

Construction begins this week on new airport terminal

BY MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

Construction will begin this week on a new modern-design airport to replace the small, inadequate one now being used. City Manager Dudley Bayne said Friday.

Completion date was set 100 days from this week, but Bayne said it is expected to be ready for operation in about two months.

The new $40,000 terminal, minus a number of original features, was approved by the city commission Wednesday when bids were opened for the second time. The low bid was by Raymond Herr of Hereford in the amount of $39,920, some $80 below the money allocated for the project.

The first bids were opened June 19, but all were over the allocated amount. The two low bids, by Mesa Builders of Amarillo and Herr, were asked by the city to trim some of the features and come up with a second bid.

Mesa Builders' first bid was for $56,987 and the second for $45,844. Herr's first bid was $57,359.

The new building, with 1,800 square feet, will be more than three times the size of the present terminal building. The old building, with only 520 square feet, has only a small, cramped flight office, one office and a small storage room.

The new terminal, although it will keep the same floor plan as it originally had, will not boast the eye-catching rock "points."

"We eliminated the stone and will use brick, we will use wood shingles for the trim and we did away with a little of the glass," Bayne said, "but basically the design will be the same."

The original plans called for the building to have a four-pointed star design with each "point" made of the stone and the four corners of the building to be glass.

The building will have two lounge areas, two offices, a flight service area, rest rooms and storage area. It will have a tile patio and central heat and air conditioning.

It will be furnished in Spanish, Bayne said, although final plans have not been worked out. He said bids were asked on furnishings, but the city received only one, that from E. B. Black Furniture of Hereford.

Bayne said he is still negotiating with the furniture company to see what can be bought to furnish the terminal that is within the $3,600 set aside for this purpose.

The terminal building money was set aside from a $51,109 check the city received from the local city sales tax. The check was the first of four that will come to the city each year as a result of the tax.

The present terminal building, built in 1958, will be moved over and placed on blocks while the new terminal is being built. All airport operations will be carried out in the old building while construction is going on and when it is finished, the old building will be moved over and added to the house near the airport for an airport employe.

Hereford 'boom' still is rolling

By CHARLES RICHARDS
News Editor

A new wave of building permits in June sent the 1971 total past the $2 million mark—more than $300,000 ahead of last year's pace which itself was a near record—and spurred an optimistic outlook for Hereford's future.

Simultaneously, reports were coming in that the city's growth now is just as high, and even higher in some places, than in the booming period of several years ago when Deaf Smith County found itself the fastest growing county in Texas and the 13th fastest in the United States.

Last year's total of new housing permits put Hereford ahead of the pack in the Panhandle. By excluding Amarillo and Friona, Hereford had more than all the rest of the Panhandle combined a year ago. And this year is ahead of last.

The gas company has shown a steady increase of from 3 to 4.2 per cent in new customers since 1965, with the biggest increase coming from 1969 to 1970.

The electric company has shown increases in new customers over the past three years of 4.5 to 6 per cent.

The telephone company has had a similar jump in new stations.

"The future looks bright to me," said Jim Sears, Hereford mayor and president of the First National Bank. He pointed out that a $350,000 building permit granted to a company earlier this year caused few ripples, when years ago it would have been headlines. Things like that are becoming commonplace in Hereford, he said.

"We don't have any new Holy Sugars or Wilsons, but we have had several of these smaller deals which nobody has taken special notice of, although together they add up to more than one big one," he said. Sears credited the addition of several "minor" supporting industries recently, plus the expansion of a number of businesses already here, for the big increase in 1970.

"I think you'll find, if we had any way to check numbers, that the last year has been the largest growth in Hereford's history in total numbers," Sears said. "I'd say it may crowd us to do our percentage growth that we have done in the past. But in numbers, I'd say we'd grow this year more than we did last year, and that next year we'll grow more than this year."

Dale Young, manager of the Hereford office of Pioneer Natural Gas, said his company has experienced a growth locally of 10 per cent.

They spent an entire day touring Capitol Hill. Cong. Bob Price took Sue, Mickey and other 4-Hers from his district on a detailed tour of the nation's capitol. They attended a committee meeting with Price and discussed space program expenditures.

The small group listened to a debate in the House of Representatives, then the entire 4-H delegation held a tea honoring all the congressmen.

The mornings were spent in group discussion, where the young people expressed their opinions of pollution, drugs, overpopulation, maturity, and other modern day subjects.

Each night, programs were presented by the group and outside guest speakers.

Leaving Washington on June 19, the group toured Williamsburg, Va., and other points of interest in the south, returning to Hereford June 23.

Area wheat quality good, quantity off

By MARKIE MCBRIDE
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County wheat harvest reached near completion this week with only a smattering remaining to be harvested. The quality remained very good, despite a dropoff in production caused by a drought and a minor freeze.

Area grain elevators reported the harvest to be 98 to 100 per cent complete, although the production is one-fourth to one-third below last year's crop.

On the state level, 27 million bushels of wheat were harvested compared to an average of 80 million bushels.

"This is the second smallest wheat harvest on record, the smallest being in 1956," Leo Witkowski, president of Texas Wheat Growers Association, said.

There was very little dryland wheat harvested, with good and fair yields reported on irrigated wheat.

There were several reasons for the poor wheat yield.

"The drought is the main reason for inferior crop. Even irrigated grain needs a little help from nature and we just didn't have any. Some farmers pastured the wheat too late. With that and no rain, things did not work out," Witkowski said.

County Agriculture Agent Justin McBride said another factor which lowered wheat yields on some farms was the late freeze the latter part of April.

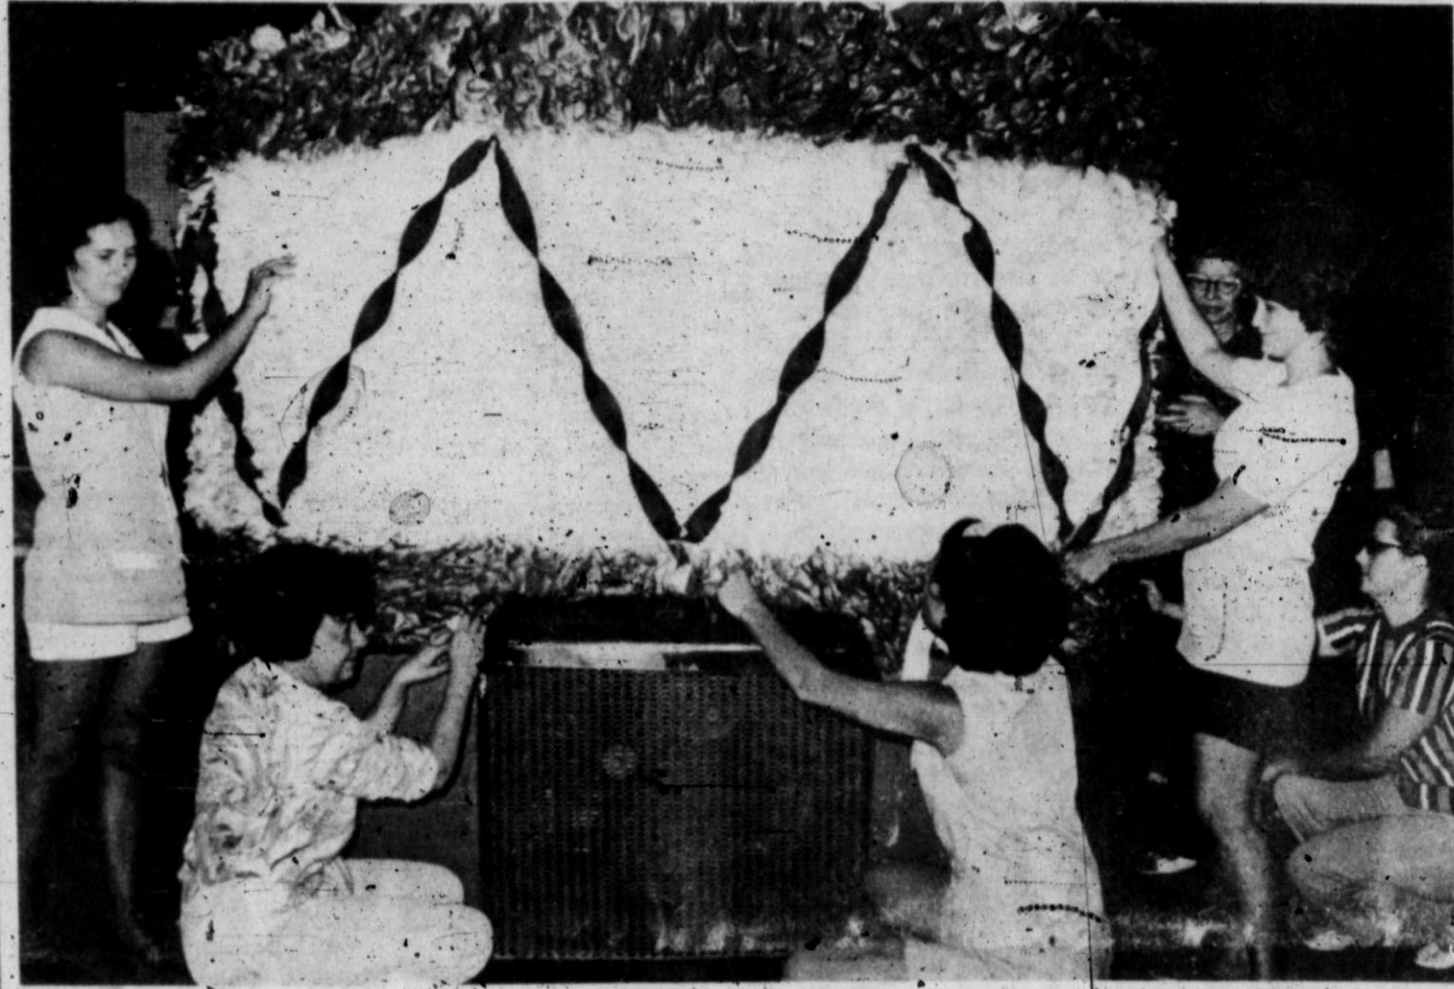

"It was thought earlier that a little or no damage had occurred, but when the harvest was over, some farmers' that normally produced 65 to 70 bushels per acre, found that they only made 45 to 50 bushels. This was primarily due to the freeze," McBride said.

Hail damage results varied in some parts of the county.

"There was considerable hail damage to the wheat. Of course this was spotted, but there were strips of land heavily damaged by hail," Bill Waldrep, manager of Community Grain Elevator, said.

Joe Arthro of Hereford Grain Elevator, reported that the wheat he handled showed less hail damage than the year before.

"I know one thing about this harvest, it was the shortest our area has had for many, many years," Arthro said.

Sharp quits probation job

Lowell Sharp, who has lived with his family in Hereford for 25 years, resigned this week as adult probation officer of Deaf Smith County.

Sharp said Wednesday he and his family will move to Klamath Falls, Ore., later this summer. Sharp's resignation becomes effective Aug. 1.

He and his wife, Mary Jo, are moving in order to be closer to their daughter, Mrs. James Alston, and their four grandchildren, Linda, Steve, James and Bill, he said.

