COURT DISREGARDS TAX RAISE PROTEST

League of Tax Payers Formed

"We may be in session for a month, but we're sure going ahead with our program for tax equalization," declared a member of the Commissioners Court of Deaf Smith County as a stormy week drew to a close.

In the furor that accompanied the hearing of protests, the county board's action in cutting road district taxes and Walcott Common School District taxes went almost unnoticed.

And a technicality that will serve to extend the commissioners' tenure as the county tax equalization board well into August arose, was ruled upon, and approved without any undue emotion.

When the legality of the commissioners' action and method in establishing a new tax "floor and ceiling" for rural lands was challenged, the commissioners received reassurance from County Attorney Ed Line that both action and method would stand up in any court test. Line, who conferred with the commissioners at noon Friday, cited a number of legal cases in which similar actions by local taxing officials had been challenged and upheld.

When a protest meeting on Thursday night convened at the courthouse to consider the commissioners' rejection of a request to delay revaluation of rural lands for a year, a petition bearing 98 signatures was prepared. And a "Deaf Smith County Tax Payers League" was established with its officials to serve as a study and advisory board.

THE PETITION, declaring "We the undersigned, tax payers of Deaf Smith County, are opposed to the proposed raise in tax valuations as put in effect by the commissioners court," was received without surprise, or any new decision for action, by the commissioners when they convened as a board of equalization on Friday.

A plea from officials of the Tax Payers League was also noted, and was rejected. The plea read: "Greetings:

"We respectfully ask that the court hold in abeyance their recent ruling on the matter of tax revaluation until Friday, Aug. 2, 1957, giving the recently formed 'Deaf Smith County Tax Payers League' time to canvass the county precincts in regard to the courts stand on the matter."

MEETING OF GROUP, COURT IS A FAILURE

T. M. (Max) Drever, chairman of the new Deaf Smith County Tax Payers League, tersely summarized the results of a meeting Saturday morning between officials of the group and the county commissioners on Saturday morning as "we didn't get any place."

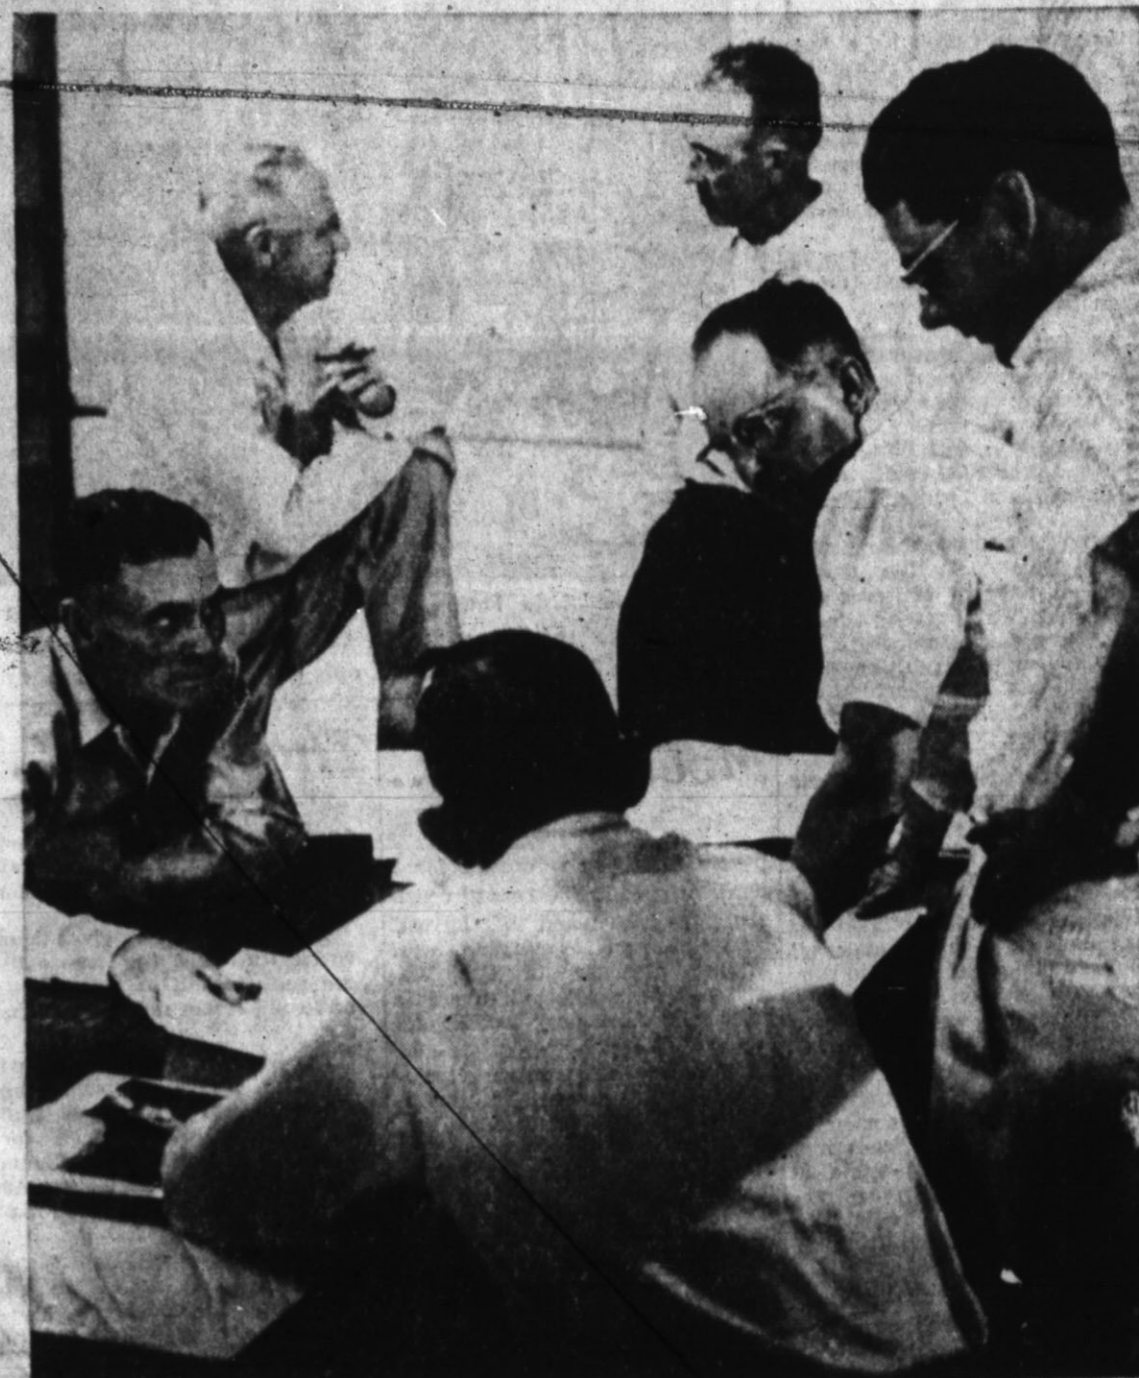

In a meeting that followed the session with the county officials, Drever asked for a statement of position from the members of the group. "Are we still agreed that we are opposed to any raise above the old valuations of $5 to $20? And are we still going to circulate petitions?" he asked.

WALDREN MELTON of Precinct 3, who had been named to succeed Bernie Northcutt, who had resigned from the group, said that he did not feel that he could support the circulation of the petition. He then resigned.

The remainder of the members present, R. L. Cocanougher, Colby Conkright, W. D. Nafziger, Curtis Foster, James M. White, and Malcolm Moser agreed that they were opposed to the raising of the land valuation ceiling and were anxious to begin circulating the petition. They agreed to seek signatures on the petition and to have them ready to present to the county commissioners next Friday at 9:30 a.m. W. H. Andrews, another member of the group, was not in the Tax League meeting Saturday morning.

Drever reminded the group to advise persons they contacted that the next general meeting of tax-

COURT EXPLAINS STAND

Hoping to better explain their position in the current tax controversy, the members of the Commissioners Court of Deaf Smith County yesterday afternoon issued a statement to The Brand. It reads as follows:

"We, the members of the Commissioners Court of Deaf Smith County wish to make the following statement to the people of the county regarding our position in regard to the current controversy on taxes:

"On June 26 we adopted a program designed to serve as a basis for equalizing taxes. The program provided for a change in the valuation of rural lands. At that time we stated that individual land values would be adjusted to levels equal to those of other comparable lands. Taxpayers were invited to discuss such adjustment with either the County Tax Collector, or the county commissioners as a board of equalization, or with both the tax collector and then meet the board of equalization.

The raises we have proposed have been estimated at an overall valuation increase for county properties of $2,500,000. When all adjustments are completed this figure should drop to less than two million dollars. The additional $25,000 tax income we believe this raise would bring the county would be used to offset a general fund deficit and to enable us to undertake such needed repairs as are required by the continued deterioration of utilities in the courthouse. A small increase such as this will be required, too, to continue such services as the county has normally provided at the request of its citizens.

We feel that with the tolerance and understanding of the Citizens of Deaf Smith County, we will be able to complete this tax equalization program without creating any undue hardships on individuals and will have made definite progress toward equalization of taxes over the county. We would like to point out that a majority of the officials of the newly formed "Deaf Smith County Tax Payers League" have declined an opportunity to meet with the commissioners to discuss equalization of their individual properties. We will meet as long as is necessary, as a board of equalization, to make such adjustments. Final meeting date will be Aug. 12.

We feel that the courts' action will save the county $15,000 to $20,000 in costs that would have been incurred for individual evaluations being made by a professional appraiser.

Man Is Charged in Child Beating

Charges of aggravated assault were filed Saturday morning against G. W. Russell, 26, a farm worker who lives near Summerfield.

Russell allegedly beat his son, Kenneth Jess, 4, on Sept. 18, 1956. At the time of the alleged beating, Russell was living in Hereford. He now works for Melvin Rainey.

County Welfare Agent Jewele Smith and Sheriff Lowell Sharp investigated the alleged assault last year but did not file any charges. Later complaints from Russell's wife, Ola May, and relatives brought about the charges.

Dodgers Win, Lose Same Game to Yanks

Winning can be a losing proposition as the minor league Dodgers discovered Thursday night after downing the Yankees, 3-1, in five innings to complete an earlier game.

Little League rules this year state a game being played off must begin right where it was stopped. The rule also states the team ahead at the end of the first full inning of the playoff wins the game.

In this case, the Dodgers and Yankees were tied, 2-2, at the end of five innings earlier in the season.

At the end of the first full inning Thursday night, the Yankees were ahead, 2-1. (Continued on Page 2)

LAKE SPRAYING—A county-wide mosquito control project, one of the largest ever undertaken in the nation, was completed Thursday morning as these two agricultural spray planes spread BHC chemical over lakes in the Garcia community in the extreme southwestern corner of Deaf Smith County. The program, undertaken by the county commissioners after a state of emergency due to the presence of sleeping sickness disease-carrying mosquitoes was declared, has been coupled with ground spraying of bar ditches and pleas for individual control work, plus a rigorous insect dusting program in Hereford. Morris Easley and Don Steele of Val-Air of Hereford were pilots of the two planes, shown as they were crossing Mustang Lake. (Staff Photo)

ALL-STAR GAMES HERE

Pony League Title Goes to Red Sox

Backing Clyde Whitaker's one-hit pitching with a barrage of hits, the Red Sox won the second half Pony League championship Thursday night by whipping the Tigers, 10-0.

Whitaker, using a hopping fast ball, struck out 13 Tiger batters and gave up one hit, a single to Joe Mack Hale, in the fourth inning.

