City Delays OK Of Lake Fence, Considers Jet Fuel

In less than an hour, the Hereford City Commission approved a zoning change request, rescinded an earlier action to build a fence around a lake considered dangerous to students, and delayed action on purchase of jet fuel for the Municipal Airport. Commission were meeting in a regular meeting at city hall Monday night.

Also, the city fathers proposed but tabled a motion to eliminate truck traffic on Lee Street, and discussed the bids authorized for a homing radiobeacon for the airport.

THE REZONING CONSISTED of Block 9 of the Whitehead Addition from an "A" zone (single family residential) to "D" zone (local retail). It was requested by Mrs. J.C. Williams.

The lot, located at the corner of Austin Road, and South Main Street, was already approved for the rezoning by the Hereford Planning and Zoning Commission. It was approved without objection.

At the last regular meeting of the commission, City Manager Dudley Bayne was authorized to seek bids for building a fence around a dangerous lake located in a vacant lot near Bluebonnet Elementary School. However, he was concerned over the danger imposed by a six-foot fence around the lake where a child might drown from the drainage water in it.

"If a kid got in there and was drowning, a six-foot fence might prevent a passer-by from saving him," Bayne said. "Usually, it is a friend or passer-by who will save someone drowning, not the fire or police department" since they could not be out there in time.

Although this possibility was doubted by some, the commissioners agreed that the lake should be drained first and to see exactly what was in the lake and how deep the water is. Presently the city is pumping water out of it and the fence proposal will await the project's outcome.

Representatives of the Hereford chapter of the American GI Forum approached the commission at its last meeting concerning the safety of children walking to Bluebonnet and the possibility of them falling in the lake and drowning. It has steep sides and it would be difficult for anyone to get out of it. The city might decide to use fill from a street paving project to level off the side of the lake and lower the water depth.

BAYNE SUBMITTED estimates on costs of jet fuel tanks for the airport from a firm specializing in such systems depending on the components of the filtration system and materials used in construction, an 8,000 gallon tank could cost $4,452 or $7,414.

One plane presently at the airport uses jet fuel and others would be serviced here if jet fuel were provided. Therefore several interested parties have contacted the city on the possibility of acquiring a storage facility for such fuel. Since jet fuel must be continually circulated to maintain it, the cost is high.

The city manager suggested a 10,000 gallon tank for bulk loads but noted that the profit of the city off each gallon would be higher than the current rate for gasoline to cover any expenses.

Commissioners postponed in decision until it could be further investigated as no immediate need was seen for the fuel. Commissioner Frank Barrett expressed the thought of most of the city officials that jet fuel should be ultimately provided.

Bids for the homing radio beacon, approved by the commission earlier were pending the approval of the Texas Aeronautics Commission (TAC). It has a total of 10 such projects, including Hereford's to progress and therefore the TAC is seeking a combination bid for all projects hoping that costs will be less.

So the bid received by Hereford is void until the state actually authorizes it.

Since paving on Lee Street is slowly eroding due to heavy truck traffic, the commission tentatively decided to prohibit truck traffic on it. Since the item was not on the agenda, official action must wait until the next meeting.

All commissioners were present.

Hill Battles Bell Phone Co. Over Investment Claims

AUSTIN (AP) - Atty. Gen. John Hill says Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has the highest possible market rating for its bonds, yet claims its investors are being short-changed.

The triple-A rating suggests to Hill that Bell's present rate of return is sufficient to attract all the capital Bell needs.

Hill urged the new Public Utilities Commission proposed $298.3 million increase in rates in Texas.

The hearing may last a month, and the commission is expected to rule on the proposal early next year.

Fate of Candidates Up To Voters

By The Associated Press

Texans went to their polling places today to prove right or wrong the predictions of both Gerald Ford's and Jimmy Carter's supporters that their presidential candidate would win the state's 26 electoral votes.

Also at stake in the balloting are the elections of a U.S. senator, a state Supreme Court justice, congressional representatives and a number of other officials.

According to national polls, the size and makeup of the turnout would determine the final outcome, allowing state Democrat and Republican leaders to make nervously confident predictions of victory.

"We always cut them close in Texas," said Democratic state chairman Calvin Guest as he predicted that presidential candidate Jimmy Carter would carry the state "by 40,000 to 100,000 votes."

Meanwhile, Ford campaign leaders in Texas dismissed reports of Carter's lead in the state and said their own polls showed President Gerald Ford was moving head.

In any case, the state's 26 electoral votes -- fourth largest total in the nation -- could be a deciding factor in the presidential race nationally.

"Texas is such an important state," said Carter's Texas campaign coordinator, Chuck Parrish. "Without Texas, the Republicans can't win."

Voter Decides

A voter at the Hereford Community Center deposits a ballot in the official voting box for precinct five. This action is taking place all across the nation today as the fate of presidential candidates is decided. Results will be carried in the Wednesday issue of The Hereford Brand.

Kiwanis Plans Election Day Meal

All the pancakes and sausage you can eat is what the menu reads tonight for the annual Noon Kiwanis Club's Election Day Pancake Supper.

The event will be held in the Hereford High School cafeteria again this year, beginning at 5 this evening and continuing until after the polls close until 8 p.m. The affair has traditionally been held on Election Day not only to emphasize the need for Hereford citizens to get out and vote, but to also raise funds for the many civic projects that the club is involved in.

"We urge everyone to exercise their right to vote and invite them to come from the polling places to our pancake supper this evening," said Lloyd Sharp, chairman of the supper.

Besides the pancakes and sausage, all the trimmings will be served including maple syrup and steaming hot coffee.

This is one of the first fund raising projects for the club as they begin their new administrative year under the leadership of Bud Eades. On Nov. 11, the club will sponsor an intrasquad scrimmage of the West Texas State University Buffalo basketball team. Tickets for this event can be purchased from any Kiwanian or will be sold at the La Plata gymnasium, where the scrimmage will be held.

Among many other projects the club will use the funds to benefit are the AAU Summer Track program, a scholarship for a deserving HHS senior, Camp Wigwam and the United Way.

Steelman, 34, gave up his safe congressional seat to attempt to unseat Bentsen, who toppled Ralph Yarborough from the Senate spot six years ago.

Another post that has attracted a lot of attention statewide is a Supreme Court spot that has only Democrat Don Yarborough of Houston on the ballot. But Yarborough, a virtually unknown attorney who many believe got the nomination because his name is so similar to Yarborough's, has been named in 15 civil suits and a disbarment action by the Texas State Bar.

