Bank Building Metal Workers Go On Strike

Sheet metal workers working on construction of the First National Bank at 3rd and Main struck for higher wages when the contract under which they were working expired at midnight Wednesday.

Johnny Price, construction foreman for the M. B. Allen Construction Co. of Amarillo, said Friday the portion of work left to be done by the union workers would not hamper present construction, as the other laborers could work around the unfinished parts.

Continuing, Price stated "An agreement will probably be reached before we absolutely need the steel work completed, and we shouldn't be held up because of the strike."

NO PICKETS had been thrown up around the area by noon yesterday.

Price said the workers were striking for a 47½ cent wage hourly increase, including travel time from Amarillo. The union and company officials have met twice, and each time the price was increased by the union, according to foreman Price. He said the company offered 12½ cents more the first night, but union was asking 15 cents.

There is a one-year residence requirement and applicants must be a bona fide use of the local post office. Applicants must be between 18 and 70 years of age.

The vacancy in Hereford was created when Jim Lipscomb resigned on Feb. 28 after 20½ years of service. Mrs. Curtis Traveek has been acting postmaster.

Application blanks are available at the post office.

Monday Deadline For Net Tourney

So far 16 entries, including some from out-of-town, have been received. Play will begin at 8 a. m. Friday.

Commission Will Open Pavement Sealcoating Bids

One of the main undertakings by the city commission tomorrow evening will be the opening of bids for sealcoating some 60,000 square yards of street pavement within the city limits which have been damaged heavily during the wetness of winter precipitation.

The bids will cover the major part of an estimated 95,000 square yards slated for sealcoating, which was figured in on the $100,000 bond issue passed by citizens' vote April 1, and was estimated to cost $17,000.

Commissioners Thursday afternoon sold the entire amount of bonds to Hamilton Securities of Dallas, at a surprisingly low interest rate of 2.50 per cent, payable in 10 years.

Also on the agenda concerning money raised by the sale of bonds will be quotations from various companies on concrete valley gutters for some 20 intersections in the city.

INCLUDED IN the concrete work quotations will be the improvement of drainage ditches in the different parts of the city where water run-off problems have become acute.

Some $10,000 was the estimated cost by the commission of concreting the 20 intersections and for the alteration of faulty guttering.

All Incumbents Will Run for Re-election

With filing deadline set for tomorrow afternoon, only two offices in the county are contested for the July 20th Democratic Primary, according to County Democratic Chairman L. H. Woodford.

Four candidates are in the race for Commissioner of Precinct Two. Running against incumbent Otto Massie are J. C. Morrison, Guy W. Newsom and Lee R. Conklin.

D. H. "Dave" Alexander, incumbent County Tax Assessor-Collector, is faced with race against Ben Conklin for that post.

All other offices have only one candidate, and all are incumbents.

Lucille Posey has filed for District Clerk, Velma Hodges for County Treasurer, Ralph Smith for County Clerk, Charles A. Skelton for County Sheriff, Donald Hicks for Commissioner of Precinct Four, C. B. "Berry" Miles for Justice of the Peace, Homer E. Henslee for County Judge and A. J. "Major" Schroeter for County Surveyor.

Chairman Woodford is also the only candidate for his present office.

APPLICATIONS for filing may be obtained at the County Clerk's office, and must be filed with Woodford who lives at 216 Star St.

Other elections which will concern local residents are the offices of Representative of the 96th Legislative District and State Senator Jesse M. Osborn, incumbent from Muleshoe, is the only candidate for Representative.

Senator Andy Rogers has running against him Karl L. Lovelady.

Around Town

The first Monday of the month is here again tomorrow, and that means, of course, DOLLAR DAY IN HEREFORD!

Dollar Day is the one day each month when you can't walk into a store without finding something you or your family needs badly, and at a bargain you can afford.

One interesting merchant is even starting off his "You Shoe-d Buy Now Week" tomorrow.

April was a busy month for building permits, according to Henry Benson at the City Hall. He reports $57,500 in building permits were issued last month, mostly for residents.

THE POST OFFICE also had a busy month. Receipts for the past month were reported at $5,794.42, which is a $255 increase over the same month last year, and $448

Credit Union Is Nation's Largest

The Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union this week became the largest organization of its type in the United States. It replaces the Sterling, Colo., credit union as the leader in both assets and membership.

Mrs. Dyalthis Benson, treasurer-manager of the local group, said it is one of about 600 community-type federally chartered credit unions in the nation.

At present the local credit union has $1,356,810 in assets and 2,867 members. Sterling, Colo., lists $1,293,000 in assets and 2,455 members.

Since 1953 the Hereford organization had been second to Sterling. Five years ago the local union had $225,000 in assets and 1,176 members. Since 1953 it has loaned $5,875,000 to its members. In 1953 the Colorado union was 2½ times the size of Hereford's union.

Mrs. Benson said, "We weren't trying to become the largest, but we were trying to become the best."

Shriners Discuss Clinic, Hospital

In a called meeting at the Hotel Jim Hill Friday night, the Oasis Shrine Club discussed its free medical clinic for handicapped children and its plans to get a Shrine hospital for crippled children located in Hereford.

The club voted to accept all handicapped children in the immediate area for the clinic scheduled here May 17. Children 18 years and younger from Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Randall and Swisher counties will be examined. Diagnoses and recommendations for treatment will be made.

Dr. L. B. Barnett, club president, told the members that 200 children can be handled at the clinic this year. Last year 131 children were examined, and 30 of those are now receiving treatment. Twenty doctors, including out-of-town specialists, will examine children in general physicals, dental, orthopedic surgery, neuro-surgery, plastic surgery, ear, nose and throat, eye, speech therapy, cardiology and oral surgery.

Services Held for Mrs. Wolfington

Funeral services for Mrs. Leola Bell Wolfington, 73, of 418 Knight, were held Friday afternoon in Rose Chapel of Gilliland Funeral Home.

The Rev. A. C. Hamilton, pastor of Avenue Baptist Church, and the Rev. Howard Scott, First Baptist Church pastor, officiated.

Lee Conklin In Commissioner Race, Precinct 2

Lee R. Conklin this week authorized The Brand to announce his candidacy for the office of Commissioner, Precinct 2, subject to action of the Democratic primary in July.

Mr. Conklin came to this country with his parents in 1906, and has spent most of his life in the Hereford area. He has been engaged in the real estate business in recent years. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church and has been a member of the I. O. O. F. since 1927.

"I feel like most of the people already know me and my qualifications," said Conklin, "and I plan to visit every voter in the precinct

Youth Is Injured At Scout Field Day

Jeff Kirby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doc Kirby, 107 Ave. H, was seriously injured Sunday afternoon at the Don Herrington Boy Scout camp when a hatchet head flew off its handle, striking young Kirby on the ankle severing the heel cord.

The boy's physician said yesterday morning he would "be all right" however.

A member of Troop 51, Jeff joined in scouting only two months ago. He is an 8th grade student at Stanton Junior High and is 13 years of age.

JEFF SAID he had started to supper when the accident occurred. He said another local scout, Larry Hair, was finishing chopping wood and was about to stick the hatchet in a log when the head flew off.

He was rushed to camp headquarters for emergency treatment, then to Nebbett Hospital in Canyon, and on to Deaf Smith County Hospital by station wagon.

After release from the local hospital Monday, he started back to school, via crutches and wheel chair, Thursday.

"I only have two classes on the second floor," Jeff said, "so it doesn't bother me much."

His foot must be kept in a cast until the wired cord is healed. The cast is removed every few days to limber the ankle joint so it will heal properly.

Driving Violation Nets Bootlegger

George J. Haas, 63, of the Greentop Trailer Courts pleaded guilty to transporting liquor in a dry area and was fined $200 and costs by County Judge Homer Henslee Friday afternoon.

Haas was arrested at 2:35 p. m. by city police when he cut through a funeral procession the police were escorting.

After citing Haas for the traffic violation, police searched his car and found five pints of whiskey and two pints of vodka and filed the bootlegging charge.

FREAK MISHAP—Guy Cornelius Jr., 421 Ave. K, escaped electrocution Friday afternoon when the 30-foot boom of his winch truck caught on the electric high-wires in front of the Kenny Gear Machine Works on E. Highway 60. The truck was flipped on its side when the boom hit the wires. Cornelius, who works for Gear, was not injured. The truck is being righted in the picture. (Staff Photo)

Coffee Break? Job? It's All the Same!

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Life is just one long coffee break for a group of workers here, but the boss doesn't mind. They're not loafing over their coffee cups — they're coffee tasters.

While anybody can drink it, it takes a real talent to test it. Lloyd Cummings, chief taster for a company here, says recruiting tasters is a matter of trial. "We can ask a man if he wants to try. Then it takes a long time just to find out if he's going to be able to do it."

It takes at least two years, Cummings said, before a taster feels confident enough in his own judgment to attempt to classify a coffee.

The job is made harder because the tasters have to master a private language necessary to describe the subtle differences in plantation lots. Regular English doesn't provide enough variations.

Testers "cup" every lot of coffee coming into the building just before it goes into the blend of various types that make up the final product. They also spot check the production line. Coffee is "cupped" by steeping a half a tumbler of ground coffee in boiling water for three minutes. This goes into cups on the rim of a giant lazy susan. The tasters use spoons to sample each cupped coffee, taking a mouthful with a noisy gush of air to spray the liquid over taste buds. Then they spit it out in a king-sized spittoon. Swallowing would temporarily hurt the efficiency of their taste buds.

The test is complete when all agree on classification of each cup.

PROOF ENOUGH

LEBANON, Ky. (AP) — The screened-in back seat of the city's police cruiser must be escape proof. Patrolman James Violette and Dorsey Shouse, owner of a machine shop, climbed into the cage and made several adjustments — and discovered they were trapped. There was no way to remove the screen from the rear and the back doors had no inside handles. A passer-by finally heard their shouts and released them.

Women Writers Tops in Japan

TOKYO, (AP) — Japanese women have flooded the dominant male in the field of literature this year.

The surprising announcement that more women than men had won in the Emperor's annual poetry contest was only the latest in a series of masculine defeats.

The year's best-selling novel was written by Mrs. Yasuko Harada, 29. She was an unknown housewife a year before.

The nation's biggest detective story prize went to Miss Etsuko Niki, 29, bed-ridden with polio throughout her life. She has never attended school.

The National Academy prize for the best essayist was won by Mrs. Aya Koda, 53, who until a few years ago had not written anything for publication.

The newspaper Yomiuri, one of Japan's biggest dailies, editorially declared: "The ladies' renaissance has started in Japan."

Shukan Asahi, Japan's biggest weekly magazine, said, "The Heian period has been revived!"

