Cotton Soil Bank Deadline Changed

Feb. 20 has been set as the new deadline for placing cotton land in the acreage reserve, according to a memorandum received here Thursday by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office. March 7 was the original deadline.

Applications are no longer being taken for the program, according to Faust Collier, local ASC manager. Collier said farmers wanting to participate in the program are being placed on a list until definite word is received on the amount of money the county is to be allotted.

Collier said of the 56 farmers who are seeking to participate in the cotton soil bank only nine were allowed to complete agreements before the program was temporarily halted on Jan. 17.

He added that 36 farmers, including the nine completions, have actually filed applications and the other 20 are just on the waiting list.

On Jan. 24 the U. S. Department of Agriculture allotted $18,794 for the county to pay for cotton acreage agreements. Collier said those funds is enough for 26 farmers.

"We're waiting now for USDA to determine if we're going to get any more money," Collier said. "Farmers can come in and get on the list, but that's all we can do," he added.

Interest in the program increased when rates were raised from $40 per acre to $42 per acre.

STILL SHORT

Mothers' March Nets $750 for March of Dimes

Members of four Hereford child study clubs collected approximately $750 Friday night during the annual "Mothers' March on Polio," according to Mrs. Maurice Tannahill, general chairman of the event.

The total is about $384 short of the $1,134.24 collected in 1957.

Over 75 women from the El Nino Club, La Madre Mia Club, Young Mothers Club and Hereford Child Study Club started their March at 6:30 p.m. Friday. The last of the workers reported to their headquarters in the Jim Hill Hotel shortly before 9 p.m.

Friday night's contributions brought the county's total to approximately $3,450, which is still some $2,300 short of the $5,800 goal for the entire campaign.

PAUL HARVEY said earlier this week "The drive will be extended into next month (February), because it is imperative that we beat, or at least meet, last year's figure of $5,800."

Four concentrated drives have been put on locally by organizations to raise the funds. Last Sunday the Jaycees, Lions Club and high school students held their drives, bringing in approximately $1,918 during the day.

Dam Site Studied West of Hereford

TWO CIVILIAN representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers from Tulsa were in Hereford Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, studying the practicability of building a dam two miles east of the city on Tierra Blanca Creek as a flood control.

The men, Oliver Keener, of the planning section and Woody Cambron, economic report section, were sent here by the Tulsa department "at the request of Rep. Walter Rogers."

Under Public Law 685, 84th Congress, the Engineers can build a "flood control" projects which do not exceed $400,000 in cost without appropriation by Congress, if the project is deemed necessary. The quoted figure includes everything such as engineering, administration, etc. There is no limit to the total cost, according to Cambron, just the federal part.

LOCAL COSTS for such a project include cost of lands, right of way, relocation, operation and maintain after completion.

Two members of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce, Ed Skypala and H. C. Baird, took the pair of Tulsa men on a tour of the district which would be covered by lake water if the dam should be built Wednesday afternoon.

According to one of the representatives, if the dam were to be built at the proposed site, its maximum height would be 50 feet, with a 45-foot spillway, because of the depth of the creek valley.

THE ENGINEERS said water would back up approximately four miles from the point of the dam site.

Flood history and other data are being gathered by the Tulsa headquarters on the project, and a full report will be made available through Rep. Rogers in the "near future."

Suggest New Crops for County

A suggestion that Deaf Smith vegetable growers develop an additional line of crops for summer production which could be produced out of season for the more prominent vegetables presently being grown was made by J. F. Rosborough, horticultural marketing specialist at a meeting Thursday of some 100 local farmers and business men.

Held in the county court house, speakers from Texas A&M College extension system and the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture gave authoritative view points and answered questions of those attending.

Appearing on the program were Knox Parr, district agent, W. F. Bennett, soil chemist, Joe E. Cole, associate agent-horticulturist, B.

Financing Delays Deep Well Project

Nine-Man Group Will Be Named To Study Well

More than 75 farmers and businessmen attended a meeting Friday night in the Jim Hill Hotel to discuss drilling a deep test well in Deaf Smith County to see if irrigation water can be found beneath the Ogalalla formation.

Lack of immediate financing forced the group to delay definite decisions on location of the well and other details. A committee will be appointed this week to work out financing of the project.

Bill Broadhurst, High Plains Water District hydrologist from Lubbock, gave information on other deep test wells drilled around the Panhandle area, saying it is "a simple, sure, but costly way to find out" if there is such water in the area.

Broadhurst, in talking of a deep test well drilled in southwestern Floyd County, said, "I think some similar conditions exist in the Hereford area."

THE FLOYD COUNTY well, drilled close to Petersburg, was drilled to 800 feet, and was a 19-inch hole. It was pumped three days, at 75 gallons a minute, while samples were taken. The samples were sent to Austin, Texas Tech and Dallas, where each testing report disclosed the water was too salty for irrigation.

While explaining the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District's plans for the well, Virgil Dudson, district commissioner, said the well's owner would get his money's worth from the top-level well.

The plan is for the property owners to pay for the high-level well, and local interests to finance the drilling of the deeper portion.

BROADHURST SAID he felt 800 feet was too shallow for a deep test well around here, however, and suggested going to 1,000 feet. J. H. Fish, a former well driller, estimated the cost for the well at $4 per foot. He said it would cost $2 a foot for the pilot drilling and $2 for reaming.

Dodson said several businesses in the area had committed themselves.

2,668 Pay Poll Taxes

According to a "rough count" by the Deaf Smith County Tax Assessor-Collector office, 2,668 voters paid their poll tax this year, falling six short of last year's total of 2,674.

The tax office employees stayed open until midnight Friday night, selling 145 receipts between 3 p.m. and 12 p.m.

1956 national election year, seems to have been the bumper year for voting, as 3,116 voters paid their poll taxes. Only 1,800 paid in 1955.

Sugar Beet Group To Meet Thursday

An Agricultural Stabilization and Conversation advisory committee will meet at the local ASC office Thursday morning to determine allocation of sugar beet acreage in four counties.

W. N. Hodges, county ASC chairman, will represent Deaf Smith in the meeting. Representatives from the other three counties also will be present.

W. M. Hott, state ASC man, and Millard A. Webb, Dimmitt, will sit in on the meeting. Webb was recently appointed as a member of the five-man state ASC committee. Webb is a grower of irrigated cotton and grain.

Noted Dancer Says Ballet Best Reducer

By RAY SHAW
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Bothered about that extra weight here and there?

If you're a woman, Mme. Alexandra Danilova, one of the world's top prima ballerinas, suggests that you take up ballet. If not, get out in the yard and do some gardening.

The classical ballet movements, in the dancer's opinion, "are the best exercise for a woman's body." She says she believes every ballet theater should have special classes for women who want to keep slender, if not to learn the ballet. She adds:

MAME. DANILOBA—With ballet pupil Gayle Snider, 7.

"I do my classical and physical exercises daily. I believe in both. A woman may go to the studio once a week, but she must also do her exercises daily. Every woman who really looks well, exercises. It is boring, but one must do it."

"Very seldom is a woman both a goddess — and she can always improve herself."

Mme. Danilova, although retired from the stage, retains her 110-pound weight and a firm, young figure with long, slender legs.

She started dancing in Russia when she was eight, was a member of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo from 1938 to 1951, and inherited the title of "Madame" at the death of the famous Anna Pavlova.

Mme. Danilova joined the staff of the American Ballet Theatre in New York, and is spending several weeks here at the theatre's branch school.

She believes that every woman should garden — plant flowers, weed and cut grass, because "These exercises are very good for the stomach."

The pert ballerina admires the American home with all its conveniences. But these mean less physical exercise, she says, and more chance of gaining weight.

Family Home in Cemetery

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A 47-year-old widow and her two daughters live in a cemetery and like it.

"I've always loved nature, and I wanted my daughters to love it, too," explains Mrs. Evelyn Wiseman, manager of Woodlawn Cemetery.

From her 12-room house on the cemetery grounds, Mrs. Wiseman points to the scene before her, observing:

"You can't find surroundings more beautiful anywhere in Toledo."

Ahead stretches 160 rolling acres, threaded by a rambling creek and abounding in trees, flowers and small wildlife.

"There are more than 300 types of trees on the grounds and the wildlife includes rabbits, squirrels, raccoons, swans, ducks and geese," Mrs. Wiseman says. "We helped nature a bit recently by adding a peacock."

An energetic woman with a warm smile which often erupts into laughter, Mrs. Wiseman became manager of the non-profit, non-sectarian cemetery in 1950, five years after the death of her husband.

With the help of a superintendent and 15 workers, she is responsible of the care of some 60,000 graves, miles of roadways, electrical and water lines and the only crematory between Detroit and Cleveland.

At home, Mrs. Wiseman and her daughters share other interests and hobbies. Mrs. Wiseman is an accomplished pianist and a former music teacher, and likes to get out for an occasional evening of bowling.

Twenty-year-old Kay is studying at the University of Toledo and Judy is busy at the job of being an 11-year-old. Each girl has a garden and the two share pets consisting of three dogs, two cats and three parakeets.

"I've never had any trouble making my children understand that people want solitude when they come to the cemetery," Mrs. Wiseman says. "You see, their own father is buried here, too."

selves to finance the project, but he added, "Unless we can get the financing first, there is no use to go ahead with our planning."

A committee is to be appointed by Dodson "probably next Tuesday," to decide on what farmer will get the well, who will do the drilling, whose pump will be used and everything connected financially with the project.

Dodson said he would select nine members for the committee from Hereford to represent a bank, elevator, pump company, fuel company, utility company, drilling company and the county water underground committee.

Seventeen of the farmers present at the Friday meeting reported they were interested in having the well located on their property.

A representative of the U. S. Exploration Corp. from Amarillo, vice president Floyd K. Humphrey, said his company would donate its services in locating a well site.

USING AN INSTRUMENT called the "super sonic wave reflection receiver," the company guarantees finding water at the depth necessary, "even as far as 14,000 feet," if necessary," said Humphrey.

However, the geophysical engineer added the findings could not guarantee the quality of water it would find. "Water is water to this machine," said the representative.

Broadhurst, in answering questions on irrigation water from the audience, gave the State Legislature's definition on water waste.

Though the definition is broken down into five parts, he said the four he could remember were "Production of water from underground not used, permitting fresh water to run into non-fresh water, permitting any type of material to pollute from a formation or from surface of the ground, the willful, habitual letting of water to escape from the land it was produced for."

On the water supply, Broadhurst said, "We're taking it out faster than it is coming in. It will probably take a number of years, but the day is coming, if we don't start taking more advantage of what we're pumping, when we are going to run out of this high-level water. We might as well start conserving now."

On the re-charge program, he said, "We've put a lot of water back in the ground, but we're having a lot of trouble with the silt we're putting in the well from the lakes. A well will take 1,054 gallons per hour."

