Russians Still Buying From US

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite a bumper grain crop of its own in the works, the Soviet Union shows no sign of reneging on its five-year agreement to buy a minimum amount of wheat and corn from the United States, says Deputy Secretary of Agriculture John White.

Asked if the huge Soviet crop has produced signals that Moscow might want to slip out of the agreement, White replied, "None whatsoever."

The Agriculture Department this week estimated 1977 Russian grain output at 215 million metric tons, only 4 per cent less than last year's record of 223.8 million tons. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

White said Thursday that while he stands by USDA's estimate of Soviet production, "Their situation can change faster than anybody's in the world" and this summer's weather will determine the final output.

The United States also is headed for another bumper wheat crop, the third in succession of more than two billion bushels, according to current USDA estimates. As a result, the U.S. wheat surplus is rising and farm prices have dropped sharply.

After the Soviet harvest shrank as the result of a drought two years ago, Moscow turned to the U.S. market for large quantities of grain. This led to a five-year agreement under which Russia agreed to buy a minimum of six million tons of wheat and corn annually, beginning last Oct. 1.

The Soviets have purchased slightly more than the minimum in the current year but there has been some concern that they might want to alter the agreement in view of the huge 1976 harvest and prospects for a bumper 1977 crop.

"They're pretty smart and they're not going to jeopardize a source of supply over a period of years because in two years they can put together two pretty good crops back to back. That's not in their best interests," White said.

"They're not going to buy it from us to do us a favor," he said. "But they are going to protect a good source of supply."

The department issued a report later Thursday which showed that the U.S. wheat stockpile probably will continue to grow in the coming year. It was estimated at 1.1 billion bushels on June 1 and could rise to more than 1.4 billion by next June 1.

According to USDA records, the wheat stockpile is larger than at any time since June 1, 1963. It was 664 million bushels a year ago.

White, the second-ranking USDA official, said that wheat talks in London later this month and further meetings next fall will be concerned with cooperating with Canada and other exporting countries in arrangements to manage the growing world wheat stockpile.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, who frequently has spoken in favor of international grain management in a trip to the Far East. An international food grain reserve is expected to be part of the plan.

The Ford administration favored each country maintaining its own grain reserve within an international framework. White said that the Carter administration "will maintain that policy" as it relates to individual nations managing their own grain.

Some food advocates prefer a global reserve of grain put under the central control of an international agency such as the United Nations.

"I don't see us supporting a major input of what we would contribute and relinquishing control of it to a secondary authority," White said. "I don't believe that's feasible and I don't believe the administration would support that in a major thrust at all."

White said that the U.S. might go along with a "very small" international pool of food grain to be used for emergency relief, however.

The use of the Food for Peace program, also called P.L. 480, will emphasize President Carter's concept of human rights in providing assistance to needy countries, White said.

Amin May Execute Alleged British Spy

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Radio Uganda, continuing President Idi Amin's war of nerves against the British government, said today a British resident of Uganda would be shot "by the end of next week" if found guilty of spying.

The official government radio identified the arrested Briton only as "Cullen," not giving his first name.

The broadcast said Cullen would be tried for spying "by revolutionary members of the military tribunal and if found guilty, executed by firing squad by the end of next week."

"No announcement will be made about the time and place of execution, which will not be made known to anybody," the radio said. It said the body would not be handed over to anyone.

Radio Uganda first reported on Thursday that a Briton had been arrested but it did not give his identity.

British Foreign Secretary David Owen said in London: "I never like to see any of our citizens arrested, but I do not know the full details yet."

Amin in 1975 sentenced another British resident of Uganda, schoolteacher Denis Hills, to death and demanded that Foreign Minister James Callaghan, now Britain's prime minister, come to Kampala to save him. Callaghan complied, but no such British action is likely this time.

Radio Uganda made no mention of its earlier reports that Amin had left the country on Tuesday to attend the Commonwealth conference in London, in defiance of the British government's opposition. Instead it said he had made a "safe return after holding successful talks with Tanzanian and Zambian revolutionary military officers on the Uganda-Tanzania-Rwanda borders."

The earlier broadcasts, including one Thursday that he arrived in Britain, and his failure to surface in Europe aroused suspicions that he was staging a hoax to try to make the British government look foolish. But the London Daily Mirror reported that Amin actually set out for Europe, then returned home when President Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire refused to help him set there.

According to the British tabloid, a spokesman for Mobutu said Amin flew to Kinshasa, the Zairean capital, on Thursday.

Alexander Recommended At High School

Dr. Harrell Holder, superintendent of the Hereford Independent School District, has recommended that Dempsey Alexander, assistant principal at Hereford La Plata Junior High, be appointed to that same position at the high school, the Brand learned this morning.

Alexander, should the recommendation be approved Tuesday at the regularly-scheduled school board meeting, will replace Gene Barkowsky at the high school. Holder has recommended that Barkowsky be promoted to the principal's position at Stanton Junior High.

Alexander's salary at the high school would be $17,731, a raise of $600 from his position at La Plata.

Alexander has 22 years of teaching experience at Petersburg, Spur, Farwell, Sunray, Happy and Plainview. He has been in the Hereford school system since 1971.

Holder said that applications are being accepted to fill the vacancy at La Plata.

Board Eyes Aid For Families

By O.G. NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Homemaker Services, a program designed to provide supportive services to disorganized families, was explained and outlined to members of the Deaf Smith County Child Welfare Board here Wednesday.

Charles Bell, chairman of the local board, said the board invited the program director in Amarillo, Beverly Pittman, to appear at the meeting and discuss the possibility of forming such a program here.

No decision was made at the meeting, but the board decided to consider the addition of the program either as a satellite project out of the Amarillo office or as a locally administered program. The program is federally funded under certain conditions, and requires a community donor with matching funds under another system.

Mrs. Pittman defined a "disorganized family" as one where child abuse or child neglect has been found, or where the potential exists. The program can also include families receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children, those receiving Supplemental Security Income checks, and the income eligible. In the three latter categories, a community donor provides 30 per cent of the funds for the Homemaker Services.

Clients for the Homemaker Services are referred by social workers, explained Mrs. Pittman, and the professional social worker accompanies the homemaker on her first visit to the home. Apparently one of the primary goals of the homemaker is to improve the self image of the mother.

"The homemaker does not judge the mother, we take the mother where she is, not where we want her to be, and work from there," stated Mrs. Pittman. The homemaker works with the mother in organizing the home life, but she is not a maid or a babysitter, emphasized the program director.

Mrs. Pittman said the Amarillo project is about one year old and has worked and completed cases with about 100 families. "We have been successful in taking 29 persons off welfare and in helping increase family income in some 31 homes. There are many factors we can measure, but we feel much has been accomplished that we cannot measure on paper."

Some of the mothers who are receiving AFDC checks take jobs through the help of the homemakers. As an example, the program helps them get day care for their children so they can accept employment. The service also helps find better jobs for fathers, who are under-employed in many cases. Mrs. Pittman says the program has helped to double, and even triple, family income in some cases.

The homemaker is not usually a professional social worker, but they are carefully screened and all must be mothers. A few of the homemakers have been recruited from mothers who were formerly receiving AFDC checks, pointed out Mrs. Pittman.

The Homemaker Services program is administered by the Catholic Family Services in Amarillo, which contracted with the State Department of Public Welfare. As the sponsoring agency, it provides office facilities. Title 20 funds (federal) provide 75 per cent of the money for protective service clients, and the state provides 30 per cent. Five per cent goes for administration.

If the Homemaker Services includes families on AFDC, SSI, or income eligible persons, federal funds provide 70 per cent of the cost and a community donor pays the remaining 30 per cent. Almost any local club or organization can serve as a community donor.