Lady Murasaki, a high ranking noblewoman of that period, wrote the immortal "Tale of Genji," the world's first full length novel, about a Japanese Don Juan and his Seisho, another aristocrat, wrote "Makura-No-Shoshi," a collection of exquisite essays. Both ladies also composed many glittering poems.

It is still questionable whether the 20th Century feminine counterparts can be compared to such greats. But they have stunned and humbled thousands of their contemporary male aspirants just as effectively.

Japanese educators and sociologists are still scratching their heads over the upsurge of feminine genius this year. They say the allied occupation's "liberation" of Japanese women, giving them equal social status with the men, may have had something to do with it.

Cancer Drive Fund is Short

The Deaf Smith County Cancer Society's 1958 fund drive is approximately $300 short of its $1,500 goal, according to Mark Woodall, chairman.

Woodall said contributions totaled $1,600 Friday. The drive began April 20 and ended April 25. "Some late contributions could push us over the goal," Woodall said. Woodall asked anyone having contribution envelopes to call the phone number on the back of the envelope and the money will be picked up.

"Anyone who was overlooked and wishes to make a contribution could call me or Mrs. Ronald Babione," Woodall added. The two local Beta Sigma Phi chapters assisted in the campaign, passing out literature and envelopes.

Student Transfer Deadline June 1

Transfer of children from one school district to another must be done by June 1, according to County Judge Homer Henslee.

"An application requesting such a transfer for the 1958-59 school year must be filed with the county superintendent by the parent of the child before June 1," Henslee said. "These applications are made out in the county superintendent's office, at the request of the parent, and after being approved by the superintendent, are subject to protest by the school districts involved," he added.

Henslee said that if a transfer is protested it must be approved or cancelled by the school board. The transfer is good for only one year and must be renewed every year, the judge said.

KOVACS ON BROADWAY?

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Kovacs, cigar-chewing showman of television, may turn his attention next to the legitimate theater. The show which has been offered him to direct is strictly in line with his off-beat approach to humor.

Entitled "Solomon Grundy," it is a musical comedy about a scientist who builds a machine that supposedly will create a human being who will live only seven days.

Record - Makers Hurl Albums Into New 'South Pacific' War

By HUGH MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In the music business, there's nothing like a revival to start a chain reaction of revivals in every direction. Since the movie version of "South Pacific" was splashed across a wide, wide screen early this month, all sorts of musical islands have been popping up in the serene waters charted by Rodgers and Hammerstein.

First, RCA Victor's album of the movie sound track, starring Mitzi Gaynor and basso Giorgio Tozzi, drifted toward the top of the best seller list. Not to be outdone, Columbia counter-attacked with a full scale publicity campaign in behalf of its seven-year-old original cast album of the play, with Mary Martin and the late Ezio Pinza. Capitol joined the fray by rushing Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians to the Pacific theater to establish a lush choral and orchestral beach-head.

Now the battle was joined in earnest. Liberate reached for his trusty candelabra and plunked out the score on another Columbia album and mood master Percy Faith provided an instrumental version for the same firm.

From that point on, the war became one of limited objectives. Columbia backed up its play version by issuing a special "Tribute to Pinza" album. Seemingly stung, RCA leaped to Tozzi's defense by way of an album called "Presenting Tozzi" and another that featured the Chicago-born basso in selections from "Desert Song," the latter showing him to better advantage than the "South Pacific" album.

The same type of all embracing competition seems to revolve around "Gigi," a new Hollywood musical that has yet to be released on the screen but already is on the music market with a half-dozen albums. The chief reason for the stir over "Gigi," a musical version of Colette's subtle novelette, is that the score is by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe of "My Fair Lady" fame. Their songs are pleasant and tuneful but hardly rival the talent they showed in "My Fair Lady."

MGM, which made the movie, took no chance on getting crowded out in the record field. Its musical subsidiary, MGM Records, issued three albums in advance of the movie premiere. They included the original sound track, with Leslie Caron, Maurice Chevalier and Louis Jourdan; an instrumental version by David Rose and his orchestra and a swing album of Gigi by the Dick Hyman trio. RCA Victor countered with a singing edition of "Gigi" by Tony Martin and Gogi Grant and a "Gigi in Jazz" by Shorty Rogers. Columbia, meanwhile, rushed out its "Dancing With Gigi," captivantly played by Ray Ellis and his orchestra. Similarly, there are now swing-ling, jazz and dance versions of "The Music Man" and "Oh, Captain!" by several major companies.

British Tourists Taking Aim at U. S.

LONDON (AP) — The first British tourist wave in 19 years is heading across the Atlantic this summer.

Britons carrying the tourist's standard equipment of guidebook and camera are going to see for themselves whether Americans at home bear much resemblance to the figures they see on their movie and television screens. Some look forward to treading with wonder the ground where covered wagons once rolled, others simply to gawking at skyscrapers.

All are going to satisfy a long frustrated curiosity to see the most talked about country in the world today.

Since 1939, Britons have not been allowed to spend any of their money for travel to dollar areas except for strictly business purposes. The rule was imposed at the start of World War II to conserve Britain's strained currency reserves, and relaxed only last year. The relaxation came suddenly, in June, too late for most people to take advantage of it. Vacations are planned early and carefully here.

Now travel agents rushing out "Come to America" folders are handling a flood of inquiries, and they estimate that around 20,000 British vacationers will go over this summer.

Many British and U. S. officials have said they are happy at the prospect of ordinary Britons on vacation rubber necking around American cities and scenic spots.

They feel that if more and more ordinary citizens of the two countries meet face to face, divisive elements will have difficulty maintaining the hostile British image of the American as blustering, belligerent, money-mad and irresponsible; and the prejudiced American picture of the Briton as lazy, shabbygenteel, humorless and hypocritical.

The visitors Americans can expect this summer will be people like Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, who together run a radio and TV store in Gillingham, east of London, and who have booked passage for America in July.

"It's been a lifetime ambition of ours, to see America," says Baker.

"We haven't had a holiday of more than a week in 20 years. We've worked hard and brought up two children. This holiday is one of the things we've been working for."

"And I've got a brother in Canada I'll be seeing for the first time since 1918."

And people like Mrs. June Smith, a pleasant, fortyish, war widowed schoolteacher, who began traveling around Europe in the summer-time to fight off loneliness, and kept it up as a hobby.

"America's a chance to travel in a new direction," she enthused recently.

"I've seen Americans on those American TV serials, and I've heard Americans talk about America. Like most people here, I want to know what it's really like. Whether everything really is bigger and better than anywhere else."

Englishmen want to see the

ON THE HOUSE

By JOHN O.B. WALLACE

AP Newsfeatures

KNOTTY PINE paneling is a flexible decorative product. It has many faces and finishes. It can be modern or traditional, and it can run the gamut of colors.

A number of new finishes and effects now make it suitable for many types of interior decoration in nearly all rooms of a house.

Two factors are important for best results. The desired effect should be considered beforehand, and the features of the room in which paneling is to be installed should be studied.

Experiment with colors on a piece of waste wood before starting a paneling job. Each piece of paneling should be colored prior to its installation on the wall. This eliminates streaks left by running paint and avoids raw corners or edges where brushes will not reach after the paneling is in place.

Also store the wood on the site for about 10 days, separating each board with sticks, to allow air to circulate freely around each piece of paneling. This permits the lumber to adjust to the atmospheric conditions of the room.

IMPORTANT TO the final finish is sanding. Each piece should be sanded carefully to remove all superficial marks, dirt and rough spots before color is applied.

Care in finishing at each step will pay dividends in the beauty and durability of the job.

If a room does not have good natural illumination, lighter woods should be used. For well lighted rooms, darker woods may be used. Lighter woods in the western pine group include ponderosa pine, Idaho white pine and sugar pine.

Other light woods include white fir, lodgepole pine and Englemann spruce. Rich, darker effects can be achieved with inland red cedar, incense cedar or larch.

In experimenting with waste wood, allow the stain or paint to dry. Then look at it in the light it will receive when the paneling is in place. Keep one thing in mind — when the room is paneled, the finish will appear slightly darker.

The paint or stain to be used should be brushed liberally right onto the wood, using long strokes with the grain. Then, with a soft cloth, wipe it off. The length of time the pigment remains on the wood before wiping will determine the depth of color.

To enrich the effect of knots, some expert wood finishers prefer to buff the knots lightly with steel wool after wiping off the paint or stain.

ANOTHER TRICK used by experts is to dust powdered color over the natural tiny pockets found around knots. Gold or aluminum dust will highlight the varied shapes of knots. Bright reds and blues, dusted in deftly but lightly, also will accent knots. Actual dabs of paint also may be applied but they should be wiped off quickly.

Use of more than one color permits alternate methods of application. Harmonious colors may be applied in alternate vertical strokes, wiping down the grain while it is still wet. The wipe-down action blends the edges of the colors, resulting in ripples of alternating colors in a pleasant gradation.

Two colors, one on top of another, also may be used. For a driftwood finish, each piece is coated first with a dull green stain which is wiped off evenly at once. After it has dried, the paneling is painted with a neutral gray, and the gray is wiped off more thoroughly at the edges than in the center.

An uneven gradation is achieved. The green shows through more at the edges than in the center. Because the grain is visible, the paneling has the appearance of mossy driftwood.

Other color recipes include mixing equal parts of chrome green and chrome yellow in oil with a mineral spirits thinner. Brush the mixture on the wood, then wipe it off. After the desired color is obtained, let the paneling dry thoroughly. Then finish it as desired, with clear varnish, shellac, lacquer or wax.

FITTING GIFT

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP) — Charlie Ray, retiring after 39 years as a porter and baggageman, was given a party by fellow workers.

All recalled that he always was cheerful while carrying luggage and boxes for train passengers. Then they presented him with a couple of gifts — big, shiny, new suitcases.

Another factor is the expense of the trip. Most British couples who take a vacation in America will have to spend about $1,400 on it. This is the average British wage-earner's salary for 10 months — a big chunk of money to spend for recreation.

Every Child Must Know He Is Loved

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

The other day I was having lunch in a small restaurant. In the booth opposite was a young mother and her two children, a little girl about 18 months old and a little boy about three. I was struck by the difference in the way this mother treated her two children. I am sure it was quite unconscious on her part. The little girl, it seemed, could do no wrong, but the little boy could do no right.

"Don't bite that straw, Billy. I won't let you have any more if you can't suck it properly. You know how to do it."

The straw of Billy's milkshake got flatter and flatter. Mother angrily grabbed the glass from him and put it on the table. Billy didn't put up any fuss, he turned his attention to his hamburger.

Mother had an arm around the little girl. "Another bite, Lisa, darling," the mother cooed. Lisa turned her head, opened her mouth for the bite, but her little chubby hands dove into the mashed potatoes on her plate.