"The average annual re-charge is less than 100,000 acre feet per year. Pumpage is about 5,000,000 acre feet per year. If we put every drop of precipitation in the ground we receive each year, it would be only half a million acre feet per year."

player became entangled over the ball. Kitchens said the Lobo took a swing at Curtsinger and Hereford's Bobby Burrus jumped in to help the Hereford captain and players from both teams piled in. The officials stopped the fight and none of the players was expelled.

Kitchens said he did not see the play in which Slagle was injured, but said the lanky forward probably will miss the Phillips game. Slagle injured his ankle earlier in the season. Before he was hurt Friday night, Slagle scored 16 points and was grabbing several rebounds, the coach said.

CURTSINGER was high man for the night with 21 points and Fred Lookingbill and Slagle each hit 16 points. Doug Cannon had 14 for the losers.

Hereford lead 17-8 at the first quarter, 39-17 at the half and 50-36 at the beginning of the fourth period.

Charge Clovis Man With Theft Here

Roy Lee Smithson, 38, of Clovis, N. M., has been charged here with theft over $50, a felony. Smithson was arrested Friday by Clovis police and was to be picked up Saturday afternoon by Deaf Smith Sheriff Charles Skelton.

Skelton said Smithson allegedly stole a portable typewriter, a slide projector and various articles of clothing from Eddie Spring on Jan. 18 when the two were working on the Bruce Coleman farm west of Hereford.

The typewriter and projector were recovered Friday from a man in Clovis who said he bought them from Smithson. Skelton said Smithson, an ex-convict, had waived extradition proceedings.

Dusty Plaque Only Reminder of Dogtown's Finest Hour

MEGALIA, Calif. (AP) — A bronze plaque along a sunbaked canyon road is all that stands today as a reminder of Dogtown's finest hour — the day in 1859 when a 54-pound gold nugget was found.

Back in those days there was shouting in the streets and free drinks at the saloon.

First, it is necessary to explain that this sleepy little community in the rolling hills of northern California once carried the name of Dogtown.

An early writer tells why: "Dogs in the stores, dogs in the saloons, dogs in the hotels, dogs in the roads, dogs in the woods, dogs in the miners camps — in fact, dogs everywhere!"

But getting back to the nugget. It was washed down during hydraulic mining operations on the Willard Claim, along a gulch.

The three owners of the claim were absent on the big day, but here's an account given by one of them, Ira A. Wetherbee:

"I was playing a game of poker in the afternoon of that day in the saloon at Dogtown when several of the miners demanded that I set up the drinks. . . . Quite a pot was on the poker table where we were playing, amounting to about $1,300, and I insisted the game be finished before I responded to their request.

"No attention was paid to my desire. . . . They picked me up from the chair. . . . and set me on the bar and demanded the drinks."

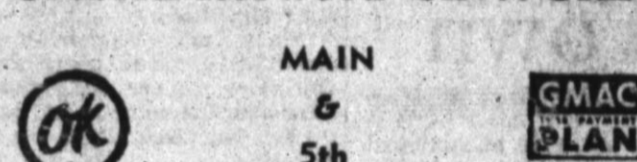

"Thinking some calamity had befallen the mine, and wanting to know all about it, I ordered the drinks. After which I was told of finding the nugget."

The massive chunk, the size of a cantaloupe, was put on exhibit under guard at the Wells, Fargo & Company office for a few days, then was taken to San Francisco and melted, returning its owners about $10,690.

Artist's Window Remains Same But His View Keeps Changing

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — From the view window of his cliff-top home, R. Stephens Wright can look 40 feet down and see fish darting back and forth in the crystal-clear waters at Laguna Beach.

From his desert home 100 miles away he views the panorama they call Palm Springs — the desert, the mountains, the Joshua trees — across a landscaped courtyard where a fountain bubbles in the cool night air.

Wright is a nationally known portrait artist. He has wealth and social position. There's nothing unusual about the fact that he has two vacation homes.

But here's what is unusual: they're both the same home. It's a trailer.

Wright is one of the four million Americans who live in trailers all or part of the time. Of course, he isn't typical — he's listed in both the national and Southern California social registers, and few society types are trailerites. But then among trailer folk, who is typical?

They have more in common with the snail than they do with one another. They come from all social and economic strata, and a trailer park cross section would show as many different people as you'd find, say, in a big apartment house. They have this in common: they wear their homes like fancy coats, and take them anywhere they like.

Wright, for instance, spends the summer in his 36-footer at Treasure Island, a fashionable but not exclusive park on the bluffs at Laguna Beach, some 50 miles south of Los Angeles.

When the first cold wind of winter blows in off the Pacific, Wright calls a trailer moving firm. For $50 they move his home 100 miles to winter quarters at Palm Springs' Skyridge park, where trailers are parked in four-home squares around fancy courtyards.

Wright has enough money to keep the trailer for vacations and weekends — his permanent home is in Pasadena. But there are many Southern Californians of modest means who could afford to be his trailer-park neighbor.

"The space costs me $75 a month at Laguna and $55 a month at Palm Springs," said Wright. "Of course, in Palm Springs I have to chip in to help pay the gardener who takes care of the courtyard." A trailer like Wright's costs a-about $4,000. There are 220,000 such "mobile homes" in California alone — some 1,225,000 in use across the country. Some Treasure Island trailers have $4,000 cabanas attached and boast color television.

Wright says his trailer's greatest convenience is its lack of a telephone. Between portrait jobs — he does about a dozen a year — he likes a place to relax.

"A friend of mine on Long Island in New York has a 67-foot yacht," Wright adds. "And he doesn't have half the room in it that I have here." He waved his hand about the wood-paneled 35-footer. "I've got head room, too — there isn't anything to bump your head on, like there is in a boat."

"Of course, my friend's yacht is made for racing. And I'm not racing anybody."

The Laguna Beach park where Wright summers has four beaches. The Palm Springs park has a swimming pool. But so do most of the trailer parks being built now in Southern California.

According to the Trailer Coach Assn., a national trailer boosting group, there are 41,000 parks nationally and 2,500 in Southern California. More than a third of those here have pools, recreation halls and the other earmarks of "luxury" trailer parks. Nearly all the new ones being built in temperate climates also have pools — bringing their total cost to an average $300,000.

The oldtime trailer parks are disappearing — the unpaved lots where central plumbing facilities took care of everyone, and lighting came from bare bulbs strung from trees.

Wright said that when he first bought a trailer his wife, a Pasadena clubwoman, was horrified. "She said she wouldn't be caught dead in a trailer park," said Wright. "But I guess I oversold it. Now I can't get her out."

Jamestown, Va., was originally built on a peninsula which has since become an island.

Says Monorail Is Answer to Problems

HOUSTON (AP) — An adventurous Swedish industrialist believes some of this country's transportation problems can be solved by the monorail, a passenger train operating from a single overhead rail.

He believes so strongly in the monorail that he has put a half a million dollars in a monorail project and plans to invest further up to whatever amount it takes to put the project over.

The monorail believer is 76-year-old Dr. Axel Leonard Wenner-Gren.

LAST NOV. 16 Dr. Wenner-Gren purchased controlling interest in Monorail, Inc., of Houston. At that time he said he hoped to see the monorail "established in all major cities of the country."

Up to now Monorail, Inc., has produced only one unit... a one-coach, 4,000 foot system operating on the grounds of the State Fair of Texas in Dallas.

But the corporation expects to get its first real commercial project into production this year. A $16,500,000 New Orleans contract is under negotiations. Also under negotiation is a $3 million dollar Venezuelan contract, but this is somewhat uncertain at the moment because of the political situation there.

"Our problem is to get one or two commercial projects in operation," said Murel G. Goodell, president and a founder of Monorail, Inc. "There is every evidence that Monorail is here to stay."

Monorail's plans are for trains of 60-passenger coaches transporting with safety and easy commuters over traffic jammed streets and highways.

DR. WENNER-GREN has varied interests. He owns the Swedish Electrolux Co., which he founded in 1919. He has holdings in wood pulp industries, anti-aircraft firms, power stations and other electronic projects. He maintains homes in Sweden, Nassau and Mexico.

His interest in transportation comes at a time when Texas, like the rest of the country is experiencing revolutionary changes in this field.

Except for one city, El Paso, the street car is gone from Texas. It has been replaced by the motor and trolley busses. But even in spacious Texas there isn't enough room for their free movement during peak rush hours.

All of Texas' larger cities have traffic problems. Many super expressways have been built, but they no sooner were opened to traffic than they became clogged

SHORTAGE OF HELP
MADISON, W. Va. (AP) — "We are late," said the headline over this story on page one:

"As a result of the unfortunate shotgun shooting of Walter Hendricks, the Coal Valley News is minus one of its working force, and Bill Duty was off Monday hunting his brother-in-law. With 14 pages this week, the mailing of the paper is Friday morning."

NEW CHINA OWNERS

QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — The New China restaurant, operated by Sam Wong for 31 years, has new owners after an exchange of $4 cash.

Wong values the business at $50,000 but because he wants to live in San Francisco, he turned the establishment over to Harry Chin, Henry Jil, Tom Hom and George Wong, employees.

with thousands of motorists seeking to get to and from work in private cars.

This also caused downtown parking problems. Many buildings in all of the major cities have been razed and their sites turned into parking lots.

Suburban shopping centers have been planned to take care of the parking problem. Much more ground is devoted to parking space than to buildings in the more modern centers.

The passenger train also has given ground in Texas. During the past 10 years a number of trains have been eliminated. In most instances, the private automobile was blamed for this action.

APPREHENSION AT MID-TERM—Nine-year-old Paula Hubley of Tyler takes a firm bite on one of her blond pigtails before she dared peek at her report card handed out at mid-term. Paula, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Hubley, didn't have to worry, though. She was promoted to the high fifth grade. (AP Photo)

TYPICAL SCENE—Interest on Main St. this week took a slight push with the movement of heavy steel beams for construction of the new First National Bank on the corner of Third St. Sidewalk supervisors are always present, but usually in a larger quantity than shown above. The huge steel erector crane is from Amarillo. (Staff Photo)

By JIMMIE GILLENTE

Billy Leavy, Hereford telephone manager, is an amateur astronomer and, in this capacity, appeared before the Kiwanis Club this week with a talk entitled, "Life On Other Planets." While Bill pointed out the possibility of life on other planets, he also stressed the fact that existence of life on the planets is definitely an unknown quantity at the present time. The talk was interesting and educational, according to club members — but one bit of information definitely came as no surprise to Townsend Douglas.

"I was pretty sure we didn't know about any life on the other planets," quipped Banker Douglas, "or we would have a lend-lease agreement with them."