Sharp says he intends to accept a job there, but plans are at the present undecided. He is a member of the Hereford School Board, with a three-year term running through next April. Upon his resignation, the remaining members of the board will be faced with the appointment of another person to fill the remaining time.

Besides being a school board member, Sharp is a member of the Noon Kiwanis Club. He and his wife are also active members of the First Baptist Church.

The Sharps said they will not entirely leave Hereford behind them. "The people of Deaf Smith County have been really good to the Sharp family. We are certainly going to miss our friends, and we plan to be back from time to time. We are not going to burn any bridges by moving," Sharp said.

The Sharps lived several years in Borger until the war broke out and they then moved to Portland, Ore., where Sharp was stationed.

After meeting his military responsibility, Sharp and his family moved to Hereford in 1946, where they ran a chocolate shop for two years.

Prior to being elected sheriff in 1952, Sharp was in the automobile business for several years. He served as sheriff of this county for 12 years.

In 1966, he became adult probation officer and is presently holding this position.

Capitol Tour was rewarding

BY MARKIE MCBRIDE
Staff Writer

Two 4-H members who recently returned from Washington, D. C., consider their trip as a meaningful experience which made them more aware of the importance of being a good citizen.

Sue Shirley and Mickey Ginn, Deaf Smith County 4-Hers, participated in the National 4-H Citizenship Short-course and Talent Tour, June 10-22 which featured extensive tours of the capitol city and interesting places to and from Washington, D. C.

They participated in discussion groups concerning world problems while staying at the Washington 4-H Center, headquarters for the event.

Chosen by Producer's Grain Corporation on the quality of answers given on a citizenship application form, 57 4-H Texas representatives convened at Washington with approximately 120 other state delegates from Indiana, Nebraska, Virginia and Tennessee.

Miss Shirley and Ginn shared in the highlights offered on the trip.

"Of all the things we did, I enjoyed the day we spent at the capitol the very most," Miss Shirley said.

"But the experience that meant the most to me was the feeling I got from hearing other teenagers' opinions on citizenship and being surrounded by historical places that represent America. The whole trip brought me closer to my country," she said.

Ginn agreed.

"We left Hereford representing a county but we came back representing an entire state. I felt that if we really put our minds to something we could have accomplished anything. That is just how unified we became," he said.

"I learned if you want to do anything worthwhile you have to get involved. At the conference, the motto was, 'Are you a part of the problem or are you a part of the solution?' This is something that made us all stop and think," Ginn said.

After attending a short orientation meeting at Texas A&M University, the group began the tour June 10, stopping at historical sights enroute to Washington. They attended a concert at the Grand Ole Opry and visited Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson at Charlottesville, Va.

Arriving in Washington June 13, the delegation toured the city for one week, seeing the Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln Memorials, Arlington National Cemetery and the Iwo Jima monument.

They also visited the Smithsonian Institute; Mt. Vernon, the home of George Washington; the Potomac River; and the National Archives.

They spent an entire day touring Capitol Hill. Cong. Bob Price took Sue, Mickey and other 4-Hers from his district on a detailed tour of the nation's capitol. They attended a committee meeting with Price and discussed space program expenditures.

The small group listened to a debate in the House of Representatives, then the entire 4-H delegation held a tea honoring all the congressmen.

Building permits increase

The construction of several large businesses and a number of high-priced homes during June pushed the city building permit total over the $2 million mark. The total for the year is $2,119,183.

The June total was the highest of the year, $648,500, surpassing the previous monthly high of $610,800 set in January. The January high was aided by a $350,000 permit issued to Moorman Feed.

Some 23 building permits were issued during June and the largest of these was for $150,000 for the construction of the new Dick Norwood, Chevrolet-Olds complex on North U. S. 385. Another large permit was issued for a $50,000 home and still another for a $75,000 home.

The June total also was boosted by a $40,000 permit to George Warner for a warehouse and several other homes in the $20,000 range.

Some 14 permits were issued during June for the construction of new homes and this was $385,800 of the monthly total. Additions, alterations and conversions of homes accounted for $29,500 of the total while stores or mercantile buildings added $221,800 to the total.

Storm shelter construction, though somewhat slower than in the previous two months since the April tornado, totaled four for June in the amount of $1,950.

Month-by-month totals for the year show January with $610,800 in permits, February with $48,930, March with $261,893, April with $254,930, and May with $297,250.

Boom...

(Continued From Page One) month when the reports come in so I can keep up with the total net growth and I can assure you it is substantial."

Carroll McDonald, manager of Southwestern Public Service, had brought up at a June meeting of the Hereford Hustlers that after looking at these customer increases, he was hesitant to go along with the theory that Hereford is standing still just because it hasn't added new major industries recently.

"I do know that if you look at the charts, month by month, that we're still growing. It's pretty steady; it's not going up and down. If you put it on a graph, it would just be going up all the time," McDonald said.

Young, who was at the same meeting, said he tends to agree with the thought expressed, that eventually a city can become saturated with satellite businesses and growth after an industry comes to town.

"Rather than rest on any laurels of percentage growth figures, we do need to anticipate a time when we will reach this saturation point and we will need more industry to generate more growth," Young said this week. "I think we are getting satellite industries that come as a result of the cattle industry and Wilson's, but they're not the big factor that is necessary to generate more growth for a longer period."

All he hears from businessmen, especially in finance, Young said, "is that the future is right for this immediate area. I think we can tell that this is true by the number of people who are being transferred here from larger companies or who are changing jobs or changing companies to come here."

Sears said hardly anything has ever come into Hereford that hasn't been related to something already here. Holly came because beets could be grown here, Wilson came because of the feedlots, etc.

"We have more here now, so consequently we have more to build on. You start adding up all the relatively small things that have started in Hereford the past 18 months—two truck washing outfits, Moorman Feed, Albers. I can't even name them all. But there are a bunch of them. Maybe not big deals in themselves at this point, but they add up."

Sears made a major point about the "saturation" argument.

"I think not, because we have enough things around here that employ men—farming, feedyards, Wilson, Holly and so forth. We now have the situation where people will come in with industries to exploit the unused labor pool of women who want to work." The amount of woman labor pool available is a major point for several industries with assembly-line type work, such as an electronics firm that is now looking at Hereford as a possible site. One of the questions the company wants answered is whether the area has an adequate supply of woman laborers available, should the firm locate here.

Harlan VanderZee, president of the Hereford State Bank, said much depends on the nation's economy.

"We can't sit out here on a little island and do good if everything else is doing bad," VanderZee said.

"But I think our area is going to prosper more than many surrounding areas because of many things that have already come in. I don't think there is anything to be alarmed about locally, although of course we don't want to just sit on what we have and not try to do anything more he added.

Hereford is in better shape than neighboring cities, VanderZee suggested, because of efforts of the past several years.

"I certainly don't think we're going forward quite as fast as going backward. We may not be where we have been, but I think many are not going forward at all."

All-stars named for Pony League

Members of the Pony League All-Stars, along with players who received special recognition during the season, were named Friday night during a benefit game at the Bronco Baseball Park.

Named to the All-Star team were Albert Gonzales of the Orioles, Kirk Spain of the Tigers, Vance Hennington of the Twins, Mike Crim of the White Sox, Harvey Torres of the White Sox, Doug Charest of the White Sox, Dave Charest of the White Sox, Rob Lomas of the Twins, Billy Wilson of the Twins, Marvin Harris of the White Sox, Keith Gooch of the Twins, Dennis Nunley of the Tigers, Roy Martinez of the Tigers, David Artho of the Orioles, and Jimmy Sandovall of the White Sox. It could be worse

Chuck Kelley, who recently opened a bearings firm in Hereford, was telling the other day of a time not long ago when he started feeling a sharp pain in his chest.

Was it cancer? Heart disease? Kelley didn't know what to do; he didn't even tell his family about it, because he knew he was dying. He hesitated about going to the doctor. It would be hard to hear the physician affirm what he already knew: that he had a fatal disease.

He worried, and he even went as far as deciding what words of admission he would give his family to remember him by.

Then he went to the doctor. "You've got a slight muscle twinge," the doctor told him.

"A muscle twinge?" Kelley repeated, incredulously. "Only a muscle twinge?"

Kelley joked later that he didn't appreciate it at all, since he already had his deathbed speech memorized and everything.

Across the street from my dad's weekly newspaper in Anton, about 1955, was a blacksmith shop.

The owner of the shop was hammering away on a piece of metal one afternoon. Suddenly, he brought the hammer down

Lance Martin of the White Sox and Robert Scott of the Indians.

Harvey Torres was named the league's most valuable player and Darryl Murphy was presented the sportsmanship award. David Artho and Vance Hennington were recognized for throwing no-hitters during the year. Artho threw one no-hitter and Hennington threw two.

Coaches of the Year, who also will lead the All-Star team, were Denzil Vaughn of the White Sox and Terry Hill of the Tigers.

The All-Stars will be advancing against teams from other cities in tournament competition later this month.

Bilingual program likely next year

Supt. Roy Hartman reiterated Saturday that the local school system will be without a full bilingual program this fall, but he said meetings are scheduled later this month to allow a resumption of the program by the fall of 1972.

Hartman visited with the commissioner of the Texas Education Agency, Dr. J. W. Edgar, in his Austin office Monday.

"We discussed our differences, and at this point there is no change in what was previously decided. There will be no bilingual program in Hereford for next year," Hartman said.

"He was sympathetic with us, and I feel confident at this point that if we so desire, we will be in the market for a bilingual program in the year 1972-73."

Dr. Edgar and the agency's bilingual staff will meet "in about two weeks" with Hartman, Asst. Supt. Robert Holman, the superintendent of another area school and officials of the regional education service center in Canyon concerning the program.

"What we want to do," Hartman said, "is to sit down and talk about getting any differences settled now, instead of waiting until this time next year to try to meet the requirements of their program."

The superintendent said communication difficulties played a part in Hereford's failure to have a program for next fall and that the next time a bilingual program comes, it will be between the Texas Education

Agency and the Hereford schools, rather than using the regional service center as a go-between.

Hereford had planned to offer a bilingual program for next fall, but the state rejected the area plan submitted by the regional service center.

PLASTIC BEDS FOR SILKWORMS

TOKYO — Some Japanese silkworms have to make do with plastic beds these days.

The pampered worms traditionally are reared on bamboo shelves; but now they must rest on plastic in areas hit hard by a growing shortage of bamboo.

Since 1960, about a third of Japanese bamboo plants have flowered, then died. Bamboo, a giant perennial grass, rarely blooms — some species only once every 120 years.

When bamboo does blossom and produces a heavy crop of seed, the parent plant usually dies. Seedlings carry on the strain but take several years to mature.

help. One old boy, a lumbering lad of 275 pounds or so, whose shirttail was hanging out and who was missing several teeth, sympathized: "Well, it could be worse."

"I don't know how," said the owner, still moaning in misery. "Well," the young helper added, "it could have been my hand."

Then, there was the time Charlie Riggins was involved in an automobile wreck. He was driving and he had a friend with him. Charlie was motoring a long, minding his own business, when a car turned in front of him and Charlie was unable to stop. He smashed into the other car.

A highway patrolman came along. "The first thing," Riggins recalls, "the patrolman said to the other driver, 'Why, hi, John. How's your wife and kids?' And they talked and talked for about 15 minutes before even getting down to talking about the wreck."