"All right, sweetie, have it that way if you like." And mother beamed approval.

Meanwhile Billy was busy. Mother turned to him and her whole manner changed.

"Billy," she yelled, "put that pepper down, you know you're not allowed to have pepper."

Billy went right on peppering his hamburger. Mother pulled her arm away from Lisa knocking over a glass of milk, flounced toward Billy and said angrily:

"Why can't you ever behave — can't you see I'm busy with Lisa?"

Billy sat back on the bench, put his thumb in his mouth and sulked. And so it went from beaming approval of Lisa to angry condemnation of poor little Billy. Not only the words but the tone of voice and the facial expression changed completely as this mother paid attention first to one child and then to the other.

What did the children get out of this attitude on the part of their mother? It is really pretty obvious. Billy felt rejected and unloved. Nothing he did was any good. He was much too young to put it into words but he wasn't too young to feel. He was anxious about his place in the world, he was afraid and lonesome.

To a little child the most important thing in life is to feel secure with his parents, to feel that he is loved just the way he is. This doesn't mean he'll have a smug self-confidence and want always to stay as he is. Quite the contrary he has an inner push that makes him want to grow and develop and change, but he also needs the deep down security of knowing that in the eyes and heart of his protecting parents he's a pretty good guy. That feeling gives him the confidence to try new things and to grow up normally.

In Billy's anxious state all he wanted to do was revert to the babyish behavior of sucking his thumb.

And how about Lisa? She was too young to be much concerned about her mother's attitude toward her brother. But it won't be long before she will sense the dif-

BROTHER'S KEEPER

DUBOIS, Pa. (AP) — Police stopped two brothers on a street here pulling on cigarette butts.

The boys — aged five and six — were reprimanded for smoking and sent home. Police found the pockets of one boy's pants filled with half-smoked butts.

"These aren't my pants," he explained. "They're my brother's."

Frau Willy Brandt Conquers Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Germany's society dowagers are learning about modern glamour from a youthful Berlin housewife. Frau Willy Brandt, wife of the new Socialist Lord Mayor of West Berlin, has larded with a fashionable splash among the staid soubrette-clad ladies of the top government set.

Not so long ago, the dowager tongues clucked when the beautiful Norwegian-born Lord Mayor would appear at official parties in one of her stunning strapless sheath gowns.

It was hard to take for stiff-necked traditionalists who still live by the rule that German matrons should be concerned with little more than "kitchen, children, and church."

"They thought I was only interested in fashions," recalled Frau Brandt with a twinkle.

BUT NOW the ripples in the drawing rooms have just about faded away. The Berliners have taken to their Lord Mayoreess.

Frau Brandt is popular not only as the new lady of glamor but also as the good hausfrau who leaves politics to her handsome 44-year-old husband.

A visit to the Brandts, and their two sons, Peter, 9, and Lars, 6, at the Lord Mayor's mansion is full of surprises.

Invited to drop in, the writer drove past the Brandts twice before discovering that the "mansion" was the little grey stucco two-family house with the boys' bicycle parked before the door.

The Lord Mayor with smiling blue eyes answered the doorbell and took my coat.

Frau Brandt's husband, whose meteoric rise parallels the career of America's Vice President Richard Nixon, ranks high. As Lord Mayor of this big outpost city of two million people behind the Iron Curtain, he also serves as president of West Germany's upper parliamentary house.

BUT THE BRANDTS, despite their $952 a month income, have chosen to keep on living in their rented four-room apartment. In housing-short Berlin where some families live jammed into one room, this has not gone unnoticed.

"I'm happy to cook, wash and clean my own house," says Frau Brandt.

For big official parties, the Lord Mayor and his wife have the use of West Berlin's Government House.

The Brandts are deluged by invitations. "When we are asked out," confessed Frau Brandt, "I call my husband and ask 'Do we have to?' If he says 'no,' then I prefer to stay home with the boys."

"I love pretty clothes like most women. I do my shopping in the Berlin houses and I find their clothes more wearable than those from Paris."

"SACK LINE? Yes. But not the Trapeze line for me. It's only for very young girls."

Frau Brandt, the former Rut Hansen, was born in Harmar, a little town 75 miles north of Oslo, the youngest of four daughters. Her father died when she was 3 and her mother worked in a dairy to support the family.

As the young widow of a Norwegian Railway official, she met Brandt in Stockholm in 1944 when both were refugees from the Nazis.

It wasn't easy at first for Frau Brandt to adopt her husband's native land — so soon after World War II and the Nazi occupation of Norway.

"At first I hated Berlin," Frau Brandt admitted. "I looked at every German and asked myself: 'Was he a Nazi?'"

"But then came the Russian blockade and I saw what stuff the Berliners have in them. And I said to myself: 'I can live here.'"

"Now," said Frau Brandt, "I love Berlin."

And from all indications, Berlin has come to love its glamorous Lord Mayor.

MRS. BRANDT also has a "homey" side, demonstrated here as she sits with her son Lars, 6, at a children's costume party.

TRUTH IN REVERSE
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Raymond Ruditsy, 19, reported to the police that another motorist followed his car for three miles, played bumper tag with him, then cut him off, reversed gears and rammed him from the front.

Police, upon investigation, said the only thing wrong with the story was that nobody did those things to Ruditsy. He did them to Edward Zibuski, 17, when he found Zibuski out for a ride with a girl he had dated. Judge Frank Gregorski fined Ruditsy $100 and jailed him for 30 days for driving after revocation of his driver's license.

COUNTING CHICKENS
BRIDGETON, N. J. (AP)—A local used car lot lost a fat profit just because it took inventory. The inventory disclosed that one car on the lot didn't belong to the company.

SURPLUS SOLUTION
FIRTH, Idaho (AP)—If everyone in the United States ate an adequate breakfast, there would be no food surplus says Mrs. Stanley Dye of the Bonneville County Farm Bureau.

Frau Brandt's husband, whose meteoric rise parallels the career of America's Vice President Richard Nixon, ranks high. As Lord Mayor of this big outpost city of two million people behind the Iron Curtain, he also serves as president of West Germany's upper parliamentary house.

BUT THE BRANDTS, despite their $952 a month income, have chosen to keep on living in their rented four-room apartment. In housing-short Berlin where some families live jammed into one room, this has not gone unnoticed.

Sew Up an Heirloom For Your First Baby

CHRISTENING DRESS—More precious when made at home, this dress, slip, bonnet and booties were designed by Thomas Wilson.

AP Newsfeatures
No matter how practical the rest of your baby's wardrobe may be, he deserves the loveliest, daintiest christening dress you can produce. Sometimes a family heirloom is available for this occasion, but if not, you can sew your own heirloom, starting a new tradition.

Thanks to modern fabrics, the most delicate baby dress now can be dunked, drip-dried and put away for the next christening. Here are some tips from experts at your local sewing center as to how to use new fabrics and techniques.

Select a standard pattern for a christening dress, which probably will include directions for slip, bonnet and booties. Use sheer white nylon for the dress, and select dainty but inexpensive nylon lace for the trimming. You can buy lace beading complete with color-fast nylon ribbon at most variety stores.

sertion also is easily applied with zigzag stitching. Baste lace in place, adjust tensions to eliminate puckering and then stitch along edges of lace with zigzag stitch. Using a small, sharp pair of shears, trim away fabric beneath lace insertion, close to line of stitching. On the bottom row of lace insertion, the hem may be stitched right along with the lace.

The slip may be made of cotton batiste, which requires mercerized cotton thread and a size 14 needle. The little bonnet also is lined in batiste, with lace insertion applied separately on the covering nylon sheer.

White felt covered with the nylon sheer fabric may be used for charming little booties, with a lace cuff around the top and a lace rosette on the toe.

When stitching on nylon sheer, be sure to use nylon thread, a size 11 needle, lighter-than-normal tension and pressure on your machine and tiny stitches, 15 or 20 to the inch. Test stitch on a scrap of fabric, and if it has a tendency to pucker, back it with a strip of tissue paper which can be torn off later.

CHEAPSKATE
MARION, Ind. (AP)—Burl Pegden failed in attempts to get a pair of cigars from his brother Claude, after receiving a birth announcement, saying Claude had become the father of twin boys. The announcement had been mailed in 1946.

Use French seams for the construction, or finish plain seams with zigzag stitching. The lace infor advertising, too!

What a fix we'd all be in without those standards of measurement for the goods you buy and sell. Imagine the confusion, waste and doubt in business transactions if we didn't have accepted standards of weights and measures—known values.

We believe it is just as necessary for us to tell you what you get for your advertising dollars, in terms of known circulation value, as it is for you to do business with your customers on the basis of recognized standards. That's why this newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

WHAT IS THE A.B.C.? The Bureau is a cooperative and nonprofit association of 3450 publishers, advertising agencies and advertisers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

WHAT A.B.C. DOES FOR YOU. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office and makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. He has access to all of our books and records to obtain the FACTS that tell you what you get for your money when you advertise in this newspaper.

WHAT A.B.C. REPORTS TELL YOU. The circulation FACTS obtained by the A.B.C. auditor are condensed in easy to read A.B.C. reports which tell you: How much circulation we have; where the circulation goes; how it was sold and many other FACTS about the audience we provide for your sales messages. Make your advertising investments on the basis of this audited information. Ask for a copy of our A.B.C. report.

HERE'S HOW

The Bride's Buffet Gleams With Handsome Tableware

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Elegance should be the keynote of a bride's table. After the children come, you may have excuses for using odd pieces of china or jelly jars for glassware. But not now. Everyone expects the bride's table to shine.

Go all out for entertaining that first year after marriage. As time goes on, it may be difficult to give charming little dinner parties.

Buy a china and glassware service you can afford. Choose an attractive china pattern that won't clash in color with food, or in design pattern with the room's motif. You can find lovely table appointments within your means. If you can't afford a complete table service, invest in dinner plates and demi-tasse cups for a beginning, and make your dinners buffet style.

You don't need to match silver and glassware down to the last curve.

When selecting tableware, choose quality pieces. When buying your own glassware, here's how:

Feel edges for smoothness and regularity. Inferior glass often has scratchy or lumpy edges. Sometimes little nicks in the glassware may be spotted that way.

Look for clearness and luster that comes from repeated firings.

Watch for well-balanced, symmetrical stemware shapes, with bowls, stems and feet that belong together.

Study the pattern. Is it compatible with the shape of the glass? Does the shape harmonize with your own design preferences?

You'll find that most glassware has waves and bubbles, and even our finest American made glass may hide a few imperfections.

It's wise to select china, silver and glassware that is in open stock so you can replace it and add it to your set, at your convenience. Many times a good part of the home furnishings budget is put into table appointments that become discontinued items within a few years. Those charming little glasses picked up on a vacation abroad, may be handsome, but can you add to them later?

