Nateena Girls Hold Meeting

Mrs. S. S. Williams, awards chairman of the Hereford Camp Fire Council, was on hand at the regular meeting of the Nateena group Thursday. She presented eight members of the group their requests for advancement to the rank of Trail Seeker.

To be eligible for the rank each girl had to have achieved at least one honor in the seven Camp Fire Crafts, plus some special group activities. Two of the members were unable to take their tests on Thursday and will appear before the awards committee at a later date.

The group is planning a ceremonial in February, at which time the girls will receive Camp Fire beads for their honors, along with the Trail Seeker insignia.

Receiving certificates from Mrs. Williams Thursday were Nancy Boyer, Ann Cunningham, Judy Crume, Cheryl Edmonson, Susan Stapp, Sharon Tinnin, Barbara Langley and Sharon Seay.

Bible Words for Today

2 CORINTHIANS 12:9 - "...but he said to me, 'my grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness.'" (RSV)

He was frightened, although he would never admit it. Young men, kneeling at the threshold of ordination, are usually frightened by the tremendous impact of the task ahead and a sudden feeling of inadequacy, striking their very hearts and leaving them weak and trembling. He was not different from the rest, as the bishop approached his kneeling form.

The bishop paused before him and took his shaking hand. Placing it upon an open Bible, the bishop said, "Take thou authority to read the Holy Scriptures in the Church of God, and to preach the Word."

With an unuttered prayer of despair in his heart, and a growing doubt that he could ever live up to the requirements of such authority, the young man's attention was suddenly focused upon the words his eyes had found upon the page of the open Book: "My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness." Despair gave way to hope, and the young minister arose to serve.... with God.

C of C Banquet Is Out of This World

A STUDY IN BLACK AND WHITE—Chamber of Commerce Manager W. M. Lenderman and Mrs. Lenderman present a happy last-minute scene before entering the banquet room as she arranged his boutonniere. Her striking costume is of black silk embroidered crepe. The new relaxed silhouette is noted in the coat with collar and cuffs in snow white. The dress is in sheath design. Her pill box hat and matching costume jewelry are in crystal cut black beads.

CHIVALRY—M. R. Latham, newly elected Chamber of Commerce president, gives a helping hand to his wife in removing her lovely pale blue nubby-silk coat as they prepare to enter the banquet room. She is wearing a black pure-silk faille sheath made with low rounded neckline and cap sleeves. Her feathered hat is also in pale blue and her bracelet and earrings are studded with blue stones in the same shade.

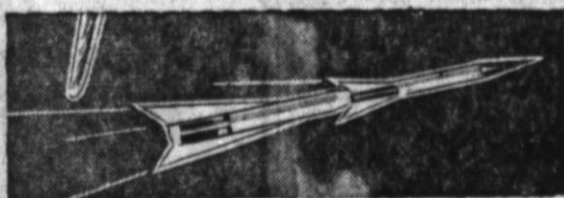

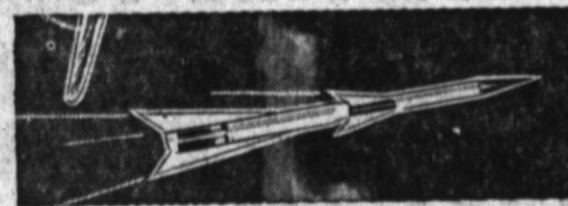

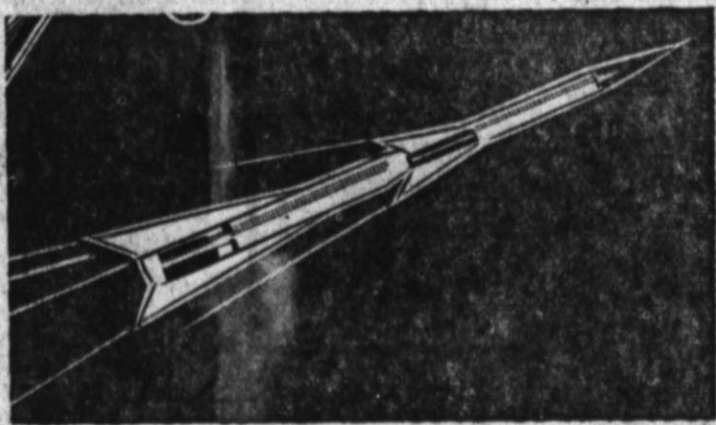

MAIN SPEAKER—Speaker for the occasion, Dr. Kenneth McFarland, educational consultant for General Motors, gets some expert assistance from pretty Kay Scott, one of the high school girls who assisted with the serving. She is wearing a shiny black jumper skirt with white blouse and silvery hat, which also accented the outer space theme of the future, suggested by the decorations.