Riggins and his friend were getting nervous. They knew they were in the right but they weren't sure the patrolman was going to come to that conclusion.

Then the other driver broke off his conversation with the patrolman and looked at his damaged auto.

"Now, listen, Joe," said the driver to the patrolman. "This is all my fault. These fellows did nothing wrong at all. I just pulled stupidly out in front of them."

Charlie Riggins sighed in relief, as Chuck Kelley probably did when he heard from his doctor, if he were, to admit it. Things are not always as bad as they seem.

Like the blacksmith's helper, it could be worse.

Life insurance firm presents big claim here

A check for one of the largest death claims in the history of the company was delivered Thursday to an area resident.

Max T. Murray, president of Great National Life Insurance Company, Dallas-based subsidiary of USLIFE Corporation, flew to Hereford to personally deliver the check to Mrs. Wanda West of Hereford.

The check was the proceeds of five life insurance policies written by Great National on the life of Samie West. Each policy had the "double indemnity" provision. R. T. Woodward of Amarillo was the agent on the case.

"Service to our policy-holders is our goal and we are pleased to be able to be of service to Mrs. West in this time of need,"

Murray said.

West was found dead of a gunshot wound beside his pickup truck northwest of Hereford. Justice of the Peace Glenn Nelson ruled the shooting was accidental, after his pickup ran into a ditch.

Helga Thomé and Mrs. G. W. Newsom look through scrapbook of memories

Former AFS student visiting in Hereford

BY JANIE BANNER
Staff Writer

Those at Hereford High School in 1955-56 may remember Helga Thomé, Hereford's second American Field Service student, from Bieber, Germany.

Miss Thomé was 17 when she left. Now, at 32, she is back in the city to visit Mrs. G. W. Newsom, her American mother of 15 years ago.

Coming to America from Germany is quite unusual for a young girl of 16, especially 10 years after the war when Germany was so very poor, she said.

But Helga expected it all to be wonderful, and it was, despite the strange country, unfamiliar faces and unusual events she encountered.

"I never felt like a stranger here," she said Thursday, two days after she arrived. "I guess because it is about the friendliest town I know."

"I accepted everything as a matter of course and was grateful for everything that happened to me. Only afterwards (back in Germany) it dawned on me that it could have been much different."

Jane Newsom, now Mrs. Norman Bookout of Wichita Falls, was so much like a natural sister to Helga that she didn't have other thoughts about it.

"Jane and I always got along like sisters. We fussed as sisters do but always ironed things out," she recalled. "We were individuals but had a natural relationship between us."

Helga feels the people are still the same, friendly people of 15 years ago but the town seems to have doubled in size. "It's rather difficult to describe," she said.

During years they are apart, the Newsoms and Helga keep closely in touch through letter-writing. "When I don't write them so often," she said, "I think of them each day or talk about them to someone."

As Jane's graduation gift a year after Helga returned to her country, Mr. and Mrs. Newsom gave her a summer trip to Germany to be with Helga.

The family and some friends went later, in 1959, and spent 89 days touring seven countries and visiting Helga and her family.

When she first returned to Germany she continued courses at high school and spent six months in Paris in an effort to improve her French.

She worked for awhile as secretary in an American personnel office and later spent 4½ years translating.

Helga dates occasionally, but says she probably will never marry. "Not at my age! I have developed habits that could not be reconciled with marriage."

AARP to meet Thursday night

The American Association for Retired Persons will meet for its regularly scheduled business meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Community Center. Bert Brown, president, will preside.

Hardy Benson, program chairman in the absence of V. E. Dodson, will show slides of New York City, Boston, the Autumn Foliage of Virginia, Quebec and EXPO '67.

Games of cards and dominoes will follow during the social hour. Membership is still open and anyone interested is invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodson are in Utah on tour of the Grand, Red, Zion and Bryce Canyons, Petrified Forest, Cedar Beaks and Painted Desert.

Construction starts on Nance Ranch

CANYON — Construction is underway on a 500-head capacity experimental feedlot at the West Texas State University Nance Ranch.

Cost of constructing and equipping the feedlot was estimated at $18,000, said John W. McNeill, acting head of the department of animal science in the university's School of Agriculture.

Hartco Enterprises of Dumas was low bidder on the project at $8,389.50. Construction is expected to be completed in about three weeks, McNeill said.

He said two projects would be undertaken initially at the new facility.

One project will concern disease control and stress on stocker/feeder cattle. Several veterinarians from Texas A&M University will work with West Texas State animal scientists on the project.

The second project will seek to learn the long-term effects of liquid feed and supplements on feeder cows. Taylor-Evans Seed Co. of Amarillo will provide $20,000 over two years to finance the research.

Effects of environmental change on stocker feeder cattle will be studied later, McNeill said.

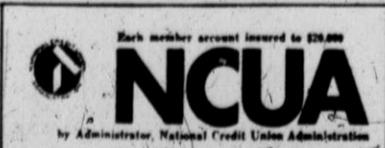

"We plan to get a good representation of cattle from various parts of the country," he said. "Some of the cows would be

RECEIVES CHECK — Wanda West, widow of Samie West, receives one of the largest death claims ever presented by Great National Life Insurance Co. of Dallas. Max T. Murray, president, presents it Thursday, with Amarillo agent R. T. Woodward looking on. West died recently in an accident northwest of Hereford, and the company had five double-indemnity policies on his life.

SALES COORDINATOR — David Pruitt and his wife, Pat, have moved to Hereford, where he is area sales coordinator for Deaf Smith County REC. He will visit farmers and ranchers on their electrical needs.

REC appoints sales coordinator for this area

Deaf Smith County Rural Electric Cooperative has assigned a man to work closely with the farmer and rancher in Deaf Smith County and the three other counties the REC serves. He is David Pruitt, who got his B. S. degree at Texas A&M and his master's degree at Texas Tech, both in agricultural economics.

In naming Pruitt as sales coordinator for the area, REC General Manager James Hull said the company is trying to change its service policy to fit the progress of the agricultural industry. "The farmer and rancher simply do not have the time to come to us to discuss his electrical needs, so we must go to him," Hull said. "Mr. Pruitt will help us accomplish this need, as most of his time will be utilized in making personal calls on the agricultural producer at the farm or ranch." His wife received a B. S. and master's degree at East Texas State and will be a special education teacher this fall in the Hereford school system. David and his wife, Pat, live at 436-B Ave. B in Hereford.

Juvenile board names Cavness chairman: okays Hodges 'for now'

The newly created Juvenile Board, in its first session Wednesday, named Dr. H. A. "Hap" Cavness as chairman and kept Juvenile Officer Billy Hodges in his job on a temporary basis until additional applicants for the job can be screened.

The seven-person board hired Hodges through Sept. 1 at which time either he or someone else will be hired for a full term, the board said.

The board decided "to not be in a hurry" about making the decision on the juvenile officer. It preferred to give each of the members of the board time to acquaint themselves with the present officer and the duties of the job.

The board decided to keep the monthly salary for the juvenile officer at $600, at least for the time being.

The board members are Cavness and Bartley Dowell, city commissioners; Donald Hicks and Earl Holt, county commissioners; Larry Wartes and Ruth Word, representing the school; and County Judge H. C. Williams.

In a drawing, it was determined that Hicks, Wartes and Dowell will have terms expiring on Dec. 31, 1971, and that Cavness, Holt and Mrs. Word will have terms expiring on Dec. 31, 1972. As the terms expire, the respective city, county and school boards involved will reappoint them or name others for new two-year terms.

The county judge is an automatic member of the board.

The meeting which lasted about 90 minutes Wednesday afternoon, was strictly organizational and covered no actions concerning individual problems with juveniles.

WHO DUNNIT
TROY, N. Y. — The federal government will pay for information leading to the conviction of persons who dump refuse in navigable waters. This information came to light as local, state and federal officials tried to find out who dumped a garbage-truck load of refuse into the Hudson River north of Troy late in August. The federal law prohibiting such dumping calls for a fine not exceeding $2,500 nor less than $500, or by imprisonment of both, with one-half of the fine to be paid to the persons or persons giving information which shall lead to conviction.

REFUGEE FROM RAIN — Spec. 4 Tom Burdett of Hereford, left, peers out from under an Army poncho with two other National Guard soldiers during field maneuvers at annual summer camp at North Ft. Hood, Tex. Burdett, Staff Sgt. Maurice Cowen of Amarillo (center) and Spec. 4 John Samford of Amarillo are members of the 72nd Infantry Brigade, and are due to return from camp today.

PRISON ADMISSION

LIMA, Peru — Relatives of inmates in one of Lima's major prisons complained to newsmen that they were being charged a "commission" for delivery of messages to the inmates.

A newsmen decided to verify the complaint. He went to the prison, asked at the main gate to see the prison director, and was told he would have to pay five soles (about 15 cents).

Drug abuse laws should be strict

A two-to-one majority of teachers, students, and boys on probation believe laws on drug abuse should be more strict according to a state-wide survey made by Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education (TANE).
 The question: "Do you believe laws on drug abuse should be more strict?" was answered, "Yes" by 85 per cent of teachers, 65 per cent of high school students, and 54 per cent of boys on probation. Total response was 67 per cent for more strict laws.
 The survey was taken in both rural and metropolitan areas of the state, from Farwell, near the New Mexico line, to Houston. In large city schools, the administration was asked to determine a representative cross section of teachers and students.

 "Are you personally acquainted with a drug abuser?" was answered "Yes" by 18 per cent of teachers, 53 per cent of high school students, and 50 per cent of boys on probation.
 "Do you know someone who could get illegal drugs for you today if you wished to make a purchase?" was answered "Yes" by 12 per cent of teachers, 52 per cent of students, and 39 per cent of boys on probation.
 "Do you know someone who would sell illegal drugs directly to you if you wished to make a purchase?" was answered "Yes" by 10 per cent of the teachers, 40 per cent of students, and 39 per cent of boys on probation.

 "In your opinion, what are the two main factors leading to drug abuse in teenagers?" was answered "Peer Group Pressure" and "Curiosity," in that order, by teachers. Students, however,

Boys on probation rated probation rated "escape" first, and "Sex Substitute" second.
 "In your opinion, what are the two most important preventative measures that can be taken to combat drug abuse?" was answered "Education" and "Elimination of Supply of Illegal Drugs," by teachers and students. Boys on probation rated "Education" slightly ahead of "Law Enforcement," "Stronger Laws," and "Legalization of Marijuana."

 The question: "Is it possible to learn about the effects of a drug without personally experimenting with it?" was answered "Yes" by 98 per cent of teachers, 90 per cent of students, and 84 per cent of boys on probation.
 "Have you come to a decision about whether or not marijuana should be legalized?" was answered "Yes" by 80 per cent of teachers, 78 per cent of students, and 44 per cent of boys on probation. (They were not asked what their decision was.)

