

Nixon: When A President Does It, It's Not Illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) - Richard Nixon's claim that a President is above the law finds no favor with Jimmy Carter and draws no response from Gerald Ford, who pardoned Nixon for all crimes because it was "the right thing to do."

White House reaction to Nixon's statement that "when the president does it, that means it's not illegal" was swift.

"President Carter does not feel that any president has the right to break the law," said spokesman Rex Granum. "He feels very strongly that it is a tragic mistake to follow that philosophy, as past events have shown so dramatically."

Hamilton Jordan, the President's chief aide, said "if we haven't learned from Watergate that the president and the people around him are not above the law, then we've learned nothing."

And Ford, here Thursday for a Republican fund-raiser, said: "As far as any questions about Mr. Nixon are concerned his words speak for themselves."

Throughout the 90-minute program, third in a five-part paid-for television series with David Frost, Nixon defended his actions in the Vietnam war and said that without division at home "the war would have been ended one to two years earlier."

He called Pentagon Papers leaker Daniel Ellsberg a "punk"; referred to the "pip-squeak Watergate thing;" labeled Democratic hawks-turned-doves as hypocrites, and said he cracked down on dissidents to speed the end of the war.

He admitted to having paranoia about his critics, "but paranoia for peace isn't that bad."

And he said bitterly that he and his wife "were never invited to the White House, to a dinner or to a lunch" by the Kennedys or the Johnsons in the eight years of their administrations.

During their discussions of that dissent, Frost brought up Nixon's approval of the so-called Huston plan calling for use of wiretappings, burglaries, mail openings and infiltration of anti-war groups.

"Wouldn't it have been better here though, to have done what you were going to do legally, rather than doing something that was illegal... rather than adding another crime to the list?" Frost asked.

"The proposition you've just stated in theory is perfect," Nixon said. "In practice, it just won't work."

Frost suggested Nixon was saying in certain situations "the president can decide that it's in the best interests of the nation... to do something illegal."

Nixon: Well, when the President does it, that means that it is not illegal.

Frost: By definition?

Nixon: Exactly. Exactly. If the president... approves something, approves an action, because of the national security or in this case because of a threat to internal peace and order of significant magnitude, then the president's decision in that instance is one that enables those who carry it out, to carry it out without violating a law. Otherwise, they're in an impossible decision."

White House spokesman Granum said Carter feels "there are adequate judicial means to prevent danger to the country."

Nixon's belief that the presidency bestows a legal umbrella over his actions runs counter to court decisions and to the findings of the House committee that recommended his impeachment.

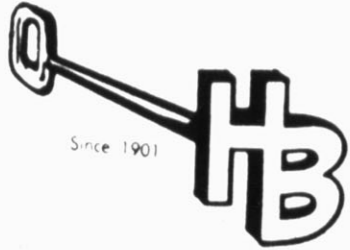

The Supreme Court, in ordering Nixon to release his White House tapes- the action that speeded his resignation in 1974- said in no sense is a president "above the law." Aides on trial for Watergate abuses were not permitted to use presidential sanction as a defense.

The House Judiciary Committee determined Nixon had committed "high crimes and misdemeanors," including abuse of his presidential powers and not seeing that the laws were faithfully executed.

And Ford said on Sept. 8, 1974, that Nixon had "become liable to possible indictment and trial." The pardon "for all offenses against the United States," he said, was to spare Nixon further punishment and degradation.

Speeding-Ticket Bill Delivered To Governor

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Despite a threat of federal retaliation, a bill abolishing insurance penalties for speeding between 55 and 70 miles per hour on Texas highways won final legislative approval Thursday.

A 92-49 House vote sent it to Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who has until June 19 to make the tough decision whether to sign or veto it.

House members passed, 136-0, and returned to the Senate for action on amendments a "sunset bill" that would eliminate 179 state agencies by 1989 unless future legislatures specifically vote to rescue them.

The measure sets up a Sunset Advisory Commission to evaluate each agency before its execution date arrives and recommend either a reprieve, death or reorganization.

Also returned to the Senate with amendments was a bill requiring new apartment houses to have separate electric meters or submeters for each unit as incentives for tenants to save energy.

Representatives also passed an amended Senate bill authorizing an estimated $26 million a year in state payments to teaching hospitals affiliated with tax-supported medical schools.

Senators accepted House changes and sent to the governor a bill raising maximum unemployment compensation benefits from $63 to $85 per week.

Similar action placed on Briscoe's desk a bill requiring men and women in families receiving child welfare to register with the Texas Employment Commission and to accept suitable jobs if offered.

He also was sent a bill authorizing a $50 million prison hospital in Galveston that would do double duty as a teaching hospital for the University of Texas Medical Branch in that city.

House votes sent to the governor bills that would:

...Clear the way for the Texas Water Quality Board to sell $100 million in clean water bonds authorized by the voters.

...Authorize cities to issue special bonds, backed by future property tax revenue, to finance rehabilitation of blighted areas.

...Require auto salvage yards to keep detailed records and to admit law enforcement officers for inspections and inventories. It was presented as a weapon against auto theft.

...Establish a state program of assistance to hemophiliacs.

The House tentatively approved, 99-49, a bill that would allow the use of tape-recorded oral confessions as evidence in criminal trials. Recordings would have to include all warnings given to the accused, and tapes would be subject to examination for splicing and the like.

Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, made a last-minute appeal for rejection of what sponsors called the "no-pain speeding bill."

The measure would prohibit insurance companies from adding premium surcharges from tickets given for speeding between 55 and 70 mph on the highway. Such tickets also would not be counted against one's driving records.

Under present law, if one gets two speeding tickets in a year, his auto insurance premium rises by about 15 per cent. Surcharges can go as high as 45 per cent for multiple violations.

Nugent read the House a telegram, sent to Briscoe March 28 by Secretary of Transportation Brock Adams, endorsing the 55 mph limit as a saver of both lives and fuel.

Lessening penalties would "raise a substantial question" as to a state's compliance with the federal law requiring the 55 mph limit, Adams said. Nugent said passing the bill could force Adams to invoke the ultimate sanction - cutting off highway aid amounting to more than $300 million a year.

"It's a matter of whether or not we want to sit here and play political demagogues for political purposes, knowing there is a federal policy that could materially damage our highway system," Nugent said.

Rep. John Hoestenbach, D-Odessa, said Col. Wilson Speir, head of the Texas Department Public Safety, had told him Oklahoma passed a similar law three years ago "and haven't lost a farthing."

Aides to the governor said he would take a close look at the bill before acting because of the possibility that it could dry up federal highway funds.

"He is concerned about the Adams telegram," said Howard Richards, an administrative assistant to the governor.

The House tentatively approved a Senate bill allowing counties to purge voter rolls of persons whose registration certificates are returned by the post office because they have moved. But a person could reregister by showing up to vote in his or her new precinct.

Borger Contributes $17,000 For Search

BORGER (AP) - Rich and poor residents of this Texas Panhandle city have dug deep into their pockets to help solve the brutal slaying of a hometown girl.