Although the homemaker averages about 88 hours a month working in the homes in Amarillo, the program does not limit the time allotted to each case. There are seven homemakers in the program there, and each carries about 12 cases at one time. Cost of the program is

Deprived Of Opportunity Before, Reagan Begins Public Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ronald Reagan, who never got a chance to run against Jimmy Carter, is campaigning against him now and is emerging as the sharpest Republican critic of the Democratic administration.

In speeches Thursday in New York and Washington, Reagan attacked Carter's policies at home and abroad and accused him of violating his campaign promise to restore confidence in government.

At a $100-a-plate fundraiser here for conservative causes, Reagan said Carter promised during the 1976 campaign that he would "never become part of this city's buddy system."

But Reagan, who also campaigned on an anti-Washington theme in his successful run for the GOP nomination, said Carter has "managed to adapt rather well to this city that has become his home."

He's been in office now for nearly six months and in that time has managed to assemble the largest and highest paid White House staff in history," Reagan said.

"It strikes me as unusual that a man who was going to restore our faith in Washington would, as one of his first acts, propose to change the election laws so that congressional incumbents will be able to tap the federal till for their campaign funds," Reagan said.

"It strikes me as unusual that a man who was going to restore our faith in Washington would, as one of his first acts, propose to change the election laws so that congressional incumbents will be able to tap the federal till for their campaign funds," Reagan said.

The former actor and two-term governor of California also attacked

Carter's support for repeal of Hatch Act prohibitions against government workers participating in partisan politics.

"It strikes me as unusual that a man who says he is beholden to no special interests advances the repeal of legislation designed to insulate federal government workers from crass political pressure," he said.

And he opposed Carter's plan to allow election day voter registration, sounding the theme repeatedly used by GOP members of Congress. Reagan called the proposal "a scheme that would debase the franchise by opening our electoral system to wholesale fraud."

"In light of all this, I'm afraid that I can only conclude that if the American people want to cut back government, they're going to have to look somewhere besides

Witnesses Rip Slurry Process

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) - The rhetorical battle over proposed coal slurry pipelines came to Wyoming Thursday but Rep. Teno Roncalio, D-Wyo., said the hearings failed to produce the technical ammunition he had hoped.

Roncalio chaired the joint hearing conducted by the House Indian Affairs and Public Lands and Mines and Minerals subcommittees into legislation that would grant coal slurry companies the power of eminent domain. The legislation is sponsored by Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., one of the subcommittee members.

The coal slurry process, which involves transporting pulverized coal in a water solution through a pipeline, came under fire from many of the witnesses. They told the subcommittees that the pipelines could not be justified because of precious western water that would be consumed in the slurry process. However, Roncalio said after the hearing that he had hoped specific technical data would have been presented at the hearing on a possible solution to the dilemma - returning the spent water to the point of origin where it could be put to beneficial use.

One of the major pipelines would run from near Gillette, Wyo., to a power plant near White Bluffs, Ark. The water for that pipeline would be drawn from a massive underground formation underlying parts of Wyoming, South Dakota and Nebraska. Roncalio has said he would support a coal slurry bill if it were amended to require that the water be recycled or that an equivalent amount of water be returned to Wyoming.

But the preponderance of the testimony Thursday from the nearly four dozen witnesses, dealt primarily with objections to appropriating the water from other uses - primarily agricultural.

"I didn't produce as much of the technical information as I would have liked," Roncalio said. But he added, "Generally, people had a chance to come in and express their views."

Eckhardt repeatedly asked the witnesses why a slurry line should be blocked if the Wyoming Legislature in 1974 granted a coal slurry company the rights to 20,000 acre feet a year from the underground formation.

"All this bill says is that the coal slurry pipeline will have a change to compete with the railroads," he said. "Now, what's so wrong with that?"

Wyoming Gov. Ed Henschler began the testimony, telling the subcommittees that he needed to see more technical information before he would drop his opposition to slurry legislation. Specifically, Henschler said he was worried about the water that would be lost to the state and about the propriety of granting the power of eminent domain to a private corporation.

"By exercise of this privilege private families can be evicted from their homes and lands against their will," Henschler said. "This is a power that should be granted only in furtherance of the most basic national priorities and in emergency cases."

But Rep. James Johnson, R-Colo., told the hearing that long, unit coal trains running down the Colorado front range from the Wyoming coalfields presented a problem to his constituents as great as the loss of water to Wyoming farmers and ranchers.

Johnson said the coal slurry lines, which could transport coal cheaper than the railroads, also would reduce the disruption by the long coal trains.

Center To Decide If's Fair Share

WASHINGTON (AP) President Carter said congressional critics of the $1.5-billion project under the name of the "Center for the Study of the American Economy" would go on to decide if the center is a fair share of the nation's resources.

Carter said in his statement that the plan is a "major step" in the direction of a "new kind of government" that would be "more responsive to the needs of the people."

The President said the group is "not a new agency" but a "new way of doing business" that would be "more efficient and more effective."

Shuval Attends Signing

District Attorney Andy Shuval of Hereford left this morning for Austin for Gov. Dolph Briscoe's signing of an anti-crime package.

The signing will be this afternoon at the governor's mansion. There will be several district attorneys from around the state on hand.

Shuval, former chairman of the legislative committee of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association, helped prepare the legislation.

"I believe that this set of anti-crime bills are the most significant anti-crime legislation passed in Texas in 25 years," Shuval said.

The Abundant Life

USE IT OR LOSE IT

By Bob Wear

We have great and noble ideas and principles which have been passed along to us as the elements of our heritage. They have been tested time and time again, and have successfully passed each testing.

There is no justifiable reason for doubting their worth, however they must continually be examined and evaluated. Part of their strength and worth are in the fact that they are constantly exposed to all questioning and testing.

Their value is enhanced by the fact that they leave us free to test them as often as we wish. We honor and appreciate them for their intrinsic worth. We also find much aesthetic pleasure in them, and are often thrilled by the eloquent recounting of them by dedicated persons. In all of these considerations, however, there is little of practical value for us.

On every hand, there is evidence which, if it is being properly evaluated, indicates a wide disparity between the theory of our basic principles and their practical application. Historically, the problem of implementation seems to have been a stubborn one in all civilizations.

No civilizations have fallen because of lack of worthy principles. For example, the Greco-Roman society did not crumble because of unworthy or generally false principles. The failure was in their inability or unwillingness to implement their principles so that their principles became their patterns of behavior.

All of us know that a noble concept is of value to us, but only to the extent we are willing to establish it in our lives as a working standard of behavior. Of course, all of us will be able to talk a better game than we can play. We must, however, sincerely continue our efforts to live by well-established standards and ideals. It is the

Half Of Texas Cities Have No Fire Code

AUSTIN — State Board of Insurance Chairman Joe Christie announced this week the results of a survey of city fire marshals in Texas which shows almost half of the cities have no fire code.

"In the wake of the tragedy which took 161 lives in Kentucky these survey results point to the need to consider a statewide fire safety code in Texas," Christie said.

Christie also said he has ordered a second survey to deal with specific provisions in each city's fire code.

"This new survey will tell us how many cities require sprinkler systems, and other details of each city's fire code. The lack of a sprinkler system was a factor in the Kentucky fire, and our files show only 19,000 of the 556,000 buildings insured in Texas have sprinkler systems."

"This city-by-city analysis will allow us to get a picture of exactly how well protected our citizens are in each area of the state," Christie said.

The survey of fire marshals was conducted during the last several months by the state fire marshal's office, a division of the State Board of Insurance, to compile budgetary, regulatory, staffing and other capabilities of local fire marshal offices.

Of 330 fire marshals responding, 44 per cent said their city does not have a fire code, and 43

Train Robbers Remember Big Event

UYAHDA (AP) Joe and Willis Harrison still remember the night of June 12, 1924 like it was only yesterday.

It was the night they staged America's last great train robbery.

It made them millionaires if only briefly.

Within days the Newton brothers and other members of their gang were behind bars and the $2 million in cash and securities hauled from the Milwaukee Flyer outside Chicago had been recovered.