Although the format never changes, the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet never remains static. This year's high point of the social season was outstanding, not only for its record in attendance or the personality of the distinguished speaker, but also for the out-of-this-world setting (done by the Bud To Blossom Club) and the smartly attired feminine portion of the 867 guests whose colorful and beautiful gowns echoed the banquet theme on a high note of fashion.

It was a time for rustling silks and satins, the soft sheen of velvet and luxurious furs, and the elegant loveliness of the newest in linen and cotton. The banquet itself is something of a wind-up for each year and the beginning of a new season. The program included the presentation of Mrs. Arger Draper, Deaf Smith County home demonstration agent, as the woman of the year by the Lions Club, new officers and directors were introduced and W. M. Lenderman, Chamber of Commerce manager, introduced the many guests from many states.

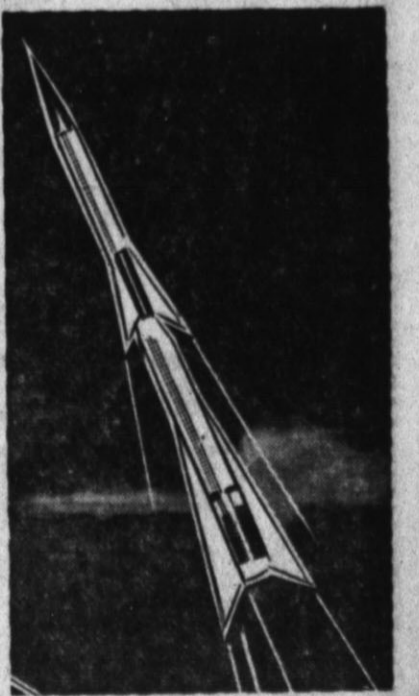

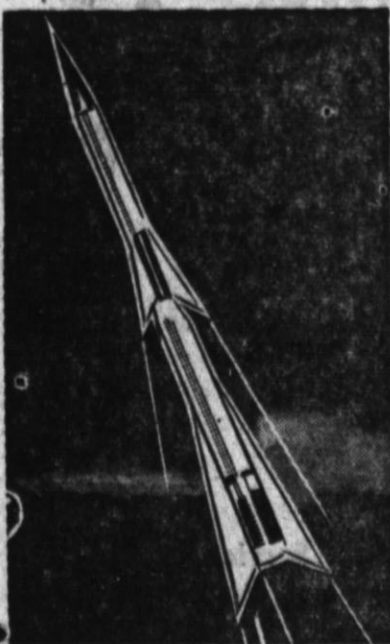

TWO SHADES OF RED—Reflecting the spring fashion picture in two shades of red, Mrs. A. T. Mims smiles at her husband as they head for the speaker's table. She is wearing the popular silk shirtwaist dress fashioned with tucked front and lace edging and full skirt in unpressed pleats, topped by a velvet coat in a darker shade. Her rhinestone jewelry complements the red tones of the costume. Dr. Mims, outgoing president, was master of ceremonies.

along one of the well-laden tables. And further on down the table an eager young fellow amuses Mrs. S. O. Wilson who chats across the table with the lady in the fur cape. (Staff Photos) name and which is the last. I am also sending a part of the directory which we have at the refinery. The part which I wish to point out as being peculiar is that with the three women listed, they are listed under the M's as Mrs. or Miss is the first thing mentioned by us poor misguided Americans.

I neglected to mention when I was telling of the weather, that this is also the season for leaking roofs and falling ceilings. A flat roof is the only kind built here and although they have been building them in this manner for several thousand years, they have very few that do not leak or seep. The damp walls and ceilings that result along with the inadequate heating and cool damp weather made the houses uncomfortable with normal western clothing. This is a good country for long underwear and sweaters and coats. I suppose that is the reason the English do so well here as they want to wear coats at all informal gatherings. As the houses are not well constructed there is much falling of plaster and peeling of paint, and cracking of walls.

The other night we had almost three inches of rain. This was more than had ever fallen since the refinery had been built and it downed out the pumping station from the river. The refinery had to operate on its storage and the lube plant had to be stopped and all other operation slowed down to conserve water. With a small rain like that being a tragedy it is easy to see how Noahs flood got so much recognition.