Areas involved in the survey were Farwell, Cotulla, Sulpher Springs, Richardson, Garland, Childress, Grapevine, McAllen, Fort Worth, and Houston. (The survey was also taken in Dallas, but results were not returned in time for tabulation.)
 TANE is a non-profit, educational organization, dedicated to preventing alcohol and drug problems. In existence since 1935, it is supported financially by Texas churches, individual contributions, businesses, industry, and proceeds of sale of educational aids.
 Programs include public school assembly programs, inservice teacher training workshops, drug education seminars

Social security

(Have you a question about social security? Address it to: Travis C. Briggs, District Manager, Social Security Administration, 317 East Third Street, Amarillo, Texas. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)
Q. I am a working mother and for schools and churches, publishing books; production of audio visual aids, a 150-man speakers bureau, legislative information service, research, and an annual drug education workshop co-sponsored with Baylor University. The next workshop is scheduled for August 5-7 at Waco.
 Australia is the only continent lying entirely south of the Equator.

would like to know whether my children under age 18 would receive benefits on my record in the event of my death or disability?
 A. Children now receive the same protection on their mother's record as on that of the father. In the event of your death or disability the children would be eligible for benefits if you had worked the required length of time in employment covered by social security.
 Q. What is the most amount of work a person would need to be eligible for social security?
 A. Anyone who has at least 40 quarters (10 years) of work under social security is fully insured and would be protected in the event of retirement or death for at least a minimum payment.

From the office of Sen. John Tower

This weekend we celebrate the 150th anniversary of the birth of our nation. It is a time for celebration and commemoration. It is a time for pride in our achievements and for rededication to the solution of problems which remain.

The United States of America was founded in a search for national liberty and individual freedom. Throughout our history, we have preserved our national liberty and expanded individual freedom. Neither of these have been easy, and often continue to pose difficult issues. We have sometimes found that to provide freedom for one man inhibits the freedom of another. We have sometimes found that expenditures required to preserve our national liberty do not leave as much as we would have preferred for dealing with domestic needs.

These basic problems are not new and they are not likely to be easily overcome.

Yet, we have made great progress as a nation. Our citizens enjoy the highest standard of living and the greatest spectrum of freedoms of any in the world. The average disparity between rich and poor is actually rather small compared with other nations. And those which have laid great stress upon equal distribution of wealth have severely curtailed the individual freedoms of their citizens in the process.

Our nation did not achieve greatness through the use of material resources alone. The founding fathers and all of those who succeeded them in greatness drew spirit, strength and moral guidance from their belief in a Supreme Being.

This weekend, the churches and synagogues will have their doors open as usual on the Sabbath and those speaking from the pulpits across our land may make mention of the role God has played in our nation's heritage.

Separation of Church and State is a fundamental principle in the United States. But individually, throughout the country's history, most leaders have been influenced by the Judeo-Christian ethic, the source of the Ten Commandments. Anyone familiar with American tradition will observe the concept of divine guidance was seldom far from the minds of those who played significant roles in shaping the destiny of the United States of America.

So it seems fitting that many Americans will celebrate Independence Day this year by coupling their patriotic activities with a religious observance of their own choosing.

Others will celebrate in other ways.

A few may decide to participate in some kind of demonstration which they feel will dramatize a need for government action in a particular direction.

While most Americans may not agree with those who celebrate July Fourth by engaging in a demonstration, the fact that such demonstration, possibly in direct opposition to the official views of the government, is allowed to proceed speaks well for the degree of freedom available within our borders.

There are some in our nation who are beginning to speak about a need for calling a new Constitutional Convention so that our nation's Constitution may be completely rewritten. I believe that our Constitution has served us well and can continue to do so. We can and have changed it through the Amendment process many times. In fact, the states are now in the process of ratifying a 26th Amendment which will lower the voting age to 18.

Our nation is not without problems. But we are also not without adequate avenues to solution. Many of our problems actually stem from our nation's success.

We do not require a new Constitution. We require a continuing rededication to our national goals and continuing pride in our nation's heritage and the ability of the American people.

The celebration of American Independence is a privilege indeed. America has not always been free. And as long as mankind remains imperfect there will be continual threats to freedom.

America's freedom is vulnerable to attack from without and to decay from within. We must maintain an effective defense to insure our nation's safety from without; and we must maintain a spirit which cherishes and exercises our freedoms in order to preserve them from within.

Today, we exercise that spirit. In the Congress, before the Supreme Court, at every level of government and within each of our daily lives, we debate the issues and make the decisions which each of us hopes will lead to greater fulfillment of the goals envisioned by the founding fathers.

Our nation maintains the spirit and determination upon which it was founded. We exhibit that spirit on this July Fourth weekend.

Veterans have deadlines for various benefits

Questions posed by veterans to VA offices frequently show the veteran is in doubt about the time factor of applying for some benefits, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director in Waco.

"Our office has prepared this time table on benefits to assist veterans and their families," Coker said.

The countdown for the veteran starts from the day of his separation from the service.

Coker said a veteran has 10 days to notify any local Selective Service Board of his address and 30 days to register if he did not do so before entering military service.

If a veteran wants his old job back he has 90 days to apply to his former employer for re-employment.

He has 120 days to convert his Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) to an individual policy without examination. If totally disabled at separation, a veteran has up to one year if his condition does not change, to convert his insurance.

In either case, he must apply for the policy to one of the nearly 600 companies participating in the SGLI program.

A veteran with a service-connected disability has one year from the date he receives his notice of service-connection to apply to VA for Service-Disabled Veterans Insurance.

He also has one year to apply for VA dental care, or to request unemployment compensation from his local state employment service.

Veterans have eight years from date of separation to apply for and receive educational assistance benefits, which terminate after that time.

For a veteran with a service-connected injury or disease, there is no time limit for applying for VA disability compensation, but in order to receive payments dated from the time of his separation from military service, he must apply within one year of separation.

There is no time limit for a veteran to be assisted by his local state employment service in finding a job or job-training program.

Nor is there a time limit, to obtain hospital care, or to obtain a GI loan to buy, build, or improve a home or to buy a farm.

For more details, veterans should contact their local VA office, local veterans service organization representatives, or County Service Officers.

When a star precedes the number on some U. S. currency, it indicates that the bill is a substitute, issued to replace one that was worn or defective.

Average life of a milk bottle is 34 deliveries.

Concerning veterans

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their dependents are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q—I am a patient in a private nursing home who was receiving special monthly pension until the end of the year. My income will go a few dollars over the limit this year. Will I lose all of the benefits, including drugs and medicines that were being furnished by VA?

A—No, if your annual income does not exceed the limit by more than $500, VA will continue to provide drugs and medicines prescribed by your physician, even though your monthly pension benefits will be discontinued.

Q—I plan to purchase a mobile home and place it in a small rural town. I contacted the local lender about a GI loan and was advised that they would not make a loan under a VA guarantee. Is it possible to obtain a direct loan?

A—No. The law governing direct loans provides that such loans may be made only in non-urban areas where private capital is not generally available. Since the VA mobile home loan program has been in effect only a short time, there is insufficient basis for determining the availability of private capital for such loans.

Q—I'm attending school under the GI Bill, and would like to change my program of studies. Is this allowed?

A—Yes. Each veteran may make one change of program. One additional change may be approved if it is found through VA counseling that the program proposed by the veteran is more suitable to his aptitudes, interests, and abilities.

Davis daughters touring Europe

Nancy and Janey Davis, teenage daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Davis Jr., 200 Fir, are among 10 students of Goddard High School in Roswell elected for this year's American Leadership Study Group tour of Europe.

The tour is sponsored each year by Clark University in Worcester, Mass. and awarded students throughout the United States who possess outstanding academic and leadership qualities.

They flew from New York to London where they spent one week sightseeing and studying its history. A side-trip to Stratford-on-Avon, a town in central England on the Avon River in Warwickshire, was next on the schedule.

From London they went to South Hampton and across the English Channel by boat for three days in Brussels, Belgium and Frankfurt, Germany.

Another three days will be spent in Ennsbruck, Austria; Italy, Vienna and Milan and one full week in Rome for visits to Pompey, the Isle of Capri, Florence, Italy and Lucern, Switzerland.

A week will follow in Paris before their return to New York July 28 at the completion of their high school credit in European History.

The Davis sisters participate in lecture sessions lasting several hours each morning while on the tour in the study of modern and past history of the European countries.

While there, Janey hopes to visit a pen pal, Lily Bonavita from La Spazia, whom she has written for four years.

The Davises are newcomers to Hereford. Mr. Davis is salesman for New Holland, a business he has been with for almost 14 years.

Questions about social security

(Have you a question about social security? Address is to: Travis C. Briggs, District Manager, Social Security Administration, 317 East Third Street, Amarillo, Texas. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

Q. I will be age 65 in August, 1971, and plan to retire. When should I file my claim?

A. You should file your claim now. By filing now you will have your check at the earliest possible date. We will also enroll you in the hospital and medical insurance part of Medicare, to be effective August 1, 1971.

Q. Is it true that the social security tax increased beginning the first of 1971?

A. Yes. The rate for an employee is now 5.2 per cent on the first $7800 he earns in 1971. The self-employed will pay a tax of 7.5 per cent on 1971 income.

Q. I am receiving benefits as a student and plan to continue in school. However, I will transfer from one college to another. Will

I need to take any action to have payments continued?

A. Yes, you should notify the Social Security Administration immediately when you enroll in a different school. Otherwise, payments may be suspended when the first school tells us you are no longer in attendance.

Q. I have to file an annual report of earnings each year because I earn a little over $1650 a year. I was 72 years in May, 1970 and understand that the retirement test no longer applies. Do I have to make a report for 1970?

A. It is true that the retirement test does not apply for months beginning with age 72. However, you were not yet 72 years old in the first four months of the year so you must file an annual report of earnings for 1970.

Suggestions for canning
By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

As canning season nears, there are calls in regard to testing cooker gauges. The Master gauge can be borrowed from the office at Room 304 Courthouse. Also, Home Canning Bulletin 394 is available at the office. We'll mail the bulletin if you call 364-3373.

We have phone numbers of two persons who have used pressure cookers for sale. We'll cooperate if you are in the market for a used cooker.

The courthouse will be closed Monday, July 5th for Independence Day Celebration.

Method of canning fruit without sugar, is a question often asked. The specialists say that fruits canned with liquid sweeteners rate just as high in texture, color, flavor and sweetness as those packed in a sugar syrup.

Proportions: one tablespoon of liquid sweetener to each cup of fruit. Boiling water for fruit as berries, peaches, and apricots. For firmer and less sweet fruit as pears, cherries, apples and applesauce use two tablespoons of liquid sweetener per cup boiling water.

Use same proportion of dry sweetener as recommended in regular recipe for canning fruits.

My suggestion is to can a small portion of fruit and taste for personal choice. Then adjust the recipe to suit individual taste.

*This is a good suggestion for cutting calories in canned fruit.

Speaking of cutting calories or dieting! Nothing could have pleased Elmore Rains, Tom Draper and Clarence Vezy more than for members of the Sugar Blues Tops Club to have report cards. These cards are filled in by TOPS officials at the meeting scoring weight loss and citizenship. Then, here's the crux of the matter, — an adult member of the household has to sign the report card before the next meeting.

A personal message to the three afore-mentioned adult members of the households: there are ways and means of getting report cards signed. We haven't forgotten all the things we learned in school.

A bright comment from a TOPS member when she was handed her report card: "I believe a B could be made over that F."