Abbe Rodgers Hamilton was pregnant with her first child when her mutilated body was found May 3.

She graduated from Borger High School and attended junior college here. Her high school distributive education club elected her its sweetheart.

She married Buzz Hamilton May 15, 1976, and the couple was building onto their house in anticipation of their child, due this summer.

When police found the body of the 19-year-old woman last May 3, the 17,000 residents felt a sense of outrage.

Law officers think she might have been the latest victim of the man Panhandle media call the "traveling rapist," who has struck at Hereford, Canyon and Amarillo as well as Borger.

Mrs. Hamilton was the only victim who died as a result of the attack.

"We ought to do something about it," said George Finger, chairman of the First National Bank.

Finger's suggestion that something be done by the community blossomed into a banked effort to establish the reward fund.

Some of the money came in big chunks- $5,000 from the Phillips Petroleum Co., $2,000 from each of the city's two banks, $1,000 from the Borger News Herald where Mrs. Hamilton once worked- and some came from individuals.

"Some people have given a dollar," said Mrs. Lou Cooley of Borger, "and some have given more. One individual gave $1,000."

She said the reward fund for the arrest and conviction of whoever was responsible for the killing is an indicator of the spirit of the people of Borger.

"This is the first time we've ever had anything like this," Mrs. Cooley said. "Here was a young couple on the verge of all this happiness, building onto their home, expecting their first child."

"We're still a small town, you know. When it gets to a point where a woman isn't safe in her own home..."

Law enforcement officers agreed that the $17,000 reward could spur someone into offering evidence in the case, which has produced few leads so far.

And the money is still coming in, Mrs. Cooley said.

Consumer Prices Rise Again

WASHINGTON (AP) - Another big jump in the cost of food pushed consumer prices up eight-tenths of 1 per cent in April, the third big monthly rise in consumer prices this year, the government reported today.

Food prices rose 1.5 per cent during the month, more than twice the March increase of six-tenths of 1 per cent. A major cause of the food price rise was the 13.1 per cent increase in the price of ground coffee, the government said.

The April increase in consumer prices, equivalent to an annual rate of nearly 10 per cent, showed inflation will continue to be a major economic problem for the Carter administration in the months ahead.

However, administration economists remain confident that spiraling food costs will slow down later this year, easing the over-all pressure on consumers' pocketbooks.

The Labor Department said its consumer price index for April stood at 179.6 of the 1967 average of 100, meaning that goods priced at $100 10 years ago cost $179.60 last month.

Consumer prices last month were 6.8 per cent higher than in April of 1976.

The April surge in consumer prices followed a six-tenths of 1 per cent gain in March, when food prices also increased by six-tenths of 1 per cent. The April increase put the price rises back at the worrisome levels of February when they rose 1 per cent and January when they rose eight-tenths of 1 per cent. For the year, consumer prices have increased 3.2 per cent.

But the Labor Department saw some good news in the report. It said that excluding food and energy items, prices rose six-tenths of 1 per cent in April.

To Form Water Group

Camp Residents Hope To Unite Tonight

BY JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Residents of the Hereford Labor Camp area will attempt to unite for the purpose of developing a water system at the camp just outside the city's southern limits when they meet at 9 p.m. today in the Hereford Community Center.

JOE VASQUEZ OF the State Health Department office in Canyon will conduct the meeting and explain avenues of action which are open to the camp residents concerning the water issue.

"One solution to the water problem could be the formation of a non-profit organization which would then apply for Federal funding for a water project. We will also look into the possibility of securing a grant from the Farmers Home Administration. Right now, I would say that the non-profit organization would probably be best," Vasquez said.

The water problem at the San Jose area took a drastic turn for the worst last weekend when the lone well at the camp suddenly went out, and camp residents were forced to fend for their own water supply.

Hereford City Manager Dudley Bayne said that a city tanker was sent to the camp to help ease the area through the water crisis, and temporary repairs to the well were completed late this week. Interest among camp residents in the water problem increased dramatically as a result of the well failure.

"THESE PEOPLE HAVE their backs to the wall where their water is concerned now. Apathy may have been a problem in the past, but that apathy disappeared pretty quickly when the water went off," Vasquez said.

"If we can get the residents united tonight, we will have taken the first step toward alleviating the water problem at the labor camp," he added.

While preparations were being made for the meeting, Domingo Pesina, owner of the well at the labor camp contacted The Brand this morning concerning an apparent misunderstanding about the reason for the padlocking of the water system at the camp in August, 1974.

He said that reports which have appeared previously which attributed the shutdown of the water supply to apparent non-payment of water bills by camp residents were untrue.

IN A SERIES WHICH appeared earlier this week, The Brand carried a similar report, which was taken from its own files on the 1974 incident. The Brand also reported that water service has been uninterrupted at the camp since the 1974 cutoff, which culminated in a shooting apparently related to the water matter.

According to Pesina, a movement was underway at the San Jose area in 1974 to unite the camp residents for the purpose of forming a community-owned water system. The movement made little progress however, apparently due to disinterest on the part of a majority of camp residents.

"Notice was given to the camp residents that the water supply would be cut off unless they united and made a serious effort toward forming a water group," Pesina claimed. "The deadline passed with no progress made toward uniting, and the water was cut off," he added.

THE WELL OWNER stated that he hopes progress is made at tonight's meeting, "because I'm getting out of the water business at the camp whether the people get together or not."

He reported that he has checked with several sources and found that he is not obligated to supply water to the camp, although he has done so since purchasing the property in 1970.

"I may have to get me a lawyer, but I'm going to get out of the water business," he concluded.

Storms Continue To Dampen Texas

Stormy weather revisited Texas during the night but struck considerably lighter blows than during the past several days. Threatening turbulence caused a tornado watch in a 120-mile-wide corridor through West and North Texas from Big Spring to Ardmore, Okla. It expired before midnight with no report of a twister striking.

Hail the size of golf balls pounded the Rotan area as heavy thunderstorms ranged from Abilene to Sweetwater and Snyder in West Texas.

There were showers and thundershowers also between Dallas, Denton and Sherman in North Texas, and from nearby Paris into Oklahoma and Arkansas, and in East Texas from around College Station, Lufkin, Palestine and Texarkana into Louisiana.

House To Decide On Stoppag Bills

AUSTIN (AP) - State representatives vote today on bills continuing stopgap measures to protect to write a compromise medical malpractice insurance bill fail.

Also up for action was an oral consensus bill that touched off fiery oratory Thursday when it won preliminary House approval.

The malpractice bills continue the risk-sharing pool, or Joint Underwriting Association, for doctors who can't obtain coverage on their own; retain State Insurance Board power to veto rates; and give patients three years from the date of an injury or one year from its discovery to sue their doctors.

House-Senate negotiations over a bill providing permanent malpractice legislation are at a stalemate.

Jury Deliberates McManus Sentence

HOUSTON (AP) - A state district court jury which convicted Vernon McManus of capital murder in the slaying of a Baytown couple now must decide whether he is assessed the death penalty or life imprisonment.

