Briscoe Wants Special Finance Session

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Dolph Briscoe says he wants to call a special legislative session on school finance but, in effect, has dumped the decision on lawmakers themselves.

He said he would call one only if given assurances by presiding officers of the House and Senate that legislators have agreed on a bill and will give it a two-thirds majority.

"As a time frame for a special session, I would not anticipate it until the middle of July," he told a news conference Tuesday, 16 hours after the regular session adjourned without approving a new plan for distributing state school aid to local districts.

He said he would ask the same session to act on a bill reducing or eliminating the four per cent state sales tax on residential utility bills, another measure that died at midnight Monday.

Briscoe said he did not want school districts stuck with the present state aid law, under which more than 500 districts—nearly half the total—would lose money.

He said that Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton had agreed to activate the House and Senate education committee's "to begin preparation of a bill."

"Assuming completion of this assignment and upon concurrence of the leadership of the House and Senate, I shall call a special session of the 65th Legislature," he said.

Briscoe acknowledged that a school finance bill passed late in the summer would have to be placed into immediate effect since school districts have an Aug. 20 deadline to complete their budgets. This would require a two-thirds vote in each chamber. He said he would insist upon assurances that such a majority would vote for a single bill before calling a special session.

"I don't want to call a session unless it can result and will result in accomplishment of that goal passage of a school finance bill," Briscoe said.

He said his approach would speed up the session, which could run as long as 30 days.

"The bulk of the problems can be resolved prior to the call and permit swift action by the legislature," Briscoe said.

The governor said he expected a teacher pay raise to be included in his call for a special session.

"I anticipate a teacher pay raise as a part of it, as it was yesterday in the report of the conference committee," Briscoe said.

The conference report included $308.5 million for teacher pay raises and the state retirement contributions they would generate.

It also contained $318 million to reduce local costs of the Foundation School Program.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, and a group of House liberals battled the compromise bill because in reducing local fund assignments it would have returned more money to rich districts than poor ones.

Clayton and Hobby said they thought it would be best for House and Senate committees to work jointly. Hobby called it "essential."

Both indicated they would call their education committees back early next week.

Singing For Senator

A group of Chamber Singers appeared at the reception for Sen. John Tower here this morning at the Community Center, helping welcome the senior Republican senator to Hereford. Bill Devers, right, is director of the Chamber Singers, who will be going to Romania this summer. Sen. Tower held an informal question-and-answer period for about 55 persons at the reception, which was part of a nine-stop Panhandle tour. He was introduced here by Wes Fisher, county Republican chairman.

Dutch Confused About Mediators

BY ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP)—The Dutch government sought clarification today of a request for outside mediators by South Moluccan terrorists holding at least 55 hostages on a train in northeast Holland for nine days.

The cabinet, after a meeting that lasted past midnight, asked the terrorists just what kind of mediation they wanted and who might be acceptable.

Toos Faber, spokeswoman for the Justice Ministry, said there had been telephone conversations with the terrorists since then about food deliveries but no response by midmorning to the request for clarification.

Johan Manusama and other moderate leaders of the 40,000 South Moluccans living in The Netherlands were instrumental in ending a similar siege in December 1975, when South Moluccan extremists seized a train and the Indonesian consulate in Amsterdam.

But an open letter Tuesday from young supporters of the terrorists spoke of a division between the extremists and the moderate leaders. The Amsterdam newspaper De Volkskrant said Moluccan sources reported Manusama would be "thrown out" if he turned up in Bovensmilde, 10 miles south of Assen, where four teachers are captives of a second group of extremists who held 105 schoolchildren for three and four days last week.

The request for mediators was made Tuesday by the seven to 10 South Moluccans on the train outside Assen, apparently without the concurrence of the four extremists in the Bovensmilde schoolhouse. The direct telephone line between the train and the school broke down over the weekend, and technicians refused to run the risk of being shot to fix it.

Separate lines to the train and the school are still operating, and psychiatrist Dick Mulder continues to talk with the terrorists on behalf of the government.

Tower Visits With Herefordites

BY KEITH RIBNICK
Brand Staff Writer

About 55 Hereford area residents got a brief insight into the workings of the federal government legislative processes as U.S. Senator John G. Tower answered questions at a reception in his honor at the Hereford Community Center this morning.

The reception, sponsored by the Women's Division of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, saw Tower respond to various queries concerning almost every facet of the U.S. government.

Immediately following entertainment provided by the Hereford Chamber of Commerce Singers, Tower was introduced to the small crowd by Deaf Smith County Republican chairman, Wes Fisher.

Tower opened the informal discussion by stating his appreciation of being invited to Deaf Smith County the commending the Chamber of Commerce Singers for their short musical program. He wasted no time in moving on to more serious issues which face the Congress.

"The major concern in Washington is the energy crisis... and how we (the Congress) are to respond. Texas, as an oil producing state, has a much different view than the northeastern states... concerning the energy problems," said Tower, in an opening statement. "Hopefully, we'll pass a bill that will be fair to all."

Pointing out the Senate's concern for the common man, Tower mentioned the recently passed farm bill. He expressed hope that the U.S. House of Representatives also would pass the bill, which would then go to President Jimmy Carter for his approval. Though not detailing what the bill would change, Tower said that it would aid farmers in the Hereford area.

Tower expressed opposition to the Occupational Safety and Health Act, saying it is not realistic and would "like to see it repealed."

While discussing current legislative acts, Tower pointed out the problems pertaining to the proposed passage of the Consumer Protection Act. He is against its passage because there is enough consumer protection now and "it could mean further harassment for businesses and farmers."

He also commented that he was opposed to any increase in the Minimum Wage Requirements, but feels that it will be hiked before long.

In response to a question on election reforms which President Carter proposes, Tower said that he was "terrified at the prospect" of its passage as a law. The proposal would make voter registration legal on election day, as well as other significant changes to the current election system. Tower said that he would "do everything in his power to stop passage" of the proposal.

Tower mentioned the presidential proposal of creating a cabinet-level energy department, stating that he was one of the 10 to 12 senators who did not vote for its ratification. He compared its passage to "drawing the cart before the horse" because it would virtually take over other established energy-related agencies.

The Panama Canal Territory will not be given up through any treaties, according to Tower. He said he would not support any effort to give up the canal territory.

"The current energy situation... has delayed the exploration of new energy sources, especially oil," Tower said of U.S. energy exploration. "It takes lead time to search for oil."

Sulfa Detected In Pork Products

BY DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Almost one hog in 10 slaughtered for ham, bacon and other pork products destined for the consumer market contains illegal amounts of sulfa drugs, according to the Agriculture Department.

The problem of sulfa traces in pork has persisted for years despite efforts by federal and state authorities to crack down on farmers who use the drugs in hog feed to stimulate growth and prevent swine diseases.

During the first three months of this year, 61 slaughtered hogs were found to have excessive amounts of sulfa among 648 tested for the drugs, a violation rate of 9.4 percent or about the level detected in all of 1976.

Federal regulations for sulfa residues allow a maximum of one-tenth of one part per million in pork. The amount of drugs allowed in meat is set by the Food and Drug Administration FDA, while USDA is responsible for inspecting meat for illegal traces of the compounds.

Although drug concentrations are heaviest in livers and kidneys, excessive amounts also are occurring in the red meat of hog carcasses, officials said.

A spokesman for the department's Food Safety and Quality Service said Tuesday that of the 61 violations found during the first quarter, 37 were in the range of one-tenth of one part per million to one part per million; 14 from one to two parts per million to two to three parts per million, and four were more than three parts per million.

Federal officials say that generally the traces of sulfa in pork are so small that they pose no hazard. A possible exception, however, might be persons who are extremely allergic to sulfa drugs.

With sulfa drugs and similar additives, the FDA sometimes sets "negligible tolerance" levels with a rule-of-thumb safety factor of 2,000 per cent.