PRIOR TO Thursday's contest, the Tigers and Red Sox had been tied for first place with six wins and two losses each. The Red Sox will meet the first half champion White Sox for the league championship after the Pony all-star team meets Pampa in the area District 6 play-off here Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Red Sox hopped on Tiger starter Joe Mack Hale for seven hits and eight runs in the second inning and added two more rallies in the third off reliever Ronnie Caster.

Whitaker got into a jam in the second inning when Caster was safe on an error and Wesley Poarch and Hale walked. With the bases loaded and none out, Whitaker rared back and fanned the next three men.

In the fourth, Poarch walked and was thrown out at home by centerfielder Lisle Patton when he tried to score on Hale's single.

Harold Carter, Curtis Ritchie and Royce Turner led the Red Sox hitters with two hits each. Five of the Red Sox hits went for extra bases, all of them doubles.

Fonder, James M. White, Malcolm Moser, Bernie Northcutt, T. M. Drever — Representatives of the Taxpayers League.

AFTER MEETING Friday morning with Colby Conkwright and Malcolm Moser, spokesmen for the Tax Payers League, the commissioners agreed to meet again on Saturday morning with the other officials of the group "to better explain the county officials position in this."

The commissioners then continued their sitting as a board of equalization on Friday afternoon and for a brief period on Saturday.

Neither side appeared to make or gain a point during the Tax Payers League-County Commissioners session Saturday morning.

At one point, County Judge Homer Henslee produced figures which he said had been taken from the tax records to show that county and state taxes on land owned by several members of the visiting body were lower in 1956 than they were in 1950.

Conkwright produced a tax statement and proceeded to dispute the statement made by the judge.

MINUTES LATER, Commissioner Otto Massie lost his temper during an exchange of words with Conkwright. "We're getting tired of you... people coming in here and telling us how to run this court..." Massie's outburst brought a call for "Order! Mr. Massie!" from Judge Henslee.

The commissioner's outburst obviously did not represent the opinion of the court members. Earlier, Commissioner J. T. Guinn had expressed this as being, "We've always held open meetings and will be glad for anyone to sit in on our sessions." Guinn's statement came in answer to a question regarding the Tax Payers League, having a representative at future court sessions.

Meeting to apportion county taxes to the various funds earlier in the week the commissioners had acted to give city taxpayers a 10 per cent cut in taxes through reduction of the road district interest and sinking fund from 37 to 20 cents.

The cut will affect all land and personal property taxes levied by the county, reducing the rate overall for county and state taxes from $1.79 to $1.62 per $100 valuation. The Walcott Common School District tax was reduced from $1.50 to $1.35 in line with current needs of the district in the western part of the county.

THE WATER district levy, set at 5 cents per $100 valuation, and the state tax levy at 42 cents are not affected by the commissioner's action. But under a new state law, they now will be required each year to apportion taxes to the various funds. The apportionment formerly was resolved each seventh year in a county-wide election.

This will be the split made in the 95 cent county tax levy: Three cents to the jury fund, unchanged; 30 cents to the road and bridge fund, unchanged; 40 cents to the general fund, increased from 36 cents; 8 cents in the general improvement fund, up from 6 cents; 5 cents in the hospital maintenance fund, down from 6 cents; 3 cents in the hospital interest and sinking fund, reduced from 10 cents; 6 cents in the permanent improvement fund, up from 4 cents.

HE'S SAFE—Lisle Patton, Red Sox centerfielder, slides into third base safely as Ronnie Caster, of the Tigers lunges too late. Patton later scored one of the Red Sox' runs as payers has been scheduled for 8 p.m., Aug. 8, in the county courthouse. And he noted that he will confer as soon as possible with Attorney Oschner of Amarillo, who has been retained to aid in chartering the county Tax Payers League.

He asked that persons circulating the petitions seek new members for the Tax Payers League, and reminded those present that the purpose of the group will be to look into all local tax matters, not only county, but school and city.

THE PETITION now being circulated in the county reads: "To The Honorable Commissioners Court, Deaf Smith County, Texas:

"We, the undersigned taxpayers, property owners, and voters of Deaf Smith County, Texas, do hereby respectfully request that the Commissioners Court of Deaf Smith County, Texas rescind and cancel its action recently taken wherein it raised the assessed valuation of property in Deaf Smith County, Texas, and respectfully suggest that any additional taxes that may have to be raised and found necessary to be raised can be raised by the tax assessor assessing taxable property that is

The new law sets certain legal limits at which the various funds must be maintained. The legal technicality affecting the board of equalization's meeting, hinged on a failure to publicly advertise the date as July 26. This resulted in the board changing its official meeting date to Aug. 12 in order to comply with state laws requiring specific methods of announcing certain legal sessions. But it will not affect the action taken by the commissioners who began a series of continuous sessions as a board of equalization on kees were leading, 4-0. So, they win the tie game, 12-8, and all those 35 Dodgers runs go for nothing but exercise.

The Yankee victory gives them seven wins and two losses for the second half of the season and complicates matters immensely.

The Giants stand 6-2 and must play the Dodgers a make-up game Thursday at 6 p.m. Had the Dodgers gotten credit for their win Thursday, the Giants would have been undisputed champs of both halves of the season.

Should the Dodgers defeat the Giants Thursday, the Yankees will be second half champs. Then the Giants and Yankees will play for the overall season's title.

But, if the Giants win Thursday, they will be in a first-place tie for the second half with the Yanks. Then, the Giants and Yankees will play for the second half title. If the Giants win that playoff, they've won the whole caboodle. If the Yanks win, the two teams must play for the overall championship.

New Grand Jury To Hear Burglary Case on Monday

Two Hereford teenagers, both 17, will be turned over to the new county grand jury when it meets Monday. The boys have not been charged but are suspected on three counts as burglars.

Two juveniles were with the older boys when they allegedly stole batteries and generators from Orborn-Norwood Chevrolet Co. and Pat Nell's body shop. They also allegedly burglarized Tandy Legg's residence and took some cash. They were picked up this week.

Sheriff Lowell Sharp said the two older boys had not been charged because of the impending grand jury meeting. The two juveniles were placed on probation this week.

West Texas State Music Camp Will Open Aug. 5

CANYON — Nationally famed authorities in band and choral direction and twirling will instruct for the fifth annual West Texas Music Camp, slated to open Aug. 5 on the West Texas State College campus.

The two weeks camp, which offers intensive training and practice, along with concert and public performances, is expected to attract more than 300 junior and senior high school musicians from the Tri-State area.

M. J. Newman, West Texas State music department head and camp director, has announced that enrollment, auditions, and dormitory assignments will be held on the afternoon of Aug. 4. Instruction, rehearsals, and practice sessions get underway Aug. 5.

Newman said that the camp, which has expanded each year with additional dormitory facilities at WT, can still accommodate a number of out-of-state girls. Cost for tuition, room and board for the two weeks session is $52.50. Reservations can still be sent to Newman at West Texas State in Canyon.

Choral work will be taught by L. N. "Cy" Perkins, professor of music and choral director at Oklahoma State University. He will be assisted by Dr. Houston Bright, director of WT's A Cappella Choir. The camp choir each year includes more than 100 members.

Four bands of about 100 players each will be formed. These are the Symphonic Band, composed of the best camp musicians and a few college instrumentalists; the Concert Band, composed of high school age musicians not yet qualified for the top band; the Junior High Band, composed entirely of students below 10th grade level; and the Reading Band, a volunteer organization of high school and college players.

All but the Reading Band perform publicly in two or three concerts. The Reading Band spends time reading and demonstrating new music materials.

Harold Bachman, director of bands at the University of Florida, will conduct the Symphonic Band. Jack Lee, University of Arizona band director, returns to the camp after serving on its staff during the first two years. Lee, who will direct the Concert Band, became famous as director of the great Michigan Marching Band before going to Arizona. Dr. Joe Haddon of Midland High School, and formerly assistant director at Texas Tech, will conduct the junior high school group.

Miss Sonie Rogers of Western Michigan College, former "Miss Majorette of America" and holder of several national twirling championships, will return to the camp for the second year to teach twirling classes. She will be assisted by Miss Ann Dorris of Dumas High School, formerly chief majorette of the West Texas State Buffalo Band.

Besides band and choral sessions, students may enroll for classes in fundamentals of drill, student conducting, theory and music for fun, as well as private lessons in all wind instruments, piano, voice, and twirling.

Directors and music teachers may earn college credit during the camp by enrolling in one of three courses in choral literature and techniques, band pageantry, or the concert band. These courses are to be taught by Perkins, Lee and Bachman. Other work for directors include woodwind and brass workshops and a directors' seminar, taught by W. O. Latson, David Kaplan and Newman of the WT music faculty.

A full recreational program has been planned for students each day following rehearsals, sectional practices and classes. It includes swimming, picnics, games, folk and ballroom dancing, trips to Palo Duro State Park, and programs and planned activities each night.

Concerts and evening programs are planned throughout the camp, with a "grand finale concert" slated to close the camp Aug. 16.

MORRIS HIGLEY

Rotary Governor Arrives Today

Hereford's Rotary Club today will be host to Morris Higley, governor of the 573rd district of Rotary International, who is making his annual official visit to each of the 43 clubs in West Texas.

At 3 p.m. today in the Hotel Jem Hill ballroom, Higley will meet with club officers, directors and committee chairmen. He will address the club at noon Monday, during its regular luncheon meeting, according to Melvin Young, secretary.

Higley is president and publisher of The Childress Index, a position he has held for 22 years. A past president of the Childress Rotary Club, he has a 22-year perfect attendance record.

He was elected district governor of Rotary International in June of this year at Lucerne, Switzerland, and was one of the few district governors to appear on the program at Lucerne while still a governor-nominee.

In Childress he is a director of the chamber of commerce and has served as president of the Board of City Development three times. At the present time he is a director of the Panhandle Auto Club, Amarillo, and a director of the Estate Life Insurance Co., Amarillo. Higley has been active in Boy Scout work for a number of years and has received the Silver Beaver award. In 1952 he was named Childress' "Outstanding Citizen."

DAUGHTER BORN — Mr. and Mrs. Bob Higgins of Hobbs, N. M., announce the arrival of a daughter, Beverly Diane, born around 6 a. m. Saturday, and weighing 8 pounds, 3 ounces. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Higgins, and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Doris Murrey, all of Hereford.

The Colorado River flows out through the Grand Canyon with such power that it moves half a million tons of silt in a single 24 hours past any given point.

The Buffs have only seven home games, only slightly more than one-third of all contests scheduled. Highlight of the home card will be the appearance of Santa Clara, one of the top ten rated clubs in the nation several weeks last year, here Dec. 21.

'Goodbye, My Fancy' Is Slated at WTSC

CANYON (Special) — Fay Knapp's sophisticated modern comedy, "Goodbye, My Fancy," final production of the summer theatre season by the Palo Duro Players at West Texas State College, will be presented six nights opening July 30.

The play, to be given intimate theatre, or "theatre in the round" style, will be directed by Dr. Lowell Matson of Purdue University. His production of "Green Grow the Lilacs," presented in June, enjoyed one of the best runs in WT's summer theatre history.

Curtain time each night in the Branding Iron Theatre, will be at 8:15 p.m. and reservations may be obtained by mail or telephone through the WT speech department. Admission is 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children. Opening night July 30 will be played primarily for teachers on the campus for the fifth annual Bending Conference, and on Aug. 5 for music students attending the annual West Texas Music Camp. Other nights slated are July 31, Aug. 1-3.

"Goodbye, My Fancy," first produced on Broadway in 1948, brought acclaim to Madeleine Carroll, Conrad Nagel and Sam Wanamaker, and earned great notice for Shirley Booth.

In the leading roles for the WT production are Dr. Wendell Cain, assistant professor of speech, Loretta Patillos of Amarillo, John Wetton of Lefors, Henry Eason of Amarillo, and Dolly Lynch of Amarillo.

