Herbertson quits; moving in August

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Dr. F. James Herbertson has resigned from the board of directors of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District effective July 1 and plans to move from Hereford later this summer to establish a new practice in Stephenville.

Herbertson's move came as a surprise to most of the other directors when board president Ralph Detten read Herbertson's resignation at Tuesday's director's meeting.

HERBERTSON

Resigned from DSGH board, to move practice to Stephenville in August

Herbertson's letter was short, and the orthopedic surgeon did not elaborate. He told the board, in the letter, he was being offered "an outstanding opportunity that I cannot pass up that will benefit me and my family."

"We are sorry to be losing you," said Detten, "but if that is your wish, we'll abide by that." Detten, who was handed the letter shortly before the meeting began at 7:30 p.m., said he "had absolutely no idea this was coming."

Herbertson's resignation and the pending retirement of Dr. A.T. Mims, who long ago announced his intention to retire in September, leaves a two-surgeon hole in Deaf Smith General Hospital. The board took action Tuesday to enlist a recruiting firm to find surgeons as soon as possible — but the per-surgeon price could be as high as $30,000.

"We have had three or four surgeons visit Hereford since February or March, but some didn't want to move to Hereford, and one didn't do all of the surgeries we need," said Administrator Gary Moore. "The cost of a recruitment company would be from $16,000 to $18,000 to $20,000, but the cost of not having surgeons is considerably higher."

Drs. Herbertson and Mims accounted for well over $2 million of the hospital's almost $7 million in revenue last year, including surgeries, laboratory work, X-rays, and other services.

"There are some economies in doing a multiple search," Moore explained. "They will be able to find someone faster." The board designated a few changes they would like to see in a recruitment contract that would prevent a recruiter from charging many fees for an extended, fruitless search.

The board approved, 5-1 with Herbertson vigorously voting against, a 2½ year contract with Moore.

Moore was hired in December and agreed to basically work without a contract for six months, because the board was unsure at that time whether it wanted to use a solo administrator or work with a hospital management company.

Moore's contract calls for an annual salary of $50,000, and a $400 per month car allowance, making his monthly gross pay about $4,566. Moore will also get three weeks of vacation a year, and DSGH will pay the premium on a $20,000 life insurance policy.

The contract allows Moore to give 60 days notice if he decides to leave DSGH, but DSGH must give 180 days notice if it intends non-renewal of the contract.

The pact also calls for an evaluation once every six months of Moore's performance. The evaluation will be based on the hospital's performance and on the attainment of goals that will be established by the board and Moore.

The DSGH operating report shows the hospital, for May, made $55,000 when comparing the month's revenues against the month's expenses. The hospital's cash flow statement, though, shows the hospital was $86,574 in the red. The total cash deposits were $400,070, while the total cash requirement was $486,644.

Moore said DSGH has already paid for some large items and has made one lump-sum annual payment instead of making monthly payments. "That saved us a little money, and we were able to pay for some things for the whole year because we had the money available," Moore said. "I feel fairly comfortable with the $55,000 net income for the month."

The board also:

- Accepted bids on two vehicles, and agreed to advertise for bids for a new ambulance;
- Approved privileges for Bill Hunter, CRNA, and named Kaye Hansard, RN, as home health care director.

Board sees achievement test scores

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

The California Achievement Test shows that Hereford students again have fallen below national average in reading, but the students have compensated by scoring higher in math. Assistant Superintendent Marc Williamson told the Hereford school board on Tuesday.

"This (reading) has continued to be our lowest area," said Williamson, "and we hope using additional reading time in the classroom will help this."

With 50 percent representing the national average, Hereford's students ranked in the upper 30 percentile to the upper 40 percentile with last year's second and eighth graders ranking lowest at 39 percent and the first graders topping the list at 49 percent.

For math, it was a different story. "This is our real strength area, probably because those who can't read all that well do well in math as a matter of transfer. It's not that these kids aren't intelligent, they just can't read as well and so they improve in math," Williamson said.

All scores for the district were above the 50 percent mark with last year's eighth graders ranking in the 50 percentile and first graders listed in the 73 percentile.

The students' language skills and total battery tested about average.

"I like the CAT because it has a top on it and for individual parents, they can see the strengths and weaknesses of their child," said Williamson. "It's important for them to realize, though, that they should look at all the years and not just this year's test scores to really see how their child is doing."

The upcoming second graders also scored well on their individual Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) ranking in the 84 percentile for math, the 71 percentile for reading and the 74 percentile for writing.

(insert)
Williamson added that 29 of the 346 who were tested for the TEAMS took the test in Spanish.

Robert and Lucy Chavez requested a closed session concerning past disciplinary action on their child at Aikman Elementary School.

"The child was given some swats at the school, but I've already looked into it and it's been resolved," said Superintendent Charles Greenawald. "Robert just had a difference in opinion and everything was handled accordingly."

