Protest County Tax Raise in Group Meeting at Dawn

Commissioners, Brand Are Rapped for Stand

A tax raise protest committee has been appointed to meet tomorrow with the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court, following a meeting of taxpayers in Dawn Schoolhouse Friday night. Action of the county officials in raising farm real property taxes and the editorial stand of The Hereford Brand on tax equalization were rapped during the meeting.

The following report of the meeting at Dawn was submitted to this newspaper:

DAWN Schoolhouse was the place of meeting for a group of taxpayers who came together to discuss the merits and demerits of the tax raise recently proposed by the Commissioners Court of Deaf Smith County.

The meeting was called to order by H. H. Miller.

Miller and Dick Alfred collaborated in giving a report of the meeting held earlier in the afternoon when they met at Hereford with Mr. Lawrence Strauss and County Judge Homer Henslee and County Commissioners Charles Sowell and Donald Hicks.

Miller stated that after questioning the officials and receiving their answers over a three hour period it was his conclusion that the tax raise is unnecessary. It was the general consensus of opinion of the approximately 50 taxpayers present, including one from Kansas City, three from Amarillo and five from Hereford, that Miller and Alfred had arrived at a correct conclusion in the opinion that the tax raise is not necessary at this time. But there was also agreement that there should be adjustments in a few extreme cases.

THERE was expressed a great deal of resentment concerning the repeated publicity given in The Hereford Brand to statements implying that the people of the rural areas are rolling in wealth and charging them with failure to assume a just share of the tax burden.

In addition, the people present at the meeting recalled that prior to the jail bond election last May it was stated by the commissioners court that even such a large obligation as $175,000 would not have caused the necessity for a tax raise.

This prompted their arriving at this question: Without any large project in mind, why is a tax raise necessary now? Dick Alfred, Murphy White and J. L. Fite were elected as a committee to meet with the commissioners court Monday, July 22. All other interested citizens who could attend were urged to do so. A protest meeting at the Ford Community House, also held Friday.

BIG VOLUME—Packing onions being harvested from 6,000 acres on the High Plains is a rushing business at Hereford sheds this year. But sales, with prices low, are reported to be moving slowly despite good quality of the crop. The harvest is estimated to be one-third completed on onions, but is still in the earlier stages for other major vegetable crops here. (Staff Photo)

LIONS' ANNUAL CARNIVAL WILL OPEN MONDAY

The eighth annual Lions Club Carnival opens Monday night at the Bull Barn featuring rides and games for residents of the Hereford area. It will run through Saturday night.

Funds raised by the carnival will be used for civic service by the Lions. It will be open from 7 to 11 p.m. each day.

Seven rides will be supplied by Lone Star Amusements Co. The rides and some games will be outside the Bull Barn building.

The rides include a merry-go-round, a kiddie ferris wheel, a large ferris wheel, tilt-a-whirl, boat ride, train ride and live ponies.

"We expect to give away more prizes than ever before at our carnivals," Oliver Streu said. Streu added there will be plenty of parking room at the new site. The carnival previously had been held at the old Bull Barn location.

"The carnival has always been well attended and we're expecting a large crowd this year," Streu said. He added the dunking board will be set up again with contestants having a chance to dunk pretty girls and various Lions into a tank of water.

Other games will include two types of darts, Coke bottle pitch, doll rack, milk bottles rack and cork gun.

Hospital Releases Injured Contractor

W. R. Dean, Lubbock contractor injured in a fall here July 13, was released from Deaf Smith County Hospital Friday.

He suffered a skull fracture when he fell 12 feet into the concrete basement entrance of the new Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s new building at 3rd and Miles.

Dean is the paint contractor for the building.

ALL-STAR WORKOUTS START

Yankees Take Season's Title in 1-0 Victory

An unearned run in the bottom of the sixth inning gave the Yankees a tense, 1-0, victory over the Dodgers and the second half Little League champion ship Friday night.

By winning, the Yanks became champs over the entire season as they also won the first half. The Dodgers were in second place and had an outside chance at the title.

BRILLIANT pitching by Bill Overall for the Yankees and Judon Fambrough for the Dodgers highlighted the sparkling game. Overall fanned nine and Fambrough struckout six.

Overall gave up only one hit, a single to Jim Haney in the top of the sixth. Haney was later cut down trying to score.

Fambrough gave up only three singles, one of them in the last of the sixth.

The Yanks got their run when Greenway was safe at first on an error. Greenway moved to second when Danny McDowell lined a sharp single to left field.

RONNIE came home when Drew Kershner bounced to Fambrough on the mound. Judon, trying to cut down Greenway at third, threw high and wild and Greenway crossed the plate to end the regular season's play.

The Yankees wound up the second half with eight wins and one loss (that to the Dodgers) and the Dodgers completed the season with five wins and three losses.

THURSDAY night the Cardinals scored three times in the top half of the sixth to top the Giants, 4-1, in their final game of the year. Jackie Nichols hit a homer

First Carrots Are Harvested; Growers Term Prices 'Good'

The first carrots were harvested and shipped from the Hereford area Friday by Trautmann Bros. The price, $4.50 per crate compared to $3.35 at the start of last year's harvest was considered "very good."

But two other major truck crops in the area were moving slow, and their prices were reported to be uniformly low. Potatoes at $2 to $2.25 per bag were barely 25 per cent of last year's record high, and onions occupied about the same situation, selling during recent days at $1.25 per bag for No. 1's.

CABBAGE and lettuce are moving fairly well, with the former having dropped from $50 to $35 per ton in bulk — which is still regarded as a profit making price, and lettuce selling at $2.50 to $3 per carton, a "fair" price.

While the quality of both the Hereford potatoes and onions is good this year, brokers see too many acres — about double the total acreage of last year — as a major contributing factor to this season's poor prices.

And they note that yields in most fields have been cut by the long siege of cool weather that came immediately after planting. Growers who get good yields are expected to realize some profits, even at the level potato and onion prices now are.

About one-third of the onion crop has been moved, with the Spanish-variety onion, which will provide heavier tonnages than did the early crop of Grano-type onions.

THE POTATO harvest is well underway, but lacks the frenzied digging, packing and shipping activity that characterized it last

CHECK FOR DISEASE—Cool weather early in the growing season has reportedly hurt yields of potato and onion crops in the area, with diseases that were aided by the low temperatures having taken about 10 per cent of the potato yield. County Agent Hugh Clearman, left, and extension service vegetable specialist Joe Cole of Lubbock, check a field, above, to aid a grower in preventing a recurrence of trouble next season. ## Man Takes Legal Bite in Long Arm of Law

Law enforcement isn't all ticks and cream, as one Hereford policeman learned Wednesday morning.

He was bitten on the arm while trying to make an arrest and then the arrest was marked out because it was illegal.

Here's what happened: A deputy sheriff from another county was driving toward Hereford on U. S. 60 in Deaf Smith County. He saw a Negro couple in a car and considered the man's driving to be careless.

The deputy radioed ahead to city police here and followed the Negroes' car into the city limits.

The couple stopped at the outskirts of town to talk to the man's employer. The deputy stopped and, according to later reports from the police, began cursing the couple.

About that time the city patrolman pulled up and placed the Negro man under arrest verbally. The man said he was not going to be placed under arrest. The city officer reached in to grab the man and was bitten and scratched. He finally got the couple under control and placed them in city jail.

The charges were thrown out after investigation by Chief of Police Henry Aycock and County Attorney Ed Line. The arrest by the deputy was discounted because he was out of his county and he couldn't make a citizen's arrest because the alleged offense was not a felony or a breach of the peace.

The city officer's arrest was tossed out because it had been made on hearsay.

The law states a citizen may use force to resist unlawful arrest.

After being treated for his bite and scratches, the patrolman returned to duty.

The couple was released from jail when the investigation was concluded.

VISIT GRANDPARENTS

Kenneth and Judy Henslee of Darien, Conn., are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Henslee. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Henslee are in Houston on business for several weeks.

Around Town

Gymnastics Classes Are Rescheduled

Gymnastics classes sponsored by the Hereford Athletic Club will be held twice a week for a while according to Guy Lawrence, president.

Lawrence said classes will be held Tuesday and Thursday with each class beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the high school gym. The change is effective Tuesday.

Gerald Wilson and Wheeler Sears will be in charge of the Tuesday class and Earl Stagner and Paul McClung will have the Thursday class.

Methodist Youth Meet This Week

The senior youth department of the First Methodist Church is sponsoring a Youth Activities Week Monday through Friday for all high school and college young people. Sessions will be held each night in the church basement starting at 8 p.m.

