.

The joint venture, costing the city $2,500 and the county $1,421, is contracted through Southwest Aerial Services Inc. in Plainview. "Usually after one aerial spray, we'll go through the city streets and kill the mosquitoes with the fogger," stated McGill, who added that the city is already running the fogger through the city streets. If it is raining or windy, the spraying will be delayed.

Cox pleads guilty to fraud

DALLAS (AP) — Former bank director Edwin L. Cox Jr.'s agreement to plead guilty to a federal bank fraud charge should be a warning that returning funds won't ward off prosecution, a U.S. attorney says.

Thursday, Cox said he was resigning as chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission. He said he had agreed to plead guilty to one count of bank fraud stemming from $80 million in loans he had received from his bank several years ago.

"Those who have access to large sums of borrowed money are going to have to understand that they must obey the same rules and laws as the rest of us. No one is above the law," U.S. Attorney Marvin Collins said.

Cox had repaid $80 million in loans he received while a director of InterFirst Bank Dallas from 1984 to 1986.

Cited in the charge was the loans, plus interest, that Cox repaid to InterFirst in October 1987. Cox "submitted false personal financial information and false information regarding loan collateral," Collins charged in the filing in federal court.

"It is my hope that this case sends a strong message to those who think nothing will happen if they pay the money back," Collins said.

Cox, 41, of Athens, once ran one of the largest cattle-feeding and processing operations in the nation.

"In breaking the law, I have made a serious mistake," Cox said in a prepared statement. "I have hurt my wife and children, our many loyal friends, and employees. I have disappointed those who had the greatest confidence in me. For this, I have no one to blame but myself. I am truly sorry that I have let all these people down."

His attorney, Bruce Genderson, said Cox would enter the plea June 28. A sentencing date will be set then. Maximum punishment upon conviction is five years in prison and $250,000 in fines, Collins said.

Cox said the bank fraud charge stemmed from his position as a borrower and a former director of InterFirst Bank Dallas.

Cox's financial problems became public in July 1986. InterFirst Corp., the parent of InterFirst Bank Dallas, which subsequently merged with Republic Bank to become First Republic Bank, announced that loans made by the bank to Cox were in default.

Cox had resigned as a director of the bank in June 1986. His father, a founding director of InterFirst and for whom the Edwin L. Cox School of Business at Southern Methodist University is named, resigned from the bank holding company's board in August 1986.

InterFirst at the same time announced a $281 million loss for the quarter and said it was preparing to make a provision for loan losses for that quarter of as much as $365 million.

A Wall Street Journal article at that time quoted bank officials as saying a big part of the expected charge was from $80 million in loans, letters of credit and other lines InterFirst's flagship, the Dallas bank, extended to Cox.

Cox subsequently paid $86 million in principal, interest and fees, representing the full amount owed. In September 1986, Cox sold his interest in Swift Independent Holding Corp., the nation's second-largest meat packer, bank officials said.

Cox had led a group of investors in a leveraged buyout of the company 20 months before the sale. At that time, it was the largest privately owned company in the state with 1986 revenues of $1.7 billion.

When Cox made the final payment in October 1987, he said of the loans, "It was unfortunate that my liquidity

Holder will take over troubled Anthony schools

Harrell Holder, former superintendent of Hereford Independent School District, has been named to head the Anthony Independent School District near El Paso.

The Anthony school system was recently placed under direct control of the Texas Education Agency. Elmer Grounds, retired superintendent of Fobens, was named as TEA monitor in February after a state inspection disclosed "discrepancies" at the school.

When the situation did not improve, Grounds was named as state "master" of Anthony schools in April. Grounds said he expects the situation to return to normal "with Dr. Holder's experience and knowledge that he brings to the job." Holder was named superintendent Wednesday from a field of 48 applicants. For the last school year, Holder served as principal of Gainesville State School, an institution for the mentally retarded.

Holder was superintendent at Hereford for about 12 years before the board fired him by a 5-1 vote in April, 1987, and bought out the remainder of his contract for $50,000.

Baptists prepare to battle 'evils' of today's society

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Eyeing the modern landscape, Southern Baptists see a host of evils: abortion, drug abuse, homosexuality, materialism, secular humanism, sexual promiscuity, rebellion against authority and the "New Age" movement.

These and other present-day manifestations were declared blights on human life as 32,727 "messengers" from the nation's largest Protestant denomination concluded their annual convention Thursday.