Write-in candidates Sam Houston, also hoping to capitalize on name identification, and Tom Lorange are trying to beat Yarborough.

Today culminates the hopes and dreams of numerous candidates for the Presidency and other federal, state and local offices as voters cast their constitutionally guaranteed secret ballots at local polls.

With 11 precinct voting boxes open from until 7 p.m. today, Hereford citizens are expected to turnout at least in average numbers to make their political wishes known. Although voter apathy has been reported throughout the campaign, it could be a surprise when the totals are in and a record number could decide the election which has been running rather close according to different polls.

HOWEVER, IT IS ONLY the vote today which counts and both Jimmy Carter, the Democrat nominee, and Gerald Ford, the Republican nominee, are campaigning every possible moment before the polls close tonight.

The Hereford Brand will carry full ballot results in Wednesday's issue since today's paper had to be printed before polls closed.

Locally, the polls may attract a good turnout since the absentee vote count totaled 332 persons, which is 42 more than those absentee voting in the 1972 presidential election. This includes 194 persons who voted in person and 138 who voted by mail.

The results may show that the 7,765 registered voters here will split their preferences among Republican and Democrat candidates. Where some vote one way for President, they may differ on state and local races.

One of the hotly contested races here is between Republican Jim Reese of Odessa and incumbent Democrat George Mahon of Lubbock. One claims a newcomer will have a more representative effective for the voters while the other naturally claims a strong powerbase gained through many years in office will provide more representative action.

REESE WAS IN HEREFORD for an airport rally late Monday afternoon at the Hereford Municipal Airport. He was here for about 30 minutes to speak to about 50 supporters present. He claimed the race was close but was confident of a strong showing.

Elsewhere on the ballot, voters will decide the race between Republican Alan Steelman and Democrat incumbent Lloyd Bentsen for U.S. Senator and between Jon Newton, Democrat, and Walter Wendlandt, Republican, for a seat on the Texas Railroad Commission. Other candidates of minority parties are also running for the offices as well as president and vice president.

Local offices on the ballot are Max Sherman for State Senator, Bill Clayton for state representative, Michael Metcalf for state district judge, Travis McPherson for county sheriff, Nell Miller for county tax assessor-collector, Alfred Smith for county commissioner precinct one and Bruce Coleman for county commissioner precinct three. All are unopposed Democrat candidates.

Otherwise, voters, are deciding today the fate of candidates for three associate justice positions on the Texas Supreme Court, and three spots on the State Court of Criminal Appeals.

Two constitutional amendments on water sources in the state are before the voter also. They authorize increased bond expenditures.

Welfare Rolls Fall

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government said the nation's welfare rolls dipped last June to the lowest level in 18 months, due in part to the shrinking size of the American family.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said there were 11,247,679 persons receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children in June, the latest month for which figures are available. That was the lowest since January 1975 when there were 11,175,000 AFDC recipients.

Black Takeover Discussed

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - Ivor Richard, the British chairman of the Rhodesia conference, called black and white leaders to an informal meeting today to discuss a date for the blacks to take over the Rhodesian government. No agreement appeared likely.

Black leaders were reported insistent on taking control from the white minority on Sept. 1, 1977. Prime Minister Ian Smith was said to be adamant that he would agree to nothing less than the two-year transition period proposed to him by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

State Cash Balance Up

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas' cash balance grew by $200 million during the last fiscal year to a record $1.6 billion by Aug. 31, State Comptroller Bob Bullock reported Monday.

He said in an 81-page report to Gov. Dolph Briscoe and others that the state collected $8 billion in total revenue and spent $6.4 billion.

"Texans regained confidence in the economy quicker than the average national consumer and their spending combined with inflation pushed all consumer tax revenues to new highs," Bullock said.

Rhodesian Guerrillas Killed

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) - Rhodesian government forces returned from Mozambique today after a 36-hour invasion during which they killed hundreds of black Rhodesian guerrillas and destroyed seven guerrilla camps, security sources reported.

Casualties among the Rhodesian government forces were not known.

Mozambique's black government accused Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority regime of a "major military assault on an independent sovereign state." It said its forces were battling fiercely to expel the invaders.

Letter To The Editor

To: The Hereford Brand
As this is written, millions of Americans are selecting their president, representatives, and other officials, state and local. The Word of God says that we should pray for all those in authority. Regardless of how the results compare with our personal choices, my prayer is that we will all pray for those who are chosen. Neither political party can save our nation. Only repentance, prayer, faith in Jesus Christ, and obedience to His will can do that.

Briscoe Says Specific Water Plans Infeasible

The development of the state's water resources is one of the most important undertakings for the future of Texas, but it is neither possible nor feasible to draw up in advance specific plans for the next 40 or 50 years, Gov. Dolph Briscoe told news media representatives at a recent Capitol press conference. His statement was in response to a reporter's question of why the people of Texas have not been told exactly how a proposed increase of $400 million in the Texas Water Development Fund is to be spent. The additional $400 million in bonds would be authorized if Constitutional Amendment No. 1 is passed by the voters in the Nov. 2 general election. Governor Briscoe, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, House Speaker Bill Clayton and other state and local political and business leaders are backing it strongly. "There has been no commitment yet by the Texas Water Development Board as to any specific project," the governor told the newsmen. "The objective of the entire program is to develop the use and conservation of our water resources, and this is one of the most important things for the future of Texas. To describe in detail at this time how this money is to be spent 40 to 50 years from now is just not possible, nor is it feasible." Governor Briscoe pointed out that Texas voters in the past have authorized the issuance of the first $400 million in bonds by the Water Development Board under the same conditions, and relied on the judgement and discretion of the board to administer the fund to the best advantage of the people of the state. As a result, 88 loans for water development, improvement and conservation projects have been made to Texas cities, towns, water districts, river authorities and other public entities.

While some of these projects are not yet financially self-sufficient, Governor Briscoe said he was confident they would become so, and the revolving fund for loans would be self-sustaining.

The governor has appointed a statewide committee of approximately 50 Texans for all areas of the state, headed by Paul G. Veale, former mayor of McAllen and longtime business and civic leader of that city, to work for passage of Amendment No. 1. "We need to look to the future, to plan our financing ahead," Governor Briscoe said. "Every Texan, regardless of where he lives, is entitled to adequate water of good quality for use in his home, and to provide jobs, food, fiber and energy for the well-being of his family."

"The Water Development Board and its Fund have benefited more than a third of our population. They have been instrumental in helping meet the water requirements in many parts of Texas.

Elderly Require Good Nutrition

Don't tell you age by your eating habits—you may be aging, but you can eat young, Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist, says.