Here are tasty recipes to get you started on the summertime habit of serving egg-vegetable combinations, both plentiful this season.

SUPER SUPPER SALAD
2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin

1/4 cup cold water
2 cups diced chicken
2 cups chicken broth
1 1/2 cups cooked, mixed vegetables — peas, carrots, sweet corn, string beans
2 hard-cooked eggs
1/4 cup chopped stuffed olives
Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes, then dissolve in hot chicken broth (canned chicken may be used). Cool. Set mold in cold water and decorate the bottom with slices of egg and olives.

Cover with a thin layer of chicken broth and let set. Then arrange chicken and vegetables in alternate layers. Pouring a little roth over each layer and allowing it to set before proceeding.

Letting the mold stand in ice water will quicken the process. When firm, remove salad from mold and cut into fairly thick slices. Serve individual portions on lettuce with mayonnaise garnish.

TOMATO FLOWER SALAD

6 chilled tomatoes
lettuce
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped cucumber
1 tablespoon minced onion
1/2 cup cooked sweet corn
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon salt lack pepper.

Cut stem ends from tomatoes. Cut tomatoes four times from the top almost through to the bottom, to form eight attached "petals." Spread petals apart on lettuce-lined plates.
Combine other ingredients, and put filling into centers of the "flowers." Chill. Serve with a dollop of mayonnaise as garnish and a sprinkling of paprika. They make attractive, colorful salads.

DOCTOR DECRIES PROLONGED LIFE

LONDON — A distinguished British physicist says "too much has been done to prolong life when it has lost most of its value."

Sir George Thomson, 77-year-old Nobel prize-winner, made what he called "an appeal to doctors" in the medical journal Lancet. Thomson cited pneumonia as the "old man's friend" which has deserted him — driven away by antibiotics, and leaving him to a life he might no longer desire.

Neighborhood Kids Show Patriotism

In tune with the citywide parade down Main Street Saturday afternoon, three families of youngsters on Centre Street planned and staged their own procession last week.

Brent and Bethany Boyd, children of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Boyd of 118 Centre; Greg, Mike, Keith and Sandra Hacker, children of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Hacker of 117 Centre; and Ronda and Kirk Campbell, children of Mrs. Wendell Clark of 121 Centre, planned their parade for several weeks before the actual construction of "floats" began about two weeks ago.

The youngsters did their own work, according to Mrs. Hacker, but the parents showed concern and pride in the efforts of their offspring.

"Wild animals," fetched from the toy boxes of each household, and colorful flags, some brought by the Hackers from a recent trip to Six Flags; along with hand printed signs and crepe paper streamers completed the decor of the three floats.

A contest to determine the best float resulted in a three-way tie for first place.

Ronda Campbell said the idea originated "from the parades I've seen," and from hearing about the many preparations for the second annual downtown Independence Day parade.

THE ADVENTURE OF BEING A WIFE

by Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale
Ruth Stafford has heard about the handsome young minister before she met him. The girls in her college sorority would return from church every Sunday bubbling over with enthusiasm about his spellbinding eloquence and charming personality.

A Minister's daughter, she was well aware of the self-denial and self-discipline required of a minister's wife and she wanted no part of it. But eventually she succumbed to her roommate's persuasion and met the eligible bachelor.

Something in her said her destiny was linked to "this unseen young man that all the girls were talking about."

This "unseen young man" was Norman Vincent Peale, destined to become the world-famous preacher of Positive Thinking. After more than forty years of marriage to Dr. Peale, it is not surprising that Ruth has developed some pretty positive notions on the subject.

She insists that marriage is the greatest career a woman can have, but good marriages have to be made to happen.

"Too many people go around downgrading marriage these days. It has become a favorite indoor sport. The result is that wherever I go young married women come up to me and bewail their fate.

"They've been brainwashed into thinking that they're caught in an unrewarding, unstimulating, unchallenging, drab existence.

To counter this pervasive pessimism Mrs. Peale offers some sound advice on how to reap the greater dividends from marriage. There are chapters, a mong others, on how to help one's husband in his job, raise children (the Peales have three, all happily married), and cope with sometimes irritating in-laws.

There are also accounts of exciting experiences the Peales have shared, such as dining with President and Mrs. Nixon at the White House. No militant female, Ruth Peale believes firmly in femininity and the art of wifely persuasion.

Being married to a well-known preacher hasn't always been a bed of roses. One must learn to survive lovers' quarrels and absorb the various shocks of life.

Essential to Mrs. Peale's philosophy is a belief in total commitment to the relationship and, at crucial times, a faith in divine guidance.

This is a wise, often moving account of one eminently successful marriage. It will be a thrilling reading experience to all those who take the institution of marriage with seriousness and sincerity.

DRESS HER IN INDIGO
by John D. MacDonald
Bix Bowie was dead. There was nothing else anybody could do for her—or to her.

But because the fragile, broken man who was her father had to know how she spent the last months of her life, Travis McGee and his good friend Meyer agreed to find out.

The dead girl's trail took them to Mexico, into the sad, bizarre world of the wandering drug freaks who find havens south of the border.

Somebody else was on the same trail. Somebody who disappeared, death with sudden savage efficiency.

It was a bad scene, but even diversions like a cool British nympho and a cuddly secretary from Guadalajara couldn't deter the intrepid McGee—which is how Meyer almost got killed and Ole Urllin Streu ought to be doing real well right now. He and Jean have been up in Colorado at their Hidden Valley Resort for the past month and we suspect they have been swamped with visitors. Urllin said before he left Hereford at the latter part of May that he already had many reservations and was expecting more pronto. A lot of his guests by the way, are repeaters. They've been there before, like it, and come back.

In case you've not been there, Streu's resort is located on Cement Creek in the Gunnison National Forest near Crested Butte. And according to his propaganda, it is a delightfully restful resort, nestled in a hidden valley, etc. A place where you can forget the cares and tensions of modern living by fishing, swimming, hiking, hunting in season, or just by sitting in the sun amid glorious mountain scenery.

We note also he encourages the camera enthusiast and the artist to spend a little time there and also says bird watchers can enjoy watching cliff swallows, robins, dippers, humming birds and many others.

We suspect however, that a lot of folks will enjoy just resting and doing nothing for a few days. It's cool up there, and plenty hot down here.

For those of you who aren't acquainted with the Streus, we might add that they were in the hardware business here for many, many years, and still spend their winters at their home over on McKimley Street. Hereford is home to the Streus, although their business interest is now located in Colorado.

If you're interested in spending a few days with the Streus, we would suggest you write for reservations. Just address it to Streu's Resort, Crested Butte, Colorado.

The local wheat harvest is about over. These days, it's over almost before it starts, due primarily to the fact that we have fewer acres than ever before, but also to the fact that harvesting equipment now is so much better than that used 20-30 years ago. There was a time when big harvest crews hit town and stayed several weeks getting the grain in.

The harvest this year will not yield as high as last year, but probably will average around 50 bushels per acre.

—HB—

Of course, it's too early to predict yields on milo, but we're hoping for a bumper crop this fall. We do have additional acres in production this year, and the price is the best we've seen for several years and probably will go higher by harvest time. Many counties outside our area have had crop failures this year due to the drought and the shortage should assure us of an excellent market for our own grain.

Potato and onion harvest will be starting soon, and this too should put a little more money into circulation. It'll be a welcome change.

—HB—

Today is the 195th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, and perhaps a good day to take stock of our situation in this nation, and rededicate ourselves to the defense of freedom throughout the world. We have slipped a lot in the last few years, and such national holidays as July 4th has become merely a time to go fishing. But it's much more than that. It is the time to reflect and perhaps offer our thanks for the wonderful country in which we live—and a time to recognize and live up to our responsibilities to our fellow man.

Think about it. We're pretty lucky people.

Glady's Garden

By Gladys Howton Manjeot

In Washington, each morning after Lloyd, Beverly and Lloyd Jr. left for school and the Pentagon and while Rosemary did her work, I would read.

My reading consisted of the Washington daily papers, Newsweek, the Bible and materials relative to the Washington area. Sometimes between magazines or newspapers, I would walk out into the yard to watch the birds or to check on the new flowers which had blossomed out since the day before.

Then sometimes I would take a walk around the block and enjoy the various plants, trees and other growing things. I also visited a bit as I walked along.

Many of the newspapers and weekly magazines were covering happenings at the White House relative to the approaching wedding of Tricia Nixon and Ed Cox. These were of interest to me, as many of them dealt with things which women are involved in or most interested in.

I was delighted when Lloyd Sr. told me that he had secured tickets, and arranged a special tour of the White House, so this tour was one of our first ones by the entire family. Our hour was 8 a.m. and when we awakened on the morning we were to report to the White House, we were a bit disappointed that it was raining. Out came the parasols, raincoats, etc. and we ate a hurried breakfast and were off for Washington to spend the day sightseeing.

We entered by the east entrance. The guards were courteous and friendly and graciously invited us in for the visit. Our tickets were signed by the President and one of our congressmen. (A portion of it was given us as a memento of our visit.) The guide was well-informed, interesting, yet very diplomatic and strict as to procedures.

The welcome to the White House was gracious and hospitable. Since it is a very special house steeped in our country's history and traditions, one enters it with a bit of awe and curiosity. As the tour continued one was made to realize the strength portrayed here and warmth of the great house was evident. Even the grounds convey a love of nature and life.

Every President of the U. S. has lived in the White House except President George Washington. Great people and events are recalled in hundreds of memories.

It is a house likened to our very own. Children have scampered, played tricks, lived fully in the rooms and throughout the lengthy halls and the grounds. Wedding vows have been exchanged. And there have been great moments of deep grief, and seeming perils.

To one who is well versed in the history of our country, and to all, there is much to savor in the White House. The wonderful pieces of art, the beautiful paintings of the Presidents and their ladies, and other dignitaries, the fine old furniture, the exquisite china, silver, decor and its aura of simple elegance and great dignity, cause one to stop, look, and purpose in heart and mind to remember.

It is heartening and reassuring that President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon are giving continuity to the restoration of the White House, which Mrs. John Kennedy so admirably began and which Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson carried on.

The first room we saw was the library. It was most inviting. The many, many books made one want to delve into—then and read and study. The room had a warmth and appeal about it that made it most inviting. The President uses it frequently.

The furnishing of the rooms which we viewed (and this has been carried throughout the White House, except in the Presidential living quarters) was the authenticity of the furnishings of the various important rooms. To anyone who is an authority on furniture, fine china, cut glass, silver, art, portraits, etc. this is a paradise. I do not pose as an authority, but I was glad I did have some knowledge that would give me a just appreciation of what I saw.

Pieces of furniture, carpets, paintings, china, murals, tapestries, silver and gold pieces had been so fashioned together so that one was made to feel that glorious events had been there, and that in truth it was as a pulse beat to the various homes throughout our great land.

The Blue Room, the Red Room, the Green Room, the East Room and the State Dining Room all have been beautifully redecorated and furnished according to period. And many of the accessories are in keeping with the colors. The Blue Room was repaired under the advice of Mrs. John Kennedy, but in later years the walls have been restored to a beautiful blue fabric. It is here that many very important diplomats are greeted, and other events of eminence transpire.