Other roles have been assigned to Brenda Solnick of Amarillo, Cherri Crouch of Vega, Georgia Ehly of Amarillo, Mary Scott of Canyon, Barbara Haar of Perryton, Lonnie Tilson of Borger, Raymond Kirkwood of Stratford, Steve Oles of Amarillo.

Robertta Hickman of Canyon, Elizabeth Jores of Amarillo, Thelma Cobb of Happy, Merle Ware of Hartley, Fawayne Murphy of Dimmitt, Evelyn Hooker of Claude, and Bill Graham of Amarillo.

The play is the story of a liberal-Congresswoman who returns to her old school to be awarded an honorary degree. She proposes to show a movie of World War II, becoming involved in a fight to show the horrors of war, and becomes the movie to the girls of the college.

Look Who's New!

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Loerwald are parents of a boy, Thomas Gerard, born at 10:55 a.m. July 24, weighing 7 pounds, 2 ounces. The grandparents, all of Hereford, are Mrs. J. A. Loerwald and Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Zinser Sr.

A boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clayton at 11:29 a.m. July 24. The baby weighed 7 pounds, 14 ounces at birth.

Jose Reinaldo Perez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe G. Perez, was born at 4:25 a.m. July 26. His weight was 7 pounds, 15 1/2 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Cosme Velasquez have a new son born at 8:24 a.m. July 27. At birth the baby weighed 6 pounds, 2 1/2 ounces.

WORK BEGINS AT 40 — There are fewer working women in the 20 to 24-year-old bracket than formerly, the most typical working woman today being married and about 40 years old.

A half-pound of bologna that is finely chopped or ground will make about one cup.

While the comedy is spiced with ample laughs, it also is a satire on bigotry in education, particularly in girls' schools.

LADY SHERIFF — MARKLESVILLE, Calif. — Mrs. Lucille Brown has been named California's only woman sheriff. The Alpine County supervisors appointed her to serve the unexpired term of her late husband, Orrin Brown, who held the job for 22 years. Alpine County, in the high Sierras near the Nevada border south of Lake Tahoe, has only 241 residents. Mrs. Brown named her son, Orrin Brown Jr., to serve as her deputy.

GOOD BARGAIN — SALEM, Va. — John H. Tingle was high bidder at $125 for an old house which this town wanted razed to make room for an addition to the water plant. Tingle, in dismantling the house, found a tin box in the attic containing a lot of old money. United States bills of the old wide size now taken out of circulation, which he disposed of for $500.

WT Basketball Schedule Given

CANYON (Special) — A trip to California and participation in the Louisiana Invitational Tournament over the holidays will highlight West Texas State's 19-game basketball schedule in 1957-58.

Borden Price, who will launch his first campaign as head coach after tutoring Buff freshmen for 10 years, faces a rough assignment in baptismal fire. The Herd opens the schedule with the trip to California, meeting San Francisco, third in last year's NCAA national championships; Santa Clara University, a perennial cage power; and Pepperdine of Los Angeles, another tough customer.

The Louisiana Invitational at Shreveport also will have Army, Mississippi State, Centenary, Hardin-Simmons, Louisiana Tech and Northwestern Louisiana competing. The event, second annual, will be staged in a 12,500-seat auditorium on the State Fairgrounds.

The Buffs have only seven home games, only slightly more than one-third of all contests scheduled. Highlight of the home card will be the appearance of Santa Clara, one of the top ten rated clubs in the nation several weeks last year, here Dec. 21.

First the Fire, then the Steak

By EDWARD S. KITCH
AP Newswriters

It requires more than a barbecue recipe book to cook outdoors these days.

Many a good steak has been ruined by outdoor cooks who pay more attention to the cut of meat than the marinade than the fire.

One of the nation's largest distributors of barbecuing equipment received so many questions on "How to Cook Outdoors" that it prepared a booklet by the same name. The company says its new book takes the guesswork out of barbecuing and leaves nothing unanswered.

Presently, sales in spit barbecue units are booming, and there is a growing interest in smoking equipment. This is because there's a wider variety of food which can be cooked successfully on this type of equipment.

You now can cook rolled and standing rib roast, whole hams, chickens, turkey, wild game, whole fish and other seafood.

Now, as any merit-badge Boy Scout can tell you, it is very important to start the fire early and allow time for the charcoal briquets to be completely covered with gray ash. The time runs from 30 to 45 minutes.

But before you start the fire, a bed of stones or gravel in the fire bowl is recommended as the first step. This layer protects the pan, permits better circulation of air around the fuel and retains and redistributes heat as well as absorbs fat dripping. The bed of stones should be from one-half to three-quarters of an inch in depth.

A new and easy way to start a fire is to use foil packaged briquets, which avoid muss and fuss, and line the grill with heavy-duty aluminum foil, which speeds up cooking, gives even heat distribution and eliminates the messy job of cleaning ashes and grease off the bottom of the grill.

If you use loose briquets, they should be placed in a mound about 10 inches in diameter and 5 inches high. Extra briquets should be placed on the gravel near the fire to warm them before using as needed later.

Once you've touched a match to the fuel, please refrain from adding liquid starting fuel to the smudge because the resulting blast may put you in a hospital. Fanning the fire with a folded newspaper is a safer remedy for a slow-starting fire.

The book recommends charcoal briquets because they give off very little smoke and odor and give the true, much-sought-after, charcoal flavor. Other fuels, such as soft wood charcoals, fall to produce steady heat, burn either too fast or too slow and have a high resin content which imparts an undesirable taste to delicately flavored foods.

MODERN FIREMAKER—Expert outdoor cook Peggy Weir and daughter, Heath, of Louisville, Ky., make a fire the easy way, using charcoal briquets in grill lined with heavy foil.

and barbecue mitts. The fire tongs can be used to arrange briquets in the fire and handle foil-wrapped packages of food. The shovel can be used for gravel and knocking off ashes from the briquets. The mitts is to protect your hands.

Here are further suggestions for better barbecuing:

1. Have the fire slightly larger than the area covered by food.
2. Keep briquets free from ash.
3. The grill should be about three inches above the fire.
4. Rub grill with fat or cooking oil.
5. Use your tongs to turn meats and poultry every three to five minutes. A fork pierces the meat and lets juices escape.
6. The meat is cooking when juices appear on the uncooked surface and when fat on the edge of the meat sputters.
7. After a steak has been seared for two or three minutes, and the meat placed at three inches above the fire, the time-table for a two-inch steak is: rare—10 to 15 minutes per side; medium—15 to 20 minutes.

You'll need fire tongs, shovel

Swiss Heads Hawaiian Kitchen

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

TO BRING EXOTIC POLYNESIAN food and drink to New Yorkers and their visitors, Chef Albert Stockli took several giant steps from his native Switzerland.

These culinary strides have landed him in high command of the kitchens of the Hawaiian Room where he uses the knowledge and training acquired in dozens of countries.

Important in work and travel, was Stockli's stint (before the war) with a Dutch line visiting Sumatra, Java and Bali. Indonesian chefs aboard ships were superb and he became passionately fond of their dishes. But when the sailer-cooks were silent and mysterious about how they prepared the food, Stockli kept an eye out for the ingredients in the galley and experimented until he could duplicate their creations.

Nothing concerned with food preparation is too much trouble for Stockli. He still travels to taste dishes, reads about food, prowls around supermarkets, spends hours talking to cooks and procures and constantly works in his own kitchen to originate and improve recipes. He told us that not long ago he went back to a Paris restaurant eight times and ordered the same intricate lobster dish at each session because he was determined to reproduce the secret formula.

Stockli's advice to any man or woman interested in the fine art of preparing food, is to cook, cook and cook again. Remembering his teen-age apprenticeship in an uncle's Swiss restaurant, he says:

"I spent months peeling potatoes and cutting them in every possible manner. When I finally spent many more months learning to prepare them 116 different ways, I had an intimate acquaintance with this vegetable that will last me for the rest of my life!"

If you want to cook a Polynesian supper, here's a recipe for shrimp fried in a crisp coconut batter that Stockli offers on his restaurant menu. For other dishes, the chef suggests fried rice with roast pork or chicken, and Rumaiki; to make the latter, wrap a chicken liver and a canned water chestnut with a strip of scallion and a slice of bacon, marinate in soy sauce mixed with ginger and curry powder and broil until the bacon is crisp. For dessert, bring on a mountain of fresh fruit—melons, oranges, strawberries, fresh figs, bananas—with a flaming rum-flavored sauce.

SAMARITAN'S REWARD
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Ezra Evans, a truck driver, was passing a repair shop when he saw flames curling around the corner of the building.
He stopped, grabbed a fire extinguisher, sprayed the building and had the blaze under control by the time the fire department arrived.
When Evans returned to his truck, he found a policeman had given him a ticket for double parking.

GOOD OLD DAYS

CLEMENTS, Minn. (AP)—The rural mail carrier service has been mechanized and streamlined since Benjamin H. Wolford first starting making the rounds 44 years ago.

HOGS ARE SHIPPED FROM THE EAST ... SOLD IN THE WEST

BUT THE PROFIT GOES BACK TO THE EASTERN HOG RAISER.

Why not keep that PROFIT at home?

Last year more than 5,000,000 hogs were shipped here from eastern and midwestern points. To pay for them, people in this part of the country sent back east over $200,000,000!

Our point is this—why not keep that profit at home? On the Purina Program, hogmen anywhere can produce low-cost pork. Even if you have no grain you can still raise profitable pork the Purina Way.

With Purina there's very little left to guesswork—you know before you start how much feed and how long it should take to put your hogs across the market scales.

Like to share in these right-at-home hog profits? Then stop by soon and let's talk about hogs.

LITTLE'S of Hereford

By JIMMIE GILLENINE
When a fellow starts getting old, he invariably starts slipping. The pitiful thing, though, is the fact that he seldom ever realizes what is happening to him. Thursday morning it dawned on me from out of nowhere that I had completely overlooked bragging about my weather forecast in the Sunday paper. Remember how I was predicting half-hearted showers? We got one Saturday after I wrote the column Friday and have had several others during the week. All were half-hearted, too.

When I forget to brag about a correct weather forecast, you can figure something is wrong. It's about like Odice Bulls forgetting to run your gas tank over if you tell him to fill it up. Incidentally, we are right now overdue. I figure some more showers this week. Maybe two inches for August. Sure it's unusual, but since when has the weather in this country been usual?

I was quite surprised Friday to receive a letter from Raylan Evans, a former resident and city commissioner, who lost his wits and moved to Moffat, Colo. I was still more surprised, upon reading the letter, to find that he sincerely questions the integrity of one of our townsmen, Marlin Gilliland. Remember that story Marlin was putting out about poor fishing in the Pagosa Springs area? Raylan indicates that Marlin probably never even went to Pagosa. Anyway, here is what Raylan has to say:

"I am prompted to write because of a statement made by one Marlin (Red Slat) Gilliland concerning the lack of fish in Colorado. I do not know about fishing in Pagosa Springs, but I do know that four out of five fishermen came in with good catches in Los Pinos Creek on Thursday, July 11, 1957, and that the fifth man, who caught only one baby trout and was embarrassed to keep it, was the above mentioned Marlin (Red Slat) Gilliland. Please ask him for the rest of the story. P. S. And ask him to please return my pocket knife."

Personally, I am reluctant to question Raylan, but when he starts slandering the veracity of people like Honest Marlin Gilliland, there isn't much else left to do. We all know Marlin. Some old timers have known him since childhood and a few attended high school with him back when Central was the only school building in Hereford. Marlin even belonged to the Boy Scouts and claims to have worn an Eagle Scout badge back when Earnest Langley and Doc Adams were still in diapers. Marlin has lots of faults, this I grant, but never before has an outsider from Moffat, Colo., questioned his accuracy in fish stories.