Experts decline to speculate at what level sulfa in pork might be harmful, but the rule-of-thumb formula suggests it would have to rise to at least 200 parts per million before becoming hazardous to consumers. (See PORK, Page 2)

Holder Recommends Barkowsky

Gene Barkowsky, assistant Hereford High School principal since 1973, will be recommended for the position of Stanton Junior High principal by Dr. Harrell Holder, Hereford superintendent, at the next school district board of trustees meeting June 14.

Barkowsky, should the board accept Holder's recommendation, will replace Ray Todd, who has been hired as principal of the middleschool in Grapevine. No probable successor to Barkowsky's position at the high school has been named, Holder told The Brand this morning.

Todd's salary at Stanton was $19,048. Barkowsky drew $17,731 at the high school.

Barkowsky came to Hereford from Spearman in 1971 and taught biology and headed the science department at HHS from 1971-73. At Spearman, he taught biology and was department chairman from 1966-71.

Barkowsky taught science at Flower Grove, Tex., from 1956-59 and at Lamesa from 1961-66. He also instructed vocational agriculture at Flower Grove.

A graduate of Flower Grove High

School in 1952, Barkowsky received his B.S. in agriculture education in 1956 from Texas Tech. He received his Master's from Tech in 1965 and attended summer institutes at Colorado State, Loretta Heights, Colo., College and St. Joseph's University (Emmitsburgh, Md.).

"I think Gene is an outstanding academician," Holder said. "He has an outstanding record as a teacher and administrator. I don't believe we could have found a better man anywhere."

"He works well with young people." Barkowsky said he was "honored" by Holder's recommendation.

"I consider this an advancement and the opportunity to assume a more responsible role in the school system. I'll miss the high school and the students. I've been very involved in the students' activities and extremely interested in their activities, Barkowsky said.

Holder expects a successor to Barkowsky to be named at the June 14 board meeting.

Carter Optimistic Of Cuban Treaty

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) - President Carter said Tuesday he and Cuban President Fidel Castro have exchanged best wishes for successful negotiations to restore diplomatic relations. Meanwhile, sources confirmed that the two nations tentatively agreed to exchange diplomats.

Most details of the agreement to place diplomats in each other's capital were worked out by negotiators in New York, sources in Washington said. An announcement was expected soon.

Although a formal resumption of relations may be far off, the proposed exchange of diplomats would renew contact between the two neighboring nations for the first time since 1961.

Differences Mar Economic Meeting

PARIS (AP) - Preliminary agreements on some of the major economic questions facing the conference of rich, poor and oil-producing nations "came unraveled" today, a U.S. spokesman said.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance delayed his departure from Paris because of the last-minute difficulties in reaching minimum agreement. State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said.

He said the problems arose in tough negotiating today between the 19 developing and eight industrialized nations. The talks, known as the North-South dialogue, were scheduled to end today.

The tentative accords reached in negotiations within specialized working groups fell apart when the negotiators took a broader view of the issues today, Carter said.

UT Paper Cleared In Appeals Court

AUSTIN (AP) - A young Republican who tried to stop the student newspaper of the University of Texas at Austin from editorializing on elections lost a round in the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals today.

The court said an Austin judge acted properly in denying Hickman a temporary injunction against The Daily Texan.

Howard Anthony Hickman, a law student who worked in Ronald Reagan's campaign for the GOP presidential nomination, can appeal to the Texas Supreme Court.

Hickman sued in October 1976 after the Texan published editorials favorable to Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign and endorsed Tom Lorange for state supreme court justice and Republican Walter Wendlandt for railroad commissioner.

Anita To Kick Off Hurricane Season

MIAMI (AP) - The 1977 Atlantic hurricane season began today with Anita nowhere in sight.

Anita will be the name given to this season's first tropical storm or hurricane, if and when it appears.

There will be ample advance warning before any storm makes its debut.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center, located at the University of Miami, will be watching the eastern Caribbean, the Gulf of Mexico and the open Atlantic for storm formations.

"We'll be looking for a change in cloud structures," said John Hope, a hurricane forecaster. "Then we will watch for circular banding bands of rain clouds moving in a circular pattern."

Letter To The Editor

Dear people of Hereford:

I hope you will accept my deepest apology for being unable to attend the Hereford All-Girls Rodeo and the Cowgirl Hall of Fame induction ceremony. The Hildorado Rodeo committeeman failed to remember to take me to the airport, although I did try by taxi, both efforts failed. I regret this unfortunate occurrence, and I hope that the GRA and the Cowgirl Hall of Fame will forgive me.

Sincerely,

Up, Up And Away

The Memorial Day weekend was one of beautiful weather in the Hereford area, and some Amarillo-based balloonists took advantage of the weather Monday to fly above the city. In the bottom photo preparations are made for inflating the huge balloon, a process which is about half over in the center photo. Once the ground work is complete all that is left is the enjoyment of floating over the countryside (top photo). The art of hot-air ballooning is becoming very popular all over the country. Garner's vehicle was struck by a 1974 AMC Ambassador driven by Roscoe Wilkerson (right) after the former backed from a parking space. The force of the impact pushed the VW into the rear of a 1977 Lincoln Continental owned by Kenny Gearn, which had been parked next to it. Both men received only slight cuts from the accident, while the damage to the VW was somewhat more extensive. Hereford Police also investigated a minor accident at the Safeway parking lot at 4 p.m. Tuesday. (Photo By Bob Nigh).

Rent-A-Jalopy

Business Booming

FORT WORTH (AP) - First there were Hertz and its No. 1 Club, then Avis "trying harder," and now comes Jerry's Rent-A-Jalopy with "good 'ol cars at prices to match."

The good 'ol boy behind this slick gimmick is Jerry Elam, 35, a retired air traffic controller, who turned a sagging used car lot into a nostalgic goldmine.

"The used car business was real bad. We'd been in it about eight months and one day I was just sitting there looking at all those old cars and thinking what we could do to turn it around."

The result was Jerry's Rent-A-Jalopy, where grandma and grandpa can find a '41 Plymouth complete with World War II ration stamps, and where "kids" from the original Pepsi Generation can rent a bright red '64 Dodge convertible for a little memory-filled "cruising" through their old hamburger heaven.

Elam admits the nostalgia kick brings in the customers, but the practical aspect is where the money is. Prices start at $25 a week-no mileage charge.

"For that, you can get probably a '59 DeSoto or a '60 Chrysler," he said. "We get 'em in here because of the nostalgia but a lot of them are salesmen, travelers and just people who want dependable transportation but don't want to spend a lot of money."

Elam is especially proud of his '41 Plymouth coupe, so proud in fact his normally cheap rate zooms to $25 a day for the 27,000-recorded-mile antique.

"We've got 30 cars and all of them are gone now, except the coupe," he laughed. "I keep a lot of ragtop convertibles. They don't make them anymore and I think a lot of people rent them for the memories- maybe to fulfill a dream or something."

Bob Leach and his wife, Karen, celebrated their 11th wedding anniversary over the Memorial Day weekend. His idea of an anniversary gift was to rent Elam's red convertible for a "night on the town."

"When I was dating my wife, I had a '51 Caddy convertible," he said after returning from three days of topos bliss.

Tower Visit

President Carter to honor his Texas campaign promises concerning the deregulation of American energy prices, especially those of the natural gas industry. He said that if the President had "lived up to his campaign promises, deregulation could have begun this year."

When confronted with the idea that Congress causes a great deal of the average citizen's problems, Tower said that he was not part of the problem, but part of the solution. He stated that he felt that government had caused its share of problems, but was looking for ways to make government less of a problem and more of a solution to problems which Americans face.

Tower mentioned the recently-passed strip-mining restraints on the coal-mining interests and called the regulations "unfair" and "unreasonable." He compared the restraints to "replacing all the tumbleweeds and mesquites damaged when drilling for oil and gas" in Texas.

"The Middle East Situation is like a sword over our heads. Saudi Arabia is not going to be hesitant to raise the price of oil," Tower said of the U.S. oil importation problems.

Tower said that America had the best medical care in the world and "we do not need socialized medicine."

"A massive manifestation of public sentiment in America would help regulate government's role in our lives. Unfortunately, Congress is mainly influenced by big business," Tower said.

