City Dads Studying Switch of Deposits

By ROY CLARK

Naming the official depository for the city funds was an item taking on some of the aspects of a political hot potato during Monday night's city commission session.

The commissioners ultimately approved a motion which recommended the two Hereford banks work out a 50-50 split on participation in public funds, a proposal presented by the First National Bank to serve as the basis for the participation, and on that basis the funds be moved from the Hereford State to the First National Bank.

Commissioner Dr. R. R. Wilks, a director of the First National, made the motion. It was approved unanimously.

A HEREFORD State spokesman said Tuesday that the bank did not favor the 50-50 split on participation, and planned to suggest the funds be moved to the First National.

The Hereford State for nearly four years has been the city funds depository. And last February it was designated for the first time as depository for county and school funds for a two year period by the county commission.

Officers of both banks had been invited to attend the city commission session Monday to discuss participation in public funds holding.

TOWNSEND DOUGLAS, Hereford State president, outlined his bank's position in a letter to the commission, but did not attend.

Delay Action on Fire Truck Bids

Bids on a new 750-gallon per minute pumper fire truck for the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department were opened by Mayor Ray Godwin Monday afternoon. Prices quoted by various fire truck manufacturers ranged from just over $14,000 to nearly $21,000.

No action was taken on the bids by the city commission during its Monday night session, pending studies and recommendations to be made by Fire Chief Earl Phillips and City Manager Dudley Bayne.

The commission ran through a short agenda in less than two hours, with most of the time being devoted to the matter of designating a depository for city funds.

Bayne reported that Wayne Wallace and Sam Nunnally have been contacted and have agreed to serve on a Land Appraisal Committee. A third member of the committee must be selected before it begins the task outlined in a recent city board session, the reevaluating of land within the city limits to reflect its current market value. The board's action will serve as basis for adjustments in the tax rolls.

OFFICERS CRACKDOWN ON BUS LAW VIOLATORS

Drivers who pass a stopped school bus without first stopping their vehicle will be prosecuted, according to a joint statement from Sheriff Charles Skelton, Chief of Police Henry Aycock and Highway Patrol Sgt. Bob Brookshire.

Bob Wilson, school bus director for the Hereford system, instructed his drivers to get the license numbers of cars passing buses which are stopped to load or unload children.

The license number will be given to a member of the school board who will then file a complaint against the driver. Any of the three law enforcement agencies will then serve the warrant.

Wilson had told the school board at its last meeting that several drivers had reported cars passing buses stopped on rural roads without even slowing down.

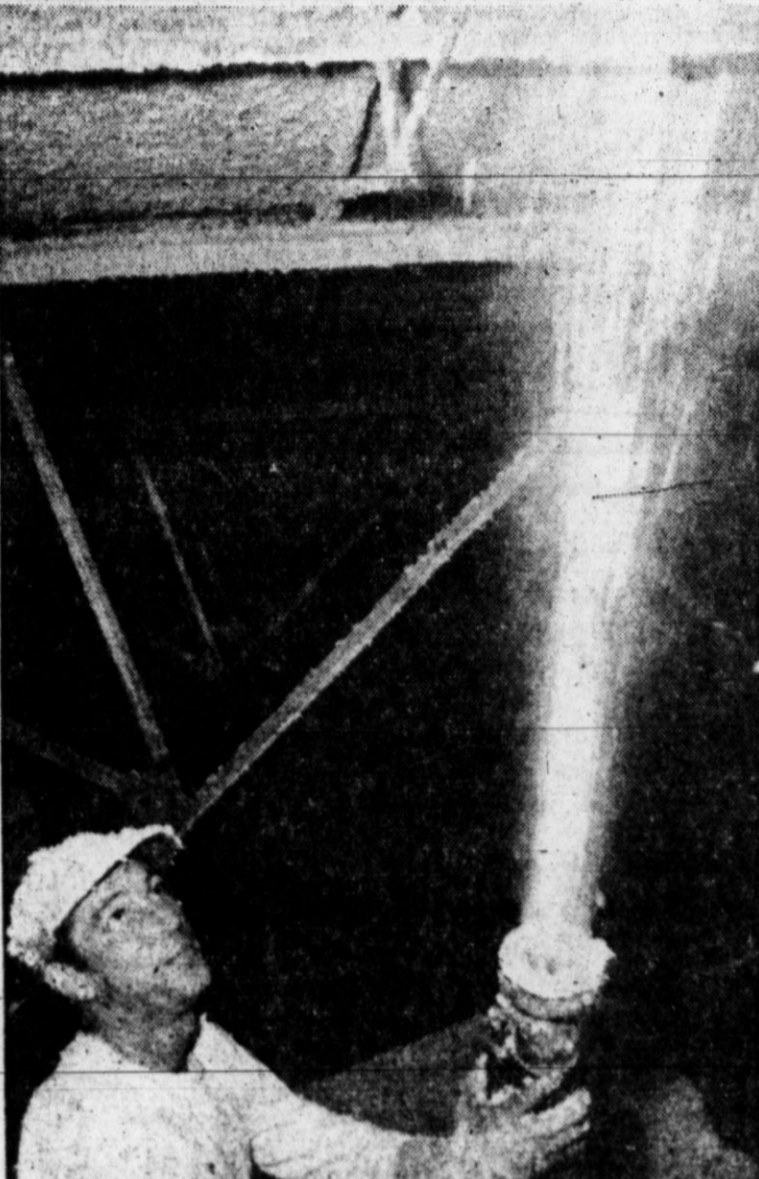

State law prohibits the passing of stopped buses. The offense is classified as a misdemeanor.

Burial was in West Park Cemetery. Gilliland Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

An apparent epidemic of mumps has hit Alkman Elementary School with 56 students and one teacher absent with them Wednesday. One high school teacher and three junior high students also were out with the mumps. Supt. Fred Cunningham reported absences running 5 per cent higher than usual at all the schools, but none of the other schools had identified the absenteees as having mumps.

Completion of the underpass on Highway 51 is expected about March 1, according to L. J. Clark of the Texas Highway Department. Originally slated for this month, the completion has been delayed by cold weather, Clark said. "The contractor had only 12 days in which he was able to work last month due to the cold and rainy conditions," he added.

AT NATIONAL MEETING

Farm Groups Aiming at Market Stability

Sweeping changes in the nation's farm program, with the retirement of 60 to 70 million crop acres cited as a must to maintain market stability, have been recommended by the National Conference of Commodity Organizations.

The group, made up of more than 35 farm organizations of national and regional scope, met in Kansas City on Wednesday and Thursday of last week. R. G. Peeler of Hereford, attended as a representative of the Grain Sorghum Producers Assn., of which he is president.

George W. Pfeiffenberger, Lubbock, Plains Cotton Growers executive, represented that regional group and the American Cotton Producer Associates.

THE GROUP includes such other farm organizations as the National Association of Wheat Growers, the National Beef Council, the National Swiss Growers Council, the U. S. Beet Sugar Assn., and the American Soybean Assn.

Their recommendations, due for some further refinement before being introduced in Congress next month, represent a comprehensive appraisal of farm problems with suggestions for changes in the regulations now affecting most farm crops.

"We are absolutely firm in our conviction that lowering price supports, which lower prices as a means of adjusting production, will not be effective, but will only increase production and proof of this is now available for any realistic appraisal," the delegates said.