She's with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Calorie requirements are the only difference between what young and old people should eat—nutritional needs are generally the same. The body doesn't need any one particular food—it needs components of food: protein, fats, carbohydrates, vitamins and minerals, called nutrients.

"Daily caloric needs decline with each decade over 50, so caloric intake must usually be reduced. Requirements for most other nutrients remains fairly constant during older life," she explained.

Foods furnishing nutrients are grouped into four basic groups.

"Major sources of protein in the American diet are red meat, poultry, fish and eggs. This group also contributes iron and some thiamine (Vitamin B1). The excellent protein contribution of milk and milk products is often overlooked. Dried peas, beans and peanut butter, especially when combined with meat or milk proteins are also good protein sources. Cereal protein and meat protein, combined in a frozen entree, provide useful protein at mealtime."

Calcium is the nutrient most likely to be consumed in amounts below recommended levels in the diets of elderly. Milk and milk products furnish most of this important mineral.

Those who do not drink milk may enjoy cheese, yogurt or milk desserts. Also, small amounts of calcium are found in vegetables, especially the dark leafy varieties. The milk group also supplies riboflavin and, if fortified, Vitamin D. Two cups of milk or equivalent calcium in dairy products is needed daily, she said.

"The fruit and vegetable group furnishes Vitamins A,C, some calcium and iron. In the American diet, orange juice has become the major source of Vitamin C. But other sources are grapefruit, cabbage, broccoli, vine-ripened tomatoes, green peppers and such fruits as strawberries and cantaloupe. A serving of a Vitamin-C rich food each day is recommended.

"Think 'green' and 'orange' for food sources to furnish Vitamin A. Deep green leafy vegetables, winter squash, carrots and cantaloupe are all excellent sources of carotenes, which are converted to Vitamin A by the body. Liver is a rich source of Vitamin A. Vitamin A is stored by the body, and one serving is needed every other day."

Four servings of the bread-cereal group are needed daily. Cereal products contain the B vitamins: thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. These three vitamins are mentioned together because they normally appear in the same foods. Along with iron, they are the three vitamins added when cereal products are enriched. Whole-grain cereals are the most common source of these B vitamins. In addition, riboflavin is found in dairy products, while pork is a good source of thiamine or Vitamin B1.

"No single food has, a high iron content. The dietary intake must come from small amounts of iron found in many foods. Meats, eggs, cereals, whole-grain or enriched, dark leafy green vegetables, dried apricots and raisins all add to the daily iron intake.

"Dietary fiber provides bulk necessary for the efficient function of the gastrointestinal tract. Food sources of fiber are fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grain cereals, dried fruits and nuts," she said.

Water is an important component of all body cells. It functions in the regulation of body temperature and the removal of waste products from the body.

This means liquid intake is important. Much of the water consumed is in the form of food, beverages and soup. The amount needed varies with the individual and the food eaten, but everyone needs the equivalent of several glasses of water each day, Miss Reasonover said.

"Sodium and potassium play a major role in maintaining the fluid balance in the body. Many people retain liquids because of excess salt intake or failure of the kidneys to function efficiently. Persons with this problem should be under the care of a physician who may prescribe medication. Sometimes doctors restrict salt intake and suggest the use of salt substitute products. Most elderly persons can continue to enjoy moderate amounts of salt used for seasoning food. Do not use salt substitutes unless suggested by physician."

Just at 5 p.m. once was "Quitting time", 7 a.m., 12 noon and 6 p.m. signify it is time to eat. How many times a day should a person eat? There is nothing magic about three meals. Five small meals a day are fine, as long as the appropriate number of servings from each food group are consumed daily and the caloric intake maintains reasonable body weight, the specialist said.

If efficiently used, a small refrigerator-freezing unit is large enough to allow for variety in meals. Family-size recipes can be prepared and leftovers can be stored in the freezer in small casseroles or boil-in-the-bag pouches for later use, she suggested.

Early Maturity Corporate bond issues are leading shorter lives. Over 40 per cent of publicly-offered corporate bonds issued in 1974 and 1975 had maturities of less than 20 years. Behind the trend is increased concern about the uncertainties of inflation and the quality of the borrower. The Conference Board notes. While investors have been reluctant to commit long-term funds, borrowers worried about their continued availability have sought them out, despite record or near-record rates of interest.

Indianapolis Indianapolis, capital and largest city of Indiana, is located at the geographical center of the state. It is the 11th largest city in the United States, with a consolidated city population of 745,739 according to the 1970 Census and a Metropolitan population of 1,111,173. Ann Landers The Teenage Alcoholic

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Someone on the radio reported that the National Institute on Alcoholism estimates that approximately one million high school kids (which is one in 20) get drunk on the average of once a week.

Can this be true? If it is, what is causing our young people to turn to alcohol? What help is available for the teenage alcoholic? Please enlighten me and others who are wondering about this. -- Niagara Falls Reader

DEAR N.F.R.: The figures sound accurate to me. Many teenagers are into alcohol because it's easier to get than other drugs. (I say "other" because alcohol IS a drug.) Moreover, it is legal for adults, and parents aren't about to hassle their kids about it when they drink themselves.

Any teenager who figures he has a drinking problem can call Alcoholics Anonymous. (It's in the phone book.) AA will send over someone in the same age bracket to talk about attending meetings. I heartily endorse AA. They have had a far better record of success than the religious groups and the psychiatrists.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was just reading that Americans spent over $650 million on dolls last year. They were the most popular toy of all.

But dolls aren't purchased for their looks, it's what they DO that attracts buyers. They walk, talk, cry tears, crawl, sneeze, and wet their pants.

The biggest-selling doll last year was "Skipper." When you twist her arm, she swells up in certain places and produces a pair of breasts. This year you will be able to buy a doll that only has breasts, but "winks and smiles suggestively."

What do you think of this, Ann Landers? -- What Next? DEAR WHAT: Do I HAVE to think about it? I'd rather not. The whole idea is revolting.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A friend sent me the following which he copied off a bookmark. It reflects such an optimistic philosophy I hope you will share it with your readers. Everyone over 40 will appreciate the lift. -- I Read You In Bangkok

DEAR FARAWAY FRIEND: Loved your "bookmark philosophy" and I'm delighted to share it.

"Youth is not a time of life, it is a state of mind, a product of the imagination, a vigor of the emotions, a predominance of courage over timidity -- an appetite for adventure."

"Nobody grows old by living a number of years. People grow old when they desert their ideals. Years wrinkle the skin, but to give up enthusiasm wrinkles the soul."

