Building Activity Maintains Steady Pace Second Year

Building activity continued at a lively pace in Hereford during the year 1957, with 131 permits for a total of $1,297,095 for new buildings or changes in existing structures being issued by the City of Hereford.

The total barely exceeded the $1,289,914 total for the preceding year, and remained nearly three-quarter million below the record total of $2,028,297 in 1955.

The construction business at year's end showed considerable more activity than was the case a year ago. December, normally a rather quiet month for builders here, was enlivened by the issuance of 10 permits for construction work with an estimated value of $73,800.

INCLUDED in the total were permits for four residences and a new optometry clinic building, plus several permits for small totals covering improvements and additions to houses and the moving of two structures. The December total represented a big increase over the $16,050 in permits for November, 1957, which was the smallest total of any month of the year, and the $17,600 total for December, 1956.

December's major permits were to Dr. M. C. Adams for a new optometry clinic building at $21,000; to A. L. Yeager to erect a $10,500 residence in Welsh Addition; to Albert Rex Lee to erect a $15,000 residence in Evans Addition; to Delbert G. Ruland to erect a $12,000 residence in Evans Addition; and to Mike Allen to erect an $11,500 residence in Welsh Addition.

The largest total for a single permit issued during the year was $200,000 for the First National Bank Building, now under construction. Erection of new churches and additions to existing church buildings were a major factor in boosting the total to its final mark.

FOUR MAJOR construction projects underway during the year that did not figure in the city permit's total were the $603,909 Highway 51 improvement project, the $151,000-plus city street paving program, the telephone exchange building, valued at $730,000 with its contents, which was started in October, 1956 and completed last month, and the city airport.

W. W. LaMance Is Hurt in Accident; Oil Test Delayed

W. W. LaMance, president of the LaMance Drilling Co., suffered a broken back when his car overturned about 1:40 p.m. Wednesday 9 miles south of Dimmitt on Highway 51. He was reportedly en route from his home at Midland to Hereford to complete arrangements regarding the deep oil test underway 8 miles southeast of here.

Reported in fair condition at Midland Memorial Hospital, LaMance, 42, is expected to require a long period for convalescence. Henry Sears, who arranged for LaMance movement to the Midland hospital, a spokesman for the drilling firm, said that a decision on the completion of the test is expected to be made within a few days.

The accident was reported to have occurred when LaMance swerved in an attempt to avoid hitting a car, driven by Lillie Wright Ivey, 55, Route 2, Hart, that turned left across the highway as he approached. His car was demolished. The Ivey vehicle received damages estimated at $100. Mrs. Ivey received a ticket for making a left turn without safety.

Hale-Aikin Group To Meet Monday; All Sessions Open

The second session of the 63-member county Hale-Aikin school needs study committee has been called for 7:30 p.m. Monday by Robert Wagoner, chairman. Any interested persons are welcome to attend the committee session, Wagoner said.

Purpose of the meeting will be to divide the group into four sub-committees to study school finance, school buildings, school curriculum and teacher supply problems, respectively.

The committee, like county groups all over Texas, has been formed to make studies of the state school system and recommendations for changes. Officers were elected and the scope of the studies to be made were outlined in its first meeting. A state committee of 24 persons is to evaluate findings of the county committees and present recommendations for changes and improvements to the Texas Legislature next year.

The county committee's report is due to be forwarded to the state group by May 1, Wagoner noted. The Hale-Aikin study was directed by the last session of the legislature.

"We'll just sell them from the chamber office (the Jim Hill Hotel) on a first come first served basis to both members and non-members," Lenderman said.

The Hereford Boosters Club, local merchants organization, held a brief meeting Friday morning. R. G. ### REMEMBER WHEN?

By CHARLIE SEEDS

TITANIC SINKS! No one who read that screaming headline will ever forget the story of terror and panic... and courage... it told.

For this was the unsinkable ship, the queen of the seas, the finest that had ever been launched. She was on her maiden voyage out of New York. Aboard her for the occasion were hundreds of dignitaries, the rich and the famous of the world.

Suddenly, without warning, tragedy struck off the coast of Newfoundland. A giant iceberg tore huge holes in the great ship's hull. Soon the ship was listing... and then, slowly, she began to sink.

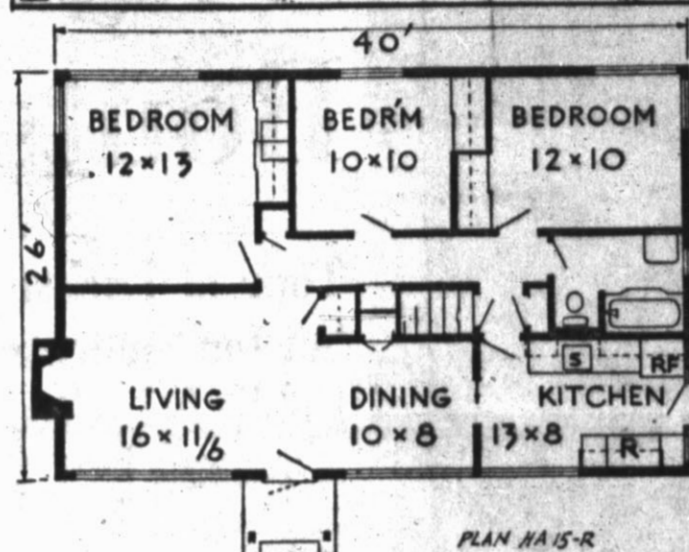

But not slowly enough. Of the more than 1500 people aboard, more than half were lost in one of this century's great sea tragedies.

Remember the year? Buying a car was a special event for any family then. There weren't so many "horseless carriages" on the road, so buying one was a big decision. The year was 1912.

Choosing a car, and a dealer, is an important decision today as well. Our reputation for reliable dealing is your guarantee of making the right decision when you see us about a new 1958 FORD. Stop in this week and check our deal! Charlie Seeds Motor Co., Inc. 146 East Second. Phone EM 4-2777.

Chemise Not What It Used To Be

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

When is a sack not a sack? The 1938 answer is — when American fashion designers get through re-

The embattled chemise, storm center of heated arguments on both sides of the Atlantic, emerges as the top fashion for spring, but far different from the original shapeless garments shown in Paris last fall.

New York designers, previewing spring styles for the nation's fashion press, show as many variations on the chemise theme as a modern jazz musician improvising on Beethoven.

There is the chemise belted in front only, hanging loose and straight in back. There is the chemise belted in back, straight in front. There is the unbelted variety, which, however, is carefully shaped so that it is apparent there are feminine curves beneath.

There is the dress with a simulated jacket front and straight, loose back. There is the bloused chemise, loose around the midriff, bloused at the hipbone.

One thing designers make clear — the chemise dress has to fit, if it is to be flattering. It must fit perfectly at shoulders, bust and hips, with the relaxed look only in the middle. This ushers in a new lineup of foundation garments which flatten the hips and leave the waistline uncinched.

Suits for spring are smart, wearable and varied. Most popular in the 1938 Easter parade probably will be the cropped jacket suit, with brief, unfitted jacket just reaching the hipbone, lined in print to match the overblouse of the same length. The nice thing about this kind of three-piece suit is that skirt and blouse may be worn without the jacket, making a smartly coordinated costume.

There is the bloused jacket suit, also high in favor, and the Chanel suit, with loose, straight jacket and pleated skirt.

Some jackets have back fullness starting at the neckline, cuffed at the hipline.

There is much hemline interest in the new straight-line dresses. As one designer explains, interest is focused at neck and hem, now that the midriff is in eclipse. Some chemise dresses have pleated flounces at the hemline, others draw interest below with back silts, low-placed bows or hemline decoration.

Things grow a little more fitted after dark, with even a few full skirts available. But the newest-looking evening gown is the draped chiffon heath, subtly shaped to accent the figure, but never tight. This may be either long or short, looks seductive in black, dramatic in red, girlish and flattering in pastels.

Fabrics for spring are handsome and elegant, with feather-weight tweeds and woollens lending distinction to suits, silk suitings im-

Air Force Medic Offers Reason for 'Saucers'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — An Air Force scientist has offered his own simple explanation of why people "see" flying saucers.

Eye defects are the cause, says Dr. Herbertus Strughold, a scientist at the Department of Space Medicine at Randolph Air Force Base.

A longtime specialist in aviation medicine, the former German scientist says he is among the large numbers of people who have "seen" a flying saucer.

He said he saw one while flying on a trip one day. It was a bright silver object, Dr. Strughold says, a typical description of a flying saucer.