"We feel that 60 to 70 million crop acres must be retired from production to reduce current production sufficiently to offset the increased efficiency of farmers and allow the current surplus to be utilized by the markets."

The delegates said it is absolutely essential that there be no limitations on the total amount of payment per farm or individual if the specified acreage is to be retired.

"THE COST OF retiring this crop land should be paid from Commodity Credit Corp. surplus supplies where practical to do so," they continued, "and when supplies are reduced to reasonable carryover levels, a self-supporting method of keeping the unused crop acreage out of production should be adopted. When total agricultural production can be held down to current utilization the supply of individual commodities will be controlled by the effect of supply and demand on price, without depressing overall price levels. This will permit more freedom for farmers to operate their farms efficiently.

"It is unrealistic to continue governmental aid programs to farmers that encourage greater production, such as payments for using fertilizer, land reclamation, development of irrigation, etc. Programs to increase efficiency on a sound economic basis without government aid will be beneficial."

In addition to the general farm policy statement, delegates called for setting up corn and sorghum, wheat and cotton programs, improving livestock and stabilizing dairy marketing conditions.

To establish the corn and sorghum program, the delegates recommended that a base be set on the corn-sorghum history of the farm on such things as the historical ratio of corn-sorghum acreage to cropland, adjusted for abnormal weather conditions, acreage diverted from corn in connection with previous agricultural programs and normal yields. Corn acreage allotments and the commercial corn producing area would be repealed and abolished.

NORMAL YIELDS for the dominant crop, sorghum or corn in each county, would be established for each farm.

"Price supports shall be made available to individual producers of corn and sorghum, based upon the degree of participation as measured by the extent of underplanting of the base acreage and the retiring of such acreage from the production of any crops for harvest or pasturage in each farm," the recommendation said.

"The price support level for each farm shall be determined inversely on the basis of the ratio of the acreage planted to the base acreage established for the farm. The lower this ratio, the higher the level of price support for the farm. For example:

"If a farmer planted 90 per cent of his base to corn he would be eligible for price support at 90 per cent of parity. If a producer planted 60 per cent or less of his base to corn, he would be eligible for price support at 60 per cent of parity."

Payment for retired acreages would be made "in kind" from CCC stocks now in oversupply. Where surplus grain commodities were not sufficient, cash payments would be made. The rate of payment for acreage retired would be based on the degree of participation in the program and the estimated normal yield for the farm.

Price supports for grain sorghum are suggested at rates ranging from $1.50 per hundredweight at 60 per cent supports to $2.25 at 90 per cent supports.

FOR WHEAT, the group recommends adoption of the Domestic Parity — two price — plan and a conservation reserve program with payment at $1 a bushel times the normal wheat yield except in the summer fallow wheat — area where the annual payment would be 50 cents a bushel times the normal yield for the acreage reduced from the total tillable a-

"To encourage entire farm units to be placed in the conservation reserve, we recommend that no limitations be placed on payments," the wheat program statement said. "Compliance with wheat acreage allotments shall be required for eligibility for certificate payments and price supports under the domestic parity program and for participation in the corn and sorghum program, except that any farm may produce not more than 15 acres for feed."

The group said that since compliance with the conservation reserve program would materially reduce feed grain production on wheat farms, the secretary of agriculture should be directed to move 100 million bushels of surplus CCC wheat into feed use annually.

"A minimum of 300 million bushels of good quality wheat shall be maintained at all times by the government as a national food reserve," the statement said. "The minimum 55-million-acre national allotment shall be retained and the 300-million-bushel food reserve shall not be used in computation of the national acreage allotment."

THE COTTON proposal calls for objectives to revive the present market with these steps:

Cotton be priced competitively for foreign and domestic use in order to reduce the present surplus and expand markets for cotton.

Cotton acreage allotments to producers be increased to provide an adequate supply of cotton as demand increases and permit the farmer to use his land and equipment more efficiently.

Provide an equitable income to the producer commensurate with other segments of our economy.

TO AD LIVESTOCK producers, the group recommends clarifying the Packers and Stockyards Act to permit voluntary contributions from hog and cattle producers' sales to finance promotion and research activities.

Dairy farming would be affected by the enactment of legislation to permit producers to control dairy surpluses themselves as previously outlined by the National Milk Producers Federation. Control would be in the hands of a 15-man dairy stabilization board elected by producers. A uniform levy would be imposed as necessary on supplies to finance surplus disposal.

Other groups at the meeting included the American Seed Trade Assn., American Rice Growers Assn., National Milk Producers Federation, National Bean Council, National Turkey Federation, National Potato Council, National Wool Growers Assn., United States Poultry and Egg Assn., National Peanut Council and the American Turpentine Farmers Assn.

The city manager opened the one bid received for a windmill located in the approach zone at the airport. "Gentlemen: I can use that windmill at $87.50," was the wording of the bid. The commissioners approved awarding the windmill to the bidder, H. D. Robins.

"We take this means to let you know that we have appreciated the city funds during the length of time that we have held them and do not feel that you would care for us to appear in person to start any argument in our favor, and since we are for the city wholeheartedly, we think it better that you go ahead and make up your minds what you want done and we will be happy with your decision."

Long Time Ago

It has been suggested that the vacant lots at the corner of Main and Fourth Streets be cleaned off and an embankment thrown up to contain enough water to make an ice floor for skating. Ralph Smith and Jim Lipscomb are hereby appointed by corral enough boys Saturday and boss the job of cleaning the ground and making the levee. The boys who want to enjoy the skating this winter can bring their hoed and the work can be done. The city bids will be impounded to "loan" enough water to cover the lots and in a night or two the skating will be good.

25 Years Ago

Ample testimony to the popularity of the annual singing of Christmas hymns by the high school girls club under the direction of Miss Lucille Hicks was given Wednesday evening when an audience filled the auditorium of the Methodist Church for the presentation of "On to Bethlehem," despite inclement and threatening weather.

The two local dentists, Drs. G. W. Heard and M. B. Wiltshire, with the help of the county health nurse, have started a dental survey of the school children in Deaf Smith County. The examinations will continue as soon as weather permits.

Antion Circle Has Yule Party

The annual holiday party of the Antion Circle of St. Anthony's Catholic Church was held in the school cafeteria Friday afternoon. A short business session was held and a Christmas program was presented.

Christmas games were enjoyed under the direction of Mesdames Ted Higgins and Edward Paetzold and gifts were exchanged in games of bingo.

AUSTIN HIGHLIGHTS

Yuletide Cheer Seen in Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Christmas cheer abounds at the State Capitol. We mean the old-fashioned kind of warm greetings and sunny dispositions, mixed with just plain fun.

This is the week when state employees, from the Governor on down, hold their annual Christmas program. School chorals in Austin share in the festivities with carol singing. And the Governor brings the traditional Yuletide message.

Activities center around a mammoth Christmas tree. It stands in the rotunda and stretches up beyond the second-floor railing. Each year at this time committees from the Texas Public Employees Association divide the responsibility of getting a sturdy, 25-foot cedar and decking it with tinsel and 432 multi-colored lights. It's a sight for sightseers, as well as young and old among the Capitol's regular inhabitants. And it always provokes the question "Where did they get it?"