Football fans will note a step-up in competition on the Hereford schedule in 1958. Coach Harris dropped Tulsa and Clovis, but replaced them with Roswell N. M., and "AAAA" Jefferson High in El Paso. All in all, the schedule will be a tough one.

Interest in politics is picking up rather sharply these days. For a long time there were no candidates for commissioner then, suddenly, we pick up three for Precinct 2, including Otto Massie, the incumbent; G. W. Newsom and Clarence Morrisop, a former commissioner in the precinct. Seems as if there will be some campaigning, after all.

DANGEROUS TARGET

LANCASTER, Ohio — Sheriff's deputies said a man and his son here should be thankful they got no bulletsees while shooting at a target. Their target was a box of dynamite.

LEG BANK

ANADARKO, Okla. — Vernon Lee Tonahat told the judge he couldn't pay his fine for drunkenness because he lost his leg. He went on to explain his cash was hidden inside his missing artificial leg.

There is considerable rumbling about possibilities of a new furniture store in Hereford. The way I get it, the store would be located on the corner where the Christian Church manse now stands — and would be operated by Lloyd and Earnest McGee. The McGees are well known in this area and currently are interested in furniture stores in Clovis and Amarillo. Plans call for quite a spread and a first class operation. Nothing official, but the story seems to be making the rounds.

Also up for curbside discussion is the possibility of a large-scale feeding lot in this vicinity. Armour & Company is the name I hear most mentioned in this connection, and the big idea is to feed out the cattle on the producing grounds to eliminate additional costs of shipping feed and handling several times. Sounds like a good deal but, likewise, nothing official.

LABOR TROUBLES are on the verge of flaring up all over Texas. The Galveston News, Texas oldest business institution, recently had a printer strike — and replaced the men with 65 non-union printers. Troubled winds are blowing in the direction of Amarillo, according to reports. Dowstate, the politicians ask only one question, "How strong are the DOT's out your way?" The "Democrats of Texas" are generally conceded to favor organized labor, and the organization is definitely giving the political brass a lot of sleepless nights.

Industrialization has developed so rapidly in Texas since World War II that organized labor was bound to be an issue sooner or later, whereas it previously attracted little attention. It now carries much more emphasis downstate than in the Panhandle.

TEEN TOWN TALK was revived this week when a group of local people met with a Y. M. C. A. representative from Abilene. The proposal included a teenage "Y" club and a part time supervisor, along with a two-week day camp for the summer vacation period. Estimated cost, around $4,800. A committee including Earnest Langley, Ben Childers, Dick Barnard and Sayde Rigler was named to study needs for such a program. All of these folks are interested — and their recommendations will go a long way.

The one question among those attending the meeting seemed to be: "Do our youngsters want a teen age club?" So far, all of the push has come from adults. The kids do not appear to get very excited over the deal. Another question centered around lack of volunteer adult supervision. Some people seemed to think that our present Camp Fire and Boy Scout programs have pretty well sapped the leader reserves — and still find it difficult to secure enough parents to carry on the work. Both of these things, of course, would be strong factors.

Sam Nunnally is strictly an opportunist. He has a knack for recognizing a need and then tying it to available factors. For instance, I recommended a book from the County Library to Sam the other day, and he popped up this week with a string of figures a block long. Also some excellent conclusions for library expansion.

The library checked out a total of 43,508 volumes in 1957 — an average of 175 books per day. This was accomplished on a county budget of $3,900. The library now has 2,000 feet of floor space and apparently needs twice that much. Like a lot of people, Sam never before realized what the library means to the city and the county. He is wondering if we should not take steps to build a library in the vicinity of the swimming pool and let the city enter the picture, perhaps by providing the building.

All of which sounds like straight thinking. Our library is indeed outstanding — and there are few firms which meet the library average of 175 "sales" per day. How about some cards or letters on this subject? Also on the teen town situation? Is anybody interested? If so, let us hear from you.

FRANK COGDELL continually gripes because I am always stealing jokes from the Shrine magazine, which he has previously read. A new edition came out this week, however. . . and here they are:

Lawyer: "What's to be different about this will?"
Mr. Henpecked: "I'm leaving everything to my wife, provided she marries again. I want some-

'IT'S POSSIBLE'—Bill Leavy, manager of the local telephone company, presented the Kiwanis Club program Thursday noon, speaking on "Life On Other Worlds." Ohio Schoolboy's Basement Is Well-Organized Snake Pit

EXPERI ON REPTILES—Kraig Adler, 16, displays a Gila monster and a boa, two of the 30 snakes, lizards and turtles he keeps in the basement of his home.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Man's best friend may be his dog, but 16-year-old Kraig Adler is partial to pythons.

In fact, he's probably the only high school senior in the country who could be late for school and get away with the excuse: "I was sitting up with a sick snake."

Young Adler's interest isn't limited to pythons. His live pets run the whole range of reptilia. Included are 30 specimens of snakes, lizards and turtles. They're kept in glass-front cases lining the walls of the basement in his home. New "faces" appear from time to time as the young herpetologist (student of snakes) buys or sells specimens. His collection presently is valued at about $1,000.

When Kraig, at the age of 10, bought some chameleons at a circus, it's doubtful his family realized it would lead to such additions as a four-foot python (non poisonous), a Gila monster (the only one of his poisonous pets kept at home), a boa, a viper from the Tartar steppes of Russia, a skink (water lizard), and possibly the only monitor lizard (2½ feet long) in the United States.

"The main reason I keep my poisonous reptiles at the Columbus Zoo is to protect the people who come to see my collection," Kraig explains. He keeps a snake bite kit around the house, but neither he nor his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Adler, and his brothers, Gary 14, and Bruce, 11, have had to use it.

Reptile collecting has led Kraig into a number of sidelines. He studies foreign languages to keep up his extensive correspondence with a growing number of collectors all over the world, including Russia. He regularly teaches the reptile phase of biology at his high school. With the addition of little-known reptiles to his collection, he has had to read all available material and then experiment in their care and feeding.

And he has to arrange food for his specimens. This includes raising his own insects — meal worms — to feed some, and finding lettuce, mice, eggs, hamsters, birds and meat for others.

His collection has also made Kraig something of an expert on U. S. customs regulations. He has even lectured to customs inspectors and post office employees about some of the specimens shipped to him from abroad.

At 16, Kraig is among the youngest members of such organizations as the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, the American Society of Ichthyologists and Herpetologists, the Herpetologists' League, and their British counterparts.

Despite his interest, he will give up his live reptile collection in June when he graduates from Arlington High School here. Already graduated as a cadet first lieutenant from Culver Military Academy in Indiana, Kraig intends to study medicine, with the hope of becoming a surgeon.

"Maybe after I become a doctor, I'll start collecting live reptiles again, at least on a limited scale," he says. In the meantime, Kraig won't be out of the "business" entirely. He'll keep his collection of preserved specimens, about 200 in all.

TO DONATE EYES

DUNCAN, Okla. (AP)—At the Stephens County fair, 153 persons signed cards agreeing to donate their eyes after death to the Oklahoma eye bank.

2 Hereford Boys Jailed at Canyon

Two Hereford youths are being held in the Canyon jail after being picked up Tuesday in a stolen car six miles south of Amarillo on Highway 87. Both boys, aged 13 and 15, already were on juvenile probation, one here and one in Canyon.

Probation at Canyon has been revoked for the younger boy and County Judge Homer Henslee said proceedings to revoke the other one's probation here probably will be held Tuesday.

Canyon officers said the two youths first stopped at a service station on Highway 60, had the car filled with gas and then drove off without paying. The attendant called the sheriff and the boys were caught.

The car was stolen from an A & G groceries representative at Cooper's Market here.

PUBLIC SERVICE

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP)—The auto agency's newspaper ad made no claims about the cars on sale and no promises of the best deal in town. It proclaimed simply: "We cash soil bank checks."

SCHEDULE BAROMETER

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minneapolis Laker Coach Johnny Kundla doesn't need a schedule to tell him when a tough road trip is coming up. "My stomach tells me," Kundla explains. "It never fails. I get queasy and the food doesn't taste good."

Youthful Complexions Need Specialized Care

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

COMPLEXION WOES are the bane of a young girl's existence. That little blemish that blossoms out before a big date does seem enormous, especially when so much depends on having a lovely clear skin.

Face blemishes are caused by a number of things — over-stimulated oil glands, improper cleansing methods, unbalanced diet and insufficient rest.

What to do about them? If there is no special reason to cure them instantly, leave them alone, watching the diet so that certain food irritants may not further the problem. Rich foods — gravies, pastries, candy and soda pop — may cause small blemishes to flare up. Keep them clean while they are healing and use a lotion medication to conceal and heal pimples and blemishes.

One new medication is a flesh-tinted, greaseless preparation that comes in an easy-to-use squeeze tube. It has special medications prescribed by leading dermatologists, yet can be worn day and night, concealing the offending bumps, and helping to heal and dry up oily areas. This medicated lotion halts the spread of surface bacteria — often responsible for spreading germs to adjoining areas.

A well-balanced diet should include fruit, vegetables, milk, cereal, eggs, whole grain cereals, broiled lean meats, fish, poultry and custard.

Sufficient sleep also is important for a glowing, healthy skin, and during these strenuous growing years every teenager should be sure of getting a good night's rest.

MRS. DONALD RUMMEL (Angel Photo)

Ada Carole Thomas Marries Don Rummel in Home Rites

THE HOME OF Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thomas, 129 Ave. K, was the scene Tuesday at 10 a.m. of the marriage of their daughter, Ada Carole, to Donald Rummel, student at Texas A & M College.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gilroy Rummel of Wellington.

The Rev. Alby Cockrell, pastor of the First Methodist Church, conducted the double-ring ceremony. Guests included immediate members of the two families and close friends in Wellington where Mr. and Mrs. Thomas made their home until moving to Hereford in December. John Gordon Thomas, brother of the bride, and a student at Texas A & M College, seated the guests.

THE BRIDE, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz length gown of chantilly lace and net over bridal satin. The moulded bodice featured an Elizabethan collar and long petal point sleeves. The bouffant skirt, worn over hoops, had a simulated tunic of lace which fell in deep points over ruffle of net. Her finger-tip veil of scalloped illusion fell in tiers from a lace cap outlined with seed pearls. Her only ornament was a strand of heirloom pearls belonging to a special friend. She wore the traditional blue garter, a gift from her dormitory matron at the University of Texas, and a coin in her shoe for luck.

The bridal bouquet was a single white orchid, surrounded with stephanotis and tied with satin streamers, resting on a white Bible.

The bride's mother wore a navy linen suit and the bridegroom's mother wore a navy crepe dress. Their corsages were of white feathered carnations.

WEDDING CAKE and coffee were served after the ceremony from an all-white table decorated with seven wedding tapers in a scroll entwined with garlands of fern and white stock. Appointments were in silver.