"I closed my right eye and looked only through the left eye. The object turned out to be a B-29. "I have a stigmatism in my right eye," Dr. Strughold explains, a defect he says is shared by about 12 per cent of all people.

This, he concludes, is the reason why many people may think they "see" strange objects in the sky. "Unexplained objects always appear in epidemics. This is a psychological factor," he says.

"In the United States, the object is always in the shape of an egg — or a cigar. In Germany, it takes the shape of a Bavarian sausage; in Holland, an Edam Cheese. . . And in Paris, it is heartshaped. Vive l'amour."

Dr. Strughold was among a group of German aviation experts who came to the United States after World War II. He helped establish the Department of Space Medicine. He has specialized in this field since 1927.

BAPTISM OF FIRE
CARLSBAD, N. M., (AP) — Fireman Bob Stockwell was baptized in a most unorthodox manner recently while fighting a fire in the First Baptist Church here. Wearing a gas mask, Stockwell was crawling on the floor hunting for the flames when he fell into the baptistry.

A house fly moves its wings about 20,000 times a minute while in flight. Vibrating tuning forks checked the speeds.

Little Girls Like Frills

AP Newfeatures
The lollipop set will have no part of the chemise. Little girls still like their party petticoats, holding out frothy full skirts.

But there's progress even in petticoats. Instead of many layers of ruffles to give the Alice-in-Wonderland look, modern misses are wearing a single pellaon petticoat. There are enough frills and ribbons to make it festive, but the single layer eliminates bulk.

Local sewing center expert suggests making a party petticoat for your favorite little girl. Using a standard pattern, cut pellaon to shape. There's no need to finish edges, since pellaon does not fray.

Apply waistband with zigzag stitching. Then add decorative trimming, making use of the fancy stitches available with your automatic slant-needle sewing machine, or with the aid of the automatic zigzag attachment. One bright idea is to trim the petticoat with rows of nylon ruffling with colored edging, with machine embroidery between the rows. For a final touch, tack small ribbon bows here and there.

This petticoat will retain its crispness indefinitely and will never need ironing or starching.

DEDICATE KIT CARSON CHAPEL

FT. LYON, Colo. (AP) — The small stone building where Kit Carson, frontier scout, died in 1868 has been dedicated as a chapel. The structure recently was rebuilt by the Veterans Administration.

WHAT ABOUT PARENTS?
LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Thomas Graves saw a small snake crawl between her refrigerator and a deep freeze. She moved the deep freeze and drew him into a vacuum cleaner. The snake was quickly dispatched outside the house but now the Graves are worrying about the whereabouts of mama and papa snake.

New Records Boost Popularity of Century-Old Berlioz Music

By LOUIS J. KRAMP
AP Newsfeatures
Hector-Louis Berlioz hit his life-time peak of popularity 100 years ago but his music is alive and more popular than ever in these days of high fidelity.

Two new "Berlioz Overtures" records, by Westminster, are brilliant responses to the growing demand for high quality renditions of such orchestral gems as "The Corsair," and "Roman Carnival." These are by The Philharmonic Promenade Orchestra under Sir Adrian Boult, and stirring stuff with the amplifier turned up.

They follow a Berlioz Overtures single (Angel), by Andre Cluytens directing the Paris National Opera Theater orchestra which includes five of the best known Berlioz items in forceful and first rate style.

Equally exciting is another Westminster issue, "Deutschmeister on Parade," by the 200-year-old Deutschmeister band of Austria, playing selections it will play on a 14-week U. S. tour early in 1958. This is the sixth Westminster record by the band which has developed a new generation of brass band enthusiasts.

Speaking of brass band fans, those favoring the Eastman Symphony Wind Ensemble directed by Frederick Fennell are increasing as a result of its new Mercury records. The latest is Hindemith's "Symphony in B Flat," Schoenberg's "Theme and Variations," and Stravinsky's "Symphonies of Wind Instruments," all in a single disk with high class sound.

Paul Paray and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra put vigor and color into Mozart's "Haffner" Symphony and Haydn's "Miracle" Symphony. This version, by Mercury, was recorded in Detroit's new Ford auditorium.

Mozart quartets and Haydn trios for flute and strings, by Vanguard, are welcome additions for chamber music followers who like the lighter 18th Century style. These were recorded in Copenhagen and are excellent.

Chamber music, best represented by a string quartet, has been enjoying a booming popularity since high fidelity phonograph systems developed so that one can hear distinctly the individual voices of the small musical group.

A generation ago string quartet records were considered desired only by music lovers acquainted with the finer aspects of music. Today they are growing in demand, possibly because of higher musical literacy, but also because better methods of reproducing sound increase the listener's pleasure.

Maria Callas, who with Renata Tebaldi is a very popular soprano in current record sales, has a new operatic album that is selling well, and deservedly so. It is Bellini's "La Sonnambula."

The Juillard Quartet, founded in 1946, has issued two new rec-burn gives a high fidelity rig's high range a good workout.

Victoria de los Angeles leads a fine cast into another trail drama, Debussy's "Pelleas et Melisande" (Angel, three disks). The opera has sparse vocal music but the performance is excellent sound, thanks to Andre Cluytens and the French Radio Orchestra's delicate touch.

HOME OF AYERS SUPREME FEEDS

By JIMMIE GILLENTE

The annual 4-H and FFA Jr. Livestock Show is attracting quite a bit more interest this year. Understand there will be more buyers than usual, including many more local merchants than in recent years. The Rotarians have really put their shoulders to the wheel on this job in 1958.

LEFTY THOMAS, the new County Agent, got here just in time for the annual show, which is slated next Friday and Saturday. I haven't talked with him, but Lefty had quite an experience with calf shows in 1957, which was the first year they let girls compete in the Amarillo show. Lefty's daughter, Ada Carole, copped first place in Collingsworth County, then went into the Amarillo show where her calf won Reserve Champion. Everyone was happy and they hauled the calf back to Wellington to start getting him in shape for the Ft. Worth show. A few days after they got back home, however, the calf got sick — and died. Ada Carole is now a student at the University of Texas, which probably creates some little dissent in the Thomas household when the annual Texas vs. A. and M. football game rolls around each Thanksgiving.

Argen Draper, the Home Demonstration Agent, is also from Wellington. The other day she was heckling the courthouse janitor and finally said: "You'd better get on the ball around here, or we'll import a janitor from Wellington."

Luther Lesly has been kidded by a lot of folks who read in The Brand where Luther is taking his wife to the Soil Conservation Convention in Corpus Christi Jan. 15, 16, 17. Luther came right back, though, and said she was the finest woman he ever met — and he'd rather have her go than anyone else. All of which, I thought was a real nice compliment for Luther, as well as for Mrs. Lesly.

HOW LONG DOES the average duck live? This question has been popping up since Dan McDowell mailed in a band dated 1947, but no one seems to have an authentic answer. They do say, however, that Bud Winfrey killed one last year and sent in the band which, he learned later, was placed on the bird in New Zealand. It seems to me that a duck would have to live a long time to migrate that far.

A lot of people have been asking about Roy Clark, Brand news editor for the past 19 months. It is true, Roy is leaving around Jan. 15 for Corpus Christi, where he plans to enroll in college. In addition to his studies, he expects to do quite a bit of free land photography. One of the reasons he is leaving is due to the fact that he has to take advantage of his G. schooling the coming term — or let the opportunity expire. Another is that Roy is the sort of guy who seems to get "itchy feet" after he stays in one place for a year or two. He will study Arts and Science in the beginning and has until 1963 on his GI training.

Naturally, we hate to lose Roy chiefly because he is a competent and capable man; also because he is a likeable fellow and has made a lot of friends. We will miss the Clarks a lot and Roy tells me that they really do hate to leave Hereford.

BOB HAMILTON of Dumas will arrive Monday and work with Roy for a few weeks. He will take over the news editor job when Roy leaves. Bob is already known to many people here, having attended Hereford Schools. He covered the Sunray fire a year or two back, and was given honorable mention in the Pulitzer awards for his work. Bob is the son of Mrs. Dutch Link. He is married and has one small daughter. We think that everyone will be happy in getting the Hamiltons back home, and if we can get him off those barber shop quartets, a field in which he is quite active, we think he will be a top-notch news man.

Anyway, as they said in 1957 "that's how the cookie crumbles." There is probably a new expression by now, but I am not exactly hep on 'teenage double talk these days.

N. D. BARTLETT says he has two or three nibbles, but no contract on the big, 175-foot building recently vacated by H. & H. Furniture. Meanwhile, the long gap on Main Street is creating considerable conversation among Hereford merchants, as well as the general public.

The forthcoming school bond el-vote, whereas many times those favoring the issue sit tight and wait for someone else to do the job.