The theme for the week is "Blessed are the Peacemakers." Programs will include study, discussion, recreation, refreshments and worship. A hayride and picnic will close the activities Friday night.

BACK FROM VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mathers have returned from a two week vacation to Rapid City, S. D., where they visited their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mathers and their new daughter, Jacqueline. While away, the Mathers also visited his brother, Bill Mathers, at Miles City, Mont.

Jack Harris, new Hereford High football coach, and his two new assistants, Ken McCullough and Joe Silverii, will attend the annual coaching school in Dallas Aug. 4-10. Among the instructors will be Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson and Tennessee's Bowden Wyatt. Hereford football practice begins Sept. 1.

The First Methodist Church is joining other Methodists in observing the 250th anniversary of the birth of Charles Wesley, one of Methodism's founders. The observance will be in the form of a Wesley hymn festival at 7:30 p.m. today. The Rev. Alby Cockrell will lead hymn singing, and there will be numbers by the youth choir and a male quartet.

The Junior Sunday School department of the Presbyterian Church will be selling homemade cookies during the next two weeks. They call this a "bake and take" project — they will bake the cookies and then deliver them. Orders may be placed by calling Royce Gilliland at 651-W, or Jim Grubbs, 314.

Walter Clark, formerly of Potatoes, has been named manager of the Furr Food Store here. He replaces Bill Shore, who was transferred to Amarillo by the firm. Clark, 29, has been with Furr nearly five years. His wife and their three boys, Larry, 6, Tommy, 4, and Donald, 2, will make their home here.

credited to a minimum of publicity of the scheduled meeting, no action was taken in this meeting, reportedly.

THE COMMISSIONERS' action that preceded Friday's protest meeting involved raising the total valuation of farm and ranch land in the county by about $2,500,000 on June 26. The increase in rural land valuation at that time was estimated by court members as expected to bring in about $25,000 in additional revenue that the commissioners have cited as needed to continue operating the various local government services.

The change in farm and ranch land valuations was made by adjustments on the property valuation zone map used in the past by the commissioners in assessing values. Land valuations, formerly carried by the county at values of $5 to $20 an acre were increased to a minimum of $8 an acre and a maximum of $30 an acre.

The $2-cent per $100-valuation cut, from 37 cents to 20 cents, in road taxes was discussed by the commissioners for action in a future meeting when county tax equalization is due for adjustment.

The discussion of tax equalization between rural and city properties was begun many months ago by both the county commissioners and the trustees of Hereford Rural High School District. Before taking action on the changing of land valuations on June 26, the two groups had jointly discussed the problem and considered employing a professional land appraiser as a means of adjusting values.

The commissioners have scheduled a meeting of the county tax equalization board for July 26.

The Giants managed only one hit off Gary Smith, Mike Kelly getting a single in the third inning.

The Little League all-star team will work out every day this week to get ready for the District 1 play off there July 29, 30, 31. Yanks manager Joe Smith is the all-star pilot.

FINAL selection of the 14 players and two alternates will be made in the latter part of the week. The local all-stars will meet Childrens at 3 p.m. July 30. Two teams from Pampa will play Monday and the finals are set for 5 p.m. July 31.

From here, the District 1 winner will go to Lubbock for the area play-off with the District 2 champs on Aug. 1-2. Hereford was considered for the area play-off but Lubbock was selected.

A new development, spraying rather than beating vines, offers some promise of improving sales of the "Hereford potato." Abe Davis of the Ladybug Co. last week reported to have perfected treatment of vines with a non-toxic chemical spray of sodium arsenite. The chemical kills the vines, toughens the skin of the tubers and is expected to give a better-keeping, higher-grading spud.

Davis said that the system has been widely used in practically all other parts of the nation with uniformly good results. Adapting it to this area required a three-weeks period of tests and experimentation before the right combination of chemical and rate of application was achieved. He reports good results on fields sprayed for Earl Lance, J. H. Dobbs and Dave Lurry, Mack Noland and Otto Olson. After spraying, the tubers are supposed to remain in the ground for a week before digging begins. Davis cautions persons inspecting freshly sprayed fields that sodium arsenite is a dermating agent and that the field should not be entered for three days after spraying.

YOUNG MODERNS

Mail Brings Normal Crop of Teen Woes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Every season has trials and tribulations for young people in their efforts to be recognized as young adults and so the constant conflict goes on, as recent letters show. Here are some questions they raise.

Q. I have a summer job just 15 miles from my home. I could get home every Sunday evening if my parents would let me drive home with a boy who works at the same resort. But they will not hear of it. My father says he will come for me whenever he can. Isn't that silly?

A. Perhaps your parents have good reasons for being adamant on this point. Even if it is only to put their minds at ease it would be better for you not to try to fight the issue.
Q. My parents absolutely refuse to let me wear makeup, except powder. I have a summer job and all the other girls wear makeup. I look like a child by contrast. Even the clothes they buy me make me look childish. I am 16 years old.

A. You can't do much about the clothes if your parents shop for your clothes and for some reason or another want to keep you on the young-teen side. But most parents do realize that if they permit their youngster to work, they should not deny them the right to wear makeup, such as lipstick. Eye makeup and rouge, of course, should not be worn on a job by a young girl anyway.

Q. My parents bought me a car for graduation. The boy I date does not have a job and cannot help buy the gas. My father says that if the boy is not man enough to buy the gas, I should not date him and use my car. My point is that the car is mine and my father should not tell me how to use it.

A. Your father undoubtedly is trying to keep you from making a fool of yourself. How do you get your gas money? If dad is paying, he certainly is entitled to his argument. If you are paying, perhaps you should ask yourself why? It should be just as easy for your date to get the money as for you, so why not give him a subtle hint? Next time he calls up for a date suggest he get the gas tank filled while you are dressing.

Q. I always lose my boy friends in summer. I can't figure it out. I can keep a steady date all winter and spring, but when summer comes along, they disappear. I have a good figure in a bathing suit.

A. Summertime is a romantic season. You must have interest in furthering that idea, rather than making your beau too "obligation" conscious. Many girls get too possessive, trying to corral too much time even from a steady date. When that happens a man gets even more of a yen to "play the field."

Do a better watering job more easily with SUPPLEX, the TRIPLE TUBE SPRINKLER ON THE REEL. It always lies flat and sprays upward only, watering rectangular areas up to 50 x 20 feet with gentle even "rainfall" in dry corners or drained centers. # IN THE POOL

Over 450 youngsters, and a very small number of adults have been enrolled in Hereford's most popular summer school, American Red Cross sponsored swimming lessons. The second course of beginning and intermediate swimming lessons began Monday with 275 boys and girls enrolled, 100 more than signed-up for the earlier session.

12 lessons, with three lessons given each week. The beginners are taught mental and physical adjustments to the water. Most learn to dog paddle across the pool, while a few become quite strong swimmers.

Mrs. O. G. Hill Jr. and Barbara Damron are instructors for the classes of would-be young swimmers.

Four swimming strokes are taught in the intermediate class, the breast stroke, American crawl, side stroke and elementary back stroke. Elementary life saving is also studied.

Junior lifesaving and senior lifesaving courses have attracted only a few persons. J. B. Willis instructs the senior course which meets five nights each week.

Total enrollment is slightly below last year's, according to Miss Damron. But no would-be students have had to be turned away.

The youngsters' swimming classes consist of

The Hereford Athletic Club has paid the $2 enrollment fee this year for its members that signed-up for swimming instruction, but most student swimmers enrolled on their own.

SHARKI—Games, including the "shark game" in which the instructor plays "boy-and-girl eater" and the kids scamper for safety, above, are a part of the first day's instruction for beginning swimmers. Like "ring around the rosie," "drop the handkerchief" and other youngster's games, it helps them become adjusted to being in the water.

ROLL CALL—Checking in a class, Mrs. O. G. Hill Jr., left, then gives brief instructions as to class behavior.

SIGNING UP—Among the last to register for the current classes were David and Roger Rutland, right, who were pleased to learn they could take the lessons.

SPLASH!—Young Jake Tiefel, below, was enthusiastic and displayed his liking for water by falling dramatically backward into the pool. His demonstration brought a mild reprimand for having entered the pool before class roll call was taken.

"GIMME AIR!"—Bobbing-up from the bottom of the pool, Wilma Joyce Perkins, above, gasped dramatically, but wasn't at all bothered by the new experience.