Chavez refused to comment.
In another closed session, the board voted to appoint Sylvia Flores to the District II slot vacated by Jo Garcia in March. Flores will fill the position until the regular election next May.

The school board also voted to accept Associated Services of Asbestos Inc.'s low bid of $18,000 to conduct the required asbestos inspection and set up a management plan for the school.

Inspections by an outside party are mandated every three years with the school required to inspect its own facilities every six months.

Because of tight classroom space and the limit of 22 students per teacher, the board elected to limit the acceptance of transfer students to only students from the Walcott School District, transfers already attending HISD, and those whose siblings are attending the school.

The board named board members Raymond Schiabs and Steve Conway to the newly formed Tax Abatement Board and board president, John Fuston, was voted to represent the school on the Economic Development Council—an offspring of the Economic Development Strategy Council.

Board member Kathy Moore, who nominated Fuston, said, "I know John has mixed emotions about serving on the council because people feel that those who were involved in the WDIC (Waste Deposit Impact Committee) are now trying to run economic development. But John isn't doing this for an ego trip — he's very concerned about economic development and he has worked very hard for it."

Changes in coaches' salary supplements were discussed. Athletic director and head football coach Don Cumpston said some coaches were being paid for extra responsibility while others weren't.

"I just thought we had inadequacies in our salary structure and I would feel more comfortable assigning a figure for a certain duty," stated Cumpston.

These other duties would include, for example, helping with other sports other than those listed on the job description.

The board is planning to set aside $15,000 for the supplemental pay for next year and will also consider bringing into line other teachers' salaries besides the coaches' salaries.

Job descriptions for assistant principals were altered, too, to allow them to perform teacher appraisals on their own campuses.

Previously, the assistant principals worked half a day and appraised teachers on other campuses, but "letting the principals do evaluations on their own campuses would mean a better appraisal than so

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

Today's burning question is very simple.

Deaf Smith General Hospital is supposed to:

A: Meet the needs and desires of a very few, or;

B: Serve the public good, providing as many services as is economically feasible to as many people as is economically feasible; the interest of a very few should be considered, but not taken as the gospel all of the time.

I may not be an expert on how to run a hospital, but I know enough to look at a few facts and figures, apply some common sense, and know what ought to be, and is, making money for Deaf Smith General Hospital, which, by the way, was intended to be a public hospital, not a private concern.

In April, I had my left knee "scoped" in day surgery at DSGH. The operation was performed by Dr. F. James Herbertson, Hereford's lone, and soon to be former, orthopedic surgeon. I was in the hospital from 7 a.m. until shortly before 1 p.m. For my six hours, the hospital bill was $1,234. That doesn't include lab work of about $165 before and after the surgery.

I'm not griping about the bill. Hopefully, the insurance company will fork over its money in the near future, and I'll pay whatever deductible that is left over.

If a simple surgery like mine results in $1,399 worth of billings for the hospital, can you imagine what the hospital gets for, say, a full knee operation, hip surgery, or other major surgeries that require a stay in the hospital.

Some weeks, Dr. Herbertson has only a handful of surgeries. Some weeks, Dr. Herbertson has his hands full. All of this, I would suppose, makes money for the hospital. If it doesn't, then we have an even bigger problem.

But some people evidently don't give a rip about making a profit, or even breaking even, and they certainly didn't give a rip for Dr. Herbertson, no matter how much money was coming into DSGH.

Herbertson, to his credit, decided he didn't need to put up with all of that boloney. If we don't want him, then, by golly, he didn't need Hereford.

Dr. Herbertson will be leaving before too long. Dr. A.T. Mims is planning to retire soon. Don't be surprised if you hear that another specialist will be packing the bags. Between the three, we're talking about almost 50 percent of the TOTAL REVENUE of the hospital.

Why should they have to meet the standards of some folks on an ego trip who believe they can do things as they please and the general public at large go hang, like the hospital was their very own play-pretty.

And, by the way, what's this I hear about offers being made by the hospital to set up a doctor in private practice after that doctor has been offered part of a practice by another physician in town? Let's get our act together down there!

Wait! I've got it figured out! Our hospital is the West Texas State University Medical School! That's why things are like they are!

When Deaf Smith General Hospital closes its doors and we have to go to Canyon or Amarillo for anything more than a simple doctor's visit, let us all remember what might have been had some folks just decided that making Deaf Smith General Hospital a viable enterprise was better for all of us, instead of creating their own broken little toy, the remains of which can be thrown into the dumpster like a Barbie doll with no arms.

And while I'm on my soapbox . . . I get the distinct impression that some of you are against the Economic Development Strategy Council for the same reason you were against the Waste Deposit Impact Committee.

Is it asking too much for all of us — include me in this — to put all of this nuclear waste you-know-what behind us and get on with our lives?