Coffee was served by Mrs. Fred Cox Jr., of Wellington, sister of the bride-groom and Miss Janice Davis, fiancée of the bride's brother John, served the three tiered wedding confection topped by a miniature bridal couple.

The couple left immediately for Central Texas and College Station

With rare discernment he recognized the creative forces of his time, and with even rarer generosity hailed the achievements of others. His finest period coincided with the springtime of German romanticism. He represents the romantic movement in its freshest and most idealistic phase. He spoke truly when he said 'Music to me is the perfect expression of the soul.'"

TEEN TOWN

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — They've turned the old city hall here into a "rock 'n' roll" recreation center for teen-agers.

When the city officers were moved last year into new quarters, the Wellston Rotary Club bought the building and renamed it "Teen Town."

Teen-agers joined Rotary members in redecorating the place. Today, the youngsters dance to "rock 'n' roll" in what was once the mayor's courtroom. The police station is now a confectionary and reading room. The counter where prisoners were booked now serves as a snack bar.

And the jail — that's now a game room, minus the cells, of course.

Widow Watches For Forest Fires

LUCEDALE, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi's only woman fire watcher is a 51-year-old widow who spends an average of 10 hours a day keeping an eye on George County woodlands.
And when forest fires are raging, Mrs. Mae Price stays on the job as many as 24 hours at a time, dispatching fire fighting crews and making decisions that determine the fate of 70 square miles of timberland.
It's a solitary existence for a woman, but Mrs. Price keeps busy even when there are no fires to report.
Not only must she maintain her office, but she also must keep daily weather records of temperature, wind velocity and direction and rainfall as part of the Mississippi Forestry Commission's program to predict, prevent, detect and extinguish forest fires.
Her office is only 110 feet from her living quarters but it's 110 feet straight up and she must climb the 131 steps several times a day as she moves about her duties aloft and below. The only entrance to the office is through a counter-balanced trapdoor.
Her living quarters are similar to any housewife's home, but her office would make the average housewife cringe. Aside from its lofty perch near the central community six miles west of here, the office is a mass of necessary clutter.
Crowding the glassed-in cubicle are radio transmitters and receivers, weather instruments, plotting boards, direction finders, maps and other tools of the fire fighting trade.
Mrs. Price must evaluate every wisp of smoke rising from the dark green tree tops, deciding whether it is a harmless campfire or the beginning of a devastating forest fire that could leave the land scorched and devoid of life.
Under her supervision also are the Forestry Commission's three truck-tractor units and five similar units and three jeeps belonging to paper and lumber mills in the area.
All fire fighting crews within her jurisdiction obey her instructions implicitly.
During the summers, Mrs. Price is the county's only fire spotter. During the winters, Mississippi's most dangerous time for forest fires, three other fire towers are manned, but they, too, are under Mrs. Price's supervision.

ZOO DEMISE
MILWAUKEE (AP)—One of the most widely known and historic parts of Milwaukee's zoo has been doomed by demolition plans for an expressway.
The two dens which housed the first polar bears born in captivity and raised successfully soon will be torn down. In the dens, 19 polar bears were born over the last 38 years and 16 grew to maturity. Zoo officials say it's a record unmatched by any zoo in the country.
A new zoo is being built at another site.

French, and is obviously reminiscent of the familiar, artist's beret. They are seen in perfectly beautiful fabrics and colors and are, I am told, extremely comfortable to wear.
Only drawback is that not everyone can wear them becomingly.
We should all be so fortunate as Blanch Latham, who wears one in snow-white satin (wonder if it is another hat selected for her by her son-in-law... if so, that young man must be the 8th wonder of the world)... or as fortunate as Mary Jane Pitman, whose creation in black satin looks so lovely on her... or Mrs. W. S. Fluit—her beret is of white brocade, centered on the back by a jeweled button... or Billie Slagle, whose satin beret is in elegant hues to perfectly-match her stunning, mulberry suit.
You just can't find a prettier picture than a pretty woman wearing a pretty hat!

Note to music lovers: Every other Saturday morning, it is now our privilege to watch and hear the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra in a children's concert under the direction of Leonard Bernstein. It's a CBS Network television program and we view it by courtesy of Channel 10.
Although this program is geared for the small fry, any adult who appreciates fine music will be entranced by this marvelous presentation.
REMINDER TO people who patronize the Hereford Clinic: next time you go, particularly on a Monday, it wouldn't be a bad idea to take along a folding chair. Seats in the waiting room, it seems, are getting harder and harder to come by.
Well, toodle ooo now. Happy Groundhog Day!

Sunny Weather Is Stimulating
IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

By BETTY BABIONE
IT SO HAPPENS that, at the time of this writing, it's a beautiful day. I'm not exactly what you'd call an outdoors gal, but I sure am itching to get out and putter in the yard or something — so please forgive me if I don't tarry long with ya today.
Well, don't you agree that it's a shame to have to stay inside when the weather is so purty! Most of us don't have much chance to enjoy it tho. Tell me, what is there to enjoy about the month of January? (unless you're one of those people who are lucky when it comes to bargain-shopping during the big sales). Poor January is not among the most popular months, I guess.

But now February is with us, and this month is associated with valentines and sweethearts and lots of nice things. The idea surely lends itself to pretty, party decorations and so forth. There has already been one beautiful party to open the valentine season.
You know, there is just nothing like a party to perk up a rather drab time of year — colorful decorations — pretty clothes on the party-goers, etc.
ABOUT THE CUTEST thing in the way of new fashions for mildy is the saucy chapeau which is a variation of the beret — made to be worn at an extreme angle on the head, and styled in a way that definitely originated with the

Several Visit In Community

By MRS. GEORGE ZETZSCHE.

H. D. Council Votes To Back Mrs. Parsons as Candidate

In a meeting of the Deaf Smith County Home Demonstration Club Council Monday afternoon in the county courtroom, the council voted to support Mrs. T. J. Parsons as candidate for vice president of District 1.

Other business discussed was the announcement made by Jimmie Gillentine that The Hereford Brand will sponsor the outstanding home demonstration club woman of the year. The council voted to cooperate and elect a nominee from each club and then a chosen committee will select the woman of the year.

Mrs. W. H. Goettsch, council chairman, was in charge of the meeting. The program was presented by Mrs. J. L. Hershey who read a poem and Psalm 121. Roll was called by the new recording secretary, Mrs. George Turrentine.

Following roll call recommendations for the years work by the clubs were read by each committee chairman. These will be taken to the clubs for their approval or disapproval by each delegate.

Mrs. H. L. Hershey read the recreation committee recommendations and Mrs. Wilburn Axe gave the year book report, making note of the fact that the new books incorporated the suggestion that each club member have an achievement page on which to record accomplishments on living room improvement and clothing goals reached.

The finance committee reported that the Council's books had been audited and found correct and had enough money on hand to pay its current debts.

Mrs. T. J. Parsons reported the THDA annual meeting will be April 10, at the First Methodist Church in Stratford and she encouraged all the ladies to be present. She also told of the state THDA meeting to be held in Austin during August.

Mrs. Frank Prowell gave the 4-H club report and read the suggested change in the 4-H club motto. A majority voted to leave the motto in its present form.

Mrs. Turrentine read the standing rules and by-laws for council and Miss Roberta Campbell read her notes on the report she was making to her club from council.

Members present were Mrs. Jim Perrin, Bippus; Mrs. M. W. Sumner, Mrs. Louie Olson, Cultural; Mrs. H. S. Fuller, Mrs. Zed Stewart, Dawn; Mrs. Bill Gilliland,

NEW SYSTEM—Part of the city's plan to improve the looks of the old dump grounds east of town is shown above. The object is to dig a trench, scrape the trash presently standing on top of the ground into the trench, and cover it over. Portions of the area have already undergone the treatment, and the rest will soon be completed. After the entire project is finished, one trench will be maintained for county dumping at all times. The city's refuse will be taken to the new dump site, being operated on the same plan of digging, dumping and covering, presently. (Staff Photo)

Time To Make Changes in Irrigation System Is Now

By MAX SCHRADER

This is the time of year to make any changes in your irrigation systems. You may be considering and to get the installation of any other conservation practices under way. Having these practices completed before spring will enable you to make the best use of spring rains.

This looks like a year in which many farmers and ranchers will complete stock ponds. We have had a considerable number of inquiries and many are already in the process of construction.

Stock ponds serve a many fold purpose on the farm or ranch. They not only provide stock water but they can also be used to gain better management of the grasses in different pastures. By spacing these water facilities in more remote or ungrazed areas; greater uniformity in grazing all areas of the pastures are secured. This also prevents excessive traveling by the stock and the trampling and over grazing of areas close by ponds or mills serving large numbers. Better gains are reported by stockmen who have increased their number of water facilities.

One of the many advantages of stock ponds are their recreational use. It is recommended that stock ponds also be used for use as wildlife areas and the production of fish. Where the ponds are deep enough they should always be stocked with fish and the water fertilized at regular intervals. The ponds should be stocked according to the recommendations of the State Game Commission. These fish can also be secured from that source.

It always pays to locate stock ponds in areas that will serve best from the standpoint of management of grass and livestock. Attention must also be given to the location from the viewpoint of construction. These locations must have a suitable type of clay, a limited drainage area and, if possible, a natural spillway.

To prevent damage or possible loss of a stock pond during rainy seasons it is best to fence the spillway, preventing it from damage by stock. Excessive trampling and the creation of paths by livestock traveling through them often create considerable damage. To prevent excessive silting the ponds should be located away from drainage areas containing cooplant. If silting is a problem, an area directly in front of the pond can often be fenced. In this manner the grasses can attain a good dense growth and serve as a filter or silt trap.

Changes in irrigation systems should also be started before spring. If you are having trouble getting your water down the row or if the water is too fast and results in loss of water or failure to get good penetration; then a change in row direction should be tried. Quite often a small land levelling job will enable the farmer to change his rows and secure a more efficient use of both his irrigation water and rainfall.

The installation of an underground pipeline also provides an opportunity to irrigate in the direction of more gentle slopes. This should always be considered when considering installations of this nature.

Pipelines should serve to gain efficiency in not only transporting water, but also in getting it into the soil in a uniform and non-erosive manner. These eliminate the trouble you formerly had with fast ditches in getting the water to the row. The use of the more gentle and uniform slopes not only increases the efficiency of irrigation but also the use of rainfall.

Waterways and diversion terraces for protection of both irrigated or dryland are just good insurance. Let's get them started before any more crops and soil are lost to a heavy rainfall.