IN THE PAST, we have waited around until the kids overflowed into the churches, then passed our bond issues. It seems far better to stay a jump ahead than a lap behind. The only alternative would be for someone to come up with a good solid plan that would top the one proposed by our trustees. With this in mind, I am going to vote for the proposal — although there are two or three points which I do not entirely agree. I think a lot of people will find themselves in the same boat.

When Jim Lipscomb retires they may get just as good a postmaster, but I'll bet that he cannot drink as much coffee as Jim swiggles each day.

A school teacher was attempting to teach her young charges the value and denominations of American coins. She took a 50-cent piece from her purse and laid on the desk, asking: "Can anyone tell me what that is?" All was silent for several seconds, then the stentorian voice of a young boy rang out: "Tails," he said.

We all admire the fellow who never gives up — almost as much as the chap who knows when to quit.

WANTED — One good Ouija board. Contact Jimmie Gillentine.

Mike Ferguson got an Ouija board for Christmas and, along with my son Buz, has developed a blind faith in the answers the board spells out. They said it was going to snow on Jan. 4, whereupon I attempted to explain to Buz that the Ouija board business is based on superstition.

"Well," said Buz, far from convinced, "we will just wait until Jan. 4 — and see whether it snows or not."

Consequently, after the snow

Irrigation Course Is Set at A&M

COLLEGE STATION — What does the future hold for irrigation in the state of Texas?

This question and various answers to it will be the theme on which the annual Irrigation Short Course is opened at Texas A. and M. College Jan. 16-17.

started falling Saturday morning, Jan. 4, there seems little else for me to do but get an Ouija board of my own. If you can't beat 'em, join 'em!

Besides, I want to find out what is making Miles Roberson's hair turn red. He says he is allergic to some sort of hair tonic, but I am as hardheaded as Buz. He sure has to come up with some more evidence before he convinces me it isn't plain old red hair dye.

One wet year doesn't make irrigation unnecessary, and right now, while the pressure for more water is lessened is the best time for everyone concerned with irrigation to make a calm study of the situation, says Prof. F. R. Jones, head of the college's Department of Agricultural Engineering.

Following a morning of discussion about the future potential of irrigation, the conferees will then take up, in order, the various aspects and problems involved in cotton irrigation, irrigation problems generally, and management with irrigation, to round out the two-day conference.

Subject titles range from "Irrigation Potentials in Texas" by H. F. Burleigh, area engineer, U. S. Department of the Interior, Bureau of Reclamation, Austin, through "Cotton Varieties Suited to Irrigation" by Dr. T. R. Richmond, head, Cotton Investigation Section, Department of Agronomy, and "Well Failures, Their Causes and Solutions" by R. V. Thurmond, irrigation engineer,

Ogden Nash Offspring Follow Pop into Print

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ogden Nash, who did considerable brooding in verse a quarter century ago as the "father of infant female children," today might muse even more on being the father of adult female authors.

For his two female infants, Isabel and Linell, have grown into married women, mothers and budding authors in their own right.

Isabel, now 24, is Mrs. Frederick Eberstadt of New York. She published her first book, a children's story in verse last summer. She has a novel due for publication and is working on a third book, also a novel.

Linell, now 25, is Mrs. John Marshall Smith of Riderwood, a suburb of Baltimore, and herself the mother of three female children.

Although she has not formally entered her father and sister's select circle, she has ambitions as a writer and is awaiting word on the manuscript of a children's book she sent off to her agent a few weeks ago.

Both are nieces of the Nash noggin.

While sister Isabel inherited her father's talent for versification, Linell picked up his considerable, but little-known, skill as an artist.

It's in this medium that she broke into print last fall as illustrator of her father's newest book, "The Christmas that Almost Wasn't."

She did the illustrations at her father's invitation.

"I was willing to have a go at it," she said, "because it sounded like fun and I wanted to please Daddy. But I doubted that the publisher would think much of the idea. Except for Christmas cards for the family, I hadn't done any art work since boarding school. And I didn't know the first thing about drawing for four-color reproduction."

She said her father started writing the book three years ago but until last January had produced only three pages of verse.

"He suddenly got 'hot' on it while he was on a lecture tour," Linell recalls, "and began sending it to me in pieces. By April, it was finished except for minor revisions. That left me three months to do the 40-odd illustrations. I set up a card table in the bedroom to escape the children, turned the radio on full blast and got busy."

"The Christmas that Almost Wasn't" concerns a nasty plot to outlaw Christmas in the fantasy kingdom of Lullapat. Quite apart from accident, the hero and heroine of the tale are named "Nicholas" and "Nell."

"Nicholas Krock who was firm as a rock though only going on 8 is named for Isabel's son who likewise is firm as a rock though only going on 2. And Nell is the namesake of Linell's oldest daughter, an active 5-year-old who says she likes everything about her Granddaddy's book, but especially the part "where I am the princess."

Nell also was the inspiration for her Aunt Isabel's first book of rhyme, "Where Did Tuffy Hide," which tells of a small dog's efforts to hide from a playful child.

One of her grandfather's books of verse also was dedicated to Nell—"The only grandchild in the world." But that was when she was Nash's only grandchild. He now has four—Linell's three girls and Isabel's boy.

Linell is as free in disregarding the conventional rules of art as her father is free with the conventions of rhyme and meter. However, only one of the drawings she submitted for "The Christmas that Almost Wasn't" was rejected. It showed a cat with a litter of puppies—a believable family group in Nash's verse but somehow unbelievable in Linell's picture. She admits she should have known better than to follow her father's whimsy to the letter and hope to get away with it.

Isabel, who has wanted to write as long as she can remember, also admits most of her early writings were imitations of her father's verse. She won a literary competition conducted by St. Nicholas Magazine when she was 9. Her first published work, entitled "Christmas Morning," appeared in Seventeen Magazine in 1950, when Isabel was 17.

Her soon-to-be-published novel, "The Banquet Vanishes," is based on a trip she made abroad when she was still in college. Told in the first person, it recounts the adventures of an 18-year-old who has run away from school.

Isabel is collaborating with her husband, Frederick, on her third literary effort. He is a unit manager for NBC-TV, currently assigned to the "Mr. Wizard" show.

So far, Linell's husband—who's in the insurance business—has refused to be drawn into the family artists and author's society.

Beauty At Home

Q. What is the most becoming hairstyle for the girl with an "egg-shaped" head?

A. Probably best is a three-and-a-half-inch, all-over cut, with the hair tapered in length in the back and at the nape of the neck, from a part that runs completely across the top of the head. Start this parting at the top of either ear, and to cross the head just back of the actual crown. The hair in back of the part is set in soft pin curls. When combed out, they provide a blancing fullness to the front, so that the so-called "egg-shape" is effectively camouflaged.

Q. How can I mix my own toilet powder at home?

A. One good one consists of two parts boric acid mixed with eight parts of starch.

Q. How can I avoid accentuating a nose that is too short?

A. Powder the nose first with a shade of powder than that used on the remainder of your face.

Q. What do you think is a good liquid control for one's hairdress?

A. For hair that picks up a static electric charge, brilliantine is a simple solution. If the hair is fine, the brilliantine used should be of a thinner consistency. It should never be applied directly to the hair. Place a small amount in the palm of one hand, rub the palms together briskly, then pass them over the hair. If the hair is heavier and coarser, then a heavier brilliantine cream or pomade should be used.

Boys Can Be Boors

IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

By BETTY BABIONE

Hope you missed my chatter last week 'cause I sure missed talking at ya. Was down in Oklahoma spending the holidays with the kin-folks and havin a real Oklahoma-type vacation. . . if you're curious as to what characterizes an Oklahoma-type vacation, ask the Hank Williams or the Kenneth Cokers or the Otis Dickeys or the Harry Linderers or any other of Hereford's transplanted Okies.

Bumped into Wilma and Harry Linderer at a high school alumni affair back home, and they surely seemed to be havin a right fine time.

Ge, holidays are fun but won't it be fine when the vacation is over! A body hardly has a minute to call her own when the youngsters are out of school.

Present-day mothers would, no doubt, be a frustrated lot for sure if we couldn't depend on outside sources to help at least a little bit with the job of keeping the 8 to 18 year-olds occupied.

One thing about it, the local theatre management really came through with an abundant assortment of movies during the past few weeks and changed the pictures often enough for the kids to be interested in going often. And the television fare during the holidays has been extra-appealing to the youngsters.

Past generations of mamas managed without such stuff as movies, TV, basketball games, church-youth activities and the like. But I don't see how!