Out-of-state visitors usually insist that it must have been imported from another state. This the Capitol receptionist firmly denies. When pressed for facts she says, "The Governor came in from East Texas one day, wearing it as a boutonniere."

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS — Capitol employees will be leaving for home, Saturday, for the holiday vacation, which begins Monday. They are due back on the job Thursday morning.

Texas statutes now prohibit a state office from being closed more than two working days in succession. This is interpreted to mean that offices can be closed Christmas day, plus two more. However, some workers plan to take more time "on their own."

There are skeleton forces will man many departments during most of the period, between now and Jan. 3.

"GIVE THE GIFT OF LIFE"

— That's the slogan for Governor Daniel's Christmas Safety Campaign.

"Christmas holiday traffic took 108 lives on Texas highways in 1956," the Governor pointed out. "This year the Department of Public Safety estimates the toll will reach 113. But this useless and tragic slaughter can be prevented."

"I plead with every Texan to assume normal, adult responsibility for driving his car with utmost care. It's the very least any of us can do. And the greatest thing we can do is 'Give the Gift of Life for Christmas.'"

GOVERNOR HITS "MOSSBACKS" — It's the people who want the state government to "sit on its hands" who pave the way for federal centralization, says Governor Daniel.

In a speech before an Austin civic club, the Governor hit at the "mossback philosophy" of those who want to "preserve the status quo" in state government, "especially in regard to spending money." They "do more to undermine the cause of local self-government than the most vocal advocates of federal power," he declared.

Daniel mentioned school needs specifically. He said the state, not the federal government, should step in to help districts that can't pay for needed buildings.

Concern has been expressed by some over the complete draining of the State Treasury to enact the Governor's 52-point legislative program. Various estimates have been made as to how much additional tax money will be needed to make up deficits in 1959.

Daniel's apparent reply: "State's rights and local self-government cannot be honestly defended unless we are willing to accept the responsibilities which go with these rights."

mer House Speaker Durwood Manford of Smiley steps into the controversial State Water Board chairmanship on Jan. 1. He will replace retiring board member H. A. Beckwith and will take over as chairman from R. M. Dixon.

Governor Daniel said he felt that his appointment of Manford will bring harmony to the board. In past months the Water Board has been subject to inner dissension as well as considerable outside criticism.

Manford is a former chairman of the State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools and was named just a few weeks ago to the State Industrial Accident Board. He will leave that position which will be filled by Judge Ned Price of Tyler.

WATER RESEARCH BEINGS — State Water Board says it is moving ahead "as fast as possible" on a water development program for Texas.

Legislation passed this fall authorizes the department to make a study and present findings to the next regular legislative session. Report is to cover where and what Texas' water resources are, with recommendations on how they may best be used to meet the needs of various sections.

Information-seeking meetings have been scheduled with consulting engineers and with farmers and ranchers, according to present Board Chairman R. M. Dixon. A first assistant planning engineer, Tom Hale of Dallas, has been hired.

Some $200,000 of the engineering work will be contracted, said Dixon. Low salaries make it difficult to attract engineers to the staff, he added.

DILEMMA REMAINS — Whether a school district should follow state or federal law in regard to integration is still an open question.

A federal judge declined to rule on the issue for the Dallas school board. A state law, passed last spring, says a school will lose state aid if it integrates without a local election. A federal court has ordered Dallas schools to integrate Jan. 27.

Members of the Texas Attorney General's staff appeared at the hearing to argue that a lower federal court could not set aside a state law. Federal Judge William H. Atwell agreed. But the order to integrate remains, leaving Dallas and other districts which foresee a similar problem, without an answer.

SHORT SPORTS — Members of the Texas Commission on Higher Education met on Dec. 16 to discuss the role and scope of each of the 18 state-supported colleges and universities. Also on the agenda was the development of financial formulas for use by the institutions in submitting money requests to the 56th Legislature.

E. E. McAdams of Austin will succeed J. M. Patterson Jr. as chairman of the Board of Control. Judge L. H. Flewellen of Austin also was appointed to serve as a member of the board.

Texas' major reservoirs now are 91 per cent full, reports the State Board of Water Engineers. There's enough, according to estimates, to take care of two years without rain. Applications will be accepted until mid-January from young men interested in becoming state patrolmen, says the Department of Public Safety. Needed are 150 men between the ages of 21 and 35.

Struck by Auto, Man Badly Hurt

Ed Murphy, 40, 108 Virginia, suffered serious injuries Sunday night when he was struck by a car driven by Frank Ruiz, 24, of the Labor Camp. The accident happened on S. Main, 100 feet north of Virginia.

Murphy, a Negro farm worker, suffered head injuries and a compound fracture of the left leg. Hospital attendants say he is in good condition. City police investigated the mishap.

2 Slightly Hurt in Car Collision

Guy Williamson and G. T. Williamson of 1011 Grand were slightly injured when their car collided with one driven by Tom Sanders, 57, 139 Ave. H, at the intersection of Knight and Bradley Sunday afternoon.

Sanders was given a ticket for failure to grant right-of-way. Total damages to the cars were estimated at $850.

3 Plead Guilty To Check Charges

Three persons pleaded to writing hot checks in County court this week. All three received fines. On Monday Dan Knechtel, 68, of Amarillo was fined $3 and costs. Wednesday morning Bobby G. Wilson, 26, 130 Ave. E., was fined $1 and costs and H. E. Beard, 41, of Lubbock was fined $5 and costs. All the charges were misdemeanor offenses.

"better than ever" year for the Texas oil industry is foreseen by Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson. He predicted Texas would produce a billion barrels of oil by the end of '57 and that revenue would be higher because of price rises.

BRUSSELS — The Christmas spirit is bright in a Brussels studio, where a husband-and-wife artist team forgot hardship and tragedy of past years in the shining promise of the future.

They are Charles and Alice Rohonyi, driven from their native Hungary by the Communist occupation, now well-launched on a new career in Belgium.

Both Rohonyi and his wife were established artists in Hungary before the last war and opened a joint studio after their marriage. Four war years wiped out their business, but they started again after the war, gaining new success until the country was swept by the Communists. They seized the first opportunity to leave Hungary then, and began once more in Belgium as political refugees.

Last year Rohonyi painted a weeping Santa Claus Christmas card, which was sent only to close personal friends in Hungary, in memory of fallen Hungarian freedom fighters.

This year, however, he has gone back to his usual gay and cheerful style, one of his most successful cards being a jolly Santa Claus blowing a horn from which stamps of many countries stream into the air.

Rohonyi started first as a railroad man, then as a decorator and photographer. He took up poster art after his marriage to Alice Der, a well-known artist in the field, and soon became more successful than she.

When Alice turned to Christmas cards, Charles did the same. Says he, cheerfully: "I have stolen every creative idea she ever had."

Nowadays Alice lets her husband do most of the painting in the family, while she acts as best-friend-and-severest-critic. This year the Rohonyi cards are available in the United States for the first time. The artist is sure they will be successful, explaining:

"After all, I'm learning something about motivational research. I have a carefully selected panel for determining consumer attitudes — my wife and my 7-year-old son."

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Richard goes to the Green Ghoul to get a spool of golden thread for Santa. The Ghoul lives in a tree house and has a hundred arms. When Richard snatches the thread from her pocket she crushes him with her arms.