Something you may find amazing is that a lot of people outside of Hereford believe that what we are doing through the EDSC is one of the most progressive things being done anywhere to promote some sort of economic development. The way some of you are acting, those folks are going to be sorely disappointed.

What's say we knock off all of the nay-saying and give this a chance to work with the full support of the community.

And, while you're at it, build a repository and put all of that divisiveness down about 3,000 feet below the surface.

On second thought, don't bury it in a repository. It won't hurt the Ogallala Aquifer, but it sure would make the water bitter.

Callaway found guilty of murdering wife of boss

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Tearful jurors rejected a Houston secretary's claim that she was "framed" and convicted her of capital murder for plotting the death of her boss' wife.

Jane Ada Callaway, 36, was convicted Tuesday on a charge of hiring a man to shoot Jury Saragusa, 39. The victim was the wife of Michael Saragusa, a prominent, wealthy Houston liquor distributor.

Jurors were to return to court today to begin hearing evidence on punishment for Ms. Callaway. She faces either death by injection or a life prison term, the only options available under a capital murder conviction.

Prosecutors alleged that Ms. Callaway, who had a brief affair with Saragusa, wanted Saragusa's wife killed because she envied her wealth and position.

"Jane Callaway set out to be a fancy dresser, a Rolex watch wearer, where Judy Saragusa was not that way," prosecutor Chuck Rosenthal said in closing arguments Monday.

"She tried to show that she would be a type of person more fitting to Michael Saragusa and his financial status."

The verdict in State District Judge Michael McSpadden's court came Tuesday after jurors had deliberated about 17 hours. The case was moved from Houston to Amarillo on a change of venue because of extensive pre-trial news coverage.

and position. When the jurors returned with the verdict, three of the female jurors wept.

The victim's husband cried when the verdict was read.

Anthony Saragusa, brother-in-law of the victim and co-owner of Quality Beverage in Houston, said that the capital murder conviction was the only decision honest jurors could have reached.

"It's been quite traumatic for us," he said. Defense allegations that his 52-year-old, $200 million-a-year business is in financial trouble have hurt, Saragusa said.

Because of a gag order, Anthony Saragusa was the only family member or participant in the trial who could speak to reporters.

Prosecutors alleged that Ms. Callaway paid Leon Hawkins Jr. to kill the woman.

Jackson choice is doubtful

By DAVID ESPO AP Political Writer

Michael Dukakis is beginning private talks with Jesse Jackson as he launches an "open" search for a Democratic running mate. Some members of Congress say privately that placing the civil rights leader on the ticket could seriously jeopardize chances of defeating George Bush.

Bush, still weeks away from having to pick his own running mate, is concentrating on rallying enthusiasm for his candidacy. "I'm convinced we can carry the day" despite his poor standing in the polls, he said.

Bush uttered his prediction in a session with the 46 Republican senators in Washington on Tuesday. Dukakis emerged from a 46-minute meeting with Jackson in California and said, "the process has now begun" that will lead him to pick a running mate.

At the same time, sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Dukakis' campaign has begun public polling to determine which running mate will enhance his chances of winning the White House. In the meantime, campaign officials have asked Jackson, Florida Sen. Bob Graham and possibly others to provide background material about themselves for review.

Dukakis and his aides have avoided talking publicly about the search for a running mate as much as possible in part because they want public attention focused on the campaign's public themes.

Neither Dukakis nor Jackson would say exactly what they talked about. Nor would the Massachusetts governor say whether his closest pursuer in the primary campaign had asked for the No. 2 slot on the ticket.

Dukakis didn't say so, but sources in Washington disclosed that his emissary, Paul Brontas, received strong advice last week not to place Jackson on the ticket. These sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Brontas was urged to tell Dukakis that a southerner or westerner with experience in the areas of defense and foreign policy would enhance the party's chances the most in the fall.

"He was told, 'You can basically write it off in terms of the election if you pick Jackson,'" said one congressman who met with Brontas, speaking on condition of anonymity.

At the same time, sources disclosed Dukakis has asked for background information on at least two possible vice presidential contenders, Jackson and Graham.

Sen. Bill Bradley's office disclosed that the New Jersey lawmaker has not received such a request, even though he has been mentioned as a possible running mate.

Other names that crop up in speculation about Dukakis' ticket mate include Sens. Sam Nunn of Georgia; John Glenn of Ohio and Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, as well as Reps. Tom Foley of Washington and Lee Hamilton of Indiana.

Reagan and allies bicker as world leaders try to settle differences

TORONTO (AP) — America's major allies had effusive words of praise for Ronald Reagan in public, but in private some weren't as kind, handing the president a series of defeats at his eighth and final economic summit.

The bickering got so intense on Tuesday, the last day, that the final negotiating session ran an hour longer than scheduled as the world leaders tried to settle their differences.

The 14th annual economic summit between the United States, Japan, West Germany, Britain, France, Italy and Canada was not a total disaster for Reagan.