Haven't talked about the movies for quite a while, so I'll take time now to mention that if you enjoy superb acting and unusually-good romantic stories, and you missed seeing "Love in the Afternoon" and "An Affair to Remember" when they played here in December — then you missed two movies you'd surely have liked.

"Love in the Afternoon" stars Gary Cooper and Audrey Hepburn; "An Affair to Remember" stars Cary Grant and Deborah Kerr; and I hope both pictures have a repeat run at the local drive-in theatre this summer. . . I hope, I hope.

And — as for the movie, "Oklahoma," dear readers — if you don't wanna read what I have to say about that screen morsel, then you may as well skip over the next umpteen paragraphs.

"Oklahoma" is absolutely one of the most entertaining movies ever produced! If you didn't see it, you missed a rare treat.

The only people who didn't enjoy it immensely were those who weren't educated beforehand as to the type of show it is and who don't go for that type of movie to begin with. I say this because if people know the particulars concerning "Oklahoma," and don't enjoy its type of show, then these people should surely have saved their money and spent their time elsewhere.

Am thinking of a certain group of people — boys in their late teens — who happened to attend this film the same night I did.

I don't know what they were expecting in regards to the film, but it obviously wasn't what they expected, and they obviously weren't too interested in it, and they obviously didn't care a rap if others in the audience were interested or not.

Now I'll probably get my come-uppance for talking about how other people's children behave in public, but these boys were big enough to know better!

There wasn't anything they didn't do to make noise throughout the show; and, as if that weren't sufficient to disturb others around them, they made a big deal out of parading, en masse, from their seats to the lobby at the beginning of every musical number and returning just as ostentatiously when the musical portion was over.

Those young fellas, surely, didn't realize what a spectacle they were making of themselves, in more ways than one. Why, the music was the main ingredient of the whole show! Rogers and Hammerstein made musical history with their fabulous tunes and lyrics for the stage play, "Oklahoma," and the songs have certainly not lost any of their sparkle and appeal with the passage of time, or with their transition from the stage to the movie version. And the evident lack of appreciation, on the part of said boys, was rather stupidly displayed I'd say.

Have kinda gotten carried away, but it's only an example of the importance of being informed before we attend certain movies — this one in particular.

Come to think of it, the same rule could apply to lots of things in life — especially public programs and public events and public affairs — most anything that's "public."

But, back to "Oklahoma." Those who have had the opportunity to see the great stage-production think the film version compares most favorably. . . very few changes in the story line. . . the same colorful characters, perfectly cast by a roster of capable stars. . . the same marvelously-witty dialogue. . . the beautifully-picturesque setting. . . and of course, the music!

To my mind, Aunt Eller (played by that incomparable Charlotte Greenwood) had the choicest lines in the wealth of fantastically-humorous dialogue. One bit I recall offhand was her tiff with the sheriff — she says to him: "You're gonna feel awful funny when I tell your wife about your running around with another woman." Sheriff: "Why, I ain't runnin' around with no other woman!" Aunt Eller: "Well, you'll still feel awful funny when I tell her you are!"

Anyway, "Oklahoma" was a rare treat in entertainment — a bright and lasting star in a galaxy apparently dominated by shoot-em-up cowboys, science-fiction thriller-chillers, and Elvis Presley.

Since this is resolution-making time, I guess I oughta something appropriate along this line. Now I don't usually make any resolutions 'cause I'm too good a resolution-breaker. But back in December, I did resolve not to be overly jealous of the lucky people who were able to get tickets to the New Year's Cotton Bowl game (am just as glad I wasn't there, the way the game turned out) and also not to be jealous of everyone who headed for the Gulf and a holiday spent deep-sea fishing (am happy if I wrangle just one invitation to a fish-ry).

I wish Tessie and Jay Barnett would resolve to visit Hereford more often while they're living in Houston. Their friends here surely were pleased by the Barnett family's brief stay during the holidays. Bet there were a number of ladies who resolved to have a black velvet slim-jim outfit like Lavern Clay's after Lavern made such a hit in hers at the Bradley's recent open house.

And that cute Joyce Lyons has, no doubt, resolved not to be forgetting any more club meetings — her fellow members found out she'd plain forgot about this meeting. It happens to the best of people, but Joyce can expect a hard time from the other gals in the club for a while.

I won't mention any names for this particular item; but a certain somebody, who doesn't deserve such cruel punishment, has been wishing she could resolve away an acute case of the hives. She would tell ya that breaking out with hives is about the worst imaginable way to start out the new year.

They are such fun — those midnight scrabble games, so I don't know whether or not Marilyn and Bill Hardwick are actually serious in their resolution to discontinue the practice. Gee, wouldn't it be interesting to learn some of the other unusual resolutions made around here this year? Hmhmhmhm.

Now — everyone who can, really oughta resolve to go vote on the school bond issue Tuesday. And anyone who is even half-way informed about the issue will vote YES — that's a certainty!

Folks should also make a point of gettin right down to buy their tickets to the pending Chamber of Commerce banquet, if they plan at all to attend. It's expected that this year's C of C affair will top em all.

The telephone people are resolved to go "all out" for their Open House Jan. 8, 9, and 10. I, for one, wouldn't miss it! Happy New Year everybody!

Mr. and Mrs. Willie E. Waits

Vows Solemnized in Canyon for Waits, Miss Coleman

Wedding vows were solemnized in Canyon at 12 noon Dec. 21 for Emma Liston Coleman, daughter of Mrs. O. L. Coleman and the late O. L. Coleman, and Willie Earl Waits, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl T. Waits of Hereford.

The double ring ceremony was performed at Fanita Park, the Coleman home at 101 28 Street, by the Rev. Donald G. Price, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Forming the background for the white satin draped altar was a panel of floor-to-ceiling pleated satin, festooned with spruce garlands and edged with columns of emerald foliage. The garlands were tied with swags of white and held emerald foliage and white lace wedding bells.

White iron candelabra holding milk glass votive lights and white stylized trees of gardenias accented by starburst lights flanked the altar. An arrangement of white stock, surrounding a gold cross, completed the setting.

Dr. Houston Bright, director of the A Cappella Choir at West Texas State College, sang his own composition, "Sweet Wife," accompanied at the piano by his wife, to whom the number is dedicated.

Mrs. Robert Cheek, the bride's only attendant, wore a blue wool suit and carried a cluster of white roses.

Best man was Robert Cheek, band director at Sunray.

Given in marriage by her uncle Dr. M. M. Hoover of Washington, D. C., the bride wore an original Pasante suit of pure white silk by Bettine of Beverly Hills. Her only jewels were pearl earrings and necklace, gift of the bridegroom. She carried a cluster of white roses, accented with stephanotis. She wore a hat fashioned of ermine.

Mrs. Coleman wore a dress of charcoal lace over velvet. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Waits, wore a dress of navy blue crepe. Both wore gardenia corsages.

A wedding breakfast was held in the home following the ceremony.

The serving of fruit cake and champagne appetizers preceded the meal of pheasant a la king, rum nuts, the traditional wedding cake and coffee.

The table was laid with an old white satin cloth and held an antique silver service. The bride's mother served, and the groom's mother and his aunt, Mrs. Guy Smith, poured. Virginia Leake presided at the guest book.

The house was decorated with Maryland holly, direct from the bride's uncle's plantation on the Pautuxent River. Cedar garlands and blue and white ribbons were used in outdoor decorations. A tall white pine with blue decorations was used in the patio.

Following the wedding breakfast the couple left on a wedding trip to the La Fonda Hotel in Santa Fe, N. M. The bride wore a Lana original heathered colored wool knit suit with anemoe accessories.

The couple is at home at 105 28th Street. Mrs. Waits is a freshman at West Texas State College, where she is majoring in English. A graduate of WT in June of 1957, Waits is the assistant band director at Dumas.

THE SAME TO YOU
NEW BOSTON, Ohio (AP) — Only one headlight was working on the approaching car. So patrolman Jack Foit stopped it and said:

"From a distance, it appeared you might have been driving a motorcycle."

The driver returned: "From a distance, it appeared you were, too."

Foit checked his police cruiser. Only one headlight was working.

CHILDREN'S PARADISE
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — It was just like candyland for a while when a big barrel of sweets fell off a truck. The barrel splattered open and 200 pounds of suckers and cinnamon balls spilled on the streets.

Soundra Dutton Is Wed to Gerald L. Brown at Anson

The marriage of Miss Soundra Dutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Dutton, Rt. 5, Hereford, to Gerald Lee Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Brown, 302 Ave. K, took place at 6 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 23, in the Hanna Baptist Church at Anson.