BOBBING—A breathing exercise for beginners, "bobbing," sends the youngsters to ducking beneath the surface, exhaling, and then bobbing-up. They displayed mixed results, above, as the first lesson proceeds. (Staff Photos)

First Rain in 43 Days Is Welcomed

By MRS. C. L. HUTCHINS

The first moisture to fall in the Hereford-Broadview area in 43 days came Saturday afternoon and measured .13 of an inch. The shower, most welcome to dry land farmers in this area, was the first here since June 2. It also provided a break in the temperature which had reached a high of 95 before the overcast sky and rain cooled the area slightly. Curry County indicates that a quantity of rain is needed immediately to save many of the non-irrigated crops.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Whitehead and children, Bobby and Garry of Arlington, Va. arrived Monday night for a week's visit with relatives and friends in this community. They will visit in the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shadix, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Walls and daughters Lalanda, Joquetta and Marquetta and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Shadix in Clovis.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mitchell and son Garry Saxton returned Monday evening from their vacation in the northern part of New Mexico. They left Friday morning and visited and enjoyed sight seeing drives and tours from Farmington to Durango and Silverton, Colo. They reported all the fruit has been killed early in the spring from late frost in the Farmington area this year. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Saxton and daughter Shelley of Portales stayed at the Mitchell farm while they were gone on their vacation trip.

The Rev. and Mrs. Porter Arnold were guests Tuesday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Potts, Betty and Gail and Walter Marion.

Weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Osborn and family were her brother and wife Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis and son Gene of Cathage, Miss., and her sister, Mrs. T. E. Johnston of Nowa, Okla. The guests have been on a vacation trip which covered Colorado, Arizona and California points and they dropped by to visit with the Osborns. While in California, Mrs. Davis attended the Queen For A Day television program and was candidate for a Queen on a recent program. She received second place and was presented a steam iron and bedspread. They will visit with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams in Plains the later part of the week and Miss Donna Kay Osborn will accompany them to Plains and remain with her aunt and uncle for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Willie Walls underwent an emergency appendectomy Tuesday night at the Clovis Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Porter Arnold accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Walls to the hospital. The Walls daughters, Joquetta, Lalanda and Marquetta spent the night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Mears and family.

Relatives visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Tyler, Kelly, Jerry and Nancy over the weekend were his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bartlett, and daughters Gundia and Shirley of Texarkana. Remaining to spend the next two weeks in the Tyler home were Miss Gundia and Shirley Bartlett.

"To Thee I Will Give The Keys of the Kingdom"

George Johnson didn't hate the Pope. Indeed, he held the head of the Catholic Church in high esteem as a leader in the spheres of morality, world peace and human rights.

George Johnson did read and read again Our Lord's words to Peter, "And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven..."

But nobody could convince George Johnson that the Holy Father had any special authority to speak officially for Christ. Where in the Bible, George wanted to know, is there any mention of such a person as a Vicar of Christ? Where in Holy Scripture does Our Lord delegate any of His authority to a single human being?

For is it not a clear delegation of His authority when Christ tells Peter: "... whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven...?" For a long time George Johnson had believed Our Lord's reference to "this rock" meant Peter's faith and not Peter's person. But now he saw in the Savior's words a specific command to exercise specific powers of judgment, which had to be an act of Peter the man.

It was not until he read, and read again, the words of Jesus to Peter (Matthew 16:18-19) that George Johnson began to understand the Catholic claim of papal authority. "And I say unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." "And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven."

A highly interesting and authoritative story of the origin of the papacy... the reasons why Catholics believe as they do concerning the Pope... a brief but exciting history of the Popes since the time of Peter, the first Pontiff—all these and many other interesting facts are contained in a pamphlet which we will gladly send to you free on request. A traveling salesman was Harry G. Blow,
Who could sell ice cubes to an eskimo,
But he fell for a line slicker than his,
From a new car salesman—wow! what a whizz!
The car had style—years out of date,
The features were new—back in '48!
Harry's still smiling, the tears hardly show,
But how he wishes he could get back his dough!

Moral: Don't get "bargain-talked" into yesterday's styling and features!

Like a lot of people, Harry was looking for a "good buy" in a new car. But no car is a bargain if it's outmoded before you drive it a mile. For the same money, Harry could have stepped up to a dashing Swept-Wing Dodge—so new it actually obsoletes other cars in its field. Obsoletes their high, boxy design with the low, low look of tomorrow. Obsoletes their old-fashioned features with such advances as Torsion-Aire Ride, Push-Button TorqueFlite and Total-Contact Brakes. So don't do what Harry did—please. See your Dodge dealer today.

LETTER FROM MEXICO

At the Mercy of Taxis, Buses and Strange City

(Editor's Note: Martha Heard, whose parents moved to Iraq this year, is studying at the University of Mexico, Mexico City, this summer. She will write several letters giving her impressions of life in Mexico.)

Saludos amigos, July 14, 1957
Each city appears different to each person. Having been in Mexico City for two and a half weeks, I hardly feel qualified to describe it. These are only my impressions as a student here.

Mexico City is located in the south-central part of Mexico and is surrounded by mountains. It is in the Anahuac Valley at an altitude of 7,350 feet with a population of about three and a half million.

The climate is perfectly delightful. One rises in the chilly morning, dons sweater or coat, and sheds it around 1 or 2 when, if he so pleased, he could go for for a swim. Around 4 (during the rainy season) the shower begins freshening up the world. Evening falls and one again picks up his coat. It is said that here one can wear furs the year around.

The first difficulty encountered by one without a car is the transportation system — buses and taxis. The streets swarm with the red taxis and yellow taxis of all makes imaginable. One takes his life in his hands as soon as he steps inside for he is at the mercy of the taxi driver, especially if he is not fluent in Spanish.

The first night I was here I saw the city while desperately looking for the place where I stay. Taxi drivers easily spot unsuspecting tourists and the price goes up. Mexico City is laid out without any order whatsoever. Often the names of streets change from one block to the next; therefore it is easy to get lost even for those who have lived here a long time.

The best way to see Mexico — the people and the buildings — is to get on the wrong bus. The strange sights beheld by one riding all over will never be forgotten and the picture he forms of this immense city will be enlarged. To catch a bus one must wait at certain spots (generally there are many other people there — all standing in the street near the curb).

Alertness is the key word. First one must know which bus will take him closest to his destination. There are two types of buses — first and second class. The first class bus is brown with a colored stripe around it denoting the route. The seats are fairly comfortable and they are not supposed to carry more passengers than there are seats. A second class bus is gray with a colored stripe but the seats line the inside of the bus and I believe they are constructed of a board covered with leather. As soon as the seats are filled, the passengers stand and eventually there are more standing than seated. The poorer classes generally ride this type. There is a difference of 10 centavos (equal to about 8/10 of a cent.)

As the bus approaches one must flag it down, then quickly leap on, hand the driver the money and scramble into a seat. He must have the location of his destination well in mind about two blocks before he begins the journey down the aisle, swaying with the sudden lurching of the bus and clutching the backs of the seats. As soon as the bus slows down, he must begin to jump off for unless there are prospective passengers at the stop, the bus never completely stops. The same treatment is given to all — the young children, the old women, the rich businessman or the market vendor.

In a foreign city anywhere in the world one must wrestle with the language, the food and the customs. Here, of course, Spanish is spoken, and as this is a large city, many speak English rather fluently. In the smaller towns, especially places less frequented by tourists, Spanish and Indian dialects are the only means of communication. It is much more interesting to be able to converse with those living here and in this way one can more easily make the city his own. The true delight is to be able to bargain at the market or with complete confidence carry on fairly intelligent conversations. (I'll have to confess that I am capable of neither.)

Mexico is quickly becoming a gourmet center. One can easily obtain his favorite dish from any country in the world — except Mexican dishes. In private homes of course it is different. When one is a guest, however, the cooks generally prepare food of the type the guest is accustomed to though they probably can cook marvelous Mexican dishes. As I live in a pension where only Americans live, we have American type food almost entirely. Almost everyone who lives here or visits here has a case of "turista" from the water or unpeeled fruit. After he finally gets adjusted, he can resume eating. It is the custom here to eat a fairly large breakfast, the main meal around two, and a light supper late in the evening.

It is said that the Mexicans only eat one meal a day, but that meal makes up for the loss of the others. It takes at least an hour to eat and usually two. One has plenty of time to enjoy each course. The Mexicans take time to live. Manana will take care of everything. One who tries to rush will become frustrated in a short time. Social events never begin at a definite hour. Even the teachers are often later to class than the students. It is not unusual for a teacher to oversleep and miss the first class once or twice a week. However, everyone arrives promptly to the bullfights. No one wants to miss the grand beginning. The tempo here is beginning to quicken as more from the U. S. as well as other parts of the world come to live or visit here.