The allies did voice approval for his favorite free-market economic themes and the economic coordination process the United States has championed since the 1986 Tokyo summit.

But in the area of farm subsidies, Third World debt, aid to the Philippines and drug trafficking, the United States either suffered defeats or had to accept less than it wanted, reflecting perhaps the waning influence of a lame-duck president with only seven months left in office.

Little of this was visible on the surface. The leaders used the occasion of the public reading of the final communique to salute Reagan on his last foray into economic summitry.

"His leadership has been strong, his accomplishments substantial and his place in history secure," Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney said on behalf of the other world leaders.

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, a philosophical soulmate of Reagan's, called the president "marvelous," even though Mrs. Thatcher was one of the leaders who pushed Reagan to relent on his insistence for the complete phase-out of all agricultural subsidies.

On that issue, the United States was forced to settle for vague language in which the countries promised to seek ways to reduce subsidies, instead of the U.S. goal of eliminating them.

French President Francois Mitterrand, a Socialist who has often clashed with Reagan, was even more of a problem for the president during the three-day meeting.

Mitterrand objected to a Reagan initiative to have the countries cooperate more closely on the problem of drug trafficking, contending the seven summit nations did not have the authority to set up another international body.

"In whose names do these seven countries decide for the rest of the world?" Mitterrand grumbled. America settled for a call for an international study group with the participating countries to be chosen later.

Mitterrand also blocked Reagan's effort to single out the Philippines for multilateral foreign aid, a dispute that took up much of the final hour and was resolved when the leaders decided to add all heavily indebted developing countries to the list of those deserving attention.

On the question of debt for the poorest countries in sub-Saharan Africa, the United States knew coming into the session that it would have to accept a debt relief package because of heavy pressure from other countries to do so.

Reagan and other administration officials tried to paint the summit in the best light, saying that no disharmony existed in the critical areas of currency stabilization and overall coordination. Disputes in these areas last fall were cited as reasons for the October stock market collapse.

exactly what this is costing us."

Wilson and Moore abstained from voting on the contract which supplies such things as computer services for grading tests, curriculum and staff development, special education services, and math and science seminars for teachers.

In a personnel session, the school board voted to employ Jane Radford at Hereford Junior High School; Donna Tarliff at Tierra Blanca Primary School; Becky Weatherly at Hereford High School; Dianne Pierson at the high school; and Rhonda Henderson at Tierra Blanca.

References vital for job searches

NEW YORK (AP) — References are often the most overlooked part of a job hunt but are vitally important, says Andrew Sherwood, chairman of Goodrich and Sherwood, a human resources management consulting firm.

Although there are no guarantees that a reference will be entirely laudatory, he concedes, you can help ensure a positive one by asking those you list for permission to do so and informing those you've worked with that they may be called.

Sherwood suggests that those you think might be contacted should be sent a brief reference checklist of key facts about you and your experience. Include special skills, strengths, accomplishments, relations with coworkers and reasons for leaving.

STELLA HUGHES

1988 Western Heritage Honoree

Stella Cox Hughes was born in Oklahoma and, has spent her entire life as a western woman.

Her dad was a horse trader, and her husband is one of Arizona's outstanding cowboys. She is a chuck wagon cook, and her bookshelves are loaded with western Americana; she is an encyclopedia on the Arizona cowboys and cowgirls, and her children learned from her meaningful things about the West.

Hughes has worked roundups, cattle drives, and cattle sales.

But the important thing about Mrs. Hughes is that she writes and records the West in award-winning form.

Her writings have appeared in the magazines: Western Horseman, Horse and Rider, Horse Lover, Horse Woman, Hoof and Horns, Progressive Farmer, Farm Journal, Livestock Journal, Arizona Highways, SIDESADDLE, American West, True West...to name a few.

MARI SANDOZ

1988 Western Heritage Honoree

Mari Sandoz was the eldest of six children and grew up near the Pine Ridge Sioux Reservation of South Dakota in the free-lands region of northwest Nebraska. With only four and a-half years of schooling and with a teacher's permit, Sandoz was determined to go to college to pursue an obsession she could not overcome: writing.

Her father, Jules, punished her when one of her stories was published in the Omaha Daily News; she was 12 years old. But she continued to write, and at age 39, her first book was published after being rejected by 13 publishers. She had also written 85 short stories, all rejected.

Miss Sandoz documented early pioneer life in the sandhills of Nebraska as well as the lifestyles and customs of the Sioux Indians. Old Jules in 1935 won the Atlantic Nonfiction Award. Crazy Horse was named one of the Ten Best Serious Books in the West in 1942. Four of her books received the National Achievement Award, and The Story Catcher won the Levi Strauss Golden Saddle Award and Western Writers Spur Award.

After Old Jules became a literary success, Sandoz published 20 more books, all about the Great Plains that had been her home.

Mari Sandoz died of cancer at age 70.