CHAPTER 13
THE BLACK DIAMOND
Richard struggled in the many arms of the Green Ghoul. Using all his strength he twisted back the arms that held him. But it was no use. When he freed himself from two arms a dozen more took their place.

He bent back one, broke another, twisted a third. Still the arms crushed him. It was impossible to escape and all Richard's strength was useless.

Suddenly he got an idea. He thought, "Breaking away from each arm does no good. What I must do is strike at the Ghoul herself. If I conquer her I will, at the same time, conquer the hundred arms."

It was the first time in his life he had ever thought his way out of trouble. He felt happy and unafraid.

He took a big breath and punched his head into the stomach of the Green Ghoul. The mighty blow knocked the breath out of the creature and all arms collapsed.

Richard leaped away. He ran from the house and jumped to the ground. By the time the Ghoul recovered her breath Richard was a mile away. The Green Ghoul let out a roar of anger, a roar so powerful it caused a giant wind to sweep across the whole world.

But the wind only helped to carry Richard on his way and the roar didn't frighten him for he was far beyond the reach of the hundred arms.

On and on Richard ran, never tiring, until at last he came to Santa's house.

"I did it!" he cried as he burst through the door. "I brought you the thread!"

He put the spool of golden thread on Santa's desk and then he stood there happier and prouder than he

"You have done a good job," said Santa. "You have done a good job," said Santa.

"Where is Patrick Tweedle-knees?" asked Richard. "I would like him to know."

"He'll be along presently," said Santa. "In the meantime you come with me."

He took Richard into the kitchen and there on the table were platters of doughnuts and ginger cookies and lemon pie. There was a big white pitcher filled with chocolate milk shake and a blue pitcher filled with cherry pop.

Richard reached for a piece of lemon pie. But at that very moment Patrick Tweedle-knees came into the room.

"I did it!" said Richard. "I brought Santa the golden thread."

"So I heard," snapped Tweedle-knees. "But remember Santa said you must bring him two things and a coward like you will never get the second."

Richard put down the piece of lemon pie. "What is the second thing I must bring?"

"Now," said Santa, "you must bring to me a black diamond."

"A-and where will I find such a diamond?"

"From the third finger of the Phantom of the Sea."

"Who is the Phantom of the Sea?" faltered Richard.

"Who knows?" cried Tweedle-knees. "He has never been seen by any living creature. That is why he is called the Phantom."

"Then how do you know there is such a thing?" asked Richard. "And how do you know he wears a black diamond on his finger?"

"People have seen his giant foot prints by the side of the sea. They have heard his screams at night. And though they could not see his hands they could see and feel the black diamond on his finger."

Richard's heart sank and all his old fears came flooding back. He thought he could not bear to meet the Phantom of the Sea.

bulged. His ears rang. He felt that in another instant he would be no more.

Then suddenly he was free from the Phantom.

He opened his eyes and found himself in a red palace deep in the sea. Though he was under water he could breathe and see. He gazed in astonishment at the splendid furnishings of the palace and at the fish which swam lazily around his head.

At the end of the hall he saw a throne on a red throne. He knew it was the Phantom.

The Phantom was round and long and slippery. His head was pointed and his eyes bulged. On his feet were giant flippers.

He looked at Richard. "Never before," said he, "has anyone twisted the arm of the Phantom. As a punishment I sentence you to spend the rest of your days in this palace under the sea!"

Richard sank down on the floor and put his head in his hands. "Now it is really all over," he thought. "I shall never get back to Mitzepoo and my father will perish."

"It's a strange thing," smirked the Phantom. "You can't breathe in water and I can't breathe in air. This red sea palace is the only place on earth where we both can live."

Richard raised his head. Was it true? Would the Phantom perish if he were long out of water?

Richard began to think and plan. A dozen ideas flew through his mind. He was filled with joy to know that when he tried he could use his head as well as anyone.

He waited until the Phantom sat down to dinner. Then he pulled out

WALTER ROGERS WRITES: U. S. Strength Is in Religion

To the people of the 18th District: S ROZHDESTVOM KHRISTOUYMI.— Before you decide there is something wrong with our type-written, let me explain that the above is a Russian translation of "Merry Christmas."

In this Dec. 1957, as an examination is being made throughout the world of so many aspects of the United States and the Soviet Union, I believe it is fitting that we not forget to examine the most vital factor which composes the two great powers of the earth: I speak of the people of Russia and America—the millions of individual human beings and the elements which motivate the actions of each of those individuals. With all the upheaval and unknown components attendant to man's entry into the Space Age, the answer will be, as it has always been, resolved in human beings. The answer at which we arrive depends; I believe, upon the motivating spirit of the individual and the dignity he can attain.

Consider Russia today, dominated by communism which manifests no God other than the gods of force, of delusions and misunderstandings between peoples at ruthless desires to perpetuate these ideals in all lands of the earth. It is saddening to realize that the principles and ideals the man whose birth we now celebrate cannot prosper in this atmosphere.

I would be the last to contend that all of us in America are our halos properly polished. I would be the first to affirm the sense and spirit of Christ.

of his pocket the rubber balloon Patrick Tweedieknese had thrown at him. He stood behind the Phantom and blew up the balloon. He blew and blew. The balloon grew larger and larger. Presently it was three feet around. "What are you hitting and puffing about?" demanded the Phantom.

"I am hungry," said Richard. "You may eat when I have finished," said the Phantom as he shoveled fish into his mouth.

"I am hungry now," said Richard. As he spoke he suddenly held wide the mouth of the balloon and jerked it down over the Phantom's head and shoulders. Now the Phantom was cut off from water. His head was surrounded by the air Richard had blown into the balloon.

"Let go! Let go!" roared the Phantom from inside the balloon. But Richard held the balloon firmly in place. He wrapped his legs around the Phantom's waist pinning his arms to his side. The Phantom struggled and screamed but Richard held on.

Presently the struggles grew weaker and the screams died away. The Phantom lay limp on the table.

Richard let go the balloon. He snatched off the Phantom's flippers and put them on his own feet. Then he tore the black diamond from the Phantom's finger and put it on his own. The Phantom groaned weakly as Richard rushed out of the palace door. The sea churned around the prince. He gave a mighty kick with the flippers and shot upward. Again and again he kicked but still he did not reach the top.

His breath gave out and the ringing began in his ears. With his last bit of strength he gave one more kick and suddenly his head was out of water and he was safe. He left the flippers by the side of the dreadful sea and sped eastward to Santa Land.

Santa was sitting at his fireside when Richard returned.

"There," said Richard as he laid the black diamond in Santa's hands. "I've brought you the golden thread and I've brought you the black diamond. Now give me courage and wisdom so that I may be a proper prince and save my father's kingdom."

He stood very straight and proud before Santa. His head was high and his eyes were shining.

But Santa looked at him and shook his head. "No," he said. "I cannot give these things to you."

"But — you promised!" cried Richard.

Santa smiled. "How can I give you what you already have?"

Richard's mouth fell open in surprise. But before he could speak the door crashed open and Patrick Tweedieknese staggered into the room.

"What a boy!" he gasped. "What a prince! Never has his like been seen before!"

mas prevail at this anniversary of the birth of the Prince of Peace. As a result, understanding and good will among our people is promoted and our faith in God, which was declared when our nation was born, is strengthened.

It is heartening to observe American adherence to the traditions and ideals of Christmas, and it is my earnest hope — the above — "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men" in Russia, and indeed in the hearts of all people throughout the world.