"Worry, self-doubt, fear and anxiety -- these are the culprits that bow the head and break the spirit." Whether 16 or 70, there exists in the heart of every person who loves life the thrill of a new challenge, the insatiable appetite for what is coming next. You are as young as your faith and as old as your doubts.

"So long as your heart receives from your head messages that reflect beauty, courage, joy and excitement, you are young. When your thinking becomes clouded with pessimism and prevents you from taking risks, then you are old -- and may God have mercy on your soul."

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teenage Sex -- Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Church Women United To Meet

Hereford Church Women United will meet for a program and installation of officers at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in King's Manor Retirement Home. Free babysitting services will be available at First Christian Church.

The assembly is scheduled in conjunction with World Community Day, which is following the theme "Into The Third Century--Unafraid." This global observance is designated so that church women might "express their deep concern for the world community through prayer, action and caring." A spokesman for Church Women United said, "The Bicentennial celebration has given us a heartening look at our heritage. The year 2076 will be the U.S. Tricentennial. Not one of us will be alive then, but already we are looking towards it with hope and a certain fear."

She continued saying, "In our troubled world, all our strength and courage is needed to live today. Why not simply forget the future and live the present--the only moment that is totally ours to live?"

"We do not know all that is in store for us. Let us plan, work and pray together "Into the Third Century--Unafraid."

Shrinkage Occurs In Today's Fabrics

COLLEGE STATION--Some garments made of natural fibers and woven fabrics may shrink more in washing than the consumer had planned. Such shrinkage can affect the utility of a garment, Marlene Odle, a clothing specialist, says.

"Although today most fabrics are pre-shrunk to eliminate such a size problem, most garments or fabric over-the-counter that has two to three per cent residual shrinkage can change the size of a garment noticeably. Garments marked as such usually have special care instructions to prevent shrinkage, which can be controlled with special treatment. A good example of this is cotton gauze shirts and tops," she said.

Miss Odle is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"If uncertain about the shrinking qualities of a garment, flatwork ironing tends to stretch fabrics. Dry the garment on a flat surface. Arrange the garment for pressing by applying some tension to the fabric to straighten the yarns. Press the garment lying in this position. Mechanical tumble drying can cause more shrinking," the specialist said.

If, however, the consumer finds that the shrinkage is excessive, even after hand ironing, the garment should be returned to the store where it was purchased, she advised.

"Fabrics by-the-yard used in homesewing should be washed and machine dried before the garment is cut out. This will eliminate any surprises after the garment is washed."

Spring, 1977, fashion fabrics are heavily textured, ranging from pique and seersucker to woven terry cloth and duck. Many have a handwoven look and seem almost heavy enough for upholstery instead of dresses and suits, Margaret Ann Vanderpoorten, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says.

RECIPE

By Sarah Anne Sheridan

Icebox Dessert

Icebox desserts are a refreshing climax to summertime meals. This also gets the nod for serving at clubs or informal gatherings.

- 2 pkgs. (72 cookies) chocolate wafers
- 1 pt heavy cream
- 3 T instant coffee dissolved in 1 T water (optional)
- 1 oz dark-raisin-semisweet chocolate, grated.

Whip cream until quite stiff. Blend in instant coffee dissolved in water, if desired. Make icebox cake by layering wafers and whipped cream--either in stacks of 9 waters or in 2 long loaf shapes. Set loaf wafers at a 45-degree angle to platter. Spread stacks or loaves with remaining whipped cream. Refrigerate overnight or longer.

Grate semisweet chocolate over top before serving. Serves 8 to 10, depending on thickness of sliced cake.

At Wit's End ...

By ERMA BOMBECK

According to my mail, people all over the country who have never won so much as a Reader's Digest Sweepstakes or a Pillsbury Bake-off have finally hit it lucky.

They pick up their phones and a husky-voiced lady informs them they have just won a cemetery plot. Chokes up at the idea of being an instant landowner, they cannot see the ramifications of the offer.

What begins as a simple family discussion over your eternal future ends up as a shout-out in the Domestic Olympics.

Here's what happened to one couple in Florida. According to Phyllis, when she told her husband Cecil they had won a plot he said, "You can have it."

"What's that supposed to mean?" she asked. "Where are you going to be buried?"

"Not where," he said smugly, "but when."

"I'm not surprised," she snorted. "You never go anywhere with me. I thought at least we could be buried together ... maybe even be cremated and have our ashes intermingled in the same urn."

"I do not plan on spending my eternity resting ash to ash with anyone. Besides, knowing your mother and her aversion to dust, we'd get thrown out the first week with the newspapers. I swear she throws out newspapers with the rubber bands still on them."

"I do not believe you are saying these things," said Phyllis, weeping softly into her handkerchief.

"Why are you so upset?" he asked.

"IT'S YOUR ATTITUDE. It's going to be just like Christmas eve, isn't it?"

He put down his paper. "You've lost me, Phyllis. WHAT is going to be like Christmas eve?"

"My funeral. You're going to whip out at the last minute and throw something together. If Revco doesn't have it, I'll go without it."

"You want me to shop?"

"There are a lot of options. There's the talking tombstone, for example, with a picture on it."

"You're putting me on, Phyllis. Say you're putting me on."

"I am not putting you on. They have them with recordings and a picture of your loved one."

"If you think I'm paying good money to stand in front of a stone and listen to a recording of you nagging, 'Cecilia, take out the garbage before it smells,' you're crazy."

"Let these words go forth around the land, Cecil Hardheart, if you put on my stone that picture of me taken last year in Florida when I was sick as a dog on that fishing boat, you'd better hope you win a cemetery plot of your own."

Sometimes, even when you win, you lose.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The commentary in the BRAND concerning the Woodward case has provoked this letter to your newspaper. The verbal fencing which has gone back and forth has clouded the issues, and the degree of distortion imposed upon the events which have transpired since February, 1975, depends upon the individual who is repeating the latest gossip and is interpreting it in the light of the "facts" as he knows them.

I do not intend to interject the "facts" as I know them into this melee of rumors, half-truths, and flying accusations. As someone who has been directly involved in this situation and who has since removed himself from the turmoil of teaching at La Plata Junior High school, there are other aspects of this controversy upon which I would like to touch.

There was tremendous furor raised among the Hereford teachers when the professional organizations offered assistance to Wayne Woodward; too many teachers felt that the National Education Association, Texas State Teachers' Association and Texas Classroom Teachers' Association should not have entered the case, and subsequently, during the academic year 1975-1976 membership in the organizations declined in Hereford.