McManus could receive the death penalty if the jury determines he intentionally killed the couple and if it decides there is a possibility he could commit future acts of violence. The minimum sentence is life in prison.

The jury of nine men and three women returned the verdict Thursday 24 hours after receiving the case and after 10 hours of deliberations.

McManus was accused of conspiring to kill Paul Cantrell, an electrical contractor, and his wife, Mary, for a share of their estate and insurance money. Their slashed bodies were found last July 25 in their Baytown home.

Talk Breakthrough Seen In Geneva

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - A breakthrough is reported in the nuclear arms talks between Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, and a compromise formula has been referred to Moscow.

U.S. and Soviet negotiators indicated they should know today or Saturday whether the two superpowers are going to be able to agree on their second treaty - SALT II - to limit or reduce their arsenals of long-range nuclear weapons.

Informed sources said the compromise formula, reached in a five-hour meeting Thursday and subject to approval by President Carter and the Kremlin, was a blend of Russian proposal and the U.S. package rejected by Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev last March.

Police Report

A 13-year-old Mexican-American youth was charged with the burglary of a residence Thursday after several rings and other jewelry items reportedly were taken from 901 S. Schley Wednesday.

The youth was released to the custody of his parents after allegedly trying to sell the jewelry at a school. Value of the merchandise reportedly was $75.

Hereford police also investigated a report of a burglary at 206 West 8th. Approximately 20 to 25 rings and two six packs of beer reportedly were taken with the total value placed at $150.

The items were reported to have been taken between 11 p.m. Thursday and 2:30 a.m. today. Nobody was home during the incident, and the front door was unlocked.

$2.00 worth of gas was stolen from Allsup's No. 113 at 15th and Ave. H Thursday. The driver of a brown Gremlin allegedly left without paying for the gas.

Ambassador College Closes In Big Sandy

BIG SANDY, Tex. (AP) - The 2,500-acre campus of Ambassador College near this East Texas town will be closed although the school's students will be allowed to transfer to the parent campus in California, according to school officials.

Thursday's announcement said the operations of the Texas school will be merged with its parent campus at Pasadena, Calif.

The Big Sandy campus served as regional headquarters for the Worldwide Church.

Garner Ted Armstrong is president of the church and is a widely-known radio and television minister, specializing in interpretations of prophecy.

The Big Sandy campus had been in existence 13 years and had 650 students at the time of its closing.

Officials cited financial problems in closing the four-year, liberal arts school.

About 15 of the 20 faculty members are expected to be transferred to the main campus at Pasadena, officials said.

Students were invited to transfer to the California school.

Police Investigate 57 Offenses In April

The Hereford Police Department issued 239 traffic citations and investigated 57 criminal offenses during the month of April, according to its monthly report released today.

Of the 239 citations, 156 were for moving violations. The Hereford police also investigated 46 traffic accidents, with one resulting in injury.

The police cleared 10 of the 57 reported offenses.

The largest percentage of adults arrested during April were on charges of drunkenness-

10 of the 26 offenders taken into custody. The police also reported five charges of disorderly conduct and four charges of driving while intoxicated.

There were no drug arrests of adults during April, although one juvenile was charged.

Ten of the 16 juveniles arrested were on drunkenness charges.

The police department, including the animal control officer, drove 17,136 miles on 3,500 calls in April.

The Abundant Life

DEMANDING RIGHTS

By Bob Wear

"Demanding rights" seems to have become an obsession with mankind. Granting that such action may be justified occasionally, it hardly seems that this is a well-thought-out guideline for living. The faulty view of "rights" is forcing many evils upon human society.

The present-day practice of "demanding rights" can be pushed until there will be no rights for anybody. In most instances, "demanding rights" will lead to the infringement upon the rights of others, and there is another great evil. Many persons "demanding rights" are not prepared to handle the rights they demand.

Many demands are unjustified, because those making the demands are actually trying to take, by force, what others have earned. They show no regard for the rights of other people, and give no indication of being responsible in what they are trying to do. It has been proven again and again that most people "demanding rights" cannot handle them wisely.

Rights are not rights if we do not know how, or if we refuse to use them constructively. If we are going to use them for destruction; to destroy the property of other people, or to molest other people; we forfeit them, and should lose them.

"Confusion" is probably the word the most nearly describes the current squabble about human rights. Many persons are demanding considerations and privileges which are grossly unreasonable, but they claim them as rights. Others make demands which would relieve them of all personal responsibility, and they call these "rights". In fact, it is unbelievable that so many people could know so little about "rights", and how to provide them for everybody.

"There is no right without a parallel duty, no liberty without supremacy of the law, no high destiny without earnest perseverance, no greatness without self-denial." - Lieber.

Rights must be earned, not demanded. We are thinking and talking too much about our rights, and not giving enough consideration to "our duties". If all of us will do our best to fully discharge our duties, we will thus do the most we can to preserve and "our rights". If, however, we continue to demand what we think are our rights, and ignore and neglect our duties; the day will come when there will be "no rights".

The only rights for you and me are limited rights. There can never be a life style such as some persons envision. They actually seem to think that they should be permitted to indulge themselves in unrestrained and uncontrolled speech and action. They show no regard for the "rights of other people", but seem to consider themselves privileged persons who are immune from all laws of man and of God.

"Rights", separated from corresponding duties, obligations and restraints, rapidly become shackles that bind human beings in the most hopeless form of personal bondage.

Nixon

prosecution, and the murderer?" Frost asked Nixon.

"There are degrees, there are nuances which are difficult to explain," Nixon replied.

The discussion turned to the White House plumbers, so named because their duty was to plug leaks. Agents of the unit broke into a psychiatrist's office looking for dirt on Ellsberg.

Nixon couldn't recall John Ehrlichman telling him E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy had to go to California to find information.

"He may well have," said Nixon. "And if he had, I would have said 'go right ahead.' But, I recall no conversation whatever with Ehrlichman about their going to California for the purpose of, what was called a quote, 'covert operation' or for the purpose of determining whether Ellsberg's psychiatrist might furnish information."

Frost brought up Nixon statements, taken from his White House tapes, in which the conversation was about political enemies - "those who've tried to do us in."

"Isn't there in that whole conversation..." Frost began.

Helpfully, Nixon finished the question: "a paranoid attitude?"

Then he launched into the slights he suffered by not being invited to the White House in the Kennedy-Johnson years. "I remember Rose Mary Woods, my secretary who made up the invitation lists, went out of her mind when I put Hubert Humphrey on the list for White House dinners," Nixon said.

"What I'm trying to tell you that this whole business of 'am I paranoid about hating people and trying to do them in?' And the answer is, at times yes."

He recalled that after the New York Times in May 1969 revealed that U.S. planes were bombing Cambodia, he suggested to Henry A. Kissinger that someone on Kissinger's staff might have leaked the information.

"And Henry said 'I will destroy them,'" said Nixon. "Henry's not a mean man... We felt this way because people on the other side were hypocritical, they were sanctimonious and they were not serving the best interests of the country..." "Call it paranoia, but paranoia for peace isn't that bad."