The only way I can figure this deal is that Raylan got up there with those yankees — and "went native." I bet he is already saying "crick" instead of creek. They put out those fingerlings, charge 10 bucks for a license then, when a fellow gets back to Texas and snitches on them, they start yelling "double-cross." Marlin may be unreliable and undependable during fishing season; he may talk too much and listen too little. . . and I'll admit that he has to have a blood transfusion before he casts a shadow on a really shiney day, but this time I'm with him. Marlin is homefolks — and I won't have him slandered by those Colorado Yankees.

It looks like 1957 is turning in to a real Johnson grass year. Mrs. Gerald Wilson is boasting about some blisters she got digging the stuff; Gaylord Newell is threatening to buy some green concrete to pave his entire yard. All of which is comparatively simple, of course, if you will merely plow it in the dark of the moon. Ask Lee Benefield? He claims to have eliminated the stuff without losing a single ounce of weight.

ED SKYPALA is back from the Canadian canoe trip, a much wiser man than when he left. He says, among other things, he found out that you simply cannot completely fill 13 boys to the brim. Ed recalls one morning he got up early with a determination to cook all of the hot cakes those kids could possibly eat. He made up three gallons of batter — and 112 hot cakes later, gave up. "It took so long to fill those guys that by the time you fed the 13th one, the first one was hungry again," says Ed. He figures that he never had a better time in his life than on the trip, and is now counting the days until his moving picture films are processed and returned.

Ed says they carried dehydrated foods to hold down the pack weight . . . that catching fish up there was "so easy it wasn't even fun," and that the canoe portages were tougher than the paddling. It's one of those deals he wouldn't take $1,000 cash for — but neither would he want to do it over again next week.

BACK HOME. I have made an outdoor discovery of significant importance. When you start a charcoal fire; use an old milk carton. Put six or eight little charcoal bricks into the carton, light your match and, when the coals turn white, cover them with other coals. It really works, and sure is a good way to get rid of old milk cartons.

What ever happened to the dam someone was going to build west of town on the Tierra Blanca? It still sounds like a good idea. Time was when the kids of this community could drift down to the creek with a cane pole and come home with a nice mess of perch. If this sounds absurd, just ask Cliff Estes, Miles Roberson, Pack London, George Stambaugh or J. A. Pitman. They will verify it. If you won't believe them, ask Honest Marlin Gilliland. We can't ever get the creek back, that's for sure, but with a little work we still might promote that lake.

Meanwhile, I get word that the Commissioners Court forgot to post announcements or advertise their recent meeting as an Equalization Board. When you get legal, this means that everything that has been said or done is null and void. It's all got to be said and done again. Seldom in life do we get a second chance like this. Personally, I can think of a lot of things I would change — given a second chance to do them over. On the other hand, I would hate to be a commissioner. Once is bad enough on a wrangle of this sort. Living through a repeat performance is too much.

Honestly, though, why don't the farmers ask the commissioners to make a complete, thorough evaluation survey — and give equal taxes to all concerned. This is the only fair way to do the job. This name-calling will only lead to trouble, strife and, in the long run, will cost more than doing the job right in the first place. Maybe I am all wet, but to me it looks like the only long-range solution.

Meanwhile, word is going around that I don't agree with the Commissioners Court in their stand to equalize taxes. I DO THINK County and school taxes need to be equalized. It is imperative. My difference of opinion was that the Commissioners should have hired some local or outside experts to do the job. The Commissioners felt like the cost would be too great — and are making an effort to do it themselves. Honestly, I think they still have some of the land valuations too low in comparison

Start Demolition of Town Landmark

A HEREFORD landmark, the First Christian Church building at 6th and Main, is being torn down and will be removed by Nov. 25. The congregation moved into their new building the last of June.

An Amarillo firm began the task of tearing down the structure on Wednesday. Their contract calls for purchase of the materials and leveling the lot.

The church building was started in 1908 after the congregation had outgrown a frame building they had built in 1899. After selling their old building, they met in the auditorium of the Panhandle Christian College while the new church was being built. The basement of the church was ready for occupancy in 1909 and the auditorium was completed in 1917. Dedicatory services were held Aug. 22, 1918. The church was begun and the basement completed during the pastorate of S. T. Shore, and the building was completed during the succeeding pastorate of Dr. G. A. Farris.

THIS STRUCTURE and the courthouse stood as the only conspicuously monumental buildings of the town. Its auditorium, seating 1,200 people, was by church policy offered freely for larger community and church gatherings. Many school programs were held here until the school built its own auditorium.

The building has been large enough to serve its membership and no additional space has ever needed to be built on, but improvements were made at different times. An electric organ was purchased in 1949. This organ is being moved to the new building.

Dedication services for the new church, located on Harrison Highway, were held June 30. The sanctuary will be added at a future time, and at present worship services are held in the Fellowship Hall and chapel.

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — Hamlet Collier Sr. displayed his flaming loyalty recently.

Children May Whine To Force Attention

By DOROTHY V. WHIPLE, M.D.

AP Newsfeatures
"I want a drink" whined Peter. His mother snapped at him: "Peter, if you don't stop that whining, I'll give you a good licking."

"But I want a drink. Can't I have a drink?" Peter drawled out his whine.
"All right, you asked for it. His mother gave him a good hard slap that sent Peter sprawling and changed the whine to a loud howl.
Whining is perhaps one of the very most irritating things children can do. There is something about that high pitched nasal twang that can get under the skin of even the most placid mother. But slaps and punishments don't cure whining. The best that can be said for them is that they relieve mother's feelings, at least for the moment.

WHY DO children whine and what is there to do about it? Most children experiment with this device for getting attention. If your youngster only does it a little, your best bet is to ignore it completely. He will get over it as he grows up a bit. Some time between 3 and 4 years of age is the time children discover they can use their voices in this particular fashion. If when they do it nothing special happens, children will soon get tired of whining and stop.

But some children whine a great deal, and then we need to look into it. Why do they do it and how can we stop it?
When whining is done to excess it becomes a way of getting attention. The child who must resort to this objectionable behavior needs his life made more satisfactory.

Take a good look at your whiner. You are with him all day long, you say. How can he need more attention? Yes, maybe you are in the same house, maybe in the same room with him, but does that mean you are with him in mind and heart, or is only your body there? Maybe you are busy doing all the hundreds of things a mother has to do, shooting him out of the way most of the time. PETER will whine when mother pushes him out of the way while she makes the beds, but Peter does not whine if mother lets him help with the beds. He will chortle with glee to make waves with the sheets and he adores hiding in the blankets. It takes ten times as long to make the beds with 3-year-old assistance, but after Peter has really had his mother's undivided attention for half an hour in this sort of play he may wander off by himself for a time and play happily alone.

It is the child who seldom or never has his mother's complete attention who is constantly finding means of dragging her away from her preoccupations. Like Peter, many a child would rather have a slap than a brush off. At least when he is slapped mother is devoting her undivided attention to him.

The whiner may need more of mother's whole-hearted companionship. Or maybe he needs some playmates his own age. If you can get together with a friend or a neighbor with a child of about the same age, take turns keeping the children. They are likely to need a good deal of supervision, plan to do most of your housework the morning both children are at the friend's house; when they are with you you'll have to keep a close eye on them.

IF THERE is an organized play group or a nursery school near you, this may be the perfect answer to the whiner.

Make sure your whiner isn't tired. Is he getting a long night's sleep and a good nap in the daytime?
Sometimes a mid-morning or mid-afternoon snack of milk or juice and crackers cures whining miraculously.

See to it that a whining child is in good condition physically and that his life is interesting and happy and he will stop whining.

Give Your Baby Sound Footwork

FASTIDIOUS BABY—Mom shines baby's shoes with a good polish that doesn't rub off, keeps her in leather shoes with uppers until she gets proper control of her feet.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The baby who is going through a first summer wearing shoes needs careful supervision of feet.

Sound feet are very important to those first steps. It takes about 20 years for the foot to be fully formed, we are told, and in each stage of growth the child needs a shoe that helps the foot to grow without too much restraint.

A small child's feet will grow more rapidly than Mom anticipates. She must be alert to the need for checking the child's feet to make sure that the shoes are not too tight. They may not show any wear and still be too short, too narrow or too small.

Experts say that if soles curl at the tip, shoes are getting too short. If edges of soles look straggly it may indicate that shoes are too narrow. An instep-side edge of the heel that is especially worn may reveal ankle weakness. If the lining is worn, the shoe may be too small.

First shoes should be training shoes with supple leather uppers. These give a small child's toes space to spread. The sturdy leather soles, too, give him a stable base on which to stand, protecting tiny feet. Avoid putting the toddler in sneakers or sandals, no matter how hot the weather. Let him go barefoot on beach or at home if you like, but avoid shoes that do not protect the feet.

Baby will outgrow that first pair of shoes in four to six weeks. He'll need another pair of shoes about two months later, and about every three months until he is 10. If a child's toes are to grow straight, be sure that each pair of new shoes gives him growing space at the tip of the shoe equal to the width of your thumb, and discard them before his toes have begun to crowd it.

It's a good idea to wipe baby's shoes clean with a damp cloth and a little soap before applying polish to the shoes. For white shoes, choose a good white polish that doesn't rub off.

If baby's shoes get rained on, keep them away from the radiator. Stuff them with paper and let them dry away from the heat. Baby should have an alternate pair of shoes so that one can get a day's airing after a day of wear.

WATERLOO, Neb. (AP) — Several years of drought turned a lot of Nebraska farmers to irrigation.
This year the shoe has been on the other foot and abnormally heavy rains have caused flooding and left water standing in many fields.

A number of farmers, like Clarence Clover who lives south of Waterloo, had the ready-made remedy: They simply use their irrigation equipment in reverse and pump the water out of their fields.

The Hallmark of Circulation Value

In the same way that STERLING on silver signifies a standard of known value, so is the A.B.C. emblem a symbol of integrity for the circulation of newspapers and periodicals. It means that circulation so identified is measured according to the rules and standards of the AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATION.

The A.B.C. is a cooperative and non-profit association of 3,450 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. Organized in 1914, these buyers and sellers of advertising brought order out of advertising chaos by setting up standards for paid circulation and establishing rules and methods for measuring, auditing and reporting circulations.

Therefore, the work of the A.B.C., of which this newspaper is proud to be a member, provides you with a direct and valuable service. You can buy advertising as you would make any other sound business investment — on the basis of well known standards, known values.

At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. The results of this exacting audit show: How much circulation we have; where our circulation goes; how it was obtained; and many other FACTS that you need in order to know just what you get for your advertising dollars. This audited information is published by the Bureau in easy-to-read A.B.C. reports which are available to our advertisers on request. Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

We're asked a lot of questions about various aspects of painting the outside of a house, but nearly all the queries about interior painting concern one thing — ceilings.

Nobody, it seems, likes to paint a ceiling. It's harder work than painting walls and the results aren't always as good as expected. Yet it must be done before the walls if you want to do it right. Painting a ceiling after the rest of the room has been redecorated is the difficult way to do it. You have to take extra precautions and work extra carefully to keep from spoiling what you've already done.

Modern paints have gone a long way towards eliminating lap and brush marks, but it's still wise to paint a ceiling only when you have the time to do it all at once. Stopping in the middle of the job... to eat lunch, run up to the store for more paint, etc. — is looking for trouble. Regardless of whether a brush or a roller is being used, there's always the chance of leaving a faint line at the point where the painting was halted.

A SINGLE stepladder is not practical for painting a ceiling, since it will have to be moved far too often. A better way is to use two stepladders, with a plank set up between them to form a sort of scaffold. In some cases, it's more convenient to use a table or some other piece of furniture as long as you're certain it is steady and you take steps to keep it from getting scuffed or spattered. If you're using a roller, you might consider the purchase of one of those handle arrangements which enables you to reach the ceiling while standing on the floor, although you'll still have to climb on something to use a brush in the corners and other tight spots.