"We went out of business after that," recalled Joe now 76 during an interview at his modest brick home in Uvalde.

Joe served three years in the penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan. for the robbery. Willis, 88, served 12 years for the same job.

A third brother who was in the gang, Willis, died in 1974. Now Joe and Willis live quiet lives in their hometown and recount their part in a trail of visitors and interviewers.

"I got sent to the penitentiary when I was 21," recalls Willis of his early troubles. "It was a bum rap involving some stolen cotton bales at Rising Star, Tex."

Joe says Willis got him into the bank robbing business in the spring of 1921.

"I was just an old cowboy. I broke horses for hire, usually for $10. I might take days to do the job, though," Joe said.

When Joe and Willis hooked up in Oklahoma after Willis asked Joe to join the business, the two staged maybe 50 to 60 bank and train robberies over the next few years.

There were lots of robberies where we didn't get anything and I can't even remember all of them," said Joe who was the lookout.

Willis went inside the bank almost always at night when no one was there, and blowed the safe.

Water was the best time because nobody would come outside to investigate the commotion. It was too cold in the summer people slept outside and they'd come running if something started," Joe said.

"One night in Indiana we robbed two banks, one on one corner and another on another corner," said Joe. "We robbed two banks in Hondo, Tex. one night too."

"I got into the first bank real easy and Willis started working on the safe. He juggled the handle and the combination and it opened right up. We were out of there in about 30 minutes."

"I was ready to leave, but Willis said, 'There's another bank around the corner. Let's go get it.' We went into the other bank and cleaned it out in two hours," said Joe.

The brothers also recalled their visit to the San Marcos Tex. State Bank the night of Jan. 5, 1924.

Bank windows were shattered and shattered money blown around the bank and neighboring streets by the outcropping blast that opened the safe. They were never arrested for the robbery which netted them about $24,000.

Willis is still the stubborn and less reformed of the two surviving brothers.

"Nobody ever gave me anything but hell," he said. Joe returned to Texas after his stint at Leavenworth.

Now the Lord said to Abraham, "Go from your country and your kindred and your father's house to the land that I will show you. And I will make of you a great nation, and I will bless you, and make your name great, so that you will be a blessing." — Genesis 12:1, 2.

I studied the lives of great men and famous women, and I found that the men and women who got to the top were those who did the job they had in hand, with everything they had of energy and enthusiasm and hard work. — Harry S. Truman.

But Willis adds with a sly grin: "If I was 66 or 75 years old, instead of 88 going on 89, I believe I could still rob a bank. I know how."

"I don't believe you could," counters brother Joe.

"Oh, sure, I could beat these alarm systems," retorted Willis the wheels inside his bald head spinning wildly.

"You better forget about bank robbery and get a job," laughed Joe.

CWS Opens Tonight

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - If you like streaking teams, Arizona State and Temple should be your teams in the 31st College World Series.

The eight-team double elimination test to determine the champion of major college baseball opens Friday night with a double header and the two hot clubs will be on display.

Top-ranked Arizona State, 52-11, is riding an 18-game winning streak and eastern challenger Temple, 34-7, owns 17 straight.

"We might be rated No. 1," noted Arizona State Coach Jim Brock, "but this is a hungry club that knows it will have to play its very best to have a chance."

It's the fourth time in five series appearances dating back to 1972 that the Sun Devils come in as the No. 1 rated team. Their last title, however, was in 1968. Temple is ranked No. 8 - lowest of any series qualifier - and is making only its second series trip. The Owls finished third in 1972.

Tradition, however, is working against Temple. Only two Eastern teams - Holy Cross in 1952 and Wake Forest in 1955 - ever have won the title, and the last 10 titles have been gone to teams from the West or Southwest.

"I think the ratings are just a matter of weather," says Temple Coach James "Skip" Wilson. "The western teams have 20 or 30 games played by the middle of March and get off to a big jump. By this time of the year, we're all about even."

Arizona State, ranked with Minnesota as the co-favorite, battles Clemson, 41-8 and a winner of its first 24 games of the season, while Southern Illinois, 38-10, is the opening foe for Temple.

After an afternoon elimination-round game, Cal State-Los Angeles, 40-20, faces Minnesota, 38-10, and Baylor, 43-23, opposes South Carolina, 40-10, in concluding first-round games Saturday night.

The lack of Arizona State success in the series in recent years has surprised some observers - and Brock is aware of the criticism.

"I realize that this club will be evaluated only on what it does in Omaha - and so will I," said Brock.

He said the current club compares favorably with last year's which finished third in the series and sent 12 players on to professional baseball, including pitcher Floyd Bannister, now of the Houston Astros.

"We have no awesome suit, but our pitching depth is the best we've ever had," added Brock. "Also this team has done a better job of using its hits than any of the others and has played to its potential more consistently."

Jerry Vasquez, 10-2, Larry Eiler, 9-1, Mitch Dean, 5-1, and Darrell Jackson, 9-3, are the pitching mainstays. The Sun Devils are hitting .347 as a team led by Rick Peters at .389 and Chris Bando at .385.

In the final workout before leaving for Omaha, regular first baseman Dave Hudgens, a .372 hitter with 73 runs batted in, was hit in the nose by a ball. He may miss the series.

Temple led the nation in hitting with .360 and is hitting so "damn well" Wilson says he doesn't know how good his pitching is.

Pete Dempsey, a sophomore shortstop and son of a former NBA player, is the leading hitter at .414 with 10 home runs and 55 RBIs.

Like Arizona State, Minnesota is seeking its fourth series championship.

The Big Ten Conference champions are led by junior shortstop Paul Molitor, a .327 hitter who was the third player taken in the free agent draft last Tuesday.

After losing seven of its first nine, the Gophers only their losses came in the Big Ten race - by a total of eight runs.

Southern Illinois joined Temple, Arizona State and Clemson by sweeping into the series without losing in regional play.

Valley champion Southern Illinois survived a strong regional that included usual series qualifiers Oklahoma and Michigan.

Burt Takes Lead From Culpepper

AMARILLO-Defending champion Don Burt of Amarillo finally ended the four-week stay atop the late-model standings by Hereford's Jim Culpepper at Southwest Speedway.

Burt drove to victories in the semi, first heat and Flying Twenty before finishing second in the main event to take a 875-785 point lead over second-place Culpepper, who finished fourth in the feature race and third in the semi.

Amarillo's Ron Glover is a distant third with 680 points and Howard Blevins of Canyon is fourth with 540 points. Hereford's James Davis is 11th with 300 points and Wayne McCullar, another Hereford driver who was third in the first heat, is 14th with 155 points.

Burger's Jerry Elrod leads the modified-stock standings by a

Indians Nab Pony Lead

The Indians took the lead in the boys Pony League baseball race Thursday night by beating the Twins 5-1 while the Tigers knocked off the Red Sox 7-5.

The Indians lead the loop with a 6-2 mark, while the Red Sox and Tigers both stand 5-3. The Twins round out the list with an 0-8 mark.

Aubrey Richburg collected a pair of doubles in leading the Tigers over the previously red hot Sox, who have faltered of late. Jeff Hazlerigg picked up the win, while Tony Pena took the loss for the Sox.

Matt Collier pitched the Indians to their win over the Twins. The winners scored two runs in the third and added three more in the fourth to coast to the win. The Twins got their solo tally in the seventh.

507-435 points margin over Cameron Moore of Amarillo while defending champion Paul Malacara Jr. of Amarillo retains the street-stock lead with a 178-133 point edge over Ralph Birdwell of Amarillo.

Auto-racing action returns to the asphalt track on NE 24th and Folsom Road at 8 p.m. Saturday. The Joie Chitwood Auto Thrill Show comes to Southwest Speedway at 8 p.m. Sunday. Admission each night will be $3 with children 11 and under admitted free.