Prices

about the same as in February and March and less than in January.

In addition, commodities priced other than food increased four-tenths of 1 per cent, matching the March figures and considered by economists to be an acceptable increase.

Economists look to prices of nonfood commodities for evidence of the underlying rate of inflation in the economy, since food prices are volatile and subject to wide swings from month to month.

The Carter administration now is forecasting an over all increase in consumer prices this year of 6.7 per cent, compared with a 4.8 per cent consumer price hike in 1976.

The effects of the severe winter show up in the April price index in sharply higher prices for onions, cucumbers, green peppers and tomatoes. The Labor Department said supplies of these foods from Florida were limited due to the freezing weather earlier this year.

Besides higher prices for coffee and vegetables, costs also increased for pork, cereal, bakery products, sugar and sweets. Prices of eggs and fresh fruits declined.

There were also higher prices during the month for transportation services, up 1 per cent and for medical care services, up nine-tenths of 1 per cent. The increase in transportation services was blamed on a large hike in auto insurance costs.

Prices of fuel oil and coal rose nine-tenths of 1 per cent and used-car prices advanced four-tenths of 1 per cent, which in both cases was less than in recent months.

The price index for new cars declined one-tenth of 1 per cent. The Labor Department also said the purchasing power of workers' paychecks declined one-tenth of 1 per cent in April, largely because of a rising tax bite on workers' salaries.

Courtenay Slater, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said she's confident that at some point around the middle of the year the rise in consumer prices will begin easing off.

John MacDonald Makes Up For Late Start as Writer

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Books Editor

NEW YORK (AP) - John D. MacDonald came late to writing, but he has more than made up for lost time what with - at last count - more than 60 books and about 600 short stories to his credit.

The 60-year-old MacDonald, his white hair accented by his lightly sunburned face, says with a laugh, "I'd always wanted to be a writer when I was young, but I didn't think I could be. I thought it was something that happened to other people."

"But when I was in the service during World War II (he served as an OSS officer in the Pacific) I wrote a short story and mailed it to my wife. I was about 29 then. Although I didn't know it until I got back home from overseas, my wife had sold the story to a magazine. For $25. When I found out, I thought, 'Wow! maybe I can be one of those writing people.'"

It didn't take MacDonald long to make it, although he admits "I must have written 800,000 words of terrible stuff - the artsy stuff you've got to get out of your system before you learn the trade - before I sold a second story. I had what was supposed to be a full-time job, but I found it could be a part-time thing, so I wrote on the job. I tried to keep 30 stories in the mail at all times - my postage bill was tremendous - but I started to sell my stuff and in 1948 I made $12,000 just on short stories. That was the year I made it. I've been writing full-time ever since."

MacDonald's latest novel, "Condominium," is quite different from the Travis McGee thriller-type novels for which he is best known. The book is set in Florida - MacDonald and his wife live in Sarasota - and deals with the inhabitants of a condominium and the hurricane which blasts them and their not-very-well-constructed building.

"One thing I wanted to deal with was the problem of evacuation during a hurricane," says MacDonald. "Obviously, getting a lot of people to safety with only a few hours to do it in would be difficult."

"Secondly, I wanted to deal with the trend of retired people moving to a warmer climate. It's quite a shock for a lot of those people when they move. At home, they have an identity. When they move, they do not. Also they find that after having worked for, say, 35 years, they no longer have any purpose, no way of fulfilling themselves. The so-called Golden Years become a bore."

MacDonald's first novel,

"The Brass Cupcake," was published in 1960 and, he says proudly, "It's still in print. It's sold some 2 million copies so far."

Most of his 61 books - "65 if you want to count short story collections and anthologies" - originally appeared in paperback form. They have ranged from thrillers to novels of morals and manners to comedy to science-fiction and to autobiography.

All told, MacDonald says, his books have sold an estimated 64 million copies. Which is fine, he thinks, but also carries "a lot of responsibility since certain of the people who read my books are going to be influenced by my vision of the world. That means I can't be hasty and careless and not care about the reaction of the reader."

Each of 16 novels that make up the Travis McGee series is distinguished by having a color in its title, for example, "One Fearful Yellow Eye," "Dress Her In Indigo" and "The Dreadful Lemon Sky."

"I was trying to figure out a way to keep readers from getting the books confused," MacDonald says with a laugh.

Watkins

Resigns At West Texas

CANYON, Tex. (AP) - A search is expected to begin soon to find a successor to Dr. Lloyd Watkins, the president of West Texas State University, who announced his resignation to accept the same post with Illinois State University at Normal.

Dr. Watkins, 48, said he will assume his position at Normal July 15.

WTSU Regent James Lovell of Dumas said the school's board of regents will name a search committee to find a successor to Dr. Watkins, who has served as president of WTSU since 1973.

Lovell said he expected the search for a replacement for the $37,500 post to take about six months.

Dr. Watkins replaces Dr. Jean Budig at the Illinois university.

EMPLOYEE THEFT

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. (AP) - There are 415 known ways to steal money and/or goods from employers and new methods are being discovered almost every day, according to a recent study by the Dale System, Inc.

"A clerk in a busy New York City candy store under-rings every sale by one penny and takes home $5 a day - for 22 years. A super market manager in Oklahoma City sets up his own cash register at peak periods and in three months collects $75,000 his employers never knew about," noted Dale statisticians.

"Business thieves are smart and imaginative and extremely resourceful," researchers warned.

The word torreador, referring to the bullfighter, is no longer used. In modern Spanish, the bullfighter is called a torero.

United Way Fund Drive Begins Sept. 19

The United Way Fund Drive in Hereford will begin Sept. 19, it was announced in a board of directors breakfast Thursday.

June 1 is the deadline for agencies not part of the 1976 drive to join this year's program according to David Pruitt, board president.

Jake Webb Thursday was named chairman of the budgets and admissions committee. He is accepting applications from businesses and companies to join the drive.

Bob Gentry and Calvin Jones are co-chairmen of the committee which will solicit and update United Way fund cards. Mal Manchee was elected chairman of the publicity committee.

Isaías Gamez will replace Phil Guerrero on the board of directors. Pruitt announced following the meeting, Guerrero has moved to Santa Fe, N.M.

The United Way is still seeking a campaign chairman.

Muscle Tears Sports Problem

NEW YORK (AP) - Young athletes engaged in track, football, basketball and other sports who complain of severe groin pain may be suffering from tears in their thigh muscles, say radiologists at New York Hospital.

The tearing injuries affect the pelvis and hips of athletes 17 to 23 years old in sports demanding wide-spreading of the legs, strenuous hip flexing, abrupt directional changes during running and severe contraction of the abdominal muscles. Sprinters, hurdlers and bowlers are also among those affected, say Dr. Robert Schneider and his associates, who recently reported on the x-ray appearance of the muscles involved.

They are called "adductors" and they help move the leg at the hip joint. They can sometimes avulse, or tear out from where they insert into the pelvic bones or leg if the leg is forced sideways or back too far when running, stretching or turning quickly and forcefully, Dr. Schneider explains.