The New Age movement, a relatively recent arrival among the church's list of repudiated trends, was likened to an underlying disorder behind them all.

"The philosophy ... is as old as the Garden of Eden, where Satan perpetrated three of the false beliefs of the New Age movement, promising you will be wise, you will be as gods and you will not die," a convention resolution said.

It said the movement "has become a powerful political, philosophical and economic force in our contemporary culture and is exerting its influence into every facet of American life."

While its aim is to "become a one-world religion," it is "diametrically contrary to both New Testament Christianity and our American heritage," the resolution said.

It said the movement "gives people false hope by its beliefs in reincarnation, (and) in endeavoring to reveal a person's future through astrology, fortune telling and palm reading."

Other purported beliefs of the New Age movement listed by the resolution are that there are "many ways to eternal life, and that all will be saved by secular humanism, which testifies by its own manifesto (that) no deity will save us, we must save ourselves."

The media and entertainment industry "gives the New Age movement widespread acceptance and credibility, helping it find its way into every facet of American life," the resolution said.

It was among a score of resolutions deploring an "erosion of moral sanity" adopted by the annual convention of the 14.7-million-member denomination.

The five-day meeting, including two preliminary days of virtually non-stop preaching and auxiliary conferences, featured a running conflict between fundamentalist and moderate factions of the divided denomination.

It was the 10th year in which fundamentalists predominated in the convention's presidential election, which was won by the Rev. Jerry Vines of Jacksonville, Fla., and in approving measures pushed by their camp.

A resolution that was exceptionally disturbing to moderates puts limitations on a classic Protestant concept, the "priesthood of the believer," which asserts equal rights and authority of laity and clergy.

The convention declared that "misunderstanding and abuse" of the doctrine had undermined the authority of pastors over their congregations.

This prompted sharp protests from moderates, who charged it betrayed a principle of the 16th century Protestant reformation. About 200 dissenters marched to the Alamo, where they tore up copies of the resolution.

The convention approved a 1988-89 national budget of $145.6 million, up $5.6 million from this year's, which includes increases for all church agencies except the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs.

That agency, representing eight Baptist bodies on church-state and religious liberty issues, has been under fire by fundamentalists, and allocations to it were cut by $48,400.

Its executive director, the Rev. James Dunn of Washington, received enthusiastic applause Thursday when he gave the agency's report, particularly when he praised the "priesthood of the believer" concept as enshrining members' liberty against clerical encroachment.

Trustees of the denomination's social-ethics agency, the Christian Life Commission, said a search was on for a "doctrinally sound" director who favors the death penalty and opposes abortion. The agency's previous director, the Rev. Larry Baker, quit under fundamentalist pressure over his positions on those issues.

Report: Nazis hired after WWII to monitor Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army hired high-ranking Nazi secret police officers, stormtroopers, propagandists and collaborators after World War II and protected them behind an official cloak of secrecy, according to a harshly critical Justice Department report.

The report says U.S. military intelligence employed the Nazis to provide information and monitor Soviet activity in occupied nations after the war, protecting them from prosecution for war crimes including torturing and murdering civilians.

The report focuses at length on the U.S. Army's Counter-Intelligence Corps' hiring of convicted Nazi war criminal Robert Jan Verbelen, and its continued employment of him even after he admitted having been a member of a Nazi security unit that was declared a criminal organiza-

The Justice Department listed 13 individuals, in addition to Verbelen, but did not identify any of the others by name. The information was based on official documents and interviews with former CIC agents, but the department said the information remains classified under U.S. policies to protect the identity of intelligence operatives.

Prepared by the Criminal Division's Office of Special Investigations, the 92-page report said Verbelen was paid by CIC for 10 years, from 1946 to 1957, for intelligence work in Austria even though he was convicted in absentia and sentenced to death for the murders of 101 people in his native Belgium.

The report said Verbelen, now 77 and living in Austria, "manipulated the CIC into protecting him from being brought to justice for his crimes."

"He was able to accomplish this ... as a direct result of the CIC's reliance upon former Nazi and Nazi collaborators in its immediate postwar European operations," the report said.

It said the CIC initially relied on the information Verbelen gave about himself, including the name he gave, Peter Mayer. But in 1950, he informed the agency his name was really Herbert Schwab, describing himself as a devoted Nazi Party member since the mid-1930s and a member of a Nazi security unit that had been declared a criminal organization, the report said.