I cannot see that the confusion and the rumor-mongering which has occupied the attention of Hereford this year could have done anything to return the enrollment figures to their previous levels of one hundred per cent membership of all professionals in their organizations. These teachers who are questioning the actions of the state and national organizations are subscribing to several very expensive periodicals, since it seems that all they expect for their dues money is regular receipt of 'Today's Education and Texas Outlook, which each October publishes the discounts on merchandise available to persons with a TSTA Membership card.

The entrance of NEA, TSTA, and TCTA into the Woodward case should have been welcomed by all teachers and administrators in Hereford regardless of their personal feelings concerning Mr. Woodward and what allegedly transpired in his classroom. If he were "guilty", then the organizations could help rid the profession of a "bad teacher"; if he were "innocent", then the rights of all teachers would be protected and the profession and the organizations would have profited by the retention of a "good teacher".

Either way the prime concern of the United Teaching Profession are the protection and enhancement of the rights and interests of all educators, and interests in this, is the concern for quality education. The clamor should not have arisen because the organizations chose to participate in this case, but rather, the clamor should have arisen if the organizations had not expressed an interest in the problems besetting a professional colleague. Our dues are paid each year for this concern and not for magazines and discounts on tires and theater tickets.

The vociferously expressed contention that Mr. Woodward did not adhere to the procedures of the Professional Rights and Responsibilities Committee is a smoke screen; Mrs. Waters did not mention in her letter to the BRAND that there was no local PR and R, and thus, no local procedures for him to follow (This was the impetus for the organizations' hand slapping that Mrs. Waters mentioned).

Nor have any of the letters from Mrs. Waters and those like her pointed out that the organizations did not agree to support Mr. Woodward because he was an eloquent speaker and able to sway people to his point of view. Each of the organizations held investigatory hearings (Mrs. Waters herself attended the TSTA hearing in Houston), and only after hearing statements from both sides did these groups feel their was just cause for them to enter the case.

But these are not the issues with which Hereford teachers should concern themselves. These are moot issues. They should instead be reassured that there are organizations to which an educator can turn and know that he can obtain help by virtue of his position within the profession whether his membership dues are paid or not.

Too many teachers think "nothing can happen to me." This is the most dangerous type of complacency. No one is "safe" in the teaching profession. I would think that Judge Woodward's citation of the precedents in his opinion on the case would force all educators to carefully consider the great vulnerability of their positions. I cannot think of any other profession whose members have no more guarantee the "mere expectancy" of employment proffered by annual contracts.

It is no puzzle to me that more and more teachers are turning to the power of a union. Actions of school boards and administrators and the lack of support into the American Federation of Teachers. It is, however, amazing to me that Hereford teachers are so intensely incensed that their professional organizations are trying to fulfill their purposes -- the support of educators and the education of children by participating in the activities surrounding the employment and dismissal of teachers!

I hope that the "victory" in the Woodward case would be that Hereford citizens realize that while the teachers in the system are responsible for the education of their children that those teachers do not relinquish their personal rights and beliefs because they stand before a classroom of children. Teachers have had an awesome and overwhelming burden placed upon their shoulders, and no one recognizes it more than they.

Teachers are very cognizant of their rights and responsibilities in the classroom, and it is time that parents stepped forward to share some of these responsibilities in the education of their children and young people. Parents should visit in their child's school and learn for themselves what the teacher is being subjected to in that same classroom. Teachers should be encouraged to be honest with the parents about the child's progress or his lack of it -- honest discussion of a child's lack of progress is not especially encouraged in Hereford because this might be an admission that the system is not "one of the best in any area of the country" (Mrs. Duvall's descriptor), and then, too, the annual commendation of Hereford's outstanding contribution to progressive education might not be forthcoming from the Texas Education Agency.

The three R's of which Mrs. Vogler so fervently spoke are very important, and more attention should be paid to them in the public schools and in the child's first school, his home. Successful teaching and successful learning are the end result of a concerted effort on the part of teachers, students, administrators, board members, and parents, all of whom assume their individual responsibilities in the scheme of education. There has been too much "buck passing" in Hereford.

I would hope that the teachers and administrators in Hereford realize that the admission that something has gone wrong is not tantamount to an admission of failure. I hope the day has arrived that principals no longer allow themselves to be manipulated into positions which force them to stand before a Federal court judge and admit that he placed a teacher on probation because of that teacher's personal beliefs.

I hope that teachers in Hereford cannot be fired because of "hostile attitudes"; for as a former La Plata teacher I know that if each person who exhibited hostility were fired, there would be forty new faces at La Plata each fall. I hope that the board of trustees would assume the initiative to institute an evaluation system of all personnel, both teachers and administrators, which allows for open, honest, two-way communication; and I would suggest that the board would consider the implementation of a tenured-contractual system which would recognize satisfactory fulfillment of teaching assignments. If superintendents and athletic directors may have multi-year contracts, then why could not this concept of job security be expanded to include all professional personnel?

None of these proposals is farfetched or idealistic. Nor do they smack of unionism. I am currently employed by a school system which has a political hierarchy that makes the antics of the Hartman regime seem to be child's play; yet, in this system there is a recognition of the value of the teachers as individuals and as professional educators. I wish the same for the teachers in Hereford.

Thank you,
Cyd Sheffy

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Let me begin this letter by stating that I have been a subscriber of the Hereford Brand for approximately seven years. In that time I have seen the steady improvement of this publication and commend you upon a very fine job and very impartial viewpoints concerning all issues.

In talking with a number of people recently, it has come to my attention that Hereford has one of the very finest bands and band directors in this area. I am certain that the Brand is aware of this due to the fact that once again the Hereford Band received another "one" rating for its recent competition held in Canyon, Texas.

I am also aware that recognition was given the band by your newspaper. However, I feel that it would be very nice and encouraging to the members of his fine band if some sort of special recognition could be given through your publication to Mr. Vaughn, his assistants, the twirlers and each and every band member. The directors and students participated two or more nights weekly, devoting their time and efforts to make this band what it is.

If you have ever watched a band practice, you will know that it is not an easy job to march and play an instrument on cold nights when you are so bundled up that is difficult even to move.

When the youth of today are so highly criticized why can't we give a special thanks and appreciation when credit is due.

We of Hereford should be thankful that we have such a director as Mr. Vaughn, interested enough in our children to encourage and

Sheffy Chosen To Get Gaillardian Honors

Joe Sheffy of Hereford is among the 126 Southwest Texas State University students who have been nominated for Gaillardian honors. Gaillardians--all university favorites--are traditionally selected as a part of SWTSU'S homecoming celebration.