Their five patients had experienced pain in the groin for one month to two years. X-ray studies showed changes in the bone at the point where the muscle or tendon had been ripped away. One athlete required surgery. The others were treated with local injection of corticosteroids, local anesthetics and restricted activity.

New Nursing Approach Adopted by Hospitals

CONCEPT DEVELOPED—Marie Manthey, director of nursing at Yale-New Haven Hospital in New Haven, Conn., has developed a new approach to hospital care, with one nurse responsible for the care of four or five patients as long as they are hospitalized.

By DAN HALL
Associated Press Writer
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) - A growing number of hospitals are giving patients better care - in a few cases, even saving their lives - simply by assigning a specific nurse to each patient, says the developer of the concept.

The key to the approach, which is called primary nursing, is its tendency to give the nurse more insight into a patient's condition, both medical and emotional, according to Marie Manthey.

Unlike the common approach of team nursing, in which some nurses take temperatures, others do other tasks throughout a unit, the primary nurse is responsible for the entire care of just three or four patients until the day they are released.

"In team nursing we used the mass production approach to take care of tasks, not patients. It became evident this focus on tasks wasn't meeting the patients' needs," Mrs. Manthey, director of nursing at Yale-New Haven Hospital said.

She developed primary nursing in 1970 while serving as assistant director of nursing at University of Minnesota Hospitals in Minneapolis and has been active in carrying the concept to hundreds of hospitals throughout the nation.

"Patients and relatives have told me that lives have been saved because of primary nursing," she said in an interview. In one hospital, a patient was steered away from suicide by the special concern of "her nurse," she said.

Statistics are beginning to bear out Mrs. Manthey's belief that primary nursing improves hospital efficiency as well as patient care.

The University of Michigan compared two groups of nurses, one primary and the other team, caring for kidney transplant patients under similar circumstances, she said.

Patients receiving primary care averaged less than one medical complication after the operation, compared with four complications under team nursing. As a result, they were released from the hospital a week earlier than the others, she said.

"The primary nurse knew her patients and recognized complications as soon as they arose," she explained.

Primary nursing cannot be put into effect immediately at a hospital because the entire group of nurses assigned to a "station" covering a floor or unit must be behind the change for it to work, Mrs. Manthey said.

During her 13 months at Yale-New Haven, about 10 of the hospital's 40 stations have made the change and a dozen others are considering it. Physicians have welcomed it, she added.

Nixon Agreement With Vietnam Not Binding Says NY Congressman

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - The congressman who disclosed Richard Nixon's secret agreement to give up to $5 billion in U.S. aid to North Vietnam says the promise is not binding on the current administration.

Rep. Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y., said the agreement is "an historical document, null and void." His opinion is shared by Nixon, and more importantly by President Carter, who has said he does not feel bound by any of Nixon's commitments.

Details of the four-year-old agreement were revealed officially for the first time Thursday in a previously classified document released first by the State Department and then by Wolff, who also made public a recent letter from Nixon explaining his views on the subject.

While asserting that the documents proved Nixon and senior State Department officials "consistently misled" Congress and the public about the aid agreement, Wolff said the disclosure should not give the Vietnamese any "false hopes" that the aid is forthcoming.

"As has been firmly indicated by the Carter administration, by the Congress and by Mr. Nixon... events of the past have no bearing on any future agreements which may be negotiated. The Paris peace accords have been breached and therefore voided by the actions of all signatories," Wolff said.

The declassified paper defining the agreement was a Feb. 1, 1973, letter from Nixon to North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong, declaring that under the peace pact signed three days earlier, the United States would contribute about $3.5 billion in postwar reconstruction aid to his regime "without any political conditions." It promised another $1 billion to $1.5 billion in other forms of aid.

Hanoi defeated the Saigon regime in 1975 and since then has demanded fulfillment of the Nixon pledge before restoring relations or giving further data on Americans missing in Indochina.

U.S. officials have always denied any secret aid promise was ever made. Wolff recalled that former secretaries of state Henry Kissinger and William P. Rogers did so in 1973, and Undersecretary of State Philip

A. Habib repeated the denial in House testimony a year ago.

Wolff said he wanted to ask those individuals about their denials again, and also has some "unanswered questions" for Nixon. In his letter from San Clemente dated last Saturday, Nixon did not confirm or deny any "secret" agreement for aid, but he said congressional leaders were thoroughly briefed on the peace pact, including aid proposals, at the time the agreement was signed.

And he recalled that his letter to Dong noted that all terms of the agreement would be carried out according to each country's "constitutional provisions," which in the case of the United States meant the approval of Congress.

Nixon added that inasmuch as the Vietnamese hid their agreement by refusing to pull troops out of Cambodia and Laos and by invading South Vietnam in 1975, "there is not commitment of any kind, moral or legal, to provide aid to the Hanoi government."

CHICAGO (AP) - In Skokie, Ill., a fifth grader, bent on constructing a computer and needing simple blueprints, tried the library. After six hours of digging, the reference librarian came up with easy-to-make plans for a digital computer.

This is only one of the problems for which the librarians in Skokie are doing their best to provide answers.

This kind of information delivery service is becoming popular in libraries across the country, according to the American Library Association (ALA).

Although librarians get their share of uncommon questions, more often than not they are queried about what to do or where to go to solve one of life's problems, the association notes. These inquiries have led to the establishment of information and referral (I & R) centers in many libraries.

Basic, it means libraries collect and catalogue community, governmental and social agency information in one place. When someone calls with a question, the I & R librarian can quickly consult the "community catalogue" for an answer or refer the caller to an appropriate source.

One of the pioneers in formalized information service is the Detroit Public Library where TIP (The Information Place) answers more than 100,000 questions each year on everything from abandoned houses to zoos.

Clara Jones, director of Detroit Public and president of the ALA, explains why the library has become involved in the information "business."

"Traditionally, most information has come from books, but there has been a recent change in the kinds of demands made upon our materials and sources," Mrs. Jones said. "The information needs of today's city residents are oriented, to a large degree, toward basic human services that deal with problems of living and coping in a complex world."

"We have simply used those skills which are a librarian's stock-in-trade - locating, indexing, arranging - to establish an information clearinghouse," she said. "Essentially we're making it easier for the average citizen to cut through bureaucratic red tape."

I & R is a logical and necessary outgrowth of the library's basic information commitment."

Many of the nation's libraries have taken the commitment seriously and inaugurated I & R services tailored to their individual communities.

The Seattle Public Library has its QIC (Quick Information Center), where librarians answer factual questions in three minutes. NICHE (Neighborhood Information Center that Helps Everyone) is the Montclair, N.J., library's information service. Located in a store front, NICHE helps people in crisis or survival situations with nutrition, housing and public assistance information. Montclair also has a Women's Information and Referral Service (WIRS), which deals specifically with women's concerns such as legal aid, daycare, re-education and family planning.

Senior citizens in Corpus Christi, Tex., have their own information center in a retirees' housing complex. The Sioux City, Iowa, library has installed a service for Indians and the San Mateo County, Calif., library responds to questions in both English and Spanish.