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Walter O'Malley, chairman of the board for the Los Angeles Dodgers, is recuperating from chest surgery performed at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., the club announced.

O'Malley, 73, underwent the surgery Thursday, and although no details were given, a Dodgers spokesman said the operation was described as very successful. O'Malley reportedly was resting well and will spend several days at the Clinic's Methodist Hospital.

Raider Day Golf Deadline Today

Persons wishing to play in the Red Raider Day golf tournament at the municipal golf course next Tuesday have until 5 p.m. today to sign up.

The tourney will include coaches and officials from Texas Tech, who will be paired with local golfers. The event begins at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday and is part of a day of activities for Red Raider supporters.

Also on tap are a social hour and a dinner Tuesday evening. Cost of the entire package is $25 with those wishing to attend only the social hour and dinner paying only $10.

Reservations for the golf tourney should be called in to Cal Garrett at the golf course (364-2782). The social hour begins at 6 p.m. Tuesday with the dinner beginning at 7 p.m. Prizes for the winning golf teams will be presented at the dinner.

Women's Softball Meet Set

The Lubbock City Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring a women's slowpitch softball tournament June 24-26. Team entry fee is $50 for the event with the deadline for entering June 17.

Among the awards to be presented during the tourney are team trophies for the top four teams, individual trophies to members of the three top teams, a MVP trophy, a team sportsmanship trophy, and a MS. Hustle trophy.

Checks may be mailed to the Parks and Recreation Department at P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, 79457. Checks must be made out to the Lubbock General Athletic and Recreation Association.

More information may be obtained by contacting either Susie Loveless, Steve Paxton or Rusty Black at 806-762-6411, extension 308.

In 1975, for the first time in U.S. history, the annual number of divorces passed the one million mark.

Something New, Lucky Lubbock, Let's Bowl

Look for a new feature in Sunday's edition of the Brand. Beginning today a series of thumbnail profiles of the members of the American Legion baseball team will be run. Photos and a short background of the players will be included, one each day.

Twelve young men are participating this year in the program under the guidance of coach Joe Don Cummings. The team reportedly was almost scrapped this year due to a lack of interest, but they're on the field again, representing the local Legion post and Hereford.

Our thanks go out to Carolyn Waters for the idea of the series of mini-sketches, and also for providing the information on each player. Photos of the players were supplied by Bill Brady, an avid supporter of the program.

Lubbockites will get a chance to prove their athletic superiority next month when that city conducts its first "superstars" competition for both men and women. The event is sponsored by the Lubbock City Parks and Recreation Department. The competition, similar to what has appeared on television, will begin July 10 for men and July 17 for women. Contestants will compete in four age groups and will have to partake in seven of nine listed events.

Men's events will include softball hitting, 100-yard-dash, swimming, basketball shooting, kayak racing, long jump, golf chipping, shot put, and the obstacle course. Women's events will be basically the same with a softball throw, 75-yard-dash, and horseshoe toss being substituted.

For a meager entry fee of $5 Lubbock area residents will get the chance to prove, once and for all, that they indeed are better than their sports and entertainment idols in the listed events.

Wouldn't it be nice if Hereford could get such a program begun? How about it Chamber of Commerce Sports Committee?

A much needed addition to the Hereford area will open sometime next week when Tommy Bowling opens "Bowling's Bowl". We have visited the site of the alley several times during the cleanup and renovation of the premises and the transformation is amazing.

Not only will the alley provide an additional recreational outlet for Hereford residents, it will also be attractive. Bowling has added special touches, which we won't mention specifically here, that make the alley pleasing to the eye.

Manager David Pope has been working hard along with Bowling ramrodding the construction. Pope is a young man with an expanded background in the bowling game. He has worked with all facets of the business, including a stretch on the pro tour.

We will introduce him in more detail in a feature next week just before the lanes open.

Duncanville After 4A Baseball Title

AUSTIN (AP)- Houston Sharpstown will battle Duncanville tonight for the Class 4A schoolboy baseball championship, and Uvalde will meet Pecos for the 3A crown.

Sharpstown won the honor by dumping Fort Worth Southwest 10-4 in Thursday's semifinal. Earlier, Duncanville whipped Victoria Stroman 11-5 to earn the other playoff spot.

Uvalde edged Waco Midway 4-3 to earn its half of the 3A championship tilt while Pecos downed DeSoto 7-3.

A bases loaded triple by winning pitcher Chris Day paved the way to Sharpstown's victory, sparking a five-run fourth inning and breaking the back of Southwest.

Day got help from Curtis Kouba in the fourth.

John Tomsic took the loss. Keith Creel also pitched and batted his Duncanville teammates to their big victory.

Creel twirled a two-hitter in upping his second to 17-1. He also cracked three hits and

Kozak Tests Negro; Girls Back On Card

Nick Kozak gets another chance at Cyclone Negro Saturday night at the Bull Barn. Hereford Lions Club officials announced. Kozak tried last week for the fiery Venezuelan's $10000 in silver, but both men were counted out on the floor after a furious fight.

The 220-pound Kozak has butted heads many times in the past with the South American, despite the thirty pound weight advantage of Negro. The match Saturday is not for money, but for satisfaction, according to both wrestlers.

Midget girls will be a special feature of the card. Princess Little Dove, 42" and 85 pounds, a winsome Cherokee from North Carolina, will face Canada's Marie La Veau, also 42" and 93 pounds.

Thunder Cloud of White River, Arizona, in the opener. Perez is a former boxing great who had 136 fights as an amateur before turning pro. His Indian opponent is a gun bug who has hunted in twenty-eight countries while wrestling around the world.

Proficient with bow and arrow as well as firearms, from his early reservation training, the chief looked at a picture of the scowling Perez and said: "Up until now, I've hunted everything except Godzilla."

Last week's cars saw Thunder Cloud and his partner, Danny Little Bear, emerge triumphant over The Islanders, a pair of gigantic Samoans. Thunder Cloud at 226, and his 238 pound partner, were matched against a team of 300 pounders. Little Bear caught the last of three falls with a sunset flip.

Perez was disqualified against Cowboy Don Wayt in the second match last Saturday. Way had the upper hand in a bruising contest when the desperate Perez tried to snatch a quick win using the ropes for leverage.

The ten minute opener saw Little Bear go to a draw with Sika Anoa'i, one of the two Samoans.

Wrestling action will start at 9 p.m. at The Bull Barn.

Gullet Slower, But Enjoying It

BY KEN RAFFOPOORT
AP Sports Writer

Don Gullett has lost his velocity, but none of his vitality. "I feel great now," says the New York Yankees' left-hander. "It's just a matter of getting my rhythm back."

The absence of rhythm has cost Gullett some speed on his fastball, although the Milwaukee Brewers hardly noticed it while dropping a 10-1 decision to Gullett and the Yankees Thursday.

"I had better movement with my pitches today, but my velocity just wasn't there," said Gullett, attempting to get back in the groove after early-season injuries. "My consistency and control weren't there, either."

Gullett, one of the great catches made by the Yankees in last winter's free agent shopping spree, pitched seven strong innings. He allowed only four hits before getting relief from Dick Tidrow.

The victory was Gullett's fifth straight after two losses to the Brewers in April.

In other American League games, the Kansas City Royals defeated the Minnesota Twins 7-2, the Boston Red Sox trimmed the Baltimore Orioles 7-3, the Chicago White Sox nipped the Texas Rangers 4-3 in 11 innings, and the Seattle Mariners edged the Detroit Tigers 2-1.

The Yankees gave Gullett all the support he needed with a four-run first inning highlighted by Fran Healy's two-run single.

Royals 7, Twins 2

John Wathan keyed a three-run sixth inning with a two-run single and Andy Hassler and Steve Mingori teamed on a four-hitter as Kansas City trimmed Minnesota.