CONTENTED DOGS
BRANCHBURG, N. J. — A dog's best friend in over 50 communities around here is the Contented Warden Service.

Started six years ago by David Condit and Michael Kredovski who were fed up with the dog food business, Contented offers dog warden service at a fraction of the cost of retaining a full-time municipal dog catcher. And Contented dogs have it soft.

They are kept until claimed by an owner or an interested dog lover and have free lodging and medical service while they wait.

Council Makes Plans For National 'Week'

The Deaf Smith County Home Demonstration Council met Monday in the county court room to discuss plans for the National Home Demonstration Week which will be May 4 through 10. The week will begin with the Home Demonstration Chorus presenting a program of music at 8:45 a.m. Sunday over KPAN.

Monday through Saturday the program will be at 9:45 a.m. Monday the program will be on clothing, Tuesday will be on cooking, Wednesday will be about food, Thursday will be a program on community life and Friday will be a program on "Civil Defense." The 4-H will reign on the Saturday program. During the business meeting Mrs. Wilburn Axe asked that the year book chairman from each club attend a meeting on May 19 at 2:30 p.m. in the commissioners court room. They were each asked to bring two suggestions for next year's year books. The report also scheduled a special meeting with a guest speaker from KPAN on Monday, May 4, in the county court room.

Mrs. Ray Stewart of the Dawn club presented pointers on vacation travel by plane, train, ship and automobile. "When traveling by car with children allow them to have a small container such as a cigar box for their special play things to relieve the boredom of traveling."

KGNC Radio and TV's Cotton John Smith will be in Hereford Friday to make a film of the home demonstration ladies. He plans to make a film of the H. D. market and include at that time the announcement of the local club woman of the year.

Council discussed the purchasing of steel flat ware to be used in the Bull Barn Kitchen. A committee was appointed to secure prices.

To finance the new project council plans to sponsor a rummage sale to be held early in June. All the clubs have been asked to send useful clothing, jewelry and other salable objects to the next council meeting. Along the same line of finance, Southwestern Public Service has offered the council the privilege of arranging an audience for a demonstration of appliances in the near future. The council will be paid a set amount for each guest present at the demonstration.

By JIMMIE GILLENTE
regardless of their other shortcomings, the American people are grateful. At Floydada, for instance, they are beating the recession with a new industry. They are raising waterdogs. Probably every other fish in this territory, who has on, knows about waterdogs. I daresay, they are the last fish she would consider profitable.

Floydada waterdogs are moving out as far as Lake Meade, along with sales in the immediate territory.
"The fisherman hooks his waterdog through the tough catfish under lip. The cold natured thing lives for hours under water and keeps wiggling, trying to go nowhere, like a waterdog does," reports Steen.

However, Homer Steen says in Floydada paper that quite a few people are making good money selling the critters. It turns out they are excellent fish bait.

Steen adds that folks have been seeing Floyd County lakes for weeks; also that people are selling "waterdog rights" to their lakes. It's quite a boom, and operates like all royalties. He also tells the following episode:

"A non-resident who has the 'rights' to a few lakes says he's done good this season. He was in a hurry at the moment to get off to a western resort with a pick-up load of waterdogs he had contracted, but he confided he'd rather have four or five good lakes on the Plains than to own a half section of irrigated land with two wells on it."

This is a good example of not being able to see the forest because of the trees, but I ask you: "Who would ever consider a waterdog of any possible monetary value?" All I've got to say is that the old boy who figured it out deserves to cash in big. Besides, he just couldn't possibly be normal.

This is an industry that will grow and grow. Maybe we will soon come up with a hybrid or purebred waterdog — and raise them commercially. A fisherman, of course, will buy anything, and the fish appear to have an affinity for the little prehistoric-looking creatures. It figures, it really does.

Meanwhile, Hereford fishermen are off in droves. They are scattered from hither to yon — and probably not a waterdog in the lot.

DALE TINNIN and Ross Latham took off early in the week for Possum Kingdom; no reports as yet. To a fisherman, this means only one thing: They aren't doing much good — if any. Hap Wiseman was loading out Friday afternoon, headed for Alamogordo, N. M., and Hap Caviness was ready and waiting when the trout season opened in New Mexico this week. Palmer Norton is the most modest of all, though he landed a 145-pound Marlin recently in California, and hasn't told a soul.

Things are picking up in Precinct 2. We now have four candidates out for the post: Otto Masie, Clarence Morrison, G. W. Newson and Lee Conklin.

Mrs. Glenn Nelson says the Little League Mother's meeting has been re-set for Tuesday at 5:30 p.m., First Christian Church. The organization is a must if Little League functions properly, and Mrs. Nelson says only 18 mothers showed up for the first session. They definitely need some help.

It happens about this time every year. Somewhere, somehow a neighborhood feud will develop on the subject of gardens. Last year it was Pick Harman, Monk Johnson and Hub Homer out on Harrison Highway. This year it is Palmer Norton, Mark Woodall and Darrell Blanton out on Ave. I.

Darrell, it seems, owns a lot between the properties of Palmer and Mark, so these two industrious young men asked what his fees would be for use of the lot as a garden plot. Darrell told them "one-third of the crop," and the two Ave. I residents think this is too much — which proves, beyond any doubt, that neither has had any gardening experience. What will happen is that Palmer and Mark will start on the project. If they do get it plowed, they won't weed or water it properly — and Darrell will wind up without any rent at all. If the deal concerned Mrs. Norton and Mrs. Woodall, it would be a different story. My advice to Darrell is to collect $1 in advance and call it even. He will be a lot better off.

J. W. ROBINSON says it is different with dandelions, though. He has a lush crop — and hasn't even tried. Bill Messick, on the other hand, has acquired an enviable coat of tan fighting his dandelion crop. He tells everyone he has been riding a tractor; says this is a lot better and faster than going into such a long story. Bill also has a crew cut — and is the envy of all the baldheaded men around town, especially R. G. Peeler. It also sets some sort of record as being the only "silver colored" crew cut in this area.

Humor has it that the Russians are going to put six or eight goats in their next Sputnik. They want to have the first herd shot round the world!

Bill Alexander, the orating pastor of the First Christian Church in Oklahoma City, appeared at the Lions Club Ladies' Night Thursday — and came up with a lot of horse sense. Among other things, he is tired of seeing Democrats and Republicans put their party affiliation ahead of being good Americans. In a nutshell, this means: "Vote for the man, not the party" — which a lot of Texans did in the last general election. Bill also figures he would rather have his daughters dance in wholesome surroundings than to have them frequent night clubs and ride in speeding automobiles. He even has a dance floor in the new $3 million church of which he is pastor, along with competent instructors and general supervision.

This, of course, touches pretty close to home on the current controversy centering around the 1958 senior all-night party I mentioned last Thursday.

A lot of people thought he was right, and a lot of people thought he was wrong. I doubt if he changed anyone's mind on the subject, but he did stimulate considerable thought among those who attended the meeting. He also got a laugh when he said it wasn't immoral for people over 40 to dance — "just pitiful." He told a story about the recent drought in Oklahoma, in which he reported:
"It got so dry the Baptists were sprinkling, the Methodists and Presbyterians were using a wash rag — and the Episcopalians were handing out rain checks."

Piano Students Give Recitals

Mrs. Bill Bradley presented music students in two recitals the past week. Parents and friends were special guests and both programs included solos and duets of both classic and contemporary composers. Both recitals were held in the Bradley home.

Appearing on the program Sunday afternoon were Mark Tiefel, David Nafzgar, Jake Tiefel, Penny Jones, Dean Jones, Margaret Boomer, Connie Kent, Carol Kent, and Tommie Kay Robinson.

Participating in the Friday evening program were Pamela Winget, Keith Blanton, Jerry McCaslin, Carole Clearman, Judy Wiltshire, Cynthia Seed, Cheryl Edmondson, Diane Wilson and Patti Skypala.

DOGGIE DELINQUENCY

MILWAUKEE — Dogs with a yen to wander in suburban Whitefish Bay are advised to watch their step — they may end up with a police record.

From now on, dogs (through their masters, of course) will be fined $5 for a first offense, $10 for a second offense and $15 for each one after that. But if there's no delinquency after two years, the pooch's slate is wiped clean.

ALMOST EVERYTHING
NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Bert Bond's store in the basement of an 18th Century house here is short on white enamel and chrome fixtures, but it doesn't lack variety.

If you want a false nose or some kindling wood he has it. Watermelon and Christmas trees, too, in season. In case you want an oil lamp or chimney he has that too. "Just ask for it and I'm darned likely to have it," says Bert.

FORGETFUL
PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Bob Duroy, who lives north of here, awoke to see flames leaping from his water pump house a short distance from his home.

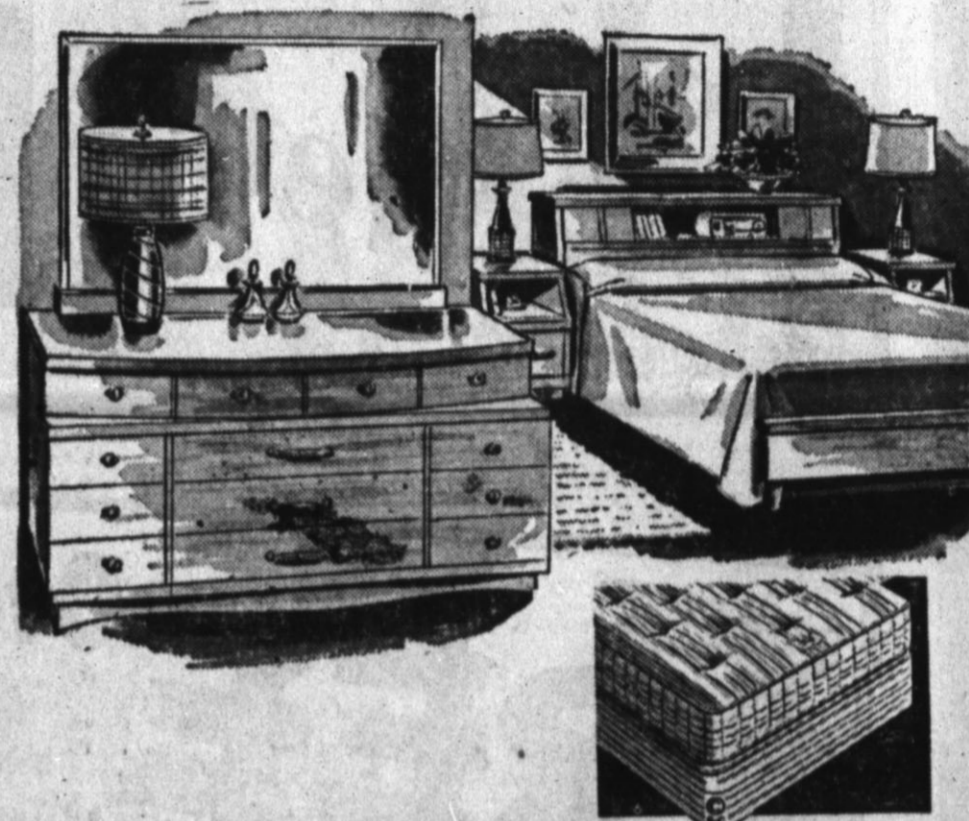

He raced outside in sub-freezing weather, pushed over the burning building, and doused the flames with three buckets of cold water. Then he remembered: He had run out in shorts, undershirt and bare feet.

make a thick batter. Cover and let stand about three days for the batter to reach the right stage for bread making.