As much furniture as possible should be removed from the room, especially lamps and other things which might be knocked over. Drapes, curtains and anything which cannot be conveniently covered should be taken down. Two or three inexpensive drop cloths will protect articles which might get spattered. Do not depend solely on being careful, because some drops of paint are bound to fall.

A CEILING should be painted across the width of a room rather than the length. You thus can move from wall to wall and back again to start the next strip before the paint begins to set. Taking the screws out of a ceiling fixture so that it can be lowered a little will make a neater job. And always keep the container of paint in back of you so that you won't knock it over as you move along the scaffold or table or whatever you are standing on.

A brush should be dipped in about an inch or so and flowed on with light strokes. Do not brush it out too much. Just apply enough pressure so that it spreads uniformly. Too much dripping down the handle of the brush means that the paint has been thinned too much, the brush is being dipped too deeply, too much pressure is being applied, or all three.

In much the same way, a roller should not be overloaded. The excess paint should be rolled out on the upper part of the roller ramp, which has ridges for that purpose. Work slowly, moving the roller along in even strokes. Little spots of paint are thrown out ahead of the roller when it is moved too rapidly.

The brush painting of corners and other areas should be done as you progress with the roller. If you do all the brush painting first, then all the roller painting, you will be applying wet paint over paint that has started to set.

Summer romance abounds in intrigue. The girl who passes the summer without at least one flirtation may feel she has been left out.

But end-of-summer brings inevitable disappointments that some girls' experience as the result of believing moonlight talk uttered by a new love. It doesn't always last, a girl may find out.

A good rule of thumb to save yourself heartache is to take it easy when the moon is bright. One popular summer belle offers these pointers to glamor girls:

1. Date as many boys as possible. That way there will be less danger of your falling madly in love with one of them. (And you'll have more fun too. One steady boy is likely to get too dependent on your pocketbook.)
2. Steer clear of boys with the pet-n-pet routine, especially new acquaintances. (He may prove to be a more serious problem than you can handle.)
3. If you have reservations about having him meet your family or your friends, ask yourself why. (You'll probably find you're afraid they will not approve of your choice.)
4. Bad reputation? If he has, avoid entertaining that challenge to reform him. (You probably aren't the first one who has tried.) Beware of that boy, too, if... He wants to see you alone but not with a group, and just treats you as one of the girls when he runs into you and others.

He is eager to come to your home when your family is away or if he invites you to his home when his family is away.

He asks you not to mention to another girl that he is dating you.

He uses bad language, dwells on sex subjects, off-color stories, reads questionable literature.

He borrows money on the first date.

Your parents and friends dislike him.

He doesn't seem to have real friends.

The important thing for a girl to keep in mind is that if she never sees her summer romance again, she has not been jilted. Men are not galled to constancy as are women, and unless they have been properly hooked they won't be a round for the fish fry.

Lots of Time Left for Next Career

CHARLESTON, S. C. — A local newspaper publisher retired this summer after spending half his life in various phases of the newspaper business.

His retirement coincided with his graduation from St. Andrews High School.

The young former publisher is 17-year-old Jimmy McElveen, enterprising editor-publisher, photographer, reporter and advertising director of the West Ashley News for the past six years. The neighborhood paper had 500 subscribers at the time of its last edition.

Jimmy's newspaper experience goes even further back than six years. He put out his first paper when he was in the third grade.

Upon graduation, Jimmy went to work for the Charleston Evening Post. Next fall he will enter Furman University. The university doesn't offer a degree in journalism, so his major subject will be English. His minor? Journalism, of course.

Onion strips, cooked in butter until they are pale golden, and coarsely grated cheddar cheese make a wonderful filling for turnovers. Use a rich flaky dough for the pastry.

Having received his BA degree from Southwestern University in Georgetown, Patterson is now majoring in higher accountancy. He served as a lieutenant with the U. S. Navy during the Korean war.

Elisabeth Brummer of Sweden, 1957 exchange student at Hereford High School, was welcomed by Walter Rogers when she visited the Capitol Building at Washington D. C. recently on her tour of the United States before leaving for her home. While in Hereford, Elisabeth lived with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin W. Sumner of 515 Irving Street.

PROPOSED HIGH SCHOOL ADDITION—In the sketch above, prepared by Cantrell and Co., architects, Pampa, the proposed addition of an 11-classroom, cafeteria and girls gym wing is shown in the area it has been designed to occupy just east of the present building. Cantrell has estimated, for the Hereford school trustees, that building and equipping the 30,000 square foot addition, together with payment of all incidentals would cost $500,000.

ENID, Okla. — Police decided to pacify Mrs. Russell Britton when she reported an elephant and some horses romping around in her back yard.

An officer reluctantly went to investigate, and discovered Mrs. Britton wasn't fooling.

PARIS, Ky. — Dollars not pennies from heaven made a teenager here $13 richer.

Standing near a church for shelter, Jimmy Caywood, 15, spied a ball of wet paper at the mouth of a downspout. He picked it up and found it was a wad of 13 one dollar bills, apparently washed out of pipe by the rain.

Police were unable to find the owner and returned the money to Caywood.

HERE'S HOW:

Dramatic Espaliers Are Fun

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newfeatures Writer
The age-old art of training fruit trees, rose and even certain types of chrysanthemums to grow on espaliers is highly useful to a homeowner looking for a dramatic patio.

Esपालier treatment of fruit trees originated in the orchards of Normandy and other French provinces as a means of conserving space. The frugal farmers found that with an espalier tree they were able to reap greatly increased profits from small areas. Rows of trees could be planted closer together, and the special pruning of the trees induced a profusion of blossoms and fruit.

There are many varieties of dwarf trees available to lend themselves to dressing up the patio, and handsome effects may be achieved with limited space.

A good decorative idea is to use one of the new jewel-tone plastic clotheslines on which to train your fruit or flowers. Then your turquoise, sapphire, tourmaline or crystal framework will be colorful even when neither fruit nor blossoms are in evidence during the year.

There are a number of recognized forms of training trees and flowers in the stylized espalier treatment. A good garden book will be sure to give you explicit directions. Once you have decided on the pattern then you can hook up your frame work to support the growing plants.

Rope framing may also be used to develop espaliers along either side of a garden walk or to form a trellis against a carport. An espalier also is dramatic outside a picture window, affording a measure of privacy to a room without obscuring the view.

The preparation of an espalier tree and cultivation of its fruit is a rewarding experience for adventuresome types. Varieties of fruits that lend themselves to espalier planting include the Bartlett and Anjou pears, Gravenstein, Golden Russet and King David apples and many peach varieties. Many varieties of roses produce in great profusion and large single

DOOR JAM

SAN DIEGO — The mystery of why radio-operated garage doors in the Point Loma section seemed to just fly open several times daily was solved by the federal communications commission.

Vergne Hoke, FCC man, found the doors were being activated by radio signals from navy jet planes coming in for landings. The doors, in turn, were causing interference with the navy's airfield approach system.

'Refrigeration' Technique Aids Brain Injury Victims

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ten months ago, 15-year-old Richard Burgin was involved in an automobile accident. For 28 days he lay unconscious. His condition: critical because of severe head injuries. His chances: very slim.

Richard isn't well yet. But he's alive. And his mother, Mrs. Margia Ree Burgin, thanks God he is.

Richard, like nearly a score of other Louisvillians, owes his life to an experimental process which originally was used only for heart patients. He was "refrigerated."

Louisville doctors believe the prolonged use of hypothermia — or "artificial hibernation" — is setting a precedent. The results are spectacular.

Physicians say the normal death rate in cases similar to those being treated by hypothermia is about 75 per cent. With hypothermia, a death rate of only 25 per cent has been recorded.

The process involves the dropping of the body temperature from 98.6 degrees — or normal — to 86 degrees with the help of a refrigerating "blanket" and the injection of drugs.

The effect on the body is to lower blood flow to the brain, reducing the need for oxygen there and slowing down all the body's processes.

The swelling in an injured brain thus is lessened, lowering pressure inside the skull. The result is less damage to the brain cells.

The drugs are injected to reduce the "fight" the body puts up against refrigeration. It takes the body from 2½ to three hours to reach 86 degrees where the temperature is too high for heart irregularities and too low for shivering.

DIAGNOSIS CORRECT

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Al Kalmbach took his car to the garage and complained of a strange noise. The mechanic asked what the racket sounded like, and Kalmbach said, "Can't help you much, it's kind of hard to describe. It's sorta like stones in the hubcap."

When Kalmbach returned he asked, "What was it?"
"Stones in the hubcap," the mechanic said.

Annie Elsworth, secretary to Samuel Morse, was the one who chose "What hath God Wrought!" in 1844 as the first message to be sent over the telegraph.

HEREFORD LITTLE LEAGUE ALL - STARS PREP FOR TOURNEY

Daily Practice Is Guided by Team Coaches

LONG HOURS of practice have been on the schedule all the past week for members of the Hereford Little League all-star team as they prepare for the District 1 tournament here Monday through Wednesday.

The boys, aged 11-12, reported each day, Monday through Friday, to the Little League park at 4:30 p.m. and worked until about 7 p.m.

Headed by Joe Smith, manager of the season's champion Yankees, the various managers and coaches of the four league teams put the youngsters through batting, pitching and fielding practice.

A TYPICAL DAY included an infield workout with the third basemen, shortstops, second basemen and first basemen fielding and pegging the ball to the various bases.

The outfielders chased fly balls and threw the ball to home, trying for the perfect toss.

BATTING PRACTICE consists of each player laying down a couple of bunts then "hitting away" to sharpen his eyes and test his power.

Sixteen youngsters were candidates for the all-star team. The managers will select 14 as members of the squad and designate two alternates Monday.

THE HEREFORD team is host for the District 1 tournament and will play its first game Tuesday at 3 p.m. against Childress in the league park.

THWACK—Taking a big cut at the ball and fouling it back is Jackie Nichols, all-star from the Cardinals. Waiting his turn and swinging a bat is Danny McDowell of the Yankees.

Manager Joe Smith and another player watch from the edge of the dugout.

SLUGGER—Eugene Jennings, all-star Little League player from the Giants, waits to get his turn at bat during an all-star practice session. Jennings topped all Little League batters with a .409 average.