Tower closed the question-and-answer session by commenting on the strength of the armed forces in other countries. He said that the voluntary armed services works well, up to a point, but slow enlistment figures could mean a long-range problem.

"I think General Singlaub was right concerning the military withdrawal in South Korea. I don't believe in the phasing out of the American presence in the world."

Officials warned that "unless the sulfa residue problem is reduced soon, more restrictions would be imposed upon the marketing of those hogs from premises where residue violations are detected."

Pork

The USDA said that efforts to work with pork producers to reduce sulfa residues have not been successful and that as a result federal testing and surveillance will be increased. Also, officials said, the FDA has established a task force to draw up recommendations and options "designed to lower" the residues of sulfa drugs in pork.

Officials said that all of the 61 pork samples found to be in violation in the first quarter involved a specific drug, sulfa-methazine. Investigations are under way to see whether it reacts differently in hog feeding than other sulfa compounds, the officials said.

Shrimp Not Illegal Says FDA

MATAMOROS, Mex. (AP) - Manny Sanchez of Brownsville does not believe in throwing out the whole barrel of apples because there is a rotten one in the bunch. He applies the same principle to shrimp rejected by the Food and Drug Administration.

His Pez-Mex processing plant in Matamoros, just across the Texas border city of Brownsville, specializes in reprocessing imported shrimp that the FDA first finds unfit for human consumption in the United States.

The FDA knows is and there is nothing illegal about it.

Under federal law, shrimp lots imported into the United States are sampled by FDA and if any of the shrimp shows signs of decomposition, the whole lot is rejected and sold for export.

Most of the rejected shrimp comes from India or Indonesia, according to FDA officials.

"If a 50,000-pound lot is rejected, it does not mean the whole lot is decomposed," Sanchez said, explaining that 50 per cent of the shrimp his company sold in the United States had been rejected by the FDA.

Prominent Tulia Farmer Dies Following Accident

T.C. Measles, Jr., 45, a prominent Swisher County farmer, died last night at 7:40 in Swisher Memorial Hospital in Tulia after he was injured in a one vehicle accident west of Tulia at 6:45 p.m.

Measles was traveling on Highway 86 about 6 miles west of Tulia when he apparently lost control of his pickup and it swerved into a culvert.

He was pinned in the wreckage until rescue workers freed him, and was then taken to the Tulia hospital by Swisher County ambulance. He died about 20 minutes after his arrival.

Measles was an active member of the Plains Irrigation Gas Users Association, and was a director of the Texas Corn Growers Association.

He is survived by his widow, Barbara, a son, Todd, and daughter, Joan all of Tulia; his mother, Mrs. T.C. Measles Sr. of Tulia and a sister, Mrs. Mayo Duke of Tulia.

Funeral services are pending with Wallace Funeral Home of Tulia.

FALLS KILL

CHICAGO (AP) - The major killer of senior citizens is falls, according to the National Safety Council.

The council says recent statistics show about 11,000 persons over 65 or older die each year as the result of falls. It says that even when a fall does not kill it often inflicts severe injury requiring long hospitalization and convalescence.

Sale Of Ancient Estate Sets Auction Record

MENTMORE, England (AP) - Mentmore meant more...and more...and more.

More pieces were on sale, 2,700, and more money was taken in, just under $10.9 million, from Baron Mayer de Rothschild's old country seat - Mentmore Towers - than at any estate auction ever before.

More money than ever $120,000 was paid for a clock - a 1730 Augsburg timepiece that doesn't cuckoo but has almost everything else, including a cross-legged Oriental figure on top, an engraved cupid inside and a Meissen tea set in a drawer.

More was paid for an artifact of amber, $88,400; for Sevres porcelain, $102,000; for ivory, $51,000; for Victorian silver, $22,100. And more was paid for a half-dozen lesser-known Old Masters.

What it meant beyond that was debatable.

Throwing a heritage to the carpetbaggers, some conservationists called it. Some Continental dealers said it afforded a chance for Europe to retrieve treasures that Rothschild bought at fire-sale prices a century ago.

"The end of an epoch in the history of the European taste," said art historian Sir Francis Watson. The laudable dispersal of hideous rarities, answered some critics.

"The ultimate auction scene," said a man from Sotheby's auctioneers, and nobody disagreed with that.

Numbers more stupid to astronomy than a man's house raced each other in lights across the computerized board that showed bids in six currencies to the auction tent at Mentmore Towers, 50 miles northwest of London, in a nine-day sale that ended last week.

A 1757 mechanical orange tree with a concealed pipe organ to play calls for its perching bird - a frivolity on a scale now hard to imagine - fetched $153,000, the top price of the sale. Marie Antoinette's writing desk from Versailles went back home for $86,700.

An antiques reporter from Philadelphia checked the swank shops of London's Mayfair and found there were for the pound sterling equivalent of $3,000 an ornate clock similar to one the sold at Mentmore for four times as much.

It was as if the baron's treasures ennobled every doorstep and soap dish in the down-at-heels 80-room mansion. Brass and wood coat hangers fetched up to $30.60 each as souvenir hunters charged into her waning days of the sale.

Two damaged pillows brought $8.50 and a 200-year-old chest in about 18 wormy bits and pieces cost its buyer $4,300 - 57 times its estimate.

"It's crazy that people should pay such prices for this rubbish," said the dowager Countess of Rosebery. "If I had thought this was going to happen I would have had a raffle. I hate to think people were bidding more than they could afford."

The seventh Earl of Rosebery, selling his Rothschild great-grandfather's collection to meet inheritance taxes on his father's estate, showed no emotion as the crates moved out to Europe or America with pieces that might have felt the touch of Disraeli or Matthew Arnold or Henry James.

"We've know all our lives we could never keep this house going," he said. "We have a perfectly good house in Scotland with 100 or 200 years more tradition than this one and about one-third or one-half the size."

Mentmore Towers, too is up for sale. The real estate agents think it might bring $1.7 million.

Drawbacks: it will take half the sale price again to repair the roof and about $136,000 a year to maintain the the property.

To Sotheby's it meant the high point in 233 years of genteel auctioneering. The cost of six months' preparation and of staging the sale was reliably reported to be more than $170,000. But Sotheby's 10-percent cut from the buyers brought in some $1.08 million and it was delivered the auctioneering firm would receive half as much again in commission from Lord Rosebery.

"This sale will set international standards for antiques for years," said a Texan who spent $204,000 in two days and asked not be identified. "You can't eat 'em, but otherwise there's no better investment."

But Dr. Annella Brown, a Boston, Mass., surgeon, said:

Supreme Court Upholds Prison Sentences

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court Tuesday refused to block temporarily the imprisonment of former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and ex-White House aide H.R. Haldeman.

The court's action means U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica could send the two powerful figures of the Nixon administration to prison very soon.

The court, without comment, denied a request by attorneys for Mitchell and Haldeman that they remain free pending a request that the Supreme Court reconsider hearing their challenge of convictions stemming from the Watergate scandal.

The high court last week let stand the Watergate cover-up convictions of Mitchell, Haldeman and ex-Nixon aide John D. Ehrlichman.

The three were found guilty in 1975 on conspiracy, obstruction of justice and lying under oath in what prosecutors called an attempt to conceal government misconduct. All three were sentenced to 30 months to 8 years in prison. Ehrlichman began serving time last October at his own request.

Mitchell and Haldeman have remained free for more than two years while their attorneys appealed the convictions. The request for a rehearing before the Supreme Court must be filed by June 17, and attorneys for Mitchell and Haldeman had hoped to insure that the two men would remain free pending the court's decision on that request.

The denial today clears the way for Sirica to order Mitchell and Haldeman into prison, and also could be a signal that the court will reject the rehearing request.

Attorneys for both Mitchell and Haldeman have said they would ask the court to reconsider their ruling.

Court Upholds Death For Texas Murderer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court Tuesday refused to hear the appeal of a convicted Texas murderer who claimed he did not receive a fair trial and that he does not deserve the death penalty.

The court let stand the conviction and sentence of Mark Milton Moore for the 1973 murder of Dallas secretary Martha Janette Williams.