Sour Dough Biscuit

Melt a generous amount of shortening in the pan or oven over in which the biscuits are to be cooked and keep warm.

Sift flour into a large mixing bowl or a bread tray and make a well in the center. For a large pan of biscuit pour in about three cups of the sour dough batter remaining at least a cup in the jar to keep the starter going.

For each cup of sour dough used add:

- One half teaspoon sugar
- One half teaspoon salt
- One third teaspoon soda
- One teaspoon baking powder
- One teaspoon shortening

With the hand mix into a soft dough. "Coke" off a small portion. The dough and roll between the palms of the hands until round. Tap into the melted fat and turn over. When the pan is filled set in a warm place to rise until double in bulk. Bake in a slow (300 degree) oven.

If the biscuits are cooked in a Dutch oven over a bed of coals Wiseman says it is not necessary to put a great pile of coals on the lid but have them spaced so the air will keep them glowing to brown the biscuit.

Back to the sour dough crock while the biscuits are rising.

To replenish the starter enough warm water should be added to cover the potato. Then the sugar and flour as in the first step — except that the batter is now ready for breadmaking every day. When the potato is absorbed simply add another potato.

If biscuits are not made every day keep the potato covered with water to prevent it turning dark. To renew the starter pour off the water add fresh warm water and make the batter as before. The starter will be a little slower to come back says Wiseman.

He also warns that if the water is left longer than two or three days the contents will have a tendency to mold.

Wiseman's culinary skills are not confined to sour dough biscuit. If bad weather keeps him indoors, the office force have him making pies in the modern office kitchen. Cherry and raisin are his specialties.

He says when he starts to cook the girls in the office hide the dishes so he won't have them mixed up in the ingredients.

Bill Davis, lineman for the company, likes to eat Hap's cooking as well as the rest but he insists the sour dough biscuit are so good for fish bait.

On one of their fishing trips up to Conchas Lake, Bill gathered up a handful of biscuits before he left camp to fish.

"You're not going to be gone that long are you Bill?" Wiseman asked.

"No," Bill answered, "I'm going to use 'em for bait."

He still insists that the big catch of crappie that day was the result of his crumbling the biscuit over the water to get the fish to feeding where he was fishing.

If the club women attending the demonstration have as good results as did Hap Wiseman, then there won't be any room for an argument because there won't be any sour dough biscuit left for fish bait.

HOLOCAUST IN HEREFORD

Battle of Dandelion Hill, a Moment in History

Man's eternal battle against nature—against desert, jungle and arctic ice—has been epitomized in Hereford of late.

Take a genial, even-tempered man such as Kenneth Coker and pit him against nature in the form of a dandelion and the man is no longer genial and even-tempered.

He becomes tense, dyspeptic and is likely to cuff his children and kick the family dog.

According to the dictionary, a dandelion is: "A well-known plant (taxacum officinale), abundant as a weed in meadows and cultivated ground throughout Europe, Asia and North America. They are scapose perennials with long taproots, toothed or pinnatifid leaves, and heads of bright yellow flowers. The herbage is bitter and tonic and is often eaten as spinach. The flowers are used to make wine. The root has been used like chicory as a substitute for coffee, and in medicine as a diuretic, stomachic and cholagogue."

It is an almost unkillable pest. Lawns in Hereford have been sprouting crop after crop of the little yellow flower. It reproduces faster than rabbits and in immense quantities.

This week, at his wife's request, Kenneth Coker ventured out against nature.

These pictures tell the story of his battle. And an epic one it was.

REMEMBER WHEN?

By CHARLIE SEEDS

Americans did a lot of traveling that year. One reason was the fact they had a choice of two great spectacles to see, one on each coast.

In New York, a World's Fair opened, featuring a host of scientific exhibits that envisioned the push - button world to come and a time of great technological advances. The theme of the Fair was the World of Tomorrow. But there was plenty of fun, too, in New York that year at the Fair.

At the same time, clear across the country, a whole man-made island had been prepared just to house the Golden Gate International Exposition. Called Treasure Island, it was set in the beautiful bay off San Francisco. And thousands of tourists from all over the country visited the city of the Golden Gate that summer. . . to drive up its famous hills, to tour through its Chinatown, and to visit its colorful Exposition.

Remember the year? America was beginning to fight its way back to real prosperity that year. . . and a lot of people bought new cars. But they were careful bargainers. . . and they shopped around for a deal that meant real savings.

The year was 1939.

If you're looking for legitimate savings on a new or used car . . . and what buyer isn't? . . . be sure to come in and talk to us about our deal, either on a new 1958 FORD or on one of our dependable, clean used cars. See us, too, for the finest in auto service, at CHARLIE SEEDS MOTOR CO., INC., 148 E. Second. Phone EM 4-2727.

Flying Matadors In AAU Tourney

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech's famed Flying Matadors have entered the National AAU gymnastics tournament May 9-10 at San Fernando, Calif.

Jay Johnson and Charles Rittenberry of Amarillo and Joe Naylor of Lubbock are eligible to represent Tech in the big tourney. Johnson was first in the Junior Division of the Southwestern AAU Meet at Dallas. Naylor was third and Rittenberry fifth.

"I think some of our boys are among the top 10 amateur gymnasts in the nation and they can prove it if they do go to San Fernando," Edsel Buchanan, physical education instructor, said.

The Flying Matadors, who've thrilled football and basketball crowds with their half-time feats, have no connection with Tech's athletic department and receive no financial support from it.

YOUNG WARRIOR

WAUKESHA, Wis. — Richard Herling, who had submitted a new Army tank design to military officials, received a reply from Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding officer of Ft. Benning, Ga.

"Such interest in our Army is most gratifying to those of us who have the job of preparing and executing plans for our national defense," the letter said in part.

Richard was pleased at the response, especially since he's only eight years old.

PART OF THE SERVICE

OGDEN, Utah — Bert Hill is a Union Pacific traffic agent who believes in doing everything possible for the comfort of the passenger.

He recently assisted a Japanese war bride in giving birth to a son in a passenger car at the Union Station here. The baby arrived a month early.

"I knew about what should be done, I had read some about childbirth and seen part of it in the movies," Hill said. "But I sure was scared."

CLEVER, THESE CHINESE—Mandarin coat and trousers are easy to make at home using automatic machine embroidery.

Young Set Goes Oriental

By DOROTHY ROE, Associated Press Women's Editor

The new interest in Oriental fashions has hit the younger generation as well as the grown-ups, and mothers are finding that the Chinese indeed are clever. The trim, uncluttered lines of little Chinese jackets are perfect for active youngsters. The tapered pants are practical and becoming. And, even more important, upkeep is simple if the little Oriental outfits are made in sturdy washable fabrics such as lightweight sailcloth or other cotton.

The jacket is easy to make without a pattern, say local sewing center experts, for only three major pieces are required. The sleeves are cut all in one with the body of the jacket. However, if you feel that a pattern is necessary, you will find that most companies have patterns for children's box jackets which can be adapted with side slits and a mandarin collar for a Chinese look.

The real interest of the Oriental look, however, lies in the decoration of the jacket. Edge the mandarin collar with contrasting braid and make frogs for the front closing. From there on, use your imagination to create gay and interesting decorations. The Chinese are famous for the colorful embroidered motifs they put on the backs of their mandarin coats and jackets and these can be reproduced by machine embroidery.

Trace the design you like on the back of the jacket. Place the area to be embroidered in an embroidery hoop. Then do the embroidery on your automatic sewing machine. You will find that the automatic feed-drop on the machine is a great help in this process. If you are embroidering a Chinese dragon, for instance, outline the motif in a narrow satin stitch, then fill in the design with tiny back-and-fourth stitches. Flowers, trees and other designs may be done in the same way.

If you prefer to do your decorations more quickly, the applique technique also is effective.

Plan to repeat a little of the back decoration on the front — perhaps a part of the design on a pocket.

A bright red jacket with black trousers is a classic Oriental color combination. However, you may choose between many gay combinations — a pale pink jacket with deep coral trousers, or a turquoise top with deep green trousers, for instance.

Remember that when the child outgrows the jacket, the embroidered motif may be cut out and applied to another garment.

PRAYER ON FILM

HOLLYWOOD — Producer Lew Kerner has completed a series of 365 color films called "A Minute of Prayer," which shortly will be put in use on many television stations throughout the country. Various backgrounds — landscapes, city scenes, people in everyday activities — are shown as the inter-faith prayers are sung, chanted or recited.

A&M Slates Swine Course

COLLEGE STATION — How to make swine production in Texas more profitable is the single objective of the program planned for the seventh annual Swine Course scheduled for Texas A&M College on May 5-6.

T. D. Tanksley, associate extension animal husbandman, says that major emphasis will be placed on how commercial producers can plan a meat type hog program; how production records and tested breeding animals can be evaluated for use in selecting breeding animals; how contract farming and vertical integration is affecting the swine industry; how hogs are being marketed on a merit basis; and how producers can improve their operations by using the latest developments in swine feeding, management and health.

Four nationally known swine experts, Dr. R. M. Durham, extension swine specialist from Iowa; C. M. Mitchell, secretary, Poland China Association, Galesburg, Illinois; Jim Nance, president, National Swine Growers Council, Alamo, Tennessee and C. E. Bell, Jr., Federal Extension Service, Washington, D. C. will headline the list of speakers for the two-day meeting.

Other program participants will include President Davis Rummel of San Antonio and Secretary Ray Anderson of Fort Worth of the Texas Swine Breeders Association, co-sponsor with A&M's Department of Animal Husbandry of the Short Course, and Association members Marvin Bridges of Buffalo and C. T. Johnson of Dallas. Several members of the Animal Husbandry Department will also appear on the program.

Tanksley says the first session is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. on May 5 in the Assembly Room of the Memorial Student Center. He extends a special invitation to every person in Texas who is interested in improving and expanding the State's swine industry to attend. Local county agents and teachers of vocational agriculture can supply details on the short course.