I am afraid that too much of the time my letters sound as though I am belittling the people, their customs and ways of doing things. I want all of you to know that I do not want to be unkind or ungrateful for my experiences here. Things are so different and strange and standards of excellence and ideals are on a different plane from those of the West. It is difficult to describe with a detached attitude.

In the States, all men appreciate the improvements made in a beauty parlor but all men have jokes about that industry. Over here I was rather surprised at the odor that came from Margaret after she had her hair set. She came home smelling of beer. As there is no respectable place for a woman to drink beer in public it was exceedingly strange. It seems that stale beer is used here as a dope to set hair. Today Margaret came in smelling again but now it is old stuff. I did not even raise an eyebrow. She was not a bit apologetic or offered no explanations. This is a different world. We do things differently here.

Another of the things that is done differently is the matter of lighting the runways at the airport. Most of the world uses electric lights. Here kerosene flares are used. It takes considerable time and labor to set out enough flares of light over a mile of runway on both sides but labor is cheap and time is plentiful here. Pan American Airways would not land here because of the lighting but they changed their standards and decided to do things differently in Baghdad so now we have another major airline doing business here.

In the States we think we have a corner on the turnip business in Lil Abner's Dogpatch. Turnips are considered quite a delicacy here and there are many stands on the streets that sell boiled turnips. There are also portable vendors that push a pot of boiling water down the street and will boil a few turnips for anyone who will have the courage to buy. They boil the things until they are a color between a gray and a tan. I do not know whether this color is caused by extended cooking or from the water dipped from the irrigation ditches. Turnips are also used for making pickles. I tried some of these and they are rather good. They seem to be made by the same process as is used to make cucumber pickles with vinegar salt and spices. They like them to have a red color so they pickle a beet or two along with them.

Although this country is making progress at becoming industrialized, a big effort is made to use as much labor as possible. Because of this we see many strange sights. During the past few weeks work has been done in burying some fuel tanks for the engine lab that I am trying to put into operation. A gang of men dig the dirt out of the hole, then it is picked up with a bucket on a crane and loaded into trucks. After several weeks of this foolishness the job was so far behind schedule that it was finished in one morning with the use of the machine.

A bulldozer has been operating on another project. It pushes the dirt almost to the place where it is to be used. Then a crew of men with shovels and wheelbarrows pick it up and haul it the last fifteen yards. This is strange to us but we could get used to it if some labor leader promoted the practice to put people to work. On this kind of job the men work here about as they did on WPA jobs during the depression.

We are expecting a period of nice weather soon when the roads are dry and it is still not too hot. The American Association today sent out information on the tours and expeditions that are planned.

We plan on taking the one planned for next week. I am hoping these give me some more interesting things to see.

We are continuing to get Christmas greetings which we appreciate. It is not legal but we get a few which were mailed with a 3 cent stamp. Some come with 5 cents due but a surprising number do get here. As a hint for more letters I will state that ocean mail is 8 cents and air mail is 25 cents per one-half ounce.

George

(EDITOR'S NOTE: George Heard of Hereford is still working for the Iraq Government Oil Refinery in Baghdad. This time he complains of the weather and sent along a page from the Baghdad phone book to prove that people are listed first name first.)

Dear Folks,
The weather here has not been very pleasant lately. I came over here with the mistaken idea that this country was very much like Arizona or the desert of California or any of our hot dry western country. It seems to have more than its share of miserable weather. It is almost as bad as Chicago.

The rainfall here is reported at about 8 to 12 inches per year. There is no rain from the last of April through October so we get the rain in the winter. It never rains very much at a time so we get a little almost every week. The soil here is not porous therefore the water stands on the surface almost continually. This makes us have cool damp foggy weather most of the time. These people here are very much like those of California, they think they have good warm weather so they do not build adequate heating into the houses and we have to wear as many clothes inside as outside. It has been as cold as 26 degrees. But most of the time it drops to 35 to 40 in the mornings and rises to 50 to 70 degrees during the day. These temperatures would be pleasant with Texas Panhandle sunshine but with Baghdad fog and dreary days it is not pleasant.