Barbara Sue Rogers, whose marriage to John Robert Miller took place Friday evening in the First Methodist Church, was favored at pre-bridal courtesies the past week including a lingerie shower given at the home of Mrs. Dale Tinnin Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Charles Springer serving as cohostess.

Those attending the informal occasion were Mesdames Pat McCullough of Houston, Terry Kirby, Barbara Lawton, Ann Woodward, Jack Burrus, Herb Dones of California, Pat Kerr, H. E. Miller, Grady Rogers, Misses Donnie Johnson, Charlotte Moore, Gladys Lee, Irene Witherspoon, the honoree and the hostesses.

Mrs. J. C. McCracken and her daughter, Mrs. Pat McCullough of Houston, were hostesses for the bridesmaid's luncheon held in the McCracken home Thursday at 1 p.m.

The bride's chosen colors of blue and white were used in decorations throughout the house. The buffet table, from which fruit cocktail was served, was laid with a Madeira cloth and centered at the back a small cherub standing on a lace pedestal surrounded by blue majestic daisies and white agapanthias.

Garlands of blue and white flowers formed a center scroll the table length. The bride's table was centered by a miniature bridal couple surrounded by blue and white chrysanthemums. Other tables for four were decorated with nosegays of blue and white flowers and corsages were of white feathered mums touched with blue. The honoree was presented with a lovely gift.

Attending were the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Grady Rogers, Mrs. H. E. Miller, the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Gilbert Dickens and daughter Sharon of Canadian, Mrs. Jack Cox of Schuelberg, Mrs. Herb Dones of California, Mrs. Jerry Jacobs of LeFors, Mrs. Hershel Miller, Mrs. Ann Woodward, Miss Barbara Schumack of Ft. Worth, Mrs. Jack McCracken and the hostesses.

SON VISITS

HERE IS THE NEW PURINA HOG PROGRAM

1. Start litter on new, improved Purina Baby Pig Chow. Then creep feed Purina Pig Startena until 3 weeks after weaning.

2. Put pigs on growing ration of 4 parts grain and 1 part Purina Hog Chow until pigs are about 3 months old.

3. For last 6 weeks, feed 9 parts grain to 1 part New Purina Hog Chow. Feed either free choice or mixed, in correct proportions.

Now...market hogs in 4 2/3 months

New Purina feeding program weans pigs at six weeks... grows pigs to 190 lbs. in 4 2/3 months... cuts feed costs 4%... 1 lb. of pork for every 3.26 lbs. of feed, from weaning to market... conditions sows faster for next farrowing.

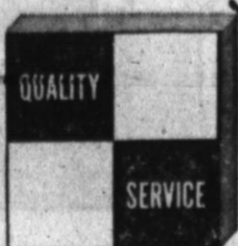

Every year more proof piles up that hogs should be fed according to age and weight requirements. Young pigs use feed differently than do older hogs. They need more protein... more vitamins... more of the expensive parts of the ration. But, as pigs grow, they become more efficient users of carbohydrates—the less costly part of rations. The proportion of cheaper carbohydrates can be rapidly increased.

Tests at the Purina Research Farm showed that this new program cut feed costs an average of 4% below any previous Purina Program... produced each pound of pork on only 3.26 lbs. of feed from weaning to market. It also gave sows the chance to recover faster from farrowing and nursing. Sows were ready to breed again in less time than when pigs were weaned at 9 weeks.

Improved Purina Hog Chows Make Program Click

Purina Baby Pig Chow and Pig Startena, the famous Fast-Start Twins, have been further improved to take advantage of the newest research findings. Purina Hog Chow has been improved to the point where you may now use 33% more grain during the last six weeks than on previous Purina Hog Programs. Be sure to feed right... follow the recommended steps closely. The fast gains, early weaning, and increased efficiency of this new Purina Hog Program can be yours when you feed these high-quality Chows in the way research has proved they should be fed for top results.

Watering Pastures Is Poor Practice

By MAX K. SCHRADER

We have all observed tallwater from irrigated cropland being used to water the native grass in some nearby pasture. In some instances contour furrows have been or are being used to spread the water out and in other cases the water chooses its own course. In this case the water is usually confined to some natural draw or shallow depression in the draw.

Does the use of irrigation water in this manner pay off or is it just the most expedient means of salvaging some benefit from an inefficient irrigation system? No one could say that the use of water in such a manner is a completed loss because certainly some benefit comes from the greater production received in some areas.

WHAT MUST be considered is "Does the farmer receive a value from this water that is commensurate with its production when properly applied to cropland? Could it not be used to greater advantage in watering his cultivated crops?"

Native pastureland does not lend itself readily to irrigation. To get the most out of the water in most instances would require somewhat the same system as does cultivated land.

For crops to efficiently use irrigation water requires that it be applied at certain periods and for definite lengths of time. The same principle applies to watering native grass. The greatest bulk of tallwater still ends up in draws or lakes. Most of the water travels the same route every time. It is either too wet or too dry.

MANY OF the pastures are stocked according to the value of the increased production from tallwater on small areas. This also results in heavy grazing on the non-irrigated grass. When this grass gets too short the livestock concentrates on the areas with the needed forage.

The additional water received by the grass in these water courses isn't always productive. In many cases it stands too long. In other instances the grass is trampled or grazed out when the soil is overly wet. Many pastures show the effects of grazing and trampling in these areas. It has been observed that sooner or later these overwatered areas turn to nothing but a dense growth of weeds, with the result that this water no longer contributes a bit to production.

Many farmers, of course, depend upon their neighbor's waste irrigation water to supplement their rainfall on the grassland. If properly used they certainly derive some benefits. This doesn't help produce a crop for the neighbor, though.

IT IS usually agreed by all farmers that no one has all the water he could use. When forage production is the goal of the stock man, wouldn't he be better off using his water on an improved pasture like alfalfa or switch grass where the time and amount of irrigation can be controlled rather than just running it down shallow and narrow draws, which results in an economic loss to the operator. He isn't getting all the production possible from each gallon of water.

We have many different kinds of land in this district. Much of this land lays in such a manner

That it naturally irrigates easily and efficiently. Quite often a farm will have only a small area that doesn't lend itself to efficient irrigation. In many cases better use of water can be achieved through minor changes such as row direction and length, or a small levelling job.

Cutting down the slope in row direction will usually cut down the water loss. The most efficient systems in the district are those with but slight grade in the rows. The less the water loss, the greater the production.

Things are pretty quiet these days. They are so quiet, in fact, that I think I will go out on a limb and predict a shower during the next 10 days. I admit that it is a half-hearted prediction but, after all, a fellow has to have something to write about.

CLARENCE MOORE has been overhauling his windmill, which seems to be about the only "live news" I have actually encountered in more than a week. Clarence also said that he made a little more than 200 sacks of potatoes to the acre on the patch that got hauled out, which leads him to believe that he would really have made a crop had the hail missed his patch. Incidentally, this was his first big spud crop.

All reports indicate that trout fishing is still on the blink. C. E. Coleman got back last week from Florida — and says that the banks of the rivers are running within two inches of the top. Marlin Gililand, just back from Pagosa Springs, has the same report — although Marlin naturally had to color his stories a bit.

ABOUT TAXES. Paul Rudd from out Westway says The Brand has been leaving the wrong impression on these farm taxes. Paul brought his school tax statements with him to prove his stand. On two sections of land, mostly rolling grass, he paid as follows: 1948, $236.35; 1953, $296.10 and in 1957, $487.95. "This," points out Mr. Rudd,

"is more than double the 1948 tax bill on his same two sections."

Also understand that there have been some protest meetings, along with a big county-wide farmer protest slated for 10 a.m. next Monday at the Commissioners Court. This is good. It is democratic. What's more, it is heartening to see the people begin to do something about taxes. If they think the counties, cities and schools are spending too much money, they should rise up on their hind legs and yell. Nothing will ever be gained through going along like sheep. This is more American than apple pie.

On the other hand, they should just as strongly and zealously advocate equalization of taxes. What we get, we have to pay for — and the cost should be distributed fairly and evenly by equalized evaluations. If we are buying too much, let's tell them and do our best to put a stop to it. What we do want and have, on the other hand, should be paid for through taxes based on evaluations, primarily on the true value of all properties. Each and every taxing body should strive toward this goal of share and share alike, using the necessary percentage of the real value to meet the costs. This is the principal of American democracy. It is the only basis upon which a democracy can successfully operate.