Pancake Can Become Creation

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Oh my, the things that have happened to the good old American pancake. Once upon a time it made its main appearance at breakfast. Nowadays it's likely to show up at lunch or dinner. Some people may call this creative cooking — but what's in a name so long as the pancakes taste good?

HIGH-STYLE PANCAKES—The pancake, once limited to breakfast-time appearances, is stepping out in culinary society. For a luncheon dish, these buttermilk pancakes have been stuffed with crabmeat filling.

Lunch first, if you please. When guests are coming, buttermilk pancakes may be made large size and stuffed with crabmeat à la king. Pancakes and stuffing may be prepared ahead — even the night before — and be reheated in the oven without any watching, no fuss and feathers. What to serve with this luncheon dish? Add a salad of crisp greens, grapefruit and unpeeled red apple sections. Dress the salad with olive oil and wine vinegar and food-loving friends will be fed bountifully.

And now to dinner. Buckwheat pancakes are made dollar size and served, topped with red caviar and sour cream, as a fancy first course. Or small rich thin pancakes, made from ordinary flour, arrive for dessert along with sunbaked strawberry preserves and spoonfuls of sweet heavy cream.

You may prepare the buttermilk pancakes for the luncheon dish from scratch or you may use the buttermilk pancake mix that now comes in a package. Here is how to use the mix with the creambeating filling.

PANCAKES WITH CRABMEAT A LA KING

Ingredients: 1/2 cup chopped green pepper, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 4 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 cups light cream, 1 can (6 ounces) sliced broiled mushrooms, 1/4 cup chopped pimiento, 2 cans (6 1/2 ounces each) king crabmeat, 10 to 12 buttermilk pancakes.

Method: Lightly cook green pepper and celery in butter in 2-quart saucepan; stir in flour and salt. Add cream; cook gently and stir constantly until thickened. Add drained mushrooms, pimiento and crabmeat (cartilage removed). Place some filling over center of each pancake and overlap two edges. Arrange in one layer in baking dish; top with remaining filling. Cover and reheat at once, or after refrigeration, in moderate (350 degrees) oven 15 to 25 minutes. To Make Pancakes: Beat 1 egg until ivory color. Add 1 1/4 cups milk, 1 cup buttermilk pancake mix and 1 tablespoon butter (melted). Shake or beat until there are no large flour lumps. Use 3 tablespoons batter for each pancake; pour close to hot lightly greased griddle.

VEGETABLE COOKERY

Deep skillets with dome-type covers make perfect vegetable cookers. Because the covers fit tightly, they help retain moisture during the cooking, and only a small amount of water need be used. Broccoli and asparagus stalks may be laid flat in such a skillet, and if their fibrous outer

Guide for High Plains Cotton Is Now Available

COLLEGE STATION — The income of cotton producers on the High Plains has been reduced because some of their cotton lacked uniformity, quality and character.

A guide with the purpose of helping these cotton farmers grow quality cotton has just been released by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Production practices in general govern quality and yield, according to the guide. Some of the production problems discussed are land preparation, planting, insect control and irrigation.

Processing procedures are problems of the farmer in harvesting and of the ginner in ginning cotton, it states. The cotton farmer has a greater opportunity to improve his production and harvesting practices than to better the ginning and marketing procedures, but an understanding of how cotton is processed and marketed may enable him to realize more net return from his investment and labor.

The guide discusses harvesting and packaging processes and goes into detail on marketing.

The seven-step cotton program which can help each farmer better realize the production potential of his farm is emphasized. The steps in this program are fit cotton into balanced farming; take care of your soil and water; act together on the best variety; make labor and machinery count; control insects and disease; handle, harvest and gin for high grades; and sell for grade, staple and variety value.

This guide may be obtained from local county agents or the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Tex. Ask for L-392.

Texas Tech Plans More Buildings

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech will build a large classroom and office building and a new textile engineering building, the institution's officials announced here.

The two structures, scheduled to be ready in September, 1959, are to be financed from Tech's new allotment of $3,710,000 from the state college building fund amendment program.

The first-mentioned building will contain 81 faculty offices and 27 classrooms. It will cost approximately $1 million. The new textile engineering building, costing about $269,000, will include a pilot spinning plant and laboratories with precise temperature and humidity control for fiber studies.

The present textile engineering building will be converted to general classrooms for the Engineering School, except for a dye labor-

Houseflies Aid Cancer Research

COLLEGE STATION — The housefly, perennial villain in man's fight against disease, is now being useful in this fight by helping speed up tests of anti-cancer compounds — drugs that may someday prove effective in controlling cancer in human beings.

They are being used in these tests because of the speed and ease with which they may be reared, according to a report from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. With comparatively little space, time, effort and expense, a supply of 1,000 to 2,000 flies can be reared daily for laboratory use.

They complete their whole life cycle in a little more than two weeks, yet they are physiologically similar to higher animals in many characteristics. This combination makes them useful for quick testing of growth-inhibiting, or anticancer, drugs.

By contrast, mice and rats normally used for testing growth-inhibiting materials take months of effort in breeding and rearing to mature. There is also additional waiting for the slower results which follow. Flies fed milk containing a material to be tested, can be dissected and results observed after only three days; rodents take much longer. The work with flies was originated by the Department of Agriculture in finding a chemical that would cause sterility in insects. This could serve as a means of cutting their numbers and keeping them under control, thus furnishing an alternative to the use of poisonous insecticides which nearly always involves some danger to human beings, and to which insects have a tendency to build immunity.

Girls Seek Answers To Beauty Problems

AP Newsfeatures

Young people seem to have more grooming problems than anybody. Charm is what they seek, and the key is elusive. Letters point up age-old problems, some that may have stymied Cleopatra.

Q. My daughter looks horrible in makeup. She uses my cosmetics. Her cheeks are made up to look like ripe oranges, her lashes are beaded with mascara, she smears her mouth.

A. Maybe you'd better get lighter makeup or teach your daughter how to apply it. Many a daughter reflects mother's bad techniques.

Q. Is there a rule about what to bring when you are a weekend guest? Should you supply your own cleansing tissues and soap?

A. Soap should be supplied by your hostess. But you should have your own toothbrush, paste, tissues, lotions and cosmetics. Take with you, too, a quantity of face powder and cotton balls for removing eye makeup or fingernail polish.

Q. If you wear a chemise dress, must you conform in hairdo, makeup and shoes?

A. A ponytail or another extreme hairstyle would look ridiculous with a chemise dress, but a simple hairstyle that becomes you certainly should look just as smart as the severe hairdos of the 1920's. Makeup can be the usual. Shoes are more to the point.

Q. I dread wearing short dresses because my knees are so fat and ugly. Is there anything I can do to reduce them?

A. Covering has been pared off, tops and bottoms of the vegetables will cook in the same time.

WEEKEND GUEST—Supply your own cosmetics, cotton balls, cleansing tissues.

A. Sit with your feet flat on the floor, legs spread about one-foot apart. Now slap your knees together hard. Do this whenever you think about it. A general reducing program combined with exercise will work wonders if you are overweight.

Q. My hair is falling out at an alarming rate. Is there anything I can do to stop it? Should I wear a wig? The thought appalls me.

A. You should see a doctor for treatment. Meantime, you may wear hair pieces to cover up bald spots. If the hair does not grow back within a reasonable time, by all means get a wig, if you can afford it. You'd be amazed how many women wear wigs, and how many compensations there are to the idea, such as being able to send your hair to the hairdresser (while you do something else), enjoying different hair colors and hairstyles whenever you like. Besides — colored wigs are fashionable now.

Q. Will castor oil make eyelashes grow?

A. Maybe, if you plant them in the spring.

AH, ROMANCE

NEW YORK (AP) — Romance is making the restaurant business rough for Harry Bloomfield.

The woe is the matrimonial allure for men guests of the Hawaiian wahinis (girls) who have been installed as the restaurant's hostesses.

Bloomfield's restaurant, the Luau 400, opened only recently, but three of the original seven girls have already departed for wedlock, two more are altar-bound, and another was kept on the job only after the harried host found her husband an assignment in the dining room.

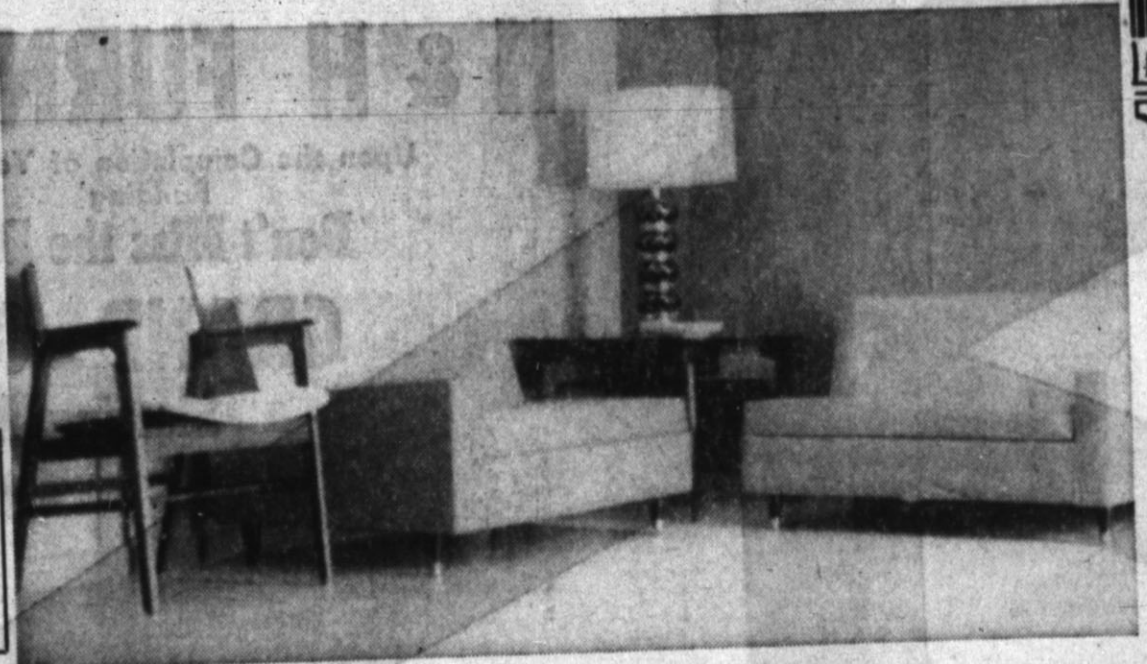

"I never thought marriage would be one of my biggest operating problems," says Bloomfield.