The Rev. James Easterwood, pastor, read the ceremony, after which a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

Miss Ann Brady of Snyder, cousin of the bride, played a medley of nuptial music preceding the ceremony and accompanied Lois and Joyce Andrews who sang "The Wedding Prayer." She also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Evelyn McIntyre of Midland. She wore a street length frock fashioned with a pink and black brocade skirt with black velvet overblouse. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Robert Brown, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and ushers included his brother Charles Brown, and Lloyd Woodward of Albuquerque, N. M. Candelighters were Misses Lois and Joyce Andrews. The bride was escorted to the altar, which was banked with baskets of white gladioli and greenery arranged with pyramiding tapers in seven branched candelabra, and given in marriage by her father.

Her gown of chantilly lace and nylon net over bridal satin, was designed with lace bodice having a bateau neckline and long tapering sleeves. The bouffant ballerina length skirt featured a ruffled apron of lace attached in the back to a panel of net ruffles. Her lace-edged veil was attached to a satin and lace hat embroidered in seed pearls. She wore a pearl necklace and carried a white Bible topped with pink feathered carnations streamered with loops of white satin ribbon.

The reception/nouse party included Kay Carpenter and Karen Dutton of Dimmitt.

The bride's table was laid with a floor length white satin cloth and adorned with candelabra holding white candles for illumination. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple. Appointments were in crystal

HOT STUFF

GREENFIELD, Ohio — Mrs. Kenneth Bennett is looking for a new place to keep her ironing board. Putting it under the bed just didn't work out.

She put it there after doing the ironing and went to work. It took the fire department to get it out. Fire Chief Tom Redkey said the ironing board "must have been 'pretty hot,' because it set fire to the bedding.

Many 'Homers' Among Wildlife

By EARL GOLDING

Written for The Associated Press

Lots of members of the wildlife family are just naturally "homers."

As the old timers would say, they're "set in their ways" and don't like to change them. They select a home and they get to like it and pretty soon they're mighty hard to drive away from it.

This holds true to big and little game animals, game birds, and even fish.

Wildlife biologists say deer don't usually move around very far from the place they're born. Lot of times, the experts say, this results in needless starvation in times of drouth. While one area of the range may be dry and barren, food may be just over the hill, but hungry deer won't venture that far. They'll remain in their home area, even if it means starving.

Quail, too, like to stick to the area in which they were hatched. Bobwhite men go back to the same areas year after year because they know that covey they found last year will still have birds this year, near the same place. And the next and the next.

Deer hunters, good ones, know that when they jump a buck, he'll likely circle behind them, and come right back to the place they startled him. Some hunters say that when you get a white-tail up, turn and walk in a half-circle in the opposite direction, and you'll be likely to bump right into him, face to face.

This happens with rabbits. On numerous occasions, I've seen little beagle hounds jump jacks or cottontails, and finally see the rabbit appear back at the very place he was first disturbed.

Fish do the same.

Those "frogmen" the Texas Game and Fish Commission have used to study the ways and habits of fish in Texas lakes say they can scare a big bass away from his favorite hangout and he'll usually circle and come back.

The old saying that there is no place like home also holds true with creatures of the wilds.

Ivan the Terrible annexed Siberia to Russia in the 16th Century.

HERE'S HOW

Use Caution in Buying Antiques

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newfeatures

"What are the popular things to collect these days in the way of antiques?" a reader asks. "My husband and I are just setting up housekeeping and we want a pretty home. Not all of our furnishings will be old, of course, but we do want to give a look of importance to our home."

Antique collecting can be a wonderful hobby, and expensive, unless you buy with a purpose.

The pattern for beginners usually runs the same — first to copper and pressed glass, then to pewter, old glass, old china. Many neophytes, impressed with first antiques, favor French furniture and bibelots. Later they will be more discriminating, taking into consideration such things as the architecture of their home, and the area in which they live, before choosing a period.

Early American furniture, for instance, is much more suitable to country living than Louis XV. Provincial styles are best for smaller homes, and one may find some magnificent pieces if one is willing to pay the price. The mid-Victorian period, not quite antique (after 1830) offers some lovely lines in the French manner, and love seats, gentleman and lady chairs that may be within the price range for young people.

Antiques shows are the best bet if you want to educate yourself to antiques. The annual winter antiques show of East Side House, in New York, (Jan. 8 to 13) for instance, will show antiques in handsome room settings, vignettes and shop type exhibits against formal gardens. There are collections of European, Asian and Early American antiques. Members of the American Institute of Decorators show how to use antiques in room settings.

Pottery jug heads made in Ohio early in the 19th century, show the influence of African art on Americans of that era, and it is perfectly in tune with this modern trend to African art. Ditto the plaster craze. A pair of plaster of Paris portrait medallions of King George III and Queen Charlotte, made by Henry Christian Geyer of Boston in 1770, is just the dish for those riding the plaster craze of the moment.

Anything with lots of drawers sells in this age of storage space need. Apothecary cabinets are much sought after, and cobbler's chests are in great demand. At the East Side Show an unusual Early American hexagonal pine hardware store cabinet with 80 drawers could put an antique vehicle (it's on casters) in the man's workshop.

This Sauce Needs No Cooking

AMERICAN HOLLANDAISE SAUCE accompanies dishes skillet steak. Requires no cooking, cauliflower, or made into Bearnaise it embel-

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

SPUTNIK OR NO, the American who invented the electric blender deserves to be blessed by all cooks. Especially by new cooks who long to prepare French-type dishes.

If it is the height of your ambition to serve Eggs Benedict, poached salmon, cauliflower, asparagus or broccoli with Hollandaise Sauce, then you can do so easily with this recipe via the blender. You can also add to this Hollandaise and achieve Sauce Bearnaise to accompany steak. Either way, this sauce — which requires no cooking — can compare favorably in texture and flavor with the French Hollandaise that is made over heat.

If you are serving only two or three, and you should have some of the Hollandaise or Sauce Bearnaise left over, refrigerate it in a tightly-covered jar. Then use it instead of mayonnaise, as we do, in the filling for stuffed eggs or in a hard-cooked egg filling for sandwiches or a spread for crumpets. We find guests are usually intrigued by the flavor and ask what we did to make the eggs taste so good.

AMERICAN HOLLANDAISE SAUCE
Ingredients: 1/2 pound (1/2 c.) butter, 3 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, cayenne.
Method: In a small saucepan (1 pint) melt the butter; heat until it bubbles and foam all over the top, but do not let it brown. Meanwhile, put the egg yolks, lemon juice, salt and a pinch of cayenne into the electric blender container; cover container; flick motor on and off (at high speed) twice. Remove cover. Turn motor on (at high speed) and in a slow stream pour in the hot foaming butter. Turn into small bowl to serve. Makes 3/4 cup — enough for 4 servings.

SAUCE BEARNAISE
Ingredients: 2 tablespoons water, 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon black pepper, 1 teaspoon dried crushed tarragon, 2 tablespoons minced shallots, American Hollandaise Sauce.
Method: In a small saucepan (1 pint) mix the water, vinegar, pepper, tarragon and shallots. Bring to a boil; cook rapidly until almost all the liquid evaporates. Add to American Hollandaise Sauce in blender container; cover; turn motor on (at high speed) for 5 seconds. Makes about 1 cup. Serve at once.

Note: The white bulb of green onions (scallions) may be substituted for the shallots.

GOOD REASON
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Attorney John Booth appeared before District Judge W. R. Wallace Jr. to report that his client was unavoidably detained at Tulsa and couldn't appear for his burglary trial.
Wallace said there had better be a good reason.
Booth explained his client was in the Tulsa jail on two other charges.

WEARS TWO CASTS
CAMPTON, Ky. (AP) — Miss Lucy Moore, a school teacher, wore two casts and a look of wonder.

While working around a farm, she fell and broke an arm. She had the arm placed in a cast and resumed her teaching post, until she caught the flu.
Before she recovered, Miss Moore went to help a neighbor desperately ill — and fell down the stairs while collecting medical supplies.
The second cast went on her big toe.

Big Dave Tests Ways of Saving Lives of Pilots

DALLAS (AP) — There's a character out at the Chance Vought Aircraft plant that's not as dumb as he looks. There's more in him than appears on the surface.
And Chance Vought workers are very fond of him. They've given him the name of Big Dave.

Big Dave sits very still in the cockpit of a mock-up plane while workmen scurry clear. Then, seconds later, he is shot from the cockpit, zooms 50 feet in the air, is separated from his ejection seat and lands in a heavy net.

He is a key figure in the plant's continuing studies to make flying safer and easier for military pilots.