MARIE TYLER

1988 Western Heritage Honoree

Marie Cordner Tyler was born and raised on a cattle and grain farm in Moffet, N.D. near Bismarck.

As a past president of the North Dakota and of the American National Cowbelles and as a chairman of the American National Cattlemen's Association Information Council for seven years, Tyler was honored in 1977 with the Outstanding Leadership and Service Award from the American National Cattlemen's Association.

Her basic belief as she served the cattle industry was that it must effectively promote and market its product. In the 1960s Marie Tyler started warning to her fellow cattle producers to support efforts to finance research, education, and promotion programs targeted toward homemakers about the good qualities of red meat; she forecasted that the new poultry and fish producers would soon be getting the consumer's dollars.

Elected chairman of the National Livestock and Meat Board in 1978, Tyler is the first woman to hold the position. She was also the first woman elected to a Meat Board office, serving as vice-chairman and treasurer.

Tyler was the first woman to receive the Golden Spur Award from the Banching Heritage Center in Lubbock.

HOPE VARNER

1988 Western Heritage Honoree

Hope Kemnitz Varner has spent her life as a western entertainer. Her talents in music and horsemanship led her to a wide variety of events that shaped a Milwaukee girl into a western performer.

First, her parents taught and demanded much of their 12 children. Each child was required to play an instrument, (Mother Rosa was a coloratura soprano). Hope played the flute, piccolo and guitar and even found time for voice lessons. She worked for her church architect father and pursued learning about horses and western skills.

Tex Varner was the second part that caused Miss Kemnitz to excel in feats of the West. They met "over horses" at a ranch stable and decided they both liked horses, music, people, sunshine...they married and began incorporating all four things into their lives.

It was Arizona to Wisconsin...she went, back and forth, managing stables, teaching horsemanship, singing about the West, training horses, conducting squares and sing-alongs, directing rodeos, reciting Western lore on her own radio show playing the piano, organ, guitar, and accordion for numerous gatherings always keeping alive the songs of the Old West.

RUTH PARTON

1988 Cowgirl Honoree

Ruth Ester Parton was born in 1898 in Yakima County, Washington.

Miss Parton was a daring, determined person, only 5'2", 98 lbs. but she had the drive to succeed and to win. She was 15 when she tried to begin competing in the racing world in Toppenish, Wash., in 1913; she was inexperienced and rode a small pony. The race was called because of runaway horses.

In 1915 she won the World's Championship Challenge Cup at the Pendleton Roundup; the cup was presented by the Pendleton Commercial Association and had to be won two years consecutively. The conditions were four horses, two miles, three days with riders to change saddles (not weighing less than 20 pounds) and no rubber cinchas allowed. It was a feat of endurance as well as skill.

She won the Renowned Denver Post Relay two years in succession thus receiving the coveted "Denver Post Trophy." This trophy is on display at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center. The race was run at Cheyenne.

Miss Parton has been known as "The Mother of Thoroughbred Racing" in the state of Washington; she died in 1978.

MILDRED CHRISMAN

1988 Cowgirl Honoree

Mildred Douglas Chrisman was a pioneer cowgirl, beginning in 1916 in Kansas City, Mo. where she won the Ladies Saddle Bronc Riding. She was 19 years old and was declared world's champion of the event three straight years.

Chrisman is also remembered as one of the first women to ride steers/bulls in rodeos. She was named top cowgirl at the Pendleton Rodeo in 1917. She was first married to Tommie Douglas, rodeo contestant and clown.

She followed the rodeo circuit during the warm months, then traveled with the circus. Like many rodeo hands she worked regularly for wild west shows, and it was with the 101 Ranch where she met Tom Mix, a budding cowboy actor. Mix invited her to Hollywood to help with the silent westerns in which he starred.

In 1917 she invaded Hollywood thinking she wanted to be a movie star. She met Pat Chrisman, foreman of the famed Tom Mix Ranch. Pat was the owner and trainer of Tony, Mix's famous horse. Mildred and Pat played in four movies, but they lacked the action Mildred desired, so she left possible stardom for the circuses and rodeoing and married Chrisman in 1933.

Mildred McConnell Douglas Chrisman died in 1983.

ELIZABETH SMITH

1988 Western Heritage Honoree

In 1940, Elizabeth Boyle was born in Scotland in the county of Dalry. In 1925, she died in West Texas in the county of Crosby, her adopted home.

As a young girl in her teens she sailed for America to join four of her brothers; they needed her to keep house for them in the new country. It was not easy bidding farewell to her mother, father and sisters.

It was first in Missouri that these children of Old Scotland founded their first real home. But in time one of the brothers heard of the great plains of Texas, and it wasn't long until the family relocated.

Fort Griffin was where the Boyle brothers settled and ranched. There Boyle met and married Heinrich Clay Schmitt (Henry Smith) who came to America from Germany at age 14.