TILE TIPS—Each tile is pressed firmly against the wall with a twisting motion, left, after the wall has been primed and adhesive spread thinly over a small area at a time. To cut a tile, use a glass cutter to score it, then place it glazed side up over a nail, upper right. Pressure from the hands will snap the tile along the scored line. For round and irregular cuts, take small bites out of the tile with pliers, lower right.

AP Newsfeatures

Once an item for higher cost homes only, ceramic tile is being used today in many ways by the busy home handyman. Technical improvements in adhesives are responsible for broadening the handyman's use of tile.

A quality adhesive, which meets standards set by the U. S. Department of Commerce, can be used virtually over any backing if the surface is smooth and firm.

In question and answer form, here are some helpful hints for tiling jobs around the home:

Q. What surfaces need priming?
A. Base surfaces in any area affected by water or steam should always be primed. When tile is applied over gypsum wallboard, all joints must be taped and all seams primed. In showers, at least two priming coats are required, brushed on at right angles to each other.

Q. What preliminary steps need to be taken?
A. Waterproof all fixtures and protruding pipes with adhesive. If the adhesive is going over allboard or other material in sheets, all corners should be plugged with adhesive.
Q. How should the placing of tile be started?
A. Always start with the bottom row after establishing a level line with a level and straight edge.
Q. Should the tile be soaked?
A. That depends on the grout you use. With some, soaking is not required. With others, wall tile should be soaked in clean water for an hour before installation, then drained. Floor tiles do not have to be soaked.
Q. How are wall tiles set?
A. For the bottom row, spread adhesive thinly on the back of each tile and place it firmly against the wall with a twisting motion. Avoid using too much adhesive; it may ooze up between the joints. After the first row, spread adhesive thinly over several square feet at a time as you proceed.

Q. How are round and irregular cuts made?
A. To fit tiles around fixtures, cut the tile on a line centered vertically with the fixture. Use a glass cutter for this. Now break off parts of each half with pliers to the shape of the required opening. Take small bites with the pliers. Shape the cut and smooth any rough edges with a carborundum stone.
Q. How are joints between tiles filled?
A. Let the work set for 24 hours then soak the joints with a wet sponge at least four times at five-minute intervals. Then slowly mix a quart of commercial ceramic tile grout with water to the consistency of cream. Let it stand for 10 minutes, then remix it and apply it to the joints with a sponge.
Q. How is excess grout removed?
A. Remove it with a damp sponge or cloth, then polish the finished work with a dry cloth. The grouted joints should be wet down with a sponge several times during the next three or four days so the grout will set properly.
Q. What kind of flooring is suitable for tiling?
A. All flooring surfaces must be in good condition, firm, smooth and free from moisture. They include level and true concrete slabs, wood floors in good condition and 3/4 inch exterior type plywood over a subfloor.
Q. What is the procedure for setting floor tile?
A. Prime the surface and spread the adhesive thinly. Set sheets of tile in place with the peeped surface up. Let the tile set one hour, then wet the paper. It will come off easily. Floor tile should be allowed to set for one day before grouting. Floor tile, however, should not be soaked before grouting. The grout itself should consist of one part waterproof portland cement and one part finely screened sand. Use enough water to make the mixture workable. The grout should be spread over the tiles and forced into joints with a squeegee. To remove excess grout, use a coarse cloth.

PRETENDER

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Harry A. Deadman was fined $15 after he pretended to be drunk.
The 19-year-old youth was lifted into a squad car when he was found on the street, apparently helpless. Deadman sobbed immediately and explained he merely was amusing himself by pretending to be drunk.
Police were not amused. They changed their complaint from drunkenness to disorderly conduct, and the court fined him $15.

"ELECTRIC COOKING IS Easy... EVEN FOR ME!"

says CARL McKINNON GUYMON, OKLAHOMA

Mr. McKinnon says, "Cooking electrically is so easy for even inexperienced cooks like me. I never thought I would actually enjoy preparing dinner for the boys while Lou, my wife, is not at home. Now, when she goes to her church and social affairs, the McKinnon men take to the kitchen. Roger helps with the salad, Doug helps set the table, and Warner, like most four-year-olds, just does a little bit of nothing. Although we're having steaks tonight, the boys ordinarily vote for hot dogs or hamburgers—regardless, our electric grill does a wonderful job, no matter the menu."

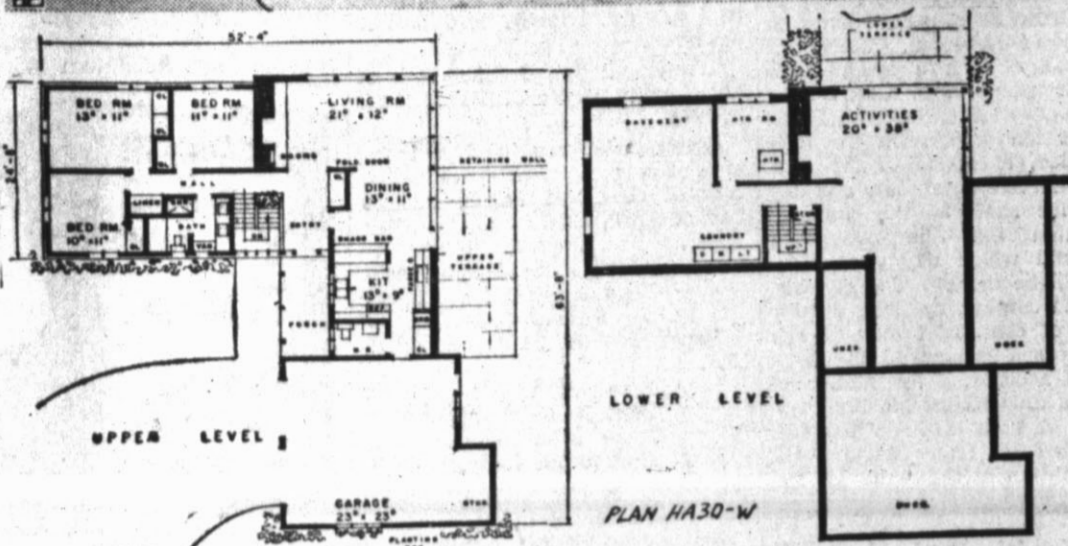

"Now, with our steaks, salads, green beans and cake (Lou baked it in our electric oven this morning), we are ready to settle down and enjoy our meal, along with our 'men talk.' With Roger and Doug, that's football—with Warner, cowboys and TV."

Restoring Flannels

Flannels that have been badly washed, and are hard and shrunken, can be restored to their former softness by soaking them in gasoline (INFLAMMABLE) for a few hours. This should be done outdoors. Then wash in soft soap suds as usual. Rinse in clear water of the same temperature.

Cocoon

If the cocoon seems too dry, soak it in milk for a few minutes, and then drain it for use in cookies, cakes, frostings, or puddings.

Proud Flesh

If there is proud flesh on a sore, sprinkle it twice a day with dry granulated sugar. This is a simple remedy which often is effective.

Oil Marks

Oil marks on wall paper can be removed by applying a paste made of cold water and pipe clay, leaving it on over night, and brushing it off in the morning.

Cocoa

To prevent cocoa from lumping, when making, mix a little sugar with it before pouring on the hot water or milk. A pinch of salt added, greatly improves the flavor.

Cleaning the Sink

Four a strong solution of hot water and salt through your sink and drain at least once a week, and this will keep it free of grease and disagreeable odors.

Burned Cake

If a burned cake is allowed to stand until it is thoroughly cold, and then scraped with a lemon grater, the burnt part can be almost entirely removed, leaving the cake smooth and ready for icing.

Picking Up Threads

When numerous threads are scattered on the rug while sewing, they may be easily picked up by use of a broom which has first been dipped in clean water, shaken well, and then brushed lightly over the rug.

Fresh Flowers

Several agents can be used to keep cut flowers fresh. A piece of camphor, a piece of charcoal, an aspirin tablet, or a little aromatic spirits of ammonia are all recommended.

Scratchy Woolens

To prevent woolen garments from scratching when worn, add a few tablespoons of glycerin to the last rinse when washing them. Always be sure that each water is the same temperature when washing woolens, as it is the change from warm to cold water that shrinks them.

Polishing Leather

Before trying to polish the leather seats of chairs, or other similar articles of leather, wipe the surface thoroughly with a cloth dipped in sweet milk. It is surprising the amount of dirt often removed. Then polish in the usual manner.

Tough Meat

Add five or six drops of lemon juice to the piece of tough meat, as soon as it begins to boil. This will not only make the meat tender, but will give it an added flavor.

The Thimble

When the thimble is too large for the finger, try attaching a piece of adhesive tape inside the thimble.

Candle Holder

If it is necessary to use a candle where there is a wind that will extinguish it, use a tall glass tumbler, fastening the candle to the bottom by means of its own melted wax.

The Hands

Immediately after dishwashing, rub a little lemon juice well into the hands to keep them soft and white.

Poached Eggs

Try poaching eggs in hot milk instead of water, and see how much more tasty they are. They will also be more nourishing.

White Collars

The white collars of shirts will remain as white as when new if a tablespoon of borax is added to the water in which the collars are washed. It will take away that ugly yellow tinge that is so difficult to remove.

Cooking Prunes

To cook dried prunes, first wash them well, then cover with four inches of cold water, and allow them to soak overnight. Simmer very slowly for about an hour.

White Silk

To retain the whiteness of silk, add a tablespoonful of vinegar to each quart of water for the last rinse.

Pastry

It is a mistake to try to stretch pastry to cover the pie pan, as it will only shrink further in the baking. If it does not reach, roll it out a little thinner and then place it in the pie dish.

ST. LOUIS — Versatility is a growing trend in America's clothing fashions. Manufacturers are putting more multiple use products on the market every year. Double duty clothes are designed to give full value to the consumer in the present world of high prices and tight budgets.

Use Pesticides Only for Their Intended Purpose

COLLEGE STATION — Never use plant pesticides on livestock. This rule for protecting farm animals from chemical poisoning was developed by U. S. D. A. scientists investigating occasional cases of livestock poisoning by insecticides and herbicides. Though the same material may be used in preparations designed for use on animals as for plants, the concentration and chemical formulation may be vastly different. The difference can mean a sick animal. Pesticides are "safe" only when used as intended by the manufacturer and in accordance with his directions, points out C. F. Garner, extension entomologist. Never over-treat plants to be used as livestock feed, advises Garner. Some highly poisonous insecticides can be used safely because directions call for quantities too small to cause animal poisoning. Less toxic compounds may be more dangerous where larger than recommended quantities are used. Always follow the manufacturer's directions and never guess at quantities, cautions Garner.

Poison symptoms appearing in animals fed pesticide-treated materials may mask even more serious disorders such as rabies, pseudo-rabies and encephalitis. Diagnosis is difficult, but animals suffering from pesticide poisoning alone will usually recover completely under good care, providing the poisoning is not too severe.