Hassler hurled hitless ball until the sixth in boosting his record to 3-1. Holding a 4-0 lead, Hassler yielded an RBI triple in the sixth to American League hitting leader Rod Carew, then a run-scoring single to Craig Kusick. Mingori came in at the start of the seventh and allowed only an eighth-inning single to Larry Hise.

The loser was Pete Redfern, 2-4, who left at the start of the seventh because of a recurrence of a sprained thigh muscle.

Red Sox 7, Orioles 3

Jim Rice hit two homers and Fred Lynn and Carlton Fisk one each, powering Boston past

Baltimore. Winner Bill Lee, 4-1, allowed two runs in struggling through the first five innings and Bill Campbell checked the Orioles on only one run over the final four innings.

White Sox 4, Rangers 3

Pinch-hitter Wayne Nordhagen's two-out single in the 11th inning scored pinch runner Brian Downing, giving Chicago its victory over Texas in a 4-1/2 hour game.

Chicago catcher Jim Essian started the winning rally with a single and Downing ran for him.

Ralph Garr singled, but Alan Bannister, who had five consecutive hits, flied out. Lethander Paul Lindblad came in and struck out Jorge Orta, but then Nordhagen delivered his clutch hit just beyond the out-stretched glove of third baseman Toby Harrah.

Mariners 2, Tigers 1

Lee Stanton smashed a tie-breaking home run, his sixth of the season, in the eighth inning, lifting Seattle over Detroit. Winning reliever Enrique Romo, 3-3, hurled 3 1-3 innings of hitless ball.

Former Entertainer Leads Memphis Golf

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Tom Storey once a Las Vegas song and dance man, turned escape artist in the Danny Thomas-Memphis golf Classic.

"When it's your day, it's your day," shrugged Storey, for five years an entertainer in Strip hotels, after his unorthodox putting style enabled him to escape almost constant trouble and turn potential disaster into the first round lead Thursday.

He one-putted 10 times, once chipped in for an eagle three and needed only 24 strokes on three greens on his way to a seven-under-par 65 - by far the best round of his career.

A gallery of only five people watched the slender, chipper, 35-year-old in his adventures over the 7,193-yard Colonial Country club course, adventures that were highlighted by his putting stance in which his right hand is about a foot down the shaft of the club and the left hand "hanging on to the top."

"I you can't putt any other way, you do the best you can," said Storey, who joined the tour only last year and had done absolutely nothing at all until he broke through for a victory in the Oklahoma City Open, a satellite event, a few weeks ago.

That was worth $9,000. He's won only one other check this season.

"When it's going bad for you, there seems to be absolutely nothing you can do to change it. And when it's going good for you, it looks like you can't do anything to change that, either. This was one of those kind of days," he said after establishing a two-stroke lead over globe-trotter Gary Player, who managed a solid 67 despite the jet lag he said he was experiencing after the long flight from his South African home.

Mike Hill was next with a 68. The group at 69 included Hale Irwin, John Schroeder, Woody Blackburn, Tom Shaw, lefty Sam Adams, Mike Morley and Gary McCord.

Jerry Pate matched par 72 in his first competitive round since the Masters. Pate, who has been sidelined with a pinched nerve in his neck, will defend his U.S. Open title in Tulsa, Okla. next week.

Johnny Miller and Tom Weiskopf, a winner last week, were at 71. Lee Trevino had a 72. PGA champ Dave Stockton and Ray Floyd shot 73s and Dave Hill, Mike's older brother and a four-time winner of this tournament, had a 75.

Ben Crenshaw, who has been taking medication for a sinus problem, became ill while playing in the hot, humid weather and withdrew. Gibby Gilbert, who won this tournament last year, was unable to start because of pulled rib cage muscles.

Story tried and failed to gain his playing rights in 1968, started his five-year Las Vegas entertainment career in 1971, once functioned as a golf pro for Louis Prima and joined the tour last year.

Pretty Boy Doug Somers, the 245-pound Minnesotan known as the Dr. Renee Richards of professional wrestling, will clash with former West Texas State footballer Teddy Dibiase, also 245. Dibiase has been exchanging headlocks with grapplers in Kansas City, St. Louis, Waterloo, Iowa and other centers of mat activity. He has not returned to his home base in Amarillo for some time.

NEW YORK (AP) - Matt Mitchell of Stanford, the 1977 NCAA singles champion, heads the nine-member Junior Davis Cup tennis team for players 21 and under.

Larry Gottfried of Trinity, Tex., No. 1 in the nation for boys 18 and the brother of pro Brian Gottfried, also is on the team, announced by committee chairman Marvin Richmond.

The squad will be coached by Bill Glaves of Vanderbilt.

The rest of the players are Tony Graham and Van Winitzky of UCLA, Tony Giammalva of Trinity, Chris Lewis and Bruce Manson of Southern California, Bill Maze of Stanford and Nial Brash of San Jose State.

ATLANTA (AP) - Atlanta Falcons draft choices Billy Ryckman and John Maxwell have signed a series of one-year contracts with the National Football League club.

NEW YORK (AP) - Some shrewd trading, plus an assist from lady luck, put the Milwaukee Bucks in the catbird's seat for today's National Basketball Association draft of college talent.

The Bucks earned the first pick in the draft by finishing the worst record in the Western Conference, then winning a coin flip from the Kansas City Kings. The trades gave the Bucks the third and 11th picks in the first round, meaning Milwaukee is virtually assured of picking up three quality players in the annual lottery.

They hope those three will complete a rebuilding job begun last year, when new Coach Don Nelson worked a number of first and second-year players into the lineup.

Bucks Want Benson

The key to the process is Kent Benson, the two-time All-American center from Indiana. The Bucks announced in April, as soon as they earned the right to pick first, that they would open the draft by picking Benson.

"He's a pure center," said Rick Sund, the Bucks' chief scout, "and NBA franchises are build around centers."

And Benson is the center the Bucks want to build around.

In midseason they traded their starting center, Elmore Smith, plus reserve guard Gary Brokaw, to Cleveland to get the No. 11 pick in the draft. They also traded guard Jim Price, who was not getting much playing time, to Buffalo for the No. 13 pick.

Then, after the Bucks were assured of getting Benson, they traded their starting center as of the end of the season, Sven Nater, to Buffalo for the No. 2 pick in the draft.

Thus the Bucks were able to collect two of the top three choices, as well as the 11th pick, in the draft which got under way today at 1 p.m. EDT.

After the Bucks started the draft, the order of selection in the first round was Kansas City, Milwaukee, Atlanta, Phoenix, Los Angeles, New York Nets, Seattle, Denver, New York Knicks, Milwaukee, Boston, Buffalo, Washington, Los Angeles, Golden State, Washington, Golden State, Portland, Philadelphia, Denver and Los Angeles.

Among the top collegians eligible for the draft, besides Benson, were:

Centers - Tom LaGade of North Carolina, Tree Rollins of Clemson, Jehl-Witkins of Illinois State, Jack Sikma of Illinois Wesleyan, Wilson Washington of Old Dominion and Rob Elliott of Arizona.

Forwards - Marques Johnson of UCLA, Walter Davis of North Carolina, Greg Ballard of Oregon, Cornbread Maxwell of UNC-Charlotte, Ernie Grunfeld of Tennessee, Anthony Roberts of Oral Roberts, Alonzo Bradley of Texas Southern and Bo Ellis of Marquette.

Guards - Otis Birdsong of Houston, Rickey Green of Michigan, Ray Williams of Minnesota, Norm Nixon of Minnesota, Tate Armstrong of Duke and Ed Jordan of Rutgers.

Niekro Grooves In Shutout Of Phils

BY ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) - Knuckleballer Phil Niekro has hit special pitch dancing again.

"Some were going up, some were going down, some were going away," said Philadelphia second baseman Ted Sizemore after Niekro fanned a career-high 13 batters Thursday night to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 3-0 victory over the Phillies, who managed only four singles in the game.