Named after the Gaillardia, a flower native to the region, the honor is bestowed in formal presentation ceremonies held in conjunction with homecoming.

Twelve Gaillardians--six women and six men--will be elected in campuswide balloting Oct. 27-28. They will not be announced until Friday, Nov. 5 during "Sounds of SWT," a musical revue and awards presentation program.

Gaillardians will share the Homecoming spotlight along with Distinguished Alumnus Award recipients, the Homecoming enthruse his students to participate and win a great honor for the city of Hereford as they did this year and in years past.

We know that special attention cannot be given to each request made to your publication, but we would appreciate your considering this and certainly appreciate your time and attention given to this letter.

Sincerely yours,
"A Brand and Band Supporter"

Trade Triumph

Despite the rocketing price of petroleum imports, the U.S. experienced a record $11 billion trade surplus last year. The Conference Board observes. The reasons: The inflated price tag on foreign oil reduced U.S. demand to less than 3 per cent over 1974, while commodity imports were slowed by the recession. At the same time, exports were spurred by higher sales to Canada; the underdeveloped countries and the OPEC nations. In 1976, a much lower surplus, or even a deficit, is expected, as the U.S. recovery stimulates demand for imports, while slower comebacks abroad muffle exports.

Susan Clark bucks 'super' stereotype

By DAN LEWIS

Susan Clark portrayed Babe Diriksen Zaharias and she learned how to play golf. Then she portrayed Amelia Earhart, and so she learned how to fly a single-engine plane.

Now she's been asked to do another film biography for television, this time the famous French fashion designer Coco Chanel, but Clark is neither interested in learning how to make like a fashion designer nor play another famous lady.

So she turned down that last offer. "I don't want to get typed as the super-woman on TV," she said.

So, Amelia Earhart will be it for the time being. "Amelia Earhart," in its TV version, was not a political vehicle. It was, in a sense, the story of an air-struck young lady whose infatuation with flying catapulted her into international fame, honored by heads of state, idolized by Americans.

Her death has remained a controversy. The rumors persist to this day that when her plane disappeared in 1938, it was all part of a plan calculated by President Roosevelt and the U.S. defense forces to take reconnaissance photos over Japanese-held islands in the Pacific.

A film made years ago, starring Roz Russell, suggested that the ingenious scheme was for Miss Earhart's plane to run out of fuel, so she could ditch in the ocean. In sending out rescue planes, which would in reality be reconnaissance aircraft, they could photograph the military strength of the Japanese.

This alleged ploy was never proved," Clark maintains. "Roosevelt spent $4 million in four days searching for her plane. There is no mention of such a plan in the Roosevelt papers."

Clark doubts the Roosevelt collusion story. Shirley MacLaine has been attempting to produce a film on Amelia Earhart for several years now. The NBC version has won the race, but it does leave room for MacLaine's story since her script accepts the Roosevelt theory.

Clark has read the MacLaine script, although how she got her hands on a copy remains a secret.

"Scripts get around," she says coyly. "Shirley's script is interesting, but it deals

SUSAN CLARK: no more superwomen roles.

Having portrayed two super women, which was the more difficult role for her? "Amelia was much more difficult. She was a much more complicated personality. She was ambivalent about her marriage, shy, introspective, and embarrassed about all the publicity she got. Her renown surpassed that of Babe's. Amelia was honored by heads of state. The public adored her like a pop star today."

If superwomen are out for now, then what next? "I'd like to do a nice raunchy, modern comedy."

TV Dial-ogue

KIN FOLK -- Please tell me where I can write to Blythe Danner. My maiden name is Danner. Both my parents are deceased and I know very little about my father's family. I am wondering if we could be related as both Blythe Danner and my father are from Pennsylvania. Betsy Durkenberger, Wyckoff, New Jersey.

Since Danner is not currently under contract, your best bet would be to write her in care of The Screen Actors Guild and ask them to forward it. The address is 7750 West Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif. Good luck.

Both the prosperity and the misery are genuine.

Before long, you'll see.

Meanwhile, a British authoress, Barbara Cartland, has written 19 novels in the past year--all of them are best sellers--her heroines are all highly moral, chaste; her books are about old-fashioned romantic love...and she'll sell 10 million of her books this year!

Britain's Barbara Cartland has written 200 books. At the age of 75 she still turns out about 20 books a year.

This year's titles include: "The Elusive Earl," "An Angel in Hell," "The Wild Cry of Love."

If those titles sound lurid, the contents are not. The heroines of Cartland books are all entirely proper ladies.

mostly with the supposition that Amelia and her flight engineer were captured by the Japanese, and held incommunicado.

The MacLaine script also suggests a love affair between Amelia and her flight partner, Fred Noonan.

"There's no doubt that he wasn't her lover," Clark insists. "Noonan had just gotten married before the flight, and he went because he wanted money."

What does Clark think really happened to Amelia Earhart?

"My feeling is that her plane, an Electra, had a flying range of 3,000 miles. She left the plane's trailing antennae in Miami because of weight."

"They were heading into strange territory. They apparently miscalculated. I think the plane went down in the Pacific, crashed, and sank."

Having portrayed two super women, which was the more difficult role for her?

"Amelia was much more difficult. She was a much more complicated personality. She was ambivalent about her marriage, shy, introspective, and embarrassed about all the publicity she got. Her renown surpassed that of Babe's. Amelia was honored by heads of state. The public adored her like a pop star today."

If superwomen are out for now, then what next?

"I'd like to do a nice raunchy, modern comedy."

Back To The Wholesome

The wages of sin look pretty tempting. Elizabeth Ray, the kiss-and-tell girl whose telling destroyed the career of Rep. Wayne Hays, is now in the pay of magazines, her book has sold 1 1/2 million copies, she has been offered an acting role in a movie--and she's miserable.

Both the prosperity and the misery are genuine.

Before long, you'll see.

Meanwhile, a British authoress, Barbara Cartland, has written 19 novels in the past year--all of them are best sellers--her heroines are all highly moral, chaste; her books are about old-fashioned romantic love...and she'll sell 10 million of her books this year!

Britain's Barbara Cartland has written 200 books. At the age of 75 she still turns out about 20 books a year.

This year's titles include: "The Elusive Earl," "An Angel in Hell," "The Wild Cry of Love."

Yarbrough Not Held In Contempt

HOUSTON (AP) -- A state judge has denied a motion to hold Texas Supreme Court nominee Donald B. Yarbrough in contempt of court in connection with a civil lawsuit.