Chlorinated hydrocarbon insecticides such as DDT, TDE, methoxychlor, benzene hexachlor, isodrin and endrin act on the central nervous system. Symptoms range from severe depression to violent convulsions or respiratory paralysis.

Organic phosphorus compounds used for plant pest control are closely allied to the nerve gases developed for chemical warfare. They include parathion, methyl parathion, malathion, Diptex, chlorothion and Guthion. They also

Coffee Houses Tempt Appetite

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Coffee is a fabulous beverage. Every time we walk into one of New York's international coffee houses we're tempted to drink half a dozen cups of the brew, each served a different way. Come with us and see what goes on!

The chemise-clad girl who looks like a model holds a pot of hot coffee in one hand and a pot of hot milk in the other. She's pouring coffee and milk into her cup at the same time. That's the brew as it is served in France — cafe au lait.

A table away a distinguished looking man and his attractive companion have ordered kaffee with schlag and Sacher torte, as they might in Vienna. When the large cups of strong black coffee arrive they're topped with generous helpings of snowy whipped cream.

The young girls who have just walked in settle for coffee mocha. Served in tall mugs, this combination of coffee and hot chocolate is invitingly frothy.

Several young men with Australian accents order coffee foam — made with eggs, milk, syrup and coffee whipped together. It's said to be a "down under" favorite.

Over there two older men, deep in discussion, each lift a footed glass filled with a clear brown brew and a hobbling curl of lemon peel. This is coffee espresso, made in an espresso machine or a macchinetta from Italian-roast beans ground so fine that they're powdery.

We settle for cappuccino, cafe espresso with hot milk and a tantalizing suspicion of cinnamon.

Chemical weed killers rarely poison livestock, despite claims to the contrary. The only danger, according to the USDA scientists, lies in consumption of freshly treated plants. This can be avoided by removing livestock from treated areas for one or two weeks. Arsenical compounds are well established as poisonous, but they are less frequently used than formerly. The common weed-killers 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T are much less toxic to animals.

Garner suggests that copies of the various insect and parasite control guides, both for plants and animals, be obtained from the local county agent or the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Tex.

GRIND-IT-YOURSELF—Use an electric coffee mill to grind light roast beans for cups of breakfast coffee and mugs of coffee mocha (coffee and hot chocolate), dark roast (Italian or French) beans for after-dinner specialties.

Want to taste this Italian version of the French cafe au lait?

If you are intrigued enough to whip up some of these coffee combinations at home, make sure your coffee brew is robust. Should you feel the coffee you prepare could be improved, you may wish to consider grinding the beans as you need them. An electric coffee mill that fits over the motor of an electric blender does a good job of grinding coffee. You can adjust the mechanism and have the type of grind — fine, medium or coarse — that is right for your particular coffee maker.

Our college-age nephew and a friend of his use freshly ground coffee beans for a special after-dinner offering. First they throw two whole cloves, a small cinnamon stick, a couple of thin wide strips of orange peel and four small cubes of sugar into the bottom of a drip coffee pot. Then they make double-strength coffee, using 1½ measuring cups of boiling water. After the water has dripped through, they stir the brew and heat it until bubbles began to appear around the edge. The cloves, cinnamon stick and orange peel are discarded, and the coffee is poured into demitasse cups and topped with whipped cream. This is, of course, a version of the New Orleans' cafe brulot.

GOOD TURN

RICHMOND, Va. — State Senator Earl Fitzpatrick noted that the men, many in advanced years, who serve as State Capitol police, were keeping motors in automobiles running so they could climb in and get warm.

Question: I have an auto that is 3 years old. At the time I bought it, I was told that the trim was stainless steel. When the trim looked dirty recently, I cleaned it thoroughly with steel wool. I now notice a brown discoloration that looks like rust on some parts of the trim. Isn't stainless steel supposed to be rustproof? How do I get the brown stains off and how can I prevent further trouble of this kind?

Answer: Stainless steel is impervious to rust. But you should not use ordinary steel wool to clean it. When this is done, tiny slivers of the steel wool break off as you rub and become imbedded in the surface of the stainless steel. The slivers rust and produce the brown streaks. You can get the stains off by rubbing the trim with stainless steel scouring pads. The slivers from the stainless steel pads will not rust and cause discoloration.

Question: Can you tell me something about the wood that is called pecky cypress. I like the appearance of it and would like to finish the walls of an extra room with it, but will the rotted part, or what Rural Electric meeting in Hereford last Thursday. Miss Johnnie Hand from this community placed second in the queen contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Coy Patton and Virginia left Tuesday for Colorado Springs, Colo., to attend the funeral of a relative, Ole Towner, Wednesday afternoon. He was 19 and was accidentally killed while on a hunting trip. They returned home Thursday.

Some of the little five and six year old children from our community who attended school Friday on visitation day were Jeffrey Price, Carlene Greeson, Tim Elmore, Danny Carthel and Donna Jo Parr. They all reported a wonderful time.

The Black Home Demonstration Club met last week in the Community house with Christian Braxton as Hostess. Bill Sheehan presented the program on "The Importance of Making a Will."

Roll call was answered with ideas on will making, blood typing and a home nursing course. Plans were made for the next meeting when a club from Hereford will be guest at the meeting. Committees chosen were Helen Fangman and Lois Whitaker, decoration, and Carrie Tatum and Geneva Ivie, refreshments.

The Black Home Demonstration club members entertained their families with a supper and social Tuesday night. This was to observe National Home Demonstration Week.

looks like the rotted part, spread to the rest of the wood in time?

Answer: Pecky cypress is the name applied to wood cut from cypress trees which have been infested with a fungus. This fungus enters the living trees through broken branches and works its way down through the heartwood of the tree. It leaves pockets in the wood which are filled with a brown powder. This powder seems to have an antiseptic action which halts the progress of the fungus. What you called the rotted part will not spread. In fact, pecky cypress has a strong resistance to decay, which is why it is used so often for outdoor fences, barns and the like.

How Can I?

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I remove scorched spots from woolen fabrics?

A. This is difficult to do because even slight scorching on wool weakens the fibers. Try wetting the scorched spots immediately with glycerin and letting it remain about a half-hour before washing. If fabric is not washable, rub lightly with a piece of white flannel wrung very dry out of cold water and slightly moistened with glycerin.

Q. What can I do when the glass top of the percolator breaks and there is no extra one on hand?

A. Try using a small whisky glass over the hole. This is an excellent substitute for temporary use.

Q. How can I salt peanuts in the shell?

A. They can be salted in the shell if they are boiled in salt liquid and then allowed to dry.

Q. How can I repair a damaged place in the wall paper, caused by moving a piece of furniture, when I have no paper to match it?

A. Try touching up the vacant places with water colors to harmonize with the paper. The break will hardly be noticeable if carefully done.

Q. How can I treat house plants that have become infested with insects?

A. Try sticking a few sulphur matches, heads down, into the soil around the plants. Spraying with a solution of naphtha soap and water is also effective.

Q. How can I impart a creamy flavor to soup?

A. Place a piece of cheese, about the size of a walnut in each quart of soup, before serving, and it will impart a rich, creamy flavor.

Q. How can I remove the odor of gasoline from clothing after cleaning?

A. Hang the clothing in the sun and wind. If that does not remove the odor completely, hang the garment in a heated room, or press it with a hot iron.

Beauty at Home

By Lynn Carter

Q. Please tell me what I can do about facial wrinkles.

A. First, check your frowning habits, which are really the prime cause of these wrinkles. Then you can buy in a drugstore some court-plaster "wrinkle-plasters," which you stick over the wrinkles to help flatten them out. You can make these at home, too, from gummed brown paper of the type used for sealing cartons for mailing.

Q. How can I exercise to help develop my shoulders, arms, and bust?

A. Stand erect, feet together, hands locked on top of head. Bring elbows together, until they touch in front of your face. Then force them back vigorously as though attempting to touch them in back of your head. Keep head and chin up and back straight throughout the exercise. Do this ten times, rapidly.

Q. I've heard that the external use of alcohol is helpful in ridding the face of pimples. Is this true?

A. Yes. It tends to dry up the acne, and also serves as a disinfectant.

Q. What technique of makeup will give the illusion of roundness to thin, hollow cheeks?

A. Use a lighter shade of foundation in the hollow depressions than on the rest of your face.

Q. What is a beneficial treatment for whiteheads on the skin?

A. Apply a paste of almond meal and warm water to the infected areas, and allow to dry. Then scrub with circular motions, using a clean cloth. Rinse the skin with warm water, then splash with cold water.

Q. After a coloring job on my hair, what can I do to "set" the color?

A. Give your hair a thorough brushing. Waving lotion is apt to affect the hue if applied when the hair is wet. As a general rule, it is better to let the hair dry, at least partially, before waving or curling.

Q. Is there anything I can do to help reduce the prominence of my rather protruding eyes?

A. If you will cover the entire upper lids to the eyebrow line with eyeshadow, this will tend to make the eyes seem more deeply-set than they are.

Q. How can I induce more gloss and sheen into my rather dull-looking hair?

A. Aside from increased brushings, try adding the beaten white of an egg to your regular liquid soap shampoo.

Q. How can straw hats be cleaned at home?

A. With a toothbrush, apply a paste made of lemon juice and powdered sulphur. Rub the paste in, then dry in the sun or wind.

Q. How can I remove some crayon stains from one of my unwashable frocks?

A. By use of some carbon tetrachloride or other dry-cleaning fluid.

Q. Is there something I can do about the ugly-looking enlarged pores in my nose?

A. This condition can be alleviated by frequent and regular bathing of the nose with a little lukewarm water and borax.

Q. What exercise will help me to reduce a "bulging tummy"?

A. Lie on back, arms at sides. Without giving yourself any kind of boost with hands or arms, raise head, back, and shoulders slowly off the floor. Hold them at a 45-degree angle for a few seconds, then very slowly lower them back to the floor. Repeat as often as you can — and faithfully every day. This is an excellent conditioner!

Q. I would appreciate a suggestion which will help me to keep my blonde hair light.

A. Add the juice of a lemon to your final rinse-water, after shampooing.

Q. What is a good, external treatment for facial pimples?

A. Bathe the face more often — at least twice daily — with pure soap and water, rinsing thoroughly with very warm and then cold water. Use lanolin as a substitute for face cream, and as little powder as possible.

Q. Can you suggest a quick and simple hair-curling fluid I can make at home?

A. One good one is made of the white of an egg beaten with an equal quantity of water.

Q. How should the shape of the eyebrows be governed by the size of one's nose?

A. If your nose is upturned or too short, the inner corners of your brows should be tweezed to point downward. If your nose is too long, the hairs should be tweezed to