Government Considers Keeping Saccharin Drinks

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government will look at keeping saccharin-sweetened diet soft drinks on the market for diabetics, but admits the chances are slim.

"Lots of folks would like to find a way to do that," FDA commissioner Donald Kennedy says, but "the difficulty is how to make it available to those people without spreading the risk of cancer throughout the country."

Kennedy clearly was impressed by the parade of diabetics, parents of diabetics and doctors who told two days of hearings that ended Thursday of the plight of diabetics under the FDA's saccharin ban, which will take effect in July.

"We're going to look at it," the commissioner said as he left the hearings on the ban of saccharin from foods, beverages, drugs and cosmetics but permit its sale as a single-ingredient, over-the-counter drug.

"The drug and toothpaste issues are fairly easy to deal with," with one FDA official. "But how do you say you'll permit a dangerous food additive on the market for diabetics but not let other people have it? It just wouldn't stand up."

Diabetics must severely restrict their intake of sugar and carbohydrates to avoid a condition known as ketoacidosis, which can lead to such complications as kidney disease, heart failure, stroke, blindness and gangrene.

The toothpaste industry and dentists joined the fight against the ban, saying that the tiny amounts of saccharin ingested as people brush their teeth are insignificant. Banning the sugar substitute would increase tooth decay because people wouldn't brush if their toothpaste didn't taste good, the witnesses said.

Some 600 prescription drugs also contain saccharin to make them more palatable, and the drug industry wants its products to be exempt from the ban.

The FDA can make exceptions for drugs and cosmetics if it decides the benefits outweigh the risks. But no such legal option exists for food additives, where products must be safe and free of cancer-causing ingredients to be marketed.

The FDA based its ban on a study by Canadian scientists that showed high doses of saccharin caused cancer in laboratory rats.

Texas Ask More Time To Meet Bad-Air Goals

WASHINGTON (AP) - Reps. Bob Krueger and Bob Gammage of Texas said Thursday they plan to try again to amend federal air quality standards to allow more time to meet federal goals.

Their statement came amid reports that this Texas Air Quality Board was considering cancelling all industrial construction permits in the Houston area, which has Texas' worst air quality.

The existing federal law requires that in area like Houston, which are not in compliance with federal standards, new sources of pollution cannot be allowed unless a proportionate reduction in pollution can be found.

The standards could stymie industrial development because of the difficulty in finding a "trade-off."

Krueger and Gammage tried earlier this year to win approval for an amendment that would give states an extra 10 years to meet the air quality standards for certain types of pollutants.

In the meantime, they would be exempt from the Strict Trade-off policy if they had a state plan for progressing toward the standards each year.

The Krueger-Gammage amendment was rejected, 21 to 13 by the House committee. They said they hoped to bring it up again when the news clean air bill goes to the House floor.

The Commerce Committee did approve an amendment by Rep. Bob Eckhardt, a Houston Democrat. The Eckhardt amendment allows just five extra years and it is tougher in the requirements it imposes on states which seek to avoid the strict federal trade-off requirement.

However, neither the Krueger-Gammage amendment nor the Eckhardt amendment allow a state to permit an overall increase in pollution.

An aide to Krueger, Bob Slaughter, said that even if his amendment became law, it was possible that some industrial growth would have to be halted because of air pollution restrictions.

Century-Long Battle Still Rages Over Nevada-California Boundary

By BRENDAN RILEY
Associated Press Writer

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) - A claim that an incorrect Nevada-California boundary exists is the latest wrinkle in a dispute that has raged, off and on, for more than 125 years. A brief "war" was even fought.

The California Lands Commission has reported that a survey error setting the boundary in 1850 put the line from Lake Tahoe north as much as one-third of a mile too far west - in Nevada's favor.

California Assemblyman Mike Cullen says Californians should not give up the disputed land "without a fight." A fight would fit with history.

In 1862, Nevada officials tried unsuccessfully to get the California legislature to cede away all territory east of the Sierras. Residents of Plumas County, Calif., living on the east slope of the mountains in the Honey Lake and Long Valley areas, wanted the change because they had more ties to Nevada than California.

Rebuffed by California, Nevada illegally included the Honey Lake area of Plumas County in Roop County, Nev., the same year. Trouble started in 1863 when a California judge enjoined a Nevada judge from holding court, and was in turn enjoined from doing likewise - and was arrested by the Roop sheriff and fined $10.

Then Plumas County Sheriff E.H. Pierce arrested Roop County Sheriff Bill Nailleigh and Roop Judge John Ward, who levied the fine, and headed for Susanville, Calif., for Quincy, Calif. A group of pro-Nevada citizens followed and "rescued" the prisoners.

Sheriff Pierce returned from Quincy with a posse of more than 100 men and a piece of artillery. He again arrested Sheriff Nailleigh, and Judge Ward - and pro-Nevadans again took them back and put them in a guarded cabin.

The next day, Sheriff Pierce mounted an attack from a nearby barn. A gunfight lasting several hours ensued, and records show several men on each side were wounded.

That made clear the need for a final boundary survey, which resulted in Honey Lake going to California.

A similar problem existed that year in the old mining camp of Aurora, near Mono Lake south of Tahoe. But residents cheerfully elected a full slate of Nevada officials and a full slate of California officials and went about their business with no hard feelings. Eventually the town went to Nevada.

Nevada tried off and on for over half a century to get a western boundary following the Sierra summit line. Delegations visited Sacramento in 1874, 1877, and 1889. In 1915, when some Californians were trying to divide their state along an east-west line, the Nevada legislature passed a resolution again pressing for a boundary along the Sierra divide.

The boundary was resurveyed in 1873, with Nevada getting 350 more square miles; and in 1899, after a long controversy, California took 65 square miles in the Tahoe area.

WHAT DO YOU EXPECT?

I can take this question, place the emphasis on different words and come up a variety of meanings.

When the emphasis is on "expect", we can probably remember this question from a child (most likely of adolescent years). He feels that you are being unfair in your evaluation of the situation and him.

Now accent the "you". This implies that your expectations are very different than the norm.

When the "do" is stressed, there is the implication that the speaker misinterpreted or that you were not clear.

The point I am making with all these interpretations is that the matter of expectations is a most nebulous area in human relationships.

Think back on disagreements or misunderstandings you've had recently. Wasn't it a matter of not knowing what to expect, or what was expected of you?

The same applies in the area of relating to kids. If we will define limits very clearly, then a child is not surprised when they are enforced.

A child really needs to know what to expect from you and what you expect or will not tolerate from him.

Defining expectations give a child a sense of security because he has something to depend on. What do you expect?

CowBelles Attend Spring Workshop

Sunny Lemons, Sarah Lawson and Ruth Newsom of Hereford CowBelles and Velma Tanner, Caroline Higgins and Lazell Fowler of Oldham County CowBelles attended an Area I-A Spring Workshop, Tuesday at the Texas A&M Research & Extension Center, Amarillo.

Some 35 area CowBelles were escorted in small groups by Dr. G.B. Thompson, Research Director of the Center, through the Veterinary Research Laboratory and the Nutrition Research Laboratory.