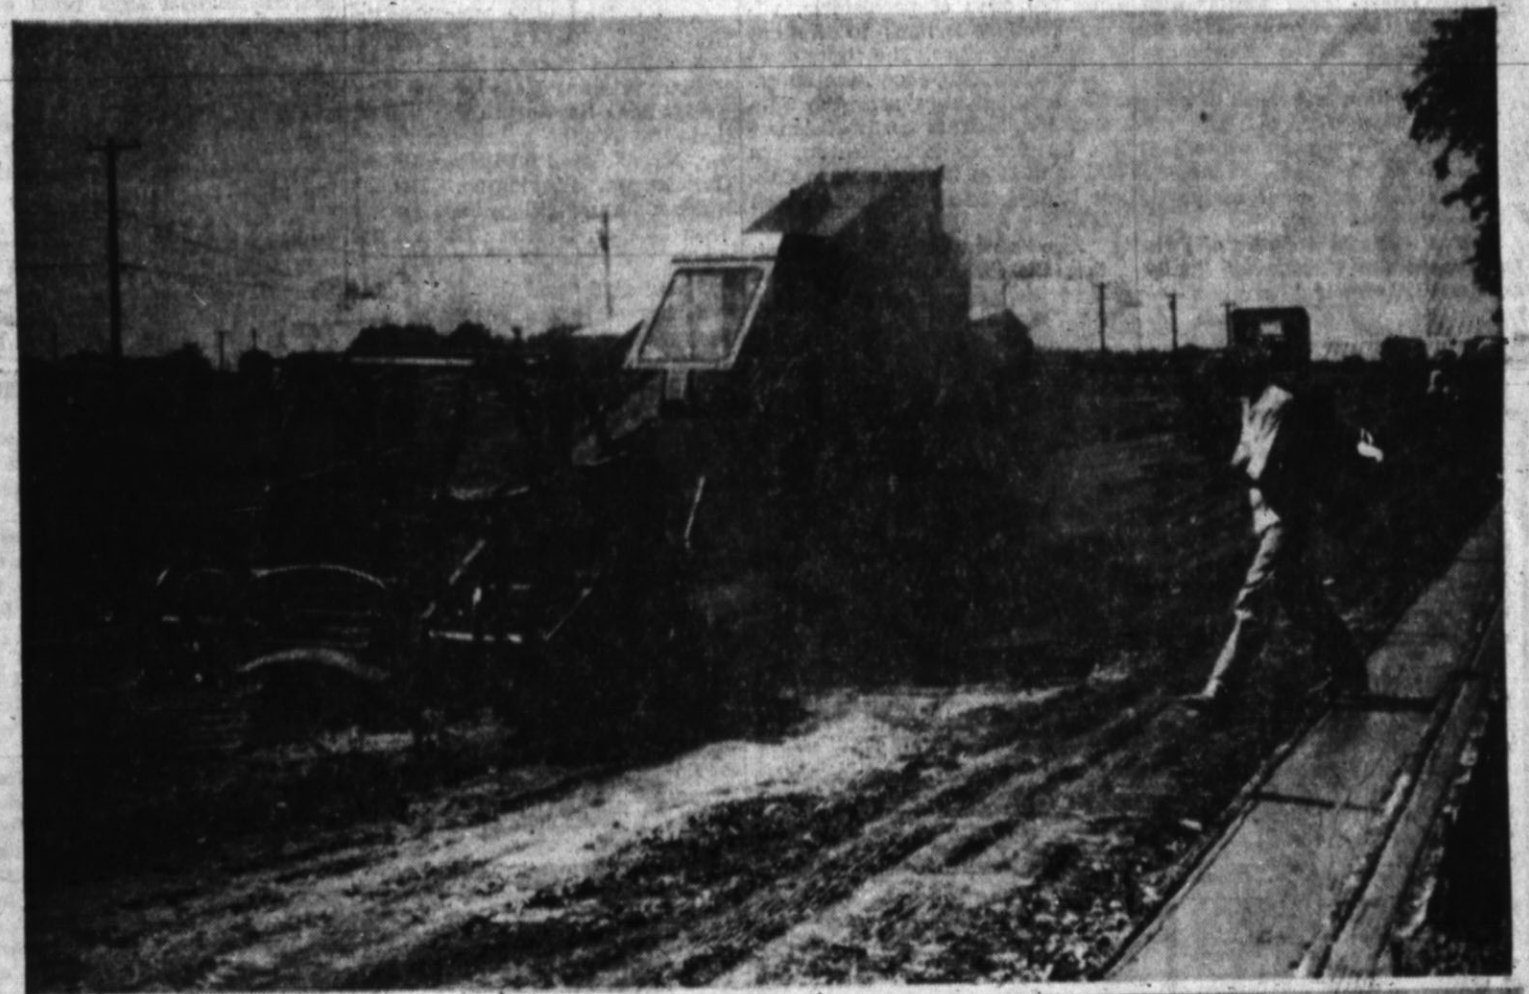

GETTING READY—Jay Boynton of the Little League all-star squad buckles on his catching gear as he prepares to take a turn behind the plate. Boynton played for the Yankees in the regular season.

NOW HIT IT—Joe Smith, all-star Little League manager, hands a bat to Judon Fambrough of the Dodgers as Fambrough starts to the plate during practice. Fambrough promptly hit two balls out of the park. (Staff Photos)

CITY STREET PAVING BEGINS

PAVING UNDERWAY—Work on the $151,000 city street paving began here Monday, with the grading of streets. A force loader, above, is being used by the general contractor, Pateet Construction Co. of Ralls. Working behind the graders and scrapers, the machine does the work of a hundred shovels. Meanwhile, concrete crews with A. E. Swift and Sons of Amarillo and Clovis, started pouring 30-inch curb and gutter. Bob Hardy, at right, a skilled concrete finisher from Clovis, looked up from his work on Plains Ave. to remark that Hereford is the "cleanest and most pleasant looking town I've seen while working in citites and towns all over the Southwest." Hardy, like many other men on the project, has moved his family here. His trailer is temporarily parked at the Hereford Camp, while he seeks out a parking place featuring grass and trees. All property owners in the first section of the paving project signed contracts for the work, and the signing of individual contracts in the second section is expected to be completed soon. New Historical Mural Up in Canyon Museum

CANYON. (AP) — Another historical mural by Dallas artist Ben Carlton Mead has been installed in the Panhandle-Plains Museum.

His latest work deals with Mexican Comancheros offering trade goods to the Comanche Indians. Historians commonly blame Comanchero sales of guns and supplies for helping the tribesmen to prevent white settlement of the Texas Panhandle longer than any other major U. S. geographic area.

Not until the 1874 Battle of Palo Duro were the Comanches finally conquered, enabling settlers to homestead peacefully. One of those with whom Mead talked in six months of research was Mrs. Enoch Smokey, said to be the lone Indian survivor of that battle.

This is the third in series of murals dealing with Panhandle history from the days of prehistoric, village dwelling Indians to the era of the Comanches. The first, commissioned in 1939, shows the tribesmen planting crops near the Canadian River bluffs north of Amarillo. Spanish explorer Coronado's 1451 arrival in the Palo Duro Canyon is depicted by the second such work.

Mead's new mural has as setting the Bivins ranch north of Amarillo, owned by a pioneer family.

The artist reports his research delved into historical accounts and

A group of young people and adults from the Rosedale-Broadview community had a picnic Wednesday at Buffalo Lake near Hereford.

The group met at Rosedale and took two motor boats and a pickup with all the picnic equipment.

Upon arriving at the lake the group enjoyed swimming, boat riding, water skiing and surf-board riding.

At the noon hour the group had a picnic lunch at the picnic grounds. Refreshments were served all during the afternoon.

Late in the afternoon, the group returned home.

On the picnic were Miss Novella Northcutt, Miss Glynes Pulliam, Frank Edsel Foster, Miss Novita Pulliam, Tommy Dale Lofton, Miss Freida Mae Harrington, Miss Marilyn Kay Hutchins, Artie Don Foster, Miss Danalee Lofton, Miss Clarawanna Harrington, Donald Rucker, Jimmy Allen, Miss Donna Jean Decker, Sharon Thompkins, included study and detailed photographing of Indian gear and souvenirs of the Comanche era in Museums. In addition he visited and talked with Indians on Oklahoma reservations, among them Mrs. Smokey.

Mead, a Dallas advertising firm employe, turned to book illustrating after work at the Art Institute of Chicago. He has done the illustrations for more than 30, first gaining prominence for his work in J. Frank Dobie's "Coronado's Children" in 1930.

A Bay City, native who grew up at Amarillo, Mead is married to the former Maida McAfee of Canyon. They have three children, Mrs. J. M. Ellis of Portland, Ore., David Lane Mead of Dallas and Margaret Ann Mead, a freshman at Texas Technological College in Lubbock.

There are two other Mead murals at the Bivins Building in downtown Amarillo. Another is in the courthouse at Tucumcari, N. M., and a second is proposed there.

REEFs Show History of Texas Coast
ROCKPORT, Tex. (AP) — A research biologist says reefs along the Texas coast show the sea level has been as much as 600 feet below its present line within the past 25,000 years.

Robert Parker has recently conducted offshore research on geological sediments for Scripps Institute of Oceanography at La Jolla Calif.

"During our week," Parker said, "we found three strand lines (or ancient sea beaches). These represent the advance of the sea since the last Glacial period, about 25,000 years ago."

These strand lines show that at the beginning of the period the shoreline of the time corresponded more or less closely with the edge of the present Continental Shelf.

"Then the sea rose," Parker said, "and came inland to a spot about halfway between its previous beach and the one we have today."

Remains of another beach can be found there in 300 feet of water. Shells of fresh water clams, much like those of today, were found in the beach.

Then another beach was formed at about 180 feet below today's level. The waves paused for a while and more fresh water shells were found, Parker said. This sea edge appears to have been surrounded by marshes.

Again the waters rose during the centuries and formed another shoreline 77 feet below current sea level. After that they formed the present shore of the Gulf of Mexico.

Parker said the ancient sea beaches are detected easily as shelves on the sides of upthrust salt domes and as terraces in the so-called banks frequented by snapper fishermen.

Parker added that it has been possible to date at least two of the shorelines fairly accurately.

The group returned to Clovis Friday evening.

Several ranchers and farmers have asked for sales report from the Clovis Cattle Commission recently. For the past week with almost all classes selling on a higher market than previously, the Clovis Cattle Commission company auctioned 2,345 head of cattle during their regular sale this past week for receipts of $219,326.75. This represents a rise of 75¢ head over the sale of a week ago. Good and choice butcher calves were 50¢ to $1 higher; and good quality stocker and feeder cattle 75¢ to $1.25 higher. All other classes were fully steady to strong, the company reported. Represented Sales were: L. K. Williamson - Hereford 16 lambs, ave. 94, $19.10; Charles Hoover, Adrian, W. F. cow, 1050, $16.50; Regan Looney, Bovina, Texas roan bull, 1870, $18.60; G. W. Williams, Bovina, 10 WF heifers, ave. 531, $20.20; Don Tims, Friona, 4 WF heifers ave. 475, $23.50.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Burnett and children Sherry, Butch, Michael and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cross enjoyed separate fishing trips at Conchas Dam recently. Mrs. Burnett became unbalanced in the boat and fell into very deep water.

Largest Number of High School Footballers Look Toward Fall

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor
In just six weeks the world's largest high school football organization begins a three-month campaign. "World's largest" has been used to describe the Texas Inter-scholastic League many times but never was more emphatic than this year.

The all-time high — a tremendous 914 schools — will open the season in September. That's five more than last year when the record was set. Pointing up the scope of Texas schoolboy football consider the fact that 45,000 will be playing the game and that the 4,700 games will draw 7,000,000 in attendance. A far cry from that first year of the league race — 1920 — when there were no district champions but the teams with the best records were put into a playoff for the title. About 150 schools participated. Actually 100,000 boys will play football in Texas this fall. There are more than 50,000 on B teams, scrub teams and junior high school teams that receive their stimuli from the Interscholastic League program. The 45,000 boys will be on teams playing for district championships; other words, the varsity.

As the schools start preparing for the new campaign they will find a couple of great winning streaks working. Abilene, which has won three straight Class AAAA championships and can set the all-time record by taking the title this year, has a 37-game streak going. The Eagles need to win seven more to set the all-time record. Back in the forties Hull-DiSassetta, a Class B school, hung up the record of 43 straight.

Another winning streak of importance is that of Stamford, the two-time Class AA state champion. The Bulldogs have swept through 32 consecutive games.

The next best record is held by Stinnett, the Class A king. The Rattlers have won 28, lost 1 and tied 1 in two years.

Garland, the Class AAA defending champion, has taken 35 and lost 3 in three seasons. Of the defending champions, Garland and Stinnett appear to have the best chances of repeating. Garland lost many first-stringers but there were a lot of footballers there last fall and most of the 1956 reserves return.

Stinnett loses only six boys from the first string of 24 that slammed to the championship last fall.