We were proud and pleased this week to welcome Mr. Billy Joe Jenkins of Paducah. Mr. Jenkins was one of thirteen men in the United States to receive the General Electric All-American Award for outstanding public service during the past two years in their communities. Among other contributions to community service, Jenkins installed free television cable and serviced TV sets at Richards Memorial Hospital, assisted with Boy Scout and Little League work, and supervised public address systems at various functions. Paducahans can be justly proud of this outstanding community servant.

IN ALL PROBABILITY there is nothing quite so useless as last year's telephone directory. Since the new dial directories appeared, I have to look up every number...

H. D. CHATTER Christmas Time Brings Letters

By ARGENT DRAPER One of the best things about Christmas is hearing from friends and former residents. The Pat Sullivans sent a greeting which has the picture of both Pat, Loyce and Susan. Susan is a year, and a half old now and Loyce says she is doing a lot of cute, smart things.

The A. E. Jurys are getting a long fine in Missouri. They had another dry year but the crops were pretty good. George is a junior in Missouri University and Gene Ray is finishing high school.

Stella and Jack Flowers are in Spring, N. M. They are running a cafe and are open 24 hours a day. Stella says it is a steady job.

SLIM WESTER, the Lions wrestling promoter, tells me that Hereford will have a Heavyweight Championship match on Jan. 11. He says Dick Hilton of Oklahoma A. and M. slipped a couple of fast holds on Lou Fez and recently copped the belt.

Bill Lenderman, C-C manager, is predicting an even larger Chamber of Commerce banquet this year than last. If you recall, the banquet last January set a national record with some 814 paid attendance.

BILL GETS EXCITED fairly easy at times — and he is now quite overboard on Wes Harrison, billed on the annual C-C dinner program as "Mr. Sound Effects."

Meanwhile, we still have Christmas to worry about long before banquet time. New Year, too, which reminds me that Roger Corbett called and said he has some unusually good Cotton Bowl tickets he would like to move.

CHANGING TIMES: An old fashioned girl blushed when she was embarrassed, but the modern girl is embarrassed when she blushes.

Bud To Blossom Club Holds Annual Gift Exchange-Party

Bud To Blossom Club held its annual Christmas party and gift exchange in the home of Mrs. Jimmy White Friday afternoon. Highlighting the scene was the flower show held in connection with the party with members displaying their own door swags, wreaths and other holiday decorations made especially for the occasion.

Following the gift exchange and party a short business session was called when members voted to cancel the next meeting scheduled for Jan. 3, and use the day for committee meetings in preparation for decorating banquet tables for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet which will be held on Jan. 17.

Members decided to use the theme "The Future" in decorating for the event and all committee were named. Mrs. Glenn W. Williams is general chairman of arrangements. Members attending the meeting were Mesdames Herbert Haseloff, Glyn Bilibrey, R. A. girls, and faithful. Lonesome

Dear Lonesome,
I don't think such a boy exists. I have been looking for years and I haven't found one that even comes close to these requirements. However, if you do find such a boy give me a ring at 3329.

Dear Miss Heart-throb,
What ya do when a boy stands ya up and ya later see him with another girl and later when he asks ya fer a date and ya want to stand him up buy ya don't wanna stand him up becaus ya want to go with him agin?

Dear Licky, Licky and Sticky,
Learn to spell and write me a gain!

Dear Miss Heart-throb,
I am a Freshman girl in love with a Senior who doesn't know I exist. I carry his books for him and walk him to every class but all he does is call me a "leech."

Dear Love-Sick,
If he calls you a "leech," it sounds as if he has already noticed you. Why don't you play hard-to-get or try dropping his books on his toes. That ought to cause some action! If it doesn't, nothing will work.

Dear Miss Heart-throb,
Well, here I am. Revolting isn't it? But, can I help it if I try so hard to be sweet. Just because people can't understand me. People take me for granted too much. They don't realize what a blessing I am.

Dear Angel,
Sounds as if you have a chip on your shoulder. Try seeing other peoples good points and your own won't stand out so clearly.

Dear Miss Heart-throb,
I am 16, and in love with a boy who is 20 and a Sophomore in college. My parents asked me to leave him alone and go with boys my age. What should I tell my parents as I love this boy very much.

Dear Love-Less,
I think you ought to explain to your parents that you like him very much. Tell them that four years isn't a very big difference. See if you can talk to them and explain that you really care!

Dear Love-Sick,
If he calls you a "leech," it sounds as if he has already noticed you. Why don't you play hard-to-get or try dropping his books on his toes. That ought to cause some action! If it doesn't, nothing will work.

story of your dad and the Great War.
"Yes, Dad, but why did they need all the other soldiers?"

Counsel (to police witness) — "But, if a man is on his hands and knees in the middle of the road, does that prove he's drunk?"
Policeman — "No, sir, it does not, but this one was trying to roll up the white line."

"I suppose your baby reigns as king in your family."
"No, Price of Walls!"

Drunk (to bartender) — "Hey, gimme a horse's neck."
Bartender — "I'll have a horse's tail. There's no use killing two horses."

Billie (who had eaten his apple) — "Let's play Adam and Eve."
Pattie — "How do we do that?"
Billie — "You tempt me to eat your apple and I'll give in."

The twins had been brought to be christened.
"What names?" asked the clergyman.
"Steak and Kidney," the father answered.

"Bill," cried the mother, "It's Kate and Sidney."

A passenger in an airplane was far up in the sky when the pilot began to laugh hysterically.
Passenger — "What's the joke?"
Pilot — "I'm thinking of what they'll say at the asylum when they find out I have escaped."

Emily had been to school for the first time. "Well, darling, what did you learn?" asked her mother, on Emily's return.
"Nuffin," sighed Emily hopelessly. "I've got to go back again tomorrow."

Lady — "Did you see the two diamond rings my husband gave me for Christmas?"
Minister — "Yes, I saw them when you put that nickel in the collection plate."

Civilian — "Where can I find a doctor honest enough to tell me there's nothing wrong with me?"
Friend — "Join the army, Pal."

"Look here now, Harold," said a father to his little son who was naughty. "if you don't say your prayers you won't go to heaven."
"I don't want to go to heaven," sobbed the boy. "I want to go with you and mother."

John L. Belt Turns up in Want Ad

HAMMOND, IND. — The characteristic pose of John L. Sullivan, boastfully waving a beer mug and showing off his famous heavyweight championship belt, spotlights a fabled era in American history.

It was the Gay Nineties, a boisterous back-slapping age when bare hands and raw muscles were put to the test.

The great John L. was the last bare knuckle champion at a time when boxing was king. Baseball was in its infancy and football had not begun to catch the national fancy.

Sullivan won fame unheard of by the present breed of pugilists. He and his magnificent belt were the pinnacles of American idolatry until a slick young bank clerk named James J. Corbett outperformed the heavyweight champion under modern rules in 1892.

Sullivan had been champion 10 years and he was still one of the nation's favorites when he died in 1918 on his Massachusetts farm.

Today, the controversial John L. has returned for a brief spot in the sports limelight because his lustrous belt has been uncovered in storage.

Melvin Herman, an 84-year-old former sign painter who has resided in Hammond since 1904, recently discovered it.

Once studded with 97 diamonds, the belt has been shorn of its diamonds.