Moore had been scheduled to die in the electric chair last Jan. 14, but his execution was postponed by Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell pending the court's action on his appeal.

Miss Williams, a secretary for the Fantastic Photos company in Dallas, was found dead in the trunk of her car Nov. 14, 1973. She had been shot four times with a shotgun.

Prosecutors said Moore, a janitor in the building where Miss Williams worked, robbed her as she worked alone late at night. Fearing she had recognized him, he returned and abducted her in her own car before killing her, prosecutors said.

Moore appealed his conviction on numerous grounds, including a contention that police illegally obtained his fingerprints illegally.

Homemaker's Rights Studied in Report

Texas law has improved its treatment of homemakers in recent years, says a new study, but more changes are needed before women at home are afforded their full legal and economic rights.

The report, one of a series examining the legal rights of homemakers in all states, was released by the Texas International Women's Year (IWY) Coordinating Committee in Austin recently.

"The Legal Status of Homemakers in Texas," based on laws in effect in the state in February 1977, was written by State Rep. Sarah Weddington of Austin and published by the National Commission on the Observance of IWY. "If the homemaker's personal security, rights and responsibilities are strengthened, the partnership into which she has entered will also profit from that strength," the study said.

The report was requested by the National IWY Commission's Homemaker Committee, chaired by former Michigan Congresswoman Martha Griffiths, and prepared under contract with the Center for Women Policy Studies of Washington, D.C.

"The woman who examines these problems can plan her life in a way to avert tragedy or minimize its consequences," the booklet-form report said.

"More important, identifying the problems may eventually result in changes necessary to ensure that the role of homemaker does not leave the woman who chooses that role at a disadvantage."

Some findings of the report: -Texas courts provide no real enforceable remedy in cases where the husband is lazy or an alcoholic or a gambler, or who abandons the family, or fails to support it.

-Of the 5,277,500 people employed outside the home in Texas, 1,982,200 (38 per cent) are women. A majority of women work because of economic need: Three-fifths are single, widowed, divorced, separated or have husbands whose earnings are less than $7,000.

-In Texas a husband by law cannot be found guilty of raping his wife, and no real remedy has been found for the growing number of instances of wife battering.

-Even if a husband is ordered to make child support payments, those payments may be too small to cover even half of the actual expenses a wife may encounter. She may receive the payments irregularly, if at all. Texas law does not allow garnishment of military pay and retirement. Hence, Texas wives cannot benefit from the new Federal law permitting garnishment "as provided by state law."

-Texas law does not provide permanent alimony or maintenance.

--Many women who are widowed are left destitute, alone and without any substantial earning capacity.

The booklet will be available free at the Texas Women's Meeting June 24-26 at the University of Texas in Austin. The Meeting, sponsored by the Texas IWY Committee, is one of 56 state and territorial meetings throughout the U.S. authorized by Congress to evaluate the status of women. The meetings will culminate in the National Women's Conference in Houston Nov. 18-21.

The booklet is also available through the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Stock number is 052-003-00339-2. Price is $1.20.

Ann Landers

55 PMH Good Thing

DEAR LANDERS: Recently, I drove from Boston to Hartford, Connecticut, a distance of approximately 90 miles. I kept my speed at 57 miles per hour.

Two hundred and eighty-five cars passed me. Many were going at least 70 miles an hour. A few weeks later I drove from Boston to Springfield on the Massachusetts Turnpike, a distance of about 85 miles. Again, I kept my speed at 57 miles an hour. One hundred and eighty-four cars passed me on that trip.

The 55-mile-an-hour limit is a joke. I hope you will print my letter and remind all Americans that it is their patriotic duty to conserve fuel. - F.J.K.

DEAR MR. F.J.K.: Right on! But something more important than fuel can be conserved by respecting the 55-mile-per-hour limit. Life. Traffic fatalities have dropped considerably since the energy shortage has made it mandatory for motorists to reduce the rate of speed.

P.S.: Where are the Massachusetts and Connecticut highway patrolmen, anyway?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please help me understand my husband, Sid and I have been married a little over three years. He has been good to me I always trusted him -- until now.

Last night we went to a party. Sid got sloshed. He is the jealous type, so I am very careful about keeping my distance from other men. When I walked into the bar area to freshen my drink, I was stunned to see Sid on the patio kissing another woman. They didn't see me, which was just as well.

On the way home I told Sid what I had witnessed. He admitted it immediately, said he didn't know why he kissed her, said she was "nothing special" and sheepishly mumbled, "I must have been drunker than I thought."

Now I am filled with doubts and suspicions. If he could kiss a woman while I'm WITH him, what might he do when I'm not around? -- Jittery

DEAR JTT.: Never mention the incident again. Behave as if it never happened. Some husbands, like children, will live up (or down) to the standards you set for them.

Don't become a "nervous Nellie" and give Sid the notion you don't trust him or he may figure so long as he has the name he might as well play the game.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just caught up with your column in which a reader took you to task for using the expression "do" the dishes. The proper word, you were told, was "wash," not "do."

Apropos of ethnic cultural and geographic terminology, in England we always said "lay" the table. The first time I used that expression in New York was the last. I learned to say "set" in a hurry. -- When In Rome

DEAR ROME: I'm not surprised. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN: I'm a guy 17 and 4-10. I get awfully tired of people asking me, "How tall are you?" I hate to give them my measurements. Do you have any suggestions? --Half Pint

DEAR H.P.: Just say, "Not very." That should do it.

Woman Appointed To VA Position

Dorothy L. Starbuck, who joined the Veterans Administration as a clerk in the Chicago regional office 31 years ago, today was named Chief Benefits Director of the agency.

In making the announcement, Administrator of Veterans Affairs Max Cleland noted she is the first woman to hold this position. She succeeds Rufus H. Wilson, who earlier was named Deputy Administrator of the VA. The Department of Veterans Benefits, which Starbuck will direct, has an annual appropriations budget of more than $12 billion and accounts for about 70 per cent of the VA's yearly expenditures.

The department has 58 regional offices, extending from San Juan to Manila. It includes operation of such veterans' benefits programs as GI Bill Education and training, home loan guaranty, compensation, pension, and insurance.

Starbuck's selection extends her series of "firsts" for career women in federal service. Her appointment as assistant director of the Baltimore regional office in 1962 was the first time a woman had been named to a VA managerial position. A year later she was named director of the regional office in Denver.

She was elected president of the Denver Federal Executive Board, composed of the heads of federal agencies in the area. Again, it was a first for a woman to head one of the organizations, established throughout the nation by Presidential order.

Another precedent followed in 1967 when she was named one of four area field directors, to head VA benefits programs in 13 western states, from Washington's Central Office. Most recently, she held a similar position, directing programs in nine northeastern states and the District of Columbia.

A native if Denver, Starbuck received a BA degree in journalism from Loretto Heights College in Denver and later completed graduate work at the University of Denver.

She was an elementary school teacher in Colorado for two years before entering the Army in 1942. She saw service in France and Germany before being separated in 1946 with the grade of captain.

She was among graduates of the first class of the Federal Executive Institute at Charlottesville, Va., in 1968 and has served on the Defense Department's Advisory Committee on Women in the Armed Services.

Nuclear plants: closed to the public

By Tom Tiede
ZION, Ill. — (NEA) — Ever since private enterprise began spitting atoms for corporate profit it has recognized that E=MC squared is in the long run less potent than E=PR to the hundredth power.

Naturally, the nuclear industry is not happy with this turn of events. Plant tours have been the corporations' single best educational tool. At Zion, for instance, visitors learn that the reactor is incapable of accidentally producing a Hiroshima-type explosion, and that it is built to withstand a direct hit from a falling DC-9 jet.

Zion has received its share of incidents. It is 30 miles upwind from Chicago, a city with a legion of nuclear energy opponents. NRC says that Zion has reported six instances of illegal activity since 1969, including one where two shots were fired at guards, and another when somebody hopped the fence and began racing around the giant complex.