The group assembled in the auditorium of the Center for the workshop planned by Thera Scott, president of the Golden Spread CowBelles of Amarillo. In the Area business meeting, Caroline Higgins was named decorating chairman for the booth for the Tri-State Fair to be sponsored by Area I-A CowBelles.

Dr. G.B. Thompson presented a slide program and spoke on research at the Center. Dr. John McNeil spoke on the Beef Carcass Show to be held Sept. 13 in Amarillo. Max Carpenter of American Cyanamid discussed the problem of antibiotics under fire by the FDA. He stated that if antibiotics were banned, it would cost cattle and swine feeders 8 million dollars per year; consumers 2.3 million dollars per year and to grow extra feed would cost 2.3 million dollars of land annually.

Peggy Duke, State legislative chairman, of Booker advised members to be informed and involved and to get acquainted with and write letters to legislators.

Anna Lee Barton of Canadian, State beef education chairman, suggested ways of informing others by using tools available, such as kits from the Texas Cattle Feeders.

State President Emma Lee Collier of Wichita Falls spoke on the Beef Research and Information Act. She announced that registration would be one for each entity and would be June 6-17 and voting would be July 5-15. She reported that American National CowBelles had raised over $100,000 to cover costs of this election.

After lunch at the Center, the group traveled to Texas Tech Research Center at Pantex for coffee and assembled in the sales auditorium for an address and live cattle demonstration by Dr. Robert A. Long, professor of Animal Science, Texas Tech University, Lubbock.

In his address on "Beef Cattle Selection and New USDA Feeder Cattle Grades" he told that "the feeder cattle into uniform groups as to outcome in order to establish their value on a certain market." Demonstrating with slides as well as live cattle, Dr. Long advocated that "the grade of a feeder animal be determined by evaluating three general value-determining characteristics--its muscling, its frame size, and its thriftiness."

Dr. Bill Mies, Research Director of the Center, told of research at the Texas Tech

Center with slides and an escorted walk through the feed pens. Shown to the group was a fistulated steer. This 8 year old animal had had a plug with a screw lid placed in its side and first stomach when 8 mo. of age. By removing the lid the researchers can sample the contents rumen contents for experiments.

Tough Wrestler?

"Pretty Boy" Doug Somers is just as much at home in the hairdresser's chair as he is on the wrestling mat. Saturday, the 6-4, 245-pounder from Minnesota will grapple with Mexican Ricky Romero in a rematch of last Saturday's match in which both men were counted out of the ring. The action will take place beginning at 9 p.m. in the Bull Barn as the Lions Club continues to bring a program of pro wrestling in the Hereford area.

Somers Faces Romero In Grudge Rematch

Saturday night the Hereford Lions Club will present a rematch between pretty boy Doug Somers and Ricky Romero as the main event. Last Saturday's grappling action saw both men counted out of the ring. They mutually assented to a contract which may settle their differences.

Somers, accused by many of being a wrestler what Dr.

Renee Richards is to tennis, is a 6-4 245 pounder from Minnesota. The 224-pound Romero, four inches shorter, is a speedster from Mexico. Somers is a tough wrestler with a scientific background and a good knowledge of back alley tactics. Romero is a seasoned pro who said his greatest fear of Somers is that "he may scratch my eyes out."

Big Swede Hanson, the 300-pounder from Charlotte,

North Carolina, will take on Chief Thunder Cloud, Dynamic matman from the San Carlos Apache reservation in Arizona. The Indian comes in at 232. Tendu Shimada, 238-pound former sumo great from Tokyo, will take on touch Mack Quarry, who wrestled here several years ago. Quarry, a stocky 228-pounder, hails from Illinois, and wrestled on the same college team with Bob Rupp.

The opener Saturday will see Bobby Pico, spectacular young light heavyweight from Mobile, Alabama, take on masked toughie El Lobo. Pico gave away nearly forty pounds a few weeks ago to mat star Scott Casey, and gave Casey a surprising tussle. He dropped a close decision to the former Texas champion.

Last week's action saw Danny Little Bear, Chief Thundercloud, and 600-pound Haystack Calhoun, disqualified in six man tag team action. Chief Thunder Cloud brought a chair into the ring when enraged by the brawling actions of Swede Hanson, Rip Hawk, and Cyclone Negro.

Last week's opening match saw Hawk and Thunder Cloud battle to a ten minute draw. Hanson faced off against popular Danny Little Bear in the second match, and was disqualified by the referee for failing to break on the count. Little Bear is also from Arizona. He and Thunder Cloud are Chiricaua Apaches from White River.

Somers, Romero's repeat foe this coming Saturday, was recently spotted having his hair done in a beauty shop. "My wife does my hair," he claimed. Action at the Bull Barn will start at 9 p.m.

Wadkins Stays Out; Shares Memorial Lead

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) - "I reckon you all know I was five over par after six holes. I thought about walking in," drawled Bobby Wadkins. He didn't. It was wise.

The 25-year-old Virginian, younger brother of tour veteran Lanny Wadkins, exploded for an eagle 3 on the next hole, triggering a nine-under spree over the last 12 holes.

His improbable back nine of 29, a course record by two shots, swept the younger Wadkins to a four-under-par 68 Thursday and a share of the first-round lead with rookie Mark Lye in the $225,000 Memorial Golf Tournament.

The pair of leaders, still searching for their first tour victories, had won a combined $21,000 this year. They were not even in the top 90 money winners.

Still, they were at least two shots up on the world's greatest shotmakers and 19 ahead of Ben Crenshaw. Crenshaw, last week's winner at Fort Worth, ballooned to an 87 on the muggy, 88-degree day. "I haven't shot an 87 since I was 15," said Crenshaw as he stalked off.

Gary Player and Bruce Lietzke, the year's No. 2 money earner, shared second with Chi Chi Rodriguez and Jerry McGee at 70. Masters champion Tom Watson, and the leading money winner, and Tom Weiskopf were in an 11-player snarl at 71.

Even Jack Nicklaus, the creator of this $7 million, 7,101-yard monster, settled for 72. Also at par were defending champion Roger Maltbie, Lee Trevino and Hale Irwin. Johnny Miller had 74 and Arnold Palmer 79.

Wadkins got into this second-year tournament as an alternate. "I got the word I was in while I was playing the sixth hole in practice Monday," said the East Tennessee State product, winner of less than $11,000 in 17 tour stops in 1977. Lye, 24, a Californian who qualified for the World Series of Golf before his tour card, used a four-birdie front side for his gem. "This golf course is so tough it's the last place I thought I'd shoot 68," said the winner of $11,000 plus.

The select field is chasing a first prize of $45,000. Portions of the last two rounds will be televised nationally CBS Saturday and Sunday.

Spring Grid Game Tonight

Spring football training for the Hereford Whitefaces concludes, at least for the players, tonight when the Maroon and White teams clash in the annual spring game at 7:30 p.m. at Whiteface Field.