"Despite this change in identity and life history, the (CIC) made no attempt to verify the information Verbelen supplied about himself, and it continued to employ him," the report said.

Land set aside for haying to relieve drought areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has opened up land set aside under a massive federal conservation program so that farmers may harvest hay in areas where livestock feed has been shriveled by drought and hot weather.

Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng said Thursday that all of North Dakota and parts of a dozen other drought-stricken states are eligible for haying on land held by farmers in the Conservation Reserve Program, or CRP.

"Haying will be allowed for a 30-day period in counties found to be suffering from a severe drought that has adversely affected forage crops," Lyng said. "Livestock grazing of this acreage is not authorized."

In addition to the counties approved for haying, Lyng said that additional designations will be made county-by-county by the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Once counties are approved, interested producers who are enrolled in CRP will be notified and may apply at county offices within 10 days for permission to cut hay from their land, he said.

Jerry Newcomb, head of the agency's emergency operations and livestock programs, said farmers in the counties announced on Thursday can begin applying for the haying program as soon as county offices receive operating procedures in the next day or so.

Newcomb said he had no estimates of how many acres are eligible for haying in the designated counties.

The CRP, was authorized in the 1985 farm law to take up to 45 million acres of highly erodible land from crop production for 10 years. The land must be planted to protective grass or trees. In return, farmers get annual rental payments from the government, currently averaging $45 to $50 per acre a year.

Farmers in feed-short drought areas have been seeking permission to harvest hay from the CRP land and also to graze livestock on it. Lyng, however, said grazing was not approved.

Participants in the program who opt to cut hay from CRP land will have their next annual payments reduced 25 percent on the acreage harvested.

Emergency haying and grazing had already been approved in more than 1,000 counties in 20 states for land taken from crop production under annual commodity programs. That land involves so-called "acreage conservation reserve" and "conservation use" land and is not included in the long-term CRP operation.

According to USDA's announcement, further county eligibility for haying privileges on CRP land "will be made based on the fact that the country has been approved for the emergency haying and grazing" of land in the acreage conservation reserve and the conservation use categories.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I'm writing this letter in hopes that it will reach who it concerns.

This past weekend, some members of my family had a garage sale to rid of our good junk. An elderly lady arrived and as she browsed, she just talked and talked, and talked some more, like she had known us for years. She was so sweet and friendly, automatically becoming a winner in my heart. She purchased a great deal, but was short a quarter, which was in no way a big deal. Her warm hospitality made up for all the money in the world. She felt terrible for having to leave without that quarter.

Love always,
Karen Ward

The next day I came home to find that she had made a special trip just to leave the quarter, which was so important to her, pinned to our mailbox. I just couldn't get over how sweet and trustworthy she was. I only wish I had your name, ma'am, so I could express my feelings personally, but I've never met a more remarkable woman. I'll always wonder how you're doing and know how lucky others are that know you personally. You've really set an example for me. God bless you, and take care of yourself!

problems occurred at a time when InterFirst was having problems of its own. What really bothered me was that they might be afraid I would take the easy way out and walk away from my obligations as so many in Texas had. I refused to do that and the bank worked with me in the implementation of the repayment plan."

Cox also is a cattle feeder in the Texas Panhandle and a rancher in Henderson County.

Collins said collateral reports filed for continuation of the loans indicated more than 20,000 head of cattle as collateral when there were fewer than 5,000, worth a fraction of the value.

Amarillo National Bank executive vice president Bill Ware told the Athens Daily Review on Thursday that Cox had been a customer of the bank since 1973 and will continue to be one.

Gov. Bill Clements issued a statement saying he had accepted Cox's resignation with regret.

Hints from Heloise

MICROWAVED FOOD

Dear Heloise: I have found this hint helpful when I am unsure as to whether or not something is done in the microwave.

Simply take the dish out and let it sit for a minute or two and then test it for doneness.

Microwaved food continues to cook even after it is taken out of the oven. — A Faithful Reader, Atwood, Colo.

TOMATO CASE

Dear Heloise: I have found a great use for those long plastic tubes that some tomatoes come in. They make great holders for cookies made from scratch.

I put a piece of plastic wrap in the tube and place the cookies in it. The wrap can then be folded up over the cookies. When I do this for a gift, I tie a pretty ribbon on the tube — makes it pretty. — Viola Johannston, Alamogordo, N.M.