Plant executives believe they already have one of the safest ejection seats in the business for their Crusader, called the world's fastest jet fighter. But they still seek improvements.
Big Dave is a handsome figure of a man. He's 6 feet 1, weighs 200 pounds and is made of soft plastic with a steel skeleton.
The structure of his joints is human-like, his weight distribution is like a man's, and his outside layer is as tender as a co-ed's skin.
The only time he's suffered damage was when he was blown through a plexiglass cockpit canopy intentionally. Results showed a real flier would have survived although he would have suffered bruises.
Dave's rides are part of an ejection seat study intended to make escape at very low altitudes as safe as those from higher where the automatic parachute has plenty of space and time to open.
In his chest cavity is an instrument called an accelerometer, more like a brain than a heart. It measures the dummy's speed when ejected. This information, along with exacting movie camera studies, gives engineers information on what happens.

WHY NOT THE DAY OFF?
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Bothered by Monday blues?
You ought to work for Verne Barnes, secretary-manager of the Hialeah-Miami Springs Chamber of Commerce.
He says he hates to go to work on Mondays himself so he tries "to take the curse off for the people who work with me." For two years now he's been giving his employees what he calls the "Monday surprise" — a little gift for each worker.
Sometimes the presents are outright foolishness — like used window shades, frayed rope and so on. At other times, they consist of home-made fudge, passes to various attractions or invitations to dinner.
"We never know what's coming next," say his employees.

HELPS IMMIGRANTS
WINNIPEG (AP) — A new booklet published by the provincial government is designed to give prospective immigrants from Britain a clear idea of the type of employment open, salary scales and cost of living, as well as climate and culture.

IN ARGENTINA Six-Footer Fier He's a Giant

By BRIAN BELL
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Throw away your elevator heels and come to Buenos Aires, Shorty. You won't need them here.
This is the city of Lilliputians and woe be it to the 6-footer who ventures out.

There are big, tall Argentines like actor Fernando Lamas but they are few and far between. Most of the men here stand about 5 feet 7; the ladies slightly over 5 feet.
Consequently beds, tables, chairs, buses, awnings and the like are built to this size. And the 6-footer goes around in a perpetual crouch as if he were seeking lost pesos on the sidewalks.
My height is exactly 1/2 inch over 6 feet — not especially tall by United States standards. But down here I don't fit at all.

The Argentine is long the sits up and short legged. Also bon table, straight at the dining table. In something Americans are giants, restaurants they all appear feet and Then they get to their rise to all of 5 feet 7. Few eating places or

The Argentine is lonhe sits up and short legged. Also bon table, straight at the dining table. In something Americans are giants, restaurants they all appear feet and Then they get to their rise to all of 5 feet 7. Few eating places or dining rooms have tables that accommodate long-legged Americans. The transplanted tall ones from the States are getting more and more slouchy in their sitting.

The Argentine women do little to appear tall. Seldom do they wear high heels except on the heaviest of dates. The 5 and 6-inch spikes of the States are virtually unknown.
The short boy in the States who always has trouble finding a date small enough for the big dance could find a large field to pick from here. The tall Americans, of course, don't necessarily suffer going out with the tiny girls in Buenos Aires either. For what they lack in height, they make up in other dimensions.

Personal Approach Favored by Friar

By EDWARD J. NEIL

FATHER BEN demonstrates the system he uses to shed extra poundage acquired on the banquet lecture circuit.

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Rev. Benjamin Kuhn, O. F. M., speaker, bicyclist and honorary everything, maintains the personal approach is far more effective than television evangelism.

The portly, 52-year-old "Happy Friar" of Siena College speaks before more than 200,000 persons a year in his schedule of dinner, breakfast and other appearances in the Northeast.

He uses bicycle riding to shed the banquet-acquired poundage from his 5-foot, 11-inch frame.

Clad in white and green Siena sweater, Roman collar and black trousers, Father Ben takes jaunts up to 35 miles on his beefed-up American bike.

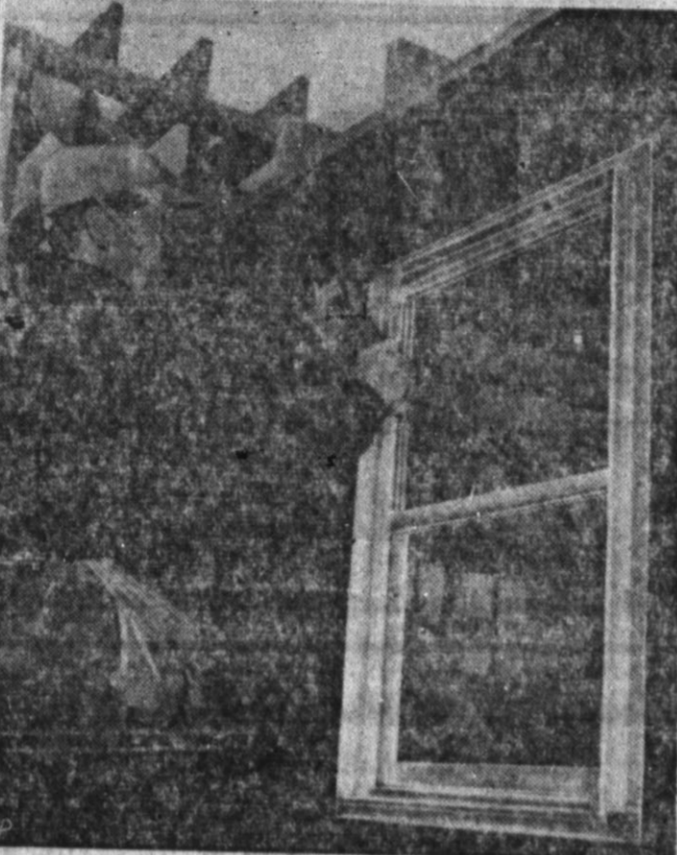

While averaging more than 200 speaking engagements a year, the Franciscan priest has received honorary titles ranging from honoris causa to honorary citizen (by a soil conservation group).

He says he and his fellow priests must get out and carry religion personally to the people.

The personal force of a speaker and the power of his conviction sometimes cannot get to the audience through television," he says.

NEW ALUMINUM WINDOWS with integral fin-trim are easily nailed or screwed into sheathing or framing without the use of additional trim or positioning hardware, as shown above. The integral fin is a broad extruded edge, pre-punched for nail or screw placement. This window is one of three new types of aluminum double-hung windows for residential use.

Chicago (AP) — A newly designed aluminum tack-on-window frame simplifies home construction and cuts installation time and costs.

Don Poor, a representative of the Chicago firm that developed it, says the integral fin-trim frame section meets the needs of varying types of architecture and wall construction.

The fin is attached to a broad extended edge of the window frame and runs the full perimeter of the window. It is pre-punched for nail and screw placement.

The assembly-line produced window is a pre-packed unit complete with weather stripping, spiral balances and pull-down handle for the top sash of double-hung styles.

The weather stripping of silicone-treated woolpile is set into an aluminum back. It reduces air infiltration to less than 1/4 cubic feet per minute for each foot of sash perimeter when subjected to a wind velocity of 25 miles per hour, Poor said.

The window, plus flange unit, is nailed or screwed quickly into sheathing or framing without the use of additional trim or positioning accessories.

The unit also is designed with channel-type frames. These are

Children Like To Hear Stories

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

"Tell me a story," said Tricia as she hopped into bed. "Which story tonight?" asked Mother.

"First I want 'In the olden days when you were little,' then I want a new story — two stories tonight." And Tricia lay very still, expectantly waiting.

Finally the stories were over. "Oh, Mommie, I could listen to stories forever," sighed Tricia.

Yes, children love stories, they like the kind that come out of the head, they like the kind that come out of books.

Story telling and reading aloud are becoming lost arts in our mechanical age of canned amusements — too bad when there is so much fun in sharing the joy and imagination of children.

If you run dry of stories to tell, freshen up your supply from some good books. An excellent book is "Favorite Stories Old And New," collected by Sidonie Gruenberg and published by Doubleday. It's a big book and will give you material for story telling for years. Children from 4 to 10 will enjoy these tales. Another story collection is "Time To Laugh," collected by Phyllis Fenner and published by Knopf. Another by the same collector is "Giants and Witches and a Dragon or Two."

Space doesn't permit the listing of many other good collections. You cannot go wrong on any of them, but if you have time, browse around a bookstore and make your own selection.

In adding a collection of stories to your home you will lead your children into that wonderful land that only book lovers know.

The little child who is told stories and read to long before he can read himself is the one who learns to love books.

Whenever you can, make story reading a family affair. A family that reads together shares not only the actual enjoyment of the reading, but the story characters become familiar parts of daily conversation.