The story goes that Sullivan picked them out and used them to raise money for his wild drinking forays. The belt now bears imitations — called zircons — in place of diamonds.

It consists of nine gold-plated panels, four on each side of a large center piece (11 inches tall). The belt measures 48 inches in length. On the back are inscribed the names of 35 persons prominent at the turn of the century.

Sullivan was given the belt at a Boston banquet in August, 1887 when the champion was at the height of his reign.

A reported $10,000 was subscribed by his followers to pay a group of Boston jewelers to make the trophy, which bears the date July 4, 1887. This date was used because Sullivan was an outspoken American patriot.

Known as the "Boston belt," it is not to be confused with Richard K. Fox Police Gazette belt, presented to Sullivan after his 75-round victory over Jake Kilrain in 1889 and melted in the U. S. Mint in Philadelphia in 1926.

Sullivan had been in extremely poor health prior to the Kilrain fight and his manager, Bill Muldoon, influenced him to lay off the booze for six months in order to recover from various ailments. Sullivan regained his health and upon trimming Kilrain was his usual cocky self.

After his defeat by Corbett, Sullivan apparently had lost respect for the Boston belt. The classy bauble has been hocked a number of times. Its diamonds disappeared one by one.

Simpson's Pawn Shop in New York turned up with it in the early 1900s and offered it for outright sale since pawn premiums were overdue. Bill Muldoon, who became New York boxing commissioner, redeemed it for Sullivan.

John L. swore off drinking in 1905 and made tours to preach against the evils of liquor.

His last recollections of the belt came shortly before his death in 1918 when he stated it "was lost or stolen somewhere in the Midwest." As he recalled, the shop which was showing it was broken into and the belt stolen.

Close friends of Urbine (Sport) Herrmann, wealthy Chicago sportsman and promoter who died in 1939, report he often talked of the time he "purchased the belt in a personal duel with the late Henry Foyd." The previous owner was not disclosed.

The belt later fell into the hands of Charles West, Chicago tavern and hotel owner who moved to Hammond in 1927 when he purchased a hotel there. He died in 1943.

How did 84-year-old Melvin Herman get the belt? Not even he can (or will) remember. An investigation discloses he is the brother of Sport-Herrmann (having long since dropped the double letters as a matter of convenience).

The John L. Sullivan $10,000 diamond and gold belt, made in Boston in 1887, has been found in Hammond, Ind., where an 84-year-old ex-sign painter sought to sell it through a classified advertisement.

The belt matches perfectly early pictures of the original and is being moved back into its rightful place of prominence. New owner, Publisher James De Laurier of Hammond, has a full schedule for displaying it.

Its sudden reappearance raises a number of questions but revives a legend which jingles many a clouded memory.

Wholesome champions — the Corbetts, Dempseys, Louises, Marciannos — have been well-respected. But none captivated the imagination of a growing America like whisky-drinking, rule-breaking John L. When he went down, an era went with him.

Soil Tests Convince Expert Mars Supports Some Life

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Earth men could live on the planet Mars, but they would need to stay in space suits all the time, says an Air Force scientist.

But other forms of life might exist on Mars and even flourish, says Dr. Herbertus Strughold of the Department of Space Medicine at Randolph Air Force Base. Dr. Strughold, a former German aviation medicine specialist, has authored a book on Mars.

He has conducted research on his favorite planet at the Air Force laboratory here. He says soil samples tested show that certain microscopic organisms can live under conditions like those on Mars.

The atmospheric conditions on Mars are nearer to those on Earth than on any other planet in this universe, but are hardly appropriate for a summer resort.

Night temperatures run 70 degrees below zero or colder, Dr. Strughold says. During the day, certain parts of the planet warm up to about 70 degrees.

Dr. Strughold says man could stay alive on Mars, but he would have to wear a space suit continually because atmospheric pressure would be about like that found at 50,000 feet above the earth's sea level.

Water, Dr. Strughold believes, apparently is scarce on Mars. In a recent experiment, Dr. Strughold took soil samples from the Painted Desert of Arizona, from the Grand Canyon and from the icy slopes of Mt. McKinley in Alaska. Such soil contains nitrogen loving bacteria, considered most likely to be at home on Mars.

The samples were put in a deep freezer at night and allowed to warm to room temperature during the day.

"After a week or two, certain micro-organisms disappeared completely," Dr. Strughold says. "Others flourished."

The green color on Mars as observed by astronomers may be something other than vegetation as we know it, Dr. Strughold believes.

But he says there is a distinct possibility that some form of life does exist on the planet.

"Life has an enormous capacity to adjust," he says.

The research Dr. Strughold is conducting is aimed at the distant day when men may travel to Mars. But only a part of his time is spent on Martian problems. His immediate concern is keeping U. S. airmen alive in the upper stratosphere and returning them to earth safely.

Businessman After College Degree at 39

GALESBURG, Ill. — Action speaks for John Lowery who figures it isn't too late to learn.

At 39, the farm implement dealer enrolled this fall as a freshman at Knox College with an eye on a college diploma.

The fact that his oldest son is the same age as his fellow freshman class members doesn't discourage him. Nor does the fact that he must drive 20 miles from his hometown of Woodhull to attend classes each day.

Before he resumed his education after a 21-year lapse, Lowery operated a farm tool dealership. He has four children, the youngest less than 2 and the oldest in the Navy.

After high school he went to work for a steel plant in Gary, Ind. After 13 years he left that work and acquired the dealership.

After eight years in business, he made his decision to return to school.

Although his studies are harder than he expected, he finds the instructors "aren't like what I thought they'd be. They're friendlier, more interested, than I'd expected."

"I especially enjoy the friendliness and courtesy of the younger people," he said.

Lowery would like to teach business education. But whatever he does, he will have attained the goal it was not too late to reach for — higher education.

Table Decorations
The candles on the diningroom table may be tall, as they are narrow and do not obstruct the view of a person opposite another, but it is a mistake to have a high floral decoration. The flowers should be arranged in a low receptacle.

The Paint Can
After buying a can of paint, turn it upside down overnight, and when opening it the next morning it will not have to be stirred so long.

English Mustard
It is easy to make English mustard merely by mixing mustard and water, adding a pinch of salt to flavor it, and a pinch of sugar to soften the taste.

Shriveled Hands
When one's hands tend to wrinkle and shrivel every time they are in water any length of time, rub them with salt or vinegar well into the skin. This is very effective in removing that unpleasant feeling from the hands, and the flesh will become soft and fine.

ALL CLEAR NOW?
DENVER — The Colorado Legislature changed the names of two colleges in the state this year. Colorado A&M College at Fort Collins became Colorado State University and Colorado State College of Education at Greeley was shortened to Colorado State College.

Missile Center Gets New Camera

FOR LONG-LOOKING—This is the Mark II Recording Optical Tracking Instrument, a telescopic camera with a 500-inch focal length used to photograph missiles in flight. With the lens only partially run out, its crew shot the picture below of an airliner cruising 10 miles away.

NORWALK, Conn. (AP) — A Norwalk-manufactured camera designed to track and time missiles in the early stages of their flight has been installed at Melbourne Beach, Fla., about 15 miles south of the U. S. Air Force's Cape Canaveral missile launching site.

Called a Mark II Recording Optical Tracking Instrument, it enables the Air Force to record the track of a missile moving into space and time it with greater accuracy than has heretofore been possible.