Abilene will have a good, solid team but it hardly will be up to the standard of 1956. Glynn Gregory and Jimmy Carpenter, Abilene's touchdown twins, are gone.

Gordon Wood at Stamford loses 20 of his 24 first string players, including Mike McClellan, one of the fastest and most efficient backs this state ever saw.

How to Avoid Going Broke On Vacation

AP Newsfeatures
Vacations would be wonderful if you didn't get back home broke. This is a common plight of the returning vacationer, but, say the nation's bankers, it needn't be so.

Bank statisticians note that 85 million Americans will spend more than 12 billion dollars on holidays this year. And those are figures big enough to arouse the keen interest of bankers, who have got together and issued the following tips on how to have a carefree but solvent vacation:

1. If you haven't enough money for the trip you want, you can get a vacation loan at your bank.
2. It's more foresighted to start saving for your vacation a year ahead, working out a vacation plan, which banks also will handle, just as they do Christmas savings clubs.
3. Don't carry large sums of cash while traveling. Traveler's checks are safer — if they're stolen or lost, you don't lose the money.
4. It's a comfortable feeling to carry a letter of credit from your bank, in case you run out of funds in a strange place. This certifies your credit up to a certain amount, and makes a great difference in the attitude of creditors.
5. Don't leave valuables lying around the house while you are away. You can store jewelry, furs and paintings in bank vaults.
6. Some banks will help you plan your trip and make reservations for you.
7. Before you leave, make a vacation checklist so you'll remember to stop milk deliveries, arrange for lawn care, leave a light burning and notify police to keep an eye on your home while you're away.

Abilene, of course, will be most in the spotlight. The mighty Eagles have won more state championships than any other schools — six. They came through in 1922, 1928, 1931 and 1954-55-56. If they can take the title again this year they will have bettered the record of three straight set by Waco in the twenties, equalled by Amarillo in the thirties and equalled by Abilene in the fifties.

EDITORIALS

We Agree — 'The Door is Still Open'

The fur literally flew this week when half-a-hundred angry farmers met with the Deaf Smith County Commissioners in an attempt to thrash out details concerning recent revisions in the county tax program. Certainly, the farmers did not convince the commissioners, who elected to pursue their original plan and, at the same time, it is highly doubtful if the court was any more successful in changing the opinion of a single farmer.

"What was gained? Where does this leave us? Do we still have government OF THE PEOPLE, BY THE PEOPLE and FOR THE PEOPLE?"

The answer to these questions was carried in the same issue of The Brand which reported the farmer tax protest—although we doubt if it was extensively recognized as such. It was an announcement designating a budget hearing of the Hereford Rural High School District for Tuesday, August 20, and the item even touched on some of the proposed expansion plans which will be reviewed in detail at the hearing—if anyone is sufficiently interested to appear.

Year after year these hearings are scheduled and announced by our school district, our city commission and by the commissioners' court. Once, in a blue moon, someone does turn out to hear the figures and face the facts; usually that someone is a person who has an axe to grind or a personal interest at stake.

This is naturally discouraging to our county commissioners, to our city commissioners and to the members of our school boards.

ATOMIC ALERTS

A Bad Mistake—Who's To Argue?

Recently Congressman Walter Rogers did an excellent job of satire against the nation-wide warning system which the federal government is attempting to set up against possible atomic attack from unfriendly nations. The article appeared in his regular newsletter and was indeed a masterpiece of harpooning, based on the old story of "Yelling Wolf too Often!"

In fact, prior to the tornado scare which showed up here this spring, we might have been swayed to the point of agreeing with our Washington salon. Recalling these experiences, however, we cannot help but feel that the nation-wide atomic alerts do have a place in modern day living.

Everyone involved, including radio men, spotters, county and city officers and individual citizens, freely stated—after the tornado scare—that they would know how to handle things differently and better "next time." Fortunately, the tornado missed Hereford and was, for all practical purposes, a "dry run." In case one does strike later, these proposed improvements for "next time" might save several lives—including mine and yours.

Mr. Rogers may convince a lot of people that practice does not improve teamwork—defensive or offensive—but he will have a hard time convincing athletic coaches all of the way from New York to California. He is possibly correct in some of his complaints, but he might also well remember that an atomic bomb is like a tornado in one respect:

"Any serious mistake is not going to be criticized by those people who happen to be within its path."

A Political Scoreboard

In Russia, It's the Party that Counts

By TOM WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

One important thing to understand about Soviet politics is that the Communist party is the real government of the country — and the nominal government merely a subordinate arm of the party. That's why Nikita Khrushchev, the first secretary of the Central Committee of the party, is head man and Nikolai Bulganin, the Premier, his underling. For Westeners, the position of the Communist party in the Soviet Union is not easy to grasp — because though it calls itself a political party it is in fact a machine for maintaining an absolute dictatorship. It's the real seat of power in the U.S.S.R. and, though it permits a government executive apparatus to exist alongside its own executive apparatus, it runs the whole show.

EVEN A Soviet chess club or group of radio amateurs operates only under party guidance exercised through one or another of its arms of authority. The executive arm of the Soviet Communist party is known as the Secretariat of the Central Committee. Its chief executive is the first secretary — Khrushchev at the present time. It operates the organization known as the "Apparatus of the Central Committee" which has vast numbers of officials who, though they are little in the limelight, are among the most powerful men of the nation.

The secretariat gives the orders to the party chiefs in the Soviet provinces who are in fact governors, each responsible for virtually everything that goes on in his territory, including all local government activity.

The policy formation organ and legislature of the party is known as the Central Committee. This consists of 133 full members and 122 alternate or candidate members. In Stalin's time this was a rubber stamp body. Nowadays it has actual vital importance as what amounts to a party legislature, convened at least twice each year to adopt policy decisions on the most important matters such as the recent ouster of Molotov, Malenkov, Kaganovich and Demitri Shepilov. Heated debates take place in it.

THE PRESIDUM of the Central Committee is a smaller committee of the Central Committee, consisting presently of 15 full members and 9 alternates. It was once called the Politburo (policy bureau). It is often referred to as the "ruling body of the Soviet Union." There is some measure of truth in this. Actually, however, both the Secretariat and the Central Committee as a whole carry as much weight and sometimes more.

The government executive apparatus parallels the party executive apparatus but at all steps is inferior to it. It is headed by the Premier (Bulganin), the chairman of the Council of Ministers. Under him is the Presidium of the Council of Ministers. The Council of Ministers can promulgate decrees. But important decrees are usually issued jointly in the name of the Council of Ministers and Central Committee of the party, which means that in fact the Presidium of the Central Committee has passed them and the Presidium of the Council of Ministers, consisting almost entirely of members of the Central Committee, Presidium, has rubber stamped them. In all the Soviet Legislature, the Supreme Soviet — officially under terms of the constitution the highest organ in the land — plays an insignificant role. Its Presidium rubber stamps laws and appointments sent to it by the party Presidium. Its chairman, Marshal Voroshilov, nominally Soviet president, spends his time hanging medals and decorations on the recipients.

IN THIS picture of Soviet government the party occupies special positions. The armed forces including the army are subordinate to the minister of defense, currently Marshal Zhukov, who is a member of the Council of Ministers and also a full member of the Presidium of the Central Committee. The army is more free of direct party domination than almost any other organization in the country. It also has all the weapons in the country. This means that in a time of crisis the army could — if its leaders, particularly Marshal Zhukov, deemed it necessary — act independently of the party. This makes it a powerful political force — potentially.

The police under Stalin was kept generally free of party domination. Stalin used it as a personal weapon. Now, however, the police, though nominally subject to the government apparatus, in fact takes its directions from the secretariat of the party. The police, however, has lost much of the former power it possessed under executed Lavrenty Berta.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Young People of Today Have More Privileges

Do young people today have more privileges than they had when you were a child?

MRS. J. W. KIRBY—Modern circumstances make it so the young people of today must have more privileges than they had when I was a child. They can do things that we would have been criticized for. Yes, I think they have more privileges, but conditions are different.

MRS. JOHN CHANNER—Most definitely. Of course it was different when I was a child. I lived in the country and we just went to town once a week and then there wasn't much of a town. There is all the difference in the world.

MRS. G. W. BRUMLEY—Yes, they certainly do have more privileges in lots of ways. Of course way back in my growing up we didn't have many privileges. Today they have so many different and better educational facilities and school buildings that we didn't have, and the churches are taking more interest in the young people. They have more privileges in lots of ways.

MRS. JOE BEYER—I think they have. I lived on a farm and our only pastimes were going to church and having parties. We went to school in the country and when we got older we went to town to school. I lived in a cold country where there was a lot of snow, in Dakota and Iowa, and we used to have a lot of fun going sleigh-riding.

J. H. EARLY—I believe they do. They're given a little bit more freedom. They're supervised but I believe there is a little bit more freedom in their supervised activities.

E. T. BROOKS—By far, but things have changed in so many, many ways. You know, back there when I was a child there weren't very many privileges to be had.

MRS. M. A. BEAVERS—Yes, I think so, better privileges. They have better ways to go, better schools, better ways to entertain them. Altogether I think they have a lot more privileges than we had when I was a child.

TOM ALDERSON—I would say that they do have a few more. There are so many more things to do now than there were when I was a child and I think that they have a few more privileges now.

DUMAS TO HAVE COUNTRY CLUB

Construction of the North Plains Country Club building began last week, with official groundbreaking ceremonies Monday. The new building, estimated at a cost of $33,000, will be located north of the Dumas golf course on the Sunray road. The building will contain locker rooms, golf pro shop, grill, kitchen, small living quarters and a large ballroom. Other expenses are expected to be $33,500 for a small pool, $2,500 for water facilities, $4,000 for furnishings, $1,000 for engineering and construction supervision and $1,000 for contingencies.—MOORE COUNTY NEWS.

MULESHOE CONSIDERED FOR FACTORY

The possibility of a clothing factory locating in Muleshoe appeared near reality last week, with the announcement that Muleshoe and five other cities had been surveyed by a nationally known mail order firm with a factory location in mind. Members of the Muleshoe Industrial Development Committee reported they talked with the head of the clothing firm, and he indicated that Muleshoe is being seriously considered as a location site. Determination of the actual site will be announced about Oct. 1, members of the committee said.—THE MULESHOE JOURNAL.

THIS TIME—TWO EXITS

One outstanding feature of the new Kearns Elevator Company office now under construction in Dimmitt is the rear door. When a butane transport and train collision resulted in fire three weeks ago, the building was almost completely enveloped. With the front door blocked by fire, manager Odell Arnold and his father-in-law Bunyan Price were forced to kick the air conditioner out of the only possible exit—a small window in back—to make their escape. Hence the large door in the rear of their new 12x24 concrete block building.—THE CASTRO COUNTY NEWS.

DAM GROUP ELECTION SLATED

Saturday, Aug. 31, is the date the Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority has set for the confirmation election. Mayor H. T. Burton reported that approval of the date had been made by the State Board of Water Engineers and the election would be held as scheduled. The confirmation election is the actual organization of the water authority, giving it legal power to begin action.—THE DONLEY COUNTY LEADER.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm may be a little mixed up this week, but that's his lookout, not ours.

Dear editor:

The trouble with inflation is that not enough people understand it fully enough.

I noticed in a copy of a newspaper which a neighbor of mine brought me a mess of fish in—for your information it wasn't a copy of your paper, as this one had a fishy smell—that the price of steel had recently gone up $8 a ton, which clearly indicated the steel industry has let its newspaper subscription expire, as President Eisenhower only the other day had asked business to hold prices down voluntarily, and as a result a lot of other things were automatically going up.

For example, naturally the watch manufacturers, on hearing the price of steel had gone up, will figure they ought to go up on the price of watches, as everybody knows the steel spring in a watch is made of steel, even if it doesn't weigh over an ounce.