YOUR RED CROSS ON THE JOB

By CORINNE J. NEELY

JR. RED CROSS REPORT: With the Jr. Red Cross of the High School, led by their Council, presenting their Annual Talent Show on Wednesday, they have completed one of their big projects of the year and the only money-making one. This year half of the funds collected will go into their fund and the other half was donated to the foreign exchange student fund. (This will replace the gift boxes project which was dropped this year for newer ones.)

The Jr. Red Cross enrollment of members held in the fall was again 100 percent for all schools. Total collected was $221 with Stanton Jr. High as the highest contributor of $61.30 which they earned from a variety show. Only a small percent of Jr. funds goes to National and are used there to print the Red Cross magazines sent to each room and other supplies needed to carry on their work.

Each year, for the past three years, the Juniors paid their delegate's expense to summer training camp (because the adult chapter, who has done this in the past, was short of funds). This 10 day school offers a fine experience for some lucky Junior whose work in the Jr. Red Cross work merits this reward.

These delegates, who have attended the past three years have majored in disaster study. So far that reason this phase has been stressed in Jr. work. The Jrs. have given $10 each year to the Red Cross Children's Fund which goes to disaster areas for milk, food, medicine and clothing, and some toys, for children. One example was the Hungarian emergency — and nearer home, Hurricane Audrey (our biggest national disaster last year). Besides this, the local group gave a $10 check to each disaster. Of the 153 Gift Boxes assembled here by the schools last year most went over seas but some did remain in states for disasters. However some of the boxes went as a good will project overseas and the Jrs. here had letters from Thailand on some of them. This fall the Jrs. had occasion to help in a local explosion disaster also.

Their Christmas project for all the schools was again carried out for the third year when they bought, wrapped and sent 25 gifts to the Children's State Home in Waco.

The High School group is planning a program for the V. A. Hospital in Amarillo (with material chosen from their Talent Show.) The pupils at St. Anthony School made fruit and nut baskets and sent candy to fill, for the V. A. Hospital at Thanksgiving. Another school is now working on Valentine favors for the same hospital.

Other activities including Jrs: Two classes took Red Cross course "Care of the Sick in Injured" under our instructor Mrs. Joel Hodges; two classes in "Mother and Baby Care" included girls in Red Cross work under instructor, Mrs. Esther Springer. Mrs. V. E. Dodson has just completed an

Red Cross Advance First Aid class, planning to become an instructor, with plans to work it into her future P. E. classes. All of these fall under the chapter sponsored "Health and Safety Programs for Juniors." Additional plans are being made for summer classes in Water Safety.

Mrs. H. A. Cavness is Jr. Red Cross chairman, Mrs. Billye Buck trained workers, Carla Sue Crosthwaite, Erin Wertenberger and Johnny Latham.

Are Our Law Enforcement Salaries Adequate?

You Can't Hire An FBI Agent On Janitor's Pay

In these days of rising costs and high taxes, most people are inclined to be economy minded concerning local government operations.

This trend of thought was brought about by a statement recently released by Sheriff Charles Skelton, who said: "Low salaries for law enforcement officers make it difficult to attract mature, experienced men to the jobs."

A survey of salary schedules indicates that Sheriff Skelton has definite argument on his side of the question, although our city and county law officers currently appear to be well above state averages in caliber.

Salaries of policemen employed by the City of Hereford range from $250 per month to $325 per month; the officers work an average of 52 hours per week and, in case of emergency, are on 24-hour duty.

When the long hours, heavy responsibility and natural intelligence of law enforcement officers are considered, most people will be inclined to agree with the sheriff.

little better. Add to this the possibility that an officer may be seriously injured or killed while on duty, and there are unquestionably professions with more to offer.

Our law officers are the only men in the community who are actually licensed to kill their fellow man, a fact which gives them the greatest responsibility of any group of men in our society, based on all forms of moral and legal concept.

Few people stop to analyze the situation often choosing, instead, to base their opinion of officers on the few who err, or make serious mistakes. The law enforcement business, consequently, is rapidly following the same trend taken by our school teachers a decade ago.

As Sheriff Skelton pointed out, the situation is by no means a local one. Deaf Smith and Hereford officer salaries may be slightly under state averages, but they would be the rule more often than the exception.

It is a question that all citizens should ponder, talk over with city and county officials, and come to a definite conclusion. Even more than the teacher, the lawyer or the doctor we, as individuals, depend on our law enforcement officers from day to day.

As one Panhandle police chief puts it: "You can hardly expect to hire an F. B. I. man on a garbage collector's salary."

AMERICAN ECONOMY AND SPECIALIZATION PRESENT PROBLEM:

Big Towns Grow Larger, While Little Towns In Most Areas Become Smaller

It's an old subject but, with most small towns suffering population reverses, the importance of industry—and local jobs—seems to offer the only logical answer to survival.

Today, we live in an age of specialization. Our schools recognize this fact and, consequently, are training our children to perform specialized jobs of various sorts.

Unfortunately our towns are not so often as alert. How many jobs does Hereford have to offer the graduating engineer, the chemist and the trained executive?

ants, we can offer nothing but closed doors and frowns to a large percent of the highly trained young men and women who enter their various professions each year.

Each graduate from Hereford High School costs the tax payers of the district several hundreds of dollars, but we fail to follow through by making a place for these youngsters in our way of life?

And remember, Hereford is far above the average. While this community has been growing, many Panhandle towns have dwindled as much as 50 percent in population counts.

Solving the problem is far more difficult than merely recognizing it. No solution, in fact, has appeared which would be practical on a nationwide basis. A few smaller communities, through good fortune or from hard work, have counteracted the condition—and are still growing.

Unquestionably, life in our small towns is changing. Even the experts are alarmed over the trend toward "larger big towns" and "smaller little towns."

As in the past, one functional rule continues to operate: the community, regardless of its size, continues to grow—or slips backward. No town or community will stand still over any reasonable period of time.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Witherspoons Recall Early Life in County

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles about couples living in Deaf Smith County who have been married 50 years or more. In this story the Vern Witherspoons recall Deaf Smith County when La Plata was the county seat.)

By MRS. R. L. CHRISWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Witherspoon of Hereford, came to Deaf Smith County as young people and both lived on ranches before their marriage and after. Witherspoon worked on his own ranch and also worked for the XIT Ranch or "The Syndicate" as it is familiarly known on the High Plains.

He worked under C. R. Smith, when Smith was foreman of the XIT, and enjoyed every minute of it. Mr. Witherspoon says every boy wants a horse and should have one for his very own, as he will learn a lot from caring for his own horse and not many boys will neglect a horse that belongs to him for his very own.

La Plata was the first county seat of Deaf Smith County and was located about the center of the county on land near Witherspoons' ranch. There was no Hereford at this time.

Hereford was just a few tents along the railroad tracks. Some of the houses moved here from La Plata, are still standing and are livable and are being lived in at this time. This moving was done in 1898.

"Nestor Gass had a clothing store where the Pitman Garage now stands. I was working for the XIT at this time and they kept you about three months behind in your wages, so I bought a suit from Nestor Gass and charged it. The store had a large room upstairs and Mr. Gass put several beds in it and told the cowboys to go up and spend the night, when they came in to the local dances, instead of riding back to the ranch in the early morning hours," said Mr. Witherspoon.

"ONE NIGHT we came in to a dance and of course there was some drinking and carousing. A friend and I were walking down the street. There was a couple of fellows walking behind us that had been drinking and one of them said: 'I think I will shoot up the town,' and he fired a shot. I never thought anything about it as there was always shooting of some kind. We spent the night together in the room above the store; but I did not see their guns as guns were so common you just did not notice them. Later the jury called me into court, but I could not swear they had been carrying guns for I really had not seen their guns."

"About this time J. E. Ferguson organized the First National Bank. He had traded two local horses for eight sections of land, and I helped him build a house and cared for his cattle all that winter.

"I was crazy to go the Spanish American War, but could not get anyone to go with me, then when World War I came along I registered one day and the next day the Germans called it quits. People told me that as soon as I got ready to go they decided it was time to quit."

While bathing on the Witherspoon ranch a Dr. Bole came to this county from Missouri to run the ranch of Rucker Sherman, which joined the Witherspoon ranch. He was a family man, and every so often made the trip to Hereford for supplies in a wagon accompanied by his daughter, Myrtle.

One day they saw two cowboys approaching. These cowboys were Vern Witherspoon and his brother, they came along side the wagon, tipped their hats and rode on. Vern remarked to his brother, "Well you can have her as she looks right frowny to me," (Mrs. Witherspoon lays this to the brightness of the sun) but he did not forget as easily as he had planned.

HE HAD TOLD his brother that he wanted to buy a buggy. After he had bought it, the salesman told him he would be married in less than a year's time. Vern said nothing, but thought to himself that he would show that guy; however he hadn't figured on homemade lemon pies taking a hand in the game.

One Sunday afternoon as the community gathered in the Bole home, he had the opportunity to try the most wonderful lemon pie he had ever tasted. When he learned who had baked those delicious pies, his courting became shall we say furious, for soon there was a home wedding in the Bole home; with Vern and Myrtle as the bride and groom.

The wedding was in the late afternoon and the pastor Rev. William G. Klerly was so late he failed to arrive at his church in time for the evening worship service. He is now living in Colorado Springs, Colo., and sends greeting cards to this couple that he married on the High Plains of Texas so many years ago.

They lived on the ranch for a year and then built a house near the railroad bridge, near Hereford. Here Witherspoon raised cattle and alfalfa. Their two sons were born in this house.

Mrs. Witherspoon had quite an experience just after she and Vern had moved into the house on the ranch. She started out on her first trip home. She was alone and she must pass through a gate about half way from her new home and Vern's house. When she tried to lead the horse through the gate, he shied away from her, went on through, and since he had been over that trail so many times, he went on and did not stop until he came to her father's corral.

"I stood there looking after him as he trotted away with the buggy bouncing along behind him and very empty. I walked home," said Mrs. Witherspoon, "and there were cattle all over and needless to say I was very much afraid."

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Some Think Paying of Poll Tax Is Not Right

Should a person have to pay for the right to vote?

DORIS CAWTHON—I don't believe so. This is a democratic country and we were given that right and I don't believe we should have to pay for it.

JOE MILLER—Yes, I really think so. It's an obligation and should be honored by a poll tax receipt.

JESSIE LEE—Well, I think so. It helps the state for a person to pay a poll tax, and the people make up the state, therefore they are helping themselves.

PAT GLOVER—No, I don't think he should. It's a matter of principle, a person should be able to vote whether he has money to pay for tax or not, I think it should be his privilege.

PEARLINE POWELL—Yes, I think so. I think it is a privilege, but it seems more people would vote if we didn't have to pay.

LOYD POOL—Well I think so. If they want to vote I think they should be willing to pay the $1.75 to do so, after all, in some places you can't vote, period.