Manufactured by the Perkin-Elmer Corp. of Norwalk, ROTI consists of a 24-inch aperture primary objective telescope, sighting telescopes, camera controls and assorted equipment. Mounted on a Navy 5-inch gun mount especially adapted for the purpose, the whole assembly weighs more than eight tons. The largest, most complex system of its type ever built, ROTI can photograph details of missiles several hundred miles away.

The Melbourne ROTI is one of four being built by Perkin-Elmer for the Air Force Missile Test Center. A second data-collection station is nearing completion at Vero Beach, Fla.

ROTI, says Dr. Roderic M. Scott, vice president of Perkin-Elmer, provides tracking information unobtainable from other sources. The ROTI system provides actual photographs of missiles in flight.

Maine Man, 69, Finds Hobby; Beats Youngsters in Races

PORTLAND, (AP) — Emil Nelson feels from his own experience that every man his age should have a hobby — but not necessarily his.

Emil is 69 and his hobby is driving a hopped-up 1934 Ford at speeds better than 100 m.p.h. He believes he's the nation's oldest hot rodder.

"I feel like I'm 30 years old," enthuses the near-septuagenarian. "I can run races with the boys anytime."

And to prove it, Emil can show two awards won this year in the finals of the New England Hot Rod Council competition.

His Ford coupe was the fastest car entered from Maine and the top car in its class at the races over the Sanford Municipal Airport drag strip.

Emil isn't new to racing. He started speeding about two years ago after a lapse of 37 years. His last racing car in the old days was a Stanley Steamer he made himself.

Marriage and a metal working job kept him pretty close to home since the Stanley days. Lately his knowledge of metals, his love for fast cars and a convenient back yard shop, brought him back into competition, this time against men a third of his age.

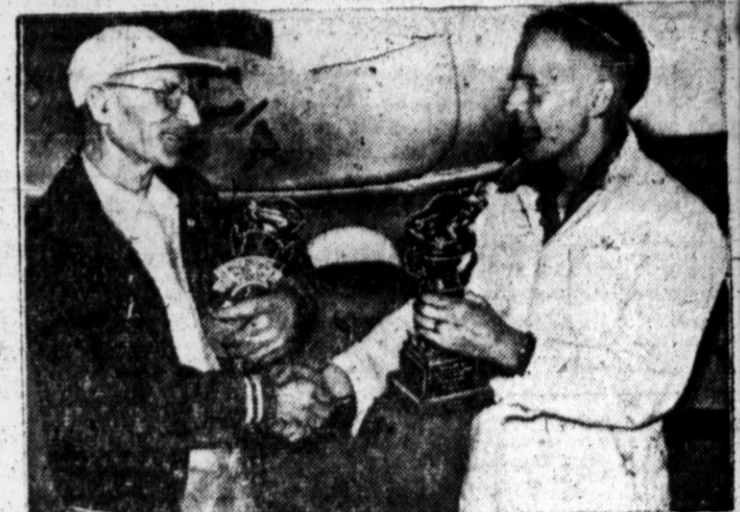

He has been working on his present car for three years.

His last car was built of spare parts from the Stanley plant at Watertown, Mass., where he worked as a mechanic-assembler under Fred Marriot, who designed the famous "Torpedo" which outran the world's best cars at Ormond Beach, Fla., in the 1920s.

Emil, an immigrant from Norway, learned metal working in Massachusetts after spending two years as a press boy aboard a tramp steamer.

At the end of every work day, Emil is out in his back yard garage, either helping his two sons and a son-in-law on their hopped-up cars or working on his own machine. One night a week, he and the boys attend meetings of the Portland Shaft Twister's Club, a hot rod group.

RAF Will Play Santa for Malaya's Jungle Troops

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — RAF Valetta transports will wing out over Malaya's green jungles on Christmas Eve dropping canisters filled with Christmas fare to British Commonwealth troops forced by the Communist rebellion to spend the festive season in jungle forts, isolated outposts or on patrol.

It will be the 10th Christmas in succession that Commonwealth forces have had no break from the gruelling jungle warfare. "I must stress that there will be no question of a letup," a senior army spokesman said.

"It is impossible to say how many men will be out in the jungle on Christmas Eve or Christmas itself. There are always several hundred troops at one time out on patrol but if we were to receive a hot tip on Christmas Eve we would immediately mount an operation," he added.

The Christmas "hamper" dropped by parachute will include dried turkey, pudding, nuts, whiskey, brandy, beer and Christmas delicacies.

On Christmas day, voice aircraft, usually used to call on the Red guerrillas to surrender, will broadcast carols to troops in the jungle.

This has become a highlight of Christmas day in Malaya since two years ago. Even the civilian population in the towns look forward to it.

More than 1,000 Australian soldiers and 750 New Zealanders have just arrived to join 15,000 Britons in the jungle war.

To many of the Australians and New Zealanders, it will be their first Christmas away from home.

Here's Why Skiers Pray for Snow

SCHUSS STYLES—The girl ski fan here wears a royal blue parka with white yoke and red-and-white heart braid trim, while her partner wears a zipper knit cardigan with bold contrasting yoke. Both designed by Fred Picard, Sun Valley.

AFTER SKI—It's just as much fun when you come in off the slopes, if you have colorful outfit, such as the "skiing poodle" felt skirt at left and the bulky Alpine jacket of hand-blocked Swiss cotton at right, bound in heavy rib-knit black.

UNDER SKI—And here's what to wear beneath—red knit nylon ski-o-tards that fit like the skin, by Carter.

IF AT FIRST
CLEVELAND — An ex-convict who likes jail so well he steals to get back into it had to try twice before a federal judge would accommodate him.
Howard W. Schaffer, a transfer who has spent 25 of his 51 year behind bars, was given a suspended sentence and fined $100 for stealing a letter from the mail. Balked at this attempt to land in jail, he went out the next day stole another letter from a rural mailbox and triumphantly gave it unopened to police.
This time Federal Judge Paul C. Weick obligingly gave him three years.

TO THE CLEANERS
DENVER — A cleaning company employe found five $100 bills in the pocket of a man's suit left by a customer. He telephoned the man's house and got the wife. She seemed amazed, but lost no time in rushing down to the cleaners and collecting the $500.

TANK JOB
CLEVELAND — Victor Yonke, 28, of Cleveland, had a ready explanation for officers who stopped him for speeding 11 miles-per-hour on Municipal Shoreway.
"I was trying to get to a gas station before I ran out of gas," Yonke said. He went to jail anyway.