There is no way to estimate the influence such women as Aunt Hank Smith had over the molding of the spirit and the character of this vast country; she will be remembered as "Mother of the Plains."

Argentinian president Juan Peron died in 1974 and was succeeded by his wife, Isabel.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married to "Jim" for 28 years. We have four grown kids and I have always worked to help out with the bills. I've earned a rest and I would love to stay home but I can't. Why? Because my husband spends half of his paycheck every week on lottery tickets.

In the last five years he has won $87. It makes me sick to see him throw away money like this. His favorite response is, "Somebody has got to win and I have just as good a chance as anyone else."

If it weren't for the lottery I would have decent furniture, carpets and draperies. He tells me I am lucky he doesn't drink or smoke or chase women. Maybe so, but I feel cheated. Any comment?—Chicago

DEAR CHICAGO: Your husband is a compulsive gambler. If he is willing to admit that he has a problem there is help for him. He can contact Gamblers Anonymous. The address is: P.O. Box 17173, Los Angeles, Calif. 90017. The telephone number is (213)386-8788. I hope Jim follows through. This one phone call could change his life. And yours, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I respond to the man who wrote that he and his wife had been married 40 years, had two grown children, traveled extensively and enjoyed the better things in life? The only flaw in the marriage was that he couldn't stop running around.

Chances are that his wife knew about his affairs, but she looked the other way. Well, I was a wife who also looked the other way, and now I am paying dearly for my refusal to face the truth.

I began to lose weight, my hair fell out, I began to sweat profusely, and became weak from persistent diarrhea. It was like a case of intestinal flu that I couldn't get rid of. A few weeks ago I noticed that my ankle was swollen and had purple spots on it.

My doctor confirmed my worst fears. I have AIDS.

My husband does not know who infected him and it really doesn't matter.

The message is: Don't put up with infidelity. Once it meant embarrassment. Today it could mean death.—San Jose Tragedy

DEAR SAN JOSE: Too bad that it took a hideous disease to get millions of people to see the value in monogamous relationships.

Leapin' Lakers, Batman! A repeat crown

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The chore has been completed, the challenges met and the chronicles of basketball stamped with their imprint.

The Los Angeles Lakers, fighting and making history at the same time, are still champions of the NBA.

With brilliant play from James Worthy and fierce determination from his teammates, the Lakers survived the Detroit Pistons 106-105 Tuesday night to win their second consecutive title.

The seventh-game triumph made Los Angeles the first repeat champion since the 1969 Boston Celtics, who also clinched that series at the Forum.

They became the first team since the 1978 Washington Bullets to overcome a 3-2 deficit in the finals. And, until Tuesday night, the Lakers had been 0-5 in seventh games of championship series.

Now they have won five titles in this decade and 11 overall.

"We've been a great team over the past eight or nine years," Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar said. "I think from now on people are going to refer to us that way."

Detroit's Isiah Thomas did just that after the Lakers claimed their 4-3 victory in the best-of-seven series.

"It's not disappointing," said Thomas, who had 10 points and seven assists in 28 minutes despite a severely sprained right ankle suffered in Game 6.

"We played in the NBA finals," he added. "We lost to a team that's going to go down in history."

In turning back the challenge of the first-time finalist Pistons, who closed a 15-point fourth-quarter deficit to two in just 4½ minutes, the Lakers met the challenge of their coach.

Soon after Los Angeles beat Boston to win last year's championship in six games, Coach Pat Riley said, "I'm going to guarantee everyone we're going to repeat."

"We would not have been as mentally alert or focused throughout the year if he hadn't made his statement," said Worthy, who was named the series' Most Valuable Player after getting 36 points, 16 rebounds and 10 assists.

"They went on a mission," said Detroit Coach Chuck Daly. "Pat forced them into it and I think it was a brilliant coaching move."

After the Lakers won the title Tuesday night, Abdul-Jabbar playfully stuffed a towel in Riley's mouth when the coach was asked about future guarantees.

When it was removed, Riley said, "I'm going to guarantee one thing, that we're going to enjoy this all summer long."

The Lakers had to win three seven-game series, the first team to play that many in one year. They had to overcome a 102-99 deficit in the final minute to win the sixth game 103-102 and they had to hang on in Game 7.

The Pistons, still seeking their first championship, are confident they will have other chances to get it soon. They eliminated the Celtics, finalists the last four years, in the Eastern Conference finals to reach the championship round.

"We will be back next year," Detroit forward Dennis Rodman said.

Byron Scott had 21 points and Magic Johnson 19 for the Lakers. The Pistons were led by Joe Dumars with 25 points, John Salley with 17 and Adrian Dantley with 16.

Thomas, who wasn't expected to play, scored the last four points of the first half to give the Pistons a 52-47 lead at intermission.

"When you get to this point, you've got to play," he said.

Using a strong running game, the Lakers made their first 10 shots of the second half, five of them by Scott and three by Worthy, to go ahead 70-59 with 5:36 left in the third quarter.