The two squads will give the coaching staff a look at themselves in game-like conditions, despite the absence of the kicking game. No punts or kick offs will be allowed.

"We'll just move the ball up thirty yards or so in a punt situation, and a team will take the ball on the 25 or 30 after the other scores," Herd head coach Fred Upshaw said.

Upshaw will be one of the most interested observers of the game tonight, leaving the coaching duties of the two squads to the assistant coaches. He will get an indication of how the I formation has been accepted by the players this spring. A shift to the I is being contemplated by the coaching staff for next year. The Herd ran from a split backfield last season.

An evaluation of the spring training this year will be completed next week.

Salinas Signs With Notre Dame

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Notre Dame now has the name of Gilbert Salinas, the 6-foot-11 high school all-American center, on a letter of intent that ends a recruiting war that once included almost 200 schools.

Salinas signed to play for the Fightin' Irish Thursday night as more than 50 friends, neighbors and reporters watched.

"Of course I am very pleased Gilbert selected Notre Dame," said Notre Dame Head Coach Digger Phelps.

"We feel he will make a contribution to the program as a freshman," Phelps said. "We made him no promises about starting, but we know he will give us depth."

Salinas, the all-time leading scorer in San Antonio basketball history with 2,204 points, said he decided to go to Notre Dame after visiting the school more than three weeks ago.

"I did not want to say anything then because I wanted to talk to other coaches about their programs," Salinas said. "But I felt warm at Notre Dame. I felt like I belonged there."

Culpepper Holds Onto Point Lead

AMARILLO—Hereford's Jim Culpepper is the first driver to hold the late-model lead for two consecutive weeks at Southwest Speedway this season.

Culpepper, finishing sixth in the main event last Saturday, held onto the top spot by a 440-385 point margin over second-place Howard Blevins of Canyon.

Two other Hereford drivers, James Davis and Wayne McCullar, share 13th in the late-model standing with 100 points each. Davis, finishing fifth in the main event, moved up from 18th.

Cameron Moore of Amarillo owns the modified-stock lead by a 300-295 point lead over Bill Hudspeth of Altus, Okla., while defending champion Paul Malacara Jr. of Amarillo is setting the street-stock pace by a 124-75 point edge over Ralph Birdwell of Amarillo.

Action will resume at the asphalt track at NE 24th and Folsom Road at 8 p.m. Saturday. The winner of the late-model feature will qualify for the Texas Race of Champions, which is scheduled Oct. 15 at Texas World Speedway in College Station, Tex.

Admission to Saturday's races will be $3 with children 11 and under admitted free.

Monterey, Sandies Play Rubber Game

It all comes down to one game today as the Monterey Plainsmen and Amarillo High Sandies square off at 4 p.m. in Amarillo for the right to advance to the Regional baseball playoff. Each team has won one of two bi-district playoff contests; the Plainsmen by an 8-5 count in Lubbock, and the Sandies by the same score in Amarillo.

The first two games of the best-of-three series were virtual giveaways by the two teams. The Sandies committed five errors in dropping the opener in Lubbock, while Monterey returned the favor in the second tilt, losing the handle on three occasions.

Pitchers for today's finale are the same two hurlers who faced off in the opener. Monterey will rely on Ron Reeves (14-1), while Sandie hopes will ride on the arm of Kim Sargent (6-1).

The Plainsmen are 30-4 on the season, having won the District 4-4A crown with a perfect 16-0 record. Amarillo has forged a 16-7 mark this season in winning the 3-4A title.

Chandler Lulls Hogs To Sleep

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Texas A&M Coach Tom Chandler mentioned his sophomore pitcher, Mark Ross, in the same breath with San Diego Padres hurler Randy Jones, last year's National League Cy Young award winner.

Chandler didn't even think twice about it.

"He's kind of like Randy Jones—he's not overpowering but he's got that good sinker ball," the Aggies coach said. "Mark looks like the type of pitcher you watch from the grandstand and want to get a bat and go up and hit against him—but he's a tiger."

Ross convinced the Armaksas Razorbacks of that and, after losing to him and the Aggies 5-2 in the first round of the Southwest Conference postseason baseball tournament Thursday, they just might prefer to stay in the grandstand and watch him. He yielded five scattered hits.

In the other first round game

Baylor nipped Texas 3-2 after jumping into a 3-0 lead. Baylor relief pitcher Shane Nolen coaxed two fly balls from Texas batters for the triumph after Wendell Hibbett led off the ninth inning with his fourth hit of the game.

Texas faces Arkansas at 3 p.m. today at Disch-Falk Field in the elimination game and Baylor meets A&M at 7:30 p.m. in the winners' bracket with the victor advancing to the finals.

The Aggies' victory was interrupted by a 90-minute rain delay, but that didn't seem to bother Ross. He retired 12 batters in a row after Arvis Harper's leadoff single in the first inning. Then, after the rain delay, Ross retired 11 of the last 12 Razorbacks he faced.

"My arm felt super out there," Ross said. "I only threw 116 pitches—they were just all beating my sinker ball into the ground."

A&M outfielders made only three putouts the entire game.

Pitch, Hit, Throw Contest Sunday

Amarillo area competition in the Pitch, Hit and Run program will take place Sunday, May 22, beginning at 11 a.m. in Memorial Stadium. The Pitch, Hit and Run program is an event nationally sponsored by major league baseball and Thom McAnn. It is the same idea as the national Punt, Pass and Kick competition held in conjunction with the National Football League. All boys and girls between the ages of nine and 12 are eligible to enter.

Following the local competition, the contestants will be the guests of the Amarillo Gold Sox for the game between the Sox and the Arkansas Travelers at 2 p.m. Any accompanying parents will have to pay a $1.75 general admission tickets price for the game.

Johnsrud, a three-year letterman from Albert Lea, Minn., will receive the 1977 Gene Waldron Memorial Scholarship Award as the outstanding junior-student baseball player in the NAIA's baseball program.

Winners of the local contest will be announced during the game. They will qualify for a trip to the regional contest in Arlington, and a chance at the national finals to be held during the major league All-Star game July 19 in Yankee Stadium.

Johnsrud established a school record of 38 hits in 1976 and compiled a .437 batting average.

Registration for the local contest ends Saturday, May 21. Entry blanks may be picked up at the Thom McAnn store in Amarillo's Western Plaza.

LET US HONOR THOSE WHO DIED FOR OUR FREEDOM

A large part of the history of any free nation has had to be written in the blood of its heroes who gave their lives on the field of battle in order to preserve that freedom. For every privilege that you enjoy today, you owe them a tremendous debt of gratitude; and the only possible way you can repay it is to live your own life in a manner worthy of their supreme sacrifice. Honor them the year 'round by attending the Church of your choice regularly — itself one of the freedoms you owe them — and by maintaining an ever-alert vigilance against any erosion of your liberties, presented under the guise of protection. The finest memorial you can give your nation's heroes is the assurance that they have not died in vain.

Under God, we are determined that whosoever, whensoever, or howsoever we shall be called to make our exit, we will die free men.
— Josiah Quincy

"Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us; and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren."
— I John 3:16