PAUL MORTON—I don't think he should. Seems like to me it should be free and one of the reasons we usually vote if we pay tax is to keep from forfeiting their money, but I don't think they should have to pay.

DOC KIRBY—I'm not opposed to paying. I think if we appreciate the privilege of voting at all it is worth paying for.

FUNDS SET ON SOIL BANK

Lamb County's cotton soil bank allocation was set this week at $473,803, ASC Office Manager Lamar Allen said Wednesday. The program was halted by the government last Thursday after 97 applications totaling about $250,000 had been taken. Since that time, the office has been taking requests only. Many of the requests already taken can now be filled, Allen said. Producers will be notified if their requests can be filled.—LAMB COUNTY LEADER

PEOPLES HOSPITAL FACES FORECLOSURE

Peoples Hospital in Floydada faces a dilemma this week, following suit filed in 110th District Court by National Farmers Union Property and Casualty Company asking foreclosure of a lien on real property of the hospital under deed of trust and a chattel mortgage on furniture, fixtures and equipment. The petition of the insurance company alleges that $11,500 of a $15,000 debt is past due, together with interest at 4 percent which has accrued since Dec. 19, 1953.—THE FLOYD COUNTY HESPERIAN

EVENTS SLATED TO AID MARCH OF DIMES

Three big events were slated for the remainder of January to put over the March of Dimes—Collingsworth county's way of fighting back at polio. Two of these were held for Thursday night, Jan. 23; the Mothers' March, sponsored by the 1954 Study Club, and a big basketball game when the Wellington All-Stars meet the Louis Hill, Oklahoma All-Stars. The third event was the talent show and white elephant sale in the community building Thursday, Jan. 30.

GREENBELT DAM AREA TO BE MAPPED

The area of the Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority and damsite is scheduled for mapping sometime this year, Wendell Harrison, director, announced this week. Harrison, who is Memphis' director on the board, said that the mapping will be done by the State Board of Water Engineers. The area will be "flown out," and maps will be made available to the Authority in 1959. "We believe this decision by the Board of Water Engineers will save the Authority approximately $12,000. Several applications have been received for mapping, which is an expensive item," Harrison added.—THE MEMPHIS DEMOCRAT

The BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm apparently is trying to write thoughtfully this week, but we can't tell whether he succeeds or not.

Sometimes I get mixed up on the thinking that goes on in Washington, which is only natural, as I also get mixed up on the thinking that goes on out here on this bindweed farm.

For example, I was reading in a newspaper last night, for your information, I walked up to a newsstand in town and paid a nickel for it day before yesterday, where an agricultural expert, testifying before a Congressional committee in Washington, said "Last year it cost over three billion dollars to carry out the present farm price support and stabilization program. If this had brought a solution to our problem, it would have been a bargain. Instead, the problem is still with us."

As a result, he was in favor of abolishing the program. I don't understand this type of thinking, on the grounds that it runs counter to all the other thinking that goes on in Washington and out here too.

For instance, take Foreign Aid. Last year we spent many times more than three billion dollars on foreign aid, but how many countries do you know of who don't need as much this year as last? If there ever was a problem that's still with us, after years of tackling it, it's foreign aid.

Or take national defense. We spend around 40 billion dollars a year on defense, but the problem is still with us, in a worse way than it ever was.

Or take education. Counting what the whole county spends, from the first grade through college, we must spend many a billion dollars a year on education, yet you don't even have to get off this farm out here to find a man who could stand some more, and it's my idea you can find plenty more without even coming this far, maybe without even leaving town, maybe without even leaving your block, maybe, well, there's no use in narrowing this down any further ain't that what you say? You reckon that Washington expert wants to abolish schools because some people are still ignorant?

Trying to permanently solve the farm problem is like trying to permanently solve the problem of a new car. You can buy a brand new 1958 model today because your family is hollering for one to maintain its social standing, but that won't solve your new car problem, unless you can abolish the calendar. Manufacturers are already working on plans for the 1959 model to make your 1958 model look old-fashioned, and anyway, I've never seen a car, new or old, that didn't cost money to run.

If you're going to abolish a program just because it hasn't solved the problem, you'll be faced with the job of abolishing churches, marriages, police departments, hospitals, highways, schools, foreign aid, national defense, automobile mechanics, weather forecasting, radio, television, and possibly newspapers. We'd better change the subject.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Alamo Facsimile Being Built for Movie Location

BRACKETTVILLE, (AP) — Citizens of Brackettville and surrounding areas are just now realizing what a job it must have been to build the Alamo.

That's what some of them are doing now, or watching it being done. Reason is a movie location for a film to be produced by John Wayne, the movie star. Associates say he's wanted to do a film on the historic San Antonio shrine for some time.

An agreement was made whereby Wayne's Batjack Productions would film "The Alamo" in Kinney County if it could be guaranteed 500,000 homemade bricks like those in the original Alamo.

To make such a guarantee, it was necessary to have all Brackettville, a town of 2,000 in far southwest Texas, cooperate. So an organization known as Brackettville Enterprises was formed to do the work. County Judge Charles Veltmann and the county commissioners court also is cooperating with Shahan, other leaders and the production company.

Brackettville Enterprises hopes to make use of the facilities after the film is made. One is for use of TV serials or more motion pictures. An air conditioned and insulated sound stage is being considered to further lure TV and film makers. To build the Alamo replica required approximately one mile of stone and adobe walls, 10 feet high (Continued On Page 2)

Hearts on Valentine's Table

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

PUT YOUR HEARTS on the table on Valentine's Day. Nowadays various sizes of cookie cutters, cake pans and salad molds come heart-shaped, all ready for use in baking or filling.

HEARTS ARE ON THE TABLE when this appropriately molded potato salad graces the Valentine's Day smorgasbord.

To grace a buffet supper party table and beguile your guests, you might like a heart-shaped potato salad with a scarlet pimiento arrow. Directions for making this salad follow, but if you haven't a pan of the size and shape called for, use a bowl for molding and garnish with the arrow. Or spangle the top of the salad — after it is turned out — with pimiento cut out with a tiny heart-shaped cutter.

What to serve with the salad? We suggest smorgasbord fixings and here are dishes from which to choose.

Another salad — this time of marinated herring fillets, diced apple, cooked beets, celery and dill pickle.

Stuffed hard-cooked eggs with anchovy fillets added to their filling and caper-rolled anchovies, used as a garnish.

Smoked fish such as eel, salmon or sardines. The salmon should be accompanied by a cruet of olive oil and a tiny bowl of capers. The sardines will look pretty undisturbed in their open can, but ring the container with parsley. Lobster and shrimp also are appropriate served with lemon wedges.

For a hot dish, scrambled eggs and kippers or tiny meat balls and dill-flavored potatoes might be offered from an electric skillet or chafing dish. Brown breads should accompany all the dishes.

Dessert might be fresh fruit, an assortment of crackers and some good rich butter cookies.

VALENTINE POTATO SALAD
Ingredients: 9 medium-sized potatoes (3 pounds), 2/3 cup mayonnaise, 1 cup finely diced celery, 1/4 c. finely chopped pimiento, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon white pepper, minced onion, 2 cups coarsely ground cooked ham, 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper, 1/4 cup real mayonnaise, salad greens, radish roses, extra pimiento.

Method: Cover potatoes (in their skins) with boiling salted water; cook rapidly until tender. Peel and dice fairly fine. While potatoes are still warm, toss with 1/3 cup mayonnaise. Allow to cool, then mix with another 1/3 cup mayonnaise, celery, pimiento, salt, pepper and onion to taste. Mix ham, green pepper and 1/4 cup mayonnaise. Line the bottom of a 6-cup heart mold with waxed paper. Pack one-third of the potato salad in the bottom of the mold. Press another one-third of the salad around the sides of the mold. Fill center with ham mixture. Pack remaining potato salad over ham. Chill thoroughly. Turn out on chop plate. Garnish with salad greens, radish roses and an arrow cut from pimiento strips. To serve, cut heart in half lengthwise; cut 4 to 5 wedges from each half. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

PSALM 139:8 — "If I ascend to heaven, thou art there: If I make my bed in Sheol, thou art there!" (RSV)

The God of the Bible is the "hound of heaven" who tracks man relentlessly in whatever "heavens" or "hells" man may construct for himself.

This news is both comforting and disturbing. It is comforting in that neither "height nor depth nor anything else in all creation will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord." (Romans 8:39) It is disturbing in that there is no height or depth where a man is free from the claims of God upon him.

Whether we experience the "news" as "comfort" or as "disturbance," it is a truth — that not so simple lesson we learned in childhood, that "God is everywhere."

REMEMBER WHEN?

By CHARLIE SEEDS

It happened at Sandler Field, Chicago, before the greatest of the "million dollar gates." The famed Manassa Mauler, Jack Dempsey, had lost his crown to Gene Tunney a short time before in Philadelphia. . . and now he was out to win it back. Tunney's superior ring generalship had him in control of the fight. . . until the seventh round. Then he made the mistake of trying to trade punches with Dempsey, who unleashed one of his old-time furious attacks. He caught Tunney with a savage left hook, followed it with a vicious right and a left — and Tunney went down!

Then it happened. In his excitement Dempsey didn't go directly to a neutral corner. The referee delayed his count. Tunney was given precious extra seconds to recover. A full 13 seconds later, after the famous "long count," Tunney was able to get up and weather the storm. He went on to win and remain undefeated champion. Remember the year?

A man who bought a car in that year made sure of the "count" when he added up price and trade-in allowance. He was after savings that really added up.

The year was 1927.

This year you can make a deal that adds up to real savings. . . in any of the new 1958 FORDS or late model reconditioned used cars in our big stock. Stop in now and pick out the model of your choice. We're ready to deal! CHARLIE SEEDS MOTOR CO., INC. 146 E. Second. Phone EM 4-2727.

and 3 feet thick.

Each stone must be hand picked for a particular matching location.