With Los Angeles leading 88-73 and 10:22 left in the game, Daly replaced veterans Thomas and Dantley with Dumars and Bill Laimbeer.

Combined with second-year forwards Rodman and Salley and guard Vinnie Johnson, that gave Detroit a faster team. Dantley, one of the Pistons' two best players, never got back into the game. Thomas, the other one, played just the final 14 seconds.

The quicker lineup "almost won the game," Daly said.

It cut a 94-79 deficit, the Pistons' biggest of the game, to 102-100 on Dumars' jumper with 1:17 left.

Rodman then committed a backcourt foul and Magic Johnson made one of two shots with 1:14 remaining. With 39 seconds to go, Rodman, a poor outside shooter, pulled up for a jumper rather than go for a layup. He missed the shot and Salley fouled Scott with 30 seconds to play.

Scott made both shots, making the score 105-100.

"We had an outside chance," Detroit General Manager Jack McCloskey said. "We made a couple of mistakes. Dennis fouled a guy 90 feet from the hole and took a jumper when he shouldn't have taken it."

Otherwise, it was an outstanding game for Rodman, who scored 15 points and grabbed five rebounds in 30 minutes.

A basket by Dumars, a free throw by Worthy and a 3-point shot by Laimbeer made the score 106-105 with six seconds to go. But A.C. Green broke ahead of the field for a stuff with two seconds left to clinch the championship.

Interviews begin for racing chief

AUSTIN (AP) — Interviews with as many as 25 people may be held in the search for an executive director of the Texas Racing Commission.

Commissioners will interview the first eight applicants this weekend for the $60,000-a-year job, said Hilary Doran, commission chairman.

The commission initially hoped to hire an executive director by July 1, but Doran said the timetable has changed.

"Now I'm really shooting, and shooting hard, for Aug. 1. I would be really disappointed if we hadn't pretty well gotten down to it by then," Doran said.

The search committee, which includes Doran and commissioners Demarious Frey, Hugh Fitzsimons and James Clement, planned to discuss the job with Illinois Racing Director William Bissett, but he withdrew his name from consideration, officials said.

Ms. Frey said she had asked Nick Nicholson, director of the Kentucky Thoroughbred Owners and Breeders Association, if he would be interested in the job, but he said he would be difficult to relocate because he has young children.

Nicholson was hired last week by the commission to serve as a consultant during its rule-making process and was expected to assist in the search for an executive director.

Ms. Frey, a Corpus Christi veterinarian, said the search committee also was thinking about discussing the job with some people who haven't applied. She did not identify them.

One of those to be interviewed this weekend is G.A. Acevedo, a Santa Fe, N.M., homebuilder, who said he was "extremely qualified" in view of his 15 years' experience with American Totalisator, a firm that leases and services betting equipment at race tracks across the country.

As a field technician for the company, Acevedo said he assisted horse and greyhound tracks in California, New Mexico, Colorado and Mexico in their businesses.

Another applicant scheduled to be interviewed is Stephen Kannry, of Arlington, Va., a stable owner who also is an account executive with a personnel placement company.

Tigers rally in ninth

By HILLEL ITALIE Associated Press Writer

Everyone was sure the Yankees would win, even the Detroit Tigers. Even Alan Trammell. "This was a game we were supposed to lose, it looked like," said Trammell, whose grand slam in the ninth inning gave the Tigers a dramatic 7-6 victory over New York Tuesday night. "I'm just like a little kid. The last thing I expected was to hit a grand slam in the ninth to win the ballgame."

"Heck, I wasn't even expecting an at-bat." The Yankees had breezed through the first eight innings, knocking out Detroit ace Jack Morris in the second and leading 6-1 behind the strong pitching of reliever Neil Allen.

Red Sox 10, Indians 6

Mike Greenwell extended his hitting streak to 13 games with a homer and three singles and Jim Rice drove in four runs with three hits as Boston won its fourth straight.

Orioles 4, Blue Jays 2

Cal Ripken hit an RBI double in the sixth inning and tripled home two runs in the eighth and Oswaldo Peraza earned his first major-league victory for Baltimore.

Angels 5, Twins 4

Chili Davis hit a two-out home run in the top of the 10th inning and California won its sixth straight game.

Royals 6, White Sox 2

Frank White drove in three runs with a homer and a double and Mark Gubicza won his fifth straight decision.

Athletics 4, Brewers 2

Dave Parker hit his third homer in as many games and Curt Young won for the first time in three weeks for Oakland.

Rangers 6, Mariners 0

Paul Kilgus pitched a six-hitter for his third shutout of the season and Jeff Kunkel drove in three runs as Texas handed Seattle its ninth straight loss.

The Mariners have lost 14 straight games on the road, a club record.