THREE SONS, THREE HORSES

Artist-Mom Leads Busy Life

DARIEN, Conn. — Living proof that an artist need not be a hermit, starving in a dedicated garret, is Ruth Ray, who has managed to hit the top ranks of American artists while raising three small sons, running a big house in the country and riding to hounds twice weekly with her husband, Dr. John R. Graham.
The Graham menage here includes three horses and assorted dogs and cats in addition to the lively young sons — Ian, 8, Willard Reid, 5, and Lyle, 3.
"Sometimes it's a little hectic," says the tall, attractive Mrs. Graham. "But in spite of everything I paint from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. — every day except Tuesdays and Saturdays, when my husband and I ride with our hunt club.
"On those days we get up about 4 a.m. and I cook up a batch of hot cereal for everybody. Then we saddle up the horses and are on the road by daybreak — the hunt is 20 miles away from our home."
Ruth Ray has been painting and riding most of her life. She paints everything — people, horses and landscapes, has had more than a dozen one-woman shows of her paintings, and is well known for her Christmas-card work for the American Artists Group. One of her best-known paintings is a portrait of her husband's mother, and another is of her youngest son. But also prized by collectors are her paintings of horses and landscapes with a slightly surrealist flavor.
"I prefer to call my style romantic realism," says Ruth. "I don't think anybody is interested in my subconscious."
Before her marriage, Ruth taught for a while at the Art Students League — "I had a horse to support" — and took her paint box abroad, to Europe, Egypt, Mexico and Guatemala. How does she manage such a full life?
"I couldn't do it without an understanding husband," says she.

A BOY AND A GIRL—Bobby Morrow, Abilene Christian College's triple Olympic Gold Medal winner, plays second fiddle to his wife, Jo Ann, who gave birth to twins, a boy and a girl, at Hendrick Memorial Hospital. With the parents' are Vicki Jo, 5 pounds, 4 1/2 ounces, left, and Ron Floyd, 5 pounds, 11 ounces, who was the first born. The youngsters were two hours and five minutes old when they held their first press conference. (AP Photo)

The chemise has even hit the ski slopes this winter. The newest look in parkas is as loose and unbuttoned as the Paris gypsy sack. Of course most girls still prefer to wear them belted, to accentuate a trim waistline — but sticklers for high style may let the colorful, light-weight ski tops fall loose and free. Mother Hubbard style.
"Color has taken over ski fashions for both men and women," says Fred Picard, ski wear designer of Sun Valley, Idaho. "The brighter the better is the rule. Against the white background of the ski slopes, vivid colors just seem to belong."
Ski pants are trim, narrow and fitted to a T. Many are of stretch fabric, which rules out sag. Colors for pants as well as parkas run the full range of the rainbow — pastel pinks, blues and yellows are popular, with bright red and royal blue also top favorites.
Parkas for the fashion-wise are of light-weight cottons, often trimmed with bright braided or embroidered, with wide yokes and deep gulleots, allowing complete freedom of action without weight.
Men like broad-shouldered sweaters and form-fitting pants — and also are going in for blazing colors.
So if you've been sticking to those old conservative navy blue ski pants and tops, better catch up with the color brigade if you want to stand out on the slopes this year.

BEST FOOT FORWARD
FRANTINGTON, W. Va. — The National Assn. of Chiropractors is changing its name to the American Podiatry Assn., effective Jan. 1.
Dr. Jonas Morris, president, explained to the Middle-Atlantic Assn. of Chiropractors-Podiatrists that the change results from a more accurate interpretation of the Greek bases for the two words.
"The base for chiropody, he said, meant 'of the hands and feet,' while that of podiatry meant 'of the feet.'"
Morris, professor of practical administration at the Temple University College of Chiro-pody, estimated that 5,000 more podiatrists are needed in this country.
He said there are fewer than 7,000 in practice now, and that many cities and towns have none. He also estimated that 70 per cent of Americans have some foot disorder.

NO REST FOR WEARY
COLUMBUS, Miss. — Arthur Hicks made two mistakes when he crawled into an automobile to sleep off a little too-much Saturday night merry making.
Police said the automobile, he chose was parked on the police department parking lot and belonged to the department's janitor, Mike Hill.
Hill found Hicks in his car and police charged him with public drunkenness.

"BE PREPARED"

OTTAWA (CP) — Boy Scouts, who will run the lost children depot at the Central Canada Exhibition, ask parents to harness small children, tag larger ones with name, address and telephone number, and tell the whole family to find a Boy Scout when they do get lost.

BACHELORS WANTED
CASPER, Wyo. — Casper has promoted itself right out of its own claim as bachelor capital of America.

Two years ago Casper proudly boasted more single men per single woman than any other city in the country — and used it as a talking point for young women secretaries.

A special census this fall reversed things. The census shows 17,612 males and 17,864 females.

Now the Casper Chamber of Commerce has another ideal pitch — trying to lure single men to the city.

CHICAGO — Trainer Orin Benson is proving you can teach an old dog new tricks.

His pride and joy is an outlaw, taught to do small dog parlor stunts.

The do's American Kennel Club registration papers call him Prince Valiant but the trainer has named him Brogan.

"You know," says Benson, "that's an old shoe that's been kicked around."

Brogan's early dog life in a small Minnesota town left much to be desired. He had a kindly, aged owner, but he was unmanageable. He was a bum and a fighter.

Today Brogan is about to return to his blue-blood status because he's become a gentleman. He'll sit up, shake hands, heel, salute and balance on a low bar. He has mastered 15 commands.

UNTIMELY KISS
MONMOUTH, Ill. — Ray Schenour, 50, paid heavily for a kiss he stole from a 16-year-old girl.

She told police that she tried to find out the time; when Schenour came upstairs to the apartment above his to tell her the time, he evidently expected a reward, for he put his arm around her and kissed her. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

Justice of Peace R. Hardin McCoy fined him $100 and $9 costs.

IF THAT GIRL in your life has her heart set on a fragrance, don't disappoint her. Some men think that perfume is a frivolous indulgence. But it isn't so. A woman who wants perfume thinks of it usually as an accessory to her wardrobe.

You probably can get her favorite scent in the quantity you can afford. If not, perhaps toilet water or cologne will solve your shopping problem. There are gimmick-type gifts too, that fall into the perfume category, that may do as surprise additions.

Tie to the tree a smart gold metal purse flacon of a lavender floral scent. It has a coin dispenser at the base, and comes with a tiny refilling funnel. Or give her an atomizer that is especially designed to protect perfume from evaporation and change.

Perfume will give her more mileage than other fragrances, of course, although the initial investment sometimes seems overwhelming to the budget. A light, long-lasting scent, goes a long way. One available in a metered spray gives some 200 applications in the smallest bottle.

MESSY ACCIDENT
TOLEDO, Ohio. — In one of Toledo's messier accidents, an oil truck and a glue truck collided on busy Woodville road and spilled their cargoes on the pavement. No one was hurt, but traffic was rerouted for a day while road crews cleaned up.

AUDIO TV
DALLAS — Sara Suwal, blind for 20 years, has the smallest television set in town.

For obvious reasons, it has no picture tube. Yet Miss Suwal uses it instead of a radio.

The set is actually a small cabinet about the size of a table model radio, but its dial has numbers for TV channels. Tugged in, it picks up the audio portion of television programs.

The set is built by the American Foundation for the Blind. Miss Suwal is employed by the Texas Commission for the Blind.

SWEEPING STATEMENT
BILLINGS, Okla. — Superintendent of Schools John Gorton isn't going to make any more rash deals with the high school student body.

He told the students anyone found in the halls after the bell rings in the morning has to sweep the halls. If no one is found, he pushes the broom.

Gorton has been on the business end of the broom since school started.

THE PAY OFF
FARMVILLE, Va. — Betty Bland Barnette of Longwood College wanted to attend the Tobacco Festival at Richmond. Associate Dean M. H. Bittinger said she would be charged with cutting classes — that is unless she were named festival Queen. In which event he would forgive the cuts and buy her a lunch. Betty won, and Dr. Bittinger made good too.