JULY IS THE month which features the magnificent picture of a Hereford lettuce field on the Magnolia Petroleum Company calendar. Mr. and Mrs. Bartley Dowell made a trip to Hico recently and, en route, spent the night in the "Hereford Motel." I believe at Albany. Bart says the motel people have taken pictures from the calendar, had them framed and hung in the rooms. It truly is a nice reproduction and was made, I presume, on the A. N. Hopson place, south of town.

MRS. WILSON GYLES was recently visiting her sister in Farmington, N. M., and had a nice visit with The Rev. and Mrs. Jimmy Aiken, who formerly lived here when Rev. Aiken was pastor of The Presbyterian Church. Jimmy, although he is now dignified with white hair, hasn't changed too much, according to Mrs. Gyles, who said he came over to spend 30 minutes — and stayed more than two hours. The Aikens, she reports, were leaving the next day for Disneyland, where they planned to spend two full days.

The Rev. S. M. Dunnam, former pastor of the First Methodist Church, and Mrs. Dunnam, were visiting friends this week. The Rev. Dunnam made the trip to officiate at the Rogers-Miller wedding ceremony.

John McLean was also telling me that The Rev. S. E. Eldridge, former Assembly of God pastor, was visiting here Friday — but I missed him. All of which makes it a more or less open season on former pastors. Somehow, it always seemed to me that Hereford had the cream of the crop on ministers — all denominations included. The fact that they come back to visit once in a while indicates that they must like Hereford a little bit, too.

CHARLEY HOLT sent word the other day to come out and get some cherries, adding: "But you'd better hurry... they're going fast." It turned out that Charley was 100 percent right, as usual. I fooled around with my basement and let a couple of days pass before going out Friday afternoon. I did find enough for a cobbler, but would guess that Charley has been quite popular during the past few days. He also has some cotton which will be of interest to a lot of growers. Charley seeded around 11 acres with a wheat drill and planted on four-row centers. The cotton is really pretty. It has a few blooms and a lot of squares. I figure maybe he is trying to outdo Posey Burrell, who planted on two-row centers last year and made four bales per acre. Figure by seventh grade arithmetic, this should give Charley eight bales to the acre. If it turns out that way, I will let you know.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

For many years, the Salvation Army Workers have been visiting Hereford almost every week. The purpose of their coming has been to sell the War Cry, to take an offering and to do what we could for those in need. Now it has been decided that it would be best to have a United Fund. The Salvation Army has been invited to be one of the agencies. It has been decided that a local Service Unit Committee could better serve the needs of the community that could a worker who came once a week. The worker is in accord with this plan and wishes to take this opportunity to say goodbye to her many friends and helpers.

The Amarillo Corps wishes to take this opportunity to thank you for your many helpful donations and expressions of goodwill. We wish to pledge to you our desire to help when we are needed. We shall come any time you call for us and render any service we possibly can. We wish you every success in your new plan and we shall be ever ready to help in any way possible to make it a success.

We know time and change go on. This plan is designed to serve you well. We are in hearty accord with it. May the Lord bless you as you serve your community through the new United Fund and your Salvation Army Service Unit Committee.

Yours sincerely,
Major R. McNelland

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Grady H. Rogers and Mrs. H. E. Miller.

Tall Emerald palms were combined with white gladioli and stock to give a background effect of a garden at twilight highlighted by candle glow from wedding tapers in branched candelabra. The gold cross rising from the center was defined by a white wrought-iron fence entwined with flowers and greenery.

BACKING the immediate nuptial space at the altar were fan shaped arrangements of white gladioli, stock and chrysanthemums and seven branched candelabrum flanking the white satin pillows on the kneeling bench. Pews were marked with twin tapers tied with white stock and satin bows.

Joseph Blackburn, Miss Moody Marry

By MRS. C. L. HUTCHINS

Miss Madge Hayden Moody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moody of Las Cruces became the bride of Joseph Milton Blackburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney B. Blackburn of Bellview, in a recent ceremony at the Church of Christ in Las Cruces.

J. H. Peeples, minister of the Church of Christ in Snyder, Okla., officiated for the double-ring ceremony. Floor baskets of gladioli and Shasta daisies and cathedral candlebras holding white tapers, formed the altar decorations.

Herschel Clepper, Marlin Akar, Cecil Barr, Melvin Wall and Oscar Smith sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly" and as the bride entered they sang "Faithful and True."

Karen Sue Moody, sister of the bride, and Lou Ann Needham were candlelighters. They wore identical floor length gown of yellow nylon crystalette and wrist bands of yellow split earrings.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta featuring a scooped neckline and short sleeves. The skirt had tiers of alternating lace and tulle cascading into a short chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a lace cap edged in pearls. Her bouquet was a single white orchid with stephanotis atop a white Bible. Car-

Among the many social affairs given to honor the bride elect were lingerie shower, miscellaneous shower and the bridesmaids dinner. The rehearsal dinner was held at the Western Wheel Inn Thursday evening with the bridegroom's mother serving as hostess.

Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Rebecca Lou Moody. She wore a formal length gown of blue nylon crystalette featuring a neckline identical to the bride's. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

William E. Manning, Las Cruces, served as best man and ushers were Bill R. Parker, Clovis, and Calvin Hoggard, El Paso.

Mrs. Moody chose for her daughter's wedding a sheath dress of mauve lace over pink taffeta with matching accessories of pink and black. Mrs. Blackburn wore a navy blue dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

For traveling the bride chose a fitted white suit with white and aqua accessories and wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will live at 1635 West Roma Ave., Phoenix, Ariz. Blackburn is employed with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were the groom's mother Mrs. B. B. Blackburn, Bellview; his sister Miss Lucille Blackburn, Clovis; and his brother Austin Blackburn, Melrose; the bride's brother, Bill R. Moody of Houston; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. ### Senator's Lady Is Busy Stirring Political Stew

POLITICAL TETE-A-TETE—Mrs. J. Allen Frear, wife of the Democratic senator from Delaware, discusses plans of the Women's National Democratic Club with Mrs. Dean Acheson, left, wife of the former secretary of state. Mrs. Frear is president of the club, Mrs. Acheson is a board member.

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. J. Allen Frear, wife of the Democratic senator from Delaware and new president of the Women's National Democratic Club, says "the woman's voice makes the choice."

Using this as the theme of her administration, Mrs. Frear and her cabinet of prominent Democratic women, many of them congressional wives, are launching a program to make that voice an intelligent and effective one. She hopes it will inspire a Democratic victory in the 1958 congressional and 1960 presidential elections.

Since coming to Washington in 1949, Mrs. Frear has been active in many organizations. When Congress adjourns she will be joined by her husband and daughter, Clara Louise, 14, at their usual vacation retreat, Sea Island, Ga. Their son, Fred, 23, is married and stationed with the Army at Ft. Meade, Md.

"We're anticipating grandparenthood," she told me, "and for that we need to rest up."

Though the senator is not up for re-election until 1960, his wife says "he never stops campaigning." She helps with speechmaking throughout his district. When he can't get back to his constituency to keep an appointment, she makes his speech for him.

Miss Pearl McIver, who retired recently after more than 24 years with the U. S. Public Health Service, has received many high honors during her career as a public health nurse.

Now her name is being perpetuated in an award to be given to others who distinguish themselves in the profession. The Pearl McIver Public Health Nurse Award, in the form of a medallion, will be given to a nurse at each biennial meeting of the American Nurses Assn.

Miss McIver entered the Public Health Service in 1933 as its first public health nurse consultant. She was chief of the Public Health Nursing Services upon her retirement in July. Before that, the Minnesota-born nurse had served 10 years with the Missouri State Public Health Service. She was its first director of Public Health Nursing.

Miss McIver is postponing the rocking chair days until later. She expects to tackle a new job as executive director of the American Nursing Assn. in New York after a brief vacation of fishing, swimming and boating at her Minnesota lake-side cabin.

Maybe the Turks Have Some Good Ideas, Too!

Local Farm 'Know How' Spreads Across Seas

Certainly of newsworth importance was the visit of 14 professional agriculturists from Turkey last week. Playing host to such an international delegation indicates several important facts, according to our way of thinking.

Within itself, the fact that Hereford and Deaf Smith County were selected on the tour is significant. If the Turkish government chose Hereford as a tour point, then certainly the farming methods and fame of this area are widely known. If, on the other hand, Hereford was recommended by U. S. agricultural leaders, the same facts are true.