As this would require some 500-

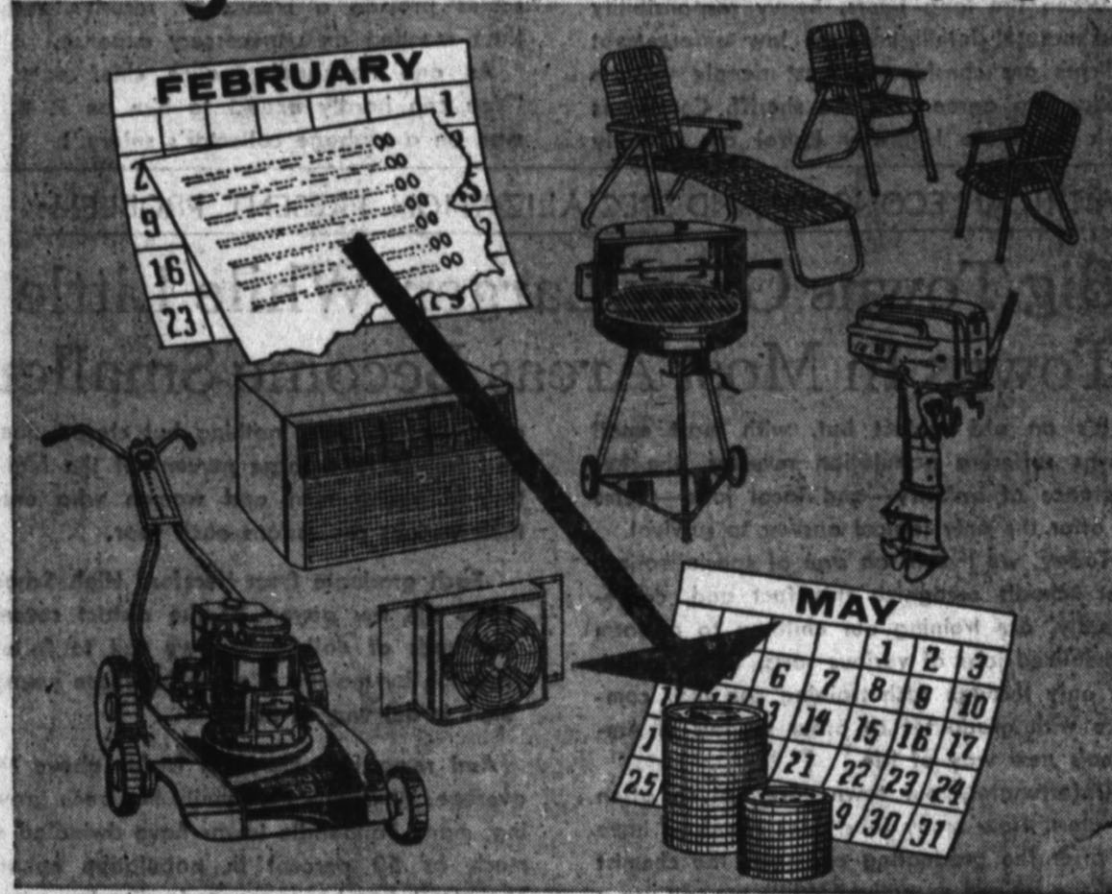

000 adobe bricks, water was naturally the first consideration. A well was drilled to 135 feet. Fortunately, what was originally planned as a 50-gallon well tested 350 gallons per minute for three hours straight pumping without noticeably lowering of the water.

During the drilling, the area for 100 miles around Brackettville was scoured for the best adobe makers. Arrangements were made for temporary living quarters. The adobe makers and their helpers started to work. This was the first major step.

For better filming angles, Brackettville Enterprises was required to practically move a mountain. Six to eight feet of dirt had to be cut to maintain a gradual slope for some 100 to 1,500 feet so as to permit better coverage of the filming of the assaults on the Alamo.

New Shoes Ideal for Right Feet

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

ANYONE WHO DOUBTS today's moderns aren't on the quivvre should see the letters from the younger set.

High heels are date favorites, so inquiries on the new pointed toes run the gamut, such as this one...

"I did not like the pointed toe shoe when it came out so I bought another pair of rounded toes. Now I feel foolish: What should I do? Is the pointed toe comfortable? Are the extra-slender needle style heels difficult to wear? Will they break easily? Are they easy to repair?"

A. Wait until it is time to buy another pair of shoes if you've already invested in rounded toes. Don't discard them. Lots of girls are in the same boat.

The pointed toe shoe is very comfortable, particularly if you have a long, narrow foot with tapering toes. The inner side of the shoe is slightly curved, and the outer side tapering. If a second toe is longer than a first toe, there will be room in the new shoes for it to lie straight.

Pointed toe shoes made of leather soles and uppers are particularly well fitting, conforming closely to the shape of the foot. If your foot is short and broad, don't try to wear the pointed toe shoe.

It's a good idea not to wear needle-like heels, except for dress-up occasions. They may make your feet wobble. If the heel breaks it will be difficult to repair. They are problems to have fitted with new lifts, also.

Q. Have you heard of any new taste treats lately? Our party fare is getting mighty static.

A. Tampa, Fla., teen agers are taking their pizza pie with blue cheese. They also eat cake frosting between two slices of bread, chocolate ice cream with grape soda, banana sandwiches, banana with cheese crackers, packaged cereal baked with peanuts. They also like jelly and mayonnaise sandwiches, catsup on corn-on-the-cob and banana-pear-egg milk shakes.

A taste treat admired by New York party goers involves heating one quart of bottled or cartoned chocolate milk to serving temperature. Combine one cup of whipped heavy cream, and one tablespoon of dehydrated banana flakes or 1/4 cup mashed banana. Serve the chocolate topped with the banana cream.

Q. It seems that when I go to parties, everybody has a good time. When my friends come to my house, it seems they can't wait until time to go home. What could be wrong?

A. Maybe you just imagine they are not enjoying themselves. But you must entertain your guests. You can't expect them to sit around waiting for something to happen. Be sure that there is something going on all the time to keep them busy, and try to get the party off to a rolling start after the first few guests arrive. If you can get them to laugh, play the piano, dance or play games, you shouldn't have any trouble in keeping your guests interested.

Prepare for a Home Crisis By Having Emergency List

AP Newsfeatures

Is your home prepared to meet a crisis in the absence of the man of the house?

There are women who, though intelligent enough to cope with large emergencies such as blackouts and leaks, go to pieces when confronted with a wasp or mouse in the house.

I know a woman who became hysterically trapped in a room with two children because of a buzzing bee, an insect she feared.

Another woman aroused neighbors because a squealing half-dead mouse was caught in a trap, set by her husband, who was away on a business trip. She could not bring herself to touch it. (A shovel in the backyard would have come in handy for mouse disposal).

A man may provide a house for his family and then go off to work or on an extended business trip without explaining such vital things as (1) what to do if the electricity fails (2) location of fuse boxes (3) how to raise the damper in the fireplace.

Every home should have an emergency advice list hanging in a conspicuous place. It will help the lady of the house and the baby sitter as well. Day workers, for instance, cannot always report a fire in the house properly because they do not even know the address of the house at which they are working, having been picked up at a bus stop or the employment agency by the employer. (One Connecticut day helper called the fire department, and knew the street she was on, but did not know which town she was in. Both towns had streets of the same name.)

Here's some advice that might appear on the emergency list:

1. Location of fuses. (Label fuses at box with indelible ink showing area they affect.)
2. If a storm is a threat to lights and power, fill bathtub with water, wash dirty clothes and dirty dishes at once, fill up bottles, pails and jars with water.
3. Keep a fire extinguisher in a handy place, and leave instructions on how to use it. Water should never be used on fat or oil fires.
4. Attach electric cords to appliances before plugging them in the wall and never leave a cord dangling from the wall outlet. Make sure plug attachment has no chance of coming in contact with water around sinks, for instance.
5. Stress that in case of fire, the first thought should be for the occupants of the house. Tell the housewife how to escape from various rooms of the house in case she is trapped by fire.
6. Greasy paper or oil rags thrown in the fireplace can cause a chimney fire. Use only twigs or

Sew Up Your Bridal Gifts

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

EVERY BRIDE welcomes dainty lingerie cases which she can use for the honeymoon and afterward.

Cases to hold lingerie, gloves, handkerchiefs, stockings and scarfs can make the difference between chaos and order in suitcases or bureau drawers. And every girl knows that nothing gives her such a feeling of lady-like well-being as fishing a dainty handkerchief from a scented satin-like case.

Such cases are so simple to make that there's no excuse for any woman not having enough of them. And they can solve all those problems of what to give at a bridal shower.

Local sewing center experts give a few tips on how to make them. They suggest using rayon taffeta for the outside of the cases, rayon satin for the lining and pella for the interlining. An effective trimming is nylon galloon lace, available in 10-cent stores.

You can get standard patterns for sets of lingerie and handkerchief cases, which give detailed sewing instructions. Start by cutting patterns from the taffeta, pella and rayon. First, stitch taffeta and pella sections together and quilt in diagonal lines, using the quilting attachment on your sewing machine to keep lines straight and spacing even. Then applique diagonal strips of the nylon lace along the quilting lines. For an additional touch, you may use your favorite decorative stitch for the applique, if you own an automatic slant-needle machine or an automatic zigzag attachment for a standard machine.

Next, stitch satin section to taffeta-and-pella section, keeping right sides together. Stitch around three sides, leaving one end open. Turn to right side and finish open end by blind stitching.

Then fold to form pocket and stitch together.

You can make a dozen of these dainty cases in an afternoon, and be supplied with gifts for showers, bazaars or birthdays for months to come.

For an extra special gift, you might slip a dainty handkerchief in one case, a gay little chiffon scarf in another, and a pair of sheer nylons in a third. Add a sachet to each, and you'll have a gift that is sure to delight any woman.

ZANESVILLE, Ohio — Voters have approved a 40-hour work week for policemen. But at the same time they rejected a two-mill tax intended to finance the hiring of seven additional policemen needed to keep the department up to present strength under a 40-hour week.

Policemen offered to continue working 48 hours a week, meanwhile accumulating extra vacation time at the rate of one day a week. City officials said this may not be good in the long run if policemen start taking additional 52-day vacations each year.

Select Your Child's Cereals Carefully

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

PROBABLY YOUR CHILDREN and the rest of your family eat a fair amount of bread, cereal, flour and other grain products.

Do you know how to select these foods to get the most nutrition for your food dollar?

On the shelves of our supermarkets is a vast array of grain products. The packages blare out the merits of their contents. But the advertising experts are not satisfied to confine their bids for your purchase to the nutritive value of their products. All sorts of appeals are cleverly used—cartoons on the boxes, toys enclosed in the package, coupons that can be redeemed for spoons or dishes or what-have-you.

Don't forget that what you are buying is material for sturdy bodies, strong straight bones and rosy cheeks.

Buy your grain products for their nutritive value, not their pretty packages.

What really makes one grain product better nutrition than another?

Grains are all seeds of plants. Nature puts into seeds the food that both the plants and man needs to grow well. But nature separates the various food elements into different parts of the seed. The central and largest part of the seed contains starch, the outside covering contains mineral and B-vitamins. In the heart of the grain is the germ of the seed, small in total volume of the seed, but large in nutritive value. Here is fat, protein and vitamins.

Grains that are prepared for the market by grinding up the whole kernel to help start fires.

7. Instructions where flashlights and candles may be found in emergencies.

8. Make sure that fire tools for the chimney are long enough to reach the damper, particularly in case of a fire started mistakenly.