TOM TIEDE

This is not security, Bitel adds, it's a brutal form of repression: "As far as I know it's not against the law to enter a nuclear station. It's illegal to trespass, but you don't shoot people for trespassing. What happens if, as at Seabrook, a thousand kids march on Zion next week? It might make Kent State insignificant."

Clearly then, nuclear plants are most vulnerable. Zion has had so many bomb threats that it no longer lists its number in the telephone directory. And so porous is the security apparatus here that last year a small local newspaper was able to obtain and publish a detailed outline of the plant's entire defense operation.

Not that Bitel is opposed to security. His plant already has electronic fences and TV monitors to scan the perimeter. Yet, he asks, so what if someone did break through? "Without tons and tons of explosives they could do little damage." He points out that it is not as easy as critics suppose to crack 5.5-foot thick radiation shields.

Beyond this, Commonwealth Edison says that the newest restrictions raise grave problems in dealing with the public. Not only people now be barred from nuclear plants, they may be killed if they trespass. Zion plant superintendent Jack Bitel says that under the new rules his guards may shoot at intruders with intent to kill.

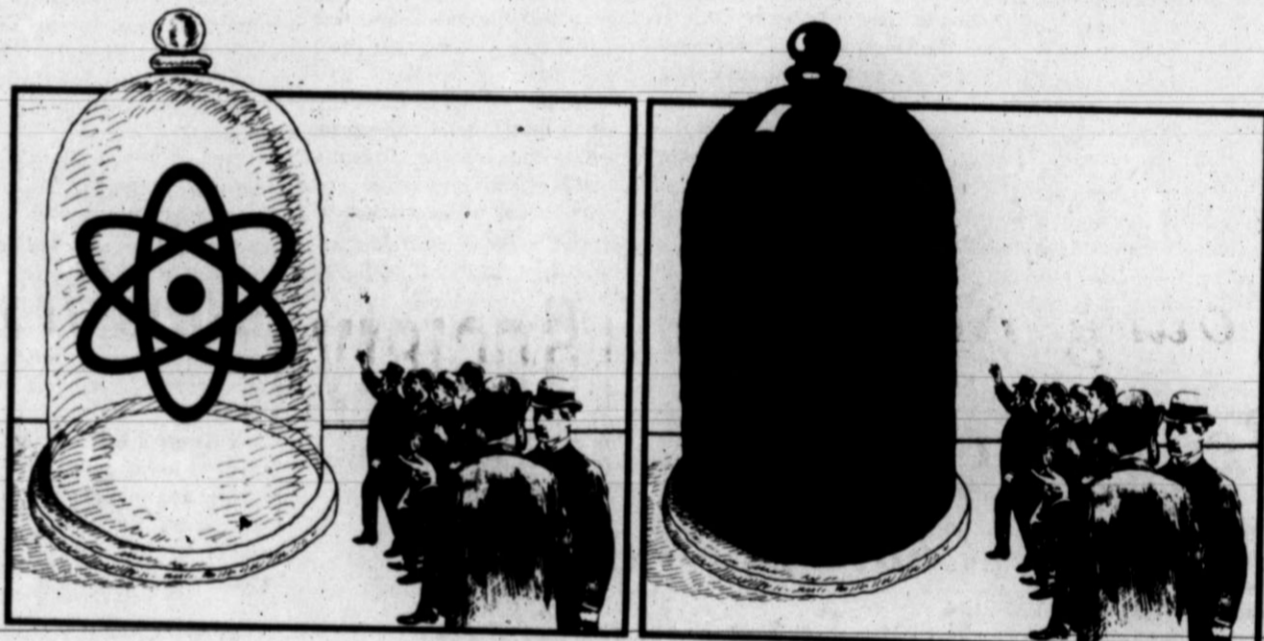

But even if power plants were fragile, the nuclear industry says the "fortress mentality" is no help. Jack Bitel believes the new security restrictions will not guarantee Zion's safety. If terrorists are determined to break in here, he says, they will break in. In short, the only people without access now may be the people themselves.

So, to the extent possible, industry has opened its reactor doors to curious millions. Chicago's Commonwealth Edison, for example, has invited more than 300,000 people to tour its nuclear facilities. Thousands of the visitors have been to the Zion Nuclear Generating Station here on Lake Michigan; it's the nation's largest.

By any measure the public relations has been effective. Fascinated children do not quickly forget that each turbine at Zion can in an instant produce 1,085 megawatts of electricity, or enough to light 10 million 100 watt bulbs. Commonwealth Edison believes "many visitors become believers in clean, safe nuclear power."

Now, abruptly, this PR effort may be coming to an untimely end. Corporate observers say the government is instituting tight new security measures which will severely limit access to nuclear stations. The new rules are meant to protect the plant from terrorists, but in effect they may keep out the innocent public as well.

According to the best estimates of the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, there have been (since 1969) more than 160 "threats of or acts of violence" to licensed nuclear facilities. In one recent four day period a Virginia location received 12 bomb threats. On other occasions workers have sabotaged machinery at various stations.

Dermatologist Okays Taboo Foods for Skin

Revolutionary suggestions for skin care and a case of extortion are related in two books being featured this week at Deaf Smith County Library.

Johathan Zismore, MD, and John Foreman, free-lance writer, have combined their talents to produce the book "Super Skin." Dr. Zismore, a Manhattan dermatologist, demolishes the traditional rules for complexion care and offers suggestions for easy and economical skin-care techniques.

A patient undergoing open-heart surgery is held for ransom in Gerald Green's suspenseful novel, "The Hostage Heart." Millionaire Walter Trench, lying unconscious on the operating table, is unaware of the gun-wielding kidnapers who demand $10 million or the death of Trench.

Deaf Smith County Library is open to the public free of charge from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday and Thursday; from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. other weekdays; and until 12 noon Saturday.

SUPER SKIN

By Jonathan Zismore, M.D. & John Foreman

Eat chocolate and french fries. Stay out in the hot sun. Clear up your acne by changing your birth-control pill. Get a great moisturizer from your druggist for 50 cents.

You can, says Dr. Jonathan Zismore, a Manhattan dermatologist who debunks the myths that have surrounded skin care for years and sets out the latest, medically proven facts and techniques to give you a healthy, beautiful complexion.

Good-looking skin is not difficult to come by and can be achieved without a lot of costly, time-consuming beauty preparations if we only understand how our skin functions and its reactions to various natural and chemical elements. For instance, acne is not caused by indulging in malted and potato chips, but rather by your skin's sensitivity to hormones and certain elements. So beware of fast food restaurants where they disinfect the cooking surface with iodine.

Be careful, too, if you're one of the many people now taking tetracycline for your complexion; 90 per cent of those it's prescribed for are never told that it must be taken at least an hour before eating or it will pass out of your system before it ever has a chance to work.

Sunshine, says Dr. Zismore, is great for your skin, but do be aware of the photosensitizing effects of things like lime juice, artificial sweeteners, and deodorant soaps, or you may end up with a wale of a sunburn. And, remember to switch your dandruff shampoo every couple of months from one with, say, a peel base to one with a tar base, since your scalp builds up an immunity to the active ingredient in any dandruff shampoo.

These are just a few of the popular misconceptions Dr. Zismore refutes in "SUPER SKIN." In addition, he sets out personalized regimens for dry, normal, and oily skin; tells you the best brand name products for each condition described (or when your druggist can make up a preparation that works equally well for half the money); and details of a weight-loss diet that will not play havoc with your complexion, as do the health-food diets which are full of hormones and iodine. Here is the revolutionary new skin guide for today's active woman who wants beautiful skin without spending a lot of time and money in the process.

Jonathan Zismore, M.D., is a practicing dermatologist in New York City and chief of dermatology at St. Vincent's Hospital. He is also on the teaching staff of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. John Foreman is a free-lance writer, living in Manhattan.

THE HOSTAGE HEART

By Gerald Green

In operating Room # 3, cardiac surgeon Eric Lake studies the open chest of millionaire Walter Trench III. Behind Dr. Lake stands a man with a pistol, John Trask, megalomaniac and world revolutionary. Rashid, an accomplice, sits alone in the students' gallery cradling a carbine. The medical staff is defenseless, as vulnerable as Trench's exposed heart.