State District Court Judge Wyatt Heard refused to grant the motion Monday holding Yarbrough in contempt for allegedly failing to turn over documents to L.C. Butler, a former client.

Heard ruled that Yarbrough had complied with a May court order and said he did not see "a significant amount of evidence to hold anyone in contempt."

Butler had contended Yarbrough withheld documents from him after he had requested them several times.

Yarbrough, the Democratic nominee for the state supreme court, has no Republican opposition in today's general election.

However, he faces two write-in candidates, Tom Loran, Houston lawyer, and State District Court Judge Sam Houston of Denton.

Yarbrough declined comment to newsmen who tried to get his reaction to the contempt ruling.

District Courts

The basis of the U.S. federal judicial system is in the District Court. There are 94 of these courts, at least one in each state, the District of Columbia and certain territories. Called courts of general jurisdiction, they have the power to determine facts and pass judgment in criminal cases involving violations of federal law in civil cases where the amount of the suit is $10,000 or more and the contending parties reside in different states, and in other types of cases such as bankruptcy, patents, trademarks, copyrights and maritime matters involving navigational waters.

Motivated Colts Zip Past Houston

By LARRY SIDONS Associated Press Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) - Motivation takes on different forms for different people. For Joe Ehrmann, it was the presence of national television. For John Dutton, it was the memory of a rookie season best forgotten. And for Lydell Mitchell, it was the fact that the contest was "a big game."

Whatever turned them on, Ehrmann, Dutton, Mitchell and the rest of the Baltimore Colts were ready for Monday night's nationally televised battle against Houston, and the Oilers could do nothing to dampen the spirit.

The Colts, playing in their first Monday night National Football League game in four years, turned Houston turnovers into early touchdowns and held the Oilers' explosive offense in check to take a 38-14 victory.

The victory was the Colts' fifth in a row and left them with a 6-1 record, good for a two-game lead over New England in the American Conference East. Houston is now 4-4 after dropping their third consecutive game.

"We were high," said Ehrmann, who had four tackles and a quarterback sack from his right defensive tackle position. "A lot of it was team pride; not a feeling that we had been slighted by TV, but we just had the chance to say, 'Hey, here we are.'" The Colts gave up 190 net yards to Houston, but most of that came in two late touchdown drives. At the half, the Oilers had minus-seven yards passing and just 54 yards total offense.

Dutton, the third-year defensive end who also had one of the Colts' six sacks, agreed that the TV eye helped get the team up for Houston. But for himself, Dutton added, it was the lingering image of a 2-12 record his rookie year with Baltimore that provided the boost.

"I've been there with a loser and I don't ever want to go back, he said. "It's a force that keeps us all working very, very hard. It was a learning experience, I guess, but I don't want to relieve it."

Mitchell, whose 136 yards pushed his AFC-leading total to 796, said he wasn't thinking that much about national exposure or atoning for past shortcomings when he took the field Monday night.

"It was a big game, that's all," he said. "In a game like that, all you have to do is wire me up, let me out there and I'm ready to play."

"It used to be I wasn't sure of myself in comparison to other backs. Now, I seriously consider myself the No. 1 back in football."

The Colts' defense gave Mitchell and the rest of the offense great field position early, first recovering a Ronnie Coleman fumble at the Houston 13 and then intercepting a halfback option pass by Coleman at the Oilers' 22.

Both times Baltimore converted the turnovers into touchdowns, the first by Roosevelt Leaks on a four-yard run and the second by Don McCauley on a one-yard plunge. Leaks and McCauley wound up with two TD's apiece.

The lead swelled to 21-0 by halftime and grew to 31-0 by early in the fourth quarter when Coach Ted Marchibroda started pulling his regulars.

Houston Coach Bum Phillips also pulled one of his starters early, but his decision to bench quarterback Dan Pastorini at the start of the second half resulted from something entirely different.

"It was a disciplinary thing, and the coach was right in what he did," said Pastorini, who sat out the third quarter and part of the fourth as veteran John Hadl tried to get the Oilers going. "That's all I want to say about it."

Phillips was equally vague on the reasons behind the benching.

"It was just an incident that came up every now and then in football," the coach said. "It was something that was said, although it was not between the two of us. It's over."

Phillips was more specific on the strength of the Colts' defense, which now leads the AFC in sacks with 39.

"They all run fast," he said, "they run toward the ball carrier, and they arrive in a bad humor."

Then, looking out from under his wide-brimmed Texas hat, Phillips added: "Now, I know how the rebels felt when they marched up north."

Raiders Up To Fifth

By HERSHEL NISSENON AP Sports Writer

Unbeaten Texas Tech continued its steady climb in The Associated Press' college football ratings today, behind holdovers Michigan, Pitt, UCLA and Southern California. The Red Raiders of Tech were unranked in the preseason AP poll and did not crack the Top Twenty until the second week. However, in the last seven weeks they have climbed from 20th to 17th, 15th, ninth, eighth, sixth and now fifth. Tech boasts a 6-0 record following Saturday's 31-28 triumph over Texas.

The top four spots are filled by the same teams for the second week in a row. Michigan, which has been No. 1 during the entire regular campaign after standing second to Nebraska in the preseason ratings, received 57 first-place votes and 1,228 of a possible 1,240 points after raising its record to 8-0 with a 45-0 rout of Minnesota.

Pitt, a 23-13 winner over Syracuse, received the other five first-place ballots and 1,076 points. Last week, Michigan's point lead was 1,184-1,068. UCLA downed Washington 30-21 and received 976 points while Southern Cal turned back California and totaled 758 points. Texas Tech received 703 points in rising to fifth. The Red Raiders replaced Maryland, which turned back Kentucky 24-14 but slipped from fifth to sixth with 668 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten are Georgia, Ohio State, Nebraska -- which remained seventh, eighth and ninth -- and Florida, up from 12th after a 24-19 decision over Auburn. Mississippi State, dropped to 16th following a 20-19 loss to Oklahoma State.

The Second Ten consist of Notre Dame, Arkansas, Oklahoma State, Colorado, Alabama, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas A&M, Houston and Texas.

The Top Twenty includes five teams from the Big Eight and five from the Southwest Conference. Last week's Second Ten consisted of Notre Dame, Florida, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma State, Alabama, Mississippi State, Colorado and Cincinnati.

Mississippi State dropped out of the rankings following a 34-17 loss to Alabama while Cincinnati disappeared after bowing to Georgia 31-17. Meanwhile, Texas A&M returned after a three-week absence by crushing Southern Methodist 36-0 while Houston reappeared following a one-week hiatus with a 49-21 thumping of Texas Christian.