Now that the streets are muddy (that is the unpaved streets) it is a time for paving. After a street is well soaked and full of ruts and holes, the citizens get tired of getting stuck in the automobiles and start paving. This is done by having a truck load of bricks dumped in the street and the brick laying begins from there. This is the only place that I have ever seen the ruts and holes paved. It seems that it has not occurred to these people to do the paving in dry weather when the road can be smoothed by a grader. They really do have a few graders here. Their reasoning is that during six months of the summer the ground is dry and therefore needs no grading. When the street gets wet and impassable it needs paving and besides the bricks stick to the ground better in the mud than they do when the ground is dry and smooth. After a section is paved by the first truck load of bricks another load is brought out over this new paving and dumped in the mud and a new stretch of paving is put in.

Sometimes things are not timed right and two loads come at the same time. This causes them to pave around one load and the road does not turn out to be very straight. Also there are times that someone is building a house and has bricks and other building material stacked in the street. This causes a detour also in the roadway. When things dry up the road is a bit rough but this is good as it slows down traffic and contributes to safety in the streets. I am not informed as yet as to what happens when a better paving job is going to be done on these streets that are already messed up. There are many nice streets in Baghdad along with these that are not paved or paved by the method just described.

I received a letter from Roy Clark, a former employe of The Hereford Brand, in which he doubted the truth of my statements about the Baghdad telephone directory listing the names with the first names listed first. This is a statement which I believe to be true to my best knowledge. To prove this point I am sending him a page which I have torn from a directory. It can be seen that with Arabic names this is true. That is if you can tell which is a first

Warn Stockmen of Moldy Grain Feed

COLLEGE STATION — Many areas of Texas received heavy rains during the harvest season last fall. As a result, there is increased danger of mold in feed grains with possible serious illness or death of livestock, warns C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian.

While all moldy feed is not necessarily poisonous, Patterson says that farmers will be wise to determine whether they can safely give such feed to their animals. He suggests testing questionable grain for about two weeks by giving it to one or two test animals of low value.

Signs of mold intoxication in cattle include depression, loss of appetite, staggers, and pale mucous membranes, points out the veterinarian. Signs in swine include depression, stiff gait, poor appetite, loss of weight, and a stance with head lowered, back arched, and flanks tucked up.

Animals should be removed from a field where there is moldy feed as soon as any symptoms are noticed, advises Patterson. A veterinarian should be called immediately because some symptoms of mold intoxication are similar to those of other diseases.

Anything that can be done to keep livestock away from grain or forage which has been on the ground too long and has not been proved safe to use will pay dividends in animal health, for this is a condition which does exist, continues Patterson. There have already been some cases of it and if farmers do not take the proper precautions, there may be more.

Dimmitt Seniors Schedule Play

The annual Dimmitt High School senior class play, Mister Angel, a comedy in three acts will be presented Feb. 6 and 7 in the high school auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

The story is about Item, a small girl angel who has been waiting 10 years to be born to Stacy and Lydia Bolton, a famous Broadway actress-producer team. Heaven

Charles arrives only to find that Item will not return to Heaven with him; so he decides to appear in the Bolton's home as Slim, a Texas cowboy from the Flyin' Angel Ranch at Austin.

From the moment Slim arrives there is one hilarious event after another, until Stacy does some investigating into Slim's background and finds there is no money, no ranch and that he is unknown in Texas. Two policemen appear to take Slim to headquarters, but he laughs and tells them he is an angel and will politely disappear. He is all set to do so, but his heavenly powers are gone.

Item intercedes for him and he does disappear in a flash of lightning. Stacy and Lydia realize at last that they do want a child. Item will finally be born to the parents she has so long wanted and Charles goes back to Heaven, mission completed.

Bufs Schedule Virginia Tech

CANYON (Special) — West Texas State has taken another step toward securing a major football schedule by signing a home-and-home pact with Virginia Tech of the Southern Conference.

The Buffs, runners-up in the Border Conference last fall, will open the 1958 season against the Goblbers on a neutral field at Roanoke, Va., Sept. 20. Tentative date for the return engagement in Canyon is Nov. 7, 1959, opening season of West Texas State's new 20,000-seat stadium.

The two schools have not met previously in any sport and the trip to Roanoke next fall will be West Texas' first football visit to the eastern states. The Buffs made their first trip east of the Mississippi River Jan. 1, 1957, when they beat Mississippi Southern, 29-13, in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.

Virginia Tech compiled a 4-6 record last fall, losing a 9-7 decision to Southern Conference champion VMI in the season finale. Coach Frank Moroy's squad scored wins over Tulane, Wake Forest, Villanova, Wake Forest, and dropped decisions to West Virginia, William & Mary, Virginia, Florida State, North Carolina State and VMI.