It would also be a good way take cookies to a camp-out picnic or potluck dinner. — Heloise

GLASS OVENWARE

Dear Heloise: I have a glass ovenware dish that has cooked-on food on it. I would like to know how I can remove it. Any suggestions? — Cindy Smoole, Washington, D.C.

Put the baking dish on some newspaper and spray it with oven cleaner. Allow the ovenware to sit for about 30 minutes or so.

When working with this dish, be sure to protect your hands by wearing rubber gloves. Wipe off the goo with paper towels. If the stains are stubborn, you may need another application.

When finished applying the oven cleaner, wash the dish thoroughly in hot, soapy water.

Trail Pistons 3-2 in NBA championship

No guarantees exist for Lakers

By HOWARD ULMAN
AP Sports Writer

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers know that in the fight for the NBA championship there are no guarantees, even if their coach says there are.

"I'm going to guarantee everyone we're going to repeat," Coach Pat Riley had said a year ago, soon after his Lakers had beaten Boston for the title.

The Detroit Pistons delivered their own sobering message to the Lakers Thursday night: win two straight

Girls' softball tournament set this weekend

A girls' softball tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday in Hereford, with teams from Hereford, Amarillo, Lubbock and Clovis participating.

The Deaf Smith County Kids Inc. organization has scheduled the tournament. Fifteen teams will play in the 15-and-under division, and eight teams will play in the 12-and-under division.

Tournament games will be played at the Kids, Inc. Complex in east Hereford, off Fifteenth Street. Admission will be $0.50 for children and $0.75 for adults.

The tournament will start at 9 a.m. Saturday. Games on Saturday will be played until about 9 p.m. On Sunday, beginning at 1 p.m., championship games and other games to decide trophy winners will be played.

games or you won't win two straight championships.

The Pistons overcame a 12-0 deficit, got 25 points from Adrian Dantley and key contributions from their bench, capitalized on Laker foul trouble and enjoyed a huge rebounding advantage.

The result was a 104-94 victory that gave them a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series, their first final since they moved from Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1957.

The Lakers, in their sixth final in seven years, are going back home. But if they lose either Sunday's sixth game or a possible seventh game Tuesday night at the Forum, they won't fulfill Riley's guarantee or become the first team to win consecutive championships since the 1969 Celtics.

"We're glad to be going home," Los Angeles forward James Worthy said, "but that doesn't guarantee anything."

The Pistons gave their last Silverdome crowd — the biggest ever to see an NBA playoff game — plenty to cheer. The 41,732 fans exceeded the previous record of 40,172 at the Seattle Kingdome on April 15, 1980 for the fifth game of the Western Conference finals between Milwaukee and Seattle. Detroit will move next season to a new arena in nearby Auburn Hills.

"I'm beyond disappointed. I'm beyond irritated. I'm beyond disgusted," Riley said after watching his team blow a 2-1 series lead by losing Game 4 111-96 and Game 5 by 10 points.

But his optimism, first expressed a year ago, remains.

"I like our chances," he said. "I still believe that this team is going to win the championship this year."

They started out like a championship team Thursday night, hitting their first five shots and bolting to leads of 12-0 and 15-2. On the Pistons' nine possessions in that stretch, they committed six turnovers and made one of four shots.

Meanwhile, the Lakers were getting into foul trouble, even though the game wasn't as rough as they had expected. Worthy picked up his third foul with 7:09 left in the first quarter, went to the bench and didn't get back into the game until 4:53 remained in the second.

Michael Cooper sat out the final 10:54 of the second quarter and teammate A.C. Green missed the last 7:18 of the period, both with three fouls.

When Worthy left, Los Angeles led 15-4. When he came back, Detroit was on top 48-39 and never trailed again. The Pistons rallied from the 15-2 start to outscore Los Angeles 52-26 and take a 54-41 lead 3:03 before intermission. Behind Dantley's 19 points, Detroit led 59-50 at halftime.

While Los Angeles backup center Mychal Thompson had his first good game of the series with 14 points, the Pistons' substitutes outscored the Lakers' 37-19. The Pistons' bench was led by Vinnie Johnson with 16 points, James Edwards with 10 points and John Salley with 10 rebounds.