Mets beat Bucs

By BEN WALKER AP Baseball Writer

In the New York Mets' chain of success this season, Kevin McReynolds has been missing a link. Until Tuesday night. McReynolds, struggling in clutch situations throughout the year, hit a grand slam and tied a career-high by driving in five runs as the Mets routed the Pittsburgh Pirates 9-0.

"It's been very frustrating," McReynolds said of his slump. "I've been anxious. I'm swinging at bad pitches. That's why I've failed."

Dodgers 2, Braves 1

Tim Leary pitched a four-hitter and Los Angeles won its fifth straight game, sending visiting Atlanta to its fourth loss in a row.

Expos 7, Cardinals 0

Pascual Perez, making his return from the disabled list, shut out St. Louis on five hits for eight innings as Montreal won at Olympic Stadium.

Perez, who broke the middle finger on his right hand May 7, walked none and struck out six. He improved to 4-3 and Tim Burke worked the ninth.

Andres Galarraga hit his 17th home run, tying for the league lead.

Phillies 6, Cubs 1

David Palmer pitched seven strong innings and hit one of Philadelphia's six doubles as the Phillies ended Chicago's five-game winning streak.

Astros 3, Reds 1

Buddy Bell's RBI double keyed a three-run rally against his former teammates and Houston tied a club record with seven stolen bases to beat visiting Cincinnati.

Jack Armstrong, making his major-league debut, held the Astros to one hit for six innings and had a 1-0 lead. But Bell, traded from Cincinnati to Houston on Saturday night, tied the game with a double and Gerald Young's sacrifice fly put the Astros ahead.

The Giants won the regular season championship in the Deaf Smith County Kids Inc. T-Ball league this summer with a 15-0 record. The team includes (back row, from left) Andrew Gonzales, Paul Clevenger, Marcus Banner, Matt Irish, Joshua Scroggins and Daniel Landin; (front row, from left) Jeremy Tidwell, Gilbert Salinas, Eric Salinas, Chris Torres and Tyson Ramirez. Not pictured are Ronnie Pena, Brandon Brown, Lucas Mendoza and Mark Mendoza. The coaches, rear, are Joe Bob Brown and Paul Torres. The team is participating in the post-season tournament which will continue Thursday and Friday at the Kids Inc. baseball complex.

AT&T ANNOUNCES UPCOMING PRICE CHANGES FOR SOME TEXAS INTRASTATE SERVICES

AT&T announces the following price changes for some of its Texas intrastate services. These changes, which more closely reflect the actual costs incurred by AT&T in providing these services, will become effective on August 1, 1988.

- SDN (Software Defined Network) Schedule A prices will be reduced 1.5% during the initial 30-second period. Schedule B prices will be reduced 16.4% overall. Schedule C prices will be reduced 4.2% overall.
- WATS 80 service prices for both the initial 80-hour usage period and the additional usage period will increase 5%.
- The monthly prices for some of AT&T's Analog Channel Services will increase between $7.05 and $25 per channel termination for Analog services.
- The monthly prices for some Dataphone Digital Service (DDS) will decrease up to $9.65. Other DDS monthly prices will increase up to $18.35. Overall, AT&T's DDS monthly prices will increase less than 1%.

The combined effect of these price changes is expected to produce approximately $3.4 million in annual revenue, which is approximately 0.3% of AT&T's annual revenue for all Texas intrastate services.

If you have questions regarding these price changes, please call your AT&T Account Executive, or our business consultants toll-free at 1-800-222-0400. AT&T's tariffs reflecting these changes will be filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas on July 1, 1988, with an effective date of August 1, 1988.

SLOW TO SPEAK

By Bob Wear

There is good advice in the words, "Be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath." This is not suggesting that we be slow "of" speech, but slow "to" speak, and there is a big difference. To the extent we are slow "to" speak, we increase our peace of mind, and improve our interactions with others.

"I say what I please, when I please" seems to be the proud boast of some folk. Unfortunately, this is not a well-thought-out attitude; it is not a wise manner of behavior. These people are always wondering what is wrong with other people; why they are so difficult to get along with. Obviously, the difficulty is with the person who is 'slow' to hear and "swift to speak."

"Nothing is more silly than the pleasure some people take in 'speaking their minds'. A man of this disposition will say something rude for the mere pleasure of saying it, when an opposite behavior, full as innocent, might have preserved his friend, or made his fortune."—Steele.

We must be mindful of the great power in our speech, that it can be power for evil or power for good. Our speech can be, and should be an asset to us; or it can be a liability; a liability we cannot afford. It can help our friends, our loved ones, our fellow workers, and others with whom our associations are more casual. This, of course, is the wise way to use the great power of speech.

If our attitude is wrong, or just careless; our manner of speech will hurt our loved ones, our friends, our fellow-workers, and our other associates. Most of all, however, we hurt ourselves.

If "Slow to Speak" is permitted to be our guide, we will avoid the unpleasant situations in our associations with other people, and will add much to our own inner peace and our personal effectiveness.