The Buffaloes registered a 7-3 record and finished second to undefeated, nationally-ranked Arizona State in Border Conference action.

VIRGINIA TECH, a technical school located at Blacksburg, Va., and with an enrollment of 4100 men and 70 women, is the sixth major opponent of nine games athletic director Frank Kimbrough has scheduled for 1958. Other major teams carded are Texas Tech of the Southwest Conference and Arizona State, Arizona, Hardin-Simmons and Texas Western of the Border Conference. A 10th game may be added.

The return of Virginia Tech in 1959 will give the Buffs a handsome five-game home schedule for the first season in the new stadium on Canyon Hill. Also scheduled to play here are University of Arizona, Drake University, Mississippi Southern and Hardin-Simmons. Incomplete West Texas State football schedules for the next two seasons:

- 1958
- Sept. 20 — Virginia Tech at Roanoke, Va.
 - 27 — Texas Tech at Lubbock
 - Oct. 4 — Arizona State at Tempe
 - 11 — Texas Western at Canyon
 - 18 — Trinity at Canyon
 - 25 — Mississippi Southern at Hattiesburg
 - Nov. 1 — Arizona at Tucson
 - 8 — open
 - 15 — Hardin-Simmons at Abilene
 - 22 — New Mexico A&M at Canyon
 - 1959
 - Sept. 19 — Arizona State at Tempe
 - 26 — Arizona at Canyon (open new stadium)
 - Oct. 3 — open
 - 10 — Texas Western at El Paso
 - 17 — Mississippi Southern at Canyon
 - 24 — Hardin-Simmons at Canyon
 - 31 — Drake at Canyon
 - Nov. 7 — Virginia Tech at Canyon
 - 14 — open
 - 21 — New Mexico A&M at Las Cruces

OPEN HOUSE SUCCESS

Some 2,500 folks came through our new building during the three day open house. They went from the crossbar machine that reports itself when it's having trouble, to the long distance board where they heard the weather report from New York. They drank 170 gallons of punch and ate 125 boxes of cookies. It sure made us feel good to have so many of our neighbors drop in.

The official open house is over, but we're still mighty proud of our new equipment. If you missed getting by the other day, we'll be very happy to show it off when you have time.

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S COMMENTS

We had the opportunity to show off our new building to 1,300 school children—boy!

I had just finished a fluent explanation of long distance testing when one of them asked me, "Would you relate that to Ohms law and give examples?" Another wanted to know the metallurgical composition of the line link lugs. At the end of that day it would have been hard for me to believe that Russian schools are ahead of us in stimulating scientific interest.

The second and third graders sent us letters after their visit. One young man wrote "... enjoyed fane works. Liked hearing Noo York. Cookys were good. Likked brown ones with nuts best."

BACKWAR GLANCE

Once again, we've turned the corner from an old year into a new one.

Before old man 1957 disappears completely from sight, let's take one last look at him. His was a year of continued telephone activity in Hereford and other nearby communities we serve. For that, he at least deserves a tip of the hat from us.

Here, in brief, is his telephone record:

1. Total telephones now in service in Hereford 3,212
2. Average number of local calls a day 19,450
3. Average number of Long Distance calls a day 1,100

To sum it up, folks in Hereford depended on their telephones to do many jobs for them in 1957 and we plan this year to continue offering the kind of service that telephone users here have come to depend on.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

Discipline Is Studied by Les Meres Study Club

Mrs. Ervin Robinson and Mrs. T. E. Brisendine were cohostesses at the Robinson home to members of Les Meres Study Club Tuesday night.

A short business session was held when members planned the annual husbands party to be held at the Camp Fire Hut on Feb. 4.

A two-part program was presented dealing with "Disciplining Children," Mrs. Charles Packard discussed "What Makes Children Misbehave?" reviewing a recent article in McCall's Magazine by Fritz Redl, advocating more use of common sense and less psychology in dealing with children. "Trying to find the psychological answer every time causes confusion in both children and parents," she quoted.

Mrs. Eugene Noel continued the discussion by giving suggestions for child discipline and pointed out that inconsistency in the control of children often leads to unhappiness. "All children misbehave if they are normal and parents should deal with each instance as it occurs without searching for the special reason for the misbehavior," she said.

Attending the meeting were Mesdames Doe Carter, Dick Gholsen, Glenn Gripp, E. D. Hopson, J. E. McCathern, Eugene Noel, George Olson, Charles Packard, Larry Summers, Glenn Watts, Delmo Williams, Alvin Smith and the hostesses.