In other National League games, the Chicago Cubs blanked San Francisco 1-0 in 11 innings and St. Louis beat Los Angeles 6-3. Cincinnati's game at New York was rained out again.

Niekro's victory was his third in the last four starts and his second shutout. The right-hander, 4-8, opened the season by losing his first seven decisions.

"Yes, I'm out of the slump now," Niekro said. "A lot of it was in my delivery and a lot in my head. You get those going against you and you haven't got much to go with."

Niekro was lodged in a pitching duel with southpaw Jim Kaat until the Braves scored their runs in the fifth inning on a three-run homer by Rod Gilbreath.

He fanned five straight batters during one stretch in the middle innings, then wrapped up the masterpiece in the ninth by striking out the side.

"I had it the knucker just about the whole game," Niekro said. "I mixed in a few fast balls, but those were the only two pitches I used. It's the best game I've pitched this year. Any time I strike out 13 I've got to have a good knuckle ball."

Cubs 1, Giants 0

Pinch-hitter Jose Cardenal's bases-loaded squeeze bunt in the 11th inning scored pinch-runner Mick Kelleher to give Chicago its victory over San Francisco.

"He told me to take one pitch and then bunt," Cardenal said of Manager Herman Franks, who has used Cardenal sparingly because of his .171 batting average.

George Mitterwald led off the 11th with a double off Randy Moffitt. Charlie Williams relieved and Greg Gross sacrificed Kelleher to third. The Giants then filled the bases by intentionally walking Ivan deJesus and Larry Bittner before Cardenal provided his game-winning bunt.

Chicago relief ace Bruce Sutter, 1-1, who has 16 saves, picked up his first victory of the season. Both Ed Halicki of the Giants and Bill Bonham matched no-hit innings into the sixth, but neither was around at the end.

Cardinals 6, Dodgers 3

Pitcher Bob Forsch's two hits and two runs scored and his 61-3 innings of seven-hit ball enabled the Cards to down Los Angeles.

Forsch lost his shutout on a sixth-inning wild pitch, then gave way to Al Hrabosky in the seventh following Dusty Baker's 11th home run, a two-run shot.

Rick Rhoden, 8-3, chief victim of St. Louis' 13-hit assault, was stymied in his bid to become the National League's first nine-game winner.

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) - Lanky junior John Stark of Houston held a three-stroke lead going into the third round of the NCAA Golf Championships here today after posting a two-day total of 142.

Arizona State continued to lead the team competition in the four-day tournament

For God So Loved The World

FAITH SEWED A FREE NATION'S HISTORY INTO ITS FLAG

The free nations of this world have attained their freedom only as the result of a series of hard-fought struggles, both on the field of battle and in the halls of its assembled representatives. Even after the crusade for freedom has been won, it can never be taken for granted but must be maintained by means of a constant vigil, and in an effort to remind the citizens of this fact, a visible symbol of their freedom is kept before them in the form of a flag, depicting the history of the courage, dedication and sacrifice that brought about their cherished liberty. The Bible contains many references to freedom as the ideal state, as you will learn at the Church of your choice, where you will be taught to honor your nation's flag, and to remember what it stands for.

The flag is the embodiment, not of sentiment, but of history.

—Woodrow Wilson

Cited For 4-H Service

The Deaf Smith County Rural Electric Cooperative, represented by James T. Hull of Hereford, center, was cited for its outstanding support of the 4-H program in Texas at the 1977 State 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University June 7-8. Hull was presented a special plaque by Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, left, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Tom Davison, executive director of the Texas 4-H Youth Foundation.

Be A Friend, Have A Friend

By JoAn Dwyer, Exec. Dir. Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Hereford

in his thinking processes to handle difficulties. Be sure to keep choices in a realistic realm - one that a kid can handle.

CHOOSING
When children are very young, we don't have too much difficulty letting them make choices. The decision between peanut butter and cheese in the area of sandwiches is really pretty simple.

What gets tough are the decisions that an 11 or 12 year old are forced to make before he has the skills.

We hear a lot about permissiveness on the part of parents. I'm not sure that's the right term. Maybe naive would better describe the condition.

You let your 11-year-old daughter out at the movie on Friday night. Does she stay there or go somewhere else? If she does stay there, is she behaving like she would if you were there too? You really can't depend on the management to chaperone!

Kids scream, "You don't trust me?" I think we probably trust our kids, but maybe not their environment!

Let's not throw situations at them that contain decision making that they don't yet have the skills to cope with.

Play the game 5-year-olds like - the "What if..." game. It will help prepare your child at least Cheddar cheese and the products made from it are economical sources of protein, calcium, riboflavin and Vitamin A, says Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Lamaze Promises Birth Without Pain

Lamaze childbirth classes, which strive to make childbirth "a more positive and satisfying family experience," will begin here today.

The course is designed to teach the Pavlov-Lamaze method of Childbirth Without Pain and promote better parent-child relationships. By helping to relieve fear and prejudice through knowledge and confidence, the classes are a physical, emotional and intellectual preparation for normal childbirth. Psychoprophylaxis, which is the technical term meaning "mind prevention," is a method involving conditioned reflexes, neuro-muscular control and trained breathing. It is described as a "non-medical" preparation for normal childbirth.

Penny Jessup, director of local Lamaze classes, stresses that the technique is not hypnosis or the power of positive thinking.

"We re-teach the brain," Mrs. Jessup explained. "We build a new physical link with the brain so that concentration will mean nothing more than the release of a breath."

She added, "This is the fastest, easiest, safest participating birth for mother and baby."

Interested persons are urged to contact Mrs. Jessup by telephoning 364-6435.

When covering buttons or belting with a sheer or loosely constructed fabric, first fuse matching lining fabric to the wrong side of the fashion fabric. This prevents the button form--or belting--from showing through and prevents ravelling, too, advises Margret Ann Vanderpoorten, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

DEAR ANN: My problem is my girlfriend. I am 17 and she is 16. When we first began to date I thought she was terrific and I still do except for one thing--she swears worse than any guy in the locker room.

When I ask her not to swear, she gets up on her women's lib soapbox and says I'm square.

My friends tell me a girl with a foul mouth is just about the worst. None of us guys swear when there are girls around so it's not as if she is getting even.

Her mom and dad are lovely people. They never talk that way so it can't be her environment. Why does she do it and how can I get her to stop?--Blistered Lobes

DEAR LOBES: Girls who use gutter language do it for the shock value. It's an attention-getting device. They like to shake people up.

Drop her for a while and tell her why. If that doesn't produce results, write her off. She would be a continuing source of embarrassment.

DEAR ANN: I disagree with your response to the college sophomore who was in her eighth month of psychoanalysis. You said the goal of therapy is to get the patient to the point when he can function without therapy. You then suggested three years as a termination point.

This might be true for someone who is mentally unstable, but many people including myself, are in therapy to improve the quality of our lives.

This means more than solving a specific problem. It means developing the ability to face anxiety rather than retreat behind defenses out of fear. In fact, day-to-day problems are secondary to the more basic issue of living life to the full and having open and honest relationships with others.

I am a woman who, to all outward appearances, has a successful career and a rewarding family life. Yet after five years of therapy I still find myself retreating from close relationships for fear I will become a "non-person."

I can certainly function without therapy, yet therapy is gradually permitting me to trust and care and to overcome my fear of being "overwhelmed" by love.

I suggest you rethink your answer, Ann. Therapy can do a lot more than you give it credit for in your column.--Becoming Me

CPR Course Scheduled In Hereford

The local Heart Association will sponsor a Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) class Monday and Tuesday, June 13-14 at the Community Room of the First National Bank.

The classes, free of charge, will last from 6-10 p.m. each night, and will be instructed by Archie Dwyer and John Gilliland. And any interested persons may contact Carolyn Hays at 364-6998 for additional information.