9. If floods occur in the cellar, do not enter it or attempt to turn on the lights while the water is high.

10. Telephone numbers of the plumber, electrician, fuel and power companies, and other emergency numbers such as fire and police.

seed, starchy outside covering and germ make foods of great nutritive value. But when only the starchy part of the grain is used the resulting food contains very little but calories. We need calories, of course, but if we eat a lot of food that contains only calories, we must supplement the diet with pills to make up for the good food elements thrown away in the milling process.

Highly milled cereals that contain only the starchy part of the grain have become very popular in this country. People seem to like their pure white color and manufacturers like the ease of marketing. Grains that contain the fatty material of the germ spoil more quickly and therefore have to have more careful handling.

Learn to read the labels and understand them. Buy cereals that say they are made from whole grains. It makes little difference if a cereal is eaten hot or cold, but it makes a lot of difference if it is a whole grain cereal or a milled one.

Some cereals are not only highly milled, but they are sugar-coated as well. This adds nothing but calories to their nutritive value.

Not only breakfast cereals but bread and flour should be whole grain.

Teach your children from the beginning to eat food that is good for them from the nutritional standpoint.

You will be well repaid by a healthy family and a lower food bill. If every bite of food that goes down the throats of your family carries a goodly supply of the "accessory foods," the vitamins and minerals, you will not need to buy expensive vitamin pills.

If you use some white flour, as doubtless you will, add some wheat germ to the white flour food or to some other food. Wheat germ tastes good and adds lots of vitamins to the diet.

FOX MENACE

This Pudding Is Truly American

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

SOUTHERNERS SPEAK WITH ENTHUSIASM of this regional favorite dessert, sweet potato pudding.

SWEET POTATO PUDDING, made from the grated raw vegetable, is a truly American dish. Southerners who grew up on this dessert often speak enthusiastically of its unique texture.

This is a sweet rich pudding that benefits from being served with cream, and custom dictates that the cream never be whipped. Because tasting is believing, we've served it with both plain and whipped cream and find that tradition is absolutely correct.

While we may not be traditional in the following recommendation, we are convinced that the flavors of the pudding develop if it is refrigerated for a week or so after it is made and then reheated over boiling water.

Custom also decrees that the pudding be baked in a black iron skillet because in that ware the mixture darkens and takes on a plum-pudding effect. We've baked the pudding in both an earthenware casserole and an iron skillet and again we're inclined to stick with tradition. You can use a black iron Dutch oven, rather than a skillet, if you double our recipe — but because this pan is deeper than a skillet, the texture will be slightly different.

Recipes for this pudding fall into several types. We've chosen the type that probably emanates from the recipe given in Mrs. S. R. Dull's "Southern Cooking," first published 30 years ago. We've made the pudding with both cane and dark corn syrup. The former gives a certain indefinable flavor, but if you can't get it, you'll find the corn syrup satisfactory. Here in New York City, the only cane syrup we could find was some imported from Denmark in a charming barrel-shaped plastic container — a nice combination of the old and the new.

GRATED SWEET POTATO PUDDING

Ingredients: 1/2 cup butter or margarine, 2 cups coarsely grated yam-type sweet potatoes, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves, 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon ground allspice, 1/2 cup raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained), 1/2 cup milk, 2 large eggs.

Method: Melt butter in a black iron skillet (9 by 2 inches); add potatoes as soon as they are grated. Stir sugar, cloves, cinnamon and allspice together thoroughly; stir at once into potatoes with raisins, syrup and milk. Beat eggs with rotary beater (hand or electric) until thick and pale colored; mix with potatoes. Stir over moderately low heat until hot through. Place skillet in moderate (375 degrees) oven; stir every 10 minutes, turning pudding edges under, and bake about 40 minutes. The grated potatoes should retain their coarse texture. Allow to stand at room temperature to cool somewhat so potatoes will absorb the small amount of syrup in skillet. Serve while still warm with thin or heavy cream. Or turn into an earthenware or glass container, cover and refrigerate about a week to develop flavors. To serve, reheat covered, over boiling water. Makes 4 rich sweet servings.

Note: Recipe may be doubled and baked in a black iron skillet (10 by 2 inches) or Dutch oven (10 by 3 inches) at the same temperature for the same length of time.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

Rep. Hill Has Views Favorable to Texas

By TEX EASLEY

AP Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texans, especially ranchers and farmers from the west, may gain satisfaction from knowledge that the man who recently assumed the No. 1 position among Republicans on the House Agriculture Committee has views much in common with theirs.

He is Rep. William S. Hill, a one-time consolidated school superintendent whose large Colorado congressional district is made up of mountains and plains to the north and east of Denver.

He moved to the top of the seniority ladder among GOP members upon the recent death of Rep. Andresen (R-Minn.), and will become chairman if his party wins House control.

Over the 17 years he has been in Congress he has supported cattle and rangeland programs.

He is a friend of Texas' two democratic members of the committee, Reps. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco and Clark Thompson of Galveston, and usually sees eye-to-eye with them.

Andresen, it may be recalled, was a great dairy-state man, was Poage's principal adversary over the years in the latter's successful battle for elimination of the federal tax on colored oleomargarine.

AROUND THE CAPITAL:

When Agriculture Secretary Benson went before the Senate Agriculture committee, Sen. Yarborough (D-Tex) listened patiently and silently for more than two hours awaiting an opportunity to question him. The Texan is not on that committee, so he had to wait his turn.

Recalling to Benson that Congress last August appropriated 20 million dollars for an emergency program to care for the rehabilitation of lands damaged by wind and water erosion, Yarborough said he had traveled Texas all fall and had not found a single official handling soil conservation programs in the state who was even aware that funds were available for wind erosion.

"I would like to check into this and get proper information to answer the questions you have raised," replied Benson, "because you have raised some pretty serious ones."

THE SAM RAYBURN Library in Bonham may become a focal point for future researchers looking into the life and times of each of the speakers who have presided over the U. S. House since Muhlenberg assumed the post as the first one in 1789.

Texas' own Sam Rayburn was the 45th. (Rep. Joe Martin (R-Mass) became the 46th — but yielded the reins back to Rayburn.)

H. G. Dulaney, the friendly 39-year-old first director of the Sam Rayburn Library — officially opened last October — has been here taking lessons in bookbinding and other crafts of the business at the U. S. Archives. He also has been mapping plans for the institution he now heads.

With the assistance of Karl Trever, assistant U. S. archivist who helped arrange the contents of the Sam Rayburn Library, Dulaney hopes to obtain microfilm of private papers of every man who has served as speaker.

ACCORDING TO Trever they now are in the possession of private individuals and/or public libraries, and not even copies of originals have ever been assembled.

He says the project will take years and considerable money, which it is hoped will be available from gifts and endowed funds of the Rayburn Library.

Dulaney, a slender dark-haired man, hails from Bonham's neighboring town of Ector. After graduation from Ector High School in 1913 he attended a business college for a while in Dallas. Following service with the Air Corps in India and Burma in World War II he went with the Farmers Home Administration in Decatur and Bonham. From 1951 until he took his present job he worked here in Washington for Rayburn.

An ex-Texas newspaperman who recently took over press relations for Sen. Yarborough has flown home to bring his family back to Washington.

He is Bob Bray, a 33-year-old native of the Panhandle who has done reporting on papers in Panama, Galveston, Amarillo, Austin and Houston — in that order.

Coming to Washington for the first time this month, Bray located a house in nearby Forest Heights, Md., about 5 miles from the Capitol. Waiting back in Texas to make the trip up in their car and trailer were his wife and four children: Jummy, 8; Leola, 6; Bill, 5 and Elizabeth, 3. Mrs. Bray is the former Nina Owings of Beeville.

Another new addition to Yarborough's staff is Robert V. Shirley, former Houston lawyer and one-time aide to former Texas Sen. Tom Connally.

Fruit Desserts Are Popular

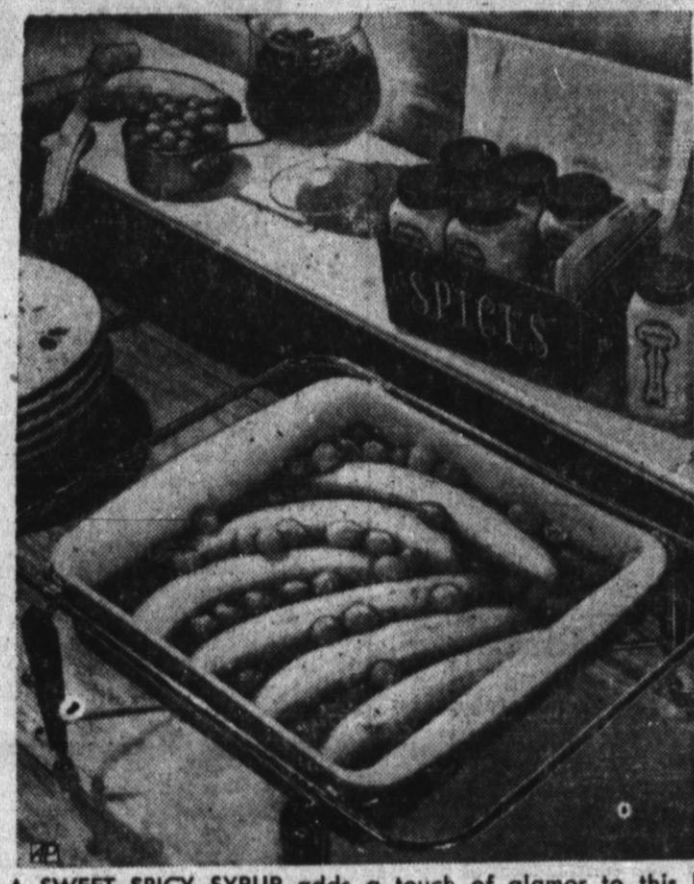

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

AMERICANS ARE TAKING to fruit desserts, if we can judge from the frequency with which we encounter them at dinner parties.

One of the best of these sweet and nutritious endings to a meal, is this combination of bananas and grapes in a spicy syrup. The fruit is delicious "as is," but if you wish to gild the lily, you can accompany it with a fluff of whipped cream (barely sweetened and scented with vanilla), vanilla ice cream or a creamy custard.

If you have a chafing dish that performs well, or an electric skillet, you can prepare this dish in front of your guests and add interest to your supper party. There's something about watching a dish being cooked that enchants an audience and keeps it in suspense!

To do this, combine the fruit juices, grape syrup and sugar in the chafing dish or skillet and place on a tray with the grapes, unpeeled bananas, spices, butter pat, measuring spoons and a long-handled spoon for basting and serving. Then when you are ready for dessert, peel the bananas and complete the preparation at the table. An attractive new set of spices is fine to use for table cookery; it comes in a feather-weight plastic box in four colors — pink, red,

A SWEET SPICY SYRUP adds a touch of glamor to this banana and grape dessert.