Joe Dumars had 19 points and Isaiah Thomas 15 for Detroit. The Lakers were led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, with a playoff high of 26

McCaskill pitches 3-hit shutout

Angels beat Rangers, 3-0

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Entering the 1988 season, the California Angels expected to have a solid lineup and questionable starting pitching.

Now, the only question is, where would the Angels be if it weren't for those starters?

The Angels have been in last place in the American League West for 41 consecutive days, but without the surprising work of their rotation they could be rivaling Baltimore for the worst record in the major leagues.

Kirk McCaskill got into the act Thursday with a three-hitter over the Texas Rangers for a 3-0 victory. It was California's fifth shutout since May 28, a stretch during which the Angels have only two other victories.

"All we have to do now is shut out the opposition from now on and the second half will be easy," California manager Cookie Rojas said.

The Angels are 25-40. Six of their victories were by shutout, compared to seven last season. The Rangers were blanked twice in the three-game series, losing 3-0 on Tuesday to Mike Witt's four-hitter.

"I don't think their pitchers had good enough stuff to shut us out, but they did it," said Texas' Steve Buechele.

"(I) guess McCaskill did a pretty good job," Rangers manager Bobby Valentine said grudgingly. "We didn't play our best ball today."

McCaskill, 3-5, hadn't done a better job since undergoing elbow surgery for the removal of bone chips April 27, 1987. His last shutout had come 12 days earlier, in Seattle.

"This was the best curve ball I've had since the surgery," McCaskill said. "I pretty much have to be able to throw that pitch for strikes if I am to win."

"I don't think I've really thrown all that great this season. But, every time out, I've felt myself getting better."

He struck out a season-high 10 Thursday. In his last three starts, covering 19 1-3 innings, McCaskill has struck out 25.

"That was the strongest I've ever seen him in the eighth and ninth innings," Rojas said. "Anytime you get ahead of the hitters, you'll be in good shape. He was doing that."

The Angels could've made McCaskill's job easier but a lineup that has produced only 58 runs in its last 21 games failed to break the game open. The Angels left the bases loaded four times. Wally Joyner singled to drive in a first-inning run off Paul Kilgus, 6-5, and Bob Boone's single in the fourth made it 2-0.

The Texas bullpen held California to a run in the eighth. Jose Cecena walked the bases full, then Dale Mohorcic hit Dick Schofield with a pitch to force Devon White home.

Following the game, the Rangers optioned slumping outfielder Oddibe McDowell to their Triple-A affiliate Oklahoma City and purchased Barbaro Garbey's contract from the American Association club.

McDowell sat out Thursday's game and was hitting .205 in 52 games. Garbey, who appeared with the Detroit Tigers in 1984-85, was hitting .308 with 41 RBIs in 67 games at Oklahoma City.

Houston's Glenn, Reds' Eric each homer twice

Astros win battle of the Davises

By JOE KAY
AP Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Timing rather than muscle decided a home run battle of the Davises.

Cincinnati's Eric Davis got the better distance with his two homers, but Houston's Glenn Davis came out ahead because of the timing of his homers Thursday night as he led the Astros to a 7-4 victory over the Reds. Glenn Davis struck first, snapping an 0-for-7 slump with a pair of two-run homers in his first two at-bats to give Mike Scott a lead that let him pitch relaxed. The hole was too deep for the Reds to climb out.

Eric Davis hit a two-run homer for the only runs off Scott, 8-2, then added an impressive solo homer to center field to open the ninth off Juan Agosto after Scott left the game with a pulled hamstring.

It wasn't enough. Dave Smith gave up a two-out single to Jeff Treadway and a walk to Terry McGriff to load the bases with two out, but got Barry Larkin to hit into a force out to get his 12th save.

"When you get ahead like that, you can pretty much challenge guys and a home run won't hurt you," said Scott, who allowed five hits before pulling a hamstring while throwing a pitch in the eighth.

The early homers continued an unusual streak for Glenn Davis, who has just four hits in his last 34 at-bats — all homers.

He now has 52 RBI, matching Pittsburgh's Bobby Bonilla for the league lead. His 15 homers leave him one shy of league-leaders Jack Clark of San Francisco and Andres Galarraga of Montreal.

Although Glenn Davis' homers set the tone early, Eric Davis' homers were more amazing.

His two-run homer in the sixth was a high, arching drive to left field. His solo homer leading off the ninth, his 11th of the season and his third in two games, easily cleared the wall in center.

Eric Davis, who declined comment after the game, is hitting .356 in his last 11 games with five homers and 11 RBI.