Class of 1943 Meets Tomorrow

Members of the Hereford High School Class of 1942 are invited to a reunion dinner Saturday at the Country Club.

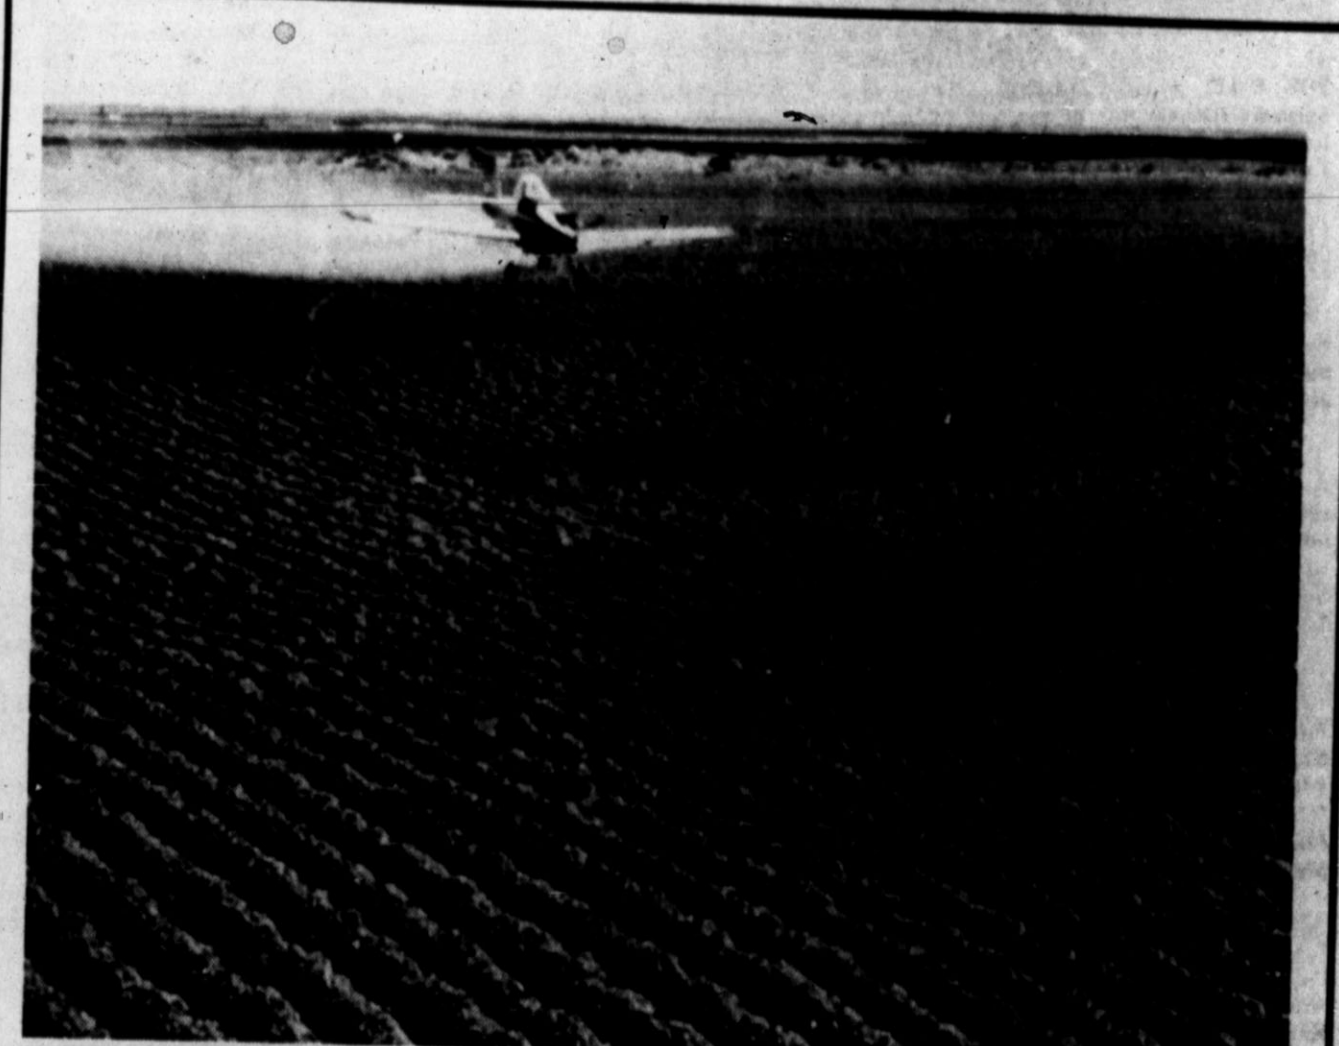

Registration will commence at 5 p.m. tomorrow, to be followed by a buffet dinner and informal visiting. The group will be located in the Club's Halbert Room.

Originally including 55 members, the Class of '42 has 55 per cent of that number residing in the Hereford area.

Attire for tomorrow evening's party will be informal.

Area rugs are increasingly popular, because they can be turned to equalize wear, says Sue Young, housing and home furnishing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

'Fringe' Becomes Contract Misnomer

BY JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)-The term "fringe" when applied to employ compensation might continue in use from sheer habit, but with each new wage contract it is becoming more of a misnomer than before.
The fringe, in effect, no longer is just an enticing adornment to the paycheck; on average, it is now close to 25 per cent of the total compensation of production and related workers in manufacturing.
The trend reflects a changing view of the employer's role in society, from that of a contractor for labor and skills to that of a provider of services as well, and usually at a lower cost than the worker could obtain on his own.
It probably also represents an acknowledgment of workers that in times of inflation it might be better to accept the service, such as health care, than the dollar that tends to buy less and less of the service.
In 1959, fringes such as vacations, retirement programs, insurance, unemployment programs and the like accounted for just 14.6 per cent of the total compensation.
By 1974, latest year from which detailed figures are available, the percentage had risen to 23.1, and the trend since then most likely has brought the fringe figure to about one-quarter of a worker's total compensation.
The Morgan Guaranty Survey, which supplied the figures, went further in seeking the significance of the trend by removing the effect of inflation, which tends to disguise the contrast between old and new.
It found that "a full 40 per cent of the real compensation gains produced by the economy was taken by employees in the form of improved fringe benefits rather than in enlarged money wages."
Here are the dollars and cents figures of employer expenditures for wages and benefits per hour worked:
-In 1959, total compensation equalled $2.61, compared with $5.88 in 1974.
-Pay for time worked in 1959 was $2.23, or 85.4 per cent of the total compensation. In 1974 the figures were $4.52 and 76.9 per cent, respectively.
-Vacations and holidays accounted for 14 cents or 5.2 per cent of total pay in 1959. In 1974 the numbers had risen to 40 cents and 6.8 per cent.

Retirement programs in 1959 took 11 cents or 4.2 per cent of the total. In 1974 the cost per hour worked had risen to 48 cents or 8.2 per cent of the total.
Life insurance and health benefits in 1959 accounted for only 8 cents of the $2.61 total, or just 3 per cent. By 1974 the percentage had more than doubled to 6.3, and the cost per hour worked to 37 cents.
Unemployment programs in 1959 took just 3 cents, or 1.5 per cent, of the total hourly compensation dollar. In 1974 the cost figure had risen to 8 cents, although the percentage of total compensation was down to 1.4.

In recent years new fringes have been added, most important of them being dental bills and legal fees, but specialists already are studying the possibility of adding automobile and home insurance plans.
With individual insurance costs rising sharply in some areas, compensation specialists believe the employer may be able to devise meaningful plans that would offer the benefits of lower group rates.

In addition, it is widely felt, the employer also is more able to provide bookkeeping services as to analyze the increasingly complicated plan, and to do so well.

Catholic Sexuality Study Sets Definite Guidelines

NEW YORK (AP)— While debate heated up on the new Roman Catholic study on sexuality and its rejection of some codified Church taboos, its compilers pointed out that it also sets definite guidelines itself for even higher, personal sexual ideals.