Plow points, tractors, cars, pickups, naturally will require an increase in price, to offset the rise in the price of steel, and so I decided what was good for industry was good for me. Consequently, when I took a dozen eggs into town yesterday to sell, I told the store I'd have to have five cents more.

"How come," the store owner asked.

"Don't you read your newspaper? It's on account of the increase in the price of steel," I explained.

Now here's the rub. Instead of nodding his head in agreement and saying there didn't seem to be any way around it, he just laughed. You could see he didn't have any full understanding of inflation and the upward price spiral.

"Don't believe I'd be interested," he said.

"But my costs are going up and I've got to have more money for these eggs."

"Don't believe I'd be interested," he said, and turned around to wait on another customer.

Now I could have out-waited him, but from long experience I knew the eggs couldn't, so I sold them at his price and came on home.

It's the people who don't understand inflation that's causing this country so much trouble. I don't mind paying $8 a ton more for steel if somebody will recognize I ought to get more for eggs. There are more people than you realize who are out of tune with me and my hens.

Yours faithfully,

Civil War in Photographs Gives New Insight into National Fuss

By ROBERT D. PRICE
NEW YORK, (AP) — In 1911, the American Review of Reviews published the monumental 10-volume "Photographic History of the Civil War." It was issued in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the war.

Now, with the war's centennial in the offing, the "Photographic History" has been republished, by Thomas Yoseloff, to give the present generation new insight into the character of our national conflict.

The "Photographic History" was a sensation when it was first published, with its 3,500 pages and nearly 4,000 photographs. With the equally famous "Battles and Leaders," also republished recently, it became the keystone of Civil War research.

AT THE TIME of original publication, Editor Francis Trevelyan Miller commented upon a lack of popular interest "in this remarkable war." He recognized the multiple and unique attractions of "this strange crisis in civilization," and could ascribe the public apathy to it only to the fact that "this is not a military nation. The great heart of American citizenship knows little of military maneuver."

Miller would have no reason to complain today. The current enthusiasm for Civil War matters challenges understanding. In an introduction to the new edition of "Photographic History," Henry Steele Commager calls it "one of the arresting intellectual phenomena of our time."

The new edition is in five volumes, each one containing two volumes of the original work. The pages have been reproduced by the photo offset process from the original; the Commager introduction is the only new material. Some of the photographs evidence a certain graininess, with consequent marring of quality, but it is not serious enough to impair their attraction or to detract from our admiration for the cameramen.

THE JUSTLY famed Mathew Brady was, of course, the greatest. His work set the pace. But there were many others who made substantial contributions to this vast picture record — Alexander Gardner; Capt. A. J. Russell, official photographer for the War Dept.; Sam Cooley, George Barnard, and a surprising output from the Confederate side, including a series taken by A. D. Lytle for the Confederate secret service. In effect, Lytle was a pioneer in espionage by camera.

Photography was an infant profession in the 1860s. Skilled though the cameramen were, ingenious as they might be in getting maximum results with their primitive equipment their art was not yet capable of photographing motion. Thus, we do not get closer to actual battle than the vagrant mist of an exploding shell.

Perhaps it was just as well. The inability to photograph front line action led Brady and his contemporaries to concentrate on what Commager calls "the housekeeping details" — how the armies moved and lived, their weapons, fortifications, prisons and hospitals — an enduring record which brings us closer to an understanding of the character of the war and the men who fought it than could possibly have been otherwise achieved.

In effect, the "Photographic History," viewed as an entity is neither a history nor wholly photographic. Less than two of the current volumes are devoted to the story of the battles and the campaigns. The rest is a textual gold mine of information on the war — articles on the navies, the engineers, ordnance and munitions, the medical services, the telegraphers, all written by contemporary leaders in the various fields. Even the songs and poetry of the period are not neglected.

From the viewpoint of this one student of the war, the "Photographic History" is a must for any one who aspires to knowledge of it

Fine Needlework Easy in Age of Automation

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Time was when Grandma spent long hours straining her eyes over fine hand embroidery for her dainty summer party dresses and lingerie. Granddaughter, however, gets a better break, for the age of automation has made delicate embroidery simply a matter of threading up the sewing machine.

Consider, for instance, a romantic summer dance dress, made of white silk organdy — full-skirted, full-sleeved, with the important touch of sophistication in a narrow black velvet sash and dramatic black embroidery on the sleeves.

You can make such a dress, which looks as if it came from the salon of a custom couturier, by using a standard pattern and making use of the talents of your sewing machine. Local sewing center experts made the original model using one of the new slantneedle automatic machines, but the embroidery also can be done with the automatic zigzag attachment for an ordinary electric sewing machine.

The dress has a skirt made of two layers of silk organdy over a matching petticoat. The fine line hem in the skirt is easy to do with the flange hemmer attachment, designed especially for use on sheer fabrics and producing what looks like a hand-rolled hem.

Do the decorative stitching before putting the dress together. If you own one of the new slantneedle automatic machines you'll find that details such as the black grape design chosen are easy to do by setting the dial for a fine satin stitch and employing the techniques of free-hand embroidery. Just raise the throat plate by flicking its lever and place the fabric in an embroidery hoop to hold it taut. If yours is a standard machine, use the zigzag attachment for

For women who are better seamstresses than artists, transfer pattern designs may be used for the embroidered motifs.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP) — Albert F. Arbogast, Sr. was a city police patrolman with nine years of service on May 1. A month later, he was the pastor of three rural Methodist Churches in Malden, Quarryville, and Palenville. The Kingston native said he long had wanted to be a minister. After his appointment to the police force in 1948, he resumed interrupted church work and study. On May 1 he received his pres-

The Rev. and Mrs. Arbogast have two sons, Albert Jr., 16, and William 3rd, 15.

In Everyday Living

CAR UPKEEP COSTS can be kept down, and accident costs avoided, by following a sensible system of preventive maintenance. This is the tested conclusion of U. S. Army experts, whose ranks include some of the ablest mechanics in the world, and the effective performance of whose vehicles is vital. They advise: Watch for excessive use of water by your battery; wheel-wobble, leaks in muffler; keep check on headlights for brightness, balance; rotate tires every 4000 miles.

WHY SAVE? It takes some initiative to start doing it; some will power to keep going. But people whom it has helped to seize educational opportunities are glad they did it; people whom it has helped to have vacation trips, new cars, new homes say it's well worth while; people to whom it has been helpful in time of emergency swear by it. Some of these people had a "why" — a reason for doing it — before they began; others simply began — and afterward found plenty of reasons to be thankful that they had. The really important thing is to do it. Save regularly, at our bank. You'll never regret it!

NO MAN, it has been said, is an island unto himself. We would add: No local institution should be an island unto itself — it should be truly part and parcel of its community. Democratic Wives Plan Husband's Restoration

DEMOCRATIC PLANNERS—Mrs. Leon Keyserling, right, wife of the former economist of the Truman Administration and an economist herself, discusses Women's National Democratic Club affairs with Mrs. Robert Y. Kerr. The club is planning a series of current events discussion meetings aimed at helping to bring Democrats back into power.

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — Mrs. Leon Keyserling, who has had a long career as a government econonomics consultant with her husband, who was chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers during the Truman administration, Mrs. Keyserling has taken over chairmanship of the legislative committee of the Women's National Democratic Club.

She will be in charge of nine different discussion meetings to be held the last Monday of each month when the club season gets under way in September.

"There's more lively interest in the issues of the day than ever before," she says. "Our members already are well informed but they want to know more. They want to keep abreast of what's going on and be able to discuss the issues intelligently and convincingly."

Some of the issues to be studied and discussed are farm problems, foreign aid, economic development, education and the school bill, power, conservation of natural resources, social security, health and welfare.

The former Mary Dublin of New York, Mrs. Keyserling attended Barnard College and did graduate work at the London School of Economics and Columbia University. After five years as an economics professor at Sarah Lawrence College she served as executive director of the National Consumers League. In 1940 she became coordinator of hearings for the House Committee on National Defense Migration.

She served a year with Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in charge of civilian services with the Office of Civil Defense and, in 1946 became Chief of the Liberated Areas Division of the Foreign

Lollypop Farm Plays Grandma to Thousands of City Children

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — It's the nearest thing to having a grandmother on a farm.

That's Lollypop Farm, the local Humane Society's way of teaching city-raised children how to make friends with animals.

Besides being the home of such barnyard regulars as Billy the Goat, Mary Ann the Lamb and Gusie the Goose, the farm has a flock of animals that grandmothers certainly never saw in her barnyard.

Long-necked llamas look down their noses on two dozen ducks. African pygmy donkeys frisk with a herd of goats. Tiny, English fallow deer pick their way daintily among the sheep and lambs.

And more city children than grandmothers ever saw mingle with the animals in the outdoor corral. On weekends, up to 2,000 visit Lollypop Farm.

From 1946 to 1953 she was chief of the International Economic Analysis Division, Department of Commerce.

The Keyserlings met in 1940 while he was serving as deputy administrator of the Housing Administration. In Washington they have a charming home overlooking Rock Creek Park where they nurture a garden of flowers and shrubs and "keep up a running battle with rabbits." They also have a home at Beaufort, N. C.

FAST FRIENDS—A baby bottle full of milk was all it took to promote friendship between a young angora goat and 3-year-old Peggy Helms.

C. Raymond Naramore, director of the Humane Society of Rochester and Monroe County, sums up the idea behind the farm in two words: "Humane Education."

"You can't teach children kindness and love for animals by showing slides and telling stories," he says. "You have to show them how to feed and pet the animals."

Lollypop Farm does just that. A youngster finds out that he can't get close to a flock of ducks by chasing them. But with a handful of grain spilled on the ground and he has more ducks scuttling and quacking at his feet than he knows that to do with.

"You'd be surprised," says Naramore, "how many children are terrified by a soft, woolly lamb. We teach them that there's nothing to be afraid of, if they treat the animals gently."

The animals, in turn, have been brought up to treat the children gently. Most of them, including the deer, goats, donkeys and llamas have been bottle-raised from birth on farms or in homes.

The farm population also includes raccoons, skunks, crows, pigeons, guinea pigs, rabbits, squirrels, and even two monkeys that someone got tired of having around the house.

The smaller animals live in cages and low pens, but the larger ones and the ducks roam the fenced enclosure with the visitors.

Lollypop Farm is financed by donations from animal lovers, dues from 7,500 members of the local Humane Society and receipts for sales of ice cream cones full of corn that visitors buy for the animals. There is no admission charge.

LIGHT THAT FAILED

CARLINVILLE, Ill. — Let there be light and there wasn't. That's how it was when Mayor B. G. Bates threw the switch for the hundreds of citizens assembled to see the new white-way for the business district go on. Darkness remained because of line trouble. Said Ralph Rutherford, local power company manager, "I've had many disappointments in my life, but none overshadowed this."

FREE OF CHARGE

MUNCIE, Ind. — Jesse Gilmer knew that the battery of his wife's car at their home in nearby Gaston was dead. He and a neighbor pushed the car for several miles without even a cough. The two men lifted the hood. No battery. Mrs. Gilmer had had it taken away to be charged.

WRONG DEPARTMENT

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — A man who called at the vital statistics office in the county courthouse got a bit confused. What he wanted was a birth certificate. What he said was, "I want the birth control department."

Get your cold soups ready some hours before you plan to serve them so flavors can blend in the refrigerator.

COP DOING STRETCH

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — William B. McClaran did quite a stretch before becoming a Grand Rapids policeman.

His application was rejected on the grounds he was a quarter-inch under the minimum height. Undaunted, the 21-year-old McClaran went to a health clinic to have the vertebrae in his back stretched. He also stretched himself on a homemade "rack" and hung from an overhead beam by his hands with a thermos jug filled with nails tied to his waist. He made the height.