"We are holding Walter Trench for ransom," Trask says. "This is an act of war, by the Wretched of the Earth. You're all irrelevant. Our only concern is Trench. We will ask ten million dollars for him. If we are denied, we'll kill him here."

City General is infiltrated by Trask's men. The operating room is isolated. Police roam the hospital corridors, helpless, frustrated, itch-fingered. A volatile crowd begins to gather on the hospital grounds.

"Get on with the operation," Trask orders. At 10:26, Dr. Lake cuts swiftly through the layers of fat and into Walter Trench's fibrillating heart.

That is the setting for the most terrifying arterial bypass ever performed and one of the most breathless and blood-riveting novels to come along in an age.

A tension-packed medical melodrama and a chilling story of violence, danger, dedication, courage and compassion, this is a book as authentic as it is suspenseful.

Teacher Exams Scheduled

CANYON--The National Teacher Examinations (NTE) will be given at West Texas State University on July 16.

Scores from the examinations are used by states for certification of teachers, by school systems for selection and identification of leadership qualities, and by colleges as part of their graduation requirements.

Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the tests, says they are designed to measure knowledge gained from professional and general education and in 27 subject-matter fields.

Bulletins describing registration procedures and containing registration forms may be obtained from Dr. Kenneth W. Waugh in the WTSU Testing, Academic & Career Counseling Center, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, NJ 08540. The deadline for regular registration is June 23. On-the-spot registration will not be permitted.

High School Days Recalled

Reunion Held Friday By HHS Class of '34

Forty-three years after graduating, the Seniors of 1934 held their first reunion on Friday, May 26, 1977, with dinner at Caison's Steak House, followed by visiting in the home of Troys and Ruby Carmichael. Thirteen of the fifty-six class members attended with their husbands and wives.

Class colors of red and white were brought out in table decorations, and red carnations (class flower) in miniature baskets were favors. An arrangement of red carnations was at the head table, displaying a ribbon inscribed "1934." Decorations were provided by Elizabeth Holt, Ruby Carmichael and Sally Garrett.

The class found that the remembered many details of their senior year and graduation day, after reviewing old Hereford Brand clippings brought by Robbie Seed and a copy of the original graduation program belonging to Ruth Hagar. There was an exchange of family pictures which were viewed and enjoyed by all--especially pictures of children and grandchildren.

Troys Carmichael acted as master of ceremonies. Invocation was given by T.L. Sparkman Jr. Each class member in turn gave a brief review of his or her life since graduation and reported the number of children and grandchildren. The original "class Prophecy" (written by Henry Jowell) was read by Nancy Hays.

Walter Seed was elected president of the group and Nancy Hays, secretary-treasurer. All present were in favor of holding a reunion every two years and will meet again in 1979, with hopes of an improved attendance, since this meeting was planned on the spur of the moment.

Class members attending were: Lottie (Allred) Anderson,

Loys Carmichael of Friona, Troys Carmichael, Frances (Higgins) Early of Amarillo, Barbara (Buckner) Ford of New Orleans, La. Sally (Skelton) Garrett of Alamogordo, N.M., Ruth (Rice) Hagar, Nancy (Conkright) Hays, Elizabeth (Ireland) Holt, Robbie (Jackson) Seed, Walter Seed, Inez (Easter) Witherspoon and T.L. Sparkman Jr.

Guests were Carlos Anderson, Elizabeth Carmichael of Friona, Ruby Carmichael, Earl Early of Amarillo, Dick Hagar, Charlie Holt, J.W. Witherspoon and Ruby Sparkman.

Use spices sparingly, since they can overpower rather than enhance vegetables' natural flavors. Young Readers Begin 'Journey'

Young readers at Deaf Smith County Library will be among more than 100,000 young Texans who will be taking a "Jungle Journey" this summer as participants in the Summer Reading Club. Sponsored jointly by the local library and the Texas State Library, the Reading Club encourages readers to use the recreational and informational materials they can find at their local library.

Posters, reading logs, and bookmarks this year feature jungle animals. Each participant will receive a reading log on which to record what he or she has read. In addition to the list of books each reader compiles, the log includes a pair of wood puzzles and a maze.

Summer is always the busiest time of the year for children's collections in public libraries. Whether summer reading is entirely for entertainment or is also for information, it's different from the required reading that students must do during the school year. At the same time, however, it builds valuable reading skills.

During the summer many libraries will also be planning special activities, including films, puppet shows, and other programs.

Activities of the camp so far have included:

MONDAY
The 133 Blue Birds learned the requirements for earning their Wise Old Willie awards, which are given for the study of wildlife, water, air, plants, different human cultures and land conservation.

The first step of the Wise Willie program involved the planting of sunflower seeds. Special guest speaker was Billie Joe Wall of Wall and Sons Drilling. He explained how wells are drilled and displayed a drilling rig.

The Blue Birds spent the remainder of the morning hiking, playing games and singing.

TUESDAY
More than 160 girls met at the park with some travelling to George Warner Seed Company to visit the greenhouse at that facility. Members studied trees, plants and flowers at the greenhouse. Others made kites and studied animals through Indian lore. The girls also hiked and worked on various crafts.

'TEXAS' Opens June 15

CANYON - One-hundred-forty people are deep in preparations for the twelfth season of "TEXAS." One crew has placed the seats in the theatre, including the places in the new installation for the last two rows. Others are finishing work on the new side stage building which will be in place for the opening. There is a new exit from the theatre so that the bottleneck after the show will be avoided.

The box office is open and manned and telephones have been installed. Mail with reservations is increasing each day. More than 125 more bus groups have made reservations than had done so on this date last year.

Company members are checking proofs to choose their pictures for the Souvenir Program. Virginia Raillard and Lee Stribling are busy with the last minute copy.

The publicity department is preparing press kits and comments for interviews.

Rehearsals start with company warm up exercises, then actors, singers, dancers go off into different rooms to work on their specialties. By June 15, everything will be drawn together into focus for Opening night.

The western paintings and drawings for this year's Souvenir program will be from the works of Charles Russell, through the courtesy of the Amon Carter Museum in Fort Worth. Prints will be available in the Souvenir Building at the theatre.

During the past few years, the directors have asked a skilled director from outside to work with them as the assistant to the directors. This year the post is held by E. Don Williams of Lubbock.

Williams has been the assistant professor of Speech at Lubbock Christian College for nine years. He has degrees from Tech in public address. At present he is working on the thesis for his PhD and will use material from his "TEXAS" experience as a base for it.

Williams has just been made assistant to the president of Lubbock Christian College.

For tickets and information write "TEXAS", Box 268, Canyon, Texas or call 806-655-2182. The season opens on June 15 and runs through August 20, 1977. There will be one Sunday performance July 3. Other weeks will have performances Monday through Saturday. Please make your reservations early.

Verdict Over Malpractice Probably To Be Challenged

FORT PIECE (AP)—A jury verdict that was hailed as offering hope of lower malpractice insurance rates will be challenged, a lawyer said Tuesday.
"This verdict was not in accord with the evidence," said Frank Fee III, a member of the firm ordered to pay $175,000 damages to Vero Beach orthopedic surgeon John Sullivan.

Fee's partner, Otis Parker, had handled a 1971 lawsuit accusing Dr. Sullivan of medical malpractice in the setting of a Fort Pierce man's broken arm.

Parker, 65, retired earlier this year.
Sullivan filed suit against the patient and the firm, claiming malicious legal prosecution.
Fee said that the verdict handed down in St. Lucie County Circuit Court last Friday would be appealed if motions to set it aside don't succeed.

Sullivan's lawyer, Ellis Rubin of Miami, said that if the case withstands appeal it can help reduce insurance rates by cutting out groundless lawsuits.
The judge's instructions, Rubin said, establish a new standard of practice for lawyers.