Scott wasn't sure what happened when he pulled the hamstring. He said he felt the muscle stretch while he delivered a pitch.

He was scheduled for a medical examination today to determine the extent of the injury.

"I don't know what happened. It just gave," he said.

Both of the homers by Glenn Davis were off right-hander Mario Soto, 3-7, who has lost his last five starts. He said Davis hit a poor fastball and a hanging slider for the homers.

The Reds have scored just one run or been shut out in four of Soto's seven losses, leaving him little margin for error.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago I married a man I really loved. We went together for four years and had great fun. His parents adored me. My parents tolerated him. Mom and Dad both told me that they doubted his ability to sustain a loving relationship.

I should have listened. What was once a warm and intimate love affair has become a cold war. There is no longer an hugging, cuddling or kissing.

We never talk about the interesting things that happen during the day. We don't argue, playfully, about politics anymore. He never calls me at work to say, "Hi. I'm thinking about you."

I still try to do these things, but he has started to ignore me. Ann, it breaks my heart to admit this, but he turns his back when I'm talking to him.

Two days ago, I wrote him a 10-page letter about my feelings of frustration. I begged him to consider marriage counseling. In the last paragraph, I said, "My heart is so heavy with sadness at what we have become. Don't you miss the love we shared when we first married? The closeness we felt when we dated?"

Let's go to see a priest together, or perhaps a marriage counselor. We must turn this around before it's too late." He did not respond.

Ann, I love this man and want desperately to have his children. I don't want our marriage to end, but I just can't stand his coldness. He seems to enjoy me when we are with friends and family, but he rebuffs me when we are alone. Have you ever heard of anything like this? What should I do?—Teardrops in Shreveport

DEAR SHREVEPORT: Obviously something has gone haywire and you need to understand why. Some possibilities worth exploring: (1) He is afraid of intimacy and is trying to distance himself or (2) there is another woman.

Joint counseling would be ideal. If he refuses, go alone. You are sure to gain some insight. Ultimately you may have to ask yourself that well-known Ann Landers question, "Are you better off with him or without him?"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last night, I was invited by friends to a Chinese restaurant. The meal was excellent, but there was barely enough food for the four of us.

When it was time to leave, my hostess handed her son $50 and sent him to pay the bill. When the boy returned with only $1 she assumed that the tip had been deducted from the $50 and we left.

Just as we were getting into the car, our waiter came out and asked if something was wrong with the service. My hostess replied, "No it was fine."

He then said, "I didn't find anything left for me on the table." My hostess was embarrassed and reached into her purse and gave him a $5 bill, which I noticed was all she had.

Instead of saying, "Thank you," the waiter said, "The bill was $49!"

I always thought a tip was given at the discretion of the customer. Please comment.—Nonplussed in Calif.

DEAR N.P.: Today a tip of 15 or 20 percent is considered appropriate, but no patron is obligated to tip if he doesn't feel like it.

In his case, there was clearly a misunderstanding, but under no circumstances is it acceptable for a waiter to follow a customer outside and ask for a tip. That move was definitely "boo-hoo." (Ask for a Chinese person for translation.)

How much do you know about pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, crack, speed and downers? Think you can handle them? For up-to-the minute information on drugs, write for Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped No. 10 envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Dairy products do meet different dietary needs

No matter what kind of diet you're on, there is no need to deny yourself the taste of dairy foods or the calcium and vitamins they contain.

"With the variety of dairy products now on the market, practically every special dietary need can be met," said Dr. Mary Kinney Sweeten, a nutrition specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

For people counting calories or trying to reduce their fat intake, she said low-fat or non-fat dairy products are the obvious answer.

"Some people don't like non-fat milk, but there are plenty of other low-fat choices ranging from 1/2% to 2% milkfat that may be more acceptable in taste and yet still cut calories," she said.

"Low-fat yogurts, cheeses and ice milk will also significantly cut fat intake if eaten in place of whole milk products," she said.

Until recently, people on low-sodium diets had to avoid cheeses due to their salt content.

"However, a whole array of low-fat processed cheeses from Swiss to Monterey Jack, are now on supermarket shelves. They're also lower in fat and have about half the calories of regular cheeses," she said.

For individuals who have trouble drinking milk because they can't digest lactose, Sweeten said there are several alternatives. Drinking a small amount at one time may help the problem in some cases. Most lactose intolerant people can also eat cheeses or yogurt since they contain little or no lactose.