The East Room is often referred to as "the Public Audience Chamber." For years it was not completed and was just an empty lonesome room. In it one of the wives of the President hung her washing to dry. President and Mrs. Grant were the first to have it furnished and used for entertainment.

Today, often the guests assemble in it before going to the State Dining Room. Weddings are performed here (Lynda Johnson was married in this room). It is here that President Truman used to play the piano, which was later given to President Johnson. And also it was through the use of the piano that it was learned that termites had practically destroyed the mighty White House, and that it must be redone.

During the presidency of President Nixon, he and Mrs. Nixon have had worship services held in this room each Sabbath when they are in residence.

The State Dining Room is one of the most elegant rooms, and it is soon to be redecorated, because it is very often used for festive and important states of dinner. The fittings, the decor, and the overall picture of the room is one of elegance, as were many of the other rooms visited.

Many things appealed to me, one of which were the portraits of the Presidents and their wives. Among the President's portraits, I think I shall never forget the painting of President John F. Kennedy. His pose was so different, and the expression of his face, caught by the artist, made one feel that he in truth and reality felt the heavy load which the President of the U. S. carries.

I also was impressed with President Taft's portrait (he was the largest, physically of any of the Presidents). A person can never forget the expression, so vividly portrayed on the face of President Lincoln. (He is Lloyd Jr.'s hero. He reads and sees everything about him that is possible for a child of 9. His knowledge of this great President is amazing.)

President Monroe's portrait revealed that he was one that assumed and sought to carry out authority, and that he appreciated the fine arts. I noticed particularly that he contributed so many of the priceless pieces of art, china, silver and other heirlooms in the President's home.

The artist also caught in the painting of President Eisenhower some of the greatness of character, and the magnificent air of the military which was characteristic of him. I did not see the controversial painting of President Johnson, but the one hung in the White House is a wonderful portrait of a noted prominent Texan.

Mrs. Coolidge's portrait is to me the most stately. She was indeed a lovely gracious lady; Mrs. Johnson's (Lady Bird) portrait is very colorful and a beautiful likeness of her.

Mrs. Eisenhower's artist caught the sweetness of her character, and she is beautifully painted in her famous "Mamie pink" ball gown. Perhaps the most different, yet one that really catches the eye of the passerby is that of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. I would say—and I am certainly not a qualified art critic that the artist caught a feeling not revealed in the others. The hands are so wonderfully portrayed, in various postures and they could be compared to those of the Mona Lisa as to beauty, character, and usefulness.

One could not pass by the portrait of Mrs. Jackson without studying it. Her gown was lovely and I understand that she planned and did some of the needlework on it.

One of the most controversial paintings of the First Ladies, is that of Mrs. John Kennedy. Since I feel I cannot comment on it intelligently, I will just leave it as the guide told us—a controversial painting. However, one cannot look upon the painting without feeling the beauty in her eyes and the strong characteristics portrayed.

After Rosemary and I had a chat with the guide, asking some questions, we left the White House, carrying with us memories and many things tucked away in our minds and hearts to be PROUD of.

Later I will discuss the gardens and grounds, which was of great interest to me.

It is good to be at home. In truth I became homesick for Hereford and the sweet memories of the home at 303 Westhaven Drive. I am glad to have had this trip and the various tours, but I love Hereford and am proud of it.

In spraying around your premises, use caution that you do not harm your neighbors' shrubs, trees and plants. Some have reported to me such damages. Care should always be exercised in the use of pesticides.

Congratulations to the winners of the Beauty Spots of May. Happy that one of our Mexican friends won, and it is most satisfying and challenging to many of us the pride and lovely landscaping that our Mexican friends and neighbors take in their grounds. Many have a green thumb and their flowers are beautiful. Many have adverse conditions which are around them, yet they rise above "the trash and uncleanness" and create places of beauty and attractiveness. Some of the loveliest roses grown are often found in the yards.

Thanks to one and all who add their bit to making Hereford a more beautiful and clean town.

Mrs. Loyd William Lindley
former Pamela Kay Pope

Pamela Kay Pope and Loyd Lindley marry

Miss Pamela Kay Pope became the bride of Loyd William Lindley Saturday evening in Temple Baptist Church. The Rev. J. L. Bozeman, pastor, officiated for the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Pope of Route 5 and Lindley is son of Sam Lindley and the late Mrs. Lindley of Route 2.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and attended by Miss Veatrice Crow.

She wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta designed with Sabrina neckline enhanced by tiny sequins and featuring long, tapered lace sleeves.

The full skirt covered with rows of ruffles, fell beginning at a natural waistline. The full back ended in a sweeping Chapel length train.

Her shoulder length veil of Chantilly lace was held by a Juliet cap covered with lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade of yellow and white carnations.

The altar was flanked with arrangements of white gladiolas and yellow carnations and spiral candelabra entwined with greenery.

The bride's only attendant wore a formal, empire waist yellow knit dress trimmed in white lace and accented with yellow satin ribbon. She carried a nosegay of yellow and white carnations.

Best man was Charles Pitts. Tom Ellis and Kenneth Holman, both of Brownwood, Mike Sooter and Robert Pope Jr., brother of the bride, ushered.

Mrs. Albert Ricketts accompanied Ben Gollehon as he sang More and Twelfth of Never.

Miss Sue Shirley invited guests to register at the reception which followed in the fellowship hall. Miss Connie Bainum and Mrs. Royce Riggan served cake and Mrs. Tommy Evans of Tulsa laded punch.

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated in yellow sugar roses and topped with bride and groom figurines in front of a pair of yellow sugar bells.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Hereford High School. Her husband graduated from Brownwood High School in 1968 and attended West Texas State University. He is employed by Simpson and Cotten.

The couple will make their home in Hereford.

Students taking vocational education continue to grow

DALLAS—Public school vocational education, pacing its growth to the needs of a changing Texas economy, will offer courses to more than 750,000 students by 1976.

And most of them will be of the technical sort that fit the highrise world of the late 20th century and beyond.

Even the agriculture students will find it hard to stay down on the farm. For most of their courses, too, will be molded to our increasingly urban world. They will train in landscaping (for those patches of city green) and mechanical skills (for those acres more used to the clump of tractors than the clippity clop of horses.)

This, in brief, is the picture of the next five years—and then some—presented in the new State Plan for Vocational Education at a public hearing held before the State Board of Education in Dallas Saturday (June 5.) It was compiled by the Texas Education Agency's department of occupational education and technology.

Greatest growth is expected in preparing students for jobs in the trades and industries, health occupations, and office specialties. Homemaking courses, too, will take on a new patina of professionalism as girls prepare for specialized careers in retailing and other service industries.

By 1976, final year of the new projection into tomorrow, 758,000 Texans will be enrolled in some form of vocational education.

This figure includes an estimated 340,000 in high school programs, 56,000 in grades eight and below, 68,000 in community college vocational courses, and some 294,000 adults in a variety of programs.

These projections represent an increase of nearly 240,000 students over 1970 when the total

Drouth program gets changes

President Nixon, after consultation with Secretary Hardin, has authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to make two changes in the emergency drought assistance programs to make more hay available in certain drought areas by eliminating reductions in price support payments to farmers.

Under the Livestock Feed Program, applicants will no longer be required to file a financial statement when applying for feed and hay transportation assistance. In view of the importance of prompt action on applications, and since the application form includes a certification of need signed by the applicant, the financial statement which required added time and work is being eliminated.

Haying or grazing of irrigatable set-aside and Cropland Adjustment acreage in counties designated as emergency drought areas by the Secretary of Agriculture, will now be permitted without charge. In contrast to non-irrigated set-aside acreage on which haying and grazing has been permitted without charge since April 2, payment reductions had been required on irrigable set-aside acreage.

Further, the Secretary directed that this revision in the rules is to be retroactive to the beginning of this emergency period. This will provide some increased income to farmers in the drought-stricken area and will provide some additional forage for use in the emergency counties in the drought area.

Outlook of Americans has changed recently

According to recent surveys Americans have rising expectations for themselves and their families, but deep concern about the fate of the nation. They believe the United States has lost ground in the last five years, and nearly half of them fear that current unrest and disunity could pull it down.

Their concern is well founded. Morale, both in the military and among civilians, is at a low ebb.

During World War II, 11 million men and women stepped forward to answer the call of their country, to serve in the military forces in whatever capacity the leaders of this nation dictated. They did so out of a deep responsibility to their country and to their fellow man. Call it patriotism if you like, or pride, or whatever. These men did not want to go into combat and they were not fanatics. They certainly did not want to die. But they did believe it was their individual responsibility to see that this nation remained free, above all else, for without this bastion of freedom, the entire world would surely be enslaved within a short time.

They were scared, humble men, who went into combat not out of a love for violence, but because of their love for their families, their friends and their fellow man. They were dedicated and determined. They knew what had to be done and they also knew the millions of Americans that stayed home would be doing everything within their power to see that their efforts would not be in vain.

But something happened following World War II. In 1950 the United States was again drawn into war and our young men again answered the call. A different type of war to be sure, for our country was not directly threatened, although the cloak of communism was about to fall about a little Asian country

Pluck comes first

When James Cash Penney, founder of the merchandising institution bearing his name, passed away a few months ago, press reports marked the close of the career of a man who had influenced U. S. merchandising trends and standards since the turn of the century. Mr. Penney started in business with $500 cash and a $1,500 loan plus an unshakable faith in the principle of the Golden Rule.

With these assets, he became head of one of the largest retail organizations in the country. The 45-story Penney Building in New York stands as mute testimony to Mr. Penney's hard work and philosophy of faith. One of his remarks will long be remembered. He said, "I don't believe in luck. But if you put a 'P' in front of it, that's different."

Truly great undertakings have very little to do with luck, as the biographies of legions of successful people show. In a way, the fortunes of nations can be compared with those of the individual. Those who work the hardest and know where they are going and whose people exhibit the qualities of tenacity and conviction seem to have the most luck, good fortune or whatever you wish to call it.

that did not have the strength to resist. What armies America had in the field moved as swiftly as possible to stem the tide, but were very nearly ground to bits before the North Korean invaders could be stopped. Through dogged tenacity and sheer determination the U. S. and South Korean forces held a little perimeter around Pusan on the southern tip of Korea and fought like mad men until men and materials could be amassed to make a real fight of it. When the army and marines landed at Inchon, the tide turned rapidly and the Reds were on the run. For all practical purposes they would remain that way throughout the rest of the conflict.

But it was at this stage that the politicians took over the show and from that day forward, the strength of this nation has deteriorated. Patriotism went out the window and it became popular to try to avoid the draft. And certainly, there was a reason.

When an enemy is allowed a sanctuary within sight of the battlefield where our planes and troops are not allowed to go, it becomes extremely difficult to maintain morale among the fighting men or to encourage other young men to volunteer their services. By the same token, when positions are taken, secured and then abandoned, only to be retaken the following day or the following week, it is not only demoralizing to the men in the field, but utterly ridiculous. For every time an entrenched position is stormed, a few more American men die.

Now the conflict has moved to Vietnam, and we have a continuation of that "no win" policy initiated years ago in Korea. A policy dictated by the politicians, not the military. And now a few peacenik Senators seem to be doing everything within their power to hamper the efforts of the military to win and we sometimes wonder which side these people are really on. After all, it doesn't really matter how we became involved in the conflict—the fact is, we are in it and we have American men dying in the field. The least we can do is give them the support they need.