Keep up the story reading even when the children are old enough to read by themselves. They may enjoy taking turns with the reading.

Reading plays aloud is wonderful family fun. Let each member of the family take a part and not only read it, but act it out as best he can.

How Can I?

By Anna Ashby

Q. How can I prevent the window screens from rusting?
A. The screens will look like new and will not rust if they are given a coat of linseed oil.

Q. How can I prevent cream from curdling when poured into the coffee?
A. When cream is not strictly fresh it sometimes will curdle slightly when poured into the coffee, but this can be avoided by adding a pinch of baking soda to the cream before serving.

Q. How can I strengthen weak ankles?
A. By bathing daily in a solution of salt, water, and alcohol. An improvement will usually be noticeable after a few applications.

Q. How can I make wood durable and weatherproof?
A. Wood can be made extremely durable and weatherproof by covering with several coats of hot linseed-oil varnish.

Q. Is celery good for one who suffers from a nervous disease?
A. It is claimed that celery is excellent for those who suffer from nervous diseases and rheumatism. It can be cooked with a cream sauce, or just stewed with a butter sauce. Use it with salads, stewed tomatoes, or stuffings.

Q. How can I treat frostbites?
A. By rubbing the affected parts with pure oil of peppermint. This will also prevent the after effect of chilblains. Only the pure oil, not the essence of peppermint, should be used.

Q. How can I cut citron easily?
A. Before cutting citron, steam it for several minutes and it will make an easy task out of a difficult one.

Q. How can I avoid the freezing of pipes?
A. Water pipes will not freeze if painted with a mixture of equal parts of glycerine and melted paraffin. Apply this solution to the exposed parts.

Q. How can I make a solution for chapped lips?
A. An excellent formula for cracked lips is one-half teaspoonful of borax to one tablespoonful of honey. Mix the borax and honey thoroughly before applying.

Q. How can I restore velvet, and make it look like new?
A. Hold it over a gallon of boiling water, to which 1/2-cup of ammonia has been added. Hold the underside of the velvet next to the steam.

Q. How can I keep cranberries all winter?
A. Assort them carefully, throwing away any that are soft or bruised, and place them in a keg or crock of water.

Q. How can I make a good home remedy to relieve coughing at night?
A. Try mixing equal parts of strained honey and glycerine, and adding a few drops of lemon juice. Take a spoonful whenever troubled with coughing.

Q. How can I make a lotion for a red nose?
A. Mix two grams each of precipitate of sulphur, cherry laurel water, glycerine, precipitated chalk, and eau de cologne.

Q. How can I melt jam that has become sugary and hard after being stored for too long a time?
A. Place in a warm oven until the sugar melts.

Q. How can I remove odors from bottles?
A. Put a tablespoonful of dry mustard in the bottle, then fill it half full of cold water. Shake thoroughly and let stand for half an hour, then rinse with clear water.

Q. How can I prevent milk from curdling when it is boiled?
A. By stirring a pinch of soda into it.

CONFUSING NAMES
PAULS VALLEY, Okla. — The friendly folk here had to break themselves of using first names when they phoned the county attorney's office.

There was always a mixup, what with County Attorney Carroll Bowie, and Assistant Carroll Moody. Then they hired a new secretary, Carole Alexander.

Try Airy Fritter For Dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
 Associated Press Food Editor
 When cranberries are added to a batter similar to that used for French fritots, you have delicate crisp mouthfuls with tart fruit flavor that come out of the deep-fat fryer to be served as hot bread or dessert.

American fritter batters usually call for more flour than does this recipe, as well as for baking powder. But have no fears — these fritters are airy, oval-shaped and lightly puffed. This recipe is brand new. The first time we made the fritters, we sprinkled them with confectioners sugar as soon as they had been deep-fat fried and drained; then we served them with extra mounds of the sugar on individual plates for dipping. (You may wish to use extra-fine granulated sugar instead of the confectioners sugar.)

Another time we offered them with hard sauce. You might like to accompany them with maple syrup or a sweet and spicy fresh cranberry sauce.

During frying, turn the fritters over as soon as they have browned on one side, using a skimmer (a flat wire ship or a perforated kitchen spoon). We add this precaution because we've seen experienced cooks jab at fritters with kitchen forks — a practice not designed to have fritters retain puffiness. For draining the fritters after they are fried, you can use several thicknesses of paper toweling.

CRANBERRY FRITTERS
 Ingredients: 1 cup flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons granulated sugar, 2 eggs (separated), 2/3 cup milk, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine (melted), 1/4 teaspoon almond flavoring, 2 cups fresh cranberries (halved), confectioners sugar.

Method: Sift together the flour, salt and granulated sugar. Beat egg yolks with rotary beater (hand or electric) until thick and pale-colored; gradually beat in milk, alternately with melted butter and almond flavoring. Beat sifted dry ingredients into mixture, a small amount at a time; continue to beat until smooth. With clean beater, beat egg whites until stiff; fold into mixture with halved cranberries. (Batter will be soft.) Use a tablespoon as a measure and drop batter into hot (370 to 375 degrees) deep fat. Cook each fritter until golden brown, turning once — about 3 minutes. Drain on several thicknesses of paper towels; sprinkle with confectioners sugar; serve hot. Fritters are tart, so you may wish to serve extra sugar for individual dipping. Makes about 3 dozen.

STRONG STOMACH
SHELBY, N. C. — A cow of the Ora Mill farm herd died recently. The mill dump is near the pasture.

Farm Superintendent Vetus Queen said a post-mortem disclosed the following in the cow's stomach:

Three razor blades, four nails one to five inches long, a 14-inch chain from a pocket watch, a clothes pin spring, two large pieces of glass, a swivel and part of a gear from a fishing reel, pieces of wire of various lengths and thickness, plugs and several travelers, which are metal objects off textile machines.

CRANBERRY FRITTERS are airy, oval-shaped and lightly puffed. They make delicious dessert.

Mutt Knows Which Airline Butters Her Dog Biscuit

MUSCLE SHOALS, Ala. (AP) — In a kennel of mutts, Queenie would be just another dog. She's short on blood lines but long on the finer sensibilities.

Queenie is 10 years old and she knows her way around. She also knows which side her dog biscuit is buttered on.

For almost her entire life, Queenie has been a mascot at the Muscle Shoals Airport. When she first showed up, she was befriended and provided a home by Char-

Merritt. Mrs. Springer is a sister of Mrs. Merritt. The Merritts and the Springers went to Amarillo Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck Cunningham of Amarillo were guests in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Sowell, during the Christmas holidays. Mr. and Mrs. David Sowell spent Christmas Day in the Cunningham home.

Young people who were home from college included Ross, Joe Landers, Larry Kaul, Walter Lynn Kaul and G. C. Merritt from Oklahoma State; Jimmy Dale Auten and Ronald Kershner from Texas Tech, and Mary Kay Kershner from St. Anthony's in Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Kaul were host and hostess for a get together Christmas Eve. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Landers, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Merritt Sr., Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Thomas and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Morrison, Ross, Joe Landers, Raymond, Judith and Mary Lynn Morrison and Alice Kirkland.

Those who spent Christmas in bed because of illness were Mrs. R. L. Wilson, P. B. Sowell, Willie Nunley and Mary Lynn Morrison.

line hostess, she does it herself. Ashley believes Queenie recognizes Eastern plans by their sound, color, and general appearance — and also by the fact that flight attendants always have a handout for her.

No one has taken the trouble to teach her the tricks as old as dog-dom. Even so, Queenie rolls over, stands on her hind legs and skips around, or climbs the scale of barks for a handout. She never tries to board a plane; she just stands at the foot of the ramp and begs until she is fed.

By and large, she's not much to look at — just a mongrel with all the characteristics of a mutt. As for personality, though, she's queen size.

COINS FOR CHARITY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It may not be the real thing, but it pays just as well — for charity. The Great Western Shopping Center here has a replica of the Trevi Fountain in Rome into which world travelers toss coins to guarantee returning to Rome. Lately, folks have taken to tossing coins into the shopping center's replica fountain. Caretakers say between $50 and $75 is recovered each month. The money is contributed to charity.

She soon became a familiar sight along the runways and it wasn't long before she found out that a pooch could mooch a meal from any Eastern plane that stopped over at Muscle Shoals.

It also wasn't long before Queenie became a mother. She set up housekeeping far down the field and airport attendants have counted more than 10 litters as Queenie's contribution to the dog population of Alabama.

Fiction Gets Nod for Desert Island Reading

Which would you rather read, fiction or nonfiction? If you could have all the year's novels, or all the non-novels, and no compromise, how would you choose?