Taking a positive view, the study says sex is meant to "foster a creative growth toward integration," adding that this capacity is impaired by tendencies to look on sex in a "furtive, disassociated way."

"Christians must therefore be encouraged to embrace their sexuality joyfully and in full consciousness," says the book-length study, "Human Sexuality: New Directions in American Catholic Thought."

Already, even before its official publication date June 24 by Paulist Press, the study's challenging of church prohibitions against contraception, artificial insemination and various other practices has touched off controversy.

More of its inevitable, editorializes the Catholic diocesan weekly, the Brooklyn Tablet, urging people to read the full report "before you judge."

Actually, its main difference is a "personalist" approach to sexual ethics based on particular circumstances and conscience, rather than the traditional Catholic "objectivist" approach, specifying certain acts as always immoral.

Noting that the new "personalist" approach is becoming widespread among contemporary theologians, whose views the study synthesizes, the Tablet says the contrast is "more in theory than in practical advice."

"The pastoral and moral evaluation of many particular situations is often virtually the same, although rationales differ," the Tablet observes.

The four-year study was compiled by a committee of the Catholic Theological Society of America, which neither approved nor disapproved it in authorizing its publication.

Drawing on insights about sex from the Bible, from the Church's teaching heritage and from contemporary findings of social and behavioral sciences, the study offers seven criteria for wholesome sex activity, including:

- That it is "self-liberating... neither fearful nor anxious but rather genuinely expressive of one's authentic self."

- That it is "other-enriching," giving expression "to a generous interest and concern for the well-being of the other."

- That it is "honest," expressing "openly and candidly and as truthfully as possible the depth of the relationship that exists between people."

- That it is "faithful," characterized by "a consistent pattern of interest and concern that can grow even deeper and richer..."

- That it is "socially responsible," giving expression "not only to individual relationships but in a way also reflects the relationship of the individuals to the larger community."

- That it is "life-serving," respecting the "intimate relationship between the 'creative' and the 'integrative' aspects."

- That it is "joyous," giving witness to "exuberant appreciation of the gift of life and mystery of love."

Tiny Plants, Big Charge

Government Studies More Radio Channels

WASHINGTON (AP)— With 23 million Citizens Band radios now in use and sales running over 10 million a year, the government is studying the need for more frequencies for personal radio use.

The addition of 17 new channels last January appears to have met the immediate need for more CB frequencies. The new channels are underused, and have lessened congestion on the older 23.

But seeing no end to the explosive growth of CB radio that began three years ago, the Federal Communications Commission created the Personal Radio Planning Group in May 1976.

The group is attempting to answer two major questions, says Carlos V. Roberts, acting chief of the FCC's Office of Plans and Policy.

"Is there a need for an additional personal radio service and, secondly, if so, at what frequency?"

The answer to the first question is the subject of a "larger-scale survey of current and potential users to get a handle on how many people are going to be using personal radios, and on what they think is necessary to satisfy their needs," Roberts says.

The second question is the subject of a "working paper" the group recently issued on "spectrum alternatives." It suggests seven frequency bands for use in any expansion.

They are 26.95-26.96 megahertz MHz, 27.54-28.00 MHz, 29.80-29.89 MHz, 29.91-30.00 MHz, 222-224 MHz, 894-902 MHz and 928-947 MHz.

The CB service now occupies frequencies ranging from 26.965 to 27.405 MHz. The potential bands now are assigned to government, land-mobile, international fixed public and amateur radio ham use.

Seventeen bands were considered possible candidates for use in a new personal radio service.

But 10 were dropped because of various factors including the cost of relocating the current users and the potential for interference to television.

The last factor received a lot of the group's attention, Robert Roberts says.

"If a new service is established, we want to make pretty sure it is free of the TVI television interference that has plagued the present CB service," he explains.

But until the survey of the need for additional personal radio service is completed, the spectrum alternative study is in limbo, he says.

Roberts says the planning group "hopes to wind everything up and submit a report to the commission by the end of the year."

Any new service would be in addition to the existing CB band, Roberts says. He adds that new equipment probably would be necessary to use it, since add-on equipment to present CB sets probably would be prohibited.

Support Urged For Gun Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP)— A citizens gun lobby urged support Thursday for a pro-gun resolution to be presented at the annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors this weekend in Tucson, Ariz.

John M. Snyder of the Citizens Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms said the resolution would be proposed by Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. of Midland, Tex.

The resolution would repeal the conference's 1972 position which called for national legislation against the sale and private possession of handguns except for use by law officers, the military and sportsmen's clubs.

The Angelo Resolution calls the lawful ownership of firearms, including handguns, a cherished right, Snyder said.

The citizens committee, founded in 1971, claims a membership of 150,000. Its headquarters is in Bellevue, Wash.

In a report prepared for a City

HOUSTON (AP)— A former police patrolman fired after the drowning of Joe Campos Torres testified Thursday before a county grand jury after being granted immunity.

The body of Torres, 23, was recovered May 8 from Buffalo Bayou, a short distance from police headquarters. Two days later, Police Chief B.G. Bond filed a murder charge against patrolman Terry W. Denson, 27, and fired four other patrolmen.

Louis G. Kinney, 27, one of the four who were fired, testified after being granted immunity by State Dist. Court Judge Miron Love.

"We can't make a case without witnesses," Asst. Dist. Atty. Bert Graham said after taking the immunity request to Love. Graham would not say whether other offers of immunity would be made.

Also scheduled to testify was patrolman Carless Elliott, 20, who was suspended from duty by Bond but not fired. Elliott has been identified as the patrolman who reported the drowning incident to his superiors.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Ted Poe said Elliott had not been granted immunity.

Torres was arrested the night of May 5 during a disturbance at a bar. City jail attendants told the arresting patrolmen to take him to a hospital because of injuries.

The murder charge against Denson alleges Torres was intentionally pushed into the bayou after having been severely beaten.

Civil Service Commission hearing on the firings last week, Bond said Torres, although handcuffed, was struck by all the officers except Elliott. Bond also said Kinney and his partner searched in vain for Torres after he had been pushed into the bayou.

Bond also said that after the May 8 discovery of the body Kinney and two other officers told Elliott to keep quiet about the incident and not to worry about it.

Graham said Kinney's immunity from prosecution in state court will not affect possible prosecution in federal court but that federal prosecutors could not use Kinney's state court testimony as evidence against him. He said federal authorities would have to show they obtained evidence from a source independent of a state trial before they could use it against Kinney.

Dist. Atty. Carol Vance has encouraged the Justice Department to intervene and prosecute the case under civil rights statutes.

Poage Released From Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)— Rep. W.R. "Bob" Poage of Texas, the oldest member of the House, was released Thursday from nearby Bethesda Naval Hospital, three weeks after surgeons removed a malignant growth from part of his intestine.

Before leaving for his suburban Arlington, Va., home, Poage said, "I can't claim to be feeling completely fine right now, but I do think that I'm on the road to recovery."

His doctor, chief of surgery William Fouty, said that the 77-year-old Texas Democrat would continue his recuperation at home for at least a week.

"After that time," Fouty said, "and if he is doing all right, I can see him then going back to the office for a limited day and then working his way up to a full schedule."

"A major part" of the colon, a section of the intestinal tract, was removed during the four-hour operation May 19. The lesion had shown up on X-rays about two weeks before, Poage said.

Fouty said that Poage was running about a week behind in the normal six-week recovery period for major surgery of that type because of a minor intestinal swelling last week.

Once the 21-term congressman "eats good home cooking, he will really start to perk up," the doctor said, putting poage back on his regular diet.

Poage, now vice chairman of the Agriculture Committee, chaired the panel until 1974, when he was one of three veteran chairmen ousted from their positions by the Democratic caucus.