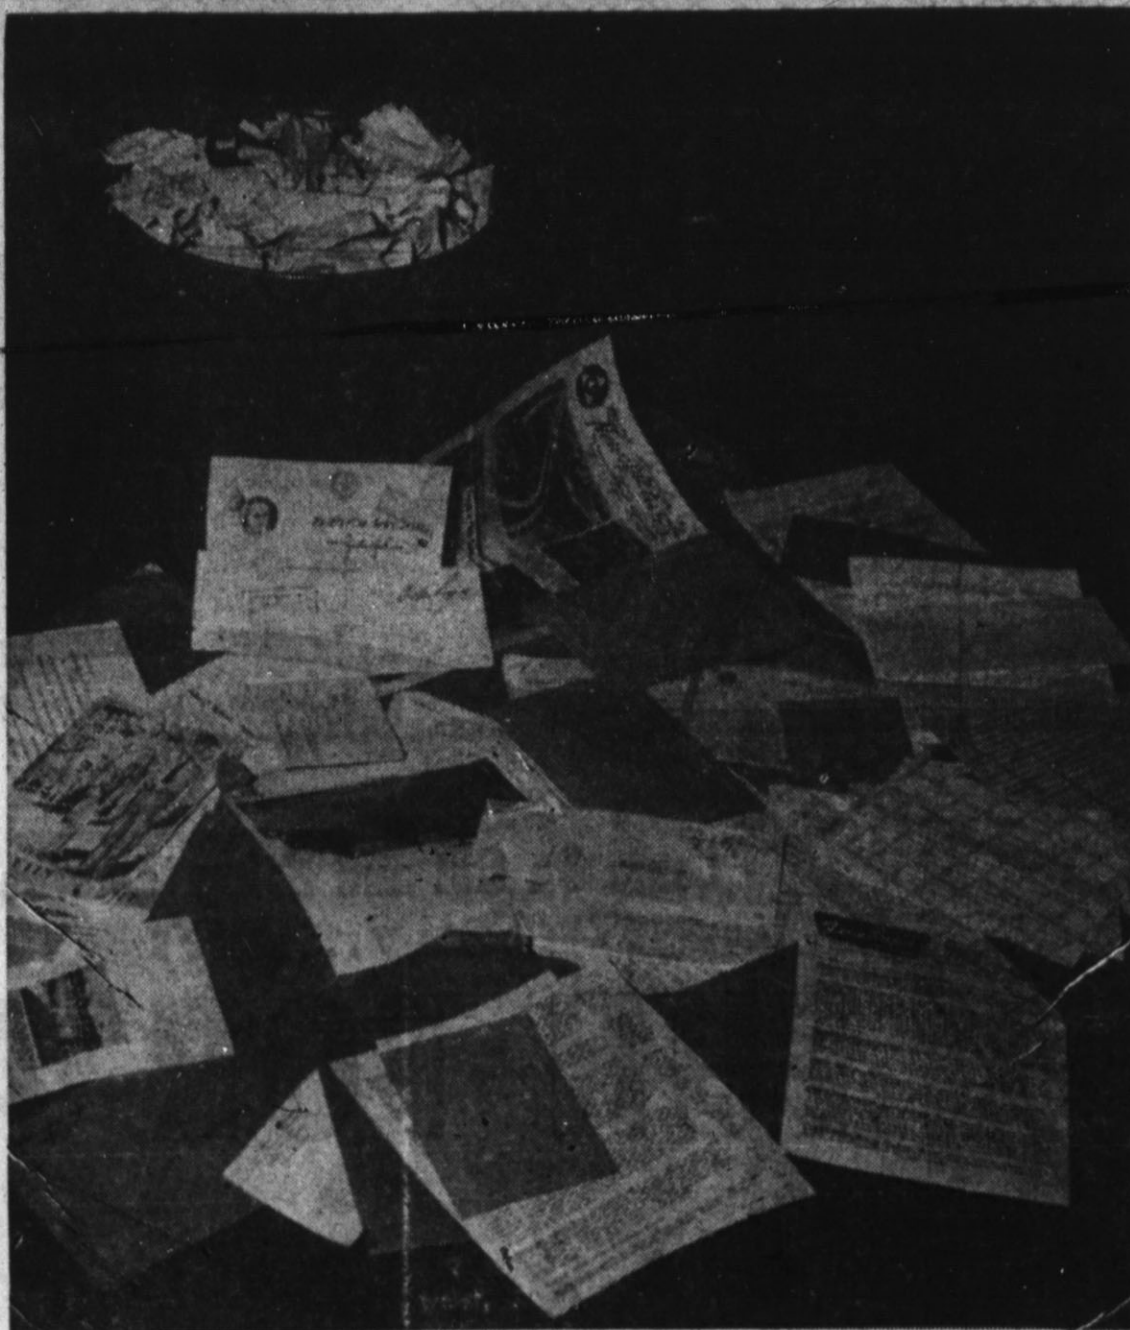

Possibly of even greater significance is the fact that we Americans are willing to give away and pass along our knowledge in farming "know how" just as we pass along the same knowledge in technical, industrial and business fields. This never ceases to amaze Europeans, most of whom are trained to guard such secrets carefully, passing them only from father to son, or through long years of apprenticeship.

In addition to being the Christian way of handling the situation, the exchange of technical "know how" also seems to be good business. To say the least, it has given the United States the world's greatest degree of civilization. If, instead of furnishing food to Turkey through lend lease we can help them grow their own food, it is probable that we can ultimately eliminate some of our foreign spending. Too, as the standard of living rises in other nations, it is logical that they will become customers for many of the thousands of gadgets which are today a part of the American way of life.

The one catch to the whole situation could well rest in the fact that this exchange of technical "know how" has, so far, been operating on a one-way street. Seldom do our local farm organizations sponsor treks into other countries to learn new, improved methods; seldom, in fact, do our farmers make specific tours into other areas in this country to study methods. Many new ideas do migrate into the territory, however, through the use of migratory labor and from rotation of growers from one area to another, especially in the vegetable business.

Still, there is always considerable danger in sitting smugly on top as an authority or an expert. If the government channels people into Deaf Smith County to study methods, it seems only practical that they should, in turn, channel some of the outstanding Deaf Smith producers into other countries to make similar studies and comparisons.

"DON'T FORGET TO WRITE"—If Postmaster General Summerfield has his troubles, and he has emphatically stated that he does, at least a part of the trouble can be traced to the various other government offices that bombard the mailmen with material such as accumulated at The Brand during the past week. In the pile above, the product of over 30 separate envelopes, there is 2 pounds 6 ounces of paper. All of it originated in federal or state offices. Most came without any direct payment of postage; two packages came "air mail-special delivery." Practically all unsolicited, the material ranged from news of our hometown boys in the service to news letters from Senators and Congressmen. One helpful bit of information received is that the bass are biting in the Prairie branch of Chinquapin creek. (Staff Photo)

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

VIEWS DIFFER ON CONGRESS, POST OFFICE BUDGET FUSS

Some members of the U. S. Congress have been extremely critical of the postal department's high budget. Do they have a legitimate basis for criticism when they have an almost unlimited free mailing privilege themselves?

R. L. POOL—I don't think so.

LYNN KESTER—Yes, I think so because even though they receive a free mailing privilege themselves it can still be an abuse in other respects.

REX LEE—I think they ought to turn the postal department over to a private organization and they could operate on a more efficient and profitable basis.

E. S. IRELAND—They certainly do because Congress is supposed to be the ones who regulates all those departments. They are supposed to pass laws that keep them in line, and I don't believe the Post Office is above Congress.

GENE MOORE—They have to criticize because they represent the people and the people do. But if the post office department is doing its best, I don't think it deserves criticism.

BARTLEY DOWELL—I don't think Congressmen should personally criticize the Post Office since they have free mailing privileges. But when the people who have to pay the rates criticize the department, their congressmen should represent them.

ANN HOWELL—I certainly don't think they should criticize the postal department when they don't have to pay postage themselves.

STAN KNOX—I think that they're actually criticizing some of the policies of Postmaster General Summerfield. He's evidently spending more than he should. Instead of trying to cut down, he's trying to get more money allotted to the department. Of course the Post Office employees have to get salary raises in accordance with the rise in the cost of living, but going by the Dow Jones average I don't think the cost of living has increased so much that they need quite as large a budget. I believe he could cut down a little bit.

DOLORES LOERWALD—I would say the rates are not so high that Congressmen have a right to criticize the postal department.

JIM LIPSCOMB—That's quite a debatable question, but as far as the budget is concerned, I think they ought to either appropriate enough money to run the Post Office, or quit griping about the postal department. We're still operating on 1932 postal rates with a few minor exceptions. Postal rates ought to be raised to meet modern demands or else Congress ought to give the Post Office enough money to operate. The postal department budget is peanuts compared to the budgets of the other departments.