"Before filing suit, an attorney must research the law and establish the truth of the facts to the extent that there is probable and reasonable cause for filing a lawsuit," he said.
Sullivan's former patient, James Terry, 78, had complained that the rod Sullivan implanted in his arm to help it heal was one inch too long. The malpractice suit was dropped before it went to trial, but in the interim Sullivan lost his malpractice insurance for a year. The doctor sued Terry and Parker.
Circuit Judge Royce Lewis, who tried the case, called it unprecedented. Though other suits have accused lawyers of filing groundless claims, Lewis said he knows of no others that went to trial.
Florida's legal and medical professions recognized the impact of the case, aiding the two sides with money collected among colleagues.
The TMA issued a statement Tuesday expressing disappointment that the bill did not have "more teeth" in it.
"The bill has some good provisions, but many important amendments by the Texas Senate and recommendations of the state's malpractice study commission are ignored in the bill," said Dr. John M. Smith of San Antonio, TMA president.
The bill will not do an adequate job of attacking the medical malpractice insurance crisis, he said.

HEART DEATHS
NEW YORK (AP)—The American Council of Life Insurance says cardiovascular-renal diseases were responsible for half the deaths among persons with ordinary life insurance in the United States in 1975, the last year for which figures are available.
It says cancer accounted for 21.4 per cent of policyholder deaths, pneumonia and influenza for 2.8 per cent of deaths, tuberculosis for 0.1 per cent, diabetes for 1.0 per cent, and other diseases for 16.1 per cent. In all, 91.2 per cent of ordinary policyholder deaths were from natural causes.

CANNY AMERICANS
WASHINGTON (AP)—The average American consumes about 150 pounds of canned food each year, according to the National Canners Assn. That represents more than 10 per cent of total dietary intake.
The average family of four consumes about 700 metal and glass containers of food annually, the association reports. To meet the nation's canned food demand, the canning industry turns out about 37 billion containers annually.

Rhodesia Forces Hit Deep Into Mozambique

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—Rhodesian forces struck deeper into black-ruled Mozambique Monday in search of black nationalist guerrilla bases. Mozambique claimed the invaders were attacking its army bases as well.
A Rhodesian government communique made no mention of attacks against Mozambican army bases but said at least 28 black guerrillas had been killed in raids on three guerrilla camps, used for strikes into white-ruled Rhodesia.

said their forces had suffered no casualties and were meeting little resistance in their biggest strike ever against guerrilla sanctuaries across the Mozambican border.
In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass said the Mozambicans had launched "a wide counteroffensive" against "big contingents of racist troops."
"Mozambique army units gave a fitting rebutt to the racists and inflicted telling losses on them," Tass said.
The Marxist government in Maputo, capital of Mozambique, said it had shot down three Rhodesian planes and was rushing reinforcements to the southern border area, where the Rhodesians attacked Sunday.

Defense Minister Joaquim Chipande claimed Rhodesian air and ground troops had attacked Mozambican bases at Chicualucuala, Chitang and the Nuanetsi river, but he reported no casualty figures.
The Rhodesian communique said: "In continuing follow-up operations, security forces overran and destroyed two more terrorist bases. A quantity of war material was destroyed in both cases."
Sources in Salisbury said the strike force was being supported by helicopters and Korean War-vintage jets from the Rhodesian air force.

The attack is the third acknowledged penetration by Rhodesian forces into Mozambique in the past year and the first since last fall.
Guerrillas of Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU) use Mozambique as a staging area. The other main guerrilla army—Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African Peoples Union (ZAPU)—operates from Zambia and Botswana. The two forces are joined in a "Patriotic Front" against Rhodesia's white minority government.
On May 16 a Rhodesian patrol crossed into Botswana while chasing guerrillas but withdrew after a brief clash with a Botswanan unit.

According to the communique, one of the bases raided was the guerrilla camp near Mapai, some 60 miles into Mozambique. The communique described the camp as "the controlling center for all incursions into the southeast of Rhodesia."

Discrimination Ruling To Give Persons Seniority

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal courts may award retroactive seniority to minority employees who can prove other members of their race were victims of discrimination in the past, the Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.
The justices said, however, that the past discrimination cannot date back before the enactment of the 1964 Civil Rights Act took effect.
In a pair of companion cases involving such seniority for drivers in the long-haul trucking industry, the court said even persons who had not applied for long-haul jobs have the right to prove they are entitled to some relief for past discriminatory practices.

In 1976, the Supreme Court ruled that individuals proving they were victims of job discrimination are entitled to seniority dating back to the "rightful place" in time they would have been hired if the discrimination had not existed.
Today's ruling expanded the awarding of seniority to persons who might not be able to prove they personally were victimized by the discrimination.
Justice Potter Stewart wrote both majority opinion. Justices Thurgood Marshall and William J. Brennan Jr. dissented.

The case involved challenges by blacks and Mexican-Americans in San Antonio, Tex., of company policies and union contracts under which city drivers, who pick up goods from warehouses and deliver them locally, may not transfer with seniority to higher paying long-haul jobs.
The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in decision in 1974 and 1975, ruled that certain trucking firms and locals of the Teamsters Union had "locked in" blacks and Mexican-Americans to city driver jobs.
To correct that discrimination, the circuit court said all minority drivers should have a chance to apply for long-haul jobs and be allowed to carry their seniority with them if they qualified.
The circuit court said that should be done whether or not the individuals had ever applied for road jobs, on the theory that past discrimination would have made this applications pointless.
The Supreme Court, voting 7-2, went along with part of the lower court's reasoning. But the high court ruled that drivers who claim they were discriminated against before enforcement of the Civil Rights law are not entitled to relief and that no person may be given retroactive seniority to a date before the law's enactment.
Evidence introduced at trials showed that most long-haul drivers are white while most city drivers are black and Mexican-American.

Lasorda Lays Law Down In Beginning

HOUSTON (AP) - Beloved Tom Lasorda, the jovial new skipper of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who gets along with everyone and knows how to speak diplomatically to his players, told utility infielder Ed Goodson prior to the start of the season:

"A manager would be crazy to put you into the starting lineup ahead of Ron Cey or Steve Carvey. A manager would have to be illiterate."

Lasorda treats his players like part of the family but had some firm paternal advice for utility outfielder Lee Lacy. Lasorda told Lacy he would be the John Havlicek of the Dodgers.

Lasorda, widely known as Mr. Nice Guy, wasn't exhibiting a new Captain Bleigh personality trait in talking to Goodson and Lacy. It's just his managing philosophy to tell each player the exact role he's expected to play.

"I personally contacted every player on the team before the season started and told them that their role would be with the Dodgers," Lasorda said.

"Goodson was complaining about not getting enough playing time," Lasorda said. "I told him he could be one of the best pinch hitters in the game. I told him 'You've got to prepare yourself to be like Manny Mota, who makes $80,000 a year preparing to hit in the eighth and ninth innings."

"You've got to pray that when it comes to the eighth and ninth innings, the score is tied and it's Goodson who's going up there to bring in the winning run. If you don't want to play that role, leave, and we'll get someone who does."

Lacy's role is that of the ninth man, Lasorda said. "Havlicek didn't start for the Boston Celtics but he won a lot of games for them," Lasorda said he told Lacy. "You're like the understudy who goes to the theatre everyday and is ready when, God forbid, the star can't go on. But you have to be prepared."

Lasorda said that's how he's want to be treated as a player, to be told his exact role on the team. Each Dodger apparently knows his role and knows he's appreciated, even those who don't play in a game.

After each game, Lasorda said he goes around the clubhouse shaking hands with all the players who didn't get into the game.

After each game, Lasorda said he goes around the clubhouse shaking hands with all the players who didn't get into the game. "Who ever shakes the hand of a guy who didn't play?" Lasorda asked. "I do. And I take them out to lunch because I want them all to know they are appreciated and needed."

Whatever magic spell Lasorda weaves, it's working. The Dodgers lost only four of their first 26 games and still hold a commanding lead in the National League West.

Lasorda also takes an easy approach to fielding errors. "The errors haven't been hurting us that much," he said. "You know the saying 'to err is human, to forgive is divine.' That came from one of my former coaches."