Nigh, Simons Top Panelists

BRAND sports editor Bob Nigh and KPN's Tom Simons both posted 21-5 marks in last week's fearless forecasters panel, and as a result of his good week, Simons took the season leadership away from BRAND publisher Speedy Nieman, who had led all the way until last week.

Ties between Dimmitt and Morton (7-7) and Olton and Littlefield (6-6) put a kink in all five panelists' guesses. In addition to the two deadlocks, both Nigh and Simons missed the last-minute victories by Plainview over Pampa and West Texas over McNeese State.

Nigh's other miss was the Colorado win over Oklahoma, while Simons missed the Michigan State win over Purdue.

Simons out guessed the panel on the Colorado win, with the other four members all picking the Sooners. BRAND editor Bobby Templeton got the other surprise as Plainview nipped Pampa 9-7.

Behind the two top finishers last week was Nieman with a 19-7 record. Templeton posted an 18-8 mark, while Irene McKinster fell to 17-9.

Simons holds the edge on the rest of the panel on the season with four weeks left. He has a 162-72 mark to lead Nieman by two choices. McKinster and Nigh are in a close battle for third with 155-79 and 154-80 marks respectively, and Templeton has a secure hold on last place with a 147-87 standard.

Cogdell Wins Grid Contest

Frank Cogdill captured first place in the weekly Brand Football Contest after missing only four games, and then missing the tie breaker by four points.

Cogdill and C.L. Laymond, Jr. each missed four games in last week's contest, but Cogdill was closer on his tie breaker guess of 26 as Laymond had entered 63 on the tie breaker blank.

Thus Cogdill will be mailed the $15 check for first prize, and Laymond will be sent a check for $10 for second place.

Two other entrants, Melvin Kalka and Joe Williamson, tied for third after each missed five games on the list, and then each was one point away from the tie breaker score.

Kalka guessed 21 on the tie breaker while Williamson put down 23. The tie breaker score was 22 by virtue of the 15-7 win by Lubbock High over Hereford.

Kalka and Williamson will share the third place award of $5.

The football contest has four more weeks to run, and some lucky guesser will win $100 for the best record over the season. Also prizes of $35 and $15 will go to the second and third best overall winners.

This week's contest choices are listed in today's issue of the BRAND. One entry per person is allowed, and entries must be turned in to the BRAND Office by 5 p.m. Friday.

All entrants must be at least eight years of age.

Hayes Pensacola Winner

By BOB GREEN AP Golf Writer

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) - Mark Hayes won the struggle for first place while Bob Murphy won an invisible battle, invisible but perhaps the most important one of pro golf.

Hayes, who has had nothing but trouble for two months, found the combination for a five-under-par 66 and his second victory of the season, a two-stroke triumph Monday in the rain-delayed final round of the $125,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

"This year was the first time I've been exempt -- and that's the most important thing on the tour," Hayes said. "I really didn't know what to expect, but I certainly didn't expect to win two tournaments and $151,000."

This was the final individual event of the season and, as such, the last in which the tourists could add to their official money-winnings. So the tournament took on a particular significance to those players fighting for a spot on the list of the top 60 money-winners.

Those who make the top 60 are exempt from qualifying -- mentioned by Hayes and considered by many to be the most difficult chore on the tour -- for next year's tournaments. Those who don't make it face the trauma of the Monday qualifying rounds, often with 150 players fighting for 25 spots, to even gain a position in the tournament field.

Bob Murphy, who has had hand trouble most of the season, came into the final event in 61st place -- one spot away. He managed a final-round 70 and a 280 total, good for $3,250 from the total purse of $125,000 and enough to push him into the final spot on the exemption list. John Schlee, who was displaced. Murphy finished 60th with $47,627 and Schlee was 61st -- and therefore not exempt -- with $47,376.

Hayes, a quiet, soft-spoken, self-contained young man, had won most of his money early in the season, climaxed by his first tour title in the Byron Nelson Classic. But he came into this event with a background of problems.

"I'd missed the cut in three of the last four tournaments I'd played," he said. "I was really playing very, very poorly. I was beginning to wonder what was happening. I was experimenting with my swing, with my clubs, with everything."

He came from two strokes off the pace with a gaudy 31 on his front side, broke out of a tie with George Archer with a 51-foot birdie putt on the 14th hole, moved further in front when Archer began to have his problems and finished with a 275 total, nine under par.

Lee Elder dropped a 15-footer for birdie on the final hole that closed out a 68 and took second alone at 277. The $14,250 for second place put him past the $100,000 mark for the season for the first time in his career.

Frank Beard, with a closing 70, and Tom Purtzer, with a 69, defending champion Jerry McGee, 70, Phil Rodgers, 69, Archer, 68, were next at 279.

U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate shot 68-281 and Lee Trevino 72-291.

The tournament schedule was pushed back one full day by a heavy rainstorm that washed out Saturday's play.

Constanzo Earns Starting Slot

By JACK KEEVER Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - The novelty of a walk-on sophomore starting at quarterback for the Texas Longhorns is over.

Coach Darrell Royal confirmed Monday that former bluechip schoolboy Ted Constanzo, also a sophomore, won the starting job in guiding Texas to four touchdowns in a 31-28 loss to undefeated Texas Tech Saturday.

Mike Cordaro, who came to Texas without a scholarship and earned one with his passing against the first team in practice last year, was dropped to the second team.

On Texas' first two possessions Saturday, Cordaro threw two third-down passes into the hands of Tech defenders. One was dropped and the other was returned to the Texas 13 to set up Tech's first touchdown.

"Ted ran aggressively and scrambled out on a pass and got us a first down," Royal told his weekly news conference. "He ran the option pretty well -- really had a couple of times."

Nevertheless, Texas still got only 12 yards running and passing out of its two quarterbacks. The previous week, in a 13-12 victory over SMU, they combined for only 34 yards.

Although freshman fullback Jimmy Johnson scored three times subbing for the injured Earl Campbell, he will remain No. 2 behind senior Jimmy Walker, who has been injured and run only once for five yards this season.

Texas' line of scrimmage "blocked well, especially Rick Ingraham and Billy Gordon," Royalsaid. "There was marked improvement, body on body, and there was good holes for our running backs to run through."

He said Texas backs averaged 5.6 yards a carry and that "normally will win for you." The offense, however, cost Texas two touchdowns, Royal said, on Cordaro's interception and a fumble by halfback Johnny "Lam" Jones at the Texas 38.