SWISHER COUNTY HIRES NEW AGENT

Calvin Holcomb, Swisher County Agent for the past 10 years, has submitted his resignation to the county commissioners court. He has been succeeded by Bill G. Rodgers who for the past four years has been Floyd County agent, and prior to that he was assistant county agent of Lamb County. Holcomb considers his work with 4-H club boys and girls as probably his greatest achievement of the past 10 years. In 1954 he received the National County Agent's award which was presented to him at Salt Lake City. He has served as superintendent of numerous shows and has judged shows in Big Spring, Amarillo and Plainview. ### CANADIAN, REA MAKE EXCHANGE AGREEMENT

Canadian city commissioners arranged a power exchange agreement with REA last week after city electrical power was shut off from 25 to 45 minutes because of a break-down in the main generator. The arrangement with REA is a two-way proposition, Mayor L. B. Owens said, with city lines to be cut into REA in event of a break-down at the city plant, and REA to get emergency power from the city plant in event of a break in REA supply lines. As soon as the hookup is completed, the city will be protected against another temporary emergency such as the one which shut off lights, motors and air-conditioning all over town in 110-degree heat.—THE CANADIAN RECORD.

Hereford Potatoes Should Be Priced Lower In Hereford Than Anywhere

Appearance of a recent "Letter to the Editor" concerning the sale of potatoes from other states through Hereford food stores, along with the advertising of such produce as specials, brings up a question often debated in years past.

Unquestionably, it should not be practical to ship in potatoes from other areas at such times when home grown, high quality potatoes are being marketed. The truth of the situation is that so many growers give away potatoes that we often wonder how the stores ever sell any at all.

The grocer, on the other hand, cannot be expected to jeopardize his business by handling local potatoes purely out of pride or sympathy. He is a business man and he is going to buy the lowest priced merchandise, quality for quality, that comes his way. If he does not adhere to this principle, he will surely perish.

All of which gets us back to the basic reason for the situation. If the potato marketers were strictly on the ball, it appears without question that they could lay down Hereford potatoes to local grocers at such a low price, freight considered, that few of the dealers would find it profitable to stock produce from other states or areas. Few volume grocers allow themselves to be consistently undersold on potatoes—or any other item, for that matter.

In addition to price, the factor of public relations might also be considered. If the producer, shipper and marketing agencies created a demand for Hereford potatoes, they would not have to worry about the food dispenser, who is largely controlled by customer demand. Such, at least, has been the result in Idaho and some other potato areas which practice controlled marketing and public relations campaigns.

The present situation, in our opinion, results from a complex marketing system and, of course, if corrected, the movement will likely originate from efforts on the marketing and production end of the scales. Certainly, it is impossible to sell Hereford grown potatoes in other areas from the standpoint of home-town pride, so why make an exception of the local food dealer?

Meanwhile, the situation is one to question. If Hereford food dealers could purchase, freight-free, at F.O.B. Hereford prices, it seems to us that the problem would solve itself. Unquestionably, they could lay in the merchandise much cheaper than trying to buy through an Amarillo broker, plus freight charges from Hereford to Amarillo, then back to Hereford.

Are You Richer?

(From Rotary Canadian)

You are richer today than you were yesterday, if you have laughed often, given something, forgiven even more, made a new friend, or made stepping stones of stumbling blocks. If you have thought more in terms of "thysself" than "myself" or if you have managed somehow to be cheerful in spite of adversities.

You are richer tonight than you were yesterday if you have learned to count out the things that really do not count, or if you have been a little blinder to the faults of friends and foes.

You are richer if a little child has smiled at you, or a kind word has caused a stray dog to wag his tail at you.

You are richer tonight than you were this morning if you have made an effort to live by the golden rule . . . even if you missed it a mile.

You are richer still if you have taken time to trace and appreciate the handiwork of God in the commonplace things of life.

Natural Laws Govern Your Road Conduct

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This story offers a new approach to the death toll on U. S. Roads. It is reproduced from The Bulletin, a magazine published by U. S. Fidelity and Guaranty Co. L. Brent Wood, manager of the firm's Syracuse office wrote the story.)

MV2/2 — Kinetic Energy
One-half of mass times the square of velocity equals Kinetic energy. This law of physics is one of the most potent factors in the operation of an automobile — and the thing responsible for the most accidents and the least known by the average motorist.

It means, in effect, that Kinetic energy, the danger factor in driving, is measured by speed times speed. A car proceeding at 40 miles per hour is going only twice as fast as a car at 20 miles per hour, but it is four times as hard to stop; the "curve-pull" or centrifugal force is four times as great; it skids four times as far and it strikes an object with four times the force of a car going only half as fast. At 60 m.p.h., your automobile hits nine times as hard as at 20 m.p.h. and is nine times as hard to stop, although it is going only three times as fast. When a car at 40 m.p.h. hits another car going at the same rate of speed, the killing force is four times as great as if it collided with a solid brick wall!

Let us assume that the controllability of your automobile is one-hundred per cent at 20 m.p.h. at 40 m.p.h. it is 25% at 60 m.p.h. it is 11% at 70 m.p.h. you have only 8.33% as much control as you had at 20 m.p.h. Danger increases with speed times speed.

0.6 CC. Absolute alcohol per kilogram of body weight — Danger.

THIS LITTLE formula means that just three ordinary highballs make you a menace on the highway. Exhaustive tests by leading universities have proved that an average person weighing 150 lbs. is a dangerous driver after taking three drinks. Aside from the use of good judgment, there are four factors which must operate at a high point of efficiency in order to permit you to drive safely. These are:

1. Ability to concentrate.
  2. Coordination between mind and muscle.
  3. Muscular reaction.
  4. Selective reaction to stimulus — power to make a decision.
- It has been established that within forty minutes after imbibing three highballs, the efficiency of the four vital driving factors are (Continued On Page 5)

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm discusses money this week, a subject he seems to have mostly a theoretical knowledge of.

Dear editor:

I was out here on my farm yesterday afternoon sitting in the shade of a tree meditating on the hard money policy I understand is now in effect, which puzzles me as the newspapers are full of talk about this as though it was something new, whereas I always thought a hard money policy had been in effect ever since I learned it took a nickel to buy an ice cream cone. Is there any other kind?

At any rate, I got to watching a newspaper blown along the ground and was speculating on whether it would blow over close enough for me to reach it without getting up.

I don't mind getting up to get a newspaper if it's time to get up and stretch anyway, but this rush-through-life philosophy never did appeal to me and I kept sitting there and sure enough the wind maneuvered it around and finally it did land right at my feet and I reached out and got it and opened it up and ran into a hard money article that disturbed me.

According to this article, a financial expert in Washington testifying before a Congressional committee, admitted that higher interest charges on home mortgages "might have increased monthly payments to home buyers by as much as $10 a month, but if that helps to hold down other costs, and I think it does, it is well worth while."

As I understand this, if a man paying for a home has to pay $10 a month more for interest, he's better off. He won't get through paying for the home any sooner but it'll save him money because he can thus spend $10 less for groceries or clothes or a television or gasoline or other essentials.

This seems to me to be a brand new theory of saving money, and while I don't quite understand it, it sure seems like the only answer to the high cost of living. If you pay more for one thing, you naturally have to pay less for something else, and it's a fine theory if more stores would adopt it. For example, if a pair of shoes costs $4 more than I expected, I wouldn't mind if the meat market would recognize this Washington expert's theory and knock off an equal amount on steak. I don't mind paying $10 more for a tractor tire if I can pay $10 less for gasoline, although if the experts really want me to get ahead, they could go one step further and shave $12 instead of $10 off the latter, or whatever item it is I'm buying, and give me a margin to play on.

I have found though that when a theory comes up against hard money, hard money generally wins.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

MPH X 1.4666 — FPS
 This very simple problem in arithmetic means simply that Feet per second equals approximately one and one-half times miles per hour. A car going at 40 m.p.h. is going about 80 feet per second. At measure of 60 feet and remember, at 40, your car covers that distance in the space of time ordinarily takes to say "Mississippi."

At 40 m.p.h., if you turn your head and say, "What are those men doing over there?", your car has gone 120 feet with the driver's eyes off the road. Suppose that you had been following the car ahead at 100 feet and at that instant he stopped suddenly!

A quick glance at the people in your rear seat may take only one second, but you go 30 feet in a half-second and the slightest turn of the wheel will take you completely off the road. A child can dart into your path in the time it takes for a glance into the rear-view mirror, and by the way, that glance takes longer than you think because your eyes have to change focus twice in the process. When you sneeze your eyes are closed for approximately 70 feet.

Watch every approaching car. At 40, the other car can get on your side of the road in one-fifth of a second and the point of collision will be approaching you at 120 feet per second.