"Fortunately, low-lactose commercial milk products are also available in most supermarkets. Some are low-fat as well as low in lactose content," she said.

"People on low-cholesterol diets will, of course, need to follow their physician's instructions," said Sweeten.

The first issue of the Illustrated London News appeared in 1842.

Names in the News

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Actor Robert De Niro is preparing for his role as an illiterate mill worker by having a researcher interview men who can't read or write.

Cynthia Ryan was here last week videotaping current and former illiterate adult men from western Massachusetts, where part of the film tentatively named "Union Street" will be shot.

Ryan said some of the men she is videotaping agreed to the interviews only after she promised to conceal their identities.

The researcher is making 10 hours of videotapes for De Niro to study for his role as a man who is taught how to read. He is now on a movie set in California making a film about a Vietnam veteran.

De Niro's co-star in "Union Street," Jane Fonda, has raised the ire of some veterans in a few New England towns for her anti-war work during the Vietnam War.

Holyoke aldermen voted in January to approve a symbolic resolution protesting Fonda's plans to film in the city because of her visit to Hanoi during the war. Beverly aldermen narrowly defeated a similar resolution.

NEW YORK (AP) — Entertainer Marie Osmond says she admires her mother, Olive, and still finds it hard to believe that her mom raised nine children.

"I have to applaud people like my mother," Osmond, 28, said in an interview in July's McCall's magazine.

"I don't know how she raised nine children. And she's a brilliant woman. People send her computer problems to find bugs. ... She is the most incredible human being."

"Contrary to what you may have read — how my brothers led me with an iron fist and how my mother was domineering — that's really not true. Even as a teenager, I was very much in control of the things I was doing."

Benjamin Franklin was one of the first people to manufacture playing cards in America.

What Does a typical Brand Reader Look Like?

The Hereford Brand
"We Reach Thousands Every Day!"

That's difficult to say because you are as different as your substantial number would imply! You are one of the 4,100 households we're invited to every evening. That's quite a few. According to the most recent census, our township has slightly less than 5000 households.

Your vocation is part of a broad spectrum as well — white collar, blue collar, owners, managers, cowboys, teachers, housewives, students and professional.

Yet, with all your individual complexities, your interest in local issues and news gives you and other readers a common bond which is separated only by your level of curiosity.

You are an informed, intelligent and often vocal audience, and we're happy to be a part of your household every evening!

Woman's Health

By ROBERT C. PARK, M.D.
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

In 1988, American women will be given a greater choice in the types of contraceptives they can use. A new intrauterine device (IUD) will be put on the market. IUDs as a form of birth control have been around for thousands of years, but because of recent lawsuits, they have not been readily available in the United States.

If you are wondering if the IUD is something you should consider, you need to know what the risks and benefits are for you. In general, it is almost as effective as the birth control pill in preventing pregnancy, with only four pregnancies in every 100 women who use it for one year.

The IUD is inserted by a doctor and left in place for one to four years, depending on the type of IUD. Attached to the IUD is a string that extends down into the vagina. By checking for the string about once a month, you can be sure that the IUD is in place.

Generally, most doctors recommend the IUD as an option for women who have had their children and women who are in a stable relationship with one partner. The IUD is excellent for older women who have completed their families but do not want to be sterilized.

On the reverse side, this contraceptive is not suggested for younger women who have not had children, or who have multiple sex partners. IUDs make women more susceptible to pelvic inflammatory disease—infections of the pelvic area. These can be caused by sexually transmitted diseases, something more likely with several partners.

Other side effects include a risk of the IUD coming out, and having the wall of the uterus punctured. IUDs can cause increased menstrual flow and cramping, so they may not be a good choice for those women with heavy or painful periods.

If you have finished your family and have only one sexual partner and are looking for a effective but reversible form of birth control, you may want to consider the IUD.

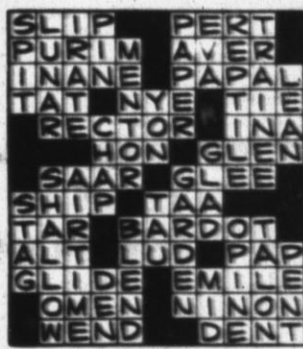

"The difference between politics and statesmanship is philosophy," according to historians Will and Ariel Drrant.