Which proves Lasorda isn't illiterate.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - Rafael Limon, the world's third ranked junior lightweight contender, scored a unanimous decision in a San Antonio bout Tuesday night.

Bristol, Weyer Get Kicks In Argument

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Dave Bristol says he has a right to kick. Lee Weyer says he has the right to kick, too.

Kick Dave Bristol, that is.

"Bristol bumped me," said the National League umpire. "Bumping an umpire usually carries a suspension. You can't take that. Bristol said to me, 'You haven't given us anything in eight years.' I told him I'm just out there to call them right."

This electric exchange and subsequent banishment of the Atlanta manager took place Tuesday night after a controversial call in the eighth inning kept a Cincinnati rally alive and helped the Reds beat the Braves 5-3.

Bristol insisted that Cincinnati's Ken Griffey was out trying to steal second. But Weyer called him safe, including Bristol to come charging out of the dugout.

Bristol expressed fears that Weyer has a "vendetta" against him. It was Weyer who threw Bristol out of a game last year in one of the more boisterous incidents of the 1976 season.

"Griffey's spikes were caught in my glove," insisted Atlanta shortstop Jerry Royster. "It was a crime. Really - he was out."

After Griffey stole second, he moved to third on a wild pitch and scored when Cesar Geronimo hit a two-run single for the Reds' ultimate winning runs.

"Well," sighed Bristol, "the Reds are back in the pennant race - and they certainly don't need any help from the umpires."

The victory, combined with Los Angeles' 5-2 loss to the Houston Astros, moved the Reds within 9½ games of the front-running Dodgers in the National League West. They have not been that close since May 5.

In other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies edged the Pittsburgh Pirates

6-5, the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the Chicago Cubs 6-0, the New York Mets defeated the Montreal Expos 6-2 and the San Diego Padres trimmed the San Francisco Giants 4-2.

Astros 5, Dodgers 2

Julio Gonzalez' seventh-inning single snapped a 2-2 tie and ignited a three-run rally as Houston defeated slumping Los Angeles.

J.R. Richard fired a seven-hitter as the Dodgers dropped their fourth straight game.

Phillies 6, Pirates 5

The Phils trailed 5-4 in the seventh when Larry Bowa led off with a walk off reliever Kent Tekulve and Dave Johnson singled. Maddox, who led off the Phils' first with his fourth homer, then ripped a shot to the right field corner that scored both runners for a 6-5 lead.

Cardinals 6, Cubs 0

Bake McBride scored on a wild pitch and Ken Reitz followed with a two-run single, keying a three-run rally in the first inning that led St. Louis over Chicago. St. Louis' John Denny, backed by the opening burst, pitched a five-hitter for his seventh victory without a loss this season.

Blazers Blast 76ers; Lucas Not Impressed

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Blazermania may be sweeping the city of Portland, but all is calm with the young basketball team.

"I'm not impressed," said a grim-faced Maurice Lucas after the Trail Blazers routed the Philadelphia 76ers 130-98 Tuesday night, tying their National Basketball Association championship best-of-seven series 2-2.

"I won't be impressed until we win the final game," the 6-foot-9 Portland forward said. "I'm not excited, just ready."

Lucas and his teammates had everything their way in Game Four. Guard Lionel Hollins, who hit just four of 17 shots in the third game of the series, made nine of 16 Tuesday night and led all scorers with 25 points. Lucas had 24 points and 12 rebounds. And both sat out most of the final quarter as Coach Jack Ramsay employed his reserves.

But there were no whoops of joy or wild celebrations in the Portland locker room.

"The margin of victory is not significant," cautioned Ramsay. "It's just a victory. We're now in a three-game series and two of the games are on Philadelphia's court."

He meant that two straight home-court triumphs had gotten the Blazers back where they started when the series began, needing a victory on the 76ers' court. They will get their chance Friday night in Game Five.

"We're not a very emotional team," said Blazers guard Dave Twardzik. "When Philadelphia won that first game, you would have thought it was the seventh game of the series the way they acted."

If the Blazers were not impressed by their own awesome show of basketball strength Tuesday night, the 76ers were.

"Every time they touched the ball it went in," sighed Philadelphia's Darryl Dawkins. "We were blitzed."

The Blazers hit nine of their first 10 shots, ripped open a 19-4 lead five minutes into the game, and Philadelphia never got any closer than 11 points after that.

"Portland was super, absolutely super," said 76ers Coach Gene Shue. "They took control early. They threw us out of whatever we wanted to do. They were in complete control. In fact, it was barely a game."

It appeared Philadelphia would get a chance to make a run at the Blazers when Portland's Bill Walton drew his fifth foul and left the game with 7:02 remaining in the third quarter and the 76ers trailing 71-57.

"I knew I had to get the rebounds and play good defense," said Lloyd Neal, who had 11 rebounds in 22 minutes of play.

The game became even more lopsided. Ramsay emptied the bench, but it did not matter. The lead widened to 41 points, 126-85, with 1:51 left in the game.

Four Buff Runners Ready For NCAA

CANYON—Four of West Texas State University's best track athletes ever will make the university's first-ever appearance in the NCAA's 56th track and field championships June 2-4 at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana.

Joseph Kemei, the junior from Eldoret, Kenya and the third place finisher in the 1,000-yard run in the NCAA indoor meet this year, is WTSU's best bet to at least make the finals. He'll be running the 1,500-meter run after winning the Missouri Valley Conference title in the mile (4:05.54) in Wichita last week.

Hurdlers David Willis and Zach Cummings, and sprinter Alvis Wright will complete the Buffalo entry. Willis, who won both hurdle events in the MVCF meet, is a junior from Hamlin; Cummings is a sophomore from lockney; and Wright is a senior from Paducah. Cummings and Willis competed in the NCAA indoor meet this year, while Wright will be making his first trip to any national meet.

Kemei's best over 1500 meters this year is 3:47.43, a clocking that earned him second in the Drake Relays behind Iowa State's Jeff Meyers. Over a mile, however, he's run 4:01.9, that at Norman Okla., on April 16 for a school record.

"I believe that Joseph will have to run 3:42 or below to make the finals, and I also believe that he is very capable of doing that," WT coach Bob Kitchens says. "We want him to run his own race, try to take the pace to them, and keep it from turning into a kicker's race."

Willis and Cummings both have season's bests of :13.8 over 120 yards, but Kitchens believes that is the time they will need to advance to the finals. "Both runners are capable of that time consistently, but I think David also has the experience in this type pressure situation to make a stronger run than Zach in the finals."

Texas Amateur Golf Begins

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) - Golfers ranging from 16 to 56 years of age were among the 126 contestants in the five-day Texas Amateur Golf Championship Tournament that began here today at Riverhill Country Club.

The tournament, which has been won in the past by such golf stars as Ben Crenshaw, Charles Coody and Bruce Leitzke, is being held for the first time in Kerrville.

Golfers qualified for the tourney at eight locations around the state, according to Riverhill general manager and golf pro Jim Shirley.

Because the course and conditions vary tremendously, the qualifying scores don't mean much, Shirley said. For instance, four golfers tied for the low qualifying score of 69, while the high was 85. Three other entrants qualified with an 84.

This year's field ranges from scratch golfers to seven-handicappers.

The field will be trimmed to the top 50 spots for play Saturday and Sunday.

Among Texas cities, Dallas has the most entrants with 17. Houston is second with 11, followed by San Antonio with eight and Austin with six.

Small town golfers are in the running also, with competitors from Iraan, La Mesa, Mercedes, Sinton and Grandbury entered.

At last year's tournament at Fort Worth's Woodhaven Country Club, Jim Dissoway of San Antonio took the championship. Dissoway has since moved out of the state making him ineligible to defend his title. According to Shirley, the rule may be changed next year.

The par-72, 6,900-yard course can be tough if the wind kicks up, Shirley said.

"On a still day, they'll probably play the course well, but on a windy day the course can be a very difficult challenge," he said.

Perhaps the stiffest challenge on the course is the back-to-back par 5 holes at 13 and 14. Golfers will face the 550-yard 13th hole and then face the 563-yard 14th hole.