Don't look now, but STOP! —before slapping a bee, glancing at a road map or lighting a cigarette. Deceleration increases centrifugal force

Here is another important but little-known principle of physics which costs many lives every year. Simply stated it means that the natural outward pulling force of a car going around a curve is increased by application of the brakes. On a curve, the frictional resistance of the tires is partly nullified by the application of brakes!

In other words, when you are rounding a curve and have a feeling that you are about to skid or leave the road, use the accelerator and the steering wheel,

CASPER, Wyo. — A family spat was thoroughly aired in the classified ad section of the Casper Tribune-Herald. "I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by anyone other than myself," the husband asserted in his ad. It was followed by another from the wife: "I have always been responsible for your bills and mine, too."

The Lady Bug Company, one of Hereford's more recently established businesses, is located at 225 West Highway 60. The company was opened in January of this year under the able partnership management of Mr. Abe Davis, Mr. Harley Davis and Mr. Oscar Lee Williams, well-known men among Hereford farmers.

This firm actually supplies live, active lady bugs for crops that are bothered by various parasitic insects as well as famous name brands of organic fertilizers and soil conditioners such as Planters "Activate," John Deere "Vitrea," and Colorado Field Iron "DAP." It holds the exclusive dealership in Hereford for these products. Also featured is their dealership for All-Steel Farm Storage Buildings.

The company has five employees, all of whom are qualified to advise and assist the farmer with any or all of his fertilizer needs. Deliveries, other than the Hereford area, are made to Lubbock, Clovis, Muleshoe, Dalhart and other inner lying areas.

In an interview with Abe Davis he stated, "It is our sincere desire to bring the farmers of this area to a consciousness of preserving their soil, while at the same time making maximum yields. In the past this has seemed impractical due to the cost-price squeeze the farmer is in. Now at a price cost less than that of harsh chemicals, the farmer can assist Mother Nature rather than oppose her in getting the maximum yields from his land. With a well-balanced, fertile soil conditioner it follows that not only higher yields will be obtained, but lower tillage expense, water conservation and better quality products."

Marines' Minatures Beach Shows Better Picture than Real Thing

By NORMAN BELL
CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — An atomic bomb explodes in a blinding flash; then the spectacular mushroom rises. The amphibious attacking force is already deployed off the beach objective.

The stage is set for the final phases of a schoolroom demonstration by the Marine Troop Training Command of the Pacific Fleet amphibious force.

All phases of a five-day amphibious assault are presented in miniature, with both time and space reduced in scale. Model ships and planes and helicopters are used on a model ocean and model beach.

The Marine training command calls the setup its sand table. It is located in a long hall, with bleacher-type seats along each side for classes and spectators.

Progress of the action is described by an instructor, or narrator, who is assisted by Marines who move the ships and beach landing craft as he directs.

Behind a screen, others of the crew simulate bombs, gunfire and other sounds of battle, including bugle calls.

The atomic bomb is simulated electrically behind a screen, on which the hills are painted.

Powder charges are set off electrically on the beach to represent shells hits from the warships. A bridge is blown high into the air.

A Marine officer in charge says the demonstration gives an overall picture of an amphibious operation that can not be obtained in full-scale training or even in actual war.

"Everything is reduced in size so that it can be seen as a whole, with the various phases correlated as to time and place," he said. "It is worth 10,000 words of verbal instruction."

The training command is so pleased with results it sends units to various Navy and Marine stations, even as far away as Japan and Korea, to present similar demonstrations.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDREW C. LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The typical American home in 1950 had only 983 square feet of space. The typical American home last year had 1,250 square feet.

These Bureau of Labor statistics are emphatically confirmed by numerous private surveys and the reports of real estate brokers. New homes — especially new homes built to order — are getting bigger.

Americans want more space in their houses because they have larger families (more government statistics), because they need more room for appliances and because they have more leisure time, creating a demand for a place to pursue woodworking and other hobbies.

High building costs make it necessary for the majority of families to seek low-cost space. As a result, there has been a steady increase in the popularity of basements, which for a time had fallen into considerable disfavor.

IN MOST areas of the country, it costs approximately $10 to $12 to provide one square foot of floor space above ground.

To provide equivalent floor space below ground in the basement, it costs about one-tenth of that amount, or $1 to $1.25 per square foot.

Traditionally the place for utilities and the storage of dozens of items, the basement has come into its own as the location for leisure-time activities. Thanks to modern materials and planning concepts, it can be made as light, cheery and livable as any other room in the house.

THE KEY to the most effective use of the basement lies in pre-planning. The future playroom and other recreation areas should be made easily accessible to both the first floor and the outdoors. And nothing gives a basement a livable appearance as much as an abundance of natural light. The administrators of building codes consider a room habitable when the area of its windows is equivalent to one-tenth of the floor space. A typical basement recreation room measuring 20 feet of recreation room measuring 20 feet of 240 square feet, should have windows with an area of 24 square feet. Since a basement sash usually measures 18 inches by 32 inches, an area of almost 4 square feet, the basement room can be made to conform to the standards of upstairs rooms by using six or seven basement sashes. One architectural method of getting the required window area is to double up on each sash, achieving the long, high window look which is so popular in modern design.

If you want the basement of your future home to look even more livable, it's a good idea to plan on a floor-to-ceiling height of 8 feet, 1 inch. This does not involve any great additional expense, but it will add a definite feeling of spaciousness to the finished recreation area. And you can save some of the added cost of the foundation in finishing off the basement, since it will be possible to use standard 8-foot sizes of dry wall materials with a minimum amount of cutting and fitting.

A SEPARATE basement entrance to the outdoors will more than prove its worth. Youngsters can come and go without disturbing the rest of the house. Furniture, lumber and many other things which can not be squeezed through the inside halls can be brought into the basement through the outside entrance. Steps from the basement can be covered with a modern, double-leaf steel hatchway as a permanent protection against the elements. New methods make it possible, where an outside entrance is desired in a house already built, to break through a concrete block foundation and create a door opening within 40 minutes.

Another factor to be considered in planning a basement that will be livable is arrangement of the heating ducts, plumbing lines, etc., so that they will run through areas which will not be used for recreational purposes.

Also, water proofing the foundation is a lot cheaper if it is done during the original construction than at some later date.

All of which adds up to this: If you want more low-cost space, and you decide to get it by having a basement in your new home, sensible planning will save you money as well as making the underground area a better place in which to spend time.

SLIGHT OVERSIGHT

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The Rev. Robert W. Sonen, pastor of All Souls Unitarian Church, reported a $20 check turned up in the collection plate.

A notation in the lower left corner instructed the church credit building fund, $5 to the United Unitarian appeal, and $5 to the Unitarian Service Committee.

"Everything was just fine," said the pastor, "except that the check was not signed."

Sherbert is a drink, not an ice, in Arabia. And the word comes from the Arabic "sharaba" which means "to drink."

DAUGHTER IS BORN

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sanders of Dayton, Ohio have announced the birth of a daughter, Gayle Ann, who arrived July 15. Mrs. Sanders is the former Miss Helen Ann Snyder, daughter of Mrs. Glenn Snyder and the late Mr. Snyder.

TIRED ARM

CLEVELAND (AP) — After almost 50 years, the long arm of the law finally tired of reaching for three men who jumped bond and disappeared after being indicted on murder charges.

At the request of the county prosecutor, who admitted the state has quit searching for the trio, Common Pleas Judge Daniel H. Wasserman dismissed the indictments.

The three fugitives are: Peter Kiernan, indicted Dec. 8, 1907, for the murder of William Mehner; Tony Annibali, indicted Jan. 6, 1908, for the murder of Isazio Lupica, and Phillip Capon, indicted Jan. 6, 1909, for the murder of Joseph Tusso.

One look, one ride, and you'll find more to be proud of in a Chevrolet. No other low-priced car quite comes up to it for fine finishing touches—and sweet, smooth and sassy performance.

This one wants you to get choosy! The fussier you are, the more Chevy can show what it's got inside, outside and in performance.

Take the solid way a Chevy is built. It's the only car in its field with Body 'by Fisher—sturdily put together, with a look of substance other cars in its price class haven't quite captured. Everywhere you look, fine finishing touches confirm the craftsmanship that goes into a Chevrolet.

Chevrolet's response and performance are pretty special, too. There's a well-what-are-we-waiting-for spirit in the engine, especially when you show a Chevrolet a mountain. And you'll do a lot of looking to find comparable smoothness, steadiness and nimbleness on the road. If you do find them, you'll be in the high-altitude prices—for sure. See a Chevrolet at your dealer's now.