With the situation like it is, can you really blame a young man for trying to avoid military service? And do you still wonder why Americans have deep concern about the fate of the nation?

Today is the 195th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, and perhaps it would be an appropriate time for all of us to reevaluate our thinking and reeducate ourselves to the principles that have been so important in keeping this nation and our people free. It is a good time to recognize and accept the responsibilities that go along with that freedom and quit worrying so much about the material things in life that apparently have become all-important over the past 20 years.

Holidays have been shifted around to make more three-day weekends. Daylight saving time is decreed to create the illusion of more hours of daylight. Restless mankind seems never to tire of throwing out the old for the new. But there are a few areas of our worldwide establishment that man is going to have a rough time changing. One of them is the arrival of summer and the longest day of the year.

The movement of celestial bodies is ordained by a power higher than man. According to the calendar, the sun reached the high point over the northern hemisphere on June 21. Its passage is as immutable as life and death. If it were otherwise, someone would, no doubt, suggest moving the arrival of summer to another date. As it is, this is one point on which there is no controversy. There are other natural laws that are just as immutable as the movement of the sun that man foolishly thinks he can alter. Until he learns differently, he will continue to be in deep trouble. Meanwhile, summer is here, and all of us, to the best of our ability, should make the most of the warm and pleasant days.

MAIN STREET, U. S. A.

Better to give than receive, bill reminds

by Bert Mills

WASHINGTON—Most Americans do not receive Social Security benefit payments, nor aid under the Medicare program, nor welfare checks. However, legislation is halfway through Congress which will require the majority who do not receive benefits to pay an extra $11 billion annually to aid the minority who do receive benefits.

That $11 billion a year will have to come from those who pay Federal income taxes. Part will come from workers paying a steep increase in Social Security taxes, but it looks very much like an income tax increase will also be necessary somewhere down the road. One forecast is that the minimum income tax rate, now 21 per cent, will have to be jumped to 25 per cent.

The bill that will do these things is H. R. 1, passed by the House on June 22 and now awaiting Senate Finance Committee action. This so-called omnibus welfare bill got a lot of publicity about all the benefits it would bestow on various minority groups—the welfare recipients, the elderly, the sick. But practically nothing has been said about how average Americans will be affected.

Take John Smith, working man, aged 35. He earns $200 a week. If H. R. 1 becomes law, his weekly paycheck next year will be minus $10.59 for Social Security alone. Right now, Smith's check is tapper for $7.80 weekly. Under the prospective law, the Social Security bite will be $14.56 in 1977. Of course, his employer must match these sums.

Nixon Lauds Bill

Welfare reform is long overdue and is a key goal of the Nixon Administration, proposed back in 1969. Therefore President Nixon congratulated the House upon its passage of H. R. 1. He issued a five-paragraph statement, without one word about the higher taxes necessary to pay the bill.

Welfare reform alone will cost an additional $5.5 billion annually. Increased Social Security benefits and Medicare expansion will cost another $5.5 billion. These bills will have to be paid, and taxpayers can look in the mirror to find who foots the cost. Politicians love to confer benefits on various deserving groups, but prefer to remain mum about who pays the bill.

The House devoted two days to debating a bill of 687 pages. Hardly a word was said about the increased taxes required. Most of the talk was about the welfare system. When the Social Security section was discussed, the focus was on a 5 per cent rise in benefits next June. Naturally, higher benefits for retirees would take effect in an election year. It happens regularly and not by chance.

President Nixon's statement did contain one paragraph about the Social Security amendments, which he said herald "a new day for older Americans" and "strike a blow against poverty for the elderly." But conspicuously absent was any compassion for the majority of Americans who must pay the bill.

Needy Get $2,400 a Year

Under H. R. 1, any family of four would be guaranteed an annual income of $2,400. If the head of the family has a job but earns less than the minimum, he would receive a payment from Uncle Sam to make up the difference. This would be a new departure in welfare — paying those who have low-pay jobs. Some opponents argue that the Family Assistance Plan will encourage loafing instead of working.

However, there are work requirements and job incentives written into the legislation. Whether they will succeed remains to be seen. The U. S. Chamber of Commerce fears that a guaranteed annual income "may serve as a disincentive for employment."

Last year the House passed a similar welfare reform bill, without all the goodies tacked on to the 1971 version. That bill died in the Senate Finance Committee. A similar fate is not expected this time. It may take until 1972 but Senate passage seems probable.

Would it be too much to ask of the Senate that in its consideration of H. R. 1 some attention be paid to the majority of Americans? There are millions on relief, millions of Social Security beneficiaries, and millions aided by Medicare. But those millions are exceeded by the rest of us who must pay the bills. Surely we deserve some consideration too.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

CULTURE'S TOWN — Corsicana may be the only city in the U. S. where virtually every qualified high school graduate is assured of being able to attend the college of his choice.

Any Corsicana student who ranks in the top quarter of his high school graduating class, has some concept of the career he'd like to follow and needs financial assistance can qualify for up to $1,200 in scholarship funds for each of four college years.

The Navarro County city's unique program began in 1954 when a local philanthropist, James L. Collins, left about $500,000 to a fund to provide scholarships for deserving students. Today the fund is worth more than $2.5 million and has provided 272 young men and women with tuition, books, housing and most of the expensive items of a college education.

SNUFFER'S DELIGHT — Those Texans who like to take their tobacco in powdered form can continue to enjoy their habit tax free.

The last session of the Legislature burdened cigarettes with another whopping tax, and pipe and cigar smokers have been tapped for more than their fair share of taxes. Snuff, however, continues to be the only form of tobacco on which the state of Texas imposes no taxes of any kind.

Legislators, concerned that their rural constituents like the status quo where snuff is concerned, repeatedly refuse to tax the weed in this form.

FRONTIER PHARMACOPEIA — A sure cure for sore throat used to be a tea made by boiling the roots of sour cane.

CORRECTING THE HISTORIANS — For generations, the stack of a sunken ship, rising ten feet above the water near San Luis Pass off the Gulf coast, has been a familiar sight to fishermen.

On the shore some 300 yards away is an historical marker telling the story of how, on February 6, 1865, a U. S. Navy patrol boat discovered the Confederate blockade runner grounded in the shallow water and fired on her. The U. S. boat was the cruiser, "Virginia," and the historical marker says the sunken ship is the "Arcadia."

The facts of this encounter in the Gulf, ten miles from what now is Freeport, are correct. But the sunken ship is not the "Arcadia" but the "Acadia." Dr. Wendell E. Pierce, a Houston dentist and scuba enthusiast, has discovered the error after making many dives to the old ship.

There was an "Arcadia" and it was a blockade runner. It was sunk in the Mississippi River. But the name of the ship sunk near San Luis Pass is "Acadia" — and Dr. Pierce would like to set the historians straight.

TRAVELING TEXAS — Twenty minutes from downtown Fort Worth is the Pate Museum of Transportation, housing one of the state's largest collections of ancient automobiles, airplanes and railroad memorabilia.

The museum owns 55 vintage automobiles, six old Air Force planes, a 1914 railroad car and hundreds of other items. It is adjacent to the Texas Refinery Recreation Ranch on Highway 377 South.

50 YEARS AGO

Work of thoroughly repairing the two city school buildings in preparation for the coming school term is now under way. At the high school the belfry is being removed, as it is believed this will help the looks of the structure as well as doing away with the leaks in it caused from blocked snow. Rain, which began falling Monday afternoon, spoiled the holiday amusements of many pleasure seekers, as well as the harvest work of hundreds of industrious farmers over this section. The moisture was not particularly needed at this time.

35 YEARS AGO

Eleven sections of land in Deaf Smith County have been reported to the wind erosion district governing body since a request was issued last week for reports so that steps can be taken immediately to protect neighboring fields. Members of the Texas State Park Board and representatives of the National Park Service visited the Hereford State Park Monday afternoon, completing a week's tour of state parks in Texas.

20 YEARS AGO

Survey work on the eight miles of proposed farm-to-market road north of Dawn to a point of south of Wildorado will be started next week. W. V. York resident engineer for the Texas Highway department, said Saturday. The city of Hereford has purchased a spraying machine for approximately $700 to be used starting Monday. Mayor W. E. Dameron said this week. This new unit will be used primarily for keeping the weeds down on the banks of the acreating ponds at the city sewage disposal plant.

5 YEARS AGO

After a spectacular year last season, vegetable men moved into the 1966 season with trepidation. Fears may be allayed as onion harvest moves into full operation with prices good, yields average and quality good. About 25 per cent complete onions are moving into the sheds to be shipped for good prices. Labor is not yet a problem and weather conditions are favorable. Bells will ring. Orators will speak. Bands will play. Hereford is part of a national revival for a patriotic observance of Independence Day.

1 YEAR AGO

An undetermined number of children were left alone at home last year to care for younger brothers or sisters while their mothers worked. These problems will be alleviated in September when a Day Care Center with facilities for 50 children will become a reality. A crowd of approximately 2,000 people turned out Saturday morning to make July 4, 1970, one of the most memorable Independence Day celebrations in Deaf Smith County history.

Legislative news -- from Rep. Bill Clayton

Now that the Legislative session is over and we have had time to re-cap the happenings of the regular and first Called Special Session, I wanted to report to you about some of the activities that occurred.

As you may recall, the session began in January with several emergencies that had to be dealt with rather hurriedly. This caused the session to begin at a fast pace and to continually increase momentum until our work was concluded. Besides the accelerated pace, there was a cloud of doubt and dismay hovering over the actions of many public officials because of the S. E. C. investigations of the Sharpstown Bank and National Bankers Life Insurance stock trading. However, the Sixty-Second Legislature probably passed more meaningful legislation than any other in history.

There were nearly 3000 House and Senate bills considered, plus over 500 joint and concurrent resolutions and hundreds of simple resolutions during the session. Though the work load and hours were more than normal, I feel I was better able to represent you because we heard most of the bills and resolutions in public hearings in the committees to which I was assigned. These committees, the State Affairs, the Conservation and Reclamation, the Counties, and the Banks and Banking, dealt with 75 per cent of all the legislation. Besides these committees, I served on the Rules Committee, which considered all bills that were heard in the House.

We passed laws this year that will help curb highway and street accidents; provided more protection and tools to work with for our law enforcement officers; increased penalties for use of certain narcotics such as LSD, and made it harder on dope pushers. We provided a manner to keep disruption and vandalism from occurring at our colleges and universities. We also created three new upper-level universities; at Corpus Christi, Tyler and Clearlake.

Consumer protection laws and laws to tighten the regulation and operation of Texas Insurance Companies were passed. A package of seven banking bills were passed as a result of a Senate investigating committee report. These laws should prevent banks from going broke in Texas. Texas, in the last few years, has had more State Bank failures than any other State.

In the field of Health and Welfare, many bills were passed. Two very important bills that became law provided mandatory inoculations against communicable diseases. This should prevent any epidemics from occurring in our State, like the diphtheria epidemic that happened last year in San Antonio.