This mighty serious world, you may argue, leaves no time for fooling. Love, marriage, fidelity, happiness, boy meets girl, grief, tragedy, death the leveler — these are fine for let's-pretend, make-believe subjects, for vacation reading. But in our work-a-day age, such matters may seem picaresque compared to H-bomb and fall-out, satellites, Khrushchev, Nehru, Mao, Eisenhower, the French in Africa, the Israelis in the Middle East, the Negroes in Little Rock.

Even so, on my way to a desert island, with my choice strictly limited to one kind of books or the other, I'd take fiction.

I'd take novels in part because they are informative and helpful about the major, everlasting things in life, the human things which even in our hair-trigger era outweigh all other considerations. Atoms may blow man up, chemists may dissolve him in some evil drug, but man is still infinitely the most important of them all.

I'd take fiction also because it sometimes tells me as much about the harsher, brutal facts, like politics, wars and power rivalries, as the so-called factual books. Finally, I'd take fiction in this 1957 because it has been good.

Reduce my choice to only one of the year's novels and I think I'd pick Bernard Malamud's "The Assistant," a deeply touching story of a Gentile boy, something of a bum, in love with a respectable Jewish girl.

This racial question enters largely into a fine novel by Myron S. Kaufmann, "Remember Me to God," and into "The Room on the Roof," by Ruskin Bond. Here besides first-rate writing are profound insights into the heart. They were not written in order to end Arab-Jewish strife, settle the troubles of Negroes, or even reflect the conflicts of have and have-not nations, but they are related, and in a real way Kaufmann's Boston matters more than Little Rock, Montgomery or Haifa. Settle the troubles in the Middle East or the South and you end only a local, superficial phase of race difficulties; settle the basic personal problems and the others vanish.

For our relations with people living beyond Iron Curtains, there are invaluable suggestions in "Letter from Peking," by Pearl S. Buck, and "The Hunters and the Hunted," by Ivan Bahriany. For a warning against the illimitable powers unleashed by science, there is Nevil Shute's "On the Beach." For an appreciation of America now, there are such excellent probing novels as "By Love Possessed," by James Gould Cozzens; "Some Must Watch," by Edwin Daly; "The Seraglio," by James Merrill; "Love Among the Cannibals," by Wright Morris.

The value of the fiction should not be exaggerated or distorted. To know what Khrushchev says, you read the paper or the immediate history; on the other hand to understand what influences and background and psychology underlie it, you may learn more from fiction.

Among fine factual books bearing directly on page-one crises there was an admirable selection this year: "The Turn of the Tide," by Alan Brooke and Bryant; "The Hungarian Revolution," edited by Melvin J. Lasky; "The Hidden Persuaders," Vance Packard; "The New Class," Milovan Djilas.

But there is another sense in which we must not misread the novel. Most novelists write not to grind a political axe but to tell a story about people they want to meet. Insofar as people lie behind all our problems, cause them and can solve them, it might be asked what better way to peace in the world than to read such revealing novels as "The Weather

Makeover Tricks Pay Dividends

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Husbands may not agree, but it's a fact that most women are pretty thrifty.

When Mom turns up with a new hat, chances are she's earned it. By her own brand of feminine accounting, the hat probably cost her nothing, for she has saved so much money by mending and making over the family's clothes that she can afford to splurge.

This, of course, is strictly woman's logic and few men can understand feminine methods of budget juggling.

Makeover tricks are among the most popular methods of stretching the household budget, and here are a few suggestions from local sewing center experts.

Men's shirts offer many possibilities. As a rule, the collar wears out long before the body of the shirt. After Dad has decided a shirt is ready for the rag bag, Mom can find many uses for it.

By trimming off the collar and tail and cutting the sleeves, she has the basis for a number of garments. The blouse, for instance, is in fashion now and requires only a casing and drawstring or elastic at the bottom of the shirt. Rickrack or bias tape may be applied around the sleeves and neckline for a trim finish.

By letting the shirt hang loose, with perhaps a little added decoration, she has a practical maternity blouse. By cutting a scoop neck and chopping the tail to hipbone length, she has a blouse to wear with skirts or slacks.

She can merely cut off the collar and shorten the sleeves of an old shirt, add lace or rickrack trimming down the front and at sleeves and neckline, and have a gay shorty nightgown.

By cutting the shirt apart entirely, she will have ample fabric for a child's sunsuit or smock.

Mom's own blouses often wear out first in the underarm area, but they can still be salvaged. The simplest trick is merely to cut out the blouse and have a blousee blouse. Or the collar and front yoke can be used for a sleeve to wear under an onenecked dress or sweater.

of February" by Hollis Summers; "Justice" Laurence Durrell; "In the Time of Greenhorns," Gabriel Garcia Marquez; "A Death in the Family," James Agee.

Perhaps abstractly the clearest example of what fiction may do in a scintilla of time is a novel wholly ascertainable or deniable facts, is in one of the market novels, "The Beggar in the Hat" by Leonid Solovov. The beggar Nasreddin is the free unconfined soul in a world of courts, red tape, merchants, politicians and statesmen. He is the poet as against the newsworthy folks and facts. He is to his world what the fiction writer is to ours. The jacket incidentally points the moral when it describes this work of imagination in terms borrowed straight from a fundamental 20th Century dilemma: "Tyranny is its villain; liberty its hero."

A dress is seldom completely worn out. Often the skirt may be cut off and teamed with a contrasting top to make a new outfit. With a waistband added, it becomes a separate skirt. In the case of a wool dress, a smart trick is to cut it apart to make a separate skirt and use scraps from the worn bodice to trim a sweater, making a handsome skirt-and-sweater costume.

If the skirt is worn and the bodice is good, a separate blouse or jerkin may be made. If the underarm area of a dress is worn, cut off the sleeves and have a jumper. If it is a cotton dress, she can cut out the sleeves, deepen the neckline and have a sun dress.

When all else fails, there almost always is enough good fabric left to make an apron.

When Dad's suits start getting too tight for him, Mom can have a field day making the trousers over into slacks and Bermuda shorts for herself or the girls of the family. There also is enough material in a pair of men's trousers to make a smart straight skirt.

As for the coat of the old suit, it may be made into such things as weskites or jenkins to wear with the matching slacks, shorts or skirt.

Truman's Neighbor Has Flower Hobby

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — A neighbor of former President Harry S. Truman — Mrs. W. H. Riche of Independence — knows the pleasure of letting her garden linger on.

By drying all sorts of plants, shrubs and trees Mrs. Riche has colorful winter table arrangements at low cost.

On her buffet, for example, are exotic-looking black, shiny leaves arranged around gold candles. These are just plain branches from her pear tree, soaked in a glycerine solution. They remain soft and pliable.

Here's Mrs. Riche's formula: Use 2 parts of glycerine — available at any drugstore — to one part water. Cross-split a pear stem up about one inch. Place enough glycerine solution in a jar to cover the cut. Soak two weeks.

Mrs. Riche adds magnolia pods sprayed with glitter or gold to the black leaves. The glycerine technique also works on flowering crab, hydrangeas and blue salvia.

Mrs. Riche treats plants another way — with a plastic spray — then hangs them in a dark place to dry. This is good for peony and Norway pod, chives, Jack-in-the-pulpit, green pine cones and lilac pods.

A third method is to use one part borax to about 12 parts sand. This powdered mixture is placed in a box about an inch beneath cornflowers, marigolds, zinnias and feverfew and then again on top.

The flowers dry in 10 days to two weeks. They don't shatter and nearly retain their original color. It's easy to have unique, beautiful and lasting decorations for the home. Just look around your garden, says Mrs. Riche.

JAIL DOORS OPENED FOR JEFFREY HUNTER

Jeffrey Hunter, who co-stars with Sherree North, Barry Sullivan and Walter Brennan in "The Way to the Gold," coming soon to the Star Theatre, was given a taste of real prison life for his role. Director Robert Webb enlisted the cooperation of Warden Frank Eymann of the Arizona State Prison in getting Hunter booked for a one-day sentence so he could play his part of a convict in the picture realistically.

Hunter was taken to the prison in a regular prison car, processed in at 7 a.m., given a regulation haircut and issued prison garb. He spent the balance of the day in normal "first day" activities and then was locked in his cell. At 7 p.m. Hunter was "relieved" and delivered outside the gates in the custody of Director Webb.

Hunter's fellow prisoners didn't know, and neither did the guards, that their new inmate was a movie actor. Warden Eymann, noted penologist, and Leo Hochstatter, captain of the guards, play themselves in the prison scenes.