PROMPT DELIVERY — Visitors to the U.S. Army exhibit in Sugarland Mall, which will be on display from July 12-15, will see methods the Army uses to insure prompt delivery of necessary supplies to troops throughout the world. The exhibit is open to the public free of charge. (U.S. Army Photo)

Bill attacks drunk drivers

Austin—Texans may save $340 million in the next two years because of a new law passed by the legislature and signed by the governor, according to the president of the Texas Safety Association.

J. U. Parker, a Houston safety consultant, who heads the statewide safety group, made the comment in a release from TSA's Austin office.

He said Gov. Preston Smith had signed into a law a measure aimed at controlling the problem of the drunken driver. Recommended as a part of the Governor's traffic safety program, the bill establishes the presence of 0.10 per cent blood-alcohol concentration in a driver as a presumption of driving while intoxicated.

"Last year in Texas, abusive drinker-drivers contributed to the deaths of some 1,700 Texans on our highways. The cost to all Texans was an estimated $348.5 million," Parker said.

"If this new law is uniformly, fairly, and firmly enforced throughout Texas, it could bring into control our number one highway safety menace and reduce the death toll by as much as 50 per cent during the next two years," Parker said.

"Such a reduction could easily save the citizens of this state $340 million in the same period of time," the TSA president added.

"But I must re-emphasize that we will not see a reduction in this abusive drinker-driver death toll unless there are strong efforts from the local law enforcement level and unless there is positive cooperation from the courts."

Parker said the new drunk-driving law is evidence of growing concern by the people of Texas with this problem.

Fred Brownlee's back from Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brownlee of Glenrio flew to Nashville, Tenn. earlier this month for a ten-day visit with Mrs. Brownlee's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ike Smith Jr.

Smith has been with the United Fruit Company there for 42 years prior to his retirement in January of this year.

The Brownlees went sightseeing as well as visiting many historical landmarks.

They compared the six hour round trip by jet with the six months it took Brownlee's mother and family to come to Texas in an oxwagon shortly after the Civil War.

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: EXHAUSTED BY THE LONG STRUGGLE AND WEAKENED BY A SCORE OF WOUNDS, SIEUR DELAUNCY AT LAST SINKS TO THE GROUND, BUT NOT BEFORE THE LAST OF HIS ENEMIES HAS BEEN SLAIN. IT IS THUS THAT PRINCE VALIANT FINDS HIM WHEN THE BATTLE ENDS, AND GREAT IS THE SURPRISE THAT A MAN WHOSE COURAGE WAS DOUBTED COULD ACCOMPLISH SUCH A HEROIC DEED.

"AS A LAD I WAS BIG AND STRONG BEYOND MY YEARS AND THE LADIES PRAISED ME AND SAID I WOULD ONE DAY BECOME A WARRIOR AND ACHIEVE GREAT HONOR."

"I GREW STRONGER WITH THE YEARS AND WON THE PRIZE AT ALL THE GAMES. MY YOUNG FRIENDS BECAME JEALOUS OF THE PRAISES HEAPED UPON ME."

"THEN CAME MY FIRST BATTLE! WE CHARGED, MY MOUNT STUMBLER, I WAS THROWN AND BROKE MY RIGHT ARM. I SAW NO MORE FIGHTING THAT DAY."

"NEXT YEAR THE VISIGOTHS ATTACKED. AS WE WAITED FOR THE BATTLE LINES TO FORM, THEIR SLINGERS HURLED MISSILES FROM A DISTANCE. WHEN I REGAINED CONSCIOUSNESS THE WAR WAS OVER, MY SECOND BATTLE AND I HAD NOT YET DRAWN MY SWORD."

"FREE! FREE AT LAST FROM DOUBT!" HE CRIES, "ALL THESE YEARS I HAVE LIVED IN DOUBT OF MY OWN VALOR UNTIL AT LAST I FEARED TO PUT IT TO THE TEST. NOW I CAN TAKE MY RIGHTFUL PLACE AMONG THE GREAT WARRIORS AND FORGET THE EVENTS OF THE PAST."

"I WAS NO LONGER A LEADER. MY FRIENDS SMILED WHEN THEY SAID I WAS 'UNLUCKY'. BUT I FELT THEY DOUBTED MY COURAGE AND AT LAST I TOO SHARED THEIR DOUBTS."

THE EYES OF SIEUR DELAUNCY SEEM TO GAZE INTO THE DISTANCE AS IF HE SEES A GLORIOUS FUTURE IN WHICH HE WILL REDEEM HIMSELF, WIN FAME AND HONOR IN THE SERVICE OF KING AND COUNTRY. A NOBLE DREAM THAT MIGHT HAVE COME TRUE, BUT THAT NIGHT HE DIES OF HIS WOUNDS.

STEVE CANYON

LONDON...
SUMMER IS POSING AS A RED AGENT CALLED COUNTESS BERNARDA TROLLEZ

BERNARDA, I NEVER LEARNED RUSSIAN AND YOU CLAIMED TO BE UNABLE TO MASTER MY NATIVE TONGUE — ALTHOUGH I DO NOT BELIEVE YOU...

SO WE AGAIN SPEAK ENGLISH

I SUMMONED YOU BECAUSE YOU ONCE SAVED MY LIFE...

AND I HAVE LEARNED THAT YOU ARE TO BE EXECUTED WHEN YOU RETURN TO YOUR HOME BASE...

I OFFER YOU MY ROYAL PROTECTION NOT ONLY FROM YOUR OWN PEOPLE

BUT FROM THE U.S. AND BRITISH AGENTS WHO HAVE BEEN STALKING YOU HERE

IF YOU RETURN TO YOUR HOTEL YOU MAY NEVER LEAVE IT AGAIN

SO I SHALL HAVE YOUR WARDROBE BROUGHT HERE — AND WE SHALL GO OUT ON A NIGHT FLIGHT!

AS MY CONSORT YOU WILL BE SAFE, EVEN AFTER MY DEATH...

AND MY KINGDOM WILL BE YOURS!

OF COURSE YOU WILL SAY YES!

I'M MUST THINK...

OF COURSE, MY DEAR! YOU ARE SURPRISED AND SHOCKED... EVEN YOUR VOICE IS DIFFERENT THAN IN THE PAST!

MEANWHILE...

DON'T BOTHER COL. CANYON! HE'S HALF NUTS!

HIS WIFE WAS POSING AS A RED AGENT — AND SHE HAS COMPLETELY VANISHED!

THAT'S JUST IT! THE REAL COUNTESS BERNARDA TROLLEZ HAS ESCAPED!

PONYTAIL BY LEE HOLLEY

IF YOU'RE PLANNING ON GOING TO THE BEACH TODAY, WHY DON'T YOU RIDE OUT WITH DON AND I?

THAT WOULD BE NICE, WOULDN'T IT, DEAR?

IS MY LIFE INSURANCE PAID UP?

OH, DADDY

BESIDES ONE LESS CAR ON THE ROAD IS A LITTLE LESS AIR POLLUTION!

IN THAT CASE, WE'D BETTER GO IN MY CAR

HE'S HERE! GOT EVERYTHING?

YOU WON'T LET THAT KID EAT MY SANDWICHES WILL YOU?

IT'S NICE OF YOU TO TAKE US TO THE BEACH, DONALD!

THAT'S OKAY, MRS. JOHNSON

I NEEDED SOMEONE TO KEEP MY SURFBOARDS FROM BOUNCING AROUND!

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
I have another use for plastic drinking straws. I use them in storing the bits for my 1/4" electric drill. I have several hundred steel bits of all sizes that I cover with these straws cut to different lengths, and cap one end with a 2/8" dowel. I number the dowels and record it on a master file so I'll know where each bit is.

one on top of the other, secure with string and then nail to a board the width of my cardboard layout. The side view of this will then have hundreds of miniature pigeonholes — just perfect for storing the straws with the bits. Just stick the straws in the holes in the corrugated boards with only the wooden dowels showing. The dowels with the numbers will be easily seen and by checking with your master file your bits will be right where you can grab the one you want in a matter of seconds, and they will not collect rust when protected in this way.

Lonnie Shelton
Mentioned your idea to several of my friends with workshops in their garages and they thought you had a real great idea.

Thanks ...
Heloise

PLASTIC PROBLEM

DEAR HELOISE:
I finally overcame the problem of storing lids for my plastic mixing bowls and containers. By taking a napkin holder and placing it in the storage area with my bowls, the lids can now be placed in the holder, which allows them to be kept both orderly and easily selected by size. Perhaps this won't work with all napkin holders, but it does with mine.

A HOT ITEM

DEAR HELOISE:
I've discovered that if I put an aluminum pie tin under paper plates whenever I serve anything hot and greasy, it will keep the grease from coming through to my tablecloth. It also gives more support to the plate and seems to keep the food hot longer. Try it.

Barbie Que

A SNEAKY ONE!

DEAR HELOISE:
I have a 10-year-old son who plays on the school basketball team and in tournaments. He has to wear tennis shoes on the gym floor and something black inside his shoes comes off on his white socks, and it doesn't wash out. He has been cutting off tops of worn-out socks and using them as a liner and throwing them away until we came up with the following: He had two pairs of pajamas with the plastic-coated feet. The feet were large enough, but caused the pajama pants to be too short. I cut the feet off so he could still wear the pajamas, and we used the plastic feet as liners for his tennis shoes. They are washable and have worked out fine.
Scott Meyer & Mom

KITCHEN CAPERS

DEAR HELOISE:
In bad weather my nicely waxed kitchen floor would be ruined as soon as someone came in the back door. Now I keep an old flannel-backed vinyl tablecloth on the floor by the back door. I keep the flannel side up and it absorbs all the mud, dampness, or whatever you, and saves the wax job. Also keeps Mom happy!
Mrs. Pluciennik Sr.

HAVING A BALL!

DEAR HELOISE:
I knit a "ball" shape with bright yarn scraps, fill it tight with old nylon stockings and crochet the opening together. Makes a good-sized ball that a small child can throw around the house, and it actually bounces!
Muriel H.

IT RINGS TRUE

DEAR HELOISE:
I have a friend who saved up a number of those plastic rings from six-pack beverage cans and sprayed them gold. She also sprayed a card of thumbtacks gold. Then, by putting one thumbtack through the center portion of each set, she hung them from ceiling to floor on either side of a doorway leading out of the den. They just fit the narrow space, and the result was a most interesting latticework pattern that took away some of the bareness of her large den walls.

SUNDAY PAINTERS?

DEAR HELOISE:
I am eleven years old and have found a way to make a pretty package for someone special... I bought a set of inexpensive water-color paints and took them apart (removing the little circles of paint). Then I wrapped the package with white tissue paper and tied the ribbon around it. Next I glued the paint circles on the top of the package and slipped the paint brush through the bow. Makes a really pretty package... and the paints are useable too.

Diane Masi

GREAT IDEA!

DEAR HELOISE:
I grate raw celery, carrots and onions and float a few spoonfuls on each serving of hot vegetable or beef soup or stew. Mmmmmmm good!
Gene

DEAR HELOISE:
You know the cardboard containers that cold capsules come in — the ones with little oval windows? I took one of these containers and sprayed it with gold paint. Then I glued a heavy piece of clear plastic on the back, and just the faces from snapshots of grandchildren and glued one behind each opening. It can be hung up so it shows all 20 faces, or stood up, as it folds in the middle.
